

DIGEST 2025-17-08-2026

2025: Yearly digest of case law on direct taxes- with references to Circulars, notifications, and Articles.

We are pleased to present the "2025 Yearly Digest of Case Law on Direct Taxes", a comprehensive reference compilation designed to assist tax professionals in keeping abreast of the significant developments in direct tax jurisprudence during the year 2025.

The Digest is the result of the collective efforts of the Research Team and Editorial Team, who have voluntarily and honorarily devoted their valuable time and expertise to the compilation, research and editorial review of the material. More than 3083 reported cases have been researched and digested from leading tax journals, professional publications, magazines and online legal resources.

The sources extensively referred to include ITR (Volumes 472 to 483), Taxman (Volumes 302 to 307), CTR (Volumes 342 to 347), ITD (Volumes 210 to 215), ITR (Trib.) (Volumes 121 to 132, excluding Short Notes), TTJ (Volumes 234 to 238, excluding Unreported cases), as well as publications of AIFTP Journal, BCAJ, Chamber's Journal and leading online resources including itatonline.org and taxmann.com.

The case law has been systematically arranged section-wise and in descending order of judicial hierarchy, commencing with decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, followed by the Hon'ble High Courts and thereafter the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal. This arrangement is intended to enable practitioners to readily trace the development of legal principles and locate relevant precedents for research, advisory work and litigation.

The Digest seeks to provide a practical and reliable research aid by bringing together important judicial pronouncements and developments in one consolidated reference. It is intended to facilitate quick access to case law and assist tax professionals in their day-to-day practice, research, preparation of submissions and arguments.

Every reasonable effort has been made to maintain accuracy and consistency in the compilation and presentation of the material. Nevertheless, considering the volume and nature of the material covered, inadvertent errors or omissions may occur. Readers are requested to bring any such errors, omissions or discrepancies to our notice so that appropriate corrections may be considered for incorporation in subsequent editions or updates.

Readers are also advised to verify the text, facts, legal propositions, citations and other references from the original judgments and the respective journals or publications before relying upon them in professional work.

This Digest is intended solely as an educational, research and reference resource for tax professionals, students, researchers and other interested readers. It does not constitute legal, tax or professional advice and should not be treated as a substitute for independent professional examination of the relevant law and original judicial pronouncement.

Suggestions, corrections and feedback may be forwarded to:

itatonline.manger@gmail.com

publication.itat@gmail.com

For the Editorial Board

17 August 2026

DIGEST 2025

S. 2(1A) : Agricultural income-Cultivation and sale of white button mushrooms-High Court held that the assessee is not entitled to exemption-Notice was to be issued in SLP filed by assessee against the order of High Court. [S. 10(1)]

On appeal, the High Court held that income from the sale of button mushrooms from a factory under controlled conditions would not come within the purview of the definition of "agricultural income" within the meaning of section 2(1A) for section 10(1) of the Act. Notice was issued in the SLP filed by the assessee against the order of the High Court. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

British Agro Products (India) (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 307 Taxman 1 (SC)

Editorial : Notice issued in SLP filed by the assessee, PCIT v. British Agro Products (India) (P.) Ltd (2025) 175 taxmann.com 618 (Mad)(HC)

S. 2(14)(iii) : Capital asset-Agricultural land-Land not used for agricultural purposes-Self-serving ledger entries-Property sold before starting agricultural activity-Failure to file affidavit under Rule 10 of the Income-tax (Appellate Tribunal) Rules, 1963-High Court affirmed the order of Tribunal-SLP dismissed. [S. 45, Art. 136]

The assessee sold agricultural land and claimed the sale consideration was exempt from tax as the property was used for agricultural purposes. The assessee contended that the 7/12 extract (land revenue record) indicated agricultural use. The Assessing Officer, CIT(A), and the Income-tax Appellate Tribunal, however, recorded concurrent findings that the land was not used for any agricultural purpose and the sale proceeds were taxable. The Court held that self-serving ledger entries alone cannot prove agricultural use. On the facts, the property was sold before any agricultural activity began. The assessee also failed to file an affidavit under Rule 10 of the ITAT Rules pointing out errors or misreading of evidence by the lower authorities. Accordingly, the High Court held there was no substantial question of law and affirmed the Tribunal's order. SLP of assessee dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 306 Taxman 168 /481 ITR 555 (SC)

Editorial : Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 304 Taxman 39/481 ITR 547 (Bom)(HC)

S. 2(14)(iii) : Capital asset-Agricultural land-adventure in nature of trade-Capital gains-Business income-[S. 10(37), 28(i), 45, 260A]

Assessee purchased a parcel of land. Assessing Officer held that land was barren and could not be used for raising any crops or trees. He also held that the land had been purchased with an intention to resell, considering business potential of the surrounding area, and treated the transaction as an adventure in nature of trade as assessed as business income. On appeal the Tribunal held that the land in question had always been classified as agricultural land in revenue records. It further noted that as per revenue records, agricultural activities were being carried out on said land. It also noted that assessee had produced Electricity Board receipts, which showed that assessee had been granted subsidy on electricity charges. It also noted that land test report was also furnished mentioning soil content and nature of crop which could be grown on land. It further noted that agricultural income receipts and ploughing expense receipts were also placed on record. The Assessing Officer had not placed on record any document to rebut evidence placed on record by assessee and, have assumed that land was acquired as a part of real-estate business to reap benefits of commercialisation.. Tribunal held that the assessee had rightly shown the sale consideration as exempt. On appeal, the order of the Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2007-08)

CIT v. Pandit Vettrivel (2025) 305 Taxman 645 (Mad)(HC)

S. 2(14)(iii) : Capital asset-Agricultural land-Land not used for agricultural purposes-Self-serving ledger entries-Property sold before starting agricultural activity-Failure to file affidavit under Rule 10 of the Income-tax (Appellate Tribunal) Rules, 1963-No substantial question of law-Tribunal order affirmed. [S. 45, 260A, ITAT Rules, 1963 R. 10]

The assessee sold agricultural land and claimed the sale consideration was exempt from tax as the property was used for agricultural purposes. The assessee contended that the 7/12 extract (land revenue record) indicated agricultural use. The Assessing Officer, CIT(A), and the Income-tax Appellate Tribunal, however, recorded concurrent findings that the land was not used for any agricultural purpose and the sale proceeds were taxable. The Court held that self-serving ledger entries alone cannot prove agricultural use. On the facts, the property was sold before any agricultural activity began. The assessee also failed to file an affidavit under Rule 10 of the ITAT Rules pointing out errors or misreading of evidence by the lower authorities. Accordingly, the High Court held there was no substantial question of law and affirmed the Tribunal's order. AY. 2011-12)

Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 304 Taxman 39 /481 ITR 547 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : SLP dismissed Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 306 Taxman 168 /481 ITR 555 (SC)

S. 2(14)(iii): Capital asset-Capital gains-Land beyond 8 km from municipal limits-Held, not a capital asset-Agricultural income supported by records-Additions deleted. [S. 10(1), 153A]

The Hon'ble ITAT held that the land sold by the assessee was not a capital asset under S. 2(14)(iii), as it was located in a rural area beyond the municipal limits of Kota. The assessee substantiated her claim with supporting evidence, including Khasra, Girdawari, and Google Maps showing the land was more than 8 km from the municipal boundary. Capital gains addition was deleted. On the issue of agricultural income, the Hon'ble

ITAT held that it was reasonable, consistent, and supported by landholding and crop cultivation records. In the absence of any contrary evidence from the Revenue, the claim was accepted as genuine. (AY. 2015-16)

Vinaya Sharma v. ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 417 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S.2(14)(iii): Capital asset-Agricultural land-Capital gains-Failed to prove that distance from municipal limits exceeded 8 kms,-land constituted capital asset under section 2(14) and liable to capital gains tax.[S. 2(14),2(14)(iii)(b), 45]

Assessee sold a parcel of land to a company through a power of attorney (POA) and received sale consideration of a certain amount-Assessing Officer held that the land sold by assessee was a capital asset within the meaning of section 2(14) and, accordingly, brought the sale consideration to tax as capital gains. CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that by virtue of the 2011 expansion of Greater Chennai Corporation, a village was included within corporation limits, and the distance between said village and the land was less than 8 kms. Consequently, in view of the statutory prescription of section 2(14)(iii)(b), land was to be regarded as a capital asset. Since assessee had not been able to establish, with cogent evidence, that the distance between said village and impugned land exceeded 8 kms, the land constituted a 'capital asset' within the meaning of section 2(14) and that transfer thereof during the assessment year was liable to capital gains tax. (AY. 2014-15)

Natesan Ekambaram. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 615 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 2(14)(iii) : Capital asset-Capital gains-Agricultural land-16 kms from municipality-Cultivation of groundnut-certificate from Village Administrative Officer-Exempt from taxation. [S. 45]

Assessee sold a piece of land and claimed that it was agricultural land, thus exempt from capital gains tax. Assessing Officer classified the land as non-agricultural based on factors such as classification by the Registration

Department and absence of agricultural activities. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the land was situated 16 kms from the municipality, thus agricultural. Further, a certificate from the Village Administrative Officer confirmed it as agricultural land. Additionally, cultivation of groundnut was recorded in the land records. Held capital gains exempt from taxation. (AY. 2016-17)

Parasmal Ravindra Kumar. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 276 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 2(14)(iii) : Capital asset-Agricultural land-Beyond 8 kms from municipal limits of Gurgaon and filed certificate from Nayab Tehsildar-Land could not be treated as a capital asset under section 2(14)-Accepted in co-owner-Not assessable as capital gains. [S. 2(14), 45]

Tribunal held that the same certificate was accepted by the Assessing Officer in the case of the co-owner and allowed the exemption. The Tribunal held that there cannot be two reasons to evaluate the same set of facts of the same transaction in the hands of two assesseees. Addition was set aside and allowed the exemption. (AY. 2012-13)

Balbir Singh Saini. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 669 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.2(14)(iii): Capital asset-Agricultural land-Distance between municipal limit and agricultural land was to be measured having regard to shortest road distance and not aerial distance-Agricultural land was situated beyond 8 kilometres of municipal limit-Not capital asset eligible for exemption-land sold was not a capital asset under section 2(14), provisions of section 50C would not apply.[S.2(14)(iiib) 45, 50C]

Held that distance between municipal limit and agricultural land was to be measured having regard to shortest road distance and not aerial distance. As per certificate issued by Dy. Executive Engineer (Road and Building) distance between municipal limit and agricultural land was 8.5 kilometres, agricultural land was situated beyond 8 kilometres of municipal limit and thus, it was not a capital asset within meaning of section 2(14)(iii)(b) not liable to capital gains tax. Tribunal also held that agricultural land was not a capital asset under section 2(14), application of provisions of section 50C were not applicable. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2012-13)

Kanchanben Maheshbhai Patel. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 133 (Surat) (Trib.)

S. 2(22)(e): Deemed dividend-Accumulated profits-Profits disclosed must be adjusted for depreciation as per prescribed rates before ascertaining accumulated profits. [S. 32, 143(1), 148]

On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that profits disclosed must be adjusted for depreciation as per the Income-tax Rules when computing accumulated profits. The Tribunal allowed the Revenue's appeal. The High Court set aside the Tribunal's order, holding that accumulated profits must be computed after deducting depreciation at the rates prescribed under the Income-tax Act. (AY. 2000-01)

Babulal Jain v. ITO (2025) 302 Taxman 392 / 345 CTR 95 / 251 DTR 101 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 2(22)(e) : Deemed dividend-Loan received from third parties not related to the company in which the assessee had a substantial interest-Difficult to presume that there was an arrangement or colourable device in respect of the transactions-loans received by the assessee from Sunil Jain and Heera Lal Modi cannot be treated as deemed dividend.

Tribunal held that the Assessee-shareholder having received interest-bearing loans from third parties who are not shareholders in the company in which the assessee has substantial interest, the transactions cannot be deemed to be loan transactions between the assessee and the company and dubbed as an arrangement or colourable device for the reason that loans of similar amounts were extended to the said parties by the said company; therefore, the loans received by the assessee cannot be treated as deemed dividend under S. 2(22)(e). (AY. 2018-19)

ACIT v. Gopi Kishan Malani (2025) 236 TTJ 904 (Jodhpur)(Trib)

S. 2(22)(e) : Deemed dividend-Loan-More than 10% shares only on the first day of the previous year, and after transferring a substantial number of shares, its shareholding fell below 10% and continued below the 10% threshold for the remainder of the year- Addition as deemed dividend was deleted. [S 2(22)(e), Expln. 3(b)]

Where the assessee held more than 10% shares only on the first day of the previous year and, after transferring a substantial number of shares, its shareholding fell below 10% and continued below that threshold for the remainder of the year, the loan received from the company could not be assessed as a deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e). The Assessing Officer erred in applying the expression "at any time during the previous year" to determine the shareholder's eligibility, as Explanation 3(b) applies only to a concern other than a company. Since the assessee's shareholding at the relevant year-end was below 10%, the provisions of section 2(22)(e) were not attracted, and the addition was directed to be deleted. (AY. 2013-14)

Vinita Pawankumar Saraf v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 34 / 177 taxmann.com 548 (Mum.)(Trib)

S. 2(22)(e) : Deemed dividend-Inter-corporate deposits-Commercial transaction carrying interest-Not deemed dividend-CBDT Circular No. 19 of 2017, dated 12-6-2017. [S. 119]

The assessee was a substantial shareholder in two companies, one of which advanced inter-corporate deposits to the other on payment of interest. The Assessing Officer treated the deposits as deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e). The Tribunal held that inter-corporate deposits constituted commercial transactions and the recipient company had paid interest on the deposits. In view of CBDT Circular No. 19 of 2017 and the commercial nature of the transaction, the provisions of section 2(22)(e) were not attracted. The addition was deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Sudesh Gupta v. Asst. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 237 / 178 taxmann.com 476 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 2(22)(e): Deemed dividend-Refundable rental security deposit from tenant-Cannot be assessed as deemed dividend-Matter remanded.

Assessee received a refundable rental security deposit from the tenant in respect of the property actually let out. The Assessing Officer assessed the deposit as a deemed dividend. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that such a deposit cannot be treated as a deemed dividend. Matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

Asha Burman. v. ACIT (2025) 215 ITD 612 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 2(22)(e): Deemed dividend-Deemed dividend-Loan to firm where partners held substantial interest in lender company-Assessee not a shareholder-Advances are not chargeable as deemed dividend.

Assessee's LLP was converted into a partnership. Prior to conversion, the Assessee had taken loans or had business with another company where he was a shareholder of more than 20%. The AO made an addition considering the said transactions as deemed dividend u/s. 2(22)(e). The ITAT observed that Clause (ii) of S. 2(22) includes any transaction with the other entity in which the shareholders having a controlling interest may enter into business transactions which may fall under the category of ordinary course of business transactions. The above exclusion has two parts, containing ordinary course of its business, and the other part, which involves lending of money, is a substantial part of the business. The first part of the clause ends with and starts with the other part. It is widely interpreted to include trade advances, which are like commercial transactions. Therefore, the AO should not have only seen the transaction but also investigated how the money was being used for the individual benefit of the shareholder. Moreover, the deeming fiction is only attracted to payments made directly to the shareholders. The ITAT upheld the order of the CIT(A) deleting the addition. (AY. 2014-15)

ACIT v. Windlass Steel Crafts LLP (2025) 172 taxmann.com 350/234 TTJ 482 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 2(22)(e): Deemed dividend-Advance salary to director-Disallowance cannot be made.

Held that the advance salary to director provision of section 2(22)(e) cannot be made. (AY. 2011-12)

Patidar Builder (P.) Ltd. v. Assessing Officer (2025) 214 ITD 77 (Indore) (Trib.)

S. 2(22)(e): Deemed Dividend-Advance received from closely held company by its shareholder-Holding more than 10%-Commercial transaction-Not assessable as deemed dividend.

Assessee was holding 35% shares in the company, which had two subsidiary companies. A foreign entity wanted to purchase stake in the company but was not interested to take any stake in the subsidiary companies. Therefore, shareholders of the company decided to give advance to assessee's firm to purchase share of said subsidiary companies to facilitate the completion of transaction with foreign entity. Thereafter, 70% stake in the company was sold to foreign entity and assessee returned the amount of advance from sale consideration received to him. Thus, the transaction was commercial in nature and the advance was made for the advantage of the company. Hence, such transaction would not fall within the ambit of the provisions of section 2(22)(e). [AY. 2014-15]

Subhash Chander Oberoi v. ACIT (2025) 233 TTJ 628 / 245 DTR 417 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 2(42A) : Short-term capital asset-Capital gains-land received consequent to liquidation of company-Period of holding of land-from date of previous owner i.e., company-Assessable as long term capital gains-The land received as a result of liquidation of company-Does not amount to transfer of any capital asset within meaning of S. 50C of the Act.[S. 45,46(2), 50C, 54F]

Assessee was a shareholder in a company which went into liquidation, and assets were distributed to its shareholders, whereby the Assessee received land owned by the company and sold the same to third parties. Assessee had disclosed the said land as long-term capital asset and declared profit on sale of the same as LTCG. The AO treated the said sale of land as STCG as it was sold within one year by the assessee. Held, Explanation to S. 2(42A) clearly explains that when a person receive a property consequent to liquidation of company, period of holding of asset had to be taken from date of previous owner i.e., the company, so as to determine whether the asset was a short term capital asset or long term capital asset. Since, admittedly, the land was held by the company for more than 36 months, it was correctly treated as a long-term capital asset, and profit therefrom was correctly charged as LTCG. It was further held that as the Assessee received land as a result of the liquidation of the company and disclosed this as a long-term asset and declared profit as LTCG u/s 46(2) same could not result in transfer of any capital asset within the meaning of section 50C of the Act. (AY. 2014-15)

ACIT v. Venkatesh Meghraj Kathare (2025) 210 ITD 140 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 2(47) : Transfer-Suit for declaration of ownership and possession of immovable property-General Power of Attorney-Sale deed executed by GPA holder after death of principal-GPA was general in nature and not coupled with interest-Agreement to sell does not convey title or ownership-Transfer of immovable property can be only by registered conveyance-Contemporaneous GPA and agreement to sell in favour of same person not sufficient to infer interest in property-In absence of registration of documents under section 17(1)(b) of Registration Act, GPA holder had no valid right, title or interest to execute sale deed-Sale deed executed by GPA holder after death of principal held invalid-Subsequent registered conveyances by legal heirs upheld. [Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S, 54, 55, Registration Act, 1908, S. 17(1)(b), 49, Indian Contract Act, 1872, S. 201, 202]

The original owner had executed a GPA and an agreement to sell in favour of one person. After his death, the GPA holder executed a registered sale deed in favour of her son. The legal heirs of the original owner thereafter sold the property through registered sale deeds, culminating in a registered gift deed in favour of the respondent. The Trial Court decreed the respondent's suit for injunction and dismissed the appellants' suit for declaration and possession; the High Court affirmed. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that a power of attorney creates only a principal-agent relationship and, unless coupled with interest within the meaning of section 202 of the Contract Act, the authority stands terminated on the death of the principal under section 201. On facts, the GPA was only general in nature, merely authorising management and dealing with the property, and did not secure any proprietary interest of the agent in the subject-matter; mere use of the word "irrevocable" was not decisive. The contemporaneous agreement to sell also did not confer ownership, as an agreement to sell is not a conveyance and does not transfer title in immovable property. Even if the GPA and agreement to sell were read together, any claimed interest in immovable property required compulsory registration under section 17(1)(b) of the Registration Act; in the absence of registration, no right, title or interest could be asserted on that basis. Therefore, the GPA holder had no authority to execute the sale deed after the death of the principal, and the sale deed in favour of appellant No. 2 was invalid. The Supreme Court accordingly upheld the order of High Court and dismissed the appeals. Referred Suraj Lamp & Industries Pvt. Ltd. v. State of Haryana (2012) 1 SCC 656, Timblo Irmaos Ltd. v. Jorge Anibal Matos Sequeira (1977) 3 SCC 474.

M. S. Ananthamurthy v. J. Manjula (2025) 304 Taxman 81 (SC).

Editorial : M. S. Ananthamurthy v. J. Manjula (RFA No. 1318 /2004 c/w R.F.A No. 1317/2014 dt 16-10-2019(Karn)(HC)

S. 2(47): Transfer-Extinguishment of any right there in-Reduction of share capital by company amounts to reduction of rights of shareholder to share in distribution of net assets upon liquidation extinguished proportionately-Such reduction of rights is Transfer within the meaning of section 2(47) of the Act.[S. 45]

Hon'ble Supreme Court held that as a result of reducing the face value of the shares the share capital is reduced and the right of preferential shareholder to the dividend or his share capital and the right to share in the distribution of the net assets upon liquidation is extinguished proportionately to the extent of reduction in the capital. Such a reduction of the right of the capital asset clearly amounts to a "transfer" under section 2(47) of the Act and any profit or gain which arises from the transfer of such capital asset is taxable under section 45 of the Act. Karthikeya v. Sarabahi v. CIT (1997) 228 ITR 163 (SC), explained. CIT v. Vania Silk Mills Pvt Ltd (1977) 107 ITR 300 (Guj) (HC) is approved. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Jupiter Capital Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 472 ITR 616 /303 Taxman 95/342 CTR 552 / 246 DTR 1 (SC)

Editorial : Pr CIT v. Jupiter Capital (P.) Ltd. [IT Appeal No. 299 of 2019 dated 20-2-2023] (para 10) affirmed. (2025) 472 ITR 561 (Karn.) (HC)

S. 2(47): Transfer-Capital loss-Reduction of share capital-loss due to reduction in number of shares pursuant to the court order-Change in redeemable value of shares amounts to extinguishment of rights in shares-No transfer within meaning of Section 2(47) of the Act. [S 45, 260A 1]

The assessee carrying on the business of investment activity purchased 14,95,44,130 shares of Asianet Pvt Ltd, having face value of Rs.10. By an order of Hon'ble Bombay High Court, share capital of Asianet Pvt. Ltd was reduced to 9,988. However, the face value of the shares remained as Rs.10 even after reduction of the shares. Thus, the assessee had claimed the loss of Rs.1,64,48,55,840. However, the AO disallowed the same on the ground that though the number of shares reduced, the assessee continued to hold 99.88 per cent of shares and there is no effective transfer of shares and transaction did not result in relinquishment of rights. The Tribunal allowed the claim. On appeal dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the AO's view that the voting power had not changes as the percentage of the assessee's shares had remained unchanged is untenable as the shares were transferred at face value, the redeemable valued would be Rs.99,880 whereas the value of 14,95,44,130 shares would have been Rs.1,49,54,41,300. Thus, there is extinguishment of rights of shares. However, there is no transfer within the meaning of the expression "transfer" as contained in section 2(47) of the Act.(AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Jupiter Capital Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 472 ITR 561 (Karn.) (HC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Jupiter Capital Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 472 ITR 616 /303 Taxman 95 (SC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Sales tax exemption from State Government-Subsidy held to be capital receipt, and High Court order on that issue affirmed-Income accrual-Duty drawback-Income does not accrue merely on export; Tribunal was justified in remanding matter for limited verification whether claim was accepted by authorities in relevant year-High Court erred in interfering with remand-Tribunal's order restored.[S. 5, Art. 136]

The Assessing Officer made an addition on account of duty drawback. On appeal, the Tribunal held that no amount of duty drawback could be said to accrue to the assessee until such claim was accepted by the concerned authorities. Tribunal restored the matter to the file of Assessing Officer for verification as to when the claim of assessee was accepted. On appeal, the High Court opined that matter was not required to be remanded and held that income accrues when it becomes due, but it must also be accompanied by a corresponding liability of the other party to pay the amount. On appeal the Supreme Court held that the order of remand has been made only for the purposes of ascertaining whether the claim of assessee for duty drawback was accepted in the year under consideration. There was no reason for the High Court to interfere with the order of remand as it was passed only for the purposes of limited factual verification by the Assessing Officer. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed. (AY. 1999-2000)

CIT v. Maruti Suzuki India Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 4 / 347 CTR 109 (SC)

Editorial : CIT v. Maruti Suzuki India Ltd.(IT Appeal No. 250 of 2005 dt. 7-12-2017) (Delhi)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Forfeiture of earnest money arising out of agreement to sale a property is not liable to tax-Income from other sources-Capital receipt-Advance received under agreement to sell-Forfeited-Receipt would go to reduce cost of acquisition of asset-Cannot be assessed as income from other sources-Appeal of revenue dismissed. [S. 51, 56(2)(vi), Art. 136]

The assessee entered into an agreement to sell certain property and received certain amount as earnest money. Subsequently, the earnest money was forfeited by the assessee and the amount was claimed as capital receipt. The Tribunal held that the amount received cannot be assessed under section 56(2)(vi) of the Act. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. Appeal of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2007-08)

CIT v. Meera Goyal (2025) 476 ITR 152 / 345 CTR 415 / 305 Taxman 566 (SC)

Editorial : Order of High Court affirmed, CIT v. Meera Goyal (2013] 214 Taxman 298 / (2014) 360 ITR 346/267 CTR 265 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Foreign ECB loan for purpose of acquisition of a capital asset-Construction period-Temporarily parked ECB loan in FDRs-Interest income is allowed to be capitalised-Not assessable as income from other sources-SLP of Revenue is dismissed. [S.56]

Assessee had taken foreign ECB loan for purpose of acquisition of a capital asset i.e. renovation and refurbishment of hotel acquired by it. Entire ECB loan was disbursed in a single trench. Therefore, assessee had temporarily parked ECB loan in FDRs. During construction period, assessee earned interest on FDRs made out of ECB funds. Assessing Officer held that interest income earned on FDRs was taxable as income from other sources. Tribunal allowed capitalisation of interest on FDRs. On appeal by the Revenue the Court held that the funds were inextricably linked with setting up of plant and interest earned by assessee could not be treated as income from other sources. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Triumph Realty (P.) Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 108 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Triumph Realty (P.) Ltd. (2025) 170 taxmann.com 286 (Delhi)(HC)

S.4: : Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue receipt-Relinquishment of trade mark user right and interest and termination of ice-cream manufacturing facilities under brand name Valuation of goodwill not done by Department at time of surrender-Re-determination of value of goodwill by Tribunal to avoid multiplicity of litigation-Tribunal valuing goodwill at 30 per cent. and balance on account of relinquishment of manufacturing rights Tribunal order based on appreciation of facts in right perspective-No substantial question of law.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal, the Tribunal had observed that the Revenue authorities did not undertake the exercise of determining the value of goodwill of the assessee at the time of surrender. The assessee had not given any basis for valuation of its goodwill for the manufacture of ice-cream at Rs. 10 lakhs. The Tribunal, instead of remanding the matter to the Assessing Officer for redetermination of the value of goodwill, had proceeded to decide this issue at its own level to avoid multiplicity of litigation. The Tribunal had rightly come to a conclusion that the ratio of all goodwill worked out to 30 per cent. In this backdrop, out of Rs. 55 lakhs, Rs. 15 lakhs were taken towards goodwill and trade marks and the remaining amount on account of the surrender of the right to manufacture ice-creams and other allied products under the brand name "Kwality." This was based on a correct appreciation of facts. There was no ground made out to interfere with the order of the Tribunal as it had been passed by appreciating the facts in the right perspective. No substantial question of law arose for consideration.(AY.1995-96 to 1997-98)

Kwality Cafe and Restaurant Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 482 ITR 777 (P&H)(HC)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Principles of mutual association-Matter remanded. [S. 260A]

The assessee was a recreational club. In each of the assessment years 2008-2009 to 2012-2013, the assessee received on account of rent sums of money from a company for occupation of a portion of the club premises. The Assessing Officer held that the amounts were taxable but the Commissioner (Appeals) reversed the order. However, the Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal to the High Court: Held, that in the orders of the Assessing Officer, Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal there was no analysis of the facts, which would go to show whether the principle of mutuality was being maintained in the subject transaction between the club and the company. Only conclusions were made with regard to the status and the transaction between the parties. Matter remanded.

Saturday Club Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 482 ITR 990 (Cal)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Non-refundable one time life membership fee received by club from members-Capital receipt.[S.28(i)]

Assessee-company was engaged in club activities. It collected life membership fee from those who wanted to become its members-Assessee claimed that one time non-transferable and non-refundable sum paid by a member to acquire rights of club was a capital receipt.Assessing Officer treated said amount as revenue receipt.Tribunal confirmed order of Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that any sum paid by a member to acquire rights of club is a capital receipt, therefore, one time life membership fee received by assessee-club was to be treated as capital receipt and not taxable as income.(AY. 2001-02 to 2005-06)

Chennai Corporate Club (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 305 Taxman 433 (Mad)(HC).

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Exemption-Compensation paid for compulsory acquisition of land under the National Highways Act, 1956-Though acquisition under National Highways Act is covered by Fourth Schedule to 2013 Act, by virtue of s. 105(3) read with Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 2015, provisions relating to determination of compensation under 2013 Act apply-Consequently, exemption under s. 96 also applies-Compensation received from NHAI on compulsory acquisition of land is not chargeable to tax-Rejection of rectification application and refund claim held not justified. [S. 10(37), 260A; Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013, S. 96, 103, 105(1), 105(3), 113(1), Sch. IV Entry 7]

The assessee's land was compulsorily acquired by the National Highways Authority of India under the National Highways Act, 1956. In the return for A.Y. 2017-18, the assessee offered to tax the compensation received on such acquisition as short-term capital gains and paid tax thereon. Subsequently, he filed a rectification application seeking refund on the ground that compensation received on compulsory acquisition of land was exempt from tax under s. 96 of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013. The Assessing Officer rejected the claim holding that the National Highways Act, 1956 was included in the Fourth Schedule to the 2013 Act and, therefore, by virtue of s. 105(1), the provisions of the 2013 Act, including s. 96, were not applicable. The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal affirmed the rejection. On appeal, the High Court held that though acquisitions under the National Highways Act, 1956 were initially excluded by s. 105(1), s. 105(3) empowered the Central Government to extend the beneficial provisions of the 2013 Act to enactments specified in the Fourth Schedule. Pursuant thereto, the Central Government issued the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 2015, making the provisions relating to determination of compensation, rehabilitation and resettlement applicable to acquisitions under the enactments in the Fourth Schedule. Once compensation is determined under the beneficial regime of the 2013 Act, the consequential benefits flowing therefrom, including exemption from income-tax under s. 96, must also apply. Denial of exemption to land acquired under the National Highways Act would defeat the object of the 2015 Order and result in discrimination. Accordingly, the Court held that compensation paid by NHAI for compulsory acquisition of land under the National Highways Act, 1956 was exempt from income-tax and the assessee was entitled to consequential relief/refund. The appeal was allowed. (AY. 2017-18)

Sanjay Kumar Baid v. ITO (2025) 480 ITR 259 / 178 taxmann.com 446 / 347 CTR 417 / 254 DTR 137 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Accrual-Sale of fly ash-Did not belong to assessee-A separate utilization account as mandated, and used funds solely for specified purposes without deriving any benefit or ownership-Income not accrued to assessee-Sale proceeds were not taxable.[S. 5, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the assessee the Court held that Fly ash did not belong to the assessee, but to its holding company-NTPC; assessee had only sold the fly ash and utilized part of the funds as mandated and made over the balance funds to NTPC; there is no infirmity in the decision of the Tribunal that the assessee had not earned any income on account of sale of fly ash, which was provided by NTPC. (AY. 2015-16)

PCIT v. NTPC Vidyut Vyapar Nigam Ltd. (2025) 174 taxmann.com 20 / 345 CTR 673 / 251 DTR 369 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Income or capital-Sales tax incentive received from State Government under West Bengal Industrial Promotion Scheme-Capital receipt-Appellate Tribunal-Power-The Tribunal has the power to entertain a claim of deduction not claimed before the Assessing Officer by filing revised return. [S. 139,254(1)]

Held that the sales tax incentive received from the State Government under the West Bengal Industrial Promotion (Assistance co Industrial Units) Scheme, 2010 is a capital receipt. The Tribunal has the power to entertain a claim of deduction not claimed before the Assessing Officer by filing a revised return.(AY. 2015-16)

PCIT v. Ritum Jain. (2025) 476 ITR 69 (Cal)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Excise duty exemption Purpose test formulated by Supreme Court Excise duty exemption granted for purpose of industrialisation and generation of employment in States-Excise duty exemption capital receipt-Book profit-Excise duty exemption availed being in nature of capital receipt and not chargeable to tax under normal provisions cannot be added in book profit. [S.115JB]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that excise duty exemption purpose test formulated by Supreme Court Excise duty exemption granted for purpose of industrialisation and generation of employment in States is capital receipt. Excise duty exemption availed being in nature of capital receipt and not chargeable to tax under normal provisions cannot be added in book profit. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Greenply Industries Ltd (2025) 476 ITR 347 /304 Taxman 192 / 344 CTR 638 / 249 DTR 312 (Gauhati)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue receipt-Security deposits-High Court admitted appeal to decide whether Tribunal was justified in treating amount received as security deposit which was forfeited as a capital receipt. [S. 260A]

The assessee-company had received Rs. 10 crores as security deposit under an agreement which was subsequently forfeited when the contract did not materialize. The Assessing Officer treated the forfeiture as revenue income taxable in the year of receipt, whereas the Tribunal held it to be a capital receipt not chargeable to tax. The Revenue contended that forfeiture of business advances should be taxed as business income. The High Court admitted the appeal to examine whether the Tribunal was justified in its conclusion. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Royal Western India Turf Club Ltd [2023] 147 taxmann.com 163 (Bom)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Sales Tax Incentive-Purpose test-Incentive for setting up industrial unit in backward area-Sales tax incentive under 1979 and 1983 Schemes is capital receipt, not chargeable to tax.[S. 28(i), 43B, 1979 Scheme. 1983 Scheme]

For the assessment year 1987-88, Bajaj Auto Ltd. set up a new industrial unit in Waluj, Aurangabad, a backward area designated by the Maharashtra Government. To promote industrial growth in such regions, the State had introduced the 1983 Sales Tax Incentive Scheme, offering eligible businesses either a sales tax exemption or deferral. Bajaj Auto chose the exemption and received an eligibility certificate from SIICOM, granting it benefits worth Rs.31.56 crores for a three-year period starting 1 February 1986. In its tax return, the company treated the incentive as a capital receipt, arguing it subsidized the cost of setting up the unit and was not taxable. However, the Assessing Officer treated it as a revenue receipt, as it became applicable only after production began. This view was upheld by the CIT(A), and although the ITAT provided partial relief, it maintained the incentive was taxable. Bajaj Auto subsequently appealed to the Bombay High Court under Section 260A of the Income Tax Act, 1961. The Bombay High Court allowed Bajaj Auto's appeal, holding that the sales tax exemption received under the state's incentive scheme qualified as a capital receipt and was not subject to income tax. The Court relied on the "purpose test" established by the Supreme Court in cases in Sahney Steel and Press Works Ltd (1997) 228 ITR 253 (SC), CIT v. Ponni Sugars and Chemicals Ltd (2008) 174 Taxman 87 /306 ITR 392 (SC) and CIT v. Chaphalkar Brothers (2018) 400 ITR 279 / 252 Taxman 360 (SC) stating that the key to determining the nature of a subsidy lies in its purpose. Since the scheme aimed to promote industrial development in backward areas by supporting the setup of new units, the Court concluded that the incentive was capital in nature, regardless of how or when it was disbursed. Applying the purpose test, the Court found that the 1983 Sales Tax Incentive Scheme was primarily aimed at encouraging industrial development in underdeveloped regions of Maharashtra by promoting capital investment. The Court ruled that although the sales tax exemption was granted after production began, its true purpose was to support the establishment of new industrial units, not regular business operations. Therefore, the method of benefit delivery didn't alter its nature as a capital receipt. Citing Supreme Court precedents, the Court held that such subsidies tied to starting production qualify as capital receipts. Accordingly, Bajaj Auto's Rs.31.56 crore sales tax incentive was deemed a capital receipt and not taxable income. (AY. 1985-86, 1987-88)

Bajaj Auto Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 477 ITR 611/176 taxmann.com 104 (Bom)(HC).

CIT v. Reliance Industries Ltd(2025) 477 ITR 611/176 taxmann.com 104 (Bom)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Amount received for surrender of right in patent and trademark/negative covenant—Capital receipt.[S.28(i)]

Affirming the order of the Tribunal the Court held that amount received on surrender of granted the right to market and sale of patent product of the assessee under the brand name of Pfizer. Court held that surrender of the rights results in impairment of profit making apparatus of the assessee and therefore, is a capital receipt. (AY. 2000-01)

CIT v. Sanofi Healthcare India (P) LTD. (2025) 342 CTR 326 / 245 DTR 17 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Income-Exemption from excise duty not under the purview of definition of income envisaged under S. 2(24)(xviii)-Such amount is thus not an income but capital receipt, not taxable under the Act-Entries in books of accounts not conclusive to determine income-No tax can be charged on an amount not actually earned.[S. 2(24)(xviii),5, 10, 145]

The Hon'ble J&K High Court deciding an appeal, observed that income tax cannot be levied on hypothetical income but only on real income. Resultantly it was held that no tax can be charged on an amount which is not actually earned and that the Ld. Tribunal was right, in deleting the addition of Rs. 3,29,76,575/-as hypothetical income which has not actually accrued, which was otherwise 64% of the excise duty recognized by the assessee in its books of accounts. On the second issue, the Court observed that excise duty does not fall in the definition of income as envisaged under Section 2(24)(xviii) of the Act and that the amount of Rs.1,85,49,324/-is not an income but a capital receipt not taxable under the provisions of the Act. (AY. 2016-17)

PCIT v. Gravita Metal Inc. [2025] 302 Taxman 91/343 CTR 630 (J & K & L)(HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Amount received under non-compete agreement is capital receipt.[S. 28(i)]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the assessee had been restrained both directly and indirectly from undertaking any business which would compete with the business of WSIL. Clearly, for the period in which the non-compete agreement was to operate, which in this case was ten years, the assessee's source of income had been clamped and, therefore, the compensation received by him is a capital receipt. No substantial question of law. (AY. 1999-20

CIT v. Saeed Mustafa Shervani (2024)471 ITR 777 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Excise duty refund-Capital or revenue receipt-The refund received was a capital receipt not chargeable to tax. [S.5]

The assessee, in 2003, had set up pipe coating unit at Mundra, Gujarat. Thereafter, in 2005, the assessee also set up another unit for pipe manufacturing at Mundra, Gujarat. The said new units had been set up in compliance with the relevant Notifications within the stipulated time limits therein, and the Certificate issued by the Customs and Central Excise, Ahmedabad, certifying that the said new units have been established during the period prescribed in the said Notifications. The assessee received excise duty refund of Rs 163,15,661/-, which was offered to tax as a revenue receipt in the return of income and assessed as such by the AO. The CIT(A) upheld the order of the AO in treating the excise duty refund received by the assessee as a revenue receipt. On appeal, ITAT held that the excise duty refund received by assessee under an incentive scheme issued by the Central Government was a capital receipt not chargeable to tax. The appeal was allowed. [AY. 2004-05]

Jindal Saw Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 128 ITR 476 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Premium on issue of tax-free bonds-Capital or revenue-Revenue receipt chargeable to tax. [S. 28(i)]

Held that the premium received on bonds did not result in expansion of share capital or capital base of assessee. Such receipts formed part of floating capital and therefore constituted revenue receipts chargeable to tax (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital receipt-Government subsidy-Subsidy received for capital purposes is not taxable as a revenue receipt.[S.28(i)]

The Assessing Officer treated the Government subsidy received by the assessee as a revenue receipt. The Tribunal, following its decision in the assessee's own case for the earlier assessment year, held that the subsidy was a Government grant of a capital nature and therefore constituted a capital receipt not chargeable to tax as revenue income. (AY. 2011-12)

Capgemini India P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 431 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue receipt-Compensation received from supplier on account of failure of performance guarantee parameters of wind turbine generator-Capital receipt.

Held that the compensation received by the assessee from the supplier on account of failure of performance guarantee parameters of the capital assets, namely, wind turbine generators, was a capital receipt outside the purview of taxation. (AY.2008-09)

Essel Mining & Industries Ltd. v. Add.CIT (2025) 235 TTJ 329/ 174 taxmann.com 866 (Kol)(Trib)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Accrual-Interest receivable from foreign subsidiaries-Financial year-Failed to reconcile-Addition is affirmed.[S. 5, 145]

Held that the assessee failed to reconcile the difference between the interest received by it from the foreign subsidiary and the amount offered to tax, except stating that the difference is on account of the difference in the accounting year followed by the two companies; the addition towards the differential amount is sustained. (AY.2011-12)

Dr Reddy's Laboratories Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 699 / 174 taxmann.com 238 (Hyd) Trib)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue receipt-Redevelopment of property-Compensation for hardship on vacating flat-Capital receipt not chargeable to tax-Appellate Tribunal-Delay of 1566 days-wrong legal advice-Delay was condoned. [S. 253, 254(1)]

The assessee received monthly compensation from the developer on redevelopment of his residential flat. Although the amount was described as compensation for alternate accommodation, the assessee stayed with his parents instead of taking rented premises. The Tribunal held that the receipt compensated the assessee for the hardship and inconvenience suffered in vacating his premises and was therefore a capital receipt not chargeable to tax. The addition made under the head "Income from other sources" was deleted. The Tribunal found that the extraordinary delay in filing the appeal occurred because the assessee had not been properly advised by his earlier counsel. Holding that the assessee should not suffer for the mistake of his legal adviser and that sufficient cause had been shown, the Tribunal condoned the delay of 1,566 days and admitted the appeal. (AY. 2013-14).

Ajay Parasmal Kothari v. ITO [2024] 159 taxmann.com 570 / (2025) 126 ITR 511 (Mum.)(Trib.)

Editorial: Affirmed in Sarfaraz S. Furniturewalla v. Afshan Sharfali Ashok Kumar (2024) 467 ITR 230 (Bom.)(HC).

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Income-Time-share membership fees-Consistent method of recognising income over membership period-Entire receipts not taxable in year of receipt.[S. 145]

The assessee recognised only the proportionate time-share membership income in the year in which the member became entitled to holiday facilities and spread the balance over the membership period. Following its earlier decisions in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the consistently followed method of revenue recognition was proper and that the entire membership fee could not be taxed in the year of receipt. (AY. 2018-19).

Sterling Holiday Resorts Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 284 / 180 taxmann.com 310 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Capital receipt-Market Linked Focus Product Scheme-Merchandise Exports from India Scheme (MEIS)-Reward under Foreign Trade Policy-Not a subsidy, grant or cash incentive-Sale proceeds of MEIS scrips not taxable.[S. 2(24)(xviii), 28(iiib), 56]

The assessee claimed that the sale proceeds of MEIS licences constituted capital receipts not chargeable to tax. The Tribunal held that the benefit under the Merchandise Exports from India Scheme was a "reward" under the Foreign Trade Policy, 2015 and not a subsidy, grant, cash incentive, duty drawback, waiver, concession or reimbursement within the meaning of section 2(24)(xviii). Applying the purpose test, the Tribunal observed that the object of the scheme was to offset infrastructural inefficiencies and enhance export competitiveness rather than to supplement trading profits. Accordingly, the sale proceeds of MEIS licences were held to be capital receipts not chargeable to tax. The Assessing Officer was directed to verify the quantum before granting relief. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19 & 2020-21).

Asst. CIT v. Eastman Exports Global Clothing (P.) Ltd. [2024] 167 taxmann.com 434 / (2025) 122 ITR 243 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Grants-Capital reserve account-Road project-Infrastructure development-Grants/contributions from State Government for completion of road projects undertaken by it on BOT basis-Grants/contributions were a capital contribution by State Government towards the cost of projects-Not taxable as revenue receipts. [S. 28(i), 145]

Assessee treated grants as capital receipts and credited them to capital reserve account. Assessing Officer treated grants/contributions received during the year and accrued but not received as revenue receipts and added them to total income. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee was a contractor executing projects handed over by the State Government via Government Resolutions (GRs) and grants/contributions were in the nature of investments made by the State Government, i.e., promoter, for infrastructure development. Further, assessee credited depreciation of projects to the capital reserve since assessee was not owner of the projects. Tribunal held that since grants/contributions by State Government could not be considered as a support extended for day-to-day business activities of assessee, but was a capital contribution by State Government towards cost of projects to be incurred by assessee, grants/contributions received by assessee and accrued but not received were capital in nature being a promoter's contribution and, therefore, could not be treated as income of assessee. (AY. 2006-07)

Maharashtra State Road Development Corporation Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 532 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Compensation received for underperformance of wind turbine generators (WTGs)-Capital receipt. [S.28(i)]

Assessee, engaged in mining and power generation, purchased wind turbine generators (WTGs) from Suzlon Energy Limited (SEL) under contracts that included a performance guarantee clause. The WTGs failed to meet the guaranteed generation levels, and SEL compensated the assessee for the shortfall. Assessee claimed this compensation as a capital receipt, arguing it was for the impairment of a capital asset. AO, however, treated it as a revenue receipt, pleading that the same compensated for lost power generation (business income). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the WTGs' under-performance impaired the capital asset's utility, making the compensation akin to damages for sterilization of a capital asset. Accordingly, the compensation was a capital receipt, not chargeable to tax. (AY. 2008-09)

Essel Mining & Industries Ltd. v. Addl.CIT [2025] 174 taxmann.com 866 (Kol.)(Trib)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Subsidy-Income received on sale of Market Linked Focus Product Scheme (MLFPS) scrips was a capital receipt.[S. 2(24)(xviii) 28(i)]

Assessee was a firm engaged in the business of manufacturing and exporting knitted hosiery garments. It received income on the sale of Market Linked Focus Product Scheme (MLFPS) scrips. Assessing Officer treated said income as revenue receipts and added the same to the total income of the assessee. CIT(A) held that even after the amendment by the Finance Act, 2015, with effect from 1-4-2016 to section (2(24)(xviii), the receipts from sale of MLEPS licence would be capital receipts and not taxable. On appeal by revenue, the Tribunal held that, in view of the order of the Chennai Bench of the Tribunal in ACIT v. Eastman Exports Global Clothing (P.) Ltd (2024) 167 taxmann.com 434 (Chennai) (Trib), the amount received on sale of MLFPS scrips was a capital receipt. (AY. 2018-19)

DCIT v. Armstrong Knitting Mills. (2025) 214 ITD 219 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Subsidy-Industrial Promotional Subsidy from State Government-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A) for adjudication afresh.[S. 2(24)(viii)]

Tribunal held that since the assessee's claim was more in respect of the amended definition of income in terms of section 2(24)(viii), however, the same was not elaborately discussed and dealt with by the CIT(A), the matter was remanded for adjudication afresh.(AY. 2016-17)

Mahindra and Mahindra Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 193 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Reimbursement of expenses incurred by JV firm-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.

Assessee received certain amount from its Joint Venture (JV) partner on account of reimbursement of expenses incurred by JV firm. The AO made the addition. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that since identical issue was involved in case of other partner of JV firm and revenue had not challenged deletion of addition made in hands of other partner, on similar fact situation, revenue could not take different stand in case of assessee which would be detrimental to assessee. (AY. 2012-13 &2016-17)

ACIT v. Pavani Structural (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 415 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Capital or revenue-Compensation received for under performance of wind turbine generators (WTGs)-Capital receipt. [S.28(i)]

Assessee, engaged in mining and power generation, purchased wind turbine generators (WTGs) from Suzlon Energy Limited (SEL) under contracts that included a performance guarantee clause. The WTGs failed to meet the guaranteed generation levels, and SEL compensated the assessee for the shortfall. Assessee claimed this compensation as a capital receipt, arguing it was for the impairment of a capital asset. AO, however, treated it as a revenue receipt pleading that the same compensated for lost power generation (business income). On appeal the Tribunal held that the WTGs' under-performance impaired the capital asset's utility, making the compensation akin to damages for sterilization of a capital asset. Accordingly, the compensation was a capital receipt, not chargeable to tax. (AY. 2008-09)

Essel Mining & Industries Ltd. v. Addl.CIT [2025] 174 taxmann.com 866 (Kol.)(Trib)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Joint development agreement-Income offered to tax-Making once again addition is lead to double addition-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.

Assessee entered into a joint development agreement with a firm (YKH) and formed a joint venture firm (JV firm) exclusively for construction of a commercial complex. Assessee had received Rs.83 lakhs from YKH on account of out of court settlement of their dispute and offered same as income in their books of account. Assessing Officer added same to total income of assessee, as assessee could not produce necessary explanation / evidence in support of their claim that they have already offered Rs.83 lakhs in their books of account. CIT(A) deleted addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that since statement of P&L account and schedule of revenue from other sources had showed that assessee had taken said sum as income of assessee, addition made by Assessing Officer would lead to double taxation in hands of assessee. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. (AY. 2012-13 & 2016-17)

ACIT v. Pavani Structural (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 415 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 4 : Charge of income-tax-Compensation-Surrender of premises-Allocated flat as compensation to remove illegal occupant-The value of flat received by the assessee as compensation for removing nuisance shall constitute capital receipt-Not taxable. [S. 2(24), 54F, 56(2)(vii)(b)]

The assessee was an illegal occupant of land, who was allotted a flat worth ₹2.59 crores as part of a court settlement after filing a suit against the developer. The AO treated this allotment as taxable income and denied the Section 54F deduction. The assessee argued that the compensation was for surrendering long-occupied premises and thus should be treated as a capital receipt. The ITAT held that the compensation for removing a nuisance is a capital receipt which is outside the scope of section 2(24) and thus the flat's value was recognised as a non-taxable capital receipt. Relied on Shri Kishore D.P. v. ITO (ITA No. 3796/Mum/2014 dt. 17-2-2017) (AY. 2018-19) (ITA No. 6153 / Mum/2024 dt. 7-4-2025) (AY. 2016-17)

Mohammed Fakhre Alam Shaikh v. The Assessing Officer. (Mum) (Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 4: Charge of income-tax-Receipt of certain amount from Government-credited to Income and Expenditure Statement under head 'grant-in-aid' for establishment expenses-issue of specific Accounting Standard was not dealt with by the AO, matter was to be remanded back to inter alia verify receipt of income and method of accounting adopted for the same-Form No 10-Condonation of delay-If CBDT condone delay in filing Form No 10, the assessee would get consequential benefits under section 11(2) read with section 139(9) of the Act.[S. 11(2), 139(9), 145]

Assessee-trust was in receipt of a certain amount from the Government which was credited to Income and Expenditure Statement under head 'grant-in-aid' for establishment expenses. A.O. added the said amount to the income of the assessee. It was noted that for recognition of an amount as a receipt under Accounting Standard-12, two conditions were required to be present, viz. (a) if Government grant was expected to be realised or its collection was reasonably certain; (b) conditions pertaining to said Government grant had been complied with. Since the issue of specific Accounting Standard was not dealt with by the AO, matter was remanded back for verification as to whether the said amount was actually receivable, whether assessee had been accounting for such grants on receipt or mercantile basis in past and whether there were any terms and conditions pertaining to said arrangement between assessee and Government regarding receipt of such amounts. AO was directed to analyse these issues and thereafter come to conclusion as to whether the impugned amount would be treated as income for year under consideration or in the year of actual receipt. If CBDT condone delay in filing Form No 10, the assessee would get consequential benefits under section 11(2) read with section 139(9) of the Act. (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT (E) v. Chanakya National Law University (2025) 210 ITD 333 (Patna) (Trib.)

S. 5 : Scope of total income-Accrual of income-High Court held that interest can be said to have accrued only on date on which it was due as per terms and conditions of security-Interest income on securities is to be taxed on due basis and not on accrual basis-Delay of 220 days-SLP dismissed on the ground that reasons assigned for condonation of delay are neither satisfactory nor sufficient. [S. 145, Art. 136.

Assessing Officer held that interest income was liable to be taxed on accrual basis. High Court held that interest can be said to have accrued only on date on which it was due as per terms and conditions of security and, when instrument or agreement stipulates interest to be payable at specified date, interest does not accrue to holder thereof on any date prior thereto and, therefore, interest would accrue or arise only on date specified in instrument and thus, interest income on securities was to be taxed on due basis and not on accrual basis. Department has filed SLP which was delayed of 220 days. SLP is rejected on the ground that since reasons assigned for seeking condonation of delay were neither satisfactory nor sufficient in law to be condoned. (AY. 1994-95)

Jt. CIT v. State Bank of Hyderabad (2025) 302 Taxman 417 (SC)

Editorial : State Bank of Hyderabad v. JCIT (2024) 169 taxmann.com 416 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 5 : Scope of total income-Interest on Government Securities-Right to receive interest on Government securities vested in assessee only on due date mentioned in securities and could not be said to have accrued to assessee on any date other than dates stipulated therein-SLP of Revenue is dismissed.[S. 145, 245C, 245D, Art. 136]

Assessee filed an application under section 245C for settlement of its cases in respect of assessment year 1997-98. Commissioner, prayed for addition of amount being net amount of interest accrued to be brought to tax. Settlement Commission agreed with Commissioner's view and held that income having accrued and corresponding expenditure having been reckoned on mercantile basis, interest income would be taxed on accrual basis for both years under consideration. On writ High Court held that right to receive interest on Government securities vested in assessee only on due date mentioned in securities and could not be said to have accrued to assessee on any date other than dates stipulated therein SLP of the Revenue is dismissed. filed by revenue against said impugned order was to be dismissed.(AY. 1997-98)

ITSC v. Indusind Bank Ltd. (2025) 302 Taxman 423 (SC)

Editorial : Indusind Bank Ltd v. ITSC (2024) 169 taxmann.com 588 (Bom)(HC)

S. 5 : Scope of total income-Interest on Government Securities-Right to receive interest on Government securities vested in assessee only on due date mentioned in securities and could not be said to have accrued to assessee on any date other than dates stipulated therein-Delay of 364 days-SLP of Revenue is dismissed on account of delay and also on merits. [S. 145, 245C, 245D, Art. 136]

Assessee filed an application under section 245C for settlement of its cases. Commissioner, prayed for addition of amount being net amount of interest accrued be brought to tax. Settlement Commission agreed with Commissioner's view and held that income having accrued and corresponding expenditure having been reckoned on mercantile basis, interest income would be taxed on accrual basis for both years under consideration. High Court held that right to receive interest on Government securities vested in assessee only on due date mentioned in securities and consequently, interest accrued on securities only on due dates and could not be said to have accrued to assessee on any date other than dates stipulated therein, therefore, conclusion arrived at by Settlement Commission under this head was not in conformity with provisions of law and the order to this extent was set aside. SLP of Revenue is dismissed on account of delay of 364 days and also on merits. (AY. 1997-98)

ITSC v. Indusind Bank Ltd. (2025) 302 Taxman 270 /477 ITR 593 (SC)

Editorial : Indusind Bank Ltd v.ITSC (2023) 152 taxmann.com 489/ 456 ITR 376(Bom)(HC)

S. 5 : Scope of total income-Inter-Corporate Deposits (ICDs)-Non-Performing Assets (NPAs) as per Prudential Norms issued by RBI-Possibility of recovery is almost nil-Cannot not be treated to have accrued to assessee. [S.4 43D]

Held that Inter-Corporate Deposits (ICDs) had become Non-Performing Assets (NPAs) as per Prudential Norms issued by RBI, on which no interest was received and possibility of recovery was almost nil, it could not be treated to have accrued to assessee. (AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 5 : Scope of total income-Income-Accrual-Notional interest-Waiver of interest on Compulsorily Convertible Debentures-Interest waived before the end of financial year-Commercial expediency-No addition can be made on account of interest income on notional basis. [S. 4, 143(3) 145]

On request from the borrower Le. DJ (P) Ltd., the assessee waived off its right of interest on CCDs on 31st March, 2015 for bona fide commercial expediency. DJ (P) Ltd. did not have the income or financial capacity to pay the interest and there was no hope of recovery which is evident from its audited financial statements as on 31st March, 2015. The AO assessed the interest on notional basis. CIT(A), affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the interest so waived cannot be said to be accrued to the assessee warranting taxation of the same-In any event, there is no provision in the Act to bring to tax notional interest income. Addition is deleted. Followed, CIT v. Shoorj Vallabhdas & Co. (1962) 46 ITR 144 (SC), Shivlaxmi Exports Ltd. vs. CIT (2017) 81 taxmann.com 262 (Cal)(HC) and Shiv Nandan Build Con (P) Ltd. vs. CIT (2015) 60 taxmann.com 347 (Delhi)(HC). (AY.2015-16)

Sitac Re (P) Ltd. v. Dy.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 971/ 174 taxmann.com 428 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 5 : Scope of total income-Non-resident employee of an Indian company-Income from employment-Foreign assignment allowances for services rendered in Indonesia-Services were rendered outside India-Allowances were not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Indonesia [S. 5(2)(b), 9(1)(i), Art. 15]

Assessee is an employee of an Indian company. He was sent to abroad to Indonesia for rendering services there. He received remuneration and other allowances from foreign assignment in Indonesia. In the return of income the assessee claimed that income received and accrued in Indonesia for rendering service outside India, was not taxable in India. Assessing Officer rejected claim of assessee holding that said income was taxable in India as assessee had failed to produce valid tax residency certificate (TRC) from Indonesia. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal. On appeal the Tribunal held that failure to produce TRC before Assessing Officer was a procedural lapse and did not negate substantive compliance. Since assessee was a non-resident employee and services were rendered in Indonesia, income related to services rendered received outside India was not taxable in India. Claim of the assessee is allowed. (AY. 2016-17)

Manab Chandra Ghosh v. ACIT [2025] 210 ITD 310 (Kol)(Trib.)

S. 6(1) : Residence in India-Individual-Stayed more than 60 days in each year-More than 365 days in India for a period or periods amounting to all to 365 days or more-More than 183 days for AY. 2013-14 & 2014-15-Control and management office is located in Chennai, India-Foreigners Regional Registration Office (FRRO) data and travelling on a social/tourist visa-Business not the purpose of the travel interest-Resident-Global income taxable and credit available to assessee-Credit for Foreign taxes paid is directed to be allowed, subject to verification-DTAA-India-UAE [S. 6(1)(a), 6(1)(c), 6(4), 90, 91, 132, Art. 4]

The assessee is a well-known restaurateur with business interests in India and abroad. During a search and seizure conducted by tax authorities, it was revealed that the assessee had been declaring himself as a non-resident and was not reporting his global income in India. The ITAT accepted the reliance placed by AO on the data from the Foreigners

Regional Registration Office (FRRO), to show that the assessee was staying for more than 182 days and thus was a resident of India u/s 6. It also accepted that the nature of his overseas travel, which was mostly on tourist or social visas was not for employment purposes. As a result, the lower threshold of 60 days for determining residency applied instead of the 182 day rule. The ITAT also clarified that merely having business interests or frequently travelling abroad does not confer non-resident status if the travel is not for employment, and the India-UAE DTAA would not be applicable if the requirements of section 6 are fulfilled. Therefore, the assessee's global income was liable to be taxed in India, though he was allowed foreign tax credit for taxes paid abroad. AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2019-20)

DCIT v. M. Mahadevan [2025] 175 taxmann.com 383 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Liaison Office-Non-Resident company-Did not finalize and transact a business deal and activities-Liaison Office could not be said to be preparatory or auxiliary in nature, LO did not constitute Permanent Establishment of assessee-MIPL was not performing additional function, in absence of material, it could not be taken as dependant agency PE to assessee, a non-resident company-Delay of 569 days-SLP of Revenue is dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits-DTAA-India-Japan. [Art. 5, Art. 136]

High Court held that where Liaison Office (LO) of assessee, a non-resident company, did not finalize and transact a business deals and activities carried out by LO could not be said to be preparatory or auxiliary in nature, LO did not constitute a Permanent Establishment, liable to tax in India.. High Court also held that where MIPL was not performing additional function, in absence of material, it could not be taken as dependant agency PE to assessee liable to tax in India. There being gross delay of 569 days in filing this SLP, instant SLP was to be dismissed on ground of delay as well as on merits. Followed, DIT, (IT) v. Mitsui & Co. (2019) 111 taxmann.com 215 (SC), CIT v. Mitsui & Co. Ltd. (2024) 299 Taxman 365 (SC)(AY. 2009-10)

CIT v. Mitsui and Co (2025) 303 Taxman 331 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (IT) v. Mitsui & Co. (2025) 170 taxmann.com 827 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(i) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Non-resident-Permanent establishment-Disposal test-Fixed place PE-High Court correct in concluding that assessee's ability to enforce compliance, oversee operations, and derive profit-linked fees from hotel's earnings demonstrated clear and continuous commercial nexus and control with hotel's core functions which satisfied conditions necessary for constitution of fixed place permanent establishment Income received under strategic oversight services agreement attributable to such permanent establishment and taxable in India-DTAA-India-United Arab Emirates (1994) 205 ITR 49 (St). [S. 9(1)(iv), 9(1)(vi), 9(1)(vii), Art.4, 5(1), 12]

The Supreme Court upheld the High Court's finding that the UAE assessee had a fixed place permanent establishment in India, as the hotel premises were effectively at its disposal and it exercised continuous operational control, oversight and compliance powers under the strategic oversight services agreement, coupled with profit-linked remuneration. The clear and enduring commercial nexus with the hotel's core functions satisfied the disposal test under Article 5(1), and income attributable to such PE was taxable in India, irrespective of the assessee's overall losses. (AY. 2009-10 to 2014-15, 2016-17, 2017-18).

Hyatt International Southwest Asia Ltd v. Addl. CIT (2025) 478 ITR 238 / 306 Taxman 241/ 345 CTR 755 / 252 DTR 185 (SC)

Editorial : Hyatt International Southwest Asia Ltd v. Add. CIT(2024) 464 ITR 508/297 Taxman 497 / 337 CTR 39 (Delhi)(HC), affirmed.

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Shipping agent-Benefit of Article 8 of DTAA to profits derived from operation of ships in international traffic at Indian ports would be governed by Article 8 and not Article 24-Tribunal could not have been restored to Assessing Officer to give a second inning to Revenue to verify certificate issued way back in 2013-Order of Tribunal set aside-DTAA-India-Singapore [S. 172(3), 254(1), Art, 8,24, Art. 226]

Assessee, an Indian company, acted as shipping agent for a Singapore-resident enterprise (ST Shipping) engaged in operating owned/chartered ships in international waters. During relevant year, ST Shipping's ships performed voyages from Indian ports, and assessee filed vessel voyage returns under section 172(3), declaring Nil income in India by claiming exemption under Article 8 of the India-Singapore DTAA. Assessing Officer invoked Article 24 (Limitation of Relief), denied Article 8 exemption, and held assessee liable to tax under section 172 on the ground that freight amounts were remitted to a bank account in London, not to Singapore. Assessee tendered a certificate issued by the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS) asserting non-applicability of Article 24. Tribunal restored the matter to the Assessing Officer to verify the contents of said certificate. On appeal the Court held that Tribunal could not have restored matter back to Assessing Officer only on mere suspicion and doubts contrary to findings arrived at by High Court regarding same certificate issued by IRAS, Tribunal ought not to have further deliberated upon contents of certificate which was already held to be applicable in facts of case in absence of any other material on record to demonstrate that veracity of certificate issued by IRAS was doubtful. Therefore, the benefit of Article 8 of DTAA to profits derived from the operation of ships in international traffic at Indian ports would be governed by Article 8, and not Article 24 and the matter could not have been restored to the Assessing Officer to give a second inning to the Revenue to verify the certificate issued way back in 2013. Assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer after the order of remand was rendered infructuous. (AY. 2012-13)

Atlantic Shipping (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (IT) (2025) 307 Taxman 469(2026) 485 ITR 717 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Shipping business-Freight charges collected in India-Certificate from tax authorities that amount was assessable in Singapore-Earning not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Singapore-(1994) 209 ITR (St.) 1) [S.44B, Art. 24]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that the Tribunal, on the issue of applicability of article 24, held that the limitation of benefit provided under article 24 would not be applicable in the case at hand and primarily relied upon a certificate or confirmation dated February 21, 2013 given by the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore. The Tribunal was right, and no question of law arose from its order. The Department raised the question whether the Tribunal was right in allowing the benefit in respect of freight receipts from 97 ships under article 8 of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement even though article 8(4) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement required the assessee to be the owner, lessee or charterer of the ship. Held that no substantial question of law arose. (AY. 2008-09, 2012-13)

CIT (IT) v. APL Co. Pte. Ltd [2023] 156 taxmann.com 530 / (2025) 483 ITR 150 (Bom)(HC)

S. 9(1)(i) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Permanent establishment-Test of “virtual projection” cannot be applied on perception or theory-Liaison office and wholly-owned subsidiary do not constitute PE in absence of evidence of disposal, control or authority to conclude contracts-

Onus on Revenue to establish existence of PE-Subsidiary carrying on independent business on principal-to-principal basis-No fixed place or dependent agent PE-Interest on delayed consideration taxable-Supply of software not royalty or FTS under-DTAA-India-Finland.(1985) 152 ITR (St.) 57). [S. 90(2), Art. 5(8)]

The assessee, a non-resident engaged in manufacture and supply of telecommunication equipment, had set up a liaison office in India and thereafter incorporated a wholly-owned subsidiary to undertake installation activities under independent contracts. The Assessing Officer held that the assessee had a permanent establishment in India and attributed profits from offshore supply, software licensing and interest income. While the Tribunal initially applied the test of “virtual projection” to hold that the subsidiary constituted a permanent establishment, the High Court, in the second round, affirmed the Tribunal’s ultimate conclusion that neither the liaison office nor the subsidiary constituted a fixed place or dependent agent permanent establishment. The Court held that the existence of a permanent establishment must be founded on objective, evidence-based standards under Article 5 of the DTAA, such as disposal of premises, control, authority to conclude contracts or functional integration, and cannot rest on perception, surmise or theory. Mere ownership or control of a subsidiary does not, by itself, create a permanent establishment, as expressly clarified by Article 5(8) of the DTAA. The Revenue failed to establish that the subsidiary acted on behalf of the assessee or had authority to bind it, and the subsidiary’s income was independently taxed at arm’s length. The Court further held that interest on delayed receipts from supply of equipment and software was taxable as interest income, while receipts from supply of software were neither royalty nor fees for technical services under the Act or the India-Finland DTAA. Accordingly, the appeals of the Revenue were dismissed. (AY.1997-98 to 2007-08)

CIT(IT) v. Nokia Network OY (2025) 479 ITR 515/171 taxmann.com 757 / 345 CTR 249 / 250 DTR 1 (Delhi)(HC).

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Permanent Establishment-Service PE-Seconded employees in India-Objective of facilitating activities of Indian subsidiary-Employees would not meet qualifying benchmarks of a PE-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition affirmed-DTAA-India-South Korea [S. 260A, Art. 5]

The assessee, a South Korean company engaged in manufacturing and selling electronic goods, had two wholly owned subsidiaries in India. The Assessing Officer held that the Indian subsidiary constituted a PE per se and also met the tests of DAPE as well as Service PE. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the seconded employees were not performing functions connected with the global enterprise of the assessee. Their placement in India was intended to facilitate the activities of the Indian subsidiary. Activities such as collecting market information, collating data for product development, studying market trends, or exchanging information would not meet the qualifying benchmarks of a PE. The addition was therefore deleted. On Revenue's appeal, the Court affirmed the Tribunal's order. (AYs. 2007-08 to 2009-10, 2011-12 to 2015-16)

PCIT (IT) v. Samsung Electronics Co. Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 212 /478 ITR 271/344 CTR 747 / 247 DTR 521 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Scope of total income-Taxation of income from permanent establishment-Effect of article 7 of India-United Arab Emirates Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement-Global income or profit irrelevant and not determinative-Article 7 does not expand its gaze or reach to overall operations or profitability of transnational enterprise-Activities of permanent establishment liable to be independently evaluated and ascertained-Article 7 does not restrict right of source State to allocate or attribute income to permanent establishment based on global income earned or loss incurred by cross border entity-DTAA-India-United Arab Emirates.

[S. 5, Art. 5, 7]

Hon'ble High Court held that the activities of a permanent establishment are liable to be independently evaluated and ascertained in the light of the plain language in which article 7 stands couched. The fact that a permanent establishment is conceived to be an independent taxable entity cannot possibly be doubted or questioned. Bearing in mind the well-established rule of source which applies and informs the underlying theory of taxation, we find ourselves unable to countenance the submission of the source State being deprived of its right to tax a permanent establishment or that right being dependent upon the overall and global financials of an entity.

Hyatt International Southwest Asia Ltd. v. Addl. DIT(2024) 166 taxmann.com 466 / (2025) 472 ITR 53 [FB] (Delhi) (HC)

S. 9(1)(i) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Permanent Establishment-Liaison Office-India-Korea DTAA-Liaison Office not a Permanent Establishment-No income attributable to India-Non-resident-Offshore supplies-Divisible contracts-No business connection or Permanent Establishment in India-Receipts not taxable-Interest on delayed payments-India-Korea DTAA-Taxable under Article 12-Permanent Establishment not established.[S. 9(1),(v), Art. 5, 12]

Following the decision of the High Court in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the Liaison Office in India carried on only preparatory and auxiliary activities and did not constitute a Permanent Establishment under Article 5(4)(e) of the India-Korea DTAA. Accordingly, the income earned by the assessee outside India could not be attributed to the Liaison Office and was not taxable in India. The assessee, a Korean company, supplied equipment to Indian customers under divisible contracts, with offshore supplies being completed outside India. The Tribunal held that the offshore supplies had no nexus with any Permanent Establishment or business connection in India and could not be characterised as Fees for Technical Services. The receipts from offshore supplies were therefore not chargeable to tax in India. The Tribunal held that interest received by the assessee from its associated enterprise on delayed payments was governed by Article 12 of the India-Korea DTAA. Since the assessee did not have a Permanent Establishment in India, the exclusion contained in Article 12(6) was inapplicable, and the interest was taxable only in accordance with the provisions of Article 12. (AY. 2009-10 to 2011-12).

Dy. CIT v. Hyundai Heavy Industries Ltd. [2025] 179 taxmann.com 438 / 128 ITR 24 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Permanent Establishment-Dependent Agent Permanent Establishment-Construction Permanent Establishment-Offshore supply-Attribution of profits-Artificial splitting of contracts-Fees for Technical Services-“Make available” clause-Additions were deleted-DTAA-India-UK.[S.44BB,90, Art. 5, 13(4)(c)]

The AO treated receipts from offshore supplies under a turnkey project as taxable in India by alleging existence of Permanent Establishment (PE), artificial splitting of contracts and applicability of section 44BBB. Global operation fees were also taxed as Fees for Technical Services. The Tribunal held that section 44BBB presupposes activities like construction, erection, testing or commissioning in India and is inapplicable where the income arises from offshore supply and title to goods passed outside India. Since the existence of a PE was not established and the receipts arose from offshore supplies, section 44BBB could not be invoked. The Tribunal held that the contracts were independent arrangements and offshore supplies completed outside India were not taxable in India. Revenue failed to establish the existence of Dependent Agent PE or Construction PE, and therefore attribution of profits was not sustainable. Global operation fees were also held not taxable as the “make available” condition under the India-UK DTAA was not satisfied. Accordingly, additions were deleted, and the appeal of the assessee was allowed. (AY. 2009-10)

UK Grid Solution Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (IT) (2025) 131 ITR 147 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Shipping business-Place of effective management-Permanent Establishment-FCIPL is functionally independent of the assessee-FCIPL was doing business for other enterprises also and more than 77.60 per cent of its revenue or the income was from other independent parties and only 22.32 per cent revenue was derived from assessee-FCIPL was an independent agent and not carrying out any work wholly and almost wholly for the assessee-company-Assessee has no agency PE in India-Income from operation of ships is not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Mauritius [S.90, Art. 5, 7,8]

Held that since the effective place of management of the assessee was not in Mauritius, treaty benefit of art. 8 of India-Mauritius DTAA is not available to the assessee; as regards PE in view of the fact that FCIPL is only an agent for booking cargo for the assessee shipping company as per the tariff fixed by it and has no capacity to conclude contracts of any nature and has derived only 22.32 per cent of its revenue from the assessee, FCIPL was an independent agent not carrying out any work wholly and almost wholly for the assessee-company; assessee has thus no PE in India and therefore, income from operation of ships is not taxable in India. (AY. 2013-14 & 2014-15)

DCIT (IT) v. Bay Lines (Mauritius) (2025) 235 TTJ 435 / 172 taxmann.com 857 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(i) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Non-resident-Accrual of income-Credit amount standing in foreign bank account of non-resident assessee-Bank accounts with HSBC, Geneva-Merely having a property in India or for that matter, an address in India is too simplistic a basis to hold that deposits placed outside India can be brought to tax in India-DRP acknowledges the fact that there is no direct evidence of any business activity in India-No justifiable basis for bringing to tax the amount standing credit in the name of the non-resident assessee in the foreign bank account-Addition was deleted. [S.5(2), 147, 148]

Tribunal held that the AO having brought no material on record which can reasonably establish that the credit amount standing in the foreign bank account of the non-resident assessee represents income which has accreted or arisen in India or deemed to accrue or arise in India and there being no direct evidence of any business activity of the assessee in India, there is no justifiable basis for bringing to tax the amount standing credit in the name of the non-resident assessee in the foreign bank account; merely having a property in India or for that matter, an address in India is too simplistic a basis to hold that deposits placed outside India can be brought to tax. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2006-07 & 2007-08)

Pratab Gulabrai Tulsiani & ORS. v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 237 TTJ 388 / 177 taxmann.com 151 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Permanent Establishment-Attribution of Profits-Once transactions between the foreign enterprise and its Indian affiliate are accepted at Arm's Length, no further attribution of profits is warranted, even assuming the existence of a Dependent Agent PE. (Articles 5(4), 5(5), 7 of India-USA DTAA [S.90, 92CA, Art. 5(4), 5(5), 7]

The Tribunal held that the Revenue failed to examine whether the contracts entered into by Warner Bros. India (WBI) with third parties were entered into on behalf of the assessee and whether the conduct of the parties established a Dependent Agent Permanent Establishment (DAPE). Further, the distribution arrangement and royalty model had remained unchanged since 1-4-2009 and the Transfer Pricing Officer had accepted the international transactions between the assessee and WBI to be at arm's length in the preceding as well as subsequent assessment years. Following the ratio of DIT v. Morgan Stanley & Co. (292 ITR 416)(SC), the Tribunal held that once the transactions are accepted at ALP, no further profit can be attributed to the alleged PE. It also held that interest on an income-tax refund is taxable at 15% under the India-USA DTAA. (AY.2020-21)

Warner Bros. Distributing Inc. v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 238 TTJ 403 / 179 taxmann.com 372 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Non-resident-Permanent establishment-Liaison office treated as permanent establishment in earlier years-Assessee closing liaison office, no expatriate employees, evidence produced-Burden shifting on Revenue to rebut-No material brought by Department despite remand opportunity-No permanent establishment in India-No profits attributable-Royalty-Supply of software embedded in hardware-Facts same as earlier years where addition deleted following Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence (SC)-Royalty not taxable-DTAA-India-USA [[S. 9(1)(vii) 144C art.5, 12]

The assessee, a US-based company having a liaison office in India earlier treated as a permanent establishment for AY 2001-02 to 2006-07, contended for AY 2017-18 to 2020-21 that it had closed its liaison office and stopped sending expatriate employees to India, furnishing Form 49C under section 285, Form 52 filed with the ROC and notes to financial statements in support, yet AO, following earlier findings, continued to treat it as having a permanent establishment and taxed attributable profits, which was affirmed by the DRP; separately, AO treated receipts from sale of software as royalty despite DRP directions to verify if the software was embedded in hardware. On appeal, the Tribunal held that once the assessee had placed material evidencing closure of the liaison office and absence of expatriate employees, the onus shifted to the Revenue to rebut the same, and since AO, despite being granted a remand opportunity, failed to bring any material to show continued existence of a permanent establishment or dependent agent permanent establishment, the assessee could not be held to have any permanent establishment in India during the relevant years, and consequently no profits could be attributed to it in India; it further held that since the facts regarding software embedded in hardware were identical to earlier years where the addition on account of royalty was deleted following the Supreme Court's ruling in Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence P. Ltd. v. CIT, there was no reason to take a different view, and the royalty addition was deleted.(AY. 2017-18to 2020-21)

Bently Nevada LLC v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 132 ITR 260 (Delhi) (Trib.

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Non-resident-Permanent establishment-Service permanent establishment-Employees required to be physically present and furnish services in India exceeding 90 days (or 30 days for related enterprises) in a fiscal year-Services furnished only for 44 days after excluding vacation, business development and common days-No service permanent establishment-Business profits not taxable in India.-Virtual service permanent establishment-Concept not provided under Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement or officially endorsed in India-Requirement of physical rendition of service alone to be applied-Return-Delay in filing-Interest-Assessee contending return filed within extended due date-Matter remanded for verification-Interest-Advance tax-Income received after deduction of tax at source-Levy of interest for failure to pay advance tax not called for-Income-Accrual-Amounts appearing in Form 26AS cannot automatically be treated as income-Assessing Officer to verify and grant corresponding credit of tax deducted at source if payments not actually received. DTAA-India-Singapore. [S. 4, 5, 234A, 234B Art. 5(6), Form No 26AS]

The assessee, a Singapore tax resident providing legal advisory services, had its business profits taxed in India on the ground of having a service and virtual service PE in India based on physical presence of its employees, with 100 per cent. of gross receipts attributed thereto. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, applying article 5(6)(a) of the India-Singapore DTAA, actual physical rendition of service in India is essential for constituting a service PE, and after excluding vacation days, business development days and common days from the employees' presence of 120 days in the first year (with no employees present in the second year), services were furnished for only 44 days, well below the 90-day threshold, so that no service PE existed in either year; it further held that the concept of a virtual service PE, though discussed in the OECD's 2018 interim report, finds no place in the India-Singapore Agreement and has not been officially endorsed in India, so that the existing treaty requirement of physical rendition of service alone applies, and consequently the business profits were not taxable in India in the absence of any PE. On ancillary issues, the Tribunal remanded the levy of interest under section 234A for verification of the actual date of filing of return against the extended due date; deleted the interest levied under section 234B since the income was received after TDS; and directed AO to verify the assessee's claim of non-receipt of certain amounts reflected in Form 26AS and grant corresponding credit for TDS if the claim was found correct. (AY. 2020-21 & 2021-22)

Clifford Chance Pte. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 470 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Non-resident-Permanent establishment-Assessee acquiring group in May 2016, falling in financial year relevant to assessment year 2017-18-No transaction or business connection between assessee and Indian entity during relevant assessment year 2016-17, prior to date of acquisition-Indian entity not associated enterprise at relevant time-No agency permanent establishment-Assessment of attributed profits quashed-DTAA-India-USA. [Art. 5(4)]

The assessee, a non-resident provider of data storage devices, acquired SD, USA on May 12, 2016, thereby becoming the ultimate holding company of SD India from that date, but the Assessing Officer, based on a survey conducted at SD India in January 2019, initiated reassessment for AY 2016-17 alleging that SD India constituted an agency PE of the assessee, treated salary reimbursements for seconded employees as fees for technical services, and attributed 30% of SD India's revenue as business income of the assessee, which was upheld in the final order passed pursuant to the DRP's directions. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the date of acquisition fell outside FY 2015-16 relevant to the assessment year under consideration, and the transfer pricing reports, financials and party-wise sales details established no transaction or business connection between the assessee and SD India prior to the acquisition, the Revenue's reliance on post-acquisition survey material to impute an agency PE for a period before the assessee and SD India even became group entities reflected non-application of mind; accordingly, there was no basis for treating SD India as a PE of the assessee or for attributing any business profits or fees for technical services to it for the year under consideration, and the assessment was quashed.(AY. 2016-17)

Western Digital Technologies Inc. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 664(Bang) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Shipping, Inland waterways transport and air transport-International traffic-Operation of ships in international traffic-Multiple ports in India-Benefit of Article 8 of India-UAE DTAA was to be extended to entire freight receipts irrespective of whether earnings were relating to feeder vessels or by ships in international traffic-Profit derived from shipping business as envisaged under article 8 of India-UAE DTAA and was not taxable as business profit in India-DTAA-India-UAE . [Art 8]

Assessee, a UAE-based company, was engaged in business of operating ships in international traffic. During the relevant year, assessee received an amount in the form of freight income and other related charges in India. Assessing Officer held that said incomes were earned from multiple ports in India involving hundreds of ship voyages with ships of different names and charterers. He thus denied the benefit of Article 8 of the India-UAE DTAA to assessee with respect to said income. DRP followed the directions of the assessment year 2017-18. On appeal, the Tribunal held that in assessee's own case, Tribunal held that benefit of Article 8 was to be extended to entire freight receipts irrespective of whether earnings related to feeder vessels or by ships in international traffic. Since material facts remained the same, following decision of Tribunal in assessee's own case for earlier years, the addition made by the Assessing Officer was deleted. Tribunal also held that income earned freight income, including inland haulage charges (IHC), since IHC were inextricably linked to the operation of ships in international traffic, could not be disintegrated from the profit derived from the shipping business as envisaged under Article 8 of the India-UAE DTAA and was not taxable as business profit in India. (AY. 2022-23)

Avana Global FZCO. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 118 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Shipping, Inland waterways transport and air transport-International traffic-UK tax resident airline-Received delivery order charges in connection with transportation of passengers, mail, livestock and goods by air in international traffic-Considered directly connected with operation of aircraft under Article 8(3) of India-UK DTAA and thus, would not be taxable in India-DTAA-India-UK [Art. 8]

Assessee, a UK tax resident airline, had a branch office in India. Assessee was engaged in business of transportation of passengers, mail, livestock and goods by air through aircraft in international traffic and received delivery order charges. Assessing Officer held that said charges were taxable in India as same were derived from an activity subsequent to the transportation of goods in international traffic. Tribunal held that expression 'operation of aircraft' in clause (3) of article 8 not only includes transportation by air, but it also includes the sale of tickets for such transportation, the incidental lease of aircraft on a charter basis, and any other activity directly connected with such transportation. Since the assessee was complying with delivery orders which were inextricably linked to the main activity of transportation by air of goods or mail in international traffic, the delivery order charges received by the assessee would not be taxable in India. (AY. 2020-21, 2021-22)

Virgin Atlantic Airways Ltd. v. DCIT. IT (2025) 215 ITD 683 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Capital gains-Shares/Units-Pass through entity-TRC-Entitled to benefits of DTAA-India-Cyprus.[S. 45, Art. 13]

Assessee was a Cyprus-based company. It acquired equity shares of an Indian company (NSEIL) from its holding company, GA Global (also Cyprus based). Assessee sold shares of NSEIL to unrelated independent third-party buyers and claimed benefit under Article 13 of the India-Cyprus DTAA. Assessing Officer after examining the ownership structure of assessee, the list of Directors of company and beneficiary of transactions of sale of shares, came to conclusion that the ultimate beneficiary of the transaction of sale of shares on NSEIL was General Atlantic Company based in USA and concluded that assessee was merely a shell company established in Cyprus with an intention of circumventing Indian tax laws using India-Cyprus DTAA as a tool. The Assessing Officer denied the benefit of DTAA to assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the investment made by holding company 'GA Global' in the Indian company was scrutinised by Indian regulatory authorities and thereafter, approved. Further, assessee had placed on record minutes of Board meetings held during the relevant financial year, and it was evident that assessee company was managed in Cyprus and not in the USA and decisions of investment/disinvestment for assessee were carried out in Cyprus. Only one Director from the USA was present in the Board meeting, wherein the issue regarding transfers of shares of NSEIL was discussed. Tribunal held that once assessee held a valid TRC, it proved the residential status of the assessee as a resident of Cyprus and, hence, it would be eligible to benefit under the India-Cyprus DTAA. (AY. 2021-22)

Gagil FDI Ltd. v. ACIT, IT (2025) 213 ITD 106 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Service fee-Service agreement of infrastructure services, Web EDI system maintenance agreement, etc.-DRP should revisit the issue upon examining documents which were not placed before it-Matter remanded-DTAA-India-Thailand.[Art. 7, 22]

Assessee, a Thailand-based company, was engaged in the business of the sale of cars, spare parts, etc. and was also responsible for exporting Honda motorcycles, automobiles, power products and components manufactured in Thailand to over 80 countries. During the year, assessee received certain payments in the nature of service receipts from the company, namely, HMSI in respect of certain services viz, infrastructure fee related to IT Services, software service and licence fees, etc. Assessing Officer held that services rendered by assessee to HMSI were not directly connected to the business activities of assessee company and, thus, service receipts were taxable as 'Other Income' as per Article 22 of DTAA. DRP upheld the same. On appeal, the Tribunal held that DRP had observed that assessee had not produced certain relevant portions of the agreement, specifically annexure defining services rendered under agreements, namely, service agreement of infrastructure services, Web EDI system maintenance agreement, etc., which were germane to the issue involved. Tribunal held that DRP should revisit the issue upon examining documents which were not placed before it. Matter remanded. (AY. 2022-23)

Asian Honda Motor Co. Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 484 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-AO considered assessee as supervisory PE-Estimated profit of 10% as profit rate on income earned and 25% as attributable towards PE-Held profits were taxable in India-ad-hoc percentage cannot be applied-matter set-aside to the Assessing Officer-DTAA-India-Germany.[Art. 5, 7]

Assessee a non-resident of India entered into four contracts with Indian entities for design, manufacture, supply, installation, commissioning etc of paper machines. Amount received from Indian customers was taxed as FTS and Royalty but income on these contracts was not offered to tax in India. The AO added the attributable profits based on assumed 25%. It was held by ITAT that from overall reading of the agreements, reveals that the assessee was given one integrated end-to-end activity of setting up state-of-the-art plant on turnkey basis, which is otherwise known as the mill. The end-to-end activity covers design, supply, erection, commissioning, performance run of the entire paper mill. The contract between the assessee and the contractee is not for purchase of plant and equipment simpliciter, but a complete paper mill to be installed and commissioned at deliverable stage. Therefore, the assessee's contention that the income received from supply of plants and equipment is not chargeable to tax in India, as the supplies were made from outside India, is not acceptable. The matter was set aside as, without analysing the role of PE in India, an ad-hoc profit percentage was added. (AY.2013-14)

J.M. Voith SE & Co. KG v. DCIT (IT) 2024) 161 taxmann.com 734 / [2025] 121 ITR 402((Delhi)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Assessee, US based company, had closed its Liaison Office (LO) operations in India and no business activity was carried out through the LO-Held, since assessee had no PE in India-Question of attribution of profits to PE in India did not arise-therefore, amounts paid by resident Indian end-users/distributions to the Assessee as consideration for resale/use of computer software through EULAs/distribution agreements, is not payment of royalty for use of copyright in computer software-DTAA-India-USA.[Art.5] period, the Assessee, a US-based company, made offshore sales of goods and offshore sales of software and related support services to its various customers in India. The AO failed to appreciate that though the Assessee had a Liaison Office (LO), the Assessee had closed its LO operations and no expat employees were engaged by the Assessee at the LO. Revenue could not place on record any material to show that even after the closure of LO operations, the assessee still had a business connection that could be termed as PE in India. Held, since no business activity was carried out by the assessee during the relevant period through LO, the assessee had no PE in India during the impugned AY and, hence, the question of attribution of profits to PE in India did not arise. Accordingly, it was further held that the amounts paid by resident Indian end-users/distributions to the Assessee, a non-resident computer software manufacturer/supplier, as consideration for resale/use of computer software through EULAs/distribution agreements, is not payment of royalty for use of copyright in computer software, and thus, the same does not give rise to any income taxable in India. (AY. 2017-18 to 2020-21)

Bently Nevada LLC v. ACIT, IT (2025) 210 ITD 191 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(i): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Business connection-Not dependent agent-No substantial transaction-

Income is not chargeable to tax in India-Fees for technical services-Reimbursement of salaries of seconded employees—Tax deducted at source-issue is remitted to the AO for fresh adjudication as per law-DTAA-India-USA.[S.90, Art, 12(4)]

Tribunal held that there is no material on record to prove that there was any transaction or substantial transaction between the assessee, a US company and San Disk India in the nature of sales and market support or that SD was involved in any manner in sales made by the assessee-company in India which can be made a basis for treating San Disk India as DAPE of the assessee-company and, therefore, San Disk India cannot be treated as dependent agency PE and consequently, assessee's income is not chargeable to tax in India. As regards the payments received by the assessee-company from San Disk India by way of reimbursement of salaries of the seconded employees are unlikely to qualify as fees for technical services under the make available clause in art. 12(4) of the Indo-US DTAA. Tribunal held that since the relevant agreement is not on record, the issue is remitted to the AO for fresh adjudication as per law.(AY.2017-18)

Western Digital Technologies Inc. v. Dy.CIT (IT) (2025) 233 TTJ 399 / 245 DTR 289/ 170 taxmann.com 14 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(ii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Salaries-Non-resident-Salary income-Services rendered outside India while on deputation from Indian company-Assessee non-resident in India and tax resident of Australia-Salary received in India for employment exercised in Australia-Australian tax return accepted as evidence of residency-Tax residency certificate filed at appellate stage accepted-Exemption allowable-Scope of total income-Salary received in India for services rendered abroad-Not taxable in India when employment exercised outside India-DTAA-India-Australia. [S. 9(1)(ii), 15, 90, Art 15]

The assessee, deputed on an overseas assignment to Australia, qualified as a non-resident in India and a resident of Australia under the DTAA, and received salary of Rs. 55,37,591 in India for services rendered in Australia, claiming exemption under article 15(1) of the Agreement; AO disallowed the exemption for want of a TRC during assessment, and the DRP rejected the objections despite the certificate being filed as additional evidence. On appeal, the Tribunal held that AO had ignored alternate evidence of Australian residency, namely the Australian tax return evidencing residency and payment of taxes, and since the assessee had subsequently obtained and filed a valid TRC, the same was to be accepted; further, since the assessee had rendered services outside India without any rest or leave period preceding or succeeding such services, a conjoint reading of sections 5, 9 and 15 showed that the salary was not taxable in India, and the assessee was entitled to exemption on the salary received for services rendered in Australia. (AY. 2020-21)

Yogesh Kotiyal v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 132 ITR 419 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(ii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Salaries-Non-resident-Employed with TCS Malaysia-Rendered his services in Malaysia-Taxable in Malaysia even though the same was received in India-DTAA-India-Malaysia. [S.5(2) Art. 16]

Assessee, a non-resident Indian, was an employee of TCS Malaysia-For administrative convenience, a part of his salary for his services in Malaysia was paid in India by TCS India and TDS was deducted-Assessee filed his return claiming exemption for salary earned in Malaysia under article 16 of DTAA between India and Malaysia. Assessing Officer rejected claim of exemption on ground that since assessee was a resident of Malaysia and a non-resident of India, he was not eligible to claim exemption under Article 16.CIT (A) held that the salary was received in India, hence taxable under section 5(2) of the Act. On appeal, the Tribunal held that income will not be treated as being received in India solely on the basis that such income was received or deemed to be received in India. To determine the point of taxability, it is necessary to find where the income to the person concerned has accrued, which is equated to the place where services were rendered. Therefore, salary received in India by a Non-Resident employee in respect of services rendered outside India is said to be accrued outside India and cannot be taxable in India and is exempt under Article 16. (AY. 2020-21)

Arumugam Rajasekar. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 234 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(iv) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Dividend by Indian company-Domestic company paying dividend distribution tax, only then, domestic company can claim benefit of DTAA, if any-Claim for first time before DRP-Claim cannot be rejected-DTAA-India-UK. [S.115O, 144C, Art. 11]

When a domestic company distributes dividend to a non-resident shareholder, the additional tax on distributed profits levied under section 115-O is a liability of the company itself and not of the shareholder. The rate prescribed in section 115-O applies and the treaty rate under Article 11 of the DTAA cannot override it unless the treaty specifically extends relief to the domestic company. Thus, DTAA protection does not reduce DDT liability. However, the Tribunal clarified that a fresh legal claim raised for the first time before the DRP cannot be rejected merely because it was not made before the AO, since the DRP has full jurisdiction to consider such grounds. Held, levy of DDT under section 115-O is valid, but claim before DRP is maintainable. (AY. 2017-18)

JC Bamford Excavators Ltd. v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 212 ITD 321 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(v) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Interest-Business income-Double taxation avoidance-Business profits-Branch offices are not separate personalities or juridical entities and that one person cannot thus profit from itself-DTAA-India-Japan ((1990) 182 ITR (St) 380).[S. 9(1)(v),28(i),Art. 7 (2), 7(3)]

Dismissing the appeal, that the Explanation to section 9(1)(v) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 introduced a statutory fiction that a permanent establishment of a banking enterprise in India would be deemed to be a person separate and independent of the non-resident person of which it was a permanent establishment but the Explanation would have no application since it came into effect only from April 1, 2016. The assessee's challenge was based on the well settled position of the law clearly not contemplating a person profiting out of itself. Once it was the conclusion that the branch office would not partake of the character or attribute of a separate legal personality, the view as taken by the Tribunal was unexceptional. The interest received by the Indian permanent establishment on deposit maintained with the head office or overseas branches was not taxable in India. (AY. 2003-04)

CIT (IT) v. Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ Ltd[2024] 162 taxmann.com 872 / (2025) 482 ITR 312 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(v): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Interest-advanced External Commercial Borrowing (ECB)-Assessee could claim set-off of current year business loss of PE against interest income earned from Indian customers on ECB loans-Treaty itself provided for taxability of income in terms with domestic law provisions-Interest income would be covered under section 115A(1)(a)(iiaa), hence, subject to concessional rate of tax at 5 per cent with applicable cess and surcharge-DTAA-India-UAE. [S. 9(1)(i), 115A, Art. 11]

Assessee, a UAE-based bank, advanced External Commercial Borrowing (ECB) loans to Indian customers directly through its head office without the involvement of Indian branches, which constituted its PE in India. Assessee earned interest income from Indian customers on ECB loans advanced to them and claimed that interest income so earned would fall within the ambit of Article 11(2) and, being the beneficial owner of such interest income, would be subject to tax on a gross basis at a concessional rate of 5 per cent. Assessee set off business losses of PE against interest income and on balance interest income, computed tax at 5 per cent. Assessing Officer disallowed assessee's claim of set-off of business losses of PE against interest income and computed tax liability at applicable rate of 5 per cent on entire interest income earned by assessee from Indian customers. DRP upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee could claim set-off of current year business loss of PE against interest income, since the treaty itself provided for taxability of income in terms of domestic law provisions. Therefore, assessee's claim of set off of loss of PE against interest income was allowable. Further, since there was no allegation by Departmental Authorities that ECB loans violated RBI guidelines, interest income would be covered under section 115A(1)(a)(iiaa), hence, subject to a concessional rate of tax at 5 per cent with applicable cess and surcharge. (AY. 2020-21)

Abu Dhabi Commercial Bank PJSC Wework India Management (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 213 ITD 313 /236 TTJ 273 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Telecom or transmission services-Interconnect service charges paid to a non-resident telecom operator-Not royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay of 240 and 249 days, as also on merits. [Art. 136]

High Court held that interconnect service charges paid by assessee to a non-resident telecom operator company would not amount to 'royalty', hence not liable to deduct tax at source. SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay of 240 and 249 and also on merits.

Dy. CIT (IT) v. Orange (2025) 307 Taxman 526 (SC)

Editorial : Dy.CIT(IT) v.Orange 78 Rue Olivairer De Serris (France) (2025) 179 taxmann.com 82 (Karn)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Telecom or transmission services-Interconnect service charges paid to a non-resident telecom operator-Not royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay of 256 days as also on merits. [Art. 136]

High Court held that interconnect service charges paid by the assessee to a non-resident telecom operator company would not amount to 'royalty', hence not liable to deduct tax at source. SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of a delay of 256 days and also on the merits.

Dy. CIT (IT) v. Orange (2025) 307 Taxman 616 (SC)

Editorial : Dy.CIT (IT) v.Orange (2025) 180 taxmann.com 108 (Karn)(HC).

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Payments to non-resident telecom operators for offshore interconnect/capacity are not "royalty"-Not liable to deduct tax at source-DTAA-India-Belgium. [S.201, Art. 12, Art. 136]

The Revenue treated assessee as "Assessee in default" for failure to deduct TDS on payments to NTOs/capacity providers, alleging chargeability in India as royalty/FTS. High Court held that the DTAA must be considered in Sec. 201 proceedings; Explanation 4 to Sec. 9(1)(vi) is not merely clarificatory, and that the payments for foreign interconnect/capacity are not taxable as royalty. Further, Indian authorities lack jurisdiction over extra-territorial income from foreign companies with equipment abroad and no Permanent Establishment. The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed SLP of revenue. (AY. 2008-09 to 2015-16)

DCIT, IT v. Vodafone Idea Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 267 (SC)

Editorial : Dy. DIT v. Vodafone Idea Ltd.[2023] 152 taxmann.com 575/457 ITR 189 (Karn)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Consideration paid for transponder services-whether Royalty under Section 9(1)(vi) of the Act and/or Article 12 of the India-USA DTAA-Notice issued under SLP-Supreme could also ordered for stay of the order of Hon. Bombay High Court-DTAA-India-USA. [S.195 Art. 12,Art. 136]

The Supreme Court allowed to issue notice under SLP filed by the assessee challenging the order of the Hon. Bombay High which held that since the payment made for transponder services post Finance Act,2012 and neither the Assessing officer, CIT(A) or Hon. ITAT have examined and analysed the nature of services as agreed upon by the parties in the agreement and have not given finding on the facts on the issue involved nor has discussed how the said payment is under Article 12(3) of the Treaty and orders were non-speaking orders the matter is remanded back to CIT(A) for finding the facts. Hon. Supreme could also ordered for stay of the order of Hon. Bombay High Court. (AY. 2009-10 to 2013-14)

Viacom 18 Media (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 306 Taxman 333 (SC)

Editorial: Viacom 18 Media (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (IT) (2025)174 taxmann.com 389/476 ITR 781 (Bom)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Subscription fees for remote access to CRM application without any transfer of copyright are not “royalty” under Sec. 9(1)(vi) and not taxable—SLP dismissed-DTAA-India-Singapore. [Art. 12, Art. 136]

High Court held that the Subscribers only used services; no equipment/software rights were granted; hence, fees are not taxable in India as royalty/FTS. The Supreme Court dismissed the SLP filed by the Revenue (AY.2010-11 to 2016-17)

CIT (Int) v. Salesforce.com Singapore Pte Ltd(2025) 306 Taxman 95 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (Int) v. Salesforce.com Singapore Pte Ltd (2024)165 taxmann.com 580 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Payments made to non-resident telecom operators-

Telecommunication service provider, for providing interconnect services and transfer of capacity in foreign countries-Not chargeable to tax as royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source-SLP of revenue dismissed-OECD Model Convention, Art 12. [S.195]

On appeal by the revenue High Court held that payments made to non-resident telecom operators by assessee, telecommunication service provider, for providing interconnect services and transfer of capacity in foreign countries was not chargeable to tax as royalty and thus tax was not deductible when payment was made to non-resident telecom operator. Followed Dy CIT (IT) v. Vodafone Idea Ltd (2025) 173 taxmann.com 695(SC). SLP of revenue was dismissed.

CIT (IT) v. Communication Global Network Services Ltd.(2025) 305 Taxman 559 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (IT) v. Communication Global Network Services Ltd.(2025) 175 taxmann.com 745 (Karn)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Non-resident-Royalty-or technical fees-Customer relationship management related services-Copyright in application not transferred to subscriber-SLP of revenue dismissed-(1994) 209 ITR (St.) 1)-DTAA-India-Singapore. [S.9(1)(vii),Art. 12(4)(b)]

The assessee, a tax resident of Singapore, provided customer relationship management related services through a business application. The Tribunal held that the income derived from the subscription fee which the assessee received from customers in India for these services was not assessable in India. The High Court held that since the copyright in the application was never transferred nor vested in a subscriber, the fees were not assessable under section 9 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and that since the customer was merely accorded access to the application and it was the subscriber which thereafter input the requisite data and took advantage of the analytical attributes of the software, this would not fall within the ambit of article 12(4)(b) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between

Singapore and India ((1994) 209 ITR (St.) 1) and that therefore, the amount was not assessable in India. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2014-15)

CIT v. Salesforce.Com Singapore Pte. Ltd. (2025) 479 ITR 219/177 taxmann.com 201 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (IT) v. Salesforce.com Singapore Pte. Ltd., (2024) 465 ITR 257 / 165 taxmann.com 580(Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Copy right-Subscription fees-SLP of revenue dismissed-DTAA-India-Singapore. [Art. 12(4)(b). Art. 136]]

High Court held that since the copyright in the application was never transferred nor vested in the subscriber, the fees were not assessable under section 9(1)(vi) of the Act and that since the customer was merely accorded access to the application and it was the subscriber which thereafter input the requisite data and took advantage of the analytical attributes of the software, this would clearly not fall within the ambit of article 12(4)(b) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between Singapore and India, and that therefore, the amount was not assessable in India. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2011-12 to 2017-18)

CIT (IT) v. Sales Force.Com Singapore Pte. Ltd (2025) 476 ITR 8 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (IT) v. Salesforce.com Singapore Pte. Ltd., (2024) 465 ITR 257 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Payment to Non-Resident telecommunication operators for provision of bandwidth and inter-connectivity usage-Not royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source-Expansion of definition of royalty inserted later-Assessee cannot be expected to foresee future amendment at time of payment in earlier assessment years-Jurisdiction-No jurisdiction to tax income arising from extra-territorial source-Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement-Sovereign document between two countries-Applicable in Proceedings under Section 201 of the Act-DTAA-India-Belgium-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S. 195,201, Art, 136]

High Court held that a Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement being a sovereign document between two countries the assessee was entitled to take the benefit thereunder. Therefore, the Tribunal's view that the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement cannot be considered in proceedings under section 201 was untenable. Held that amendment to the provisions of section 9(1)(vi) inserting the Explanations would not result in amendment of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements. The Supreme Court had held that Explanation 4 to section 9(1)(vi) was not clarificatory of the position as on June 1, 1976 and had expanded that position to include what was stated therein by the Finance Act, 2012. Explanations 5 and 6 to section 9(1)(vi) had been inserted with effect from June 1, 1976. Held that the fact that for the subsequent years in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal had held that tax was not deductible under section 195 when payment was made to non-resident telecommunications operators was not refuted. Therefore, the payments made to non-resident telecommunications operators for providing inter-connectivity services and transfer of capacity in foreign countries was not chargeable to tax as royalty under section 9(1)(vi). Held that the Department had no jurisdiction to bring to tax income that arose from extra-territorial sources. The non-resident telecommunications operators to whom the assessee had made payments had no presence in India. The assessee's contract was with B, a Belgium entity which had made certain arrangement with OMT for utilisation of bandwidth and B had permitted the assessee to utilise a portion of the bandwidth which it had acquired from OMT. The facilities were situated outside India and the agreement was with B, a foreign entity which did not have any permanent establishment in India. Therefore, the assessee was not liable to deduct tax at source under section 195 on the payments made to the non-resident telecommunications operators. Held that Deputy Director (International Transaction) was not right in holding that for the assessment years 2013-14 to 2015-16 the withholding of tax liability could be levied at a higher rate at 20 per cent. Held that as a deductor the assessee was not liable for deduction of tax at source for payments made for the assessment years 2008-09 to 2012-13 on the basis of a subsequent amendment to section 9(1)(vi) whereby Explanations 5 and 6 were introduced. SLP of revenue dismissed. Followed, DIT v. Vodafone Idea Ltd. [2024] 165 taxmann.com 392/300 Taxman 364/469 ITR 391 (SC), (AY.2008-09 to 2012-13, 2013-14 to 2015-16)

Dy. CIT (IT) v. Vodafone Idea Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 594 (SC)

Editorial : Vodafone Idea Ltd v. Dy.CIT(2023) 152 taxmann.com 575/457 ITR 189 (Karn)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Distribution fee-Receipt on transfer of non-exclusive global rights for distribution of channel-Finding that assessee did not receive distribution fee in assessment year in question-Order of Tribunal not treating distribution fee as royalty is affirmed. [S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that finding of fact by the Tribunal that the assessee did not receive any distribution fee in the assessment year 2008-2009 and therefore, no profit could be attributed to it, the order of the Tribunal holding that the distribution fee could not be construed as royalty. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2008-09)

CIT v. BBC World Distribution Ltd [2024] 158 taxmann.com 4 / (2025) 482 ITR 36 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Providing registration for a domain name-Fees received not assessable as royalty-DTAA-India-USA ,(1991) 187 ITR (St.) 102). [S.260A, Art. 12(3)(a)]

Held that providing domain registration services to its customers did not have any proprietary rights in the domain name. What was agreed between the assessee and its customers was that mere registration of a domain name did not create any proprietary rights in the name used as the domain name or in the domain name registration, either in the assessee or the customers or even any other third party. The assessee was only acting as a registrar and thus offering its services to its customers for having their domain names registered. The fees received by the assessee for registration of domain names of third parties, i.e., its customers, could not be treated as royalty (AY. 2013-14 to 2015-16)

GoDaddy.com LLC v. ACIT [2023] 157 taxmann.com 256 / (2025) 483 ITR 515 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Use of equipment-Right to use-Source code of licensed software not provided to customers who had no right to exploit assessee's intellectual property rights-Receipts not royalty or fees for included services-DTAA-India-United States of America [S. 144C(13) 147, Art. 12(3), 12(4)(b)]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that the assessee lent certain support and assistance to its customers for availing of the automated cloud computing services did not in any manner support the view that the assessee made available technology or technical skills, know-how or the other processes to its customers within the scope of article 12(4)(b) of the India-USA Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement. That the explanation offered by the assessee regarding the services rendered indicated that the services offered did not entail transferring of any skill, knowledge, technology or process to its customers. The cloud computing models indicated that the assessee had developed an infrastructure and permitted the customers to access the hardware and software for developing their own content. The customers did not control the cloud computing hardware or software and had no right to commercially exploit it. The Tribunal had after examining the agreement between the assessee and its customers and on appreciation of the scope of services, found that the assessee's customers were granted only a non-exclusive and non-transferable licence to access the standard automated services offered by the assessee. The assessee did not provide the source code of the licensed software to the customers. The customers had no right to exploit the assessee's intellectual property rights. The receipts not royalty or fees for included services. Order of Tribunal deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2014-15, 2016-17)

CIT v. Amazon Web Services, Inc. (and another appeal) (2025) 478 ITR 44 / 174 taxmann.com 1188 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Deduction of tax at source-Transactions entered into pertaining to assessment years prior to introduction of Explanation in section 9(1)(vi)-Explanation 4 introduced in section 9(1)(iv) by Finance Act, 2012 cannot have retrospective effect and payment not royalty liable to deduction of tax-Appeal of revenue was dismissed. [S. 9(1)(vi), Expln. 4, 37, 40(a)(ia), 195(2).

The Supreme Court in Sedco Forex International Drill Inc v. CIT, (2005) 279 ITR 310 (SC) while interpreting on the retrospective application of the Explanation, had held that the Explanation in section 9(1)(vi) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, as introduced by the Finance Act, 1999 ((1999) 237 ITR (St) 49) that the mere fact that the assessments remained pending could not be a cogent reason to make an Explanation retrospectively applicable, as it would be a fortuitous circumstance, which cannot take away the vested rights of the assessee and that there was a consistent judicial opinion that Explanation as inserted in a provision was not declaratory, but widened the scope of the original provision and as such, the Explanation could not be relied on for any purpose for an anterior period. Appeal of revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2003-04, 2004-05, 2007-08)

CIT v. Reliance Industries Ltd (2024] 165 taxmann.com 653 / (2025) 476 ITR 769 (Bom)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty Payments for purchase of licensed software not taxable as royalty. [S. 260A]

The assessee made payments to foreign companies towards purchase of licensed software. The Assessing Officer treated the payments as "royalty" under section 9(1)(vi). The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal confirmed. On further appeal, the High Court, following Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT (2021) 432 ITR 471 (SC); (2022) 3 SCC 321, held that such payments do not constitute royalty under section 9(1)(vi). Liberty was granted to the Department to seek review if the review petition in Engineering Analysis succeeds. Order quashed to that extent.

Sasken Communication Technologies Ltd. v. ITO (IT) (2025) 475 ITR 516 (Karn)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Sub-licensed sports broadcasting rights in relation to live feeds to Indian company-live feed cannot constitute a scientific work-Fees received cannot be considered as royalty-DTAA-India-Singapore.[Art. 12]

Income arising from sub-licensing of non-live feed had been offered to tax as royalty and assessee contended that consideration received in relation to live feeds did not constitute royalty either under Income-tax Act or under India-Singapore Treaty. Assessing Officer held that entire license fee was taxable as royalty, because it was covered by expression process which included transmission by satellite cable, optic fibre etc. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that in view of the decision of High Court in CIT v. Delhi Race Club (1940) Ltd (2015) 228 Taxman 185 (Delhi)(HC) that a live telecast would not fall within the ambit of expression Scientific work. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY.2015-16)

CIT v. (IT) v. Fox Network Group Singapore Pte. Ltd. (2024) 158 Taxmann.com 434 (2025) 473 ITR 528 (Delhi)(HC)

CIT v. (IT) v. ESS (2024) 158 Taxmann.com 434 (2025) 473 ITR 528 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Transfer of off-the-shelf Software — Not assessable in India as royalty — DTAA-India-Israel. [S.260A, Art. 12 (3)]

Held: Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the Tribunal was right in concluding that the consideration received by the assessee did not constitute royalty and was not assessable in India.(AY.2011-12)

CIT (IT) v.Cognyte Technologies Israel Ltd. [2023] 155 taxmann.com 292 / (2025)472 ITR 476 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Live sports telecast fees not royalty-No copyright in live feed-DTAA overrides domestic law-Income from live telecast is not assessable as royalty-DTAA-India-Singapore-Thailand. [Copyright Act, 1957, 2(y), 13, Art. 3]

The assessee, a Singapore-based company, entered into a licensing arrangement to sublicense sports broadcasting rights of live feeds to an Indian company. It claimed that the income related to live feed was not taxable as royalty under either Section 9(1)(vi) of the Act or the India-Singapore DTAA, arguing that live telecasts do not involve transfer of copyright. The Assessing Officer disagreed and taxed the entire license fee as royalty, treating live transmission as a “process” covered under Explanation 6 to Section 9(1)(vi).

The Court ruled that live telecasts are not “works” under the Copyright Act and therefore cannot attract copyright-based royalty taxation. It also held that Explanation 6, which deems transmission to be a “process,” was inapplicable since the actual transmission was carried out by the Indian Company and not the assessee. Furthermore, the Court emphasized that domestic law cannot override DTAA provisions, and the payment for live feed did not qualify as royalty under the treaty. Thus, the income was not taxable in India.(AY. 2015-16)

CIT (IT) v. Fox Network Group Singapore Pte Ltd. (2024) 473 ITR 528 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Technology and strategic information system services rendered outside India-No right to use software or intellectual property granted-Receipts not taxable as royalty-Management service fees-General management services rendered to group companies-Neither royalty nor Fees for Technical Services-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-France. [S. 9(1)(vii), Art. 12]

The assessee, a French company, received technology and strategic information system service fees from its Indian group companies. The services were rendered by the assessee's own personnel outside India and the Indian entities were merely recipients of standard services without being granted any licence or right to use any software or intellectual property. The Tribunal held that the receipts did not constitute royalty either under the Act or Article 12 of the India-France DTAA and were, therefore, not chargeable to tax in India. The assessee received management service fees for providing recurring general management services to its Indian group companies. No intellectual property, confidential information or technical know-how was made available to the recipients. The Tribunal held that the payments were neither royalty nor fees for technical services under the Act or the India-France DTAA and accordingly deleted the addition (AY. 2019-20).

Edenred SE (formerly known as Edenred SA) v. Dy. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 161 / (2025) 129 ITR 603 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Software licence fee-Not royalty-Receipts for services, not fees for technical services or included services-Addition was deleted-DTAA-India-USA [Art. 7, 12(4)(b)]

Held that the amount earned from supply of software by assessee, a tax resident of USA, on a non-transferable, non-exclusive basis to Indian customers was not taxable as royalty income under provisions of article 12 of India-USA DTAA as same was consideration for sale of a copyrighted software and not for use of any copyright. Tribunal also held that the receipts from annual maintenance contract were inextricably linked to the licence granted by the assessee to its licensees and no human intervention was required in provision of AMC services; said receipts were not taxable as FTS in India; the same were business profits of assessee not taxable in India in absence of a permanent establishment (PE) of the assessee in India. Additions were deleted. (AY. 2019-20)

Openwave Mobility, Inc. v. Dy. CIT ([2024] 162 taxmann.com 434 /128 ITR 617 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Receipts from sale of online advertisement space not taxable as royalty or fees for technical services in absence of Permanent Establishment in India-DTAA-India-Ireland [S. 9(1)(1), 9(1)(vii) 195, Art.7(1)]

The assessee, a tax resident of Ireland, received consideration from its Indian subsidiary towards the sale of online advertisement space. The Revenue sought to tax the receipts as royalty/fees for technical services pursuant to reassessment proceedings. Following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that in the absence of a Permanent Establishment in India, the receipts from sale of online advertisement space were not taxable in India under the Act or the India-Ireland DTAA. Consequently, the payments could not be characterised as royalty or fees for technical services, and the additions were deleted. (AY. 2013-14 to 2016-17)

Google Ireland Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 149 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-Cloud computing services-Receipts not chargeable as royalty or fees for technical services-Not liable to deduct tax at source-DTAA India-USA. [S. 9(1)(vii), 195, Art. 12(3), 12(4)]

Amounts received by a US company for providing standard cloud computing services to Indian customers were held not taxable in India either as royalty or as fees for technical/included services. The Tribunal held that customers merely obtained a non-exclusive and non-transferable right to access automated cloud services without any right to use or exploit the underlying copyright or intellectual property and, therefore, the receipts did not constitute royalty. Further, the support and technical services rendered were standard and incidental in nature and did not "make available" any technical knowledge, experience, skill or know-how enabling customers to apply the technology independently in future. Accordingly, the receipts were not chargeable to tax in India, and no tax was deductible at source. (AY. 2014-15, 2016-17).

Amazon Web Services, Inc. v. ACIT (2025) 130 ITR 591 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Software licence-Grant of licence to use copyrighted software-No transfer of copyright or copyright rights-Receipts not taxable as royalty under India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-Software support services-"Make available" condition not satisfied-Receipts not taxable as fees for technical services under India-Netherlands DTAA. [S.9(1)(vii),Art. 12]

The assessee, a tax resident of the Netherlands, provided software-based support services to support service specialists in India under licence agreements. The Assessing Officer treated the receipts as royalty on the ground that the software constituted a literary work and the payments were for use of copyright. The Tribunal held that the agreements merely granted a non-exclusive right to use the copyrighted software without transferring any right, title or interest in the copyright. The licensees had no right to reproduce, modify, translate or commercially exploit the software. The payments were for the use of a copyrighted article and not for the use of, or the right to use, any copyright. Further, the India-Netherlands DTAA does not specifically include software payments within the definition of royalty. Accordingly, the receipts were not taxable as royalty in India. The assessee rendered software support and troubleshooting services to support service specialists in India. The Revenue sought to tax the receipts as fees for technical services. The Tribunal held that under Article 12 of the India-Netherlands DTAA, technical services are taxable only if they "make available" technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how or processes enabling the recipient to perform the services independently in future. The support services were rendered on a recurring annual basis and the recipients continued to depend upon the assessee even for routine and critical technical issues. As no enduring technical knowledge or capability was made available to the recipients, the "make available" test was not satisfied. Accordingly, the receipts were not taxable as fees for technical services in India. (AY. 2013-14, 2015-16 & 2016-17).

Asst. CIT (IT) v. Juniper Networks International B.V. [2023] 154 taxmann.com 563 / (2025) 130 ITR 785 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Effect of Supreme Court decision in Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence P. Ltd. v. CIT (2021) 432 ITR 471 (SC)-Software licence fees, global wide area network connectivity, and global technology charges not royalty-Order of Commissioner (Appeals) upheld-DTAA-India-UK.

The assessee, a non-profit central service provider recovering costs incurred in providing centralised services from its Indian group entities, had such receipts, including software licence and maintenance charges, global technology charges, and global wide area network connectivity charges, assessed as royalty for the assessment years 2017-18 to 2019-20 following an adverse ruling of the AAR, though the CIT(A) ruled in the assessee's favour based on a subsequent HC decision in the assessee's own case holding such receipts not to be royalty either under the Act or under the India-UK DTAA. On appeal, the Tribunal upheld the order of the CIT(A), holding that there was no infirmity in treating the software licence and maintenance charges, global technology charges, and global wide area network connectivity charges as not constituting royalty, consistent with the principles laid down by the SC in Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence P. Ltd. v. CIT (2021) 432 ITR 471 (SC) (AY. 2017-18 to 2019-20)

Dy. CIT v. EY Global Services Ltd. (2025) 131 ITR 467(Delhi) (Trib)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-license fee for granting broadcasting right-Not royalty-Appportionment of license fee-' live coverage' of the event has very large viewership as compared to a recorded broadcast and, therefore, it is appropriate to allocate 10 per cent of the license fee for broadcasting rights towards recorded events and 90 per cent towards 'live coverage-DTAA-India-USA.[S.90, Art. 12(3)]

Tribunal held that the amendment by way of insertion of Expln. 6 to s. 9(1)(vi) defining 'process' to include transmission by satellite cannot be read in the definition of royalty in art. 12(3) of the DTAA between India and the USA as there is no similar change in the definition of royalty under the India-USA tax treaty and, therefore, license fees received by the assessee for telecast of live matches did not constitute royalty. Tribunal also held that in any sporting event, 'live coverage' of the event has a very large viewership as compared to a recorded broadcast and, therefore, it is appropriate to allocate 10 per cent of the license fee for broadcasting rights towards recorded events and 90 per cent towards 'live coverage'. (AY. 2013-14 to 2015-16)

Trans World International LLC v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 236 TTJ 385 / 175 taxmann.com 703 (Delhi) (Trib)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-supply of software and related services-Not royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source-DTAA-India-Ireland.[S.90, 195, Art. 12(3)]

Held that the assessee provided only standard software and related support services and not any tailor-made software to the Indian customer and not transferred the copyright in the software to the latter, neither the payments received for licensing of software nor the payments for the services fall within the definition of royalty as per art. 12(3) of India-Ireland DTAA. Not liable to deduct tax at source. (AY. 2021-22)

Munich Re Automation Solutions Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 928 / 178 taxmann.com 500 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Managerial and administrative support services are not royalty where no know-how or intellectual property is transferred-DTAA-India-India Singapore.[Art. 7, 12]

The assessee, a Singapore company, rendered regional managerial and administrative services to its Indian affiliate under a Regional Services Agreement on a cost-sharing basis. The Tribunal held that the services involved the application of expertise and not the transfer of know-how or intellectual property. The receipts constituted business profits under Article 7 and, in the absence of a permanent establishment in India, were not taxable as royalty under Article 12. (AY. 2017-18 to 2020-21).

ACIT (IT) v. BCD Travel Asia Pacific Pte. Ltd. (2025) 238 TTJ 721 / 180 taxmann.com 46 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement not affected by amendments in Act-Assessee entitled to advantage of provisions under Agreement-Assessee a non-resident telecommunication operator providing international carriage and connectivity services in Sri Lanka-Interconnect user charges not royalty-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Sri Lanka.[S. 9(1)(vi), Explns. 2, 5, 6, 147, arts. 7, 12]

The assessee, a non-resident telecom operator in Sri Lanka, received Rs. 4,16,80,240 as interconnect usage charges from an Indian entity, VSL, which the AO, relying on Explanations 5 and 6 to section 9(1)(vi), taxed as "royalty", a view upheld by the DRP. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the amendment inserting the Explanations to section 9(1)(vi) could not be read into the DTAA, which can be altered only through bilateral renegotiation, and the assessee was entitled to the more beneficial treaty provisions. It was further held that the interconnect usage charges did not accrue or arise in India, and in the absence of a permanent establishment in India, could not be taxed under article 7 of the Agreement. The addition was accordingly deleted.(AY. 2012-13)

Dialog Axiata PLC v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 43(Mum) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Non-resident-Domain name registration services-Registrar not owner of domain names-Receipts not taxable as royalty-Web hosting and allied services-Independent services-Not Fees for Technical Services-"Make available" test-Web hosting and related services-No transfer of technical knowledge-Not Fees for Included Services. DTAA-India-USA.[S.9(1)(vii),Art. 12(3), 12(4)(a), 12(4)(b)]

The assessee, an accredited domain name registrar in the United States, facilitated registration of domain names but neither owned nor possessed proprietary rights in the domain names. The Tribunal held that the assessee merely acted as a registrar and could not grant any right to use the domain names. Accordingly, the receipts from domain name registration services did not constitute royalty under section 9(1)(vi) of the Act or Article 12(3) of the India-USA DTAA. The Tribunal held that web hosting, web designing and other non-domain services are independent of domain name registration services. Merely because such services may be purchased together or utilise the same server does not make them ancillary or subsidiary to domain name registration. The receipts were therefore not taxable as Fees for Technical Services under the India-USA DTAA.(The Tribunal held that the services rendered by the assessee did not "make available" any technical knowledge, skill, know-how or process enabling the customers to perform such functions independently. The services merely enabled customers to use the facilities provided by the assessee and involved no transfer of technical knowledge or enduring benefit. Accordingly, the receipts were not taxable as Fees for Included Services under Article 12(4)(b) of the India-USA DTAA AY. 2016-17 to 2019-20 & 2021-22).

GoDaddy.com, LLC v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 123 ITR 29 / 170 taxmann.com 408 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Screening and investigation services to its customers in India-Not royalty-Addition was deleted-India-UK. [Art. 5, 13]

On appeal, the Tribunal held that where the assessee, a UK-based company, provided background screening and investigation services to its customers in India, since said services did not qualify as royalty under provisions of Explanation 2 to section 9(1)(vi) and article 13 of the India-UK DTAA, no addition on account of royalty was warranted. (AY. 2022-23)

Hireright Ltd. v.ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 138 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Subscription revenue from Indian customers for providing access to online chemistry databases and from sale of online journals-Not assessable as royalty-DTAA-India-USA.[S. 9(1)(vii), 147, 148, Art. 12(3)]

Assessee, US based company, received subscription revenue from Indian customers for providing access to online chemistry databases (CASS division) and from sale of online journals (PUBS division). It filed its return of income declaring nil income. Assessing Officer issued reopening notice on ground that subscription revenue received by assessee was taxable as royalty under section 9(1)(vi) and article 12(3) of DTAA between India and USA as it fell under ambit of use of copyrights of artistic, literary or scientific work as well as within ambit of payment for information concerning industrial commercial or scientific experience. DRP dismissed the appeal. On appeal the Tribunal held that Co-ordinate Bench of Tribunal in assessee's own case for earlier assessment years held that said subscription revenue did not qualify as royalty in terms of section 9(1)(vi) as well as article 12(3) of India-US DTAA. In absence of any change in circumstances, following aforesaid order of Co-ordinate Bench, assessment order was set aside. (AY. 2013-14)

American Chemical Society v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 212 ITD 599 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Aircraft leasing-Multilateral Instrument (MLI)-Principal Purpose Test (PPT) cannot be applied in absence of specific Sec. 90(1) notification-Lease rentals not taxable as royalty-No Permanent establishment in India-Entitled to treaty benefit-DTAA-India-Ireland.[S. 9(1)(i), 90(1), 143(3) 144C(13), 234A, 234B, 270A, Art. 5, 6, 7, 8(1), 12(3)(a)]

The assessee, an Irish tax resident engaged in aircraft leasing, leased three aircraft to Inter Globe Aviation Ltd. (IndiGo) under dry operating lease agreements. It claimed that lease rentals were not “royalty” under Art. 12(3)(a) of the India-Ireland DTAA, that no Permanent Establishment (“PE”) existed in India under Art. 5, and alternatively that income was exempt under Art. 8(1) as income from international traffic. The AO, invoking the Principal Purpose Test (PPT) under Arts. 6 & 7 of the MLI, denied treaty benefits, re-characterised the leases as finance leases, and held that a fixed place PE existed in India. The DRP upheld the AO, attributing 25% of gross rentals to PE at 40% tax, effectively taxing 10% of receipts. On appeal, the Tribunal held that as per ruling in Assessing Officer (IT) v. Nestlé SA (2023) 458 ITR 756(SC) MLI provisions cannot be enforced unless separately notified under Sec. 90(1). Since no notification incorporating Arts. 6 & 7 of the MLI into the India-Ireland DTAA exists, the PPT could not be invoked. Lease rentals from dry operating leases are excluded from “royalty” under the DTAA, and outsourcing management functions in Ireland did not create a PE in India. Article 8 exemption for international traffic was also applicable. Hence, the lease income was not taxable in India. (AY. 2022-23)

Sky High Leasing Company Ltd. v. ACIT (IT) [2025] 177 taxmann.com 579 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Amount received by assessee from Indian customers on account of sale of software solutions could not be treated as royalty-DTAA-India-USA. [Art. 12]

Assessee, a US based company, is engaged in business of developing and marketing 3D mechanical design solutions. It entered into software distribution agreements with resellers in India, who bought shrink wrapped software from assessee and in turn sold to customers in India. During relevant assessment year, assessee received certain amount on account of sale of software solutions which had not been offered for taxation. Assessing Officer treated said receipts as royalty and taxed at rate of 15 per cent as per DTAA. DRP rejected the objection. On appeal the Tribunal held that amounts paid by resident Indian end-users/distributors to non-resident computer software manufacturers/suppliers, as consideration for resale/use of computer software through EULAs/distribution agreements, is not payment of royalty for use of copyright in computer software.(AY. 2021-22)

Dassault Systemes SolidWorks Corporations. v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 210 ITD 476 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vi) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-US based company-Amount received by assessee from Indian customers on account of sale of software solutions-Not royalty income-DTAA-India-USA. [Art. 12]

Assessee, a US based company, was engaged in the business of developing and marketing 3D mechanical design solutions. It entered into software distribution agreements with resellers in India, who bought shrink wrapped software from the Assessee and in turn sold to customers in India. During the relevant AY, Assessee received a certain amount on account of sale of software solutions which had not been offered for taxation. AO treated the said receipts as royalty and taxed it at the rate of 15% as per the DTAA. It was held that the issue was squarely covered in favour of the Assessee by the Supreme Court ruling in Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence (P.) Ltd. v. CIT [2021] 125 taxmann.com 42/281 Taxman 19/432 ITR 471 (SC) wherein it was held that amounts paid by resident Indian end-users/distributors to non-resident computer software manufacturers/suppliers, as consideration for resale/use of computer software through EULAs/distribution agreements, is not payment of royalty for use of copyright in computer software. Accordingly, the AO was directed to delete the impugned addition. (AY.2021-22)

Dassault Systems SolidWorks Corporations v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 210 ITD 476 (Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Global online learning platform-Online courses and degrees from universities, companies-Receipts are not taxable as fees for included services (FIS)-DTAA-India-USA.[Art. 12]

Assessee, a US based company, operated a global online learning platform providing online courses and degrees from leading universities and companies. Assessing Officer assessed receipts from provision of said services as fees for technical services (FTS) within meaning of section 9(1)(vii) and fees for included services (FIS) within meaning of paragraph 4 of article 12 of India USA DTAA. Tribunal accented the contention of the assessee that receipts from services were neither in the nature of royalty nor FTS as it did not entail any included services which are taxable to tax. On appeal by revenue the Court held that assessee merely provided access to contents of universities/companies through platform on receipt of fees and Assessing Officer had not brought on record any material to establish fact that assessee provided technical services through its online platform and further make available condition was not satisfied. Since services provided by assessee did not include any element of included services, receipts of assessee could not be taxed as FTS or FIS under provisions of Act as well as DTAA. (AY. 2020-21)

CIT (IT) v. Coursera Inc(2025) 305 Taxman 269 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Repair and maintenance services of aircraft equipment to Indian airline operators-Services did not involve any transfer of technology, know or skill-Receipts are not taxable as FTS-DTAA-India-USA [Art. 12(4)]

Assessee, a US company, was engaged in business of providing repair and maintenance services of aircraft equipment. During relevant year, assessee received certain amount towards repair and maintenance services from Indian airline operators. Assessing Officer held that said receipts were chargeable to tax as fees for technical services (FTS) under Act as well as India-USA DTAA. DRP affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal Tribunal held that services rendered by assessee did not involve any transfer of technology, know-how or skill hence receipts from repair and maintenance services were not taxable as FIS under article 12(4) of India-USA DTAA. High Court affirmed the order order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2018-19)

CIT (IT) v. Goodrich Corporation (2025) 305 Taxman 518 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Centralised marketing and reservation services provided to Indian affiliate-“Make available” condition not satisfied-Not taxable as FTS / FIS under India-USA DTAA-Revenue’s appeal dismissed. [S. 144C, 260A; Art. 12(4)(a), (b)]

The assessee, a non-resident company and a tax resident of the USA, received payments from its Indian affiliate towards centralized marketing and reservation services relating to hotel operations. Pursuant to a change in business model from April 2019, the Indian entity assumed a greater entrepreneurial role and entered into agreements with the assessee for support in marketing and reservation services. The Assessing Officer held that the amounts received towards marketing contribution and reservation fees were taxable as royalty/fees for technical services under section 9(1)(vii) and alternatively as fees for included services under Article 12(4)(a) and (b) of the India-USA DTAA. The Dispute Resolution Panel upheld the view of the Assessing Officer holding that the receipts were connected with the grant of licence of the brand and that the change in business model did not alter the character of the receipts. The Tribunal, following its orders in earlier years, held that the payments were for centralized services and did not “make available” any technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how or processes to the Indian entity and therefore could not be taxed as fees for technical services or fees for included services under the Act or the DTAA. On appeal by the Revenue, the High Court affirmed the Tribunal’s view and held that the payments received for centralized marketing and reservation services could not be construed as fees for technical services under section 9(1)(vii) or as fees for included services under Article 12(4)(a) of the India-USA DTAA. Accordingly, the appeal of the Revenue was dismissed.

CIT v. Six Continents Hotels Inc. (2025) 480 ITR 14 / 174 taxmann.com 658 (Delhi)(HC).

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-“Make available” condition not satisfied-Services relating to customs brokerage support, destination services and training for developing global work culture did not involve transfer of specialised knowledge or skill-No income accrued or arose in India from business connection-Payment not taxable as fees for technical services under Act or Article 12 of India-USA DTAA. [S. 9(1)(i), Art. 12(5)]

The assessee, a US resident, had rendered services to its Indian affiliate in relation to customs brokerage support, destination services, assistance in shipment clearance and personnel training. The Tribunal held that the services were neither managerial, technical nor consultancy in nature and that no part of the assessee’s income had accrued or arisen in India under section 9(1)(i), since no operations giving rise to income were carried out in India. On appeal by the Revenue, the Delhi High Court affirmed the Tribunal's view and held that for a receipt to qualify as fees for technical services, there must not only be rendition of specialised knowledge, skill, expertise or know-how, but also satisfaction of the "make available" condition, i.e., the recipient must be enabled to apply such knowledge independently in future. Mere assistance in complying with customs rules and regulations, which are in the public domain, or training aimed at creating a common global work culture, did not amount to transfer of specialised technical knowledge or skill. Accordingly, the payment received by the assessee was held not taxable either under section 9(1)(vii) or section 9(1)(i), and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed.

CIT (IT) v. Expeditors International of Washington Inc. (2025) 480 ITR 30 / 171 taxmann.com 576 (Delhi)(HC).

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-E-invoicing services-Licence only to use platform/software and not transfer of technology or IPR-Training for use of software did not "make available" technical know-how-Under India-UK DTAA, treaty definition prevails over Act-Receipts not taxable as FTS. [S.144C(13), 147, 148, 260A, Art. 13(4)(c)]

The assessee, a UK resident, provided electronic invoicing and related services through its proprietary e-platform/software and granted only a limited, non-exclusive licence to its Indian affiliate to use the platform for availing such services. No right in the source code, technology, or intellectual property was transferred. The Delhi High Court held that for Article 13(4)(c) of the India-UK DTAA, mere rendering of technical services is insufficient unless the services "make available" technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how or process enabling the recipient to perform the services independently in future. The training provided was only to enable use/promote the e-invoicing platform and did not transfer the underlying technology or know-how. Accordingly, the receipts were not “fees for technical services” under the DTAA; hence the treaty definition prevailed over section 9(1)(vii), and the receipts were not chargeable to tax in India. Tribunal and reassessment orders were set aside. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18).

Tungsten Automation England Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (IT) (2025) 480 ITR 93 / 176 taxmann.com 497 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident company-Sales commission-Not in nature of Fee for Included Services (FIS)-DTAA-India-USA. [S.260A, Art. 12]

Assessee, non-resident US company, entered into a marketing agreement with its holding company SPITL, situated in India. The assessee received sales commission as a consideration for marketing services. The Assessing Officer held that amount received by assessee was in nature of fee for included services (FIS) as per terms of India-US DTAA. Tribunal held that sales commission received by assessee was not in nature of FIS. On appeal High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2017-18)

CIT v. Laserwords US Inc. (2025) 302 Taxman 216 (Mad)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Non-resident-Reimbursement of travel agent and other expenses-No services rendered by assessee-Not Fees for Technical Services or Fees for Included Services-Marketing and Reservation Contribution-India-USA DTAA-Not Fees for Technical Services or Fees for Included Services-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-USA.[Art. 12.]

The assessee received reimbursements from Indian hotels towards Travel Agent Commission Programme (TACP) expenses and other miscellaneous expenses. The Tribunal held that the services were actually rendered by independent travel agents to the Indian hotels and not by the assessee. As the assessee itself rendered no technical or managerial services, the reimbursements could not be characterised as Fees for Technical Services under the Act or Fees for Included Services under the India-USA DTAA. Accordingly, the receipts were held not taxable in India. The assessee, a tax resident of the USA and owner of trademarks relating to the InterContinental Hotel Group, received Marketing and Reservation Contribution (MRC) from Indian hotels under franchise agreements. Following its earlier decisions in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the MRC receipts did not constitute Fees for Technical Services under the Act or Fees for Included Services under Article 12 of the India-USA DTAA. The receipts were therefore not chargeable to tax in India. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19).

Six Continents Hotels Inc. v. Asst. CIT [2025] 179 taxmann.com 559 / 128 ITR 67 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Non-resident-Marketing services-Sales commission-Not Fees for Included Services under India-USA DTAA-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-USA-Delay of 89 days was condoned. [S. 254(1) Art. 12(4)(b)]

The assessee, a US resident company engaged in e-publishing services, received commission from its Indian holding company for marketing services rendered in relation to customers in the United States. The Tribunal held that the assessee merely acted as the front-end liaison between customers and the Indian company by understanding customer requirements and communicating them for execution. The activities did not "make available" any technical knowledge, skill or know-how and could not be characterised as Fees for Included Services under Article 12(4)(b) of the India-USA DTAA. The receipts were taxable only as sales commission and were not chargeable to tax in India. Delay of 89 days in filing the appeal was condoned. (AY. 2017-18).

Laserwords US Inc. v. Dy. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 543 / (2025) 129 ITR 39 (Trib.)

Editorial : Affirmed in CIT v. Laserwords US Inc. (2025) 302 Taxman 216 (Mad.)(HC)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Non-resident-Warehousing charges paid outside India-Not Fees for Technical Services-No liability to deduct tax at source-DTAA-India-USA [S. 195, Art. 12]

The assessee made payments to a US-based warehouse service provider having no business operations in India for warehousing facilities utilised outside India in connection with its overseas business. The Tribunal held that the payments were not chargeable to tax in India as the services did not fall within the scope of "fees for technical services" under Article 12 of the India-USA DTAA, which does not include managerial services and the "make available" condition was not satisfied. Consequently, the payments were not chargeable to tax in India, and no tax was deductible at source under section 195. (AY. 2011-12 to 2016-17).

AVTEC Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 692 / (2025) 129 ITR 483 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-Revenue sharing arrangement-Payments received by foreign associated enterprise from Indian parent under Master Service Agreement not taxable as fees for technical services-Revenue sharing for services jointly rendered to customers-Additions were deleted. [S. 147, 148]

The assessee, a tax resident of Malaysia, received payments from HCL Technologies Ltd. pursuant to a Master Service Agreement under which the parent and its foreign subsidiaries jointly rendered services to overseas customers and shared revenue in proportion to the services performed. The Assessing Officer treated the receipts as fees for technical services taxable in India and reopened the assessments. Following its decision in the assessee's own case for earlier years, the Tribunal held that the arrangement was merely a revenue-sharing mechanism and not one involving the provision of technical services by the assessee to the Indian parent. Accordingly, the receipts were not taxable as fees for technical services under section 9(1)(vii), and the additions were deleted. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14 to 2017-18)

HCL Technologies Malaysia SDN BHD v. Asst. CIT (IT) (2025) 121 ITR 466 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-Make available-Cloud-based software-Tax Residency Certificate-The receipts were not chargeable to tax in India as fees for technical services-DTAA-India-USA.[Art. 12(4)]

Receipts earned by a US company from providing a cloud-native machine data analytics platform to Indian customers were held not taxable as fees for technical services under Article 12(4) of the India-USA DTAA. The Tribunal held that the assessee neither made available any technical knowledge, experience or skill nor transferred technology to its customers. Once the assessee furnished a valid Tax Residency Certificate and offered the Indian-source income as business income in the USA, the fact that its global tax computation resulted in a loss was irrelevant. Accordingly, the receipts were not chargeable to tax in India as fees for technical services. (AY. 2021-22)

Sumo Logic Inc. v. Asst. CIT (IT) (2025) 170 taxmann.com 756 / 121 ITR 78 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Intra-group advisory and management support services do not constitute FTS where they do not 'make available' technical knowledge, know-how or skill to the recipient-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-UK. [Art. 13(4)(c)]

The assessee, a UK tax resident, provided intra-group services to its Indian AE relating to human resources, finance, legal and compliance, internal audit, global planning and marketing support on a cost-plus 5% basis. The Assessing Officer treated the receipts as Fees for Technical Services (FTS) under Article 13 of the India-UK DTAA on the ground that the services were technical/consultancy in nature. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the services were merely advisory and managerial in nature, intended to assist the Indian AE in making informed business decisions, and did not result in the transfer of any technical knowledge, experience, know-how or skill enabling the AE to perform such functions independently in future. Since the "make available" condition under Article 13(4)(c) was not satisfied, the receipts did not qualify as FTS and were not taxable in India. The appeals were allowed. [AY.2018-19, 2019-20]

N. M. Rothchild and Sons Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (IT) (2025) 130 ITR 384 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-Fees for included services-Assessee engaged to provide concept drawings and design for statue of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel-No development of technical design or transfer of technical plan-Drawings project-specific, not usable elsewhere-No technical know-how made available-Consideration not taxable as fees for included services in India-DTAA-India-USA [S.90, Art. 14(4)(b)]

The assessee, a US tax resident providing design services, received consideration from an association of persons engaged as project manager for construction of the statue of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, for providing architectural design, drawings and the master plan from the USA, which the AO treated as fees for included services under article 12(4)(b) of the India-USA DTAA on the ground that technology and skill were made available, a view upheld by the DRP. On appeal, the Tribunal first admitted the assessee's additional legal ground as it went to the root of the matter and arose from facts already on record, exercising its powers under rule 29 of the Income-tax (Appellate Tribunal) Rules, 1963; on merits, it held that the assessee had provided only conceptual and aesthetic design services specific to the project, without developing any technical design or transferring any technical plan capable of independent future use, the actual technical and construction design having been undertaken by the EPC contractor, and since no technical knowledge, skill or know-how was made available to the association of persons for independent utilisation, the consideration received did not satisfy the "make available" test and was not taxable as fees for included services in India.(AY. 2014-15, 2015-16)

Michael Graves Design Group Inc. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 352 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-"Make available"-Receipts for centralised information technology support, data management and maintenance services-No technical knowledge, skill or process made available-Recipient unable to independently manage IT environment without continuous recourse to service provider-Not fees for included services-Not taxable in India-Remittances to India-Discrepancy between figures in Forms 15CA and 26AS-Matter remanded for verification.-DTAA-India-USA .[S. 9(1)(vii)(b), 115A, 263,Art. 12(4)]

The assessee, a foreign company providing information technology support and maintenance services to its sister concerns in India, had remittances received for such services treated by AO as fees for technical services under section 9(1)(vii)(b) and taxed as "fees for included services" under article 12(4) of the DTAA between India and the USA, which was affirmed by the DRP. On appeal, the Tribunal held that for a receipt to constitute "fees for included services" under article 12, the services must make available technical knowledge, skill or process that remains with the recipient even after the contract ends, and since the assessee merely centralised information technology services such as access to standard applications, data management, disaster recovery, helpdesk support and infrastructure maintenance, without enabling the recipient to independently manage its IT environment without continuous recourse to the assessee, the payments did not qualify as fees for included services and were not taxable in India; it was further held that the amount could not be treated as royalty or technical services under section 9(1)(vii) either, as the assessee had no permanent establishment in India and was covered by the beneficial provisions of the Agreement. The issue of discrepancy between the figures reported in Form 15CA, filed by the banker, and Form 26AS was remanded to AO for limited verification after providing the assessee the relevant details to enable reconciliation.(AY. 2014-15, to 2017-18)

Visteon Corporation v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 279 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-India-Singapore DTAA-Management services-"Make available" test not satisfied-Receipts not taxable as Fees for Technical Services-Sale of software licences-Licence agreement transferring only right to use software-No services rendered-Receipts not taxable as Fees for Technical Services- DTAA -India-Singapore [Art. 12(4)(b)]

The assessee, a Singapore tax resident, received management fees from its Indian subsidiary. The Assessing Officer treated the receipts as Fees for Technical Services under Article 12(4)(b) of the India-Singapore DTAA. The Tribunal held that the Department failed to establish that the assessee had made available any technical knowledge, experience, skill or know-how enabling the Indian subsidiary to perform the services independently. Mere rendering of managerial services did not satisfy the "make available" condition. Accordingly, the receipts were held not taxable in India as Fees for Technical Services. The assessee received consideration for sale of software licences to an Indian bank. The Tribunal held that the licence agreement merely granted a non-exclusive, non-transferable right to install and use the software and did not involve rendering of any technical or consultancy services. Since the receipts represented consideration for sale of software licences and not for rendering services, they could not be characterised as Fees for Technical Services. The addition was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2019-20).

Tagit Pte. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2024] 159 taxmann.com 93 / (2025) 122 ITR 717 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-Composite contract-Supply of drawings and designs-Inextricably linked with offshore supply of plant and equipment-Not Fees for Technical Services-Supervisory services-Permanent Establishment-Receipts connected with supervisory PE-Taxable as business profits on net basis-Matter remanded-Supervisory services-Technical services-Supervisory fee taxable as Fees for Technical Services notwithstanding existence of Permanent Establishment-Reimbursement of expenses-Cost contribution arrangement without mark-up-No profit element-Not Fees for Technical Services-DTAA-India-Austria. [S.9(1)(i), 195, Art.5, 7(4), 12]

The assessee, an Austrian company, entered into composite contracts for offshore supply of plant and equipment together with drawings and designs. Since the Tribunal had accepted that the offshore supply was not taxable in India, it held that the consideration received for supply of drawings and designs, being inseparable from the offshore supply contract, could not be taxed separately as Fees for Technical Services under section 9(1)(vii) or Article 12 of the India-Austria DTAA. The Assessing Officer taxed receipts from onshore supervisory services as Fees for Technical Services on a gross basis under Article 12. The Tribunal held that where the receipts were effectively connected with the assessee's supervisory Permanent Establishment in India, they were taxable as business profits under Article 7 on a net basis. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether the receipts had already been offered to tax in the year of completion in accordance with the assessee's method of accounting. The Tribunal held that supervisory services rendered by the assessee under composite contracts involving erection, commissioning and technical supervision were technical services within the meaning of Article 12(4) of the India-Austria DTAA. Accordingly, the supervisory fee was taxable as Fees for Technical Services, irrespective of the existence of a Permanent Establishment. The assessee recovered from its Indian group entities their share of common business and information service expenses without any mark-up under a cost contribution arrangement. The Tribunal held that the reimbursements contained no profit element and, therefore, could not be characterised as Fees for Technical Services taxable in India (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13 & 2014-15).

Andritz AG v. Dy. CIT (IT) [2024] 165 taxmann.com 76 / (2025) 122 ITR 479 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Non-resident-DTAA-Most Favoured Nation clause-Relevant date is date of treaty and not subsequent OECD membership-Treaty benefit denied-Corporate guarantee fee-Not managerial, technical or consultancy service-Not Fees for Technical Services-Reimbursement of social security contribution of seconded employees-Fees for Technical Services-Surcharge and education cess-Not leviable where treaty prescribes tax rate.-India-France.[S.90, Art. 12, 13.]

The assessee, a French tax resident, claimed the benefit of the Most Favoured Nation clause by relying upon a treaty entered into by India with another country which became an OECD member after execution of the India-France DTAA. The Tribunal held that, in view of the applicable protocol and the notification requirement under section 90, the relevant date for determining eligibility under the Most Favoured Nation clause is the date on which the treaty was entered into with India and not the later date on which the other country became an OECD member. Accordingly, the treaty benefit claimed by the assessee was rejected. The Tribunal, following its earlier decisions in the assessee's own case, held that consideration received for providing a corporate guarantee to banks did not involve rendering managerial, technical or consultancy services. Consequently, the corporate guarantee fee was held not to constitute Fees for Technical Services either under section 9(1)(vii) or Article 13 of the India-France DTAA. The Tribunal held that the seconded employees rendered specialised services to the Indian entity and were not merely performing stewardship functions. The overseas entity continued to be the real employer, and the reimbursement of social security contributions formed part of the consideration for technical services. Accordingly, the reimbursement was held taxable as Fees for Technical Services. The Tribunal held that the tax rate prescribed under Article 13 of the India-France DTAA is inclusive of surcharge. Since education cess is in the nature of an additional surcharge, it also stands subsumed within the treaty rate. Accordingly, surcharge and education cess could not be levied over and above the tax rate prescribed under the DTAA. (AY. 2018-19).

JC Decaux S.A. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 430 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Sale of software products to Indian distributors for onward resale to end-users-Product simpliciter facilitating digital security and not for rendering technical services, such income was not taxable in India as FTS-DTAA-India-Ireland [Art. 12 (3)(b)]

Held that assessee, an Irish company, sold software products to Indian distributors for onward resale to end-users, since receipts were only for acquisition of software product simpliciter, facilitating digital security and not for rendering technical services, such income was not taxable in India as FTS. (AY. 2020-21)

Forcepoint International Technology Ltd. v. ACIT, IT (2025) 215 ITD 165 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Make available-IT support services to its Indian AE-Non support services-Amount received was not taxable as FTS-DTAA-India-UK [Art. 13]

Held that the assessee, a UK-based company, provided IT support services to its Indian AE, since there was no transfer of any technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how or process that would enable AE to use them and thus, the 'make available' clause was not satisfied, the amount received by assessee was not taxable as FTS. Assessee, a UK resident, rendered non-IT support services to its Indian AE, and there was no transfer of technical knowledge, skill or process enabling AE to use them and, thus, the 'make available' clause under Article 13 of India-UK DTAA was not satisfied, receipts could not be taxed as FTS. (AY. 2022-23)

CPPGROUP Services Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 215 ITD 482 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Income from providing centralized group services such as communication, marketing, strategy, HR, treasury, finance-Taxable in India as fees for technical services-Guarantee fee from its Indian subsidiaries for providing corporate and performance guarantees, since providing guarantees was not a regular business activity but an obligation arising from parent-subsidiary relationship, such fee was taxable in India as other income-DTAA-India-Finland.[Art. 7, 12, 21]

Held that assessee, a resident of Finland, earned income from providing centralised group services such as communication, marketing, strategy, HR, treasury, finance and tax to its Indian subsidiaries; such income was taxable in India as a fee for technical services under Article 12 of the India-Finland DTAA. Tribunal also held that the guarantee fee from its Indian subsidiaries for providing corporate and performance guarantees, since providing guarantees was not a regular business activity but an obligation arising from the parent-subsidary relationship, such fee was taxable in India as other income. (AY. 2022-23)

Metso OYJ. v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 214 ITD 533 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Royalties-Consideration from licensing of software and support services-No permanent establishment-Non-taxable business income in the absence of any Permanent Establishment-Addition as FTS/FIS was deleted-DTAA-India-France.[S.9(1)(i), 9(1)(vi, 90, Art. 12]

Assessee, a tax resident of the USA, received consideration from licensing of software to RJIL and support and maintenance services. Assessee claimed that these were business income not chargeable to tax in India in the absence of any PE. Assessing Officer held that the right imparted was to use a proprietary process taxable as process/copyright royalty, and that support and maintenance were inextricably linked to the license and constituted FTS with 'make available' test satisfied. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer assessed the entire receipts as FTS taxable at 10 per cent under Article 12 of DTAA. On appeal, the Tribunal held that consideration for both software licensing and support services (AMC) was not taxable in India as 'Royalty' or 'Fees for Technical/Included Services' under Article 12 of India-USA DTAA, but constituted non-taxable business income in the absence of a Permanent Establishment. Addition was deleted.(AY. 2022-23)

Enea Software Inc. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 542 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-AO taxed the services of the Assessee as FTS-Held, AO did not clarify what information was required from Assessee-Addition is deleted-DTAA-India-Singapore.[Art. 12(4)(b)]

Assessee, a Singaporean entity, offered management services and received money from its Indian subsidiary. AO observed that the Assessee did not demonstrate the nature of the services or the mode or manner in which they were added. The AO taxed them as Financial Technical Services u/s. 9(1)(vii) of the Act. The ITAT observed that though the AO has alleged that the Assessee has failed to furnish necessary details/documents, however, he has not elaborated what were the information required from the Assessee. The ITAT held that the view taken by the AO and the Ld. DRP was contrary to the facts of the case and hence deleted the addition. (AY. 2019-20)

Tagit Pte Ltd. v. DCIT (2024) 159 taxmann.com 93/122 ITR 717 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty/FTS-Foreign company-Taxability of (i) receipt from sale of designs and drawings and (ii) Offshore supply of plants and equipment-Reimbursement for SAP installation-No PE-Not taxable as FTS or royalty-DTAA-India-Germany.[Art. 12]

The assessee, a German company, engaged in supply of plants, equipment and technical services in the metallurgical sector, had entered into contracts with Indian clients. The AO treated the consideration received for (i) drawings and designs, and (ii) offshore supply of plant and equipment, as taxable in India under S. 9(1)(vii), treating it as "fees for technical services" (FTS). A reimbursement towards SAP installation was also brought to tax. The Tribunal noted that these issues had already been decided in favour of the assessee for earlier years (A.Ys. 2005-06, 2014-15 and 2017-18) in ITA No. 1073/Del/2014. Relying on principles of judicial consistency and following the decision in SMS Concast AG v. DDIT (ITA No. 1361/Del/2012), the Tribunal held that sale of drawings and designs is inextricably linked to offshore supply of equipment and is not a separate service. Further, offshore supply of equipment is a sale completely outside India and could not be taxed as FTS or royalty in the absence of a PE. The reimbursement for SAP installation was also held as not taxable in absence of rendering any technical service. However, the Tribunal remanded the matter to the AO for limited verification and reconciliation of the drawings and designs with the relevant projects, giving three effective opportunities to the assessee to explain and prove the linkage. (AY. 2005-06 2014-15, to 2017-18)

SMS Siemag AG v. Deputy DIT (2025) 122 ITR 534 / 211 ITD 119 (Delhi.)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services (FTS)-Functional Service Agreement-Standardized support services-No managerial, technical or consultancy element-Not taxable as FTS-DTAA-India-Belgium. [S.9(1)(vi)), Art. 12(3)(a), 12(3)(b)]

The assessee, Solvay S.A. (Belgium), received Rs.109.72 crore from its Indian affiliates, Solvay Specialties India Pvt. Ltd. and Sunshine Chemicals, towards centralized functional support services rendered under a Functional Service Agreement. The Assessing Officer held the receipts taxable as “royalty” u/s 9(1)(vi) and under Art.12(3)(a) of the India-Belgium DTAA, while the DRP alternatively treated them as “fees for technical services” under S.9(1)(vii) and Art.12(3)(b), holding that the services were managerial, technical, and consultancy in nature. The Tribunal observed that the services rendered relating to IT, procurement, shared business, HR, finance, communication, legal, industrial and other administrative support were routine, standardized, and provided to group entities on a global scale to ensure operational uniformity and efficiency. They did not involve any control or management of the Indian entities’ business, nor any human interface imparting technical expertise or specialized advice. Referring to GVK Industries Ltd. v. ITO (2015) 371 ITR 453(SC), DIT (IT) v. Panalfa Autoelektrik Ltd. (2014) 227 Taxman 351(Delhi)(HC), Springer Verlag GmbH v. DCIT (2022) 197 ITD 173 (Delhi) (Trib) and the OECD e-commerce report (2001), the Tribunal held that “managerial services” require control of management, “technical services” require application of specialized knowledge in a technical field, and “consultancy services” require human interface and advice. The centralized group services were merely support and coordination functions without these characteristics. Applying the rule of consistency as similar receipts were accepted in earlier years, the Tribunal held that the payments could not be characterized as FTS under Art.12(3)(b) of the India-Belgium DTAA or u/s 9(1)(vii). Accordingly, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2022-23) (ITA No. 2071/Mum/2025, dated 27.10.2025)

Solvay S.A. v. DCIT (IT) (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Singapore based company-Business of providing/sub-licensing software and earned revenue from maintenance services and training services provided to its Indian customers-Income of assessee from rendering said services would not fall within ambit of FTS and was not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Singapore. [S. 9(1)(vi), Art. 12]

Assessee, a Singapore based company, was engaged in business of providing/sub-licensing software to entities in financial service sector. It earned revenue from maintenance services and training services provided to its Indian customers-Assessing Officer held that assessee provided training services related to basic use of its company's software. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that income earned was FTS as per DTAA on ground that technical knowledge, experience, and skill possessed by assessee with regard to various aspects were made available in form of advice or services, which were finally used by Indian customers. It was noted that Tribunal in assessee's own case for assessment year 2018-19, held that maintenance services and training services provided by assessee to Indian customers did not fall within ambit of FTS under article 12 of India-Singapore DTAA as services did not make available any technical skills, knowledge, or expertise etc., which enabled Indian customers to apply technology contained therein, and therefore income of assessee from rendering services was not taxable in India. Following same, income earned by assessee from maintenance services and training services was not taxable in India. (AY. 2015-16 2016-17, 2017-18)

DCIT (IT) v. Murex Southeast Asia (P.) Ltd. (2025) 212 ITD 592 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Fabrication charges-From its Indian AE for manufacturing glass-Not fees for technical services-DTAA-India-Singapore [Art. 12(4)]

Assessee, a Singapore based company, engaged in business of manufacturing and sale of glass fibers in India. It had provided bushing and fabrication services to Indian AE. The AO treated the said receipts as fees for technical services. DRP sustained the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that fabrication charges received by assessee from its Indian AE for manufacturing glass is not FTS under India-Singapore DTAA. (AY. 2021-22)

Owens Corning (Singapore) (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 212 ITD 110 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii) : Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-IT support services, maintenance services, etc. to Indian sister concern-Services did not make available technical knowledge, experience, skills, etc.-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-USA. [S. 9(1)(viib), Art. 12(4)]

The assessee, a US-based company, received income from its Indian sister concern for providing IT support and maintenance services. The AO treated the receipts as fees for technical services under section 9(1)(vii)(b) and as fees for included services (FIS) under Article 12(4) of the India-US DTAA, which was upheld by the DRP. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the services rendered did not fall within the scope of 'making available' technical knowledge, experience, or skill as per Article 12. Since the Indian entity could not manage the IT environment independently and needed continuous recourse to the assessee, the services were not taxable in India as FIS under the DTAA. (AY. 2015-16)

Visteon Corporation v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 423 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Fees for provisions for other related services-Software itself is not taxable-Addition made for other related services is deleted-DTAA-India-UK.[S. 9(1)(vi), Art. 13]

Assessee, a UK based company, which is engaged in business of providing information technology related services to financial payments industry. During year, assessee had earned revenue from Indian customers on account of sale of software (Prime) license fee and fee for provision for other related services. Assessing Officer held that receipts on account of fee for provision for other related services constituted fees for technical services (FTS) within meaning and scope of article 13(4)(c) of India-UK DTAA. Department had not brought any evidence on record to substantiate that make available condition was satisfied in case of assessee. Tribunal held that software itself was not taxable, 'Fees for provisions for other related services' will also not be taxable. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

TSYS Card Tech Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 201 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Supply of drawings and designs-Not assessable as fees for technical services-Supervisory services-Contract competition method-Remanded to the Assessing Officer-DTAA-India-Germany. [S.9(1)(vi, 147, Art. 7, 12]

Assessee, a German company, which is engaged in business of supply of plant, equipment, drawings and rendering of technical services to customers in metallurgical sector. During year under consideration, assessee entered into various contracts with Indian clients for supply of drawings and designs in relation to plant from Germany and rendering of technical services. Assessee offered receipts from drawings and designs and technical services as fee for technical services' (FTS) at rate of 10 per cent as per DTAA between India and Germany. Assessing Officer held that the assessee had not offered to tax receipts from one Indian company (JSPL). Accordingly, he proceeded to reopen assessment and brought to tax receipts from one Indian company at 10 per cent as FTS. On appeal following the order of the sister concern since provisions of royalties and FTS are similar in nature, Assessing Officer was to be directed to delete addition. As regards supervisory services the assessee following the contract competition method the issue is remanded to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2005-06, 2014-15, to 2017-18)

DCIT v. SMS Siemag AG. (2025) 211 ITD 119 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Make available-Provided/sublicensed software to entities in financial service sector and also provided maintenance, support and training services and received fees towards same-No PE in India-Recipient, fees received by assessee could not be taxed in India-Additional services related to implementation and migration of software to its Indian customers-Business receipts-No PE in India-Not taxable-DTAA-India-Singapore. [S.9(1)(i), Art. 12 (4)(b)]

Assessee, a Singapore based company, which is engaged in business of providing/sublicensing software to entities in financial service sector and also provided maintenance, support and training services Assessee received fees towards maintenance, other support and training services provided to its Indian customers. Assessee claimed that it did not have any permanent establishment (PE) in India and, thus, said receipts could not be taxed in India. Assessing Officer held that assessee had made available technical knowledge, know-how, skill etc. to service recipient and, thus, fees received would qualify as FTS under article 12(4)(b) of DTAA as well as section 9(1)(vii). DRP up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee was providing identical nature of services year on year basis and had not made available technical knowledge, know-how, skill etc. to service recipient. Since assessee did not have any PE in India, fees received by it for providing maintenance, support and training services could not be taxed in India. As regards additional services related to implementation and migration of software to its Indian customers is business receipts as there is no PE in India the receipt is not taxable. (AY. 2019-20, 2021-22)

Murex Southeast Asia (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT, IT (2025) 211 ITD 106 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 9(1)(vii): Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Cost Contribution Agreement (CCA) with group company, incorporated in UK, for provision of Business Support Services (BSS)-Services were in nature of managerial services and not technical services-Not taxable as fee for technical services (FTS)-The amount received by assessee, a UK based company, towards usage charges of software was not payment of royalty for use of copyright in computer software, and same did not give rise to any income taxable in India-DTAA-India-UK. [S. 9(1)(vi), Art. 13]

Held that the amount received in respect of Cost Contribution Agreement (CCA) with group company, incorporated in UK, for provision of Business Support Services (BSS), since services were in nature of managerial services and not technical services which made available, same were not taxable as fee for technical services (FTS) in hands of assessee. Similarly the amount received by assessee, a UK based company, towards usage charges of software was not payment of royalty for use of copyright in computer software, and same did not give rise to any income taxable in India. (AY. 2011-12)

Shell international petroleum company Ltd. v. ACIT (IT) (2025)
211 ITD 302 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 9(1)(vii):Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Fees for technical services-Sales commission received by USA Company from Indian company-marketing services provided outside India-Cannot be considered as FTS under 9(1)(vii) and Article 12 of DTAA-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-USA. [Art. 12]

Assessee is a USA company and subsidiary of Indian company. The company provides sales and marketing services to the Holding co. for the product/services in the global market. AO treated the sales commission received by the company from the Indian company as Fees for Technical services. The Tribunal held the matter as covered by the earlier order of same ITAT in the case of assessee based on the reasoning that the assessee is not providing any technical, managerial or consultancy services rather has been engaged to act as authorized business partner to market and promote the products or services of Holding company outside India. The decision regarding what are the products/services that are to be developed or provided, the price to be charged to the customer etc. are solely taken by Indian Co. The assessee does not play any role in the decision-making process. Further, once the assessee procures the orders, it is at the discretion of Indian Co. whether to sell the product or render services to identified customers. Further, it was held that the payments towards sales and marketing services provide by the assessee is not covered under sub clause (a) to Article 12(4) of India-USA DTAA as it is not ancillary to application or enjoyment of any right. Further, clause (b) to Article 12(4) of India-USA DTAA is only applicable if the services are in the nature of technical or consultancy services. The sales and marketing services rendered by assessee is not in the nature of technical or consultancy services. Therefore, it was held that income can neither be considered as

FTS under the Act nor under the DTAA provisions. Not taxable in India.
(AY.2013-14 to 2016-17)

Manthan System Inc v. DCIT (IT). [2025] 121 ITR 198/172
taxmann.com 8 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 10 : Assessment-Undisclosed asset located outside India-Bank account outside India-Documents were given to the bank much before the enactment of Black Money Act-Inheritance-Income earned abroad-Addition was deleted. [S. 10(3)]

Held that the Assessee explained that the bank accounts in foreign country were initially opened by his father and later the said accounts were independently operated by his mother till the time she was alive, though the accounts were standing in the joint names of the assessee and his mother, the AO was not justified in assessing the deposits in the said accounts in the assessee's hands under S. 10(3) of the Black Money Act.
(AY-2019-20)

Nirmal Jethalal Modi v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 575 / 173
taxmann.com 400 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 10(1): Agricultural income-Hybrid seeds-Assessee not owner of agricultural land-Agricultural operations carried out jointly with farmers-Exemption allowable.

The assessee, engaged in the business of producing and marketing hybrid seeds through agreements with farmers, claimed exemption under section 10(1). The Assessing Officer denied the claim on the ground that the assessee neither owned nor leased the agricultural land and merely supervised the activities. The Tribunal held that ownership or possession of land is not a pre-condition for claiming agricultural income. The agreements with the farmers, coupled with their statements, established that the assessee actively participated in all stages of cultivation, including sowing, germination, detasseling and harvesting, and compensated the farmers based on production. As the facts were identical to earlier years in which the assessee's claim had been accepted by the Tribunal and the High Court, the exemption under section 10(1) was held to be allowable. (AY. 2009-10, 2012-13).

Bayer Crop Science Ltd. (Successor to Monsanto India Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 679 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S.10 (1) : Agricultural income-Capital asset-Agricultural land-Land situated within Gram Panchayat-Population below prescribed limit-Rural agricultural land not a capital asset-Estimation-Agricultural operations established by revenue records-Absence of regular books-Fair estimation of income justified.[S. 2(14)(iii),132(4), 153A]

The assessee claimed that the land sold during the year was rural agricultural land and, therefore, not a capital asset. The lower authorities rejected the claim on the ground that the land was situated within a specified distance from the municipal limits. The Tribunal held that the land was situated within the jurisdiction of a Gram Panchayat having a population of only 382 persons and not within the jurisdiction of any municipality or municipal corporation. Since the conditions prescribed under section 2(14) were not satisfied, the land did not constitute a capital asset and the capital gains arising from its transfer were not chargeable to tax. The Assessing Officer treated the agricultural income declared by the assessee as income from other sources for want of supporting vouchers and records. The Tribunal held that agricultural operations were duly established by Khasra Girdawari and other revenue records showing cultivation of crops on the land. Since maintenance of regular books is not statutorily required for agricultural activities, agricultural income has to be fairly estimated where complete vouchers are not available. Considering the irrigated land and crops cultivated, the Tribunal estimated the agricultural income at ₹1.50 lakh and deleted the addition made by the Assessing Officer (AY. 2015-16).

Vinaya Sharma v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 738 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 10(10AA) : Leave salary-Employee of the Central Government or State Government-State Bank of India-Retired employee of State Bank of India-Not violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.[Art. 14, 15, 226, Central Civil Services (Leave)Rules 1972]

Assessee retired from the services of State Bank of India and claimed exemption u/s10(10AA) of the Act. The exemption is denied. The assessee contended that the law discriminating between Central or State services, in case of employees of other establishments, period of leave was capped at 10 months and maximum amount exempted from income tax was subject to such limit as Central Government might notify in Official Gazette, that same being in year 2017 to be Rs. 3 lakhs was discriminatory and hence be declared ultra vires. On writ, the Court held that the State has wide discretion in the matter of classification for taxation purposes. Accordingly, the differentiation made by the State between employees of Central and State Governments on one hand and employees of other establishments on the other in section 10 (10AA) was neither discriminatory nor violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. Therefore, a retired employee of State Bank of India could not claim parity with employees of the Central and State Government. Writ petition is dismissed.

Purnendu Shekhar Sinha v. UOI (2024) 471 ITR 186 /159 taxmann.com 746 (Patna) (HC)

S. 10(10AA): Leave salary-Employee of the Central Government or State Government-Allowed only partial exemption-Matter was remanded for fresh adjudication in light of said notification and related judicial pronouncements. [S.10AA(ii)]

Assessee received leave encashment on retirement, claimed full exemption under section 10(10AA)(ii), but was allowed only partial exemption.

Tribunal held that since CBDT vide Notification No. 31/2023 dt 24-5 2023, had enhanced limit of exemption under section 10(10AA)(ii), matter was remanded for fresh adjudication in light of said notification and related judicial pronouncements. (AY. 2020-21)

Sunil Kumar Bhilare. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 476(SMC) (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 10(10B) : Compensation-Workmen-Voluntary Retirement Scheme on closure of the company-Entitled to exemption-Gratuity-Salary includes gratuity-Relief to be provided under section 89 in taking net gratuity amount. [S 10(10)(C), 17(iii), 89]

The Assessee was an employee in the company. The Assessee received monetary benefits such as salary, compensation, gratuity and leave encashment under the Voluntary Retirement Scheme on closure of the company. The Assessee filed the original return of income, and subsequently the same was revised wherein the Assessee claimed exemption under section 10(10C) of the Act, apart from claiming exemption against Gratuity and Leave Encashment under section 10 as per Form 16. The Assessee also claimed rebate under section 89 on gratuity and VRS compensation. The AO passed the assessment order by allowing exemption under section 10(10C) of the Act and rejecting the claim under section 89 by holding that the Assessee is not entitled to both the exemption under section 10(10C) and benefit under section 89 of the Act. Being aggrieved, the appeal was filed before CIT(A). In the appellate proceedings, the Assessee challenged the disallowance of claim under section 89 and also raised a new claim that, the Assessee is entitled for the exemption under section 10(10B) instead of 10(10C) against VRS compensation. However, the CIT(A) did not allow any relief as claimed. Thus, being aggrieved by the order of the CIT(A), the appeal was preferred before the ITAT. The ITAT observed that, in the case of other employees, the-CIT(A) has consistently allowed the claim of exemption under section 10(10B) of the Act. In case of some of the employees, the AO at the assessment level has allowed the claim of the Assessee. Thus, it is a classic case of unnecessary litigation which has left the Assessee with no option but to seek necessary redressal. Further, this issue has been examined by the Hon'ble Madras High Court in the case of Hindustan Photo Film Workers decision dated 17/03/2017 in writ petition no. 18566 of 2015 and thereafter has attained finality in view of the dismissal of the SLP by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Thus, the appeal of the Assessee was allowed by the ITAT. Tribunal also held that salary includes gratuity; therefore, relief is to be provided under section 89 in taking the net gratuity amount. [AY. 2017-18]

Bhup Singh v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 370 (Chd)(Trib.)

Kishori Lal Batra v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 370 (Chd)(Trib.)

Suresh Pal Chauhan v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 370 (Chd)(Trib.)

Surinder Singh v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 370 (Chd)(Trib.)

Mehara Singh Saini v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 370 (Chd)(Trib.)

S. 10(20) :Local authority-Not claimed the benefit-Order of High Court is set a side and the matters are remanded to the High Court for consideration afresh in accordance with law and on their own merits.[S. 11, 12, Art. 136]

Held that the assessee has not claimed benefit under s. 10(20), the High Court was not justified in considering the matter under s. 10(20); impugned orders are set aside and the matters are remanded to the High Court for consideration afresh in accordance with law and on their own merits. Followed, CIT (E) v. Jaipur Development Authority (2022) 329 CTR (SC) 222 : (2022) 218 DTR 530 (SC).

CIT (E) v. Jaipur Development Authority (2025) 342 CTR 236 / 245 DTR 14 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (E) v. Jaipur Development Authority (ITA Nos. 218 of 2017 and 113 of 2016 dt. 6-9-2017 (Raj))(HC)

S. 10(23AAA): Funds established for the welfare of employees-Army school established and funded by the regimental fund of the Indian Army-Welfare of defence personnel-The matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration.

Held that the assessee, an Army school established and funded by the regimental fund of the Indian Army for the welfare of defence personnel, claimed exemption under section 10(23AA) of the Act. Tribunal remanded the matter to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. (AY. 2019-20)
Army Base Workshop High School. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 142 (SMC) (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C) : Hospital-Profit motive-Exemption rightly denied-Permitted to withdraw the appeal-Appeal was dismissed as withdrawn. [S.10(23C)(via), Art. 136]

The assessee-trust was running a hospital and applied for approval under section 10(23C). The Chief Commissioner rejected the application on the ground that the hospital was being run with a profit motive. On examination of the annual accounts of earlier years, it was found that the assessee was consistently generating surplus, its assets were increasing, and only a very small amount was spent on the weaker sections of society. The High Court held that an institution which appears charitable but is in fact run for profit does not qualify for exemption under section 10(23C), and therefore the rejection of approval was justified. The assessee's application for withdrawal of appeal against the said high court order was allowed by the Hon. Supreme Court.(AY. 2009-10)

Yash Society v. Chief CIT (2025) 306 Taxman 355 (SC)

Editorial: Affirmed, Yash Society v. CCIT (2015) 231 Taxman 256/375 ITR 152/275 CTR 510 (Bom)(HC)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Ancillary activities were connected with the main activity of imparting education-Nominal profit earned was again utilised for the main object of education-Entitled to exemption. [S. 10(23C)(vi), 260A]

From the trust-deed translated and reproduced in English, the Tribunal found that the assessee carried out all other ancillary activities, such as promotion of cultural, social and sports necessary for building the character of students, and that these were co-related to the main activity of education. It further found that the nominal profit earned by the assessee while it carried out the charitable activities were not with a profit motive and the profit so earned was again utilised for charitable activities by it. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the other ancillary activities were only to promote the main activity of education, and the nominal profit earned did not mean that the assessee was engaged in commercial activities. On appeal. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2019-20)

CIT (E) v. Star Education Trust.(2025) 483 ITR 268 (Guj)(HC)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Hospital or medical institution Grand-in-aid from Government Effect of section 10(23C) (iiia-c)- Interest on grants-in-aid-To be added to grants-in-aid or returned to Government-Interest entitled to exemption [S. 10(23C) (iiia-c).]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the issue raised was for the assessment year 2013-2014. Upon reading the provisions of section 10(23C)(iiia-c) of the Act and rule 2BBB of the Income-tax Rules, 1962 it was clear that in the given period, the Government had to either directly fund the concerned hospital or institute or seek adjustment by factoring in the interest earned on previous grants. In case there was no adjustment, the interest, would have to be returned to the concerned Government for being credited to the Consolidated Fund of India. That being the position, no interference was called for with the order. No substantial question of law arose for consideration. Finance (No. 2) Act, 2014, with effect from April 1, 2015 ((2014) 366 ITR (St) 21).

CIT (E). v. Institute of Liver and Biliary Sciences (2025) 482 ITR 1004 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Multiple objectives beyond educational purposes-Not founded and existed solely for educational purposes-Denial of exemption is affirmed. [S. 10(23C)(vi), Art. 226]

The Commissioner rejected the application on the ground that the assessee did not exist solely for educational purposes. On writ dismissing the petition the Court held that order of the Commissioner rejecting the application is justified. (AY. 2012-13)

Shri Guru Hargobind Sahib Charitable Trust v. CBDT (2025) 473 ITR 580 (P&H)(HC)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Exemption-Registration under S. 12A not mandatory-Addition was deleted..(S. 10(23C)(iiiad), 12A, 144)

An educational institution whose annual receipts were below the prescribed monetary limit was entitled to exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiad) notwithstanding the absence of registration under section 12A. Cash deposits made during the demonetisation period, being lower than the fees received from students, were rightly treated as educational receipts and not business income. In the absence of any material to show that the institution did not exist solely for educational purposes, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

National Institute for Teacher Education v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 72 (SN) (Guwahati)(Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Exemption-Substantially financed by Government-CPC-Processing of return-Interest on Government grant-Public-private partnership-Denial of exemption was not justified. [S.10(23C)(iiiab), 143(1)]

An educational institution established under the Ministry of Labour and Employment was held entitled to exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiab). The Tribunal held that Government grants received in earlier years and invested in fixed deposits continued to constitute Government funding, and the interest earned thereon, being utilised solely for the objects of the institution, retained the character of Government financing. As the institution was substantially financed by the Central Government, denial of exemption by the CPC and the Commissioner (Appeals) was not justified. (AY. 2022-23)

Institute Management Committee of Government ITI Peth v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 76 (SN) (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 10(23C): Educational institution-Registration-Wrong provision mentioned in application-Technical mistake by counsel-Genuine institution already in existence-Final approval cannot be denied on hyper-technical ground. (First proviso cls. (iii), (iv))

The assessee, an Indian Institute of Management established by the Government of India and declared an institution of national importance, obtained provisional approval under an incorrect sub-clause due to an inadvertent error while filing Form No. 10A. Though the CIT(E) accepted the genuineness of the activities, final approval under section 10(23C) was rejected on the ground that provisional approval itself was wrongly granted as the institution had already commenced its activities. The Tribunal held that the error was purely technical and attributable to the incorrect selection of the relevant provision. Since there was no dispute regarding the objects or genuineness of the institution, the CIT(E) was directed to grant approval by treating the assessee as an institution existing prior to 1-4-2021. (AY. 2024-25)

Indian Institute of Management v. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 23 (Chd.)(Trib).

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Filing of return-total income of the assessee without giving effect to the provisions of s. 10(23C)(iiiad)] exceeded the maximum amount not chargeable to income-tax-Not required to file return of income either under section 139(1) or under section 139(4C)-Return filed in response to section 148 cannot be treated as invalid-Disallowance of claim was not justified. [S. 10(23C)(iiiad), 139(1) 139(4C), 148]

Tribunal held that there is nothing on record to show that the total income of the assessee without giving effect to the provisions of s. 10(23C)(iiiad) exceeded the maximum amount not chargeable to income-tax. The assessee was not required to furnish a return of income either under s. 139(1) or s. 139(4C). The assessee having complied with the notices issued under s. 148 and filed returns within the specified period, said returns could not be treated as invalid returns on the ground that the same were not filed within the time prescribed under s. 139(1) and, therefore, claim of exemption under s. 10(23C)(iiiad) could not be denied on that ground.(AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Institute Management Committee ITI Jhalawar v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 420 / 174 taxmann.com 1071 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Exemption-Return-Wrong ITR Form cannot defeat exemption [S. 139, 10(23C)(iiiad)]

The assessee claimed exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiad) but filed the return in the wrong ITR Form. The Tribunal held that filing an incorrect return form is only a procedural lapse and cannot deprive the assessee of a substantive exemption. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to examine the eligibility of the exemption on merits. (AY. 2018-19)

Sree Vishwabharathi Charitable Trust v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 828 / 178 taxmann.com 544 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 10(23C): Educational institution-Wrong sub-clause mentioned in return-Institution otherwise eligible-Exemption allowable-Appeal to Appellate Tribunal-Delay of 691 days and 706 days-Delay caused by Chartered Accountant's misrepresentation-Sufficient cause-Delay condoned. [S. 10(23C)(iiiab), 254(1)]

The assessee claimed exemption under an incorrect sub-clause of section 10(23C) due to an error committed by its Chartered Accountant. The Tribunal held that the assessee was substantially financed by the Government and otherwise fulfilled all the conditions of section 10(23C)(iiiab). A mere mistake in quoting the wrong provision could not deprive the assessee of the statutory exemption. The assessee, an agricultural university, explained that its Chartered Accountant had misrepresented that the appeals had already been filed and it became aware of the default only upon receipt of recovery notices. Considering that the university officials had no specialised tax knowledge and had acted bona fide, the Tribunal condoned the delays of 691 days and 706 days in filing the appeals. (AY. 2018-19 & 2019-20).

Punjab Agricultural University v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 134 / 170 taxmann.com 86 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Approval-Exemption claimed u/s 10(23C)(iiiad)-Only after receipt of approval u/s 10(23C)(i) r.w.s. 10(23C)(vi) for the relevant year-held, it was entitled to claim exemption u/s 10(23C) even though it was not registered u/s 12A[S. 10(23C)(1), 10(23C)(vi), 12A]

The only issue involved is whether the adjustment can be done u/s 143(1), only on the basis of approval received u/s 10(23C)(i) r.w.s. 10(23C)(vi) but in the absence of approval u/s 12A. It was held that, in principle, the findings of the Commissioner (Appeals) in the impugned order were well-reasoned. But the anomaly arose after the approval u/s 10(23C)(i) r.w.s. 10(23C)(vi) was received, as the assessee's entire income having derived from the educational institution, was fully exempted even after the said adjustment, as the tax cannot be levied on the exempted income. In such facts and circumstances, the matter was restored back to the AO to give effect to the order passed u/s 10(23C)(i) r.w.s. 10(23C)(vi) for the relevant year as the assessee was entitled to claim exemption u/s 10(23C).

Therefore, the AO was directed to allow the benefit of S. 10(23C) and allow consequential relief to the assessee. (AY. 2022-23)

Ashrafi Devi Shikha Samiti (Smt.) v. ITO (E) (2025) 172 taxmann.com 568 / 123 ITR 23 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Delay in filing application-No mala fide conduct or gross negligence-Delay was condoned-Matter was remanded to the file of CIT (E). [S.10(23C)(5)]

CIT(E) rejected assessee's application on the ground of delayed filing. On appeal, the Tribunal held that procedural delay should not defeat substantive rights in the absence of mala fide conduct or gross negligence. The delay was condoned, and the matter was remanded to CIT E) to decide on the merits.

Chetana. v. CIT (E) (2025) 214 ITD 91 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Clerical omission, deduction was claimed under section 10(23C)(iiia) instead of the correct section 10(23C)(vi)-Order of Assessing Officer rejecting the request for rectification was set aside. [S. 10(23C)(iiia), 10(23C)(vi), 11,12, 12AA Form No.10B]

Assessee-trust, running an educational institution, was registered under section 12AA and also under section 10(23C)(vi). In return for income, assessee had claimed exemption under section 10(23C)(iiia). Assessing Officer held that assessee was neither entitled to claim exemption under section 10(23C)(iiia) as it could be given only up to annual receipts of Rs. 1 crore in view of rule 2BC nor under section 11, due to non-submission of Form 10B along with return, which was required to be filed online in accordance with section 12A(b). The Assessing Officer rejected the request for rectification of mistake. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had mentioned that due to a clerical omission, deduction was claimed under section 10(23C)(iiia) instead of the correct section 10(23C)(vi) and had submitted a rectification request to substitute section 10(23C)(vi) in place of section 10(23C)(iiiad), which was rejected. Further, required Form No. 10B could not be submitted in electronic mode despite best efforts but was submitted in physical form by assessee's Chartered Accountant and the same was accepted by the Assessing Officer. Tribunal held that since such a clerical mistake should have been rectified by the revenue authorities, the rejection order was set aside. Since Form No. 10B was submitted in physical form before the prescribed date of filing of return, the Assessing Officer should not have denied the rightful claim of assessee merely on the basis that Form No. 10B was not filed along with return in electronic form.(AY. 2017-18)

Om Charitable Chikitsa Samiti.v. Assessing Officer (E) (2025) 214 ITD 633 (Agra) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-University was established by State Legislature Act-Substantially financed by Government to the extent of 31.76 per cent-Eligible for exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiab) [S. 10(23C)(iiab)]

Assessee-university was established by the State Legislature Act. It claimed exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiab). Assessing Officer held that the government grant as a percentage of total receipts was computed by assessee at 47 per cent; however, he recomputed it at 31.76 per cent. Assessing Officer held that the expression 'substantially financed' required a government grant to exceed 50 per cent of total receipts and, accordingly, denied exemption. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that financing to the extent of 37.85 per cent and even 25 per cent could constitute substantial financing as held by High Courts;,,therefore, the assessee was substantially financed by the Government in the relevant year and was eligible for exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiab) of the Act. (AY. 2012-13)

Guru Nanak Dev University. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 410 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Cash deposits in bank-Denial of exemption-Entire deposits cannot be added-Income has to be computed on a commercial basis after allowing the expenditure-Matter remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer. [S. 10(23C)(iiiab) 148]

Assessee university claimed that its income was exempt under section 10(23C)(iiiab). Accordingly, it did not file a return of income. However, no return of income was filed. The Assessing Officer added the entire cash deposits in the bank account, interest income and payments to hotel and restaurant bills to the income of the assessee without allowing any expenditure. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on account of delay in filing of the appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal held that even if exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiab) was not allowed, entire deposits which were claimed to be out of fee received and grants from Government could not have been added without considering income on a commercial basis and after allowing expenditure. Therefore, the order of the Assessing Officer was to be set aside, and the issue was to be remitted to file of Assessing Officer for framing the assessment afresh after considering submissions which might be filed by the assessee in support of its claim for exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiab). (AY. 2015-16)

University of North Bengal. v. DCIT(E) (2025) 213 ITD 415 (Kol) (Trib)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Two educational institutions-Each educational institution had earned gross receipts of less than Rs. 1 crore from each school-Income is exempted from tax as per provisions of section 10(23C)(iiia) of the Act.[S. 10(23C)(iiia)]

Assessee-society was running two educational institutions. It had earned gross receipts of less than Rs. 1 crore from each school. Assessee claimed that since it was existing solely for educational purpose, income earned by it would be exempted from tax as per provisions of section 10(23C)(iiia)

read with rule 2BC of Income-tax Rules, 1962. Assessing Officer denied exemption on ground that assessee had received total receipts of Rs. 1.25 crore which was more than Rs. 1 crore. CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since annual income was less than Rs. 1 crore from each school and existing solely for educational purposes, income of assessee is exempt from tax.(AY. 2018-19)

ICF Silver Jubilee Nursery & Primary School. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 72 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Provisional registration-Rejection of final registration on technical mistake was set aside-Commissioner (E) was to be directed to grant approval as if it was an old Institute, which came into existence prior to 1-4-2021 and was entitled to get approval under clause (iii) of first proviso to clause (23C) of section 10. [S.10(23C) (iii)]

Assessee was a Centrally Funded Institution of National Importance set up by Government of India in 2015. Assessee applied for provisional registration in Form 10A and said provisional registration was granted in Form 10AC under sub-clause (A) of clause (iv) of first proviso to clause (23C) of section 10. Thereafter, assessee applied for final registration under clause (iii) of first proviso to clause (23C) of section 10. Commissioner (E) denied approval on ground that provisional approval could not have been granted to assessee as assessee had already commenced its activities in 2015 and, thus, provisional approval being bad in law was rejected. On appeal the Tribunal held that since approval was refused only on account of technical mistake on part of assessee, who inadvertently had chosen wrong sub-section while moving application for approval, Commissioner (E) was to be directed to grant approval to assessee as if it was an old Institute, which came into existence prior to 1-4-2021 and was entitled to get approval under clause (iii) of first proviso to clause (23C) of section 10.

Indian Institute of Management. v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 485 (Chd.) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Wrong sub section is mentioned in the return-Mistake of counsel-Exemption is allowed-Non filing of audit report-Not applicable to university-Entitle to exemption-Delay of 691 and 706 days-Mistake of counsel-Delay is condoned. [S. 10(23C)(iiiab), 12A, 44AB,253(5), 254(1)]

Delay of 691 days and 706 days in filing the appeal was due to mistake of counsel. Delay is condoned. Held that claim for exemption cannot be disallowed simply because while filing the return of income, wrong sub-clause of S. 10(23C) has been mentioned by mistake. Tribunal also held that non-filing of audit report-Condition of filing audit report under s. 44AB and registration under s. 12A is not applicable to assessee university. It was merely a mistake on the part of the counsel in claiming the exemption by mentioning wrong sub-clause of s. 10(23C). Entitle to exemption. (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20)

Punjab Agriculture University v. Dy.CIT (E) (2025) 170 taxmann.com 86/ 124 ITR 134 / 233 TTJ 58 (UO)(Chd)(Trib)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Grants-Interest from fixed deposits-Interest received on fixed deposits made out of unspent grants would be treated as a grant and if said interest amount was added to total grants received during year-Excess of 50 per cent-Entitled to exemption.[S. 10(23C)(iiiac)]

Assessee-trust is running an educational institution. It claimed exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiac). Assessing Officer denied exemption on ground that assessee had received less than 50 per cent of total receipts as grant from Government. On appeal the CIT(A) allowed the exemption. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had received a grant of certain amount and apart from said grants, assessee had also received interest on term deposits made by assessee out of excess credits of unspent grant. Interest received on fixed deposits made out of unspent grants would be treated as a grant and if said interest amount was added to total grants received during year, it would exceed 50 per cent prescribed under section 10(23C)(iiia). Eligible exemption. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

ACIT v. Karnataka Institute of Diabetology. (2025) 211 ITD 210 /235 TTJ 874 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 10 (23C): Educational institution-Objectionable clause-Not carried out any activities as per objectionable clauses-Exemption cannot be denied-Modified the objectionable objects-Matter remanded to Commissioner (E). [S.10(23C)(iv), Companies Act, S.8]

Assessee-society is an approved educational institution under section 10(23C)(vi). It has converted into a section 8 company. Since status of assessee changed from society to section 8 company, it filed an application seeking grant of fresh approval under section 10(23C)(vi) of the Act. Commissioner (E) rejected application on ground that assessee-company's objects included running rehabilitation centres, medical centres, clinics, providing free medical services to poor people which were not solely for educational or incidental to educational activities. On appeal the Tribunal held that mere mention of fact that certain activities were authorized to be undertaken by assessee could not in any manner prove to be a hindrance without said activities having actually been undertaken by assessee and, therefore, assessee could not be penalized or faulted for any activity which it had not yet undertaken solely on ground that it might, on some future uncertain date, undertake those activities which in opinion of Commissioner (E) might not be held to be wholly attributable to purpose of imparting education. The Tribunal also held that the assessee had already modified its objects by removing objectionable objects referred to Commissioner (E) hence the matter is remitted back to Commissioner (E).

G.H.R. Educational Foundation. v. CIT(E) (2025) 211 ITD 684 // 125 ITR 164 (Nagpur) (Trib.)

S. 10(23D) : Mutual Fund-Income-Exemption-Scheme vested in UTI Mutual Fund-Separate SEBI registration for each scheme not necessary-Exemption allowable. [Unit Trust of India (Transfer of Undertaking and Repeal) Act, 2002, Sch. II, Entry 37]

The Assessing Officer denied exemption under section 10(23D) on the ground that the assessee-trust did not possess a separate registration from the Securities and Exchange Board of India. The Tribunal held that the assessee's scheme had vested in UTI Mutual Fund under the Unit Trust of India (Transfer of Undertaking and Repeal) Act, 2002 and was one of the schemes approved by SEBI through the registration granted to UTI Mutual Fund. Separate registration of each scheme was not a statutory requirement. Accordingly, the exemption under section 10(23D) was held to be allowable. (AY. 2014-15, 2016-17, 2017-18 & 2018-19).

Dy. CIT v. UTI India Fund Unit Scheme 1986 (2025) 129 ITR 207 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S.10(23G):Infrastructure undertaking-Banking company-Made investments or had advanced loans to companies engaged in business of infrastructure development-Eligible for claiming exemption.

Assessee banking company claimed exemption under section 10(23G)- Assessing Officer was of view that exemption under section 10(23G) was available to any infrastructure capital fund or infrastructure capital company and since assessee was a financial institution engaged in business of banking, therefore, was neither an infrastructure capital company nor an infrastructure fund and therefore, assessee was not eligible for claim of exemption under section 10(23G). CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee.. On appeal the Tribunal held that CBDT circular no. 762 dated 18th February 1998, makes it clear that even a company which is directly not carrying out development of infrastructure facilities would also be eligible for exemption if it invests in shares or providing long term finance to an enterprise engaged in business of providing infrastructure would be treated as infrastructure capital company, therefore, since assessee had made investments or had advanced loans to companies engaged in business of infrastructure development, assessee was eligible for claiming exemption under section 10(23G). Order of the CIT(A) is affirmed.](AY. 2006-07)

DCIT v. ICICI Bank Ltd. (2025)210 ITD 643 (Mum(Trib.))

S. 10(25): Recognised Provident Fund-Exemption-Income of recognised PF not taxable. [S.10(23AAA, 10(25)(ii), 139]

Assessee, a recognised Provident Fund, claimed exemption on interest income under S. 10(23AAA), which was denied by the AO and CIT(A). Before the Tribunal, the assessee raised an additional ground claiming exemption under S. 10(25)(ii). The Tribunal accepted the contention and held that the income of a recognised provident fund is unconditionally exempt under S. 10(25)(ii) and such assessee is not required to file a return of income, as clarified by CBDT Circular No. 4/2002.

Mayurakshi Gramin Bank Employees Provident Fund v. DCIT (2025) 122 ITR 50 (SN) (Kol.) (Trib.)

S.10(26): Schedule Tribes-Member of Scheduled Tribe community of Rajasthan, was posted at Agartala, Tripura, a specified area- Entitled to benefits of exemption from income tax flowing from provisions of section 10(26) of the Act.[Art. 226]

Assessee belonged to Meena community, which was considered a Scheduled Tribe under the Constitution Scheduled Tribe State Order, 1951, in State of Rajasthan. He was recruited in Border Security Force in year 1991 as an Assistant Commandant. Assessee claimed exemption under section 10(26) and sought refund of income tax deducted from his salary. On writ the Court held assessee claimed exemption of income tax for period he was posted in Agartala, Tripura. Since Agartala, Tripura is a specified area under the provisions of section 10(26), assessee would be entitled to the benefits of exemption from income tax flowing from the provisions of section 10(26) of the Act.

UOI v. Chyawan Prakash Meena B (2025) (2025) 481 ITR 758 / 174 taxmann.com 271 (Gauhati) (HC)

S. 10(26) : Schedule Tribes-Residing in Ladakh-Failure to prove residence in specified area and income derived from such area-Mere production of ST certificate not sufficient-Concurrent findings of fact not interfered with in writ jurisdiction-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 144, 264, Art. 226]

The assessee claimed exemption under s. 10(26) for AY 2016-17. He had not filed his return of income despite being allotted PAN wherein his address was shown as Mumbai. In proceedings initiated under s. 144, the assessee failed to produce material to establish that he satisfied the three statutory conditions under s. 10(26), namely (i) that he belonged to a Scheduled Tribe, (ii) that he was residing in the specified area (Ladakh region), and (iii) that the income claimed as exempt was derived from a source in such specified area. Though an ST certificate dated 17-5-2019 was furnished, no evidence was produced to prove residence in Ladakh during the relevant year or that the bank deposits represented income derived from sources in the specified area. A resident certificate issued subsequently in February 2022 was held insufficient to establish residence during the relevant assessment years. The AO completed the assessment denying exemption; the revision petition under s. 264 was dismissed by the PCIT concurring with the AO's factual findings. On writ, the High Court held that satisfaction of the conditions under s. 10(26) is a question of fact to be determined on evidence. The assessee, having failed to prove residence in the specified area and nexus of income with such area, was not entitled to exemption. In view of concurrent findings of fact by two authorities, no interference was warranted under Art. 226. Writ petition dismissed. (AY. 2016-17)

Mehmood Askari v. UOI (2025) 305 Taxman 528 / 345 CTR 227 / 251 DTR 114 (J&K)(HC)

S. 10(26AAA): Income of Sikkimese-Individual-Income not included-Definition of 'Sikkimese' as amended by Finance Act, 2023-Definition limited to Income-tax Act only-Does not affect rights under Article 371F(k) of Constitution of India-PIL dismissed-SLP dismissed.[Art. 136, 371F(k)]

A PIL was filed challenging the constitutional validity of Explanation (v) to section 10(26AAA) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, as amended by the Finance Act, 2023. The amendment expanded the definition of 'Sikkimese' to include individuals not domiciled in Sikkim before 26.04.1975, based on familial connections. The petitioner argued that this violated Article 371F(k), which protects the rights of the indigenous Sikkimese. The Court dismissed the PIL, stating the amendment followed the Supreme Court's directive in Association of Old Settlers of Sikkim v. Union of India. The Court clarified that the definition of 'Sikkimese' pertains only to taxation and does not affect the rights of indigenous Sikkimese under the Constitution. High Court held that the PIL was not justifiable. On SLP the Court observed that the expression "Sikkimese" was expanded only for the purpose of grant of benefit to such persons who came within the scope of the Explanation to section 10(26AAA) of the Act and not for any other purposes as such. The Union of India may also issue a formal notification with regard to what has been stated in the press release, if not already so issued. SLP of assessee dismissed.

Dr. Doma T. Bhutia v.UOI (2025) 481 ITR 501/307 Taxman 4 /347 CTR 114 (SC)

Editorial : Dr. Doma T. Bhutia v. UOI (2025) 481 ITR 495 /172 taxmann.com 293/343 CTR 652 (Sikkim)(HC)

S. 10(26AAA): Income of Sikkimese-Individual-Income not included-Definition of 'Sikkimese' as amended by Finance Act, 2023-Definition limited to Income-tax Act only-Does not affect rights under Article 371F(k) of Constitution of India-PIL dismissed.

[Art. 226, 371F(k)]

A PIL was filed challenging the constitutional validity of Explanation (v) to section 10(26AAA) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, as amended by the Finance Act, 2023. The amendment expanded the definition of 'Sikkimese' to include individuals not domiciled in Sikkim before 26.04.1975, based on familial connections. The petitioner argued that this violated Article 371F(k), which protects the rights of the indigenous Sikkimese. The Court dismissed the PIL, stating the amendment followed the Supreme Court's directive in Association of Old Settlers of Sikkim v. Union of India. The Court clarified that the definition of 'Sikkimese' pertains only to taxation and does not affect the rights of indigenous Sikkimese under the Constitution. The PIL was not deemed justifiable.

Dr. Doma T. Bhutia v. UOI (2025) 481 ITR 495 /172 taxmann.com
293 / 343 CTR 652 / 247 DTR 580 (Sikkim) (HC)

Editorial : Dr. Doma T. Bhutia v. UOI (2025) 481 ITR 505 /307 Taxman
4 /347 CTR 114 (SC), SLP dismissed.

S.10(34A):Share holder-Buy back of shares-No difference in value-No liability under section 115QA-Not a colourable device-Eligible for exemption. [S.115QA]

Assessee earned distributed profits by virtue of offering shares of unlisted companies in a buyback scheme floated by such companies. Assessee claimed exemption under section 10(34A) on such profits arising from buyback scheme. Assessing Officer denied exemption on ground that buyback companies did not pay any tax under section 115QA and assessee claimed exemption under section 10(34A).CIT(A) allowed the exemption. On appeal the Tribunal held that in absence of any differential value arising to issuer companies between issue price to original allottees and buy back price, liability under section 115QA to buy back companies did not arise. Exemption cannot be denied. (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT v. Magical Enterprises L.L.P. (2025) 211 ITD 46 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 10A: Free trade zone-Liquidation-Matter remanded to avail appropriate legal remedy in accordance with law. [Art. 136]

High Court dismissed the appeal of the revenue. On appeal, it was found that the assessee-company had gone under liquidation. The appeal was disposed of with liberty to avail appropriate legal remedy before the appropriate forum in accordance with law. (AY. 2009-10)

CIT v. ICSA (India) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 387 (SC)

S. 10A : Free trade zone-Transfer to units outside India-Export sales Tribunal finding they were export sales and allowing exemption-High Court holding no question of law-Assessee-company going into liquidation and unable to pay demand-Matter disposed of leaving question of law open. [S. 10B, Art. 136]

The Assessing Officer denied the assessee's claim to the exemptions under section 10A or 10B of the Act, since its direct exports were less than 75 per cent. of the total sales made during the year under consideration. The Commissioner (Appeals) allowed the exemptions. The Tribunal was of the view that the stocks transferred during the year which had actually been sold by the Rotterdam unit would have to be construed as actual exports by the units of the assessee, recorded a finding that 75 per cent. of the assessee's total sales by the eligible units comprised exports and confirmed the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) allowing the exemption claimed by the assessee. The High Court held that the finding recorded by the Tribunal was a pure finding of fact and holding that no substantial question of law arose, dismissed the Department's appeal. On further appeal the Court held that in view of the official liquidator's report that the assessee-company was under liquidation and that there were no funds to satisfy the demand, and this fact having been considered by the court in the appeal dated July 21, 2020 between the parties, the court disposed of the appeal, leaving the question of law open.(AY. 2000-01)

CIT v. Moser Baer India Ltd (2025) 479 ITR 449/177 taxmann.com 281 (SC)

Editorial : CIT v. Moser Baer India Ltd (2009) 177 Taxman 42 /(2025) 479 ITR 446 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 10A : Free trade zone-Export-Hundred per cent. export oriented unit-Transfer of stocks from assessee's eligible unit to foreign unit-Finding by Tribunal that transferred stock sold by foreign unit and which constituted more than 75 per cent. of total sales-Entitled to exemption-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S.10B, 260A]

On appeal by revenue dismissing the appeal the Court held that the provisions as they stood in the assessment year 2000-2001 permitted export-oriented undertakings to claim exemption provided 75 per cent. of the total sales comprised exports. The Tribunal had found that 75 per cent. of the assessee's total sales by the eligible units comprised exports and based on that had confirmed the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) allowing the assessee's claim for exemption in respect of its units under section 10A or 10B.Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY.2000-01)

CIT v. Moser Baer India Ltd (2009) 177 Taxman 42 /(2025) 479 ITR 446 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : CIT v. Moser Baer India Ltd (2025) 479 ITR 449/177 taxmann.com 281 (SC), disposed of the appeal, leaving the question of law open.

S. 10A : Free trade zone-Export profits-Deduction-Export proceeds realised in convertible foreign exchange-Matter remanded for verification-Communication expenses to be excluded from both export turnover and total turnover-Foreign exchange fluctuation gain-Already offered to tax-Matter remanded to avoid double taxation.[S. 144C]

The Assessing Officer reduced the deduction under section 10A on the ground that the assessee had not established realisation of export proceeds within the prescribed period and had excluded communication expenses only from export turnover. The Tribunal restored the issue of export realisation and on-site development charges to the Assessing Officer for verification with reference to the Foreign Inward Remittance Certificates and directed that communication expenses should be reduced from both export turnover and total turnover while computing the deduction under section 10A. The assessee contended that the foreign exchange fluctuation gain had already been offered to tax as "other income" and that a further addition would result in double taxation. The Tribunal restored the issue to the Assessing Officer to verify the claim and ensure that the same amount was not taxed twice. (AY. 2010-11 & 2011-12).

Brightcom Group Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 149 taxmann.com 450 / (2025) 129 ITR 645 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 10A: Free trade zone-Telecommunication expenses excluded from export turnover must also be excluded from total turnover. S. 10A

The Assessing Officer excluded telecommunication expenses only from the export turnover while computing deduction under section 10A. The Tribunal held that the issue was squarely covered by the jurisdictional High Court and, therefore, telecommunication expenses excluded from export turnover were also required to be excluded from total turnover while computing the deduction under section 10A. The assessee was accordingly held entitled to the deduction. (AY. 2011-12)

Capgemini India P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 431 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 10A: Free trade zone-Export-oriented units-Condition that exports not less than 75% of total sales-"Export turnover" and "total turnover"-Expenses incurred in foreign exchange in providing technical services outside India excluded from both-75% of total sales to be computed on gross receipts. [S. 10A(2)(ia), 80HHC, 80HHE]

Assessee, engaged in export of software solutions and maintenance services, was denied exemption under section 10A on the ground that export turnover brought into India was less than 75% of the total turnover of the software technology park unit, since AO considered only net inward remittances after deducting onsite expenses and sub-contractor payments, though CIT(A) held that payments to sub-contractors outside India did not affect the exemption claim and allowed the exemption. On appeal, the Tribunal held that in the absence of a definition of "export turnover" in section 10A for the relevant year, AO had erroneously borrowed the definition of "export turnover" from section 80HHE while ignoring the corresponding definition of "total turnover" therein, whereas expenditure incurred in foreign exchange in providing technical services outside India, being excluded from "total turnover", must equally be excluded from "export turnover" so that both bear a consistent meaning; since section 10A is a beneficial provision intended to promote exports and confer a larger benefit than section 80HHE, AO was directed to compute the 75% of total sales on gross receipts under section 10A(2)(ia). (AY.2000-01)

IBM Global Services India P. Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 217 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 10A: Free trade zone-Software Technology Park unit-Brought-forward losses and unabsorbed depreciation of non-eligible unit not adjustable before allowing deduction.[S. 72]

The assessee had one Software Technology Park (STPI) unit eligible for deduction under section 10A and another non-STPI unit. The Assessing Officer adjusted the brought-forward losses and unabsorbed depreciation of the non-eligible unit before granting deduction under section 10A. The Tribunal held that the eligible undertaking had to be treated separately and the losses and depreciation of the non-eligible unit could not be adjusted while computing deduction under section 10A. The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 2011-12).

ITO v. Magic Software (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 34 / 173 taxmann.com 59 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 10AA : Special Economic Zones-Export-Interest income forming part of business profits-Eligible for deduction.

The Assessing Officer excluded interest income from the profits eligible for deduction under section 10AA. The Tribunal held that since the interest income formed part of the business profits of the eligible undertaking, it was required to be included while computing the deduction under section 10AA. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 10A : Free trade zone-Form signed by Deloitte Haskins and Sells-Form 56F was not signed by an Accountant, as referred in sub-section (5) to section 10A-Defective form-Not entitle to deduction.[S. 10A(5), 10AA, 44AB, 288(2), Form 56F, Chartered Accountant Act, 1949, 2(1), 6(1)]

Assessee is engaged in business of production and export of computer software. Assessee claimed deduction under section 10A. Assessing Officer held that Form 56F was not signed by a Chartered Accountant as mandated by the provisions of Act, held the report signed by Deloitte Haskins and Sells was not a valid verification of the report in Form 56F and treated it as defective. Commissioner (Appeals) held said Form 56F was valid as far as it was signed by 'Deloitte Haskins and Sells', which was a multi-national Chartered Accountant firm. On appeal the Tribunal held that in order to certify correct claim under the provisions of section 10A, an Accountant as referred in sub-section (5) to section 10A and definition of which is provided in the Explanation below to sub-section (2) to section 288 is required. Since assessee could not provide any material supporting the order of Commissioner (Appeals) showing that Deloitte Haskins and Sells was an 'Accountant' as referred to in sub-section 5 of section 10A, the assessee is not entitled to a deduction under section 10A of the Act. (AY. 2006-07)

ACIT v. Future Software (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 148 (Chennai) (Trib)

S. 10AA: Special economic zones-Failure to file audit report in Form 56F along with the return-Rectification application-Assessee had duly fulfilled substantial requirement as well as procedural requirement, though there was a minor technical breach in fulfilment of procedural requirement; delay in filing Form 56F would not be fatal to substantive claim of assessee-Order of tribunal affirmed.[S. 143(1), 154, 260A, Form 56F]

Assessee had claimed deduction under section 10AA. While processing return under section 143(1), the deduction claimed by assessee was disallowed since audit report in Form 56F, which is to be filed along with the return, was not filed by assessee. Assessee had filed a rectification application and a rectification order was passed rejecting claim of assessee. Commissioner (Appeals) held that delay in filing Form 56F was only a procedural lapse, and that could not be a ground for not granting the deduction claimed under section 10AA. Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). On appeal the Court held that since assessee had duly fulfilled the substantial requirement as well as the procedural requirement, though there was a minor technical breach in fulfilment of procedural requirement, delay in filing Form 56F would not be fatal to the substantive claim of assessee. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2018-19)

PCIT v. Astrotech Steels (P.) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 429 (Mad)(HC)

S. 10AA : Special Economic Zones-Newly established units- Allocation of head office expenses-Common expenses having direct nexus with eligible unit-Allocation in ratio of turnover held justified-Transfer of goods to eligible unit-Market value-Notional gross profit adopted by Assessing Officer-Matter remanded [S.10AA(9), 80-IA(8)]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 10AA in respect of its Special Economic Zone unit. The Assessing Officer allocated common head office expenses, including directors' commission, directors' fees, audit and certification charges, and bank and loan processing charges, to the eligible unit in the ratio of turnover. The Tribunal held that common expenditure having a direct nexus with the activities of the eligible unit had to be allocated on a reasonable and scientific basis for determining the correct profits of the eligible undertaking. Since the eligible unit had not incurred any loss during the relevant years, the allocation made by the Assessing Officer was justified. The Assessing Officer recomputed the profits of the eligible unit by adopting a notional gross profit rate in respect of goods transferred from the non-eligible units. The Commissioner (Appeals) reduced the addition without examining whether the goods had been transferred at their market value. The Tribunal restored the matter to the Assessing Officer to determine the fair market value of the goods transferred for computing the profits of the eligible unit. (AY. 2011-12 to 2016-17).

AVTEC Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 692 / (2025) 129 ITR 483 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 10AA: Special Economic Zones-Non-submission of audit report along with return-Audit report was filed during assessment proceedings-Exemption cannot be denied merely on account of delay in furnishing the audit report.[Form No 56F]

Held that the assessee filed the audit report in Form No. 56F during the assessment proceedings, benefit of exemption under s. 10AA cannot be denied merely on account of delay in furnishing the same (AY. 2017-18)

Ganpati Gems & Jewellers v. ACIT (2025) 236 TTJ 100 (Jaipur Trib)

S. 10AA: Special Economic Zones-Computation of export turnover-Foreign currency expenditure not to be excluded from export turnover for computing deduction-Appeal to Appellate Tribunal-Failure by Commissioner (Appeals) to render finding on certain issues-Application pending before Commissioner (Appeals)-Direction to dispose of application.-Rectification of mistake-Order giving effect to Tribunal's order-Assessing Officer's failure to grant relief on several issues-Direction to dispose of pending rectification applications.-Deduction of tax at source-Credit for-Credit granted in original proceedings but not fully given in order giving effect to Tribunal's order-Assessing Officer directed to verify and grant full credit.[S. 154,199, 254(1)]

In remand proceedings pursuant to the Tribunal's earlier order, AO recomputed the deduction under section 10AA by excluding foreign currency expenditure from export turnover and disallowing certain costs written off and interest from fixed deposits, which was confirmed by CIT(A) without rendering a finding on the issue of deposits and other costs written off. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, following the jurisdictional HC's decision in the assessee's own case for an earlier year on identical facts, foreign currency expenditure was not to be excluded from export turnover for computing deduction under section 10AA; directed CIT(A) to dispose of the assessee's pending application regarding inclusion of disallowance/addition as business profits for section 10AA computation after affording a hearing; directed AO to dispose of the assessee's rectification applications under section 154 relating to double addition of interest from fixed deposits and exclusion of other income from SEZ unit profits; and directed AO to verify and grant full credit for TDS as had been given in the original assessment proceedings. (AY. 2010-11 & 2011-12)

Renault Nissan Technology and Business Centre India P. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 395 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 10AA : Special Economic Zones-Transfer pricing adjustment-Eligible for deduction under section 10AA in respect of voluntary adjustment made by it-Transfer Pricing adjustment made by it [S.92C]

Held that the assessee voluntarily made transfer pricing adjustment of Rs. 9.50 and added same to total income, assessee would be eligible for deduction under section 10AA in respect of voluntary Transfer Pricing adjustment made by it. (AY. 2017-18)

DCIT v. EYGBS (India) (P.) Ltd. (2025) 210 ITD 686 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 10B: Export-oriented undertakings-Export of computer software-Transmission of customised electronic data-Entitled to exemption.[S. 260A]

Held that the services provided by the assessee-firm were "customised electronic data transmission" and were user or client specific. Further, the legal services provided by the assessee-firm were rendered by use of a legal database created by the assessee-firm over a period of more than 60 years of its professional experience. The legal services were rendered by the assessee to its foreign clients by use of electronic mode of communications, i.e., by exchange of legal information and documents via e-mails and internet services. In addition, the assessee had complied with the other conditions in Form 56G, realisation of service charges within the permitted time, exporting legal services to its clients outside India and receiving the service charges therefor in the foreign currency in India. Therefore, the claim of the assessee was fully justified. Any transmission of "customised electronic data" falls within the expression of "computer software" as per Explanation 2(i)(b) to section 10B of the Act. Therefore, the assessee was entitled to claim a deduction under section 10B of the Act in respect of its 100 per cent. Export-oriented unit. The entire issue being fact-based and the Tribunal having come to the factual conclusion on the basis of materials on record while upholding the order of the Commissioner (Appeals), no question of law arose. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Majumdar and Co (2025) 482 ITR 824(Bom)(HC)

S. 10B: Export oriented undertakings-Site transfer income-Derived from-Appellate Tribunal-Duties-Tribunal had not given any reasons as to how 'Site Transfer Income' constituted income derived from business of undertaking, matter was remanded back to Tribunal for deciding ground of deduction under section 10B qua 'Site Transfer Income'[S. 254(1)]

Assessee claimed deduction under section 10B on 'Site Transfer Income' with respect to two units. Assessing Officer denied deduction on ground that same did not represent income derived from the business of eligible unit. Tribunal allowed claim. On appeal the Court held that since the Tribunal had not given any reasons as to how 'Site Transfer Income' constituted income derived from business of undertaking, the matter was remanded back to the Tribunal for deciding ground of deduction under section 10B qua 'Site Transfer Income' (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Watson Pharma (P) Ltd. (2025) 173 taxmann.com 957/346 CTR 82 / 249 DTR 25 (Bom)(HC)

S. 10B: Export oriented undertakings-Interest income on fixed deposits-Derived from business-Appellate Tribunal-Duty to pass speaking order-Matter remanded back for fresh adjudication.[S. 254(1), 260A]

Court held that the Tribunal without giving any reasons had come to conclusion that interest income on fixed deposit constituted income derived from business of eligible undertaking and thus was eligible for deduction under section 10B. Court held that, it is well settled that the duty to give reasons in support of adverse orders is a facet of the principles of natural justice and fair play. In several cases, the necessity of providing reasons by a body or authority to support its decision was considered before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari (2001) 3 SCC 179 (Deceased) by LR's. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that on the face of an order passed by a quasi-judicial authority affecting the parties' rights must speak for itself. Matter remanded back for fresh adjudication [ITXA No. 1770 OF 2017, Dated: 26/03/2025, (AY 2010-11)]

PCIT v. Watson Pharma Pvt. Ltd [2025] 173 taxmann.com 886 (Bom) (HC)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Registration-Matter remanded to the High Court for reconsideration [S. 2(15), 12 Art, 136]

High Court dismissed Revenue's appeal. On appeal, referring to the decision in CIT(E) v. Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority [2022] 449 ITR 1/[2023] 291 Taxman 11 (SC), matter remanded to the High Court for fresh consideration.

CIT (E) v. Khurja Development Authority (2025) 307 Taxman 382 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (E) v. Khurja Development Authority (All)(HC), (ITA No. 550 of 2008 dt 12-1-2015, 154 of 2015 dt. 7-1-2019)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Activities charitable in nature-Entitle for exemption-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S. 2(15), 12AA, Art. 136]

Assessee was a urban development authority constituted with object of development of areas according to a plan. Assessing Officer disallowed same on ground that registration granted to assessee under section 12AA was cancelled by Commissioner and also disputed charitable nature of activities carried out by assessee in terms of section 2(15). Tribunal had set aside order of cancellation of registration of assessee under section 12AA and restored same and also recorded that nature of activity of assessee was charitable and was not hit by proviso of section 2(15). Appeal filed against said order of Tribunal was dismissed. SLP dismissed following ACIT (E) v. Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority (2023) 4 SCC 561/143 taxmann.com 278 (SC) and as corrected by order dated 3rd November, 2022 in MA No.1849 of 2022 in Civil Appeal No.21762 of 2017. (AY. 2012-13)

CIT (E) v. Ghaziabad Development Authority (2025) 304 Taxman 274 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (E) v. Ghaziabad Development Authority(2022) 448 ITR 342 / (2023) 146 taxmann.com 549 (All)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Dominant object was not only preservation of environment, but also one of general public utility-liquid and solid industrial waste generated by polluting industries in Common Effluent Treatment Plant and Total Suspended Disposal Facility and did ancillary activities for purpose of curbing pollution-Entitled to exemption-Monetary limits-SLP dismissed due to low tax effects. [S. 2(15), 268A, Art, 136]

High Court held that assessee was carrying out activity main or primary purpose of which was charitable and just because members of assessee-company were benefitted and their statutory liability was discharged by assessee-company, same by itself, would not be sufficient to hold that assessee had not been set up for charitable purpose. Court also held that since dominant object of assessee was not only preservation of environment, but also one of general public utility, assessee was entitled to seek exemption under section 11. SLP filed by revenue was dismissed in view of low tax effects. (AY. 2009-10)

CIT (E) v. Naroda Enviro Projects Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 186 (SC)

Editorial : CIT (E) v. Naroda Enviro Projects Ltd (2019)419 ITR 482 / (2020) 118 taxmann.com 378 (Guj)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Organising cultural event-Income from ticket sales by organising dance events and food stalls-Not business activity-Denial of exemption was not justified-SLP of revenue dismissed.[S. 2(15), 12, 13(8), Art. 136]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that that the assessee's own case for the assessment year 2014-2015, on identical facts and circumstances concurrently found by the appellate authorities, had already been dismissed by the court in the appeal of the Department under section 260A holding, inter alia, that organizing dance events could not be termed as a business there were no distinguishing facts to take a different view for the subsequent assessment year 2015-2016. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2015-16)

CIT v. United Way of Baroda (2025) 478 ITR 535/306 Taxman 269 (SC)

Editorial : CIT(E) v. United Way of Baroda (2025) 478 ITR 530/176 taxmann.com 358 (Guj)(HC)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay of 1290 days in uploading to the portal-Oversight on the part of the chartered accountant-Delay was condoned-CIT(E) was directed to grant the relief.[S. 12A, Form No 10B, Art. 226]

The assessee filed and verified the audit report in Form 10B with a delay of 1,290 days. Assessee filed an application before the Commissioner (E) for condonation of delay in filing Form 10B. Commissioner (E) rejected on the ground that the reason of oversight cited by assessee did not constitute reasonable cause warranting condonation of delay in filing of Form 10B. On writ, the Court held that the assessee had been filing its returns and verifying Form 10B for all years before the subject assessment year within due dates. Further, non-filing/verification of Form 10B was due to oversight on the part of the chartered accountant responsible for the same and said chartered accountant left the employment of the assessee abruptly, due to which non-filing/verification did not come to the notice of assessee till issuance of intimation. Court held that since failure to file and verify the audit report prior to filing of return, despite obtaining the same from the auditors within time, could be only due to human error and beyond the control of assessee, delay in filing Form 10B (AY. 2015-16)

International Resources for Fairer Trade v. UOI (2025) 307 Taxman 641 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay of 447 days while uploading Form No 10B-Oversight on the part of the chartered accountant-Delay was condoned-CIT(E) was directed to grant the relief.[S. 12A, Form No 10B, Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer denied the exemption on the ground that assessee had not e-verified the audit report in Form No. 10B within the prescribed time. Assessee filed an application seeking condonation of a delay of 447 days in uploading/e-verifying Form No.10B. CIT (E) rejected the application for condonation of delay. On writ the Court held that the assessee-trust, established more than 25 years ago, had been filing its returns and Form No.10B for all years before Assessment Year 2015-16 within due dates, delay condonation application should have been allowed because failure to upload audit report prior to filing the return, despite obtaining same from auditors well within time, could only be due to human error. Accordingly, the order passed by Commissioner quashed, and the delay in filing Form No.10B was condoned. Circular No. 10/2019, dated 22-5-2019.(AY. 2017-18)

International Resources for Fairer Trade v. UOI (2025) 307 Taxman 271 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Failure to file Form No 10 on due date-Delay of 2154 days-Accumulation of income-Delay was condoned-CIT(E) was directed to grant exemption. [S.11(2), 12A, Form No.9A, Form No.10, Art. 226]

The assessee filed Form No. 9A exercising the option in terms of Explanation 1 to section 11(1) on the ground that the amount received in December could not be spent in the last quarter and, therefore, the same was being accumulated. However, Form No. 10 was not filed by assessee within the specified due date as required under the Act. The assessee filed Form No. 10 along with an application for condonation of delay. Commissioner (E) rejected the application for condonation of delay. On writ the Court held that since the assessment year 2016-17 was the first year wherein Form No.10 was to be filed electronically, hence possibility of the assessee having faced technical glitches while filing requisite forms could not be ruled out. Further, the benefit of accumulation under section 11(2) ought not to be denied to assessee since the entire accumulated amount had actually been applied to charitable purposes well within the time allowed under the Act, and the activities of the assessee-trust were genuine. The delay was condoned, and the order rejecting condonation of delay in filing Form No.10 was set aside. Circular No. 3/2020 dated 3-1-2020. (AY. 2016-17)

KSB Care Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 277 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Audit report-Filed at the time of assessment-Denial of exemption is not valid-Circular No. 7 of 2018 dated December 20, 2018 ((2020) 420 ITR (St.) 389) issued under section 119 of the Act could not be, therefore said to have taken away the appellate remedy. [S. 11(2),12A, 119(2b),143(1), 260A,Rule 12 (2), Form No 10B]

Assessee, a charitable trust registered under section 12AA, filed return of income claiming exemption under section 11(1) and (2) of the Act. It did not file audit report in Form No. 10B along with return of income and filed same electronically at a later stage. Assessing Officer processed return under section 143(1) and denied exemption on ground that along with return of income audit report was not filed. The order of the Assessing Officer was affirmed by Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that since audit report was available with Assessing Officer when he processed return under section 143(1), requirement of law was satisfied. Exemption was allowed. Court observed that The Finance Act, 2015 ((2015) 373 ITR (St.) 25), with effect from April 1, 2016, that is from the assessment year 2016-2017, did not effect any change which could be said to have altered the legal position. The only change was with regard to compulsory filing of the audit report in form 10B in electronic form which is made mandatory under rule 12(2) of the Income-tax Rules, 1962 but there is no change with regard to the substantive law about filing of the audit report. Court also observed that the application contemplated under section 119(2)(b) of the Act is only an additional remedy for the assessee which could not be said to be compulsorily resorted to by the assessee. Circular No. 7 of 2018 dated December 20, 2018 ((2020) 420 ITR (St.) 389) issued under section 119 of the Act could not be, therefore said to have taken away the appellate remedy. (AY. 2018-19)

Association of Indian Panelboard Manufacturer v. Dy. CIT [2023] 157 taxmann.com 550 / (2025) 482 ITR 54 (Guj)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Rule of consistency-No change in facts-Exemption under section 10(23C)(iv) / sections 11 and 12 allowed in earlier years-Additional claim before CIT(A) maintainable-No violation of section 13(2)(b) / 13(3) in respect of residential accommodation given to trustees as employees-Tribunal order affirmed. [S. 2(15), 10(23C)(iv), 12, 13(2)(b), 13(3), 246A, 251(1)(a), 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that exemption under section 10(23C)(iv) / sections 11 and 12 could not be denied when identical benefit had been granted in earlier years and no distinguishing feature was shown. Additional claim before CIT(A) was maintainable and could be adjudicated by appellate authority Residential accommodation provided to trustees in their capacity as long-serving employees on payment of licence fee / on compassionate grounds did not amount to undue benefit so as to attract section 13(2)(b) read with section 13(3).No infirmity in Tribunal's order upholding CIT(A). (AY. 2016-17)

CIT v. Hamdard Laboratories (India) (2025) 480 ITR 498 (Delhi)(HC).

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Cricket association— Applicability of proviso to S. 2(15)-Matter is remitted to the authority concerned to decide the same afresh in view of the ratio decided by the apex Court in Asstt. CIT (E) v. Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority (2022) 329 CTR 297 (SC).[S. 2(15), 260A] Matter is remitted to the authority concerned to decide the same afresh in view of the ratio decided by the apex Court in Asstt. CIT (E) v. Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority (2022) 329 CTR 297/ (2023) 4 SCC 561. (AY. 2014-15)

CIT (E) v. Jharkhand State Cricket Association (2025) 344 CTR 547 / 249 DTR 240 (Jharkhand)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Educational trust-Trust not registered under section 12AA at time of filing return-Registration obtained subsequently after assessment-Rectification application under section 154 rejected-Assessee cannot be denied legitimate deductions otherwise available as regular assessee-Purpose of assessment to recover legitimate tax and not unjust tax Assessing Officer not expected to act mechanically to fasten unjust tax liability-Matter remitted to Assessing Officer for fresh assessment order. [S.12, 12A, 12AA, 139, 143(1), 154]

For the assessment year 2013-2014, the assessee, an educational trust, without holding a valid registration under section 12AA of the Income-tax Act, 1961, at the time of filing the return of income under section 139(1), claimed exemption under section 11. The assessment was completed under section 143(1). Subsequently, the assessee was granted registration under section 12A(a). The assessee filed an application under section 154 for rectification of the assessment order, which was rejected. The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal rejected the assessee's appeals. The Tribunal held that the assessee could not claim exemption as a trust for the assessment year 2013-2014, since it was not registered under section 12AA, and should have filed a revised return to claim deductions as a regular assessee or as an association of persons. On appeal, the Court held that the benefit of registration would not ensure in favour of the assessee after registration for the assessment year prior to the registration as trust. But the assessee could not be denied all the legitimate deductions that would have been available, if the returns were filed either as a regular assessee or as an association of persons. The purpose of assessment was to recover just tax and not subject the assessee to unjust tax by holding that no return was filed either as a regular assessee or as an association of persons merely because revised return was not filed under section 139(4), within the specified time. The last date for filing the returns under section 139(4) would have expired on March 31, 2015 which was just few days before the return was processed on March 12, 2015 under section 143(1). If assessments are to be completed, deductions and applicable exemptions that are otherwise available to an assessee ought to have been extended by the Assessing Officer to an assessee before finalising the assessment. Since the assessee was not entitled to exemption as a trust under sections 11, 12 and 12A in the absence of registration under the Act as it stood section 12AA, the benefit of other deductions under the Act ought to have been given. The Assessing Officer was not expected to act mechanically to confirm the liability to fasten an unjust tax liability on the assessee. The matter was remitted to the Assessing Officer to pass a fresh order. Goeitze (India) Ltd v. CIT (2006) 284 ITR 323 (SC), distinguished. (AY. 2013-14)

Sree Venkateswara Educational Trust v. ITO [2024] 167 taxmann.com 366 / (2025) 479 ITR 687 (Mad)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Organising cultural event-Income from ticket sales by organising dance events and food stalls-Not business activity-Denial of exemption was not justified.[S. 2(15), 12, 13(8), 260A.]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that that the assessee's own case for the assessment year 2014-2015, on identical facts and circumstances concurrently found by the appellate authorities, had already been dismissed by the court in the appeal of the Department under section 260A holding, inter alia, that organizing dance events could not be termed as a business there were no distinguishing facts to take a different view for the subsequent assessment year 2015-2016.(AY. 2015-16)

CIT(E) v. United Way of Baroda (2025) 478 ITR 530/176 taxmann.com 358 (Guj)(HC)

Editorial : SLP rejected, CIT(E) v.United Way of Baroda (2025) 306 Taxman 269/ 478 ITR 535 (SC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Investment-Exemption-Purchase of shares of subsidiary-Non-profit entity-Pursuant to Government policy and TRAI recommendations-No violation Exemption allowable. [S. 11(5), 12, 13(1)(d), 260A, Companies Act, 1956, S. 25]

The assessee, a non-profit company registered u/s 25 of Companies Act and under S. 12A, invested in shares of its wholly owned subsidiary BARC, also a non-profit entity. AO denied exemption under S 11 & 12 alleging violation of S. 11(5) r.w.s. 13(1)(d). CIT(A) and Tribunal allowed exemption, holding the deployment of funds was mandated by Government policy and TRAI recommendations, not for profit. Dismissing Revenue's appeal, the High Court held that deployment of funds was not an “investment” but an application in furtherance of assessee’s charitable objects. BARC, being a s. 25 company, could not distribute profits. Hence, no violation of s. 11(5) or s. 13(1)(d); exemption rightly allowed.(AY. 2014-15)

CIT v. Indian Broadcasting Foundation (2025) 475 ITR 580 / 173 taxmann.com 311 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Carry forward of deficit-Excess expenditure incurred by trust in earlier years-Set off against income of subsequent years-Permissible-Appeal of Revenue dismissed. [S. 11(1)(a), 11(1)(d), 260A]

The Revenue challenged the Tribunal’s order allowing the assessee-trust to carry forward the deficit and set it off against income of subsequent years. The Revenue contended that there was no express provision in the Act permitting such set off and that this amounted to double deduction. The Tribunal, following the jurisdictional High Court ruling in CIT v. Institute of Banking Personnel Selection (2003) 264 ITR 110 (Bom)(HC) upheld the assessee’s claim. The High Court noted that the issue stood squarely covered by the said judgment as well as the Supreme Court decision in CIT (E) v. Subros Educational Society (2018) 7 SCC 548 / (2022) 136 taxmann.com 236 (SC), wherein it was held that excess expenditure of earlier years can be adjusted against income of subsequent years. As the question was already settled against the Revenue, the appeal was dismissed. (ITA No. 40 of 2022, dt. 12-09-2025, (AY. 2012-13.)

CIT (E) v. Tata Education and Development Trust (Bom)(HC)
www.itatonline.org.

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Organic farming research-relief of poor-Eligible for exemption-Order of Tribunal is set aside. [S. 2(15) 12A, 260A, Companies Act, 2013, S.8.]

Assessee, established as a charitable company under Section 8 of Companies Act and registered under Section 12A, aimed to set up a research centre for organic farming, promote skill development, and engage in domestic and international agro-product trade. Assessing Officer held that assessee's activities were primarily business-oriented with a profit motive, and charitable aspects were merely incidental hence denied the exemption under section 11 of the Act. First appellate Authority and Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that the assessee procured agricultural produce from poor and marginal farmers, prevented exploitation by middlemen, and provided assistance through crop saplings and awareness programs and its business activities, including buying, selling, and trading agro-products, were incidental to its main objectives of establishing a research centre in organic farming. Court also held that the Authorities overlooked evidence that a significant portion of income was given to poor farmers, which, if considered, would have shown that assessee's activities were primarily aimed at providing relief to poor, aligning with its charitable objectives. Accordingly the exemption claimed by the assessee is up held and order of the Tribunal is set aside. (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19)

Biowin Agro Research v. ITO(E) (2025) 303 Taxman 540 (Ker.)(HC)

Editorial : Order of Cochin Bench in Biowin Agro Research v. ITO(E)(ITA Nos 2 and 3 of 2022 dt. 25-4-2023 is set aside.

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Charitable purpose Objects of general public utility-Construction of flats for its members-Transfer fees from new members-Interest on investment-No commercial activity-No violation of section 13(2)-Question of fact-No substantial question of law. [S. 2(15), 12A, 13(2), 260A]

The Assessee is a Trust registered with Director of Income Tax (E), Mumbai under Section 12A of the Act. The Assessee, Trust was constructing houses for its members and this was the only activity of the Trust for the last 50 years. the Assessing Officer held that the Assessee had collected Rs.1.15 crores as transfer fees from new members and the Assessee-Trust was also in receipt of interest on investment amounting to Rs.1,07,67,876/-. The Assessing Officer was, therefore, of the view that the Assessee was engaged in a commercial activity by constructing houses on the property of the Assessee Trust and was selling the same to the members. The members and the Assessee Trust were alienating the flat along with the membership, and for this alienation, the Trust had collected a sum of Rs.6.35 crores as transfer fees from its members till date. Therefore, the Assessing Officer held that the activity of the Trust was not found charitable in nature and was found commercial in nature. The CIT(A) held that there is no case of sale consideration, or sale of houses in the market, and there is no transaction of sale or purchase in the admission of the new member in place of the defaulting member, who is admitted only after specifying the eligibility conditions in that behalf and confirming the Deed of the Trust and its objects. Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). The Hon High Court held that the entire case has been decided purely on facts. The ITAT is the last fact finding authority which has come to the conclusion that the Assessee Trust is not carrying on any commercial activity and, therefore, is entitled to the exemption under Section 11 of the Act. This finding of the ITAT is purely based on the facts of the case, and which facts were also analyzed by the CIT(A) before he partly allowed the Appeal of the Assessee Trust.

CIT (E) Mumbai v. Kutchi Sarvodaya Nagar [2025]305 Taxxman 572 (Bom)(HC)

S. 11 : Income from property held for charitable or religious purposes-Delay in e-verification of audit report-Audit report in Form 10B filed in time-E-verification delayed due to COVID-Delay is not intentional-Delay of 101 or 254 days within permissible limit-Rejection of condonation against principles of substantive justice-Procedural lapses should not override substantive justice, especially when there was no mala fide intent or negligence by the petitioner-Rejection order is quashed-Delay condoned. [S. 12A, 12AA, 80G, Form No 9A, form No 10B, Art.226]

Kotak Family Foundation, a charitable trust registered under Sections 12A/12AA and 80G of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, filed its return for AY 2021-22 on 30th December 2021, within the extended COVID-19 timeline. Form 9A was filed and the audit report in Form 10B was uploaded by the auditor on 29th December 2021. However, due to oversight caused by remote working conditions during the pandemic, the Trust failed to e-verify the audit report within the prescribed time. After receiving an intimation under Section 143(1)(a) on 8th September 2022 denying exemption of ₹58,02,006/-, the Trust completed e-verification the next day. Although a revised intimation accepted the return, the exemption was again denied by a rectification order under Section 154 dated 7th March 2023. The Trust's request for condonation of delay was rejected by the Commissioner of Income Tax (E) on 10th February 2025. On writ the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that the rejection of the petitioner's application for condonation of delay in e-verifying Form 10B was unjustified and contrary to the principles of justice, equity, and fair play, particularly considering the petitioner is a registered charitable trust. The delay occurred due to genuine inadvertence during the COVID-19 pandemic, when the trustees and staff were operating remotely, and was neither intentional nor negligent. The Court further observed that CBDT Circulars No. 16/2022 and 16/2024 authorize the Commissioner of Income Tax to condone delays of up to 365 days in filing Forms 10B, 9A, 10, and 10BB for AY 2018-19 onwards. In the present case, the delay—whether considered as 254 days or 101 days after applying the benefit of the Supreme Court's COVID-related extension in In Re: Cognizance for Extension of Limitation, was well within the condonable limit. Therefore, the authorities were expected to adopt a pragmatic and justice-oriented approach rather than a technical one. The Court held that procedural lapses should not override substantive justice, especially when there was no mala fide intent or negligence by the petitioner. As the audit report was filed on time and only the e-verification was delayed due to COVID-related issues, the authorities should have adopted a fair and practical approach. Denial of exemption under Sections 11 and 12A on such technical grounds was deemed unjust. Referring to its earlier decision in Sau Dwarkabai Tai Karwa Charitable Public Trust v. CIT (E), [2025] 174 taxmann.com 245 (Bom)(HC), where a similar delay was condoned for the same assessment year, the Court quashed the order dated 10th February 2025, condoned the delay, allowed the writ petition, and made the rule absolute (W.P. (L) No. 17883 of 2025, decided on 24-06-2025) (AY. 2021-22)

Kotak Family Foundation v. CIT(E) [2025] 306 Taxman 57 (Bom)(HC) www.itatonline.org

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of income-Investment in prescribed mode-Delay of a few days in converting bank balance into fixed deposit does not disentitle exemption. [S. 11(2),11(5), 12AA, Form No.10, Rule 17]

The assessee-society, registered under section 12AA, accumulated income for charitable purposes and filed Form No. 10 within the prescribed time. The accumulated amount remained throughout in its account with a scheduled bank and was invested in fixed deposits with the same bank a few days after the close of the financial year. The Assessing Officer denied exemption under section 11(2) on the ground that the investment was not made during the relevant financial year. The Tribunal held that there was no diversion or misapplication of funds and the amount had throughout remained invested in a prescribed mode under section 11(5). Since the assessee had substantially complied with all the statutory conditions, a mere procedural delay in converting the bank balance into fixed deposits could not defeat the exemption. (AY. 2018-19)

Rajasthan Ophthalmological Society v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 525 (Jaipur)(Trib.).

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Development of industrial estates constitutes advancement of an object of general public utility-Exemption cannot be denied. [S. 2(15), 12]

The assessee, a statutory corporation constituted for development of industrial estates and infrastructure, was denied exemption under sections 11 and 12 on the ground that sale of plots amounted to carrying on business in view of the proviso to section 2(15). The Tribunal held that the issue already stood concluded in favour of the assessee by the jurisdictional High Court for earlier as well as subsequent assessment years and there was no change in the nature of its activities. Accordingly, the assessee continued to be engaged in advancement of an object of general public utility and was entitled to exemption under sections 11 and 12. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14 & 2016-17)

Asst. CIT v. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation (2025) 130 ITR 108 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Principle of mutuality-Participation in the annual meet for which the sponsorship fees are received is free of cost-It cannot be held to be a service for a fee for rendering service-Proviso to section 2(15) is not applicable-AO is not correct in denying the benefit of exemption. [S. 2(15)]

Allowing the appeal of the assessee the Tribunal held that it cannot be said that the assessee is exclusively engaged in the activities beneficial only to its members; therefore, the action of the AO in applying the principle of mutuality is not sustainable; income of the assessee does not include any revenue from any activity like trade, commerce or business and, therefore, AO is not correct in denying the benefit of s. 11 to the assessee by invoking the proviso to s. 2(15). (AY. 2016-17 & 2018-19)

Insurance Brokers Association of India v. ITO (E) (2025) 235 TTJ 22 / 175 taxmann.com 580 (Mum) Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-contribution of Rs. 50,000 to the trustees of ABET for creating that trust-Not specified person-Lease rent paid by the assessee for a building which was provided free of charge to ABET to enable it to start a school-No disallowance can be made.-Income from house property-Deduction is not allowable-Method of accounting-Cash system-Interest income-Addition on account of interest accrued and not received was deleted. [S. 13(2)(a), 13(2)(b), 13(2)(g), 24(a), 145]

ABET is a charitable trust registered under s. 12A, and there is no material available on the record to infer that it exists for the purpose of profit. Therefore, the question of entitlement to any profit of ABET does not arise.. Hence, the provisions of s. 13(3)(e) is also not applicable to the facts of the present case. Tribunal also held that the disallowance of lease rent paid by the assessee for a building which was provided free of charge to ABET to enable it to start a school, which was deleted by the CIT A), was upheld. Deduction under section 24 claimed by the trust on income declared under the head income from house property is not allowable. The Tribunal also held that the assessee has followed the cash basis of accounting since inception for the purpose of income tax returns, even though it is following the mercantile system of accounting; accordingly, the addition made by the Assessing Officer on account of interest accrued but not received is not sustainable. (AY.2011-12)

ITO (E) v. Vaibhav Medical & Education Foundation (2025) 235 TTJ 234 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Change of name-Not applied for fresh registration-Assessed under the normal provisions of the Act-All permissible deductions, including expenditure incurred out of said income, allowable as deduction-Matter restored to the file of the Assessing Officer. [S. 12A, 37 (1)]

Held that when the Trust is assessed under the normal provisions of the Act, all permissible deductions, including expenditure incurred out of said income, are allowable as deductions. Matter restored to the file of the Assessing Officer. (AY 2016-17 to 2021-22)

The Zoos & Parks Authority Of Telangana v.Dy.CIT (E) (2025) 236 TTJ 117/ 174 taxmann.com 1136 (Hyd) (Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Omission to show application of funds in the IT return-Denial of exemption was not justified.[S. 12, 139]

Held that the exemption cannot be denied merely because the assessee's counsel inadvertently omitted to fill the column relating to application of income for charitable purposes in the IT return (AY. 2013-14)

Bright Land College v. ITO (E) (2025) 236 TTJ 125 / 174 taxmann.com 743 (Lucknow)(Trib)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of income-Related exercise of option during assessment proceedings-The Assessing Officer was directed to allow the claim of deemed application of income. [S. 11(1), 12A,12B 143(3)]

Held that even if the assessee has delayed exercise of its option under s. 11(1), Explan. 2 for deemed application of its income, as long as the option is exercised during the assessment itself, assessee is entitled to claim deemed application of its income; contention that since the assessee's application for condonation of delay in exercising the option under s. 11(1)(a), Explan. 2 has not been approved by the specified authority; the assessee is not entitled to the benefit of deemed application of its income, which is not sustainable. (AY. 2013-14)

Shri Mahavir Gopalan Charitable Trust v. ITO (E) (2025) 236 TTJ 363 (Ahd) Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Related filing of Form No. 10B-Revenue was not justified in denying the benefit of exemption-AO is directed to take on record both the audit reports filed for respective assessment years, treat them as filed in compliance with provisions of s. 12A(1)(b) and then assess the total income of the assessee after giving effect to the provisions of ss. 11 and 12.[S. 12, 12A,139(4A), Form No 10B]

Held that the condition of filing audit report is merely procedural and therefore, directory in nature for the purpose of claiming exemption under ss. 11 and 12. The Tribunal directed the AO to take on record the audit reports filed for the respective assessment years and then assess the total income of the assessee trust after giving effect to the provision of ss. 11 and 12. (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19)

Chinmaya Seva Trust v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 349 / 174 taxmann.com 214 (Panaji)(Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of income-Benefit of accumulation cannot be denied where 85% of income is applied-Form No 9A-Justified in refusing accumulation as the specified purpose of accumulation was not specified. [S. 11(1)(a), 11(2)]

The Tribunal held that filing of Form No. 9A is required only where the trust seeks to accumulate income because it could not apply 85% of its income during the year. Where the assessee had already applied the prescribed percentage of income towards charitable purposes, non-filing of Form No. 9A did not disentitle it from the statutory accumulation under section 11(1)(a). Tribunal also held that the CIT(A) was justified in refusing accumulation as the specified purpose of accumulation was not specified. (AY. 2017-18, 2018 19).

Rohilkhand Educational Charitable Trust v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 173 / 178 taxmann.com 672 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Donation to another charitable trust having common trustees-Exemption cannot be denied-Matter remanded. [S. 13(1)(c), 13(3)]

The Tribunal held that a public charitable trust cannot be regarded as a concern in which common trustees have a substantial interest merely because the donor and donee trusts have common trustees. Unless it is established that the funds of the donee trust were utilised for the personal benefit of the trustees, exemption under section 11 cannot be denied. While donation to one trust was allowed, the issue relating to another donee trust was restored to the Assessing Officer to examine whether the donation furthered the assessee's charitable objects. (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19).

Rohilkhand Educational Charitable Trust v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 173 / 178 taxmann.com 672 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Exemption-Capital gains-Sale proceeds reinvested in fixed deposit with scheduled bank-Deemed acquisition of new capital asset-Assessee eligible for exemption on capital gains-Interest earned on fixed deposits retained in bank account and applied for charitable purposes-Qualifies for exemption. [S. 11(5), 11(IA)]

The assessee, a charitable trust, sold immovable property for Rs. 75 lakhs and reinvested the proceeds in fixed deposits with a nationalised bank, later converted into a capital gains account, but the AO treated the entire sale proceeds as taxable business income, denied exemption under section 11(1A), and separately added Rs. 4,41,961 as taxable interest income, which CIT(A) partly sustained. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished sufficient evidence of deposit of the sale consideration in fixed deposits, which as per CBDT Instruction No. 883 of 1975 amounted to utilisation of net consideration for acquiring another capital asset under section 11(1A), and since the assessee had also shown that the capital gains were ultimately utilised for purchasing another immovable property, the AO was directed to verify the facts and allow relief; it further held that the interest income, having been retained in the bank savings account, duly reflected in the audited balance-sheet, and invested in a mode specified under section 11(5), qualified for exemption under section 11(1).(AY. 2016-17)

Vaishnav Samaj Trust v. ITO (2025) 132 ITR 169 (Surat)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Registration granted subsequently-Audit report in Form No. 10B filed thereafter-Substantial compliance-Exemption allowable-Return filed within time under section 139-Amendment by section 12A(1)(ba) prospective-Exemption not to be denied.
[S. 12, 12AA,139(4A) 143 (1)]

The assessee's application for registration under section 12AA was initially rejected but was subsequently allowed pursuant to the Tribunal's directions with effect from the relevant assessment year. After obtaining registration, the assessee filed the audit report in Form No. 10B. The Tribunal held that when the return was originally filed the assessee was not a registered trust and therefore could not have complied with the requirement of filing Form No. 10B. Filing the audit report after grant of registration constituted substantial compliance and exemption under sections 11 and 12 could not be denied on that ground. The Revenue denied exemption on the ground that the return was not filed within the time prescribed under section 139(4A). The Tribunal held that the requirement inserted by section 12A(1)(ba) applies only from assessment year 2018-19 onwards. For the year under consideration, the assessee having filed the return within the period prescribed under section 139 was entitled to exemption. The denial of exemption was therefore held to be unsustainable. (AY. 2017-18).

Shri Panchmurti Education Society v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 523 / 171 taxmann.com 546 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Form No. 9A-Revised Form filed before completion of assessment-Correct taxable income to be determined-Matter remanded.[S. 143(3)]

The assessee, a charitable trust, inadvertently claimed double deduction by claiming both depreciation and capital expenditure. Before completion of the assessment, it filed a revised Form No. 9A to increase the amount to be accumulated and carried forward. The Tribunal held that the tax authorities failed to ascertain the correct taxable income merely because the revised Form No. 9A was filed after the prescribed due date. Since the revised Form had been filed before completion of the assessment and could materially affect the computation of taxable income, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2020-21).

Deendayal Seva Pratishthan v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 368 / 179 taxmann.com 88 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Charitable purpose-Advancement of object of general public utility-Business-Microfinance activities carried on with predominant profit motive-Exemption denied.[S. 2(15), 12, 12AA]

The assessee-trust, registered under section 12AA, advanced loans through self-help groups and non-governmental organisations to economically weaker sections while charging interest substantially higher than prevailing market rates. The Tribunal held that the assessee was engaged in organised commercial microfinance activities with the predominant object of earning profit and that its activities were no different from those of commercial financial institutions. In the absence of any real element of charity, the assessee's activities were hit by the proviso to section 2(15), and it was not entitled to exemption under section 11. (AY. 2013-14).

Innovative Microfinance for Poverty Alleviation and Community Transformation v. Dy. CIT (E) (2025) 123 ITR 188 / 174 taxmann.com 502 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Revised return-Break-up of foreign contribution as 'corpus fund donation' or 'other than corpus fund donation'-Failure to upload revised return-Revised return which assessee could not file due to technical glitches was to be considered by Assessing Officer subject to verification of donations and to allow claim for exemption under section 11 to assessee-trust [S. 12, 139(5), 143(1), 154]

Assessee, a society registered under section 12, filed its return declaring nil surplus from its charitable activities. Return was processed by CPC wherein foreign contribution of certain amount received by assessee-trust was treated as income of assessee. Assessee filed a rectification petition under section 154 whereby it sought exemption for said amount on ground that it was a voluntary contribution from foreign sources which could not be exigible to tax. However, CPC passed an order under section 154 wherein it had stated that amount of foreign contribution was not consistent with total contribution and suggested assessee to file a revised return providing correct break-up of foreign contribution as 'corpus fund donation' or 'other than corpus fund donation'. It was also stated in section 154 order that in case revised return was not filed, the difference amount between schedules would be treated as other than corpus fund donation and would be taxed accordingly. Assessee attempted to file a revised return as suggested by CPC, but due to technical glitches, assessee could not upload the revised return. Assessee submitted that since the time for filing the revised return under section 139(5) had supervened, assessee failed to upload the return as the system did not accept it. Tribunal held that the revised return, which the assessee could not file due to technical glitches, was to be considered by the Assessing Officer, subject to verification of donations, and to allow a claim for exemption under section 11 to the assessee-trust. Matter remanded. (AY. 2021-22)

St. Joseph Capuchin Service Society. v. ACIT (E) Uttar Pradesh. (2025) 215 ITD 137 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing Audit report-Uploaded Form No. 10B within time allowed by CPC-Exemption cannot be denied merely for delay in filing audit report.

[S.12, Form No 10B]

Held that since the audit report was filed much prior to the passing of the order as well as the passing of the intimation under section 143(1)(a) by CPC, the Commissioner (Appeals) erred in not allowing the claim of the assessee.(AY. 2018-19)

Masoomen Education Society.v.CIT(A) (2025) 215 ITD 311 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing return of income along with audit report in Form No 10B-Form was submitted before completion of assessment proceedings-Procedural irregularity-Denial of exemption was not justified-Accumulation of income-Specified purpose-Donated to other trust-Constituted a violation of provisions of section 11(3)-Addition under section 11(3)(d) was justified. [S.11(2), 11(3)(d)]

Tribunal held that though the assessee-trust belatedly filed its return claiming exemption under section 11 along with an audit report in Form No. 10B, since said form was duly submitted before completion of assessment proceedings, the delay in filing said form was a procedural irregularity and exemption under section 11(2) could not be denied to the assessee. Tribunal also held that the assessee-trust failed to utilise accumulated income for the specified purpose within the permissible period and was instead donated to other trusts, which constituted a violation of provisions of section 11(3), thus, addition under section 11(3)(d) for such amount was justified.. (AY. 2017-18)

ITO (E) v. Seth Damji Laxmichand Jain Dharma Sthanak. (2025) 215 ITD 415 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-General public utility-Sports-Applicability of proviso to section 2(15)-Specified person-Mutual Association-Association of persons-Sports facilities and charging members and non-members at differential rates-Orders were set aside and restored to the file of the Assessing Officer for de novo assessment after applying provisions of section 2(15) in light of the decision of the Supreme Court.[S. 2(15),2(31)(v), 4, 12A, 13(1)]

Assessee trust was providing general public utility (GPU) services by conducting sports facilities and coaching for various sports on a ground given to it on lease by the government. It was collecting charges at differential rates for these facilities from its members and non-members. Assessing Officer held that assessee had violated provisions of section 13 by conferring undue benefit to 'specified persons' as per section 13(1) and, therefore, passed assessment order treating it as a mutual concern. CIT (A) directed the Assessing Officer to treat assessee as an AOP and allow expenses claimed after due examination. On an appeal by the revenue, the Tribunal held that in Asstt. CIT (E) v. Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority (2023) 291 Taxman 11/ (2022) 449 ITR 1 (SC) gave a correct interpretation of the proviso to section 2(15) in the context of the GPU category of cases of charitable entities. Since the assessee was covered under the GPU clause of section 2(15), while considering the assessee's claim of exemption under section 11, the proviso to section 2(15) had to be considered in light of the decision of the Supreme Court in AUDA (supra). The matter was restored to the file of the Assessing Officer for de novo assessment after applying provisions of section 2(15) in light of the decision of the Supreme Court (AY. 2013-14 to 2018-19)

ITO (E) v. Chembur Gymkhana. (2025) 215 ITD 433 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Filing of audit report-Delayed filing of audit reports-Merely a technical or procedural lapse Denial of exemption was not justified.[S. 10(23C), 12 143(1)]

Assessee-trust filed its return of income for Assessment Year 2020-2021 claiming exemption under Section 11. Audit report in Form 10B was filed along with the return. Similarly, for Assessment Year 2023-2024, assessee claimed exemption under Section 10(23C) and filed an audit report in Form 10BB along with the return. CPC processed returns under Section 143(1) and denied exemption on the grounds that the audit reports were filed belatedly with reference to timelines under Section 139. CIT(A) confirmed the denial of exemption, observing that conditions for claiming exemption were not fulfilled due to the late filing of audit reports. Tribunal held that audit reports were very much available on record when returns were processed, hence such technical/procedural breach could not lead to denial of exemption under Sections 11 and 12 or under Section 10(23C) at the stage of intimation under Section 143(1). Therefore, intimation under Section 143(1) was quashed. (AY. 2020-21, 2022-23)

Saraswati Devi Educational and Social Trust. v.ITO (E) (2025) 215 ITD 658 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Denial of exemption-Trust or institution-Investment restrictions-Assessee gave interest free loan advances-Held, Charitable cannot hold surplus except in the prescribed mode in S. 11(5)-Held, AO cannot change status of the Assessee from 'charitable' to 'non-charitable' for minor violation-CIT(A) should see where the surplus funds was applied-matter remanded. [S.11(5), 12, 13]

The AO observed that the Assessee charitable trust gave interest free Advances to related parties in violation of the S. 11 and S. 13 of the Act and Computed Notional Interest on the interest free advances. The AO also made addition for application of funds towards charitable activities even though it had surplus funds. The ITAT held that surplus funds of a charitable Institution who enjoys benefit of S. 11 and 12, are not akin to surplus funds of a business house. The Trust is not enjoying those funds as its own funds. It is being held in a fiduciary capacity. In other words, in a representative capacity of charitable Institution. If it is surplus, then it is to be accumulated under S. 11(5) in a prescribed mode and if not applied in future years, it has to suffer tax. Although, the ITAT observed that the status of the Institution cannot be changed from 'charitable' to 'non-charitable' Institution if a minor violation is present. Sub-clause (3) of S. 13 would provide that if undue benefit is being provided to any Institution or individual because of its proximity to the Management, then that undue benefit is to be brought to tax, but S. 11 and 12 would not be denied to the overall Society/Institution. Therefore, the Id. CIT(A) has erred in not analytically examining the issue, and the AO has erred in denying the exemption as a whole to the Assessee. The ITAT remanded both matters for fresh consideration. (AY. 2014-15)

ACIT (E) v. K.C Social Welfare Trust (2025) 175 taxmann.com 63 /234 TTJ 792 (Chd) (Trib)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Excess expenditure over income-Accumulation of income-Applied charitable purpose-Denial of exemption is not valid. [S.11(1)(a), 12A]

Assessee, a charitable trust registered under section 12A, claimed exemption under section 11(1)(a) for ` 27,05,219 [15% of total income] as accumulated/set-apart funds, despite incurring total expenditure of ` 4,88,80,927 against receipts of ` 1,80,34,791. AO disallowed the claim, reasoning that the assessee had no surplus to justify accumulation. Assessee argued that the excess expenditure was met from accumulated funds of earlier years and the 15% set-apart under section 11(1)(a) was unconditional. Section 11(1)(a) permits accumulation of up to 15% of income irrespective of whether current-year expenditure exceeds receipts. A charitable trust cannot be denied exemption under section 11(1)(a) merely because it utilised accumulated funds to cover excess expenditure. The provision is unambiguous and does not require a surplus in the relevant year for the 15% set-apart. Accordingly, the assessee's claim was valid. (AY. 2016-17)

Rajasthan Cricket Association v. ITO(E) [2025] 174 taxmann.com 346 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of income-Amendment brought in by Finance Act, 2022, did not debar assessee from availing said time window in respect of existing accumulations and amendment had to be read prospectively in respect of fresh accumulations for the period pertaining to previous year starting from 1-4-2022 onwards. [S.11(3)(c)]

Assessee, a charitable trust, filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 11. During the relevant year, assessee utilised accumulated income pertaining to financial years 2016-17. Assessing Officer held that as per amended provisions of section 11(3)(c), the accumulation period was limited to five years and, thus, he brought said amount to tax as income of assessee. CIT(A) up held the adjustment made by the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that amendment to section 11(3)(c) by Finance Act, 2022 with effect from 1-4-2023 which omitted extra period of one year following expiry of initial period of accumulation of five years was prospective in nature and, thus, same would be applicable only to fresh accumulations from assessment year 2023-24 onwards. As far as accumulation relating to financial years 2016-17 was concerned, assessee had time window till 31-3-2023 by which it could utilize accumulated income and in that view of matter, amendment brought in by Finance Act, 2022, did not debar assessee from availing said time window in respect of existing accumulations and amendment had to be read prospectively in respect of fresh accumulations for period pertaining to previous year starting from 1-4-2022 onwards. Further, as far as the assessment year was concerned, no addition could be made for the accumulation of income pertaining to the financial year 2017-18 as the assessee continued to be guided by provisions as existed at the relevant point in time and the time window of six years as provided. The amendment made by the Finance Act, 2022, could not curtail said time window and had to be applied prospectively in respect of fresh accumulations. (AY. 2023-24)

Meshri Mahajan Vanda. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 638 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of income-Educational purpose-Board resolution-Providing scholarship-Form No 10B-Entitled to claim benefit of section 11(2).[S.11(2), Form No 10.]

Assessee, a charitable trust engaged in educational activities which included granting of scholarships to students, filed Form No. 10 for accumulation of income under section 11(2). Assessing Officer disallowed income accumulated under section 11(2), holding that the purpose stated for accumulation i.e. 'towards object of trust ', was generic and it was a mandatory requirement that the purpose stated for accumulation should be specific. CIT(A) confirmed the disallowances. On appeal, the Tribunal held that Form No. 10 filed by assessee stated the purpose of accumulation as 'for objects of trust'. It was also noted that said Form No. 10 was supported by a board resolution passed by the board of directors of the assessee-company wherein it was clearly mentioned that the accumulated amount was to be utilised for providing scholarship (educational purpose). Vagueness of purpose of accumulation as stated in Form 10 would not be fatal, and assessee would be entitled to claim benefit of section 11(2) in respect of the same. The matter was to be remanded to Assessing Officer, and disallowance to the extent the accumulated amount had been utilised for the aforesaid purpose was to be deleted by the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2016-17)

Imperial College India Foundation.v. Income-tax Officer (E) (2025) 214 ITD 761 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing Form No 10 and 10B-Procedural lapse-Exemption cannot be denied. [Form No 10, 10B]

Held that the delay in filing Form No 10 and 10B was a procedural lapse; hence, exemption cannot be denied.(AY. 2019-20)

Gujarat Technological University v.Dy. CIT(2025) 214 ITD 475 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Application of funds-Gross receipts-Revenue and capital expenditure-Income was to be assessed as nil. [S.12A, 143(1)]

Allowing the appeal, the Tribunal held that the income of the trust at gross receipts, since the gross receipts of the assessee were ₹ 1.41 crores and application of funds was also to the tune of ₹ 1.41 crores, comprising revenue expenditure of ₹ 1.35 crores and capital expenditure of ₹ 6.10 lakhs, income of the assessee was to be assessed as nil (AY. 2022-23)

Cossimbazar Social Welfare and Development Trust. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 54 (Kol) (Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-The requirement of filing an audit report in Form 10B before the due date as per rule 12A(1)(b) is directory in nature and not mandatory-Directed to allow exemption. [S. 12, 12A(1)(b), Form No 10B]

Allowing the appeal of the assessee, the Tribunal held that the requirement of filing an audit report in Form 10B before the due date as per rule 12A(1)(b) is directory in nature and not mandatory. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to allow the exemption. (AY. 2017-18, 2019-20)

Trilok Singh Bhandari Charitable Trust. v. TIO (2025) 213 ITD 63 (Delhi) (Trib.)(SMC)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Belated filing of Form No.10B-Filed in appeal proceedings-Directory and not mandatory-Directed to allow the exemption. [S. 12, 12A, Form No.10B]

Assessing Officer denied the exemption on the ground that assessee had not filed Form No. 10B, audit report, within the prescribed time limit. CIT(A) did not accept the audit report filed in the appeal proceedings. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the filing of Form No. 10B is directory and not mandatory and the assessee had filed Form No. 10B belatedly but during appeal proceedings itself, the benefit of sections 11 and 12 claimed by the assessee in its income-tax return was directed to be allowed. (AY. 2014-15)

Sahaj Seva Trust. v. ITO (E) (2025) 213 ITD 122 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Failure to file an audit report in Form No 10B along with the return-Report was filed in the course of assessment proceedings-Exemption could not be denied solely on the ground of belated filing of audit report-Delay was condoned, and the Assessing Officer was directed to grant the exemption. [S. 12, 12A, Form No.10B]

Assessing Officer denied exemption under section 11 on the ground that the audit report in Form No. 10B was not furnished along with the return or subsequently up to the time of assessment. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the audit was completed on 29-7-2019 and the audit report was signed on 27-7-2019. However, said audit report was e-filed belatedly on 7-12-2019. Since audit was completed in time and there was no adverse finding by Assessing Officer on merits of exemption, exemption could not be denied solely on ground of belated filing of audit report in Form No. 10B. Delay in filing Form No. 10B and delay in filing appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) was condoned in interest of justice and Assessing Officer was directed to grant benefit of exemption under sections 11 and 12. (AY. 2017-18)

Health Foundation and Research Centre. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 326 (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Filing of auditor's report-Directory and not mandatory-Audit report in Form No. 10B was not uploaded within the due date of filing return under section 139(1)-Filed before processing of return-Exemption allowed.[S.12A, 143(1), Form No 10B]

Assessee-trust filed return claiming exemption under section 11. However, Form No. 10B was duly filed within 1 month prior to the due date for furnishing the return under section 139(1) by CA in practice (duly e-signed), but inadvertently, the assessee missed accepting it. Assessing Officer denied the exemption claimed under section 11. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the filing of an audit report in Form No.10B had been held to be a procedural requirement and directive in nature and not mandatory. Since the audit report was available before the Assessing Officer at the time of processing of the return, the matter was remitted back to the Assessing Officer for considering the assessee's claim afresh and claim of exemption under section 11 had to be allowed.(AY. 2022-23)

AMPI Foundation. v. DDIT CPC (2025) 213 ITD 529 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Filing of audit report in correct form-Filed Audit report in Form 10B-Filed Form 10BB on 05-01-2024, before intimation under section 143(1) was passed-, CBDT Circular No. 2/2024 dated 5-3-2024, audit report filed in Form 10BB was within due date-The Assessing Officer was directed to consider Form 10BB.[S. 12A,119 R. 16CC, 17B]

Assessee-trust filed its audit report in Form No. 10B. Subsequently, assessee came to know that Form No. 10BB was required to be filed.

Assessee, thereafter, filed an audit report in the correct form, i.e Form No. 10BB on 5-1-2024. Assessing Officer held that the total income of the trust claiming exemption under section 11 exceeded the maximum amount which was not chargeable to tax under the Act but less than or equal to Rs.5 crores; thus, the assessee was required to file an audit report in Form 10BB at least one month prior to the due date of furnishing the return under section 139(1). However, assessee failed to e-file the audit report in Form 10BB. He, thus, processed the return and recomputed income as per section 13(10). CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had filed an audit report in Form No. 10B on 28-10-2023 and extended due date for filing an audit report as per CBDT circular for assessment year 2023-24 was 31-10-2023. Further, the audit report in correct Form No. 10BB was filed on 5-1-2024, i.e. before passing of intimation under section 143(1). While passing intimation under section 143(1), the Assessing Officer should have considered the correct Form No. 10BB filed on 5-1-2024. In view of CBDT Circular No. 2/2024, dated 5-3-2024, the audit report filed in Form 10BB on 5-1-2024 was within the due date. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to delete additions made in income of assessee. (AY. 2023-24)

Ashwini's Sports Foundation. v. ITO (E) (2025) 13 ITD 502 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing Form 10B, which was filed before the issue of notice u/s 143(1)-Mismatch in details of registration under section 12A provided in ITR and Form 10AC-Matter remanded [S. 12A, Form 10B, 10AC]

Held that the assessee-trust filed Form 10B with a minor delay, grant of exemption could not be denied only on account of said delay if said Form was available with the Assessing Officer before the issue of notice under section 143(1). The Tribunal also held that exemption cannot be denied on account of a mismatch in details of registration under section 12A provided in ITR and Form 10AC. Matter remanded for verification. AY. 2022-23)

Barwala Panjrapole. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 523 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing Audit report in Form No 10B-Directory and not mandatory-Audit report was filed before processing of return-Denial of exemption was not justified.[S. 12, 143(1), Form No.10B]

The assessee filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 11. The return was processed under section 143(1) by denying the claim of exemption on the ground that the assessee had filed an audit report in Form No. 10B along with the return of income but the same was required to be filed one month before the due date of filing the return of income, and since the audit report was filed late, the claim of exemption was denied. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the filing of the auditor's report along with the return of income has to be treated as a procedural requirement and, therefore, it is directory in nature and not mandatory. Audit report was available at the time of processing of return, claim under section 11 could not be denied. The Assessing Officer was directed to allow the claim under section 11 as per law and after considering the audit report filed in Form No. 10B (AY. 2020-21)

Riddhi Seva Kendra. v. ADIT (2025) 213 ITD 535 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing Audit report in Form No 10B-Directory and not mandatory-Directed to allow the exemption. [S. 12, 12A, Form No 10B]

Assessee filed its return of income declaring total income at nil and claiming exemption under section 11. Centralized Processing Centre (CPC), on the basis of alleged non-availability of TAR in Form 10B, disallowed the exemption claimed by assessee. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the assessee contended that TAR was filed before return, though with a delay of one day and that too solely because of technical slugs that frequently occur on the last dates of furnishing such particulars. Further, assessee filed the same Form 10B before the appellate authority as well. Tribunal held that the conditions of filing Form 10B for availing benefit under section 11 are directory in nature and not mandatory; hence, denial of exemption was not justified. (AY. 2022-23)

Sampoorna Seva Charitable Trust. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 550 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Delay in filing Form 10B, which was made available before passing of intimation u/s 143(1)-Denial of exemption was not valid.[S.12, 143(1)]

Held that assessee trust had filed Form 10B and the same was available with the Department before the passing of the order/intimation under section 143(1), claim of exemption under section 11 could not be denied only on account of delay in filing of Form No 10B before due date. (AY. 2021-22)

Shree Bhakt Samaj Vikas Education Trust. v.CIT(E) (2025) 213 ITD 639 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Excess expenditure over income-Accumulation of income-Applied charitable purpose-Denial of exemption is not valid. [S.11(1)(a), 12A]

Assessee, a charitable trust registered under section 12A, claimed exemption under section 11(1)(a) for ` Rs.27,05,219 [15% of total income] as accumulated/set-apart funds, despite incurring total expenditure of ` Rs.4,88,80,927 against receipts of ` Rs. 1,80,34,791. AO disallowed the claim, reasoning that assessee had no surplus to justify accumulation. Assessee argued that the excess expenditure was met from accumulated funds of earlier years and the 15% set-apart under section 11(1)(a) was unconditional. Section 11(1)(a) permits accumulation of up to 15% of income irrespective of whether current-year expenditure exceeds receipts or not. A charitable trust cannot be denied exemption under section 11(1)(a) merely because it utilized accumulated funds to cover excess expenditure. The provision is unambiguous and does not require a surplus in the relevant year for the 15% set-apart. Accordingly, assessee's claim was valid. (AY. 2016-17)

Rajasthan Cricket Association v. ITO(E) [2025] 174 taxmann.com 346 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of income-Object of trust-Exemption allowed [S. 11(2), Form 10]

The assessee-trust claimed accumulation of income under section 11(2). The AO denied exemption on the ground that the purpose of accumulation was not specified. The CIT(A) allowed the claim. On appeal, the Tribunal held that Form 10 contained specific reasons for accumulation, which were within the objects of the trust. Accordingly, exemption under section 11 was rightly allowed. (AY. 2018-19)

ITO v. Yogakshema Trust (2025) 212 ITD 408 (Cochin)(Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation-Deduction was not allowed-Benefit of section 12A in previous and subsequent years, claim of assessee was allowable-Delay of 1672 days in filing appeal before CIT(A) was condoned. [S.11(1)(a),11(5), 12A,143(1)(a), 254(1), R. 17]

Assessee, charitable trust, claimed deduction under section 11(1)(a) However, same was not allowed by Assessing Officer on ground that assessee while filling ITR did not mention section 12A details. Assessee submitted that denial of deduction merely due to bona fide error in ITR was unjust. Tribunal held that since audit report filed by assessee suggested that assessee was a trust and assessee had been allowed benefit of section 12A in previous and subsequent years, claim of assessee for deduction as claimed in ITR was allowable. Delay of 1672 days in filing appeal before the CIT(A) was condoned. Relied on Pathapati Subba Reddy v. Special Deputy Collector (LA)(2024) SCC Online SC 513 (AY. 2013-14)

Seth RB Moondhra Memorial Charitable Trust. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 567 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Objects of general public utility-Eye hospital-Commercial activities-85 per cent of its gross receipts were applied for charitable activities-Eligible for exemption.[S. 2(15) 12A, 12AA]

Assessee eye hospital society was registered as a charitable institution under section 12AA. It filed its return declaring nil income. Assessing Officer held that surplus of assessee was 31.29 per cent of gross receipts. He held that the assessee was involved in commercial activities which was a clear violation of provisions of section 2(15) and, thus, he treated net surplus as taxable income for year under consideration. CIT(A) held that the assessee had applied 85 per cent of its surplus, hence eligible for exemption. On appeal the Tribunal held that once assessee was registered as a charitable institution under section 12AA, then it was to be seen whether income derived from property of society or activities of society were being applied to extent of 85 per cent on its objectivity or not. It had not been provided that if charitable institution was generating higher percentage of surplus, then it would be disqualified as a charitable institution and requirement of law was that 85 per cent of gross receipts were required to be applied for charitable activities, which had been fulfilled by assessee. Order of CIT(A) allowing the exemption was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

ACIT (E) v. Palampur Rotary Eye Foundation. (2025) 212 ITD 491 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Education-Donation to other educational trusts-Application of income-Allowed exemption.[S.12A]

The assessee-trust, registered under section 12AA, was engaged in education and made donations to other educational trusts which were also registered u/s 12A. The AO denied exemption alleging diversion of funds and misuse. The Tribunal observed that once both donor and donee trusts are registered and the object of imparting education is fulfilled, the donation qualifies as application of income u/s 11. It further noted that in earlier scrutiny assessments such donations were accepted in the case of donee trusts. Hence, exemption could not be denied. Held, donations to other registered trusts for educational purposes amount to valid application of income. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15)

DCIT (E) v. Indo Global Education Foundation. (2025) 212 ITD 341 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Public welfare and developmental activities-Charitable in nature-Entitle to exemption. [S. 2(15),12]

The assessee, a statutory Town Planning Authority under the Karnataka Town and Country Planning Act, 1961, undertook public welfare and development activities. The AO denied exemption u/ss. 11 and 12 holding that activities were commercial in nature under the proviso to section 2(15). The Tribunal held that the assessee was functioning under strict Government control, its accounts were audited by Government, its budget was approved by the State and any surplus or assets reverted to the State upon dissolution. These facts showed that the activities were not profit-motivated but for public utility. Held, exemption u/ss. 11 and 12 allowable, proviso to section 2(15) not attracted. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14, 2015-16, 2018-19)

Magadi Planning Authority. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 363 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Claimed exemption under section 11 and section 10(23C)(iiia)-Failure to file Form 10B-Matter is set aside to file of Assessing Officer with a direction to verify whether assessee is eligible for claim of exemption under section 10(23C)(iiia) of the Act.[S. 10(23C)(iiia)]

Assessee is a public charitable trust established with main object of facilitating education by starting, acquiring, affiliating or incorporating schools and boarding houses. Assessee filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 11. Assessee also claimed exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiad). Assessing Officer disallowed claim of exemption under section 11. On appeal, Commissioner (Appeals) upheld denial. On appeal before the Tribunal held that Assessee contended that entire expenditure incurred by trust was for educational purposes and thus entire income of trust was otherwise exempt, if not under section 11 but under section 10(23C)(iiiad). Tribunal remanded the matter before the AO to decide in accordance with law. (AY. 2020-21)

Muslim Education Society. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 124 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Not claimed as application of income-Depreciation cannot be disallowed-Matter remanded. [S.11(6), 32]

Held that when the assessee-trust had not claimed cost of acquisition of assets as 'application of income' either in current or any previous assessment year, Assessing Officer could not disallow depreciation on fixed assets under section 11(6). Matter remanded. (AY. 2017-18)

Indian Institute of Information Technology Society, Vadodara. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 163 (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Revised claim by rectification application-Filed within the time prescribed u/s 139(5)-No intimation was issued u/s 143(1)-Denial of exemption is not valid.[S. 139(5) 143(1), 154(8)]

Held that the assessee-society having inadvertently shown its income under the head business income instead of income from other sources in its return and later filed a rectification application, it was actually a revised return revising the head of income disclosing the income under the correct head of income and not a rectification application simpliciter; such return of income is deemed to be accepted by the Revenue and, therefore, there is no justification in denying the claim of exemption under s. 11 to the assessee-society. (AY.2016-17)

Jan Shikshan Sansathan v. ITO (E) (2025) 233 TTJ 769 / 246 DTR 25 (Chd)(Trib)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Non-filing of Form 10B-Directory-Exemption cannot be denied. [S. 143(1), Form No 10B]

Held that the assessee had obtained audit report in Form 10B before filing return of income, however filed same belatedly but before completion of assessment under section 143(1), it being a procedural lapse on part of assessee, benefit of exemption under section 11 could not be denied to assessee-trust, as filing of Form 10B is directory and not mandatory in nature. (AY. 2016-17)

Puran Chand Arora Charitable Trust. v. ITO Exemption (2025) 211 ITD 678 /122 ITR 59 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Imparting first aid training to students, schools, companies and institutions etc-Advancement of any other object of public utility-Charitable activity-Matter remanded to the AO. [S. 2(15), 12]

Assessee-society is involved in imparting first aid training to students, schools, companies and institutions etc., and earning training fees and also membership fee. Assessee had earned income on account of fee for certification and protection awards. Assessing Officer held that assessee was running full fledged business activities which was commercial in nature and activity carried on by assessee fell under advancement of any other object of public utility. Accordingly, he held that assessee was not entitled to claim benefits of exemption under sections 11 and 12. CIT(A) held that the assessee is entitled for exemption. On appeal by Revenue the Tribunal held that neither Assessing Officer nor Commissioner (Appeals) had considered activities of assessee as to whether aim of trust or general public utility was charitable or not matter is remanded to the AO.(AY. 2014-15)

ITO v. St. John Ambulance Association. (2025) 211 ITD 542 (Delhi) (Trib.),

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Form No 10-Audit report filed belatedly-Procedural requirement-Entitled to exemption. [S. S. 10(23C)(iii), Form No 10.]

Held that requirement of filing audit report along with return of income is only a procedural requirement and, therefore, exemption would not be denied when said audit report was available with Assessing Officer before completion of assessment even if said audit report was filed belatedly by assessee. CIT v. Rai Bahadur Bissesswarlal Motilal Malwasie Trust [1992] 195 ITR 825 (Cal) (HC) followed.(AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

ACIT v. Karnataka Institute of Diabetology. (2025) 211 ITD 210 /235 TTJ 874 (Bang) (Trib.),

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Failure to get accounts audited and audit report-Not entitled to exemption. [S. 12, 12A(1)(b)]

Held that for claiming exemption under sections 11 or 12, section 12A(b) the Trust has to get its accounts audited by an accountant defined in Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288; and to furnish along with return of income for relevant assessment year report of audit in prescribed form. On facts, the assessee society had not filed any return of income for the year under consideration as per the required mandate of section 12A(1)(b), hence not entitled to claim exemption under section 11, and 12 of the Act. (AY. 2017-18)

Vidya Kunj School. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 11(SMC) (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Town planning authority created under Karnataka Town and Country Planning Act, 1961-Public welfare and developmental activities-Town planning, water conservation and lake rejuvenation for town and its adjacent areas-Activities were charitable in nature-Entitled to exemption.[S. 2(15), 12, Karnataka Town and Country Planning Act, 1961]

Assessee is a town planning authority created under Karnataka Town and Country Planning Act, 1961. It undertook public welfare and developmental activities such as town planning, water conservation, and lake rejuvenation for town and its adjacent areas. The assessee operated under stringent Government regulation. All its receipts and expenditures were deposited into Town Planning Authority Fund, and budget was subject to approval by State Government. Assessee's accounts were audited annually by Government agencies, and any surplus or assets, upon dissolution, reverted to State Government-These factors unequivocally demonstrated non-commercial character of assessee's activities. Functions of assessee aligned with definition of charitable purposes under section 2(15) as they were oriented towards advancement of public utility without any profit motive, and would be entitled to exemption under sections 11 and 12 of the Act. (AY. 2014-15 to 2017-18)

Magadi Planning Authority. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 552 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Accumulation of Income-Rehabilitation and medical care of poor and weaker section-Order of CIT(A) allowing the exemption is affirmed-Administrative and establishment expenses incurred by assessee, a charitable institution, were part of application of income for charitable activities. [S.11(2), Form 10]

Assessee is a charitable institution, engaged in business of micro-financing. During year, assessee claimed accumulation under section 11(2). Assessing

Officer denied assessee's claim on ground that purposes mentioned in Form No. 10 were general in nature and did not satisfy requirement of section 11(2). Commissioner (Appeals) held that the assessee had provided specific objective for utilization of accumulated amount which is for relief, rehabilitation and medical care of poor and weaker section and he held that assessee had made clear statement and set out purpose for which income was to be set apart. Order passed by Commissioner (Appeals) is upheld. Tribunal also held that administrative and establishment expenses incurred by assessee, a charitable institution, were part of application of income for charitable activities, accumulation was to be worked out by taking gross receipts in place of net receipts. (AY. 2014-15)

ACIT v. Bandhan Konnagar. (2025) 211 ITD 743 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Late filing of return-CBDT Circular clarifies that trusts are eligible for exemption u/s.11 even if the return is filed belatedly, provided it is filed within the time permitted u/s.139 (4A) [S. 139(4A)]

The assessee-trust filed its return of income belatedly but within the time allowed under Section 139(4A). The AO denied the exemption claimed u/s. 11, stating that the return was not filed within the time limit prescribed u/s.139 (1). However, as per CBDT Circular No. 173/193/2019-ITA-I dated 23-4-2019, if a trust files its return belatedly but within the time permitted u/s 139(4A), the AO/CPC must allow the exemption claim under Section 11. Held that the assessee had filed its return well within the time allowed under Section 139(4A), making it eligible for exemption under Section 11. The impugned order was set aside, and the matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) with a direction to pass a rectification order in line with the CBDT Circular. The assessee-trust is entitled to exemption under Section 11 despite filing a belated return, as it was filed within the permissible time under Section 139(4A). (AY. 2018-19)

K. M. Educational & Rural-Development Trust v. ITO [2025] 210 ITD 574 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes-Charitable purpose-Provision of credit guarantee for loans to micro and small enterprises-Entitled to exemption-Provision for guarantee claim-Allowable as deduction [S. 37(1)]

Assessee-trust was engaged in providing credit guarantee for loans and advances to new or existing micro and small enterprises or such other enterprises, as may be decided by the settlers from time to time. Thus, it was an ameliorating credit guarantee to small ventures and supported the development of businesses/livelihoods. Against such outstanding guarantee, the Assessee created a provision for guarantee claims. As the Assessee was not contravening provisions of S. 2(15) it was entitled to claim exemption under S. 11. It was further held that the deduction claimed by the Assessee under the 'provision for guarantee claims' was an allowable expenses u/s 37 (1) of the Act. Accordingly, the impugned assessment order rejecting the exemption claimed by the assessee u/s 11 by invoking the provisions of Section 2(15) on the ground that the activity of the assessee was contrary to S. 2(15) was to be set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

Credit Guarantee Fund Trust for Micro and Small Enterprises v. Dy. CIT (E) (2025) 210 ITD 429 /236 TTJ 296 / 124 ITR 307 (Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 11: Property held for charitable purposes- kuri and finance-Amount spent for the object of the Trust- entitled to exemption.[S.2(15)]

Assessing Officer treated income earned by assessee through kuri and finance business as business income on ground that this was against section 2(15), i.e., advancement of any other object of general public utility and on that basis denied exemption under section 11. Since assessee was not doing kuri and finance business solely for purpose of earning income like various other corporate entities doing and income earned through kuri and finance business was spent towards achieving objects mentioned in bye-laws of trust, assessee was entitled for exemption under section 11 (AY.2012-13,2013-14, 2015-16, 2016-17, 2018-19)

Sree Narayana Dharma Sabha Kodungallur v. ITO(E) (2025) 210 ITD 227 (Cochin) (Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Failure to file Form No 9A along with the return-Filed later on-Denial of exemption is not justified. [S.11(2)(ii), 139, Form No 9A]

Assessee did not file Form-9A along with the return. However, it had filed the prescribed form at a later date. The Assessing Officer denied exemption under section 11(2)(ii) on the ground that Form 9A was not filed along with the return of income. Assessee submitted that the trustee responsible for handling tax related matters of assessee was hospitalized. It was noted that a copy of the discharge certificate and doctor's prescription regarding said trustee of the assessee had been filed by assessee. The Object of the trust in carrying out charitable activities were also not in dispute. Held that the assessee's claim for exemption could not be denied only on regard that Form-9A had been filed later on, not with the return of income. (AY. 2019-20)

Seth Chagan Mall Hira Lakhl Dugar Charitable Trust v. ITO, (E) (2025) 210 ITD 266(SMC) (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-If past-year discrepancies, if resolved, do not justify denying exemption in subsequent years. [Form 10B]

The AO denied the exemption under s. 11 to the assessee due to non-audited books for preceding years, late filing of Form 10B audit report, amongst other things. Meanwhile, the Madras High Court order appointed a Managing Trustee to resolve internal disputes. For prior AYs, initial assessments denying exemptions were set aside by the Tribunal and remanded. On re-assessment, AO allowed exemptions but disallowed certain expenses. The trust provided full details (e.g., ledger extracts for hostel rent) to the CIT (A), with no adverse remand report from the AO. The ITAT prioritized substantive compliance and continuity of the trust's charitable objectives, ruling that procedural delays or resolved past issues could not bar exemption for the year in question.(AY. 2017-18)

ACIT (E) v. Mazdoor Welfare Trust [2024] 169 taxmann.com 733 / (2025) 233 TTJ 49 (UO) (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 11 : Property held for charitable purposes-Belated filing of return-Denial of exemption is not justified-Addition made under Section 143(1)(a)(ii) of the Act is deleted-Directed to accept the returned income-Circular of CBDT is binding on Revenue.[S. 12,12A(1)(b),119, 139(1),139(4),143(1)(a)(ii)]

Allowing the appeal of the assessee the Tribunal held that there is no cavil or doubt that the assessee trust has filed the return of income. Tribunal held that section 12A(1)(b) of the Act has been amended w.e.f. 01/04/2023, by Finance Act, 2023, to encompass that return of income filed under section 139(1) or 139(4) of the Act will satisfy compliance of section 139(4A) of the Act. The amendment is a beneficial one and only clarifies the intention of the legislature. Further, there is no further reason to deep dive into the non-furnishing of audit report along with the return of income since the registration was granted belatedly with retrospective effect at the behest of the directions from this forum. It is excruciating to note that a demand has been created on flimsy grounds as against the assessee which is in existence since 1965. For the sake of clarity it is clarified that the assessee trust is successful in assailing the order on twin grounds of submission of return of income as well as submissions of the audit report in tandem with the provisions for the impugned assessment year. It is surprising that the learned CIT(A) had traversed in an altogether different route to sustain the addition, which is also perverse and has been noted cryptically by this forum. Upon conspectus of the entire gamut of the facts and circumstances of the disputes in question, the entire addition of ₹ 11,26,85,825, merits full relief and hence the returned income be accepted. The Tribunal also held that the Circular of CBDT is binding on the Revenue. (AY. 2017-18)

Shri Panchmurti Education Society v. ITO [2025] 171 taxmann.com 546 / 126 ITR 523 (Nag)(Trib),

S. 12: Voluntary contributions-Trust or institution-Corpus Donations-Voluntary corpus donations cannot be denied merely because the trust requested donors to contribute towards the corpus. [S. 11, 132]

The Tribunal held that corpus donations retain their voluntary character merely because the assessee requested donors to contribute towards the corpus. In the absence of any evidence found during the search suggesting that the donations were not genuine, the Revenue was not justified in treating them as non-voluntary. However, in respect of five donors whose confirmations were not produced, the issue was restored to the Assessing Officer for verification, while the remaining additions were deleted. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

Rohilkhand Educational Charitable Trust v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 173 / 178 taxmann.com 672 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Benefit of a particular religious community or caste, i.e., 'Leuva Patel' community-Provisions of section 13 could be invoked only at the time of assessment and not at the time of grant of registration-Remanded matter back to Commissioner (E) for reconsideration-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S.12AB, 13, 260A]

Assessee trust filed an application for grant of registration under section 12AB. Commissioner (E) rejected the same on the ground that the objects of trust were restricted to the benefit of a particular religious community or caste, i.e., 'Leuva Patel' community. Tribunal held that provisions of section 13 could be invoked only at the time of assessment and not at the time of grant of registration and, thus, remanded the matter back to Commissioner (E) for reconsideration. On appeal dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal.

CIT (E) v. Bhojaram Leuva Patel Seva Samaj Trust (2025) 307 Taxman 86 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Cancellation of registration-Treating donation as corpus and later treating as general donation and paying tax as per order of Settlement Commission under section 245C-Cancellation of registration not valid.[S. 12AA(3), 245C, 260A]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that though the amount received from the donor SHGPH was initially claimed as donation towards corpus by the assessee, subsequently, it was admitted by the assessee to be general donation. The Department had not disputed that the amount so received by the assessee was general donation which was subjected to tax as per the order of the Settlement Commission under section 245C. The Commissioner (E) had not recorded any finding disbelieving the application of fund by the assessee towards its objects. The details of application of fund and receipt of donations were furnished by the assessee, which had been reproduced by the Tribunal in its order. The alleged brokers were not examined by the Department so as to disbelieve the donations received by the assessee. Instead, the donations received by the assessee were treated as general donations and accordingly it was subjected to tax in the hands of the assessee. The findings recorded by the Tribunal were findings of fact based on consideration of relevant evidence on record. Therefore, there was no illegality or perversity in the order of the Tribunal setting aside the order of the Commissioner (E) cancelling registration of the assessee-trust under section 12A of the Act.(AY. 2013-14)

CIT v. Gobind Ram Goel Charitable Trust (2025) 474 ITR 568 (Cal)(HC)

S. 12A : Registration-Non-disposal within six months-No deemed registration-Tribunal order set aside-Appeal of revenue was allowed. [S. 12AA(2), 260A, Art. 141, 142]

The Court held that non-disposal of an application for registration within six months does not lead to a deemed grant of registration, as there is no deeming fiction in law under S. 12AA(2). Relying on Harshit Foundation Sehmalpur v. CIT (2022) 328 CTR 609(SC) and CIT v. Muzafar Nagar Development Authority (2015) 275 CTR 233 (FB) (All)(HC), it was clarified that the law declared by the Supreme Court is binding under Art. 141 and that both CIT v. Society for Promotion of Education Adventures Sport (2016) 282 CTR 207/ 382 ITR 6 (SC) and CIT v. Harshit Foundation Sehmalpur (2022) 139 taxmann.com 55 (All)(HC) are reconcilable. Accordingly, the Tribunal's order granting deemed registration was set aside. Section 12AA(2) does not recognise any deeming fiction that an application for registration is deemed to be granted, if it is not disposed of within six months. Appeal of revenue was allowed.

CIT v. Dr. Kasliwal Medical Care & Research Foundation (2024) 168 Taxmann.com 91 / (2025) 343 CTR 295 (Bom)(HC)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Delay in filing audit report-Condonation of delay in filing Form 10 B- Justice-oriented approach should prevail over a pedantic one-Delay of 27 days condoned-Order of Commissioner (E) was set aside. [S.11, 12, 119, Form No. 10B, Art. 226]

The assessee, Damani Research Foundation of Medical Sciences, filed a writ petition against the order of the Commissioner of Income-Tax (E) refusing to condone a 27-day delay in filing Form 10B. The CIT(E) rejected condonation on the ground that the delay was not sufficiently explained. On writ, the Bombay High Court observed that the delay was minimal, and refusal to condone would cause serious prejudice and hardship to the trust. The Court emphasised that a justice-oriented approach should prevail over a pedantic one. Referring to rulings in Sau Dwarkabai Tai Karwa Charitable Public Trust v. CIT (E) [2025] 174 taxmann.com 245 (Bom.)(HC) and Kotak Family Foundation v. CIT (E) [2025] 176 taxmann.com 56 (Bom.)(HC, where similar delays were condoned, the Court held that the Commissioner (E) erred in rejecting the application. Accordingly, the Court set aside the order of the CIT(E) and condoned the delay of 27 days in filing Form 10B. The writ petition was allowed. (WP No. 1583 of 2025, dt.11-8-2025)

Damani Research Foundation of Medical Sciences v. CIT (E) (Bom)(HC) www.itatonlie.org-

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Retrospective registration-Delay in application-Assessee having claimed exemption under section 10(23C)(iiia) from inception, being aware of statutory requirements, but not seeking registration under section 12A and failing to furnish cogent and justifiable reasons for delay-Denial of retrospective registration held justified. [S. 10(23C)(iiia), 260A]

The assessee, an educational society, sought condonation of delay and grant of registration under section 12A with effect from 15-5-1989. The grounds urged were (i) inadvertence on the part of its accountant, and (ii) that its gross receipts exceeded Rs. 1 crore only from AY 2003-04 and, therefore, it did not consider it necessary to apply earlier. The Court held that both grounds were self-contradictory. If there was bona fide ignorance, the second ground would not arise; conversely, if the assessee consciously did not apply because its income was below Rs. 1 crore, the plea of inadvertence was untenable and an afterthought. The fact that the assessee had been claiming exemption under section 10(23C)(iiia) from the beginning demonstrated its awareness of statutory requirements. Despite such awareness, it deliberately chose not to seek registration under section 12A. In the absence of cogent and justifiable reasons explaining the inordinate delay, the authorities were justified in refusing retrospective registration. The findings of the Director of Income-tax (Exemptions) and the Tribunal were neither erroneous nor contrary to law.

Maheswara Educational Society v. DCIT (E) (2025) 345 CTR 391 / 251 DTR 265 / 175 taxmann.com 74 (Telangana)(HC).

S. 12A : Registration-Trust or institution-No activities had been carried on-Rejection of application is not justified-Order Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 11, 12AA, 260A]

Assessee-trust was established on 1-1-2008, and it had filed an application in Form No. 10A on 18-2-2008 seeking registration under section 12A(a)-Commissioner rejected the application on the ground that no charitable activity was ever carried out by the trust up to 31-3-2008. Tribunal held that since no activities had been carried out by the assessee, it would be premature to decide that activities were not charitable in nature. Tribunal further held that the Commissioner was required to restrict himself to the objects of trust. Accordingly, the Commissioner was to grant registration on the ground that no defect was pointed out in the clauses of the trust deed. On appeal, the High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (1999-2000 to 2005-06)

CIT v. International Health Care Education and Research Institute (2025) 473 ITR 753 /171 taxmann.com 578 (Raj)(HC)

Editorial: SLP of Revenue is dismissed, CIT v. International Health Care Education and Research Institute (2025) 304 Taxman 265/ 482 ITR287(SC)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Education-Providing vocational training-Eligible for registration. [S. 2(15), 12AA]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that vocational education is a form of education which is necessary for the development of an individual for the purpose of earning his living; as the institute is duly approved by the NCVT, it cannot be said that the institute is not imparting education. The order of the Tribunal is affirmed.

CIT (E) v. Unique Educational Society [2024] 168 taxmann.com 448 / (2025) 342 CTR 435 / 245 DTR 211 (P&H)(HC)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Procedure for fresh registration-Opportunity of being heard-Assessee trust did not reply to 3 Notices of hearing-Registration application rejected-No adjournment filed-No justifiable reasons-In Appeal, the Tribunal dismissed the appeal and upheld the S. 12AB and 80G Rejection Order.[S.12AB, 80G (5)(iii)]

Assessee filed applications for renewal of registration u/s 12A(1)(ac)(iii) and S. 80G(5)(iii) in Form No. 10AB. 3 Notices providing an opportunity of hearing were issued to the assessee, which remained uncomplied with. No adjournment applications were filed. In appeal, no justifiable reasons were submitted. Tribunal held that the Tribunal cannot be used as a forum for seeking restoration of the matter and allowing another innings before the CIT(E). The assessee's appeals were dismissed, and the 12AB and 80G Rejection orders were upheld.

Bijapur Jan Shikshan Sansthan v. CIT (E) (2025) 171 taxmann.com 690 / 234 TTJ 30 (UO)/ 121 ITR 94 (SN) (Raipur)(Trib)

S. 12A : Registration-Trust or institution-Rental income from trust property-Proviso to S. 2(15) not attracted-The order of the CIT(E) was set aside with a direction to grant registration under section 12A and restore the provisional registration. [S.2(15) 12AB]

The CIT(E) rejected the assessee's application for registration under section 12A and cancelled its provisional registration on the ground that it earned substantial rental income and incurred only nominal expenditure on charitable activities. The Tribunal held that the factual finding of the CIT(E) was incorrect, as the trust had incurred substantial expenditure towards its charitable objects. Further, rental income derived from letting out a part of the trust property, which was utilised for achieving its charitable objects, does not attract the proviso to section 2(15). The order of the CIT(E) was set aside with a direction to grant registration under section 12A and restore the provisional registration.

Marwadina Vyuvak Vachanalaya v. CIT(E) (2025) 238 TTJ 543 (Pune)(Trib).

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Selected wrong clause in Form No. 10AB-Rejection of application was set aside-CIT(E) directed to consider rectified application under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) of the Act. [S. 11,12A(1)(ac)(vi), 12AB]

CIT(E) rejected the application on the ground that assessee made application under section 12A(1)(ac)(vi), which applies only to new trust; however, assessee trust had claimed exemption under section 11. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee-trust filed application in Form No. 10AB on 29-6-2024 for final registration, however, inadvertently chosen section 12A(1)(ac)(vi), which was not applicable to assessee-trust, matter was to be remitted back to file of CIT (E) with a direction to consider rectified application of assessee under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) and grant approval.

Ananya Education and Charitable Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 321 (Ahd) (Trib.)

Sainath Education Charitable Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 214 ITD 465 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Change in management and lack of time-Rejection of application was restored to the file of CIT(E) for fresh adjudication.[S. 12A(1)(ac)(iii), 80G(5)]

Application for registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) and approval under section 80G(5) was rejected for non-furnishing of donation details.

Tribunal held that the assessee pleaded lack of time and change in management and expressed readiness to furnish evidence of charitable activities. The matter was restored to the file of CIT(E) for re-adjudication.

Martand Khadoba Deosthan Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 497 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12A : Registration-Trust or institution-Rejection of application was set aside with the direction to grant one final opportunity [S. 12AB]

Commissioner (E) rejected assessee-trust's application for registration under section 12A on the ground that assessee did not comply with the notice issued to it, seeking clarifications and details (bills, vouchers, etc.) to verify the genuineness of charitable activities. Tribunal set aside the order of rejection and directed that one final opportunity be granted to the assessee and that the issue be decided as per fact and law.

Bhai Vaidya Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 41 (Pune) (Trib)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Additional evidence filed-The matter was remanded back to the Commissioner (E) with a direction to grant an opportunity to the assessee to substantiate its case by filing requisite details/explanation to his satisfaction and adjudicate the issue afresh on merits as per fact and law.[S.11, 12AB]

Commissioner (E) rejected the application for registration filed by assessee-trust on the ground that assessee had failed to submit documentary evidence in support of charitable activities carried out by assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since additional evidence filed by assessee went to the root of the matter, the matter was remanded back to the Commissioner (E) with a direction to grant an opportunity to assessee to substantiate its case by filing requisite details/explanation to his satisfaction and adjudicate the issue afresh on merits as per fact and law.

Mahaveer (I) Foundation Trust. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 21 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-CIT(E) does not have any jurisdiction to reject the application for grant of registration on the premise that a play school run by the assessee-trust is not registered/affiliated by any State or Central Government authority. [S.80G]

The assessee-trust was running a playschool. CIT (E) rejected assessee's application for grant of registration on the ground that the play school run by assessee was not registered or affiliated with any State or Central Government authority. On appeal, the Tribunal held that CIT (E) did not have any jurisdiction to reject the application for grant of registration on the premise that the play school was not registered/affiliated by any State or Central Government authority. Tribunal remanded the matter to CIT (E) for adjudication of the issue of granting registration under section 12A of the Act.

Lakharaji Dadima Child Care Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 476 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Failure to respond to notices-Rural location and lack of access to digital infrastructure-Delay and default were neither deliberate nor contumacious-The matter was remanded back to the CIT (E) for a fresh decision.[80G]

Assessee, a public charitable trust, filed an application for registration under section 12A.CIT(E) rejected the application on the ground that assessee had failed to respond to notices of hearing issued earlier and also rejected the assessee's application for approval under section 80G on the identical ground of non-response and failure to establish the genuineness of activities and compliance with statutory conditions. Tribunal held that the delay and default, as demonstrated, were neither deliberate nor contumacious. Considering overall circumstances and in the interest of justice, the matter was remanded to the file of CIT E) to decide in accordance with law.

Shenalma Gaushala Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 443 (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Genuineness of activities-Non-compliance-Cancellation of provisional registration-Order of CIT(E) was set aside and the matter was remanded for deciding the application afresh. [S. 12A(1)(ac)(iii), 12AB]

Assessee-trust filed an application for registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii).CIT(E) issued a notice to assessee calling for certain information. Since no reply from the assessee was received, CIT (E) rejected the assessee's application under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) and cancelled the provisional certificate issued to assessee, observing that the assessee had failed to establish the genuineness of its activities. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the rejection of the application was made on account of non-compliance made by assessee, another opportunity may be provided to assessee. Accordingly, the order of CIT(E) cancelling provisional registration and denying final registration was set aside, and the matter was remanded back for deciding the application afresh after granting another opportunity of being heard.

Sri Maheswari Dharmsala.v.CIT(E) (2025) 213 ITD 439 (Kol) (Trib)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Mistake in filing application for provisional registration-Rejection of application was set aside by the CIT (E) to allow an opportunity to assessee to rectify application, if permissible as per provisions of law.[S.12A(1)(ac)(vi)(B)]

CIT(E) rejected the application filed by the assessee-trust under section 12A(1)(ac)(vi) for the reason that the conditions for such approval were not found satisfied. Assessee submitted that while filing the application in Form 10AB, there was an inadvertent error as incorrect section code-item (B) of sub-clause (vi) of clause (ac) of sub-section (1) of section 12A was selected in place of the correct code, which was sub-clause (iii) of clause ac of sub-section (1) of section 12A. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee was allowed provisional registration under sub-section (vi) of clause (ac) of sub-section (1) of section 12A and when provisional registration was allowed under sub-section (vi) of clause (ac) of sub-section (1) of section 12A, assessee had rightly applied for regular registration under this provision only, mistake on part of assessee, if any, had occurred in application for provisional registration and not in application for regular registration. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the file of CIT(E) for giving an opportunity to assessee to rectify the application, if permissible as per the provisions of law.

Gayatri Parivar Shodash Sanskar Kendra. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 665 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Commissioner (E) had summarily rejected the application without discussing any of the merits. The matter is remitted to the file of the Commissioner (E) for consideration afresh. [S.12AB, 80G]

Held that the Commissioner (E) rejected the application for grant of registration summarily without discussing any of the merits, as well as even without discussing the details of the questionnaire which he wanted to be supplied by the assessee. The matter is remitted to the file of the Commissioner (E) for consideration afresh.

IIMCAA Care Fund v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 195 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 12A : Registration-Trust or institution-Failure to respond show cause notice-Matter is restored to Commissioner (E) to grant one final opportunity to assessee to substantiate its case.[S. 12AB]

Assessee filed an application for registration under section 12A of the Act. Commissioner (E) issued a notice the assessee failed to respond to the said notice. Commissioner (E) rejected the application for grant of registration. On appeal, the Tribunal remanded the matter back to the file of CIT(E) to grant one more opportunity of hearing. (AY. 2023-24)

Datar Kulmandal. v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 85 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Non-compliance of notices-Mistake of employee-Matter restored to CIT(E) for one final opportunity [S. 12AB, 80G]

CIT(E) cancelled provisional registration under section 12AB and denied approval under section 80G due to non-compliance with notices. The assessee explained that the lapse occurred due to an employee's mistake in not communicating the notice. The Tribunal restored the matter to the file of CIT(E), directing one final opportunity to substantiate the case with requisite details, and to decide as per law.

Priyadarshini Gymkhana v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 452 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Provisional registration-Provision of section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) had been amended with effect from 1-10-2024-Registration under section 12A could be allowed on the basis of provisional approval under section 10(23C)(vi)-Application is maintainable.[S.10(23C)(vi), 12A(1)(ac)(iii), Form No 10AC.]

Assessee-trust filed an application for registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii). Commissioner (E) rejected the said application on the ground that in the absence of copy of the provisional registration granted under section 12A(1)(ac)(vi), the application is non-maintainable. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had enclosed provisional registration granted under section 10(23C)(vi) in Form No. 10AC along with the application. Provision of section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) had since been amended with effect from 1-10-2024 as per which registration under section 12A could be allowed based on provisional approval under section 10(23C)(vi). The matter is set aside to the file of the Commissioner (E) with a direction to allow another opportunity of being heard to the assessee to rectify the defect in the application and consider the application on the basis of provisional approval under section 10(23C)(vi) of the Act.

Infinite Happiness Spiritual Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 158 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Cancellation of provisional registration-Rejected application for final registration-Failure to address evidence already on record-Matter is restored for fresh consideration.[S.12A(1)(ac)(iii), 12A(1)(ac)(vi)]

Assessee-trust was granted provisional registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(vi). Assessee filed application for final registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii). Commissioner (E) issued notices seeking details and documents regarding the establishment and activities of the trust. Assessee failed to respond to these notices. Commissioner (E), rejected the application for registration and also cancelled the provisional registration, citing non-compliance. On appeal, the Tribunal held that Commissioner (E) had committed a procedural lapse by not addressing evidence that was already on record before rejecting the application. Mere non-response to notices could not be the sole basis for rejection if relevant documents were available in the assessment file. Order of Commissioner (E) is set aside, and matter is restored to him for fresh consideration.

Vardhman Charitable Trust. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 106 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Mistakenly filed fresh application under section 12AB-Failure to respond to CIT(E)'s notices-Rejection of application under section 12AB is justified.[S. 12AB]

Assessee, registered under section 12A, held valid registration from Assessment Year 2022-23 to 2026-27 but mistakenly filed a fresh application under section 12AB on 30.06.2023 instead of applying for renewal within prescribed timeline. CIT(E) issued multiple notices seeking documents, but assessee failed to respond. CIT(E) rejected application and passed order under Form No. 10AD dated 20.12.2023. On appeal the Tribunal held that since the assessee on its own applied for Renewal / Registration, which was rejected by CIT(E), therefore, pleading regarding ignorance of assessee in understanding the technicalities of the provisions of the Act could not be accepted. Tribunal also held that it is not the duty of CIT(E) to guide the assessee with regard to the application filed and, moreover, the assessee had also not appeared before CIT(E) with respect to opportunities provided for calling for details; in those circumstances, CIT(E) had rightly rejected the application for registration. Order passed by CIT(E) in Form No. 10AD dated 20.12.2023 is upheld.

Mathrusri Mahila Mandali Tetali. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 244 (Visakha) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Natural justice-Activities of the Trust-Directed to pass an order after giving an opportunity of hearing to the assessee. [S.80G]

Assessee-trust filed an application for registration under section 12A. Commissioner(E) issued a show cause notice to verify the genuineness of activities of the assessee. After considering submissions of the assessee, he rejected the application on the ground that charitable activities carried out by the assessee-trust did not synchronise with the financial statements and no credible evidence was furnished in support of charitable activities claimed. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, considering the totality of facts of the case and in the interest of justice, the assessee should be given one final opportunity to substantiate its case by filing requisite details to the satisfaction of the Commissioner (E). Matter remanded.

Aress Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 211 ITD 732 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12A : Registration-Trust or institution-Pendency of proceedings before CIT(A)-Considered as assessment proceedings pending before Assessing Officer for purpose of extending benefit of sections 11 and 12-Directed to grant exemption. [S. 2(15) 11, 12, 12AA (2)]

Tribunal held that proviso to sub-section (2) of section 12A provides that if a trust is granted registration under section 12AA, benefits of sections 11 and 12 shall be extended to such a trust for any previous assessment year for which assessment proceedings were pending before the Assessing Officer on the date of granting registration, provided objects and activities of trust remain unchanged during such previous years. Appeal pending before Commissioner (Appeals) can be considered as assessment proceedings pending before Assessing Officer. Accordingly, where registration under section 12AA was granted to the assessee while an appeal for the year under consideration was pending before the Commissioner (Appeals) the assessee is entitled to the benefit of section 11 of the Act. (AY. 2016 17)

Magadi Planning Authority. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 552 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Application for renewal of registration-Natural justice-Rejected on ground of non-compliance with notices without considering the responses within the due date mentioned in notice-Matter is remanded to the Commissioner (E) for fresh adjudication. [S. 12A(1)(ac)(iii), 80G(5)(iii)]

Assessee, a public charitable trust, filed an application for renewal of registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) and approval under section 80G(5)(iii). Commissioner (E) issued notices to assessee requiring it to furnish certain details. Assessee submitted all required information and documents. Commissioner (E) rejected the assessee's applications on the ground of non-compliance with the notices. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since Commissioner (E) did not examine documents submitted and rejected the application on incorrect factual grounds, such an approach violated natural justice. Accordingly, the matter is remanded to Commissioner (E) for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2024-25)

Apna Charitable Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 211 ITD 445 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Failure to file details and clarification-Matter is remanded with a direction to decide the issue afresh after providing a reasonable opportunity of hearing to the assessee as regards the registration and also the claim under section 80G. [S. 12AB, 80G(5)]

The assessee is a company registered under the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 with an object to working towards education and betterment of kids. It ran educational cafes at multiple locations wherein kids could walk into cafes and study using resources and free app access for standards 6 to 10. Commissioner (E) found certain discrepancies in details furnished by the assessee and asked for their clarification; the assessee had not complied with this notice. Commissioner (E) rejected the application filed by the assessee and also cancelled the provisional registration granted under section 12AB. On appeal the Tribunal held that since application for registration was decided ex-parte i.e. for want of prosecution, order passed by Commissioner (E) is set-aside and matter was to be remanded back to him with a direction to decide issue afresh as per fact and law after providing reasonable opportunity of hearing to assessee as regards registration and also claim u/s 80G of the Act.

Avileen Education Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 56 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12A : Registration-Trust or institution-Provisional registration-CBDT Circular No. 11 of 2022-Provisional registration will be construed as regular registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(i) read with section 12AB(1)(a)-No requirement of applying for final registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii)-Miscellaneous application of Revenue is allowed. [S. 12AB, 254(2)]

Assessee is registered under section 12A as a charitable institution. An amendment was brought into relevant provisions, whereby, institution which stood already registered under section 12A on or before 1-4-2021, had to apply for fresh registration under provisions of section 12A(1)(ac)(i). Assessee accordingly applied for registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(i) and said application was allowed. However, both assessee as well as Commissioner (E) were of view that said registration was a provisional registration and that assessee was supposed to apply for final registration. Accordingly, assessee applied for final registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii)-Commissioner (E) rejected application of assessee stating therein that earlier order in Form No. 10AC was still valid till assessment year 2026-27 and application of assessee was premature. On appeal the Tribunal set aside the order of the CIT (E) and restored the matter to the CIT(E) to consider the application for final registration. Revenue has filed a miscellaneous application of the assessee for final registration. Allowing the petition, the Tribunal held that CBDT Circular No. 11 of 2022 had clarified that provisional registration will be construed as regular registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(i) read with section 12AB(1)(a). Therefore, there was no requirement to apply for final registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii).

CIT (E) v. Indira Trust. (2025) 211 ITD 229 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Rejection of application-Matter is remanded to the Commissioner (E) with a direction to decide the application for registration afresh after providing a reasonable opportunity of hearing to the assessee. [S. 12AB]

Commissioner (E) issued notices to the assessee and after considering reply of assessee, he was not satisfied about the charitable nature and genuineness of the activities of the assessee. Accordingly, he rejected the application for registration filed by the assessee and cancelled the provisional registration granted to the assessee under section 12AB read with section 12A. On appeal, the assessee contended that it had complied with notices issued by the Commissioner (E) and if he was not satisfied, he should have provided one more opportunity to the assessee to explain its case. Tribunal remanded the matter to the Commissioner (E) to decide the application for registration afresh as per fact and law after providing a reasonable opportunity of hearing to the assessee.

Chandragupt Shephards Welfare Association. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 576 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12A: Registration-Trust or institution-Procedure for fresh registration-Failure to reply to show cause notice-Matter remanded to Commissioner (E) with a direction to grant one final opportunity to assessee to substantiate its case by filing requisite details. [S.12AB]

Assessee-trust filed an application for registration under section 12A of the Act. Commissioner (E) noticed various discrepancies in the same and issued a show-cause notice to the assessee. The assessee could not reply. Commissioner (E) rejected the application filed for grant of registration under section 12A and also rejected provisional registration granted earlier under section 12AB. On appeal before the Tribunal, the Assessee submitted that, given an opportunity, it would be in a position to explain the case properly before the Commissioner (E). In the interest of justice, the matter is remanded back to the Commissioner (E) with a direction to grant one final opportunity to the assessee to substantiate its case by filing requisite details.

Jalna Maheshwari Charitable Foundation v. CIT (E) (2025)210 ITD 665 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-While deciding application for registration, the Commissioner cannot comment on genuineness of activities of trust-Required to restrict to object of trust-SLP of revenue dismissed.[S.12A, Art. 136]-

Assessee-trust was established on 1-1-2008 and it had filed an application in Form No. 10A on 18-2-2008 seeking registration under section 12A(a). Commissioner rejected the application on the ground that no charitable activity was ever carried out by the trust up to 31-3-2008. Tribunal held that since no activities had been carried out by the assessee, it would be premature to decide that activities were not charitable in nature. Tribunal further held that the Commissioner was required to restrict himself to the objects of the trust. Accordingly, the Tribunal directed the Commissioner to grant registration on the ground that no defect was pointed out in the clauses of the trust deed. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. SLP of revenue dismissed.

CIT (E) v. International Health Care Education and Research Institute (2025) 304 Taxman 265 / 482 ITR 287 (SC)

Editorial: CIT (E) v. International Health Care Education and Research Institute (2025) 171 tamannn.com 578(Raj)(HC)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Mere registration under S. 12AA automatically does not entitle a charitable trust to claim exemption under ss. 10 and 11-AO has to verify genuineness of claim-Reference to Larger Bench declined-SLP of Revenue dismissed [S. 10, 11, Art. 136]

The Court held that the very purpose of registration u/s 12AA is to enable a trust to claim exemption u/ss 10 and 11, but mere registration does not automatically entitle the trust to such exemption; the assessee must adduce cogent material before the CIT to establish that its activities are genuinely charitable, and the AO must verify such claim while assessing. The Court refused to doubt the correctness of Ananda Social & Educational Trust v. CIT (2020) 313 CTR (SC) 369 and declined reference to a Larger Bench.

CIT (E) v. International Health Care Education & Research Institute (2025) 343 CTR 273 / 247 DTR 273 / 304 Taxman 265 / 482 ITR 287 (SC)

Editorial: CIT v. International Health Care Education and Research Institute (2025) 171 Taxmann.com 578 (Raj) (HC) _affirmed.

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Finding of Tribunal that surplus funds utilised for the purpose of educational activities of the institution-Application for registration cannot be rejected. [S.260A]

Held that the Tribunal held that there was nothing brought on record by the Commissioner to show that the fee structure was not genuine or against the accepted norms, that the activities of the assessee were either not for charitable purposes or for personal purposes of the trustees. It further held that whatever funds were acquired by the assessee had been utilised for the purpose of educational activities of the institution and, in the absence of any adverse material brought on record by the Commissioner, the application for registration could not be rejected and accordingly granted registration. Order of Tribunal affirmed.

CIT v. D.N. Memorial Trust. (2023) 293 Taxman 735 / (2025) 482 ITR 831(J & K) (HC)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Rejection of registration after prescribed period of six months-Cannot result in deemed grant of registration-Tribunal not justified in granting assessee deemed registration.[S. 12A, 12AA(2)(iii), 260A]

Allowing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that section 12AA(2) does not recognise any deeming fiction that an application for registration under section 12A is deemed to be granted if it is not disposed of within six months. Therefore, the Tribunal's order granting registration to assessee on ground that the Commissioner had not passed order within stipulated period of six months was not valid. Appeal of revenue was allowed.(AY. 2005-06)

CIT v. Dr. Kasliwal Medical Care and Research Foundation [2024] 168 taxmann.com 91 / (2025) 481 ITR 392 (Bom) (HC)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Registration of Educational Trust-Delay in Application, Family Trustee Clause, Supplementary Deed, and Surplus Income-Registration cannot be denied.[S.11, 12, 260A]

The assessee, Trinity Educational Trust, formed in the year 1991 for the charitable purpose of education and running a school, filed an application for registration under section 12AA of the Income-tax Act in the year 2012. The Commissioner (Exemptions) rejected the application on four grounds: (i) the application was filed over twenty years after execution of the trust deed; (ii) a clause in the deed allowed lineal descendants of the founder trustee to become life trustees and one among them to be managing trustee; (iii) additional powers were given to trustees through a supplementary deed executed in 2009; and (iv) surplus income indicated the trust was being run on commercial lines.

On appeal, the Tribunal directed grant of registration. The revenue filed an appeal with the High Court, who in turn upheld the Tribunal's order, observing that gap in applying for registration is not a bar as there is no statutory time limit stipulated under the Act. The clause regarding family trusteeship did not negate the public charitable nature of the trust. The supplementary deed issued by the original trustees should be read as part of the original deed as there was no amendment to the original deed as a result, no prior approval of the Commissioner was required. Further, there is no provision requiring a trust to spend over 50% of its income to qualify for registration, and mere surplus does not imply commercial intent, especially when charitable activities are undisputed, and no diversion of funds to trustees was shown. Accordingly, the High Court dismissed the Revenue's appeal and directed that registration under section 12AA be granted.

DIT (E) v. Trinity Educational Trust (2025) 306 Taxman 207 (Mad) (HC)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Objects of the assessee trust are both charitable as well as religious in nature-Entitle for registration-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S.260A]

Held that the Tribunal, after considering the submissions of the parties, recorded a categorical finding that the objects of the assessee Trust are both charitable as well as religious in nature; the Tribunal is absolutely justified in holding that the assessee Trust is entitled to registration under S. 12AA.

CIT (E) v. Shree Vimalnath Jain Swetamber Mandir Trust (2025) 174 taxmann.com 63/ 345 CTR 868 / 250 DTR 272 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Cancellation of registration-Principal CIT need not await a decision of the assessing authority concerned before passing an order cancelling the registration-Order of the Tribunal is set aside and appeals are remanded to the Tribunal for a fresh consideration. [S 12A, 254(1)]

Allowing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that statutory provisions do not require the Principal CIT to await a decision of the assessing authority concerned before passing an order cancelling the registration. The order of the Tribunal is set aside, and appeals are remanded back to the Tribunal for fresh consideration

PCIT v. Last Hour Ministry (2025) 344 CTR 173 / 248 DTR 274 / 172 taxmann.com 695 (Ker)(HC)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Cancellation-Reference by Assessing Officer after conclusion of assessment proceedings-Reference to Principal Commissioner without jurisdiction-Cancellation of registration held invalid-Provision inserted with effect from 1-4-2022-Not applicable to earlier assessment years-Show-cause notices and cancellation order quashed-Direction that cancellation would survive irrespective of finding on specified violation-Colourable exercise of power-Order quashed. [S. 12AB(4), 127(2), 143(3)]

The Assessing Officer, after completion of the assessment proceedings, made a reference to the Principal Commissioner for cancellation of the assessee's registration under section 12AB(4) on the basis of incriminating material found during search. The Tribunal held that the reference contemplated under the second proviso to section 143(3) could be made only during the pendency of the assessment proceedings and to the competent Commissioner (E). The reference made after completion of assessment to the Principal Commissioner was without jurisdiction. Accordingly, the order cancelling the registration was held to be invalid. The Principal Commissioner invoked section 12AB(4) to cancel the assessee's registration for alleged specified violations pertaining to assessment years 2015-16 to 2021-22. The Tribunal held that section 12AB(4), inserted with effect from 1-4-2022, operates prospectively and could not be invoked in respect of earlier assessment years. Consequently, the show-cause notices and the cancellation order passed under the provision were held to be without authority of law and were quashed. While cancelling the assessee's registration, the Principal Commissioner directed that the cancellation would continue to operate even if the alleged specified violations were ultimately found not to exist. The Tribunal held that such a direction amounted to a colourable and arbitrary exercise of power and disclosed complete non-application of mind. The cancellation order was, therefore, held to be unsustainable and was quashed. (AY. 2015-16 to 2021-22).

Lakhmi Chand Charitable Society v. Pr. CIT [2024] 166 taxmann.com 324 / (2025) 129 ITR 450 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Cancellation of registration-Registration cannot be cancelled on issues already decided by the Tribunal.[S.11, 12AB(4), 13]

The Tribunal held that the CIT (E) was not justified in cancelling the assessee's registration under section 12AB(4) by relying upon findings recorded in assessment orders which had already been disapproved by the Tribunal. Mere confirmation of a limited addition relating to an alleged benefit to the chairman did not justify cancellation of the trust's registration. Further, section 12AB(4), introduced by the Finance Act, 2022, could not be retrospectively invoked on old facts that were already available when fresh registration had been granted. The registration granted under section 12A/12AA was directed to be restored. (AY. 2025-26)

Aryans Educational & Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 238 TTJ 142 / 178 taxmann.com 731 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Charitable Trust-Amendments to the trust deed-Delay in filing return-Cancellation of registration unjustified.[S. 12AA(4), 13, 139]

Registration under section 12AA could not be cancelled merely because of amendments to the trust deed, delay in filing the return, borrowings by trustees for the benefit of the trust, survey statements without corroborative evidence or allegations of benefit to trustees unsupported by evidence. The Tribunal held that the trust continued to carry out genuine charitable activities in accordance with its objects and quashed the order cancelling registration. (AY. 2019-20.)

Vijayanagar Educational Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 238 TTJ 833 / 179 taxmann.com 678 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Defects curable-Matter remanded for fresh consideration. [S. 80G, Rajasthan Public Trust Act, 1959, S. 17]

The Commissioner (E) rejected registration under section 12AA on the ground that the assessee had not established the genuineness of its activities and had not obtained registration under the Rajasthan Public Trust Act. The Tribunal held that the defects pointed out were curable and the assessee was willing to furnish the requisite registration and other documents. Taking a liberal view, the matter was restored to the Commissioner (E) to provide a reasonable opportunity to cure the defects and simultaneously consider the application under section 80G. (AY. 2019-20).

Arya Samaj Mandir v. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 37 / 178 taxmann.com 147 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 12AA : Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Promote environmental sustainability by encouraging the use of electric vehicles, reducing carbon emissions and supporting scalable and climate-resilient transportation solutions as part of CSR vision-Rejection of application by CIT(E) was set aside and directed him to grant registration under sections 12AA and 80G. [S.80G]

Assessee-trust, engaged in the business of promoting environmental sustainability by encouraging the use of electric vehicles, reducing carbon emissions and supporting scalable and climate-resilient transportation solutions as part of its CSR vision. CIT(E) denied grant of registration under section 12AA and 80G, stating that rental activity of assessee showed that it was commercial in nature and assessee was engaged in commercial activities. On appeal, the Tribunal held that there was no profit motive involved in projects undertaken by the assessee and activities undertaken by the assessee aligned with the object of trust, which was to ensure empowerment of marginalised sections of society, such as women over tribal schedule caste persons, etc. Since activities of assessee-trust were charitable in nature and had been undertaken in a professional manner, where each activity was governed by agreements entered into with various parties, including beneficiaries, to ensure that desired activities were performed and accomplished, right from raising funds to deployment of funds, CIT(E) was directed to grant registration under sections 12AA and 80G. (AY. 2024-25)

Rasha Welfare Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 687 (Delhi) (Trib)

S. 12AA: Procedure for registration-Trust or institution-Not given finding on merits-Order of CIT(E) is set aside. [S.11, 12A(1)(ac)(vi)]

Assessee-company, a non-profit company, applied for registration under section 12AA. Commissioner (E) rejected the application filed by assessee. On appeal, the Assessee submitted that, due to a typographical/inadvertent error, the application was filed under section 12A(1)(ac)(vi) whereas assessee was required to file an application under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii). Tribunal held that since the Commissioner (E) had not given any adverse finding on the merits of case against the assessee, the application was to be treated as filed under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii), and the order rejecting the application was to be set aside.

Inclusive Recycling Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 385 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Reasonable opportunity-Violation of principle of natural justice-Alternative remedy-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 12AB(4), Art. 226]n

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the assessee has an alternative remedy; hence the writ petition is dismissed.

Myadam Kishan Rao Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) (2024) 471 ITR 334 (Telangana) (HC)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Clause permitting buy-back of shares in Articles of Association-Matter remanded-Commissioner exceeded scope of enquiry by examining past claim of exemption under sections 11 and 12-Payments to specified persons-One more opportunity to explain-Matter remanded.[S. 11, 12, 13]

The Commissioner (E) rejected the assessee's application for registration under section 12AB on the ground that its Articles of Association contained a clause permitting buy-back of its own shares, which was considered inconsistent with charitable objects. The Tribunal noted that the assessee had already initiated steps to amend the Articles of Association. The matter was therefore restored to the Commissioner (Exemption) for fresh consideration after granting adequate opportunity of hearing. The Tribunal held that while considering an application for registration under section 12AB, the Commissioner (E) is required to examine the genuineness of the activities and compliance with the statutory conditions. The Commissioner exceeded the permissible scope of enquiry by examining whether the assessee had wrongly availed exemption under sections 11 and 12 in earlier years. Such consideration was irrelevant for deciding the application for registration. The Commissioner (Exemption) rejected the application for registration on the ground that payments had been made to trustees specified under section 13(3), but the assessee had failed to furnish the necessary explanations and supporting documents. The Tribunal held that, in the interest of justice, the assessee should be granted one further opportunity to explain the nature of the payments and produce all relevant evidence. The matter was accordingly restored to the Commissioner (Exemption) for fresh adjudication

Careleavers Inner Circle Forum v. CIT (E) (2025) 172 taxmann.com 309 / 235 TTJ 85 (UO) (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Delay of 338 days in filing the appeal was condoned- Matter was remanded to the file of CIT(E) for passing a fresh order in accordance with law. [S. 11, 12, 253]

The assessee-trust filed its appeal with a delay of 338 days, explaining that the author of the trust was an aged person having limited access to e-mail communication and no administrative staff, resulting in failure to respond to notices and to file the appeal within time. The Tribunal held that the explanation was bona fide and that substantial justice should prevail over technical considerations. Since there was no deliberate or mala fide delay, the delay was condoned. On merits, the Tribunal observed that the trust could not effectively represent its case before the CIT(E) and, therefore, restored the matter to the CIT (E) with a direction to grant a fresh opportunity to the assessee to produce all relevant documents, audit reports, financial statements and other evidence before passing a fresh order in accordance with law. (AY. 2024-25)

M. V. Karmari Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 121 ITR 3 (SN) (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Trust for benefit of particular religious community-Registration rightly denied where objects are confined to the Jain community. [S. 11, 12, 12A, 12AA, 12AB(4), 13(1)(b)]

The assessee-trust, constituted after the amendment effective from 1-4-2021, applied for registration under section 12AB. The Commissioner (Exemption) rejected the application on the ground that its objects were confined to promoting religious activities of the Jain community. The Tribunal held that registration under sections 12A/12AB is a condition precedent for claiming exemption under sections 11 and 12. In view of the amended provisions of section 12AB(4) read with section 13(1)(b), a trust created after the commencement of the Act for the benefit of a particular religious community or caste is not entitled to registration. Since all the objects of the assessee-trust were exclusively for the benefit of the Jain community, the CIT(E) was justified in refusing registration.

Shri Soudharma Brihad Tapogachchiya Tristutik Jain Sangha Samarpanam v. CIT (E) (2025) 170 taxmann.com 590 / 121 ITR 47 (SN) (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Trust for the benefit of residents of a particular housing society-Denial of registration was affirmed. [S.11, 12, 12AB(4), 13(1(b))]

Held that all the objects of the assessee-trust are for the benefit of the residents of a particular society, which is a specific violation of cls. (c) and (d) of Explanation to S 12AB(4) and therefore, denial of registration under S. 12AB was justified.

Dwarika Greens Foundation v. CIT (E) (2025) 235 TTJ 821 / 173 taxmann.com 744 (Ahd) Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Wrong mentioning of religious-cum-charitable in Form No. 10AB- rejection of application was set aside-CIT(E) is also directed to examine the grant of approval under s. 80G after deciding the application for grant of registration under s. 12AB. [S.80G]

Tribunal held that the wrong mention of religion in Form No. 10B cannot be grounds for rejection of the application. CIT(E) is directed to consider the application in accordance with the law after allowing an opportunity to rectify the mistake.

Kasi Visvanathar Koviloor-Foundation v.DCIT (E) (2025) 235 TTJ 827 / 174 taxmann.com 489 (Chennai) Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Time limit-Existing society-Rejection of the application on the ground that the assessee was required to apply in Form No. 10AB within six months from the start of its activities is not justified-Failure to file proper replies-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(E) to decide in accordance with law. [S.80G(5), Form No.10AB]

Held that since the assessee-society was already functioning as on the date of provisional approval, it had to make its application for registration to the CIT(E) at least six months prior to the expiry of period of provisional approval; CIT(E) was not justified in rejecting the application on the ground that the assessee was required to apply in Form No. 10AB within six months from the start of its activities. The Tribunal also held that the rejection of the application for failure to file proper replies is not justified. Matter remanded to the file of CIT(E) to decide in accordance with law.

Katni Blood Donor & Welfare Society v. CIT (E) (2025) 236 TTJ 267 (Jabalpur)(Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Application filed under wrong provision-Old trust-Inadvertent mistake in filing the application under wrong sub-cl. (iv) of s. 12A(1)(ac), which cannot be said to be intentional/ deliberate and done with mala fide intention-CIT(E) was directed to grant the exemption. [S.12A]

Held that the Assessee trust enjoying registration under s. 12A, having inadvertently applied for registration under sub-cl. (iv) of s. 12(A)(ac) instead of sub-cl. (i), the order passed by the CIT(E) rejecting the application is set aside, and the assessee's application is restored to his file, and the CIT(E) is directed to treat the application as if filed under s. 12A(1)(ac)(i), instead of cl. (iv) and consider grant of provisional registration under s. 12AB for five years from AY. 2022-23 onwards.

Prem Educational Trust v. ITO (E) (2025) 237 TTJ 373 / 176 taxmann.com 672 (Chennai) Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration- Alleged violation of section 13(1)(c) not relevant at the registration stage-CIT(E) was directed to grant the exemption. [S. 11, 13(1)(c)]

The Tribunal held that while considering an application for registration under section 12AB, the Commissioner (Exemptions) is required only to examine the genuineness of the trust's activities and whether they are in accordance with its stated charitable objects. Questions relating to violation of section 13(1)(c) or eligibility for exemption under section 11 fall within the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer during assessment proceedings. Since the charitable objects and genuineness of the assessee were never doubted, rejection of registration solely on the basis of alleged violation of section 13(1)(c) was unsustainable, and registration was directed to be granted. (AY. 2023-24)

CLG Universal Foundation v. CIT (E) (2025) 238 TTJ 233 (Jodhpur)(Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Charitable trust-Final registration-Rejection on technical ground not justified. [S. 11, 12, 12A(1)(ac)(vi)]

The assessee, having valid provisional registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(vi), applied for regular registration in Form No. 10AB. The Commissioner (Exemption) rejected the application on the ground that the trust had already commenced its activities and claimed exemption under sections 11 and 12 before filing the application. The Tribunal held that there was no prohibition against claiming exemption during the period of provisional registration. As the Commissioner had not doubted the genuineness of the objects or activities or pointed out any violation of law, rejection merely on quoting an incorrect provision was unjustified. The authorities were directed to grant registration. (AY. 2022-23).

Gospel India Ministries v. CIT (E) (2025) 127 ITR 296 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Quoting a wrong provision-Order of CIT(E) refusing the registration was set aside. [[S. 11, 12]

Held that the registration under s. 12AB could not be denied to the assessee on the ground that it had already claimed exemption under s. 11 for the previous year when it was enjoying provisional registration.

Gospel India Ministries v. CIT (2025) 234 TTJ 684 (Nagpur)(Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Engaged in training students without a systematic curriculum and collecting fees-Not conducting a formal education/scholastic education-Rejection of application was affirmed.[S. 2(15), 11]

Assessee-trust filed an application for seeking registration under section 12AB. The objects of trust were "relief of the poor" and "education". CIT(E) held that the trust was not conducting a formal education/scholastic education and was only engaged in training students without systematic curriculum, as approved and was not engaged in process of providing training and development of students' knowledge, mind and character in a normal schooling way. CIT(E) denied registration on ground that activities of trust could not be held as education and in turn a charitable one under section 2(15). On appeal the Tribunal held that Supreme Court in case similar to assessee held that education imparting formal scholastic learning, is what Income-tax Act provides for under head of "charitable" purposes, under section 2(15) and education would continue to have a narrow scope covering only formal education. Even though, objectives of assessee-trust had been claimed as to pursue "relief of poor" and "education", activities being carried out by assessee-trust failed to satisfy conditions laid down by Supreme Court in Sole Trustee, Loka Shikshana Trust v. CIT (1975) 101 ITR 234 (SC) and New Noble Educational Society v. Chief CIT (2022) 448 ITR 594 / (2023) 290 Taxman 206 (SC) thus, CIT(E) was right in rejecting application of trust denying registration of assessee-trust under section 12AB of the Act.

Agastya Gurukulam Public Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 215 ITD 189 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Commercial activities and non-charitable application of income-Rejection of application-Enquiry at registration stage is limited to examining genuineness of charitable objects and activities, and as assessee's objects and activities were found charitable, CIT(E) was required to grant registration-Order of CIT(E) was set aside. [S.2(15), 11, 12]

Assessee-trust's application for registration under section 12AB was rejected by CIT(E) on allegations of commercial activities and non-charitable application of income. Tribunal held that enquiry at the registration stage is limited to examining the genuineness of charitable objects and activities, and as the assessee's objects and activities were found charitable, CIT(E) was required to grant registration under section 12AB. The order of CIT(E) was set aside.

Sree Raja Rajeswari Educational Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 215 ITD 389 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Incomplete application-No registration under the Rajasthan Public Trust Act, 1959. Cancellation of provisional registration-Order of cancellation of registration was set aside to the file of CIT(E) and also held that provisional registration shall continue to remain valid till such decision.[S.12A]

Assessee filed an online application in Form No. 10AB seeking registration under section 12AB. A letter/notice was issued at the e-mail/address provided in the application, requiring the assessee to submit certain documents/explanations, but no compliance was made by assessee. Thereafter, a reminder letter was issued vide notice fixing the date of hearing, but no compliance had been made by the assessee. However, one more opportunity was given to the assessee vide letter fixing the date of hearing, but the assessee had not provided any details/documents on this date of hearing. CIT(E) rejected the provisional registration on the ground that Form 10AB was incomplete, the assessee was registered under the Rajasthan Public Trust Act, 1959, and there was non-genuineness of activities and non-compliance. On appeal before the Tribunal, the assessee contended that the Trust had already placed on record a certificate of registration under the Public Trust Act, and two other reasons, as mentioned by CIT(E), being curable in nature, the assessee should be provided one more opportunity to adduce the required documents before CIT(E). Tribunal held that since the dispute required adjudication on merits after affording a proper opportunity of being heard in consonance with principles of natural justice, the matter was to be restored to the file of CIT(E) for fresh adjudication and, in meanwhile, provisional registration shall continue to remain valid till such decision. (AY. 2023-24)

Maharishi Markendeya Sushrut Sewa Sansthan.v.CIT(E) (2025] 215 ITD 458 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Non-profit organisation-Order of CIT(E) rejecting the application for renewal of registration was set aside and directed to grant the exemption. [S.11, 12]

CIT(E) rejected the application for renewal of registration under section 12AB on the ground that the assessee-society had not justified its charitable activities with verifiable documentary evidence. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had filed all details, including relevant evidence, for carrying out charitable activities, and also filed annual reports for financial years 2022-23 and 2023-24, the order of CIT(E) was set aside and the matter was to be remanded back with a direction to consider granting the registration. (AY. 2025-26)

Animal Warriors Conservation Society. v. CIT (E) (2025) 214 ITD 7 (Hyd) (Trib.),

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Rejection of application without considering the explanation for delay in filing application-Order of CIT(E) rejecting the application was set aside and directed to decide the issue in accordance with law. [S.80G, Form No.10AB]

CIT (E) rejected the application filed by assessee-trust for registration under section 12AB and section 80G on the ground that assessee had not filed its application within the time prescribed under the Finance Act, 2020.

Tribunal held that since CIT(E) had rejected the application routinely without even considering the explanation for delay in filing of application, the issue was set aside to file of CIT(E) to give another opportunity of hearing to the assessee. (AY. 2025-26)

Maharanyam Muralidhara Swamiji Vedha Ashram. v.CIT(E) (2025) 214 ITD 1 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Second application-Rejection of application by CIT E) was set aside with a direction to decide the application for registration afresh.[S. 12A(1(ac))]

CIT(E) rejected the second application on the ground that since provisional registration was already cancelled, the assessee was not entitled to registration. Tribunal held that, as per Circular No. 7/2024, dated 25-4-2024, another opportunity was provided to all assessees to reapply for registration by filing a fresh application for registration under section 12AB, whose application was rejected earlier. Accordingly, the matter was remanded and directed to approve.

Bethany Tamil Congregation Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 312 (Pune) (Trib.)

Kutchi Dasa Oswal. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 272 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Specified violation-Religious trust-Objects were confined to the benefit of members of a particular community-Not for the benefit of the public at large-Not entitled to registration.[S.12AB(4)]

Assessee-trust filed an application for registration under section 12AB. CIT(E) held that the objects of the assessee-trust were confined to the benefit of members/families of Sanand Jamaliya Patidar Samaj/Community and not for the benefit of the public at large. He held that this amounted to a specified violation under clause (d) of the Explanation of section 12AB(4). Accordingly, the application for registration was rejected. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the objects of the assessee-trust were confined to the benefit of a particular community, it would not be entitled to registration under section 12AB. The order of CIT E) was affirmed.

Shree Sanand Jamaliya Patidar Panch. v. CIT (E) (2025) 214 ITD 262 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Rejection of application for non-furnishing of certain details-The matter was restored to the file of CIT (E) to examine evidence and decide the application afresh. [S.80G (5), Form 10AB, R. 17A(2)]

CIT (E) rejected registration on the ground of non-furnishing of certain details called for under rule 17A(2). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had now placed on record audited accounts, ledger extracts, and details of donations, which were relevant to examine the genuineness of its activities. The matter was remanded to the file of CIT E) to decide in accordance with law as regards registration and also approval under section 80 G(5) of the Act.

Darul Uloom Fatimatuz-Zahra. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 376 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Charitable activities-Object of general public utility-Rejection application was set aside and directed CIT(E) to decide the issue in accordance with law.[S. 2(15), 11]

CIT (E) rejected the application of the assessee, a section 8 company, for registration under section 12AB on the ground that the assessee was not actually engaged in charitable activities as defined under section 2(15). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since there was no evidence to draw such conclusions by CIT(E) and it was merely based on suspicion and surmises, CIT(E) was directed to re-examine the activities of the assessee and decide the issue in accordance with law.(AY. 2025-26)

RKM Social Welfare Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 368 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Delay in filing application-Rejection of application was set aside and remanded to the file of CIT(E) to give another opportunity of hearing to assessee.[S. 11, 12]

Assessee had filed an application beyond the time limit prescribed vide Circular No. 7 of 2024 dated 25-4-2024. CIT(E) rejected the application in a routine manner without even considering the explanation for the delay in filing the application. Tribunal remanded the matter to the file of the CIT(E) to give another opportunity of hearing to the assessee. (AY. 2025-26)

Viswa Veda Parayan Brindam. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 415 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Wrong selection of code while filing Form No. 10A- Rejection of application was set aside and the matter was remanded to allow assessee an opportunity to file a fresh application in the correct section code under section 12A.[S.12A(1)(ac)(vi), Form 10A]

Assessee, a charitable trust, inadvertently selected the wrong section code while filing Form No. 10A and revenue granted provisional registration. CIT€ rejected the application for conversion of provisional registration into final registration under section 12AB solely on ground that the assessee had originally selected an incorrect section code. Tribunal held that since the mistake of selecting the wrong section code was purely technical in nature, the matter was remanded to allow assessee an opportunity to file a fresh application in the correct section code under section 12A. (AY. 2023-24)

Divyavani Trust. v.CIT(E) (2025) 214 ITD 471 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Registration was cancelled on the ground that activities were confined to a specific Samaj. Tribunal held that 'Samaj', being a sociological term, could not automatically be equated with a religious community or caste, and without deeper enquiry into its legal character and actual activities. Cancellation was not justified. Matter remanded. [S. 13 (1)(b)]

Assessee-trust was granted provisional registration under section 12AB and it later applied for regular registration. CIT(E) held that objects and activities of assessee-trust were confined to members of Aath Paragana Gurjar Prajapati Samaj. He therefore, treated it as a specific caste or religious community, and by invoking section 13(1)(b) rejected application for regular registration and cancelled provisional registration. On appeal the Tribunal held that term 'Samaj' was a sociological term and could not ipso facto be equated with a 'religious community or caste' as per section 13(1)(b). Further, question of applicability of section 13(1)(b) was to be examined only at stage of assessment and not at stage of registration. Merely because trust had emerged from a specific community platform and its area of operation was defined with reference to members of a Samaj, it could not be concluded that trust was for benefit of a 'particular religious community or caste' without a deeper enquiry into whether such community constituted a religious denomination under law, and whether activities were in fact exclusionary in practice. In absence of any such inquiry, and in the face of financial statements evidencing expenditure on public welfare activities, summary rejection of registration by invoking section 13(1)(b) was unsustainable in law. The matter was remanded to the file of CIT E) to decide in accordance with law.

Shree Aath Paragana Gurjar Prajapati Samaj Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 509 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Specific violation-Religious community-Rejection of application-No inquiry of violation was made-Tribunal held that CIT(E) finding of specified violation was incorrect-Denial of registration was unjustified-Directed to grant the exemption.[S. 12A (1)(ac)(iii), 12AB(4)]

Assessee-trust applied for registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) CIT(E) rejected the application on the ground that trust's objects catered to the benefit of a particular religious community or caste and thus amounted to a "specified violation" under the Explanation to section 12AB(4). On appeal, the Tribunal held that, as per the Explanation to section 12AB(4), the specified violation occurs only when the income of the trust is actually 'applied' for the benefit of a particular religious caste or community. On facts, CIT(E) had not found any application of income of trust for the benefit of any particular religious caste or community and had not conducted any inquiry regarding the occurrence of specified violation but merely relied on trust's objects; his finding of specified violation under section 12AB(4) was incorrect, and denial of registration was not in accordance with law. Accordingly, the CIT(E) was directed to grant registration to the assessee trust.

Hatkeshwar Mahadev Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 608 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Delay of 33 days-Failure to check email-Delay was condoned-Rejection of application-Curable defects-Matter was restored to the file of CIT (E) for afresh adjudication by providing adequate opportunities of being heard. [S. 11, 80G]

Tribunal condoned the delay of 33 days in the filing of an appeal. CIT(E) rejected the application of the assessee-trust for registration under section 12AB on account of four reasons, namely, (i) non-submission of a legible copy of the trust deed; (ii) incomplete details in Form No. 10AB; (iii) assessee was not registered under the Rajasthan Public Trust Act, 1959; and (iv) assessee could not establish genuineness of its activities. Allowing the appeal, the Tribunal held that since the reasons advanced were curable in nature, the matter was restored to the file of CIT (E) for afresh adjudication.

Shriram Paropkari Trust. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 46 (Jaipur) (Trib.)
S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Loan taken from trustees-Sanction of Charity Commissioner-Opportunity of hearing was not afforded for furnishing any clarification on the issue of temporary loan taken by it-Matter was remitted back for decision afresh. [S. 11, 80G (5)]

Assessee-trust was engaged in family welfare and medical relief. It applied for registration under section 12AB and approval under section 80G(5). CIT(E) rejected the same on the ground that the assessee had not received sanction of the Charity Commissioner for loans taken from the trustee during the year. On appeal, it was contended that the unsecured loan taken from the trustee was a temporary loan. Tribunal held that since a proper opportunity of hearing was not afforded to the assessee-trust for furnishing any clarification on the issue of the loan taken by it, the matter was remitted back to CIT(E) for deciding the same afresh.

Snehbandh Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 125 (Pune) (Trib.)
S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Provisional registration-Genuineness of donations has to be seen at the time of assessment and not at the time of registration of trust-Rejection of application for regularisation on questioning genuineness of donation by recourse to section 115BBC was beyond scope of enquiry-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(E) to decide the issue in accordance with law. [S. 12A(1)(ac)(iii), 115BBC]

Assessee-trust applied for registration under section 12AB, claiming to be engaged in charitable activities. It was granted provisional registration. Thereafter, the assessee applied for regularisation of provisional registration. CIT (E) rejected the application for regularisation on the ground that the assessee failed to furnish complete and satisfactory details of donors and their confirmations, including PAN and identity proof, as mandated under the Act. He further held that the genuineness of donations was not proved. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the genuineness of donations has to be seen at the time of assessment and not at the time of registration of the trust. Therefore, rejection of regularisation of provisional registration on the ground that conditions of section 12AB(1)(b) were not met by questioning the genuineness of donation by recourse to section 115BBC was held to be beyond the scope of enquiry. Matter remanded to the file of CIT E) to decide in accordance with law.

Ideal Relief Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 303 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Cancellation of provisional registration-Benefit of particular religion-CIT(E) neither examined financial statements nor recorded any findings on actual application of income in support of alleged violation under clause (d) of Explanation to section 12AB-Matter was to be remanded to him to decide the issue afresh.[S. 12B(1)(ac) (vi), 13]

Assessee-trust was granted provisional registration under section 12AB(1)(ac)(vi). Assessee filed an application seeking final registration under section 12AB(1)(ac)(iii). CIT(E), after examining objects of the trust concluded that the trust was created for the benefit of a particular religious community or caste and, therefore, invoked section 13(1)(b) to reject the application for final registration. Further, CIT (E) cancelled provisional registration on the ground that trust was created for the benefit of a particular religious community or caste. On appeal the Tribunal held that since CIT(E) had neither examined financial statements nor recorded any findings on actual application of income in support of alleged violation under clause (d) of Explanation to section 12AB, impugned order passed by CIT(E) suffered from legal infirmity and procedural inadequacy and, therefore, same was to be set aside and matter was to be restored to file of CIT(E) with a direction to decide issue afresh. Matter remanded.

Leuva Patidar Samaj Seva Trust Ode. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 233 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Non-commencement of activities-Registration cannot be denied without considering the proposed activities. [S. 11, 12, 12A]

CIT (E) rejected the application on the grounds of non-commencement of activities. On appeal, the Tribunal held that non-commencement of activities at the time of filing the application or at the time of passing the order for grant of registration under section 12AB cannot be the sole reason for denial of registration without considering the proposed activities of the assessee trust. Matter remanded to the file of CIT (E) to decide in accordance with law. (AY. 2025-26)

Ujwal Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 227 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Failure to give reasonable opportunity of hearing- Natural justice- Matter remanded to the file of CIT (E) for giving an opportunity of hearing and in accordance with law. [S.12AB(1)(b)(ii), 80G]

CIT(E) rejected the application for registration under section 12AB on the ground that the assessee failed to satisfy the conditions laid down under section 12AB(1)(b)(ii). On appeal, the Tribunal held the application was rejected without giving a reasonable opportunity of hearing. The matter was remanded to the file of the CIT (E) to decide in accordance with law and also the application under section 80G of the Act.

Baroda Lakkad Pitha Punch Property Baroda. v. CIT (E) 213 ITD 345 / 236 TTJ 1 (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Commencement of activities-Invested in fixed deposits-Entitled to registration and also approval under section 80G(5) of the Act. [S.80G (5), Form No 10.]

Assessee-trust was engaged in charitable activities of providing medical aid to underprivileged sections of society. It applied for registration under section 12AB. CIT(E) rejected application for registration on the ground that the assessee had not commenced its activities and a substantial portion of donations was invested in fixed deposits and only a small amount was spent on medical relief. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had already commenced its activities by incurring medical relief expenses towards attainment of its objects. Further, the assessee had filed Form No. 10 for accumulation of a certain amount for a proposed charitable project in line with the objects of the trust. Since it was the first year of operation, the assessee was not able to spend on large-scale activity and hence invested a certain amount in a fixed deposit as per the prescribed mode. Therefore, it was only the genuineness of activity and not a substantial amount of expenditure that was relevant for granting registration under section 12AB. The CIT(E) was directed to grant the exemption. The Tribunal also held that CIT(E) had not brought any material on record to show that the assessee-trust's activities were not genuine or that conditions as specified under section 80G(5) were not fulfilled; approval under section 80G could not be denied.

Dhwani Shristi Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 334 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Formed to serve the community of serving and retired military personnel and their families-Entitled to registration and approval under section 80G of the Act. [S. 11, 12, 80G]

Assessee-trust was registered under the Societies Registration Act with the objective of serving the community of serving and retired personnel and their families of First Battalion, Mechanised Infantry Regiment, Madras of the Indian Army, irrespective of religion, caste or creed. Assessee filed an application in Form No. 10AB seeking registration under section 12AB and approval under section 80G along with all relevant supporting documentary evidence. CIT(E) rejected both applications on the ground that no substantial charitable activities were carried out by assessee-trust, which was in violation of sections 11 and 12. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessee-trust was incorporated for a noble cause to provide services to retired military personnel, who were unable to meet the requirements of their dependent family members. Accordingly, the assessee-trust was entitled to be granted registration under section 12AB and approval under section 80G and, therefore, CIT(E) was directed to grant registration and approval accordingly. (AY. 2024-25)

Fighting First Trust. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 458 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Genuineness of activities-Rejection of the application was set aside to CIT(E). [S.11, 12]

CIT (E) rejected the application for registration. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had submitted various details that needed to be examined afresh by CIT(E). The matter was remanded to the file of CIT(E).

Indian Women Impact. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 519 (Agra) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Cancellation of provisional registration-Failure to give reasonable opportunity-Order of rejection was set aside-Matter remanded to the CIT (E) to decide the issue afresh by providing one more opportunity of being heard to the assessee.[S.11, 12, 12A(1)(ac)(iii)]

Assessee filed an application in Form No. 10AB seeking registration under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii). CIT(E) cancelled the registration without providing a reasonable opportunity for a hearing. Tribunal remanded the matter to the CIT(E) to pass an order giving a reasonable opportunity of hearing.

Gaushala Sewa Samiti. v. CIT(E) (2025) 213 ITD 650 (Jaipur) (Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Cancellation of registration-Failure to comply with notices and to file supporting documents-Rejection of application by CIT(E) was set aside and directed to decide the application as per law.[S.11, 12]

Assessee-trust filed an application for permanent registration under section 12AB. CIT (E) issued notices requesting to furnish details or documents in support of the application. However, the assessee neither filed any submission nor sought any adjournment. CIT (E) rejected the application and cancelled provisional registration. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had not complied with the notice issued by CIT(E), as a negligent act, a cost was to be imposed on the assessee and the matter was to be remitted back to the file of CIT (E) with a direction to decide the application of the assessee as per law. (AY. 2024-25)

Ladhabapa Charitable and Welf Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 601 (Rajkot) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Promote skill development-Charging 10 per cent management fee-Eligible for registration and exemption under section 80G of the Act.[S.80G]

Assessee-trust, established on 31-5-2022 by NSDC, filed an application in Form No. 10AB for registration under section 12AB. Assessee acted as an approved training partner under the National Skill Development Programme of the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship, with objectives focused on promoting skill development, employability, entrepreneurship, and public outreach. CIT (E) rejected the application, holding that assessee was merely rendering services and charging a 10% management fee, which was commercial in nature. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the activity carried out as mentioned in the trust deed or the activity proposed to be carried out was charitable in nature and hence directed to grant registration under section 12A and consequently grant claim of exemption under section 80G.

NSDC Skill Impact Trust. v. CIT(E) (2025) 213 ITD 629 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Denial of registration-Application was filed beyond the date specified in law-Rejection of application was affirmed.[S. 11]

The assessee filed an application seeking final registration of the assessee-trust under section 12AB, which was rejected on the ground that it was filed beyond the time limit specified by law. The order of the CIT (E) rejecting the application was affirmed.

Aareev Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 661 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Violation of the principle of natural justice-Rejection of application without giving specific reasons-Order of CIT(E) was set aside, and the matter was remanded to adjudicate the application afresh. [S. 12A]

Tribunal held that the CIT(E) rejected the application without giving any specific reason, rejected the application on the ground that the assessee society had only filed a partial reply to queries that were raised by him. Tribunal set aside the order, and matter was remanded to him with a direction to adjudicate the application afresh in accordance with law.

Medeng Unicus Society. v. ITO (E) (2025) 213 ITD 699 (Visakha) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Activities were not genuine-Siphoning off funds-Matter remanded to CIT(E) for granting one more opportunity of hearing. [S. 11,12]

Commissioner (E) rejected the same on the ground that activities of the assessee-trust were not genuine and trustees were siphoning off funds. On appeal the Tribunal held that all documents demanded by him were supplied but same had not been properly examined by him. The assessee submitted that genuineness of activities of the trust and also its objects were proved and there was no room for siphoning off funds and all funds had been utilized for the object of trust. The Tribunal held that the assessee should be given one more opportunity to advance documents before the Commissioner (E) as to registration of trust under section 12AB of the Act. Samajik Prerna Avam Gramin Vikas SansthanLaporiya v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 623 (Jaipur) (Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Educational welfare for under-privileged-Registration denied for alleged malpractices and fraudulent activities as non-genuine purchases of school uniform and computers were made-Genuineness of activities were not doubted-Matter remanded to Commissioner (E). [S. 11, 12]

Assessee-trust was engaged in educational welfare for under-privileged section of society. It filed an application for registration under section 12AB. Commissioner (E) doubted the purchase of uniforms and computer systems, etc. Hence, denied registration under section 12AB on the ground that funds received were not used towards the objects of the trust. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had produced evidence in the form of photographs of distribution of computers, school uniforms, as well as relief to poverty. The assessee had also submitted receipts of computers by various associations and utilisation certificates. The Tribunal remanded back to the Commissioner (E) with a direction to the assessee to substantiate its transactions and comply with notices of the Commissioner (E) if any further details were required. (AY. 2024-25)

Happiness Acts Trust. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 509 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Pendency of registration under Rajasthan Public Trust Act, 1959-Matter is restored to the Commissioner (E) with a direction that, as and when the assessee-trust produces a copy of its registration under RPT Act, the application of the assessee-trust for registration under section 12AA be decided afresh in accordance with law.[S. 12AA, Rajasthan Public Trust Act, 1959]

Assessee-trust filed its application for registration under section 12AB of the Act. Commissioner (E) rejected assessee's claim of registration on the grounds that Form 10AB, non-registration under Rajasthan Public Trusts Act, 1959, and Genuineness of activities. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee was in the process of applying for registration under the RPT Act, 1959 before competent authority, and it was likely to get same. Tribunal directed the CIT(E) that as and when the assessee-trust produced a copy of its registration under the RPT Act, 1959, the application of the assessee-trust for registration under section 12AA be decided afresh in accordance with law.

Krishna Nandini Gaudham Charitable Trust. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 67 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Religious trust-Trust for the benefit of particular community-Jain community and to propagate Jainism-Order rejecting the application is affirmed. [S. 11, 12, 12AB(4) 13(1)(b)]

Commissioner (E) rejected the application for registration on the ground that all the objects of the assessee-trust are related to religious activities, more particularly the Jain community, and to propagate Jainism. On appeal, the Tribunal held that as per cl. (d) of Explanation to s. 12AB(4), registration of the trust or institution established for charitable purpose created or established after the commencement of the Act, which has applied any part of its income for the benefit of any particular religious community or caste can be cancelled. All the objects of the assessee-trust are related to religious activities, more particularly Jain community, and to propagate Jainism, which is a specific violation under cls. (c) and (d) of Explanation to s. 12AB(4). The Tribunal also held that S. 13(1)(b) excludes the benefit of ss. 11 and 12 to a charitable institution created or established after commencement of the Act, income whereof is for the benefit of any particular religious community or caste. The Tribunal held that section is required to be read in conjunction with the provisions of ss. 11 and 12 for determination of eligibility of a trust to claim exemption under the aforesaid provisions, while granting registration. Order of CIT(E) denying the exemption is affirmed. Followed, CIT v. Dawoodi Bohara Jamat (2014) 268 CTR 1/ 102 DTR 361 (SC), CIT(E) v. Bayath Kutchhi Dasha Oswal Jain Mahajan Trust (2016) 74 taxmann.com 199 (Guj)(HC) and CIT v. Leuva Patel Seva Samaj Trust (2014) 42 taxmann.com 181 (Guj)(HC) (HC) distinguished.

Soudharma Brihad Tapogachchiya Tristutik Jain Sangha Samarpanam v. CIT (E) (2025) 233 TTJ 606 / 170 taxmann.com 590 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Natural justice-Failure to issue show-cause notice- Matter is remanded to Commissioner (E).[S. 11, 12AA, R.11AA]

Assessee-trust filed application for registration under section 12AB of the Act. Commissioner (E) rejected said application on ground that assessee did not conclusively prove the genuineness of the activities of Trust; in absence of such documents, it could not be determined whether the assessee was genuinely carrying out activities as per its objects. On appeal the Tribunal held that Commissioner (E) had not issued any show-cause notice before passing order of rejection of assessee's application. Since the order is in violation of principles of natural justice, matter is remanded to the Commissioner (E) to examine issues of genuineness of activities of trust in consonance to objects of assessee and to grant a reasonable opportunity of being heard to assessee.

Ram Phool Hooda Charitable Trust. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 411 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Failure to file details-Provisional registration was cancelled-Matter remanded subject to cost of Rs 10000 imposed on the assessee. [S. 12A, 80G, Form No.10AB]

Assessee-trust had filed an application for registration under section 12A. CIT(E) issued two notices to the assessee-trust to file details/documents. Assessee-trust did not file any submission nor seek any adjournment in response to said notices. CIT(E) has rejected the provisional exemption granted. On appeal, the Tribunal matter remanded to CIT(E), subject to costs of Rs 10000.

Surat Diamond Cutting & Polishing Cluster SPV Trust. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 143 (Surat) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration- Selecting the wrong selection code-Delay is condoned-CIT(E) is directed to hear the assessee by allowing it to apply under Form 10A. [S. 12A(1)(ac)(iii) Form No 10A/10B]

Assessee filed an application for registration in Form No. 10AB under section 12A (1)(ac)(iii). The Commissioner (Exemption) rejected the application on the ground that the assessee was not registered under section 12AB; therefore, the application was premature and not maintainable. Assessee contended that it had inadvertently filed the application under section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) when it should have been filed under clause (i) of section 12A(1)(ac). Since the application was inadvertently filed by the assessee under an incorrect provision, the Commissioner (E) was to be directed to treat application filed as per applicable provision and consider the case on merits. (AY. 2024-25)

Seven Hills Educational Society v. ITO (E) (2025) 210 ITD 234 (Hyd.) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-Charitable purpose- Procedure for fresh registration-Objects of general public utility-Directed to grant the registration [S. 2(15)]

Assessee was an association of steel re-rollers. It had filed an application for registration u/s 12AB. However, the CIT (E) rejected the same on the ground that activities of the Assessee were in the nature of trade and commerce and not for charitable purposes. It was observed that the Assessee was established in order to organize and unite manufacturers of steel Re-Rollers and people of similar business and certain other connected/incidental/ancillary objects. Further, there was no observation by the CIT (E) that any activity of the Assessee was in the nature of trade or commerce. Therefore, since the Assessee fulfilled the stipulated conditions to fall within the definition of charitable purpose as defined in S. 2(15) of the Act, registration u/s 12AB was to be granted to the assessee.

Chhattisgarh Re-Rollers Association c. CIT (E) (2025) 210 ITD 127 (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 12AB: Procedure for fresh registration-The object of the company is to promote Indian heritage art such as Indian Classical music, organize regular concerts and performances by renowned and emerging Indian etc-Renewal of registration cannot be denied on the ground that the objects of the trust may contain clauses, which may enable a charitable trust or institution to apply its income for activities carried outside India-Denial of registration and 80G exemption is set aside-On merit the matter is remanded to the CIT(E) to examine the genuineness of the activists. [S. 2(15), 11(1)(c), 12A, 12AB, 80G, Companies Act, 2013, S.8]

The assessee is a non-profit organization, incorporated u/s. 8 of the Companies Act, 2013. The object of the company is to promote Indian heritage art such as Indian Classical music, Organize regular concerts and performances by renowned and emerging Indian classical musicians, Establish or support training school or institute to teach Indian classical music to students of all ages and skill levels, to Indian classical musicians to cover the costs of performance, travel, and recording, Organize festivals and conferences that bring together Indian classical musicians and scholars from around the world. The assessee was initially granted provisional registration u/s. 12AB as well as u/s 80G of the Act on 29-01-2024 from

AYs. 2024-25 to 2026-27. The assessee filed prescribed applications seeking permanent registration u/s.12AB and 80G of the Act. Both the applications filed by the assessee were rejected by the Ld. CIT(E) on the ground that the objects of the assessee leave room for any future potential endeavour that may result in incurring expenditure outside India, which is in violation of S.11 of the Income tax Act, secondly the activities claimed to have been done are not justified by the expenses incurred by the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that the objects of the trust may contain clauses, which may enable a charitable trust or institution to apply its income for activities carried outside India, however such objects, if any, would not enable the Ld CIT(E) to deny registration u/s 12AB of the Act Followed, Sarbat The Bhala Gurmat Mission Charitable Trust v. CIT(E) [2021]127 taxmann.com 816 /189 ITD 353 (Chd(Trib.)). The Tribunal also held that the provisions of Section. 12AA is identical with the provisions of section. 12AB of the Act. Accordingly, the application of income of a charitable trust or institution outside India for carrying out its objects will not fall under any of the categories of "specified violation" as mentioned in the Explanation to S.12AB(4) of the Act. Honourable Tribunal following the ratio in MK Nambyar SAARF Law Charitable Trust v. UOI (2004) 269 ITR 556/ 140 Taxman 616 (Delhi)(HC) held that section 12AB does not refer the activities carried on in India or outside India. The order of CIT(E) denying the exemption and denial of exemption under Section 80G is set aside. As regards the genuineness of the activities, the Tribunal admitted the additional evidence and remanded to the CIT(E) to examine the issue in accordance with law.

Dedhia Music Foundation v. CIT(E) [2025] 173 taxmann.com 394 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 13 : Denial of exemption-Trust or institution-Investment restrictions-Salary paid to chairperson-Considered reasonable considering qualifications and services rendered-No violation of section 13(1)(c)-Trust entitled to exemption. [Ss. 11, 12, 12A, 13(1)(c), 13(2)(c), 40A(2)]

The assessee, a charitable trust registered under section 12A and engaged in imparting education through various educational institutions, paid salary to its chairperson. The Assessing Officer held that the remuneration was excessive and not commensurate with her qualifications and duties and, treating her as a related person, disallowed 30 per cent of the payment under section 40A(2)(a). The Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the addition, holding that the salary was reasonable and also noting consistency with the earlier assessment year. The Tribunal, after considering additional evidence regarding the chairperson's qualifications and contribution to the institution, upheld the order of the Commissioner (A) and held that reasonable remuneration paid for services rendered to a person specified under section 13(3) would not attract the provisions of section 13(1)(c). On appeal, the High Court held that section 13(1)(c) denies exemption only where income of the trust is applied directly or indirectly for the benefit of specified persons. Under section 13(2)(c), payment of salary or allowance to such persons would be deemed to be for their benefit only where it is in excess of what may reasonably be paid for the services rendered. If the remuneration is reasonable, it cannot be regarded as diversion of income for the benefit of the specified person. Since the Tribunal had recorded a finding of fact that the salary paid to the chairperson was reasonable having regard to her qualifications and services, there was no violation of section 13(1)(c) and the trust was entitled to exemption. The finding of the Tribunal was not perverse. (AY. 2009-10 to 2011-12)

CIT v. IILM Foundation (2025) 480 ITR 1 / 174 taxmann.com 605 / (2026) 349 CTR 792 (Delhi) (HC).

S. 13 : Denial of exemption-Trust or institution-Investment restrictions-Invested funds in shares of joint venture companies-Not entitle to claim exemption-Only income from such an investment made in violation of section 13(1)(d) was liable to tax and not entire income accrued to assessee.[S. 2(15),11(5) 13(1)(d)]

Assessee, a charitable institution, was engaged in distribution of essential commodities provided by State Government, on subsidy. It had invested funds in shares of joint venture companies. The AO denied the exemption on the entire income of the institution, and the same was affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal the Tribunal held that investment made by assessee in its joint venture companies was an investment made in violation of section 11 (5) read with section 13(1)(d) and, therefore, assessee was not entitled to claim benefit of exemption under section 11, however, only income from such an investment made in violation of section 13(1)(d) was liable to tax and not entire income accrued to assessee. (AY. 1994-95 to 2001-02)

A.P. State Civil Supplies Corporation Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 303 Taxman 176 /343 CTR 394 / 247 DTR 106 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 13 : Denial of exemption-Trust or institution-Investment restrictions-Tribunal right in holding that disqualification would apply only to that part of income which was in violation of conditions-No substantial question of law-Circular No. 387 Dated 6-7-1984 (1985) 152 ITR 1 (St)-Search and seizure-Documents found in the course of search-Question of law admitted. [S. 13(1)(c), 260A].,

Held that the court declined to admit the appeal on the second question of law on the premise that it was covered by Circular No. 387 dated July 6, 1984 ([1985] 152 ITR (St.) 1) issued by the Central Board of Direct Taxes, to the effect that where a trust contravenes the provisions of section 13(1)(c) or (d) of the Act, the maximum marginal rate of Income-tax will apply only to that part of the income which had forfeited exemption under the said provisions, but admitted the first question reframed as “whether the Tribunal was right in deleting the addition of Rs. 22,45,06,500 that was added by the Assessing Officer relying on documents found during the search at the residence of the principal trustee of the respondent-society”.

PCIT v.Sinhagad Technical Education Society (2025)472 ITR 15 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial: PCIT v.Sinhagad Technical Education Society (2025)472 ITR 18 (SC), High Court is directed to consider second question of law along with other questions admitted.

S. 13 : Denial of exemption-Trust or institution-Investment restrictions-Exemption cannot be denied on entire income-Disallowance restricted to income from impermissible investment. [S. 11, 12, 13(1)(d)]

The Revenue denied exemption under sections 11 and 12 on the ground that the assessee had investments attracting section 13(1)(d). The Tribunal held that there was no fresh investment during the relevant assessment year and only dividend income had been received. Even otherwise, violation of section 13(1)(d) does not result in denial of exemption on the entire income of the trust; the denial is restricted only to the income arising from the impermissible investment. Accordingly, the order restricting the disallowance to the dividend income was upheld. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14 & 2016-17)

Asst. CIT v. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation (2025) 130 ITR 108 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 13 : Denial of exemption-Trust or institution-Investment restrictions-Own case for earlier assessment years, exemption under section 11 was allowed-No change of facts-Exemption is allowed. [S.11, 13(1)(c)]

Assessee-trust, engaged in educational activities, filed its return of income declaring nil income after claiming exemption under section 11. Assessing Officer held that the assessee had made certain payments to specified persons and, thus, had extended benefits to specified persons and, consequently, provisions of section 13(1)(c) had been violated hence he denied exemption. CIT(A) allowed the claim. On appeal the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19, 2021-22)

DCIT v. CMR Jnanadhara Trust. (2025) 210 ITD 519 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 13A: Political parties-Income of political party-Non-filing of return within the due date-Not entitled to exemption-Claim for netting is also not allowed. [S.139(1), 139(4B)]

Held that section 139(4B) stipulates filing of return within the "due" date, i.e., return is required to be furnished under S. 139(1). Return for AY. 2018-19 filed by the assessee on 2nd Feb., 2019, is not within the due date and, consequently, it is not entitled to exemption under S 13A. Tribunal also held that since the assessee has violated the third proviso to s. 13A, its claim for netting is also declined. (AY. 2018-19)

Indian National Congress All India Congress Committee v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 633 / 176 taxmann.com 688 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 13A : Political parties-Delay in filing return-Cash donations exceeding limit-Strict compliance required-Not entitle to exemption if the return is filed after the due date-Exemption denied-Appeal dismissed. [S. 13A(d), 139(1), 139(4), 139(4B), 143(3), Representation of People Act, 1951, S. 29A]

The assessee, Indian National Congress (INC), a recognised national political party registered under Section 29A of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, filed its income tax return for AY 2018-19 on 02.02.2019, declaring nil income and claiming exemption of ₹199.15 crores under Section 13A of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. The return was filed after the extended due date of 31.12.2018. The Assessing Officer completed scrutiny under Section 143(3), disallowed the exemption, and treated the entire amount as taxable income on two main grounds: (i) the return was filed beyond the time limit prescribed under Section 139(4B); and (ii) INC received cash donations exceeding ₹2,000, amounting to ₹14.49 lakhs, in violation of the first proviso (clause d) to Section 13A. On appeal the assessee contended that the return was validly filed within the extended time under Section 139(4), and that the donations were voluntary contributions from identifiable individuals, mostly elected representatives, with complete PAN and address details, thereby defeating the mischief of anonymity which the law intended to curb. It further relied on CBDT clarification dated 23.04.2019 and judicial precedents to argue that the term "due date" under Section 13A includes the timeline under Section 139(4). It also claimed that even if the exemption was to be denied, only the net surplus after expenditure (₹1.71 Cr) should be taxed, and not the gross amount. The CIT(A) upheld the AO's findings, holding that the provisions of Section 13A require strict compliance, and failure to meet even one condition disentitles the assessee from exemption. On appeal the Tribunal dismissed the appeal, affirming that both the delay in filing the return and the acceptance of cash donations above the permissible limit constituted breaches of mandatory conditions under Section 13A. It noted that the exemption under this provision is a special benefit, not a matter of right, and must be strictly construed. The Tribunal also rejected the distinction sought to be made between donations and voluntary contributions, noting that the assessee's own records and submissions used the terms interchangeably. Citing prior judgments including CIT v. Indian National Congress (ITA No. 145 of 2001) (Delhi)(HC), CIT v. Indian National Congress (ITA 180 of 2001) (Delhi)(HC), CIT v. Janata Party (ITA No. 188 of 2002) (Delhi)(HC), the Tribunal concluded that once the statutory preconditions were violated, the full exemption had to be denied, and the total receipt was rightly brought to tax under "income from other sources." (ITA No. 1609/Del/2023, dt. 21.07.2025,) (AY. 2018-19)

Indian National Congress v. DCIT (2025) 176 taxmann.com 688 (Delhi) (Trib)

S. 14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Where no exempt income is received or receivable during the relevant previous year-SLP of the revenue dismissed on account of failure to explain 597 days of delay. [Art. 136]

High Court held that section 14A envisages that there should be an actual receipt of income which is not includible in total income; hence, section 14A will not apply where no exempt income is received or receivable during the relevant previous year. There being a gross delay of 597 days in filing the SLP by revenue, which had not been explained, the SLP was dismissed on the ground of delay. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14),

PCIT v. Amadeus India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 276 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Amadeus India (P.) Ltd(2022) 145 taxmann.com 311 (Delhi)(HC)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No borrowed funds utilised for investment-Order of Tribunal deleting the disallowance affirmed.[R.8D(2)(iii)]

Court held that the Tribunal had examined the balance sheets of the assessee and had concluded that the investments were made in the mutual funds in a liquidity plan wherein the dividend was automatically reinvested with weekly frequency without any efforts for earning dividend income, and that no borrowed funds were utilised, and had consequently held that the disallowance under section 14A was unwarranted. (AY.2012-13)

PCIT v. Inductis India Pvt. Ltd(2023) 157 taxmann.com 87 / (2025) 483 ITR 492 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial: PCIT v. Inductis India Pvt. Ltd [2025] 175 Taxmann.com 423 (SC), SLP dismissed on account of delay of 387 days.

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Amendment by Finance Act, 2022, inserting non obstante clause and Explanation in provision with effect from 1-4-2022-Not retrospective. [R.8D, 260A]

Held that the Tribunal had considered the decision in Pr. CIT v. Era Infrastructure (India) Ltd., (2022) 448 ITR 674 (Delhi)(HC), wherein it was held that amendment by the Finance Act, 2022 ((2022) 442 ITR (St) 91) of section 14A by inserting a non obstante clause and an explanation would take effect from April 1, 2022 and could not be presumed to have retrospective effect. (AY.2004-05)

PCIT v. Avantha Realty Ltd (2025) 482 ITR 599 (Cal)(HC)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Restriction of disallowance to the extent of two per cent. of dividend income Proper-Reserves and surplus amount exceeding investment-Presumption that investments out of own interest-bearing funds Disallowance not attracted.[S. 36(1)(iii) R.8D, 260A]

Held that the Tribunal in the order had relied upon the order of the Tribunal for the assessment year 2006-2007, in the assessee's own case wherein disallowance under section 14A was confirmed at two per cent. of the dividend income. The Tribunal also clarified that the disallowance with regard to interest should be made after excluding those mutual funds that were debt funds. Court also held that when interest-free own funds available with the assessee exceeded their investments, it would be presumed that the investments were made out of the assessee's own funds and proportionate disallowance was not warranted under section 14A of the Act. Therefore, there was no fault found with the order of the Tribunal. The entire issue was fact based. The Tribunal having come to the factual conclusion on the basis of the materials on record, no question of law arises. (AY. 2007-08, 2009-10)

CIT v. Grindwell Norton Ltd (2025) 483 ITR 651 (Bom)(HC)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Rule 8D-Applied prospectively from AY 2008-09.[R.8D]

The Bombay High Court reiterated that Rule 8D would apply only from Assessment Year 2008-09, following the decision of the jurisdictional High Court in Godrej & Boyce Manufacturing Co. Ltd. (328 ITR 81 / 4 Taxman 203) (Bom). The High Court further noted that the issue had also come before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in CIT v. Essar Teleholdings Ltd. [2018] 90 taxmann.com 2 / 253 Taxman 321 / 401 ITR 445 (SC), which affirmed that Rule 8D is prospective in operation and cannot be applied to assessments prior to AY 2008-09. (AY. 2007-08)

Pr. CIT v. Kumar Housing Corporation Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 23 (Bom.) (HC)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Investments made and liquidated within year resulting in no opening or closing balances-Order of Tribunal deleting the ad hoc disallowance under section 14A at 10 percent of exempt income was affirmed. [S. 260A, R.8D]

Assessee-company earned exempt dividend income from mutual funds and claimed that no expenditure was incurred to earn such exempt income as investments were made and liquidated within year with no opening or closing balances in balance sheet. Assessing Officer made an ad-hoc disallowance under section 14A at 10% of exempt dividend income. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted disallowance noting that there were no opening or closing balances of mutual fund investments and Rule 8D was inapplicable on these facts. Tribunal dismissed revenue's appeal. On appeal by revenue the Court held that since Assessing Officer had not provided any tangible basis for making adhoc disallowance of 10% of dividend income from mutual funds, no substantial question of law arose from Tribunal's order. (AY.2015-16, 2016-17)

PCIT v. Eygbs (India) (P) Ltd. (2025) 180 taxmann.com 681 / 347 CTR 280 / 254 DTR 385 (Karn)(HC)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No exempt income-No disallowance can be made-Amendment in law will be applicable prospectively from 1-4-2022. [S. 260A, R.8D]

Held that when there is no exempt income, no disallowance can be made. Amendment in law will be applicable prospectively from 1-4-2022. (AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Ketī Construction Ltd [2024] 162 taxmann.com 278 / (2025) 475 ITR 182 (MP) (HC)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Disallowance cannot exceed the exempt income-No substantial question of law.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that disallowance cannot exceed the exempt income. No substantial question of law. (AY. 2015-16)

PCIT(Central) v. Affluence Commodities (P.) Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 252 /161 taxmann.com 476 (Guj)(HC)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Disallowance under Section14A cannot exceed the exempt income-No substantial question of law.[S.260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that Disallowance under Section14A cannot exceed the exempt income. (AY.2004-05) (ITA NO.661 of 2018 dt.8-1-2025)

PCIT v. Tata Industries Ltd (Bom)(HC) www.itatonline.org

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Dissatisfaction of Assessing Officer must be based on cogent reasons-Mere observation that disallowance is meagre is insufficient. [R. 8D]

The Assessing Officer invoked rule 8D merely on the ground that the suo motu disallowance offered by the assessee was insignificant compared to the exempt income earned. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of proper satisfaction recorded with cogent reasons regarding the incorrectness of the assessee's claim, invocation of section 14A read with rule 8D was invalid. The deletion of the disallowance was upheld. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Sufficient interest-free funds available-No disallowance warranted. [R. 8D]

The Assessing Officer made a further disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D in respect of exempt dividend income. The Tribunal held that the assessee possessed sufficient non-interest-bearing funds to make the investments and, following the jurisdictional High Court as well as the orders passed in the assessee's own case for earlier years, upheld the deletion of the disallowance. (AY. 2015-16).

ITO v. V. R. Surat P. Ltd. [2023] 152 taxmann.com 679 / (2025) 129 ITR 626 (Surat)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Expenditure incurred in relation to income not includible in total income-Assessee's own funds were much higher than investments that yield exempt income-Addition was deleted. [S.10(34), R.8D(2)(ii)]

The assessee received a dividend which was claimed exempt under section 10(34). The AO had made an addition under section 14A on account of interest expenditure by resorting to rule 8D(2)(ii). On the revenue's appeal, ITAT held that as the assessee's own funds were much higher than investments that yield exempt income, CIT(A) had rightly deleted the addition on account of interest expenditure under section 14A read with rule 8D(2)(ii). [AY. 2009-10, 2012-13]

ACIT v. Doshion Veolia Water Solution (P.) Ltd. (2025) 128 ITR 128 (Mum) (Trib.)

ACIT v. Doshion Water Solution P. Ltd (2025) 128 ITR 128 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Disallowance cannot exceed exempt income. [R.8D]

Held that the disallowance under section 14A cannot exceed exempt income earned during the year. Following precedents in assessee's own case and the judgment of the jurisdictional High Court, disallowance was required to be restricted to the amount of exempt income earned. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 14A: Disallowance of expenditure - Exempt income-Recording of satisfaction by Assessing Officer is mandatory-Business loss-Allowable as deduction. [S. 28(i), 37(1)]

The Assessing Officer invoked section 14A without recording any dissatisfaction regarding the correctness of the assessee's computation of expenditure relatable to exempt income. The Tribunal held that recording of satisfaction under section 14A(2) is a mandatory jurisdictional requirement and there can be no deemed or implied satisfaction. Since the Assessing Officer had failed to comply with this statutory requirement, the disallowance under section 14A was rightly deleted. The Tribunal further held that loss arising in the ordinary course of business is deductible as a business loss under section 28 and is distinct from business expenditure governed by sections 30 to 37. Where the loss has a direct nexus with business operations, it is allowable notwithstanding that it is not covered by the provisions relating to business expenditure. (AY. 2014-15)

Asst. CIT v. Span India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 128 ITR 536 (Delhi)(Trib.).

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Disallowance under section 14A cannot exceed the exempt income earned during the year-Book profit-Minimum Alternate Tax-Disallowance

computed under section 14A read with rule 8D cannot be added while computing book profit under section 115JB. [S. 11JB, R. 8D]

The Assessing Officer made disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D in excess of the exempt income earned by the assessee. The Commissioner (Appeals) restricted the disallowance to the amount of exempt income. The Tribunal upheld the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) holding that disallowance under section 14A cannot exceed the exempt income earned during the relevant previous year. The Assessing Officer added the disallowance computed under section 14A while determining the book profit under section 115JB. The Tribunal held that computation under section 115JB is governed by the specific provisions contained therein and book profit cannot be adjusted by importing the disallowance computed under section 14A read with rule 8D. Accordingly, deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 2010-11 to 2012-13)

Anil Ltd. (formerly Anil Products Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 351 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No exempt income earned-No disallowance permissible.[R. 8D]

The Assessing Officer invoked section 14A read with Rule 8D although the assessee had not earned any exempt income during the relevant previous year. The Tribunal held that in the absence of exempt income and any claim for exemption, no disallowance under section 14A could be made. Accordingly, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2011-12)

Capgemini India P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 431 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Administrative expenses-Rule 8D-Disallowance computed by Assessing Officer upheld. [R. 8D(2)(iii)]

The assessee computed disallowance under section 14A on an ad hoc basis by allocating a portion of treasury department expenses. The Assessing Officer applied Rule 8D(2)(iii) and computed disallowance at 0.5 per cent. of the average value of investments after observing that administrative resources, including the Board of Directors, were involved in investment decisions. The Tribunal held that the assessee had failed to demonstrate that no administrative expenditure was attributable to earning exempt income. Accordingly, the disallowance computed by the Assessing Officer under Rule 8D was upheld. (AY. 2009-10, 2012-13).

Bayer Crop Science Ltd. (Successor to Monsanto India Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 679 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 14A: Income-Expenditure relating to exempt income-Investment being share of profit in joint venture, current account transaction for loans given-Provision inapplicable-Disallowance rightly deleted. [R. 8D]

Held that since the investment represented a current account transaction of loans to the joint venture and not an investment yielding exempt income, section 14A did not apply. (AY. 2017-18)

ITD Cementation India Ltd v Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 74 (Delhi) (Trib)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Book profits-Computation-Assessee's suo motu disallowance-Further disallowance in computation of book profits under section 115JB unjustified-Addition deleted-Disallowance where entire investment made out of interest-free own funds-No disallowance warranted-CBDT Circular No. 5 of 2014 cannot override express provisions of section 14A-Disallowance not legally tenable-Effect of Explanation inserted by Finance Act, 2022 with effect from 1-4-2022-Amendment prospective, not retrospective-Disallowance for earlier year not tenable-Suo motu disallowance-Assessee's own interest-free funds in excess of investment-No disallowance warranted-Assessing Officer required to record dissatisfaction with correctness of suo motu disallowance-Non-recording of satisfaction precluding recourse to rule 8D-No further disallowance warranted. [S. 115JB, R. 8D]

The assessee, engaged in manufacturing wind turbine generators, gave effect to a scheme of amalgamation of three subsidiaries approved by the NCLT, recorded the excess of purchase consideration over net assets as goodwill and claimed depreciation thereon, and made a suo motu disallowance under section 14A on account of exempt income from investments; the AO denied depreciation on goodwill relying on various statutory provisions relating to transfer of assets in amalgamation, and also made a further disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D, applying it to the computation of book profits under section 115JB by treating the amendment introduced by the Finance Act, 2022 as retrospective, both of which were confirmed by the CIT(A) except in relation to the NCLT issue. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the Revenue had failed to challenge the NCLT's approval of the amalgamation before the appropriate forum, it could not now raise the issue before the Tribunal; that the statutory provisions relied upon by the AO applied only to assets transferred from the amalgamating to the amalgamated company and not to goodwill generated as a fresh asset upon amalgamation, and such goodwill was accordingly eligible for depreciation; that no addition could be made to book profits under section 115JB based on disallowance computed under section 14A; that no disallowance under section 14A was warranted where the assessee's own interest-free funds exceeded the investments yielding exempt income, and CBDT Circular No. 5 of 2014 could not override the express provisions of section 14A; that the amendment to section 14A by the Finance Act, 2022 was prospective and inapplicable to the years under consideration; and that in the absence of the AO recording the requisite dissatisfaction under section 14A(2) with the correctness of the assessee's suo motu disallowance, no further disallowance under rule 8D could be made, and the additions were accordingly deleted. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

Suzlon Energy Ltd v.Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 737 (Ahd) (Trib)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Shipping business-Tonnage tax scheme-Disallowance under S. 14A cannot be made in the case of the assessee, which is subject to tax under Chapter XII-G.[S.115VA]

Disallowance under S. 14A cannot be made in the case of the assessee, which is subject to tax under Chapter XII-G (AY. 2018-19)

Shipping Corporation of India v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 163 / 173 taxmann.com 190 (Mum)(Trib)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Interest expenditure-Disallowance has to be computed at 0.5 per cent of investments which have actually yielded exempt income during the year and not the average of investments as appearing in the balance sheet of the assessee.[R.8D(2)(iii)]

Held that the quantum of share capital, reserves and surplus of the assessee-company for the relevant year exceeds the investments which have resulted in exempt income; interest expenditure cannot be disallowed. Disallowance under R. 8D(2)(iii) has to be computed at 0.5 per cent of investments which have actually yielded exempt income during the year and not the average of investments as appearing in the balance sheet of the assessee. (AY. 2011-12 to 2014-15)

E.I.D. Parry India Ltd. v DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 485 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 14A: Disallowance-Recording of satisfaction mandatory-Rule 8D cannot be invoked without examining accounts. [S 10(35), 115JB, R. 8D]

The Assessing Officer invoked rule 8D merely on the general observation that the assessee had incurred expenditure such as salaries, rent and audit fees without first examining the books of account or recording dissatisfaction regarding the assessee's claim that no expenditure had been incurred for earning exempt income. The Tribunal held that such satisfaction is a mandatory condition precedent for invoking rule 8D. In the absence of proper satisfaction, the disallowance under section 14A as well as the restriction thereof by the Commissioner (Appeals) could not be sustained. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16, 2017-18 & 2018-19).

Manipal Education and Medical Group India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 623 / 181 taxmann.com 711 (Bang.)(Trib.)

Manipal Global Education Services P. Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 623 / 181 taxmann.com 711 (Bang.)(Trib.)

Manipal Hospital P. Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 623 / 181 taxmann.com 711 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Own funds exceeding investments-No disallowance of interest warranted. [R. 8D]

The Tribunal held that since the assessee's own funds were substantially in excess of the investments yielding exempt income, no disallowance of interest under section 14A read with rule 8D was called for. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13).

Dy. CIT v. Bodal Chemicals Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 194 / 177 taxmann.com 448 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Only investments yielding exempt income to be considered-Amendment by Finance Act, 2022 prospective. [R. 8D]

The Tribunal held that while computing disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D, only investments which actually yielded exempt income during the relevant year could be considered. The amendment made by the Finance Act, 2022 was not retrospective. Consequently, deletion of the additional disallowance under both the normal provisions and section 115JB was upheld. (AY. 2018-19).

Geecee Ventures Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 371 / 174 taxmann.com 1285 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Recording of dissatisfaction mandatory before invoking rule 8D-Addition deleted. [R. 8D]

The assessee had made a suo motu disallowance under section 14A. The Assessing Officer invoked rule 8D without recording any dissatisfaction regarding the correctness of the assessee's computation. The Tribunal held that recording of satisfaction under section 14A(2) is a mandatory precondition. In its absence, invocation of rule 8D was invalid, and the addition was directed to be deleted. (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19).

SLK Software (P.) Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 395 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Rule 8D not applicable in absence of requisite data-Disallowance restricted to 10 per cent. of dividend income. [R. 8D]

The Assessing Officer computed the disallowance under rule 8D without the necessary opening and closing value of investments. The Tribunal held that the prescribed formula could not be properly applied in such circumstances and sustained an estimated disallowance of 10 per cent. of the dividend income as reasonable. (AY. 2013-14).

Yokogawa India Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 499 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Interest-free funds exceeding investments-Strategic investments-Disallowance restricted to exempt income.[R. 8D]

The assessee earned exempt dividend income and voluntarily disallowed a part of the expenditure under section 14A. The Assessing Officer invoked Rule 8D and made a further disallowance. The Tribunal held that the investments had been made out of interest-free internal accruals and were strategic investments in group companies. No direct expenditure had been incurred for earning exempt income. Accordingly, the disallowance under section 14A was rightly restricted to the actual exempt income earned and further disallowance under Rule 8D was unsustainable. (AY. 2014-15).

Asst. CIT v. Kunvarji Finance (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 609 / 176 taxmann.com 553 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Borrowed funds not utilised for investments-Interest disallowance deleted-Administrative expenditure sustained. [R. 8D(2)(ii), (iii)]

The Tribunal held that the assessee had established that borrowed funds were not utilised for investments yielding exempt dividend income and, therefore, the deletion of interest disallowance under Rule 8D(2)(ii) by the Commissioner (Appeals) was justified. However, as the assessee failed to establish that no expenditure had been incurred for managing the investments, the administrative disallowance computed under Rule 8D(2)(iii) was rightly sustained. (AY. 2011-12).

ITO v. Magic Software (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 34 / 173 taxmann.com 59 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Dividend income-Investments made out of own funds-No interest disallowance-Administrative expenditure to be reasonably apportioned.[S.10(33), R.8D]

The Tribunal found that dividend-yielding investments had been made from the assessee's own funds and not from borrowed funds. Accordingly, no interest expenditure could be disallowed while computing exempt dividend income. However, administrative and other common expenses were directed to be apportioned on a reasonable basis with reference to the ratio of investments yielding exempt income to the average total assets. (AY. 1999-2000 to 2001-02).

HDFC Bank Ltd. (Successor to Housing Development Finance Corporation Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 629 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No exempt income earned-No disallowance permissible. [R. 8D]

The assessee did not earn any exempt income during the relevant assessment years. The Tribunal held that no disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D could be made in the absence of exempt income and further held that the amendment made by the Finance Act, 2022 was prospective in operation. (AY. 2015-16 & 2016-17).

Dy. CIT v. Piramal Estates (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 488 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No exempt income earned-Disallowance not sustainable. [R. 8D]

The Tribunal held that as the assessee had not earned any exempt income during the relevant assessment years, no disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D could be made. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15 & 2015-16).

SIEL Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (LTU) (2025) 123 ITR 599 / 173 taxmann.com 278 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Directed to consider only those investments which yielded exempt income during the year. [R.8D]

Tribunal directed to Assessing Officer to verify the working of assessee and restrict disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D by considering only those investments that yielded exempt income during the year. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2017-18, 2018-19)

Hercules Hoists Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 61 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Disallowance cannot exceed exempt income-Amendment made to provisions of section 14A vide Finance Act, 2022 is prospective in nature and cannot be applied for earlier years.[R.8D]

Held that the disallowance under section 14A cannot exceed exempt income and the amendment made to provisions of section 14A vide Finance Act, 2022 is prospective in nature and cannot be applied for earlier years. (AY. 2017-18)

G.N. International (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 180 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.14A: Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Disallowance cannot exceed the exempt income.[R.8D]

Held that disallowance under section 14A should be restricted to the extent of exempt income earned during the previous year. (AY. 2016-17)

Parasmal Ravindra Kumar. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 276 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No exempt income-No disallowance can be made. [R. 8D]

Disallowance under section 14A does not get attracted in absence of any exempt income earned during year. (AY. 2014-15)

NDTV Networks Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 167 /123 ITR 53 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-salaries paid to the employees of the treasury department-Allocation of expenses on the basis of area occupied by the department-Held to be reasonable-Book profit-Adjustment of disallowance under s. 14A is not required to be made in the book profit for MAT liability. [S.115JB, R.8D]

Held that quantification of expenditure on salaries paid to the employees of the treasury department made by the assessee on the basis of the area occupied by that department is reasonable and, therefore, disallowance is directed to be restricted to that extent only. Adjustment of disallowance under s. 14A not required to be made in the book profit for MAT liability. (AY. 2018-19)

BSE Ltd. v. CIT (A) (2025) 233 TTJ 214 (Mum)(Trib)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Merely because the AO did not expressly record his dissatisfaction about assessee's calculation-The conclusion of the AO cannot be rejected-Only those investments are to be considered for computing disallowance under section 14A which yielded exempt income during year.[R.8D]

Held that the Assessing Officer carried out elaborate analysis and followed steps enacted in statute and then determined amount of expenditure incurred for earning tax exempt income, merely because he did not expressly record his dissatisfaction about assessee's calculation, his conclusion cannot be rejected. Tribunal also held that only those investments are to be considered for computing disallowance under section 14A which yielded exempt income during year only those investments are to be considered for computing disallowance under section 14A which yielded exempt income during year. (AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-No exempt income during year-No disallowance can be made.[R.8D]

Held that when there is no exempt income during year. No disallowance can be made. (AY. 2008-09)

JIL Information Technology Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 277 (Lucknow) (Trib.)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Sufficient interest free funds-Investment in securities-Disallowance is deleted.[R.8D]

Held that the assessee had sufficient interest free funds available for making investments in tax free securities; it was to be presumed that interest free funds had been utilized for making investments. The Assessing Officer was not justified in applying rule 8D and making disallowance of expenditure under section 14A related to tax free investments. (AY. 2006-07)

DCIT v. ICICI Bank Ltd. (2025)210 ITD 643 (Mum)(Trib.)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Stock in trade-No disallowance can be made.[R. 8D]

Held that disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D cannot be made in case of shares held as stock-in-trade held by bank. (AY. 2015-16)

DBS Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025)210 ITD 448(Mum)(Trib.)

S.14A : Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Investment in partnership firm-Interest paid on the overdraft facility, which was obtained for business activities, should not have been disallowed, as it was not directly related to the exempt share income from the partnership firm.[S.10(2A), R.8D(2)(iii)]

The assessee earned a share of income from a partnership firm and claimed it as exempt income under section 10(2A). The AO noted that the assessee had incurred interest expenditure and, accordingly, he disallowed under Rule 8D (2)(ii), which pertains to the disallowance of expenses related to exempt income.

The Tribunal observed that the investment was made in 2000-01, and the overdraft facility was obtained only in November 2014, which was primarily used for day-to-day business activities and not for investing in the partnership firm. Held that the AO's disallowance under Rule 8D (2)(ii) Was not justified since the overdraft facility was used for business purposes and was not linked to the exempt share income. (AY. 2016-17)

Prakash Udyog Ltd. v. ITO [2025] 210 ITD 74 (Mum)(Trib.),

S. 15: Salaries-Business income-Director-Professional fees-Failure to furnish documentary evidence-Assessable as income from salary-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S.17, 28(i), 194J, 260A]

Assessee, an individual and a director in a company. The assessee received Rs. 66 lakhs from the company and claimed the said amount as a professional/technical service fee assessable as income from business/profession. The Assessing Officer assessed the said amount as salary, which was affirmed by the CIT(A) and Tribunal. On appeal, the Court held that since the assessee had failed to produce any document evidencing that he had rendered services as a financial expert to the company, the amount received by him was rightly assessed as salary income. Order of the Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2013-14 to 2015-16)

Mukesh Gupta v. Dy. CIT (2025) 307 Taxman 632 (Karn.)(HC)

S. 17(2) : Salary-Perquisite-Rent-free or concessional rent accommodations-Claim of assessee that perquisite value of Rent-free or concessional rent accommodations should be computed under Rule 3 considering its employees at par with Central Government employees is rejected-Proceedings under Sections 201 and 201(1A) were to be quashed, as assessee had made a bona fide estimate of perquisite value consistent with a similar ruling for another CSIR unit-SLP of the assessee is dismissed. [S. 15, 201, 201(IA), R. 3, Art. 136]

Assessee, a constituent unit of CSIR, claimed that valuation of perquisites for rent-free or concessional rent accommodations provided to its employees should be computed under Rule 3 considering its employees at par with Central Government employees. Lower authorities rejected said claim. On appeal, High Court held that for purposes of Rule 3, the requirement is that accommodation should be provided by the Central Government or State Government to employees either holding office or post in connection with affairs of Union or of State or serving with any body or undertaking under control of such government from deputation. It was further observed that aforesaid expression is unambiguous and therefore, its meaning could not be expanded to include any body, undertaking under control of Central Government and merely because assessee was a body or undertaking owned or controlled by the Central Government, it could not be elevated to status of Central Government and therefore, assessee could not claim that valuation of perquisites in respect of residential accommodation should be computed as in case of an accommodation provided by Central Government. Therefore, Sl.No.1 of Table 1 of Rule 3 of Rules would not apply to assessee-However, High Court held that proceedings under Sections 201 and 201(1A) were to be quashed, as assessee had made a bona fide estimate of perquisite value consistent with a similar ruling for another CSIR unit. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. there was no reason to interfere with order of High Court and therefore, Special Leave Petitions were to be dismissed. (AY. 2007-08 to 2011-12)

Central Food Technological Research Institute v. ITO (TDS) (2025) 302 Taxman 181/476 ITR 689 (SC)

Editorial : Central Food Technological Research Institute v. ITO (TDS)(2021) 439 ITR 735/ (2024)168 taxmann.com 664 (Karn)(HC)

S. 17(2): Salary-Perquisite-Valuation of shares-Face value-Shares allotted as part of employee stock purchase scheme Lock-in period during which shares could not be transferred-Valuation of shares taking into account restrictive condition. [S. 17(2)(iiia), 260A]

On appeal, the Court held that the shares in question would become transferable post the lock-in-period. In the light of the restriction with respect to marketability and tradability of the stock in question, the fair market value could not have been recognised to exceed the face value of the shares and thus the determinative being Rs. 15. The valuation report was at best a medium adopted by the employer in order to broadly ascertain its obligations for the purposes of withholding tax. It could not have consequently been taken into consideration for the purposes of determining the fair market value. The face value alone would be conclusive for purposes of taxation. Followed Dy. CGT v. BPL Ltd., (2022) 448 ITR 739 (SC). Valuation cannot ignore the limitations attached to the shares.

Ravi Kumar Sinha v. CIT (2025) 474 ITR 594 / 165 taxmann.com 472 (Delhi)(HC),

S. 17(2) : Salary-Perquisite-Stock options provided to ex-employees-Stock options were not a perquisite; no exercise of options-No income chargeable to tax-Not liable to deduct tax at source. [S. 5,17(2)(vi),197, Art. 226]

The assessee was a former employee of a company that was part of a Singapore-based group which had granted employee stock options. The assessee was granted 127,552 options under a vesting schedule. After a disinvestment announced on December 23, 2022, the value of the options fell and, on April 21, 2023, the Singapore company made a one-time voluntary payment of USD 43.67 per option to option-holders as compensation for loss in value. The company stated it would withhold tax. The assessee applied under section 197 for a nil deduction certificate; the application was rejected by the Department treating the payment as a perquisite under section 17(2)(vi). On writ: the court held that the options had not been exercised and no contingency in section 17(2)(vi) had occurred; the payment was voluntary and not a statutory or contractual transfer by the employer linked to employment; hence, it was not a perquisite and not chargeable to tax. The rejection was invalid; the assessee was given liberty to apply for refund of TDS.

Sanjay Baweja v. Dy. CIT (2025) 474 ITR 376 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 17(2) : Salary-Perquisite-Amendments made to section 17(2)(ii) by Finance Act, 2007, whereby employees allotted bank-owned accommodation were deemed to have received a concession in matter of rent respecting such accommodation, were constitutional and valid-Amendments made to section 17(2)(ii) by Finance Act, 2007 with limited retrospective effect from 1-4-2002, do not violate Article 14 of Constitution or other constitutional provisions- Interpretation of taxing statutes-Provision creating legal fiction-Purpose of legal fiction to be ascertained. [S.17(2)(ii), R. 3(1) Art. 14,19(1)(g), 226]

Petitioners were associations of officers of nationalised banks. They challenged amendments to section 17(2)(ii) by Finance Act, 2007 on the ground that amendments created a legal fiction based on which it could now be presumed that employees allotted bank-owned accommodation were deemed to have received a concession in matter of rent respecting such accommodation and amendments broadly measured value of such concession as difference between specified percentage of employee's salary and rent recoverable or payable by such employees. Petitioners contended that the amendments were arbitrary, discriminatory and, therefore, violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the amendments to section 17(2)(ii) do not create any taxing liability or amend charging provisions, and they only provide machinery for assessing and recovering tax on concession in rent for accommodation provided by employer to employee. Merely because bank employees drawing higher salaries are called upon to bear a proportionately higher burden, it does not mean that there is any hostile discrimination within class or any manifest arbitrariness involved in the amendments.

Amendments were a time-tested and permissible legislative exercise and they did not violate any constitutional provisions and thus, could not be held to be unconstitutional, ultra-vires, or null and void. In interpreting a provision creating a legal fiction, the court is to ascertain for what purpose the fiction is created and after that assume all those facts and consequences which are incidental or inevitable to the giving effect to the fiction.

All India Central Bank Officers Federation. v. UOI (2025) 342 CTR 578 / 246 DTR 33 / 170 taxmann.com 627 /477 ITR 26 (Bom)(HC)

S. 17(2) : Salary-Perquisite-Rent-free accommodation-Existence of concession is a jurisdictional fact-Rule 3 cannot be invoked without such finding-in Indian Institute of Technology-Not a Central Government employer-Rule applicable to Central Government employees not attracted. [S. 15, 17(2)(ii), R. 3 of the Income-tax Rules, 1962]

The Assessing Officer treated the assessee as an assessee-in-default for failure to deduct tax at source on the value of residential accommodation provided to its employees by directly applying Rule 3. The Tribunal held that the applicability of Rule 3 arises only after the Assessing Officer records a finding that the accommodation was provided at a concessional rent within the meaning of section 17(2)(ii). In the absence of such a finding, computation of perquisite value under Rule 3 was without jurisdiction and the order treating the assessee as an assessee-in-default was unsustainable. The Tribunal held that although the Indian Institute of Technology was established under an Act of Parliament and functioned under the administrative control of the Central Government, it did not become the Central Government itself. Consequently, its employees could not be treated as Central Government employees for determining the value of residential accommodation under Rule 3. (AY. 2012-13).

Asst. CIT v. Indian Institute of Technology (2025) 125 ITR 697 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 17(2): Salary-Perquisite-Personal expenses of director-Paid through the credit card of the company-Disallowed in the assessment of company-Cannot be taxed again in hands of assessee-director as perquisite under section 2(24)(iv).[S. 2(24)(iv), 28(iv), 37(1)]

Held that the personal expenses of the assessee-director, which were paid through credit cards of the company, have already been disallowed in the hands of the company; the same cannot be added in the hands of the assessee-director as the value of any benefit or perquisite under the provisions of ss. 2(24)(iv), 17(2)(iv) or 28(iv). (AY. 2019-20 to 2022-23)

Mecca Rafeeqe Ahmed v. ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 691 / 172 taxmann.com 160 (Chennai)(Trib)

Israr Ahmed v. ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 691 / 172 taxmann.com 160 (Chennai)(Trib)

Ashifaque Ahmed Mecca v. ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 691 / 172 taxmann.com 160 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 17(2): Salary-Perquisite-LIC annuity-Employer purchasing an annuity policy in the name of the employee, payable in future. Cannot be taxed as a perquisite in the hands of the employee in the relevant assessment year, as the employee had not acquired any vested or enforceable right over the said amount in the relevant assessment year. [S. 10 (10CC) 15]

During the year, a sum of Rs. 20 lakhs was paid by employer of assessee to LIC to purchase an annuity on behalf of the assessee. The Assessing Officer held that the amount paid to LIC was formed in the nature of an annuity, hence taxable as a perquisite under section 17(2)(v) of the Act and allowed exemption under section 10(10CC) to the extent of Rs 5.87 lakhs. CIT A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the said sum paid by the employer to LIC to purchase an annuity on his behalf could not be taxed for the relevant assessment year as it did not represent any amount received, due, or vested in him during that year. Annuity was structured to be paid to the assessee only after four years, in the form of monthly instalments from LIC. For such a payment to be taxed in the hands of the employee, it was essential, as per section 15, that the amount was either due, paid, or allowed to the employee. A contingent benefit or a non-vested future entitlement could not be brought to tax in the year of payment by the employer unless the employee acquires a vested right in the amount. Since annuity payments commenced only after four years and assessee had in fact offered to tax annuity income received from LIC on accrual/receipt basis in relevant assessment year under head 'Income from Salary', taxing employer's payment of Rs. 20 lakhs in relevant assessment year would amount to taxing same amount twice-once at stage of employer's contribution and again at time of annuity receipts-resulting in double taxation, which was impermissible in law. Therefore, the addition of Rs. 20 lakhs made by the Assessing Officer in the hands of the assessee for the relevant assessment year was deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

Biswas Manik. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 197 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 17(3) :Salary-Profits in lieu of salary-Ceasing employment-Dispute regarding equity shares issued to assessee while in employment-Amount received on settlement of dispute-Not assessable as profits in lieu of salary-Assessable as capital gains [S. 15, 16, 17(2), 45]

Assessee was employed with a company in capacity of Chief Operating Officer. In terms of employment agreement, apart from yearly compensation, assessee was also entitled to sweat equity. However, employment of assessee was terminated. Thereafter, assessee approached CLB seeking for appropriate directions being framed requiring company to register shares in his name. During pendency of aforesaid petition before CLB, assessee and company agreed to settle all disputes and signed a settlement agreement. In terms of settlement agreement, assessee unconditionally and irrevocably relinquished all his rights in respect of registration of shares held by him and to consequently hand over share certificates in original to company. Assessee filed his return of income declaring said settlement amount as long-term capital gains. Assessing Officer held that said amount represented 'profits in lieu of salary', received in lump sum after cessation of employment and, thus, was liable to be taxed under head salaries. On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that the amount of Rs. 3.03 crores was chargeable to tax as 'capital gains' and not under the head of 'salaries'. On further appeal, the Tribunal held that the 15,000 eligible shares alone should be treated as taxable under the head 'capital gains' while the balance 35,000 shares should be taxed in accordance with the provisions of section 17(3)(iii). On appeal the Court held that the settlement amount was received by assessee in lieu of relinquishment of his right to seek registration of shares. Settlement consideration was not liable to be construed as payment connected to termination of assessee's employment. Further, in petition, which was filed before Company Law Board, there was no relief which was sought with respect to cessation of employment of assessee or validity of termination of employment. On facts, settlement amount received by assessee was liable to be recognised as capital gains and not profits in lieu of salary. Order of Tribunal was set aside. (AY. 2014-15)

Akash Poddar v. ACIT [2024] 165 taxmann.com 271 / (2025) 482 ITR 504 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 22 : Income from house property-Business income-Income assessed as income from house property in prior assessment years-Business income for assessment years 2008-2009, 2009-2010 and 2010-2011-Not valid-Res judicata-Principle not applicable to Income-tax proceedings-Principles of consistency applicable. [S. 28(1), 260A]

Dismissing the appeals of the revenue the Court held that the basic requirements for the assessee to consider the income in question as

"income from house property" stood clearly satisfied, as the assessee derived income from house property "owned by it". Even if the assessee was in the business of letting or sub-letting of properties and deriving income therefrom, there was no embargo on the assessee from accounting the income received by it, from the property "owned by the assessee" as "income from house property" and at the same time, categorizing the rental income from other properties not of the assessee's ownership under the head "Income from business". Moreover in the prior assessment years, the Assessing Officer had accepted the assessee's treatment of such income as income from house property, which was one of the factors which had weighed with the Tribunal to allow the appeals filed by the assessee, on the principle of consistency. The income from property for the assessment years 2008-2009, 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 was assessable as income from house property. Court also held that principle of res judicata is not applicable to income tax proceedings, but principles of consistency is applicable. (AY. 2008-09 to 2010-11)

PCIT v. Banzai Estates Pvt. Ltd [2024] 165 taxmann.com 412 / (2025) 482 ITR 407 (Bom)(HC)

S. 22 : Income from house property-Co-owner-Joint ownership-Annual letting value-No specification of their respective shares in deed-Mere signing of instrument of conveyance by an individual does not raise any presumption of income being assessed in hands of such individual-Order of Tribunal affirming the Annual letting value at 8 per cent of cost of property was deleted. [S. 23(1)(a), 26,27, 260A]

Assessee and her husband were owners of a property. Assessing Officer held that assessee was 50 per cent owner of property and, thus, income from house property was to be taxed in hands of assessee. The CIT(A) and Tribunal affirmed the order of the AO on the ground that holding that since co-ownership of assessee and her husband was evidenced in sale deed but there was no specification of their respective shares in deed, it must be held that husband and wife purchased equal shares. On appeal, the Court held that mere signing of instrument of conveyance by an individual does not raise any presumption of income being assessed in hands of such individual. The question of taxability would necessarily have to be answered bearing in mind individual who had in fact obtained benefits from property. The order of the Tribunal is set aside. Followed CIT v. Podar Cement (P) Ltd (1997) 92 Taxman 541 / 226 ITR 625 (SC) (AY. 2015-16)

Shivani Madan (Smt) v. PCIT (2025) 303 Taxman 571 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial: Order in Shivani Madan (Smt) v. ACIT (2023) 200 ITD 198 (Delhi)(Trib), reversed.

S. 22: Income from house property-Rent reimbursed to purchasers-Not assessable in the hands of assessee.[S. 23]

Assessee, engaged in the business of real estate, constructed a commercial property and sold most of the units, but none of them was registered during the previous year, and some of the customers had given letters of intent for giving their units on rent through assessee and rent received by assessee in respect of such units was subsequently paid to owners. Assessing Officer held that as assessee was the legal owner of property during financial year 2008-09, total rent was income of assessee and treated rent as income from house property. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that necessary details along with their bills and invoices were produced before the authorities below, and the assessee had also filed a copy of the Tri-Party Agreement. Further, assessee had duly declared rent pertaining to areas belonging to it in terms of section 22, and reimbursement to purchasers had been made after TDS. Amount of rent reimbursed to purchasers cannot be assessed as income of assessee (AY. 2019-20)

ACIT v. Delhi Buildwell (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 291 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 23 : Income from house property-Annual value-Municipal rateable value-Only when annual value under municipal laws so determined had close proximity with relevant assessment year, in case of significant gap between municipal rateable value and annual rent of property, Assessing Officer could make independent enquiry under section 23(1)(a)-Security deposit-Nominal licence fee-Assessing Officer was justified in fixing annual rental value by taking into consideration twin factors of comparable rents and notional interest on security deposits-Developer's letter and certificate from premises society cannot be treated as cogent evidence for fixation of municipal rateable value-Property given on rent-Standard rent of premises-Concept of standard rent applicable only to statutory tenant enjoying protection from rent escalation an eviction-Assessee's premises were not governed by provisions of rent control legislation-Assessing Officer not bound to accept Municipal Rateable Value and can take in to consideration annual rent premises capable of fetching-Notional interest receivable on security deposit cannot be sole factor for deciding annual letting out value of property-Comparable instance and return on overdraft facility taken by assessee from lessee Bank to arrive at sum of reasonable rent-Order of Tribunal affirmed.

[S. 22, 23(1)(a), 260, Bombay Rents, Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control act, 1947]

Municipal rateable value could be taken as annual value of property under section 23(1)(a) only when annual value under municipal laws so determined had close proximity with relevant assessment year, in case of significant gap between municipal rateable value and annual rent of property, Assessing Officer could make independent enquiry under section 23(1)(a). Where assessee let out office premises at a nominal license fee and substantial amount of security deposit, since assessee had contemporaneously availed overdraft facility of Rs. 51 lakhs, security deposit was real return for assessee and thus, Assessing Officer was justified in fixing annual rental value by taking into consideration twin factors of comparable rents and notional interest on security deposits. Developer's letter and certificate from premises society cannot be treated as cogent evidence for fixation of municipal rateable value. Concept of standard rent applicable only to statutory tenant enjoying protection from rent escalation an eviction. Assessee's premises were not governed by provisions of rent control legislation. Assessing Officer not bound to accept Municipal Rateable Value and can take in to consideration annual rent premises capable of fetching. Notional interest receivable on security deposit cannot be sole factor for deciding annual letting out value of property. Comparable instance and return on overdraft facility taken by assessee from lessee Bank to arrive at sum of reasonable rent. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 1990-91, 1991-92)

Tivoli Investment & Trading Co. (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 481 ITR 730 / 177 taxmann.com 509 (Bom)(HC)

S. 23 : Income from house property-Annual value-Arrears of rent-No retrospective fixation of fair rent-Orders increasing fair rent for year 2019 and for year 2022 were passed only on 24-1-2024, when lease had ended between parties, only arrears need to be determined-Common practice and also laid down in Government Order that 15 per cent increase can be made for every three years-In best interest of resolving dispute between parties, a reasonable 15 per cent increase shall be taken and calculated and submissions made to contrary shall be rejected.[S. 22, Art. 226]

The petitioner/assessee bank (successor to Lakshmi Vilas Bank) was a tenant of a temple-owned property, originally under a lease from 1993. No new lease deed was executed thereafter. Rent was periodically increased by the temple, including demands in 2018 and 2019. The bank paid enhanced rent from January 2019 and acknowledged ₹46.20 lakhs as arrears as of 30-06-2019. The temple issued a fresh demand of ₹1.93 crores, which included retrospective rent increases from 2019 and 2022, without serving any corresponding rent fixation orders on the bank. The petitioner filed an appeal and deposited ₹72.73 lakhs under protest. The lease was later terminated and possession handed over in November 2023. The appeal was returned as time-barred. The bank filed the writ petition challenging the retrospective rent revision and demanding refund of the amount deposited.

The petitioner stated that over and above the sums paid, at the time of appeal, another sum has been deposited by the petitioner at the time of filing the appeal. Therefore there will be a balance that will be payable to the petitioner. Court held in this case, it has already been found that there were arrears in rent also as on 1-7-2016. Unlike the petitioners, who are bankers, Temple doesn't claim compound interest with monthly rents on arrears. If reasonable interest is calculated on the belated payments, then no amount will be payable to the petitioner. Overall, the third respondent temple shall treat the amounts so far received as full quit towards all arrears. Over and above, it shall move the Income Tax Department in the manner known to law for refund of arrears and the same shall be considered favourably by the Department in the manner known to law. Neither any sum will be further payable to the petitioner bank, nor it is entitled for any refund. Court held that common practice and also laid down in Government Order that 15 per cent increase can be made for every three years. In best interest of resolving dispute between parties, a reasonable 15 per cent increase shall be taken and calculated and submissions made to contrary shall be rejected.

DBS Bank India Ltd. v. Commissioner Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Department (2025) 305 Taxman 584 (Mad)(HC)

S. 23 : Income from house property-Annual value-Property let out to partner at a low rent-Matter remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for re-adjudication to get the comparable as per law. [S. 22]

Tribunal remanded the matter to the file of the Assessing Officer to re-adjudicate the issue after getting the comparable and decide as per law (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises v. Dy.CIT (2025) 237 TTJ 497 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 23: Income from house property-Annual value-Property remaining vacant throughout year-Notional annual value assessable-Mere inability to secure a tenant throughout the year does not preclude assessment of notional rental income. [S. 22, 23(1)(a)]

The assessee claimed that no annual value could be assessed because the property remained vacant throughout the year despite efforts to find a tenant. The Tribunal held that where a property is capable of being let out, and there is no legal or physical impediment preventing letting, its annual value has to be determined under section 23(1)(a). Mere inability to secure a tenant throughout the year does not preclude assessment of notional rental income. (AY. 2018-19).

Bindumalyam Panduranga Allanharinarayan v. ITO (2025) 125 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 388 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 23: Income from house property-Annual value-Used for self-occupation-Partly let out-Entire issue was remanded back to the Assessing Officer for determining ALV, taking into consideration only that part of the building which was let out by the assessee.[S. 22]

Assessing Officer estimated the annual letting value (ALV) of the property at Rs. 1.79 crores and brought the same to tax, ignoring the contention of the assessee that the property was used partly for self-occupation and partly let out. Tribunal held that since the statement of the caretaker of the property clearly established the fact that the assessee was partly letting out the property and partly used for self-occupation, the entire issue was to be remanded to the Assessing Officer for determining ALV, taking into consideration only that part of the building which was let out by the assessee.(AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

Asha Burman. v. ACIT (2025) 215 ITD 612 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 23: Income from house property-Annual value-After expiry of lease, property remained vacant-Assessing Officer was to be directed to determine ALV of property based on municipal rateable value (MRV)[S. 22, 23(1) (c)]

The assessee owned a property which was leased out to a company. After expiry of the lease, the property remained vacant, and assessee claimed deduction of vacancy allowance under section 23(1)(c). Assessing Officer rejected the claim and determined the annual letting value (ALV) of the property on a notional basis. CIT A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that ALV should be determined based on municipal rateable value (MRV) and restored the matter to the Assessing Officer for determination of ALV as per guidelines laid down by the High Court in the case of CIT v. Tip Top Typography (2014) 228 Taxman 244 /368 ITR 330 (Bom)(HC). However, the Assessing Officer determined ALV relying upon the rent fixed in the earlier expired lease deed. Since the Assessing Officer had not made any enquiry to ascertain the MRV of property during the relevant assessment years and had determined ALV simply relying upon an earlier expired lease deed, the matter was to be restored back to the Assessing Officer for determining ALV of property strictly in terms of the guidelines framed by the High Court in Tip Top Typography (supra). Matter remanded. AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2017-18, 2018-19)

Hercules Hoists Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 61 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 23: Income from house property-Annual value-Taxes which are actually paid during the year are deductible-Matter remanded for verification-Leased property to a partner the Master Clock and Works Pvt Ltd (MB) at lower rent, claiming it was a bare shell-Fair rent comparison-Matter remanded for verification. [S. 22]

Against the rental income declared, assessee claimed a deduction on account of property tax. Said deduction was denied on the ground that possession of property was received in January 2012 and January 2013; however, the property tax claimed was from financial years 2010 to 2014. Tribunal held that during the financial year 2013-14, it paid property tax pertaining to the financial year 2012-13 and for the financial year 2013-14 in the year under consideration. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was directed to allow deduction as per the proviso to section 23 in respect of taxes actually paid by the assessee during the year under consideration, after necessary verification of details as may be submitted by the assessee. As regards the leased property to a partner Master Clock and Works Pvt Ltd (MB) at lower rent, claiming it was a bare shell, unlike furnished properties rented to others, but the Assessing Officer rejected this due to lack of evidence and applied higher comparable rent; the matter was remanded, holding that assessee must prove with documents that both properties were similar (bare shell) for fair rent comparison. (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 702 /237 TTJ 497 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 23: Income from house property-Annual value-Stock-in-trade-Notional rent has to be determined on vacant unsold flats held as stock-in-trade as 'Income from house property-No addition could be made to the assessment year before assessment year 2018-19 on such notional rent. [S. 22, 23(4)(b), 23(5)]

Assessee, a builder, had shown closing stock of unsold flats in a completed project. Assessing Officer made an addition on deemed rental income on vacant flats which were shown in the balance sheet and profit and loss account of assessee as closing stock of unsold flats as per section 23(4)(b). CIT(A) upheld said addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that as per decision of the jurisdictional High Court in case of CIT v. Ansal Housing Finance and Leasing Co. Ltd(2013) Taxman 143 / 354 ITR 180 (Delhi)(HC), notional rent had to be determined on vacant unsold flats held as stock-in-trade as 'Income from house property', however no addition could be made to assessment year prior to assessment year 2018-19 on such notional rent. High Court in CIT v. Tip Top Typography(2014) 228 taxman 244 / 368 ITR 330 (Bom) (HC) Court held that ALV under section 23(1)(a) has to be in accordance with municipal laws after duly considering inflated or deflated rent based on extraneous circumstances, if any, which in any case cannot exceed standard rent as per Rent Control Legislation applicable to said property. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was directed to determine notional rent in accordance with principles emphasized in the decision of Tip Top Typography (supra). (AY.2015-16)

Ramesh Dungarshi Shah. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 96 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 23 : Income from house property-Annual value-Property let in earlier period-Vacant for whole year-Annual value to be taken as Nil.[S. 22, 23(1)(a), 23(1)(c)]

Assessee, engaged in developing malls, had let out 253 units out of 261 units. For the remaining 8 units, no rent was shown as they remained vacant during the year. AO applied section 23(1)(a) and computed deemed rent. Tribunal held that since these units were let in earlier years and again let in subsequent years, the vacancy condition under section 23(1)(c) was satisfied. The intent of letting was established and annual value was rightly computed at Nil. (AY. 2016-17)

Classic Mall Development Company Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 302 (Mum)(Trib.),

S. 23 : Income from house property-Annual value-Office premises-ALV to be determined on municipal rentable value-Matter remanded. [S. 22]

The assessee owned an office premises. The AO computed deemed ALV based on market rates from a property website, rejecting the claim that it was used for business purposes by the assessee and her husband. The Tribunal held that ALV should be based on municipal rentable value, not market estimations. Since this was not considered by the AO, the issue was remanded for fresh determination. (AY. 2012-13)

Tejal Kaushal Shah (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 397 /236 TTJ 39 (UO) (Mum)(Trib.),

S. 23 : Income from house property-Annual value-let out residential properties to companies for commercial use-Entitled to claim deduction of mixed land use charges paid to MCD against rental income received from tenants. [S. 22]

Assessee had let out its residential properties to two companies for commercial use and offered rental income received from same for tax under head income from house property. Assessee claimed deduction of mixed use charges paid by it to MCD towards use of residential properties for commercial activities. Assessing Officer disallowed said claim. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. Tribunal held that assessee would be entitled for claim of deduction of mixed uses charges paid to MCD against rental income received from tenants. (AY. 2014-15)

Padam Chand Gupta. v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 498 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 24 : Income from house property-Deductions-Interest on borrowed capital-Building partly let out and partly used for business-Appportionment of interest on area basis-Deduction allowable.[S. 22]

The assessee apportioned the interest on borrowed funds utilised for construction of a building between the let-out area and the area used for its own business. The Tribunal held that the same method had consistently been accepted in earlier years and, there being no change in facts, the interest attributable to the let-out area was rightly allowed as deduction under section 24(b). (AY. 2015-16 & 2016-17).

Dy. CIT v. Piramal Estates (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 488 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 24 : Income from house property-Deductions-Interest deduction on loans taken for rental properties-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer for verification. [S. 22]

Held that since assessee before the lower authorities did not furnish any details regarding interest-bearing fund flow utilised for acquiring properties with supporting documents, in the larger interest of justice, the matter was remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for verification. (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 702/237 TTJ 497 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 26 : Income from house property-Co-owners-Association of persons-Maximum marginal rate-Tax rate applicable to individual Co-owners-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer.[S. 22, 143(1),167B]

Assessee is an Association of Persons (AOP) engaged in managing rental income from co-owned immovable property. Assessee filed its return of income which was processed by CPC raising demands due to classification of assessee as an AOP with indeterminate or unknown shares, leading to application of maximum marginal rate under section 167B. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal. On appeal the Tribunal held that since co-ownership agreement specified that rental income would be distributed among co-owners in specific and pre-determined proportions after meeting all tax and other liabilities, shares of co-owners were specific and ascertainable, thus, provisions of section 167B which apply when shares are indeterminate or unknown, were inapplicable. Accordingly the matter is remanded back to Assessing Officer for verification. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

Nam Group Aslali. v. Assessing Officer, CPC (2025) 211 ITD 369 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business income-Foreign exchange fluctuation gain- delay of 825 days- Delay was not satisfactorily explained-SLP of revenue dismissed. [Art. 136]

Assessing Officer made an addition to income of assessee on account of foreign exchange fluctuation gain. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted addition, holding it was not related to the business activity of assessee and the Tribunal upheld this factual finding. High Court upheld the order of the Tribunal. SLP of the revenue was dismissed as the delay of 825 days was not satisfactorily explained.

CIT v. Hazira LNG (P.) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 560 (SC)

Editorial : CIT v. Hazira LNG (P.) Ltd (2025) 175 Taxmann.com 536 (Guj)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Income from other sources-Fixed deposit interest- Short-term deposit for opening LC or other business purposes-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer-Order of High Court is affirmed.[S. 56, Art. 136]

High Court held that FDs maintained by assessee with a bank were not to meet any requirement of the bank for opening LC or any other business purpose, and therefore, interest income earned on FDs had to be treated as income from other sources. On SLP the order of High Court is set aside by remanding matter to Assessing Officer for consideration of the issue for relevant year by bearing in mind nature of the business of assessee and purpose for which short term fixed deposit accounts were opened by assessee in bank and nature of income and treatment of interest income as income from other sources or business income. (AY. 2009-10)

XL India Business Services (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 302 Taxman 11 (SC)

Editorial: XL India Business Services (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2018) 94 taxmann.com 720 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 28(i): Business income-Capital gains-Delay of 752 days-Not satisfactorily explained-SLP of Revenue is dismissed on account of limitation. [S. 45, Art. 136]

The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the SLP filed by the Department on ground of limitation against the impugned order of the High Court in circumstances where assessee-company, dealing in real estate, had booked two office premises in a building which were subsequently sold before taking possession since the office premises were acquired by assessee with an intention to resell and not use, same could be treated as stock in trade and not as investment and thus, surplus was assessable as business income and not as capital gain. SLP of Revenue is dismissed as delay of 752 days is not satisfactorily explained. (AY. 1989-90)

Radha Madhav Investments (P.) Ltd. v. Dy.CIT [2025] 302 Taxmann 358 (SC).

Editorial: Radha Madhav Investments (P.) Ltd v.Dy.CIT (2022) 143 taxmann.com 421 (Bom)(HC)

S. 28(i): Business income-Capital or revenue-Subsidy-Exemption from sales tax granted by State Government-Assessable as revenue receipt.[S. 4, The U.P. Trade tax Act, 1948, S. 4A, 8A(2) 29A]]

Held that from a bare perusal of sections 4A, 8A(2) and 29A of the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948, it was evident that the exemption from trade tax on turnover of sales was allowable to a class of entrepreneurs to encourage industrialisation. Sales tax, being an indirect tax, is ultimately passed on to the consumer. Once turnover of sales had been exempted, trade tax under the scheme of the 1948 Act, could neither be realised by the sellers nor could it be retained. There was no provision under the 1948 Act that empowered the assessee to withhold the amount of tax recovered, or that empowered the assessee to collect tax on exempted sales and to retain it as a subsidy. Once the amount had been received as the sale price, no part of it could be termed a capital receipt. Followed: Amrit Banaspati Co. Ltd. v. State of Punjab, (1992) 85 STC 493 (SC), (1992) 2 SCC 411. (AY.2001-02 to 2005-06)

CIT v. Birla Corporation Ltd [2024] 159 taxmann.com 632 / (2025) 483 ITR 554 (Cal)(HC)

S. 28(i): Business income-Income from other sources-Interest income on a loan given to staff-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S. 56, 260A]

Assessee-company was engaged in the business of distribution of electricity. For the relevant year, assessee filed its return declaring certain taxable income. Assessing Officer treated interest income earned by assessee on loan given to its staff and advances, fixed deposit etc. as well as income from miscellaneous receipts such as excess stock found on physical verification, sale of tender forms, registration fees from suppliers and contractors, rebate for prompt payment by purchaser of power etc. as 'income from other sources' instead of 'income from business and profession' on ground that income was not generated from day-to-day business of assessee-company. Commissioner (Appeals) partly allowed appeal of the assessee, treating interest income from staff loans and advances as 'income from other sources' but held that miscellaneous receipts were business income. Tribunal set aside the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) and remanded the matter back to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Paschim Gujarat Vij Company Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 572 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Income from house property-Lease of property-Business of purchasing and renting properties-No other source of income-Income derived from letting out properties

assessable under head 'income from profits and gains of business', and not as income from house property. [S. 22, 23, 56 (2)(iii)]

Assessee-company was engaged in business of purchasing and renting properties. It had no other source of income. Assessing Officer passed an assessment order whereby Assessing Officer calculated annual value of property on basis of gross rent instead of actual rent issued by assessee as shown in its returns under head Income from house property Tribunal held that income of assessee fell under head 'income from house property' and not income from business. The order of the Assessing Officer was affirmed by the Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that since income of assessee was derived from letting out of properties, which in fact, was principal business of assessee, assessee was correct in accounting such income under head income from profits and gains of business, and not as income from house property. (AY. 1989-90 to 1992-93, 1995-96, 2005-06 to 2008-09)

National Leasing Ltd. v. ACIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 39 / (2025) 481 ITR 432 (Bom)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Income from house property-Rental income from properties-Income assessable as business income and not as income from house property-Order of Tribunal was set aside [S. 22, 260A]

Buildings were handed over to the company in a finished mode, advances were received from prospective purchasers but sales did not fructify for want of full consideration. The assessee held the buildings as stock-in-trade for more than 20 years and let them out on rent, the only business being of leasing buildings. The AO presumed that no prudent person would wait so long and hence held that the rental income earned by assessee was income from house property and not income from business, but the appellate authority found rental receipts to be business income. On appeal the Tribunal restored the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the

Tribunal's view was reversed and income rightly held assessable as business income. (AY. 2002-03 to 2007-08)

H.R. Properties (P) Ltd v. ACIT (2024) 167 taxmann.com 256 / (2025) 343 CTR 610 (Pat)(HC)

Chero Medico & Developers (P) Ltd v. ACIT (2024) 167 taxmann.com 256 / (2025) 343 CTR 610 (Pat)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Income from house property-Business of purchase and renting properties-Rule of consistency is followed-Order of Tribunal assessing the rental income as income from house property is set aside.[S. 22, 260A]

Assessee is engaged in the business of purchasing and renting properties. It had no other source of income. The Assessing Officer assessed the income as income from house property as against the income shown as business income. Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that since the income of assessee was derived from letting out of properties, which, in fact, was the principal business of the assessee, the assessee is correct in accounting such income under the head income from profits and gains of business, and not as income from house property. Order of the Tribunal is set aside. (AY. 1989-90 to 1992-93 & 1995-96 to 2008-09)

National Leasing Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 302 Taxman 43 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Income from house property-Income from sublicensing of property-Assessable as business income.[S. 22]

Held that the object of the assessee-company and its activity is the business of renting, licencing, sub-licencing shops, etc. and it derived income mainly from the aforesaid business activity, therefore, the income from sub-licencing derived by the assessee is business income and not income from house property, more so when it has been accepted as business income for so many years. (AY. 2005-06)

Obero Building & Investment (P) Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 342 CTR 343 / (2024) 244 DTR 198 (Cal)(HC)

S. 28(i): Business income-Rental income-Maintenance charges received under separate arrangement-Taxable as business income and not as income from house property. [S. 2(13, 22 44AD]

The assessee received rent and maintenance charges under a lease arrangement. The maintenance charges related to facility management services such as housekeeping, security, lifts, power supply, CCTV and other amenities. The Tribunal held that these services were distinct from mere letting of property and could have been independently rendered by a third party. Accordingly, the maintenance charges were assessable as business income under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and not as income from house property. (AY. 2018-19).

Bindumalyam Panduranga Allanharinarayan v. ITO (2025) 125 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 388 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Income from house property-Service centre operations-Commercial exploitation with various amenities-Assessable as business income.[S. 22]

The assessee operated a fully equipped service centre providing central air-conditioning, furniture, housekeeping, conference facilities and other commercial amenities. Following the decisions in the assessee's own case for earlier years, the Tribunal held that the activity constituted an independent commercial business venture and the income was assessable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and not under the head "Income from house property". (AY. 2015-16 & 2016-17).

Dy. CIT v. Piramal Estates (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 488 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 28 (1) : Business income-Duty drawback-Taxable in year of actual receipt-Matter remanded to avoid double taxation.

The assessee contended that the duty drawback had been offered to tax in the year of actual receipt and that the addition in the year under consideration would result in double taxation. The Tribunal restored the issue to the Assessing Officer to verify the assessee's claim and ensure that the same amount was not subjected to tax twice. (AY. 2018-19).

MAN Energy Solutions India P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 149 taxmann.com 347 / (2025) 129 ITR 562 (Pune)(Trib.)

S.28(i): Business income-Income from house property-Income from renting out house properties to tourists and pilgrims on a day-to-day basis-Assessable as business income-Depreciation is allowable. [S. 22, 24(a), 32(1(ii))]

Held that the activity of renting out house properties to tourists and pilgrims on a day-to-day basis, along with certain facilities carried on by the assessee is an organised activity of a composite nature and therefore, the income from renting of said properties has to be treated as business income and consequently deduction under s. 24(a) is not allowable; however, the assessee must be allowed depreciation on WDV on these buildings. (AY.2018-19)

Rajesh Kumar Jaiswal v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 833 / 174 taxmann.com 276 (All) (Trib)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Application fees, front-end fees and processing fees-Recognition on realization basis-Addition on an accrual basis was deleted.[S. 4, 5, 145]

Assessee recognised application fees, front-end fees, administrative fees and processing fees on realization basis, whereas Assessing Officer taxed the same on an accrual basis. Issue was covered in favour of assessee by earlier decisions of the Tribunal and the jurisdictional High Court, Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v ACIT (2020) 421 ITR

599(Bom)(HC). Therefore, additions made by recognising such fees on an accrual basis were deleted. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business income-Income from house property-Leave and licence-Infrastructural facilities-Taxable as business income-Common area maintenance-Taxable as income from house property.[S. 22]

Held that infrastructural facilities are taxable as business income and the amount received for common area maintenance services is taxable as income from house property. (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises v.Dy.CIT (2025) 237 TTJ 497 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 28(i): Business income-Estimation of income-Deferred revenue expenditure, not income [S. 4, 145]

The assessee, a SPV, was formed for a BOT project in Kerala under a concession agreement with NHAI. The assessee declared NIL income and did not report any revenue since toll collection had not commenced (began in March 2022). The AO estimated income at 8% of gross receipts on account of absence of books of accounts and variation in receipts between Form 26AS and P&L. CIT(A) referred to CBDT Circular No. 09/2014 clarifying BOT infrastructure costs are deferred revenue expenditure, amortized over the toll period and held that the amount was construction cost, not income. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On Revenue's appeal, ITAT upheld CIT(A)'s order and confirmed no income arises before toll operations begin. Thus, the ITAT dismissed Revenue's appeal. Relied on CBDT Circular No. 09/2014, dated 23.04.2014.(AY. 2017-18,2018-19)

ITO v. Thrissur Expressway Ltd. (2025) 234 TTJ 676 (Hyd)(Trib)

S.28(i) : Business income-Accrual-Real income theory-Royalty-Mere deduction of TDS does not conclusively establish accrual of royalty income where ultimate collection is uncertain-Revenue recognition can be postponed under AS-9 where collectability is doubtful-Addition of royalty as undisclosed professional income deleted-However, amount of TDS claimed as credit deemed as income under section 198 and taxable-Relief restricted to royalty amount minus TDS claimed.[S. 5, 145, 198, 199, R. 37BA]

Delhi Tribunal held that where royalty receivable from sub-licensee was not recognised in the relevant year because there was no reasonable certainty of collection, and the amount ultimately remained unrealised and was later written off, such royalty could not be taxed merely because the payer had deducted tax at source and reflected it in Form 26AS. Applying the real income theory and AS-9 on revenue recognition, the Tribunal held that income which did not materialise and whose collectability was uncertain could not be brought to tax on hypothetical accrual. The fact that the assessee subsequently recognised the income in the next year, raised invoice, created provision and ultimately wrote off the receivable showed at best a timing difference, and TDS deduction by payer did not ipso facto crystallise income in the assessee's hands. Accordingly, the addition of Rs. 79,81,999 made as undisclosed professional income was deleted. However, since the assessee had claimed TDS credit of Rs. 7,98,200, the Tribunal held that by virtue of section 198, tax deducted at source is deemed income received for computing total income and there is no prescribed mechanism to simply withdraw the TDS claim; hence only Rs. 7,98,200 was to be taxed, granting net relief of Rs. 71,83,799. Appeal partly allowed. (A.Y 2012-13). Weir Mineral (India) Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 175 taxmann.com 407 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 28(i): Business income-Foreign Exchange fluctuations-Loan given to overseas party-Mark-to-market gain on loans given to an overseas party due to year-end foreign exchange reinstatement-loans were not on revenue account-Addition was deleted. [S. 45]

Assessee earned a mark-to-market gain on loans given to an overseas party due to foreign exchange fluctuation on year-end reinstatement, which the Assessing Officer treated as taxable income. CIT (A) affirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since loans were not on revenue account and foreign exchange fluctuation gain, in instant case, was only due to reinstatement of accounts at end of year by considering year-end rate of exchange, no question arises for considering said gain as income of assessee for year under consideration and accordingly, addition was to be deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Shapoorji Pallonji Energy (Gujarat) (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 297 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business income-Export of services-Not liable to pay GST/IGST on services exported out of India-Refund of IGST could not be treated as income of assessee.[S. 43B, Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, S.54]

Assessee was engaged in the business of exporting services. At the time of export of service, IGST was paid in advance, which was later refunded after filing the necessary documents evidencing export of services that were exempt from IGST. Assessee filed nil return. Assessing Officer made an addition on account of the refund of IGST as reported in the tax audit report in clause 16(b) of Form 3CD. CIT(A) held that the treatment given by the assessee by not claiming any expenditure in IGST was an attempt to avoid disallowance under section 43B and hence affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee was not liable to pay GST/IGST on services exported out of India and there was no such liability of the assessee to deposit GST/IGST; however, in terms of the provisions of the GST Act, advance IGST was to be deposited before exports, which was refunded at a later stage. Tribunal held that it was not an expenditure for which the provision of section 43B could be applied. The addition made on account of the refund of IGST was deleted. (AY. 2021-22)

Ecoenergy Insights Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 381 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business income-Call centre facilities-Business of providing call centre facilities and leasing out premises-Assessable as business income and not as income from house property-Maintenance charges received by assessee, owner of a property, from tenants for undertaking maintenance of common areas of property were to be assessed as income from business and profession. [S. 22]

Held that assessee-firm was engaged in the business of providing call centre facilities and leasing out premises, and it declared income from leasing out premises under the head 'Income from House Property' and income earned for providing functional infrastructure and other facilities to tenants under head 'Income from Business'. Tribunal held that since assessee's business activity was to render services to its tenants through various facilities, income earned from providing such facilities was taxable under the head 'Income from Business'. Tribunal also held that maintenance charges received by assessee-firm, owner of a property, from tenants for undertaking maintenance of common areas of property were to be assessed as income from business and profession (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 702 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 28(i) : Business income-Power generation-Interest income-Loans and advances to employees-interest income earned from loans and advances provided to employees is incidental to business of power generation and qualified as business income and not as income from other sources.[S. 56]

Assessee engaged in business of power generation, earned interest income from loans and advances provided to its employees-. Assessing Officer classified said interest income as income from other sources. CIT(A) allowed the claim of assessee as business income. on appeal the Tribunal held that loans and advances were provided solely to employees to ensure their welfare, retention and operational efficiency, which were critical in power sector and, thus, interest income earned from loans and advances provided to employees is incidental to business of power generation and qualified as business income. (AY. 2012-13, 2016-17)

DCIT v. Gujarat State Electricity Corporation Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 405 (Ahd) (Trib.),

S. 28(i) : Business income-Joint development agreement-Transfer of capital asset into stock-in-trade-Capital gains-Double taxation-Taxable in the year 2012-13.[S. 45(2)]

Assessee, engaged in property development, had filed its return of income declaring a business loss. Pursuant to a search conducted in case of a Trust, revealing a Joint Development Agreement (JDA) between assessee and Prestige Estate, Assessing Officer had made substantial additions, including Rs. 325.32 crores as business income, Rs. 84.92 crores as short-term capital gains, Rs. 71.90 crores as long-term capital gains. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that issue of capital gains arising from transfer of capital assets into stock-in-trade for JDA, as well as business income, had already attained finality through Tribunal's order in first round of litigation holding that income from JDA would be taxable only from assessment year 2012-13 since sale deeds had commenced that year and taxing same in assessment year 2011-12 would result in double taxation. Order of CIT (A) is affirmed. (AY. 2011-12)

DCIT v. Chaitanya Properties (P.) Ltd. (2025) 212 ITD 150 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business loss-Penny Stock-Bogus purchases-Genuineness of Transactions-Concurrent findings of fact-Delay of 325 days-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay and merits due to low tax effect-Question of law kept open. [Art. 136]

High Court held that the assessee did not sell the entire shareholding and continued to hold a portion of the shares in subsequent years, which militated against the allegation of a colourable device. In view of the concurrent findings of fact by the CIT (A) and the Tribunal in favour of the assessee, the Court held that no substantial question of law arose for consideration. SLP of revenue dismissed on account of a delay of 325 days and merits due to low tax effect. Question of law kept open (AY. 2015-16)

PCIT (Central) v. Affluence Commodities (P.) Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 351 (SC)

Editorial: PCIT v. Affluence Commodities (P.) Ltd. (2024) 161 taxmann.com 476 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Derivatives arising from future option-set-off of this loss against profit earned from sale of a land along with development rights-Controversy settled under Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Scheme, 2024-SLP dismissed as infructuous. [Art. 136]

Assessee claimed loss on derivatives arising from future option. It further claimed set-off of this loss against profit earned from sale of a land along with development rights. Assessing Officer held that transactions were not bona fide commercial transactions but were sham leading to bogus loss. Accordingly, he disallowed entire amount claimed as loss as well as set-off of same against profit earned from sale of loss. Tribunal reversed Assessing Officer's finding and allowed assessee's claim by observing that Assessing Officer did not doubt genuineness of transactions carried out by assessee which resulted in loss. High Court held that order of Tribunal was perverse as there was absolutely no case made by assessee for deleting addition and therefore, said order of Tribunal was to be set aside and order of Assessing Officer was to be restored. Apex Court held that since controversy between assessee and revenue no longer survived in view of settlement of dues under Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Scheme, 2024, SLP filed by assessee against order of High Court had been rendered infructuous. (AY. 2007-08)

PKS Holdings v. PCIT (2025) 305 Taxman 253 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. PKS Holdings (2022) 145 taxmann.com 195 (Cal)(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Capital loss-Foreign exchange fluctuation loss-Allowable as business loss.[S.37(1), 260A]

Held that the Tribunal had rightly affirmed the order passed by the Commissioner (Appeals). It was not in dispute that the assessee was a non-banking financial company and had suffered a loss on account of foreign exchange fluctuation on receipt of repayment of a loan to a foreign company. The Tribunal was justified in holding that the loss due to foreign exchange fluctuation was a revenue loss and not a capital loss as held by the Assessing Officer. (AY.2004-05)

PCIT v. Avantha Realty Ltd (2025) 482 ITR 599 (Cal)(HC)

S.28(i): Business loss-Penny stocks-Bogus purchases-Genuineness of transactions are proved-No control over on share prices-Losses are deleted. and moreover assessee had no control whatsoever on share prices-No substantial question of law.[S. 260A]

Assessee is engaged in trading penny stocks, specifically shares of Alang Industrial Gases Ltd (AIGL) and Kappac Pharma Ltd (KPL). AO disallowed the loss. On appeal the CIT(A) and Tribunal allowed the loss on the ground that the assessee had no control over share prices and had genuinely incurred losses, particularly with AIGL shares where only a portion were sold, and rest were held into subsequent assessment year. Regarding shares of KPL, Tribunal reasoned that market rate being lower, justified business loss, even though shares were not sold. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2015-16)

PCIT(Central) v. Affluence Commodities (P.) Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 252 /161 taxmann.com 476 (Guj(HC)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Foreseeable losses-Construction Contracts-Percentage of competition method-loss can be claimed in the manner provided under Accounting Standard 7 'Construction Contract'-For quantification of loss, the ITAT directed the AO to quantify the claim and allow it in accordance with the law. [S.37(1), AS 7]

The Assessee claimed a sum of Rs.4,22,02,468/-on account of foreseeable losses. The AO asked to justify the claim of such losses. In response, the Assessee submitted that is engaged in the business of construction activity. It has executed projects at various places. In some of the contracts, the total cost exceeds the contract value of the project. Thus, the transaction resulted into losses. The Assessee relied upon the Accounting Standard (AS) 7 for construction contracts prescribed by ICAI and stated that the said unforeseen loss is allowable. The Assessee has been allowed such losses in its own case for the earlier assessment years. The AO held that provision for foreseeable losses is not an expenditure incurred in the year under consideration. Therefore, though it may be required to be provided as per AS 7, the same is not allowable under the Act. On appeal, the CIT(A) upheld the action of the AO. On appeal the ITAT held that the foreseeable loss is a claim under section 28 and not under section 37(1). It is determined by looking at total revenue generated, less cost of expenses to be incurred for the contract if there is a profit same is not recognized but if there is a loss, same is recognized as loss in the books as per principle of "prudence" in accounting. It is same method where the closing stock is valued at cost or market value whichever is less. When market value is higher than the actual cost, such profit is ignored and when market value is less than actual cost such losses are recognized immediately in the books.. The prudence principle deviates from conventional accounting as it provides for all possible losses, but does not anticipate profits. It is allowable under section 28 itself. In this case, the Assessee has not claimed the expenditure under section 37(1). ITAT observed that determination of profit based on the accounting standard where there is no contrary provision in the Income Tax Act, is required to be accepted, as accounting standards are based on sound principles of Accounting and determine real income. The ITAT, therefore, held that the Assessee is entitled to the expected loss provided in the manner explained by the Accounting Standard 7 'Construction Contracts' Issued by ICAI. However, for quantification of loss, the ITAT directed the AO to quantify the claim and allow it in accordance with the law. [AY. 2017-18]

CIT (Dy.) v. ITD Cementation India Ltd. (2025) 131 ITR 53 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business loss-Assessee a share trader and investor-Losses from share transactions including listed securities-Assessing Officer disallowing claim treating shares as penny stocks-Assessee transacting huge volumes of shares-Addition made on basis of preconceived idea after general investigation of investigating authority-Order set aside and addition quashed. [S. 45, 69]

The assessee, a share trader and investor, incurred loss from transactions in different shares on the stock exchange. The AO treated the shares as penny-stocks and added back the loss amount to the total income of the assessee, which addition was upheld by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had duly submitted the relevant documents relating to the share trading loss before the Revenue authorities as well as before the Tribunal, and there was no question raised about the veracity of these documents. Since it was a case of loss, there was no question of any peak increase in share value. The assessee had suffered losses in a number of shares and had transacted a huge volume of shares during the year. The entire addition was made on the basis of a preconceived idea generated after a general investigation by the investigating authority, without independent verification qua the assessee. Accordingly, the addition of Rs. 2,27,75,453 was set aside and quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

Vicky Fincon P. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 18(Kol) (Trib.)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Business expenditure-Irrecoverable advances written off-Claim allowable as business loss.[S. 37(1)]

The assessee wrote off irrecoverable advances made towards rent, telecommunication and other business expenses. The Tribunal held that the amounts represented business losses incurred in the course of business and were allowable as a deduction under section 37(1). (AY. 2014-15).

Birlasoft Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 63 / 173 taxmann.com 634 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Loss on sale of shares-Addition based solely on Investigation Wing report-Documentary evidence supporting transactions-Disallowance deleted.

The Assessing Officer disallowed the assessee's loss on sale of shares solely on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing without conducting any independent enquiry. The assessee produced contract notes, demat statements, broker's ledger accounts and bank statements establishing the genuineness of the transactions. The Tribunal held that the investigation report neither referred to the assessee nor to its broker and no opportunity of cross-verification had been granted. In the absence of any contrary evidence, the disallowance was rightly deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Asst. CIT v. Kunvarji Finance (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 609 / 176 taxmann.com 553 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 28(i): Business loss-Overstated bank balance written off-Allowable as business loss.

Held that the overstated bank balance appearing in its books of accounts was written off in the books of account. Allowable as business loss. (AY. 2017-18)

Bangalore Electricity Supply Co. Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 58 /121 ITR 595 / 174 taxmann.com 100 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Fixed deposits held by the assessee-bank with another bank written off-Allowable as business loss.

Fixed deposits held by the assessee-bank with another bank MNCB in the course of its business, formed part of its stock-in-trade and, therefore, the loss incurred by the assessee as a result of write off of said deposits is a business loss occurring in the course of assessee's banking business and not a capital loss. Allowable as business loss. (AY-2013-14 & 2014-15)

Surat National Co-Operative Bank Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 529 / (Surat)(Trib)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Converted a part of loan into equity shares-Exchange of one asset to another asset-loss incurred on conversion of such loan into equity shares is allowed as business loss. [S. 36(1)(vii)]

Assessee, a non-resident banking company, was engaged in wholesale lending to its corporate customers. During year, pursuant to a scheme of Corporate Debt Restructuring (CDR), a part of loan was converted into equity shares of a company. Company issued shares to assessee on preferential basis fully converting loan into equity shares. However, when shares were credited into assessee's D-Mat account, market value was lower than price of shares at which shares were issued to assessee, thereby incurring loss which was claimed as loss on account of bad debt under section 36(1)(vii). Assessing Officer denied claim of loss on conversion of debt. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had assets (being loan outstanding) and assessee was assigned assets (market value of which was price of shares on NSE on date of credit in D-Mat account). The assets were exchanged for another asset and, hence, loss incurred was nothing but a business loss. Therefore, loss incurred on conversion of loan into equity shares was to be allowed. (AY. 2015-16)

DBS Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025)210 ITD 448(Mum)(Trib.)

S. 28(i) : Business loss-Disposal of non-banking assets-Loss towards write off of discrepant notes and cash backs offered to credit card customers-Allowable as business loss. [S. 37(1)]

Assessee claimed business loss on account of disposal of non-banking assets, loss towards write off of discrepant notes and cash backs offered to credit card customers. Assessing Officer held that assessee had not furnished any supporting documentary evidence and accordingly disallowed claim of loss. CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that loss claimed on sale of assets was in ordinary course of business. It was also not in dispute that discrepant notes not accepted by RBI had to be written off as business loss. Similarly, offers made to credit card customers could not be said to be for non-business purposes. Order of the CIT(A) is affirmed.

(AY. 2006-07)

DCIT v. ICICI Bank Ltd. (2025)210 ITD 643 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 28(iv) : Business income-Value of any benefit or perquisites-Converted into money or not-Share application money-Shares issued after some years-Capital receipt-Not taxable as business income.[S.4]

Held that share application money from its existing shareholders in earlier years and ultimately issued and allotted the shares to the respective investors in a later year, it has to be accepted that the receipt of share application money is a capital receipt in the hands of the assessee and, therefore, the same is not liable to be taxed under the provisions of s. 28(iv).(AY. 2017-18)

ACIT v. Dewanchand Ramsaran Industries (P) LTD. (2025) 236 TTJ 205 / 173 taxmann.com 743 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 28(iv): Business income-Value of any benefit or perquisites-Converted into money or not-Shares received on a loan basis-

Neither the existence of any written agreement itself is determinative of the character of the transaction per se, nor absence thereof prevents the AO from assessing the circumstantial and surrounding circumstances to arrive at a lawful conclusion-No benefit can be said to have accrued to the assessee-The liability towards repayment of such loan transactions continues to exist during the year-Tere is no remission or cessation of any liability towards lender-Book profit-Books of account not rejected-Addition deleted-Addition is not sustainable. [S. 41(1), 115JB, 131, 133A]

Tribunal held that the assessee has produced evidence viz., entries in the books, declaration made in delivery instruction slips at the time of transfer of shares, statement of its director, unequivocal stand taken by GIDPL in the meeting of directors, etc. to substantiate its claim that the shares were received by the assessee from GIDPL as loan and there is nothing on record to arrive at a conclusion that GIDPL has waived its right in any manner to recover shares or equivalent value thereof from the assessee, there is no benefit chargeable to tax under s. 28(iv) in the hands of the assessee and S. 41(1) was also not attracted. Tribunal also held that the Assessing Officer had not rejected the books of account and addition was also deleted; hence, the adjustment to book profit was deleted. (AY. 2019-20)

Narayan Securities Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 339/ 174 taxmann.com 217 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 28(iv): Business income-Value of any benefit or perquisites-Converted into money or not-Hospitality business-Unsecured loans-Shell companies-No evidential proof or investigation established loans as sham and lender companies were active, registered and not identified as shell companies-Addition was not justified.

Assessee, engaged in the business of hotels, restaurants and hospitality services, had taken unsecured loans from five companies. Assessing Officer held that these lenders were Jama-Kharchi/bogus companies and doubted the genuineness of transactions and treated them as benefits or perquisites. Accordingly, he made an addition of Rs. 10,75,05,000 under section 28(iv). CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer failed to bring any evidential proof to conclude that such loans were bogus and no investigation had been carried out on the credentials of lenders. Further, lenders' company status was active on the Ministry of Corporate Affairs website; they were registered with the Registrar of Companies, Delhi, and their names did not appear in the list of apparent shell companies prepared by the Investigation Wing, Kolkata. Accordingly, the order of the CIT(A) deleting the additions were affirmed. (AY. 2018-19)

DCIT v. Hotel Surbhi Palace India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 214 ITD 697 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 28(iv) : Business income-Value of any benefit or perquisites-Converted in to money or not-No benefit or perquisite is chargeable to tax under section 28(iv) for assets received from AEs on a returnable basis-Independent personal services-Training expenses paid to non-resident fell under Article 14 of the DTAA and not subject to TDS-DTAA-India-Singapore. [S.92C, Art. 14]

The assessee received certain assets free of cost from its overseas AEs on a returnable basis. These were testing equipment/prototypes provided to ensure software development services met required parameters. Assets were either returned to AEs or destroyed after completion of projects. The assessee had an Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) that already considered depreciation on these assets in the cost base for determining transfer pricing. Training services couldn't be classified as technical, managerial or consultancy services. These services fell under Article 14 (Independent Personal Services) of India-Singapore DTAA and hence not taxable. Followed, Tesco Bengaluru (P) Ltd. (ITA No. 2387/Bang/2019, dt. 4th Aug., 2022), CIT v. Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. (2018) 302 CTR (SC) 213 : (2018) 165 DTR (SC) 337 distinguished. (AY. 2017-18)

ACIT v. Sony India Software Centre (P) Ltd. (2025) 233 TTJ 249/170 taxmann.com 309 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 28(iv) : Business income-Value of any benefit or perquisites-Converted in to money or not-Acquisition of shares at face value when other paid premium-A capital transaction-Outside the purview of S. 28(iv).[S. 56(2)(x)]

Shares were allotted to a director at face value when another investor paid a premium. Tax authorities reopened the assessment and added difference as income under section 28(iv). Upon appeal to ITAT, it was held that, for section 28(iv) to apply, the benefit must arise from business or profession. The share acquisition was an investment transaction (capital field), not a business transaction (revenue field). Section 28(iv) only applies to benefits in the revenue field. Prior to the insertion of Section 56(2)(x) by the Finance Act, 2017 (effective April 1, 2017), there was no provision to tax property received without consideration or for less than fair market value. Hence, the said transaction was not taxable under 56(2)(x) either since it occurred before the amendment. (AY. 2008-09)

Dy CIT v. Prakash Nimmagadda [2024] 169 taxmann.com 455 / (2025) 233 TTJ 812 (Hyd) (Trib)

S. 28(v): Business income-Partner-Interest, salary, bonus, remuneration-Chartered accountant-Depreciation-Business expenditure-Any expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for earning such income, including depreciation, is allowable under sections 32 and 37 [S. 32, 37(1)]

Assessee-partner, a chartered accountant, received remuneration from a partnership firm and claimed business-related expenses against such salary; such remuneration is to be treated as business income under section 28(v). Tribunal held that any expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for earning such income, including depreciation, is allowable under sections 32 and 37, especially when consistently allowed in past years. (AY. 2018-19)

Atul Kumar Gupta. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 472 (SMC) (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 28(va) : Business income-Cash or kind-Under an agreement-Non-compete fee-Negative covenant-Capital receipt-Amendment taxing such receipt prospective-Not taxable.[S. 4]

The assessee received a non-compete fee under an agreement restraining it from carrying on a specified business activity. The Tribunal held that the receipt arose under a restrictive negative covenant and was a capital receipt. Since section 28(va), brought into force with effect from 1 April 2003, was prospective in operation, the receipt relating to the assessment year under consideration could not be taxed as business income. (AY. 1999-2000).

HDFC Bank Ltd. (Successor to Housing Development Finance Corporation Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 629 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Building-Building structure had been standing for 20 years and it was renovated and beautified for use as a conference hall-Only 10 per cent depreciation is allowable-Not a temporary structure-Delay of 344 days in filing SLP-Delay is not condoned. [Art. 136]

Assessee claimed 50 per cent depreciation on building claiming it to be a temporary structure. Assessing Officer accepted. The assessment was reopened. Assessing Officer found that structure had been standing for 20 years and it was renovated and beautified for use as a conference hall hence limited claim of depreciation to 10 per cent as against returned claim of 50 per cent. On writ High Court dismissed the petition and held that since appendix 1 provides for only 10 per cent depreciation for buildings other than used for residential purpose and not covered by sub items 1 and 3, assessee was not entitled to obtain 50 per cent depreciation. Order of the Assessing Officer is affirmed. SLP of Revenue is dismissed as the assessee could not explain the delay of 344 days in filing the SLP. (AY. 2011-12)

Bihar Police Building Construction Corporation (P.) Ltd. v. Pr. CCIT (2025) 302 Taxman 2 (SC)

Editorial : Bihar Police Building Construction Corporation (P.) Ltd. v. Pr. CCIT (2024) 168 taxmann.com 258 (Patna)(HC)

S. 32: Depreciation-Intangible assets-Business and commercial brand equity are goodwill-Depreciation allowable. [S. 260A]

Held that intangible assets like business and commercial brand equity are goodwill on which depreciation is allowable. (AY. 2007-08, 2009-10)

CIT v. Grindwell Norton Ltd (2025) 483 ITR 651 (Bom)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Additional depreciation-Unit was a separate undertaking-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S. 260A]

Held that the Tribunal was justified in confirming the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) holding that the assessee was entitled to additional depreciation under section 32, on the ground that the Nigahi project of the assessee was a separate industrial undertaking engaged in production of an article or thing, i.e., coal and such production during the relevant years had increased by more than 20 per cent. and therefore, the assessee was entitled to additional depreciation.

CIT v. Northern Coal Fields Ltd. (2025) 482 ITR 659/ 173 taxmann.com 69 (MP) (HC)

Northern Coal Fields Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 482 ITR 659/ 173 taxmann.com 69 (MP) (HC),

S. 32: Depreciation-lease of plot-Long-term lease of 99 years-Plot deposit-Depreciation not allowable[S.32(1)(ii), 260A]

Assessee entered into a lease deed with SIPCOT, a State Government undertaking, towards the lease of a plot in an industrial park promoted by it. As per the lease deed, a plot was allotted to assessee on a long-term lease of 99 years. Assessee paid a certain amount towards plot deposit and also a sum towards development charges. Assessee claimed depreciation on the amount paid towards development charges. Assessing Officer disallowed the claim, holding that the amount paid to SIPCOT was only for the purpose of land development and rights obtained by assessee were only towards land and, therefore, the claim of depreciation was not allowable on building. Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Court held that since the assessee had only a long-term leasehold right over infrastructural facilities and was not an owner either wholly or partly, the claim of depreciation was rightly disallowed. As regards development charges, the court held that development facilitated the running of business, which was an essential requirement without which business could not be operated; hence, the contribution made by the assessee was eligible to be treated as a revenue expenditure. (AY. 2006-07 to 2014-15)

Hinduja Foundries Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 307 Taxman 336 /(2026) 486 ITR 117 (Mad.)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Assets discarded-Entitle to depreciation-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that the assessee would be entitled to depreciation on assets which were discarded during the year and were no longer in the assessee's ownership, in view of the decision of the High Court in CIT v. Ansal Properties & Infrastructure Ltd. [2012] 207 Taxman 61 (Delhi)(HC). (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Sony India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 173 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Dumpers-Put to use for 180 days-Failure to produce evidence-Not entitle for full depreciation-Order of Tribunal set aside. [S. 254(1)]

Assessee claimed 25 per cent depreciation on dumpers purchased by it, since assessee had not produced any evidence to establish that dumpers had been received in its premises and put to use prior to 1-10-1995, assessee was not entitled for full depreciation on dumpers in assessment year 1996-97. Order of Tribunal set aside. (AY. 1996-97)

CIT v. Ramco Cements Ltd. [2025] 481 ITR 705 / 173 taxmann.com 226 (Mad)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Unabsorbed depreciation from assessment year 1999-2000 could be set off against long term capital gains for assessment year 2002-03-Matter remanded.[S. 32(2), 72, 154, 260A]

Assessee-company, engaged in business of spinning of yarn and manufacture of knitted hosiery garments etc., had sold a parcel of land. Assessee offered income from sale of land as taxable income and claimed to set off unabsorbed depreciation that had remained unutilized from assessment year 1999-2000 against tax liability from aforesaid capital gains under section 32 read with section 72 Assessing Officer accepted claim of assessee. However, appellate authority disallowed claim for set off unabsorbed depreciation from assessment year 1999-2000 against capital gains in assessment year 2002-03. Tribunal upheld order of appellate authority. On appeal the Court held that unabsorbed depreciation could be set off against profit and gains from business or any profession carried on by an assessee which is assessable for that assessment year and if same is not feasible against any other income from that assessment year. Therefore, unabsorbed depreciation from assessment year 1999-2000 could be set off against long term capital gains for assessment year 2002-03. Matter remanded. (AY. 2002-03)

Prime Urban Development India Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 305 Taxman 58 /(2026) 484 ITR 290 (Mad)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Written-down value-Block of assets-Amalgamation-Approval of Central Government under S. 72A not required where assessee is not claiming carry forward of unabsorbed depreciation but only adopting correct WDV of amalgamating company's assets. [S. 2(11), 32(2), 43(6), 72A]

The assessee, being the amalgamated company, claimed depreciation by adopting the correct written down value of the block of assets vested pursuant to amalgamation. The Tribunal denied the claim holding that without Central Government approval under S. 72A, adjustment of WDV and depreciation could not be allowed. The High Court held that S. 72A applies only where the assessee seeks carry forward and set off of accumulated loss and unabsorbed depreciation of the amalgamating company, which was not the case here. Since the assessee only sought adoption of correct WDV under S. 43(6), the Tribunal erred in insisting on approval under S. 72A. The CIT(A) was justified in holding that unabsorbed depreciation of amalgamating companies should be added to the WDV of the block of assets of the amalgamated company for allowing depreciation..(AY. 1992-93)

Technova Imaging Systems Ltd. v DCIT (2025) 344 CTR 583 / 249 DTR 77 / 173 taxmann.com 405 (Bom)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Goodwill-Amalgamation-Difference between purchase consideration and net assets acquired on demerger-Claim for depreciation not disputed in year immediately following demerger Disallowance of depreciation in later years relying solely on fifth proviso to section 32(1)-Proviso applicable only in year following demerger-Depreciation claim for subsequent years not barred-Matter remanded to Tribunal.[S. 43(6)(c)]

Held, allowing the appeal the Court held that the fifth proviso to section 32(1) pertained to the aggregate deduction allowable to the predecessor and successor in the year immediately following a succession, amalgamation or demerger, and could regulate affairs only for the assessment year directly succeeding such event. Since the scheme came into effect in the financial year 2013-2014, the proviso was relevant only for the assessment year 2014-2015 and had no application to the assessment years 2015-2016 and 2016-2017. That although it was contended that section 43(6)(c) and the appended Explanations governed the manner of computing the written-down value, the Tribunal had not examined the matter from that perspective and had based its decision only on the fifth proviso to section 32(1), which was not applicable. The matter was remanded to the Tribunal for fresh consideration in accordance with law.(AY.2015-16, 2016-17)

PMV Maltings Pvt. Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 479 ITR 159/304 Taxman 15 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 32: Depreciation-Installation of cell site towers-Lease agreement-Accounting Standard 29- Entitled to depreciation.[S. 260A]

Held that Installation of cell site towers as per lease agreement is entitled to depreciation. (AY. 2019-20)

Vodafone Mobile Services Ltd. v. Dy. CTT (2025) 476 ITR 80 / 304 Taxman 285 / 345 CTR 137 / 251 DTR 9 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Pipeline installation-Contingent liability Disallowance justified where liability towards port authorities was contingent and not crystallized-No substantial question of law. [S. 260A]

The assessee, engaged in laying petroleum pipelines, claimed depreciation including liability of Rs. 20 crores payable to KPT and GMB. AO disallowed Rs. 5 crores depreciation, holding the liability contingent. CIT(A) and Tribunal upheld disallowance. Dismissing appeal, the High Court held that no contractual payment was made, nor liability accepted by port authorities; hence it was only a contingent liability. Findings being concurrent factual findings, no substantial question of law arose.(AY.2003-04)

Petronet V.K. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 475 ITR 494 (Guj)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Unabsorbed depreciation-Allowed to be carried forward and set off after a period of eight years from assessment year 1997-98, without any limit.[S. 32(2)]

Held that unabsorbed depreciation is allowed to be carried forward and set off after a period of eight years from assessment year 1997-98, without any limit, whatsoever in accordance with section 32(2) as amended by Finance Act, 2001. (AY. 2008-09, 2010-11 & 2011-12)

Tamil Nadu Small Industries Corporation Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 303 Taxman 129 (Mad.)(HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Block of assets-Ready for use-Entitle to full depreciation. [S. 2(11), R. 5(1)]

Held that the block of assets on which depreciation under section 32 had been claimed by the assessee were old and none of them were acquired during the previous year relevant to the assessment year in question. Therefore, the second and third proviso to sub-section (1) of section 32 would not apply. The assets in question on which the depreciation had been claimed were being used for the purpose of business or profession from earlier years. The block of assets on which the depreciation for the whole year had been claimed was ready for use during the entire year. The assessee is entitled to full depreciation for the assessment years 1999-2000 and 2000-01. (AY. 1999-2000, 2000-01)

Khar Hospitality India Ltd. v. CIT (2024)471 ITR 200 (Cal) (HC)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Actual cost-Sales-tax subsidy-subsidy is to be deducted from the cost of fixed assets for the purpose of depreciation computation as per Expln 10 to s. 43(1).[S.43(1)]

Held that Sales-tax deferment incentive received by the assessee from the State Governments was fundamentally linked to its fixed capital investment and was in the nature of a capital subsidy as it was later converted into a capital reserve; it squarely fell within the ambit of Expln. 10 to s. 43(1) and therefore, the proportionate amount of subsidy is to be deducted from the cost of fixed assets for the purpose of computation of depreciation. (AY.2003-04, 2006-07)

Munjal Auto Industries Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 235 TTJ 84 / 173 taxmann.com 498 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Additional depreciation-Computers used for the production of software-Plant and machinery-Eligible for additional depreciation. [S. 32(1)(iia)]

Business of development of embedded software amounts to production of an article or thing, and therefore, computers used for software production qualify as plant and machinery, eligible for additional depreciation under S. 32(1)(iia). (AY.2016-17)

Bosch Global Software Technologies (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 235 TTJ 807 / 174 taxmann.com 76 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Intangible asset-Goodwill arising pursuant to amalgamation-The excess consideration paid is bona fide, attributable to commercial intent, and not a colourable device-The goodwill constitutes a depreciable asset-Depreciation is allowable. [S.2(1B), 32(1)(ii)43(1), 43(6), 49(1)(iii)(e)]

Held that the goodwill arising as a result of the payment of excess consideration over the net book value of assets and liabilities of the amalgamating company taken over by the assessee-company pursuant to a scheme of amalgamation sanctioned by the High Court, which is supported by an independent valuation report prepared by a registered valuer, constitutes a depreciable intangible asset within the meaning of S. 32(1)(ii) and, therefore, eligible for depreciation. (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Intas Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (2025) 236 TTJ 550/ 174 taxmann.com 867 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Intangible asset-Slump sale-Acquisition of manufacturing, supply and maintenance contracts-Goodwill-AO is directed to treat the excess of consideration paid over and above the fair market value of the assets and liabilities as goodwill and allow depreciation-Depreciation-Unabsorbed-Carry forward and set off-set off of brought forward unabsorbed depreciation pertaining to asst. yr. 2008-09 cannot be denied on the basis that for that assessment year the assessee filed its return of income under S. 139(4) [S.2(42C),32(1)(ii), 32(2), 50B, 72, 80,139(4)]

Held that total consideration paid by the assessee for slump sale acquisitions of some divisions of two companies includes consideration paid for manufacturing contracts, supply contracts and maintenance contracts acquired by the assessee; even if it is assumed that these contracts are not separate intangible assets under s. 32(1)(ii), the excess of consideration paid over and above the net asset value of other recognised tangible and intangible assets is to be treated as goodwill, and depreciation is allowable. Carry forward and set off of unabsorbed depreciation is in no way linked to the timely filing of the return of income; set off of brought forward unabsorbed depreciation pertaining to asst. yr. 2008-09 cannot be denied on the basis that the assessee filed its return of income under S. 139(4). (AY. 2010-11)

Thermo Fisher Scientific India (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 865 / 176 taxmann.com 501 (Mum) Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Intangible asset-Goodwill arising pursuant to amalgamation-Depreciation on goodwill is allowable-Unabsorbed-Carry forward and set off-Depreciation once allowed cannot be disregarded in subsequent years for the purposes of S. 32(2) [S. 32(2)]

Held that the Assessee acquired 100 per cent shares of PPL from independent parties at premium, the excess of consideration paid over the net book value of assets of PPL represents goodwill attributable to the business potential and intangible attributes of PPL which vested with the assessee on amalgamation of PPL with the assessee; goodwill so recorded is thus an identifiable intangible asset acquired at cost and satisfies the conditions prescribed under s. 32(1)(ii) and, therefore, eligible for depreciation. Once the claim of depreciation was allowed by the CIT(A) in the earlier assessment years, though initially disallowed by the AO, the carry forward of the unabsorbed portion thereof becomes a vested right and the set off under S. 32(2) cannot be denied in subsequent years.(AY-2012-13, 2013-14, 2020-21 & 2022-23)

DCIT v. Reckit Benkiser Healthcare India (P) LTD. (2025) 237 TTJ 129 / 176 taxmann.com 573 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Copyrights-Block of assets-Depreciation was allowed in earlier years-The AO is directed to delete the disallowance of depreciation. [S. 2(11), 32(1)(ii)]

Held that the assessee has claimed depreciation on patents and copyrights as per the prescribed rate on the opening WDV of the block of assets in the earlier years, and there being no addition to the assets during the year, the claim of depreciation could not be disallowed in the relevant year on the ground that the assessee has failed to substantiate the same. (AY. 2021-22)

Ebix Travels (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 751/ 178 taxmann.com 68 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Goodwill arising on slump sale-The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to obtain valuation from the DVO, determine the value of land and building, attribute the balance consideration to goodwill and allow depreciation thereon. [S. 2(42C), 32(1)(ii), 50B, 56(2)(vii)(b)]

Where the purchase consideration paid on the acquisition of a business under a slump sale exceeded the value of the net assets acquired, the excess represented goodwill. The Tribunal held that section 50C was not applicable to the purchaser; however, section 56(2)(vii)(b) would apply. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to obtain valuation from the DVO, determine the value of land and building, attribute the balance consideration to goodwill and allow depreciation thereon. (AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15 & 2016-17.)

Akorn India (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 869 / 180 taxmann.com 249 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Non-compete fee not eligible for depreciation [S. 32(1)(ii)]

The Tribunal held that a non-compete fee does not constitute an intangible asset eligible for depreciation under section 32(1)(ii). Accordingly, the claim for depreciation on the non-compete fee was rejected. [AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15 & 2016-17]

Akorn India (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 869 / 180 taxmann.com 249 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Goodwill arising on amalgamation-Allocation of purchase consideration to intangible assets based on valuation-Depreciation allowable-Unabsorbed depreciation-Amalgamation-Set-off of depreciation of earlier years-Allowable. [S. 32(2), 43(1), Expln 7]

Pursuant to amalgamation, the assessee recognised goodwill representing the excess of purchase consideration over the net assets acquired and claimed depreciation thereon. The Tribunal held that the valuation of goodwill and other intangible assets was based on recognised professional valuation and had been accepted while sanctioning the scheme of amalgamation. In the absence of any material disputing the valuation, depreciation on goodwill was allowable. Following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that unabsorbed depreciation of the amalgamating company pertaining to years prior to assessment year 2002-

03 was eligible for carry forward and set-off by the amalgamated company. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13).

Dy. CIT v. Bodal Chemicals Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 194 / 177 taxmann.com 448 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Assets acquired from associated enterprise-Depreciation allowed in earlier years-Depreciation cannot be denied in subsequent year.

The assessee claimed depreciation on assets purchased from its associated enterprises. The Tribunal held that once the assets formed part of the block of assets and depreciation had been allowed in the earlier years, the claim could not be denied in the subsequent year. (AY. 2010-11).

UPS Express P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 381 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Intangible assets-Goodwill-Business acquired on slump sale-Excess consideration representing business commercial rights-Depreciation allowable.

The assessee acquired a software business as a going concern under a slump sale. The excess consideration over the value of the net assets acquired was recognised as goodwill. Although the intellectual property acquired was subsequently transferred to the parent company, the assessee retained and continued to enjoy the business contracts, employees, licences, permits and other commercial rights acquired under the business acquisition. The Tribunal held that the goodwill represented business or commercial rights arising from the acquisition of the entire business and not merely the intellectual property. Once the existence of goodwill was established, depreciation under section 32 could not be denied. Accordingly, the order allowing depreciation on goodwill was upheld. (AY. 2014-15).

Dy. CIT v. Blujay Solutions (India) P. Ltd. (2025) 129 ITR 780 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Speculation business-No double deduction-Addition deleted.[S.73]

The Assessing Officer treated depreciation pertaining to the assessee's speculation business as a speculation loss and added it back to the income. The Tribunal held that the depreciation had already been adjusted while computing the normal business income and, therefore, no double deduction had been claimed. The addition was based on an incorrect appreciation of facts and was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Asst. CIT v. Kunvarji Finance (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 609 / 176 taxmann.com 553 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Lease transaction-Commercial expediency cannot be questioned-Depreciation allowable.

The Assessing Officer disallowed depreciation on leased machinery on the ground that the lease transaction lacked commercial justification. The Tribunal held that once the purchase of the machinery and the corresponding lease income had been accepted, the Assessing Officer could not question the assessee's business prudence or deny the statutory deduction under section 32 merely on suspicion. The depreciation was directed to be allowed. (AY. 1992-93).

Growmore Research and Assets Management Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 44 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Computer accessories-Uninterrupted Power System eligible for 60 per cent. depreciation-Projector not part of computer system-Computer software-Tangible asset-Eligible for depreciation at 60 per cent.

The Tribunal held that an uninterrupted power system forms an integral part of the computer system and is eligible for depreciation at 60 per cent. However, a projector is an independent electronic device and is not entitled to depreciation at the higher rate applicable to computers. The Tribunal held that computer software is classified as a tangible asset under the block of "Plant" in Appendix I to the Income-tax Rules and is therefore eligible for depreciation at 60 per cent (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-Goodwill-Amalgamation-Purchase method-AS 14-Provisions of sixth proviso to s. 32(1), Expln. 7 to s. 43(1) and Expln. 2(b) to s. 43(6) has no applicability to the facts of the case-Amendment made vide Finance Act, 2021, in relation to the allowance of depreciation on goodwill is effective from 1st April, 2021 and is applicable to asst. yr. 2021-22 and subsequent assessment years-Entitled to claim depreciation on goodwill arising on account of amalgamation-Customer relationship or distribution network-existing in the books of the amalgamating company-Fair value of these assets was specifically computed by the independent valuer vide his valuation report-The AO is directed to grant depreciation on "customer relationship" and "distribution network" arising on account of amalgamation. [S. 32(1), 43(1)]

Assessee having recognised goodwill, i.e., excess amount of consideration over the value of net assets of the amalgamating company, in its financial statements following the provisions of AS-14, is entitled to depreciation on the same under s. 32(1)(ii); since the amalgamating company did not have any goodwill recorded in its books of account or as part of a block of depreciable assets, prior to amalgamation, provisions of the sixth proviso to s. 32(1), Expln. 7 to s. 43(1) and Expln. 2(b) to s. 43(6) has no applicability to the facts of the case. The Tribunal also held that the amalgamating company had a vast network of dealers and an existing diversified customer base, which has facilitated the business of the assessee (amalgamated company) pursuant to the amalgamation, and the fair value of these assets viz., "distribution network" and "customer relationship", has been specifically computed by the independent valuer; depreciation on these assets is allowable. The AO is directed to grant depreciation on "customer relationship" and "distribution network" arising on account of amalgamation. (AY. 2016-17 & 2018-19)

Dow Chemical International (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2024] 169 taxmann.com 290 / (2025) 234 TTJ 712 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Amalgamation-Depreciation on goodwill-Matter was remanded to the file of CIT(A) for consideration afresh.[S. 32(1)]

Tribunal held that CIT(A) had not given any specific finding as assessee failed to provide additional documents such as amalgamation order, pre-amalgamation and post-amalgamation financials, goodwill calculation etc. Accordingly, the issue was remanded to the file of CIT(A) for deciding in accordance with law. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Dynaspede Integrated Systems (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 17 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-Goodwill-Slump sale-Tangible Assets-Entitled to claim depreciation. [S. 2(42C),32(1)(ii) 50B]

Assessee entered into a slump sale transaction with Novartis Health care Pvt Ltd, and excess consideration paid over and above the FMV of tangible assets taken over was classified as goodwill, on which depreciation was claimed. Tribunal held that since assets were put to use for more than 180 days and 'N' did not claim depreciation on such assets, assessee was entitled to claim depreciation at a rate of 100 per cent. (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Glaxosmithkline Consumer (P.) Ltd. (2025] 215 ITD 423 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-POS machine is eligible for depreciation at a rate of 40 per cent-SAP license being a computer software, depreciation on the same was allowable at a rate of 40 per cent.

Tribunal held that the POS machine was eligible for depreciation at a rate of 60 per cent. Followed PCIT v. Connaught Plaza Restaurant Pvt. Ltd. [IT Appeal No. 542 of 2016, dated 20-9-2016 (Delhi) HC). SAP License, being a computer software, is eligible for depreciation at a rate of 60 per cent or 40 per cent. (AY. 2018-19)

Indian Potash Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 121 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-Carry forward and set off-Unabsorbed depreciation as current year's depreciation-Set-off against income under any head, including income from other sources-Provision does not mandate that business be carried on in the relevant year, nor limit adjustment to business income.[S. 32(2), 72]

Assessing Officer denied set-off of brought forward unabsorbed depreciation from assessment year 2015-16 on the ground that no business was carried out during the relevant assessment year. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that unabsorbed depreciation, by virtue of section 32(2), becomes the current year's depreciation and can be set off against income under any head, including 'income from other sources'. Tribunal also held that the requirement that business must be carried on during the relevant previous year is not a condition precedent for invoking section 32(2), nor does the absence of business income restrict such adjustment. The assessee was entitled to set off brought forward unabsorbed depreciation against income assessed for the year under consideration. (AY. 2016-17)

Parshwanath Land Organisers LLP. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 173 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-Goodwill-Intangible asset-Purchased goodwill as it involves cost and is recognised as an intangible asset in accounting in the successor company-Depreciation allowable.[S. 55]

Assessee-company had taken over a proprietorship concern and claimed depreciation on goodwill purchased from the erstwhile proprietorship concern. Assessing Officer disallowed depreciation on goodwill on the ground that before succession to assessee-company, the amount of goodwill in the books of proprietorship concern was nil; therefore, goodwill just after taking over of its business by assessee-company had to be nil. CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that goodwill is an intangible but saleable asset and it is built over years, and the value of acquired goodwill is not recognized in account books but is realised when the business is sold, and is reflected in the firm's selling price by an amount in excess over firm's net worth. Depreciation is an allowable deduction on purchased goodwill as it involves a cost and is recognized as an intangible asset in accounting in the successor company. Since, in instant case, assessee had made a categorical claim that erstwhile proprietorship was enjoying good business goodwill and none of the lower authorities could rebut the same by way of a categorical factual finding, addition made by Assessing Officer by determining cost of goodwill of erstwhile proprietorship concern at nil was unjustified. (AY. 2017-18)

Sagarlaxmi Agriseeds (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 204 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Lease of factory-Allowed earlier years-Allowed the depreciation.

Held that since depreciation claimed by assessee on leased assets was already allowed in earlier years, there was no reason to disallow the same in subsequent years. (AY. 2018-19)

Appasaheb Nalawade Gadhinglaj Sahakari Sakhar Karkhana Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 569 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-Amalgamation-Goodwill-If consideration paid by the amalgamated company to the amalgamating company is more than the net assets acquired by it, then the differential amount shall be treated as goodwill, and the amalgamated company shall be eligible for a claim of depreciation on such goodwill. [S.2(IB),43(1)]

Assessee-company claimed depreciation on goodwill created due to amalgamation of assessee and company MROPL. Assessing Officer disallowed the same. CIT(A) allowed the claim of depreciation. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the NCLT-approved scheme of amalgamation, wherein the revenue had not objected to the valuation report regarding the difference between net acquisition of assets and total consideration, was recorded as goodwill by the assessee at that point in time through the valuation report. Following the decision in Smifs Securities Ltd. v. CIT (2012) 210 Taxman 428 / 348 ITR 302 (SC), the Tribunal held that in case of amalgamation, if consideration paid by the amalgamated company to the amalgamating company is more than net assets acquired by it, then the differential amount shall be treated as goodwill and amalgamated company shall be eligible for claim of depreciation on such goodwill. Order of CIT(A) was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

ACIT v. Mcfills Enterprises (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 573 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 32: Depreciation-Amalgamation-Goodwill-Excess of consideration over net assets-Depreciation on goodwill allowable.

Held that the assessee-company entered into a scheme of amalgamation with the company, BEIPL and as per the scheme, the excess of consideration discharged by the assessee over the amount of net assets of BEIPL was recognised as goodwill in the books of the assessee, and depreciation on goodwill was allowable. (AY. 2016-17)

Bakeri Projects (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 289 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Intangible asset-Non-refundable deposit for rights to operate and manage hospital-Eligible for depreciation-Depreciation allowed in earlier years cannot be denied in subsequent years.[S. 32(1)((ii)]

The assessee paid a non-refundable deposit of ₹25 crores to acquire rights to operate and manage Nanavati Hospital and claimed depreciation treating the payment as an intangible asset u/s 32(1)(ii). The AO disallowed the claim. The CIT(A) found depreciation had been allowed in earlier years on WDV and deleted the disallowance. The Tribunal upheld the CIT(A), relying on Bangalore International Airport Ltd. v. DCIT [2023] 457 ITR 229 (Kar)(HC), holding that such rights are intangible assets eligible for depreciation. Once allowed in earlier years, depreciation cannot be denied in subsequent years unless facts change. (AYs 2016-17 to 2018-19) (ITA Nos. 3083-3085/Mum/2025, dt. 11-8-2025)

Max Hospitals and Allied Services Ltd. v. DCIT, (Mum)(Trib)
www.itatonline.org

S. 32 : Depreciation-Not claimed-Commercial manner-As per Explanation 5 to section 32(1), depreciation was to be allowed while computing its income in a commercial manner. [S.11, 12, 12A, 32 (1)]

Held that though the assessee society had not claimed depreciation on its fixed assets in its return of income, yet, as per Explanation 5 to section 32(1), depreciation was to be allowed while computing its income in a commercial manner. (AY. 2017-18)

Vidya Kunj School. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 11(SMC) (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 32 : Depreciation-Amalgamation-Intangible assets-Depreciation on patented technology-Order of CIT(A) deleting the depreciation is affirmed.

Assessee-company is engaged in business of manufacturing and trading of high tech machinery and technology. During year, a company merged with assessee company on direction of High Court and all of its assets and liabilities were transferred to assessee which included patented technology. Assessee, accordingly, declared same as value of its assets and claimed depreciation. Assessing Officer disallowed depreciation on ground that there was no documentary evidence of expenditure incurred by amalgamating company on development of patented technology and valuation report of valuer could not be a basis to allow such expenditure. The AO disallowed the depreciation. CIT(A) allowed the depreciation. Tribunal held that once value of patented technology had been approved by High Court as part of scheme of amalgamation, then it could not be doubted or rejected by revenue authorities. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

DCIT v. United Drilling Tools Ltd. (2025) 210 ITD 632 (Delhi) (Trib.),

S. 32(1) : Depreciation-Goodwill-Amalgamation of companies-Excess purchase consideration over net assets recorded as goodwill-Fallacy of Assessing Officer in treating goodwill as transferred from amalgamating to amalgamated company-Goodwill generated only as result of amalgamation, not asset transferred-Statutory provisions relied on inapplicable-Goodwill created as result of amalgamation allowable for depreciation-Appellate Tribunal-Scheme of amalgamation-National Company Law Tribunal's order approving amalgamation attaining finality-Revenue ought to redress grievance before appropriate forum-Having failed to do so, cannot raise ground before Tribunal. [S. 254(1)]

Held that Goodwill generated only as a result of amalgamation is not an asset; transferred goodwill created as a result of amalgamation is allowable for depreciation-Appellate Tribunal. National Company Law Tribunal's order approving amalgamation attaining finality. Revenue ought to redress grievance before appropriate forum; having failed to do so, cannot raise ground before Tribunal. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

Suzlon Energy Ltd v.Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 737 (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 32AC: Investment in new plant or machinery-Computers used in the business of development of computer software-Eligible for investment allowance-Remanded for verification.

Held that the Computers installed by the assessee for the purpose of development of software are eligible for investment allowance under the provisions of s. 32AC. The issue is set aside for the AO to allow the claim of the assessee only if the new computers were installed for the purpose of the business of the development of computer software, and not as office appliances. (AY.2016-17)

Bosch Global Software Technologies (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 235 TTJ 807 / 174 taxmann.com 76 (Bang) Trib)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Agreement was granted on 17-6-2009 from 1-4-2007-Order of the High Court affirming the disallowance is affirmed-SLP dismissed earlier and refiled once again by a delay of 1251 days is also dismissed. [S. 35(2AB), Art. 136]

Assessee-company had two in-house (R & D) facilities. Assessee was granted approval by the Department of Science and Industrial Research (DSIR) on 17-6-2009 from 1-4-2007 to 31-3-2010. Assessee claimed weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) pertaining to capital and revenue expenditure incurred in respect of said R & D facilities during the relevant assessment years 2006-07 and 2007-08. Assessing Officer disallowed the claim on the ground that the agreement was entered into by assessee with DSIR as per clause (3) of section 35(2AB) on 21-8-2008; therefore, assessee was not entitled to claim weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) during relevant years. Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the High Court held that since an agreement as per section 35(2AB)(3) was a condition precedent for the purpose of claiming deduction and this condition was met by the assessee only on 21-8-2008 and, further, approval was granted to the R & D unit of the assessee on 17-6-2009 from 1-4-2007, denial of weighted deduction during relevant assessment years was justified. SLP of assessee dismissed on account of the delay of 1251 days. (AY. 2006-07, 2007-08)

Apollo Tyres Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 307 Taxman 170 (SC)

Editorial : Apollo Tyres Ltd. v. ACIT(2022) 284 Taxman 687 (Ker)(HC)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Matter was pending before competent Authority-Order of the Tribunal allowing the deduction was set aside. [S. 35(1)(v), 260A]

Allowing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that when the matter was pending before competent Authority-Order of the Tribunal allowing the deduction was set aside. (AY. 1996-97)

CIT v. Ramco Cements Ltd. [2025] 481 ITR 705 / 173 taxmann.com 226 (Mad)(HC),

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) is not allowable in the absence of approval of the in-house research facility and prescribed statutory compliances. [S. 35(1)(iv), 35(2AB)]

The assessee claimed weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) in respect of research and development expenditure without establishing that its in-house research facility had been approved by the prescribed authority or that the prescribed statutory forms had been filed. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of the mandatory approval and statutory compliance, the assessee was not entitled to weighted deduction under section 35(2AB). The alternate claim under section 35(1)(iv) was also rejected as the assessee failed to establish that the capital expenditure had been incurred for scientific research. (AY 2010-11 to 2012-13)

Anil Ltd. (formerly Anil Products Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 351 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Weighted deduction-Clinical trial expenditure necessarily incurred outside an in-house facility due to the requirement of cooperation from doctors, hospitals, volunteers and patients-Approval granted by DSIR in Form 3CL-Entitled to weighted deduction. [S. 35(2AB) R. 6(7A)]

Held that since clinical trials by their very nature necessarily require cooperation from doctors, hospitals, volunteers and patients outside the research facility, and the DSIR had granted approval in Form 3CL for such expenditure, the assessee, following the ITAT's decision for earlier years on identical facts, was entitled to weighted deduction under section 35(2AB). (AY.2018-19)

Aurobindo Pharma Ltd v Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 15 (Hyd.)(Trib)

S. 35: Expenditure on scientific research-Approval by prescribed authority-The deduction as claimed by the assessee under s. 35(2AB) is to be allowed-Prior to the amendment of R. 6, the provision of S 35(3) did not provide for referring to DSIR for determining the amount of expenditure eligible for deduction. [S.35(2AB), 35(3), R.6 (7A)]

Held that once the R & D facility was approved by DSIR by issuing Form No. 3CM, the expenses incurred by the assessee have to be allowed under s. 35(2AB); quantification of expenditure has been prescribed by amending r. 6(7A) w.e.f. 1st July, 2016, only; prior to this amendment, no such power was with DSIR. Deduction under S. 35(2AB) has to be allowed on the basis of expenditure as recorded by the assessee in the books of account. (AY. 2011-12 to 2014-15)

E.I.D. Parry India Ltd. v DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 485 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 35: Expenditure on scientific research-Allocation of common expenses to tax-exempt units-Eligible undertaking-Separate books and verifiable entries-Disallowance is not sustainable. [S.10AA, 80IC, 80IE]

Held that the assessee has maintained separate books of account for each unit, eligible for deduction under S. 10AA, 80-IC and 80-IE and the in-house R&D expenditure was incurred at a centralised R&D facility; the disallowance made by the AO by allocating a portion of common research and development expenses to the said tax-exempt units is not sustainable. (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Intas Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (2025) 236 TTJ 550/ 174 taxmann.com 867 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Approval of DSIR-In the absence of any statutory requirement for the DSIR to quantify or approve each expense prior to 1st July, 2016, the claim of weighted deduction under S. 35(2AB) cannot be restricted to the amount mentioned in Form No. 3CL. [S. 35(2AB)]

Held that in the absence of any statutory requirement for the DSIR to quantify or approve each expense prior to 1st July, 2016, the claim of weighted deduction under s. 35(2AB) cannot be restricted to the amount mentioned in Form No. 3CL; since the other expenditure was incurred by erstwhile CB Ltd., which has merged with the assessee-company and was granted recognition by DSIR, the said expenditure is eligible for weighted deduction under s. 35(2AB).(AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Intas Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (2025) 236 TTJ 550/ 174 taxmann.com 867 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Non-submission of Form No. 3CL-Weighted deduction not allowable-Allowable as a deduction under S 35(1)(i) and 35(1)(iv). [S. 35(1), 35(1)(iv), 35(2AB)]

Held that the assessee having not produced Form No. 3CL, claim of weighted deduction under s. 35(2AB) is not allowable. However, the expenditure is allowable as a deduction under S. 35(1)(i) and 35(1)(iv). (AY.2020-21)

Laxmi Organic Industries Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 268 / 177 taxmann.com 118 (Mum) Trib)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Normal deduction under section 35(1) not dependent upon DSIR quantification-Weighted deduction restricted to expenditure approved by DSIR. [S. 35(2AB), 37(1) R.6(7A)]

The Tribunal held that quantification by the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research (DSIR) is not a condition precedent for allowing deduction under section 35(1). However, for claiming weighted deduction under section 35(2AB), the substituted rule 6(7A) requires quantification by the prescribed authority and operates as a valid machinery provision. Accordingly, the assessee was entitled to normal deduction under section 35(1), but weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) was restricted to the expenditure approved by the DSIR. (AY. 2018-19).

Mankind Pharma Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 235 / (2025) 125 ITR 263 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 35: Expenditure on scientific research-Approval was granted by DSIR during the previous year-Entitled to claim weighted deduction in respect of entire expenditure incurred under section 35(2AB)[S.35(2AB)]

Held that approval having been granted by DSIR to assessee during the previous year, assessee would be entitled to claim weighted deduction in respect of entire expenditure incurred under section 35(2AB). (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Anand NVH Products (P.) Ltd. (2025) 215 ITD 98 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 35: Expenditure on scientific research-Business expenditure-Withdrew higher claim-Entitled to 100% deduction of revenue expenses under section 35(1)(i) and depreciation on R&D assets under section 32(1).[S. 32(1), 35(1)(i), 35(2AB), 43(4), Form 3CL]

Assessee-company, engaged in manufacturing intermediates and speciality chemicals, claimed a weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) at 150 per cent of scientific research expenditure. Assessee furnished DSIR approval in Form 3CM and a CA report in Form 3CLA, but could not furnish DSIR Form 3CL as DSIR did not process issuance for non-submission of prescribed details. During assessment, it withdrew the section 35(2AB) claim and requested allowance of 100 per cent deduction of revenue expenditure and depreciation on R&D assets. Assessing Officer disallowed the entire claim under section 35(2AB) and declined the alternative claim, holding that any additional claim could be made only by filing a revised return, that expenditure had been claimed for scientific research and not for business, and that scientific research was not assessee's business. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the CIT(A). On appeal the Tribunal held that since research conducted by assessee satisfied definition of 'scientific research related to business' as prescribed in section 43(4)(iii) for purpose of section 35(1)(i), assessee was entitled to 100 per cent deduction of revenue expenses under section 35(1)(i) and appropriate amount of depreciation under section 32(1) for capital expenses. However, since complete details of various expenses incurred by the assessee were either not filed before the Assessing Officer or had not been examined by the Assessing Officer, the matter was to be remanded to the Assessing Officer for factual examination of documents/evidence of expenses. (AY. 2018-19)

Malwa Oxygen & Industrial Gases (P.) Ltd. v. ITO NFAC, Delhi (2025) 215 ITD 503 (Indore) (Trib.)

S. 35: Expenditure on scientific research-Entitled to claim deduction under S. 35(2AB) even in respect of expenditure incurred prior to approval date, i.e. from 1-4-2019.[S.35(2AB)]

Where the competent authority granted approval under S. 35(2AB) on 23-10-2020 for the period 25-10-2019 to 31-3-2020, since the R&D facility of assessee had already been approved by DSIR, the assessee was entitled to claim a deduction under S. 35(2AB) even in respect of expenditure incurred prior to the approval date, i.e. from 1-4-2019. (AY. 2020-21)

Kaisha Lifesciences P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 589/ 172 taxmann.com 48 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Business expenditure on in-house R&D facility-Claimed weighted deducted-AO denied as Form 3CL was missing-Held, post amendment, Form 3CL is a requisite for claiming deduction under S. 35(2AB)-Not entitled to deduction. [S.35(2AB)]

The Assessee claimed a weighted deduction of 150 per cent of its scientific research expenditure under s. 35(2AB) of the Act. However, the AO required the Assessee to submit Form 3CL, which the DSIR had not issued. The AO held that without Form 3CL, the deduction cannot be claimed. The CIT (A) made slight modification only by noting that AO made excessive disallowance of 200 per cent. On Appeal, the ITAT observed that the position of law as prevailing in A.Y. 2018-19 is that, furnishing of Form 3CL by DSIR is a prerequisite to claim the weighted component of deduction under s. 35(2AB) of the Act as Rule. 6(7A) (b) of the IT Rules got amended in 2016. The ITAT held that the AO was right in denying the claim. However, the matter was remanded back to the AO to consider the alternate claim of deduction under s. 35(1)(i) of the Act. (AY. 2018-19]

Ashok Leyland Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 372/ 172 taxmann.com 42 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Bogus Donation-IMSRRF was not notified under section 35(1)(ii), deduction claimed by assessee was disallowed-Reopening of assessment was affirmed.[S.35(1)(ii), 147, 148]

During the year, assessee made a donation of a certain amount to one IMSRRF, a charitable trust, and claimed a deduction on the same under section 35(1)(ii). Assessing Officer disallowed on the ground that the institution to which the donation was made was not recognised by CBDT. Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. The Tribunal also affirmed the reopening of the assessment on the basis of information from DDI (Investigation.) (AY. 2004-05)

Vardhman Polytex Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 594 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 35 : Expenditure on scientific research-Capital expenditure-Outside India-Not eligible for weighted deduction under section 35(2AB)-Eligible for deduction under section 35(1)(iv) of the Act.[S. 35(1)(iv), 35(2AB)]

Assessing Officer disallowed claim of weighted deduction under section 35(2AB) on capital expenditure incurred on R&D facilities availed from its AEs to extent of R&D expenditure incurred outside India. DRP affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since R&D facilities for which assessee incurred costs outside India were neither on in-house R&D facility of assessee nor approved by prescribed authority, same could not be granted weighted deduction under section 35(2AB); however, said R&D expenditure incurred outside India is eligible for deduction under section 35(1)(iv) of the Act. (AY. 2012-13)

Mahle Behr India (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 485 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 35AC: Expenditure on eligible projects or schemes-Donations-Had valid approval at the time of payment-Information from Investigation wing-No evidence that donation was bogus or returned cash-Subsequent withdrawal of approval or cancellation of registration under section 12AA(3) could not justify disallowance of deduction under section 35AC of the Act. [S.12AA(3), 35AC(6), 131, 132, 143(3),147, 148]

Assessee-company claimed deduction under section 35AC for donations made to NCT, a charitable trust. Assessing Officer reopened the assessment based on Investigation Wing information, alleging that the donation was not genuine. Assessing Officer on perusal of search findings noted that trust was in receipt of a donation from various parties through the banking channel, and the donation was returned to the parties as payment of expenses. He also noted that there was a subsequent withdrawal of section 35AC recognition of trust and cancellation of registration under section 12AA(3). On this basis, the Assessing Officer disallowed the claim of deduction under section 35AC. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the donee-trust enjoyed approval under section 35AC from the financial year 2010-11 onwards till withdrawal of the same by a notification issued by the department dated 30-11-2016. Furthermore, donation by assessee was made in the financial years 2011-12 and 2012-13 and at the relevant time, the trust was having the requisite valid approval. Thus, disallowance of claim of deduction under section 35AC in the hands of assessee could not have been made without establishing that it had made a bogus donation and money was received back in cash. Accordingly, the addition on account of the disallowance of the deduction claimed under section 35AC was deleted. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

Raman and Weil (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 514 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Investment company-Commercially expedient-Difference between interest received and paid by assessee for purpose of business-Deletion of disallowance was affirmed-SLP dismissed. [S. 37(1), Art. 136]

Assessee is engaged in business of finance and investment. It adopted cash system of accounting. Assessee borrowed capital from its group concerns and paid interest at lower rate. It claimed deduction of interest paid on borrowed capital under section 36(1)(iii). Assessing Officer on basis of 'matching principles' made disallowance on account of difference between interest received and paid by assessee. Tribunal deleted the addition. On appeal the Court held that when cash system of accounting was adopted by assessee, an investment company, whose business was only to borrow and lend or invest, interest paid by assessee on amount taken for utilising it for further lending was said to be in business interest or commercially expedient for purpose of business. SLP dismissed. (AY. 2015-16)

CIT v. Shriram Investments (2025) 481 ITR 26/(2026) 308 Taxman 78 (SC)

Editorial : CIT v. Shriram Investments (2022) 289 Taxman 315 / (2025) 481 ITR 16 (Mad)(HC)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Land was used for agricultural purposes-High Court held that since there was no evidence to show that land was used for purpose of business of assessee, interest paid in respect of loan borrowed for purchasing said land could not be allowed as a deduction-SLP filed against order of High court was dismissed as withdrawn.[Art. 136]

Assessee was engaged in business of asset management services. It had acquired a land for purpose of business by taking a loan. Assessing Officer disallowed interest paid by assessee on loan on ground that loan amount was used by assessee for purchasing land which was an agricultural land and on which assessee had cultivated tapioca. High Court held that land was shown as a business asset in balance sheet of company but said land was used for agricultural purposes, which yielded agricultural income. High Court held that since there was no evidence to show that land was used for purpose of business of assessee, interest paid in respect of loan borrowed for purchasing said land could not be allowed as a deduction under section 36(1)(iii). SLP filed against order of High court was dismissed as withdrawn (AY. 2012-13)

Mini Muthoottu Credit India (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 305 Taxman 415 (SC)

Editorial : Mini Muthoottu Credit India (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2024) 162 taxxmann.com 46 (Ker)(HC)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Advance to subsidiary-Share application money without charging interest-Commercial expediency and in normal course of its business activities-High Court affirmed the order of Tribunal-Delay of 295 days in filing SLP which had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue-SLP dismissed on ground of delay and question of law, if any, would be kept open.[Art. 136]

Assessee had borrowed funds on which interest was paid, and advanced same to its subsidiary as share application money without charging interest. Assessing Officer held that funds were diverted for non-business purposes, and therefore disallowed interest under section 36(1)(iii) along with upfront fee paid for obtaining loan. Commissioner (Appeals) and Tribunal held that share application money advanced to subsidiary was for business purpose and investment was commercially expedient, given high telecom sector valuation and assessee's 64% stake. It was further held that since assessee would benefit from subsidiary's growth, interest and upfront fee on borrowed funds used for this purpose were allowable under section 36(1)(iii) and board had approved transaction as part of normal business activity. High Court held that both Commissioner (Appeals) as well as ITAT had come to a factual finding and law was also clear that if an assessee for commercial expediency and in normal course of its business activities takes loan to invest in shares of its subsidiary, in such circumstances, interest paid on those advances utilized would be allowable expenditure under Section 36(1)(iii). There was delay of 295 days in filing SLP which had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue. SLP dismissed on ground of delay and question of law, if any, would be kept open. (AY. 2008-09)

PCIT v. Videocon Industries Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 561 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Videocon Industries Ltd(2025) 175 taxmann.com 239 (Bom)(HC)

S. 36(1)(iii) :Interest on borrowed capital-Used for purpose of business-Acquiring interest-Allowable as deduction. [S 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held circular trading entered into by the assessee solely with the idea of evading tax by acquiring the shares through finances arranged mainly from sister companies of the group, along with two other companies to enable the group to acquire and take over the business of Ahmedabad Electricity Co Ltd. The interest was rightly held to be deductible. No question of law arose from the order. (AY. 1997-98)

CIT v. Ashini Lease Finance Pvt. Ltd.(2025) 482 ITR 81 (Guj)(HC)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Borrowed capital had been used for purchase of agricultural land-Interest not deductible.[S. 10(1), 14A,260A]

Assessee was engaged in the business of asset management services.It had acquired land for purpose of business by taking a loan. Assessing Officer disallowed interest paid by assessee on loan on ground that loan amount in question was used by assessee for purchasing land which was an agricultural land and on which assessee had cultivated tapioca. Though land in question was shown as a business asset in balance sheet of company but said land was used for agricultural purposes, which yielded agricultural income. Court held that since there was no evidence to show that land was used for purpose of business of assessee, interest paid in respect of the loan borrowed for purchasing said land could not be allowed as a deduction.Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2012-13)

Mini Muthoottu Credit India Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 46 / (2025) 482 ITR 338 (Ker)(HC)

Editorial: SLP of assessee dismissed, Mini Muthoottu Credit India Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT (2025] 305 Taxman 415 (SC)

S. 36(1)(iii) :Interest on borrowed capital-Installation of cell site towers Provision did not contemplate distinction between capital borrowed for revenue or capital purpose-Expansion of business-Matter remanded to Assessing Officer to examine aspects pertaining to common pool of funds as framed by Tribunal and cell sites actually brought into use. [S. 37(1), 260A]

Held that the phrase "extension of existing business" came to be introduced in the statute on the basis of the Finance Bill, 2003 ((2003) 260 ITR (St.) 36). The words in the Explanatory Memorandum state the underlying objective of its insertion ((2003) 260 ITR (St.) 191, 207). The question whether the Tribunal erred in holding that installation of cell site towers amounted to "extension of existing business" as stipulated in the proviso to section 36(1)(iii) thereby warranting proportionate disallowance of interest under that provision had to be evaluated on an independent evaluation of the scheme of section 36(1)(iii) read along with the proviso and the legislative intendment underlying the insertion of that amendment in the Act. It would be imprudent and unwise to base the answer solely on the purported difference on the usage of word "extension" in section 36(1)(iii) as contrasted with "expansion" as appearing in other parts of the statute. Matter remanded to Assessing Officer to examine aspects pertaining to common pool of funds as framed by Tribunal and cell sites actually brought into use.(AY. 2019-20)

Vodafone Mobile Services Ltd. v. Dy. CTT (2025) 476 ITR 80 / 304 Taxman 285 / 345 CTR 137 / 251 DTR 9 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Percentage of completion method for recognizing the revenue-ICDS IX provisions are not applicable to asst. yr. 2014-15. There is no provision in s. 36(1)(iii) to apportion the interest cost between the work-in-progress and the sales-Interest allowable as deduction.

Tribunal held that since the ICDS provisions are not applicable to asst. yr. 2014-15, the AO was not at all justified in making the disallowance based on the said provisions; further, interest expenditure being a period cost, the same has to be allowed in the year in which it has been incurred notwithstanding that the assessee is following percentage of completion method for recognizing its revenue; there is no provision in s. 36(1)(iii) to apportion the interest cost between the work-in-progress and the sales. (AY.2014-15 & 2016-17)

DCIT v. Kolte Patil Integrated Townships Ltd. (2025) 235 TTJ 113 / (Pune)(Trib)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Interest-free loans given to related concerns-Nexus between borrowed funds and loans advanced not established-Presumption that funds advanced first out of interest-free funds available-Disallowance not justified.

The assessee, engaged in printing and publication of newspapers, faced disallowance of interest expenses under section 36(1)(iii) on the ground that interest-free loans were given to group concerns out of borrowed funds, disallowance of one-third of brand relaunch expenses treating them as capital in nature. On appeal, the Tribunal held that in the absence of AO establishing a nexus between borrowed funds and the interest-free advances, a presumption arose that the advances were made out of the assessee's own interest-free funds, and the disallowance under section 36(1)(iii) was deleted.(AY. 2010-11to 2012-13)

Express Publications (Madurai) P. Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 519(Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Business expenditure-Interest-free advances to land co-owners-Advances towards co-owners' share of project consideration-Disallowance deleted. [S.37(1)]

The Assessing Officer disallowed interest on the ground that the assessee had borrowed funds at interest while advancing interest-free amounts to land co-owners. The Tribunal held that the advances represented amounts payable to the co-owners towards their share of the project consideration and for another upcoming project. There was, therefore, no question of charging interest from the co-owners and the interest disallowance was rightly deleted. (AY. 2018-19).

ITO v. Harmony Vinimay (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 458 / 174 taxmann.com 1239 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Business expenditure-Loans to sister concerns-Consistent view in earlier years-Disallowance deleted.[S. 37(1)]

The Assessing Officer disallowed interest alleging diversion of borrowed funds towards interest-free loans advanced to group concerns. The Tribunal held that identical disallowances in the assessee's own case had been deleted in earlier assessment years and there was no change in the factual position. Following the earlier orders, the disallowance of interest was deleted. (AY. 2003-04, 2006-07 & 2011-12 to 2015-16).

SIEL Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (LTU) (2025) 123 ITR 599 / 173 taxmann.com 278 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Commercial expediency-Interest allowed in earlier year-The principle of commercial expediency applied mutatis mutandis to the corresponding portion, and such disallowance was not warranted.[S. 251]

Tribunal held that the principle of commercial expediency should apply mutatis mutandis to the year under consideration for investment carried forward to Assessment Year 2017-18 and accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to apply the principle of commercial expediency to said portion of investment and delete the corresponding disallowance under section 36(1)(iii). As far as other investments which were not covered in terms of commercial expediency, the issue was to be restored to the file of the Assessing Officer for limited verification of disallowance under section 36(1)(iii).(AY. 2016-17)

Kausalya Agro Farms and Developers (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 401 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Addition was based on mere guesswork and surmises, and the same was deleted.

Tribunal held that t since the Assessing Officer had not made any inquiry to justify the addition and no examination was conducted regarding the genuineness of the submission made by the assessee, the addition was based on mere guesswork and surmises, and the same was deleted.(AY. 2017-18)

Khandelwal Industries. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 667 (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Commercial expediency-Disallowance is deleted.[S.37(1)]

Where the assessee borrowed funds in his individual capacity and advanced the same to a private limited company in which the assessee was also a director and shareholder, in the absence of any instance of diversion of funds, interest claimed under S. 36(1)(iii), which was part of the audited books of account, could not be disallowed. (AY.2018-19)

Ravindra Madanlal Khandelwal v. Dy. CIT [2024] 169 taxmann.com 457/ (2025) 123 ITR 660/ 234 TTJ 57(UO) (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Advances to group concerns at lower interest-No disallowance if assessee's own funds exceed interest-free advances-Nexus established between borrowings and business use-Ad hoc disallowance based on average rate unjustified-Addition is deleted. [S. 40A(2)(b)]

The assessee, engaged in the distribution of alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages, had borrowed funds from various parties and paid interest ranging from 19.25% to 28% per annum, while advances to certain group concerns were made at lower rates of interest ranging from 0% to 15%. The Assessing Officer, observing that the assessee had charged lesser interest on the advances, made an ad hoc disallowance under S. 36(1)(iii) based on a notional average interest rate of 13.5% and further disallowed interest on borrowings under S. 40A(2)(b). The Tribunal, allowing the appeal, held that the assessee had demonstrated through books of account and bank records that the borrowed funds were used for business purposes across its divisions. The balance sheet reflected own funds (share capital and reserves) far in excess of the interest-free loans given, thereby establishing that such loans were not out of interest-bearing borrowings. Tribunal held that it is a settled principle that when sufficient own funds are available, and interest-bearing funds are not diverted for interest-free advances, no disallowance under S. 36(1)(iii) can be sustained. The disallowance confirmed by the CIT(A) was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2014-15)

Milestone Merchandise P. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 122 ITR 186 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-sufficient non-interest-bearing funds-car loan-disallowance of interest is not justified.

Held that the assessee had used borrowed funds for giving interest-free loans and advances. Disallowance of interest was deleted.(AY. 2011-12)

Patidar Builder (P.) Ltd. v. Assessing Officer (2025) 214 ITD 77 (Indore) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii) : Interest on borrowed capital-Share application money-Sister concern-Disallowance of interest is not justified-Borrowed money-transferred to sister concern. The Assessing Officer was directed to levy interest; however, only for the actual period of the loan, i.e., for one day.

Held that the sum given by assessee to its sister concern was an investment in another group company by way of share application money and not a loan. Disallowance of interest is not justified. Where borrowed money was transferred to a sister concern. The Assessing Officer was directed to levy interest; however, only for the actual period of the loan, i.e., for one day. (AY. 2016-17)

Kamineni Health Services (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 130 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Limited scrutiny-Funds invested in short-term deposits-Assessing Officer had travelled beyond the limited scrutiny parameters for which the case was selected-Addition was deleted. [S. 143(3)]

Held that the Assessing Officer had travelled beyond the limited scrutiny parameters for which the case was selected; hence, the addition was legally impermissible, and the Assessing Officer was directed to delete the addition made under section 36(1)(iii). (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. B.K. Sales Corporation. (2025) 213 ITD 559 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Working capital loan-Interest-free loans were advanced in earlier years-Interest paid on working capital loan cannot be disallowed.

Held that during the year under consideration, assessee had not advanced any interest-free loan to its subsidiary companies and all interest-free loans were granted in preceding years, no disallowance could be made under section 36(1)(iii) on account of interest paid on working capital loan. (AY. 2017-18)

Laqshya Media Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 588 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(iii) :Interest on borrowed capital-Interest-free advances given to farmers-Commercial expediency-Allowable as deduction.

Held that interest-free advances to farmers, so that they are tied up with the assessee and they keep their crops in the cold storage of the assessee from which it can earn rent, it has to be accepted that the assessee has given said interest-free advances out of commercial expediency and therefore, the disallowance of interest paid by the assessee to the bank is not sustainable. Followed, S.A. Bilders Ltd. v. CITYA) & Anr. (2006) 206 CTR 631 (SC). (AY. 2011-12)

Girraj Cold Storage (P) Ltd v. ITO (2025) 174 taxmann.com 342/ 233 TTJ 41 (UO) (SMC) (Agra)(Trib)

S. 36(1)(iii) :Interest on borrowed capital-Interest on customer advances-Advances received from customers were utilized for business purposes as per MOU-Addition is deleted.

Assessee is engaged in business of construction and sale of residential and commercial plots. It collected advances from customers for property sales in terms of MOU and paid interest on these advances in case of delayed delivery of flats. Assessing Officer held that assessee had non-current investments and was of view that interest-bearing funds were diverted for non-business purposes. Accordingly, disallowed finance charges being interest paid on advances. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since assessee had proved that funds received from customers as advances were utilized for business purposes, is allowable as a deduction. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

Ujwala Developers (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 738 // 234 TTJ 25 (UO) (Hyd) (Trib.)

S.36(1)(iii): Interest on borrowed capital-Interest on ICDs used for giving interest-free security deposit for getting the premises on leave and license-Business purpose-Interest is allowed as deduction. [S. 37(1)]

The assessee had taken an office premises on leave and license by providing an interest-free security deposit, funded partly through Inter Corporate Deposits (ICDs) on which interest was paid. The AO disallowed the deduction of interest expense on the security deposit under section 36(1)(iii). CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal the ITAT upheld the CIT(A) order stating that the transaction was genuine, commercially prudent and not with a related party. Since the higher deposit ensured lower rent and a pre-emptive right to purchase the property, it can be said to be used for business purposes. Further, it held that the AO could not question the business decision of the assessee as long as the business purpose was established. (ITA No. 1389/ 1396 /Mum/2025 dt. 28-5 2025) (AY.2013-14, 2014-15)

ACIT v. JM Financial Properties and Holdings Ltd (Mum)(Trib)
www.itatonline.org.

S. 36(1)(iv) : Contribution towards a recognized provident fund-Business expenditure-Payments made on next day since due date fell on National holiday-Deductible.[37(1), 260A,]

Held that the due date for payment of the amounts payable towards the provident fund and the employees' State insurance, fell due on a National holiday, i.e., August 15, 2018 and the assessee made the deposit on the following date, i.e., August 16, 2018. Entitled to deduction.

Aero Club v. ACIT [2023] 156 taxmann.com 74 / (2025) 474 ITR 320 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 36(1)(iv) : Contribution towards a recognized provident fund-Excess contributions to approved superannuation fund to bridge gap between actual contribution and actuarial valuations-Allowable as deduction. [S. 37(1), 36(1)(v) Rule, 27]

Held that excess contributions to approved gratuity fund to bridge gap between actual contribution and actuarial valuations is allowable as deduction. Tribunal also held that section 36(1)(v) does not contain any condition regarding any restriction regarding ordinary annual contribution to gratuity fund. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19, 2020-21, 2021-22)

ACIT v. Syama Prasad Mookerjee Port (2025) 210 ITD 421 (Kol)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Not paid before due date-Disallowance was affirmed. [S.260A]

Held that the assessing authority had found that the assessee had occasioned a delay in making the payment of the employees' contribution to statutory dues under the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 and the Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948 to the authorities concerned. The disallowance under section 36(1)(a) was justified. (AY.2013-14)

Unitac Energy Solutions (India) Pvt. Ltd v. ACIT (2025) 474 ITR 265 (Ker)(HC)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Employees' contributions to PF and ESIC, made after the due date, was not allowable under section 36(1) (va) of the Income Tax Act-Delay of 690 days-No reasonable cause-Delay is not condoned. [S. 253, 260A]

The assessee is a firm engaged in infrastructure development. The primary issue was whether the assessee-firm could claim a deduction under section 36(1) (va) of the Income-tax Act for employees' contributions towards PF and ESIC that were paid after the due date.

The revenue contended that the assessee's claim for deduction of employees' contributions to PF and ESIC, made beyond the due date, was rightly disallowed under section 36(1) (va) of the Income-tax Act.

The Hon'ble High Court noted that the issue of claiming a deduction under section 36(1) (va) for delayed payment of employees' contributions to PF and ESIC had already been settled by the Supreme Court in the case of Checkmate Services (P.) Ltd. v. CIT.(2022)448 ITR 518 (SC). The Hon'ble High Court thereby dismissed the appeal as devoid of merit. Delay of 690 days in filing of appeal before the Tribunal is not condoned as there was no reasonable cause.(AY.2019-20)

BPS Infrastructure v. ITO (2025) 473 ITR 357 (Chhattisgarh) (HC)

S. 36(1)(va) : Any sum received from employees-Employees' contribution-Delay in deposit-Adjustment under section 143(1)

valid-Auditor need not certify admissibility of claim. [S. 2(24)(x),37(1) 43B, 143(1)]

The Centralised Processing Centre disallowed delayed payment of employees' contribution to the Provident Fund and ESI while processing the return under section 143(1) based on particulars furnished in the tax audit report. The Tribunal held that once the auditor mentions the actual dates of payment and the statutory due dates in the audit report, the requirement of section 143(1) that the disallowance should be indicated in the audit report stands satisfied. There is no statutory requirement for the auditor to specifically comment upon the admissibility or inadmissibility of the expenditure. Accordingly, the adjustment under section 143(1) was valid. (AY. 2018-19)

Checkmate Services P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 121 ITR 73 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Employees' contribution to PF/ESI-Prima facie adjustment under section 143(1)-Matter remanded for verification of employees' and employer's contributions. [S. 43B, 139(1), 143(1)(a)(iv)]

The CPC made an adjustment under section 143(1)(a)(iv) by disallowing delayed deposits of PF and ESI contributions on the basis of figures appearing in Form No. 3CD. The assessee contended that the figures included both employer's and employees' contributions and that only a smaller amount represented delayed employees' contribution. The Tribunal held that the lower authorities had mechanically adopted the figures from the audit report without verifying the actual classification. The matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) to verify the factual position, segregate the employer's and employees' contributions and restrict the disallowance, if any, only to delayed employees' contributions. The Tribunal further held that the decision of the Supreme Court in Checkmate Services (P.) Ltd. is binding from the inception by virtue of Article 141 of the Constitution and that prima facie adjustment under section 143(1)(a)(iv) is permissible where based on particulars furnished in the audit report. (AY. 2018-19 to 2020-21)

Atamjeet Singh Sandhu v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 407 (Chd.)(Trib.).

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Deduction only on actual payment-Belated payment of employees' contribution to provident fund and employees' State insurance-Disallowance upheld. [S. 2(24)(x), 43B]

Tribunal upheld the disallowance for belated payment of employees' contributions to provident fund and ESI under section 36(1)(va) read with section 2(24)(x). n(AY. 2013 14)

Asst. CIT v. Kerry Indev Logistics P. Ltd (2025) 131 ITR 100 (Chennai) (Trib)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Employees' contribution to Provident Fund and ESI-Delayed payment-Disallowance upheld.[S.43B]

The Tribunal upheld the disallowance of employees' contribution to Provident Fund and Employees' State Insurance deposited after the due dates prescribed under the respective statutes, following the statutory provisions governing section 36(1)(va). (AY. 2016-17).

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P.) Ltd. v. Add. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va) : Any sum received from employees-Employees' contribution to Provident Fund and ESI-Deposit beyond due date-Disallowance forms part of business income and not income from other sources-Employees' contribution to Provident Fund and ESI-Deduction not allowable under general provision of section 37(1).[S.2(24)(x), 37(1)]

The Tribunal held that employees' contribution to Provident Fund and Employees' State Insurance deposited beyond the prescribed due date was liable to be disallowed under section 36(1)(va) read with section 2(24)(x). However, such disallowance could only enhance the business income and could not be assessed under the head "Income from other sources". The Tribunal held that section 36(1)(va) is a specific provision governing deduction of employees' contributions to Provident Fund and ESI. Where the statutory conditions under that provision are not satisfied, the deduction cannot be claimed under the general provisions of section 37(1). (AY. 2014-15).

Norben Tea and Exports Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 715 / 175 taxmann.com 237 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Delayed employees' PF/ESI contributions on ground that figures in Form 3CD included both employer's and employees' portions-Matter was remanded to the file of CIT(A) to verify actual delay, segregate employer's and employees' contributions, and restrict disallowance only to employees' share deposited after statutory due dates.[S.43B, 143(1)]

Tribunal remanded the matter to the file of CIT(A) to verify actual delay, segregate employer's and employees' contributions, and restrict disallowance only to employees' share deposited after statutory due dates.(AY. 2018-19, to 2020-21)

Atamjeet Singh Sandhu. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 181 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Deposited ESI contribution on 16-10-2017 for September 2017, when the due date was 15-10-2017, which happened to be a public holiday, i.e., Sunday-One day delay on account of a public holiday-Allowable deduction. [S.43B General Clauses Act, 1897, S.10]

During the year, assessee deposited ESI contribution on 16-10-2017 for the month of September 2017 when the due date was 15-10-2017, which happened to be a public holiday i.e. Sunday. Assessing Officer disallowed same and added it to income of assessee. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that due date of depositing contribution of ESIC & EPF fell on a Sunday and gazette holiday; thus, said delay of one day was to be condoned as per section 10 of the General Causes Act. On facts, disallowance of ESI contribution on the ground of one day delay on account of a public holiday was to be deleted, and assessee was to be allowed deduction in respect of ESI paid by it. (AY. 2018-19)

SREI Equipment Finance Ltd. v. CIT (Appeals) (2025) 214 ITD 769 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Delayed payment of employee's contribution towards PF and ESIC-Not allowable as deduction. [S. 37(1)]

Held that delayed payment of employee's contribution towards PF and ESIC could not be allowed as deduction under section 37(1). (AY. 2010-11 & 2014-15)

Diebold Nixdorf India (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 377 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Due date for deposit-Delay in deposit of contribution-Disallowance is deleted. [Kolkata Port Trust (Non-contributory Provident Fund) Regulations 1988]

Held that the Kolkata Port Trust (Non-contributory Provident Fund) Regulations 1988 notified under Major Port Trust Act do not specify any date by which employee's contribution/subscription to PF is to be deposited in individual employee's account under Calcutta Port Trust Non-Contributory Provident Fund. Therefore, no disallowance under section 36(1)(va) was warranted on account of delay in deposit of contribution. Where contribution had actually been credited in concerned fund within following month of contribution, disallowance under section 36(1)(va) is deleted (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19, 2020-21, 2021-22)

ACIT v. Syama Prasad Mookerjee Port (2025) 210 ITD 421 (Kol)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Delay in depositing employees contribution towards PF and ESI-Not allowable as deduction.

Held that when there was delay on part of assessee in depositing employees contribution towards PF and ESI, delay in deposit of same would attract disallowance under section 36(1)(va) of the Act. AY. 2015-16)

DCIT v. United Drilling Tools Ltd. (2025) 210 ITD 632 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(va): Any sum received from employees-Assessee maintain separate books for PF contributions-Credited it on real time basis-Deduction cannot be denied-NPS contributions not deposited within the due date of filing of Return-Cannot be claimed as a deduction in that year.[S. 2(24)(x)]

The Tribunal observed that the assessee had maintained separate individual accounts for employees' General Provident Fund (GPF) contributions and credited them in real time as per the Provident Fund Regulations, 1960. Consequently, these contributions were held allowable as deduction. Secondly, regarding the New Pension Scheme (NPS), the Tribunal held in favour of the Revenue on the grounds the assessee had neither deposited its share of NPS contributions nor credited the employees' share to their respective accounts within the prescribed due dates or by the due date of filing the income tax return. Hence, the employer's contribution was disallowed for the current assessment year but allowed for deduction in subsequent years upon actual payment, and the employees' contributions were treated as deemed income and disallowed for deduction under Section 36(1)(va) (AY.2012-13, 2013-14)

Dy.CIT v. Punjab State Power Corporation Ltd. (2025) 233 TTJ 57 / 173 taxmann.com 148(Chd) (Trib)

S. 36(1)(vii) :Bad debt-Deduction is not allowable where the amount written off was never considered as income earlier and when the Assessee is not in the business of moneylending.[S. 36(2), 56, 57(iii)]

The Assessee, a manufacturer of electric stabilizers and rectifiers, advanced funds on interest and wrote off a certain amount as unrealizable; the dispute was whether such write-off qualifies as bad debt or otherwise deductible when the Assessee is not a money lender and the principal was never recognized as income.

The Assessee argued that lending/advances were part of commercial expediency and sought allowance either as bad debt under Sec. 36(1)(vii)/36(2) or as expenditure under Sec. 37 read with Sec. 57(iii), emphasizing interest income was earned and suits were pursued for recovery.

The Revenue contended the write-off cannot be allowed since the principal was never recognized as income, the Assessee is not a moneylender, and the interest was returned under "other sources," and capital loss/expenditure claims are impermissible under Sec. 56-57 for this head of income.

The Hon'ble Tribunal dismissed the appeal, holding that bad debt conditions under Sec. 36(2) were not met and deduction under Sec. 57(iii) is confined to revenue expenditure for earning income under "other sources".

The Hon'ble Punjab & Haryana High Court dismissed the appeal, affirming the Hon'ble Tribunal, holding that deduction is not allowable since the principal was never recognized as income and the Assessee is not in the business of moneylending; claims under Sec. 57(iii) also fail for being capital in nature. (AY. 2004-05)

Bharti Bhushan Jindal v. PCIT (2025) 306 Taxman 153 (P & H.)(HC)

S. 36(1)(vii) : Bad debt-Business loss-Guarantee assistance on market value basis-Pledging of shares-Loss incurred by assessee was for business expediency of group company hence such loss/debt should be treated as having been incurred for purpose of business and directly relatable to business of assessee and eligible for deduction as loss or bad debt. [S. 28(1), 36(2)]

Assessee was an investment company. One of companies promoted by assessee was Balaji Industrial Corporation of India Ltd (BICL). BICL availed a loan from ICICI. As one of conditions required for disbursing loan, assessee, being promoter of BICL, had to pledge shares held by it in another company, to ensure asset coverage of 1.5 times of loan sanctioned by ICICI and guarantee assistance on market value basis. Accordingly, assessee pledged equity shares. Over a period, BICL was unable to repay its loan to ICICI. ICICI, to recover amount that was payable to it by BICL, under terms and conditions of loan and guarantee given by assessee, sold out of shares pledged, certain equity shares at prevailing market value. Accordingly, assessee accounted for dues from BICL to ICICI. BICL paid only Rs. 1 crore to assessee and assessee accepted same in full and final settlement of outstanding amount. Unpaid amount, assessee decided to write it off as bad debts in books of account. Assessing Officer disallowed this write-off. Tribunal accepted assessee's claim. On appeal the Court held that loss incurred by assessee was for business expediency of group company hence such loss/debt should be treated as having been incurred for purpose of business and directly relatable to business of assessee and eligible for deduction as loss or bad debt. (AY. 2009-10)

CIT v. Star Investments (P.) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 437 (Mad)(HC)

S. 36(1)(vii) : Bad debt-Loss on account of guarantee obligation to group company-Financing business-Isolated transaction-Arrangement resulting in transfer of losses within group-Not allowable as deduction. [S. 36(2), 37(1)]

The assessee claimed deduction towards loss arising from invocation of guarantee furnished to a lender in respect of loans availed by its group company and wrote off the amount as bad debt. The AO and CIT(A) disallowed the claim holding that furnishing of guarantee was not in the ordinary course of assessee's business and that the arrangement was structured to transfer losses within the group. The Tribunal allowed the claim observing that the assessee was engaged in financing activities which included standing as guarantor. On appeal, the High Court reversed the Tribunal's order. It held that standing as surety was not one of the main objects of the assessee-company; at best it was incidental and there was no material to show that the assessee was regularly engaged in the business of furnishing guarantees for consideration. The guarantee in question was an isolated transaction for a group company and not in the ordinary course of business. Further, the conditions of section 36(2) were not satisfied, as the debt had neither been taken into account in computing income nor represented money lent in the ordinary course of banking or money-lending business. The Court also noted that both the assessee and the borrower were group concerns under common control; despite the borrower having financial wherewithal (including donation of Rs. 10 crores in the same year), the assessee took no effective steps for recovery. The arrangement effectively transferred losses from a loss-making entity to a profit-making entity, while remission of liability benefited the loss-making entity, thereby indicating a colourable device. Relying on Madan Gopal Bagla v. CIT (1956) 30 ITR 174 (SC) and CIT v. Birla House (P.) Ltd. (1970) 2 SCC 88, the Court held that the assessee was not entitled to deduction. (AY. 2015-16)

PCIT v. WGF Financial Services (P.) Ltd. (2025) 345 CTR 400 / 250 DTR 329 / 304 Taxman 222 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 36(1)(vii): Bad debt-Payments made by a chit fund company to cover defaults by chit holders, ensuring the continuation of the chit cycle, can be treated as bad debts. [S. 37(1), 260A]

The assessee is engaged in the chit fund business. The issue involved includes a question on whether the amounts paid by the assessee to cover defaults by chit holders should be treated as bad debts.

The revenue contended that the assessee did not fulfill the conditions for allowance of bad debts under Section 36(1)(vii). The assessee claimed that the payments made to cover defaults by chit holders were during business and resulted in a loss, qualifying them as bad debts under Section 36(1)(vii).

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the payments made to cover defaults by chit holders were allowable as bad debts under Section 36(1)(vii).

The High Court upheld the Hon'ble Tribunal's decision, while also taking necessary cue from the Supreme Court's ruling in Shriram Chits and Investment (P.) Ltd v. Union of India; AIR 1993 SC 2063, held that the payments made by the assessee to cover defaults by chit holders, ensuring the continuation of the chit cycle, can be treated as bad debts under Section 36(1)(vii). (AY.2014-15)

CIT v. Shriram Chits Tamil Nadu (P.) Ltd (2025) 473 ITR 278 /303 taxman 24 (Mad.) (HC)

S. 36(1)(vii) :Bad debt-It is sufficient for the debt to be written off as irrecoverable in the assessee's accounts to be eligible for deduction, without the need to prove that the debt has actually become bad. [S. 36(2), 260A]

The assessee was involved in the business of purchasing and selling land. The primary issue was whether the assessee's claim of bad debt, written off in their books of accounts, was allowable under Section 36(1)(vii) and Section 36(2) of the Income Tax Act, 1961.

The revenue argued that the bad debt should be written off in the assessee's books and be bonafide, claiming the assessee did not meet Section 36 conditions of the Income - Tax Act. One debtor still showed the amount as outstanding, so the assessee couldn't claim it as bad debt. The assessee on the other hand argued that the income from a business transaction was shown as business income, and despite reminders, the amount was not recovered. The write-off was based on commercial expediency, genuine, and complied with Section 36(1)(vii) and Section 36(2) of the Income Tax Act.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the assessee met Section 36(2) conditions, the debt was written off as irrecoverable, and the debtor-creditor relationship existed. The Hon'ble Tribunal set aside the disallowance and allowed the assessee's appeal.

The Hon'ble High Court upheld the Tribunal's decision, confirming compliance with Section 36(1)(vii) and Section 36(2), and dismissed the revenue's appeal. The Hon'ble High Court emphasized the legislative intent to avoid litigation over bad debt deductions. Ratio in PCIT v. Khyati Realtors Pvt Ltd (2022) 447 ITR 167 (SC) explained. (AY.2009-10)

CIT v. Desouza Hotels Ltd. (2025) 473 ITR 368 (Bom.) (HC)

S. 36(1)(vii): Bad debt-Amount of unreconciled debtors written off-Allowable as bad debt. [S. 36(2)]

Held that the Assessee, having computerised its billing system by converting the manually maintained receivables into consumer-wise data and written off the collective unreconciled amount of the debtors (consumers), which has been obviously taken into the books of account of the assessee while computing its revenue in the year in which the amount of bills was recorded, it satisfies all the conditions of s. 36(1) (vii) r/w s. 36(2), and, therefore, the said amount is allowable as bad debt. (AY. 2017-18)

Bangalore Electricity Supply Co. Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 58 /121 ITR 595 / 174 taxmann.com 100 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 36(1)(vii): Bad debt-Subsidy-Offered as income in earlier years-Unrecoverable subsidy allowable as bad debt.

Held that the assessee had accounted for subsidy regularly in earlier years as well as in the year under consideration. Since the assessee had initially booked subsidy as income and the unrecovered amount was claimed as bad debts in the same year, the unrecoverable subsidy was allowable as bad debt. (AY. 2018-19)

Indian Potash Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 121 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(vii) :Bad debt-Debited provision of doubtful debt from profit and loss account-Given effect in balance sheet-Allowable as deduction.

Assessee claimed deduction on account of provision for doubtful debts. Assessing Officer disallowed same on ground that bad debts were not written off as irrecoverable in assessee's accounts. The assessee had debited provision of doubtful debt from profit and loss account and had also given effect to same in balance sheet, which amounted to write off of debt. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee was eligible for deduction on account of provision for doubtful debts. (AY. 2018-19)

Goldiam Jewellery Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 554 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 36(1)(vii) :Bad debt-Amounts written off-Allowable as bad debt.

Assessing Officer disallowed the claim of the bad debt on ground that assessee had chosen not to comply with factual queries raised in connection with liability of bad debts and that write off was without valid reasons and proper basis. CIT(A) allowed the claim. On appeal the Tribunal held that after 01/04/1989, all that was required to claim amount as bad and doubtful debts was to demonstrate (1) debt was part of income of earlier year and (2) it has been actually written off in books of accounts. Write off in books of account is sufficient to allow the claim. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. (AY. 2006-07)

DCIT v. ICICI Bank Ltd. (2025)210 ITD 643 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(viiia) :Bad debt-Provision for bad and doubtful debts-Schedule bank-Reserve and surplus account cannot be considered as provision for the purpose of allowing deduction-The amount credited to bad and doubtful reserve is not allowable as a deduction.

Held that the Reserve and surplus account cannot be considered as a provision for the purpose of allowing deduction under S. 36(1)(viia) and, therefore, the amount credited to bad and doubtful reserve is not allowable as a deduction. (AY.2013-14 & 2014-15)

Surat National Co-Operative Bank Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 529 / (Surat)(Trib)

S. 36(1)(viia): Bad debt-Provision for bad and doubtful debts-Schedule bank-A co-operative bank, eligible for deduction even if it had no rural branches-Long-term finance-Eligible for deduction under section 36(1)(viii).[S. 36(1)(vii)]

Held that a co-operative bank was eligible for deduction even if it had no rural branches. The Tribunal held that the transfer to special reserve did not exceed 20 per cent of profit, assessee was a specific entity which included a co-operative bank, assessee was engaged in the business of banking and assessee was engaged in providing long-term finance, assessee was eligible for deduction under section 36(1)(viii).(AY. 2016-17)

ITO v. Sutex Co-operative Bank Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 359 (Surat) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(viia) :Bad debt-Provision for bad and doubtful debts-Schedule bank-Provisions are made as per direction of RBI-Allowable as deduction.

Held that provisions are made as per direction of RBI is allowable as deduction. AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.36(1)(viia) :Bad debt-Provision for bad and doubtful debts-Schedule bank-Claimed as bad debt-Sale of debt-Allowable as business loss. [S.28(i), 36(2), 37(1)]

Assessee, a non-resident banking company, assigned outstanding loans due from a customer to an asset reconstruction company for a sale consideration of certain amount against outstanding loans of higher amount. Sale consideration was duly recognized in financial statement of assessee and balance in debtors account was actually written off as bad debts. Assessee claimed that loss on sale of NPA was allowable as bad debts under section 36(1)(viia). Assessing Officer held that loss incurred by sale of NPA was not a bad debt to be considered under section 36(1)(viia) as deduction under section 36(1)(viia) was allowable to any bad debt or part thereof which was written off as irrecoverable in accounts of assessee for previous year. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that on date of assignment, the loan outstanding in the account of customer was a debt in books of assessee as per provisions of section 36(2), which meant that assessee could have written off same as bad debt and claimed as such and instead, as a prudent businessman it sold the debt to EARC. Therefore the claim of assessee as a bad debt was as per the provisions of the Act and also allowable as a business loss. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2015-16)

DBS Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025)210 ITD 448(Mum)(Trib.)

S. 36(1)(viii) : Eligible business-Special reserve-Interest on FDRs and project loan bonds-Eligible business income-Deduction available.

Held that since interest income had a direct nexus with assessee's core business of providing long-term finance for housing, infrastructure and industrial development, such income constituted eligible business income. Accordingly, a deduction under section 36(1)(viii) was allowable. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 36(1)(viii) : Eligible business-Special reserve-Financial corporation engaged in long-term housing finance-Deduction applicable only to profits from long-term finance for construction or purchase of house for residential purpose-Interest income from loans of term under five years not to be excluded, being from core business-Loans for non-residential purpose not integral part of residential loans-Not eligible for deduction-Income must emanate from eligible undertaking with direct nexus-Surplus funds from housing finance business parked in approved Government securities yielding interest-Direct nexus with core business-Income "derived from" business-Eligible for deduction-Expenditure relating to income not includible in total income-Own funds in excess of investment for earning dividend-Interest cost not to be adjusted against dividend income-Administrative expenditure to be reallocated based on ratio of exempt-income-yielding investments to total average assets-Disallowance of expenditure relating to exempt income-Exemption on interest from tax-free bonds-Own funds in excess of investment-No disallowance warranted.[S. 10(33), 14A, R.8D]

The assessee, a housing finance institution, claimed deduction under section 36(1)(viii) at 40 per cent. of income from its housing finance business, including interest from residential loans of tenure less than five years, from non-residential unit loans, and from temporary deployment of surplus funds, which claims were partly denied by the Revenue; exemption was also claimed under section 10(33) for dividend income, restricted by the AO on the ground that related expenses exceeded the dividend earned; and the CIT(A) directed application of section 14A to tax-exempt interest on tax-free bonds. On appeal, the Tribunal held that interest income from residential loans of tenure less than five years, being from the assessee's core business of long-term housing finance and not from any other business activity, could not be excluded while computing the deduction under section 36(1)(viii); that interest from loans for non-residential purposes, not being an integral part of residential financing, was rightly held ineligible for the deduction; that income earned from surplus funds temporarily parked in approved Government securities, arising from the time gap between mobilisation and disbursement of housing loans, had a direct nexus with the core business and was "derived from" it, and was accordingly eligible for deduction, with recomputation directed; that since the assessee had own funds exceeding investments yielding dividend income, no interest cost was to be adjusted against such dividend income, though administrative expenditure was to be reallocated based on the ratio of exempt-income-yielding investments to total average assets; and that since own funds exceeded the investment in tax-free bonds, no disallowance under section 14A was warranted. (AY. 1998-99)

Housing Development Finance Corporation Ltd v. Add. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 185 (Mum.)(Trib)

S. 36(1)(viii): Eligible business-Special reserve-Minimum alternate tax-Taxable in the year in which the amount is withdrawn from such reserve-Amount transferred to reserve under section 36(1)(viii) shall not be included in book profit under section 115JB.[S.115JB]

Assessee-company, during the year, transferred a certain amount to the income tax special reserve in accordance with the provisions of section 36(1)(viii). Assessee claimed that said amount was transferred to the income tax special reserve out of statutory compulsion and, therefore, the same was to be excluded in computing book profit under section 115JB. However, the Assessing Officer did not allow the same and added the amount transferred to the income tax special reserve to book profit. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that section 36(1)(viii) provides for taxability of the amount withdrawn from the special reserve under section 36(1)(viii) under the head, profit and gains from business and profession. Therefore, amount transferred to special reserve as per section 36(1)(viii) is taxable in year in which amount is withdrawn from such reserve and, accordingly, said amount transferred to reserve under section 36(1)(viii) shall not be included in book profit under section 115JB. If grant of reserve was allowed to be added to book profit, it would create several practical difficulties, therefore, order of CIT(A) was set aside and the Assessing Officer was directed to allow said provisions while computing book profit under section 36(1)(viii) of the Act. AY. 2018-19)

SREI Equipment Finance Ltd. v. CIT (Appeals) (2025) 214 ITD 769 (Kol)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Non-resident-Temporary lull in business and not cessation-Mere absence of subsisting contract or office in India not decisive-Continuous correspondence and bidding activity showed business connection in India-Business expenditure allowable-Set-off against interest on tax refund permissible-Unabsorbed depreciation allowable to be carried forward and set off. [S. 2(13), 4, 5(2), 9(1)(i), 32(2), 71]

The assessee, a French company engaged in oil drilling activities, had no subsisting drilling contract in India during the relevant assessment years, but continued correspondence with ONGC, explored fresh opportunities and submitted bids. During this interregnum, it incurred administrative, audit and legal expenses and earned interest on income-tax refunds. The Assessing Officer disallowed the business expenditure and denied set-off of brought forward unabsorbed depreciation on the ground that no business was being carried on in India. The Tribunal held that there was only a temporary lull in business and not cessation, and allowed the claim. The High Court reversed the Tribunal. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that failure to secure a contract by itself does not mean cessation of business. The assessee's continuous efforts to secure business in India established that it was carrying on business in India. The Court also held that the Act does not require a non-resident to have a permanent establishment or office in India for being regarded as carrying on business in India. Accordingly, business expenditure was allowable, such expenditure could be set off against interest on tax refunds under section 71, and unabsorbed depreciation was eligible for carry forward and set-off. The Supreme Court restored the Tribunal's orders and set aside the High Court judgment. (AY. 1996-97, 1997-98, 1999-2000)

Pride Foramer S.A v. CIT (2025) 481 ITR 1 / 307 Taxman 371/347 CTR 1 / 254 DTR 459 (SC)

Editorial : CIT v. Pride Foramer S.A(2009) 317 ITR 18/181 Taxman 262/226 CTR 94 (Uttarakhand)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Set up-Commencement of business-Operating and financial expenses-Plant construction was incomplete-SLP of revenue dismissed.[Art. 136]

The Assessee is engaged in the business of manufacturing and sale of commercial vehicles in India, including design/development for the Indian market and sourcing components; the crux was whether the absence of actual manufacture/sale in the year (owing to incomplete plant construction) defeated its claim to deduct operating/financial expenses as the business not being "set up."The Assessee contended that it had already commenced multiple business activities aligned with its objects, so its business was "set up," and expenses were allowable under S. 37(1) notwithstanding no manufacture/sale that year. The Revenue disputed allowability of the expenses on the premise that, without manufacture/sale during the year, the business was not set up and deductions could not be granted. The High Court held in favour of the Assessee that the commencement of various activities sufficed to treat the business as set up. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY.2010-11)

Dy.CIT v. Daimler India Commercial Vehicles (P.) Ltd; (2025) 306 Taxman 343 (SC)

Editorial: Daimler India Commercial Vehicles (P.) Ltd v.Dy CIT (107 taxmann.com 243/ 416 ITR 343 (Mad)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Year of deductibility-Settled under Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2024-Appeal dismissed as withdrawn. [S. 145 [Art. 136]

The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal as withdrawn since the issue which arises for consideration in the said appeal has been settled under Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2024 introduced vide Finance (No.2) Act, 2024. However the Supreme Court left all contention as open and did not decided on the same.(AY. 2001-02)

Yum! Restaurants (India) (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 306 Taxman 353 (SC)

Editorial : Yum! Restaurants (India) (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2009) 180 taxman 8(Delhi)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with sister concern-Quality difference-Debit note raised-Amount offered as income by sister concern-Order of Tribunal affirmed by High Court-SLP delayed by 392 days-SLP dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [Art. 136]

Assessee entered into Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with sister concern N.K. Proteins Ltd. (NKPL), a Star Trading Export House, for export of FSG Oil. Due to quality differences, NKPL realized lower export prices than prices invoiced by assessee. NKPL raised debit notes for price shortfall, which assessee accounted as adjustment against sales and claimed as business expenditure under section 37(1). Assessing Officer disallowed debit note amount treating it as non-genuine. Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed disallowance. On further appeal, Tribunal concluded that debit notes issued for price differences between assessee and sister concern NKPL were valid, as NKPL had already offered the corresponding amount to tax. High Court held that in view of fact that amount was already charged to tax in hands of NKPL, same was rightly not added again in hands of assessee by Tribunal and therefore, there was no infirmity in findings arrived at by Tribunal. SLP of revenue was dismissed since there was an inordinate delay of 392 days in filing SLP and also on merits. (AY. 2012-13)

PCIT v. N.K. Industries Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 1 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. N.K. Industries Ltd(2025) 175 taxmann.com 619 (Guj)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Securities held as stock in trade-Broken period interest-SLP of revenue dismissed.[Art. 136]

High Court held that since assessee-bank purchased securities to hold them as stock-in-trade and claimed deduction of broken period interest paid on purchase of securities, interest paid on such securities would be an allowable deduction. Following the decision in Bank of Rajasthan Ltd. v. CIT [2024] 301 Taxman 463/469 ITR 280 (SC), SLP filed by revenue was dismissed. (AY. 1997-98)

CIT v. HDFC Bank Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 606 (SC)

Editorial: PCIT v. HDFC Bank Ltd(2025) 173 taxmann.com 579 (Bom)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Redemption of debentures-Allowable as revenue expenditure-SLP of revenue dismissed. [Art. 136]

Assessee-company entered into an debenture subscription and share purchase agreement with HDFC wherein HDFC agreed to subscribe optionally convertible debentures of assessee. Assessee claimed deduction on account of premium paid on redemption of these debentures as revenue expenditure. Assessing Officer held that premium paid on redemption would be arising out of reserves and surplus and, thus, same would constitute capital expenditure and could not be allowed as deduction. High Court held that since issuance of debentures and deduction of TDS was not in dispute, premium paid by assessee to allottee on redemption of debentures was to be allowed as revenue expenditure. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

Dy. CIT v. Nitesh Housing Developer (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 517 (SC)

Editorial : Nitesh Housing Developer (P.) Ltd(2023) 290 Taxman 474/ 454 ITR 770 (Karn)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Commencement-Set up of business-Operating expenses, financial expenses-Depreciation-Commenced several activities for which incorporated-Expenditure and depreciation allowable-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S.28(i), 32, Art. 136]

The Tribunal upheld the disallowance of the operating expenses, financial expenses and depreciation claimed by the assessee on the ground that the commercial operation of manufacture and sale of commercial vehicles had not commenced so far and therefore, the business of the assessee had not been set up. The High Court reversed the Tribunal holding that merely because manufacture and sale of vehicles had not taken place, the business of the assessee could not be held not to have been set up, and that the assessee on showing that it had commenced several of the activities for which it was incorporated would qualify for deduction of the expenditure incurred by it under the head operating expenses, financial expenses and depreciation. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2010-11)

Dy. CIT v. Daimler India Commercial Vehicles Pvt. Ltd (2025) 479 ITR 221/306 Taxman 343 (SC)

Editorial : Daimler India Commercial Vehicles Pvt. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT, (2019) 416 ITR 343 /107 taxmann.com 243 (Mad)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-No supporting material-Order of High Court is affirmed. [Art. 136]

Held that the assessee has not placed any material on record in support of its claim for deduction of expenses except the resolution of its Board. Order of High Court is affirmed. (AY. 1990-91 to 1992-93)

M.P. Rajya Van Vikas Nigam Ltd. v CIT (2025) 342 CTR 8 / (2024) 244 DTR 513 (SC)

Editorial : M.P. Rajya Van Vikas Nigam Ltd. v. CIT (judgment dt. 21st Oct., 2009 of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in IT Appeal Nos. 90 of 1999 and 3 & 11 of 2001) affirmed.

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Not shown any income from money lending business-No interest income-Expenditure is not allowable as deduction-SLP of assessee is dismissed. [S. 56, Art. 136]

Assessing Officer disallowed expenditure on ground that assessee had not shown any income from money lending business. Tribunal had held that in past year assessee was found to be earning interest income which justified claim of being into money lending business, however, in relevant year assessee was no more into money lending business and there was no interest income at all either under head income from other sources or business income. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. SLP of the assessee is dismissed. (AY. 2015-16)

Ashok J. Thapar HUF v. Dy. CIT (2025) 302 Taxman 364 (SC)

Editorial : Ashok J. Thapar HUF v. Dy. CIT (2024) 169 taxmann.com 202 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Company-Advance-Interest-Failure to prove nexus-Order of Tribunal affirming the disallowance is affirmed. [S. 15, 260A]

Assessee claimed a deduction of interest expenditure on amounts borrowed by him and advanced to the company. Assessing Officer disallowed interest claim for want of nexus with any business/profession carried on by assessee. The disallowance was affirmed by the CIT(A) and the Tribunal. On appeal, the assessee contended that borrowing was for commercial expediency and, alternatively, interest income from the company should be set off against interest expenditure. Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that mere raising of a loan by mortgaging the assessee's property and advancing it to the company itself would not be considered as expenditure incurred for business/profession. Since the assessee failed to place any details and the nature of professional and technical services rendered to company, and also failed to prove nexus with business carried on by the assessee and raising of a loan by mortgaging the assessee's property and advancing it to the company to claim interest as expenditure incurred against business/professional income, the plea of commercial expediency and set-off was not allowable. (AY. 2013-14 to 2015-16)

Mukesh Gupta v. Dy. CIT (2025) 307 Taxman 632 (Karn.)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-lease of plot-Long-term lease of 99 years-Development charges-Deduction allowable at 5% of contribution towards the development charges at the end of each year-Allowable as revenue expenditure.[S. 260A]

Assessee entered into a lease deed with SIPCOT for allotment of an industrial plot for 99 years long-term lease. As per the lease deed, assessee paid a certain amount towards development charges which included formation of roads, streets, lighting, sanitation, drainage, sewerage, etc. Assessee claimed deduction of said amount as revenue expenditure, which was disallowed. The order of the Assessing Officer is affirmed by the Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that since infrastructural developments including roads, streets, etc., were not owned by assessee and were developed by SIPCOT and assessee did not acquire any right of ownership and payment made no addition to value of assets owned by assessee, but development facilitated running of business of assessee, which was an essential requirement without which business could not be operated, contributions made by assessee were eligible to be treated as a revenue expenditure. Deduction allowable 5% of contribution towards the development charges at the end of each year. (AY. 2006-07 to 2014-15)

Hinduja Foundries Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 307 Taxman 336 /(2026) 486 ITR 117 (Mad.)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Employee welfare expenses-Payment under memorandum of settlement for benefit of entire locality-Allowable as business expenditure.[S. 40A(9)].

Assessee-company made payments towards community services and social welfare in vicinity of its business operations and claimed same as revenue expenditure. As said payments were envisaged under a Memorandum of Settlement (MOS) dated 31-3-1986 between assessee and workmen's union of workers employed by assessee, Assessing Officer disallowed said payments on ground that same were to be disallowed under section 40A(9). Tribunal allowed the claim as revenue expenditure. On appeal the tribunal held that since payments made by assessee were for public causes in locality of its business operations and benefits flowed from it to business of assessee, merely because a commitment to continue such welfare measures was recited in Memorandum of Settlement with workmen's union, these payments would not partake of character of payments made under Memorandum of Settlement or payment required to be made under labour law, or for that matter, payment that was made as an 'employer' so as to attract section 40A(9). Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 1987-88, 1988-89)

CIT v. Tata Engineering and Locomotive Company Ltd [2024] 165 taxmann.com 227 / (2025) 482 ITR 296 (Bom)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Insurance and audit expenses Agreement entered into by assessee not covering insurance and audit expenses-Allowable as business expenditure.[S. 260A]

That the Tribunal was justified in allowing the insurance and audit fees expenses, stating that the agreement between the assessee and the entity did not cover these expenses since the findings of fact had not been shown to be wrong. (AY. 2004-05)

PCIT v. Avantha Realty Ltd (2025) 482 ITR 599 (Cal)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Expenditure wholly and exclusively for business purposes-Expenditure incurred towards welfare activities and community development activities and recreation facilities-Expenditure incurred to fulfil obligations under National Coal Wage Agreements-Tribunal justified in allowing expenditure-Environmental expenses Tribunal remanding matter for want of reasoning by Commissioner (Appeals) and supporting documents is justified. [S. 260A]

Assessee running open-cast coal mines. Expenditure incurred towards welfare activities, community development activities, and recreation facilities. Court held that the Tribunal had found that the assessee had incurred expenditure on running of the institutions by three bodies which ran Pan India schools and also that the liability to discharge the obligation towards education fell on the assessee in terms of the National Coal Wage Agreement entered into between the employees union and the assessee, which was enforceable under law both under the Contract Act, 1872 and the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and also that it was not a voluntary expenditure incurred by the assessee and therefore, the expenses incurred towards education amounted to revenue expenses under section 37(1) to run the business of the assessee. The logic and justification given by the Tribunal in allowing the expenditure under section 37(1) for running the schools did not suffer from any infirmity or illegality in view of the obligations upon the assessee in terms of the National Coal Wage Agreements. As regards environmental expenses, the Tribunal remanding the matter for want of reasoning by the Commissioner (Appeals) and supporting documents is justified.

Northern Coal Fields Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 482 ITR 659/ 173 taxmann.com 69 (MP) (HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Expenses on removal of over-burden Assessee treating expenditure up to stage of mine reaching 25 per cent-Capital expenditure-Demand notice-Matter remanded. [S. 35E,156, Art. 226]

Assessee running open-cast coal mines. Expenses on removal of over-burden Assessee treating expenditure up to the stage of the mine reaching 25 per cent. The court held that the methodology of treating a mine reaching 25 per cent. Of its annual rated capacity was only an accounting methodology adopted by the assessee and was not found in the Act or any other enactment in force. The cut off of revenue mine or a development mine was not backed by any statutory provision and it was only an accounting practice and tradition. The logic was an artificial distinction being projected by the assessee without any sanctity of law. Therefore, the view of the Tribunal is that the expenses incurred in the removal of overburden after the mine reached the stage of 25 per cent. Of its rated annual capacity would amount to revenue expenditure and not capital expenditure was not correct. Demand notice matter remanded.

Northern Coal Fields Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 482 ITR 659/173 taxmann.com 69 (MP) (HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Licence fee-Use of goodwill-Travelling and entertainment expenses-Ad-hoc disallowance of 5 per cent-Provision for discount-Order of Tribunal deleting the disallowance is affirmed.[S. 260A]

Assessee, law firm claimed license fee paid for use of goodwill of one RRSCPL partnership firm. Assessing Officer disallowed the claim. Tribunal allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal, the Court held that in assessee's own case, High Court held that license fee paid by assessee, a law firm, to a partnership firm which was owner of goodwill, for use of goodwill in law firm was wholly and exclusively for business of assessee and thus, allowable as deduction under section 37(1). The appeal of revenue is dismissed. Assessee claimed travelling and entertainment expenses. Assessing Officer made an ad hoc disallowance of 5 per cent of total travelling and entertainment expenses. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the disallowance on the ground that no discrepancy was pointed out in the books. Tribunal upheld deletion, observing that Assessing Officer had not disputed genuineness of expenses and ad hoc disallowance was made merely on assumptions and surmises without showing any evidence for personal use. Order of Tribunal affirmed.

PCIT v. Remfry and Sagar (2025) 307 Taxman 490 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for discount-Order of Tribunal allowing the claim is affirmed. [S.260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the order of the Tribunal allowing the claim for provision for discount is affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. LTI Mindtree Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 25 (Karn.)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Expenditure debited in the profit and loss account was not claimed as a deduction-Disallowance made by the Assessing Officer is held to be unsustainable-Order quashed. [S. 10(23FBA), 115UB, 143(3), Art.226]

Assessing Officer disallowed expenses on the ground that expenses were neither found genuine nor any income had been offered against these expenses and added the same to assessee's income. On writ, the Court held that the addition of expenses made by the Assessing Officer to the total income of the assessee was never claimed as a deduction by the assessee in its return of income. Since the assessee had not claimed any deduction in respect of said expenses, the addition made by the Assessing Officer was wholly unsustainable. Order quashed and set aside. (AY. 2022-23)

Kedaara Captial Fund II LLP v. ANFAC (2025) 307 Taxman 19 (Bom)(HC)

S 37(1):Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Depreciation-Interest-Replacement of old machinery, pollution-free, is revenue expenditure-Fly Ash handling system 100 per cent depreciation allowed-Interest provision-Not allowable as paid. [S. 32, 43B]

Held, expenditure on machinery replacement that is pollution-free and reduces power consumption without increasing capacity is revenue expenditure. 100 per cent depreciation allowed on the Fly Ash handling system as it achieves waste containment. Disallowance under S. 43B for interest provision confirmed in the absence of proof of actual payment. (AY. 1996-97)

CIT v. Ramco Cements Ltd. [2025] 481 ITR 705 / 173 taxmann.com 226 (Mad)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Mark to market loss on derivative-Swap contract loss-Hedge-Foreign exchange loss-Accrued and subsisting liability-Not merely a contingent or hypothetical liability-Allowable as deduction-Accounting Standard 11.[S. 145]

Assessee-company was engaged in business of energy and power generation. It availed external commercial borrowings at rate of LIBOR+4.4 per cent to refinance its project. Assessee to hedge itself from fluctuation in interest rate entered into derivative contract in nature of interest rate swap with Standard Chartered Bank on which it incurred loss. It claimed loss as business expenses/loss allowable as deduction. Assessing Officer held that mark-to-market loss on derivative instrument held by assessee as on balance sheet was not real but notional loss for reason that there was no actual transaction carried out by assessee. He disallowed mark to market loss on interest swap agreement. An identical issue came up before Tribunal in case of sister concern of assessee, wherein it was held that mark-to-market loss on SWAP contract was allowable where loans were converted into a foreign currency loan to take benefit of low interest rate and loss recognized on account of foreign exchange fluctuation as per notified Accounting Standard 11 was an accrued and subsisting liability and not merely a contingent or hypothetical liability. Tribunal allowed the loss. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2015-16, 2016-17)

PCIT v. Adani Power Maharashtra Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 595 (Guj.)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Interest on borrowed funds-Set-off of interest receipts against interest paid-Commencement of business-Interest income for all assessment years to be assessed under head "Business"-Order of Tribunal set aside and order of Commissioner (Appeals) restored. [S.28(1), 56, 57(iii)]

Allowing the appeal the Court held that the Tribunal expected actual commencement of the business after setting up of the necessary infrastructure and equipment. The Tribunal had ignored the issue as to whether financial transactions occurring during the period when the steps were initiated for commencement of the business could be taken into consideration for adjustment. The business for the Act would commence right from the stage of repairing and furnishing of property for being rented out and could not be treated as commenced only when the premises were actually let out to tenants. Interest income was directed to be assessed as business income, interest on borrowed funds was directed to be Set-off of interest receipts against interest paid. (AY.1992-93)

Modi Business Centre Pvt. Ltd. v Dy. CIT (2025) 480 ITR 471 /177 taxmann.com 602 (Bom)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Bad debt-Advances given in the course of business written off-Genuineness of advances not doubted-Books audited by statutory auditors-Write-off allowable as deduction-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 28(i), 36(1)(vii), 260A]

The assessee had written off advances given to more than 50 parties in the course of business on the ground that the amounts had become irrecoverable or no services were received. The Tribunal allowed the claim after noting that the genuineness of the advances was never doubted by the Revenue and that the books of account were duly audited. The High Court observed that the DRP had failed to consider detailed evidences furnished by the assessee vide letter dated 4-3-2014 and its observation that the claim lacked evidence was incorrect. Considering that the assessee had declared income exceeding Rs. 30 crore and the net write-off was only Rs. 7,66,713 involving small advances, the Tribunal's view allowing deduction was reasonable and justified. Accordingly, no substantial question of law arose and the order of the Tribunal was affirmed. (AY. 2010-11).

PCIT v. Watson Pharma (P) Ltd. (2025) 173 taxmann.com 957 / 346 CTR 82 / 249 DTR 25 (Bom)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Penalty, fine, etc.-Payment of licence fee for use of goodwill by legal firm to heirs of goodwill owner-Alleged breach of Bar Council of India Rules not an offence or purpose prohibited by law-Deduction allowable. [S. 37(1), Explanation.]

The assessee-firm paid licence fees to the heirs of the erstwhile proprietor for use of the name and goodwill "R&S". The Assessing Officer disallowed the expenditure invoking the Explanation to section 37(1) on the ground that the arrangement violated the Bar Council of India Rules prohibiting sharing of professional fees with non-lawyers. The Tribunal allowed the claim. On appeal, the High Court held that disallowance under the Explanation to section 37(1) applies only where expenditure is incurred for commission of an offence or for a purpose prohibited by law and the decisive test is the principal purpose of the expenditure. A breach of Bar Council of India Rules is not classified as an offence in law and payment made for commercial exploitation of goodwill cannot be regarded as expenditure incurred for an unlawful or prohibited purpose. The licence fee was consideration paid for use of a valuable transferable asset, namely goodwill, and the reference to firm revenue merely provided a mechanism for quantification of consideration and did not amount to sharing of professional fees. The Revenue erred in questioning the validity or motive of the gift of goodwill since the only issue was deductibility of expenditure. As the payment was made wholly for business purposes and not for committing an offence or circumventing law, deduction was allowable, and the order of the Tribunal was affirmed. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Remfry & Sagar (2025) 171 taxmann.com 391 / 345 CTR 703 / 252 DTR 103 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : Affirmed, Remfry & Sagar v. Jt. CIT (2016) 182 TTJ 744(Delhi) (Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for warranty-Deletion of addition by the Tribunal is affirmed.

Held that disallowance is arbitrary and unsustainable. Deletion of addition on account of excess warranty provision by the Tribunal, proper. (AY. 2016-17)

PCIT v. Sony India Pvt. Ltd [2024] 167 taxmann.com 549 / (2025) 477 ITR 576 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Foreign exchange rates Expenses incurred on account of foreign exchange fluctuation and interest thereon in respect of foreign currency loans-Allowable business expenditure-Order of Tribunal set aside-Travelling expenses-Expenses incurred towards foreign tour of executives accompanied by their spouses-Major portion of claim allowed by Commissioner (Appeals)-Miniscule amount being involved order of Tribunal, affirmed.

Held that foreign exchange rates Expenses incurred on account of foreign exchange fluctuation and interest thereon in respect of foreign currency loans, allowable business expenditure. Order of Tribunal set aside. Travelling expenses incurred towards foreign tour of executives accompanied by their spouses. Major portion of claim allowed by Commissioner (Appeals). Miniscule amount being involved order of Tribunal, affirmed. (AY. 1985-86, 1987-88)

Bajaj Auto Ltd. v.Dy. CIT (2025) 477 ITR 611/176 taxmann.com 104 (Bom)(HC)

CIT v. Reliance Industries Ltd. (2025) 477 ITR 611/176 taxmann.com 104 (Bom)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Construction business-Order of Tribunal deleting the disallowance was affirmed.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the court held that the Tribunal was justified in deleting the disallowance made by the AO. (AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Ketī Construction Ltd [2024] 162 taxmann.com 278 / (2025) 475 ITR 182 (MP) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Statutory reserve fund-Amounts transferred to statutory reserve fund in compliance with mandatory provisions of Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934-No diversion of income-Not allowable as deduction.[S. 4, Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 S. 45-IC, 45Q.]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the Tribunal was right in holding that, there had been no diversion of income under the 1961 Act, by overriding charge in respect of amount transferred to statutory reserve fund in compliance with the mandatory provisions of section 45-IC read with section 45Q of the 1934 Act, and the amount transferred by the assessee to the reserve fund in compliance with the provisions of the 1934 Act was not an allowable deduction under section 37 of the 1961 Act.(AY. 2006-07)

Shriram City Union Finance Ltd.v. ACIT (2025) 474 ITR 514 (Mad)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for claims made on customer-wise details-Not a contingent liability-Provision for incurred but not reported claims allowable as deduction.[S.260A, First Schedule]

The assessee, an insurance company, had created provisions for unsettled claims and IBNR based on customer-wise details and actuarial methods. The Assessing Officer treated these as contingent liabilities and disallowed them; the Tribunal deleted the disallowances. The High Court dismissed the Department's appeal, holding that provisioning based on customer-wise details and actuarial estimation under IRDA regulations is not a contingent liability and is an allowable deduction under section 37(1).(AY. AY. 2013-14 to 2015-16)

PCIT v. Care Health Insurance Ltd. (earlier Religare Health Insurance Co. Ltd.) [2024] 164 taxmann.com 53 / (2025) 474 ITR 402 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Contribution to its employees under Provident Funds-No disallowance can be made on the ground that it was not made to recognised Provident Fund [S. 260A, Provident Funds Act, 1925]

Held that the Tribunal was justified in holding that contribution made by assessee-company to PF of its employees under Provident Funds Act, 1925 was allowable, and it could not be disallowed on ground that it was not made to a Recognised Provident Fund. (AY. 1999-2000)

CIT v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 134 (P&H)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Commercial expediency-Business loss-write-off of the deposits and interest-Amount lent to subsidiary-Allowable as business expenditure.[S. 28(i)]

The Court observed that in the instant case, the claim of the assessee for the expenditure and the deduction of write-off being the amount lent to

MMC including interest due and advances for purchase of machinery given in the course of dealing with MMC was disallowed by the authorities under the Act for the preceding year i.e. the year 1989-90. The assessee filed an appeal viz. ITXA No.626 of 2002 which was decided by a Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 9th June 2023 in Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. vs. Commissioner of Income Tax. The Hon Court agreed with the view taken by Division Bench of this Court in assessee's own case in Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. v. CIT (Order dated 9th June 2023) for the following reasons. Admittedly, MMC is a subsidiary of the assessee and assessee holds 27% equity capital of MMC since its incorporation. The assessee promoted the MMC on 15th May 1946. From the date of incorporation of the assessee, it was the managing agent of the MMC and the assessee has acted as a managing agent till 1974 when the Companies Act, 1974 abolished the Managing Agency System. However, due to severe recession in the textile industry, MMC started making losses. Thereupon, the MMC was wound-up. The assessee, in its board meeting held on 27th March 1989 agreed to incur expenditure for maintenance of MMC. Thereafter on 10th July 1990 the Board of Directors of the assessee agreed to resolve the dispute to meet the expenditure till the affairs of MMC were wound-up. The Board of Directors approved the expenditure made by the assessee in the previous relevant Assessment Year 1990-91. The assessee held substantial portion of equity capital of MMC and MMC was regarded in public and official circles as a Mahindra Company. The assessee, in order to protect and preserve the assets and to protect the value of goodwill attached to the assessee by various sections of the society and on the ground of commercial expediency, incurred expenditure, which is permissible as deduction.(AY. 1990-91)

Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. v. CIT [2025] 174 taxmann.com 154 (Bom)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Securities held as stock in trade-Interest paid for broken period allowable as deduction-Rights issue of Fully Convertible Debentures (FCDs)-Expenditure on account of printing expenses, advertisement, professional fees, stamp duty and filing fees, bank charges, packages, etc-Allowable as deduction.

Assessing Officer disallowed broken period interest paid by assessee on ground that it formed part of price of asset purchased, which had already been debited to profit and loss account. The order of the AO is affirmed by CIT(A) and Tribunal. On appeal the court held that Supreme Court in case similar to assessee held that since said securities were treated as stock-in-trade, broken period interest could not be considered as capital expenditure and would have to be treated as revenue expenditure, which could be allowed as deduction. Relied on Bank of Rajasthan Ltd v. CIT (2024) 301 Taxman 463 (SC), CITY Bank NA (2003) 130 Taxman 334/ 264 ITR 18 (Bom)(HC), American Express International Banking Corporation (2002) 125 Taxman 488/ 258 ITR 601 (Bom)(HC). Assessee had made a rights issue of Fully Convertible Debentures (FCDs) and in such connection, had incurred expenditure on account of printing expenses, advertisement, professional fees, stamp duty and filing fees, bank charges, packages, etc.. Assessing Officer rejected claim on ground that real intention of assessee was to increase its capital and not to raise borrowed capital. The order of the AO is affirmed by the CIT(A) and Tribunal. On appeal the Court held in case similar to assessee, High Court held that debentures were to be converted in near future into equity shares, expenditure incurred needs to be allowed as revenue expenditure. Followed CIT v. Faze Three Ltd (ITA No. 1761 of 2014 dt 16-3-2017, CIT v. Secure Meters Ltd (2010) 321 ITR 621(Raj)(HC) CIT v. Havells India Ltd (2012) 208 Taxman 114 /352 ITR 376 (Delhi)(HC). (AY. 1993-94)

HDFC Bank Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 302 Taxman 460/477 ITR 197 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Creation of a reserve fund and transfer certain amount to such reserve as per section 45-IC of

Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934-Not allowable as deduction.
[S.115JB, Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 S. 45-IC.]

Assessee is NBFC was mandated to create a reserve fund and transfer certain amount to such reserve as per section 45-IC of Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934. Assessee claimed deduction of said amount while computing taxable income. Assessing Officer disallowed deduction claimed by assessee. Order of the AO is affirmed by the Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that in case of Shriram Transport Finance Company Ltd. v. ITO (OSD) [T.C.A. No. 755 of 2009, dated 30-6-2022], it was held that reserve is amount of profit which is retained for use in business, when difficulty arises and amount transferred by assessee to statutory reserve as mandated under provisions of the RBI Act, was not an allowable deduction in computing assessable income under provisions of Act under regular computation and computation of book profits under section 115JB. Order of the Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2006-07)

Shriram City Union Finance Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 302 Taxman 288 (Mad.)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Increase in payment to director-Company approved on 30-9-2004-The liability crystallised in the year when approved in AGM and not in an earlier year when the resolution was passed-Expenditure not deductible in Assessment Year 2004-05 [S. 145, 260A]

The Court held that the commission of ₹30 lakhs paid to the managing director for the assessment year (AY) 2004-2005 was not deductible as a revenue expenditure under the mercantile system of accounting, as the liability was ratified only in the subsequent AY 2005-2006. The appellant company claimed the deduction based on a resolution passed in December 2003, but the liability was approved in the Annual General Meeting (AGM) on September 30, 2004. The Court ruled that the liability crystallised in AY 2005-2006 upon ratification in the AGM, and despite the mercantile system recognising accrued liabilities, the approval was a prerequisite for the liability to arise. Therefore, the expense could not be claimed for AY 2004-2005 as the liability was contingent until ratified. The High Court upheld the Tribunal's order, dismissing the appeal and answering the question of law in favour of the Revenue. (AY. 2004-2005)

UC Mas Mental Arithmetic (India) Pvt. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025)472 ITR 585 (Mad)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Bogus expenses-Double taxation-Two constituent entities already offered to tax certain amounts out of receipts of aggregate amounts from assessee-Same amount not liable to be taxed in the hands of the assessee as it would amount to double taxation.[S. 260A]

The Hon'ble Delhi High Court, deciding an appeal involving additions under S. 37 of the Act as bogus expenses emanating out of a search action, observed that the Respondent had never claimed the expense of Rs. 40 Crores and thus the question of any addition does not arise, as rightly held by the Tribunal. Further, the Court also observed that the aggregate amount of Rs. 40 Crores had already been offered to tax by two constituent entities. In view of the same, there arose no substantial question of law.(AY. 2012-13)

PCIT, Central v. Onehub Chennai Pvt. Ltd. [2025] 302 Taxman 497 (Delhi)(HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Payments made by an assessee for the use of a logo or trademark for a particular period, aimed at business improvement/expansion, qualify as revenue expenditure.[S. 260A]

The assessee is engaged in the chit fund business. The issue involved includes a question on whether the royalty payments made by the assessee to its parent company for using its logo should be treated as revenue expenditure or capital expenditure.

The revenue argued that the royalty payments should be treated as capital expenditure because they were for acquiring an intangible asset, thus only allowing for depreciation at 25% under Section 32. The assessee argued that the royalty payments were for the use of the parent company's logo and trademark, which were non-transferable and non-exclusive, and thus should be treated as revenue expenditure under Section 37(1).

The Hon'ble Tribunal ratifying the argument of the Assessee held that the royalty payments were revenue in nature and allowed the full deduction under Section 37(1).

The Hon'ble High Court upheld the Hon'ble Tribunal's decision, ruling that the royalty payments for the use of the logo or trademark for a particular period, aimed at business improvement/expansion, qualify as revenue expenditure under Section 37(1). (AY. 2014-15)

CIT v. Shriram Chits Tamil Nadu (P.) Ltd (2025) 473 ITR 278 /303 taxman 24 (Mad.) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for pit filling expenses-Tribunal remanding the matter to the Assessing Officer-No substantial question of law.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the Revenue had not alleged or pleaded that the finding recorded by the Tribunal was perverse. The order of the Tribunal remanding the matter to the Assessing Officer for reconsideration of the deduction of provision for pit filling expenses under section 37, after granting an opportunity of hearing to the assessee was without expressing any opinion on the merits. The order of remand would not prejudice the interests of the Revenue or the assessee. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Gogte Minerals (2024) 471 ITR 410 (Karn) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Expenditure on capital stores and spares-replacement of spares of machinery-Allowable as revenue expenditure-Expenses incurred on software for facilitating trading operation is revenue expenditure. [S. 32, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held expenditure incurred on capital stores and spares and the expenditure on account of replacement of spares of machinery as revenue expenditure. Court also held that Tribunal was justified in deleting the addition of net of depreciation being expenses incurred on software as revenue expenditure.(AY. 2005-06)

PCIT v. Gujarat Industries Power Co. Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 525 (Guj) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for warranty-Under contract of sale-Liquidated damages-Allowable as expenditure-Leave travel allowance as per rule and consistent practice-Allowable deduction-Provision of 43B(f) is not applicable. [S.10(15), 43B(f), 260A,]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue,the Court held that the Tribunal is justified in allowing the provision for warranty and liquidated damages as allowable expenditure. Leave travel allowance as per rule and consistent practice allowable deduction. Provision of 43B(f) is not applicable. (AY, 2007-08, 2011-12, 2012-13)

PCIT v. Heavy Engineering Corporation Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 481 (Jharkhand) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Iron ore mining was illegal-Transport charges-allowable as revenue expenditure-Allegation that part of expenditure utilised by director-No disallowance can be made in the assessment of company-No substantial question of law. [S. 37(1), Explanation, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that even if the allegation of the Assessing Officer were accepted that the assessee was doing some illegal mining and the production of the assessee to the extent of 40 per cent. of production was out of illegal mining, the expenses incurred for such production did not attract the disallowance under Explanation 1 to section 37(1) of the Act because the expenses incurred for mining could not be considered as for an offence or prohibited by law in itself. It was not the case of the Assessing Officer that any deduction had been claimed by the assessee for facilitating the carrying out of illegal mining or for any penalty in respect of such illegal mining. The assessee had produced evidence to show that the expenditure claimed had been for purposes of transportation. The oral statements of the transporters recorded behind the assessee's back could not be used in evidence in the present proceedings. That was opposed to principles of natural justice contrary to law and therefore vitiated. Court also held that if a director of the company had been benefited by the expenses in respect of repairs and maintenance and depreciation on helicopter, the Assessing Officer of the director was at liberty to make additions as per law in the hands of such director. No disallowance could be made in the hands of the assessee-company. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Obulapuram Mining Company Pvt. Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 1 (Karn) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Construction of school and temples situated in the villages surrounding the mining area-business exigencies-Allowable as revenue expenditure-No substantial question of law. [S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that village areas, the assessee needed to maintain healthy relations and create cordial relations with the villagers residing in the surrounding locality of the mining and business area, so that smooth business and mining activity could be undertaken. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. No substantial question of law (AY. 2010-11)

ACIT v. Sociedade De Fomento Industrial Pvt. Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 273 (Bom) (HC)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Upfront fees and brokerage fees-Non-convertible debentures-Year of allowability-If the tax rate is uniform in two years then, the deduction whether claimed by the assessee in the year one or two is of no consequence to the revenue-The revenue expenditure is to be allowed in the year in which it is incurred but it could be spread over only at the instance of an assessee-Order of Tribunal is affirmed-No substantial question of law.[S. 145, 260A]

In the appeal filed by the Revenue the issue before the court is whether the upfront fees and brokerage fees for issuing non-convertible debentures should be allowed fully in the assessment year 2004-05 or should be spread over two years for which non-convertible debentures were issued. There is no dispute between the parties that expenses have to be allowed as a deduction, but the only issue is whether it should be allowed fully in one year or it should be spread over a period of two years. The rate of tax for the assessment years 2004-05 and 2005-06 is same. Following the judgement in CIT v. Nagri Mills Co. Ltd.(1958) 33 ITR 681 (Bom)(HC) has observed that if the tax rate is uniform in two years then, the deduction whether claimed by the assessee in the year one or two is of no consequence to the revenue. Referred PCIT v. Rakesh Prakash Timblo (2019) 106 taxmann.com 255 /415 ITR 344 (Bom)(HC), CIT v. Excel Industries Ltd (2013) 358 ITR 295 (SC).Court also held that in Madras Industrial Investment Corporation Ltd. v. CIT (1997) 225 ITR 802 (SC) and Taparia Tools Ltd v. JCIT (2015) 372 ITR 605(SC) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the revenue expenditure is to be allowed in the year in which it is incurred but it could be spread over only at the instance of an assessee. Appeal of Revenue is dismissed. (AY.2004-05) (ITA NO.661 of 2018 dt.8-1-2025)

PCIT v. Tata Industries Ltd (Bom)(HC) www.itatonline.org

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Stock-in-trade-Conversion and development expenses-AO disallowed expenditure treating same as capital expenditure-Assessee demonstrated that amount was included in closing stock-Adjustment was revenue neutral-Addition was unjustified.

The AO disallowed conversion/development expenses treating them as capital expenditure. The assessee argued the amount was debited in P&L and was included in closing stock under Land & Building Stock-in-Trade. Therefore, there was no reduction of taxable income. On appeal, ITAT observed that the said treatment was tax neutral as the amount was already reflected in closing stock. Mere nomenclature like 'Capital WIP' does not determine tax treatment. The ITAT accepted this explanation and held that no addition was justified (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16, 2017-18)

Anjana Construction v. ACIT (2025) 128 ITR 148 (Jodhpur)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure-Assessment years prior to 01.04.2015-Allowable as deduction.

Assessee-company, engaged in providing long-term finance for the development of housing and infrastructure, incurred CSR expenditure pursuant to directions issued by the Department of Public Enterprises. Assessing Officer disallowed the expenditure on the ground that it was not incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes.

Explanation 2 to section 37(1), inserted by Finance (No. 2) Act, 2014 with effect from 01.04.2015, specifically disallows CSR expenditure. However, said amendment is prospective in operation. Since expenditure was incurred in years prior to assessment year 2015-16 and was incurred pursuant to regulatory mandate, the same was allowable as business expenditure under section 37(1). (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Prior period expenditure-Crystallisation of liability-Allowable in year of claim, subject to verification. [S. 145]

Assessee claimed prior period expenditure in the current assessment year. Assessing Officer disallowed the same on the grounds that the liability pertained to earlier years and assessee failed to establish crystallization during the relevant previous year. Held that where expenditure had not been claimed as a deduction in earlier years and liability crystallized during the year under consideration, deduction could not be denied merely because expenditure related to an earlier period. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether the expenditure had already been claimed in earlier years. If not claimed earlier, the same was allowable in the year under consideration. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Grants-in-aid-Expenditure for promotion of housing and urban development-Allowable as a deduction.

Assessee engaged in financing housing and urban development projects claimed grants-in-aid expenditure as business expenditure. Assessing Officer disallowed the claim. Since the assessee's business consisted of financing housing and urban development projects, expenditure incurred by way of grants-in-aid contributed to the promotion of its business activities. Following earlier orders in assessee's own case, such expenditure was allowable as a business deduction under section 37(1). (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Foreign exchange fluctuation loss-Mark-to-market loss-Reinstatement of assets and liabilities-Allowable as a deduction. [S.28(1)]

The assessee claimed a foreign exchange fluctuation loss arising on the reinstatement of assets and liabilities as on the balance sheet date. Assessing Officer treated it as a notional loss and disallowed the deduction. Allowability of foreign exchange fluctuation loss computed on the basis of the exchange rate prevailing on the balance sheet date was settled by the Supreme Court in CIT v. Woodward Governor India (P.) Ltd.(2009) 312 ITR 254 (SC). Such loss was not merely notional and was allowable as business expenditure. Accordingly, the disallowance was rightly deleted. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR 387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Ad hoc disallowance-No defect in books of account or audited accounts-Disallowance not sustainable. [S. 44AB, 145]

The Assessing Officer disallowed one per cent of the total expenditure on an ad hoc basis, which was partly sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) in respect of certain administrative expenses. The Tribunal held that the assessee maintained regular books of account duly audited under section 44AB and the Assessing Officer had neither rejected the books under section 145 nor pointed out any specific defect or discrepancy in the expenditure claimed. In the absence of any material establishing that the expenses were not incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes, the ad hoc disallowance was unsustainable and was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Sarvodaya Mining Services v. Asst. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 267 (Jodhpur)(Trib.).

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Business set up but not commenced-Expenditure allowable after setting up of business. [S. 4, 28, 56, 57(iii)]

The assessee, engaged in setting up a thermal power project, claimed deduction of expenditure incurred after the business had been set up though commercial operations had not commenced. The Assessing Officer treated the expenditure as pre-operative and also assessed interest income from bank deposits and loans as "Income from other sources", denied deduction under section 57(iii) and taxed foreign exchange gains arising on year-end reinstatement of loans advanced to an overseas concern. The Tribunal held that the relevant test is the date on which the business is set up and not the date of commencement of commercial operations. Once the business is set up, all expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes is allowable notwithstanding that no business income has yet been earned. The Tribunal further held that interest income from bank deposits and loans to sister concerns, having no nexus with the power project, was assessable as "Income from other sources". However, the corresponding finance cost having nexus with such income was directed to be examined and allowed under section 57(iii), ensuring that the deduction was allowed only once. It was further held that marked-to-market foreign exchange gains arising merely on reinstatement of loans advanced to an overseas concern, there being no evidence that the loans were on revenue account, did not constitute taxable income and the addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Shapoorji Pallonji Energy (Gujarat) (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 427 (Trib.).

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Employees' Stock Option Plan (ESOP)-Discount on ESOP-Ascertained liability-Deduction allowable.

The Assessing Officer disallowed the expenditure incurred on Employees' Stock Option Plan (ESOP) on the ground that it represented a notional or contingent liability. The Tribunal held that once the liability towards ESOP discount had accrued, it became an ascertained business expenditure, notwithstanding that its quantification or discharge would take place in future. Since the expenditure was recognised over the vesting period in accordance with the SEBI Guidelines and the applicable accounting standards, the assessee was entitled to deduction under section 37(1). (AY. 2009-10, 2012-13).

Bayer Crop Science Ltd. (Successor to Monsanto India Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 679 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Expenditure on movie tickets provided to staff of clients for chairman's film-Incurred for maintaining good relations with clients-Deduction allowable.

Held that the expenditure on movie tickets, as incurred for maintaining client relations, is allowable as a deduction. (AY. 2013 14)

Asst. CIT v. Kerry Indev Logistics P. Ltd (2025) 131 ITR 100 (Chennai) (Trib)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Foreign exchange fluctuation loss-Working capital-Allowable as a deduction. [S. 145, AS-11]

Held that since the assessee has recognised the losses on forex fluctuation in relation to the closing balance held in EEFC a/c regularly in accordance with AS-11 and the Revenue has accepted the claim of fluctuation loss as 'real and revenue in nature', the same is an allowable deduction. (AY. 2010-11)

Vgm Export v. JCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 526 / 172 taxmann.com 819 (Panaji) (Trib)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Advertisement material and goods-Purchase of icebox and plastic tables and chairs, bearing the logo-Allowable as business expenditure.

Assessee, a soft drink bottler, having disclosed net profit of 6.27 per cent, which is satisfactory and acceptable, the advertisement expenses incurred on the purchase of ice boxes, plastic tables and chairs bearing the logo, which were distributed to small vendors, cannot be disallowed for want of details of the said vendors (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT v Ludhiana Beverages (P) Ltd. (2025) 235 TTJ 535 (Amritsar)(Trib)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-State tax paid in USA-Not claimed any benefit of the tax paid in the USA under the provisions of S. 90/91-State tax paid in USA is allowable as deduction-

Assessee not claimed benefit of provisions of S. 90/91, qua the State tax paid in the USA, the same is allowable as a deduction. Followed Bank of India v. Asstt. CIT (2021) 210 TTJ 649 (Mum) (Trib). (AY.2016-17)

Bosch Global Software Technologies (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 235 TTJ 807 / 174 taxmann.com 76 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Commission for securing a loan-Allowable as business expenditure.

Held that commission paid for securing the loan on which the TDS was deducted, which was paid through Cheque, is held to be allowable as business expenditure (AY. 2018-19)

DCIT v. Darshan Enterprises (2025) 236 TTJ 22 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Interest on delayed payment of tax deducted at source-Allowable as business expenditure. [S. 40(a)(ii), 201(IA)]

Held that interest on the delayed payment of tax deducted at source payable under section 201(IA) or any other similar provision is deductible in computing the profits and gains of business or profession of the payer; the provisions of section 40(a)(ii) are not applicable. (AY. 2017-18)

Ganpati Gems & Jewellers v. ACIT (2025) 236 TTJ 100 (Jaipur Trib)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Accrual-Provision for claim payout in respect of guarantee fee-allowable as a deduction.[S. 145]

Tribunal held that a provision for liability to make payment towards claim payout made by the assessee trust engaged in providing credit guarantee on the basis of an actuarial report obtained from an independent actuary is an ascertained liability in view of the provisions of the Credit Guarantee Funds for Micro Units Scheme and therefore the provision created during the relevant year is allowable as deduction as the assessee is following accrual basis of accounting. (AY. 2019-20)

Credit Gurantee Fund for Micro Units v.NFAC (2025) 236 TTJ 296 (Mum)(Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Penalty, fine, etc.-Payment made to intermediaries/ aggregators towards outsourcing of policy servicing activities-The payment made to the aggregators is allowable as a deduction.

Held that there is no prohibition against outsourcing of policy servicing activities by an insurance company; since the assessee has not been declared to be guilty of any offence nor has any penal action been initiated against the assessee for violation of the provisions of the Insurance Act or IRDAI guidelines, the exceptions provided under Expln. 1 to s. 37(1) is not applicable. Accordingly, the payment made to the aggregators is allowable as a deduction. (AY. 2010-11, 2011-12, 2013-14 to 2016-17)

HDFC Ergo General Insurance Company Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 105 (Mum) Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Insurance premium paid on the insurance policy of a partner-Loan was granted with the condition of obtaining an insurance policy of one partner-Allowable as business expenditure.

Held that the lender company had granted a loan to the assessee on the condition that the assessee had to obtain an insurance policy, and the said loan was utilised for business purposes. Insurance premium paid on the insurance policy of a partner is an allowable business expenditure. (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises v. Dy.CIT (2025) 237 TTJ 497 (Mum) Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Royalty-Use of land-Power of attorney-Allowable as a deduction. [S.2(47)(vi)]

Held that payment of royalty for the use of land is allowable as business expenditure. (AY. 2012-13)

Balajee Infratech & Constructions (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 568 / 179 taxmann.com 420 (Mum)(Trib).

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Settlement of patent dispute-Compensation paid for settlement of civil litigation is allowable business expenditure and not hit by Explanation 1 to section 37(1). [S. 37(1), Explns. 1 & 3]

The assessee paid compensation to a foreign company for the settlement of a patent infringement dispute through an out-of-court settlement. The Tribunal held that the payment was neither a penalty nor for any purpose prohibited by law, but was incurred for commercial expediency to settle a bona fide civil dispute. Explanation 3 to section 37(1), inserted by the Finance Act, 2022, enlarging the scope of "prohibited by law", is prospective and cannot be applied to AY 2014-15. Accordingly, the disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2014-15)

DCIT v. AIA Engineering Ltd. (2025) 238 TTJ 632 / 179 taxmann.com 152 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Accrued or contingent liability-Assessee in real estate business-Provision for construction expenses made on fair estimate of amount required for completion of project, following matching concept-Amount spent in subsequent year through proper banking channels, no discrepancies noticed by Revenue-Provision to be allowed.[S. 145]

The assessee-firm, engaged in civil construction, had debited Rs. 4 crores as provision for construction expenses towards completion of remaining project work, which was disallowed by AO on the ground that under the mercantile system only crystallised liabilities were allowable, and this was upheld by CIT(A), though the deemed rent addition of Rs. 14,80,398 on unsold flats and shops was sustained. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the flats sold during the year were not fully complete, the provision was made on a fair estimate following the matching concept, the amount was actually spent in the subsequent year through proper banking channels with no discrepancies noticed by the Revenue, and the assessee, following the project completion method, had already completed 90% of the project and recognised revenue on the entire sale proceeds, the provision for construction expenses was to be allowed and the addition of Rs. 4 crores was deleted; the addition on account of deemed rent was rightly sustained; and the disallowance of depreciation was restored to AO for fresh adjudication after affording the assessee an opportunity to substantiate its claim with relevant bills or vouchers. (AY. 2017-18)

Surana Mutha Bhansali Developers v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 240 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Capital or revenue expenditure-Brand relaunch expenses spread over three years-Activity not enlarging profit-making apparatus nor new line of business-Substantially revenue expenditure though benefit accruing over years-Not capital merely because benefit flows over more than one year-No enduring advantage in capital field-Expenditure allowable-

Disallowance of expenditure relating to exempt income-No exempt income earned during year-Explanation introduced by Finance Act, 2022 prospective, not applicable-No disallowance called for-Accrual of liability-Expenditure disallowed as prior period expenses-Ascertained and crystallised during the year-No deduction claimed in earlier years-Allowable in year of crystallisation-Deduction only on actual payment-Delayed payment of employees' contribution to provident fund and employees' State insurance-Not allowable. Payments to foreign agencies for services rendered abroad-Payees having no permanent establishment in India-Payments not taxable in hands of non-residents under Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements-Cannot be disallowed for failure to deduct tax at source. Commissioner (Appeals) directing Assessing Officer to reconcile difference between interest receipts and bad debts-Mere directions for verification-No interference called for. [S. 2(24)(x), 9(1)(vii), 14A, 40(a)(i), 43B, 250, 254(1)]

The assessee, engaged in printing and publication of newspapers. The Assessing Officer disallowance of one-third of brand relaunch expenses treating them as capital in nature, disallowance under section 14A despite no exempt income being earned, disallowance of certain prior period expenses, disallowance under section 43B for delayed deposit of employees' contributions to provident fund and ESI, disallowance under section 40(a)(i) for non-deduction of tax on payments to foreign news agencies, and additions based on discrepancies in interest receipts and bad debts as per Form 26AS. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the brand relaunch expenses, not resulting in any enlargement of the profit-making apparatus or acquisition of enduring advantage, were substantially revenue in nature notwithstanding the benefit spreading over years, and were allowable; that since no exempt income was earned during the year, the Explanation to section 14A introduced by the Finance Act, 2022 being prospective could not be applied, and the disallowance was deleted; that the prior period expenses, having crystallised and been ascertained only during the year with no prior claim thereof, were allowable in the year under consideration; that the disallowance under section 43B for delayed payment of employees' contributions to provident fund and ESI was rightly confirmed; that payments made to foreign news agencies for services rendered abroad, the payees having no PE in India, were exempt from taxation under the relevant DTAA and could not be disallowed under section 40(a)(i) for non-deduction; and that the directions of the CIT(A) to AO to verify and reconcile the discrepancies in interest receipts and bad debts called for no interference.(AY. 2010-11to 2012-13)

Express Publications (Madurai) P. Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 519(Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Commission-Telecommunication business-Ad hoc disallowance deleted-Royalty, Wireless Planning Commission charges and advertisement expenditure-Revenue expenditure-Judicial consistency followed.

The Assessing Officer disallowed 10 per cent. of the commission expenditure on an ad hoc basis. The Tribunal, following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, held that commission payments formed an integral part of telecommunication business operations and there was no justification for the disallowance. The deletion by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. Following earlier decisions in the assessee's own case and in the case of its sister concern, the Tribunal held that royalty, Wireless Planning Commission charges and advertisement expenditure were allowable as revenue expenditure. The Revenue's appeals were dismissed by applying the principle of judicial consistency (AY. 1999-2000 & 2007-08).

Asst. CIT v. Vodafone West Ltd (2025) 126 ITR 335 / 173 taxmann.com 585 (Delhi)(Trib.)

ACIT v. Vodafone Idea Ltd. (2025) 126 ITR 335 / 173 taxmann.com 585 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Employees' Stock Option Plan-Discord on issue of shares-Expenditure allowable.

The Tribunal followed its earlier orders in the assessee's own case and held that the Employees' Stock Option Plan expenditure, representing the difference between the fair market value and the issue price of shares and accounted for in accordance with the SEBI Guidelines, constituted an allowable business expenditure. The Assessing Officer was directed to delete the disallowance. (AY. 2018-19).

Sterling Holiday Resorts Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 284 / 180 taxmann.com 310 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Mark-to-market loss on foreign exchange hedging-Allowable deduction.

The Tribunal held that mark-to-market loss arising on foreign exchange hedging contracts as on the balance-sheet date represented an allowable business expenditure. The disallowance made by the Assessing Officer was deleted. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13).

Dy. CIT v. Bodal Chemicals Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 194 / 177 taxmann.com 448 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Lease equalisation reserve-Accounting Standard-19-Not a contingent liability-Deduction allowable. [S. 145]

The assessee claimed deduction towards lease equalisation reserve computed in accordance with Accounting Standard-19 for spreading lease rentals over the lease period. The Tribunal held that the claim represented a recognised method of accounting consistently followed by the assessee and accepted by the Revenue in other years. The lease equalisation reserve was not a contingent liability and was allowable as business expenditure. (AY. 2014-15).

Birlasoft Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 63 / 173 taxmann.com 634 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Research programme-Payment for employees' training and research-Expenditure incurred wholly for business purposes-Allowable-Advertisement and brand promotion expenses-Payment for use of established brand and designs-Revenue expenditure-Sponsorship expenses-Assessee failed to establish business purpose-Disallowance upheld.[S. 32]

The assessee made payments to a research institution in the United States under a collaborative research programme under which its employees received specialised training and research inputs for the future growth of its business. Though the payments were described as donations, the Tribunal held that their real nature was expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business. The deduction was, therefore, allowable under section 37(1). The Assessing Officer treated payments made towards brand equity and design promotion as capital expenditure. The Tribunal held that the payment merely enabled the assessee to use the established brand and derive commercial advantage in its business without acquiring ownership of any intangible asset. The expenditure was revenue in nature and allowable as a deduction. The assessee claimed deduction of sponsorship expenditure incurred towards sponsoring a prize at an annual function. The Tribunal held that although the payment was established, the assessee failed to demonstrate how the sponsorship promoted or benefited its business. As the expenditure was not shown to have been incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes, the disallowance was upheld. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Glow signboards, sales tools and fixtures supplied to dealers-Expenditure revenue in nature-

Royalty-Manufacturing business already established-Royalty paid for manufacture of two-wheelers-Revenue expenditure-Technical know-how-Expenditure incurred after commencement of manufacturing-Revenue expenditure.

The Assessing Officer treated expenditure incurred on glow signboards installed at dealers' premises and sales tools and fixtures supplied to dealers as capital expenditure. The Tribunal held that once the signboards were fixed at the dealers' premises, the assessee no longer retained ownership over them and the expenditure was incurred wholly for business promotion. Following its earlier orders in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that expenditure on signboards, sales tools and fixtures was allowable as revenue expenditure. The Assessing Officer treated royalty paid to the overseas holding company under the licence and technical know-how agreements as capital expenditure. The Tribunal held that the assessee was already carrying on the business of manufacturing motorcycles and scooters and the royalty was not paid for establishing a new manufacturing facility but for carrying on the existing business. Accordingly, the royalty expenditure was held to be revenue in nature and deductible. The assessee claimed deduction of technical know-how expenditure incurred after commencement of manufacturing operations. The Tribunal, following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, held that expenditure incurred for acquiring technical know-how after the manufacturing facility had already been established was revenue in nature, whereas expenditure incurred for setting up the manufacturing facility would be capital. Accordingly, the deduction was allowed. (AY. 2017-18).

Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India Pvt. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 567 / (2025) 129 ITR 6 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Foreign travel expenses-Directors' visit to overseas subsidiaries for promotion of business-Commercial expediency-Allowable-Irrecoverable excise duty on sales returns-Expenditure incurred for business purposes-

Allowable-Gift and gardening expenses-Expenditure incurred for business purposes-Allowable-Prior period expenses-Assessee unable to establish crystallisation of liability during relevant year-Disallowance upheld.

The Assessing Officer disallowed a part of the foreign travel expenses incurred by the directors on the ground that no business benefit had been established. The Tribunal held that the visits were undertaken to the assessee's overseas subsidiaries engaged in marketing its products and were dictated by commercial expediency. The expenditure was incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business and was allowable. The assessee claimed deduction of excise duty paid on raw materials used in the manufacture of goods which was not refunded when the finished goods were returned by customers. The Tribunal held that the expenditure had been incurred wholly for the purposes of the business and was allowable as a business deduction under section 37(1). The Assessing Officer disallowed gift expenses and part of the gardening expenses on the ground that they were not incurred wholly for business purposes. The Tribunal held that the genuineness of the expenditure was not in dispute and that the expenses had been incurred for the purposes of the business. The disallowance was, therefore, deleted. The assessee claimed deduction of prior period expenditure towards miscellaneous expenses, repairs and maintenance, and legal and professional charges. The Tribunal held that the assessee failed to establish that the liability had crystallised during the relevant previous year. Mere approval of expenditure during the current year for work completed and accounted for in an earlier year did not determine the year of crystallisation. Accordingly, the disallowance was upheld. (AY. 2011-12 to 2016-17).

AVTEC Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 692 / (2025) 129 ITR 483 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Penalty for violation of law-Seizure of truck with wrong waybill-Not allowable.[Expln. 1 to S. 37(1), GST, VAT]

Penalty paid under the State VAT law on account of seizure of a truck carrying goods with an incorrect waybill was claimed as business expenditure. The Tribunal held that expenditure incurred for infringement of law is hit by Explanation 1 to section 37(1) and is not deductible. However, liberty was granted to the assessee to seek rectification if the penalty was subsequently held to be compensatory in nature. (AY. 2015-16).

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P.) Ltd. v. Add. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Construction of building on leasehold land-No ownership of capital asset-Expenditure allowable as revenue expenditure-Delay of 59 days and 206 days was condoned. [S. 32(1), 254(1)]

The assessee constructed a building on leasehold land which, under the lease agreement, had to be handed back to the lessor upon expiry of the lease. Following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the assessee did not acquire ownership of the capital asset and the expenditure incurred on construction was allowable as revenue expenditure. The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) allowing the claim was upheld. Delay of 59 days and 206 days was condoned. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19 & 2020-21).

Asst. CIT v. Eastman Exports Global Clothing (P.) Ltd. [2024] 167 taxmann.com 434 / (2025) 122 ITR 243 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Inventory loss and leakage-Consistent view in earlier years-Deduction allowable.

Following its earlier orders in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the write-off of inventory loss and leakage represented a normal business loss and was allowable as a deduction. The Revenue's ground challenging the deletion of the addition was dismissed. (AY. 2016-17).

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P.) Ltd. v. Add. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-Explanation 2 prospective-Expenditure incurred prior to assessment year 2015-16 allowable. [Expln. 2 to S. 37(1)]

The Assessing Officer disallowed Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure for assessment year 2014-15 by applying Explanation 2 to section 37(1). The Tribunal held that Explanation 2 was inserted with effect from assessment year 2015-16 and had no application to the year under consideration. Since the expenditure was incurred voluntarily for the welfare of employees and the local community without any statutory obligation, it was allowable as business expenditure. (AY. 2014-15).

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P.) Ltd. v. Add. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Bogus purchases-Statement of supplier retracted-Sales accepted-Purchases cannot be treated as bogus-Addition deleted.[S.69C]

The Assessing Officer treated purchases of diamonds as bogus on the basis of the statement of the supplier's director alleging accommodation entries. The Tribunal noted that the statement had subsequently been retracted and that the assessee had made payments through banking channels. Since the corresponding sales were accepted by the Department, the existence of purchases could not be denied. The Revenue also failed to establish that the assessee acted merely as a conduit for accommodation entries. Accordingly, the deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (A) was upheld. (AY. 2012-13).

Asst. CIT v. Krishnaavtar J. Kabra (HUF) (2025) 122 ITR 337 / 170 taxmann.com 502 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Portfolio Management Services (PMS) fees-Non-banking financial company engaged in investment and trading in securities-Fees paid to portfolio managers wholly and exclusively for business-Allowable as revenue expenditure-Delay of 101 days by Revenue-Delay in obtaining administrative approvals-Delay condoned.[S. 48, 254(1), ITAT R. 27]

The assessee, a non-banking financial company engaged in investment activities and trading in securities, claimed deduction of Portfolio Management Services (PMS) fees paid to SEBI-regulated portfolio managers. The Tribunal held that the assessee was authorised by the Reserve Bank of India to carry on the business of acquisition and investment in shares and securities and the expenditure incurred on PMS was wholly and exclusively for carrying on such business. The fees constituted business expenditure allowable under section 37(1). The Revenue's contention that the expenditure was not deductible under section 48 was rejected and the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) allowing the deduction was upheld. The assessee was also entitled to support the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) by invoking Rule 27 of the Income-tax (Appellate Tribunal) Rules, 1963. The Tribunal held that the Revenue had satisfactorily explained the delay of 101 days in filing the appeal as it occurred on account of the time taken in obtaining administrative approvals through the departmental hierarchy. The delay being bona fide, it was condoned in the interest of justice. (AY. 2022-23).

Dy. CIT v. Meenakshi Mercantiles Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 1 / 175 taxmann.com 581 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Registrar of Companies fees for increase in authorised share capital-Increase for issue of bonus shares by capitalisation of reserves-Revenue expenditure allowable in full. [S. 35D]

The assessee increased its authorised share capital solely for issuing bonus shares by capitalising its free reserves and claimed deduction of the fees paid to the Registrar of Companies. The Tribunal held that the issue of bonus shares merely represented reallocation of existing funds without any inflow of fresh capital or expansion of the capital base. Accordingly, the expenditure was revenue in nature and allowable in full and could not be restricted under section 35D. (AY. 2020-21).

Asst. CIT v. Neuzen Finance (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 43 / 175 taxmann.com 582 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Legal and professional charges-Mere proof of payment through banking channels insufficient-Matter remanded for verification of services rendered.

The assessee claimed deduction of legal and professional charges paid to consultants. The Assessing Officer found that the consultants were not traceable at the addresses furnished and no evidence regarding actual services rendered was produced. The Tribunal held that proof of identity and payment through banking channels alone was insufficient to establish allowability of the expenditure. However, considering the lapse of time between the transaction and the enquiry, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether the payments were genuinely made for services rendered to the assessee. (AY. 2011-12).

BMW India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2019] 108 taxmann.com 419 / (2025) 124 ITR 584 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Insurance business-Provision for IBNR and IBNER claims-Unascertained liability-Deduction not allowable-Amortisation of premium on securities-Disallowance upheld.

The assessee claimed deduction of provisions created towards "incurred but not reported" (IBNR) and "incurred but not enough reported" (IBNER) claims. Following the decision in the assessee's own case for earlier years, the Tribunal held that such provisions represented unascertained liabilities and were not allowable under section 37(1). However, the disallowance was directed to be restricted only to the amount actually debited to the profit and loss account. Following its earlier decisions in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal upheld the disallowance of amortisation of premium paid on purchase of securities (AY. 2020-21).

United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 682 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Employees' Stock Option Plan-Discout on issue of shares-Revenue expenditure allowable-Entertainment and guest house expenses-No finding that expenditure was not incurred for business-Disallowance deleted.

The assessee claimed deduction of the discount on shares issued to employees under the Employees' Stock Option Plan. The Tribunal held that the dominant object of the scheme was to secure and retain efficient employees and not to raise share capital. The discount represented employee compensation and constituted revenue expenditure allowable under section 37(1). The Tribunal held that in the absence of any finding that the entertainment and guest house expenditure was not incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business, the disallowance could not be sustained. The deletion made by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 1999-2000 to 2001-02).

HDFC Bank Ltd. (Successor to Housing Development Finance Corporation Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 629 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Technology licensing agreement-Payment initially capitalised as intangible asset-Expenditure held allowable as revenue expenditure-Foreign exchange loss-Expenditure arising from same business agreement-Revenue expenditure allowable. [Expln. 3 to S. 32(1)]

The assessee entered into a long-term technology licensing agreement with EADS for commercialisation of intellectual property rights and capitalised the payment as an intangible asset while claiming depreciation. Alternatively, it claimed deduction under section 37(1). The Tribunal, after examining the terms of the agreement and the revenue generated therefrom, held that the expenditure was incurred wholly and exclusively for carrying on the assessee's business and did not result in acquisition of any depreciable business or commercial right. The alternative claim under section 37(1) was therefore allowed, and the Assessing Officer was directed to treat the expenditure as revenue expenditure. The foreign exchange loss related to the payment made under the same technology licensing agreement which the assessee had capitalised as an intangible asset. Following its finding that the principal expenditure was allowable under section 37(1), the Tribunal held that the corresponding foreign exchange loss also retained the character of revenue expenditure and directed the Assessing Officer to allow the deduction (AY. 2012-13).

Cheers Interactive (India) (P.) Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 149 / 173 taxmann.com 308 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Prior period expenses-Provision for gratuity already disallowed by assessee-Double disallowance not permissible-Matter restored.[S. 145]

The Tribunal found that the assessee had already disallowed the closing balance of the provision for gratuity in its computation of income. The Assessing Officer again disallowed substantially the same amount as prior period expenditure, resulting in double disallowance. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify the ledger accounts and delete the duplicate addition after verification. (AY. 2014-15).

Norben Tea and Exports Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 715 / 175 taxmann.com 237 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Staff welfare expenses-Ad hoc disallowance without identifying non-business expenditure-Deletion justified.

The Assessing Officer disallowed 30 per cent of the staff welfare expenses on an ad hoc basis without recording any specific finding that any particular expenditure was not incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business. The Tribunal held that such ad hoc disallowance was unsustainable and upheld the deletion made by the Commissioner (Appeals). (AY. 2014-15 & 2015-16).

SIEL Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (LTU) (2025) 123 ITR 599 / 173 taxmann.com 278 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Commission to motor vehicle dealers-Genuine business services established-Disallowance deleted-IBNR and IBNER provisions-Ascertained liabilities based on actuarial valuation-Deduction allowable.

The assessee paid amounts to motor vehicle dealers under agreements for sale of insurance policies. The Tribunal held that invoices, confirmations and collection of premium by the dealers established that genuine services had been rendered. Accordingly, the disallowance was deleted, leaving it open to the Revenue to take appropriate action if warranted after completion of GST proceedings. The Tribunal held that provisions for "incurred but not reported" (IBNR) and "incurred but not enough reported" (IBNER) claims, computed in accordance with IRDA Regulations and actuarial principles, represented substantially ascertainable liabilities and not contingent liabilities. The deduction under section 37(1) was therefore allowable. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Advertisement and sales promotion expenses-Real estate project undertaken on ownership basis-Revenue expenditure allowable.

The Assessing Officer treated advertisement and sales promotion expenditure incurred for promotion of the assessee's Thane project as part of work-in-progress. The Tribunal held that the assessee had developed the project on its own account and not under a construction contract. Consequently, the advertisement and sales promotion expenditure constituted allowable revenue expenditure under section 37(1). (AY. 2015-16 & 2016-17).

Dy. CIT v. Piramal Estates (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 488 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 37(1) : Business expenditure-Personal expenses of directors-No evidence that expenditure belonged to assessee-Addition deleted.

The Tribunal held that the expenditure represented the personal expenses of the directors and there was no material to establish that such expenditure was incurred by the assessee for its business. The addition was therefore rightly deleted. (AY. 2015-16).

Asst. CIT v. Shrigopal Rameshkumar Sales (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 1 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Travel and conveyance expenses-Ad-hoc disallowance of 20 %-CIT(A) was justified in deleting the ad-hoc disallowances.

Held that the Assessee submitted additional evidence before the CIT(A) in support of the contract expenditure and conveyance and travel expenditure incurred by it, and the AO having not submitted any remand report to convert the same, CIT(A) was justified in admitting the additional evidence and deleting the ad hoc disallowance made by the AO.(AY. 2017-18)

Bangalore Electricity Supply Co. Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 58 /121 ITR 595 / 174 taxmann.com 100 (Bang) (Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Marketing support expenses-Director's remuneration-Allowable as business expenditure.

Held that the assessee-company, engaged in the business of manufacturing automobiles and auto parts, paid marketing support expenditure to its AE for enhancing its technical strength and marketing support, since assessee had explained the nature of such expenses in detail and had filed necessary documentary evidences to prove that such expenses had been incurred wholly and exclusively for purpose of business, hence, the expenditure was allowable as business expenditure. Tribunal also held that the remuneration paid by the assessee-company to its directors as per the board resolution was an allowable expenditure. (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Anand NVH Products (P.) Ltd. (2025) 215 ITD 98 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Commission-Allowable as deduction.

Held that assessee claimed deduction for commission expenses paid to four parties by banking channel, duly supported by TDS deduction, bank statements, invoices, party ledgers and return filed by one agent. Commission payments were found genuine and incidental to business; the addition made by the Assessing Officer for unverifiable payments was deleted. (AY. 2021-22)

R Y Midas Metacast (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 305 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-towards Employee Stock Option Plan (ESOP)-International Stock Ownership Plan (ISOP)-Paid to parent company-Allowable as deduction.

Assessee-company claimed expenditure towards Employee Stock Option Plan (ESOP) and International Stock Ownership Plan (ISOP) paid to its parent company. The Assessing Officer disallowed the payment. CIT A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since assessee merely reimbursed actual costs in relation to its own employees and the evidence produced clearly established crystallisation of liability and actual outgo in the relevant previous year, disallowance of expenditure under section 37(1) was unsustainable. (AY. 2015-16)

Procter & Gamble Hygiene and Health Care Ltd v. NFAC (2025) 214 ITD 315 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Setting up of business-Power Purchase Agreement-Expenditure incurred for the purpose of business after setting up of business was allowable for deduction.

Held that assessee-company had entered into a Power Purchase Agreement, acquired several plots of land, obtained permission/clearance from relevant authorities, acquired equipment and other assets, etc., it could be said that the business of assessee of setting up a Thermal Power Project was already set up. Accordingly, the expenditure incurred for the purpose of business after setting up the business was allowable for deduction. (AY. 2017-18)

Shapoorji Pallonji Energy (Gujarat) (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 297 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Insurance premium-Loan to firm on an insurance policy on the life of one of its partners-Insurance premium paid allowable as a deduction.

Held that the assessee had taken a loan and the same was utilised for its business purpose, and the loan was granted on condition of obtaining an insurance policy on the life of the partner. Accordingly, the insurance premium paid by the assessee was an allowable business expenditure. (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 702 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Salary to employees-No disallowance was proposed in the show-cause notice-Order of CIT(A) deleting the disallowance was affirmed.

Held that the assessee paid salary to two employees through the banking channel and employees had duly reflected these salaries in their ITRs, salary payment could not be disallowed, particularly when no such disallowance was proposed in the show cause notice by AO. Order of CIT(A) was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

ITO v. Rajeshkumar Rameshchandra Shah. (2025) 214 ITD 725 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Special reserve-Amount transferred to special reserve pursuant to the provision of section 45 IC of the RBI Act, 1934 is an appropriation of profit and not allowable as a deduction or excludable; the amount transferred was required to be added back to book profit under section 115JB [S.115JB RBI Act, 1934, S.451C]

Assessee transferred about Rs. 52.70 crores to Special Reserve under section 45IC of the RBI Act, 1934 and claimed that, being a statutory transfer, the amount was to be excluded both from computation of total income under normal provisions and from book profit under section 115JB. Assessing Officer held that it was an appropriation of profit and added the same to the income of assessee. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that transfer to Special Reserve under section 45IC of the RBI Act, 1934 is an appropriation of profit and therefore not allowable as a deduction/excludable in computing (i) income under normal provisions and (ii) book profit under section 115JB. Therefore, the amount transferred to the Special Reserve under section 45IC of the RBI Act, 1934, was to be added back to book profit under section 115JB of the Act. (AY. 2018-19)

SREI Equipment Finance Ltd. v. CIT (Appeals) (2025) 214 ITD 769 (Kol) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Bogus creditors-Trading in fabrics-Goods purchased were duly sold, and sales stood accepted; input of goods could not be doubted, and expenditure was to be treated as genuine, but 25 per cent of unverifiable purchases was disallowed. [S.41(1), 133(6)]

Assessee was engaged in the trading of fabrics and readymade garments. It had shown sundry creditors of a certain amount. Assessing Officer issued notices under section 133(6) to 27 parties, out of which 20 notices were returned unserved with remarks 'wrong address/incomplete address/non-existent'. He held creditors to be non-existent and made an addition of entire closing balance under section 41(1). CIT(A) dismissed the appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had made purchases from these parties during the year, which were duly accounted for and sold, and no doubts were raised with respect to sales. Assessee had filed VAT returns showing input tax on such purchases. It was also noticed that in almost all cases, balances were squared off in subsequent years by cash payments below Rs. 20,000 on a regular basis, which cast doubt on the genuineness of creditors. Since goods purchased were sold and sales were accepted, input of goods could not be doubted, and expenditure was to be treated as genuine, but in view of failure to establish identity and genuineness of creditors, disallowance was restricted to 25 per cent of such purchases (AY. 2012-13)

Sudha Loyalka. (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 750 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 37(1): Business expenditure-Unrealised debtors-Write-off-Income offered in the subsequent years when realised-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed.

Assessee-company was engaged in business of real estate. Assessee out of total receipts had deducted a sum on account of unrealized debtors by claiming that this amount pertained to maintenance charges which was not received after expiry of three months from the date of the bill and, therefore, recovery of such amount was doubtful. Accordingly, said amount was reduced from gross receipts. This practice was consistently followed by assessee on regular basis and income on such unrealised debtors were offered for tax as and when amount was received in subsequent years and same was accepted by revenue without any doubts in subsequent assessment years. Assessing Officer, however, made addition of said amount. CIT A) deleted the disallowance. On appeal by revenue, the Tribunal held that following the principle of consistency and further looking to the fact that said amount had already suffered tax in subsequent years when said sum was realised, the order of CIT(A) deleting the additions was affirmed. (AY. 2019-20)

ACIT v. Delhi Buildwell (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 291 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Setting up of business-Actual commencement of revenue-generating activity does not have any bearing on determining the date of setting up of business-Expenses incurred after the date of setting up of business are eligible for deduction. [S.28(i)]

Held that the actual commencement of revenue-generating activity does not have any bearing on determining the date of setting up of business, and expenses incurred after the date of setting up of business are eligible for deduction. (AY. 2007-08)

DCIT v. Aricent Technologies (Holding) (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 378 (Delhi) (Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Licence fee for use of software-Allowable as revenue expenditure.

Held that the licence fee for use of software, which was renewable on a yearly basis and was not paid, was not for acquiring any right in software; the same was to be allowed as revenue expenditure. (AY. 2017-18)

ACIT v. Matrix Publicities and Media India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 463 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Site maintenance expenditure-Ad-hoc disallowance of 30 per cent-Disallowance restricted to 10 percent of expenditure.

The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer ought not to have made 30 per cent ad-hoc disallowance of expenditure for want of evidence; disallowance of 10 per cent of expenditure incurred under the head of site maintenance expenditure would meet the ends of justice. (AY. 2017-18)

Bollineni Developers Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 635 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for claim payout on basis of actuarial report furnished by an independent actuary-Allowable as deduction. [S. 145]

Assessee-trust was established to increase access to and availability of micro-loans to eligible micro units and by providing guarantee cover to lenders (Banks/NBFCs/Financial Intermediaries) giving loans and advances without collaterals and/or third party guarantees to eligible Micro Units. Assessee charged Guarantee Fees from banks against guarantee cover. Assessee created provision for claim payout on basis of actuarial report furnished by an independent actuary. Assessing Officer disallowed claim of assessee on ground that assessee is following hybrid system of accounting. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since provision for claim payout created during relevant previous year was an ascertained liability, Assessing Officer is directed to grant deduction for provision for claim payout created during relevant previous year. (AY. 2019-20)

Credit Guarantee Fund For Micro Units. v. NFAC DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 1/ /236 TTJ 296 /124 ITR 307 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Interest on loan taken from State Government-Allowable as deduction.

Held that interest on loan taken from State Government is allowable as deduction. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

Kumaon Mandal Vikash Nigam Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 217 (Dehradun) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Investments in subsidiaries-Expenditure is allowable as business expenditure-Excess remuneration to directors-Matter remanded. [S. 2(13)]

Held that a business expenditure could not be disallowed even in an instant of a holding company having made investments in subsidiary as such an activity could indeed be treated as business itself. As regards alleged excess directors matter is restored back to Assessing Officer for his afresh appropriate verification. (AY. 2014-15)

NDTV Networks Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 167 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Salary paid to staff/ spouse and professional fees-Disallowance is restricted to 30%.[S. 40(a)(ia),143(3)]

The AO disallowed the salary paid to the spouse of the employees. The CIT(A) restricted the disallowances to 30 % of gross receipts. The Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). (AY 2016-17 to 2022-23)

J. Kumar Infraprojects Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 176 taxmann.com 193 (Mum) (Trib)

S 37(1): Business expenditure-Market development expenses-Capital or revenue-Expenses incurred towards sale of product-Revenue nature.

Assessee furnished confirmation from NHPL and other corroborative evidences to demonstrate that market development expenses were incurred not only for sale of product but also to expand its market presence.

On perusal of the said confirmation and evidences, it was found that expenses incurred primarily involve expenditure related to sale of product, such as, staff recruitment charges, salary and expenses of territory sales executives, salary and expenses of sales personnel manager, etc. Personnel engaged in sale of product of assessee belonged to NHPL. It could not be therefore, denied that market development expenses were towards sale of product, hence, revenue in nature. Further, AO reopened assessments for assessment years 2019-20 and 2020-21 to disallow market development expenses; however, after considering the objections and submissions of assessee, the AO accepted assessee's claim of market development expenses. Therefore, the principle of consistency would be maintained by following the position taken in reassessment proceedings for assessment years 2019-20 and 2020-21. Hence, market development expenses, being in the nature of revenue expenses, were allowable. (AY. 2021-22, 2022-23)

ARI Healthcare (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 172 taxmann.com 336 /121 ITR 51 (SN) (Mum) (Trib)

S 37(1) : Business expenditure-Ad-hoc disallowance-AO neither rejected books of account nor pointed out any bogus or non-genuine expenses-Remand report did not pointed out any specific defects.[S. 144, 145(3)]

AO disallowed 25% of expenses claimed by assessee-company on the ground that assessee failed to substantiate its claim with supporting documents. Assessee filed additional evidence before CIT(A) justifying the expenses with ledgers, invoices, and supporting documents. CIT(A) forwarded additional evidence to AO for verification and called for remand report. AO remand report accepted certain expenses such as bank charges, interest, labour expenses, etc. However, he raised concerns about expenses paid in cash, and certain expenses related to rent, salary, insurance, etc. CIT(A) observed that AO neither rejected books of account, nor pointed out any bogus or non-genuine expenses. He also observed that assessee accounts were audited and no adverse remarks were given in tax audit report. Accordingly, he deleted the entire disallowance. On appeal the Tribunal held that the AO did not reject assessee's books of account under section 145(3). Further, tax audit report did not highlight any discrepancies in assessee's expense claims. Further, the remand report did not identify specific defects in the expenses. No bogus or non-genuine expenditure was identified by AO. Moreover, the same nature of expenses was allowed in previous and subsequent years, indicating consistency. It is well settled by various judicial precedents that an ad-hoc disallowance without identifying specific defects is legally unsustainable. Since AO's own remand report did not justify the ad-hoc disallowance, the CIT(A) rightly deleted the same.[ITA No. 1034/Ahd/2023 dated 06/02/2025] [AY. 2016-17]

ACIT v. H. V. Infratex Ltd(Ahd)(Trib)(UR)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-Allowable as deduction. [37(2) Explanation.]

Held that CSR expenditure on activities which are beneficial to its employees, community at large and the local area where it is situated, same is allowable as deduction; amendments made in the Companies Act as well as Expln. 2 to S. 37 are not applicable to the relevant Assessment year, 2014-15.(AY. 2014-15)

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P) Ltd. v.AD.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 777 / 170 taxmann.com 633/ 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Contributions to the Investor Service Fund are mandatory; club membership fees of directors are allowable as business expenditure.

Held that contribution to the Investor Service Fund, as per SEBI's Circular No. Ref. SE/10118, dt. 12th Oct., 1992, ISF are to be utilised primarily for the promotion of investor education and investor awareness programme. The contribution and utilisation of the funds is mandatory, which are directly related to the business activity of the assessee hence allowable as business expenditure. The Tribunal also held that the Auditors did not report the club membership amount in the column of personal expense in Form 3CD but in the prescribed column of expenses on club etc., which is only for reporting purposes. Allowable as business expenditure. (AY. 2018-19)

BSE Ltd. v. CIT (A) (2025) 233 TTJ 214 / 245 DTR 1 (Mum)(Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Seizure of Truck-Penalty, fine, etc.- Levy of penalty under State VAT law-Issue pending before Commissioner of Commercial Taxes-Not allowable as deduction-Liberty is given to the assessee to file an application under s. 154 in case the issue pending before the first appellate authority is decided in favour of the assessee or it is adjudicated as compensation or compounding.[S. 37(1), Explanation 1, 154]

Held that penalty levied on the assessee under State VAT law on seizure of its truck, carrying finished goods, with wrong way bill cannot be allowed as business expenditure. As the issue under consideration is pending before Commissioner of Commercial Taxes, and has not reached finality, liberty is given to the assessee to file application under S. 154 in case the issue pending before the first appellate authority is decided in favour of the assessee or it is adjudicated as compensation or compounding. (AY. 2014-15 to 2016-17)

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P) Ltd. v.AD.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 777 / 170 taxmann.com 633/ 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Provision for depreciation on AFS securities- debited to profit and loss account-Allowable as deduction.

Assessee bank made investments in AFS securities and made provision for depreciation on AFS securities. Assessing held that the said amount was charged to profit and loss account, the same was disallowed while computing income. Assessing Officer held that provision made for depreciation in the value of investment was a notional loss and disallowed the assessee's claim. Commissioner (Appeals) allowed the claim. Tribunal, following the order of earlier years upheld the order of the CIT(A). (AY. 2018-19)

ACIT v. Karad Urban Co. Op. Bank Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 717 (Pune) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Discout on issuance of ESOPs is an allowable business expenditure.

Held that discount on issuance of ESOPs is an allowable business expenditure. (AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Broken period interest, i.e., interest accrued between the last coupon date and the date of purchase of government securities- allowable as business expenditure.

Held that broken period interest, i.e., interest accrued between the last coupon date and the date of purchase of government securities, is deductible as business expenditure. (AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure- license fee- commercial exploitation of music albums-Deferred revenue expenditure to be amortized over a six-year period and not as prior period expenses-Matter remanded.

On appeal, the Tribunal remanded the matter back to Assessing Officer with the direction that the Assessing Officer should re-assess expenses, treating license fees as deferred revenue expenditure to be amortized over six-year period and not as prior period expenses. (AY. 2016-17)

Aalap Digital Music (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 284 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Fees for technical services to a foreign company for selection of suitable technical staff for a project, review of contractual documents, etc-Allowable as business expenditure.

Assessee was awarded a contract with LMRCL for design and construction of a tunnel including three underground metro stations. Assessee agreed with GLM by which it was decided that GLM would not have any right in profits of assessee but would be given fees for technical services. Assessee paid fees to GLM for selection of suitable technical staff for the project, review of contractual documents, review of design and engineering, etc. Assessing Officer disallowed the claim of assessee on the ground that GLM had not rendered services. CIT (A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, in light of the evidence, fees for technical services as claimed by the assessee had been incurred for the purpose of business; the order of CIT(A) allowing the claim is affirmed. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

DCIT v. Gulermak TPL Joint Venture. (2025) 211 ITD 349 /234 TTJ 497 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Remuneration paid to partner-Maintenance of account-Allowable as deduction. [S. 153A]

Held that the remuneration paid to a partner for maintenance of account is allowable as a deduction; merely because she did not come to the office on a daily basis, it could not be a ground to hold that she was only a sleeping partner and, hence, not entitled to remuneration. (AY. 2014-15 to 2020-21)

Rameshchandra Balachand. v. JCIT (OSD) (2025) 211 ITD 24 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Capital or revenue-Retainership fees to two foreign agents for marketing and business development-Allowable as revenue expenditure.

Assessee paid retainership fees to two foreign agents for marketing and business development of assessee's software in USA. Assessing Officer disallowed the expenditure on the ground that the same was irrational and unjustified in comparison to income earned from export of software. CIT(A) upheld the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee got good business in USA in subsequent years. The mere fact that payment made to aforesaid entities by way of retainership fee did not result in commensurate business in USA in the year relevant to assessment year 2008-09, did not imply that expenditure incurred was not for the purpose of assessee's business. Since expenditure is not in the nature of capital expenditure or personal expenses and is laid out or expended wholly and exclusively for purposes of business, the same is allowed. (AY. 2008-09) JIL Information Technology Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 277 (Lucknow) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Expenditure incurred on sale of commercial space-Payment was made by cheque-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.

Assessee sold commercial space and claimed deduction of expenditure incurred on account of sale of such commercial space. Assessing Officer disallowed claim of said expenditure on ground that assessee did not produce any bills/vouchers/evidence in support of claim. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the addition made by the Assessing Officer on the ground that the expenditure was mostly incurred by cheque or banking channels. On appeal, the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A) deleting the disallowance. (AY. 2012-13 & 2016-17)

ACIT v. Pavani Structural (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 415 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Service tax payment-Corporate agency agreement-Allowable as deduction.

Held that service tax paid as per corporate agreement is allowable as deduction. (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

Axis Bank Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 650 /235 TTJ 209 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Finance lease rental-Providing remote infrastructure management, remote helpdesk, remote network monitoring services and other services for foreign customers-Allowable as business expenditure.

Assessee which is engaged in business of providing remote infrastructure management, remote helpdesk, remote network monitoring services and other services for foreign customers. The Assessing Officer disallowed finance lease rental payment and added same to total income of assessee. CIT(A) allowed and deleted the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal, following the order of the earlier year, affirmed the order of the AO. (AY. 2015-16)

DCIT v. NTT Global Data Centres Cloud Infrastructure India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 640 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Ad hoc disallowance-Supporting documents-Matter remanded back to the Assessing Officer.

Tribunal held that since the assessee is willing to produce all necessary evidence in support of the expenses claimed, the matter was to be restored to the Assessing Officer with a direction to the assessee to produce all necessary documentary evidence/voucher in support of the expenses claimed for verification by the Assessing Officer; the matter was remanded. (AY. 2017-18)

3A Composites India (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 272 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Consultancy fee-Future expansion-Allowable as business expenditure.

Assessee, a non-resident banking company, claimed deduction of professional fees paid to a consultancy firm. Assessee submitted that fees were paid for services which were connected with conducting business of banking more efficiently and that said services were used by assessee in its business right away once services were rendered. Assessing Officer disallowed claim of assessee on ground that expenditure was not for day-to-day business of assessee but was for future expansion of its business. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the expenditure was primarily and essentially related to operation and working of business of assessee. It was an expenditure which was not for acquiring any tangible or intangible asset but for conducting business of banking better and more efficiently in present, hence allowable as business expenditure. (AY. 2015-16)

DBS Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025)210 ITD 448(Mum)(Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Club membership fees-Allowable as business expenditure.

Held that club membership fees paid for its executives so that they could establish and maintain business contacts which was in long-term interest of assessee's business, same is allowed as business expenditure. (AY. 2006-07)

DCIT v. ICICI Bank Ltd. (2025)210 ITD 643 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Club membership fees-Allowable as business expenditure. [Form 3CD]

Held that Auditors of the assessee did not report this amount in the column of personal expense in Form 3CD but in the prescribed column of expenses on club etc., which is only for the reporting purposes. Therefore, AO was not justified in disallowing the said expenditure on the basis that the auditor has qualified such expenses as personal in nature as. Order of CIT(A) deleting the disallowance is affirmed.(AY. 2018-19)

BSE Ltd. v. CIT (A) (2025) 233 TTJ 214(Mum) (Trib)

S.37(1): Business expenditure-Managing director Managerial remuneration-Allowable as deduction-Remuneration-Not excessive or unreasonable-No disallowance can be made.[S. 40A(2)(b)]

The assessee-company claimed deduction for remuneration paid to its Managing Director. The AO disallowed the claim alleging violation of the Companies Act, 2013 and also invoked section 40A(2)(b) alleging excessiveness. The Tribunal noted that remuneration was covered by the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 (Schedule XIII, Part-C), continued by CBDT Circular No. 07/2015, and no government approval was needed. Explanation 1 to section 37(1) was not applicable since there was no violation of law. On the allegation of excessiveness, the AO had not produced any comparable cases to justify disallowance u/s 40A(2)(b). Held, remuneration was reasonable and allowable as deduction. (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Piramal Fund Management (P.) Ltd. (2025) 212 ITD 389 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Agency commission-Tribunal order deleting disallowance affirmed-No substantial question of law. [S. 195, 260A]

The assessee had paid commission to non-resident agents located abroad for securing export orders. It was undisputed that the agents rendered services outside India and that the commission was remitted directly through RBI to the foreign agents. Relying on CBDT Circular No. 786, which clarified that export commission payable to foreign agents is not chargeable to tax in India, the assessee did not deduct TDS. The Tribunal deleted the disallowance, and the High Court affirmed the decision, observing that there was no adjudication by any authority that such commission was taxable in India. The Court also referred to the principle laid down in GE India Technology Centre (P) Ltd v. CIT (2010) 327 ITR 456, SC) that a payer is responsible for making a judicious determination regarding TDS; if found wrong later, penal consequences follow. In the present case, the assessee's decision was held unimpeachable, and the Tribunal's order deleting the disallowance of commission payment was upheld.

CIT v. Tamil Nadu Newsprint & Papers Ltd. (2025) 343 CTR 634 / 245 DTR 394 (Mad)(HC)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Fees for technical services-Reimbursement to non-resident AEs-Revenue unable to prove that payments are FTS-Disallowance deleted. [S. 9(1)(vii), 195, 260A]

The assessee, JAS Forwarding (P.) Ltd., made reimbursements to its non-resident associated enterprises (AEs) for various expenses, including server maintenance, netting charges, management expenses, insurance, tariff filings, and travel costs. The AO held that these reimbursements were in the nature of a fee for technical services (FTS) under Section 9(1)(vii), liable for TDS under Section 195, and accordingly disallowed the amounts under Section 40(a)(i). The CIT (A) and ITAT reversed the disallowance, accepting the assessee's contention that these were pure reimbursements without any income element and did not qualify as FTS. The Delhi High Court upheld the ITAT's decision, holding that the Revenue failed to establish that the amounts reimbursed involved any managerial, technical, or consultancy services. The agreement clauses and nature of expenses showed that the payments were routine business reimbursements and not payments for services rendered. Since the requirements of Section 9(1)(vii) were not satisfied, there was no obligation to deduct tax at source, and thus the disallowance under Section 40(a)(i) was not justified.(AY. 2007-08)

PCIT v. Jas Forwarding Pvt. Ltd. (2024) 473 ITR 502 (Delhi) (HC)
PCIT v. Jas Forwarding Worldwide (I) Pvt Ltd (2024) 473 ITR 502 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Fees for technical services-Services rendered and utilised outside India-No tax deductible at source-Disallowance was deleted. [S. 9(1)(vii)(b), 195]

The assessee made payments to a non-resident for technical services rendered outside India in connection with projects executed outside India. The non-resident had no permanent establishment in India, and the payments were made for earning income from a source situated outside India. The Assessing Officer disallowed the expenditure under section 40(a)(i) for failure to deduct tax at source under section 195. The Tribunal held that the payments were covered by the exception contained in section 9(1)(vii)(b), since the services were utilised for a business carried on outside India and for earning income from a source outside India. Accordingly, the income was not chargeable to tax in India, there was no obligation to deduct tax at source under section 195, and the disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2013-14)

QAI India Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 445 (Delhi)(Trib.).

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Reimbursement of professional fees and expatriate salary costs to a foreign AE is not liable to TDS where payments do not satisfy the 'make available' test under the DTAA and salary costs are reimbursed on a cost-to-cost basis without any profit element.- Not liable to deduct tax at source [S. 9(1)(i),195]

The assessee, being the Indian project office of a Spanish company, made payments to its foreign AE towards professional fees and reimbursement of expatriate salary costs. The AO disallowed the payments under section 40(a)(i) on the ground that they constituted Fees for Technical Services (FTS) on which tax was deductible under section 195. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the professional fees represented reimbursement of costs incurred by the foreign AE in relation to joint NHAI contracts and did not involve making available any technical knowledge, know-how or skill to the assessee or the Indian service providers. It further held that reimbursement of expatriate salary costs was made strictly on a cost-to-cost basis without any mark-up and, therefore, contained no income element chargeable to tax in India. Consequently, no tax was deductible under section 195, and the disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was deleted. The appeal was allowed. [AY: 2018-19]

TPF Getinsa Euroestudios S. L. v. Asst. CIT (IT) (2025) 130 ITR 551 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Payment of freight charges to foreign shipping companies-Disallowance was affirmed.[S. 5(2), 195]

Held that the agreements entered into between the assessee and the foreign shipping companies regarding payment at the time of "Break bulk" did make the freight income of such foreign shipping companies clearly liable for taxation in India under the provisions of s. 5 r/w s. 9; in case the assessee was confident that the impugned freight payments made to foreign shipping companies were not taxable in India, then it should have applied for a Nil deduction certificate under s. 195. Accordingly, the payments made by the assessee to the foreign shipping companies without deducting TDS under s. 195 were rightly disallowed under s. 40(a)(i). Dy. CIT v. Reliance Industries Ltd. (2003) 81 TTJ 787(Mum) Trib, distinguished. (AY.2012-13, 2013-14 & 2016-17)

OPG Power Generation (P) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 235 TTJ 286 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Commission paid to non-resident agents-Services rendered outside India-No disallowance can be made for failure to deduct tax at source. [S.9(1)(i), 195]

Held that the payment of commission for services rendered by nonresidents outside India in connection with sales promotion or procuring orders for the assessee in foreign markets and the Revenue having not brought any material on record to establish that the said agents had a business connection in India within the meaning of s. 9(1)(i), or that services were rendered in India, disallowance made under s. 40(a)(i) on account of commission paid to non-resident agents without deduction of TDS is not sustainable.(AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Intas Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (2025) 236 TTJ 550/ 174 taxmann.com 867 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Fees for technical services-Marketing support services-Payment cannot be taxed in view of the application of provisions of s. 90(2)-Payment made to ADP cannot be disallowed under S. 40(a)(i) for non-deduction of TDS under S. 195-DTAA-India-Australia [S. 9(1)(vii), 90(2), 195 Art. 7, 12(3)]

Held that there is nothing to show that the business support services rendered by ADP make available technology, skill, etc. to the assessee, the support services fee paid by the assessee-company to ADP is neither taxable under the provisions of s. 9(1) (vii) nor under the provisions of the India-Australia treaty and, therefore, the same cannot be disallowed under s. 40(a)(i) for non-deduction of TDS under s. 195; said payment cannot also be taxed in view of the application of the provisions of s. 90(2). Not liable to deduct tax at source. (AY. 2020-21)

ADP (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 1080/ 177 taxmann.com 708 (Hyd)(Trib)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Fees for technical services or royalty-Simple rendering of services not sufficient, technical know-how must be "made available"-Services of Singapore and Hong Kong companies utilised to deliver services to clients in Vietnam-Services rendered outside India for income from source outside India-Not taxable in India-Disallowance unjustified-Reimbursement of salary expenses to foreign companies-No income element-Not chargeable to tax in India-No obligation to deduct tax at source-Disallowance deleted-Payments for management and consulting support services rendered and utilised outside India-Exclusionary provision applies-Not taxable in India-Disallowance deleted-Royalty-Payments for use of trademarks and training materials of foreign universities utilised for business outside India-Exclusionary provision applies-Not taxable in India-Disallowance deleted-"Make available" clause-Payments to foreign institutions for training, accreditation and consultancy services-No technical knowledge, experience or skill made available-Not fees for technical services-Not taxable in India-Disallowance unsustainable-Independent personal services-Payment to non-resident individual professional for services rendered abroad-No fixed base or stay exceeding 90 days in India-Income taxable only in country of residence-Not chargeable to tax in India-No obligation to deduct tax at source-Disallowance deleted-DTAA-India-UK, USA. [S. 9(1)(vi), 9(1)(vii)(b) 195, Art. 12, 15]

Disallowances were made under section 40(a)(i) on various payments made by the assessee to non-residents for failure to deduct tax at source, which were partly sustained by CIT(A) to the extent of Rs. 1,76,30,307. On appeal, the Tribunal held that payments made to companies in Dubai and Zurich being pure reimbursement of salary expenses without any income element were not chargeable to tax and required no TDS; that payments for services of Singapore and Hong Kong companies utilised to render appraisal services to clients in Vietnam, being rendered for earning income from a source outside India, fell within the exclusionary provision of section 9(1)(vii)(b); that royalty paid to American corporations for training its employees as authorised instructors, and payments for trademarks used for training clients' employees outside India, did not constitute fees for technical services or taxable royalty under the exclusionary provisions of sections 9(1)(vii) and 9(1)(vi)(b) respectively, since no training was rendered in India; that payments for course material, online examination fees, and payments to foreign institutions for training, accreditation and consultancy services did not satisfy the "make available" requirement or the definition of fees for technical services; and that payment to a non-resident individual professional for services rendered abroad, who had no fixed base or stay exceeding 90 days in India, was taxable only in the country of his residence under article 15 of the India-USA DTAA. Accordingly, all the disallowances made under section 40(a)(i) were held to be unwarranted and were deleted. (AY. 2011-12 & 2012-13)

QAI India Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 494(Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Royalty-Software purchased for resale-Right to use copyrighted article and not copyright-Payment not royalty-No tax deductible at source.[S.9(1)(vi),195]

The Assessing Officer disallowed payments made for purchase of software on the ground that tax had not been deducted at source. The Tribunal held that the assessee had acquired only the right to use copyrighted articles and not any copyright. The payments did not constitute royalty chargeable to tax in India and, therefore, no tax was deductible under section 195. The disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Tax deduction at source-Reimbursement of debtor collection charges-No permanent establishment-Not royalty or fees for technical services-No tax deductible at source-Reimbursement of legal expenses-Pure reimbursement-Matter remanded for verification-No double taxation.[S. 9(1)(vii), 195]

The assessee reimbursed its associated enterprise towards debtor collection charges paid to a non-resident service provider. The Tribunal held that the payment was a pure reimbursement without any profit element and the services neither constituted royalty nor fees for technical services as they did not make available any technical knowledge, skill or know-how. As the non-resident had no permanent establishment in India, the payment was not chargeable to tax in India and no tax was deductible under section 195. Accordingly, no disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was warranted. The assessee reimbursed legal fees paid by its associated enterprise on its behalf. The Tribunal held that where the payment was a pure reimbursement and the recipient had already offered the income to tax, no further tax could be recovered by disallowing the expenditure in the hands of the assessee. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether the payee had already paid tax on the receipt (AY. 2010-11).

UPS Express P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 381 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Business expenditure-Reinsurance premium paid to non-resident reinsurers-Not chargeable to tax in India-No liability to deduct tax at source-Commission deducted by insurance companies from reinsurance premium-No payment by assessee-Tax deduction at source not applicable-Survey fees paid to non-resident surveyors-Services rendered outside India-Mere reimbursement-No tax deductible at source. [S.195]

The Tribunal held that reinsurance premium paid to non-resident reinsurers was not chargeable to tax in India either under the Income-tax Act or the applicable Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements. Consequently, the assessee was under no obligation to deduct tax at source under section 195 and no disallowance under section 40(a)(i) could be made. The Tribunal held that the assessee had not made any separate payment of commission to the insurance companies, as the commission had been deducted by the insurers themselves from the reinsurance premium. Since no payment was made by the assessee, the provisions of section 195 were not attracted and the disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was rightly deleted. The assessee reimbursed survey fees paid to non-resident surveyors for quantification of insurance claims outside India. The Tribunal held that the entire services were rendered outside India, the surveyors had no business connection in India and the reimbursement was not chargeable to tax in India. Accordingly, the assessee was under no obligation to deduct tax at source under section 195. (AY. 2020-21).

United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 682 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Business expenditure-Reinsurance premium paid to non-resident reinsurers-Not chargeable to tax in India-No liability to deduct tax at source. [S. 195]

Following the decision in the assessee's own case for earlier years, the Tribunal held that reinsurance premium paid to non-resident reinsurers was not chargeable to tax in India under the Income-tax Act or the applicable Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements. Consequently, the assessee was under no obligation to deduct tax at source under section 195 and the disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was deleted. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Business profits-Canvassing orders and facilitating export transactions-Business income accruing outside India-Not liable to deduct tax at source-No disallowance can be made.[S.9(1)(i), 195, Article 7 of the OECD Model Convention]

Held that the assessee-company paid commission to non-resident agents located in UK, Australia, Netherlands, France, UAE, Hong Kong and Germany for canvassing orders and facilitating export transactions and incurred warehousing charges in Europe for storing its finished goods before distribution to foreign buyers, both categories of payments were in nature of business income accruing outside India and, once, payments were not chargeable to tax in India, obligation under section 195 did not arise and, thus, disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was deleted.(AY. 2017-18)

Foods and Inns Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 266 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Reinsurance premium ceded to non-resident reinsurers (NRRs) is not taxable in India under the Income Tax Act or the applicable DTAA; therefore, disallowance under S. 40(a)(i) for non-deduction of TDS under S. 195 does not arise. [S.195]

The assessee, a public financial institution engaged in the general insurance business in compliance with statutory provisions and IRDAI regulations, had paid as reinsurance premiums to non-resident reinsurers (NRRs). The Assessing Officer disallowed the payment u/s.40 (a)(i) for non-deduction of tax at source u/s. 195. However, on appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the disallowance, ruling in favour of the assessee. The ITAT, following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, upheld this view and held that the reinsurance premium paid to NRRs is not taxable in India under the Income Tax Act or relevant DTAAs, and hence the assessee was not liable to deduct TDS u/s. 195. Consequently, the disallowance u/s. 40(a)(i) was unwarranted.

United India Insurance Company Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 291 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Commission payment outside India-: Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Commission paid to non-residents for services rendered outside India is not taxable in India; hence, the assessee is not liable to deduct TDS under S. 195. [S. 9(1)(i), 195]

The assessee, a public financial institution carrying on general insurance business under relevant laws and IRDAI regulations, had paid an amount as commission to non-resident agents. The Assessing Officer disallowed this amount under S. 40(a)(ia) for non-deduction of TDS under S. 195. However, the Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the disallowance on appeal. The Tribunal held that the non-resident agents had no permanent establishment or business activities in India, and the commissions were taxable only in the agents' foreign countries. Therefore, s. 195 did not apply.

United India Insurance Company Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 291 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Commission-Non-resident carried out its activities outside India and income earned by it was not taxable in India-Not liable to deduct tax at source. [S. 9(1)(vi),9(1)(vii), 195]

Assessee made payment of commission to one IIBL, a non-resident, for agency services rendered by it for the execution of sale and its allied activities of garments in Bangladesh. Assessing Officer held that the assessee was liable to deduct TDS on said remittance made to IIBL. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that IIBL carried out its activities outside India and income earned by it was not taxable in India. Payment made to a foreign agent was also not on account of royalty or fees for technical services; therefore, no tax was to be deducted at source under section 195 on such payment made to IIBL. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Manisha Kiran Temkar. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 393 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Amount paid to a foreign company towards management fees-Tax deducted and deposited-No addition could be made under section 40(a)(i), or the payment can be held to be as unexplained expenditure under section 69C.[S, 69C, 195]

Assessing Officer made an addition for said amount on account of non-deduction of TDS and also treated the same as unexplained expenditure. CIT(A) deleted the disallowances. Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). (AY. 2017-18)

ACIT v. Matrix Publicities and Media India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 463 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Royalty-Payments made towards internet, broadband and bandwidth charges to foreign parties did not constitute royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source.[S.9(1)(vi), 195]

Held that payments made towards internet, broadband and bandwidth charges to foreign parties did not constitute royalty, hence not liable to deduct tax at source. Order of CIT A) was affirmed. (AY. 2020-21)

DCIT v. Hinduja Global Solutions Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 453 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Payment of advisory fee to a foreign company-Not fees for technical services-Not liable to deduct tax at source-DTAA-India-Singapore. [S. 9(1)(vii), 195, Art. 12]

Held that payment of advisory fee to a foreign company for arranging loan for it from foreign establishments and non-resident financiers with their efforts from Singapore, payment of such advisory fee could not be termed as royalty or fee for technical services as it was in nature of commission for financial services rendered. Not liable to deduct tax at source.(AY. 2012-13)

ITO (IT) v. Hartaj Sewa Singh. (2025) 211 ITD 179 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Royalty-Freight charges-Not royalty-Not liable to deduct tax at source-No disallowance can be made-DTAA-India-Korea.

[S.9(1)(vi), 195, Art. 12]

Held that payment of freight charges to a Korean company for availing logistics services in connection with shipment of goods from various ports outside India to India is not royalty hence not liable to deduct tax at source. Order of CIT(A) deleting the disallowance is affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

DCIT v. Doosan Power Systems India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 210 ITD 99 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(i) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Non-resident-Depreciation-Fixed asset-Capitalised the expenditure-Disallowance is deleted. [S. 32]

Tribunal held that section 40(a)(i)/(ia) deals with amount payable towards interest, royalty, FTS or other sum chargeable under the act. The phrase 'amount payable' in the section indicates that, such amount can be claimed as deduction in the form of expenditure incurred for the purpose of business. Whereas, in the instant case, assessee capitalised the expenditure. Assessee capitalised the software purchased and the expenditure was not claimed as revenue by assessee in its books of account. Therefore, depreciation could not be disallowed by invoking section 40(a)(i)/(ia). (AY. 2015-16)

Samsung R & D Institute India-Bangalore (P.) Ltd. v. JCIT (2025) 210 ITD 60 (Bang.) (Trib.)

Editorial: CIT v. IBM (2014) 43 Taxmann.com 470 (Karn)HC Distinguished.

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Short deduction of TDS-Fees for professional or technical services-

No disallowance under section 40(a)(ia)[S.194C, 194J]

The Assessee deducted TDS under section 194C. The Assessing Officer held that the TDS was required to be deducted under section 194J and entire amount was disallowed. On an appeal to CIT(A), the CIT(A) upheld the decision of the Assessing Officer based on the judgement of Hon'ble Kerla High Court. On further appeal to Tribunal, the Tribunal held in favor of Assessee based on the judgement of the Hon'ble Calcutta High Court and Hon'ble Delhi High Court. The Tribunal relied upon the Supreme Court judgement wherein the Apex Court held that in case of identical issues judgement of Jurisdictional High Court is not available and there are divergent views of non jurisdictional High Courts, the construction which is favorable to Assessee should be adopted. On further appeal by the Department the hon'ble court held in favor of Assessee and directed the AO to delete the addition. (AY. 2012-13)

CIT (IT) v. Samsung Heavy Industries Co. Ltd. (2025) 346 CTR 109 / 176 taxmann.com 482 (Uttarakhand)(HC)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Short deduction-Disallowance cannot be made for short deduction of tax at source. [S.194C, 194J]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that, when tax was deducted by the assessee under s. 194C @ 2 per cent, instead of deduction under S. 194J 10 per cent, Tribunal was right in holding that S. 40(a)(ia) could not be invoked for short deduction. (AY. 2012-13)

CIT (IT) v. Samsung Heavy Industries Co. Ltd. (2025) 176 taxmann.com 482/ 346 CTR 109 / 252 DTR 305 (Uttarakhand)(HC)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Commission-Discount-Not liable to deduct tax at source-Disallowance was deleted. [S. 260A]

Held that the discount to distributors are not liable to deduct tax at source. Disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2019-20)

Vodafone Mobile Services Ltd. v. Dy. CTT (2025) 476 ITR 80 // 304 Taxman 285 / 345 CTR 137 / 251 DTR 9 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-
-Contractors-Declaration was furnished-Tribunal was not justified in remanding the issue before the Assessing Officer. [S. 194C(6), 254 (1) 260A]

Held that the assessing authority at first instance was not for the reason that the declarations were not produced as required under section 194(6). The disallowance was on a specious finding that the payments made by the assessee were not to transport contractors but to their agents. Even if the assessing authority did entertain a doubt in that regard, he ought to have considered the declarations furnished by the contractor that were produced before him and given reasons as to why those declarations could not be accepted on their face value. The Commissioner (Appeals) perused the declarations and found them to be genuine and arrived at a correct decision deleting the disallowance made by the assessing authority under section 40(a)(ia). The Tribunal was not justified in remanding the matter to the assessing authority for a fresh adjudication on this issue.(AY.2013-14)

Unitac Energy Solutions (India) Pvt. Ltd v. ACIT (2025) 474 ITR 265 (Ker)(HC)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Payment of wages to dock workers through Labour Board-Not liable to deduct tax at source. [S. 194C, 260A, Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act, 1948]

The assessee, engaged in business of stevedoring and container freight services, was a registered employer under the Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act, 1948 read with provisions of Calcutta Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Scheme, 1970. During the assessment years in question, assessee deposited a certain sum with Calcutta Dock Labour Board in discharge of its obligations under Act 1948 and Regulation Scheme 1970 for purposes of disbursement of wages of its employees through Board. Assessing Officer held that main function of Board was to provide labour to stevedore, i.e., assessee and, thus, while making payment to Board, assessee was bound to deduct tax at source under section 194C hence applied the provision of S. 40(a)(ia) of the Act. CIT(A) deleted the disallowance. Tribunal set aside the order of the CIT(A). On appeal High Court held that the contract of employment is between the assessee and the dock workers and not between the assessee and the Dock Labour Board; Board has merely discharged its statutory obligation with regard to regulation of dock workers; s. 194C has no application on facts of the present case with regard to payment of wages by the assessee to the dock workers through the Administrative Committee/Board. Therefore payment of wages to dock workers through Labour Board is not liable to deduct tax at source. (AY.2006-07, 2007-08)

Kamal Mookerjee & CO. (Shipping) (P) LTD. v. CIT [2024] 161 taxmann.com 419/ (2025) 342 CTR 441 (Cal)(HC)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Fees for technical services-Insertion of explanation to Section 9 By Finance Act, 2010 with effect from 1-6-1976-No disallowance can be made- Interpretation-General principles-Principles of lex non cogit ad impossibilia, and impotentia excusat legem. [S.9(1)(vii), 195, 260A

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the Tribunal was right in deleting the disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) because the amendment to section 9 had not been passed at the relevant point of time and the assessee was not liable to deduct the taxes when the assessee had made the payments to non-residents towards the charges for sampling and analysis of cargo at destination port and for professional and consultancy fees. Relied on Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence (P) Ltd. D. CIT [2021] 432 ITR 471 (SC), (2022) 3 SCC 321, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 159 the Supreme Court held that the two Latin maxims are applicable in all cases-lex non cogit ad impossibilia.i.e. the law does not demand the impossible and impotentia excusat legem, i.e. when there is a disability that makes it impossible to obey the law, the alleged disobedience of the law is excused. (AY. 2010-11)

ACIT v. Sociedade De Fomento Industrial Pvt. Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 273 (Bom) (HC)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Capitalised the expenditure-Neither are expenses debited to P&L a/c and nor deduction is claimed-Disallowances cannot be made.

Assessee-contractor having capitalised all the expenses incurred on construction and not claimed the same as revenue expenditure, no disallowance can be made by invoking the provisions of s. 40(a)(ia)..(AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19)

ITO v. Thrissur Expressway Ltd. (2025) 234 TTJ 676(Hyd)(Trib)

S. 40(a)(ia) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Business expenditure-Generator hire charges and diesel reimbursement-No tax deductible on reimbursement of fuel cost-Matter partly restored-Professional fees-Tax deducted at source-Disallowance deleted-Purchase of ready-made shooting set-Sale transaction-Tax deduction at source not applicable.[S.194C, 194J]

The assessee paid generator hire charges together with reimbursement of diesel and fuel expenses. The Tribunal held that reimbursement of fuel cost on a cost-to-cost basis did not constitute payment for carrying out any work and, therefore, section 194C was not applicable to such reimbursement. The disallowance relating to fuel charges was deleted. However, as evidence regarding deduction of tax at source on generator hire charges was not produced, that issue was restored to the Assessing Officer for verification. The Assessing Officer disallowed professional fees paid to the production manager alleging failure to deduct tax at source. The Tribunal found from Form No. 16A and the books of account that tax had in fact been deducted under section 194J. Accordingly, the disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) was deleted. The assessee purchased a ready-made shooting set from a studio and acquired ownership thereof. Ledger accounts and invoices established that the transaction was one of outright sale and not hiring of a set. The Tribunal held that no tax was deductible at source under section 194J and the disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) was deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Inspire Films Ltd. v. ITO [2025] 170 taxmann.com 79 / 234 TTJ 1 (UO) (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Compensation paid for surrender of rights is not interest-Disallowance is not justified. [S. 194A]

The assessee paid compensation to a party for surrender of its rights in a property transaction. The Assessing Officer treated the payment as interest in substance and disallowed the expenditure under section 40(a)(ia) for failure to deduct tax at source. The Tribunal held that the payment was compensation for surrender of rights and not interest within the meaning of the Act. Since the payment did not attract deduction of tax at source under section 194A, the provisions of section 40(a)(ia) were not applicable. The disallowance was, therefore, deleted. (AY. 2014-15)

Kolte Patil Developers Ltd. (erstwhile Bellflower Properties P. Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 505 (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-TDS on land purchase-Seller having offered consideration to tax-No disallowance in buyer's hands-Non-deposit of TDS only precludes buyer's credit. [S. 132(4), 201(1)]

Held that TDS disallowance was unwarranted once the seller had offered the sum to tax. Order of CIT(A) was affirmed (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

S.A. Builders and Developers v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 685 (Hyd.)(Trib)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Payment of sales commission and cash incentives to retailers-the assessee filed various evidences including confirmation from the parties to prove the genuineness of said expenditure, adverse inference cannot be drawn merely because the notices issued under s. 133(6) were returned unserved by the postal authorities.[S.37(1), 133(6), 194H]

Held the Commission on sales promotion and cash incentives paid by the assessee to the retailers in the course of its business of promoting IML brands produced by two distilleries on behalf of its principals did not fall in the category of "commission" requiring deduction of TDS under S. 194H, there being no principal and agent relationship between the assessee and the retailers and therefore, the said payments could not be disallowed under S. 40(a)(ia) for non-deduction of tax; since the assessee filed various evidences including confirmation from the parties to prove the genuineness of said expenditure, same cannot be treated as non-genuine merely because the notices issued under S. 133(6) were returned unserved by the postal authorities. (AY. 2008-09)

ITO v. Welsh and Breton Blenders (P) Ltd. (2025) 236 TTJ 939 / 174 taxmann.com 510 (Hyd) Trib)

S. 40(a)(ia) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Commission paid to non-resident agents-Services rendered outside India-No business connection or permanent establishment in India-No tax deductible at source.[S.9(1)(i), 195]

The assessee paid commission to non-resident agents for procuring export business outside India. The Tribunal held that as the agents had neither a business connection nor a permanent establishment in India, the commission was not chargeable to tax in India. Consequently, the assessee was under no obligation to deduct tax at source under section 195 and the disallowance under section 40(a)(i) was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia) : Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Year-end provisions-Vendors not identifiable-Liability to deduct tax arises only on identification of payee-Disallowance deleted.[S.37(1), 145]

The assessee created year-end provisions for expenses before receipt of vendors' invoices and without crediting individual vendors' accounts. The Tribunal held that, until the payees became identifiable and the debtor-creditor relationship came into existence, there was no obligation to deduct tax at source. Accordingly, the disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia) : Amounts not deductible-Tax deduction at source-Labour charges-Payments made through head labourer-Labourers directly employed by assessee-No contract-Disallowance deleted. [S. 194C]

The assessee made payments towards filling, unloading and other labour charges through head labourers. Since the labourers were directly employed by the assessee, were on its muster rolls and were covered by provident fund and Employees' State Insurance benefits, the Tribunal held that payment through the head labourer was merely a mode of disbursement and did not create a contractual relationship attracting section 194C. Accordingly, no tax was deductible at source, and the disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) was rightly deleted. (AY. 2010-11 to 2012-13).

Dy. CIT v. WD and Sons P. Ltd. (2025) 129 ITR 278 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Job work-Furnished Form 16A-Addition was deleted.[Form No 26AS]

Held that the assessee claimed deduction for job-work expenses and the Assessing Officer disallowed a certain amount, alleging non-deduction of TDS, but the assessee furnished Form 16A and Form 26AS evidencing TDS had been duly deducted and matched with vendor entries, addition for non-deduction of TDS was not sustainable. (AY. 2021-22)

R Y Midas Metacast (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 305 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Building contractor-Capitalised the expenditure-Not disallowable.[S. 30 to 38, 143(1)(a), 194C]

Assessee a building contractor for construction and capitalised expenditure, not claiming it as a revenue deduction. Assessing Officer processed the return under section 143(1) and made an adjustment of Rs. 61.95 lakhs, disallowing 30% of the sum under section 40(a)(ia) for non-deduction of TDS under section 194C. Assessee contended that the adjustment was unwarranted as the expenditure was capitalised and no deduction was claimed. Tribunal held that only expenditures allowable under sections 30 to 38 can be disallowed for non-deduction of tax at source. Since payment to the building contractor was a capital expenditure and not claimed as a deduction, no disallowance could be made in intimation under section 143(1)(a). (AY. 2019-20)

Raghav Agritech. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 647 / 127 ITR 71 (Nagpur) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Pre-EMI interest-Recipient had paid due tax-Matter remanded.

Assessee submitted that the recipient had paid due tax and, therefore, pre-EMI interest paid by assessee should be allowed but could not place on record any documents fulfilling the requirement of the provision of the Act in this regard. Tribunal remanded the matter to the Assessing Officer for verification. (AY. 2014-15)

Pankaj Enterprises. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 702 //237 TTJ 497 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Provision made for future expenditure-Matter remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for verification. [S. 145]

Assessee was engaged in the business of real estate. Assessee claimed that in POCM, revenue was recognised when a substantial amount of sale was realized, and corresponding construction was yet to be completed, and physical possession was not given to the buyer. Thus, in order to provide parity between revenue and expenses, a provision was made for expenses that were going to be incurred in future. Since it was a provision made for future expenditure, there was no question of making TDS out of same. Assessing Officer made a disallowance of a certain amount of expenses under section 40(a)(ia) on account of non-deduction of tax at source. CIT(A) deleted disallowance on the basis of submissions of assessee that this related to the provision towards material. However, no opportunity was given to Assessing Officer for making verification of this fact. On appeal by revenue, the Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to verify whether claim of assessee that amount related to provision for material and further verify whether due TDS was deducted and deposited on service portion before filing of return of income and decide the issue in accordance with law and also keeping in mind the method of revenue recognition followed by assessee. (AY. 2019-20)

ACIT v. Delhi Buildwell (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 291 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-catering expenditure for purpose of supply of food packets to its employees-Subjected to GST-Not contract-Not liable to deduct tax at source-

Business promotion expenses to promote business and rewards to employees to achieve work targets-Facilities/amenities made available by hotel to its customers do not constitute 'work' within meaning of section 194C-Hotel room booking expenses incurred by assessee were not liable to TDS under section 194C. [S. 194C]

Assessee incurred catering expenditure for purpose of supply of food packets to its employees. Assessing Officer held that assessee was liable to deduct TDS under section 194C as this fell under contractual payment and, thus, 30 per cent of catering expenditure was disallowed under section 40(a)(ia). CIT(A) up held the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that case of supply of food packets and same being subjected to GST, same would not be considered as contract and, therefore, provision of section 194C would not apply. Assessee-company paid business promotion expenses to promote business and rewards to employees to achieve work targets. Assessing Officer held that assessee was liable to deduct TDS under section 194C on such expenses. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that since facilities/amenities made available by hotel to its customers do not constitute 'work' within meaning of section 194C, hotel room booking expenses incurred by assessee were not liable to TDS under section 194C. The assessee was not liable to deduct TDS on business promotion expenses under section 194C of the Act. (AY. 2011-12)

Infoobjects Software India (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 546 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Interest, etc., paid to a resident without deduction of tax at source-Non-furnishing of Form 15G/15H-Form filed before the Tribunal-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer for limited purpose of verification. [Form 15G, 15H]

Assessee, engaged in business of cloth merchant, claimed interest expenditure on unsecured loans. Assessing Officer disallowed same under section 40(a)(ia) on ground that assessee had not furnished Form 15G/15H. Assessee contended that it had furnished said forms. The issue was remanded back to Assessing Officer for limited purpose of verification of Form 15G/15H. (AY.2012-13)

Suresh Kishinchand Changwani v. Dy. CIT (2025) 210 ITD 669 (Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ia): Amounts not deductible-Deduction at source-Books of Accounts rejected-Separate addition under 40(a)(ia) not valid.

Disputed income under litigation-Shown as other income-Cannot be included in turnover when books are rejected-Income does not accrue until litigation is finally terminated, especially if liability is not admitted by the other party. [S. 4, 5, 144 145]

Tribunal held that when books of accounts are rejected and net profit is estimated by applying a net profit rate, there cannot be additional disallowances under Section 40(a)(ia) based on the same set of books as this prevents double counting of disallowances when income is being assessed on an estimated basis.

The assessee had shown certain amount as "other claims" in their return. This amount represented disputed claims under litigation where the assessee had filed suit against certain parties. The Tribunal held that when estimating income after rejecting books of account, only real income can be taxed, not notional income under litigation. Therefore, this amount was correctly excluded from the turnover for income determination. Only real income should be considered for taxation, not notional income that hasn't accrued to the assessee. Income does not accrue until litigation is finally terminated, especially if liability is not admitted by the other party.(AY. 2017-18)

ACIT v. Vardha Infra Ltd. (2025) 233 TTJ 505 (Jodhpur)(Trib)

S. 40(a)(ii) : Amounts not deductible-Rates or tax-State taxes paid overseas-Not eligible for relief under sections 90 or 91-Deduction allowable.[S.37(1), 90, 91]

The Tribunal held that State taxes paid in foreign jurisdictions, which were not eligible for relief under sections 90 or 91, were outside the scope of Explanation 1 to section 40(a)(ii). Consequently, such taxes were allowable as business expenditure. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ii) : Amounts not deductible-Rates or tax-Education cess-Forms part of tax-Deduction not allowable.

The assessee claimed deduction of education cess. The Tribunal held that the expression "tax" in section 40(a)(ii) includes education cess and, therefore, such cess is not an allowable deduction while computing business income. (AY. 2017-18).

Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India Pvt. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 567 / (2025) 129 ITR 6 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ii) : Amounts not deductible-Rates or tax-Business expenditure-Education cess-Not allowable as deduction.[S. 37(1)]

Following the applicable legal position, the Tribunal held that education cess on income-tax is not an allowable deduction while computing business income. (AY. 2013-14).

Yokogawa India Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 499 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(ii) : Amounts not deductible-Rates or tax-Business expenditure-Education cess and higher education cess-Part of tax-Deduction not allowable.

The Tribunal held that education cess and higher secondary education cess form part of "tax" within the meaning of section 40(a)(ii). Consequently, they are not allowable as a deduction while computing business income. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 40(a)(iib) : Amounts not deductible-Business expenditure-Collection and payment of privilege fee, special privilege fee, etc. to the State Government-Disallowance was deleted. [S.37(1), A.P. (Regulation of Trade in Indian made Foreign Liquor, Foreign Liquor) Act, 1993, S 4]

Held that the amount collected by the assessee from the licence-holders in terms of ss. 4A to 4C of A.P. (Regulation of Trade in Indian made Foreign Liquor, Foreign Liquor) Act, 1993 cannot be treated as income accruing to the assessee; since the amount collected from the licence-holders has been directly credited to the PD account and thereafter appropriated to various accounts by the Government, it cannot be treated as payment by the assessee to the State Government and therefore, the amounts of privilege fee, special privilege fee, additional privilege fee and contribution to CM Relief Fund cannot be disallowed under s. 40(a)(iib). (AY.2014-15 & 2015-16)

Andhra Pradesh Beverages Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 716 / 175 taxmann.com 567 (Hyd)(Trib)

S. 40(ba) : Amounts not deductible-Association of persons-Private specific trust-Interest paid to beneficiaries-Order of Tribunal disallowing the interest is affirmed. [S. 260A]

AO has held that the beneficiaries have come together voluntarily by pooling their money in the trust with clear knowledge that the funds will be utilized by the trust for the business of project work undertaken and would result in profits for the trust and consequently for the beneficiaries. The AO has recorded a finding that the trust is an AOP and the interest claim of Rs. 5,38,100 to the beneficiaries has been disallowed under S. 40(ba) of the Act. Findings recorded by the AO have been upheld by the Tribunal. On appeal High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY.1995-96)

Mehta Jaising Combine v. ITO (2025) 344 CTR 256 / 249 DTR 73 / 174 taxmann.com 869 (Bom)(HC)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Tribunal was justified in holding that expenses claimed by assessee were not excessive and disallowance of assessee's claim was unsustainable-SLP of revenue dismissed-DTAA-India-Italy. [S. 9(1)(i), Art. 7, Art. 136]

Assessee, an Italian company, entered into a contract with an Indi-an company to execute grass root hydrogen generation unit and fuel gas unit on lump sum turnkey basis. The AO proceeded to estimate profit attributable to PE at 10 per cent High Court held that since Assessing Officer failed to justify invocation of section 40A(2)(b) and all material particulars had been duly placed before DRP, Tribunal was justified in holding that expenses claimed by assessee were not excessive and disallowance of assessee's claim was unsustainable. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2019-20)

CIT v. Technip Energies Italy S.P.A (2025) 482 ITR 153 / 304 Taxman 346 (SC)

Editorial : CIT v. Technip Energies Italy S.P.A (2025) 172 taxmann.com 433/482 ITR 149 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Tribunal was justified in holding that expenses claimed by assessee were not excessive and disallowance of assessee's claim was unsustainable-Order of Tribunal affirmed-Presumptive tax-Civil construction and Turnkey projects-Provision in applicable-DTAA-India-Italy. [S. 9(1)(i), 44BB, 260A Art. 7,]

Assessee, an Italian company, entered into a contract with an Indi-an company to execute grass root hydrogen generation unit and fuel gas unit on lump sum turnkey basis. The AO proceeded to estimate profit attributable to PE at 10 per cent. High Court held that since Assessing Officer failed to justify invocation of section 40A(2)(b) and all material particulars had been duly placed before the Tribunal, the Tribunal was justified in holding that expenses claimed by the assessee were not excessive and disallowance of assessee's claim was unsustainable. Court also held that presumptive tax provision is applicable. (AY. 2019-20)

CIT (IT) v. Technip Energies Italy S.P.A. (2025) 482 ITR 149 / 172 taxmann.com 433 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : SLP of revenue dismissed, CIT v. Technip Energies Italy S.P.A (2025) 482 ITR 153 / 304 Taxman 346 (SC)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Consultancy charges paid to related party-No comparable instances cited by AO-Disallowance is deleted. [S.40A(2)(b)]

Assessee, engaged in land development, paid consultancy charges of 1,57,00,000 to Mangala Properties Pvt. Ltd. (MPPL), a related party, for services related to land sale. AO disallowed 50,75,784, holding the payment excessive without providing comparable instances or fair market value. AO failed to discharge the initial onus under section 40A(2)(b) by not demonstrating excessiveness through comparable cases or fair market value analysis. AO must first establish unreasonableness, which was not done. Therefore, disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2009-10) (ITA No. 1213/Ahd/2024, dt. 23/06/2025)

Virbala Kiritkumar Patel v. Dy. CIT (Ahd.) (Trib.) (UR)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Long term capital gains-Commission payment to wife-Allowable as deduction. [S. 45, 48]

During the year, assessee sold a building and received a sum of Rs. 5.82 crores and offered long-term capital gains. While declaring long-term capital gains, assessee claimed transfer expenses of Rs. 59 lakhs as a deduction. Out of this, a sum of Rs. 35 lakhs was accepted by the Assessing Officer. Assessing Officer disputed transfer expenses, which admittedly included commission payments of Rs. 18 lakhs made to wife and daughter of the assessee's director, being related parties covered within the ambit of section 40A(2)(b). On appeal, the CIT(A) allowed the payment on the ground that the amount paid was within the ambit of expenses on transfer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee has proved the nature of services rendered by the daughter and wife of the director of the assessee for enabling the transfer of subject mentioned property. Order of CIT A) affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

G.N. International (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 180 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Cash payment to partners-No legal bar on cash payment to partners-Genuineness of payment was not doubted-Addition was deleted. [S.40A(b)(v)]

The assessee-firm was running a hospital. The Assessing Officer disallowed the remuneration paid to partners on the ground that the same was paid in cash. CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the remuneration had been given to partners as per the partnership deed and within the limit prescribed under section 40A(b)(v). Tribunal also held that there was no legal bar for a firm to pay partners' remuneration in cash and that the genuineness of said payment was not in doubt. Accordingly, the disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2019-20)

Sonone Surgical and Ophthalmic Hospital. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 739 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Gold and precious metals-lower authorities had neither referred to nor relied upon any objective market data to determine the fair value of purchases-Matter was remanded to the file of CIT (A) for fresh adjudication.[S. 40A(2)(a)]

Assessee-company was engaged in the business of manufacturing and trading in gold bars and ornaments. During the year, assessee made purchases from two related parties. Since the assessee failed to justify the arm's length price of said purchases, Assessing Officer disallowed a certain amount under section 40A(2)(b). On appeal, the CIT(A) directed the Assessing Officer to adopt an average gross profit rate for the three assessment years 2012-13 to 2014-15 for determining the extent of excessive payment. On appeal by revenue, the Tribunal held that the determination of fair market value under section 40A(2)(a) requires a factual inquiry into prevailing market rates of relevant goods during the period of transaction. Since the assessee dealt in precious metals and ornaments, prices of which were subject to daily fluctuations, it was incumbent upon the Assessing Officer to examine relevant market data available in the public domain or through comparable independent transactions before arriving at a conclusion regarding excessiveness. However, lower authorities had neither referred to nor relied upon such objective market data to determine the fair value of the purchases in question. Approach adopted by the Assessing Officer in computing disallowance solely based on a fall in gross profit rate, without corroborating the same with market evidence, could not be sustained in law. Accordingly, the matter was to be remanded back to the file of CIT(A) with a direction to re-adjudicate the issue afresh after examining the fair market value of purchases made from related parties during the relevant period, based on contemporaneous data. (AY. 2013-14)

ITO v. Khetalaji Gold (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 607 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 40A(2): Expenses or payments not deductible-Excessive or unreasonable-Consultancy charges paid to related party-No comparable instances cited by AO-Disallowance is deleted. [S.40A(2)(b)]

Assessee, engaged in land development, paid consultancy charges of 1,57,00,000 to Mangala Properties Pvt. Ltd. (MPPL), a related party, for services related to land sale. AO disallowed 50,75,784, holding the payment excessive without providing comparable instances or fair market value. AO failed to discharge the initial onus under section 40A(2)(b) by not demonstrating excessiveness through comparable cases or fair market value analysis. AO must first establish unreasonableness, which was not done. Therefore, disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2009 10) (ITA No. 1213/Ahd/2024, dt. 23/06/2025)

Virbala Kiritkumar Patel v. Dy. CIT (Ahd.)(Trib.)(UR)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Purchase of jewellery-Failure to show circumstances that required assessee to effect payments in cash-SLP of assessee dismissed. [R. 6DD, Art. 136]

High Court dismissed the appeal on the ground that the assessee failed to demonstrate a situation which compelled him to make payment in cash which would have exempted him From application of the provisions of section 40A(3) of the Act and the Tribunal rightly held that it did not fall under any of the exceptional clauses under rule 6DD of the Income-tax Rules, 1962. SLP of assessee dismissed. (AY. 2013-14)

Natesan Krishnamurthy v. ITO (2025) 476 ITR 12 /304 Taxman 592 (SC)

Editorial : Natesan Krishnamurthy v. ITO (2019) 262 Taxman 127/ 178 DTR 177 / (Mad)(HC)/ (2019) 13 ITR-OL 80 /2019 SCC OnLine Mad 2366)

S. 40A(3): Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Amendment with effect from 1-4-2009-Disallowance of payments exceeding specified limit to a single person on a single day-No evidence of separate payments made on a single day to assessee-Disallowance justified. [R.6DD]

Held that the specific ground on which the disallowance was made by the Assessing Officer was with respect to no substantiating bills or vouchers having been produced. No vouchers were produced to substantiate the claim of separate payments having been made on a single day at the work spots where the delivery of the goods supplied was made. The disallowance was in accordance with the provision even as it existed before the amendment of April 1, 2009. It was valid.(AY.2004-05)

Mahendra Prasad Singh and Bros. Mahalla v. CIT [2024] 160 taxmann.com 233 / (2025) 483 ITR 479 (Patna)(HC)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Ad-hoc disallowance-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Deletion of disallowance by Commissioner (Appeals) on examination of vouchers confirmed by Tribunal is affirmed [S.145 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that that the findings of fact recorded by the Tribunal on all the three issues were based on material and evidence on record. The Assessing Officer's estimation of the gross profit rate was primarily based on other findings recorded by the Assessing Officer affecting the credibility of books of account of the assessee and according to him the assessee had made payments in cash in excess of Rs. 20,000 in contravention of section 40A(3). That as to the issue of ad hoc disallowance of expenditure of consignment sale, the Tribunal has rightly concluded that it was an academic issue.(AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd [2024] 162 taxmann.com 601 / (2025) 482 ITR 345 (All)(HC)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Payments to agents cannot be disallowed-Order of Tribunal set aside. [ITR, 1962 R. 6DD, Indian Contract Act, 1872, S. 182.]

Held, that the assessee had withdrawn the amount from his bank account through his employees, i.e., supervisors, for disbursement to individual labourers and the supervisors gave an account of the money so received for payment to the labourers. Thus, the assessee was the principal and the supervisors acted as agent of the assessee. It is settled law that the authority of an agent may be express or implied. Submission of account by a supervisor acting as agent of the assessee, for the amount received and disbursed to individual labourers, left no manner of doubt that the supervisors who were employees of the assessee, acted as agents of the assessee for the purposes of disbursement of amount to labourers. The payment so made by the supervisors had not exceeded Rs. 20,000 to any individual labourers. There was no material or evidence on record to indicate or establish that the supervisors were sub-contractors. Under the circumstances the finding recorded by the Tribunal that the supervisors were sub-contractors was perverse and contrary to law. The order of the Tribunal to the extent it upheld the disallowance under section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961, could not be sustained and set aside.(AY. 2006-07)

SK. Jaynal Abddin v.CIT [2024] 161 taxmann.com 640 / (2025) 477 ITR 95 (Cal)(HC)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Cultivator and grower-Company engaged in pasteurisation not producer of milk-Disallowance was up held-Interpretation of taxing statutes-Principle of noscitur a sociis. [S. 260A, R.6DD(e)(ii)]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that the term produce in rule 6DD(e)(ii) was with reference to milk as a consequence of dairy farming. The fact that the milk was pasteurised by the company and thereafter, the pasteurised milk was distributed by the assessee to the dealers was immaterial. The cash payment should have been made to the cultivator, grower or producer of such articles, produce or products. The reference to "producer" in the conclusion of clause(e) of rule 6DD was clearly to a dairy farmer and not to a company. The term "producer" qua "dairy farming" had to be understood noscitur a sociis with the terms "cultivator" and "grower" qua agriculture, forestry, poultry farming, apiculture, etc., respectively. It could not include a company that was engaged in the activity of pasteurisation of milk, particularly bearing in mind the object of section 40A(3), being to discourage cash payments. Both entities, the company and the assessee had full access to banking facilities. The operation of section 40A(3) was absolute. Rule 6DD that carve out exceptions to the rigour of section 40A(3) did not envisage extension of that benefit to cash payments made by a distributor (assessee) to the company. There was no justification as to why the payments were made in cash or what the exigencies were that prevented the entities from transacting through the bank. The Tribunal was correct in sustaining the addition made under section 40A(3) for the assessment year (AY. 2009-2010)

Arasappan Madhivanan v. ITO (2025) 476 ITR 169 / 173 taxmann.com 876 (Mad)(HC)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-No credible document produced to show why payment had to be made on bank holiday-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [R.6DD, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the assessee the Court held that assessee had also not produced any believable document to show that the recipients had in fact received the consideration and had declared it as their income. The disallowance under section 40A(3) is justified. (AY. 2013-14)

Santosh M. Bhandari v. ITO (2025) 473 ITR 646 (Karn)(HC)

S. 40A(3): Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Alleged non-genuine purchases-lack of proper enquiry-Matter is restored to the AO with a direction to conduct a de novo assessment on this issue after carrying out proper and comprehensive enquiry regarding various aspects.[S.133(6)]

Held that the Assessing Officer has neither examined the actual mode and dates of payments nor traced the flow of funds or established any cash trail nor conducted meaningful verification with the said suppliers or with the GST authorities to ascertain the authenticity of the transactions and made the impugned disallowance under s. 40A(3), the matter is restored to the AO with a direction to conduct a de novo assessment on this issue after carrying out a proper enquiry regarding various aspects. (AY.2021-22)

Shital Vipulkumar Dholakia v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 1045 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 40A(3) : Business expenditure-Cash payments-Television serial production-Advances to cashier for petty expenses-Matter remanded for verification.

The assessee, engaged in the business of producing television serials, made cash advances to its cashiers for meeting petty shooting expenses such as conveyance, tea, coffee and snacks. It produced ledger accounts and sample vouchers showing that the actual cash expenditure on each occasion did not exceed the prescribed monetary limit. As neither the Assessing Officer nor the appellate authority examined the documentary evidence, the Tribunal restored the issue to the Assessing Officer for fresh verification. (AY. 2013-14).

Inspire Films Ltd. v. ITO [2025] 170 taxmann.com 79 / 234 TTJ 1 (UO) (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 40A(3) : Business expenditure-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limit-Purchase of copra through agents-Payments made through banking channels-Disallowance deleted.

The Assessing Officer invoked section 40A(3) alleging that the assessee had made cash payments for purchase of copra. The Tribunal held that the purchases were made through agents and all payments by the assessee were made through banking channels. As no cash payment was made by the assessee, the provisions of section 40A(3) were not attracted and the disallowance was rightly deleted. (AYs. 2010-11 to 2012-13).

Dy. CIT v. WD and Sons P. Ltd. (2025) 129 ITR 278 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 40A(3): Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Payment to supplier on Saturday at around 5:30 P.M. after closure of banking hours-Payment was made on a day when the bank was observing half-day working-Rule 6DD(j) could not be invoked-Disallowance upheld. [R.6DD (j)]

Assessee made a payment of Rs. 47,337 to a supplier towards material purchased for consumption. Assessing Officer invoked section 40A(3) and made a disallowance. CIT(A) affirmed the disallowances. Assessee claimed that payment was made on Saturday at around 5:30 P.M. after closure of banking hours and thus, it deserved the benefit of the exception provided in rule 6DD(j). Tribunal held that the language of rule 6DD(j) is very clear and gives benefit to assessee only if bank remains closed for entire day, since assessee's claim was that payment was made on a day when bank was observing half-day working, rule 6DD(j) could not be invoked and, thus, disallowance was upheld. (AY. 2011-12)

Patidar Builder (P.) Ltd. v. Assessing Officer (2025) 214 ITD 77 (Indore) (Trib.)

S. 40A(3): Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Salary to employees-No finding that payment on particular date exceeded limit-Disallowance was deleted.

Held since the Assessing Officer had not given any specific finding that any payment to an employee at a particular date exceeded the limit of section 40A(3), disallowance made merely because payments during the year had been made in cash was not justified. (AY. 2019-20)

Sonone Surgical and Ophthalmic Hospital. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 739 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Payments were made on bank holidays-Issue is restored back to file of Assessing Officer for examination afresh.

Tribunal remanded the issue back to Assessing Officer for examination afresh with a direction to assessee to substantiate that payment was made on bank holiday, payment was made by agent and further business exigency also demanded payment of cash. (AY. 2015-16)

Chandra Moolchand Jain. (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 398 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 40A(3) :Expenses or payments not deductible-Cash payments exceeding prescribed limits-Business expediency-If the payment is necessary for business operations and is not made with fraudulent intent, disallowance u/s. 40A(3) may not be required, even if the payment exceeds the prescribed limit.

The AO disallowed the expenses on the ground that the same were more than the limits specified u/s. 40A (3). The CIT (A) upheld the order of the AO as the assessee had failed to establish the identity of the payees and the genuineness of these transactions, and the business expediency with regard to said payments was established. Tribunal held that disallowances u/s. 40A (3) should be made cautiously, especially when payments are essential for the business operations. If there is no doubt about the identity of the payee and the genuineness of the transactions, the business exigencies should be considered to justify the payments. Further held that if cash payments are made due to the business exigencies and there is no suspicion of tax evasion, then such payments should not be disallowed. Therefore, expenses like fuel, meals, and repairs that are necessary for running the business should not be disallowed just because they exceed the limits of S. 40A(3).(AY. 2008-09, 2014-15)

Munish Arora v. ACIT [2025] 210 ITD 408 (Chd)(Trib.)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Capital or revenue-Pre-payment of deferred sales tax liability-Capital receipt.[S. 4, 260A]

That the Assessing Officer was not correct in treating the amount saved by the assessee while pre-paying the deferred sales-tax liability as income, by applying the provisions of section 41 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. (AY. 2007-08, 2009-10)

CIT v. Grindwell Norton Ltd (2025) 483 ITR 651 (Bom)(HC)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Dead horses-Capital assets-Insurance claim-Capital receipts cannot be assessed under section 41(1) of the Act.[S.45]

Assessee was carrying on business of breeding, rearing and selling racehorses. Assessee treated horses as stock-in-trade till age of 2 years and thereafter they were treated as capital assets. During relevant year, two mares died and assessee received insurance claim for death of mares. Assessing Officer held that insurance claim received by assessee from insurance company for death of mares was to be deemed as income of assessee under section 41(1).CIT(A) and Tribunal up held the order of the AO. On appeal the court held that revenue itself treated horses as capital assets and consequently, insurance receipt would become capital gain for assessee, thus, money received towards insurance claim on account of damage to or destruction of capital asset could not be treated as transfer of capital assets so as to attract tax under provisions of section 45(1). Court held that heading 'capital gains' governed by provisions of section 45 was mutually exclusive from heading 'profits and gains of business or profession' governed by section 41 hence insurance receipts is capital receipt. Order of Tribunal set aside.(AY.1988-89, 1990-91, 1991-92 & 1995-96)

Poonawalla Estate Stud & Agricultural Farm v. CIT (2025) 176 taxmann.com 308/ 347 CTR 504 / 254 DTR 73 (Bom)(HC)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Outstanding liability cannot be taxed merely because it has become time-barred under the Limitation Act-In the absence of remission or cessation of liability, section 41(1) cannot be invoked. [S. 145]

The AO invoked section 41(1) and treated outstanding trade liabilities of ₹75.38 crore as ceased liabilities on the ground that they had remained unpaid for several years and had become time-barred under the Limitation Act. The Tribunal held that the mere expiry of the limitation period does not result in remission or cessation of liability so as to attract section 41(1). Where the liabilities continued to be reflected in the books, and there was no evidence of remission or cessation, no addition could be made under section 41(1). Accordingly, the Tribunal deleted the additions in respect of most of the creditors. However, in respect of one liability, where the assessee claimed that the liability had been taken over by the bank and recovery proceedings were pending before the DRT, the matter was restored to the CIT(A) for verification of the supporting evidence. The appeal was partly allowed for statistical purposes. [AY. 2007-08]

Vishal Exports Overseas Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 394 (Ahd)(Trib.)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Creditors outstanding for a long time-The amount due to the creditors is not chargeable to tax.

Merely because some of the creditors were outstanding for more than three years and no confirmations were filed, it cannot be said that there is cessation of liability and therefore, the amount due to the creditors is not chargeable to tax under s. 41(1). Followed, PCIT v. Batliboi Environmental Engineering Ltd. (2022) 141 taxmann.com 245 (Bom) (HC) (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Kumar Urban Development (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 881 (Pune)(Trib)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Lease deposit outstanding for several years-No cessation of liability-Addition deleted-Booking advances received in earlier years-No remission or cessation-Addition deleted. [S.28(i)]

The Assessing Officer treated lease deposits received in earlier years as income under section 41(1) on the ground that the liability had ceased. The Tribunal held that the lease deposits were interest-free security deposits received under a subsisting lease agreement for a period of 21 years, duly confirmed by the depositor and consistently reflected in the books of account. There was no remission, cessation or discharge of the liability, nor had the assessee obtained any benefit during the relevant previous year. Accordingly, the addition under section 41(1) was rightly deleted. The assessee had received booking advances against sale of properties in earlier years and no fresh advances were received during the year under consideration. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer failed to establish any remission or cessation of liability or that the assessee had earlier claimed any deduction in respect of such liabilities. Since the statutory conditions prescribed under section 41(1) were not satisfied, the booking advances could not be treated as income (AY. 2020-21).

ITO v. N. Kumar Housing and Infrastructure (P.) Ltd. (2025) 125 ITR 401 / 172 taxmann.com 428 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 41(1): Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Creditors shown as outstanding-Addition cannot be made on an ad hoc basis.

Held that CIT(A), having found that payments have been made by the assessee to the creditors in the subsequent year, he was justified in coming to the conclusion that the liability as stated by the assessee as on 31st March, 2017 is in existence and has not ceased and consequently not chargeable to tax under s. 41(1). Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

Bangalore Electricity Supply Co. Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 58 /121 ITR 595 / 174 taxmann.com 100 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 41(1): Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Sundry creditors-Confirmation from parties-Additional evidence-The matter was restored to the file of the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication.[S. 254(1)]

The Assessing Officer disallowed liability of sundry creditors and added the amount to the assessee's income under section 41(1), which was affirmed by the CIT(A). Before the Tribunal, the assessee filed confirmation of parties. Tribunal held that since assessee had filed voluminous details which included confirmations, sample invoices and bank statements showing subsequent payments to creditors which required verification as the same were neither filed before the Assessing Officer nor before the Commissioner (Appeals), the matter was to be restored back to the file of the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2020-21)

Ginni Filaments Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 175 (Agra) (Trib.)

S. 41(1): Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Provision for liquidated damages-Settled under VSV Scheme, 2024-Not allowed deduction in earlier years-Reversal of provision-Cannot be taxed under section 41(1) of the Act. [VSV Scheme, 2024]

Assessee, a foreign company, had entered into a contract with IOCL for rendering engineering design and project management services for the IOCL Paradip Refinery Project. Assessee had set up a project office in India and admitted the same as a Permanent Establishment (PE) in India. Assessee had debited provision for liquidated damages in earlier assessment years 2011-12 to 2013-14. The same was allowed as deduction by the Assessing Officer to the extent of Rs. 21.24 crores, and the remaining provision aggregating to Rs. 38.26 crores was disallowed. Later on, there was a settlement reached with IOCL, and the assessee was able to realise liquidated damages of Rs. 59.50 crores. Consequently, the same was reported under the head 'Other Income' by way of 'Provision no longer required written back' in the relevant assessment year 2018-19. Assessing Officer rejected the plea of assessee for exclusion of reversal of liquidated damages on the ground that assessee was contesting disallowance in appeal in those earlier years, and the same had not yet attained finality. Tribunal held that since the disallowance made in earlier years had attained finality as dispute had been settled under VSV Scheme, 2024 and requisite Form 4 had also been issued by Competent Authority, reversal of provision for liquidated damages which was not allowed as deduction in earlier assessment years, could not be taxed in relevant assessment year 2018-19 in terms of section 41(1) of the Act. (AY. 2018-19)

Foster Wheeler (G.B.) Ltd. v. DCIT. (2025) 215 ITD 579 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 41(1): Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Advances from customers against sales-shown as liabilities in its balance sheet-Not written off-Addition cannot be made.

Held that advances from customers against sales, shown those advances in its balance sheet as liabilities, had not been written off those liabilities and ultimately adjusted those liabilities against sales made to respective customers; conditions of section 41(1) would not be satisfied, and the addition made by the Assessing Officer by invoking section 41(1) was not sustainable.(AY. 2011-12)

Patidar Builder (P.) Ltd. v. Assessing Officer (2025) 214 ITD 77 (Indore) (Trib.)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Bad debts written off-Matter is remanded for de novo consideration.[S. 131, 133(6)]

The assessee wrote off the amount outstanding of seven parties. The AO made addition u/s 41(1) of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal remanded the matter for de novo consideration. (AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Sundry creditors-Outstanding for more than three years-Written back as income in the Assessment year 2017-18-Addition is deleted.

Assessing Officer made addition under section 41(1) on ground that sundry creditors were outstanding for more than three years and since assessee had not been able to provide either confirmation from sundry creditors or latest financial statement of said creditors, such sum was taxable under section 41(1). CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had written off credit balance of both parties under consideration during assessment year 2017-18 which was supported by financials produced by assessee. Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

DCIT v. United Drilling Tools Ltd. (2025) 210 ITD 632 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 41(1) : Profits chargeable to tax-Remission or cessation of trading liability-Sundry Creditors-Balance sheet-Discrepancy in confirmation and balance sheet-Addition is deleted.

Assessee, engaged in Basmati rice trading, declared sundry creditors in its balance sheet. The AO issued summons which creditors did not respond. The inspection report stated that those entities were not found at stated addresses. The AO treated the entries as fictitious and made addition under section. 41 (1) of the Act. Order of the AO is affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal the Tribunal held that creditors had valid trading transactions with assessee in prior years, verified and accepted in previous assessment. Additionally, balance sheets, tax returns, and scrutiny orders for those creditors demonstrated continuous, genuine business relationships with assessee and liabilities were also settled in subsequent year, negating claim of cessation. When amounts were shown as payable in balance sheet of assessee and debt got acknowledged by assessee, there could not be any remission or cessation of liability in terms of section 41(1). Further if any discrepancy was found with confirmation and balance sheet of those sundry creditors, suitable action should be taken in hands of those sundry creditors and no adverse inference could be drawn on assessee. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2015-16)

Golden Moment (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 484 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 43(5) : Speculative transaction-loss on purchase and sale of shares and securities as business loss-Controversy between assessee and revenue no longer survived in view of settlement of dues under Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Scheme, 2024, SLP filed by assessee against impugned order of High Court had been rendered infructuous [Art. 136]

Assessee claimed loss on purchase and sale of shares and securities as business loss. The AO disallowed the loss. Tribunal allowed the claim of the assessee. High Court held that since Assessing Officer clearly found that transactions of purchase and sale of shares were made on same date and no delivery of shares took place and transactions were intra-day share speculation, loss was to be treated as speculative loss and same was to be disallowed. Apex Court held that since controversy between assessee and revenue no longer survived in view of settlement of dues under Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Scheme, 2024, SLP filed by assessee against impugned order of High Court had been rendered infructuous. (AY. 2007-08)

PKS Holdings v. PCIT (2025) 305 Taxman 253 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. PKS Holdings (2022) 145 taxmann.com 195 (Cal)(HC)

S. 43(5) : Speculative transaction-Trade in derivatives-Recognised stock exchange-Business loss-Allowed to be set off against profits and gains of business-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 72, 73, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that once provisions of section 43(5), as amended, came to treat a trade in derivatives as not a speculative transaction when it was carried out on a recognised stock exchange, then effect of that amendment was to treat transaction in derivatives as merely a business transaction. Therefore, a loss in derivative business would be a business loss for purposes of section 72, and a set off of such business loss would have to be permitted against profits and gains of business as computed in terms of Act. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2007-08)

PCIT v. Dewa Projects (P.) Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 387 (Ker.)(HC)

S. 43(5): Speculative transaction-Derivative trading loss-Set off against business income-Failure to produce broker's note-The matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to examine whether trades met requirements of Explanations 1 & 2 to section 43(5).[S. 73]

Assessing Officer rejected assessee's claim for set-off of derivative trading loss against business income on the ground that no broker contract notes were furnished as required under Explanations 1 & 2 to section 43(5). CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had consistently traded through the same brokers in earlier years where such trades were accepted as fulfilling section 43(5) conditions, the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to examine whether the trades met the requirements of Explanations 1 & 2 to section 43(5). (AY. 2015-16)

Arup Banerji.v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 225 (All) (Trib.)

S. 43(6) : Written down value-Block of assets-Depreciation-Stamp valuation-Assessing Officer could not have substituted sale consideration received by stamp duty valuation of property while computing WDV for claiming depreciation on block of assets. [S. 2(11), 32, 50]

During year, the assessee sold a factory building which was appearing as part of block of assets in its books of account and claimed depreciation on said block of building. Assessing Officer substituted sale consideration received by stamp duty valuation of property while computing written down value (WDV) for claiming depreciation on block of assets in accordance with provisions of section 50C and disallowed excess depreciation claimed by assessee. CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Court held that legal fiction of section 50C cannot be extended while working out WDV for purpose of claiming depreciation on block of assets. The Assessing Officer could not have substituted sale consideration received by stamp duty valuation of property while computing WDV for claiming depreciation on block of assets. disallowance of depreciation is deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

3A Composites India (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 272 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-Interest on term loan paid to bank allowable u/s 43B(d) even if not debited to P&L account and not claimed in return/revised return-NBFC-Interest on NPAs not taxable on accrual-Interest on recurring deposits created as sinking fund taxable only on maturity where both principal and interest were payable only on maturity and entire interest was offered in year of maturity-Delay of 385 days-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [S. 43B(d), 43D, Art. 136]

The assessee, a Government of West Bengal undertaking and an NBFC, had paid EMIs on a term loan, but by inadvertence the entire EMI amount (including interest) was shown as repayment of principal. The mistake was detected after assessment and the assessee raised an additional ground before the CIT(A) claiming deduction of Rs. 1,40,77,397 being interest actually paid to the bank. The Tribunal allowed the claim. The assessee had also created a sinking fund through recurring deposits of varying tenures for redemption of infrastructure bonds; as interest on such deposits was payable only on maturity, no interest was accounted for annually. The AO taxed notional accrual of such interest for AYs 2001-02 and 2002-03. The Tribunal deleted the addition. The Tribunal also deleted addition of interest on NPAs not accounted for by the assessee. On appeal, the High Court upheld the Tribunal and held that interest actually paid on term loan was allowable u/s 43B(d) in the year of payment irrespective of method of accounting, even if not debited to the profit and loss account and not claimed in the return or revised return. It further held that where the Tribunal's factual finding that interest on recurring deposits/sinking fund accrued only on maturity was not disputed, and the entire accrued interest had been offered to tax in AY 2005-06, no tax could be levied during the subsistence of the deposit tenure. The deletion of addition in respect of interest on NPAs not accounted for was also upheld. SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay of 385 days as well as on merits. (AY. 2001-02, 2002-03)

CIT v. West Bengal Infrastructure Development Finance Corporation Ltd. (2025) 481 ITR 56 / 181 taxmann.com 349 (SC).
Editorial : CIT v. West Bengal Infrastructure Development Finance [2024] 164 taxmann.com 1112 / (2025) 481 ITR 45 (Cal)(HC).

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-Interest on term loan paid to bank allowable u/s 43B(d) even if not debited to P&L account and not claimed in return/revised return-NBFC-Interest on NPAs not taxable on accrual-Interest on recurring deposits created as sinking fund taxable only on maturity where both principal and interest were payable only on maturity and entire interest was offered in year of maturity. [S. 43B(d), 43D]

The assessee, a Government of West Bengal undertaking and an NBFC, had paid EMIs on a term loan, but by inadvertence the entire EMI amount (including interest) was shown as repayment of principal. The mistake was detected after assessment and the assessee raised an additional ground before the CIT(A) claiming deduction of Rs. 1,40,77,397 being interest actually paid to the bank. The Tribunal allowed the claim. The assessee had also created a sinking fund through recurring deposits of varying tenures for redemption of infrastructure bonds; as interest on such deposits was payable only on maturity, no interest was accounted for annually. The AO taxed notional accrual of such interest for AYs 2001-02 and 2002-03. The Tribunal deleted the addition. The Tribunal also deleted addition of interest on NPAs not accounted for by the assessee. On appeal, the High Court upheld the Tribunal and held that interest actually paid on term loan was allowable u/s 43B(d) in the year of payment irrespective of method of accounting, even if not debited to the profit and loss account and not claimed in the return or revised return. It further held that where the Tribunal's factual finding that interest on recurring deposits/sinking fund accrued only on maturity was not disputed, and the entire accrued interest had been offered to tax in AY 2005-06, no tax could be levied during the subsistence of the deposit tenure. The deletion of addition in respect of interest on NPAs not accounted for was also upheld. (AY. 2001-02, 2002-03)

CIT v. West Bengal Infrastructure Development Finance Corporation Ltd. [2024] 164 taxmann.com 1112 / (2025) 481 ITR 45 (Cal)(HC).

Editorial: SLP dismissed, CIT v. West Bengal Infrastructure Development Finance Corporation Ltd. (2025) 481 ITR 56/ 181 taxmann.com 349 (SC).

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-VAT-Service tax-Estimation of Profits-Rejection of Books of Account-Income estimated at 8% No Further Disallowance Permissible.[S.144, 145]

During the assessment proceedings, the AO rejected the books of account and estimated the net profit. However, while computing the tax liability, the AO also made an addition under section 43B, which allows deductions only on actual payment, and accordingly passed the assessment order under section 143(3). The CIT(A) held that once the income under the head Profits and Gains of Business or Profession is estimated after rejection of the books of account, it is to be presumed that all provisions contained in sections 29 to 43D have been taken into account, and therefore no further disallowance under section 43B could be made. The High Court affirmed this principle and held that, where the gross profit is estimated after rejection of the books, restoring the matter to the AO for further verification was unnecessary and unwarranted. It was reiterated that once profits are determined on an estimated basis, the AO cannot rely on the rejected books of account to make further disallowances. Accordingly, no interference was called for with the order of the Tribunal. (AY.2012-13)

Skyscraper Projects (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 306 Taxman 169 (Cal.)(HC)

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-Employees' contribution to PF / ESI-Due date fell on national holiday-Payment made on next working day-Disallowance deleted-Deduction allowable. [S. 2(24)(x), 36(1)(va), 43B, 143(1)(a)]

The Court held that though employees' contribution and employer's contribution stand on a different footing and employees' contribution is allowable only if deposited within the due date prescribed under the relevant welfare enactment, where the statutory due date for deposit of employees' PF / ESI contribution fell on a national holiday, i.e., 15-8-2018, and the assessee deposited the amount on the immediately succeeding working day, such payment had to be regarded as having been made within time. Accordingly, while affirming the legal position that section 43B does not override section 36(1)(va) and that Explanation 5 to section 43B is clarificatory, the Court held that the Tribunal was not justified in sustaining the disallowance on the peculiar facts where the delay occurred only because the due date itself was a national holiday. The addition made in processing under section 143(1)(a) to that extent was unsustainable and the assessee was entitled to deduction. (AY. 2019-20)

Woodland (Aero Club) Pvt. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 480 ITR 536 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-Provision towards approved gratuity fund-Payment made to LIC gratuity fund approved by the CIT-Deduction allowable-S. 40A(7)(b) being specific provision overrides S. 43B. [S. 40A(7)(b)]

Allowing the appeal the Court held that where the assessee made a provision towards contribution to an approved gratuity fund maintained with LIC and duly approved by the CIT, the High Court held that the deduction was allowable under S. 40A(7)(b). It was observed that while S. 43B is a general provision dealing with deduction on actual payment, S. 40A(7)(b) is a specific provision governing contributions to an approved gratuity fund. Since S. 40A(7)(b) expressly covers approved gratuity funds, there was no conflict in applying it in preference to the generic reference in S. 43B. The Tribunal was therefore not justified in disallowing the claim, especially when identical payments had been accepted in earlier and subsequent years. (AY.2008-09)

Sanmar Speciality Chemicals Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 344 CTR 454 / 248 DTR 369 / 173 taxmann.com 884 (Mad)(HC)

S. 43B : Certain deductions only on actual payment-VAT, Entry Tax, CST-Not claimed as deduction-No disallowance can be made. [S. 139(1)]

Assessing Officer made disallowance under section 43B on account of non-payment of liabilities such as VAT, Entry Tax, CST before prescribed date of filing return under section 139(1). CIT(A) partly allowed the appeal. Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A)). On appeal the Court held that the assessee did not claim amount of VAT, Entry Tax, CST in his profit and loss account as expenditure/deduction, nor assessee claimed deduction in respect of that account under section 43B. Accordingly the addition is deleted.(AY. 2018-19)

Grand Motors v. ITO (2025) 302 Taxman 440 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-liability on account of electricity duty payable-Set off against allotment of equity shares-Amount discharge of liability-No disallowance can be made. [S. 37(1), 260A]

Held that the liability on account of electricity duty payable could be set off against allotment of equity shares, amount discharge of liability. No disallowance can be made assessee could b set off by way of allotment of equity shares, and same would amount to discharge of liability under section 43B. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 1999-2000)

CIT v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 134 (P&H)(HC)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-Leave encashment-Liability to pay leave encashment was neither accrued nor paid during relevant accounting year but in year 2004 to 2016-Not allowable as deduction. [S. 43B(f), 139(1), 260A]

The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim of the assessee on ground that the liability to pay leave encashment as per the details provided by the assessee was due only in the year 2004 and onwards, as such, neither any liability had accrued nor discharged during the financial year 2001-02 and the process for establishment and registration of CLET was initiated and completed during the assessment year 2002-03 and was registered in the said year only. The Commissioner (Appeals) held that as there was no specific provision under Section 36 of the Act relating to contribution to leave encashment fund, the amount paid into the said fund by the assessee had no statutory recognition. The Tribunal held that section 43B was applicable only to those deductions, which otherwise were allowable under the Act and neither any liability had accrued to the assessee on account of leave encashment of employees in the year under appeal nor any payment was made to the employees during the said year. On appeal the High Court held that the liability incurred by the assessee did not qualify the requirement of section 43B(f) and hence were rightly disallowed by the revenue. Order of Tribunal was affirmed. (AY. 2002-03)

H.P. State Civil Supplies Corporation Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 303 Taxman 306 / 345 CTR 536 / 251 DTR 343 (HP)(HC)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-Provision for leave salary-Not allowable as deduction.[S.43(f)]

Held that provision for leave salary is not allowable as deduction. (AY. 2008-09, 2010-11 & 2011-12)

Tamil Nadu Small Industries Corporation Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 303 Taxman 129 (Mad.)(HC)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-Converted interest due to equity shares-Tantamount payment-Entitle to deduction.

During year, assessee had converted interest due to company APIDC into equity shares by issuing 5,05,000 shares of Rs. 10 each. Assessing Officer held that conversion of outstanding interest liability into loan i.e., funding interest or into equity did not amount to actual payment-Accordingly, amount of interest due to APIDC was disallowed under section 43B on ground that same was not actually paid. CIT(A) and Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that since liability of assessee to pay interest ceased to exist on issue of shares in favour of APIDC, same would tantamount to actual payment within meaning of section 43B and, thus, assessee would be entitled to deduction under section 43B of the Act. (AY. 1999-2000)

Frontier Information Tech Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) / 478 ITR 637 / 303 Taxman 378 /343 CTR 143/ 245 DTR 457 (Telnagana)(HC)

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-Customs duty paid under protest-Refund offered to tax in subsequent year-Disallowance would result in double taxation-Deduction allowable-Addition was deleted. [S. 143(3)]

The assessee paid customs duty under protest during the relevant previous year and claimed deduction under section 43B. The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim. The Tribunal held that the liability had crystallised during the relevant year and the customs duty had actually been paid. Since any refund received had already been offered to tax in the subsequent assessment year, disallowance of the deduction would result in double taxation. The addition was therefore deleted. (AY. 2018-19).

Keysight Technologies India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2025] 181 taxmann.com 103 / 128 ITR 51 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 43B : Deductions on actual payment-Goods and services tax shown as unpaid as of the date of the audit report but paid before the due date for filing return of income-Goods and services tax not routed through profit and loss account-Section 43B not applicable. [S. 44AB]

The AO disallowed Rs. 59,93,015 under section 43B on account of unpaid goods and services tax of Rs. 67,47,034 shown as outstanding on the date of the audit report, which disallowance was upheld by the CIT(A), despite the assessee's contention that Rs. 53,50,546 thereof had been paid before the due date for filing the return of income and that the GST amount, being neither debited to the profit and loss account nor claimed as a deduction, fell outside the scope of section 43B. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had not claimed any deduction in respect of the GST amount and had merely reflected it as a current liability under duties and taxes in its books without routing it through the profit and loss account, and since the amount had in any event been paid before the due date for filing the return, the provisions of section 43B were not applicable, and the disallowance was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

P.K. Parikh, HUF v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 431(Ahd) (Trib)

S.43B : Deductions on actual payment-Payment of TDS inadvertently misreported under cl. 26(B)(b) of Form No. 3CD-the matter is restored to the jurisdictional AO with a direction to verify the correctness of the assessee's claim and re-adjudicate the allowability of payments under S 43B in accordance with law.

Held that the Assessee furnished a certificate issued by the statutory tax auditor certifying that he has inadvertently misreported the TDS payments under cl. 26(B) (b) instead of cl. 26(B)(a) of Form No. 3CD and clarified that all the TDS payments were in fact made before the due date of filing of return, the disallowance made under s. 43B is not justified; matter is restored to the jurisdictional AO with a direction to verify the correctness of the assessee's claim and re-adjudicate the allowability of payments under S. 43B in accordance with law. (AY.2021-22)

Darshit Gunantbhai Shah v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 359 / 177 taxmann.com 36 ((Ahd)(Trib)

S. 43B : Deduction only on actual payment-Unpaid interest on loan from World Bank-Section 43B(d), (da), (e) covering only interest payable to specific financial institutions, non-banking financial companies, scheduled banks or co-operative banks-World Bank or State Government loans not included-Disallowance deleted-Deduction only on actual payment-Statutory liability-Electricity duty collected from consumers but not remitted to Government-Assessee merely a conduit between consumer and Government-No independent liability-Disallowance rightly deleted.[S.43B(a), 43B(d), 43B(da), 43B(e)]

AO disallowed unpaid interest of Rs. 2,56,43,688 on a loan taken from the World Bank under section 43B, which disallowance was upheld by CIT(A); further, a sum of Rs. 149.53 crores pertaining to electricity duty collected by the assessee, a power distribution company, from consumers under the Rajasthan Electricity (Duty) Act, 1962, but not remitted to the State Government, was disallowed under section 43B(a), which disallowance was deleted by CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that clauses (d), (da) and (e) of section 43B cover only interest payable to specific financial institutions, NBFC, scheduled banks or co-operative banks as specified in Explanation 4 thereto, and since neither the State Government nor the World Bank fell within any of these categories, the interest payable on such loans was not covered by section 43B, and the disallowance was accordingly deleted. It was further held that there was no infirmity in the order of the CIT(A) deleting the disallowance of electricity duty, as the assessee had no independent liability and merely acted as a conduit between the consumers and the Government. (AY.2016-17)

Jaipur Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 134 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 43B : Deduction only on actual payment-Rectification of mistakes-Gratuity amount incorrectly claimed under wrong schedule in return-Not reflected in tax audit report-Centralised Processing Centre disallowing claim under section 143(1)-Assessee filing revised tax audit report-Genuine claim could not be denied-CBDT Circular-Income of assessee should not be over-assessed-Legitimate deduction not to be denied merely because of a mistake made by assessee. [S. 143(1), 154]

The assessee claimed deduction of gratuity of Rs. 79,25,442 under section 43B, but inadvertently reported it under the wrong schedule of the return instead of the relevant column, which claim was disallowed by the CPC while processing the return under section 143(1); the assessee thereafter filed a revised tax audit report and sought rectification under section 154, but the CIT(A) upheld the disallowance holding that in the absence of a revised return of income, the claim made during appellate proceedings was not admissible. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the inadvertent non-reporting by the auditor was bona fide since all relevant details were otherwise available on record, and a genuine claim of deduction could not be denied merely because it was mentioned under the wrong classification in the return, especially having regard to CBDT Circular No. 14 (XL-35), dated April 11, 1955, which enjoins Departmental officers to assist taxpayers in claiming legitimate reliefs; the order of CIT(A) was accordingly set aside and the AO was directed to delete the addition. (AY. 2020-21)

National Contracting Co. (India) P. Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 185 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-Expenses not charged to P&L a/c-Transferred to work in progress-Disallowances cannot be made. [S. 145]

Held that the Assessee having transferred the impugned expenses to work-in-progress account and not charged to P&L a/c, same cannot be disallowed under s. 43B. (AY.2017-18 & 2018-19)

ITO v. Thrissur Expressway Ltd. (2025) 234 TTJ 676(Hyd)(Trib)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-Liabilities disallowed in earlier year-Paid during year-Allowable on furnishing payment evidence, while addition for balance amount without supporting evidence was to be sustained.

Held that deduction under section 43B for liabilities disallowed in the earlier year and paid during the year, deduction for service tax and TDS was allowable on furnishing payment evidence, while addition for the balance amount without supporting evidence was to be sustained. (AY. 2018-19)

Magnaquest Technologies Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 146/238 TTJ 920 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-Leave encashment-Disallowed earlier years-Settled by filing an application under the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Scheme, 2024-Allowable as a deduction on a payment basis. [S.43B(f)]

Held that leave encashment liability paid to employees during relevant assessment year 2017-18 which though pertained to leave encashment provided for in earlier assessment years 2002-03, 2003-04 and 2004-05 but had been disallowed and taxes thereon had been paid by assessee by filing application under Direct Tax Vivas se Vishwas Scheme, 2024, for assessment years 2002-03, 2003-04 and 2004-05. Tribunal held that the payment was allowable in the relevant assessment year 2017-18 on a payment basis in terms of section 43B(f) of the Act. (AY. 2017-18)

Universal Cables Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 428 (Kol) (Trib)

S.43B: Deductions on actual payment-VAT payment-Fake challan-No actual payment-Addition was justified-Deduction-LIC premium-Failure to produce evidence-Disallowance was affirmed. [S.80C]

Assessing Officer made an addition towards VAT payment under section 43B on the ground that assessee had claimed payment of VAT through a fake challan without there being any actual payment. Tribunal held that since assessee could not file any evidence in support of its arguments that it had paid VAT to concerned authorities and there was no outstanding dues for the relevant period, the addition was affirmed. The assessee claimed a deduction of Rs. 1 lakh under section 80C, since the assessee had not furnished any evidence to prove that the claim of deduction made under section 80C was allowable. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer rightly made an addition of Rs. 1 lakh under section 80C (AY. 2012-13)

Ganga Reddy Gidde. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 692 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 43B: Interest tax liability for AYs:1993-94 to 1997-98 arose to assessee during relevant assessment year 2018-19 by way of order giving effect to order of High Court-liability was discharged by assessee during relevant year allowable as business expenditure. [S. 37(1)]

The assessee company was into business of providing long term credits, the company paid interest tax for AY 93-94 to 97-98 which was later refunded due to the order of ITAT. The revenue's appeal was allowed in their favour by High Court. The AO in the order giving effect raised an interest tax demand. The assessee claimed that as expenditure, the AO disallowed on the reasoning that the same has to be allowed from income of those old years and not in which the tax was paid. Held that as per Interest Tax Act, 1974, the section 18 was very clear that assessee is eligible to claim the interest tax for any assessment year and the expenditure therefore was allowed in the AY 2018-19 when claimed by the assessee company. (AY.2018-19)

Tamilnadu Industrial Development Corporation Ltd v. DCIT [2025] 121 ITR 288 /172 taxmann.com 346 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Where part consideration is received by account payee cheque on the date of agreement, stamp duty value as on the date of agreement has to be adopted-No addition. Ss. 43CA(3), 43CA(4)[S. 43CA(3), 43CA(4), 50C]

The assessee, engaged in the business of development and construction, sold flats pursuant to agreements under which part of the consideration had been received in advance through account payee cheques. The sale deeds were executed subsequently, by which time the stamp duty value had increased. The Assessing Officer invoked section 43CA and made an addition on the basis of the higher stamp duty valuation prevailing on the date of registration. The Tribunal held that where part of the consideration had been received by account payee cheque on the date of the agreement, sections 43CA(3) and 43CA(4) mandated adoption of the stamp duty value as on the date of the agreement. Accordingly, no addition could be made merely because the stamp duty value had increased on the date of registration. (AY. 2014-15)

Kolte Patil Developers Ltd. (erstwhile Bellflower Properties P. Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 505 (Trib.)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Allowing 10 per cent tolerance band is curative and applies retrospectively-No addition was warranted in case of assessee, where difference between DVO value and sale consideration was within permissible limit for assessment year 2018-19.[S.50C]

Held that the proviso to section 43CA(1) allowing a 10 per cent tolerance band by the Finance Act, 2020, with effect from 1-4-2021, is curative and applies retrospectively; hence, no addition was warranted in the case of the assessee, where the difference between the DVO value and the sale consideration was within the permissible limit for the assessment year 2018-19. (AY. 2018-19)

DCIT v. Gaurav Investments. (2025) 215 ITD 124 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Tolerance limit of 10 per cent introduced by Finance Act, 2020 to section 43CA is curative in nature and, therefore, applicable retrospectively.[S.50C]

Held that the tolerance limit of 10 per cent introduced by the Finance Act, 2020, to section 43CA is curative in nature and, therefore, applicable retrospectively. Where the variation between the sale consideration and the stamp duty valuation of the property was only 7 per cent, which was within the permissible tolerance limit, the addition made under section 43CA was deleted.(AY. 2019-20)

DCIT v. Amardeep Constructions. (2025) 215 ITD 322 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation Difference between SDV and agreement value was less than 5 per cent-Addition is deleted-Change of opinion-Reopening is not justified.[S.50C 147, 148]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in real estate development, sold four flats, of which two were sold below the stamp duty value. The Assessing Officer invoked section 43CA, treating the difference as escaped income. Held that since the difference between the stamp duty value and agreement value was less than 5%, the addition under section 43CA was unsustainable. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to delete the addition. Reopening of the assessment was quashed on the ground of change of opinion. (AY 2016-17)

Om Shriniwas Developers v. ITO [2025] 177 taxmann.com 610 (SMC) (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Registration agreement at a later date-Transaction was completed in an earlier year and offered to tax-Addition cannot be made in the year of registration. [S. 2(47)(v), S.50C, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S.53A]

Assessee, a real estate developer, sold four commercial properties in July 2013 and received full sale consideration through banking channels, simultaneously transferring possession of the premises to buyer. Income arising from the transaction was offered to tax in assessment year 2014-

15. However, the agreement to sell was executed on 31-12-2014 and registered on 3-3-2015. Assessing Officer invoked provisions of section 43CA for the relevant assessment year, taking the registration date as the operative date of transfer and made an addition on account of the difference between the stated consideration and stamp duty value. CIT A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that once possession was handed over in part performance of a written agreement for consideration and the transferee was willing to perform their obligations, the transaction would qualify as a transfer for the purposes of taxation and formal registration of the agreement at a later date, being merely a procedural formality, could not defer taxability of the transaction. Furthermore, the entire consideration was received more than one year before the date of agreement, and the transaction was already taxed in the correct year, i.e., assessment year 2014-15. Addition made under section 43CA in assessment year 2015-16 was unsustainable in law and was to be deleted (AY. 2015-16)

Navketan Premises (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 243 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.43CA: Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation Difference between SDV and agreement value was less than 5 per cent-Addition is deleted-Change of opinion-Reopening is not justified.[S.50C 147, 148]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in real estate development, sold four flats, of which two were sold below the stamp duty value. The Assessing Officer invoked section 43CA, treating the difference as escaped income. Held that since the difference between the stamp duty value and agreement value was less than 5%, the addition under section 43CA was unsustainable. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to delete the addition. Reopening of assessment was quashed on the ground of change of opinion. (AY 2016-17)

Om Shriniwas Developers v. ITO [2025] 177 taxmann.com 610 (SMC) (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Developer-Booking of flat-Addition is deleted.[S. 43CA(3), 43CA (4), 50C]

Assessee is a partnership firm engaged in business as builders and developers. Assessee sold certain flats for a consideration less than market value on date of agreement of sale. Assessing Officer made addition to income of assessee under section 43CA. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee explained that flats were sold at prevailing rate of market value as on date of booking and since value as per agreement to sale was higher than stamp duty value as on date of booking of flats, no addition was called for. Addition is deleted.(AY. 2016-17)

Bansal Land Developers. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 658 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 43CA : Transfer of assets-other than capital assets-Full value of consideration-stock in trade-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Date of agreement fixing value of consideration and date of registration of such transfer not same-Stamp duty value as on date of agreement for sale should be considered as full value of consideration for purpose of computing profits and gains from transfer of flat-Addition is deleted. [S. 45]

Assessee-firm was engaged in the real estate business. During assessment proceedings, the AO observed that the assessee had sold a flat at a value less than the stamp duty value. Assessee submitted that allotment letter in respect of flat was issued on 5-5-2011 and agreement for sale was executed between parties on 30-4-2011, and, therefore, stamp duty rate as on that date should be considered to be full value of consideration for purpose of section 43CA. However, the AO held that the assessee had not provided a copy of the bank account statement reflecting the transaction and a copy of the ready reckoner for the year in which aforesaid flat was allotted to the party. Accordingly, the AO made an addition u/s 43CA by considering the stamp duty value on the date of registration of the agreement, i.e., during the year under consideration. It was held that provisions of s. 43CA (3) provides that where date of agreement fixing the value of consideration and the date of registration of such transfer of asset are not same, then the stamp duty value as on date of agreement shall be taken as full value of consideration for the purpose of computing profits and gains from transfer of such asset. Since the agreement for sale was executed on 30-4-2011, in light of provisions of section 43CA(3), the stamp duty value as on date of the agreement for sale, i.e., 30-4-2011, should be considered as the full value of consideration. Accordingly, the impugned addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Arihant Associates v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 149 (Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 43CB : Construction and service contracts-Percentage completion-Project completion method-Method of accounting-Construction Contracts-AS7-Real estate development, constructed residential flats on its own land,-Revenue was to be recognized only upon sale deed execution and possession transfer.[S. 145]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Tribunal held that S. 43CB is applicable only to construction contracts and contracts for providing services, and not to developers executing real estate projects on their own account; since the assessee is engaged in the business of real estate development and construction of residential flats on its own land, it does not fall within the ambit of S. 43CB and, therefore, the addition made by the AO under S. 43CB by applying the percentage completion method as against the AS-9 followed by the assessee is not sustainable. (AY.2018-19)

DCIT v. Aaryan Buildspace LLP (2025) 234 TTJ 576 / 172 taxmann.com 806 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 43D : Public financial institutions-Section 43D read with Rule 6EB is a complete code-Directions issued by National Housing Bank (NHB) do not override section 43D in matter of computation of taxable income. [S.43D, R.6EB, Art.136]

High Court held that directions issued by National Housing Bank (NHB) do not override section 43D in matter of computation of taxable income- Further, section 43D read with Rule 6EB is a complete code in itself and there is an element of discretion for rule making authority to follow or not to follow NHB guidelines as when they are revised. Every change in NHB guidelines would not lead to any corresponding automatic change in Rule 6EB. NPA is to be classified as per section 43D read with Rule 6EB of rules, and not by amended guidelines of NHB. SLP of the High Court is dismissed. (AY. 2005-06 to 2009-10)

Housing and Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. Addl. CIT (2025) 302 Taxman 419 (SC)

Editorial : Housing and Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. Addl. CIT (2017) 83 taxmann.com 292 (Delhi) (HC), Housing and Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. Addl. CIT(RP. Nos 130 to 134 of 2018 dt 23-3-2018(Delhi)(HC)

S. 43D : Public financial institutions-State financial corporation Interest on bad debts-Mercantile system of accounting-Cash basis-Interest of bad debts on cash basis-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 145, Income-tax Rules, 1962, r. 6EA.]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that in the absence of any doubt as to the status of the assessee as a State financial corporation and in the face of the statutory scheme allowing it to account for recovery of interest on bad debts on cash basis, primarily, there was no error in the order of the Tribunal allowing the benefit to the assessee to account for interest of bad debts on cash basis.(AY. 2001-02, 2003-04)

CIT v. U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation Ltd[2024]
162 taxmann.com 126 / (2025) 478 ITR 449 (All)(HC)

S. 44 : Insurance business-Expenditure relating to exempt income-Section 14A not applicable to insurance companies.-Reserve for unexpired premium-Double taxation to be avoided-Matter restored for verification.[S.14A, R.8D, R.6E]

The Tribunal held that the computation of income of insurance companies is governed by the special provisions of section 44. Accordingly, section 14A and rule 8D have no application while computing the taxable income of an insurance company. The Tribunal held that amounts representing reserve for unexpired premium which had already been disallowed in earlier years could not again be brought to tax in the year under consideration. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for verification and appropriate relief. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123
ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 44AB : Audit of accounts-Business-Profession-Digital marketing-Digital marketing cannot be treated as profession-It should be treated as business-Turnover below 5 crores-Assessee was not therefore liable to file audit report in terms of proviso to s.
44AB(a).[S.28(i), Art. 226]

Assessee was carrying on business of digital marketing. Assessee claimed that since its turnover was below Rs. 5 crores and cash transactions was below 5 per cent of its turnover, it was not liable to file audit report in terms of first proviso to section 44AB(a). Assessing Officer held that assessee carried on business of Digital Marketing and it would come under category of profession and passed the assessment order. On writ the Court held that Digital Marketing cannot be treated as profession, but it should be treated as business and thus, merely because assessee carried on digital marketing business through computers, it could not be treated as profession. Since assessee's turnover was below Rs. 5 crores and cash transaction was below 5 per cent on both aspects of expenses and receipts and everything was carried on through bank transactions, assessee was not required to file an audit report and was exempted for same. Matter was remanded back to Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. (AY. 2021-22)

Vajra Global Consulting Service LLP v. ADIT (2025) 347 CTR 890 / 254 DTR 217 /177 taxmann.com 734 (Mad)(HC)

S. 44AD: Presumptive basis-Income from undisclosed sources-Cash seized during requisition under S. 132A-Not mandatory to maintain books of account-Addition was deleted. [S.69A, 132A]

Held that the assessments of the assessee for earlier years have been completed on a presumptive basis under s. 44AD, the income declared by the assessee in the relevant year under s. 44AD has to be accepted, and therefore, the impugned addition under s. 69A made in respect of the seizure of cash of Rs. 7 lakhs from the possession of the assessee by the police authorities is not sustainable. The assessee also explained the source of the cash (AY. 2019-20)

Basharat Saleem Rehtoo v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 456 (Amritsar)(Trib)

S. 44AD : Presumptive basis-Cash credits-Bank deposits-Treated as turnover-Assessing Officer had not shown that such deposits were different from business receipts; addition as sustained by Commissioner (Appeals) was deleted.[S.68]

Assessee filed a return of income declaring income under section 44AD. Assessee had deposits in his three bank accounts maintained with HDFC Bank, and while declaring an income under section 44AD in his return of income, assessee disclosed turnover/ gross receipts at Rs. 55.49 lakhs. Assessing Officer made an addition under section 68, treating cash deposits as unexplained, alleging a lack of documentary evidence for business activity. CIT(A) confirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since cash deposits forming the basis of addition under section 68 were already included in turnover declared by the assessee under section 44AD, and the Assessing Officer had not shown that such deposits were different from business receipts, the addition as sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) was deleted. (AY. 2012-13)

Jatin Arora. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 173 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 44AD : Presumptive basis-Cash credits-Unexplained investment-Demonetization-Cash deposits in books-Source of cash deposits explained-VAT return-Declared sales-Sales not doubted-The additions cannot be made as cash credits or unexplained investment.[S. 68, 69]

Allowing the appeal, the Tribunal held that where the source of cash deposits is explained, the additions cannot be made as cash credits or unexplained investment. Cash deposited during the demonetization period is deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Mohit Sukhija. v. NFA (2025) 213 ITD 251 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 44AD : Presumptive basis-Bogus purchases-Not under any obligation to explain individual entry of purchases-Gross receipts remained undisputed-Additions deleted.[S. 69C]

Assessee filed his return as per the provisions of section 44AD. Assessing Officer received information from the GST department that the assessee had received a bogus purchase bill from ARS Enterprises. He made an addition with respect to alleged bogus purchases. CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer made disallowance merely on the basis of information received from the GST Department and did not make any enquiry about purchases from ARS Enterprises. The assessee had provided complete details of purchases from ARS Enterprises along with the address and GST no. of the party. Tribunal held that since assessee had opted for presumptive taxation under section 44AD, assessee was not required to maintain books of account as well as details of purchases made and was not under an obligation to explain individual entry of purchases unless such entry had nexus with gross receipts. Since the gross receipt shown by assessee remained undisputed and was never tested by revenue to be beyond the specified limit, the Assessing Officer was to be directed to delete addition. (AY. 2018-19)

Lakshmanram Bheemaji Purohit. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 507 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 44B : Shipping business-Non-residents-Computation-Taxability in India-Presumptive tax-Business of operation of ships for international carriage-Goods and services tax collected as statutory levy and shown separately in invoice-Not part of gross receipts-Tribunal, in assessee's own case for earlier years, consistently holding service tax excludable from gross receipts-GST not includible in computing income under section 44B-Addition deleted-Income offered to tax under section 44B read with section 90(2)-Section 115JB not applicable-Book profit computation deleted-DTAA-India-Hong Kong. [S. 90(2), 115JB(1), Explan. 4A,145A], Art.8]

The assessee, a Hong Kong company engaged in operating ships in international traffic and offering its income to tax under section 44B in terms of article 8 of the India-Hong Kong DTAA, had 7.5 per cent. of its GST component added as deemed income under section 44B by the AO, confirmed by the DRP, and had book profit computed under section 115JB. On appeal, the Tribunal held that GST, being a statutory levy collected by the assessee in a fiduciary capacity on behalf of the Government and shown separately in invoices, carried no profit element and could not form part of the specified amounts contemplated under section 44B(2), consistent with its own earlier decisions holding service tax similarly excludable and with CBDT circulars clarifying that no tax need be deducted on separately indicated GST components, since section 44B, being a non obstante provision overriding sections 28 to 43A, was not governed by the inclusive valuation method under section 145A, and including GST in income would tantamount to taxing a tax, contrary to the legislative intent of taxing only charges recovered for shipping services; accordingly, the addition of GST was deleted. It further held that since the assessee had offered its income to tax under the deemed provisions of section 44B read with section 90(2), section 115JB was rendered inapplicable in view of Explanation 4A thereto, and book profit computed by the AO was to be deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

Orient Overseas Container Line Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 589(Mum) (Trib)

S. 44B : Shipping business-Non-residents-Computation-GST-Section 44B overrides the provisions of S. 29-Section 145A is not applicable for computing deemed income-GST not to be included Book profit-Income offered under deeming provision-Provision of book profit is not applicable-DTAA-India-Hong Kong. [S. 29,90, 115JB, 145A, Art.8]

Held that for computing the deemed income under S. 44B is the amount paid or payable to the assessee or amount received or deemed to be received by the assessee on account of carriage of passengers, livestock, mail or goods, etc.. GST cannot be included while computing deemed income under S. 44B. Section 44B overrides the provisions of S. 29, hence S. 145A is not applicable for computing deemed income under S. 44B. Income offered income under deeming provision-Provision of book profit is not applicable. The assessee has offered income of operation of ships to tax under the deeming provisions of s. 44B r/w s. 90(2) and art. 8 of India-Hong Kong Tax Treaty; and therefore, in view of Expln. 4A to s. 115JB(1), the provisions of S. 115JB are not applicable to the assessee (AY. 2020-21)

Orient Overseas Container Line Ltd. v. Dy.CIT (IT) [2024] 168 taxmann.com 269 / (2025) 233 TTJ 83 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 44BB : Mineral oils-Computation-Presumptive tax-Non resident-Taxability in India-Undertaken for 119 days-Less than 183 days-No permanent establishment in India-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Singapore [Art. 51, Art.226.]

Non-resident company having establishment in connection with services and activity for another company when fabrication, positioning and upgradation activity started Rig undergoing necessary upgrades and repairs to meet another company requirements prior to agreement Rig already in contracting State for providing services in connection with exploitation, exploration or extraction of mineral oils Business income taxable in contracting State in which it arises Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between India and Singapore, art. 51. On a writ petition contending that according to the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between India and Singapore the business profits of the Singapore enterprise could be taxed only if it had a permanent establishment in India and as the drilling operations in India were only undertaken for 119 days which was less than the threshold period of 183 days, accordingly, the assessee could not be said to have a permanent establishment in India.

Deep Drilling 1 Pte. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 482 ITR 982 (Bom)(HC)

S. 44BB : Mineral oils-Computation-Non-Resident-Business Income-Permanent Establishment-Not taxable as business income-Interest under section 234B cannot be levied.-DTAA-India-Canada.[S.90, 209(1)(d), 234B]

The assessee, a tax resident of Canada, received consideration for supplying reservoir simulation software to Indian oil companies, on which tax was deducted at source. The Assessing Officer assessed the receipts under section 44BB. The Tribunal held that since the assessee had no permanent establishment in India, it was entitled to the more beneficial provisions of the India-Canada DTAA under section 90. Consequently, the receipts were not taxable as business income under section 44BB. It was further held that where the entire income of a non-resident is subject to tax deduction at source, there is no liability to pay advance tax and, therefore, interest under section 234B could not be levied. The Assessing Officer was also directed to grant due credit for TDS and interest under section 244A. (AY. 2012-13, 2019-20 to 2021-22)

Computer Modelling Group Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 121 ITR 214 / 162 taxmann.com 437 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 44BB : Mineral oils-Computation-Providing its vessels for transportation to entities engaged in the exploitation/exploration of seabed or subsoil-Section 44BB was not applicable-AO is directed to compute the income of the assessee in terms of art. 21(4) of the India-Norway DTAA-DTAA-India-Norway [S.90, Art, 21]

Tribunal held that Para 4 of art. 21 of the Indo-Norway DTAA is applicable to the consideration received by the assessee for providing a vessel for transportation to entities engaged in the exploitation/exploration of seabed or subsoil and, therefore, its income is to be computed in terms of art. 21(4) of the DTAA; S. 44BB was not applicable(AY.2022-23)

Sanco Holding AS v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 237 TTJ 936 / 178 taxmann.com 673 (Dehradun) Trib)

S. 44BB : Mineral oils-Computation-Non-resident-Presumptive taxation-Goods and Services Tax (GST) collected separately-Not includible in gross receipts.[S. 145A]

The assessee, a non-resident company engaged in offshore drilling services, offered its income to tax under section 44BB. The Assessing Officer included the GST component collected separately in the invoices while computing deemed income under section 44BB. The Tribunal held that GST is a statutory levy collected on behalf of the Government and does not contain any profit element. Inclusion of GST in gross receipts would amount to taxing a tax. Following its earlier decision in Orient Overseas Container Line Ltd., the Tribunal held that section 145A has no application while computing presumptive income under section 44BB and directed deletion of the addition. (AY. 2021-22).

Seadrill International Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 678 / 179 taxmann.com 553 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 44BBA : Aircraft-Non-residents-Computation-Operation of aircraft-Presumptive taxation-Service tax collected on behalf of Government-Not includible in gross receipts.

The issue before the Tribunal was whether service tax collected by a non-resident airline and remitted to the Government formed part of the gross receipts for computing presumptive income under section 44BBA. The Tribunal held that service tax is collected by the assessee merely as an agent of the Government and does not contain any element of income. Since only amounts received for carriage of passengers, livestock or goods constitute gross receipts under section 44BBA, service tax could not be included for computing presumptive income. (AY. 2016-17 to 2018-19).

Cathay Pacific Airways Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 51 (Trib.)
Hong Kong Dragon Airlines Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 51 (Trib.)

S. 44C : Non-residents-Head office expenditure-Head office expenses-Allocated to PE in India-Allowed full-Prior to amendment of article 7(3) of India-UAE DTAA by way of protocol dated 28-11-2007-Expenditure incurred outside India exclusively for operations of Indian branches would not fall within ambit of section 44C-Allowable in full-DTAA-India-UAE [Art. 7]

Assessee, a non-resident banking company incorporated in UAE, carrying on banking business in India through its branches. Assessee claimed deduction of head office expenses allocated to its PE in India in full. Assessing Officer held that head office expenses were allowable in terms with restrictions imposed under section 44C and assessee was entitled to get deduction at restricted rate of 5 per cent of average adjusted total income. CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that amendment brought to article 7(3) by way of protocol providing for limitations or restrictions on deduction of expenses would not apply retrospectively hence prior to its amendment by protocol dated 28-11-2007, deduction of expenses attributable to PE was to be allowed fully without applying restrictions imposed under section 44C. Tribunal also held that the expenditure incurred outside India exclusively for operations of Indian branches would not fall within ambit of section 44C and, hence, would be allowable in full. (AY. 2002-03)

Mashreq Bank Psc. v. CIT (IT) (2025) 211 ITD 511 /233 TTJ 881 / 125 ITR 312 (SB) (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 44C : Non-residents-Head office expenditure-Double taxation relief-Article 7(3) of the DTAA between India and UAE-Assessee claimed deduction u/s. 44C-AO allowed only 5% of the adjusted total income as deduction-Held, Art. 7(3) cannot be applied retrospectively-Held, deduction allowed without imposing restriction u/s. 44C-Expenditure incurred outside India exclusively for operations of Indian branches would not fall within ambit of section 44C hence allowable in full-DTAA-India-Dubai. [S. 90,Art.7(3), 25(1)]

Assessee is a non-resident banking company with headquarters in UAE and branch offices in Mumbai and Delhi. Assessee filed ITR with a loss however, stated that it has not claimed any deduction on account of head office expenses, since, it has returned loss, but reserves its right to claim deduction at 5 per cent as per s. 44C of the Act. As per Art. 7(3) the DTAA between India and Dubai all expenses incurred for the purpose of business of the PE, including, the executive and administrative expenses, are allowable without applying the restriction imposed under s. 44C of the Act. AO only allowed 5% deduction to the adjusted total income. The Tribunal observed that the purpose of art. 25(1) cannot be expanded to mean the manner of taxing the income in each of the Contracting States but is to reiterate that taxing the income arising in each of the Contracting States should be either under the domestic law or as per the express provisions contained in the convention. This, when read with s. 90(2) of the Act, would mean that the Assessee has option to choose whichever is beneficial to it. Accordingly, art. 25(1) cannot be interpreted to impose restrictions on the manner of computing the tax which is beyond its scope of eliminating double taxation. Articles 25(1) and 7(3) operate in different situations. While art. 25(1) deals with elimination of double taxation, art. 7 deals with taxability of business profits and para 3 of art. 7 lays down the mechanism of computation of business profit of PE. Therefore, while computing the business profit PE under art. 7(3) of the Treaty, the language used/employed therein has to be seen.

The Tribunal also considered whether the amendment to art. 7(3) of the Treaty, effective from April 2008 retrospectively. The Tribunal held that the provisions of art. 7(3) of the Treaty is a result of a bilateral treaty between two countries and the changes to art. 7(3) have to be interpreted strictly from the date as specified and not any another date.(AY. 2002-03)

Mashreq Bank PSC v. Dy. CIT (IT) (2025) 233 TTJ 881 / 211 ITD 511 / 125 ITR 312 (SB)(Mum)(Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Capital Asset-Agricultural Land-Sale of plot of land-Revenue records not conclusive-Negligible agricultural income-Concurrent findings of fact-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S. 2(14)(iii), Art. 136]

The assessee sold a plot of land and claimed that it constituted agricultural land, and therefore was not taxable as capital gains. The Court noted that all the authorities had concurrently held that the land was not used for agricultural purposes, and consequently, the income arising from the sale of the land was chargeable to tax. It was observed that Form 7/12 (revenue records) is a relevant piece of evidence on which an assessee may legitimately rely; however, it is not conclusive. The authorities found that the assessee had not undertaken any agricultural activity on the land and had failed to make full and proper disclosure of agricultural income, having stated that the net agricultural income, after excluding expenses, was negligible. The authorities further relied on the clauses in the sale agreement, which indicated that the land was sold for development purposes, to be converted into plots and sold to third parties. Consideration was also given to the proximity of the land to the metropolitan cities of Mumbai and Thane, as well as the substantial expenditure incurred for the development of the land. The assessee was found to have made contradictory and inconsistent statements regarding the agricultural use of the property. The Court held that the assessee had failed to demonstrate any perversity in the authorities' findings. Since all relevant material and contentions had been duly considered by the lower authorities, there was no reason to interfere with the concurrent findings of fact, and no question of law, much less a substantial question of law, arose for consideration. SLP dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 306 Taxman 168/481 ITR 555. (SC)

Editorial: Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025)304 Taxman 39 / 481 ITR 547 (Bom) (HC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Capital Asset-Agricultural Land-Sale of plot of land-Revenue records not conclusive-Negligible agricultural income-Concurrent findings of fact-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 2(14)(iii),260A]

The assessee sold a plot of land and claimed that it constituted agricultural land, and therefore was not taxable as capital gains. On appeal the Court noted that all the authorities had concurrently held that the land was not used for agricultural purposes, and consequently, the income arising from the sale of the land was chargeable to tax. It was observed that Form 7/12 (revenue records) is a relevant piece of evidence on which an assessee may legitimately rely; however, it is not conclusive. The authorities found that the assessee had not undertaken any agricultural activity on the land and had failed to make full and proper disclosure of agricultural income, having stated that the net agricultural income, after excluding expenses, was negligible. The authorities further relied on the clauses in the sale agreement, which indicated that the land was sold for development purposes, to be converted into plots and sold to third parties. Consideration was also given to the proximity of the land to the metropolitan cities of Mumbai and Thane, as well as the substantial expenditure incurred for the development of the land. The assessee was found to have made contradictory and inconsistent statements regarding the agricultural use of the property. The Court held that the assessee had failed to demonstrate any perversity in the authorities' findings. Since all relevant material and contentions had been duly considered by the lower authorities, there was no reason to interfere with the concurrent findings of fact, and no question of law, much less a substantial question of law. (AY. 2011-12)

Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 481 ITR 547 / 304 Taxman 39 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : SLP rejected, Prashant Jaipal Reddy v. ITO (2025) 306 Taxman 168/481 ITR 555. (SC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Capital asset-Personal effects-Vintage car-Failed to provide evidence proving personal use of vintage car-Gain taxable as capital gains.[S. 2(14)]

Assessee sold a vintage car which he had purchased for Rs. 20,000 for a consideration of Rs. 21 lakhs. He claimed that car was shown as a personal asset in wealth tax and same was an exempt asset. Assessing Officer added profit on sale of car as business income. CIT(A) allowed the exemption. Tribunal reversed the order of the CIT(A). On appeal the Court held that since assessee failed to adduce any evidence with regard to vintage car being put to personal use, vintage car owned by assessee was not his personal effect and, thus, gain arising on sale thereof was liable to be taxed under head 'Capital Gains'.Applied.H.H. Maharaja Rana Hemant Singhji v. CIT (1976) 103 ITR 61 (SC) applied.(AY. 1992-93)

Narendra I. Bhuva v. ACIT (2025) 177 taxmann.com 540 /347 CTR 549 (Bom)(HC)

S. 45: Capital gains-Accepted cost of acquisition-Difference between intrinsic value of shares and amount paid by assessee cannot be taxed as perquisites-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. [S. 2(24)(iv), 260A]

Held that the assessee's computation of long-term capital gains was accepted by the Assessing Officer and the gains from the transfer of shares were brought to tax. Thus, the Department, having accepted the cost of acquisition of shares at Rs. 10 and having taxed the gains arising therefrom, could not later take a stand that the cost of the shares in the hands of the assessee was required to be computed based on their intrinsic value. This clearly militated against accepting that the cost of acquisition of the shares as Rs. 10 in the subsequent assessment years. The deletion of the addition by the Tribunal is affirmed. Court also observed that even though the court was of the view that there were no credible reasons for condoning delay of 1,563 days in filing the appeal, the matter was taken as it had been pending since 2011.(AY. 2001-02)

CIT v. Naresh K. Trehan. (2025) 305 Taxman 547/ 477 ITR 589 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Exemption-Entry provider-Survey-Unexplained money-Principle of natural justice-No opportunity of cross examination was given-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. [S. 10(38), 68, 69, 133A, 260A]

During the course of scrutiny assessment, the assessee filed a revised return claiming exemption of long-term capital gains under section 10(38) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, which was rejected by the Assessing Officer.

The Commissioner (Appeals) was satisfied that the shares were purchased through account-payee cheques, held in a dematerialised account for more than one year, and sold through a recognised stock exchange after payment of securities transaction tax. The Tribunal observed that where an assessee has wrongly offered an item of income or omitted to claim a deduction in the return, he is entitled to correct the mistake by making a request to the Assessing Officer and to seek deletion of additions made under sections 68 and 69. The statements of the so-called entry providers relied upon to justify the additions were recorded on various dates in other proceedings not connected with the assessee and were recorded much before the date of the survey conducted on the assessee. The Tribunal held that the assessee was denied an opportunity to challenge and cross-examine the witnesses whose statements formed the basis for additions under sections 68 and 69; such failure to adhere to the principles of natural justice vitiated the assessment. Further, the Assessing Officer did not consider the Central Board of Direct Taxes' circular permitting revised returns to be filed where claims were omitted; accordingly, the Tribunal was justified in deleting the additions and dismissing the Revenue's appeal. (AY.2014-15)

PCIT v. Kishore Kumar Mohapatra [2024] 162 taxmann.com 4 / (2025) 475 ITR 195 (Orissa)(HC)

Editorial: SLP of revenue, dismissed, PCIT v. Kishore Kumar Mohapatra [2024] 298 Taxman 648 / (2025) 475 ITR 198 (SC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Sale of shares-Computation of capital gains-Fair market value as on 01-04-1981-Leasehold land-lease value of leasehold interest to be taken into account.[S. 2(22B), 55(2)(b)(ii), Wealth-tax Rules, 1957.R. 1D]

The assessee, a shareholder in Company J, sold part of his shares. He filed a computation showing a capital loss based on the company's asset valuation and appended the valuation report. The AO made an addition, excluding the value of leased land from the fair market value (FMV) for computation of capital gains. The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal accepted the assessee's valuation, holding that the leasehold interest should be included because the company effectively controlled the land. The Court held that the leasehold interest in the land was an asset of the company and must be included when determining the FMV of unquoted shares as on 31-03-1981. As the lease term remaining exceeded 20 years, the lessee was effectively the de facto owner; therefore, the land's leasehold value could not be excluded from the asset valuation for computing capital gains. The Tribunal correctly applied FMV principles rather than relying solely on the balance-sheet figures under the Wealth-tax Rules.(AY 1997-98)

PCIT v. Dr. Karan Singh, (2025) 474 ITR 446 (J&K and Ladakh) (HC)
S. 45 : Capital gains-Development agreement with a builder for constructing residential flats on a sharing basis-Transfer-[S. 2(47)(v), Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S.53A]

Assessee, a Non-Resident Indian entered into a development agreement with a builder for constructing residential flats on a sharing basis. Tribunal held that development agreement as a transfer under section 2(47) hence liable for capital gains. On appeal the Court held that from records that despite existence of a contract to transfer immovable property, signed by both parties, contract remained unexecuted for consideration. A refundable performance guarantee mentioned in development agreement was not paid as consideration for transaction and possession was handed over to developer solely for development work, not as contemplated under section 53A of Transfer of Property Act, 1882. Therefore, it could be said that transaction did not fall within definition of transfer under section 2(47), hence the order of the Tribunal is set aside. Referred, Shrimant Shamrao Suryavanshi v. Prahlad Bhariroba Suravanshi (2002) 3 SCC 676. (AY. 1997-98)

Shantha Vidyasagar Annam (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 303 Taxman 348 / 345 CTR 209 / 251 DTR 119 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 45: Capital gains-Business income-Sale of properties-Assessable as capital gains and not as business income-Rule of constancy followed. [S. 22, 28(i), 260A]

Assessee is engaged in business of real estate development and leasing of properties. It had been consistently declaring rental income from letting out of properties as income from house property and income from sale of properties as capital gains. The Assessing Officer assessed rental receipts under head business income and consequently, income received by assessee on sale of property was also assessed as business income and not as capital gains as declared by assessee. CIT(A) allowed the appeal of the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal initially dismissed the appeal of the Revenue and thereafter recalled the order. By a common order allowed the appeal of the Revenue. On appeal the Court held that merely for reason that in said assessment years, assessee effected a sale of some of its properties, it could not be seen as having embarked upon a business of buying and selling properties in those years, even if it was authorized to do such business as per its Memorandum of Association. Sale transactions could not have effect of changing very nature of income earning activity consistently carried on by assessee, and accepted by department- Therefore, income derived by assessee, from sale of properties owned by it, during two years under consideration in these appeals, could only be assessed under head of capital gains and not as business income. (AY. 2012-13 & 2015-16)

Knowell Realtors (India) (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 302 Taxman 433 / 482 ITR 423 (Ker.)(HC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Long term capital gains-Tenancy right is converted into ownership-Date of transfer-Consent term-Confirming party-Deed of confirmation or deed of consent term or registration-Matter remanded to the Tribunal for re adjudication. [S. 2(27), 50C, 254(1), 260A]

The assessee was a tenant of a premises. A consent decree dated 28-5-1999 came to be passed in a civil suit wherein the plaintiff recognized the right of the assessee in respect of the premises to convert tenancy of the assessee on ownership basis, on terms and conditions as set out in the consent terms. In pursuance of consent terms, an agreement dated 4-11-2004 came to be entered between the developer and the assessee and other tenants and the co-owners/plaintiff as the confirming party. On 22-2-2007, a deed of confirmation under which the rights of the parties which stood crystallized and recognized under the agreement dated 4-11-2004 came to be executed and registered. The AO held that the document was required to be considered as the sale value of the rights which were acquired by the assessee in the year 1986 from the original owner for long-term capital gains to be taxed for the assessment year 2007-08.

The Commissioner(Appeals) held that no transfer had taken place in the assessment year 2007-08 as the assessee had acquired ownership rights in assessment year 2000-01, hence deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the agreement dated 4-11-2004 as the relevant date, by virtue of which the transfer of rights in favour of the assessee had taken place. Other grounds were not adjudicated. Matter remanded back to the Tribunal for re adjudicating the issue. Followed Pokhraj Hirachand v. CIT [1963] 49 ITR 293 (Bom)(HC). (AY. 2007-08)

Hajra Iqbal Memon (Mrs.) v. ITAT (2025) 302 Taxman 524 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Long term capital gains-Exemption-Book profit-Exclusion of capital gains from calculations of book profits would not disentitle it from claiming exemption under section 10(38).[S. 10(38), 115JB(2), 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that proviso to s. 10(38) cannot be read in the reverse to mean that if the gains are not included as book profits under S.. 115JB, the same are liable to be included as income for the purposes of assessment to tax under the normal provisions, notwithstanding that the gains are required to be excluded from income chargeable to tax under s. 10(38). (AY.2015-16)

PCIT v. Hespera Reality (P) Ltd. (2025) 342 CTR 241 / 245 DTR 1 / 303 Taxman 154 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Capital asset-Agricultural land-Tests to be applied-Whether land qualifies as agricultural land is a question of fact requiring cumulative consideration of multiple factors-Mere mention of agricultural land in revenue records is not sufficient if the land is not actually used for agriculture or is sold for non-agricultural purposes-Matter remanded. [S. 2(14)(iii)]

The assessee, an individual, sold land at village Tambati, Taluka Khalapur, Raigad District and claimed exemption of capital gains as agricultural land. The AO held the land sold was in an industrial zone, unused for agricultural purposes since 1997-98 and sold for industrial purposes. Therefore, the assessee is not eligible to claim exemption. CIT(A) upheld the AO's view by placing reliance on (i) inspector's report showing industrial construction (ii) statement of purchaser's director admitting land was agricultural but situated in industrial zone and intended for industrial purposes (iii) Talathi's reply confirming no agricultural activity since 1997-98. ITAT held that classification as agricultural land in records and litigation preventing cultivation must be considered. The matter hinges on factual evaluation under section 2(14). The Hon'ble ITAT relied on the judgment of Hon'ble Gujarat High Court in the case of CIT v Siddharth J Desai [1982] 139 ITR 628 (Guj HC) and laid down 13 tests to determine whether land is agricultural land, and the matter was sent back to the AO for re-examination of the impugned issue as per the conditions laid down. (AY. 2016 17)

Snehlata Goel (Mrs) v. DCIT [2025] 180 taxmann.com 364(2026) 134 ITR 11 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Transfer-Any transaction by way of becoming a member-Joint Development Agreement (JDA)-Unregistered

JDA/GPA can still constitute transfer under section 2(47)(vi)- Transfer of 62% land in exchange for 38% developed area taxable in year of agreement-The matter was remanded only for recomputation of capital gains in accordance with sections 48 and 50C. [S. 2(47)(vi), 48, 50C]

The assessee entered into an unregistered Joint Development Agreement (JDA) and General Power of Attorney (GPA) with a developer for construction of a residential complex on land owned by him. Under the arrangement, the assessee transferred 62% of the land in exchange for 38% of the developed area to be constructed. The assessee contended that since the JDA and GPA were unregistered and construction was completed only in 2017, no transfer had taken place during the relevant year. The Tribunal held that although, after the 2001 amendments, an unregistered agreement may not qualify as a transfer under section 2(47)(v) read with section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, the transaction nevertheless fell within section 2(47)(vi), which covers arrangements having the effect of transferring or enabling enjoyment of immovable property. Since the developer acquired enforceable rights over 62% of the land and the consideration was the assessee's entitlement to 38% of the constructed area, a transfer had taken place in the year of execution of the JDA/GPA and was liable to capital gains tax. The matter was remanded only for recomputation of capital gains in accordance with sections 48 and 50C. Appeal partly allowed for statistical purposes. (AY. 2012-13)

K.P. Muhammed Ali v. ITO (IT) (2025) 130 ITR 271 (Cochin)(Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Transfer of bundle of rights/obligations as investment to a partner-The compensation received for not initiating assured insurance business is a capital receipt and not chargeable to tax as capital gains.[S.4, 55(2)(a)]

In the course of assessment proceedings, the AO noticed that the Assessee has claimed receipt of Rs.4,34,31,471/-from PNB Principal (Mauritius) as capital receipt. The AO asked the assessee as to why the said receipt cannot be taxed under the head 'capital gains'. In reply to the same, it was explained that the assessee along with Punjab National Bank and Vijaya Bank had entered into a Share Subscription Agreement (SSA) with Principal Financial Group (Mauritius) Ltd. to incorporate a company to undertake life insurance business after obtaining necessary approval from various authorities. Since regulatory approval could not be obtained, the business of Joint Venture Company could not commence. PFGM exercised its call option and acquired shares of Assessee for which the Assessee was paid a sum of Rs.4.34 crore for termination of contracts which was capital receipt in nature. The AO was of the view that the sum received from PFGM as compensation on taking over the company's bundle of rights and obligations under the BCA was by way of guaranteed returns on the investments made and was taxable as capital gains. AO further noted that the acquisition of capital asset being the right to carry in JV Co. has to be computed as per the provisions of section 55(2)(a) of the Act. As per AO cost of acquisition should be taken as NIL. Being aggrieved, the Assessee preferred the appeal before the CIT(A). The CIT(A) held that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of CIT v. Motor & General Stores (1967) 66 ITR 692(SC) has held that in construing a contract, the terms and conditions thereof are to be read as a whole. A contract must be construed keeping in view the intention of the parties. However, the AO conveniently presumed that the compensation received by Assessee has its roots in the business. Therefore, the same is exigible to capital gains tax. The AO further presumed that the compensation can be labelled as shares sale consideration, which is contrary to material on record/agreements. The AO drawn an adverse inference by presuming that the Assessee has transferred right to carry on "investment business in insurance sector" in favor of PFGM whereas appellant had admittedly no activities of any sort in "insurance business" in past or future. There is no cogent material to support inferences drawn by AO. Thus, the addition made under capital gains is unjustified.:- Being aggrieved, the Department filed appeal to the ITAT. The ITAT held that the compensation received by the Assessee was not only for the transaction of one or more tangible rights but was for receipt of a bundle of rights as an investing partner, as the whole profit-making process was impaired. It is a fact that the Assessee was never engaged in the business of insurance with any other party and genuineness of transaction was not doubted. Thus, the ITAT held that the AO has erroneously held the compensation as an asset as per section 55(2)(a) of the Act. Thus, the appeal of the Department was dismissed by the ITAT. [AY. 2008-09]

CIT (Asst.) v. U. K. Paints (India) P. Ltd. (2025) 131 ITR 74 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Sale of joint property-Only 50 per cent of sale consideration can be taken-AO is directed to recompute the capital gain.[S. 48]

Held that the assessee and his wife are shown to be joint sellers/owners of the property in the sale deed; only 50 per cent of the sale consideration can be taken into account for computation of capital gains in the hands of the assessee.(AY. 2015-16)

Alauddin v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 497 (Agra)(Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Agreement of sale-Registration-Assessee handed over the land to the buyer and also received the sale consideration in asst. yr. 2008-09-Provisions of IT Act apply on the basis of real income and not based on notional income-No provision for increasing sale consideration by notional interest.[S. 48]

Held that though the assessee handed over the land to the buyer and received the sale consideration in the asst. yr. 2008-09 before the sale deed was executed in asst. yr. 2017-18 and offered the capital gains to tax in the asst. yr. 2017-18, the sale consideration cannot be increased by the notional interest for the computation of capital gains. (AY.2017-18)

Deepak Kothari v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 241 / 177 taxmann.com 219 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Short-term capital loss-Penny stock-Accommodation entries-No independent enquiry-Loss allowable.[S.2(42B), 131, 133A, 143(3)]

The Assessing Officer disallowed the assessee's short-term capital loss on sale of shares, treating the transactions as accommodation entries on the basis of reports of the Investigation Wing and SEBI. The Tribunal held that no independent enquiry was conducted by the Assessing Officer, the statements of entry operators did not name the assessee, and there was no direct evidence connecting the assessee with the alleged accommodation entries. Additions based merely on probabilities, surmises and conjectures were unsustainable. The assessee was entitled to set off the short-term capital loss against long-term capital gains. (AY. 2013-14). Namokar Builders (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 304 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Short-term capital gains-Business income-Sale of immovable property-Assessee held to be owner-Alternative finding of adventure in the nature of trade upheld. [S. 28(i), 45, S. 44AD, R. 46A]

The assessee contended that the properties were purchased only in his name on behalf of a company and that only brokerage income was taxable. The Tribunal held that the conveyance deeds established the assessee's ownership and no satisfactory evidence was produced to show that he was merely a name lender or to substantiate the expenditure claimed. The profit on sale was rightly assessed as short-term capital gains. The alternative finding of the Commissioner (Appeals) that the transactions constituted an adventure in the nature of trade was also upheld. (AY. 2009-10 & 2010-11).

Piyush M. Dobariya v. ITO (2025) 127 ITR 246 / 174 taxmann.com 1075 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

Ajay Reghunhai Barwad v. ITO (2025) 127 ITR 246 / 174 taxmann.com 1075 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Fair market value as on 1-4-2001-Collector/Circle rate not examined-Matter remanded.[S.48, 55]

The assessee claimed long-term capital loss on the basis of a valuation report determining the fair market value of land as on 1-4-2001. As the Collector/Circle rate was not available on record, the Tribunal held that the matter required fresh examination. The issue was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for determination after obtaining the Collector/Circle rate and giving opportunity to both parties. (AY. 2018-19).

Sterling Holiday Resorts Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 284 / 180 taxmann.com 310 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S 45 : Capital gains-Rights entitlement not taxable in India-Short-term capital loss not to be set off against exempt gain-DTAA-India-Ireland [S.2(42A), 2(42B). 70, 71, 74 Art. 13(5), 13(6)]

The Assessing Officer adjusted the assessee's short-term capital loss against the gain arising from the sale of rights entitlements before granting treaty relief. The Tribunal held that since gains from rights entitlements were not chargeable to tax in India under Article 13(6) of the DTAA, such gains did not enter the computation of taxable income in India. Consequently, the short-term capital loss governed by the domestic provisions could not be adjusted against such exempt gains. (AY. 2021-22).

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund, A Series of VISPLC v. Asst. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 128 / 172 taxmann.com 515 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Capital loss-Demerger-Transfer of assets and liabilities to Special Purpose Vehicles-Conditions of demerger not fulfilled-Long-term capital loss allowable.[S.2(19AA, 47]

The assessee transferred specified assets and liabilities to two Special Purpose Vehicles under a Scheme of Arrangement approved by the High Court. The Tribunal held that the SPVs merely took over specified assets and liabilities for liquidation of debts, no shares were allotted to the assessee and the transfer was not on a going concern basis. As the essential conditions of section 2(19AA) were not satisfied, the transaction could not be treated as a demerger and was liable to be regarded as a normal capital transfer. Accordingly, the long-term capital loss claimed by the assessee was allowable. (AY. 2003-04, 2006-07 & 2011-12 to 2015-16).

SIEL Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (LTU) (2025) 123 ITR 599 / 173 taxmann.com 278 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Joint Development Agreement-Co-owners-Matter remanded to determine the share of each co-owner and decide the taxability-Construction of house within specified period-Matter remanded to decide after considering the relevant documents. [S. 54]

Assessee, his father, sister and brother, having executed the joint development agreement with the developer in their capacity as owners of land and subsequently executed a partition deed among themselves for dividing the property which was constructed by the developer according to their shares, it has to be accepted that there were four co-owners of the said land and not two as assumed by the AO. Tribunal restored the matter to the file of the AO to enquire as to whether the assessee's father and sister sold their respective shares separately, which they got based on the partition deed; if it is found that all the four owners have separately sold their respective shares of property, the long-term capital gain is to be computed by taking the assessee's share as 25 per cent. As regards the construction of a house within the specified period, the issue was remanded to the AO to decide the issue after considering the relevant documents. (AY. 2011-12)

Vadagur Narayanappa Premachandra v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 234 TTJ 350 / 171 taxmann.com 471 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 45: Capital gains-Rights entitlement-Capital gains arising on sale of rights entitlements are not equity shares as s. 62 of Companies

Act, 2013-rights entitlement are covered under the provisions of art. 13(6) and, therefore, cannot be subjected to tax in India but is taxable in the resident State of the assessee i.e., Ireland-DTAA between India and Ireland. [S.90, Art. 13(6), Companies Act, 2013, S.62,]

Rights entitlement, which is granted on account of shareholding, cannot be regarded as being the same as shares, since the rights shares are allotted only on subscription and, therefore, capital gains arising on the sale of rights entitlements are covered under the provisions of art. 13(6) of the DTAA between India and Ireland, and consequently, the same cannot be subjected to tax in India as per art. 13 in the hands of an Ireland-based assessee. (AY.2021-22)

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund A Series Of Visplc v.ACIT (IT) (2025) 234 TTJ 801 / 125 ITR 128/ 172 taxmann.com 515 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 45: Capital gains-Capital loss-Carry forward and set off by non-resident-Capital loss incurred under the provisions of the Act r/w art. 13(5) of the India-Ireland DTAA cannot be set off against short-term capital gain derived from the sale of rights entitlement because such gain is not subject to tax in India as per art. 13(6) of the DTAA between India and Ireland [Art. 13(6)]

Capital loss incurred under the provisions of the Act r/w art. 13(5) of the India-Ireland DTAA cannot be set off against short-term capital gain derived from the sale of rights entitlement because such gain is not subject to tax in India as per art. 13(6) of the DTAA between India and Ireland. (AY.2021-22)

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund A Series Of Visplc v.ACIT (IT) (2025) 234 TTJ 801 / 125 ITR 128/ 172 taxmann.com 515 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 45: Capital gains-Slump sale-Set-off of long-term loss against long-term gain from slump sale. [S.2(29B), 2(42C), 50B]

Assessee-company sold shares of two closely held companies which it had purchased earlier at a huge premium and claimed long-term capital loss of Rs. 24 crores. The same was set off against long-term capital gain arising from slump sale under section 50B. Assessing Officer disallowed said loss on the ground that the same was not supported by any valid and reasonable explanations and documents and, thus, the same was a pre-planned transaction to avoid tax. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had made investments in preference shares of two unlisted companies during the year 2014-15, and these investments were reflected in the audited financial statements of the assessee for the assessment year 2015-16 under 'Non-Current Investments', and the same was reported in the Director's report of the company in compliance with section 186. Further, these transactions were executed through proper banking channels and substantiated by share certificates, CA valuation reports, and accounting entries. Further, no evidence was brought on record by the Assessing Officer to suggest that the loss was pre-determined, the buyer of shares colluded with the assessee, and the share purchase/sale consideration was not real. Accordingly, on facts, long-term capital loss of Rs. 24 crores on sale of shares was genuine, and assessee was entitled to set off this loss against long-term capital gain arising from slump sale under section 50B. Order of CIT A) affirmed. (AY. 2018-19)

ACIT, LTU v. Prudential Sugar Corporation Ltd. (2025) 214 ITD 11 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital loss-Advance for purchasing a commercial plot-Cancellation of forfeited amount paid in earlier years-Allowable as capital loss. [S. 2(14) 2(47)(ii)]

Assessee made advance payments to a person for purchasing a commercial plot, and as assessee failed to pay the remaining payments, that person forfeited amounts paid earlier by assessee and cancelled allotment, the assessee claimed the said amount as capital loss. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer holding that there was no transfer of capital asset. On appeal the Tribunal held that when such right in a capital asset got extinguished pursuant to forfeiture of advance, it amounted to 'transfer' within the meaning of section 2(47) and therefore, assessee was justified in claiming long-term capital loss. (AY. 2017-18)

G.N. International (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 180 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S.45: Capital loss-Sale of shares-Securities transaction tax-loss was allowable as a capital loss.

During the year, assessee sold shares of one company and claimed a loss of a certain amount-Assessing Officer noted that shares were purchased in a short span of a week and sold at very low prices. Since the price had drastically fallen and shares were held for a very short span of time, he concluded that the assessee had deliberately sold shares at a loss and doubted the genuineness of said loss and proceeded to disallow the short-term capital loss claimed by assessee. On appeal, the CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal by the Department, the Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished complete details of the purchase and sale of shares, which were done on various dates at various prices prevailing in the secondary market. Further, the purchase and sale of shares were carried out by the assessee in the open market/secondary market through a registered share broker in a recognised stock exchange after due suffering of securities transaction tax. Order of CIT A) affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

G.N. International (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 180 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Transfer-General Power of Attorney-Assessee executed GPA authorising agent to deal with land-Agent sold portion thereof to a company-Mere execution of GPA did not constitute transfer under section 2(47) in favour of agent-Only actual sale consideration received for transfer was taxable in assessee's hands, not any sum received by power agent.[S. 2(47)]

Assessee was owner of vacant land of 121 cents-He executed a registered General Power of Attorney (GPA) in favour of one V.R.Anuvelarajan, authorising him to deal with said land, including powers of sale. Subsequently, power agent,.R.Anuvelarajan acting under authority of said GPA, executed a registered sale deed transferring only to the extent of 30.35 cents in favour of one Jacaranda Properties Private Ltd for a sale consideration of Rs. 1.00 crores. Assessing Officer held that assessee had received an amount of Rs. 2.50 crores from power agent, and treated same as the full value of consideration for transfer of said 30.35 cents. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that GPA holder was not buyer of land and was only authorised to deal with prospective buyers. Further, no consideration was received by assessee for execution of said GPA. Further, there was nothing to demonstrate that said sum of Rs. 2.50 crores was received by assessee from ultimate purchaser. On facts, mere receipt of funds from power agent could not be equated with transfer consideration for the impugned sale transaction, particularly when there was no transfer of capital asset to power agent himself. Accordingly the Assessing Officer was directed to adopt sale consideration at Rs. 1.00 crores instead of Rs. 2.50 crores for purpose of computing taxable long-term capital gains. (AY. 2014-15)

Natesan Ekambaram. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 615 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Family settlement-Capital asset-Transfer-Gift-Relinquishment of possession-Civil suit-Compensation received assessable as capital gains and not income from other sources.[S. 2(14), 2(47), 54, 54EC, 56(2)]

Assessee received a certain amount from Uday Pratap Singh in the course of a family settlement regarding a property. Assessee declared the said amount as long-term capital gain and claimed deductions under sections 54 and 54EC. Assessing Officer held that since assessee lacked legal ownership, said amount could not be treated as consideration for transfer of a capital asset and treated it as a gift under section 56(2) and assessed it as income from other sources. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee was in settled possession of property for decades, and the receipt was not gratuitous but for relinquishing that possession and claim, which were acknowledged in the civil suit and agreement. Possession and beneficial interest held by assessee over a prolonged period, her assertion of rights through legal proceedings, and receipt of consideration under a family settlement fall within the definition of "capital asset" under section 2(14), and the act of relinquishment is a "transfer" under section 2(47). Therefore, compensation received by assessee was liable to be assessed under the head 'Capital gains' and not 'Income from other sources'. (AY. 2012-13)

Dharampal Saghera. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 69 / 236 TTJ 92 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Sale of shares-Accommodation entries-Sale through registered stockbroker-Copies of contract note filed-Genuine transaction-Denial of exemption was not justified-Allowed exemption-Addition was deleted.[S. 10(38, 69A, 147, 148]

Assessee claimed exemption under section 10(38) in respect of long-term capital gain (LTCG) earned on sale of shares of Appu Marketing and Manufacturing Ltd, Now Ejecta Marketing Ltd. Assessing Officer reopened assessee's case under section 147 on the ground that LTCG was essentially unexplained income of assessee. The CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had effected the sale of shares through a registered stockbroker and copies of contract notes were available on record. No independent enquiry had been conducted by the Assessing Officer to establish that the persons to whom the assessee had sold shares were essentially entry providers. Further, though, as per the direction of SEBI, BSE had imposed restrictions on the trading of shares of the company, however, subsequently, trading in shares was allowed. In fact, the assessee had earned LTCG on the sale of shares and cannot be treated as accommodation entries. Addition was deleted on the merits. (AY. 2015-16, 2016-17)

Sangita Ben Mardia. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 210 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Transfer of rights in plot of land-Following the order of the brother, the matter was remanded back to the Assessing Officer to decide the issue afresh. [S. 147, 148]

Held that since the case of the brother of assessee involving a similar issue for the same assessment year had already been sent back to the file of the Assessing Officer to decide the issue afresh, in the interest of justice, the matter was to be remanded back to the Assessing Officer to decide the issue afresh. (AY. 2012-13)

Hemantkumar Gajanan Lad. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 366 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Land-Compulsorily acquired-Guarantor-Overdraft facility-Compensation was first credited to assessee's account and then transferred to sister concern's bank account to discharge its overdraft-Application of income and not diversion by overriding title-Capital gains were taxable in assessee's hands.[S. 4]

Assessee, a partnership firm engaged in civil contracts, had its land compulsorily acquired by the Government. Compensation was first credited to assessee's bank account and then transferred to sister concern's account to discharge its overdraft facility. Assessing Officer treated it as capital gain taxable in assessee's hands, noting assessee stood guarantor. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the assessee contended that no capital gain arose as income stood diverted by overriding title. Tribunal held that the assessee had claimed TDS credit and shown sister concern as a creditor in the balance sheet. Tribunal held that it was a case of application of income and not diversion by overriding title; therefore, capital gains were held to be taxable in the assessee's hands. (AY. 2013-14)

Geotech Foundation and Constructions. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 565 (Cochin) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Sale of property-Commercial building-Capital asset-Intention to let out-Constructed and sold over six years-Assessable as capital gains and not as business income-Exemption under section 54EC was allowable.[. S.2(14), 28(i), 54EC]

Held that the assessee constructed a commercial building with the intention to let it out and disclosed it as a capital asset in returns; however, due to prolonged vacancy and financial strain, sold it after six years of holding, which was a forced sale, not a planned business venture. Profit from sale was assessable as capital gains, and an exemption under section 54EC was allowable. (AY. 2014-15)

Basavaraju Shivakumar Holavanahalli. v. ACIT (2025) 215 ITD 316 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Transfer-Year of taxability-Handed over possession-Oral agreement-Full consideration-Registered conveyance deed was executed later-Capital gains could not be taxed in the subsequent year when the deed was registered.[S. 2(47), 50C.]

Assessee sold land and handed over possession after receiving full consideration in the financial year 2009-10 under an oral agreement and offered for taxation. Registered conveyance deed was executed later on 11-3-2016, transfer was deemed to have occurred in the financial year 2009-10 under section 2(47), capital gains could not be taxed in the subsequent year when the deed was registered. The order of the Assessing Officer was set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Maimoon Fashion Accessories (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 241 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Transfer-Joint development agreement (JDA-Developer was allowed to enter into property only for development work, and nothing therein shall be construed as parting with possession of the scheduled property by the owner-original title deed of land remained with the assessee-JDA was not an agreement to sell so as to invoke provisions of section 53A and consequently deemed transfer in terms of section 2(47)(v)-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. [S. 2(47)(v), 45, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S.53A]

Assessee entered into a Joint Development Agreement (JDA) dated 16-12-2013 with a developer for the development of its land. As per the terms of JDA, assessee would introduce land on which developer would develop and construct a building and it was agreed that assessee would be entitled to 47.5 per cent of share of constructed area and developer would be entitled to 52.5 per cent of the constructed area. Assessee sold flats constructed on land and declared capital gain on same. Assessing Officer held that flats sold by assessee were received by assessee on account of development agreement entered into by it with developer hence there was a transfer of capital asset in favour of developer as assessee was entitled to 47.5 per cent of total constructed area, whereas developer would be entitled to 52.5 per cent of constructed area out of total built up area of project. Accordingly, he reopened the assessment by issuing a notice under section 148 and assessed capital gain. On appeal, CIT(A) held that there was no transfer of immovable property in terms of section 2(47)(v) as there was no transfer of possession of land and ownership in favour of the developer vide said joint development agreement. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the parties had specifically expressed their intentions in JDA that the developer was allowed to enter into the property only for the purpose of development work, and nothing therein shall be construed as parting with possession of scheduled property by the owner. It was also specifically stated that nothing contained in said agreement shall be construed as delivery of possession of land in part performance or any agreement of sale under section 53A. Accordingly that JDA was not an agreement to sell so as to invoke provisions of section 53A and consequently deemed a transfer in terms of section 2(47)(v). Accordingly, the deletion of the addition by the CIT(A) was affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

ACIT Circle-5(1) v.Lakshmi Technosolutions (P) Ltd (2025) 215 ITD 333 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Capital asset-Sale of immovable property-Name of lender-Agency Transaction-Ownership established in the registered documents-Addition is affirmed. [S.2(14), 44AD]

Assessee reported income from the sale of immovable property under S. 44AD and claimed it to be in the nature of commission income earned on behalf of his father, Shri Mansukhbhai Dobariya. AO disagreed, holding that the properties were registered in the names of assessee and another individual. Assessee pleaded that the property sale transactions were carried out on behalf of his father and the income should not be taxable in his hands. Held: The purchase and sale deeds identified the assessee as the absolute owner of properties. Though payments were routed through ' Shri Mansukhbhai Dobariya account, however, this did not alter the ownership established in the registered documents. No evidence was submitted to substantiate the claim that assessee acted merely as a name-lender for his father. Accordingly, the appeals filed by the Assesseees are dismissed.(AY.2009-10, 2011-12)

Piyush M. Dobariya v. ITO (2025) [2025] 174 taxmann.com 1075 /127 ITR 246/234 TTJ 42 (Ahd)(Trib)

Ajay Bharwad v.. ITO (2025) [2025] 174 taxmann.com 1075 /127 ITR 246/234 TTJ 42 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Alleged NOC receipts-Loose sheets-Dumb documents-Statement in the Course of search-Statement retracted-No corroboration-Additions deleted. [S.132, 132(4), 132(4A)]

During search, diaries maintained by an employee were seized containing notings with initials "KB", which the Assessing Officer treated as unaccounted cash receipts for release of rights in Eksali lands, taxing them as capital gains. The Tribunal observed that the diaries were personal records of an employee, not maintained under the assessee's direction and unsupported by corroborative evidence. The statements of the employees were inconsistent and later retracted, and no third-party verification was carried out. Relying on Common Cause (A Registered Society) v. UOI [(2017) 394 ITR 220 (SC)], V.C. Shukla v. CBI (1998) 3 SCC 410 and CIT v. Reliance Industries Ltd. [(2020) 261 Taxman 358 (Bom)(HC)], the Tribunal held that loose papers or "dumb documents" cannot, without corroboration, form the basis of addition. The entire addition of ₹ 4.96 crore was deleted. (ITA Nos. 3012-3013 & 3222-3228/Mum/2025 dt. 17-10-2025) (AY. 2014-15 to 2022-23)

Estate Investment Co. Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT (Mum)(Trib)

www.itatonline.org

S. 45 : Capital Gains-Sale of Film Rights-Transfer of bundle of rights in 31 cinematographic films held to be transfer of capital assets-Consideration received taxable as capital gains and not as business income. [S.2(11)(B), 2(14) 28(i), 28(va) 55(2)(a)]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in film production since 1953, had produced 31 feature films between 1958 to 1998. On 20.04.2016, it entered into an Assignment Agreement with Red Chillies Entertainment Pvt. Ltd., transferring all rights, title, and interest (present and future) in these films, including intellectual property rights, exploitation rights, copyright, goodwill, and derivative rights. The assessee declared the consideration of ₹14.11 crore as long-term capital gains. The AO held that since the assessee was engaged in film production and had shown income from exploitation of film rights as business income in earlier years, the consideration from transfer of rights should also be assessed as business income. CIT(A) held that film rights are intangible assets covered under s. 2(14) and s. 55(2)(a). Their cost of acquisition was nil, and they constituted capital assets. The transfer of all rights in perpetuity amounted to transfer of a capital asset, hence taxable under capital gains. On appeal by the revenue the Tribunal held that the assessee transferred its entire bundle of rights in 31 films in perpetuity, thereby forfeiting all future earning potential, such rights constituted capital assets within the meaning of s. 2(14), being intangible property Reliance placed on Johnson & Johnson Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT (ITA No.1756/Mum/2023 dt.10-2-2025, Novartis Healthcare Pvt. Ltd. v. Addl. CIT [2015] 58 taxmann.com 216 / 69 SOT 72 (URO(Mum)(Trib) Jammu C. Sugandh v. DCIT (ITA No.711/Mum/2009 dt. 2-9-2010 and Khandelwal Laboratories Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT (ITA Nos. 2765 & 2702/Mum/2014), wherein transfer of trademarks, copyrights, and brands were held to be transfers of capital assets Karnataka High Court in Syndicate Bank v. ACIT(1995) (155 ITR 681(Kran)(HC) held that the term "capital asset" has wide connotation, including intangible rights. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the consideration received by the assessee was liable to be taxed as capital gains, and not as business income. Revenue's appeal dismissed.(AY. 2016-17)(ITA No. 3204/Mum/2025, "E", dt. 24.09.2025)

ACIT v. Eagle Films (Mum) (Trib) www.itatonline.org.

S. 45 : Capital gains-Property sold by firm-Land was belong to one of the partner-Assessing Officer was required to arrive at figures of amounts realized on sale of assets owned by firm and compute profits on sale of same after deducting written down value as it stood in books of assessee-firm-No return was filed-Reassessment is affirmed. S. 147,148]

Assessing Officer held that assessee was actual owner of property and in absence of proper details and credible evidences, entire sale amount of property was treated as long term capital gains in hands of assessee and taxed accordingly. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that land which formed part of auctioned assets belonged to one of partner of firm and not to firm. Therefore firm could not be charged long term capital gain on alienation of an asset which did not belong to it, therefore, only gains attributable to firm could be on account of building structure and plant and machinery which were owned by firm and depicted in its schedule of fixed assets. Assessing Officer was required to arrive at figures of amounts realized on sale of building structure and plant and machinery and compute profits on sale of same after deducting written down value as it stood in books of assessee-Held, yes-Whether no other amount could be taxed in hands of assessee as capital gains, for assets which did not belong to it. The assessee has not filed the return of income therefore, it could not be said that initiation of reassessment proceedings was void ab initio or that approval was given mechanically. The Assessing Officer may later come to a conclusion that grounds on which proceedings were initiated, were not valid, would not vitiate initiation of proceeding because initiation has to be viewed in context of material that was available at that time and whether same could lead to a reasonable inference, that income had escaped assessment. (AY. 2017-18)

DCIT v. Shree Bhawani Mills. (2025) 212 ITD 530 (Lucknow) (Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Business income-Sale of land-Part of property-No change in nature-Assessable as capital gains and not as business income. [S.28(i)]

Assessee is a real estate development firm, had sold part of land on which shops were constructed and had offered gain on sale of land as Long Term Capital Gain. Assessing Officer in assessment proceedings re-characterized capital gain as business income and made addition under head income from business and profession. CIT(A) accepted the contention of assessee. On appeal the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Ambey Associates. (2025) 212 ITD 62 (Dehradun) (Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Development agreement-Mere licence granted to developer without possession-No transfer-No capital gains.[S. 2(47)(v), Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 53A]

Assessee entered into a development agreement with a builder, in lieu of which flats were to be received later. AO taxed capital gains on signing of the agreement. Tribunal noted that only a licence for construction was given and no possession as per section 53A of Transfer of Property Act was handed over. Hence, no transfer u/s 2(47)(v) took place, and capital gains were not chargeable. (AY. 2012-13)

Balasaheb Popatrao Phadol v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 280 (Pune)(Trib.)

S.45 : Capital gains-Beneficial owner-Co-owner-Entire sale consideration declared in return of income filed by assessee's brother-Addition can not be made in the hands of assessee.[S. 54F]

Assessee along with his brother sold a property. Assessing Officer added 50 per cent of sale consideration to total income of assessee as long term capital gains on ground that assessee had not relinquished his rights on property. The AO assessed the capital gains in the hands of the assessee. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the assessee submitted that even though property was purchased in joint name, actual possession and 100 per cent rights of said property belonged to his brother and entire consideration was also paid by him at time of purchase of said property and that consideration received on sale of property was not only received in bank account of assessee, but assessee's brother also declared same in his return of income and also claimed benefit of exemption under section 54F by purchasing another house property. Tribunal held that since assessee's brother was sole owner of property for all practical purposes and assessee's name appeared to have been added only out of natural love and affection, consideration received on sale of said property could not be added in hands of assessee. Addition is deleted. [AY. 2015-16]

Vinod Nihalchand Jain v. ITO (2025) 234 TTJ 585/ [2025] 172 taxmann.com 581 ((Mum)(Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Cost of acquisition-Slump sale-Adjustment of business impairment loss on land purchased as part of slump sale of business-Indexed cost of acquisition has to be calculated from the actual cost of land acquired by the assessee-Fixed assets schedule prepared for Companies Act has no relevance, no depreciation can be allowed on free hold land-In the absence of proper details, the additions made by the AO are sustained. [S. 32, 48, 50B]

Held that business impairment loss assessee has recorded in the fixed assets schedule prepared for the purpose of Companies Act has no relevance considering the fact that no depreciation is allowed for the freehold land; assessee having not submitted the cost allocation of the freehold land acquired by way of slump sale along with buildings, the business loss impairment adjustment made by the assessee qua value of freehold land cannot be reduced upon the sale of land. Indexed cost of acquisition has to be calculated from the actual cost of land acquired by the assessee. (AY. 2014-15 to 2016-17)

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P) Ltd. v.AD.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 777 / 170 taxmann.com 633/ 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Capital loss-Indexation-Business income-Land was held for more than five years without carrying out any development activity-Sale of land is assessable as capital gains and not as business income.[S. 28(i)]

Assessee sold her land on 26-3-2013 which was purchased by her on 26-11-2007 and after claiming cost of selling and indexed cost of acquisition declared long-term capital loss. Assessing Officer treated sale of land as an adventure in nature of trade and taxed same as business income on ground that assessee was director in various concerns which were engaged in real estate business. CIT(A) allowed the appeal of the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee had held land for more than five years without carrying out any developmental activity on same and revenue in preceding and succeeding assessment years had accepted treatment of assessee in claiming long-term capital gain on account of sale of land. Order of the CIT(A) is affirmed. (AY. 2013-14)

DCIT v. Kruti Lalitkumar Jain. (2025) 210 ITD 344 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 45 : Capital gains-Interim order-Year of taxability of capital gains on compensation-Interest on compensation-Income from other sources-Delay of 404 days-Delay is condoned-The compensation and interest received in pursuance of an interim order of the Bombay High Court cannot be taxed in the year of receipt-Addition is deleted-Compensation and interest can be taxed only when the final order is passed by the High Court. [S. 45(5)(b), 45(5)(c),56(2)(viii) Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S. 11, 18]

The land was acquired by the Special Land Acquisition Officer (SLAO) and an order was passed under section 11 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, awarding compensation at Rs. 14, 59, 531. Aggrieved by the order a reference was made under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 to the Court of Civil, Judge, Senior Division, Raigad at Alibaug. The Additional judge has awarded the additional compensation by revising the market value of land to Rs 500 per sqm tr. The Court also directed the SLAO to interest at the rate of 9% for the first year from the date of possession and thereafter, at the rate of 15% p.a. till the realisation of the amount. The State of Maharashtra did not accept any portion of the Award passed by the Civil Court and filed an appeal before the High Court. High Court by an interim order stayed the order of Civil Court and directed the Government to deposit with the court. As per the interim order the appellant was permitted to withdraw the amount subject to Bank Guarantee of 60% and indemnity Bond 40%. The appellant has received certain amount on which the tax was deducted at source. The appellant filed the return of income claiming the refund of tax deducted at source. The AO assessed the amount received as per interim order as capital gains. On appeal the CIT(A) affirmed the addition made by the AO and also dismissed the appeal on account of delay. On appeal the Tribunal condoned the delay of 404 days. On merit the Tribunal held that the compensation received by the appellant in pursuance of an interim order of the Bombay High Court as per proviso to section 45(5)(b) shall be deemed to be income chargeable under the head capital gains of the previous year in which the final order of the Bombay High Court is passed. Accordingly the appeal of the assessee is allowed and the order of CIT(A) confirming the order of AO taxing long term capital gain amounting to Rs.22.49,01,802/-being compensation on acquisition of land and the interest of Rs 44,29,98,502/-u/s 56(2)(viii) of the Act is set aside. The Tribunal also deleted the penalty of Rs 20,10,01.733/-u/s 271(1)(c) of the Act. ((AY. 2016-17)

Percival Joseph Pereira v. ITO [2025] 174 taxmann.com 1223 (Mum)(Trib)

S.45 : Capital gains-Long-term capital gains from equities-Penny stock-Accommodation entries-Failure of the Revenue to bring on record any materials linking assessee in any of the dubious transactions-Addition as cash credit is deleted.[S. 10(38, 68, 147, 148]

Assessee purchased shares of a company and earned LTCG on the sale of the same. He claimed exemption of LTCG u/s 10(38) of the Act. The AO was of the opinion that the assessee had made huge profit out of said investment and therefore held that the said script was suspicious and penny stock. Accordingly, assessment was reopened on ground that the assessee had earned LTCG on sale of shares through accommodation entries, though the assessee had purchased shares directly from the company and through share transfer from another party and subsequently, sold the said shares through the stock exchange. It was noted that there were no discrepancies in documents filed by assessee claiming deductions u/s 10(38). Further, even though all the characteristics of penny stock existed, Revenue had not brought on record any materials linking assessee in any of dubious transactions relating to entry, price rigging or exit providers. Even in the SEBI report, there was no mention or reference to the involvement of assessee. It was therefore held that the impugned reopening of assessment was unjustified and LTCG claimed by assessee was legitimate (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

Archit Gupta v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 27 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 45: Capital gains-Capital loss-Assessee, a Foreign Portfolio Investor incorporated in United Kingdom-Entered into Forward Foreign Exchange contracts (FCC) with a bank to hedge amounts invested in Indian securities-Loss incurred on rollover/cancellation of FCC was in nature of short-term capital loss eligible for carry forward under head 'capital gains'. [S.74]

Assessee was incorporated in the United Kingdom and was registered in India as a Foreign Portfolio Investor and was engaged in investment activities. It entered into Forward Foreign Exchange Contracts (FCC) with a bank to hedge amounts invested by it in Indian securities. It incurred certain losses on rollover/cancellation of FCC and said loss was carried forward as a short-term capital loss. AO held that the loss in question was to be carried forward under head 'income from other sources'. The ITAT relied on the decisions of Citicorp Investment Bank (Singapore) Ltd. v. Deputy DIT (International Taxation)-1(2) [2012] 24 taxmann.com 211/54 SOT 119 (Mumbai) & Dy. CIT v. D. B. International (Asia) Ltd. [2018] 96 taxmann.com 75 (Mumbai) and held that the loss in question was to be considered as short-term capital loss eligible for carry forward under the head 'capital gains'. (AY. 2020-21)

ACIT v. Emerging Markets Ltd. (2025) 210 ITD 494 (Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 45(4) : Capital gains-Distribution of capital asset-Dissolution of firm-Depreciable assets-Block of assets-Transfer of depreciable capital assets-Incoming partner-Liable to capital gains tax under Section 45(4), even though there was no distribution of assets among partners upon dissolution-Section 50 does not apply when asset's value has already been taxed as capital gains under Section 45(4) [S. 2(11), 45, 50, 50A]

Assessee, partnership firm, sold property for Rs.8.4 crore, allocating Rs.7.4 crore to building and Rs.1 crore to land. Buyer later joined firm and reintroduced property as capital contribution at same value. Assessee-firm did not declare capital gains, citing no change in WDV. The Assessing Officer held that for computing capital gain under section 50, only cost of acquisition per Section 50A should be considered, adopting WDV for asset reintroduced by incoming partner, and computed short-term capital gain. Commissioner(Appeals) deleted said addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that as per Section 45(4) distribution of capital asset as a result of dissolution of firm or otherwise fair market value of asset on date of such transfer shall be deemed to be full value of consideration received. Since in instant case there was no dispute about fair market value of consideration i.e. Rs.7.4 crores. Assessing Officer should compute capital gain under Section 45(4). Matter was to be remitted back to file of Assessing Officer to compute amount of capital gain under Section 45(4) by taking fair market value as sale consideration and deducting WDV of asset as per Act. Tribunal applied Section 45(4), stating that transaction attracted capital gains tax. Assessee contended that even if there was transfer, section 50 was applicable and gains could not be charged to tax as written down value of property at end of year was more than written down value of property at beginning of year. Tribunal held that section 50 had no application to facts of present case as same amount was assessed to capital gain u/s. 45(4).(AY. 2012-13)

ACIT v. PVR Tourist Home. (2025) 212 ITD 381/235 TTJ 709 (Cochin) (Trib.)

S. 45(4) : Capital gains-Distribution of capital asset-Dissolution of firm-Introduction of new partner-Amount received by existing partner for sacrificing his profit-sharing ratio-Realignment of share ratio-No transfer of asset-No capital gain taxable on relinquishment of share ratio-Post amendment, 2021, Finance Act, 2021. [S. 2(14), 2(47), 9B, 45]

The assessee is a partner in CRCL LLP, who received ₹2,38,63,452 when Elier India Catering LLP was admitted as a new partner with a 51% stake in CRCL LLP. The amount was credited to the existing partner for their reduction in profit-sharing ratios, with the assessee's share decreasing from 12% to 5.88%. The AO treated this amount as short-term capital gains under section 45 of the Income Tax Act, arguing it constituted consideration for relinquishing profit-share rights and goodwill, which was also upheld by the CIT(A). However, the ITAT overturned this and held that the reduction in profit-sharing ratio during the firm's reconstitution without asset transfer, retirement, or dissolution did not qualify as a "transfer" under section 2(47). On realignment of profit-sharing ratio upon introduction of new partners, there is no transfer of assets as the assets remain with the partnership firm, and thus, such an arrangement is not covered under Section 45(4) of the Income Tax Act, which applies to dissolution or reconstitution scenarios involving asset distribution. It further noted that post-2021 amendments to Section 45(4) and Section 9B (which could tax such transactions) were prospective and inapplicable to the AY 2017-18, and therefore deleted the addition. Relied on CIT v. P.N. Panjawani 356 ITR 676 (Karn)(HC). [AY.2017-18]

Gokulakrishna v. DCIT [2025] 175 taxmann.com 720 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 45(5A) : Capital gains-Joint Development Agreement-No taxation of consideration which had not accrued-Matter remanded-Delay of 458 in filing the appeal was condoned. [S. 2(47)(v), 45, 56(2)(x), 254(1), Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 53A]

The assessee entered into a Joint Development Agreement under which it received monetary consideration and was also entitled to specified constructed premises on completion of the project. The Assessing Officer, comparing the disclosed consideration with the stamp duty valuation, made additions under sections 45(5A) and 56(2)(x), which were confirmed ex parte by the Commissioner (Appeals). The Tribunal held that the authorities had failed to properly appreciate the terms of the Joint Development Agreement and had taxed consideration which had neither accrued nor arisen during the relevant previous year. As the assessee had not been afforded an effective opportunity of hearing, the orders of the lower authorities were set aside, and the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication after examining the terms of the agreement, the actual consideration received and the applicability of sections 45(5A) and 56(2)(x). The delay of 458 days in filing the appeal was also condoned on showing sufficient cause. (AY. 2018-19)

Shree Sai Constructions v. Dy. CIT, NFAC (2025) 128 ITR 441 (Mum.)(Trib.).

S. 47(vi) : Transaction not regarded as transfer-Capital gains-Amalgamation-When transaction specifically falls under the said section-Addition under section 56(2)(x) is not valid-Capital reserve arising out of amalgamation cannot be treated as an Income under section 28(iv). [S. 28(iv), 56(2)(x)]

The ITAT ruled in favour of the assessee, concluding that, no benefit or perquisite arose from the amalgamation scheme. The assessee neither became richer nor poorer through the process. It merely converted indirect ownership to direct ownership. The capital reserve entry was merely a book entry required for accounting purposes under the double-entry system. The capital reserve was capital in nature and not revenue, making Section 28(iv) inapplicable. It was further confirmed that the amalgamation is covered by the exemption provided under section 47(vi), making section 56(2)(x) inapplicable. Capital reserve arising out of amalgamation cannot be treated as an Income under section 28(iv). (AY. 2008-09)

Dy.CIT v. Samagra Wealthmax (P) Ltd(2024) 168 taxmann.com 325/ (2025) 233 TTJ 651 (Mum) (Trib)

S.47(xiiib): Transaction not regarded as transfer-Capital gains-Conversion of firm into LLP-Cash credit-Transfer of share capital and reserves of the company to the partners accounts upon conversion to LLP-No credits found in the assessee's books of accounts-The AO erred in making the addition in the hands of the assessee-Assuming that there was transfer, it is the credit in the partners' accounts and not in the assessee's account-Addition was deleted. [S.45, 47(xiiib)(f), 68]

Held that violation of the condition prescribed in s. 47(xiiib)(f) is only relevant to the computation of capital gain under S. 45 arising on certain transfers; since the allegation of the AO is that the assessee LLP has violated the conditions prescribed in S. 47(xiiib)(f) by transferring the share capital and reserves and surplus of the company to the partners' accounts upon conversion to LLP, the addition made by the AO under S. 68 cannot be upheld as none of the ingredients of the said provision is attracted. (AY. 2017-18)

ITO v. NICAF LLP (2025) 236 TTJ 858/ 175 taxmann.com 1001 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Computation-Purchase and sale of shares-Sham transactions-Set off of short term loss against short term capital gains-Order of Tribunal disallowing the loss is affirmed.[S. 45, 260A]

Assessee had made a short-term capital gain on sale of shares of a company and claimed short-term capital loss on sale of shares of another company. Assessing Officer held that shares of both companies were purchased at Rs. 100 per share and sold at Rs. 12.20 per share and held that transaction of purchase and sale of shares was a tax avoidance measure and disallowed short-term capital loss. Commissioner (Appeals) and Tribunal confirmed order of Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that since Assessing Officer held that transaction of purchase and sale of shares was a sham transaction, the order of Tribunal did not raise any substantial question of law. (AY. 2010-11)

Trends Pharma v. ITO (2025) 304 Taxman 150 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 48: Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Payment made to settle a rival title claim and remove an encumbrance is deductible while computing capital gains. Amount directly paid by the purchaser to banks for discharge of mortgage is deductible and cannot be taxed in the hands of the assessee. [S. 45, 48(1)]

The assessee paid ₹2 crore to a society having a subsisting claim over the title of the property under a settlement agreement to remove the encumbrance and complete the sale. The Tribunal held that the payment was incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with the transfer and was allowable as a deduction under section 48. The purchaser directly paid ₹7 crore to banks to discharge the mortgage created over the property by the assessee as guarantor. The Tribunal held that the amount never accrued to or was received by the assessee because of the overriding title of the banks. Accordingly, it could not be taxed as sale consideration and was allowable as a deduction while computing capital gains under section 48. (AY. 2020-21).

ITO v. Surendra Nath Gubbala (2025) 238 TTJ 741 / 179 taxmann.com 371 (Visakha)(Trib.)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Cost of improvement-Expenditure in nature of repairs and furniture not allowable-Matter remanded for fresh verification. [S. 45, 50C]

The reassessment arose from computation of long-term capital gains on sale of immovable property. The Assessing Officer denied the assessee's claim for indexed cost of improvement on the ground that the expenditure represented repairs, maintenance and furniture rather than improvement to the capital asset and that supporting evidence regarding the suppliers and payments had not been furnished. The Tribunal agreed that such expenditure was prima facie not allowable as cost of improvement. However, considering the assessee's request for one further opportunity and the peculiar facts of the case, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh verification and determination of the correct taxable capital gains in accordance with law. (AY. 2015-16).

Ashok Kumar Jain v. NFAC (2025) 124 ITR 503 / 174 taxmann.com 211 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 48: Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Reference to valuation officer (FMV)-FMV of property as on 1-4-1981-Valuation report prepared by a Government-approved registered valuer-Matter was to be remanded back to file of Assessing Officer with a direction to refer valuation of property as on 1-4-1981 to DVO as per specific request of assessee, and thereafter, re-compute long-term capital gain-Cost of improvement expenses-Matter remanded for fresh examination-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Matter concerning correct sale consideration required de novo consideration and was to be restored to Assessing Officer.[S. 45, 50C, 55A, 131, 133(6), 154]

Assessee adopted FMV of property as on 1-4-1981 based on a detailed valuation report prepared by a Government-approved registered valuer. Tribunal held that the value of FMV adopted by registered valuer had no legs to stand on, the matter was remanded back to the file of the Assessing Officer with a direction to refer valuation of the property as on 1-4-1981 to DVO as per the specific request of assessee, and thereafter, recompute long-term capital gain. Assessee claimed deduction towards cost of improvement and transfer expenses while computing capital gain on sale of property; however, Assessing Officer disallowed the same on the ground that bills furnished by assessee were handwritten, lacked necessary details, and pertained to a period prior to purchase of property. Tribunal held that since authorities below had not made any independent verification of evidence furnished by assessee and proceeded to make addition solely based on assumptions, matter was remanded for fresh examination. Held that the Assessing Officer passed order under section 154 adopting stamp duty value as sale consideration under section 50C for computation of STCG but computation of cost of acquisition was to be adjudicated. The Tribunal held that the entire matter concerning the correct sale consideration required de novo consideration and restored to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2013-14)

Harshadkumar Hargovandas Patel. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 374 (Ahd)(Trib.)

S. 48: Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Cost of improvement-Previous owner-Cost of acquisition-Cost of construction and interiors-Additional evidence-Matter was remitted back to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication. [S.49(1)]

Assessee sold an immovable property and claimed deduction for the cost of acquisition and the cost of improvement in computing long-term capital gains. For the cost of improvement, assessee claimed expenditure incurred by him on the first-floor construction and interiors and expenditure incurred by his brother on the second-floor construction and interiors. Assessing Officer disallowed the claim, holding that property was a completed house when purchased and that repair/renovation could not be treated as the cost of improvement. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. Tribunal held that as per section 49(1), the cost of acquisition of the asset shall be deemed to be the cost for which the previous owner of the property acquired it, as increased by the cost of any improvement of assets incurred or borne by the previous owner of the assessee. Since additional evidence furnished by the assessee would have a crucial bearing in determining the issue in dispute, the matter was remitted back to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2016-17)

Vishnukumar Gokalchand Gupta. v. ACIT (2025) 215 ITD 453 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Indexed cost-1/4th co-owner-Matter was to be remanded back to the file of Assessing Officer with a direction to work out the correct LTCG derived on sale of asset.[S. 45]

Tribunal held that since the Assessing Officer also did not enquire about the cost of acquisition/cost of improvement of the asset and no deduction in this respect was allowed to assessee, the matter was to be remanded back to the file of the Assessing Officer with a direction to work out the correct LTCG derived on sale of asset. (AY. 2015-16)

Alpesh Navinbhai Barot. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 387 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 48: Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Investment in mutual fund-JM Balanced Fund-Short-term capital loss-Supported by proper documents and recorded in books-Disallowance by Assessing Officer based on suspicion of manipulation was unsustainable-There was no SEBI action or direct evidence of collusion-Short-term capital loss was allowable. [S.45, 94(7), 133A]

Assessee invested Rs. 150 crores in a mutual fund scheme of the company JM Balanced Fund. Assessee received a dividend of Rs. 29.92 crores and redeemed units at Rs. 77.24 crores, resulting in a short-term capital loss of Rs. 72.75 crores. Assessee adjusted the short-term capital loss against the long-term capital gain. Assessing Officer disallowed short-term capital loss on the ground that JM Balanced Fund had manipulated accounting methodology so as to artificially inflate distributable surplus and the same was done to enable investors to receive tax-free dividends and simultaneously generate fictitious short-term capital losses for set-off against taxable capital gains. CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that transactions of purchase and redemption were supported by unimpeachable documentary evidence, including mutual fund folio statements and bank statements and had been duly recorded in regular books of account. Computation of short-term capital loss had been carried out strictly in accordance with section 48, wherein the cost of acquisition and expenses on transfer were deducted from the full value of consideration. Assessee had itself disallowed, under section 94(7), loss to the extent of the dividend component, thereby adhering to statutory disallowance mechanism. There was no SEBI enquiry, and none of the statements of employees of JMBalanced Fund specifically alleged that any manipulation was undertaken with intent to confer a tax benefit upon the assessee. Moreover, the fund was an open-ended, SEBI-approved mutual fund scheme, and there was no material brought on record to suggest that SEBI had suspended, penalised, or debarred this scheme during or after the relevant period. Accordingly, the short-term capital loss could not be disallowed merely on suspicion or on generalised allegations. Since investments were genuine, made through proper banking channels, duly reflected in books, and supported by contemporaneous documentation, the short-term capital loss claimed by the assessee was allowed. Order of CIT A) affirmed. Referred, Goldian International Ltd v. DCIT (ITA No. 3218/Mum/ of 2023 dt-5-4-2024) (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. CMS Computers Ltd. (2025) 214 ITD 443/238 TTJ 10 (Mum) (Trib.)

DCIT v. 2015 Grover Family Trust (2025) 214 ITD 443/238 TTJ 10 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Interest paid on loan-Clear another loan-Required to be reduced from sale consideration received by assessee, being one of components of cost of acquisition.[S. 45]

Assessee obtained loan from EDCO, during financial year 2007-08 for purpose of acquisition of property. Thereafter, assessee obtained another loan from India Bulls by mortgaging same property to clear loan taken from EDCO and claimed interest expense as cost of acquisition with due indexation. Assessing Officer while computing capital gains with respect to sale of said land disallowed interest claim. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since interest paid in respect of property on loan amount used by assessee for substituting housing loan had a direct nexus with acquisition of property, same was allowable deduction in terms of section 48 and it was required to be reduced from sale consideration received by assessee, being one of components of cost of acquisition. (AY. 2012-13)

Ramesh Munaiah Chintakunta. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 117 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Cost of acquisition-Fair market value of land as on 1st April, 1981-Sale transaction through open auction in nearby Village Bhatauli, where the Ministry of Defence, Government of India purchased land on 3rd Nov., 1981 would be a better determinant of the fair market value of the land that was sold by the assessee-AO is directed to adopt the said value of the land for the purposes of determining the cost of acquisition and resultant indexed cost of acquisition while computing the capital gains in the hands of the assessee-[S.2(14), 45, 55(2)(b)]

Assessee sold two pieces of land situated in Village Kansapur. The AO adopted the value as on 1-4-1981 on the basis of information received from the Sub-Registrar. The CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the assessee contended that assessee's son also sold his share of agricultural land situated in the same village. Value of land in village Bhatuali has been considered and accepted by the CIT(A) in a later decision to arrive at the fair market value and the said matter has attained finality. Tribunal held that since the assessee and his son have sold land situated in the same village during the same period to the same party, there is no justifiable basis to deviate and adopt two different valuations. Further, the price which an asset can fetch in an open market auction rather than privately negotiated transaction would be a better determinant of the fair market price of the asset. Therefore, the fair market value of the land basis first/inter alia as so submitted by the assessee relating to sale transaction through open auction in nearby Village Bhatauli, where the Ministry of Defence, Government of India purchased land on 3rd Nov., 1981 would be a better determinant of the fair market value of the land that was sold by the assessee. AO is directed to adopt the said value of the land as on 1st April, 1981 for the purposes of determining the cost of acquisition and resultant indexed cost of acquisition while computing the capital gains in the hands of the assessee. Followed Manjit Singh vs. Dy. CIT (2013) 151 TTJ (Chd)(UO) 1 and CIT v. Ravinder Kaur [IT Appeal No. 240 of 2009 (P&H)(HC)] (AY. 2007-08)

Zahid Hasan Khan v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 229 / 245 DTR 268 / 173 taxmann.com 191 (Chd)(Trib)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Cost of acquisition-Unaccounted receipts taxed as part of capital gains, related unaccounted expenditure cannot be taxed separately-Cash payments related to personal expenses, were sourced from unaccounted receipts-Personal expenditure is deleted. [S.45 69C]

Held that when the unaccounted receipts from sale of properties were subjected to taxation as part of capital gains computation, related unaccounted expenditures stood explained and could not be taxed separately as unexplained expenses under section 69C. Tribunal also held that cash payments related to personal expenses, were sourced from unaccounted receipts, addition is deleted. (AY. 2016-17 to 2019-20)

Kailash Ramavatar Goenka. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 317// 234 TTJ 259 /124 ITR 210 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Sale consideration-Joint development agreement-Merely on the basis of statement-Addition cannot be made.[S. 45, 132(4)]

Assessee sold commercial space through registered sale deed for a total consideration of Rs. 5.71 crores, i.e., an average rate of Rs. 2,596 per sq. ft.. However, as a result of search at premises of WC notice was issued to both partners of JV firm and during statement under section 132(4), Managing Director of YKH admitted sale price of Rs. 3,000 per sq. ft. towards sale of commercial space and again rate of Rs. 3,000 per sq. ft. was affirmed by Accountant of assessee. On basis of said statements, Assessing Officer calculated sale consideration of commercial space at Rs. 3,000 per sq. ft. for purpose of calculation of total income in hands of assessee. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that sale price of Rs. 3,000 per sq. ft. taken by Assessing Officer, merely on basis of some statements without bringing any concrete material to show that assessee received any consideration over and above what had been shown in registered sale deed, was not correct. Order of the CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. (AY. 2012-13 &2016-17)

ACIT v. Pavani Structural (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 415 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 48 : Capital gains-Mode of Computation-Cost inflation index- Foreign asset is held and sold outside India-Indexation-Shares held in foreign countries-Resident company-Second proviso to section 48, which grants indexation benefit, does not distinguish between assets held in India and held in foreign countries-Eligible for Indexation.[S. 45]

Assessee, a resident company, sold shares of its foreign subsidiary company and computed long-term capital gain by deducting indexed cost of acquisition. Assessing Officer held that cost of inflation index was determined on basis of inflation taking place in India and, hence, assessee could not avail benefit of cost of inflation index in respect of its foreign assets held and sold outside India. Accordingly, denied benefit of cost inflation index. CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that second proviso to section 48, which grants indexation benefit, does not distinguish between assets held in India and in foreign countries. Therefore the assessee is entitled to deduct indexed cost of shares of foreign company while computing long term capital gain. (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Aarav Fragrances and Flavors (P.) Ltd(2025)210 ITD 369 (Mum (Trib.))

S. 49 : Capital gains-Previous owner-Cost of acquisition-Immovable property upon liquidation of company in proportion to its shareholding-[S. 45,46(2), 49(iii)(c), 55(2)(b)]

Assessee received immovable property upon liquidation of company in proportion to its shareholding. Assessee computed capital gains as per section 55(2)(b)(iii) by taking fair market value of asset on date of distribution as cost of acquisition. Assessing Officer held that section 49(1)(iii)(c) applied and cost of acquisition would be that of company (previous owner). Tribunal accepted assessee's method of computation but still allowed revenue's appeal following coordinate bench decisions in other related cases. On appeal the Court held that both section 49(1)(iii)(c) and section 55(2)(b)(iii) would stand attracted as there were two transactions of transfer of shares, firstly, by way of extinguishment of right therein and in consideration of which assessee received asset from company and secondly, by transfer of asset received on liquidation and in consideration of which assessee received actual money. On facts the assessee had not postponed taxability of capital gains but offered it for tax in same year in which gains had accrued, therefore, methodology adopted by assessee would be proper methodology for computation of cost of acquisition. Order of Tribunal set aside. (AY. 1991-92)

T.R.Balasubramaniam v. ACIT (2025) 305 Taxman 119 (Mad)(HC)

S. 49 : Capital gains-Previous owner-Cost of acquisition-Sale of asset received on liquidation of company-Asset received on liquidation and sold in same year-Both ss. 49(1)(iii)(c) and 55(2)(b)(iii) applicable-Proper computation to consider both transactions-The Tribunal, though accepting the legal position canvassed by the assessee, decided the issue against the assessee solely on the ground that earlier coordinate Bench decisions in cases of other assessees were adverse, instead of referring the matter to a Larger Bench. The High Court held that such an approach was incorrect-Order of Tribunal set aside and assessee's method upheld. [S. 45, 46(2), 48, 49(1)(iii)(c), 55(2)(b)(iii), 254(1),]

Where the assessee received an immovable property on liquidation of a company consequent to extinguishment of shareholding rights (transaction-1) and sold such property in the very same financial year (transaction-2), both provisions relating to cost of acquisition u/s. 49(1)(iii)(c) and determination of cost u/s. 55(2)(b)(iii) were simultaneously attracted. The Tribunal, though accepting the legal position canvassed by the assessee, decided the issue against the assessee solely on the ground that earlier coordinate Bench decisions in cases of other assessees were adverse, instead of referring the matter to a Larger Bench. The High Court held that such an approach was incorrect and affirmed that computation of capital gains must necessarily take into account both stages of the transaction, namely receipt of asset on liquidation and its subsequent sale, as reflected in computation-4 adopted by the assessee. Accordingly, the methodology of computation accepted by the assessee was held to be correct and the order of the Tribunal was set aside. (AY. 1991-92).

T.R. Balasubramaniam v. ACIT (2025) 345 CTR 526 / 251 DTR 182 (Mad)(HC)

S. 50: Capital gains-Depreciable assets-Block of assets-Sale of trade marks acquired before amendment of s. 32(1) w.e.f. 1st April, 1999-Assessable as long-term capital gains. [S. 2(11), 32(1), 45]

Held that since both the trade marks were acquired by the assessee prior to the amendment of s. 32(1) w.e.f. 1st April, 1999; there is no question of allowance of depreciation on the said trade marks and, therefore, the conditions for the applicability of S. 50 are not satisfied, and consequently, the capital gains which accrued to the assessee on the transfer of trade marks are assessable as long-term capital gains and not as short-term capital gains. (AY.2011-12)

Johnson & Johnson (P) Ltd. v.DCIT (2025) 234 TTJ 249/ 171 taxmann.com 619 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 50 : Capital gains-Depreciable assets-Block of assets-Immovable property-Stamp value and actual consideration-Matter is remanded to Assessing Officer for de novo consideration as per the provisions of section 43CA read with section 50C of the Act.[S.43CA, 45, 50C]

Assessee-bank had sold immovable properties. Assessing Officer held that stamp duty value of one property was shown at Rs. 11.55 crores against sale consideration of Rs. 7 crores. Accordingly, he had made an addition of Rs. 11.55 crores as long term capital gain (LTCG) on ground that assessee had failed to provide proof of purchase consideration of sold out flat for a sale consideration of Rs. 7 crores as against stamp duty value. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that principles of natural justice is violated hence the case is remanded to Assessing Officer for de novo consideration as per the provisions of section 43CA read with section 50C of the Act. (AY. 2019-20)

Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 608 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 50 :Capital gains-Depreciable assets-Block of assets-Rate of tax-Deeming fiction is to be confined only to section 50 and it could not convert short term capital asset into long term capital asset and vice versa for other purpose of Act-Rate of tax would be in terms of section 112 at rate of 20 percent and not 30 percent.[S. 2(29AA) 2(29B), 2(42A), 45, 48,49, 112(1)]

The assessee transferred immovable properties which formed part of block of assets on which depreciation was claimed. In ROI, the assessee company offered the gains as STCG u/s. 50 but paid tax as per section 112 at 20% plus surcharge. AO added tax at the rate of 30% as per STCG tax applying section 50(1). Held that section 50 starts with a non obstante clause and is a deeming provision which should be strictly limited to the purpose mentioned therein. The exclusion prescribed by the non obstante clause is limited to the purpose of modification of sections 48 and 49 and such non obstante clause cannot be applied to any other provisions contained in the Act. The provisions of section 50 changes the characteristic of the gain that in some cases a long-term to a short-term capital gain where assets are held beyond the specific term. However, the section does not change the characteristic of the capital asset held by the assessee, that is, the long-term capital asset will remain a long-term capital asset for all other purposes, but for the deeming fiction under section 50, capital gains is taxable as if it is gain arising from transfer of a short-term capital asset. Held that the rate of tax is applicable for the transfer of a long-term capital asset has to be in accordance with section 112. The deeming fiction of section 50 cannot be imported under section 112. Majority view. (AY. 2000-01)

SKF India v. DCIT. [2025] 121 ITR 307/ 210 ITD 1 (SB)(Mum)(Trib)

S. 50B : Capital gains-Slump sale-Freehold land-Business impairment adjustment in books-Indexed cost to be computed on actual cost-Addition sustained.[S. 2(24C), 45]

The assessee sought to reduce the cost of freehold land by relying on business impairment adjustments recorded in its books after acquiring a business through a slump sale. The Tribunal held that impairment adjustments made for accounting purposes under the Companies Act could not alter the actual cost of acquisition for income-tax purposes. The indexed cost of acquisition had to be computed on the actual acquisition cost of the land, and the addition made by the Assessing Officer was upheld. (AY. 2014-15).

Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages (P.) Ltd. v. Add. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 290 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 50C : Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Deeming fiction has no application to the purchaser-Dealy of 350 days-SLP dismissed on account of delay. [S. 45, Art. 136]

Section 50C applies only to an assessee who has received, or to whom consideration has accrued, as a result of the transfer of a capital asset. The provision is concerned exclusively with the seller of the property, and its deeming fiction has no application to the purchaser.

PCIT v. Sharan Svadha LLP (2025) 306 Taxman 92 (SC)

Editorial: PCIT v. Sharan Svadha LLP (2025) 176 taxmann.com 88 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 50C : Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Transfer of leasehold rights-Provision is applicable in respect of transfer of leasehold rights in the lands which were transferred by the MIDC in favour of the assessee. [S. 2(14)(a), 50C, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the assessee the Court held that leasehold rights in land constitute a “capital asset” as property can be “held” and not necessarily owned, and therefore s. 50C applies even to transfer/assignment of leasehold rights in land allotted by MIDC. Atul G. Puranik v. ITO (2011) 58 DTR 208 (Mum)(Trib) overruled; CIT v. Greenfield Hotel & Estates (P) Ltd. (2016) 389 ITR 68 (Bom)(HC) distinguished.

Vidarbha Veneere Industries Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 344 CTR 322 / 249 DTR 249/ 174 taxmann.com 223/ (2026) 484 ITR 132 (Bom)(HC)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-The stamp duty paid on the transaction showed a higher stamp duty valuation-No request was made for referring to DVO-The CIT(A) has rightly applied the provisions of S. 50C by adopting the stamp duty value as the full value of consideration in place of the sale deed value.[S. 45]

Held that the Stamp duty valuation of the property being more than the consideration shown in the sale deed, the AO and the CIT(A) were justified in applying the provisions of S. 50C and adopting the stamp duty value as the full value of consideration in place of the sale deed value. The Assessee has not made a request for referring to DVO (AY.2012-13)

Dilip Mohandas Devani v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 1098 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Income from Other Sources-Slump sale-Section 50C cannot be applied-If the value of the land and building is lower than the stamp duty value, the provisions of section 56(2)(vii)(b) may apply after valuation by the DVO. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh determination.[S. 2(42C), 56(2)(vii)(b), 50B]

In the case of acquisition of a business by way of slump sale, section 50C has no application in the hands of the purchaser. However, if the value of the land and building is lower than the stamp duty value, the provisions of section 56(2)(vii)(b) may apply after valuation by the DVO. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh determination. (AYs. 2012-13 to 2014-15 & 2016-17.)

Akorn India (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 869 / 180 taxmann.com 249 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation Land affected by statutory restrictions due to gas pipeline-Reduction in stamp duty value justified. [S. 45, Petroleum and Minerals Pipelines Act, 1962, S.9]

The assessee sold immovable property through which a gas pipeline had been laid, resulting in statutory restrictions under section 9 of the Petroleum and Minerals Pipelines Act, 1962, as well as restrictions imposed by the State Government on the use of the land. Though the matter was referred to the Departmental Valuation Officer, no reduction was allowed on account of these restrictions. The Tribunal held that the statutory restrictions adversely affected the marketability and value of the property. Since the assessee had obtained an independent valuation before the sale and sold the property in accordance with such valuation, the Revenue could not ignore the genuine disadvantage suffered by the assessee. The claim for a 25 per cent reduction in the stamp duty value was held to be reasonable, and no addition under section 50C was warranted. (AY. 2003-04)

Ajay Kumar Jain v. ITO (2025) 129 ITR 157 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 50C : Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation Mandatory reference to Valuation Officer ignored-Additions deleted.[S. 56(2)(vii)(b)] :

The Assessing Officer adopted the stamp duty valuation for computing capital gains and for making an addition under section 56(2)(vii)(b), despite the assessee's request for reference to the Departmental Valuation Officer. The Tribunal held that sections 50C(2) and 56(2)(vii)(b) mandate such reference where the assessee disputes the stamp duty valuation. Since the Assessing Officer failed to comply with the statutory requirement, the additions were unsustainable and were directed to be deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Nirmal Singh v. ITO (2025) 124 ITR 629 / 176 taxmann.com 554 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-DVO valued the property more than the Stamp Valuation Authority-Assessing Officer was required to accept the full value of consideration as per value determined by the Stamp Valuation Authority, i.e Rs 3.21 crores. [S.45, 50C(3)]

Assessee sold a flat for a consideration of Rs. 3.50 crores. Stamp Valuation Authority valued the transaction of such sale at Rs. 4.17 crores as per the ready reckoner rate as on 07-01-2011. Assessing Officer invoked provisions of section 50C and computed LTCG on the assessee's share. Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to make reference to DVO to ascertain the value of the asset as on the date of presentation before the Stamp Valuation Authority. DVO submitted his valuation report wherein he estimated fair market value at Rs. 4.13 crores as on 27-11-2010. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer recomputed the capital gain. The assessee had placed on record a certified copy of the registered agreement presented on 29-11-2010 wherein the ready reckoner rate was worked out at Rs. 3.21 crores. Such a fact was not countered by revenue. The Tribunal held that once the Assessing Officer accepted the contention of the assessee for seeking estimation of value from DVO as on 27-11-2010 and in case estimation of DVO was more than the value of his Stamp Valuation Authority, as per section 50C(3), the Assessing Officer was required to accept full value of consideration as per value determined by Stamp Valuation Authority. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was to be directed to adopt Rs. 3.21 crores and recompute capital gain on the assessee's share. (AY. 2011-12)

Chittu Bhawanji Narsey. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 400 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Third proviso-Difference between value determined by DVO and consideration declared by assessee was less than 5 per cent of sale consideration-Would be entitled to the safe harbour rule of 5 per cent as per third proviso to section 50C.[S. 45]

Held that if the difference between the value determined by DVO and consideration declared by assessee was less than 5 per cent of sale consideration declared by assessee, assessee would be entitled to the safe harbour rule of 5 per cent as per third proviso to section 50C. (AY. 2012-13)

DCIT v. Tirupati Niryat (P.) Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 513 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 50C : Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-The AO adopted SRO rate as sale consideration-Not referred to DVO-Matter remanded to Assessing Office to refer determination of FMV of asset to DVO. [S. 45, 48]

Tribunal held that while determination of fair market value should have been referred to DVO to be decided after hearing assessee and considering material put forth by him. Matter is to be restored to Assessing Officer to refer determination of fair market value of asset to DVO to be decided after affording an opportunity to assessee.](AY. 2012-13)

Ramesh Munaiah Chintakunta. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 117 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Transfer of development rights-Notional assignment of development rights-Provision is not applicable.[S. 45]

Held that the provision of section 50C is applicable only on transfer of a capital asset being land or building or both and does not apply to transfer of development rights in land. Notionally assigned development rights in favour of a partnership firm and there was no actual transfer of land or building, the provision of section 50C is not applicable on such notional assignment of development rights. (AY. 2012-13)

DCIT v. Minal Urmil Shah. (2025) 211 ITD 136 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 50C: Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Stamp duty value of the property-Date of agreement-The AO is directed to consider the stamp duty value of the property, as on the date of agreement i.e. 03.06.2002/19.06.2002, as mentioned in the sale deed itself and recompute the capital gain/tax liability accordingly.[S.45]

The Assessee has paid the entire consideration amount of Rs.4,25,000/-to the vendor/seller on 19.06.2002 itself. This fact is also clear from the sale deed dated 19.02.2018 itself. Further, from the receipt, which is part of the said sale agreement/ sale deed reflects the payment of Rs.4,25,000/- having been made by the Assessee on 03.06.2002 through cheque nos. 531715 and 007797 respectively amounting to Rs.3,00,000/-and Rs.1,25,000/-drawn on Maharashtra Bank, Goregaon West Branch. From the documents, such as electricity connection, Aadhar card, PAN card, election card etc., the Assessee also proved corroborative material of ownership of the property. Thus, considering the peculiar facts and circumstances in totality and the sale deed, wherein the purchase of the property has specifically been mentioned, coupled with corroborative documents/evidences, which goes to show that the Assessee on the basis of agreement fixed the amount of consideration and paid the consideration amount in two cheques on dated 03.06.2002 itself and this fact is part of the sale deed and therefore it can easily be construed that the Assessee's case falls under 1st proviso of section 50C of the Act and therefore the stamp duty value as on the date of agreement is required to be taken for the purpose of computation of consideration for such transfer. Thus, the AO is directed to consider the stamp duty value of the property, as on the date of agreement i.e. 03.06.2002/19.06.2002, as mentioned in the sale deed itself and recompute the capital gain/tax liability accordingly.(AY. 2011-12) [ITA No. 2/VIZ/2024 dated 08/08/2024]

Gupta Enterprises v. ACIT (Visakha) (Trib)(UR)

S. 50C : Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Special provision for computation of full value consideration (Amendment)-Difference between sale consideration and stamp duty value-Stamp Duty Value of the Property purchased and Purchase consideration is less than the tolerance band of 10%-Provisions of Section 56(2)(x)-The assessee is entitled to the benefit of the tolerance limit of 6.56%. [S. 56(2)(x)]

Both assesseees, as co-owners, jointly purchased a residential flat. The registration of the said flat was completed on 01.09.2017. The declared value of the property was Rs.2,71,11,500/-, whereas the stamp duty valuation, as determined by the stamp duty authorities, stood at Rs.2,88,91,540/-. Consequently, the difference amounted to Rs.17,80,040/-.The assessee is entitled to the benefit of the tolerance limit of 6.56%.-Specifically, the question is whether this tolerance limit applies to both assesseees.-Yes: (AY. 2018-19)

Saggar Parimmal. ITO [2025] 174 taxmann.com 805 (Mum)(Trib)
Ketan Kumar Sagar v. ITO [2025] 174 taxmann.com 805 (Mum)
(Trib)

S. 50C : Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Valuation for the purposes of Stamp Duty-Development rights-Assessee holding the land title in her name only for technical purposes-Development rights of the land transferred to the partnership firm where assessee was a partner-Assignment of development rights, provision is not applicable. [S. 45]

Land was purchased in the name of the assessee and her husband. The assessee and co-owner gave development rights to the partnership firm in which she was a partner. The Assessing Officer applied Section 50C, determining a notional value based on jantri rates. Based on the submissions, ITAT held that, the land actually belonged to the partnership firm, with the assessee merely acting as a name-lender. Hence, no short-term capital gains were chargeable in the hands of the assessee because she acted only as a name-lender for the partnership firm. Applicability of S. 50C failed since it was not applicable as there was no actual transfer of land or building, but only a notional assignment of development rights.(AY. 2012-13)

Dy.CIT v. Minal Urmil Shah (2025) 233 TTJ 805/ 211 ITD 136 / (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Residential house-Prior to amendment in 2014 allowed for exemption for purchase of more than 1 residential properties.[S. 45]

The Assessee sold a residential flat in Mumbai and invested the sale proceeds in a joint venture with a builder for acquisition/construction of seven row houses in Pune. The Assessee claimed exemption under section 54 of the Income-tax Act against the entire capital gain arising from the sale of the Mumbai flat. The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim on the ground that exemption under section 54(1) was permissible only for investment in one residential house and not multiple houses. On appeal, the Tribunal allowed exemption only in respect of one row house. Aggrieved, the Assessee filed an appeal before the Hon'ble Bombay High Court, which granted relief to the Assessee holding that the expression "a residential house" in section 54, as it stood prior to the 2014 amendment, would include multiple residential houses and was not restricted to one house. Relying on decisions of the Karnataka High Court in Arun K. Thiagarajan v. CIT (A) [2020] 272 Taxman 235 and the Madras High Court in Tilokchand & Sons v. ITO [2019] 263 Taxman 713, the Court observed that the provision is beneficial in nature and should be interpreted liberally. It further noted that the 2014 amendment substituting the words "a residential house” with “one residential house” was prospective and applicable only from AY 2015-16. Accordingly, the Court held that the Assessee was entitled to exemption under section 54 against the entire capital gain arising from the sale of the Mumbai flat, as the investment in seven row houses was made prior to the amendment.(AY. 1995-96)

Krishnagopal B. Nangpal [2025] 306 Taxman 289/ 484 ITR 272 (Bom) (HC)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Construction of house-Putting together a structure of plywood sheets could not be construed as constructing a residential house-Not entitle to exemption. [S.45, 260A]

Assessee had sold a residential property and earned capital gain. He claimed exemption under section 54 on ground that he had constructed a residential house within a period of three years. Assessing Officer on basis of inspection report observed that assessee had not constructed a residential house but purchased vacant agricultural land and constructed a makeshift structure on said land. He held that said structure had been raised with a view to evade tax liability. Accordingly, denied the deduction. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that none of basic amenities like boundary wall, kitchen, washroom, bedroom, electricity connection or water connection were available at residential house of assessee. Accordingly, the order of the AO is affirmed. On appeal the Court held that from perusal of inspector’s report, it was noted that a makeshift guardroom made of plywood of 7 feet x 6 feet and a similar room of plywood of 16 feet x 12 feet with a toilet attached was found at said site putting together a structure of plywood sheets could not be construed as constructing a residential house, order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

Sandeep Hooda v. PCIT (2025) 302 Taxman 208 / 475 ITR 605 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Buildings or lands appurtenant thereto-Purchase of property consisting of four shops and one room-Presence of a single room at the first floor of the commercial structure does not alter the dominant character of the property as the same is expected to be used for incidental and ancillary activities/for commercial purposes-The investment in the said new property does not qualify for exemption.[S.45]

Held that the immovable property purchased by the assessee consisting of four shops at the ground floor and a single room at the first floor, cannot be treated as a "residential house" within the meaning of S. 54 and, therefore, investment in said property is not eligible for exemption under S. 54.(AY. 2015-16)

Alauddin v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 497 (Agra)(Trib)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Co-owners-New residential property jointly purchased by assessee and his wife-Actual contribution towards the purchase of the new house is a relevant factor while determining the eligible exemption-AO is directed to verify the proportion of investment made by the assessee and allow the exemption accordingly-Cost of improvement-The assessee has provided the best available documentary evidence in the form of contractor bills and work details, the claim for indexed cost of improvement is allowed to the assessee. [S. 45, 48]

Held that the assessee purchased new residential property jointly with his wife and both the co-owners having filed affidavit confirming that the investment was made in the ratio of 2:1, assessee's claim for exemption under s. 54 is acceptable in principle, subject to verification of the actual contributions made by the assessee and his wife towards the new property. Tribunal also held that assessee claimed to have incurred expenditure in cash and having produced documentary evidence in the form of contractor bills and work details, the claim for the indexed cost of improvement of the old property is allowable to the assessee in the computation of capital gains arising from the sale of the said property. (AY.2012-13)

Dilip Mohandas Devani v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 1098 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Exemption-Purchase of new residential house jointly with son-in-law-Deduction cannot be restricted to co-ownership share-Fair market value as on 1-2-2001-Valuation cannot be rejected. [S.45, 48, 55(2)(b)]

The assessee invested the capital gains in a new residential house purchased jointly with her son-in-law and claimed a deduction under section 54. The Tribunal held that where the assessee had contributed the substantial portion of the purchase consideration, the deduction under section 54 could not be restricted merely because the property was jointly purchased. Further, the fair market value as on 01-04-2001 adopted by the assessee was supported by a registered valuer's report as well as the stamp duty valuation and, therefore, there was no justification for rejecting the valuation adopted by the assessee while computing long-term capital gains. (AY. 2021-22)

ITO v. Neelam Shamsher Kashyap (2025) 238 TTJ 898 / 180 taxmann.com 39 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 54: Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Construction of house-Purchase of land with construction of house-Matter was to be remitted back to the Assessing Officer for decision afresh.[S. 45, 54F]

Assessee sold a residential plot and invested the sale consideration in the purchase of land with the construction of a house thereon and claimed exemption under section 54. The Assessing Officer denied the exemption, which was affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the Assessing Officer had not called for any report from revenue authorities regarding the use of land appurtenant to residential construction therein and did not even visit the site and inspect the same to find out as to what was actual status of new asset during period relevant for purposes of section 54, matter was to be remitted back to Assessing Officer for decision afresh. (AY. 2017-18)

Yogesh Mutha. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 87 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Property is purchased in the name of spouse-Exemption cannot be denied.[S. 45]

Held that investment in new residential property is made by assessee from his own funds, the mere fact that property is purchased in the name of spouse does not disentitle assessee from exemption under section 54. Since CIT (A) had not specifically discussed or dealt with judicial authorities cited by the assessee, the order of CIT(A) was set aside and the matter was restored for de novo adjudication. (AY. 2012-13)

Rajesh Narendrabhai Patel. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 282 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of residential property-Co-owner-Deduction allowable proportionately to extent of investment [S. 45]

The assessee sold a residential property and reinvested in a new residential house jointly with her husband, claiming exemption under section 54. The AO denied exemption, holding that two properties were transferred, violating section 54 conditions. The Tribunal held that prior to the amendment effective 01.04.2015, no restriction existed against claiming exemption as a co-owner. Deduction must be allowed proportionately to the assessee's share of investment, subject to verification that no double benefit was claimed by both spouses. (AY. 2012-13)

Tejal Kaushal Shah (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 397 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Amount utilised for construction of new house-Exemption is allowable even if construction was not complete. [S. 45]

Assessee sold a residential property and invested capital gains in construction of new residential property. He also deposited certain amount in capital gain account scheme. The assessee claimed exemption under section 54. The Assessing Officer disallowed exemption claimed by assessee on ground that construction of new property was not complete. CIT(A) allowed the exemption. On appeal the Tribunal held that exemption under section 54 could be allowed based on amount utilised by assessee out of sale consideration towards construction of new house property even if construction was not complete. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Bagalur Krishnaiah Shetty Vijay Shanker. (2025) 210 ITD 20 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 54 : Capital gains-Profit on sale of property used for residence-Property purchased by HUF-Through General Power of Attorney held by a coparcener-Held, valid transaction-Eligible for exemption. [S. 45]

The assessee, an HUF, purchased a property via a General Power of Attorney (GPA) held by its co-parcener (the assessee's son), from three unrelated persons. The Assessing Officer (AO) denied the claim under section 54, arguing that the assessee already had more than one residential property. The ITAT observed that, when the sale consideration flowed directly from the HUF to the original property owners, possession transferred from the original owners to the HUF, and the son, as GPA holder, merely facilitated the transaction without acquiring personal rights, it was a case of valid transaction and the HUF could not be deprived of the S. 54 benefit. (AY. 2006-07)

Dhanraj Kochar (HUF) v. Dy.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 636 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 54B: Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Investments made beyond the statutory time-limit-Received the sale proceeds in a staggered manner over the years, from 2012 to 2016, Reinvested the capital gains in a residential property and agricultural land as and when funds were available-Exemption u/ss. 54B and 54F cannot be denied solely on the ground of non-adherence to strict time-limits-Assessee is entitled to claim deduction in respect of investments made beyond the prescribed time period-AO is directed to recompute the assessee's taxable capital gains by allowing proportionate exemption u/s. 54B and 54F for the investments made within the statutory time limits. Ownership of land in the assessee's name is a mandatory condition and, therefore, assessee cannot claim exemption u/s. 54B for the land purchased in the name of his brother. [S. 45, 54F]

Assessee having received the sale proceeds in a staggered manner over the years, from 2012 to 2016, and accordingly reinvested the capital gains in a residential property and agricultural land as and when funds were available, exemption u/ss. 54B and 54F cannot be denied solely on the ground of non-adherence to strict time-limits; the assessee is entitled to claim proportionate exemption u/s. 54B and 54F for the investments made within the statutory time limits. Ownership of land in the assessee's name is a mandatory condition and, therefore, the assessee cannot claim exemption u/s. 54B for the land purchased in the name of his brother. (AY. 2015-16)

Jobanji Thakor v. ITO (2025) 234 TTJ 774 / 175 taxmann.com 62 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 54B: Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Co-owner-Order of CIT(A), merely relying upon the decision of the co-owner without verifying distinguishing facts recorded by the Assessing Officer, was set aside and restored to him for decision afresh.[S. 45]

Tribunal held that the CIT(A) has allowed the exemption merely relying upon the decision of the co-owner without verifying the distinguishing facts recorded by the Assessing Officer. The matter was restored to him for decision afresh. (AY. 2016-17)

ITO v. Nitinbhai Kanubhai Patel. (2025) 215 ITD 565/238 TTJ 908 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 54B: Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Reinvestment-Additional sale consideration from an escrow account-Reinvested in new asset-Matter remanded for reverification.[S. 45]

Assessee filed the return claiming exemption under section 54B in respect of additional consideration received from the sale of land. Assessing Officer held that additional sale consideration was received after execution of registered sale deed dated 21-02-2010; hence, denied exemption on the ground that purchase was beyond statutory two-year period reckoned from date of transfer. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, from perusal of the agreement entered into with the escrow agent, the assessee had received additional sale consideration from the purchaser out of the escrow arrangement upon clearance of title encumbrances to the purchaser's satisfaction in April 2012. Since the escrow agent agreement was not considered by the lower authorities, the matter was to be remanded back to the Assessing Officer to consider said document and thereafter the assessee was given a deduction under section 54B. (AY. 2013-14)

Nitin R Shah v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 646 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 54B: Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Land sold was used for agricultural activities for the last two years immediately preceding the date of transfer-Sale proceeds were also utilised for purchase of another land, which was again used for agricultural purposes-Exemption cannot be denied on the ground that after sale land was declared as non-agricultural by Stamp Duty Officer.[S. 45]

Assessee, an agriculturist, sold his agricultural land and purchased another piece of land and claimed exemption under section 54B. Assessing Officer held that said land was reported and mentioned as residential in order passed by the State Government Stamp Duty Officer under the Stamp Duty Act, hence denied exemption under section 54B on the ground that the sold land was a non-agricultural capital asset and LTCG tax was payable by assessee. CIT(A) allowed the exemption. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, from the jamabandi of said land, it was described to be under self-cultivation, and the same details were available for financial years 2007-08 to 2011-12, which proved that the particular land was under cultivation for more than the last two years. Since the land sold by the assessee was used for agricultural activities for the last two years preceding the date of transfer, and sale proceeds were utilised for purchase of another land which was again used for agricultural purposes, the assessee was entitled to the benefit of section 54B of the Act. (AY. 2012-13)

ITO v. Ajaib Singh. (2025) 213 ITD 613 (Amritsar) (Trib.)

S. 54B : Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Agricultural land purchased in the name of wife-Not entitle for exemption. [S.45]

Held that the assessee cannot claim any deduction under s. 54B on purchase of agricultural land in the name of his wife. (AY. 2007-08)

Zahid Hasan Khan v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 229 / 245 DTR 268 / 173 taxmann.com 191 (Chd)(Trib)

S. 54B : Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Land was not used for agricultural purposes for two years immediately preceding the date of transfer-Not entitled to exemption. [S. 45]

Held that the assessee is not able to demonstrate that the land sold was used for agricultural purposes for two years immediately preceding date of transfer; section 54B is not applicable. (AY. 2017-18)

Amartbhai Mandanbhai Desai. v. PCIT (2025) 211 ITD 195 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 54B : Capital gains-Land used for agricultural purposes-Growing paddy crop-Lands used for agricultural purposes two years immediately preceding the date on which land was sold-Entitled to exemption. [S. 45, 143(3)]

During the year, assessee sold three lands and claimed exemption under section 54B. Assessing Officer denied the exemption on the ground that the assessee had failed to place on record supporting documentary evidence which would substantiate that lands sold by him were either being used by him or his parents for agricultural purpose in two years immediately preceding date on which same were transferred i.e. a pre-condition for claiming deduction under section 54B. On appeal the Tribunal held that on a bare perusal of 'Form P-II/Khasra' (forming part of sale deeds of subject properties), it could safely be gathered that agricultural operations i.e. growing paddy crop were being carried out by assessee on subject lands in two years immediately preceding date on which same were transferred. Since pre-condition as regards usage of lands sold by assessee for agricultural purposes in two years immediately preceding date on which they were transferred was found to be satisfied, Assessing Officer is directed to allow the claim for exemption under section 54B, subject to verification of satisfaction of other conditions contemplated in said statutory provision. (AY. 2015-16)

Rahul Bajpai. v. DCIT (2025) 211 ITD 580 (Raipur) (Trib.)

S.54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Agricultural land-Capital asset-Even if claim was not made in return-The Assessing Officer cannot reject the claim on technical ground-Matter remanded-Assessee had not adduced any evidence to prove agricultural activity and documents of Sub-Registrar's office where sale deed was registered did not contain any endorsement as regards nature of property to be agricultural-Denial of exemption affirmed. [S. 2(14), 10(37,45, 260A]

Assessee, a non-resident, sold a land with a residential building situated in a village for a certain sum and claimed exemption under section 10(37) on the ground that it was agricultural land having no liability to capital gains tax. Assessing Officer rejected the said claim, which was affirmed by the Tribunal. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. As regards the exemption under section 54F of the Act, even if the claim was not made in return, the Assessing Officer cannot reject the claim on technical grounds. Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2014-15)

George Stanley v. DCIT (IT) (2025) 178 taxmann.com 187 / 347 CTR 299 / 255 DTR 57 (Ker)(HC)

S.54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Purchase of two independent flats in a building on two different floors-Not possible to combine them as one unit-Not entitled to exemption. [S. 45]

Assessee sold a plot of land and used proceeds to purchase two non-adjacent flats; since two flats were constructed and situated physically in a manner that it was not possible to combine them and they could not be used as one single dwelling unit even though they were in the same tower of a residential society, assessee is entitled to exemption under section 54F in respect of only one flat. Order of Tribunal is affirmed.(AY. 2013-14)

Kamla Ajmera (Mrs.) v. PCIT [2024] 169 taxmann.com 119 / (2025) 342 CTR 626 / 245 DTR 65 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Purchase of residential house-Deduction cannot be denied merely because the sale deed was executed subsequently where investment and genuineness of the transaction are established. [S. 45]

The assessee claimed exemption under section 54F on the investment of long-term capital gains arising from the sale of development rights in the purchase of a residential house. The Assessing Officer denied the exemption on the grounds that the memorandum of understanding was unregistered, the seller owned only three-fourths of the property, the parties were related, and the registered sale deed was executed after two years. The Tribunal held that the entire consideration had been paid pursuant to the memorandum of understanding, the subsequent sale deed referred to the earlier agreement and the seller's ownership of three-fourths share was undisputed. The delay in the execution of the sale deed and the relationship between the parties did not render the transaction non-genuine. Accordingly, the assessee was entitled to a deduction under section 54F. (AY. 2015-16)

Dy. CIT v. Kruti Lalitkumar Jain (2025) 121 ITR 26 (SN) (Pune)(Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Delay in completion of construction due to circumstances beyond assessee's control-Exemption allowable. [S. 45]

The assessee invested the sale consideration in construction of a residential house but could not complete the construction within the prescribed period because the builder failed to hand over possession of the plot owing to a dispute relating to highway construction. The assessee thereafter relinquished the original allotment and invested the entire consideration in another residential property, though construction was completed beyond the statutory period. The Tribunal held that section 54F is a beneficial provision and where the assessee had invested the entire consideration within the stipulated period, but completion of construction was delayed for reasons beyond the assessee's control, the exemption could not be denied. (AY. 2017-18)

Rajni Kumar v. ITO (2025) 178 taxmann.com 543 / 128 ITR 246 / 237 TTJ 73 (UO) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Construction of mosque not a residential house-Not entitled to exemption. [S. 45]

The assessee claimed exemption under section 54F on investment in construction of a property used as a mosque, orphanage school and staff quarters. The Tribunal held that the property could not be regarded as a "residential house" contemplated under section 54F, as it was predominantly constructed and used for religious purposes and not for the assessee's residential occupation. Since the statutory requirement of investment in a residential house was not satisfied, no deduction under section 54F was allowable, and there was no scope for granting proportionate relief. (AY. 2013-14).

ACIT v. Iqbal Ali Khan [2024] 158 taxmann.com 377 / (2025) 130 ITR 576 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Purchase of house property-Execution of sale deed beyond the specified period-MoU on 21st Aug., 2015-Entitled to exemption. [S. 45]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Tribunal held that the assessee, having entered into an MoU with KHC (P) Ltd. for purchasing a property within a few months after the sale of development rights and lease rights of certain property and paid the sale consideration to KHC (P) Ltd. on the date of the MoU, exemption under s. 54F cannot be denied to the assessee merely because the sale deed has been executed after the specified period of two years, and the assessee and her family members are shareholders in the amalgamated company in which KHC (P) Ltd. has amalgamated. (AY. 2015-16)

DCIT v. Kruti Lalitkumar Jain (2025) 235 TTJ 32/ 170
taxmann.com 465 (Pune) Trib)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Purchase of land-Construction of house-Investment within time limit-Gift of property-It is irrelevant whether the assessee has constructed a building on the entire portion of the land or has only utilised a portion of the land for a residential house and kept the remaining land vacant-Eligible for exemption.[S. 45, 139(1)]

Held that the Assessee had made a gift of his other house property to his daughter on the occasion of her marriage; once the gift given by the assessee is accepted as valid, it is clear that the assessee was left with only one residential house property. The assessee purchased a flat by way of a registered sale deed dt. 7th July, 2021, and the builder handed over possession thereof in June 2022; it cannot be said that the assessee purchased one more residential property within one year from the date of transfer of the original asset in violation of the proviso to s. 54F(1); further, the investment made by the assessee for purchasing the new residential house on 18th Oct., 2022 and the investment made in the Capital Gains Accounts Scheme on 28th Oct., 2022, were within the due date, which satisfied the conditions of S. 54F; exemption cannot be disallowed only on the ground that the assessee has used only part of the land for constructing the house property.(AY. 2022-23)

ITO v. Narasimha Reddy Duthala (2025) 236 TTJ 169/ 174
taxmann.com 1073 / [2026] 134 ITR 682 (Hyd) (Trib)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Owing to the Death of the mother of the assessee, she received 25 per cent of the share in the property in New Delhi-Merely because the assessee had the right to receive the rent w.e.f. 11th July, 2015, the position does not change-Absolute ownership was acquired by the assessee only after mutation. The assessee is the 25 per cent owner of the property; he cannot be held to be the absolute owner of the second property entitled to exemption. [S. 45]

Held that since the assessee held only the property in Pune on the date of transfer of the original asset in August 2016 and became owner of a portion of the property in new Delhi under the Will of his deceased mother only after the mutation in March, 2017, benefit of exemption under s. 54F could not be denied on the basis that he was owner of two residential flats at the time of transfer of the original asset. Tribunal also held that the assessee having received only 25 per cent share in the property on the death of his mother, the assessee cannot be held to be the absolute owner of the said property. Entitled to exemption. (AY.2017-18)

Deepak Kothari v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 241 / 177 taxmann.com 219 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Construction of residential house-Booking of flat under construction-Registration within three years-Exemption allowable-Difference in value of flat disclosed in Schedule AL and registered sale deed-Difference explained-Addition deleted.[S. 45, 69B]

The assessee booked a residential flat under a construction agreement and made substantial payments before execution of the sale deed. The Assessing Officer denied exemption under section 54F by treating the transaction as a purchase completed beyond the prescribed period. The Tribunal held that the assessee had invested the sale proceeds in a property under construction and obtained possession and registration within the statutory period of three years from the date of transfer of the original asset. The transaction was one of construction and not purchase. Accordingly, the exemption under section 54F was allowable. The Assessing Officer treated the difference between the value of the flat shown in Schedule AL and the registered sale consideration as unexplained investment. The Tribunal held that the assessee was not required to maintain books of account and had satisfactorily explained that the difference represented stamp duty, registration charges and other incidental expenses, all paid through banking channels. Since the Revenue neither conducted any enquiry nor disproved the explanation, the addition under section 69B was deleted. (AY. 2017-18).

Avichal Kulshrestha v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 356 / 179 taxmann.com 87 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Year of chargeability-Addition made by Assessing Officer for A. Y. 2018-19, treating the amount withdrawn from CGAS account in the succeeding year 2019-20 as the assessee's income under the head LTCG was deleted.[S.2(14), 45, 54F(4)]

Held that the assessee had sold a capital asset (i.e., unlisted shares and securities) on 29-7-2015 and deposited the capital gain under the Capital Gain Account Scheme (CGAS), 1988; the amount withdrawn would be taxed in the year when three years period from the date of transfer of the original asset would expire, i.e. 29-7-2018. Accordingly, the addition made by the Assessing Officer for the A. Y. 2018-19, treating the amount withdrawn from the CGAS account in the succeeding year 2019-20 as the assessee's income under the head LTCG, was deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

Digamber Madhav Chaudhary Through Lr Harshad Digamber Chaudhary v. DCIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 64 / (2025) 234 TTJ 228(Raipur)(Trib)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Sale of non-agricultural land-No deposit was made in the capital gains account-Expenditure incurred towards the construction of the house till the due date for filing of return under section 139(4) was to be allowed as deduction under section 54F-Matter remanded. [S. 45, 139 (4)]

Assessee sold a non-agricultural land, in which he was a 1/4th co-owner, for a consideration of Rs. 8 crores. In return for income, assessee had disclosed capital gain of Rs. 25.38 lakhs after claiming deduction of Rs. 1.74 crores under section 54F. Assessing Officer held that assessee did not deposit capital gain in capital gain account scheme; further, there was no evidence brought on record that construction of new property was completed within a period of three years from the date of sale of original asset and assessee had also not verified that he did not own more than one house property; hence deduction claimed under section 54F was disallowed. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that even if no deposit was made by assessee in the capital gain account, expenditure incurred towards the construction of the house till the due date for filing the return under section 139(4) was to be allowed as a deduction under section 54F. Assessee, being the owner of not more than one house property as on the date of sale of the property under consideration, should also be examined by the Assessing Officer before allowing deduction under section 54F. Matter remanded] (AY. 2015-16)

Alpesh Navinbhai Barot. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 387 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Sale of land-Investment in construction of a residential property-Bank transactions comprising both withdrawals and payments were demonstrably available in support of claim-Exemption could not be disallowed solely on the ground that supporting vouchers or bills were on plain paper or not in preferred form.[S. 45]

Assessee sold a land owned by it and invested sale consideration in construction of a residential property and claimed exemption under section 54F. Assessing Officer rejected claim as assessee had not furnished any documents with regard to investment in residential property. CIT(A) also declined to allow exemption under section 54F on the ground that evidentiary documents produced in support of construction expenses were merely on plain paper. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had in fact undertaken construction of a residential property and had incurred substantial expenditure towards said construction out of sale consideration received. Further, upon perusal of the bank account statements of assessee, it was found that there were significant cash withdrawals as well as payments made towards construction. Since sufficient bank transactions comprising both withdrawals and payments were demonstrably available in support of the claim, exemption could not be disallowed solely on the ground that supporting vouchers or bills were on plain paper or not in preferred form. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was directed to grant exemption under section 54F for said sum and to recompute long-term capital gains chargeable to tax after giving effect to the same. (AY. 2014-15)

Natesan Ekambaram. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 615 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Purchases-Duplex-Single deed-Entitled to exemption. [S. 45]

Held that where assessee purchased a residential home being duplex by way of a single deed of transfer, it could not be said that assessee had purchased two residential houses, and, thus, assessee was entitled to exemption under section 54F. The Assessing Officer was directed to allow the exemption. (AY. 2022-23)

Ratan Mahendra Jain. (Mrs) v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 58/124 ITR 624 (Mum) (Trib.)

S.54F: Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Sale of shop in February, 2012-Booked flat in December, 2010-Purchase of residential Flat in April, 2016-Entitled to exemption if substantial payment for said flat was made during relevant period or within two years from date of sale of shop-Matter remanded. [S.45, 50C]

Assessee sold the shop in February 2012 and purchased a residential flat in April 2016. Assessee claimed exemption under section 54F of the Act. The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim of exemption, which was affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal, the assessee contended that though the registered sale deed was executed in April 2016, the assessee had booked a flat in December 2010 and had made substantial payment for the same in the financial year 2011-12. Tribunal remanded the issue to the Assessing Officer for verification of payments, and if substantial payment was made during the relevant period or within two years from the date of sale of the shop, the benefit of section 54F would be allowed to the assessee. (AY. 2012-13)

Saurabh Khanna. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 479 (Delhi) (Trib)

S.54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Return not filed-Exemption cannot be denied.[S 139, 148]

Assessee had not filed return of income for the relevant assessment year but had made a claim while filing return of income in response to notice under section 148. The AO denied the exemption. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee could not be denied deduction under section 54F. Appellate Authorities are not barred from entertaining fresh claim. (AY. 2012-13)

Satyanarayana Viswanadha. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 173 (Visakha) (Trib.)

S. 54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Advance received cannot be assessed as capital gains-The AO was directed to recompute the capital gains on actual consideration and also directed to allow the exemption under section. 54F. [S. 45]

The assessee, an individual, sold 30.35 cents of land out of 121 cents situated at Siruseri Village for ₹1,00,44,000/-. The AO, however, treated the entire sum of ₹2.50 crore (including advances for balance land) as consideration and computed LTCG, further denying exemption u/s 54F for want of proper documents. The CIT(A) upheld the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that only ₹1,00,44,000/-received for the land actually transferred could be considered as sale consideration, the balance being advance for unsold portion. As regards exemption u/s 54F, the ITAT admitted fresh details such as bank statements and found sufficient evidence of reinvestment of ₹82,15,610/-in construction of a residential house. It directed the AO to recompute LTCG by taking sale consideration at ₹1,00,44,000/-and granting deduction u/s 54F for ₹82,15,610/-. Appeal partly allowed. (AY 2014-15)

Natesan Ekambaram v. DCIT / [2025] 214 ITD 615 /238 TTJ 689 (Chennai) (Trib)

S.54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Residential property was purchased in his wife's name-Entitle to deduction. [S. 45]

Held that though the assessee had purchased residential property in his wife's name the deduction is allowed. (AY. 2012-13)

Vidjayane Durairaj-Vidjayane Velradjou. v. ITO (2025) 210 ITD 579 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 54F: Capital gains-Investment in residential house-50% ownership in property-Does not own more than one house at the time of the transfer of the original capital asset, would be entitled to claim the exemption u/s.54F, even if they lack absolute ownership of the property they are selling. [S. 45]

The assessee earned a long-term capital gain from the sale of investments. The assessee invested in a property and claimed an exemption u/s. 54F, based on the reinvestment made in that property. The AO denied the exemption, stating that the assessee owned more than one house property on the date of the transfer of the original capital asset.

Held that the lack of absolute ownership in the property does not disqualify the assessee from claiming the exemption. Even though the assessee only had 50% ownership in the property, the important factor was that, on the date of transfer of the original capital asset, the assessee did not own more than one residential property. The Assessee was not the absolute owner of the property was not a sufficient reason to deny the exemption.(AY. 2020-21)

Rajeev Vasudeva v. Dy. CIT [2025] 210 ITD 442 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S.54F : Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Joint property purchase with wife-Joint transfer for consideration-The wife's inclusion in the property title was deemed nominal and for convenience-Denial of exemption is not valid.[S. 45, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S.45]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 54F in respect of purchase of house property. The AO disallowed the full deduction under Section 54F, restricting it to 50%, asserting joint ownership of the purchased property. On appeal the CIT(A), reversed the AO's findings, citing sufficient documentation and approvals and relying on CIT v.. Ravindra Kumar Arora [2011] 203 Taxman 289 / [2012] 342 ITR 38/ 252 CTR 392 (Delhi)(HC). On appeal by the Revenue, the Tribunal held that the entire purchase consideration for the property was paid by the assessee. The wife's inclusion in the property title was deemed nominal and for convenience. Order of the CIT(A) is affirmed. Relied on CIT v.. Ravinder Kumar Arora (2012) 342 ITR 38 / 203 Taxman 289 ((Delhi)(HC) CIT v. Kamal Wahal (2013) 30 Taxman.com 34 / 214 Taxman 287 (2013] 351 ITR 4 (Delhi)(HC), Shri Bhatkal Ramanrao Prakash v. ITO (2019 175 ITD 144 (Bang)(Trib), Jitendra V. Faria v.ITO (2017) 81 Taxman.com 16 /164 ITD 443 (Mum)(Trib) (ITA No.1085 /Mum/2024 dt.13-1-2025)(AY. 2021-22)

ACIT v. Jay Bharat Mehta (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org.

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Grants received by statutory corporation from Government for construction of housing for Police Department-Interest on deposit of such grant amounts in banks-Assessable as income from other sources-Interest paid not allowable as deduction. [S. 36(1)(iii)]

Held that the interest earned was not of borrowed funds. The assessee was not carrying out the construction for the purpose of setting up of business or for expansion of a business; but was engaged in the activity of construction itself, with the funds made available by the Government. The interest income earned from the grants made by the Government for the purpose of construction of buildings for the Police Department could only be treated as income from other sources. It was not an activity inextricably connected with the construction of buildings and it did not in any manner reduce the cost of construction. In the case of the assessee the funds parked in deposits, out of the grants received, were surplus funds; since the amounts earned by the assessee from the deposit of such funds were set off from the grants for the subsequent year. That the circular of the State Government providing for deduction of grants in the successive years to the extent of the interest earned from the grants of the earlier year, cannot regulate the taxability under the Income-tax Act, 1961. If at all, Income-tax was deducted from the interest earned, the Corporation would be entitled to request the Government to not deduct the amounts paid as Income-tax from the grants of the subsequent years. The circular issued by the State Government regulating the business/transaction between the Government and its corporation could not have any effect on the taxability of the interest income, which was deemed to be income from other sources under section 56 of the Income-tax Act. There was no question of any deduction being permitted, as permissible under section 36(1)(iii) of the Act, which is with respect to interest paid on borrowed capital for the purpose of business or profession (AY. 2018-19)

Bihar Police Building Construction Corporation Pvt. Ltd v. PCIT [2023] 157 taxmann.com 495 / (2025) 483 ITR 203 (Patna)(HC)
Editorial : SLP dismissed on the ground that delay of 364 days was not satisfactorily explained.: Bihar Police Building Construction Corporation Pvt. Ltd v. PCIT [2025] 303 Taxman 335 (SC)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Shares at premium-Valuation of shares Discounted cash flow method Determination of fair market value of shares under rule 11UA-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 56(2)(viib), R. 11UA]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the Tribunal had after considering the provisions contained in section 56(2)(viib) and rule 11UA(2) of the Income-tax Rules, 1962 had held that according to this rule the fair market value of the shares should be the value determined under the prescribed formula or according to the discounted cash flow method which was at the option of the assessee. Therefore, the discounted cash flow method adopted by the assessee for determining the fair market value of the shares under rule 11UA(2) did not require any interference, and the additions made under section 56(2)(viib) were not sustainable in law. No question of law arose.(AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Surana Metacast (India) Pvt. Ltd.(2025) 482 ITR 942 (Guj)(HC)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Share premium-DCF method-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. [S. 56(2)(viib), R 11UA(2), 260A]

Assessee-company received substantial amount as share premium on issue of equity shares. Assessee submitted valuation report issued by a CA using DCF method of valuation. The Assessing Officer rejected said valuation report and made addition under section 56(2)(viib). On appeal the Tribunal held that valuation report was rejected based on objective satisfaction and not based on detailed examination and valuation done by assessee could not be rejected without recording any finding to contrary by lower authorities. On appeal, the High Court held that since Tribunal had construed subject provision keeping in view fair market value of shares in question and not premium amount and fair market value had been arrived at by assessee by adopting one of statutorily designated methods in terms of rule 11UA(2). Order of Tribunal affirmed.(AY. 2013-14)

PCIT, Central v. Waterline Hotels (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 487 (Karn)(HC)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Issue of shares at premium-Valuation of unquoted shares-DCF method-FMV determined on basis of expert valuation report cannot be rejected merely due to general disclaimers-Valuation under DCF method permissible under Rule 11UA-Assessee's substantiated valuation to be accepted-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 56(2)(viib), R. 11UA]

The assessee issued shares at premium and determined the fair market value (FMV) of unquoted equity shares on the basis of a valuation report adopting the Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) method as prescribed under Rule 11UA(2)(b). The Assessing Officer rejected the valuation mainly on the ground that the report contained disclaimers and determined a negative value under an alternative computation. The Tribunal held that the assessee had duly substantiated the FMV through an expert valuation report valuing shares at Rs. 2,771.65 per share and that general disclaimers commonly forming part of valuation reports could not be a ground for rejection in absence of any material defect in data or methodology. The High Court held that Explanation to section 56(2)(viib) permits adoption of a prescribed method or a value substantiated to the satisfaction of the Assessing Officer and once the assessee substantiates a higher valuation, the same is required to be accepted. The DCF method being one of the recognised methods under Rule 11UA, valuation of investment in subsidiary shares on that basis was permissible and no substantial question of law arises. (AY. 2016-17)

PCIT v. A.H. Multisoft (P) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 347 / 346 CTR 233 / 252 DTR 431 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Capital gains-Agricultural land-Interest on enhanced compensation for acquisition of land-Interest on delayed payment under the Land Acquisition Act partakes the character of compensation-Eligible for exemption u/s 10(37) where land is agricultural-Not "interest" u/s 2(28A), hence S. 56 not attracted. [S. 2(28A), 10(37), 45, 56(2)(viii), 145, Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S. 28, 34, Art. 300A]

On appeal the High Court held that where an assessee receives interest on delayed payment of compensation or enhanced compensation under the Land Acquisition Act, such interest (whether awarded u/s 28 or u/s 34) is not in the nature of "interest" as defined in S. 2(28A), but is an accretion to the principal compensation itself, arising from the constitutional obligation to pay full compensation under Art. 300A. Accordingly, such interest must be treated as part of the compensation and assessed under the head "Capital gains" and not as "Income from other sources" u/s 56. Consequently, the interest component will also enjoy the benefit of exemption u/s 10(37) where the land compulsorily acquired is agricultural land. The applicability of S. 56(2)(viii) depends on whether, in the facts, the interest is distinct from compensation; where it is only compensatory for delayed payment, S. 56 is not attracted. Referred, Sundar v. UOI (2001) 7 SCC 211.

Anvar Ali Poolakkodan v. ITO (2025) 344 CTR 551 / 304 Taxman 461 (Ker)(HC)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Amendment with effect from 1-4-2010-Interest on enhanced compensation and compulsory acquisition of agricultural land assessable as income from other sources in A. Y. 2016-2017-Order of the Tribunal set aside. [S. 56(2)(viii), 145B, 260A, Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S. 28]

Section 56 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, was amended by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2009 (2009) 315 ITR (St) 60, which introduced section 56(2)(viii) with effect from 1 April 2010. A conjoint reading of sections 56(2)(viii) and 145B makes clear that income received by way of interest on compensation or enhanced compensation is chargeable to tax under the head "Income from other sources." The 2010 amendment was a deliberate departure by the Legislature from the earlier position and must be given effect. Therefore, interest under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, paid on enhanced compensation for compulsory acquisition of agricultural land, is income from other sources under section 56(2)(viii) and is separable from the enhanced compensation. The Tribunal's reliance on CIT v. Ghanshyam (HUF) (2009) 315 ITR 1(SC) decided before the 2010 amendment, was unsustainable in the facts of the present case. Order of Tribunal set aside. Order of Assessing Officer affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

PCIT v. Inderjit Singh Sodhi (HUF) [2024] 161 taxmann.com 301 / (2025) 475 ITR 294 /344 CTR 670 / 245 DTR 262 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Capital or revenue receipt-Capital work in progress-Interest earned prior to commencement of business on funds received in form of share capital for specific purpose of acquisition of coal mines-Part of capital cost and to be treated as capital work-in-progress.[S. 4, 57(iii), 260A]

The assessee a joint-venture company formed for the purposes of ensuring adequate and dependable coal supply. The assessee received certain funds from its promoter companies for a specific purpose of acquiring and developing coal mines overseas. During the negotiation period the funds were kept in short term fixed deposits yielding interest income. The AO treated the interest income as income from other sources. The Tribunal allowed the claim. On appeal, dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that the funds were received and earmarked for the purposes of the acquisition of a coal mine overseas. Thus, the interest received on borrowed funds was a part of the capital cost and was required to be capitalized as capital work-in-progress.(AY. 2012-13)

PCIT v. International Coal Ventures Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 472 ITR 307 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Immovable property-Stamp duty valuation to be adopted as on date of allotment-Addition deleted.[S. 56(2)(vii)(b)]

The assessee entered into an agreement with a builder and received allotment of a flat in the financial year 2009-10, while registration was completed in the financial year 2017-18. The Assessing Officer adopted the stamp duty valuation as on the date of registration and made an addition under section 56(2)(vii)(b). The Tribunal held that, since the allotment letter had been issued and consideration was paid through banking channels, the relevant stamp duty valuation was that prevailing on the date of allotment. As there was no discrepancy in the purchase consideration declared by the assessee, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18).

Sudha Agrawal v. ITO (2025) 175 taxmann.com 64 / 234 TTJ 140 (UO) (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Issue of shares at premium-Fair Market Value-Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) Method-Amendment to valuation rules-Applicable to pending proceedings-Addition was deleted. [S. 56(2)(viib), R.11UA (2)(b)]

The assessee issued shares at a premium and furnished a valuation report of a Chartered Accountant adopting the Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) Method for determining the fair market value of shares. The Assessing Officer rejected the valuation and made an addition under section 56(2)(viib) alleging that the shares were issued at a value exceeding their fair market value. Tribunal held that the amendment to Rule 11UA introducing the DCF Method is procedural in nature and is applicable to pending proceedings. Since the assessee had furnished a valid valuation report prepared by a Chartered Accountant adopting the prescribed DCF Method and there was no material to establish overvaluation of shares, the addition under section 56(2)(viib) was unsustainable and liable to be deleted.(AY.2013-14)

East Delhi Leasing (P.) Ltd. v. ITO [2025] 128 ITR 6 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Shares purchased for trading purposes-Stock in trade-Shares purchased for trading purposes, provisions of section 56(2)(viia) cannot be applied. [S. 56(2)(viia)]

Tribunal held that the "Stock-in-trade" is not subject to the rigours of the provisions of s. 56(2)(viia) and therefore, shares held as "stock-in-trade" in the regular course of business for trading purposes cannot be subjected to addition with the aid of the provisions of s. 56(2)(viia); since the assessee has been able to establish that it is also engaged in the business of investments and trading of shares and securities and purchased the shares under consideration for trading purposes in the normal course of business, which are shown as stock-in-trade in its financial statements, the addition made by the AO by invoking S. 56(2)(viia) is not sustainable. (AY.2017-18)

Utility Supply (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 601 /124 ITR 324 / 174 taxmann.com 250 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Difference between the stamp duty value as on the date of agreement and the agreement value of the flats-Reference to DVO-Issue is restored to the AO for de novo adjudication after seeking a valuation report from the DVO as per the provisions of the Act. [S.50C(2), 56(2)(vii)(b)]

Held that the Assessing Officer made addition under S. 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii) on account of the difference between the stamp duty value as on the date of agreement and the agreement value of the flats purchased by the assessee, without referring the valuation of the flats to the DVO despite specific request by the assessee to make such reference, this issue is restored to the AO for de novo adjudication after seeking a valuation report from the DVO as per the provisions of the Act. (AY. 2014-15)

Fakhruddin T. Malik v. ITO (2025) 235 TTJ 906 (SMC) (Mum)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Receipt of bonus shares-Provisions of s. 56(2)(vii)(c) are not attracted on receipt of bonus shares.[S.56(2)(vii)(c)]

Held that the provisions of s. 56(2)(vii)(c) are not attracted on receipt of bonus shares.(AY.2017-18)

Deepak Kothari v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 241 / 177 taxmann.com 219 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Issues of shares at premium-The valuation of share determined by the chartered accountant at Rs. 15.23 per share was held to be correct and the addition made by the AO under s. 56(2)(viib) was deleted. [S.56(2)(viib)]

Held that the assessee having furnished a certificate issued under R. 11UA by a chartered accountant certifying that the fair market value of its equity share as on 30th Sept., 2013 i.e., date of issue, was Rs. 15.23 per share as against the issue price of Rs. 15 (face value Rs. 10 plus premium Rs. 5), CIT(A) was justified in deleting the addition made by the AO under s. 56(2)(viib). (AY.2014-15)

ITO v. Somila Texfab (INDIA) (P) LTD. (2024) 237 TTJ 333 (Jodhpur)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Issue of shares at a premium-DCF method-Addition was deleted.[S.56(2)(vii), R.11UA]

Held that the Assessing Officer could not have rejected the DCF method adopted by the valuer and determined the value of shares based on the NAV under R. 11UA. The assessee-company issued shares at a premium to its promoters, and the promoters subsequently sold the shares to a foreign company at a much higher price. The AO has not brought on record any evidence to question the genuineness of the transaction; the addition made under S. 56(2)(viib) is not sustainable. (AY. 2017-18)

Ipsaa Holdings (P) LTD. v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 605 / 176 taxmann.com 823 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Fair market value of shares acquired by assessee from AE-The assessee purchased the shares of ETL at Rs. 14.30 per share, which is higher than its FMV-Even if the assessee has obtained the valuation report at a later date, as long as it is able to demonstrate that the FMV has been ascertained in accordance with R. 11UA(1)(c) based on audited balance sheet drawn up on the valuation date, said report cannot be rejected for being obtained post the date of transaction-CIT(A) was justified in deleting the addition made under s. 56(2)(x)[S.56(2)(x), R.11UA(1)(c)]

Held that even if the assessee has obtained the valuation report at a later date, as long as it is able to demonstrate that the FMV has been ascertained in accordance with r. 11UA(1)(c), based on the audited balance sheet drawn up on the valuation date, said report cannot be rejected for being obtained post the date of transaction; Revenue was empowered to ascertain the FMV of shares only in accordance with the specific and sole method as prescribed in r. 11UA(1)(c) and could not apply any alternate methodology, viz., external comparable method; while arriving at the FMV of unquoted shares held by the company IG3, the resultant negative figure arising on account of excess of liabilities over the value of assets cannot be ignored; loan granted to other companies cannot be considered as amount set apart as dividend, having regard to the language used in r. 11UA(1)(c); FMV of shares of IG3 of Rs. 11.989 per share computed by the assessee was justified; further, ETL held shares of IG3 which have been valued by the assessee at Rs. 11.989 per share, and consequently, the FMV of ETL shares computed by the assessee at Rs. 13.41 per share is justified. Addition was deleted. (AY.2021-22)

DCIT v. Aathmika Holdings (P) Ltd. (2025) 237 TTJ 943 / 176 taxmann.com 1001 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from Other Sources-Share Premium-DCF Method-Unrealistic and unverified projections; ignored the ICAI Technical Guide-addition was affirmed. [S. 56(2)(viib), R.11UA (2)(b)]

Where the valuation report adopting the DCF method was based on unrealistic and unverified projections, ignored the ICAI Technical Guide on Share Valuation and substantially differed from the company's actual financial performance, the Assessing Officer was justified in rejecting the DCF valuation and adopting the NAV method. Consequently, the addition under section 56(2)(viib) in respect of excessive share premium was upheld. (AY. 2015-16)

Kataria Snack Pellets (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 238 TTJ 113 (Rajkot)(Trib.).

S. 56 : Income from Other Sources-Interest on enhanced compensation under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act-Taxable on a receipt basis. The amended provisions constitute a complete code and prevail over the character assigned to such receipts under the Land Acquisition Act or under judicial precedents rendered under the pre-amendment law. [S 2(28A), 14, 45(5), 56(2)(viii),145B(1), Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S. 28]

The assessee contended that interest received under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act formed part of compensation and was not taxable as income from other sources. The Tribunal held that with effect from 1-4-2010, Parliament introduced a specific charging mechanism under sections 56(2)(viii) and 145B(1), mandating that interest on compensation or enhanced compensation is taxable under the head "Income from Other Sources" on a receipt basis. The amended provisions constitute a complete code and prevail over the character assigned to such receipts under the Land Acquisition Act or under judicial precedents rendered under the pre-amendment law. Accordingly, interest received under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act was held taxable under section 56(2)(viii). (AY. 2012-13 to 2015-16, 2017-18, 2018-19, 2020-21 & 2023-24)

Ajay Kumar & Ors. v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 953 (Chd.)(Trib.)
ITO v. Nachhatar Singh v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 953 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Income-Search and seizure-Fraudulent Income-tax refunds obtained through bogus challans-Income invested in shares and deposits-Assessee having tangible control and dominion over funds-Taxable on accrual, not merely on receipt-Recovery or repayment in subsequent years cannot negate taxability in year of accrual-Deduction for recovery/repayment not allowable under section 57-Fraudulent income taxable under "Income from other sources-Offences and prosecution-Execution of false challans with intent to defraud Income-tax Department-Revenue authorities directed to take deterrent action permitted by law. [" [S.2(24), 57, 132, 277, Indian Penal Code, 1860, S. 177, 193, 196, 199]

Following a search under section 132 on the assessee, a CA, incriminating documents revealed that he had fraudulently obtained Income-tax refunds of his clients using bogus challans and invested the proceeds in shares and deposits in his family's HUF and other accounts, additions for which were confirmed by CIT(A) even after the matter was restored by the Tribunal for fresh consideration, rejecting the assessee's claim that recovery of the refund money by the Government in subsequent years should be allowed as a deduction. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had accepted the fraudulent activity and exercised tangible control and dominion over the funds, leveraging them for personal economic gains, the income was taxable in the year of accrual under the inclusive definition of income in section 2(24), which does not distinguish between legal and illegal earnings, and that subsequent recovery or restitution of the fraudulent income did not negate its taxability for the year of accrual under the doctrine of real income; the claim for deduction of the recovered amount failed to satisfy the conditions under section 57, since restitution of wrongful gains was not an expense incurred wholly and exclusively for earning income, and allowing such deduction would incentivise fraud, and accordingly the fraudulent income was upheld as taxable under "Income from other sources". The Tribunal further directed the Revenue authorities to take appropriate deterrent action as permitted by law against such fraudulent claims defrauding the Income-tax Department (AY. 1992-93, 1993-94)

Mukesh Rasiklal Shah v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 536(Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Hoarding charges-Not income from house property. [S. 22]

The assessee received consideration under an agreement permitting installation of an advertisement hoarding on the terrace. The Tribunal held that the payment was for permitting display of a hoarding and not for letting out the terrace or any part of the building. The receipts were therefore assessable as "Income from other sources" and not as "Income from house property". (AY. 2017-18).

Gowri Shankar Gupta v. ITO (2025) 127 ITR 595 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Purchase of shares-Value adopted by assessee higher than fair market value-Provision not attracted. [S. 56(2)(viib), [S.92C, R. 11UA]

The Revenue sought to invoke section 56(2)(viia) on the purchase of shares by the assessee. The Tribunal held that the value adopted by the assessee was higher than the fair market value determined under Rule 11UA and, therefore, the provisions of section 56(2)(viia) were not attracted. The addition was directed to be deleted. (AY. 2017-18).

TPG Growth II Markets Pte. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 368 / (2025) 129 ITR 175 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Capital gains-Income from other sources-Sale of immovable property-Difference between sale consideration and stamp duty value less than ten per cent.-No addition.[S.50C, 56(2)(x)]

The Assessing Officer made an addition under section 56(2)(x) on the difference between the sale consideration of two flats and the stamp duty value. The Tribunal held that the variation between the declared consideration and the value adopted under section 50C was within the statutory tolerance limit of 10 per cent. Consequently, section 56(2)(x) had no application and the addition was deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Nalanda Builders (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 346 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Purchase of immovable property-Amendment effective from 2014-Not applicable retrospectively.[S. 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii)]

The assessee purchased agricultural land in August 2012 for consideration substantially lower than the stamp duty value. The Assessing Officer invoked section 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii) and taxed the difference as income from other sources. The Tribunal held that the amendment bringing such transactions within the ambit of section 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii) came into force only from 2014 and could not be applied retrospectively to a transaction undertaken in financial year 2012-13. The addition was therefore deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Vimla Tripathi v. ITO (2025) 122 ITR 312 / 170 taxmann.com 507 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Shares held as stock-in-trade-Purchase below fair market value-Provision not applicable.[S. 2(14), 56(2)(vii) R. 11UA]

The assessee, engaged in share trading and investment, purchased shares below their fair market value and held them as stock-in-trade. The Tribunal held that section 56(2)(vii) was enacted as an anti-abuse provision to curb laundering of unaccounted income and applies only to shares constituting capital assets. Shares held as stock-in-trade in the ordinary course of business fall outside its ambit. Since the Department had accepted similar treatment in the case of the assessee's sister concern and there was no allegation of money laundering, the addition under section 56(2)(viia) was deleted. (AY. 2017-18).

Utility Supply (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 324 / 174 taxmann.com 250 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Share premium-Fair market value-Valuation report not examined by Assessing Officer-Matter remanded. [S.56(2)(viib), R. 11UA]

The Assessing Officer determined the fair market value of shares solely on the basis of the book value method and treated the excess share premium received by the assessee as taxable under section 56(2)(viib). Before the Commissioner (Appeals), the assessee produced a valuation report based on the Discounted Cash Flow method, which was rejected without giving the assessee an opportunity to explain or substantiate the report. The Tribunal held that neither the Assessing Officer nor the Commissioner (Appeals) had objectively examined the valuation report. The matter was therefore restored to the Assessing Officer for de novo adjudication after providing adequate opportunity to the assessee. (AY. 2014-15).

Tajshree Autowheels (P.) Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 198 / 177 taxmann.com 210 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Property received as a gift from step-sister-Step-sister and step-brother fall within the definition of 'relative' and therefore, they are to be treated as brother and sister for S. 56(2)(vii) and, consequently, property received by a stepbrother from a stepsister by way of gift cannot be taxed under s. 56(2)(vii)(b). [S.2(15B), 56(2)(viib), Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934, S. 45S, Companies Act, 2013, S.2(77)]

Tribunal held that, S.. 2(15B) of the IT Act, 1961 defines the word "child". It states that "any relation to an individual includes a stepchild and an adopted child of that individual"; thus, a stepchild has been treated as a child for the purpose of the IT Act, and if this analogy is taken into consideration, then stepbrother and stepsister should also be reckoned as brother and sister. Further, Section 45S of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 provides the list of relatives which includes "step brother and step sister". Similarly, s. 2(77) of the Companies Act, 2013 includes stepbrother and step-sister within the meaning of the term "relative". According to Black's Law Dictionary, "relative" includes persons connected by ties of affinity as well as consanguinity and when used with a restrictive meaning, refers to those only who are connected by blood. Individuals related by affinity also include individuals in a step or adoptive relationship. Thus, the term "relative" would also include "stepbrother and stepsister". Affinity is of three kinds : (1) Direct, that subsists between the husband and his wife's relations by blood or between the wife and her husband's relations by blood; (2) Secondary, that subsists between the husband and his wife's relations by marriage; and (3) Collateral, that subsists between the husband and the relations of his wife's relations. Accordingly, step sister and step brother are part of the family by affinity and in common sense, they are related to each other as brother and sister. As per the Dictionary meaning, the term "relative" includes a person related by affinity, which means the connection existing in consequence of marriage between each of the married persons and the kindred of the other. If the aforesaid Dictionary meaning is to be referred to and relied upon, then the term "relative" would include stepbrother and stepsister by affinity. If the term "brother and sister of the individual" has not been defined under the IT Act, the meaning defined in common law has to be adopted and in the absence of any other negative covenant under the Act, brother and sister should also include step-brother and step-sister who, by virtue of the marriage of their parents, have become brother and sister. Accordingly, a gift given by a step-sister to a step-brother falls within the definition of 'relative', that is, they are to be treated as brother and sister as per s. 56(2)(vii) and consequently, property received by a step-brother from a step-sister by way of gift cannot be taxed under s. 56(2). Accordingly, the claim of the assessee that the gift received from his stepsister is exempt from being taxed as income from other sources is accepted and accordingly, the addition made by the AO is deleted. (AY. 2016-17)

Rabin Arup Mukerjee v. ITO (IT) (2025) 234 TTJ 820/ 172 taxmann.com 855 / 2026] 134 ITR 413 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Interest-Highway project-Temporary parking of such funds in short-term deposits, interest earned thereon being inextricably linked with setting up of infrastructure facility was capital in nature and to be reduced from capital work-in-progress.[S. 4, 37(1)]

Assessee-company, engaged in development of Chenani-Nashri Tunnel project on BOT basis, had parked borrowed funds and promoter's contribution temporarily in short-term fixed deposits pending utilisation for construction of project. Assessee capitalised interest earned on such deposits and reduced the same from the cost of capital work-in-progress. Assessing Officer treated said interest as taxable under head 'Income from other sources'. CIT(A) held that, since entire funds were raised for execution of project and temporary parking of funds was only to ensure liquidity and reduce overall project cost, interest earned thereon was inextricably linked with setting up of infrastructure facility and such interest, being capital in nature, had to be reduced from capital work-in-progress and could not be brought to tax under head 'Income from other sources'. On appeal, the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). (AY. 2012-13)

ACIT v. Chenani Nashri Tunnelway Ltd. (2025) 215 ITD 197 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Income from other sources-Shares at premium-Cash flow method-Matter was to be restored to the file of CIT(A) for fresh adjudication.[S.56(2)(viib)]

Assessee-company issued shares at a premium. Assessing Officer made an addition under section 56(2)(viib) on the ground that shares were issued at an exorbitant premium. CIT(A) deleted the additions. On appeal, the Tribunal held that as per the first valuation certificate, fair market value was Rs. 50,176, and in the second valuation certificate, fair market value per share was Rs. 1.61 lakhs. Since Wipro Enterprises Ltd was neither a venture capital nor a SEBI-registered fund very basis of granting of relief was incorrect. Tribunal held that since the assessee had furnished the necessary details and documentary evidence showing that the source of investment was duly explained and shares were issued at fair market value determined by a registered valuer under the discounted cash flow method, the matter was to be restored to the file of CIT(A) for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2021-22)

ACIT, Central Circle. v. Sanghvi Beauty and Technologies (P.) Ltd. (2025) 215 ITD 588 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Gift-Brother-in-law (spouse of his sister)-Through NRE account-Source of amount being from a relative-Amount was not liable to be included in the total income of assessee.[S. 56(2)(x)]

Assessee received a gift from his brother-in-law (spouse of his sister) through an NRE account. Assessing Officer held that the gift deed was not made in India but in the USA and the deed also did not bear the signature of the recipient, and, thus, he held that since no proper gift deed was made, the amount was liable to be assessed as 'income from other sources. Tribunal held that money had been received through a banking channel. Tribunal held that section 56 does not require a valid gift deed, but it is provided in the section itself that if an amount is received from a relative as defined therein, the same is not liable to be assessed under section 56.

Since the source of the amount was from a relative was not in question, the amount was not liable to be included in the total income of the assessee. Since the necessary documentary evidence in support of the claim that the amount was received from a relative was furnished by the assessee, there was no occasion to insist on a gift deed for excluding the amount received from the brother-in-law. The addition made by the Assessing Officer was deleted. (AY. 2012-13)

Deb Prasanna Choudhury. v. ADIT (2025) 215 ITD 675 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Share premium-valuation of unquoted shares-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. [S.56(2), (viib), R. 11UA]

Assessing Officer rejected the valuation of unquoted shares held by the assessee and made an addition under section 56(2)(viib) of the Act. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had taken FMV valuation relying upon data available in audited/ published financials of respective corporate entities, the value of unquoted equity shares investment held by the assessee had been correctly calculated. Order of CIT (A) is affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

ITO v. Ninecube Technologies (P.) Ltd. (2025) 214 ITD 276 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Fixed deposit with bank-Assessable as income from other sources-Interest expenditure-, Deduction under section 57(iii) was to be allowed after examining the nexus of the same with interest income. [S 57 (iii)]

Held that the assessee earned interest income and other income on funds parked as fixed deposits with banks, since there was no material available on record to prove that the granting of advances/loans to sister concerns and maintaining deposits in the bank was for the purpose of business, said income could only be treated as income from other sources. Since assessee had also debited interest expenditure/finance costs to its profit and loss account, deduction of the same under section 57(iii) was to be allowed after examining the nexus of the same with interest income. (AY. 2017-18)

Shapoorji Pallonji Energy (Gujarat) (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 297 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Agricultural land-Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Agricultural land is also covered under section 56 (2)(x)-When the value of land is disputed, the Assessing Officer ought to have referred the matter to the Departmental Valuation Officer (DVO)-Matter remanded. [S.2(14) 50C(2), 56(2)(10)]

Tribunal held that since the value of the property was disputed, the Assessing Officer had to make a reference to DVO for the purpose of valuing the same; Agricultural land cannot be taken out of the purview of section 56(2)(x). Matter remanded. (AY. 2018-19)

Clayking Minerals LLP v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 1 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Capital gains-Acquisition of agricultural land-Wrongly offered as income from other sources-Interest on enhanced compensation-Matter remanded to decide in accordance with law. [S. 10(37), 45, 143(1), Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S, 28, 34]

Due to a clerical mistake, enhanced compensation received by assessee on account of compulsory acquisition of agricultural land was reduced under the head 'other sources' instead of the correct head 'exempt', consequently, the Assessing Officer added the same to assessee's income. On appeal, the Tribunal remanded the matter to Assessing Officer to reduce the amount of the aforesaid compensation from the total income of the assessee. As regards interest on compensation, also required factual verification; the issue was restored to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2018-19)

Centum Finance Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 269 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Valuation of shares-Consideration shown was Rs 1.-Lock-in-Lowest price traded was Rs 22.88-Mere fact that shares were in lock-in was not sufficient to come to the conclusion that market value shall be determined in a manner similar to that of unquoted shares, i.e. in accordance with rule 11UA-Matter remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer. [R.11UA(1)(c) (b)]

Assessee purchased shares of a company for a total consideration of Rs. 1. Assessing Officer held that shares were traded on the stock exchange and lowest price traded was Rs. 22.88 per share; thus, FMV on the date of transfer was Rs. 22.88 per share. Accordingly, he made an addition. On appeal, the assessee explained that shares purchased by it were under lock-in as per requirements of SEBI Regulations 2009; hence, such shares did not qualify as quoted shares as defined under rule 11U and, therefore, shares were required to be valued as per rule 11UA(1)(c)(b). As per the Valuation Report, the FMV of shares purchased by the assessee was negative. CIT(A) deleted the additions. On appeal, the Tribunal held that nowhere was it emanating from the assessment order or the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) that the period of lock-in of shares purchased by the assessee was discussed. Further, the class of shares purchased by the assessee i.e. shares purchased by assessee were also listed on the stock exchange was also not emanate from the order. The mere fact that shares were in lock-in was not sufficient to come to the conclusion that market value shall be determined in a manner similar to that of unquoted shares i.e. in accordance with rule 11UA. Assessing Officer should examine the relevance and impact of the issuance of convertible warrants to the outgoing promoter on the FMV of shares. Accordingly, the issue was restored to the Assessing Officer for de novo assessment. (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Ajay Singh. (2025) 213 ITD 386 (Delhi) (Trib)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Relinquishment of rights over land-Symbolic possession-Failure to submit details-Amount received assessable as income from other sources and not as capital gains-Insurance refund-Amount received on surrender of life insurance policy-Addition cannot be made as unexplained money-Addition was deleted.[S.2(14), 45, 68]

Assessee claimed that it entered into an agreement to acquire land in year 1992-93. However, registration of the sale deed could not be made. During the relevant assessment year, said housing society was in process to sell same land on which he had symbolic possession and received certain money to relinquish title over such land. Assessee offered said amount as long-term capital gain. Assessing Officer treated the same as income from other sources on the ground that assessee was not a property developer, and there was no transfer of property to assessee. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had not submitted any details in the form of a settlement agreement or deed of relinquishment of right in property, the amount received by the assessee could not be treated as long-term capital gain but as income from other sources as treated by the Assessing Officer. As regards the amount received as a refund for the surrender of a life insurance policy and the relevant details of the amount received from the surrender of the policy, as well as the earlier payment made to the insurance company, were submitted to the revenue authorities, such exempt income could not be treated as unexplained money under section 68 (AY. 2016-17)

Hiren Rameshbhai Patel. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 392 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Interest on compensation-Interest received on compensation/enhanced compensation on acquisition of land by State Government shall be considered as income from other sources and shall be exigible to income tax.

Assessee received compensation of Rs. 1.88 crores in respect of its agricultural land acquired by State Government. Out of said amount, Rs. 85.24 lakhs was enhanced compensation and Rs. 1.03 crores was interest on such enhanced compensation. Assessee claimed that entire interest received of Rs. 1.03 crores was to be treated as exempt. CIT(A) allowed the appeal of the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that the interest received on compensation/enhanced compensation shall be considered as income from other sources and shall be exigible to income tax. Accordingly, the order of CIT(A) was set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

ITO v. Gurdev Singh. (2025) 213 ITD 654 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Gift of management system to managing trustee-Personal gifts received by trustee has to be considered in individual hands of the donee in her assessment and not in the hands of the trust. [S. 56(2)(x)(a), 132, 153A]

During a search conducted under section 132 upon assessee-trust, a 'gift management system' was seized wherein personal gifts received by the managing trustee from various persons during various programs conducted by the trust were recorded. Assessing Officer made an addition of Rs. 16.39 lakhs, being the aggregate of personal gifts received by the managing trustee as per the 'gift management system'. On appeal, CIT(A) deleted the addition made by the Assessing Officer, except Rs. 19,900 being gifts received by the managing trustee which were not offered to tax. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the name of the donee was specifically mentioned in the 'gift management system', personal gifts received were to be considered in the individual hands of the donee in her assessment and not in the hands of the trust. Since the entire cash gifts received by the donee were less than Rs.50,000, the same were not taxable in her hands. (AY. 2019-20 to 2021-22)

Jesus Calls. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 681 (Chennai) (Trib.)

56: Income from Other Sources-Stamp duty valuation-Difference between agreement date and registration date-Allotment letter treated as "agreement"-Part consideration paid through banking channel before agreement-Stamp duty valuation to be adopted as on date of allotment-Addition deleted.[S. 50C,56(2)(vii)(b).]

Where the assessee purchased a flat for ₹1,10,00,000 and the AO made an addition of ₹59,87,000 under section 56(2)(vii)(b) by adopting the stamp duty valuation as on 30-03-2017, the CIT(A) upheld the addition holding that no evidence was furnished for adopting earlier valuation; however, before the Tribunal the assessee established that an allotment letter dated 29-11-2012 had been issued and part of the consideration was paid through banking channels in 2011-12, satisfying the statutory condition for applying the first proviso to section 56(2)(vii)(b). The Tribunal held that once an agreement (allotment letter) exists and consideration is paid through non-cash modes prior to the agreement date, the stamp duty value relevant to the year of agreement (F.Y. 2012-13) must be adopted. Since the registered valuer's report contemporaneous to 2012-13 reflected the same consideration of ₹1,10,00,000, no difference subsisted, and the addition was unsustainable. The Tribunal deleted the addition and remanded the matter to the AO only for the limited purpose of recomputation applying valuation as on the agreement year, after providing opportunity of hearing. (ITA No. 6045/Mum/2025, Order dated 27-11-2025.) (AY.2017-18)

Awadhnarayan Bhagwanta Singh v. ITO (Mum)(Trib)
www.itatonline.org

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Property received for inadequate consideration-Difference between agreement value and stamp duty value-Oral agreement supported by contemporaneous evidence-Agreement fixing the consideration and does not mandatorily require a written agreement-Change in stamp duty valuation method-Addition not sustainable-No binding precedent-Tribunal held that decision is based the facts and circumstances unique to assessee's case and therefore the same cannot be applied as precedent in any other case. [S. 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii), 69B]

The assessee purchased a property for ₹3.15 crore, whereas the stamp duty valuation on the date of registration (31-12-2015) was ₹4.12 crore. The Assessing Officer treated the difference as unexplained investment u/s 69B, while the CIT(A) upheld the addition u/s 56(2)(vii)(b) holding that the benefit of the proviso could not be extended in the absence of a written agreement. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had entered into an oral agreement with the sellers in May 2015 and paid advances of ₹54 lakh and ₹1.61 crore after deducting TDS, duly reflected in Form 26QB mentioning the full consideration of ₹3.15 crore. The bank loan application and affidavits of the sellers also corroborated the consideration agreed. The Tribunal observed that the increase in stamp duty value between May and December 2015 was only on account of a change in the method of valuation introduced by Circular dated 04-11-2015 by the Stamp Authorities, and not due to any real appreciation in the market value. Since the ready reckoner rate per sq. metre remained unchanged throughout the year, the difference was held to be notional. It was further held that the proviso to section 56(2)(vii)(b) speaks of an "agreement fixing the consideration" and does not mandatorily require a written agreement. On the facts, the oral agreement stood substantiated by documentary evidence. Accordingly, the addition u/s 56(2)(vii)(b) was deleted. Tribunal observed that the decision is based on the facts and circumstances unique to assessee's case and therefore the same cannot be applied as precedent in any other case. (ITA No. 4154/Mum/2025, dt. 02-09-2025)(AY. 2016-17)

Sharad Sevantilal Shah v. ITO (Mum)(Trib.) www.itatonline.org

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Immovable property-Purchase consideration-DVO valuation-Difference of 7% within 10% safe harbour-Amendment by Finance Act, 2020 curative and retrospective-Addition deleted.[S. 50C, 56(2)(x)(b)(B)]

The assessee, an individual, purchased a property for ₹60,00,000/-. The District Valuation Officer (DVO) valued the property at ₹64,84,000/-, resulting in a difference of ₹4,84,000/-. The Assessing Officer treated the difference as income under section 56(2)(x) of the Act and made an addition. The CIT(A) upheld the addition based on the DVO's valuation. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the difference between the purchase consideration and DVO valuation was about 7%, which fell within the 10% tolerance limit introduced by Finance Act, 2020. Relying on judicial precedents, including the principle laid down by the Supreme Court in CIT v. Alom Enterprise Ltd. (2009) 185 Taxman 416/ 319 ITR 306 (SC), the Tribunal held that the amendment was curative and remedial in nature, and hence applicable retrospectively. As the difference was within the permissible limit, no addition could be sustained. Addition of ₹4,84,000 deleted. Appeal allowed in favour of assessee. Referred, NFAC Delhi v. NRB Developers [2025] 211 ITD 728 (Mum) (Trib.), Saggarr Parimmal v. ITO [2025] 174 taxmann.com 805 (Mum)(Trib.) Shri Ashutosh Sinha v. ITO, ITA No. 643/Mum/2023, dated 29-8-2023, (Mum) (Trib.) (ITA No. 4425/Mum/2025 dt. 25-8-2025) (AY 2018-19)

Ramesh Dnyandeo Dhuri v. ITO (SMC)(Mum)(Trib),
www.itatonline.org

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Purchase of land along with other co-owners-Difference between fair market value and purchase consideration was approximately 10 per cent of purchase consideration of property-Addition was deleted. [S.56(2)(x)]

Assessee purchased a parcel of land along with other co-owners for total consideration of Rs. 2.01 crores. Stamp duty value of same was found to be of Rs. 3.32 crores. Assessing Officer invoked provisions of section 56(2)(x) and made an addition of difference, to extent of assessee's holdings in said land, which tantamounted to 47.50 per cent of total land. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that in case of third co-owner of land itself had deleted addition made under section

56(2)(x) on ground that difference between fair market value and purchase consideration was approximately 10 per cent of purchase consideration of property which was not a material difference. On facts addition was deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

Arvindkumar Jagjivandas Thakkar. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 504 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Sale of immoveable property-Sale consideration and stamp value-Provisions is applicable to purchaser and not seller-Matter is remanded back to Assessing Officer.[S. 56(2)(x)]

Assessee sold an immovable property for certain consideration. Assessing Officer held that stamp duty value was higher than sale consideration. He made addition on account of difference in stamp duty value and sale consideration of said property under section 56(2)(x). CIT(A) sustained the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had not given any finding on this issue and Commissioner (Appeals) had merely sustained addition made by Assessing Officer without giving any finding regarding applicability of said provisions. Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2017-18)

Latika Sakharam Patil. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 89 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Purchase of immovable property-Sale agreement dated 1-6-2012 and received possession on same day-Documents were registered on 27-6-2013-Provision was inserted in statute with effect from 1-4-2014-Addition is deleted [S. 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii)]

Assessee purchased an immovable property vide sale agreement dated 1-6-2012 and received possession on same day by executing documents which were registered on 27-6-2013. The AO held that the assessee had paid stamp duty on value adopted for stamp duty purpose, hence, difference of purchase consideration and market value was proposed to be treated as income from other sources by invoking provisions of section 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii) of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since provisions of section 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii) have been inserted in statute with effect from 1-4-2014 and not before that while assessee had already executed agreement during assessment year 2013-14 itself, provisions of section 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii) were not applicable to said transaction per se. Addition is deleted.(AY. 2014-15)

Nitin Narayan Kadamdhad. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 199 (Nagpur) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Part consideration was paid as per allotment letter-Allotment of new flat was made in continuation of replacing of earlier allotment letter-Addition is deleted.[S. 56(2)(x)]

Assessee purchased property. Assessing Officer held that stamp value of said property was higher than purchase price. He made addition of difference of such amount to assessee's total income under section 56(2)(x) of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee demonstrated from relevant supporting material that allotment of new flat had been made to assessee in continuation of replacing of earlier allotment which was changed because of unavoidable circumstances of change in Development Control Regulation, as per proviso to section 56(2)(x) first allotment letter was to be considered as agreement to sell. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

Pinstripe Properties (P.) Ltd. v. Dy.CIT (2025) 212 ITD 223 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Former Cricketer-Revised return-Amount shown as taxable in the return-Return is accepted-Delay of 1993 days in filing the appeal before CIT(A) is condoned-One-time benefit received by assessee, a former cricketer, from BCCI in recognition of his services to Indian cricket-Exempt under section 56(2)(vii)-BCCI is a trust registered under section 12AA of the Act. [S. 12AA, 56 (2)(vii), 143(1), Art. 265]

Assessee, a former cricketer, had offered to tax a sum received from BCCI as one-time benefit in recognition of his services to Indian cricket. Subsequently, assessee was advised that said one-time benefit received from BCCI was exempt under section 56(2)(vii) of the Act. The assessee filed an appeal before CIT(A) which was delayed by 1993 days. CIT(A) refused to condone the delay. On appeal the Tribunal condoned the delay and held that one-time benefit received from BCCI in recognition of services would be eligible for exemption under section 56(2)(vii) as BCCI is a trust or institution registered under section 12AA. The Tribunal also held that since assessee had voluntarily come forward to offer one-time benefit received from BCCI to tax in return of income, said receipt could not be brought to tax merely because assessee had offered erroneously in return of income. (AY. 2013-14)

Kapil Dev Nikhanj. v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 191//235 TTJ 717 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Share premium-Valuation under DCF method-AO cannot substitute or reject valuation done by a prescribed valuer without authority-Projection variations with actuals cannot be a ground to disregard valuation-Deletion of addition justified. [S. 56(2)(viib), 11UA(2)(b)]

The assessee issued shares at a premium of ₹10 per share based on a Chartered Accountant's valuation using the DCF method as prescribed under Rule 11UA(2)(b). The AO rejected the valuation citing unrealistic projections and absence of tangible assets, and added the premium to income u/s 56(2)(viib). The CIT(A) noted that in AY 2018-19, the same valuer's report was accepted by the department and deleted the addition. The Tribunal, following Cinestaan Entertainment (P.) Ltd. v. ITO [2019] 106 taxmann.com 300 (Delhi)(Trib) affirmed in PCIT v. Cinestaan

Entertainment (P.) Ltd.[2021] 433 ITR [2021] 433 ITR 82 (Delhi)(HC), held that where a recognised method prescribed in law is adopted by a qualified valuer, the AO cannot substitute his own valuation or reject it merely because projections differ from actual results. Variations are inherent in DCF valuation, which is based on reasonable estimates. Deletion of addition upheld. (AYs 2016-17, 2017-18) (ITA Nos. 3083-3084/Mum/2025, dt. 11-8-2025)

Max Hospitals and Allied Services Ltd. v. DCIT, (Mum)(Trib)www.itatonline.org

S. 56: Income from other sources-Share premium received by a private company-DCF Method is a valid method under rule 11UA-No defects pointed out in valuation report-Addition is deleted. [S. 56(2)(viib), R.11UA]

Assessee-company issued 1,70,000 shares at a face value of Rs.10 per share at a premium of Rs.20 per share, raising a total capital of Rs.51,00,000 (Rs.17,00,000 as share capital + Rs.34,00,000 as share premium). AO invoked section 56(2)(viib) and treated the entire amount of Rs.51,00,000 as 'Income from other sources', holding that assessee did not carry out any active business during the year. The valuation report submitted by assessee was not in accordance with rule 11UA, as it relied on the Adjusted Net Asset Method and Future Earnings Analysis, not prescribed under rule 11UA.DCF Method is a valid method under rule 11UA, and AO cannot reject it merely because it leads to a higher valuation. In the instant case, assessee submitted a CA-certified valuation report, which was neither doubted nor challenged by AO. AO erred in rejecting assessee's valuation report without pointing out any specific defects. Therefore, addition under section 56(2)(viib) made by AO, based on an incorrect interpretation of valuation rules, was deleted. [AY. 2015-16],

Patel Minerals Pvt Ltd v. ACIT [2025] 172 taxmann.com 287 / 121 ITR 45 (SN) (Jodhpur)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Issue of shares at premium-Merchant banker on the basis of DCF method-No valuation by DCF method at the time of issuance of shares-Valuation report was obtained in the course of assessment proceedings-The AO is justified in determining the fair market value of shares by applying R. 11UA(2) and making addition by invoking section 56(2)(vib) of the Act. [S. 56(2)(vib), R.11UA(2)]

Assessee issued shares at Rs. 150 per share including a premium of Rs. 140 per share. It produced value of the shares determined by the merchant banker on the basis of DCF method. AO rejected the valuation report on the ground that the assessee failed to produce supporting documents and it was prepared based on the discussion with the management of the company. No material was filed supporting the DCF method. CIT(A) affirmed the order. On appeal the Tribunal held that AO rightly adopted the method under R. 11UA(2) in determining the FMV of the unquoted shares at Rs. 63.47. Assessee obtained valuation of shares by DCF method only during the course of assessment proceedings in the year 2021 and there was no valuation by DCF method at the time of issuance of shares. Arguments of the Authorised Representative that option is left to the assessee to adopt any date i.e., the date of valuation report by merchant bankers for the purpose of sub-r. (2) of r. 11UA cannot be accepted in view of sub-r. (3) thereof. The AO was justified in invoking the provisions of s. 56(2) (viib) r/w r. 11UA. Brio Bliss Life Science (P) Ltd. vs. ITO (ITA No. 3067/Chny/2019, dt. 22nd Feb., 2023) distinguished. (AY. 2018-19)

SPL Infrastructure (P) Ltd. v. ITO [2024] 169 taxmann.com 459/ (2025) 233 TTJ 495 / 245 DTR 321 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Tolerance limit-DVO's valuation report-Amendment introduced by Finance Act, 2020, increasing tolerance limit under section 56(2)(x)(b)(B) from 5 per cent to 10 per cent, has retrospective effect and applies to assessment year 2018-19.[S.56(2)(x)(b) (B)]

Assessee purchased a property for Rs.8.19 crores. Booking payment was made, and allotment letter was issued on 30-3-2010. Assessing Officer made an addition of Rs. 9.04 crores under section 56(2)(x) due to a difference between set forth value and stamp duty value-Commissioner(Appeals) restricted addition to Rs. 81.19 lakhs based on DVO's valuation report. On appeal the assessee contended that Finance Act, 2020, increased tolerance limit from 5 per cent to 10 per cent under section 56(2)(x)(b)(B) and that amendment has retrospective effect. The Tribunal held that provision of section 56(2)(x)(b)(B) has retrospective effect and is applicable to impugned assessment year, therefore, matter is remanded to Assessing Officer for allowing assessee incremental differences as per section 56(2)(x)(b)(B) for alleged properties. (AY. 2018-19)

NFAC v. NRB Developers. (2025) 211 ITD 728 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Under construction property-Gift-Increase in GST adjustment of GST value in total value of consideration would not fall within ambit of section 56(2)(x).[S. 43CA, 50C, 56(2)(x)]

Assessee booked under construction property. Due to increase in GST rates builder reduced agreement value from Rs. 2.63 crores to Rs. 2.55 crores. Assessing Officer held that registration of property was done at lower cost and accordingly made addition of differential amount in hands of assessee under section 56(2)(x). Commissioner (Appeals) upheld addition made by Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that to accommodate purchasers in respect of transferring benefit of GST by including same in total value of consideration. As a result of which value that was agreed had to include GST which was payable by purchasers. Accordingly, the adjustment of GST value in total value of consideration would not fall within the ambit of section 56(2)(x). Addition is deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

Jayantilal Umashankar Chavji. v. NEAC(2025) 211 ITD 537/236 TTJ 130 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Purchase of flat prior to insertion of clause (x) of sub-section (2) of section 56 by Finance Act 2017-Provision is not applicable-Addition is deleted.[S.56(2)(x)]

Assessee purchased a flat for a consideration of Rs. 19 lakhs-Assessing Officer held that flat had stamp valuation at Rs. 63.78 lakhs and, therefore, difference in invested value and stamp valuation of Rs. 44.78 lakhs was added under section 56(2)(x). Commissioner (Appeals) affirmed order of Assessing Officer by simply holding that case fell within scope of section 56(2)(x)(b), as amended by Finance Act, 2018 from assessment year 2019-20. On appeal the Tribunal held that since flat was purchased prior to insertion of clause (x) of sub-section (2) of section 56 by Finance Act 2017, provisions of section 56(2)(x) were not applicable. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

Kajari Banerjee. (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 358 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Amalgamation-No transfer of shares-Addition is deleted.[S. 47(vii), 56(2)(vii)(c)]

Assessee, a public limited company, had amalgamated three private limited companies with itself which were essentially owned by relatives of promoters of assessee. Assessing Officer held that excess value transferred to beneficiary, related parties should be added to returned income of assessee on a protective basis as per section 56(2)(vii)(c) and made addition as protective basis. On appeal the CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that new shares allotted by amalgamated company did not give rise to a transfer of shares, and hence, also section 56(2)(vii)(c) had no application. Transfer of shares in a scheme of amalgamation was not considered as 'transfer' under section 47(vii) and accordingly, if it was not transferred, then application of section 56(2) was not applicable. Further, there was no anti-abuse of provision and new share was allotted as per amalgamation scheme under supervision of High Court after hearing of all stakeholders including Government. Scheme of amalgamation under which an exchange ratio of shares was approved by High Court and it was conclusive, question of skewed swap ratio or issuing shares at discounted rate did not arise. Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

DCIT v. Rajoo Engineers Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 159/234 TTJ 331 (Rajkot) (Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Fraudulently received refunds from income tax department by producing forged challans and parked same in accounts operated by him-Taxable on accrual basis even if the said amount was recovered by the Govt. of India in subsequent years-Deduction-Recovery of income did not constitute an expense incurred wholly and exclusively for purpose of earning income under section-Disallowance is affirmed. [S. 2(24), 4,57, 132]

A search and seizure operation was carried out at residential and office premises of assessee. It was found that assessee had fraudulently obtained refunds from income tax department by producing forged challans. Assessing Officer added amount of such fraudulent refunds to income of assessee. Assessee contended that alleged misappropriation of income tax refund/money receipts was recovered fully, by Govt. of India, hence, it did not constitute income chargeable to tax. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had admitted to fraudulently earning income and parking same in accounts operated by him. Amount out of fraudulent refunds were invested in shares and department had recovered amount by disposal of shares and investments. The Tribunal held that the fraudulent income was recovered or repaid in subsequent years would not negate taxability of income in year of accrual. Provision of section 2(24) is an inclusive definition and does not differentiate between legality or illegality of earning of income. On facts since assessee had admitted to fraudulently earning income and utilized it for economic gains, including investments, such fraudulent income is taxable in hands of assessee as income from other sources. The Tribunal also held that the recovery of income did not constitute an expense incurred wholly and exclusively for purpose of earning income under section 57. Disallowance is affirmed. (AY. 1992-93, 1993-94)

Mukesh Rasiklal Shah. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 74 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Long term capital loss-Share transfer agreement-Shares sold at an undervalued price-Related party transaction-AO claimed that the transaction was structured to avoid tax-Shares valued at upwards of Rs 19000, per share were sold for Rs 100 per share-Valuation was not in accordance with Rule 11UA-Matter remanded back to AO for recalculating capital gains. [S. 45,56(2)(vii)(b), 56(2)(x), R.11UA(1)(c)(v)]

Regarding the valuation of long-term capital loss claimed on the sale of shares the ITAT agreed with the AO's findings that the assessee sold shares at a drastically undervalued price despite the recent valuations showing much higher values. The related-party transactions, including the sale of a valuable property to assessee's wife were done at a lower price. However, it found that the AO's computation method was not in line with Rule 11UA. The ITAT remanded the matter to the AO to recalculate capital gains based on the most credible valuation evidence available. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2019-20)

DCIT v. M. Mahadevan [2025] 175 taxmann.com 383 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Purchase of properties/payment of sale consideration & taking possession of property-Subsequent registration of sale Deed in the relevant AY-Addition deleted-Non-speaking order-Violation of principles of natural justice. [S. 56(2)(x)(b)]

Assessee purchased two plots of land for a total consideration of Rs. 2.05 lakhs while its stamp duty value was Rs. 63.25 lakhs in the years 2008 & 2010 i.e. much prior to impugned year and that in said years assessee had entered into an agreement to sell and had paid entire amount of consideration to seller, but sale deed was registered in impugned year. Further, Assessee had also taken possession of said two pieces of land in those years itself. The AO made addition of the difference between stamp value and actual consideration to the total income of assessee u/s 56(2)(x) without assigning any reasons and without discussing the submissions made by the Assessee. The CIT(A) upheld the AO's order. Since both authorities below had passed non-speaking orders and there was no reason at all in orders of authorities below for rejecting assessee's explanation and invoking S. 56(2)(x), such orders were violative of principles of natural justice and therefore, impugned non-speaking order passed by the AO as well as the CIT(A) were to be set aside and consequent additions made in case of assessee were to be deleted (AY. 2020-21)

Babubhai Ramanbhai Patel v. ITO (2025) 210 ITD 165 (Ahd.) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Share premium-Conversion of a loan into share capital does not exonerate the assessee from the application of S.56(2)(viib)-Addition is affirmed. [S. 56(2)(viib)]

The AO found that on the face value of share of Rs.10 allotted on 03-11-2012 premium of Rs.90 per share was charged, whereas the shares allotted on 26-3-2013 were issued at a premium of Rs.31.67/-per share only. The AO held that the premium charged to the extent of Rs.55.45 per share was excessive, and accordingly, the share premium of Rs.94.27 lakhs was added u/s. 56(2)(viib).

Held by the Tribunal that the provision of S. 56(2)(viib) applies regardless of whether the consideration for the shares is in the form of money or non-cash consideration (such as the conversion of a loan into share capital). If the company issues shares at a price higher than their FMV, the excess amount over the FMV is chargeable to tax under the head Income from Other Sources, and the conversion of the loan into share capital does not provide an exemption from the application of this section. (AY. 2013-14)

Parasmani Gems (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2025] 210 ITD 215 /234 TTJ 664 (Ahd)(Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Interest on compensation-Assessable as income from other sources. [S.10(37), Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S 28]

The interest on compensation or on enhanced compensation cannot be considered as compensation and shall be chargeable to tax under the head income from other sources. Following Punjab & Haryana High Court in Mahender Pal Narang v. CBDT [2020] 120 taxmann.com 400/275 Taxman 222/423 ITR 13 (Punjab & Haryana) it was held that interest issued on the compensation for enhanced compensation is to be treated as income from other sources. (AY. 2019-20)

Vachaspati Sharma v. ITO (2025) 210 ITD 537 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 56: Income from other sources-Stamp valuation-Allotment letter-Registration-AO made addition as stamp duty value more than consideration paid-Consideration paid was as per allotment latter and not date of registration-Entitled to the benefits of proviso to Section 56(2)(vii)(b). [S. 56(2)(viib), 143(2)]

The case of the Assessee was selected for scrutiny. AO observed that the Assessee had purchased a flat and the consideration paid for the flat is less than the stamp duty value of the flat and made addition u/s 56(2)(vii)(b) of the Act. The case of the Assessee was that the date of allotment letter fixing the amount of consideration for the transfer of property and date of registration are not the same, therefore market value as on the date of allotment letter may be taken for the purpose of section 56(2)(vii)(b) of the Act. The Tribunal held that, based on the chronology of events, the Assessee is entitled to the benefits of proviso to Section 56(2)(vii)(b). It was also observed that the Assessee has paid the parts of consideration as per the terms and conditions of allotment through banking channels prior to the execution of Sale agreement, the provisos to S.56(2)(x) shall apply to the facts of the present case. However, the date of the allotment letters were not brought on record, therefore, the case of the assessee was restore back to AO for the limited purpose of comparing the actual sale consideration with the stamp duty valuation as on the date of respective allotment letters. (AY. 2014-15)

Manjulaben Himmatlal Jain v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 345 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Transactions between partners and firm-Will-Family settlement-Brothers and sisters-Changes in the profit sharing ratio-Colourable device-Transfer-Capital contribution-The provisions of Section 56(2)(viiia) of the Act is not applicable-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. [S. 2(31)(iv), 2(47), 14, 56(2)(viiia), R. 11UA]

The shares of UFIPL have been introduced as capital contribution @ 92.88/- per share totalling to Rs.2,50,77,507/-. The fair value of Rs.92.88/-per share was computed on 17/12/2015 as per the valuation report prepared by the Chartered Accountant as per Rule 11UA of the Income-tax Rules, 1962. As per the will and family settlement the profit sharing ratio of the partners have been changed. Thereafter, on 18/01/2016, all the assets of the assessee firm including shares of UFIPL were valued based on valuation report of M/s. V B Desai Financial Services Limited (VBDFSL), a SEBI registered merchant banker. On the basis of the report of VBDFSL, the AO held that the value per share of UFIPL was computed by a merchant banker on intrinsic value of Rs.4786.53/-per share. The AO accordingly took the differential price of Rs.4693.65 (4786.53-92.88) per share aggregating to Rs.126,72,80,806/-as the fair value of shares of UFIPL. Accordingly the AO invoked the provisions of Section 56(2)(viiia) of the Act, and made the addition of Rs.126,72,80,806/-. On appeal the CIT(A) deleted the addition.

On appeal by the Revenue the Tribunal held that the provisions of Section 56(2)(viia) is not applicable in respect of capital contribution by partner in a firm. The entire transaction is part of the family settlement and the transfer of shares between family members was part and parcel of family settlement entered into between brothers and sisters to give effect to the will and desire of the father, who were the promoters of the companies. The Tribunal held that when there is a family settlement to bring harmony and settlement of disputes, there is no transfer of assets and the provisions of Section 56(2)(viia) of the Act would not apply. The Tribunal held that shares were contributed as capital of the firm to give effect to the intention of Mr. D.M. Neterwala. Therefore for capital contribution, the provisions of Section 56(2)(viia) of the Act would not apply. The AO has treated the entire transactions as a colourable device to avoid tax completely ignoring the will and the family settlement. The Honourable Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). Referred, Ram Charan Das v. Girjanandini Devi AIR 1966 SC 323, Ziauddin Ahmed v. CGT [1976] 102 ITR 253(Gauhati)(HC), CIT v. R. Ponnammal [1987] 164 ITR 707 (Mad) (HC), CGT v D. Nagrathinam [2003]129 Taxman 822 (Mad)(HC) (ITA No. 2457/Mum. /2024 dt. 20-3-2025)(AY. 2016-17)

ITO v. SDN Company [2026] 182 taxmann.com 129 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Re development-Alternative accommodation of New flat of bigger size allotted from the builder in extinguishment of the old flat as per the redevelopment agreement-Cannot be assessed under section 56(2)(x) of the Act-At the most the said transaction may attract capital gains in which case the assessee should be entitle for deduction of cost of new flat u/s. 54 resulting in no tax liability-Addition is deleted. [S.45, 54]

The assessee, Anil Dattaram Pitale, owned a flat in Co-op Housing Society, which was purchased in FY 1997-98. The society underwent redevelopment, as per the agreement with developer. As per the terms and conditions of the agreement the assessee was allotted a new flat of bigger size. The AO assessed the difference between the stamp duty value of the new flat and the indexed cost of the old flat, as income from other sources u/s. 56(2)(x) of the Income-tax Act based on the stamp valuation. The order of the AO is affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal the Tribunal held that the transaction is part of a redevelopment agreement, resulting in the extinguishment of the old flat and acquisition of the new flat, this is not a receipt of immovable property for inadequate consideration. Therefore provisions of section 56(2)(x) is not applicable. Tribunal also held that at the most the said transaction may attract capital gains in which case the assessee should be entitled for deduction of cost of new flat u/s. 54 resulting in no tax liability. The Tribunal directed to delete the addition made u/s. 56(2)(x). (AY. 2018-19)

Anil Dattaram Pitale v. ITO [2025] 173 taxmann.com 51 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 56 : Income from other sources-Discretionary trust-Property-Interest from partnership firm and shares from unlisted company-Trust for the benefit of relatives of settler-Power with the trustees to add any persons or class of persons or charity as beneficiaries-Revision order on the ground that the Trust is not wholly benefit of beneficiaries-Amount of Rs 669 crores received by the Trust is assessable under Section 56(2)(x) of the Act-Tribunal held that the interest in firm falls in category of shares-Benefit is not restricted to the benefit of relatives of the settler-Amount received is chargeable to tax under section 56(2)(x)-Revision order is affirmed on law and merit. [S. 56(2) (viid), 56(2)(x), 263 Indian Trust Act, 1882]

Assessee is a private discretionary trust and was established under the provisions of Indian Trust Act, 1882 vide settlement deed dated January 23, 2018 executed between Mr. Anand Nadathur, being the Settlor and

Vervain Management Private Limited, being the Trustee. The settlor settled investments amounting to INR 669,.27 crores, to the trust out of natural love and affection. The assessment was completed u/s 143(3) of the Act. Commissioner revised the order on the ground that the AO has failed to conduct any enquiries due to which the order of the AO is erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of revenue. On appeal the issue of jurisdiction u/s 263 was not argued. Tribunal held that revision is justified on law and facts. Affirming the Revision order the Tribunal held that the benefit of the amount received was not restricted to the family members and hence the view of the AO is not plausible view therefore the PCIT is correct in law in holding the order as prejudicial to the interest of revenue. Tribunal also held that the term shares and securities has been used it is abundantly clear that "and" should be read as "or". Further literal interpretation in the present case is also giving an absurd meaning therefore the expression "and" used here should be read as "or". Therefore interest in partnership firm falls in the category of "shares" as used in explanation (d) of section 56(2)(vii). What is "interest in partnership firm" has been decided by so many judicial pronouncements wherein this expression has been interpreted of expression. Accordingly the term shares as used in explanation-2 of section 56(2)(vii) is not restricted to the shares of companies only, rather it is wide enough to mean a part or portion of something. For instance, "sharing" refers to dividing or giving out portions of something among several people. Merely because some expression is missing Tribunal cannot restrict the meaning of a word. Tribunal held that it is settled position of law that that words should not be overly restricted; their meaning can be shaped by the context in which they are used. Legal texts, contracts, or laws often define words, but if a specific definition is not provided, courts or authorities may interpret the word according to its common usage or the broader context. Therefore the Tribunal has taken the common meaning of word "share". As the interest in a partnership firm is nothing but shares of the partnership firm. Accordingly, the Revision is affirmed on law and merit.(ITA No.1051 /Bang/2024 dt.30-12-2024)(AY.2018-19)

Buckeye Trust v.PCIT (Bang)(Trib) www.itatonline.org.

Editorial: Honourable Tribunal by order sheet dt.7 th Jan 2025, suo-moto recalled the order u/s 254(2) of the Act, which reads as under “ On suo-moto perusal at the order dated 30-12-2024 in ITA No.1051 / Bang /2024, it is found that there are certain inadvertent errors in the order, therefore, as per the provisions of section 254(2) of the Act, the above order is recalled in its entirety and fixed for hearing afresh on 19-2-2025. Notice be issued to both parties.” (Prakash Chand Yadav (Judicial Member) Prashant Maharishi (Vice-President) (Dt. 7-Jan-2025, Refer , Buckeye Trust v. Registrar [2025] 180 taxmann.com 7

(Karn)(HC) , Buckeye Trust v PCIT ([2026] 183 taxmann.com 381 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 57 : Income from other sources-Deductions-Expenditure for purposes of earning-Borrowing money and lending it to others-Interest on borrowed money-Allowable as deduction.[S.56, 57(iii)]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the High Court held that there was a direct nexus between the money borrowed by the assessee and money advanced by the assessee. The assessee paid interest on the money borrowed by it and had received the interest on the money advanced by it. The interest paid by the assessee was incurred wholly and exclusively for the purpose of earning of interest income. Order of Tribunal allowing the deduction, is affirmed. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Mahalaxmi Design Pvt. Ltd (2025) 482 ITR 215 / 174 taxmann.com 149 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 57 : Income from other sources-Deduction of interest-Nexus established between borrowings and lending-Disallowance deleted [S. 56, 57(iii)]

The assessee earned interest income and claimed deduction of interest paid on borrowed funds under section 57(iii). The AO disallowed the claim for lack of nexus. The Tribunal noted that the assessee had established a clear nexus between borrowings and lending, and in subsequent years the AO had accepted the claim. Accordingly, the disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Vinay Badera v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 456 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 57 : Income from other sources-Deduction of interest and commission-Failure to substantiate claim-Disallowance upheld.[S. 24(b), 57(iii)]

Assessee claimed deduction of interest under section 24(b) for loan on self-occupied house and further claimed balance interest under section 57. AO disallowed as no evidence was given to prove the loan was for earning income. Similarly, commission payments claimed were found bogus since recipients denied or could not be produced. Tribunal upheld the disallowances. (AY. 2013-14)

Vivek Sheel Aggarwal v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 257 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 64 : Clubbing of income-Minor child-Income includes loss-Loss of minor can be clubbed in mother's hands and not necessarily only in father's hands-Order of Tribunal set aside. [S.64(1A), 260A]

On appeal the High Court held that the Tribunal was not justified in invoking S. 64(1A) to hold that the income (or loss) of a minor child can only be clubbed in the hands of the father and not in the hands of the mother. The Court noted that in the immediately preceding assessment year, the minor son's income had in fact been clubbed in the hands of the assessee mother and such treatment was never disturbed by the authorities. Further, the issue of clubbing was not even considered by the Assessing Officer at the assessment stage for the year under consideration. In these circumstances, a strict interpretation of s. 64(1A) would require that the minor's income/loss be clubbed in the hands of the parent in whose income it was included earlier, and the Tribunal erred in law in directing that it must necessarily be clubbed only in the father's hands. Accordingly, the Tribunal's order was set aside. (AY.1997-98)

Sulochana V. Gupta v. ITO (2025) 344 CTR 405 / 249 DTR 1 / 174 taxmann.com 1201 (Guj)(HC)

S. 64 : Clubbing of income-Minor child-Capital gains-Sale of inherited property-Minor daughter's share deposited in nationalized bank under Court order-Not includible in assessee's hands.[S. 45, 54F, Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956, S.8(2)]

The assessee sold property inherited from his deceased wife, being entitled along with his minor daughter to equal shares. The City Civil Court, Chennai, permitted the sale and directed that the minor's 50% share be deposited in a nationalized bank in the name of the Registrar under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act. The AO, however, included the daughter's share in the assessee's hands for LTCG computation, which was confirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee had no right to utilize the minor's share and it was deposited under Court's directions, it could not be treated as his income. The addition was deleted, and brokerage disallowance also allowed. Appeal allowed.(AY 2016-17) (ITA No. 1626/Chny/2025, dt. 03/09/2025)

Pradeep Jeyavelu v. ITO (SMC) (Chennai) (Trib) (UR)
www.itatonline.org.

S. 67A: Association of persons-Body of individuals-Member's share-Member of syndicates engaged in liquor business-Share of assessee in income of syndicate-Not taxable when association of persons taxed at maximum marginal rate-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S.2(31),86, 167B, Art. 136]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that when the assessee was a member of an association of persons or body of individuals, the shares of members of such association of persons or body of individuals were determinate and known, and such associations of persons or bodies of individuals were chargeable to tax on their total income at the maximum marginal rate or any higher rate. Thus, the share of profit or income received by the assessee from the association of persons or body of individuals or syndicates fell under clause (a) of the first proviso to section 86 read with section 67A and the Assessing Officer was not justified in making the addition in the hands of the assessee on account of his share in the profits of the syndicates and on account of his share of inadmissible expenses incurred by the syndicates. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2010-11 to 2016-17)

PCIT (Central) v. Laxmi Narayan Shivhare (2025) 307 Taxman 443 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Ramesh Chandra Rai (2024) 168 taxmann.com 43: (2025) 481 ITR 231 (MP)(HC):

S. 67A : Association persons-Body of individuals-Member's share-Member of syndicates engaged in liquor business-Share of assessee in income of syndicate-Not taxable when association of persons taxed at maximum marginal rate-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S.2(31),86, 167B, Art. 136]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that when the assessee was a member of an association of persons or body of individuals, the shares of members of such association of persons or body of individuals were determinate and known and such associations of persons or bodies of individuals were chargeable to tax on their total income at the maximum marginal rate or any higher rate. Thus, the share of profit or income received by the assessee from the association of persons or body of individuals or syndicates fell under clause (a) of the first proviso to section 86 read with section 67A and the Assessing Officer was not justified in making the addition in the hands of the assessee on account of his share in the profits of the syndicates and on account of his share of inadmissible expenses incurred by the syndicates. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2010-11, 2011-12, 2013-14, to 2016-17)

PCIT v. Harmindar Singh Bhatia (2025) 481 ITR 244/ 307 Taxman 528 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Ramesh Chandra Rai (2024) 168 taxmann.com 43 : (2025) 481 ITR 231 (MP)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Shares to promoters at premium-Income from other sources-Share premium cannot be assessed as revenue receipt even if assessee had breached provisions of section 78(2) of Companies Act, 1956, it would be penalised by provisions of Companies Act and breach would never turn share premium amount received into a revenue receipt-Share premium cannot be assessed as income from other sources-SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay of 271 days and also on merits. [S. 2(24)(xvi)56(2)(vii)(b), Companies Act, 1956, S 78(2),Art. 136]

Assessee issued shares to its promoters at premium, one of which was an Indian entity and other was a foreign promoter. Assessing Officer treated entire share premium received as unexplained cash credit under section 68 on ground that there was violation of provisions of section 78(2) of Companies Act, 1956. On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to examine whether there was violation of provisions of section 78(2) of the Companies Act, 1956. On appeal, High Court held that there was nothing on record in balance sheet of assessee which showed that share premium was utilized for purposes other than what was prescribed in section 78(2) of Companies Act, 1956. Also closing balance and opening balance of share premium money only indicated that there was increase in share premium account by way of infusion of funds. Court held that Income-tax Act does not stipulate that non-compliance of any provision of other Act would result in turning a capital receipt into a revenue receipt. Even if assessee had breached provisions of section 78(2) of Companies Act, 1956, it would be penalised by provisions of Companies Act and breach would never turn share premium amount received into a revenue receipt. Assessing Officer also treated entire share premium received as unexplained cash credit under section 68 on ground that there was no justification for charging share premium. Court held that money received on issue of shares at premium is on capital account and would not give rise to any income and there was no provision under Act to tax receipt of share premium for assessment year under consideration. High Court referred CBDT Instruction No. 2/2015, dated 29-1-2015 Referred Vodafone India Services (P.) Ltd. v. UOI [2015] 228 Taxman 25/ [2014] 368 ITR 1 (Bom)(HC). SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay of 271 days and also on merits. (AY. 2011-12)

Shendra Advisory Services Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 166/481 ITR 457 (SC)

Editorial : Shendra Advisory Services Pvt. Ltd v.Dy.CIT(2024) 298 Taxman 261 / (2025) 482 ITR 385 (Bom)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital received from three companies-Mere proof of identity of investors insufficient-Assessee must establish creditworthiness and genuineness-Tribunal ignored AO's findings-Addition restored by High court-SLP of assessee dismissed.[Art. 136]

In this case, the Supreme Court addressed the issue of addition under Section 68 of the Income-tax Act relating to share capital received by the assessee-company during Assessment Years 2011-12 and 2012-13. The Assessing Officer had made an addition under Section 68 on the ground that the assessee failed to satisfactorily explain the nature and source of share application money received from three companies. The AO examined the genuineness and creditworthiness of the transactions and concluded that the assessee had not discharged its onus. However, the Tribunal deleted the addition, holding that the assessee had established identity and discharged its burden. The High Court reversed the Tribunal's decision, observing that mere proof of identity of the investor does not suffice under Section 68; the assessee must also prove the creditworthiness of the investors and the genuineness of the transactions, including their financial capacity to invest. The Court noted that the Tribunal had ignored material evidence considered by the AO and failed to address findings regarding creditworthiness and genuineness. Consequently, the High Court restored the AO's addition. The assessee challenged this before the Supreme Court, but the Court found no reason to interfere with the High Court's order and dismissed the Special Leave Petition.(AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

Jaguar Buildcon (P.) Ltd [2025] 306 Taxman 349 /481 ITR 493 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Jaguar Buildcon (P.) Ltd(2025) 177 taxmann.com 504 /481 ITR 477 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Sale consideration-Tribunal held taxing same again would result in double addition, which was impermissible and accordingly, entire addition under section 68 was deleted. High Court held that considering factual findings arrived at by Tribunal for both Assessment Years, no question of law, much less any substantial question of law arose for consideration. SLP delayed by 392 days. SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits [Art. 136]

Assessee-company received Rs.244.98 crores from its clients against sale transactions. Assessing Officer treated entire amount as unexplained cash credit under section 68.Commissioner (Appeals) restricted addition to Rs.52.01 crores, noting Rs.192.97 crores was paid towards purchases during year. On further appeal, Tribunal found balance amount of Rs.52.01 crores was carried forward and paid to sister concern NKPL in subsequent year, as verified by Assessing Officer. Since entire amount was used in regular course of business and corresponding sales were recorded as income, Tribunal held taxing same again would result in double addition, which was impermissible and accordingly, entire addition under section 68 was deleted. High Court held that considering factual findings arrived at by Tribunal for both Assessment Years, no question of law, much less any substantial question of law arose for consideration. SLP delayed by 392 days. SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. (AY. 2012-13)

PCIT v. N.K. Industries Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 1 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. N.K. Industries Ltd(2025) 175 taxmann.com 619 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Capital gains-Exemption-Sale of shares-Report by Investigation Wing-SEBI's detailed inquiry found no statutory violations-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition and allowing the exemption was affirmed by High Court-SLP delay of 282 days-Delay had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue-SLP dismissed on ground of delay.[S. 10(38), 45, 68, 69 Art, 136

Assessee sold shares and claimed exemption under section 10(38) of the Act. Assessing Officer doubted the transaction on a report by Investigating Wing and made additions under sections 68 and 69 of the Act. Assessee furnished complete, unchallenged evidence such as contract notes, demat details, and bonus share records-Further, transactions were routed through BSE with STT paid, and no misconduct was attributed to broker. SEBI's detailed inquiry found no statutory violations. Considering all those details, Tribunal deleted addition under section 68 and allowed exemption under section 10(38). High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. Revenue has filed SLP before the Supreme Court was delayed by 282 days. Supreme Court dismissed the SLP on the ground that delay of 282 days in filing SLP which had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Neelu Mahansaria (2025) 305 Taxman 493 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Neelu Mahansaria(2025) 175 taxmann.com 235 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Long term capital gains-Sale of shares-Information from Investigation Wing-Sold shares after holding same for more than seven years-Proximity of time between buy and sale of shares could not be considered as an accommodation entry-High Court affirmed the order of Tribunal-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S. 10(38), 45, 68, 69, Art. 136]

Assessee had earned long-term capital gains on sale of shares of a company and claimed exemption under section 10(38). Assessing Officer received information from Investigation Wing that assessee made transaction in penny stocks and claimed exemption under section 10(38). He, thus, reopened assessment. Assessing Officer opined from financial of penny stock company that there was no substantial change so as to support huge deviation of share price and that it did not have any business activity which justified huge market price of shares. The Assessing Officer disallowed exemption and made addition under section 68. Tribunal held that assessee had sold shares after holding same for more than seven years and proximity of time between buy and sale of shares could not be considered as an accommodation entry. Tribunal, held that assessee was a genuine investor who was not involved in manipulative practices. Tribunal further noted that amount of long-term capital gain was not significant. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. SLP filed by revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

PCIT v. Damodar Jajoo (2025) 305 Taxman 10 / 482 ITR 166 (SC)
Editotial : PCIT v. Damodar Jajoo (2025) 173 taxmann.com 949 /482 ITR 154 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Unsecured loan-Assessee failed to prove genuineness of loan from struck-off company by not producing erstwhile directors or cogent evidence-Addition sustained-Plea that S. 41(1) applies rejected, as no genuine liability ever came into existence-SLP dismissed. [S. 41(1), Art. 136]

The assessee claimed that Rs. 14 lakhs credited in its books was an unsecured loan from Gee Wire Pvt Ltd. The so-called loan agreement was found to be highly unusual, as it carried no interest, imposed no real repayment obligation, and contained vague repayment terms dependent on mutual consent. Since the lender was a private limited company that had been struck off, the assessee was expected to establish genuineness by producing its erstwhile directors or other reliable evidence, but failed to do so. The contention that the AO ought to have issued notice to the lender was rejected, as the initial onus under section 68 was on the assessee and stood undischarged. The plea that section 41(1) and not section 68 applied was also rejected, since once the very genuineness of the loan was not proved, no enforceable liability had ever crystallised in law. Accordingly, the addition under section 68 was upheld by High court. SLP dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

Valley Iron and Steel Co. Ltd v.PCIT (2025) 480 ITR 248/181 taxmann.com 348 (SC)

Editorial : Valley Iron and Steel Co. Ltd v.PCIT [2024] 159 taxmann.com 1179 / (2025) 480 ITR 244 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Sale of shares-Information received from investigation wing-Sold through recognised stock exchange-Paid Security transaction-Delay of 292 days-SLP dismissed-Delay was not satisfactorily explained. [S. 10(38), 45, Art. 136]

Assessee sold shares of a company and claimed sale proceeds as exempt under section 10(38). Assessing Officer on basis of information received from investigation wing, treated same as unexplained income under section 68 holding that transaction was sham to route unaccounted money to give it colour of genuine transaction. Tribunal held that assessee had held shares for two and half years and same were sold through recognized stock exchange after paying securities transaction tax and that assessee had submitted numerous details of company whose shares were sold by her. Tribunal allowed the exemption. High Court held that no question of law much less any substantial question of law arose from impugned order passed by Tribunal. SLP filed by revenue was delay of 292 days. Revenue could not explain satisfactory delay. SLP was dismissed. (AY. 2014-15)

PCIT v. Divyaben Prafulchandra Parmar (2025) 304 Taxman 512 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Divyaben Prafulchandra Parmar(2024) 169 taxmann.com 473 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unexplained investment-Ex parte assessment order-Concurrent findings by authorities below that assessee failed to prove source of deposits-High Court held no substantial question of law arose-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S.69,133(6), 143(3), 144, 260A]

Assessee failing to respond to multiple notices Assessment completed ex parte Unexplained deposits in bank account treated as income under sections 68 and 69A. Assessee remaining non-responsive during proceedings before Commissioner (Appeals). Explanation offered without substantiation that amounts were cash collected by assessee as recovery agent from its borrowers located in Naxal affected areas and deposited in his account found to be unreasonable by Tribunal. Concurrent findings by authorities below that assessee failed to prove source of deposits. High Court held no substantial question of law arose. SLP of Assessee dismissed. (AY.2012-13)

Dinesh Singh Chouhan v. ITO (2025) 479 ITR 461/179 taxmann.com 252 (SC)

Editorial : Dinesh Singh Chouhan v. ITO [2024] 168 taxmann.com 590 / (2025) 479 ITR 451 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Assessing Officer made additions towards consideration received by assessee on sale of shares-Assessee had duly disclosed receipt of capital gains and offered for tax-No occasion for making addition-SLP to be dismissed on ground of low tax effect. [S. 153A, Art. 136].

The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the SLP filed by the Department on the ground of low tax effect in a matter wherein the High Court held that in the absence of any incriminating material found during search, there was no occasion for the AO to make an addition on the basis of unexplained cash credit. However, without going into the merits of the case, the SLP came to be dismissed due to a low tax effect. (AY. 2008-09)

PCIT v. Ahinsa Vinimay [2025] 302 Taxman 359 (SC).

Editorial : PCIT v. Ahinsa Vinimay (P.) Ltd(2024) 169 taxamnn.com 134 (Orissa (HC))

S. 68: Cash credits-SLP dismissed against High Court's finding that additions were unjustified-Huge amounts deposited in foreign bank account in Geneva-Assessee pleaded that bank account belonged to nephew situated in UK-Assessee was an agriculturist and his name was struck from the bank account much prior to his visit to Geneva-SLP dismissed also on the ground of delay of 233 days, which was not explained properly.[Art. 136

The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed an SLP filed by the Department against impugned order of the High Court wherein it was observed that addition made to assessee's income on account of huge amount deposited in his foreign bank account in Geneva was unjustified since there was no material on record to show that said amount was deposited by assessee and justifiable explanation was given by assessee that said account belonged to his nephew residing in U.K. However, the said SLP was dismissed on the ground of delay of 233 days and also due to the fact that the High Court had noted that no substantial question of law arose in the case. (AY.2006-2007 2007-2008)

PCIT v. Joginder Singh Chatha [2025] 302 Taxman 5 (SC).

Editorial : CIT v. Joginder Singh Chatha (2023) 156 Taxman.com 509 (P& H) (HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Not explained the source-Order of High Court affirming the addition was affirmed-SLP of assessee dismissed on the ground of delay of 388 days and on merits. [Art. 136]

Dismissing the appeal the High Court held that the assessee, an educational institution, could not produce sufficient material to dispel the suspicion as to donations received from companies which were not even based geographically close to the assessee and the reason to grant the donation was never properly explained, and that the addition under section 68 was justified. SLP of assessee dismissed on the ground that delay of 388 days in filing the special leave petition had not been satisfactorily explained and on the merits.(AY. 2014-15)

Mayor Foundation v. CIT (2025) 475 ITR 150 / 304 Taxman 660 (SC)

Editorial : Mayor Foundation v. CIT (2024) 469 ITR 562 (P& H)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Principle of natural justice-Assessee must be given adequate opportunity to be heard and also to cross-examine witnesses whose statements have been relied on to make additions. [S. 260A]

Held, that the findings rendered by the Revenue authorities stood vitiated for failure on their part to afford an opportunity to the assessee to cross-examine the transporters and for disbelieving the evidence adduced such as certificates of tax deduction at source. The addition to the assessee's income was not valid. In Andaman Timber Industries v. CCE, (2016) 38 GSTR 117 (SC); (2016) 15 SCC 785, the Supreme Court held that not allowing the assessee to cross-examine the witnesses though the statements of those witnesses were made the basis of the assessment order by the adjudicating authority is a serious flaw which makes the order a nullity inasmuch as it amounts to violation of the principles of natural justice. (AY. 2001-02)

Sree Trading Corporation. v. ITO [2023] 151 taxmann.com 486 / (2025) 482 ITR 712 (Telengana)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Shares-Failure to prove genuineness of transaction-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S. 132, 133A, 153C, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the entire findings of the Assessing Officer and the Tribunal were based on facts and did not give rise to any substantial question of law, in the absence of which the appeal under section 260A could not be entertained.(AY.2004-05 to 2009-10)

Smriti Television Media and Films Pvt. Ltd. (through its managing director Bipin Goswami) v.PCIT [2023] 151 taxmann.com 323 / (2025) 482 ITR 737 (MP)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Penny stock-Sun Rise Asian Ltd (SAL)-Long-term capital gains-Order of the Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed.[S. 10(38), 45]

The assessee company had invested in shares of one company. After holding shares for a long period, assessee sold shares and claimed long-term capital gains earned on the same as exempt under section 10(38). Assessing Officer treated the share transaction as bogus and made an addition under section 68, holding that the company in which shares were purchased was a penny stock and its price movement was not supported by the financial fundamentals of the company. Tribunal deleted the addition holding that shares sold by assessee could not be doubted as bogus. On appeal, the order of Tribunal affirmed. Relied Pr. CIT v. Divyaben Prafulchandra Parmar [2024] 169 taxmann.com 473 (Guj) (HC). PCIT v. Vinod Premjibhai Gangani (2025) 307 Taxman 146 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share application money-Shell company-Mere production of incorporation certificates, PAN numbers, income tax returns, or showing that transactions were routed through banking channels could not discharge the burden of proof under section 68- Assessing Officer's conclusion was founded upon tangible, cogent and independent evidence, and not on conjecture, addition made by Assessing Officer was justified-Order of Tribunal set side. [S. 260A]

The assessee company received share application money of a certain amount from an investor company. Assessing Officer held that said investor company was a shell company which was created and controlled by the assessee group for the purpose of providing accommodation entries. He also held that the enquiry revealed that funds ostensibly shown as share application money originated from the assessee group itself. He treated share application money as unexplained cash credit under section 68 of the Act. Tribunal deleted the addition. On appeal, the Court held that the entity had no business activity, no infrastructure, no employees, and was not even traceable at its registered address. Its financial statements revealed meagre income, which, by no stretch of imagination, could justify investment of several crores of rupees in the assessee company. Further, the money trail unearthed by the Assessing Officer demonstrated that funds originating from the coffers of the assessee group itself were routed through a web of layering and multiple accounts controlled by entry operators and eventually reintroduced into the assessee's books in the guise of share application money and premium. Mere production of incorporation certificates, PAN numbers, income tax returns, or showing that transactions were routed through banking channels could not discharge the burden of proof under section 68. Since the Assessing Officer's conclusion was founded upon tangible, cogent and independent evidence, and not on conjecture, the addition made by the Assessing Officer was justified. (AY. 2014-15)

ACIT, Central v. Agrawal Infrabuild (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 153 / (2026) 484 ITR 558 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Sale of shares-Short-term capital loss-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 260A]

Assessee sold its shares in one company to three entities and declared a short-term capital loss on the sale. Assessing Officer doubted the genuineness of transactions and held that the sum received on account of the sale of shares was taxable under section 68. Tribunal, after referring to bank statements of three purchaser companies, held that purchasers had sufficient funds at their disposal for the acquisition of shares and further noted the net worth of these companies and deleted additions. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2012-13)

PCIT v. Hamlet (2025) 307 Taxman 248 (Karn.)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital received from three companies-Mere proof of identity of investors insufficient-Assessee must establish creditworthiness and genuineness-Tribunal ignored AO's findings-Addition restored by High court [S. 260A]

The Assessing Officer had made an addition under Section 68 on the ground that the assessee failed to satisfactorily explain the nature and source of share application money received from three companies. The AO examined the genuineness and creditworthiness of the transactions and concluded that the assessee had not discharged its onus. However, the Tribunal deleted the addition, holding that the assessee had established identity and discharged its burden. The High Court reversed the Tribunal's decision, observing that mere proof of identity of the investor does not suffice under Section 68; the assessee must also prove the creditworthiness of the investors and the genuineness of the transactions, including their financial capacity to invest. The Court noted that the Tribunal had ignored material evidence considered by the AO and failed to address findings regarding creditworthiness and genuineness. Consequently, the High Court restored the AO's addition. (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

PCIT v. Jaguar Buildcon Pvt. Ltd (2025) 481 ITR 477 /177 taxmann.com 504 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : Jaguar Buildcon Pvt. Ltd v. PCIT (2025) 481 ITR 493/306 Taxman 349 (SC), SLP of assessee dismissed.

S.68: Cash credits-Share Capital-Identity and creditworthiness of Share applicant companies-Financial statements-Deletion of addition affirmed. [S. 260A]

The assessee satisfied the Tribunal as to the identity and creditworthiness of the share applicant companies. In examining the creditors of the share applicant companies, the Tribunal perused the share applicant companies' financial statements and noted that they possessed sufficient funds, and that the amounts invested in the purchase of shares were negligible in comparison to their overall creditworthiness. The Tribunal further observed that the source of the share application money had already been taxed in the hands of the share applicants, and therefore, taxing the same amount again in the hands of the assessee company would amount to double taxation. Accordingly, it was held by the High Court that no substantial question of law arose for consideration in the appeal. (AY. 2012-13)

Pr. CIT v. One Point Commercial (P.) Ltd. (2025)306 Taxman 7 /2026) 484 ITR 421 (Cal.)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Addition on the basis of DVO valuation-Property of the assessee neither sold nor transferred-Share transfer between shareholders-No income in the hands of assessee company-The acquisition of an indirect interest in property through share transfer does not divest the assessee of its ownership, and any tax incidence, if applicable, would be confined to the transacting shareholders-Addition deleted.[S. 260A]

On appeal by the assessee the Court held that the Assessing Officer was not justified in making an addition in the hands of the assessee company under section 68 solely on the basis of an estimated market value of a property for the purpose of valuation of shares transferred by the shareholders, since the same property was neither sold nor transferred by the assessee company. The Court noted that although a Memorandum of Understanding was found during the search proceedings indicating a transfer of shares, the assessee had not transferred any title or interest in the property and continued to remain its owner. It was further observed that the transaction, if any, was undertaken between the shareholders through transfer of shares, and accordingly, any income or deemed income could arise only in the hands of the transferor shareholders and not in the hands of the assessee company. The Court also clarified that the acquisition of an indirect interest in property through share transfer does not divest the assessee of its ownership, and any tax incidence, if applicable, would be confined to the transacting shareholders.(AY. 2011-12)

Snerea Properties (P.) Ltd v. ACIT (2025) 306 Taxman 126 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Shell company-Accommodation entries-Commission income was offered-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition as unexplained credits was affirmed by the High Court. [S. 153C, 260A]

During search of Naresh Kuamr jain & jain brothers, incriminating documents were found which revealed that assessee was used as conduit for routing accommodation entries to ultimate beneficiaries. Assessing Officer made addition of credits found in accounts of assessee as unexplained under section 68. CIT(A) deleted the addition. Tribunal up held the order of CIT(A). On appeal the Court held that credit introduced in books of assessee, a shell company, was matched by a debit to other entities used to route funds to ultimate beneficiaries and commission for providing entries to beneficiaries would be real income of Jain Brothers and there was no material to indicate that assessee had earned any commission income. Unexplained credits were liable to be taxed in hands of beneficiaries and since same had been done, there was no occasion of taxing channels through which amounts were routed. Order of Tribunal deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

PCIT v. Third Generation Traders (P.) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 299 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unsecured loans-Amount disclosed cannot be considered as undisclosed-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition was affirmed. [S. 132, 260A]

Assessee had reflected receipt of unsecured loans aggregating ₹ 10.96 crores from two separate companies. The Assessing Officer held that transactions of receipt of unsecured loans were sham transactions as neither of two entities were found to be genuine and accordingly made additions under section 68 of the Act. CIT(A) deleted the addition. Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). On appeal, the High Court held that since assessee's case was not required to be examined as a stand alone case by ignoring disclosures made by its group company which had admittedly introduced funds and debited them in books of account of assessee, amount as disclosed could no longer be considered as unexplained. Order of Tribunal deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

PCIT (Central) v. R B Farms and Estates (P.) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 576 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Shares-Sale of property-DVO's report estimating market value of property that was neither sold nor transferred by assessee-Incidence of tax, if any, would be confined to transacting parties-Addition affirmed by the Tribunal deleted.[S. 260A]

During search in case of group companies of assessee, a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) was found, indicating that 50 per cent share in a jointly held property had been transferred to a third party. Based on DVO's report estimating market value of property at ₹150 crores, Assessing Officer made addition under section 68 of the Act. DVO also reported that no investment or structural changes were made by assessee during relevant year. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal by revenue, the Tribunal reversed the finding of CIT(A). On appeal the High Court held that the assessee had not transferred any title or interest in said property, and that transaction, if any, was between shareholders of assessee company by way of share transfer to third party. Therefore, income or deemed income had arisen in hands of transferors and not assessees. Thus, Assessing Officer was not justified in making additions under section 68 on basis of estimation of market value of property that had neither been sold nor transferred by assessees. Therefore incidence of tax, if any, would be confined to transacting parties. (AY.2011-12)

Snerea Properties (P) Ltd. v ACIT (2025) 347 CTR 722 / 254 DTR 165 / 306 Taxman 126 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Unsecured loan-Assessee failed to prove genuineness of loan from struck-off company by not producing erstwhile directors or cogent evidence-Addition sustained-Plea that S. 41(1) applies rejected, as no genuine liability ever came into existence. [S. 41(1)]

The assessee claimed that Rs. 14 lakhs credited in its books was an unsecured loan from Gee Wire Pvt Ltd. The so-called loan agreement was found to be highly unusual, as it carried no interest, imposed no real repayment obligation, and contained vague repayment terms dependent on mutual consent. Since the lender was a private limited company that had been struck off, the assessee was expected to establish genuineness by producing its erstwhile directors or other reliable evidence, but failed to do so. The contention that the AO ought to have issued notice to the lender was rejected, as the initial onus under section 68 was on the assessee and stood undischarged. The plea that section 41(1) and not section 68 applied was also rejected, since once the very genuineness of the loan was not proved, no enforceable liability had ever crystallised in law. Accordingly, the addition under section 68 was upheld..(AY. 2018-19)

Valley Iron and Steel Co. Ltd v.PCIT [2024] 159 taxmann.com 1179 / (2025) 480 ITR 244 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial :SLP rejected, Valley Iron and Steel Company Ltd v. PCIT [2025] 181 taxmann.com 348 / 480 ITR 248 (SC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital / Share premium-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-Deletion of addition justified-No substantial question of law. [S. 260A]

The assessee received share capital and share premium which was added by the AO under s. 68. In appeal, the CIT(A) called for two remand reports and, on examination of the material, held that the identity and creditworthiness of the share applicant companies stood established. The AO himself recorded that the investments were made on personal contact and persuasion but failed to analyse the implication thereof. The CIT(A) observed that the AO had not doubted the identity and creditworthiness of the subscribers but had only questioned the high share premium. On facts, the CIT(A) noted that the assessee-company had shown substantial growth of about 39%, held impressive inventories of quoted equity shares (Rs. 8.38 crores as on 31-3-2011 and Rs. 9.36 crores as on 31-3-2012), and its audited results reflected profits growing more than three times between AYs 2011-12 and 2012-13, with corresponding increase in earnings per share. It was thus held that the assessee was a growing and profit-making company and the premium charged was justified. The Tribunal, after re-examining the entire material including a paper book of 1029 pages, affirmed the order of the CIT(A) and deleted the addition. On further appeal, the High Court held that the findings were purely factual and no substantial question of law arose; the Tribunal was justified in deleting the addition under S 68. (AY. 2012-13)

PCIT v. Wise Investment (P) Ltd. (2025) 175 taxmann.com 692/ 345 CTR 218 / 251 DTR 1 (Cal)(HC)

PCIT v. Femina Stock Management Company Ltd (2025) 175 taxmann.com 692/ 345 CTR 218 / 251 DTR 1 (Cal)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Demonetisation-Small borrowers-Statement not considered-Principle of natural justice-Matter remanded to Assessing Officer for fresh consideration-Taxation Laws (Second Amendment) Bill, 2016 (2016) 389 ITR (St.) 14, 21) [S. 133(6), 143(3), Art. 226]

Court set aside to the Assessing Officer for comparing the earlier years statement of accounts and the assessee shall be granted personal hearing. (SJ) (AY.2017-18)

S.M.I.L.E. Microfinance Ltd v. ACIT (2025) 479 ITR 172 /179 taxmann.com 65 (Mad)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unexplained investment-Ex parte assessment order-Concurrent findings by authorities below that assessee failed to prove source of deposits-No substantial question of law arose. [S.69,133(6), 143(3), 144, 260A]

Assessee failing to respond to multiple notices Assessment completed ex parte Unexplained deposits in bank account treated as income under sections 68 and 69A. Assessee remaining non-responsive during proceedings before Commissioner (Appeals) Explanation offered without substantiation that amounts were cash collected by assessee as recovery agent from its borrowers located in Naxal affected areas and deposited in his account found to be unreasonable by Tribunal Concurrent findings by authorities below that assessee failed to prove source of deposits. No substantial question of law arose. (AY.2012-13)

Dinesh Singh Chouhan v. ITO (2024] 168 taxmann.com 590 / (2025) 479 ITR 451 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

Editorial : SLP rejected, Dinesh Singh Chouhan v ITO (2025) 479 ITR 461/ 179 taxmann.com 252 (SC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Trading in shares-Claim of long-term capital gains-Shares of company suspended by stock exchange Cannot be reason to make additions in absence of any material to suggest that purchase and sale of such shares were bogus-Deletion of addition by the Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 10(38), 45, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the purchase and sale of shares and it was also found by the Department that the assessee was holding shares of other fifteen companies and it had continued to hold the shares over three years and therefore, sale of the shares were not bogus merely on the basis of suspicion on account of the fact that a substantial quantum of capital gains had been earned by the assessee on account of trading in respect of those shares. Merely because trading in the shares of the company N were suspended by the stock exchange, in the absence of any material brought on record to suggest that purchase and sale of these shares were bogus, the Assessing Officer was not justified in his finding that there had been collusion or connivance between the broker and the assessee for the introduction of his own unaccounted money, resulting into a bogus transaction. The deletion of the addition by the Tribunal was justified.(AY. 2015-16)

PCIT v. Ambalal Chimanlal Patel [2024] 162 taxmann.com 892 / (2025) 478 ITR 514 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share premium-Notices served on companies returning unserved Inspector reporting companies non-existent-Order of Tribunal affirmed-No question of law. [S. 133(6), 260A]

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that when the notices were issued to the shareholding companies under section 133(6) of the Act they were returned unserved, and the companies were found to be non-existent followed by the fact that the inspector too came out with a report itself that the companies did not exist. The investment which was made by two companies their proof of identity of creditors and the capacity of creditors to advance money and genuineness of transaction fell apart when the company was found to be non-existent. The assessee having failed to discharge the onus of section 68 of the Act, no question of law arose. The addition was affirmed. (AY.2014-15]

Sumit Global Pvt. Ltd v. ITO (2025) 475 ITR 62 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share application-Identity, genuineness and creditworthiness of investors proved-Order of Tribunal is affirmed-Business expenditure-Income taxed twice-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S.37(1), 133(6), 133A, 145(3), 260A]

Order of Tribunal deleting the addition on account of cash credits and estimating the net profit was affirmed. (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

PCIT v. Garg Acrylics Ltd (2025) 476 ITR 737 /305 Taxman 285 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Penny Stock-Loss-Bogus claim of loss on trading of shares-Principles of natural justice-Tribunal erred in relying on coordinate bench decision without examining facts-Organized tax evasion-Exception to CBDT Circular No. 5 of 2024 dt.15-3-2024, para 3.1 (h) (2024) 462 ITR 273 (St), applies-Monitory limits is not applicable-Order of the Tribunal was set aside-Substantial question of law was answered in favour of revenue. [S. 143(2), 142(1), 143(3), 254(1) 260A, 268A]

The assessee, an NBFC, claimed loss of ₹51,33,870/-in trading of shares of Radford Global Ltd. and Shreenath Commercial for AY 2014-15, set off against interest income. The AO, based on investigation reports and SEBI/SAT findings, held the transactions to be sham, pre-arranged circular trades in penny stocks involving cartel operators, and disallowed the loss applying the test of human probabilities Sumati Dayal v. CIT (1995)214 ITR 801 (SC)). CIT(A) confirmed the addition, holding no violation of natural justice since material was disclosed and cross-examination was not a vested right (CIT v. Swati Bajaj (2022) 446 ITR 56 (Cal))(HC). The

Tribunal, however, without examining facts, allowed the appeal merely by relying on Namokar Builders Pvt.Ltd v. PCIT(ITA 762/Kol/2022 dt. 9-5-2024)(Kol) (Trib). On appeal, the High Court held that the Tribunal committed a serious error of law by not examining facts and blindly following a coordinate bench order. It restored the additions, holding that the assessee's transactions were sham and covered under organized tax evasion through penny stocks, thus falling within Exception (h) of CBDT Circular No. 5/2024 dated 15.03.2024. Reliance placed by assessee on PCIT v. Krishna Devi(Smt) (2021) 279 Taxman 148 (Delhi)(HC), PCIT v. Dipansu Mohapatra ((2024) 463 ITR 678 (Orissa.)(HC)) and CIT v. Nilesh Jain (HUF) (2024) 163 taxmann.com 229 (MP)(HC) was distinguished. Appeal of the Revenue allowed, questions answered in its favour. (AY.2014-15)

PCIT (Central-2), Kolkata v. Zulu Merchandise Pvt. Ltd (2025) 177 taxmann.com 160 (Cal)(HC)

Editorial: Zulu Merchandise (P.) Ltd.v. ITO [ITA No. 553/Kol/2024 dated 23-09-2024] (Para 22) Reversed. The Calcutta High Court has reinforced its earlier ruling in Swati Bajaj that penny stock transactions lacking commercial rationale must be tested on human probabilities and can be disallowed even if routed through stock exchange, Demat and banking channels. The judgment is significant as it clarifies that such cases constitute "organized tax evasion" falling under the exception to CBDT's low tax effect circulars, enabling Revenue appeals irrespective of monetary limits.

S. 68 : Cash credits-Advance against sale of land-Creditworthiness not in doubt-Flaw in the document cannot justify the addition-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. [S.260A]

Assessee received a certain amount from buyer Unitech Ltd as advance for land. AO treated it as unexplained due to irregularity in stamp paper date. CIT(A) and ITAT found identity, creditworthiness, and genuineness proved.

High Court held flaw in documentation alone cannot justify addition when transaction is tax neutral and source undisputed. Appeal of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2010-11)

Pr. CIT v. Nucleus Steel (P.) Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 58 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unexplained investment-Natural justice-Show cause issued under s. 68-Final order passed under s. 69A without opportunity-Order set aside [S. 69, 144B, 147, Art. 226]

Revenue issued a show-cause proposing addition under S. 68, but the final order made addition under S. 69A without giving opportunity to the assessee. This was held to be violative of natural justice, and the assessment was set aside with direction to pass fresh order after granting reasonable hearing. (AY. 2016-17) (SJ)

Vishal Jhajharia v. Assessment Unit ITD (2024) 164 taxmann.com 781 / (2025) 343 CTR 478 (Cal)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Conversion of loan into equity-Source of source proved-Deletion upheld-No substantial question of law.[S. 260A, CPC,1908, S.100]

CIT(A) deleted addition after verifying identity, creditworthiness, and genuineness of shareholders; Tribunal affirmed holding no fresh credit was received, only conversion of loan into equity with source explained. Both appellate authorities having recorded findings of fact, High Court held no substantial question of law arose. (AY. 2011-12 to 2015-16 & 2017-18)

CIT v. Goldstone Cements Ltd. (2025) 343 CTR 562 / 247 DTR 465 (Gauhati)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Issue of shares against goodwill-No cash receipt-Provisions of section 68 were not attracted.[S. 260A]

Assessee allotted shares to Mr. Surinder Kumar Kaushik towards goodwill without monetary consideration. AO made addition u/s 68. CIT(A) and ITAT deleted addition as there was no cash receipt and entry was explained. High Court upheld deletion on the ground that since the transaction did not represent an actual receipt of any cash in hands provisions of the section 68 were not attracted. (AY. 2015-16)

Pr. CIT v. Zexus Air Services (P.) Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 410 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share application-Accommodation entries-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of transactions are established-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed-Statement is retracted-Order of Tribunal is affirmed [S. 132(4), 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that Tribunal had noted that assessee had furnished each and every document required for proving identity, creditworthiness of share applicants and genuineness of transactions, however, Assessing Officer had not been able to brought on record any evidence to show that cash was paid by assessee to any person for obtaining accommodation entries in form of share application money. Court also held that as matter of record that SCS had retracted his statements given before the Assessing Officer. On facts addition made by the Assessing Officer was without any basis. Followed Pullangode Rubber Produce Co Ltd v. State of Kerala (1973) 91 ITR 18 (SC) (AY. 2011-12)

PCIT v. Esspal International (P.) Ltd.(2025) 473 ITR 329 (Raj) (HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital and share premium-Creditworthiness and genuineness is established-Subscribers complied with the notices issued u/s 133(6) of the Act. [S.133(6), 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that, all are Income-tax assesseees, filed their returns of income, share application form and allotment letters were available on record, share application money was paid by account payee cheques, details of the bank accounts belonging to share applicants and their bank statements were on record, in none of the transactions, there were any deposit of cash before issuing cheques to the assessee and, all the share applicants had substantial creditworthiness represented by their capital and reserves. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v.Delta Dealers Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 473 ITR 48 (Cal)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Established source and capacity of the parties-Order of Tribunal is affirmed.[S.260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that since Tribunal had dealt with all grounds raised by revenue in order impugned and had passed a well reasoned and speaking order taking into consideration all material available on record. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY.2013-14)

PCIT v. Mukul Kakar (2024) 166 taxmann.com 199 / (2025) 473 ITR 59 (MP)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Long term capital gains-Penny stock-Order of Tribunal allowing the exemption is affirmed.[S. 10(38), 45, 260A]

Assessee filed its return of income claiming exemption of long-term capital gains on sale of shares under section 10(38). Assessing Officer disallowed exemption claimed by assessee on ground that said shares were penny stocks used for generating bogus long-term capital gains. Tribunal held that the shares of company in which assessee had invested did not appear in AIR report of revenue which related to trading in penny stock. Further, name of alleged company did not appear in list of 331 suspended companies and no adverse inference was drawn by SEBI. On appeal, dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court up held the order of the Tribunal.(AY. 2013-2014)

PCIT v. Sawankumar T Jajoo (2025) 473 ITR 201 / 171 Taxmann.com 26 (Cal)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unsecured loan-Furnished documents to prove identity, genuineness and credit worthiness of parties-Matter remanded back to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. [S. 143(3), Art. 226]

Assessee-firm is engaged in business of manufacture and sale of tobacco. Assessee had repaid loan during year under consideration out of unsecured loans taken from different parties. Assessing Officer made additions under section 68 on ground that no substantial document was furnished to prove genuineness and creditworthiness of unsecured loans received. On writ the Court held that the assessee had furnished all relevant documents containing copy of ledger account from its audited books, confirmation of respective depositor with PAN number, copy of its bank statements, copy of ITR filed by respective depositors and copy of bank statements of respective depositors from where funds were provided-No dispute had been raised by revenue with regard to submission of aforesaid documents by assessee during assessment proceedings. Since Assessing Officer had made additions without considering documents placed on record, impugned assessment order was to be set aside and matter was to be remanded back to Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. (AY. 2018-19)

Shah Tobacco Trading Co. v. Add. ACIT (2025) 302 Taxman 219 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposit in the bank-No reasonable explanation-Addition is affirmed. [S.260A]

Held that In view of the concurrent findings of fact, arrived at by the authorities, no question of law, much less any substantial question of law arose from the order of the Tribunal.(AY.2015-16)

Mathurbhai P. Viradiya, HUF v. ITO (2025) 472 ITR 217 (Guj)(HC)

S. 68: Cash credits-Credit transfer received by other family members and group concerns could not be assumed to be assessee's undisclosed income where AO failed to establish that assessee was de facto owner of bank accounts of various recipients.

[S. 132, 260A]

The Hon'ble Kerala High Court in appeals preferred by the Revenue decided questions of law involving conditions to invoke S. 68 of the Act for making additions. It was observed that, undisputedly, the transactions have taken place through banking channels. On the basis of documentary evidence, it could be said that the requisite onus as required to be discharged under S. 68 was duly discharged by the assessee, and it was the onus of the revenue to dislodge the same. However, upon perusal of orders of lower authorities, the Court found that no cogent material or evidence was on record to dislodge the claim of the assessee; rather the additions were based more on allegations, surmises, conjectures and mere suspicion. Accordingly, the Court concluded that the decision of Tribunal did not warrant any interference and consequently, the appeals were dismissed.(AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

PCIT (Central v. M.K. Rajendran Pillai Rajavalsam [2025] 302 Taxman 512/344 CTR 102 / 247 DTR 299 (Ker)(HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Failure to furnish source, identity of parties and genuineness of transaction-Shell companies-A racket of illegal business of providing accommodation entries-Accommodation entry provider-Credit appearing in the bank account-Books of account-, Data appearing in 2 CDs are extracted by the investigating wing from books of account-Statement on oath-Order of the Tribunal is reversed-Order of CIT(A) is affirmed-The Court also directed the Institute of Chartered Accountant of India to take disciplinary action, initiate proceedings under Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, launch prosecution under Income-tax Act, and also directed the CCIT to conduct an enquiry and fix the responsibility against the officer responsible for the for not giving effect to the order of CIT(A). Court also directed the Registry of the High Court is to forward copy of the order to Disciplinary

Committee of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, National Financial Reporting Authority, The Commissioner of Police-Economic Offence Wing, Mumbai, Enforcement Director under PMLA Act, The Chief Commissioner of Income-tax, Mumbai Ministry of Corporate Affairs. [S. 2(12A), 44AB, 69, 131, 132(4), 279, Chartered Accountant's Act, 1949. Indian Penal Code/BNS, 2023.]

The assessee company is in the business of providing accommodation entries on commission basis. The assessee has admitted that they are in "a racket of illegal business of providing accommodation entries" In the assessment proceedings the director of the assessee company Mr. Mukesh Choksi, on oath has admitted that the company is providing accommodation entries. The Assessing Officer made addition under Section 68 of the Act amounting to Rs.10,73,52,553/-under the head Income from other sources. The said addition was made on the ground that the credits appearing in the disclosed and undisclosed bank accounts of the respondent-assessee are unexplained, and since no details or explanation regarding the identity, source and genuineness of such deposits were submitted, the same were treated as unexplained cash credits. On appeal the CIT(A) confirmed the addition of 0.37% as against 0.15% offered by the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal reduced the addition from 0.37% to 0.15%. On appeal by Revenue the Court held that the Respondent assessee can not contend that they will not give details of beneficiaries, but at the same time, credits cannot be assessed in its hands. Court observed that how the revenue can find out to whom the credits belong to unearth unaccounted income. The respondent-assessee cannot act as a shield for beneficiaries by making such a submission and at the same time refuse to pay taxes for the unexplained amounts in its bank accounts. Court observed that "we will be failing in our duty as a Court of law if we do not comment on the accommodation entry provider, Mr. Mukesh Choksi through his web of shell companies and various admissions made by the counsel for the respondent-assessee. It is also important to note that Mr Mukesh Choksi, director of the respondent-assessee in his answer to question No.14 of the statement has admitted that he was a practicing Chartered Accountant but has surrendered the Certificate of Practice (COP) in 1993 and thereafter is only engaged in the business of providing accommodation entries. He has also stated that search action has been taken against him/his companies more than once.”. The Court allowed the appeal of the Revenue and affirmed the order of the CIT(A). The Court directed the Institute of Chartered Accountant of India to take disciplinary action, the appropriate authority to initiate proceedings under Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, Prosecution under Income-tax Act, directed the CCIT to conduct an enquiry and fix the responsibility against the officer responsible for the same for not giving effect to the order of CIT(A). Court also directed the Registry of the High Court to forward a copy of the order to the Disciplinary Committee of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India; National Financial Reporting Authority; The Commissioner of Police-Economic Offence Wing, Mumbai; Enforcement Director under PMLA Act; The Chief Commissioner of Income-tax, Mumbai; Ministry of Corporate Affairs. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Buniyad Chemicals Ltd. (2025) 474 ITR 452 / 304 Taxman 560 / 343 CTR 773 / 248 DTR 65 (Bom) (HC)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Cash credits-Share Capital-Share Premium-Second Reassessment-Natural justice-The material gathered was not furnished to the assessee, resulting in violation of section 142(3) and the principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the addition was deleted. [S. 142(3), 144, 147, 263]

Pursuant to an order under section 263 directing a fresh enquiry into share capital and share premium, the Assessing Officer, in the second round of reassessment, made an addition under section 68 without conducting a proper enquiry and without confronting the assessee with the material collected. The Tribunal held that although the validity of the revision order under section 263 had attained finality, the addition under section 68 could not be sustained. In the original reassessment proceedings, the assessee had already established the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of all share applicants by producing confirmations, audited financial statements, income-tax returns and bank statements, which had been duly verified by the Assessing Officer. In the second reassessment, no fresh incriminating material was brought on record, relevant enquiries directed under section 263 were not properly carried out, and the material gathered was not furnished to the assessee, resulting in violation of section 142(3) and the principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the addition under section 68 was deleted. (AY. 2008-09)

Goodview Marketing (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 8 / 172 taxmann.com 46 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits Unsecured loan-Share application money-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness proved-Assessee not required to explain source of source where creditor had sufficient own funds-Addition deleted.[S. 133(6)]

The assessee received unsecured loans from a creditor alleged by the Assessing Officer to be a shell entity providing accommodation entries. The assessee furnished complete details, including the creditor's name, address, PAN, confirmations, bank statements, financial statements and income-tax returns establishing that the transactions were through banking channels. The creditor's own assessment had accepted the source of its share capital after enquiry under section 133(6), and it possessed sufficient reserves and surplus to advance the loan. The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the initial onus under section 68 by proving the identity and creditworthiness of the creditor and the genuineness of the transactions. The assessee was not required to prove the source of the creditor's funds when the creditor's financial capacity stood established. The deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 2015-16, 2016-17.)

ITO v. Vastimal Bhim Raj Sancheti (2025) 121 ITR 677 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Addition was deleted-the enhanced rate under section 115BBE was not applicable for A.Y. 2017-18-Agricultural income-Ad hoc disallowance of 10% was deleted. [S. 115BBE]

The assessee's appeal was filed belatedly as no physical copy of the appellate order had been received, and the assessee was unaware of the order due to irregular checking of the Department's portal. The Tribunal condoned the delay, holding that it was neither intentional nor deliberate. On merits, the Assessing Officer had treated cash deposits made during the demonetisation period as unexplained cash credits under section 68 and taxed the same under section 115BBE. The Tribunal observed that no independent enquiry had been conducted regarding the assessee's agricultural holdings or agricultural receipts and that the claim had not been disproved. Considering the facts, an ad hoc disallowance of 10% of Rs. 27,14,000 was held sufficient to safeguard the interests of the Revenue. The Tribunal further held that the enhanced rate under section 115BBE was not applicable for A.Y. 2017-18. (AY. 2017-18)

Sureshbhai Bhiukhabhai Patel v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 5 (SN) (Surat)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Unexplained Money-Senior citizen-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Agricultural income-Lump sum addition-Addition restricted to lump sum disallowance of Rs 62 000-Section 115BBE was inapplicable as the deposits were from explained sources and directed taxation under the normal provisions of the Act-The decision was rendered on the peculiar facts of the case and was not to be treated as a precedent. [S. 69A, 115BBE]

The assessee, a senior citizen engaged in agricultural activities for several years, explained cash deposits made during the demonetisation period by producing five years' income-tax returns showing agricultural income, ledger accounts, bank passbooks, revenue records (Forms 7/12 and 8A) and electricity bills relating to agricultural operations. The Tribunal held that the documentary evidence established that the deposits represented agricultural income. Since the Department had not doubted the agricultural activities or the evidence produced, the Commissioner (Appeals) was not justified in sustaining part of the addition. However, to take care of minor inconsistencies, a lump sum disallowance of Rs. 62,000 was considered appropriate instead of the sustained addition of Rs. 6,20,000. The Tribunal further held that section 115BBE was inapplicable as the deposits were from explained sources and directed taxation under the normal provisions of the Act. The decision was rendered on the peculiar facts of the case and was not to be treated as a precedent. (AY. 2017-18)

Ambarambhai Velabhai Jetpariya v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 1 (SN) (Rajkot)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Partner's capital contribution-Partner was assessed to tax, and the source of the capital contribution was proved-Addition in the hands of the firm was not sustainable.

The AO treated cash introduced as partner capital as unexplained income under section 68 of the Act. The assessee explained that the partner had received funds from Sarvodaya Mining Services and provided supporting books, cash records, and balance sheet evidence. On appeal, the ITAT agreed that the source of funds was explained and relied on the principle that capital introduced by a partner cannot generally be taxed in the hands of the firm when the partner is identifiable and a taxpayer. The deletion of the addition was upheld. [AY. 2017-18.]

Anjana Construction v. ACIT (2025) 128 ITR 148 (Jodhpur)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Reassessment-AO reopened case of assessee on the ground of large cash deposits in bank accounts-However, reassessment was ended with a disallowance under section 80P-Since no addition was made on account of cash deposit, the disallowance was not sustainable. [S. 80P, 147,148]

The assessee, a cooperative society, was issued a notice under section 148 on the basis of information under the head 'NMS' that the assessee had deposited cash in 3 bank accounts maintained with the Central Cooperative Bank Ltd. The assessee filed a nil return claiming a deduction under section 80P. Ultimately, the case of the assessee was assessed at Rs.13,04,658 after disallowing the deduction claimed under section 80P. On appeal to the ITAT, it was held that where the AO reopened the case of the assessee on the ground of large cash deposits in bank accounts, but the reassessment was ended with a disallowance under section 80P, without making any addition on account of cash deposits, the disallowance made by the AO was not sustainable in law. [AY. 2019-20]

Balithal Gram Seva Sahakari Samiti Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 417 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital and premium-Identity, genuineness of transaction and creditworthiness of investor were established-Addition deleted.

The assessee had received a certain amount on account of share capital, including share premium. The AO treated the aforesaid share capital as unexplained cash credit under section 68 and added it back to the total income of the assessee. On the revenue's appeal, ITAT held that where identity, genuineness of transaction and creditworthiness of investor were unambiguously established by assessee in respect of share capital and premium raised by issue of preferential shares, CIT(A) had rightly deleted the addition. [AY. 2009-10, 2012-13]

ACIT v. Doshion Veolia Water Solution (P.) Ltd. (2025) 128 ITR 128 (Mum)(Trib.)

ACIT v. Doshion Water Solutions P. Ltd 2025) 128 ITR 128 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Loose sheets / Excel sheets found during search-No corroborative evidence-A seized loose sheet or Excel sheet, by itself, cannot justify additions under sections 68 or 69C unless the Revenue establishes ownership of the document, its nexus with the assessee, and corroborates the entries with independent evidence. Documents must be read in their entirety and not selectively. Additions were deleted.[S.69C, 115BBE]

The assessee, a salaried employee of the Homeland Group, was subjected to search proceedings. During the search, certain loose papers and Excel sheets titled "BTD-2011" were found containing names of parties, proposed borrowings, cash entries, credit limits, collateral securities and financial details of various group companies. Based solely on these documents, the Assessing Officer treated the entries as unexplained cash credits under section 68 and unexplained expenditure under section 69C and made additions for A.Ys. 2017-18, 2018-19 and 2019-20. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee was merely a salaried employee managing the financial affairs of the group and had no independent business or personal books of account. The seized documents, when read as a whole, clearly relate to the borrowings and financial planning of various group entities and not to the assessee personally. The Assessing Officer failed to establish that the entity "BTD-2011" belonged to the assessee or that the entries represented his unexplained transactions. During remand proceedings, several entries were found to tally with the books of account of group companies, supporting the assessee's explanation that the sheets were only projections and financing proposals. No unexplained cash, jewellery, investment or asset was found during the search to corroborate the alleged undisclosed income. Loose sheets, without independent corroborative evidence, cannot be the sole basis for additions under sections 68 or 69C. Accordingly, the additions under sections 68 and 69C read with section

115BBE were rightly deleted, and the Revenue's appeals were dismissed. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19, 2019-20)

DCIT v. Kapil Romana [2025] 128 ITR 368 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Burden of proof-Share application money-Assessee filing documents such as income-tax returns, confirmations, bank statements, income-tax notices and assessment orders of share applicants-Assessing Officer not making independent enquiry or calling for particulars from parties who advanced money-Addition was deleted.

The assessee received share application money and, during assessment proceedings, furnished complete documentary evidence, including income-tax returns, confirmations, bank statements, assessment orders and other supporting records of the investor companies. The Assessing Officer, without conducting any independent enquiry or pointing out any discrepancy in the documents, treated the share application money as unexplained cash credit under section 68. On appeal the Tribunal held that once the assessee produced cogent documentary evidence establishing the identity of the investors, their creditworthiness and the genuineness of the transactions, the initial burden under section 68 stood discharged. The Assessing Officer neither conducted any independent enquiry nor summoned the investors nor pointed out any infirmity in the evidence produced. In the absence of any contrary material, the addition under section 68 was unsustainable and was liable to be deleted. (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT v. Signature Global (India) (P.) Ltd. [2025] 128 ITR 30 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Interest on loans-No disallowance when assessee proves identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of lenders and loans accepted by Revenue-Addition was deleted. [S. 37(1)]

Pursuant to information gathered during a search in the case of a third party, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessment and disallowed interest paid on loans alleged to be bogus. The assessee produced affidavits, income-tax returns, bank statements and other documentary evidence establishing the identity and creditworthiness of the lenders and the genuineness of the transactions. The loans had been accepted in the years in which they were taken and were subsequently repaid. Since no addition was made towards the principal amount of the loans and the Revenue failed to rebut the evidence produced by the assessee, the Tribunal held that the disallowance of interest was unjustified and directed its deletion. (AY. 2011-12)

Rakesh Gupta Family Trust v. Asst. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 162 (Mum.)(Trib.).

S. 68: Cash credits-Purchase expenditure cannot be assessed as unexplained cash credit or unexplained expenditure where the source of payment is not disputed. [S. 69C, 250]

The Assessing Officer treated purchases as unexplained expenditure under section 69C, and the Commissioner (Appeals) further invoked section 68. The Tribunal held that section 68 applies only where there is an unexplained credit in the books, whereas the present case related to expenditure already recorded by the assessee. Further, the source of payment was never doubted, and the purchases pertained to an earlier year. Therefore, neither section 68 nor section 69C was applicable, and the additions were liable to be deleted. The enhancement made by the Commissioner (Appeals) by invoking section 68 without granting an opportunity of hearing was also held to be unsustainable. (AY. 2009-10 & 2013-14)

Feather Infotech (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 1 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Once the assessee establishes the identity and creditworthiness of the shareholders and the genuineness of the transaction, the burden shifts to the Assessing Officer. Addition was deleted.

The assessee received share capital and share premium from nine corporate shareholders and furnished complete documentary evidence including PAN, share application forms, bank statements, income-tax returns, audited financial statements, details of reserves and surplus and the immediate source of funds to establish the identity, creditworthiness of the subscribers and the genuineness of the transactions. The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the primary onus cast under section 68 and, thereafter, it was incumbent upon the Assessing Officer to conduct an independent enquiry. Since no discrepancy was found in the evidence furnished and the Assessing Officer failed to make any independent verification, the addition under section 68 was rightly deleted. (AY. 2009-10)

ITO v. Express Tradelink (P.) Ltd. (2025) 130 ITR 282 (Kol.)(Trib.)

Editorial: Affirmed in PCIT v. Express Tradelink (P.) Ltd. [2026] 309 Taxman 369 (Cal.)(HC).

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital and premium-Newly incorporated company, no business model-500-fold premium charged only on second lot issued 27 days after first lot at nil premium-Investors unverifiable, no source of funds, director not produced-Source of funds not established-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness not substantiated-Addition as unexplained cash credit justified.

Assessee, a newly incorporated company with no business history, raised share capital at nearly 500 times face value premium in a second lot issued just 27 days after an earlier lot at nil premium, and the AO added the amount under section 68 as the director failed to appear or verify the investors, a view confirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal upheld the addition, holding that the investors themselves lacked any independent source of income, no valuation justified the premium, and with the director never produced, the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the transactions remained unsubstantiated, rendering the arrangement a camouflage. (AY. 2012-13)

Toplink Commerce Ltd v. ITO (2025) 131 ITR 503(Kol) (Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Search and seizure-Undisclosed income-Advances received through banking channels for land sale-Suppression means receipt of excess as own money outside banking channel-No correlation with specific sale-Not unaccounted sale-Addition deleted.-Advances from buyers-Addition based on book entries, not incriminating material-Confirmation, ledger, bank statements furnished-Identity/creditworthiness beyond dispute once sale deed registered-Non-filing of confirmation from few persons irrelevant-Addition deleted-Unaccounted sale consideration-Managing partner's admission vs registered sale deed-Latter to prevail-Only profit element assessable, cost subsumed in closing stock-Commissioner (Appeals)'s findings upheld-Advances not linked to identifiable plot-Confirmation, ledger, PAN furnished-Addition based on book entries not incriminating material-Identical treatment required for similarly placed parties-Addition deleted-Addition based solely on partner's statement admitting unaccounted income-Statement pertaining to partners, not assessee-No corroborating material-Addition not sustainable. [S. 132, 132(4)]

The assessee-firm faced multiple additions on advances received for land sales and unaccounted consideration, largely based on book entries and a partner's statement under section 132(4) rather than incriminating material, with the CIT(A) granting substantial relief. On cross-appeals, the Tribunal held that banking-channel advances without correlation to specific sales could not be treated as unaccounted consideration, that additions based merely on book entries where documentary evidence and registered sale deeds existed could not be sustained, that a registered sale deed prevails over a partner's inconsistent statement with only the profit element taxable, and that an addition resting solely on an uncorroborated partner's statement pertaining to partners rather than the firm was not sustainable; accordingly, the Revenue's appeal was dismissed and the assessee's allowed. (AY. 2016-17 2017-18)

S.A. Builders and Developers v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 685 (Hyd) (Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share transactions-Capital gains-Cannot be assessed as sham transaction-Addition was deleted. [S. 10(38,45)

Held that the assessee has produced bank statement and DMT statement; hence, the sale transaction cannot be assessed as a sham transaction. Capital gains exemption was allowed. (AY.2013-14)

Kavya Satija v. Dy. CIT (2025) 235 TTJ 217 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Income chargeable to tax-Revaluation of assets-Member's capital account-Revaluation of stock-in-trade in the books of accounts of AOP to recognise its present value does not trigger any tax liability either in the hands of AOP or any of its members-Addition was deleted.[S. 4]

Held that it cannot be said that any income has arisen on revaluation of assets by the AOP and crediting the amount to the capital accounts of the individual members, including the assessee in their respective shares and therefore, addition under s. 68 made in the hands of the assessee cannot be upheld. Referred, CIT v. Hind Construction Ltd (1972) 83 ITR 211 (SC) (AY. 2018-19)

DCIT v. Darshan Enterprises (2025) 236 TTJ 22 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share transactions-Long-term capital gains-Share price of KAF Ltd. had been manipulated by seven entities-Dealy was condoned-Matter remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer. [S. 10(38), 45, 254(1)]

Tribunal held that the CIT(A) deleted the addition, ignoring the final order passed by SEBI, wherein it confirmed that the share price of KAF Ltd. had been manipulated by seven entities. The matter is restored to the AO (AY. 2015-16)

ITO v. Arvind Kumar Gupta Through Legal Heir Smt. Uma Gupta (2025) 236 TTJ 482 / 176 taxmann.com 628 (Lucknow)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Amounts not credited in the books of the assessee-loss resulted in an outgo and depletion of funds-Addition was deleted.

Held that the amounts being loss which resulted in outgo and depletion of funds, were not amounts credited in the books of the assessee-firm and, therefore, the addition under S 68 made by the AO is not sustainable.(AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Shree Ganesh Commodity Brokers v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 826 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share application money-On account of convertible equity warrants from companies which are operated by an entry operator-AO was justified in treating the amount as unexplained income of the assessee. [S. 131(IA) 132(4),133(6)]

Assessee-company having shown receipt of huge amount on account of convertible equity warrants from companies operated by an entry operator Shri Shirish Chandrakant Shah which have shown negligible income, meagre capital and no business history commensurate with the quantum of investment, the AO was justified in treating the impugned amount as unexplained income of the assessee; since the assessee, doing independent business, having independent directors unrelated to Shri Shirish Chandrakant Shah and there is no contract, no instruction and no correspondence indicating that the assessee was acting on behalf of another entity; the assessee is to be regarded as the true economic owner of the money and cannot be treated as a conduit. The order of the Assessing Officer was affirmed. (AY.2014-15)

ITO v. Evexia Lifecare Ltd. (2025) 237 TTJ (Ahd) 1(Ahd)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Difference between amount of loan shown in audit report and confirmation-Filed confirmation-two separate account-Deletion of addition was affirmed.

Held that the Assessee explained that the difference between the amount of loan as shown in the audit report and the amount shown in the confirmation occurred on account of resemblance in the names of two creditors, and filed confirmation of both the creditors along with their bank statements and balance sheets, the CIT(A) rightly deleted the impugned addition. The assessee is maintaining two accounts of RF (P) Ltd., one for the loan and another for purchases and sales made from/to the latter, and the assessee has credited the amounts received from RF (P) Ltd. on various dates to separate accounts which stand corroborated by the confirmation letters of the said company and the bank statements, the addition of the whole amount is not sustainable. Difference between the amount of loan shown in audit report and confirmation/bank statement, reconciliation was filed. Addition was deleted. (AY.2014-15)

ITO v. Somila Texfab (INDIA) (P) LTD. (2024) 237 TTJ 333 (Jodhpur)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Cash deposits-Demonetization-Survey-Cash sales accepted-Auditors have certified that proper books of account as required by law have been kept by the assessee and books of account give a true and fair view of profit-The rejection of the books of account by the CIT(A) was held to be not justified-Addition was deleted. [S. 69A, 133A, 145(3)]

Held that the Department having not found any incriminating material during the survey under S. 133A showing any discrepancy in stock, cash, purchases, sales expenses and books of account or any positive material/evidence showing that the assessee was having any source of undisclosed income or that the sales shown by the assessee was not genuine, deposits of demonetized currency i.e., specified bank notes, made by the assessee in his bank accounts out of cash sales made before demonetization cannot be treated as undisclosed income and therefore, impugned addition under s. 68 is not sustainable; since the lower authorities have not pointed out any unverifiable purchases or unvouched expenses or unaccounted receipts or any specific defect in the assessee's books of accounts, which are audited by chartered accountants, CIT(A) was not justified in rejecting the books of account. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Peeyush Agarwal v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 515 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Advance received from customers of the housing project-Offered to tax such advances received in the subsequent years-Addition was not justified-Entitled to claim deduction under s. 80-IA-Addition was rejected.[S,80IA]

Held that the assessee offered to tax the advance received from its customers in the subsequent year, the impugned addition under s. 68 made by the AO in the relevant assessment year is not sustainable, more so as the assessee is also entitled to a deduction under s. 80-IA.(AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Kumar Urban Development (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 881 (Pune) Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital-Addition already made in the hands of investor companies-Amount cannot be taxed again in the hands of the assessee company as the Act does not envisage taxation of the same income twice over on one passage of money.

Held that the amount received by the assessee-company as share capital through a series of endorsements of crossed cheques among the investor companies has already been assessed as unexplained income in the hands of the respective investor companies, and the addition has been sustained in the appeals in their cases; the same amounts cannot be taxed again in the hands of the assessee. (AY. 2010-11)

ACIT v. Double Plus Software (P) LTD. (2025) 237 TTJ 769 (TM) (Delhi) Trib)

S.68: Cash credits-Genuineness of Loans-Established the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the lenders-Addition was deleted.

Where the assessee-company established the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the lenders by furnishing confirmations, bank statements, financial statements and income-tax returns, and the advances were received through banking channels and duly explained with reference to acquisition of fixed assets, the addition under section 68 was unsustainable. The Assessing Officer was directed to delete the addition. (AY. 2013-14)

Fedora Sea Foods (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 238 TTJ 104 (Hyd.)(Trib.).

S. 68: Cash credits-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Addition cannot be made on conjectures-Matter remanded.

The Tribunal held that where the assessee explained the cash deposits made during the demonetisation period with reference to its books of account and the Revenue failed to disprove the explanation through any investigation, an addition under section 68 could not be sustained on mere suspicion or conjecture. However, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination and verification of the supporting evidence in view of the provisions governing taxation under section 68 (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19).

Rohilkhand Educational Charitable Trust v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 173 / 178 taxmann.com 672 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Disclosure under IDS, 2016-Addition confined to difference between bogus share sale proceeds and income disclosed.

The Tribunal held that where the assessee had declared undisclosed income under the Income Declaration Scheme, 2016, in respect of bogus share transactions, such disclosure represented unexplained income taxable under section 68 and not long-term capital gains. The Assessing Officer rightly granted credit for the income already disclosed under IDS and made an addition only to the extent of the balance amount representing the difference between the bogus sale proceeds and the income declared under the Scheme. (AY. 2014-15)

DCIT v. Vimalar Vind Kapasi (2025) 238 TTJ 228 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Method of accounting-Opening balance of unsecured loans cannot be taxed under the section. [S. 145]

The Tribunal held that section 68 applies only to credits recorded during the relevant previous year and not to opening balances brought forward from earlier years. Accordingly, the addition under section 68 in respect of opening balances of unsecured loans was held to be unsustainable. (AY 2020-21).

ACIT v. Ramasubbu Minnalkodi (2025) 238 TTJ 337 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Addition cannot be sustained where the assessee establishes the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the share subscribers by producing confirmations, ITRs, audited financial statements, bank statements and all subscribers respond to notices under section 133(6).[S. 131, 133(6)]

The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the onus cast under section 68 by furnishing confirmations, income-tax returns, audited financial statements, bank statements and other documentary evidence of all the share subscribers. The notices issued under section 133(6) were duly complied with, and summons under section 131 were served, establishing the identity of the subscribers. The subscribers possessed substantial share capital and free reserves, and their creditworthiness could not be doubted merely because they had low recurring income. Since the Assessing Officer failed to point out any defect in the evidence produced, the addition under section 68 was deleted. (AY. 2012-13 & 2014-15 to 2016-17)

Samrat Finvestors (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 423 / 181 taxmann.com 713 (Kol.)(Trib.).

S.68: Cash credits-Bogus long-term capital gains-Genuine share transactions through stock exchange, demat account and banking channels cannot be treated as bogus in the absence of incriminating evidence. [S. 45 69C]

The assessee purchased and sold shares through the Bombay Stock Exchange, received delivery in the demat account, and all transactions were routed through banking channels. As the AO failed to establish any involvement of the assessee in price manipulation or cash trail and rejected none of the documentary evidence, the Tribunal deleted the additions under sections 68 and 69C. (AY. 2014-15).

Ashok Panwar (HUF) v. ACIT (2025) 238 TTJ 681 (Jodhpur)(Trib.)
Ashok Panwar. ACIT (2025) 238 TTJ 681 (Jodhpur)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Gift from sister-Creditworthiness and genuineness proved-Addition deleted.

The assessee received gifts from his sisters, one in cash out of the sale proceeds of property and another by cheque from funds available in the donor's bank account. The Tribunal held that the assessee had produced the registered sale deed, confirmations, gift declarations and the donor's bank statements establishing the identity of the donors, their creditworthiness and the genuineness of the transactions. Merely because one donor was not subjected to a scrutiny assessment could not be a ground to doubt her financial capacity. Since all three ingredients of section 68 stood duly established, the gifts were held to be genuine, and the additions made by the Assessing Officer were deleted. (AY. 2016-17.)

Sharad Maheshwari v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 1055 (Agra)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Cash deposit in bank-Demonetisation-Cash sales-Books of account not rejected-Figures of sales have been depicted in VAT return-Addition is deleted-Section 115BBE is applicable to transactions on or after 1st April, 2017.[S. 115BBE]

Held that the assessee has explained the cash deposits in the bank representing cash sales, and the books of account are audited, and the Assessing Officer has not rejected the books of account. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Ayesha Steels (P) Ltd v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 942 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Demonetisation-Cash deposits in bank during demonetisation period-Explanation that deposits were from recorded cash sales-Stocks existing on date of sale, no backdating-Complete stock tally maintained, books audited, no deviation in gross profit ratio, parties identified, proper invoices and VAT returns filed-No evidence of bogus sales-Cash deposits cannot be treated as unexplained income. [S. 115BBE]

The assessee, engaged in trading of gold and silver jewellery, had a sum of Rs. 2,05,75,291 deposited in the bank during the demonetisation period treated as unexplained cash credit under section 68 on the ground of abnormal increase in cash deposits and alleged manipulation of cash sales, which addition was affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the addition was not sustainable since the stock existed on the date of sale with no backdating proved, the assessee maintained a complete audited stock tally with quantitative records certified by the tax auditor, there was no deviation in the GP ratio compared to the preceding year, all parties were identified with names, addresses and PAN, proper invoices were issued and VAT duly charged, paid and returned without post-demonetisation revision, and AO had accepted the entire sales and purchases as genuine; since the cash deposits represented recorded sales already offered for taxation and no evidence of bogus sales was brought on record, a receipt could not be treated simultaneously as sale proceeds and as unexplained cash credit, and the addition was accordingly deleted.(AY. 2017-18)

Lalit R Jagawat HUF v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 192 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unexplained money-Cash deposits claimed as sale of scrap to unorganised dealers, accounted as "direct income"- No buyers' details, tax collected at source information or Form 27EQ filed-Explanation unsupported-Matter remanded for fresh verification-Reassessment-Notice-Addition deleted by Commissioner (Appeals) on technical ground of non-mention in show-cause notice-Assessing Officer had in fact discussed issue and afforded opportunity-Matter remanded for fresh verification [S. 69, 69A, 115BBE, 147, 148, 206C]

Cash deposits of Rs. 1.40 crores were added under section 68, the assessee's explanation of scrap sales being unsupported by buyers' details or Form 27EQ filings, and Rs. 43 lakhs paid in cash to another entity was added under section 69A, both deleted by CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee failed to substantiate the scrap sale claim with any statutory evidence, the matter was remanded for verification, to be deleted only if the assessee established the sales formed part of its regular books; and since AO had actually discussed the Rs. 43 lakhs issue in the SCN and given a hearing, the technical ground for deletion did not survive, and this too was remanded for fresh verification. (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Ingeneric Technologies Solutions P. Ltd. (2025) 132 ITR 794(Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Unexplained loan-Addition based solely on third-party document-Handwriting expert proving signatures forged-Addition deleted.

The reassessment was based on an unregistered document seized from the premises of a third party alleging that the assessee had advanced a loan. The assessee denied the transaction, produced a handwriting expert's report establishing that the signatures were forged and demonstrated that the document neither contained his PAN nor Aadhaar details nor was it recovered from his premises. The Tribunal held that the document had no evidentiary value, no corroborative evidence existed against the assessee and no opportunity of cross-examination had been granted. The addition under section 68 was therefore deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Rana Iqbal Singh v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 252 / 178 taxmann.com 473 (Amritsar)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Short-term capital gains-Alleged penny stock transactions-Genuine transactions through stock exchange-Addition deleted. [S.2(42B), 45, 111A, 115BBE]

The Assessing Officer treated the assessee's short-term capital gains as unexplained cash credits under section 68 alleging manipulation and price rigging by entry operators. The Tribunal held that the shares were purchased and sold through the Bombay Stock Exchange, were credited to and debited from the assessee's demat account, payments were made through banking channels, and there was no evidence linking the assessee or the brokers with any price manipulation. The clean chit granted by SEBI further supported the assessee's case. The recharacterisation of genuine short-term capital gains as unexplained cash credits was held to be unsustainable and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2014-15 to 2016-17).

Dy. CIT v. Naresh Laxminarayan Grover (2025) 126 ITR 137 / 178 taxmann.com 472 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital and unsecured loans-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-Addition deleted.

The assessee furnished complete details of shareholders and creditors including identity, cash-flow statements, bank statements and other supporting documents. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer failed to establish any nexus between the cash deposits and the assessee-company or make any meaningful enquiry regarding the source of funds. Since the assessee had discharged the initial burden of proving the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the transactions, the additions under section 68 were deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Pioneer Fabricators (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 175 taxmann.com 96 / 126 ITR 115 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unsecured loans-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-Addition deleted-Source of source-Requirement not applicable-Addition based on suspicion not sustainable. [S. 131, 133(6)]

The assessee furnished confirmations, PAN, bank statements, income-tax returns, agricultural land records and balance sheets of the loan creditors. All loans were received, and many were repaid through banking channels. The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the initial burden under section 68 by establishing the identity of the creditors, their creditworthiness and the genuineness of the transactions. The Assessing Officer failed to conduct any meaningful enquiry under sections 131 or 133(6), and mere non-compliance by certain creditors with summons could not justify the addition. The deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Assessing Officer doubted the financial capacity of the creditors on the ground of low bank balances and meagre income. The Tribunal held that for the assessment year under consideration there was no obligation upon the creditors to explain the source of source. In the absence of evidence showing that the loans represented accommodation entries or the assessee's own money, additions based merely on suspicion or probabilities were unsustainable. (AY. 2022-23).

ITO v. Agrasen Logistics (2025) 126 ITR 436 / 179 taxmann.com 86 (Agra)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital-Unsecured loan-Established identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of transaction beyond doubt-Addition deleted.

Tribunal held that there was no enquiry by the Assessing Officer to link the cash deposited with unaccounted income of the investee company. Further, assessee had established identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of transaction beyond doubt. The addition was deleted. As regards unsecured loan, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer did not make any enquiry whatsoever regarding the source of cash with the lender. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2013-14)

Pioneer Fabricators (P.) Ltd. v. Dy.CIT (2025) 126 ITR 115 / 175 taxmann.com 96 (Delhi) (Trib)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Demonetisation-Cash deposits out of recorded cash sales-Books of account not rejected-Addition deleted-Assessment-Protective addition-Cash sales-Substantive addition pending in purchaser's case-Matter remanded.[S.115BBE, 143(3), 145]

The assessee, engaged in the business of manufacture and trading of wool and woollen fabrics, deposited cash during the demonetisation period. The Assessing Officer treated the deposits as unexplained under section 68. The Tribunal held that the cash sales constituted only a small percentage of the total turnover, were duly recorded in the books of account, and the cash book, purchase and sales records, vouchers and ledger accounts were produced before the Assessing Officer. As no defect was pointed out in the books and no enquiry was conducted with the purchasers to rebut the assessee's explanation, the source of the cash deposits stood satisfactorily explained. The deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Assessing Officer made a protective addition in the assessee's hands on the ground that the sale proceeds received from one purchaser were returned to the assessee's bank account after demonetisation, while the substantive addition had already been made in the purchaser's hands. The Tribunal held that since the substantive addition was pending adjudication before the Commissioner (Appeals), the protective addition in the assessee's case also required reconsideration. The matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) to decide both issues together. (AY. 2017-18).

Dy. CIT v. Tirupati Balaji Exim (P.) Ltd. (2025) 122 ITR 591 / 174 taxmann.com 1077 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Capital gains-Penny stock-Short-term capital loss-Addition based only on Investigation Wing and SEBI reports-Tuni Textile Ltd-Blue Circle Ltd-No independent enquiry-Loss allowable.[S. 10(38), 45]

The Assessing Officer disallowed the assessee's short-term capital loss on the ground that the shares formed part of penny stock scrips allegedly manipulated by entry operators. The Tribunal held that the assessee had produced contract notes, demat statements, bank records and other documentary evidence, which the Assessing Officer neither disproved nor investigated independently. As no incriminating material linked the assessee with the alleged manipulation and the addition was based solely on Investigation Wing reports and statements of third parties, the disallowance of the loss was deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Nalanda Builders (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 346 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unsecured loans-Repayment through banking channels accepted in subsequent year-Addition of loans, commission and interest deleted.

The assessee produced confirmations and bank statements showing repayment of the unsecured loans through banking channels in the subsequent assessment year, and such repayments had been accepted by the Department without any adverse addition. The Tribunal held that the additions towards unexplained loans under section 68 and the ad hoc additions towards alleged brokerage and cash interest under section 69C were unsupported by evidence and could not be sustained. (AY. 2013-14).

Dy. CIT v. Southwinds Project LLP (2025) 124 ITR 292 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Loan repaid through account payee cheques-Documentary evidence ignored-Addition deleted-Unexplained investment-Purchase of immovable property-Source partly explained-Addition restricted.[S.69]

The assessee explained that the impugned credit represented repayment of a loan obtained from a concern of her husband and produced the bank statement, reply before the Assessing Officer and the balance sheet of the lender. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer failed to consider the documentary evidence and the basis of the addition was not clear. Since the bank statement did not support the finding regarding cash deposits immediately preceding the repayment, the addition of Rs. 54,000 under section 68 was deleted. Documents seized during search showed purchase of immovable property for cash. The assessee claimed that the funds had been provided by her mother-in-law from a housing loan. The Tribunal held that there was no evidence to establish that the cash withdrawn by the mother-in-law had actually been handed over to the assessee or paid to the vendors. However, after considering the assessee's disclosed income available during the year, the addition was restricted to Rs. 9,08,376, being the amount whose source remained unexplained. (AY. 2016-17).

Kavita Samtani v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 119 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share capital and share premium-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-No incriminating material found during search-Addition deleted.[S. 132]

Pursuant to a search, the Assessing Officer treated share capital and share premium received from a corporate investor as unexplained cash credits under section 68. The Tribunal held that the investor possessed sufficient share capital and reserves to make the investment, the entire contribution was made through normal banking channels without any cash deposits, and the assessee had established the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the transaction by documentary evidence. No incriminating material relating to the share capital was found during the search. As the assessment year preceded insertion of the proviso to section 68, the assessee was not required to establish the source of the source. Accordingly, the deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 2011-12).

Dy. CIT v. Mahavir Coal Resources (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 14 / 170 taxmann.com 671 (Nagpur.)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Loans received by non-banking financial company-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-Running account between parties-Addition deleted.

The assessee established the identity, creditworthiness and genuineness of the lenders by producing confirmations, bank statements, financial statements, income-tax returns and ledger accounts. The Tribunal held that there were regular running accounts between the assessee and the lenders involving advances, repayments and fresh loans. The Assessing Officer relied upon external information without examining the documentary evidence or making proper enquiries. Repayment of loans earlier advanced by the assessee could not be treated as unexplained cash credits. The additions under section 68 were therefore deleted. (AY. 2020-21).

Asst. CIT v. Neuzen Finance (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 43 / 175 taxmann.com 582 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Unsecured loans-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-Addition deleted-Penny stock-Long-term capital gains-Penny stock-Essar (India) Ltd-Purchase and sale supported by demat account and banking records-Exemption allowable.[S 10(38), 45]

The Assessing Officer treated unsecured loans received from a Kolkata-based company as unexplained cash credits under section 68 on the ground that the lender's funds were sourced from share premium. The Tribunal held that the assessee had produced loan confirmations, bank statements, income-tax returns and financial statements of the lender establishing its identity, creditworthiness and the genuineness of the transaction. The lender's assessments had also been accepted by the Department. Since the assessee had discharged the burden cast upon it under section 68, the Commissioner (Appeals) was justified in deleting the addition. The Assessing Officer treated the exempt long-term capital gains earned on sale of listed shares as bogus penny stock transactions and added the entire sale proceeds under section 68. The Tribunal held that the assessee had established the purchase and sale of shares through contract notes, demat account, stock exchange records and banking channels. Mere statements of alleged entry operators, without linking the assessee to any manipulation, could not justify denial of exemption. The deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 2014-15).

Dy. CIT v. Sanjay Gaurishankar Agrawal (2025) 125 ITR 455 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Identity, creditworthiness and genuineness established-Source of source explained-Non-furnishing of lender's return of income not fatal.

The assessee produced the lender's confirmation, PAN, bank statements and evidence establishing the flow of funds through banking channels from the original source to the lender and thereafter to the assessee. The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the burden of proving the identity of the lender, its creditworthiness, the genuineness of the transaction and even the source of the source. Mere non-furnishing of the lender's return of income could not justify an addition under section 68. The addition was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2020-21).

Convenica Textiles v. NFAC (2025) 125 ITR 422 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Opening balances-No fresh credit during relevant previous year-Addition not sustainable.

The Assessing Officer questioned the genuineness of lease deposits and booking advances received in earlier years. The Tribunal held that section 68 applies only to credits appearing during the relevant previous year. Since the impugned amounts represented opening balances received through banking channels in earlier years and no fresh credit had arisen during the year under consideration, no addition could be made under section 68. (AY. 2020-21).

ITO v. N. Kumar Housing and Infrastructure (P.) Ltd. (2025) 125 ITR 401 / 172 taxmann.com 428 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Long-term capital gains-Penny stock-NCL research-Kolkata Investigation report-Statement of persons involved-Artificial rise in share price-Transactions held non-genuine-Exemption denied.[S.10(38), 45, 132, 147]

The assessee claimed exemption under section 10(38) in respect of long-term capital gains arising from sale of shares of a penny-stock company. The Tribunal found that the scrip had witnessed an abnormal and unjustified rise in price followed by a steep fall, the trading pattern was synchronised, and the investigation conducted by the Directorate of Income-tax and SEBI established manipulation by entry operators. The financial position of the company did not justify such appreciation in value. Mere production of contract notes, demat statements, banking records and payment of Securities Transaction Tax could not establish the genuineness of the transactions in the absence of any explanation for the abnormal price movement. The claim of exemption under section 10(38) was therefore rejected. (AY. 2013-14).

Munjal Mrugesh Jaykrishna v. Dy. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 565 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital-Filed copies of PAN details, memorandum of association and articles of association, audit reports and balance-sheets, bank statement, copies of share application forms along with board resolutions and also confirmation of the companies-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed.

Held that the assessee-company filed copies of PAN details, memorandum of association and articles of association, audit reports and balance-sheets, bank statement, copies of share application forms along with board resolutions and also confirmation of the companies to whom shares were allotted by the assessee, AO was not justified in treating the amounts received from the said companies as accommodation entries solely on the basis of the statement on an unconnected person recorded behind the back of the assessee and without providing copy of said statement to the assessee. Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY.2012-13)

DCIT v. N. Kumar Construction Co. (P) LTD. (2025) 234 TTJ 128 (Nag)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Sale of shares-Penny stock-Investigation Wing/SEBI reports-Bogus long term capital gains-Accommodation entries-NCL Research & Finance Services Pvt Ltd-Shares through stock exchange-Paid STT, Disclosed transaction in return-Held shares in demat account-Routed Payments through banks-Sale proceeds cannot be assessed as cash credits-Eligible for exemption-Addition of unexplained expenditure was also deleted. [S. 10(38), 45, 69C]

Assessee sold shares of a company through the stock exchange, paid STT, and disclosed the transaction in return. Assessing Officer, relying on Investigation Wing/SEBI reports, treated sale proceeds as unexplained cash credit under section 68, alleging scrip was rigged and used for accommodation entries. CIT(A) upheld the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that shares were reflected in the demat account, payments were made through banking channels, and the entire transaction was disclosed in return. Revenue failed to establish any direct nexus or involvement of the assessee in price rigging or entry operations. Revenue had not even brought out whether it was an isolated transaction or whether the assessee regularly entered into the purchase and sale of shares. Furthermore, the assessee had submitted at the time of assessment that the assessee was not aware about fact that ' NCL Research & Finance Services Pvt Ltd was a rigged and it was penny stock share. In the absence of any direct evidence against assessee, it could only be concluded that assessee was an unsuspecting investor who had entered into an investment in shares. The addition made in the hands of assessee was arbitrary and bad in law and deleted. Tribunal also deleted an ad hoc addition for alleged commission on accommodation entry services without any material to show that such services were rendered or payments made. (AY. 2013-14)

Anju Parekh. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 639 (SMC) (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Partner's capital-Cash flow and bank statements-Addition was deleted. [S.115BBE]

Assessee was a partnership firm. During the relevant assessment year, one of its partners introduced capital. Assessee claimed that the source of capital was the partner's cash in hand. Assessing Officer held that the partner's ITR-4 for assessment year 2016-17 did not disclose any cash-in-hand balance. Accordingly, he treated said amount as unexplained under section 68 read with section 115BBE of the Act. Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished a copy of its cash flow statement and individual bank statement, without confronting the assessee regarding the genuineness of the claim, without making a necessary inquiry regarding submissions that had been put forth by the assessee. Revenue had made an addition which was perverse, arbitrary and bad in law. Since principles of natural justice were not followed and no inquiry on this aspect was made by the revenue, the addition made in the hands of assessee was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Khandelwal Industries. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 667 (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Additional evidence-Matter remanded to the CIT(A). [ITAT R. 46A]

Held that since the assessee was prevented by sufficient cause from producing evidence before the Assessing Officer, which was relevant to the addition, additional evidences admitted and the matter was remanded to the file of CIT(A). (AY. 2016-17)

Matrix Automotive. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 651 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Firm-Partners-Once partners' identity, creditworthiness, and genuineness of capital contribution are established through evidence, addition u/s 68 cannot be made in the firm's hands, as the firm is not required to explain the source of partners' funds.[S. 2(31)(iv)]

During the assessment, the AO treated partners' fresh capital contribution as unexplained cash credit u/s 68 for lack of creditworthiness proof. On appeal, the CIT (A), after examining partners' PAN, bank statements, ITRs, and capital accounts, held that identity, creditworthiness, and genuineness were established and deleted the addition, noting that a firm need not prove the source of partners' income. The ITAT upheld this, observing that the assessee discharged its burden by furnishing evidence, and the AO failed to rebut or file a remand report. Revenue's appeal was dismissed. ITA No. 3459/Mum/2025 dated 30/07/2025

Dy. CIT v. A.A. International (Mum)(Trib.)(UR)

S. 68: Cash credits-Sale of shares-Shares held for more than 19 years-Long-term capital gains cannot be assessed as cash credits-Entitled to exemption. [S. 10(38), 45]

Held that the sale of shares after holding them for 19 years and claiming LTCG exemption, since shares were sold through a recognised broker of the stock exchange and assessee furnished complete details such as date of acquisition of share, details of dematerialisation of share and details of share sold, transaction could not be doubted and LTCG could not be treated as cash credit under section 68. Entitled to exemption. (AY. 2015-16)

ITO v. Ketan Dilip Shah. (2025) 214 ITD 85 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Cash deposits in its bank-Demonetization period-Opening cash balance-Addition was deleted as cash credits read with section 115BBE of the Act. [S.115BBE]

Held that the revenue had not proved the onus that the opening cash balance stood utilised for some other purposes by the assessee and that the same was not available as a cash source with the assessee as on the date of making the deposit. Addition made under section 68 read with section 115BBE was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

G.N. International (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 180 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Long-term capital gains-Accommodation entry-Off market-Paid cash-Sole transaction-Investigation report-Order of CIT(A) denying the exemption and assessing as cash credits affirmed.[S. 10(38), 45, 115BBE]

Assessee claimed LTCG exemption under section 10(38) on the sale of shares of the company Kappac Pharma Ltd (KPL). Assessing Officer held that shares were acquired in physical form through an off-market transaction and payment for the purchase of shares was made in cash. He further took note of investigation reports which had flagged transactions in Kappac Pharma Ltd as being part of an orchestrated accommodation entry racket to convert unaccounted money into tax-exempt capital gains. He thus held that the transaction was a colourable device and accordingly held LTCG to be unexplained cash credit and brought it to tax under section 115BBE. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that the share certificate was dated much prior to the claimed date of purchase and shares were transferred in the name of the assessee after a lapse of more than six months. Further, assessee had no prior or subsequent history of trading or investment in shares, and this transaction in Kappac Pharma Ltd appeared to be the sole transaction of its kind, both in terms of nature and volume. Further, assessee's receipts consisted mainly of tuition fees in cash, and cash withdrawals of Rs. 5,000 per month, thereby not exhibiting any kind of liquidity or surplus that would plausibly explain a one-time cash investment of Rs. 1 lakh in a little-known company. On the facts, the transaction in question did not inspire confidence as a genuine investment, and bore the hallmark of an accommodation entry scheme devised to generate tax-exempt long-term capital gain. Tribunal also held that, since suspicious time gaps, mode of acquisition (cash), lack of prior or subsequent trading activity, scrip's tainted profile, and implausible price appreciation, all cumulatively establish that the transaction failed the test of human probability, the addition made was upheld.(AY. 2015-16)

Jelly Samkit Doshi. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 255 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital-Share premium-Equity shares of Rs 10 each-Premium of Rs 990 per share-Summons not complied with-Failure to establish creditworthiness-Addition made by the Assessing Officer was affirmed. [S.131]

Assessee company raised its share capital by issuing 49100 equity shares of Rs. 10/-each along with a premium of Rs. 990/-per share. Assessing Officer held that the summons issued to the directors of the assessee company for personal attendance remained uncomplied with. He made an addition of Rs. 4.91 crores under section 68. CIT A) held that subscriber companies which had subscribed to shares of the assessee with substantial premium did not have the capacity or financial standing to do so. He further noted that none of these companies had reported any substantial income as per their income tax returns, hence upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that transactions relating to the issue of shares were not genuine, nor had the creditworthiness of creditors been established. Addition was affirmed. (AY. 2012-13)

Winsher Vinimay (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 328/125 ITR 219 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Unsecured loan-Additional evidence-Interest paid to related parties-Denial of exemption-Matter remanded to the Assessing officer-corpus without written direction from donor, same would not qualify as corpus under section 11(1)(d).[S.11(1)(d), 13, ITAT R. 29]

Assessing Officer treated the increase in unsecured loans as unexplained for want of evidence. Tribunal held that since assessee filed additional evidence before Tribunal citing lack of proper advice, said evidence was admitted conditionally, and the matter was remitted to the Assessing Officer for fresh verification. Interest paid on loan also remitted back to the Assessing Officer. Assessing Officer was directed to re-examine the claim of interest expenditure after verifying additional evidence and after allowing assessee a reasonable opportunity to substantiate that interest paid to related parties was neither excessive nor in violation of section 13. Assessee was directed to demonstrate that interest paid was commensurate with market conditions and did not confer an unjust benefit on specified persons. Tribunal also held that corpus without written direction from donor would not qualify as corpus under section 11(1)(d). (AY. 2016-17)

Smt. Ramanandi Anangpuria Charitable Trust. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 574 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Cash deposits-Demonetization-Proved sales with VAT returns, stock records, supplier confirmations-Books of account not rejected-Addition was deleted. [S. 145(3)]

During demonetization period, assessee had made cash deposits in its bank account and claimed same to be out of cash sales made by assessee during period October, 2016 to 08-11-2016. Assessing officer held that assessee had recorded no major cash sales between April to September, 2016 but heavy cash sales were recorded thereafter and further, he noted that there were certain abnormalities in cash sales registers which indicated non-genuineness of sales. On this basis, Assessing Officer held that cash deposited during demonetization period was undisclosed cash of assessee and hence, same was added under section 68. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished all evidences proving genuineness of sales made during demonetization period duly supported with purchases made which were further evidenced by copy of VAT returns filed by assessee and also stock records of the assessee. Further, notices issued by the Assessing Officer to all parties from whom purchases were made by assessee under section 133(6) were duly responded to, and parties confirmed sales made to assessee. there was no abnormality in the quantum of sales made by assessee in the year as compared to the preceding year. Neither auditor had pointed out any discrepancy in the accounts of the assessee nor the Assessing Officer had rejected the books of assessee under section 145(3). Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

ITO v. Rajeshkumar Rameshchandra Shah. (2025) 214 ITD 725 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposit-Demonetization-Cash sales-Failure to comply notice under section 133(6)-Lump sum addition of Rs 5 lakh was affirmed-Provisions of section 115BBE would apply only to transaction done on or after 1-4-2017.[S.133(6), 115BBE]

The Assessing Officer held that there was sudden spike in cash sales and disproportionate cash deposited made by assessee. Assessing Officer issued notices under section 133(6) to 8 buyer parties which remained uncomplished with except one, which confirmed purchase from the assessee. Assessing Officer made addition under section 68 on account of cash deposits made during demonetization. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal by the revenue the Tribunal held that the assessee had attempted to prove entire source of cash deposit during demonetization as cash withdrawals from bank as well as sales due to a government directive requiring sugar mills to liquidate stock by 31-10-2016. However, there was some element of failure to explain some of the cash deposits, which could not be ruled out. Accordingly, a lump-sum addition of Rs 5 lakhs was confirmed. Tribunal also held that the provisions of section 115BBE would apply only to transactions done on or after 1-4-2017. (AY. 2017-18)

Dy. C.I.T v. Rai Bahadur Narain Singh Sugar Mills Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 222 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposit-Demonetization-Cash sales-No discrepancy in the books of account-Additions deleted.

Assessee, scrap dealer, had deposited a certain amount of cash in its bank account during the demonetization period. Assessing Officer made an addition under section 68 to assessee's income on account of said cash deposits. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had provided various documents to substantiate cash sales recorded by it and no discrepancies or defects had been pointed out in the same; the Assessing Officer had not pointed out any discrepancy in various documents submitted by the assessee to substantiate its cash sales even during the course of remand proceedings. Since the addition was made only based on surmises and conjectures without any adverse material or independent enquiry made by lower authorities, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Ayesha Steels (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 495/238 TTJ 942 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Search-documents seized-Share application money along with its premium was bogus-Addition was justified. [S. 132]

Tribunal held in the course of search certain documents were seized which revealed that these companies were involved in arranging accommodation entries in form of share capital by paying commission and Assessing Officer on basis of said documents made addition on account of such bogus share capital received by assessee from one company of said group, since Assessing Officer had made a detailed analysis and found that share application money received by assessee along with its premium was a bogus one. Tribunal affirmed the addition. (AY. 2009-10)

Creative Capital Services (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 645 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Immovable property-Transaction was reflected in both TDS return and Sub-Registrar's report-Failure to respond to notices-Assessing Officer made additions on both, treating them as separate transactions-Matter was to be remanded for fresh examination.[S. 144, 194IA]

Assessment was completed under section 147 read with section 144, making an addition on account of the purchase of immovable property based on both assessee's TDS statement and Sub-Registrar's report, treating them as separate transactions. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal for failure to attend various notices. On appeal, the Tribunal remanded the matter to the file of the jurisdictional Assessing Officer. (AY. 2016-17)

Om Prakash Girgaonkar. v. ITO (2025) 213 ITD 675 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Conversion of private limited company into LLP-The transfer of share capital and reserves to partners' accounts upon conversion-The addition was not justified since the nature and source of the credit were not explained. [S. 47(xiiib)(f), 115BBE]

The NICA Private Limited was converted into NICALF LLP. Prior to conversion, the company had share capital and Reserves & Surplus. Post-conversion, both these amounts were credited to the partners' capital accounts in the LLP. The AO held that this crediting of accumulated profits to partners' capital violated S. 47(xiiib) (f) of the Income-tax Act, which prohibits any direct or indirect payment to partners from accumulated profits for 3 years post-conversion. The AO treated the said amount as an unexplained credit u/s. 68, and added it to the total income u/s. 115BBE. The CIT (A) deleted the addition, holding that no actual payment was made to partners and hence there was no violation of S. 47(xiiib) (f). The conversion was deemed tax-neutral, having complied with all conditions from (a) to f) of the said section. The Tribunal held that mere crediting of accumulated profits to the partners' capital accounts, without any actual payment or withdrawal, does not amount to unexplained income. Hence, S. 68, which applies to unexplained cash credits, is not attracted. Further, any violation of S. 47(xiiib)(f), which relates to capital gains exemptions on conversion, cannot be the basis for invoking S. 68, particularly when the credit is not unexplained and does not arise in the assessee's account but rather in the partners' capital accounts. (AY.2017-18)

ITO v. NICA F LLP [2025] 175 taxmann.com 1001(Mum) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Capital is recorded through proper banking channel-Capital introduced by partner in firm-No addition can be made in the hands of the firm.[S. 2(31)(iv), 133(6)]

Assessee-firm was constituted with two partner. During the year, assessee introduced capital amounting contributed by both the partners. Assessee furnished its partnership deed, audited financials, ITRs, bank statements and ledger accounts of partners. Assessee also submitted that capital was introduced by its partners through banking channels and supported by ledger accounts and confirmations. However, AO held that only 'R' responded to notice under section 133(6) and provided documentary evidence. The other partner, 'G' did not respond. Thus, relying solely on the non-response, the AO treated the capital contribution by 'G' as unexplained cash credit and made addition under section 68. CIT(A) deleted the addition holding that the addition was based merely on suspicion and non-compliance under section 133(6), without bringing any adverse material on record to rebut the documents filed by assessee.

Assessee furnished all the requisite documentary evidence to substantiate identity, genuineness, and creditworthiness of 'G', including PAN, ITR, audited financial statements, bank statements, confirmations, and ledger accounts. Further, capital was received through banking channel and duly recorded in books of account of assessee. AO did not point out any defect or inconsistency in the evidence submitted by the assessee. A non-response by a third party, without more, could not form the sole basis for invoking section 68 in the hands of assessee, when all other documentary evidences were placed on record. CIT(A) after carefully examining the submissions and facts, rightly concluded that assessee discharged the initial onus cast under section 68. He noted that failure of partner to respond to notice under section 133(6) was not communicated to assessee and, even otherwise, did not ipso facto establish that capital was unexplained. It is a settled position of law that once the partner is identifiable and capital is recorded through proper banking channel, no addition under section 68 can be made in the hands of the firm, if there is no evidence that the amount is undisclosed income of the firm. Hence, CIT(A) was justified in deleting the addition under section 68.(AY. 2018-19) (ITA No. 1081/Ahd/2023,dt. 01/04/2025)

ITO v. Goodfarm Rearing (Ahd.)(Trib.)(UR)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Books audited and accepted-Rejection of books for selective entry unjustified [S. 145(3)]

The assessee, engaged in manufacturing and trading, deposited substantial cash during demonetisation. The AO rejected the books under section 145(3), treating the deposits as unexplained under section 68. The Tribunal observed that the assessee maintained audited accounts, duly accepted in audit, and no defects were found in stock or trading results. Rejection of books only for cash deposits was unjustified. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Satya Pal Shiv Kumar v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 473 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposit-Partly agricultural income-Addition is restricted to 8 lakhs.

Assessee had shown opening balance of Rs 12 lakhs in bank account and claimed that same was accumulated from agricultural income. However, no supporting evidence was furnished by assessee. Assessing Officer treated said cash deposits as cash credits under section 68. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal Tribunal restricted the addition to 8 lakhs, considering the agricultural income. (AY. 2012-13)

Kanchanben Maheshbhai Patel. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 133 (Surat) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Long term capital gains on listed shares-Documentary evidence furnished-Addition as bogus LTCG unjustified. [S. 10(38), 45, 115BBE]

Assessee earned LTCG on listed shares and claimed exemption u/s 10(38). AO treated the gain as bogus and taxed under section 68/115BBE. Tribunal noted that shares were regularly traded, held in demat, supported by broker ledger and bank statements. In similar cases, additions were deleted. Hence, the addition was unjustified and deleted.(AY. 2014-15)

Arvind Kumar Kotawal v. ACIT (2025) 212 ITD 269 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Demonetisation-Cash deposit-Senior citizen widow-Savings over 30 years-Addition deleted

Assessee, 80-year-old widow, deposited ₹13.62 lakhs during demonetisation. AO made addition u/s 68. Tribunal found that deposits were accumulated savings of her late husband (a priest) kept in cash due to old age and medical insecurity. Considering her social background and evidence, addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Hemlata Kamalakar Deo v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 264 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Long term capital gain-Penny stock-Sale of shares-Turbo Tech Engineering Ltd-Kappac Pharma Ltd-Acquired at Rs 12 and sold at Rs 720 per share-Abnormal price rise-General investigation report-Cash purchase and late dematerialisation-No cogent evidence of genuine transaction-Addition upheld. [S. 10(38), 115BBE, 131, 133(6)]

The assessee claimed exemption u/s 10(38) on LTCG of ₹84,79,100 from sale of shares of Turbo Tech Engineering Ltd. and Kappac Pharma Ltd., purchased in cash in earlier years, dematerialised shortly before sale, and sold through a broker on the stock exchange. The AO, relying on Investigation Wing reports and the abnormal price rise in these scrips, held the transactions to be pre-arranged accommodation entries for converting unaccounted cash into exempt LTCG, and made addition u/s 68 taxable u/s 115BBE. The assessee's plea of genuine transaction, reliance on broker's affidavit, and request for cross-examination of persons whose statements were relied upon, were rejected. The CIT(A) upheld the addition. The Tribunal, after analysing the AO's findings on price movements, financial health of the companies, and surrounding circumstances, held that the transactions were unnatural and suspicious, banking documents were self-serving, and the assessee failed to discharge the burden of proving genuineness as per the test of human probabilities Sumati Dayal v. CIT (1995) 214 ITR 801 (SC). Distinguishing cases like Pr. CIT v. Ziauddin A. Siddique (Appeal No. 2012 of 2017, dated 4-3-2022(Bom)(HC) and Pr. CIT v. Krishna Devi (2021) 279 Taxman 148/ 431 ITR 361 (Delhi(HC) (SLP of Revenue was dismissed, PCIT v. Krishna Devi (2002) 287 ITR 91 (SC) and Co ordinate Bench order in Farzad Sheriar v. ITO (2024) 159 taxmann.com 9/ 119 ITR 298(Mum)(Trib) dealing with same script. Followed Manvi Khandelwal v. ITO (ITA No. 3212 /Del. 2018 dt. 26-11-2109 (Delhi)(Trib), ACIT v. Arihant Kumar Jain (ITA No. 5342 /Del /2018 dt. 27-10-2021 (Delhi)(Trib) in respect of the same scrip, the appeal was dismissed and the addition sustained. (AY 2014-15) (ITA No. 3229/Mum/2023, dt. 22-07-2025)

Chitra Avdhesh Mehta (Smt). v. ITO (SMC) (Mum)(Trib)www.itatonline.org

S. 68 : Cash credits-Survey-Disclosure of additional income as business income-Surrendered income cannot be assessed as cash credit and invoking the provision of section 115BBE of the Act. [S. 115BBE, 133A]

During the course of survey operation assessee declared Rs. 2 crores as additional income. In reply to some questions assessee has categorically given the details of the land with survey number etc. from which he has received excess cash, which was not recorded in the books of account and was surrendered during the course of survey and offered in the return, which partakes the character of business income. The AO assessed the surrendered income under section 68 and applied the provisions of section 115BBE of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee has categorically stated the nature and source of income during the course of survey itself, which was offered to tax in the return filed; therefore, CIT(A) was not justified in confirming the order of the AO taxing the surrendered income by invoking the provisions of s. 68 r/w s. 115BBE. (AY.2017-18)

Sopan Bandoba Chavan v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 17 (UO) (Pune) (Trib)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Repayment of loan-Addition is deleted-Loan outstanding-Report of the Inspector is not provided to the assessee-Violation of principle of natural justice-The matter is restored to the AO to provide the report of the Inspector to the assessee for his rebuttal with proper and supporting evidence.[S. 133(6)]

Held that the assessee has repaid various loans; addition under s. 68 to said extent is not sustainable; since the assessee has furnished various details in respect of the remaining outstanding loans i.e., names, PANs, bank statements, confirmation affidavits, etc. of the lenders, and the AO has made the addition without making proper and complete enquiries and without confronting the report of the Inspector to the assessee, the matter is restored to the AO to provide the report of the Inspector to the assessee for his rebuttal with proper and supporting evidences and to make enquiries from the lenders. (AY.2017-18)

Bhupatbhai Thakarshibhai Mavani v. ACIT (2025) 233 TTJ 29 (UO) (Surat) (Trib)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Loans and advances-Cash deposit-Demonetisation-Best judgement assessment-Matter remanded to CIT(A) [S.69, 144]

Assessee is a business of trading in jewellery. Assessing Officer made an ex parte assessment order and made additions towards non-current liabilities as unexplained cash credits and also cash deposited during Demonetisation. Tribunal remanded the matter to the CIT(A). (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

Meena Jewellers Extension (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 216 /234 TTJ 207 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposit-Demonetisation-Justified in treating as unexplained and lev levy tax as prescribed in section 115BBE of the Act.[S.2(37A,),115BBE, 131, 133(6)]

During demonetization period, assessee deposited certain amount in its bank account in Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000 notes. Assessing Officer asked assessee to explain source of these deposits but assessee failed to provide satisfactory evidence. In response summons under section 131 and letters under section 133(6), two of the parties denied giving any cash to the assessee one party did not file confirmation and other parties did not respond. Assessing Officer completed assessment treating said amount as unexplained cash deposits under section 68 and levied tax at 60 per cent under section 115BBE. CIT (A) confirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee failed to prove source of cash deposits, Assessing Officer was justified in treating same as unexplained income under section 68 and levying tax rate as prescribed in section 115BBE. (AY. 2017-18)

Spectra Equipment (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 61 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Share application money and share premium-Filed necessary details-Deletion of order by CIT(A) is affirmed.[S. 133(6)]

Assessee company received share application money with premium from three parties. Assessing Officer issued notices to assessee to provide details of share applicants/subscribers and assessee failed to comply with notices. Assessing Officer issued notices under section 133(6) to share applicants but same were also not replied by them. Assessing Officer treated share application money as unexplained cash credit. During appellate proceedings the assessee submitted confirmations from share subscribers, copy of bank statements, acknowledgement copy of ITR along with copy of annual reports, share application in Form No. 2, memorandum and articles of association, copy of board resolutions and details of net worth of share applicants. Commissioner (Appeals) called for a remand report from Assessing Officer and issued notice under section 133(6) to aforesaid investor companies and in response to same, parties namely 'ATPL' and 'ALPL' confirmed transactions with assessee company with necessary documents and evidences. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). (AY. 2012-13)

DCIT v. J.A. Infracon (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 471 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Produced, identity, genuineness of transaction and creditworthiness, along with confirmation and proof of regular banking channel-Lender's failure to respond to summons alone did cannot be the ground to treat the loan as cash credits. [S. 131]

Assessee has received unsecured loan. The assessee has provided lender's confirmation, PAN, and proof of transactions through regular banking channels. However, despite issuance and service of a summons under Section 131 by Assessing Officer, lender did not respond. Assessing Officer treated loan as an unexplained cash credit. CIT(A) confirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished necessary documents to prove 3 ingredients of section 68 i.e. identity of creditors, genuineness of transaction and creditworthiness of lenders and lender was duly assessed to tax and had even furnished confirmation and loan was received by assessee in regular banking channels. Merely because summons had not been responded by said lender, no adverse inference could be drawn on assessee. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2015-16)

Golden Moment (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 484 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital-Share premium-Assessee had demonstrated that subscribing companies were having adequate reserves and surpluses to invest-Addition is deleted.

The only issue for contention before the Tribunal is that the AO had passed a short and cryptic order making an addition to the total income of the Assessee u/s. 68 of the Act as the Assessee failed to discharge the onus cast upon him to prove the genuineness of the transaction. The Assessee company had put all the documents on record, but the director failed to reply to one summons. CIT(A) confirmed the addition. The Tribunal held that there was no justification on the part of the lower authorities in making the impugned addition. Therefore, the addition was deleted.

(AY. 2012-13)

Karni Infraprojects (P) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 465 / 173 taxmann.com 576 (Kol) (Trib)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Demonetisation-Specified Bank notes-Sales-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer.[S. 115BBE]

Assessee was carrying on the business of bar and restaurant. During the demonetisation period, Assessee deposited cash of Rs. 4.83 lakhs in his bank account out of which Rs. 24.44 lakhs was Specified Bank Notes (SBNs). Assessee explained that cash was deposited out of sale and the same was recorded in his books of account. AO noted that assessee was not authorised to collect SBNs from 08.11.2016 and, therefore, Rs. 9.50 lakhs being in excess of SBNs deposited in the bank account of assessee was added u/s 68 and charged to tax u/s 115BBE. Held, if the assessee was able to establish that there were sales recorded in the books of account in cash and the source of deposit was available with the assessee out of such sales, no addition could be made in the hands of the assessee. Matter was remanded to AO for re-verification of the issue (AY. 2017-18)

B. K. Rajanna v. ITO (2025) 210 ITD 677 (Bang.) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Agriculturist-Bank deposits-Non-filing of ITR-additions on account of unexplained cash deposited in savings bank account & income from LTCG on the sale of agricultural land-ex-parte assessment order-Assessee was required to substantiate his income before the AO with proper and supporting evidence-matter remanded.[S. 2(14), 45]

Assessee was an agriculturist and claimed that he had not filed an ITR as he had no taxable income. The AO made additions on account of unexplained cash deposited in savings bank account and income from LTCG on the sale of agricultural land. Held, since the assessment order was passed ex-parte and the first appellate order was passed after considering the remand report sent by the AO and the Assessee was required to substantiate his income before the AO with proper and supporting evidences the matter was to be remanded back to the AO to pass an assessment order afresh (AY. 2011-12)

Dnyaneshwar Baburao Kathe v. ITO (2025) 210 ITD 85 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Deposit in bank-The deposits are backed by equivalent withdrawals or immediate transfers; the entire deposit amount should not be treated as unexplained income-Net profit rate of 1 per cent on entire deposit is confirmed. [S. 148]

The AO added back the entire credit entries (deposits) as unexplained income under section 68 because the assessee could not provide documentary evidence to explain the source of the deposits.

Held that there were equivalent withdrawals and immediate transfers of the same amounts to another entity. This indicates that the deposits may have been related to routine business operations or cash flow movements rather than unexplained or illegal income. The account was opened for business purposes, the deposits could represent business receipts or cash inflows, and the corresponding withdrawals might indicate business expenses or other operational costs. Instead of treating the entire deposit as unexplained income, the proper course of action would be to add back the withdrawals, which represent the business expenses or transfers, or to apply a net profit rate on the total deposits (since they could reflect business activities and not personal income). The entire deposit should not be treated as unexplained income, as the corresponding withdrawals and transfers suggest a legitimate business activity or cash flow.(AY. 2009-10)

Pankaj Pyarelal Khemka v. ITO [2025] 210 ITD 585/234 TTJ 19 (UO) (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Unsecured loan-The assessee satisfactorily explained the source of the loan, and the lender's credibility was established through the repayment in cheque and the lender's business activity. The addition is deleted. [S.133(6)]

The AO made an addition u/s. 68 as unexplained cash credit on the grounds that the lender failed to respond to the notices issued u/s. 133(6), and therefore, the genuineness of the transaction and the creditworthiness of the lender could not be established.

Held that the lender's financial background was reasonable, the loan was repaid through an account payee cheque, and the source of funds was explained satisfactorily, the assessee had adequately explained the nature and source of the credit in its books. Therefore, the impugned addition u/s. 68 was unjustified and deleted. The failure of the lender to respond to notices u/s. 133(6) did not negate the satisfactory explanation provided by the assessee regarding the loan transaction.(AY. 2016-17)

Prarthana Gems v. Dy. CIT [2025] 210 ITD 158 (Surat)(Trib.)

S. 68:Cash credits-Identity and creditworthiness is established-b The loan was repaid through banking channels-Addition is deleted. [S. 147, 148]

During a search conducted on a group and its associates, the Investigation Wing found that the group had admitted to providing accommodation entries. Based on this admission, the AO formed the opinion that MGL was linked to the accommodation provider, and subsequently, the AO reopened the assessment and made additions u/s. 68 as unexplained credit with respect to the loan taken by the assessee from MGL.

The Tribunal observed that the loan transaction was supported by genuine documents and was conducted through proper banking channels. The identity of the lender, the genuineness of the transaction, and the creditworthiness of the lender were established, and no evidence was provided by the AO to disprove these factors. The loan repayment was also made through banking channels, and there was nothing in the records to suggest that the loan was actually the assessee's unaccounted money channeled through the alleged lender.

Held that the all essential elements of a genuine loan were clearly demonstrated. The loan was taken through proper banking channels, and there was no evidence suggesting that the loan was anything other than legitimate. The identity of the lender, the genuineness of the transaction, and the creditworthiness of MGL were not disputed by the AO, and the assessee had provided sufficient documentation and evidence. Nothing was brought on record to suggest that the loan received by the assessee was part of any unaccounted money or that it had any illicit origins. The loan could not be considered unexplained credit.(AY. 2018-19)

Rajuram Savaji Purohit v. ITO [2025] 210 ITD 358 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share capital-Share premium-Proved the identity, credit worthiness and genuineness by documents-Addition is deleted. [S. 133(6)]

In the first round of appeal before ITAT, the Tribunal deleted the addition on account of share capital and premium as unexplained cash credit u/s. 68. The revenue filed appeal before High Court, and the High Court set aside the matter back to ITAT to consider the matter afresh and pass a reasoned order. In the assessment proceedings, the AO issued summons to the directors of the company to whom the share capital was issued, however none of the parties appeared before the AO. The assessee has submitted all the details and response to notice issued u/s. 133(6) was also replied to. The main reason to make addition was that on the date of receipt, there was a similar amount which was also debited from the bank account of the assessee and that the huge premium is not justified by the financials of the assessee company. It was held that though there is no standard operating procedure stated under the Act adhering to which one can prove the nature and source of such sum but in the past Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of the land mark judgment of Kale Khan Mohammad Hanif v. CIT (1963) 50 ITR 1 (SC) and Roshan-Di-Hatti v. CIT (1977) 107 ITR 938 laid down the proposition that the onus of proving the source of a sum of money found to have been received by an assessee, is on the assessee. Once the assessee has submitted the documents relating to identity, genuineness of the transaction, and creditworthiness, then the AO must conduct an inquiry, and call for more details before invoking Section 68. The ITAT after looking into complete documentation submitted during the assessment proceedings concluded that the assessee had submitted everything to prove the onus. Further, it was also observed that all those companies that had invested were also subject to assessment proceedings, where the amounts were taxed. It was held that source of source of such share application has already been taxed in those companies, if the addition is sustained in the assessee company, it would tantamount to double additions and taxation. (AY: 2012-13)

One Point Commercial Pvt. Ltd v. ITO(2025) 121 ITR 526 (Kol)(Trib)

S. 68: Cash credits-Share application-Share premium-Identity and creditworthiness and genuineness is established-Addition is deleted.

Where assessee, an NBFC issued equity shares with a premium and Assessing Officer treated share capital as unexplained cash credits under section 68 due to concerns over low revenue, since assessee demonstrated identity, creditworthiness, and genuineness of share applicants, who had sufficient net worth, and were registered with MCA, addition made under section 68 was to be deleted (AY.2013-14)

Shankar Traders & Distributors (P.) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 210 ITD 41 (Kol.) (Trib.)

S. 68 : Cash credits-Cash deposit-Demoetizaation-Sales-Produced names, address, PAN etc-Parties have responded to the notices u/s 133(6)-Sales are accepted by VAT department-No defects in the books of account-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. [S.133(6), 143(3)]

The assessee has deposited cash sales in the bank account. The Assessing Officer assessed the said deposit as unexplained cash credit. On appeal, the CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal by the Revenue, affirming the order of the CIT(A) the Tribunal held that the assessee has produced names, address, PAN etc. Parties have responded to the notices u/s 133(6). Sales are accepted by the VAT department. No defects in the books of account and the theory of human probabilities cannot be applied to the facts of the assessee. Accordingly, the order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. (AY. 2017-18) (ITA No. 244/Mum/ 2025 dt. 30-4-2025)

JCIT v. Aries Agro Ltd (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org.

S. 68 : Cash credits-Sale of shares-Explained the nature and source-Investment and the transaction was part of a larger acquisition by KKR Group-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.[S. 115BBE, 133(6)]

Assessee sold 22,62,512 equity shares of J.B. Chemicals and Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (JBCPL) to Tau Investment Holdings Pte. Ltd. for ₹168.55 crore. He claimed the transaction was genuine and supported by documentation, including regulatory approvals from SEBI and the Competition Commission of India. The Assessing Officer questioned the genuineness and creditworthiness of Tau Investment and made addition u/s 68 of the Act. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal by Revenue the Tribunal held that The Tribunal agreed with the CIT(A) that the transaction was genuine which is supported by share purchase agreement, Letter of Offer to SEBI, and confirmation from Tau Investment and the transaction was part of a larger acquisition by KKR Group. The Tribunal rejected the Revenue's arguments of inadequate evidence, noting that the AO did not pursue direct inquiries with Tau Investment despite being provided with contact details. Order of CIT (A) is affirmed. (ITA No.1085 /Mum/2024 dt.13-1-2025)(AY. 2021-22)

ACIT v. Jay Bharat Mehta (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org.

S. 68 : Cash credits-Purchase and sales through book entries with sub-broker-Commodity exchange-Futures Speculative transactions-Forward market commission-Accommodate bogus loss-Transaction with sub-broker-Addition is deleted.

On the basis of information from the investigation wing, the Assessment of the appellant was reopened. The Assessing Officer added entire purchase and sales transactions with sub-broker as cash credits under section 68 of the Act. On appeal, the CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that addition under section 68 cannot be made and only profit can be estimated. Accordingly, the addition under Section 68 is deleted (AY. 2010-11) (ITA No.1773//2024 dt.13-1-2025)

Vijay Maneklal Banushali v. ITO (Mum)(Trib)(www.itatonline.org)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Immovable property-Undisclosed income declared under Income Declaration Scheme, 2016 (IDS)-Form No IV in certificate of declaration was issued-Reopening of assessment was held to be bad in law-Order of commissioner was set aside. [S. 147, 148, 264, Art. 226, Finance Act, 2016, S.183 (IDS, 2016)]

Assessee was engaged in the real estate business. He did not file income tax returns for assessment years 2011-12 to 2016-17. He declared undisclosed income under Income Declaration Scheme (IDS), 2016- Subsequently, Assessing Officer issued notice under section 143(2) read with section 147 for assessment year 2014-15 on ground that assessee had entered into some transaction of sale of property and there were cash deposits-He further passed an assessment order under section 69A read with section 144 and made additions to income of assessee. Principal Commissioner, on application under section 264, partly set aside the order passed by the Assessing Officer and deleted additions made in respect of the sale of property and cash deposit in the bank account, but he confirmed additions made in respect of the purchase of property. On writ, the Court held that there was no statement in order that assessee had misrepresented while he filed a declaration under the IDS scheme where he had already paid tax. Further, the certificate issued in favour of assessee in Form IV under section 183 of the Finance Act, 2016, was never cancelled. Since assessee had availed the IDS Scheme pursuant to a declaration of undisclosed income and the amount on that head was credited into bank account, it was not open for the revenue to sit in appeal over said decision, particularly when it had failed to revoke Form IV issued in favour of assessee, which it could have done only if it was issued on basis of some misrepresentation or fraud played. Accordingly, the order passed by the Principal Commissioner was to be set aside. (AY. 2014-15)

Prabhakar Nerulkar v.PCIT (2025) 307 Taxman 286 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Unexplained money-Cash deposits-Advance received under unregistered agreement to sell-Addition was deleted-Agricultural income accepted as explained sources-Addition was deleted. [Indian Registration Act, 1908, S. 17]

The Assessing Officer treated cash deposits in the assessee's bank account as unexplained under section 69. The assessee explained that part of the deposits represented advance received under an unregistered agreement for sale of agricultural land and the balance represented agricultural income from land jointly cultivated by the assessee and his father. The Tribunal held that registration of an agreement to sell agricultural land is not mandatory and the affidavits of the attesting witnesses, having remained uncontroverted, had to be accepted. The agricultural income was duly supported by Form J, jamabandi and lease documents and had not been doubted by the Revenue. Accordingly, the explanation regarding the source of the cash deposits was accepted, and the addition was deleted. (AY. 2012-13)

Anbhao Parkash v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 544 (Amritsar)(Trib.).

S. 69 : Unexplained investments-Income from undisclosed sources-Survey-Investment in immovable property-AO was right in bringing the undisclosed income to tax under the special provisions of S. 69 and thereafter levying tax under the provisions of S. 115BBE.[S.69B, 115BBE, 292B]

Tribunal held that the Assessee having neither included the amount of unexplained investment detected during the course of survey in his books of accounts nor in his audited accounts nor in his return and merely submitted that he made the said investment out of his undisclosed business income and rental income and offered no explanation regarding the nature and source of the investment, said undisclosed income is liable to tax under s. 69/69B and the tax is leviable under the provisions of s. 115BBE. (AY.2018-19)

Rajesh Kumar Jaiswal v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 833 / 174 taxmann.com 276 (All) (Trib)

S. 69 : Unexplained investments-Income from undisclosed sources-Search-Notings on loose paper-Third-party presumption-Failure to give an opportunity of cross-examination-Addition was deleted. [S.132, 132(4)]

Held that the addition made by the AO solely on the basis of the notings on one loose sheet of paper found during the course of search at the premises of a third person, Sanjay Bansal, which was in the handwriting of his employee Sushil Kumar, is not sustainable, more so as the AO did not allow an opportunity to the assessee to cross-examine Sushil Kumar. (AY.2011-12)

Subhash Chander Gupta v. ITO (2025) 235 TTJ 883 (Chd)(Trib)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Income from undisclosed sources-Alleged bogus purchases-Vendor appeared before the Assessing Officer-Produced delivery stock register, detailing the movement of goods-Addition of 25 % of total purchases was deleted. [S. 131]

Held that the assessee furnished stock register, detailing the movement of goods as accounted by him in his books of accounts supported by purchase bills and delivery challans thereby demonstrating that he has purchased goods from APT at landed price, and the proprietor of APT having appeared before the AO and produced relevant documentary evidence confirming the said transaction with the assessee, the impugned addition made by the AO by treating 25 per cent of the total purchases made from APT as bogus purchases is not sustainable. PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. (2025) 344 CTR 137 (Bom) (HC) 248 DTR distinguished. (AY. 2008-09)

Rahul M. Dalmia v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 284 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Capital introduced by partner-The explanation furnished by the assessee cannot be rejected merely on suspicion-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed.

Held that the partner has recorded his capital contribution to the firm in his books of account and explained that he received the funds from his father through regular banking channels, who in turn generated such funds from the sale of shares through a recognised stock exchange, which is fully documented. The order of the CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY.2017-18)

ITO v. Kalidas Jivabhai Patel (2025) 237 TTJ 95 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Non-Resident-Investment in property-Co-owner-Source of investment was explained-Addition was deleted.

Held that the Assessee, a non-resident Indian, had purchased a flat in India with his brother as a co-owner, and payments made were sourced from outside India; further, payments made through a housing loan had been satisfactorily explained assessee, being a non-resident during the year 2015-16, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2015-16)

Nilesh Purshottam Ghodasara v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 618 (Delhi) Trib)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Non-Resident Indian-Investment in property out of foreign salary remitted through NRE account cannot be assessed under section 69. [S. 5(2)]

The assessee, an NRI, produced bank statements, remittance records, salary documents and other evidence establishing that the investment in immovable property was made from foreign salary earned abroad and remitted through banking channels. As the Revenue failed to rebut the evidence and the income was not taxable in India under section 5(2), the addition under section 69 was deleted. (AY. 2016-17).

Rajnish Kasturchand Ostwal v. ITO (IT) (2025) 238 TTJ 737 / (2026) 216 ITD 24 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Undisclosed Income-Loose papers-Addition based on dumb documents-Addition was deleted.[S.69C, 132, 153A]

Loose papers found during the course of the search, which were undated, unsigned and not supported by any corroborative evidence, could not form the basis for addition. The Revenue failed to establish any nexus between the documents and the assessee or any evidence of unaccounted sales or tax evasion. The director had neither admitted to undisclosed sales nor had any enquiry been made to the person who could explain the documents. Addition based merely on presumption and conjectures was rightly deleted. (AY. 2017-18.

ACIT v. Chhattisgarh Distilleries Ltd. (2025) 238 TTJ 774 / 177 taxmann.com 257 (Raipur)(Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Search assessment-Sale of shares-Opening stock ignored by Assessing Officer-Addition for unexplained investment deleted.-Addition based on material collected behind assessee's back-No opportunity of rebuttal-Addition deleted-Loose papers-No corroborative evidence of investment-Addition deleted-Bank deposits recorded in books-Entire deposits cannot be treated as unexplained income-CIT(A) was not justified in relying on Joint Parliamentary Committee on scam, when the assessee explaining specific transactions of deposit-addition was deleted-Bonds registered in Assessee's name by order of Special Court. Assessing Officer's computation of accrued interest as assessee's income was sustained.-Surrender of Income-Addition was directed to be deleted even if reassessed income lower than sum surrendered. ([S. 4, 68, 69A, 132,132(4), 139, Special Court (Trial of Offences Relating to Transactions in Securities Act, 1992]

The Assessing Officer treated the difference between the quantity of shares sold and purchased during the year as unexplained investment. The Tribunal upheld the finding of the Commissioner (Appeals) that the balance shares formed part of the assessee's opening stock. As the Revenue failed to disprove the existence of the opening stock, the addition under section 69 was deleted. The Assessing Officer made additions on the basis of information obtained from companies, the Custodian and other sources without furnishing the material to the assessee. The Tribunal held that no addition can be sustained on the basis of material collected behind the assessee's back without affording an opportunity to rebut the same. The relief granted by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Assessing Officer made an addition solely on the basis of loose papers allegedly reflecting investments in shares. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of share certificates, broker confirmations, money trail or any evidence linking the investments with the assessee, loose papers by themselves could not justify an addition under section 69. The addition was deleted. The Assessing Officer treated the entire receipts reflected in multiple bank accounts as unexplained income. The Tribunal held that where the deposits were duly recorded in the books of account and represented business transactions, only the income element, if any, could be brought to tax. Entire bank deposits could not be assessed as unexplained income under sections 68 or 69A. The addition was deleted. CIT(A) was not justified in relying on the Joint Parliamentary Committee on scam, when the assessee was explaining specific transactions of deposit-addition was deleted. Bonds registered in Assessee's name by order of Special Court. Assessing Officer's computation of accrued interest as assessee's income was sustained. As regards surrender of Income, addition was directed to be deleted even if reassessed income was lower than sum surrendered. (AY. 1992-93).

Growmore Research and Assets Management Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 44 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Purchase of house property-Residential house was purchased in joint names by the assessee along with his wife-Explained the source of investment-Addition was not valid-Reassessment-Information was received from the office of the Sub-Registrar under s. 285BA Sanction for reassessment was valid-PCIT has recorded the satisfaction-Approval was valid. [S. 133(6), 147, 148, 151, 285B]

Held that the assessee, having purchased a residential house jointly with his wife and duly explained the source of his share of investment in the property on the basis of his savings kept in various bank accounts, housing loan and the sale proceeds of a plot, addition was deleted. As regards the reassessment, the Tribunal held that the PCIT recorded her satisfaction after clearly applying her mind to the reasons recorded by the AO before giving approval, the approval under s. 151 was properly granted. (AY.2012-13)

Gajendra Pal Sharma v. ITO (2025) 234 TTJ 181 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 69 : Unexplained investments-Income from undisclosed sources-Entries on loose papers seized from residential premises of third party-Addition in the hands of the assessee was not sustainable-Presumption under S. 132(4A) is only confined to the person in whose premises search is conducted.[S. 132(4A)]

Held that AO, having adduced no corroborative evidence to show that the transaction mentioned in the document found in the premises of Suresh Bajoria pertains to assessee, and which did not bear the name of the assessee; addition in the hands of the assessee was not sustainable; presumption under S. 132(4A) is only confined to the person on whose premises a search is conducted. (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Sanjay Gaurishankar Agrawal (2025) 234 TTJ 830 (Nagpur)(Trib)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Investment in plot of land-Unsigned agreement to sell-Property continued to remain in the name of seller-Addition was deleted. [S. 132, 153A]

Assessee was subjected to a search under section 132. Assessing Officer on basis of an unsigned agreement to sell, which was unearthed during course of search, made an addition to assessee's income under head income from other sources on account of unexplained investment in plot of land. CIT(A) up held the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that alleged agreement relied upon by Assessing Officer was admittedly unsigned and unregistered and, therefore, could not be regarded as a legally enforceable document. No registry was ever executed pursuant thereto, nor was any corroborative evidence brought on record to establish transfer of ownership or actual flow of consideration. Property, as evidenced from electricity bills and purchase invoices, continued to remain in the name of the seller. Further, the Assessing Officer neither conducted any independent inquiry from said owner nor afforded any opportunity of cross-examination to assessee. Accordingly, no addition can be made merely based on an unsigned or draft agreement to sell, especially where no investigation has been conducted by the department. Accordingly, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Balwant Singh. v. DCIT 2025) 215 ITD 64 (Chd)(Trib.)

S. 69 :Unexplained investments-Jewellery-Jewellery bills found during search were not substantial-Poultry Farm Sale-Photocopy of an agreement to sell, allegedly retrieved from WhatsApp chat-Statement of buyer was not recorded-Additions on account were unjustified.[S. 131(IA), 132]

Held that jewellery bills found during the search were not substantial, and additions on account of jewellery were unjustified. Tribunal also held that addition cannot be made in respect of a poultry farm sale solely on basis of a photocopy of an agreement to sell, allegedly retrieved from WhatsApp chats of assessee's husband, without recording statements of buyer or seller and without independent verification of such addition. AY. 2020-21, 2021-22)

Lakhvir Kaur. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 39 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investment-Bonds/Debenture-Investment was made from her daughter's bank account, where she was a nominee-Addition was deleted.

Assessing Officer made an addition in respect of investment in bonds/debentures as unexplained. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the investment was made from her daughter's bank account, where she was a nominee. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2012-13)

Renu Vinod Kaushal. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 12 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69 :Unexplained investments-Immovable property-Source of investment is explained-Addition is deleted.

Held that the source of investment is explained by filing relevant documents. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2015-16)

Bharat Mithalal Jain. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 232 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investment-Source investment-Loan from mother and brother-Addition is deleted.

Assessee acquired a residential flat jointly with his mother and brother. He was asked to explain the source of this investment. Assessee claimed that he obtained a loan from his mother and brother. AO doubted the creditworthiness of assessee's mother and thus, concluded that investment remained unexplained to the extent of loan taken from assessee's mother. Assessee contended that his mother's case was also reopened to examine the same investment and her returned income was accepted without doubting her creditworthiness. Assessee's mother was also co-owner of the flat. Revenue was required to assess the unexplained investment made directly or indirectly in the flat in the hands of respective co-owners, if their creditworthiness was doubtful. Since, during the reopened assessment proceedings, Asstt. CIT had already held that the assessee's mother had creditworthiness for making investment and advances in the relevant year, her creditworthiness did not remain questionable. Addition is deleted. [AY. 2012-13]

Ankur Goyal v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 571 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 69 : Unexplained investments-Jewellery-Banl locker-Old jewellery was converted into bullion-Addition is justified. [S. 132, 153A]

Held that since the bank locker was jointly held by the assessee and her son the same can be treated as acquired from explained sources. Only the gold jewellery weighing 125.924 gms. found in the locker can be treated as unexplained by applying the combined limits specified in Instruction No. 1916, dt. 11th May, 1994. Since the locker was jointly held by the assessee and VD, 62.962 grams (50 per cent of 125.924 grams] of gold jewellery can safely be held as an unexplained investment in the hands of the assessee. The AO is directed to restrict the addition in the case of the assessee to the extent of the value of 62.962 grams, i.e., Rs. 1,71,886. (AY. 2015-16)

Asha Daga v. Dy.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 860/ 170 taxmann.com 199 (Raipur)(Trib)

S. 69 :Unexplained investments-Immovable property-Loan from mother-Creditworthiness is established-Addition is deleted-Interest paid to mother-Matter remanded to the AO for verification. [S. 22, 24]

Assessee along with his mother and brother acquired a residential flat. Assessee made investment of certain amount in said property sourced as loan from his mother. Assessing Officer held that creditworthiness of mother as doubtful, held that investment made by assessee was unexplained and taxed same under section 69. CIT(A) up held the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had established the creditworthiness of mother hence addition is deleted. As regards interest paid to mother the matter is remanded back to the AO for verification. (AY. 2012-13)

Ankur Goyal. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 571 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Investment in flat which was made in earlier year-Reflected in balance sheet-Addition is deleted.

Assessing Officer made addition under section 69 on account of investment in flat by assessee which was not explained. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal.

On appeal, the Tribunal held that investment in the flat was made in an earlier year and was duly reflected in the balance sheet of the assessee. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

Kajari Banerjee. (Smt.) v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 358 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 69 : Unexplained investments-Immovable property-Non-resident-Source of investment-Produced bank statement-Addition is deleted.

Assessee purchased immovable property vide allotment letter issued by a company for a consideration of a certain amount. Assessing Officer made an addition on account of unexplained investment in purchase of immovable property under section 69. DRP also affirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessee had produced bank statements of his wife and that, being an NRI account, credits appearing in the bank account had also been properly explained by the assessee. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

Anil Dhansukhlal. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 236 (Rajkot) (Trib.)

S. 69 :Unexplained investments-Investment in an immovable property in India-Explained the source-Addition is deleted-Registration and stamp charges-Source explained-Addition is deleted.

Assessee made investment in an immovable property in India which was claimed to be sourced from a foreign company where her spouse was a director. Assessing Officer held part of the investment to be out of unexplained sources for the reason that there was no explanation as to why this amount had been transferred by said foreign company on behalf of assessee, and also on account of proper confirmation of said transaction not being filed by assessee from the foreign entity. CIT(A) confirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since confirmation was filed by the management of said foreign entity and assessee had given proper explanation of source of investment substantiated with proper documentary evidences which had not been doubted by the authorities, the addition made by Assessing Officer is deleted. As regards registration and stamp duty charges for purchase of immovable property from her NRE bank account and had filed all supporting evidences to explain source of said investment, as coming out of advances given by her son to assessee from his foreign account. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2021-22)

Rekha Sanjeev Bhatt v.ITO (2025)210 ITD 690 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69: Unexplained investments-Alleged on money-Purchase of flat-Survey statement-Opportunity of cross examination is not provided-Merely on the basis of statement of the accountant of the builder no addition can be made. [S.132(4), 133A]

The assessee purchased the flat from Shah Hosecon Pvt Ltd. In the course of survey in the premises of the builder certain sheet was found and the statement of the accountant was recorded. The accountant of the company has accepted the receipt of the on money. In response to show cause notice the assessee denied the payment of on money. The assessee also requested for cross examination of the person who has given the statement. The Assessing Officer issued the summons to the accountant of the Company and appear for cross examination. In spite of summons nobody appeared on behalf of the builder. The assessee filed an affidavit denying the payment of any cash amount. The Assessing Officer made an addition of Rs 30 lakhs as unexplained investments. On appeal, CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that statements recorded during survey proceedings u/s. 133A does not hold evidentiary value unless corroborated by independent evidence. The Tribunal relied on the ruling in the case of Yash Synthetic Pvt. Ltd. (ITA No. 268/Mum/2024 dt. 18-6-2024 and Anil Jaggi v. ACIT (ITA No. 3049/Mum/2016 dt. 20-12-2017), which stated that no addition could be made based solely on uncorroborated survey statements. The Tribunal held that the AO did not consider the affidavit and bank statements, or conduct further inquiries.

The addition is deleted. (AY 2014-2015) (ITA No. 3233/Mum/2024 dated 21/02/2025)

Aarti Sudarshan Soni v. ITO, (Mum)(Trib.) www.itatonline.org

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Denominations-Details not maintained-Nature of source of cash deposit was not explained satisfactorily-SLP of assessee dismissed. [Art. 136]

On appeal, the High Court held that the explanation offered by the assessee was no explanation at all, and that the nature or source of acquisition of the money not having been explained, it could only be treated as unexplained money.SLP of the assessee was dismissed. (AY. 2017-18)n
Pankaj Gupta v. PCIT (2025) 477 ITR 390/305 Taxman 407 (SC)
Editorial: Pankaj Gupta v. PCIT (2025) 477 ITR 387/174 taxmann.com 747 (Orissa)(HC)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Investment at end of year-Deletion of addition by the Tribunal is affirmed by the High Court. [S. 260A

Assessing Officer treated total equity investments reflected at the end of the year as unexplained and also treated the figure of loans and advances outstanding at the end of the year as unexplained, which was affirmed by the CIT(A). Tribunal deleted additions after examining audited financial statements, balance sheet schedules, and documents available in the public domain. On appeal, the Court held that since the decision of the Tribunal was supported by documents produced before it, no substantial questions of law arose for consideration.

PCIT v. Improve Financial Consultants (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 260 (Cal.)(HC)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Search-Real estate projects-Books of account-Seized diaries contained recordings of receipts, which pertained to booking of flats-Not dumb documents-Order of

Tribunal confirming the addition was affirmed.[S. 2(12A), 132, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that seized diaries contained recordings of receipts, which pertained to booking of flats and additions made were not solely on the basis of diaries alone but also on the basis of reconciling material as found in diaries and formal books of account maintained by assessee, it would be erroneous to construe diaries as a random paper or dumb documents that did not reveal any information. The order of the Tribunal confirming the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2014-15 to 2018-19)

Shri Om Sai Infrapromoters (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 305 Taxman 551 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Income from undisclosed sources-Cash deposits in bank account-Demonetisation period-Bank account statement of last three financial years and return of her income for last six financial years-Allowing the appeal the Court held that the Assessing Officer ought to have been verified in terms of clauses 1.1 and 1.3 of CBDT Circular No. 3, dated 21-2-2017 before making addition,-Matter was remitted back to Assessing Officer to conduct verification and pass an order afresh. [S. 254(1), 260A]

Assessing Officer made addition of entire cash amount deposited in the bank treating it as unexplained money under section 69A. Tribunal relying upon CBDT Circular No. 3/2017, dated 21-2-2017, held that assessee would have been in possession of cash in hand of Rs. 3.50 lakhs at relevant point of time and after deducting said amount, sustained addition of Rs. 7.50 lakhs with her income. On appeal the Court held that since assessee had submitted her bank account statement of last three financial years and return of her income for last six financial years, it ought to have been verified in terms of clause 1.1 and 1.3 of CBDT Circular No. 3/2017, dated 21-2-2017, which was not carried out by either of authorities and straightway an amount of Rs. 7.50 lakhs had been added to income of assessee on account of unexplained money under section 69A, which was unsustainable and bad in law. Accordingly the addition was set aside and matter was to be remitted back to Assessing Officer to conduct verification and pass an order afresh in terms of clauses 1.1 and 1.3 of aforesaid Circular to extent of addition of Rs. 7.50 lakhs with income of assessee. (AY. 2017-18)

Sunita Sherwani v. ITO (2025) 177 taxmann.com 437/ 347 CTR 408 / 255 DTR 161 (Chattisgarh)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Search and seizure-Cash seized-Commission income-Mere declaration without proof of source-In absence of satisfactory explanation with supporting material, addition u/s 69A justified and taxable u/s 115BBE.[S. 115BBE, 132)

During the course of the search, cash was seized, and the assessee filed returns declaring ₹50,00,000 and ₹35,00,000 respectively as commission income. However, except for a bald statement that the amounts represented commission, no details or material explaining the nature and source of such receipts were furnished despite issuance of show-cause notices. The assessee did not respond to the notices. The Court held that under section 69A, the burden lies on the assessee to satisfactorily explain the nature and source of money found in his possession. Mere declaration during search or disclosure in return is not sufficient unless supported by credible material. Even where an explanation is offered, it must be satisfactory in the opinion of the Assessing Officer. In the present case, there was no explanation at all. The seized cash, not being properly explained, constituted unexplained money within the meaning of section 69A and was liable to be taxed under section 115BBE. The contention that declaration of income as commission was sufficient to take the case outside the purview of section 69A r/w section 115BBE was rejected. (AY. 2021-22)

Gautham Chand Jain v. ACIT (2025) 304 Taxman 640 / 345 CTR 328 / 250 DTR 132 (Mad)(HC)

Sumermal Kantilal Jain v. ACIT (2025) 304 Taxman 640 / 345 CTR 328 / 250 DTR 132 (Mad)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Post-demonetisation deposit of old currency notes-Cash book balance insufficient to explain deposit-Failure to explain the source-Addition was affirmed.[S. 260A]

The Assessing Officer held that the explanation given by the assessee was inadequate and made an addition under section 69A, treating the deposit as unexplained money. The Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed the addition and the Tribunal upheld the decision. On appeal, the Court held that the explanation offered by the assessee was no explanation at all. The nature or source of acquisition of the money not having been explained it could only be treated as unexplained money. (AY. 2017-18)

Pankaj Gupta v. PCIT (2025) 477 ITR 387/174 taxmann.com 747 (Orissa)(HC)

Editorial: SLP rejected, Pankaj Gupta v. PCIT (2025) 305 Taxman 407 / 477 ITR 390 (SC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-On money-Construction business-Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to compute on money at rate of 10 per cent of total receipt booked in the books of account-High Court affirmed the order of Tribunal.[S. 132(4), 260A]

The Assessee, a company engaged in construction, was subject to a search under section 132 of the Income-tax Act during which unaccounted cash was found. In a statement recorded under section 132(4), the company's directors admitted to charging 'on-money' on all projects relating to residential and commercial properties. The Assessing Officer estimated on-money at ₹81.55 lakh based on the proportion of on-money to gross receipts ratio in the case of its group concern and added ₹76.55 lakh after adjusting the disclosed amount. On appeal, the CIT(A) reduced the addition to ₹3.81 lakh (Being 10% of the gross receipts on all projects excluding project Sarjan), holding that no on-money was received on a major project ('Sarjan') where prices were advertised publicly. On appeal by the Department, the Tribunal held that the directors' admission and cash found during search justified the receipt of on-money and directed the Assessing Officer to compute on-money at 10% of total receipts, including the Sarjan project. Aggrieved, the Assessee approached the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, which upheld the Tribunal's order, observing that the estimation of the quantum of on-money was based on voluntary admission corroborated by evidence and was a finding of fact. Further, the High Court observed that the addition was sustained by the CIT(A) and that the order of the Tribunal was only concerned with the quantum of the on-money based on the fact that the Assessee was in receipt of the on-money. The Court dismissed the appeal. (AY. 1993-94)

Labh Construction & Industries Ltd. [2025] 306 Taxman 201 (Guj)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Accommodation bills-Burden of proof-Assessee was not obliged to produce third-party books-Order of Tribunal deleting the disallowance was affirmed.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that where assessee engaged in stevedore services and faced disallowance for inflated payments to two entities, since substantial documents proved that the entities had rendered Container Freight Services, and the assessee was not obliged to produce third-party books, disallowance was rightly deleted by CIT(A) and confirmed by the Tribunal. [BP.1-4-1989 to 18-6-1999]

PCIT v. M. Dinshaw & Co. (P.) Ltd. [2023] 156 taxmann.com 170 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Seizure at airport-Professional income explained-Competent authority was directed to return seized cash. [S. 131(1A),Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that where Rs. 16 lakhs seized at airport was explained as professional income recorded in books, Tribunal accepted explanation and deleted addition. Competent authority was directed to return seized cash. [AY. 2019-20]

Ramchandra K. Mendadkar v. UOI [2023] 154 taxmann.com 440 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Agricultural income-Failed to establish that land was under cultivation-Order of Tribunal denying exemption was upheld. [S.10(1), 260A]

Assessee claimed exemption of agricultural income. Income Tax Inspector deputed by Assessing Officer for spot enquiry reported that land was marked into plots and was not used for cultivation. Tribunal held that the assessee had failed to establish that land in question was under cultivation. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2000-01)

Patnala Srinivas v. ITO (2025) 303 Taxman 374 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Search-Foreign Bank Account-Deposit in bank account-Debit card in joint name-Matter remanded to produce bank account. [S.260A]

On appeal, the Court held that subject to the assessee producing the authenticated bank statement of the said bank account for the relevant period. In the event the assessee produces the same, the Assessing Officer shall determine the addition based on the said account. The order of the Tribunal is modified accordingly. (BP. 1-4 1990 to 17-10-2000)

Pawan Kumar Jaggi v. ACIT (2025) 302 Taxman 274 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Compulsory Scrutiny-Difference between the value of plant and machinery shown in the Balance Sheet on 31-03-2004 and opening balance shown on 01-04-2004 in the books of accounts-Assessee firm failed to explain the difference in the investments in plant and machinery-Addition is confirmed, [S. 119, 143(2), 144, 260A]

The assessee partnership firm filed its return of income, subsequently selected for compulsory scrutiny under the CBDT guidelines in Clause 2(q) for the financial year 2006-07. During the assessment proceedings, the assessee firm failed to explain the difference between the value of plant and machinery claimed to be purchased in the Balance Sheet as on 31-03-2004 and the balances carried forward as on 01-04-2004 in the books of accounts. The assessee raised the issue of selection of its case under compulsory scrutiny in violation of the CBDT's circular/guidelines, particularly Clause 2(q) for the financial year 2006-07.

On appeal, the Hon'ble Court held that there is no violation of the procedure laid down in the CBDT's circular for selection of the cases for the financial year 2006-07 and accordingly, the order passed by the ITAT upholding the assessment order making addition u/s 69A of the Act was sustained. (AY. 2007-08)

Reshi Construction Company v. CIT (2024) 167 taxmann.com 47 / (2025) 472 ITR 570 (J & K & L)(HC)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Addition cannot be made on the entire value of alleged unaccounted sales-Only the profit element embedded in such sales is taxable, even where the existence of clandestine sales is established through seized documents and corroborative third-party statements-Estimation of profit at 6% by the CIT(A) was held to be reasonable. [S. 69A, 147]

Pursuant to information received from the DGCEI regarding clandestine sales, the assessment was reopened under section 147. Based on a seized diary maintained by a purchaser recording cash payments, corroborated by statements of the purchaser's Managing Director, accountant and commission agent, the AO treated the entire alleged unaccounted sales of ₹7.51 crore as unexplained money under section 69A. The CIT(A) accepted the existence of unaccounted sales but, relying on judicial precedents, restricted the addition to 6% of the turnover, representing the embedded profit. The Tribunal upheld the reopening as valid and confirmed that the seized diary and corroborative third-party evidence established the existence of unaccounted sales. However, following the principles laid down in CIT v. President Industries (2002) 258 ITR 654 (Guj) HC) and Dy.CIT v. Panna Corporation(2012) 82 CCH 26 (Guj) HC), it held that only the profit element embedded in the unaccounted turnover could be brought to tax and not the entire sale proceeds. Since the possibility that corresponding purchases were already accounted for could not be ruled out and no material was brought on record to justify a higher profit rate, the Tribunal held that the estimation of profit at 6% by the CIT(A) was fair and reasonable. Accordingly, the assessee's appeal was partly allowed, and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

Shah Foils Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 130 ITR 198 (Ahd(Trib.))

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Search assessment-Unaccounted receipts-Estimation of profit-Telescoping-Seized cash-PF/ESI contributions-Addition was deleted..[S. 69C 132, 145, 153A, General Clauses Act,]

Where search proceedings revealed unaccounted receipts and expenditure from the assessee's hospitality business, the CIT(A) was justified in estimating income by applying a net profit rate of 12% on the unaccounted receipts instead of treating the entire receipts as income. Telescoping of unaccounted expenditure against such receipts was rightly allowed as both formed part of the same business activity. Separate addition of seized cash under section 69A was rightly deleted since the cash represented business receipts already considered while estimating income, and a further addition would amount to double taxation. Addition in respect of PF/ESI contribution for unabated assessment years was not sustainable in the absence of incriminating material, while for the abated year the payment made after a Sunday was held to be within the permissible time under the General Clauses Act. The Tribunal also upheld deletion of separate addition for poker income and expenditure as the same already formed part of the seized material considered for estimating business income. (AY. 2013-14 to 2019-20).

Sankalp Recreation Pvt. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 130 ITR 517 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposits in bank account-Demonetization period-Assessee, aged 89 years-,Addition cannot be sustained to the extent of Rs. 5 lakhs in view of CBDT Instruction No. 3 of 2017, dt. 21st Feb., 2017-Source of the remaining amount of Rs. 5 lakhs has been duly explained by the assessee on the basis of said bank statements-Addition was deleted.

Held that in view of CBDT Instruction No. 3 of 2017, dt. 21st Feb., 2017, addition under s. 69 is not sustainable in respect of the cash deposit made by the assessee, aged 89 years, to the extent of Rs. 5 lakhs; assessee having duly explained the source of the remaining cash deposits in her bank account on the basis of earlier withdrawals of cash which were held by her on the date of declaration of demonetization, no addition under s. 69 is sustainable. (AY. 2017-18)

Shantirani Saarathamal Dagriya v. ITO (2025) 235 TTJ 448(SMC) (Mum)(Trib)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposit in bank account-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A)-Reassessment was affirmed.[S. 147, 148]

Held that the Assessee had duly explained the source of cash deposit made in bank account with the help of regularly maintained cash book on day to day basis and bank statement that he was having sufficient cash in hands on eve of cash deposit out of cash withdrawals from his bank CIT(A) having not examined the contention of the assessee vis-à-vis cash flow statement, matter is remitted to the file of the CIT(A) to decide the issue afresh. Tribunal also held that at the stage of initiation of reassessment proceeding AO is required only to frame a prima facie belief as to the escapement of income. Reassessment was affirmed.(AY. 2016-17)

Akshat Loyalka v. ITO (E) (2025) 237 TTJ 200/ 126 ITR 373/ 175 taxmann.com 42 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Credit card expenses incurred in representative capacity-Reimbursed expenses-Addition was deleted-Seizure of gold jewellery-Source explained-Addition was deleted. [S. 132]

Assessee used the business credit card issued by JCII exclusively for incurring expenditure for official purposes of JCII, and the latter having reimbursed the said expenditure, the addition made by the AO is not sustainable. As regards jewellery, the explanation offered by the assessee, a religious preacher, based on declared income, family status, and customary gifting practices, is reasonable and consistent with accepted norms and, therefore, the addition under S. 69A in respect of jewellery was not sustainable. (AY. 2021-22)

Paul Dhinakaran v. DCIT(2025) 237 TTJ 850 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Survey-Addition based on dumb documents seized from third parties deleted.[S. 133A]

The Tribunal held that the addition under section 69A could not be sustained merely on the basis of loose papers and statements recorded from finance brokers during a search conducted prior to the commencement of the relevant previous year. The assessee had promptly retracted the statement recorded during the survey, alleging coercion, and the Revenue failed to produce any corroborative evidence such as statements of brokers, borrowers or other material linking the assessee with alleged cash loans. The seized papers were merely "dumb documents" incapable of establishing undisclosed investments. In the absence of independent evidence, no adverse inference could be drawn, and the addition was deleted. (AY. 2020 21)

Suresh Kumar Banthia v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 130 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Addition was deleted where source stood explained from regular books [S. 115BBE]

The Tribunal held that the cash deposited during the demonetisation period by the assessee-trust running a medical college, hospital and pharmacy was fully explained by cash receipts from fees, hospital collections, pharmacy sales and redeposit of earlier cash withdrawals, all of which were duly recorded in the regular books of account. The Assessing Officer had neither rejected the books nor disproved the documentary evidence produced by the assessee. Since the cash receipts already formed part of the gross receipts disclosed in the income and expenditure account, the same amount could not be taxed again under section 69A. The deletion of the addition by the CIT(A) was therefore upheld. (AY. 2017-18)

DCIT v. Santosh Trust (2025) 238 TTJ 237 / 178 taxmann.com 31 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Seized Papers-Where seized rough sheets substantially tally with the regular books of account, only unexplained differences can be sustained and not the entire addition. [S.132, 145(3)]

The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer himself had accepted that nearly 80% of the entries found in the seized documents were duly reconciled with the books of account of the assessee and its related concerns. The seized documents were merely rough memoranda subsequently incorporated into the regular books. In the absence of any evidence of unrecorded money or assets, the CIT(A) was justified in deleting the major addition while sustaining only the minor unexplained differences. However, the addition relating to an alleged opening balance was confirmed as the assessee failed to substantiate the claim with evidence from its books of account. (AY. 2022-23)

Jamna Dass Nikkamal Jain Saraf (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 473 (Chd.)(Trib.).

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Search & seizure-Addition based solely on employee's diary and retracted statements-Not sustainable. (S. 132, 132(4A) 153A)

The Assessing Officer made additions on the basis of diary entries maintained by an employee and statements recorded during search proceedings. Both the employee and the director subsequently retracted their statements, and no independent enquiry or corroborative evidence was brought on record. The Tribunal held that loose papers or personal diaries maintained by an employee, without independent corroboration, cannot constitute the sole basis for addition. The additions under the head capital gains and section 69A were accordingly deleted. (AY. 2014-15 to 2017-18, 2019-20 to 2022-23)

Estate Investment Company (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 585 (Mum)(Trib).

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposits-Deposits made by members of co-operative society-Explanation accepted-Ad hoc addition deleted.

The reassessment was initiated on the basis of Annual Information Return data linked to an old Permanent Account Number which the assessee had already requested to be surrendered. The assessee explained that the cash deposits represented deposits received from its members in the ordinary course of its activities and that it functioned merely as a pass-through entity. The Tribunal held that the Department failed to disprove the explanation and, once the source of the deposits was substantially accepted, no addition under section 69A could be sustained merely on suspicion. The ad hoc addition of 10 per cent. sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) had no legal basis and was deleted. (AY. 2019-20).

Sanjivani Mahila Gramin Bigar Sheti Sahakari Pat Sanstha v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 713 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposits-Availability of cash from earlier withdrawals-Matter remanded for fresh examination-Reassessment-"Reason to believe"-Prima facie belief sufficient-Reopening valid-Delay of six days was condoned. [S. 147, 148, 254(1)]

The assessee explained that the cash deposited in his bank account represented redeposit of earlier cash withdrawals. The Assessing Officer rejected the explanation, whereas the Commissioner (Appeals) held that no supporting evidence had been produced. The Tribunal observed that there was only a short gap between the withdrawals and redeposits and that contradictory findings had been recorded regarding the availability of cash. Since the Assessing Officer had not established utilisation of the withdrawals for any other purpose, the matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh examination in accordance with law. The assessee challenged the reassessment contending that it was based only on suspicion and not on a valid "reason to believe". The Tribunal held that at the stage of initiation of reassessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer is only required to form a prima facie belief regarding escapement of income. Sufficiency of the material cannot be examined at that stage. Accordingly, the challenge to the reopening was rejected. Delay of six days in filing of appeal was condoned. (AY. 2016-17).

Akshat Loyalka v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 373 / 175 taxmann.com 42 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Protective addition-Fraudulent bank account operated by third parties-No benefit or control of account by assessee-Addition deleted. [S 206C]

Huge cash deposits were made in a bank account fraudulently opened in the assessee's trade name. The assessee denied ownership of the account, lodged a police complaint and established that the money was deposited and withdrawn by third parties without his knowledge. The Assessing Officer had already taxed the beneficiaries substantively but made a protective addition in the assessee's hands. The Tribunal held that the assessee neither controlled the account nor derived any benefit from the transactions. Considering the nature of the retail liquor licence, it was impossible for the assessee to achieve the alleged turnover within fourteen days. The protective addition was therefore deleted. (AY. 2012-13).

Mandeep Singh v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 240 / 178 taxmann.com 474 (Amritsar)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Cash balance contrary to Schedule AL-Addition upheld.

The assessee claimed that the cash deposited during demonetisation represented opening cash-in-hand as per a balance sheet prepared by him. The Tribunal held that the assessee had disclosed only ₹1.06 lakh as cash-in-hand in Schedule AL of the return and could not subsequently rely on an unfiled balance sheet showing ₹36.66 lakh. Since the balance sheet had no evidentiary value, the addition under section 69A was rightly sustained. (AY. 2017-18).

Gowri Shankar Gupta v. ITO (2025) 127 ITR 595 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Search and seizure-Parallel invoicing-No corroborative evidence connecting seized material with assessee-Addition deleted-Sales-Under-invoicing-Extrapolation of entire turnover unjustified-Addition restricted. [S. 132]

The Assessing Officer made additions for alleged undisclosed sales based on spreadsheets found at the premises of the assessee's accountant. The Tribunal held that the assessee successfully reconciled the entries with recorded sales and the Revenue failed to produce any corroborative evidence linking the seized material with undisclosed transactions. Deletion of additions relating to parallel invoicing, unexplained money and capital employed was upheld. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer was not justified in extrapolating alleged under-invoicing to the entire turnover without comparing identical grades of paper. While sustaining the restriction of addition only to sales made to one party, the Tribunal reduced the rate of under-invoicing to the rate emerging from the Assessing Officer's own working. (AY. 2014-15 to 2020-21).

Dy. CIT v. DSG Papers (P.) Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 410 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Unaccounted production-Estimation based on variation in electricity consumption-No evidence of unaccounted purchases or sales-Addition deleted.[S. 132]

The Assessing Officer estimated unaccounted production and sales solely on the basis of higher electricity consumption. The Tribunal held that fluctuations in electricity consumption within a reasonable range could not, by themselves, justify estimation of unaccounted production in the absence of any evidence of purchases or sales outside the books. The addition was deleted. (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20 & 2020-21).

Rosha Alloys P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 76 / 175 taxmann.com 622 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Search assessment-Financial broker-Cash loans belonging to clients-Brokerage income already disclosed-Addition as unexplained money deleted-Seized document-Entire document to be read as a whole-Revenue cannot rely selectively on favourable entries.[S.69A, 132, 132(4), 153C]

During search, documents relating to cash and cheque loans arranged by the assessee, a financial broker, were seized. While the Revenue accepted brokerage earned on cheque transactions, it treated the principal amount of cash loans and interest thereon as unexplained money under section 69A. The Tribunal held that the assessee had already disclosed brokerage income from cash transactions in the return filed under section 153C and the Revenue could not adopt a contrary stand by treating the same transactions as the assessee's undisclosed money. In the absence of any evidence showing that the cash advanced belonged to the assessee, the deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Tribunal reiterated that a seized document must be read in its entirety and neither the assessee nor the Revenue can rely only on isolated portions favourable to its case. Where the explanation regarding a transaction is available from the seized material or the statement recorded under section 132(4), the same must be considered before drawing adverse inferences.(AY. 2016-17 to 2019-20).

Dy. CIT v. Biharilal Shadhuram Chhabriya (2025) 124 ITR 149 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Cash generated from additional income disclosed before Settlement Commission-Source explained-Addition deleted.

The assessee had disclosed additional income of Rs. 3.36 crores before the Settlement Commission in respect of bogus unsecured loan entries, and the Settlement Commission permitted capitalisation of the additional income. The assessee explained that the cash generated on repayment of those loan entries was utilised for working capital requirements and the balance cash available was deposited during the demonetisation period. The Tribunal held that the explanation was bona fide and reasonable. Merely because the cash had been used in the business as working capital did not mean that it ceased to be available as cash or cash equivalent. Accordingly, the source of the cash deposits stood satisfactorily explained, and the deletion of the addition under section 69A was upheld. (AY. 2017-18).

Dy. CIT v. Baashyaam Constructions (P.) Ltd. (2025) 124 ITR 272 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash deposits in bank-Business receipts from sale of SIM cards and recharge vouchers-Addition under section 69A deleted-Profit element alone taxable-The Assessing Officer was directed to estimate the income at 1 per cent. of the gross business receipts, and no interest was leviable as the income remained below the basic exemption limit. [S. 144]

The Assessing Officer completed an ex parte reassessment and treated the entire cash deposits in the assessee's bank account as unexplained money under section 69A. Before the Tribunal, the assessee produced bank statements, sales summaries and ledger accounts showing that the deposits represented business receipts from sale of SIM cards and recharge vouchers, which were continuously rotated for purchase of further stock. The Tribunal held that the Commissioner (Appeals) erred in ignoring the documentary evidence and merely relied upon the assessee's non-compliance before the Assessing Officer. Since the nature and source of the deposits stood established, section 69A had no application. The Assessing Officer was directed to estimate the income at 1 per cent. of the gross business receipts, and no interest was leviable as the income remained below the basic exemption limit. (AY. 2017-18).

Akash Anand Puri v. ITO (2025) 125 ITR 707 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash deposits during demonetisation-Cash deposited directly by customers into bank account-Addition deleted.[S. 68, Specified Bank Notes (Cessation of Liabilities) Act, 2017, S. 2(1)(a), 5]

The assessee, engaged in the business of manufacturing and sale of textile goods, explained that the cash deposits during the demonetisation period represented sale proceeds directly deposited into his bank account by customers, which was the regular practice followed in earlier years. The Tribunal held that the sales were accepted as genuine and part of the cash deposits had already been accepted by the Department. The Reserve Bank of India guidelines imposed obligations only on the person making the deposit and not on the recipient. Since the specified bank notes continued to be legally depositable in banks up to 31 December 2016, direct deposits made by customers into the assessee's bank account could not be treated as unexplained money under section 69A. The addition was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2017-18).

Ramesh v. ITO (2025) 125 ITR 600 (Jodhpur)(Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Income from undisclosed sources-Cash deposits in bank during demonetization period-Books of account not rejected-The assessee has explained the nature and source of the same and recorded the same in his books of account. Addition was deleted. [S. 145]

AO having accepted assessee's turnover in excess of Rs. 16 crores and not rejected the books of accounts, addition of Rs. 40 lakhs made by the AO under s. 69A on the ground that the cash deposits made by the assessee in his bank accounts during the demonetization period out of the cash in hand i.e., Rs. 1,04,52,586, were made up of currency notes of small denominations, is not sustainable. (AY. 2017-18)

Rengasamy Asaithambi v. ACIT (2025) 234 TTJ 890 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash deposits-Past disclosures and withdrawals-Addition was sustained to the extent of Rs 10 lakhs.[S.44AE]

Assessee, engaged in transport business, made cash deposits of Rs. 26.01 lakh, and the Assessing Officer made additions under section 69A. Tribunal held that considering past disclosures of transportation receipts of Rs. 9.16 lakh and redeposit of Rs. 4.65 lakh out of earlier withdrawals, addition was to be sustained to the extent of Rs.10 lakh. (AY. 2012-13)

Renu Vinod Kaushal. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 12 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash deposits-Additional evidence-Matter remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for re-adjudication. [S. 147]

Assessing Officer treated the entire cash deposit in assessee's bank as unexplained money under section 69A of the Act. The assessee produced additional evidence before the Tribunal. Tribunal admitted the additional evidence and remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer with directions to verify such evidence and to re adjudicate the addition.(AY. 2018-19)

Chinthalapudi Ramakrishna. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 222 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-On money-Sale of flats-Uncorroborated document-WhatsApp chat-No independent supporting evidence-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed.[S. 43CA, 153C]

During the search, certain loose papers and extracts of WhatsApp chat were recovered. Assessing Officer stated that on verification of the WhatsApp message in the form of an Excel sheet, it was found that the actual sale value of flats was different from the agreement value. Assessing Officer completed under section 153C wherein an addition was made under section 69A on account of the on-money received on the sale of flats. CIT(A) deleted the additions. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had duly furnished comprehensive documentary evidence substantiating its claim, including sale agreements, cancellation deeds, and corresponding banking transactions. Further, all transactions were executed at values exceeding stamp duty valuation and were fully compliant with the provisions of section 43CA. Tribunal held that the WhatsApp message relied upon by the Assessing Officer was uncorroborated, and there was no independent supporting evidence. Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed.(AY. 2018-19, 2019-20)

DCIT v. Saarrthi Reality and Infra LLP (2025) 214 ITD 27 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Accommodation entries-long-term capital gains-Accommodation entries-Penny stock-Reassessment was affirmed-Addition was deleted on merits. [S.10(38), 45, 147, 148]

On the basis of this information from the Investigation Wing, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessment and made additions of bogus LTCG and bogus STCL. Assessee contended that Assessing Officer had made an addition citing name of the entity Kushal Limited, whereas assessee's transactions pertained to Kushal Trade Mark Ltd. It was noted that from the evidence brought on record by the revenue, it was evident that the two entities were the same and the name of Kushal Trade Mark Ltd was changed to Kushal Ltd w.e.f. 17.10.2017. Tribunal held that the reason as recorded by the Assessing Officer could not be held as incorrect for this reason, as the two names were synonymous. On merit, the Tribunal held that transactions as undertaken by assessee in shares were duly disclosed in his return of income and assessee had also brought on record a copy of the demat account to prove that the purchase and sale in shares were effected through demat account only, thus, assessee had discharged its onus to establish that transactions in shares were genuine, reopening notice issued against assessee was unjustified. (AY. 2017-18)

ITO v. Harsha Asheshbhai Patel. (2025) 214 ITD 502 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Search-Gold jewellery-Found 1810 grams-CBDT Circular No.1916/1994, dated 11-05-1994-Exemption was allowed to the extent of 1700 grams as per the circular of CBDT-Addition was to be made towards the value of jewellery to the extent of 110 grams. [S. 132]

CIT (A), referring to the CBDT Circular No.1916/1994, dated 11-05-1994, held that the source as regards 1700 grams of jewellery was explained by the assessee and he directed the Assessing Officer to accept the explanation to the extent of 1700 grams of jewellery and sustained addition towards value of jewellery to the extent of 110 grams only, the source of which assessee could not explain. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the assessee could not file any evidence to explain the source for said jewellery, the order of CIT(A) was affirmed. (AY. 2021-22)

Kiran Kumr Reddy. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 490 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Rough diary notings-Internal circulation of funds-Statement in the Course of search-Statement retracted-Addition unsustainable.[S. 132, 132(4), 132(4A)]

The Assessing Officer treated a diary entry of ₹ 2.50 lakh as unexplained money under section 69A. The Tribunal found that the entry represented internal circulation of cash within the group and not an independent receipt by the assessee. As no corroborative evidence or verification of the alleged parties was made, the addition was purely on conjecture. Following PCIT v. Umesh Ishrani [(2019) 108 taxmann.com 437 (Bom)(HC), and Harish Textile Engineers Ltd v.DCIT [(2015) 63 taxmann.com 66 (Bom)(HC) it was held that suspicion, however strong, cannot replace proof. The addition was accordingly deleted.(ITA Nos. 3012-3013 & 3222-3228/Mum/2025 dt. 17-10-2025) (AY. 2014-15 to 2022-23)

Estate Investment Co. Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT (Mum)(Trib)
www.itatonline.org

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash deposited in bank-Source explained-Addition is deleted. [S. 115BBE]

The Tribunal held that the AO had not pointed out any mistake or error in documents so submitted by assessee, except to say that the documents and explanation submitted by assessee were not acceptable; it was not justifiable on part of the Assessing Officer to make an addition under section 69A, read with section 115BBE of the Act. (AY. 2017-18)

Girishkumar Jamnadas Bhalodiya Kishan. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 249 (Rajkot) (Trib.)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Alleged unaccounted cash sales from Scrap and Piling business-Addition of gross receipts is not justified-Applying an average profit rate of 8.56% on such cash receipts is held to be reasonable-Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. [S.115BBE]

During the course of assessment, the AO made an addition under section 69A aggregating to ₹1,03,27,743 on account of unaccounted income from cash sales of scrap (₹25,79,334) and piling business (₹77,48,409), allegedly based on statements recorded during the course of search and materials seized. The assessee contended that even if such transactions were undertaken, the correct approach would be to estimate the income component and not treat the entire cash receipt as undisclosed income, especially when expenses related to such business activity had already been booked in the regular books. The CIT(A) restricted the addition by estimating income at 8.56% of the gross receipts (based on average profit before tax margin), resulting in reduced additions of ₹2,20,791 (for scrap) and ₹6,63,264 (for piling). The issue before the Tribunal was, whether cash receipts from alleged unaccounted business activity (scrap sale and piling) can be added in full under section 69A, or whether only the income component, estimated on a reasonable profit margin, should be taxed. On appeal the Tribunal agreed with the assessee's contention and upheld the CIT(A)'s approach. The Tribunal held that, the business of scrap sale and piling formed part of the assessee's regular operations. Even if cash transactions were undertaken outside the books, the income component needed to be determined on an estimate, not the entire turnover. The AO failed to establish that the entire cash receipts were pure income or profit, especially in the absence of evidence that related expenses were not incurred or were also outside the books. The assessee's regular books already accounted for corresponding expenses, which the AO did not dispute. The Tribunal held that applying an average profit rate of 8.56% on such cash receipts was a reasonable method to determine taxable income in the absence of exact details. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that additions under section 69A must be restricted to estimated profit margins on unaccounted turnover. Addition of gross receipts is not justified. Order of CIT(A) upheld. (AY 2016-17 to 2022-23)

J. Kumar Infraprojects Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 176 taxmann.com 193 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Alleged investment of unaccounted cash receipts in immovable properties-The Tribunal held that without tangible evidence of investment, addition under section 69A on account of alleged purchase of immovable property is not justified. Addition deleted.

The Assessing Officer alleged that the assessee had utilized unaccounted cash receipts (from scrap sales and piling activities) for investment in immovable properties. The AO relied on statements recorded during the search, internal correspondence, and summary sheets seized from the premises. Based on this, a sum of ₹1.03 crore was added under section 69A as unexplained investment. The assessee rebutted this by submitting that there was no direct evidence of cash investment in any identified immovable property. The documents were unsigned, unauthenticated, and contained projected figures. No immovable property was found to be registered in the name of the assessee or its partners using such unaccounted cash. The issue before the Tribunal was, whether mere suspicion of investment in immovable properties based on unsigned internal documents and uncorroborated statements is sufficient to invoke section 69A and make an addition for unexplained investment. The Tribunal held that the addition under section 69A was not sustainable in the absence of cogent and corroborative evidence. The following points were emphasised: No immovable property was found or identified by the Department which could be attributed to the alleged unaccounted income. The AO failed to establish the actual flow of funds from the business into any asset or transaction. The seized documents were not supported by entries in any books of accounts or third-party confirmations. Mere projections, proposals, or internal assessments of fund requirements for property purchases cannot constitute evidence of actual investment. The Tribunal also noted that the income component from the cash receipts (scrap and piling) had already been offered to tax on an estimated basis (8.56%). Therefore, taxing the same amount again as unexplained investment would amount to double addition. The Tribunal held that without tangible evidence of investment, addition under section 69A on account of alleged purchase of immovable property is not justified. Addition deleted. (AY. 2016-17 to 2022-23)

J. Kumar Infraprojects Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 176 taxmann.com 193 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Income Declaration Scheme, 2016-quoted wrong PAN No.-issue is restored to the AO for necessary verification. [Income Declaration Scheme, 2016]

Held that the assessee has filed a declaration under the Income Declaration Scheme, 2016 and inadvertently paid the tax partly quoting the old PAN and partly the new PAN; she is eligible to the benefit of IDS; issue is restored to the AO for necessary verification and delete addition under s. 69A. (AY. 2017-18)

Pushpadevi Shivlal Rathi v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 12 / 245 DTR 16 (SMC) (Pune) (Trib)

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Search-Cash withdrawal-No explanation for reason for withdrawal-Addition cannot be made-Jewellery-Silver articles-Residence and bank locker-Joint family-Explanation has to be considered as belonging to family as a whole-Addition is deleted. [S. 132]

A search was carried out at the premises of assessee during which cash was found from his residence. Assessing Officer made addition under section 69A in respect of cash withdrawn as unexplained money. CIT(A) (Appeals) did not accept the explanation of cash claimed to be out of the amount withdrawn by assessee from company for reason that no explanation was given as to why cash was withdrawn when entire household expenses were incurred by assessee's father. On appeal the Tribunal held that no document was found in search to come to a conclusion that amount withdrawn by assessee from company had been utilized elsewhere. Merely because the assessee had not given explanation as to why cash was withdrawn, it could not be a ground to hold that the same was unexplained money of assessee. Addition is deleted. Held that Jewellery and silver articles which were found at the residence and bank locker belong to joint family and have to be considered as belonging to family as a whole. Addition is deleted (AY. 2016-17)

Ajay Data v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 701 (Jaipur) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money- Unexplained Investments- Demonetization-Deposit of cash-Business receipts-Recorded in Books-Acceptance of Specified Bank Notes (SBNs) prior to 31.12.2016 is not illegal-Addition is deleted. [S.69]

During assessment, the AO identified substantial cash deposits made during demonetization and sought clarification. The assessee stated the cash, in the form of Specified Bank Notes (SBNs), was received from debtors in the normal course of business and recorded in audited books. The AO, however, dismissed the explanation citing the cessation of SBNs as legal tender from 09/11/2016, and added ₹44.61 lakhs as unexplained under Section 69A. The CIT(A), NFAC, confirmed the addition without granting a personal hearing.

The Hon'ble ITAT, Mumbai, observed that the assessee had satisfactorily discharged the onus of explaining the nature and source of the cash deposits, which were duly supported by documentary evidence and reflected in the regular books of account. The Tribunal held that although SBNs ceased to be legal tender from 09.11.2016, their acceptance in bona fide commercial transactions was not prohibited by law until 31.12.2016. It further held that the mere violation of RBI notifications, if any, does not ipso facto attract the provisions of Section 69A unless the cash remains unexplained. Placing reliance on the decision of the ITAT, Chennai Bench, in Tamil Nadu State Marketing Corporation Ltd. v. ACIT (ITA No. 431/Chny/2023 dt. 7-10-2024), the Tribunal held that the impugned addition was untenable and accordingly directed the deletion of the addition of

₹44.61 lakhs, thereby allowing the appeal.(ITA No. 547/Mum/2024 dt.17-6-2025) (AY. 2017-18)

Goldman Tapes Private Limited v. ACIT (Mum)(Trib)
www.itatonline.org

S. 69A : Unexplained money-Cash deposit in bank-Non-Resident-Withdrawal from bank-Addition is deleted.

Assessing Officer made addition to income of assessee on account of cash deposit in her bank account, source of which remained unexplained. CIT(A) confirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee, a non-resident, explained that said cash deposit was sourced from withdrawals made from a company in South Africa where her spouse was a director. She had filed all documentary evidences, proving same, right from bank statement of said company showing withdrawal of necessary amount in currency of country of residence, document evidencing conversion of currency into dollars, declaration of said dollars to Custom Authority in India when assessee carried amount immediately after withdrawal from South Africa to India, and deposited same immediately thereafter in Indian bank NRE account of assessee, jointly held with her husband. Assessee had also filed confirmation of said facts from auditors of said company. As the assessee had sufficiently discharged her onus of proving genuineness of transaction, addition is deleted.(AY. 2021-22)

Rekha Sanjeev Bhatt v.ITO (2025)210 ITD 690 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash deposit-Demonetisation-Cash sales-Deletion of addition is affirmed by the Tribunal. [S. 68]

Where assessee deposited cash of Rs. 2.52 crores in bank account during demonetization period, since on entering into fresh agreement in June, 2016, assessee had made huge sales in cash which eventually stood deposited in bank account and entire cash sales made by assessee were duly reflected in VAT returns of assessee, addition made by Assessing

Officer under section 69A was rightly deleted by Commissioner (Appeals) (AY.2015-16)

Subhash Chand Gupta v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 118 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 69A: Unexplained money-Cash found in the work premises-Sales-Matter restored to AO to consider the evidence submitted. [S. 131, 133A]

Cash was found while survey u/s. 133A from the car in possession of the employee of the assessee. His statement was recorded u/s. 131, where he mentioned that he works as an employee for the assessee, and the amount of cash was received on his behalf and was received from an outstanding debtor. The assessee was also later on surveyed, where he accepted that the cash that was found from his employee was received on his behalf. He mentioned that the amount was received from a debtor to whom he had sold goods in the course of his business. The assessee retracted the statement recorded and later mentioned that all the cash was from regular buyers during the year. Because of inconsistency in the statement, the entire cash received was added as unexplained u/s.69A. It was observed by ITAT that the assessee, though he retracted from the statement, had filed the details relating to the claim and substantiated his case to support the cash found in possession of the employee of the assessee. The sale was also reflected in GST returns filed. The AO did not discuss any of the documents submitted by the assessee to support the transaction as a sale; the matter was therefore restored to the AO to verify the contentions made by the assessee. (AY. 2019-20)

Turab Ali Bohra v. ACIT(2025) 121 ITR 153 (Jaipur)(Trib)

S. 69B: Amounts of investments not fully disclosed in books of account-Survey-Shortage of closing stock of finished goods and raw material-Sales outside books of account-The contention of the assessee that only GP should be added was rejected-On writ High Court affirmed the order of the Commissioner. [S. 264, Art. 226]

During a survey conducted by the Central Excise Authority, it was found that there was shortage of closing stock of finished goods and raw material in assessee's company. Assessing Officer made addition on account of said shortage of stock. It was found that discrepancy of stock found at the time of Central Excise survey was accepted by assessee as sales outside the books of account and the assessee had also paid excise duty on that amount. The Assessing Officer added entire sale done outside books of account was income to be added, as raw material cost had been accounted for in regular books of account. The contention of the assessee that only GP should be added was rejected by the AO, which was affirmed by the commission under 264 proceedings. On writ, the High Court affirmed the order of the Commissioner. (AY. 2009-10)(SJ)

Chhattisgarh Steel Castings (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 304 Taxman 447/347 CTR 861 / 255 DTR 412 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

Editorial: Affirmed by division bench, Chhattisgarh Steel Castings (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 306 Taxman 28 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 69B : Amounts of investments not fully disclosed in books of account-Survey-Excess stock-Regular business stock-Taxable as business income-Section 69B not applicable. [S. 28(i), 115BBE, 133A]

During a survey, excess stock was found and surrendered by the assessee as business income. The Assessing Officer treated the value of excess stock as an unexplained investment under section 69B and taxed it under section 115BBE. The Tribunal held that the excess stock formed part of the regular trading stock and had no independent identity separate from the disclosed stock. Since it represented business receipts and not any unexplained investment in a separate asset, section 69B had no application. The surrendered amount was therefore assessable as business income, and the provisions of section 115BBE were not attracted. (AY. 2019-20)

Amarjit and Sons v. Dy. CIT (2025) 121 ITR 130 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69B : Amounts of investments not fully disclosed in books of account –Unexplained investment-Survey-Excess stock found during survey of business premises-Surrendered in return as business income-No independent source of investment shown-Business being sole source of income-Survey at business premises, no books impounded, no reasons recorded-Deeming provision not attracted-Excess stock taxable as business income. [S. 28, 115BBE, 133A]

A survey under section 133A revealed excess stock of Rs. 1,00,10,915, which the assessee surrendered as business income in its return, but the AO treated it as "income from other sources" under section 69B read with section 115BBE, which was upheld by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since no books of account or documents were impounded during the survey, with no reasons recorded as required under section 133A(3)(ia), and the assessee's returned income was not less than the preceding year's nor had it retracted its survey disclosure, none of the conditions under CBDT Instruction No. 4 of 2018 for manual scrutiny selection were satisfied, rendering the assessment order null and void ab initio; it further held that since there was no material to show that the excess stock arose from any source independent of the assessee's business of trading in designer sarees, being its sole source of income, and the Department had not shown the excess stock to be unconnected with the business, the deeming provisions under section 69B could not be invoked, and the excess stock was to be taxed as normal business income under section 28. (AY 2017-18)

Nikhaar Fashions v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 1 (Jaipur) (Trib)

S.69C: Unexplained expenditure-Reassessment proceedings-bogus purchases-Inability to furnish purchase confirmations, addresses of suppliers-High Court held that the Assessing Officer was justified in making additions for disallowance of peak purchases-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S. 69C, 147, 148, Art.136]

The assessee, Drisha Impex (P.) Ltd., engaged in trading of electric items, toys, and electronics, faced reassessment on the ground that purchases from certain parties were non-genuine. The Assessing Officer, after noting failure to produce audited books, stock register, delivery challans, supplier confirmations, and addresses, disallowed the peak of such purchases under section 69C. Enquiries revealed that suppliers did not exist at the stated locations, summons were returned unserved, and there was no correlation between purchases and sales. On appeal, the CIT (A) granted substantial relief, restricting disallowance to 1% of the alleged bogus purchases. The Revenue filed an appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal which in turn confirmed that purchases were bogus, increased the disallowance to 3%, reasoning that only the profit element should be estimated as purchases were from the grey market. Upon further appeal, the Bombay High Court set aside the Tribunal's order, holding that once purchases were found bogus, estimating only 3% was perverse and contrary to law. It restored the Assessing Officer's addition, observing that the assessee failed to discharge its onus and that the Tribunal's speculative reasoning was unjustified. The Assessee, aggrieved by the order of the High Court, filed a Special Leave Petition before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the Assessee's Special Leave Petition holding that there was no reason to interfere with the impugned order passed by the Hon'ble High Court.(AY. 2009-10, 2010-11)

Drisha Impex Pvt Ltd v. PCIT (2025) 306 Taxman 337 /481 ITR 456 (SC)

Editorial: PCIT v. Drisha Impex Pvt Ltd(2025) 479 ITR 315/344 CTR 441 / 249 DTR 121 / 173 taxmann.com 571 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-No discrepancy between purchases and sales shown-Entire purchase cannot be added-Order of High Court dismissing the appeal of the revenue is affirmed-SLP delay of 606 days-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [S. 268A, Art. 136]

Assessing Officer added certain purchases made by assessee were bogus. He, added said amount to the assessee's taxable income. Tribunal deleted the addition. On appeal the Court following the ratio in Pr.

CIT v. Mohommad Haji Adam & Co. (2019) 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom)(HC) held that where there was no discrepancy between purchases shown by assessee and sales declared, entire amount of bogus purchases could not be treated as income of assessee and addition was to be limited to extent of bringing gross profit rate on purchases at same rate as applied in other genuine purchases. SLP filed against order of High Court was dismissed both on ground of delay as well as on merits.

PCIT v. Zahira R. Khatun (2025) 304 Taxman 514 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Dhondiram Narayan Limbhore (2023) 153 taxmann.com 539 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information from Sales-Tax Department-Failure to prove genuineness of purchases-Order of the Appellate Tribunal holding that only profit estimation at 12. 5% was set aside-Order of the Assessing Officer confirming the addition of entire purchases as bogus under section 69C of the Income-tax Act was affirmed by High Court-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S.69C 133(6), 143(3), 144, 147, 148, Art. 136]

The assessee, Kanak Impex (India) Ltd., was engaged in the trading of iron and steel. The original assessment was completed under section 143(3). Subsequently, the case was reopened under section 147 based on information from DGIT (Inv.), Mumbai/Sales Tax Department regarding bogus purchases. Due to non-compliance, an order under section 144 r.w.s. 147 was passed, adding the entire amount of purchases as bogus purchases since the assessee failed to prove the genuineness under section 69C of the Act. On appeal, the CIT(A) upheld the reassessment proceedings, rejecting the assessee's contention of non-service of notice, and confirmed the addition of bogus purchases. However, instead of sustaining the entire addition, the CIT(A) estimated 12.5% of the bogus purchases as taxable profit, relying on CIT v. Simit P. Sheth. (2013) 356 ITR 451 (Guj)(HC)) Both the revenue and the assessee appealed before the ITAT. The revenue contended that the entire bogus purchases should be disallowed, while the assessee challenged the estimation. The Tribunal, relying on PCIT-17 v. Mohammad Haji Adam & Co. (2019) 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom.)(HC) directed the AO to restrict the addition to the extent of bringing the GP rate of disputed purchases in line with genuine purchases. The Revenue appealed to the Bombay High Court, while the assessee did not file an appeal. The High Court held that the assessee failed to prove the genuineness of purchases and merely provided details of sundry debtors and creditors in the original assessment which did not absolve them from proving the purchases during reassessment. The Court held that the CIT(A) and ITAT misdirected themselves by estimating profits instead of confirming the full addition. Accordingly, the High Court allowed the revenue's appeal and restored the AO's order. The Honourable Supreme Court dismissed the SLP of the assessee. SLP (CIVIL) Diary No. 47369/2025 dt. 21-11-2025)(AY. 2009-10)

Kanak Impex (India) Ltd v.PCIT [2026] 308 Taxman 167 / 485 ITR 3 (SC)

Editorial: PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. (2025) 172 taxmann.com 283 / 474 ITR 175 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-reassessment-trader in diamonds-Information from Investigation wing-Bogus purchases-Commission agent-Bhanwarlal Jain-Books of account not rejected-Order of Tribunal estimating at six per cent is affirmed. [S. 132(4), 147, 148, 260A]

The assessee traded in diamonds. The assessment was reopened on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing that the assessee was a beneficiary of accommodation entries provided by a group of companies of one Bhanwarlal Jain wherein search under section 132 was conducted. The statement of Bhanwarlal Jain had been recorded under section 132(4) wherein he had admitted that he and his family members managed various entities which provided accommodation entries and that the assessee was one of the beneficiaries of bogus purchases from three of their entities. The assessee filed copies of the audited accounts, the profit and loss account, the balance sheet, the contract note of purchase and sale of goods, debit and credit notes of alleged commission and the statement of commission received. The assessee requested to be furnished with a copy of the statement of BJ and his cross-examination. The Assessing Officer rejected the objections filed by the assessee. The Assessing Officer disallowed 25 per cent. of the purchases. The Commissioner (Appeals) restricted the disallowance to 12.5 per cent. The Tribunal found that the assessee had filed detailed evidence to prove that the purchases were genuine, that he was merely a commission agent and had provided complete details of purchases in the form of contract notes and sales of goods, ledger accounts of expenses, details of commission received, audited profit and loss account, that the Assessing Officer had made not a comment on the documentary evidence furnished by the assessee and did not dispute the sales of the assessee, and that the Assessing Officer had made the disallowance of 25 per cent. purchases without rejecting books of account. The Tribunal held that in similar cases, wherein the purchases were shown from the accommodation entry provider Banwarlal Jain the disallowance had been restricted or enhanced to the extent of six per cent. of the disputed purchases. It accordingly reduced the disallowance to six per cent. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal (AY. 2007-08)

Gyanchand S. Jain (proprietor of Sanjana Exports) v. ITO (2025) 483 ITR 377 (Guj)(HC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Difference in stock-Reconciliation was filed-Order of Tribunal affirmed-No substantial question of law. [S. 260A]

Assessing Officer made an addition of a certain amount to assessee's income towards difference in stock in trade (difference in purchases) as unexplained expenditure under section 69C. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. Tribunal held that the assessee had filed a reconciliation explaining total purchases, including purchase of capital goods and purchase of returns, and tallied with purchases recorded in account books, and the Assessing Officer had completely erred in making an addition. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Madras Pharmaceuticals [2024] 167 taxmann.com 108 / (2025) 482 ITR 522 (Mad)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Cash purchases and receipts for job work on the basis of seized document. Estimation of gross profit at 8 per cent.-Question of fact-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S. 132, 260A]

Held that the Tribunal restored the order of the Assessing Officer and deleted the reduction of the gross profit rate from eight per cent. to two per cent. because there was no challenge on the part of the assessee in respect of the finding that the transactions shown in the seized document related to it, and that no valid reason was shown for reduction in the rate of profit which was normally applicable. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 1994-95, 1995-96)

Kanahaya Metal Works v. CIT (2025) 482 ITR 792 (P & H) (HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information for sales tax department-Hawala transactions-Not given an opportunity of cross-examination-Order of Tribunal limiting addition to 15 per cent of alleged purchases was affirmed. [S. 260A]

Assessee-company filed its return of income, and same processed. Subsequently, a reopening notice was issued based on information received from the sales tax department regarding hawala transactions in respect of assessee. Assessing Officer passed the order and made an addition on account of bogus purchases. Commissioner (Appeals) restricted addition to 15 per cent of hawala purchases. Tribunal upheld said order. On appeal, the Court held that the information on the basis of which the addition of bogus purchases was to be made in the hands of assessee was never furnished by the Assessing Officer to the assessee. The assessee also submitted that all payments were made by account payee cheques and submitted a certificate from the VAT Auditor in respect of the transaction from one of the suppliers. Since VAT assessment for the relevant assessment year was pending adjudication, merely relying on information of the Sales Tax Department without granting an opportunity to the assessee to cross-examine hawala purchasers to confirm purchases was a breach of principles of natural justice. Thus, lower authorities, on appreciation of facts, had rightly restricted additions at a rate of 15 per cent of alleged hawala purchases. Followed, PCIT v. SVD Resins and Plastics (P) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 503 / 474 IR 151 (Bom) HC). (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Ramelex (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 356 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-No discrepancy between purchases and sales shown-Entire purchase cannot be added-Order of High Court dismissing the appeal of the revenue is affirmed.[S. 260A]

Assessing Officer added that certain purchases made by assessee were bogus. He, added said amount to the assessee's taxable income. Tribunal deleted the addition. On appeal the Court following the ratio in Pr. CIT v. Mohommad Haji Adam & Co. (2019) 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom)(HC) held that where there was no discrepancy between purchases shown by assessee and sales declared, entire amount of bogus purchases could not be treated as income of assessee, and the addition was to be limited to extent of bringing gross profit rate on purchases at same rate as applied in other genuine purchases.

PCIT v. Dhondiram Narayan Limbhore (2023) 153 taxmann.com 539 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial: SLP of revenue dismissed, PCIT v. Zahira R. Khatun (2025) 304 Taxman 514 (SC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Accommodation entries from Bhanwarlal Jain Group-Addition restricted to 6 per cent of bogus purchases is fair and reasonable. [S. 147, 148, 260A]

On review of searches related to the Bhanwarlal Jain Group, the Revenue treated all purchase transactions as bogus, resulting in a 100% disallowance by the AO. However, the CIT(A) limited this disallowance to 6%, a decision upheld by the Tribunal. The Court dismissed Revenue's appeals for assessment years 2011-12 and 2013-14, affirming that only the income component of bogus purchases should be taxed.(AY. 2011-12) (AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Mohit Pukhraj Kawdiya (No. 1) (2025) 481 ITR 310 / 181 taxmann.com 712 (Guj.) (HC)

PCIT v. Mohit Pukhraj Kawdiya (No. 2).(2025) 481 ITR 318 / taxmann.com 712 (Guj)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Addition of 10 per cent. on account of bogus purchases-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S.260A]

Order of Tribunal affirming the 10 per cent on account of bogus purchases affirmed. No substantial question of law (AY. 2007-08 to 2012 13)

Refrigerated Distributors Pvt. Ltd. (Now known as Partytime Ice Pvt. Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 479 ITR 309 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Accommodation entries-Grey market-Trading of electronic items-Information from sales tax department-Summons to parties returned unserved-Tribunal restricting the disallowance to three percent of purchases-Order of Assessing Officer disallowing the peak of purchases-CIT(A) and Tribunal estimated the percentage of alleged bogus purchases-On appeal by revenue-Court held that reassessment Notice valid-

Failure to quote legal provision or quoting not to vitiate an action if power and authority were to be otherwise found in statute-Order under section 143(3), read with section 147 of the Act passed by the Assessing Officer was restored. [S. 37(1), 69, 133(6),143(1)), 147, 148, 260A]

Allowing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that Tribunal erred by estimating only three per cent. of the alleged purchases as bogus to justify disallowance. By indulging in speculative reasoning that was never urged by the assessee, the Tribunal should not have estimated only three per cent. instead of confirming the disallowance of all the purchases. The non-co-operation of the assessee was only one of the grounds and not the sole ground. Practically every vital piece of information was not produced by citing convenient inabilities. The documents and paperwork that would have invariably accompanied genuine transactions were missing, or the assessee expressed inability to produce them. The orders passed by the Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal were to be set aside, and the addition made under section 69C in the assessment orders under section 143(3) read with section 147 by the Assessing Officer was restored. (AY. 2009 10, 2010-11)

PCIT v. Drisha Impex Pvt. Ltd.(2025) 479 ITR 315/344 CTR 441 / 249 DTR 121 / 173 taxmann.com 571 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : SLP dismissed, Drisha Impex (P.) Ltd v. PCIT (2025) 306 Taxman 337 (SC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Accommodation entries-Business of import and export and trading of diamonds-Information from Investigation Wing-Tribunal restricting disallowance to six per cent. based on assessee's turnover and net profit justified-No question of law arose.[S. 147, 260A]

The assessee was in the business of import and export and trading of diamonds. On the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing that the assessee had received accommodation entries of bogus purchases, the Assessing Officer disallowed the entire alleged bogus purchases. The Commissioner (Appeals) restricted the addition to five per cent. of the unverified purchases. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer was not justified in disallowing 100 per cent. of purchases in the absence of proper investigation of such purchases and that the assessee had shown total turnover of Rs.186.96 crores and a net profit at 0.0051 per cent., which was extremely on the lower side and restricted the addition to six per cent. On appeal, the High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal.(AY.2013-14) (AY. 2008-09) (AY. 2011-12)

PCIT v. Deepak Banwarilal Agarwal (2025) 478 ITR 572 (Guj)(HC)

PCIT v. Dilkhush Babel (2025) 478 ITR 611 (Guj)(HC)

PCIT v. Enviro Control Pvt. Ltd (2025) 478 ITR 683 (Guj)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Estimate of alleged bogus purchases-No substantial question of law-Appeal of revenue was dismissed. [S. 260A]

Assessing Officer has estimated the gross profit (GP) at 12 % on the bogus purchases. This was not challenged by the revenue in any proceedings. The Commissioner (Appeals), reduced this estimation to 5.75%. On an appeal by the revenue on the question of GP estimation, the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal (ITAT) has confirmed the appeal order. On appeal by the revenue, the dismissing the appeal holding that issue does not raise any substantial question of law since the full purchases were not disallowed by the AO in the first instance and the only issue relates to the estimate of a certain percentage of purchases as profit. (ITA No. 517 of 2021 & 528 of 2021 dt 22-1-2025). Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that whether the addition of bogus purchases should have been less than 10% as ordered by the ITO or 2% as levied by the CIT (Appeals). Such a question does not give rise to any substantial question of law. (ITA Nos 11, 12, & 14 of 2024 dt.17-9-2025)

PCIT v. N. N. Trading Corporation (Bom (HC) www.itatonline.org

PCIT v. Relcon Infraprojects Ltd. (Bom(HC) www.itatonline.org

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Only income component of disputed purchases taxable-Restriction of disallowance by Tribunal to six per cent. justified. [S. 132, 143(3) 147, 260A]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the Tribunal was justified in estimating the disallowance of the alleged bogus purchases at six per cent. Relying on the decision in Mayank Diamonds Pvt. Ltd. v. ITO, (2014) 11 TMI 812 (Guj) against the 100 per cent. disallowance of the purchases made by the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Amit Tarachand Jain (2025) 476 ITR 74 (Guj) (HC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information from Investigation Wing-Restriction of disallowance by Tribunal to 6 per cent. justified.[143(3), 147, Art. 226]

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the Tribunal was justified in estimating the disallowance of the alleged bogus purchases at six per cent. Relying on the decision in Mayank Diamonds Pvt. Ltd. v. ITO, (2014) 11 TMI 812 against the 100 per cent. disallowance of the purchases made by the Assessing Officer.(AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Atul Kailashchand Mehta.(2025) 476 ITR 460 (Guj)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Purchase of newsprint-Ad hoc disallowance of 15 per cent. reduced to 5 per cent. by Tribunal-Assessee accepting 5 per cent. Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S.37(1), 56, 131, 153(3), 246A, 260A]

Held that the Commissioner (Appeals) applied a consistent standard from earlier years and restricted the addition to 1.5 per cent. Tribunal remanding matter only for reverification of depositors who denied contributions. Department not acting for 18 years. Court held that the remand was impractical after thirty years. Addition in accordance with Commissioner (Appeals)' order. As regards bogus suppliers, Ad hoc disallowance of 15 per cent. reduced to 5 per cent. by Tribunal. Assessee accepting 5 per cent. No justification for interference. Appeal of revenue was dismissed. (AY. 1995-96)

CIT v. Jaya Publications (2025) 476 ITR 545 /174 taxmann.com 104 (Mad)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Real estate business-Order of Tribunal was affirmed-Order of Tribunal was reversed in so far as the purchases from the two parties were concerned-However, the total additions should not exceed the total purchases from them.[S. 68, 133(6), 260A]

High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal except in respect of purchases from the two parties. However, the total additions should not exceed the total purchases from them. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Shree Ganesh Developers (2025) 476 ITR 568 /172 taxmann.com 542/344 CTR 152 / 248 DTR 320 (HC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Search-Block assessment-Failure to issue cross examination-Order deleting the addition was affirmed.[S.69A, 132(4), 158BC, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that there was no justification for additions being made under section 69A since the records had established that the assessee had made genuine export sales and received export remittances through regular banking channels, that one CPS whose statement was recorded in the absence of the assessee had refused for cross-examination by the assessee, that according to the assessment order the statement of CPS was recorded prior to the date of search and could not be considered as statement recorded under section 132(4) during the search, that the allegation of the alleged threat to CPS was not substantiated by any evidence or material on record had held that the assessee had made genuine purchases from the two concerns in question and had accordingly deleted the additions reversing the findings of the authorities below. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (BP. 1-4 1989 too 14-7-1999)

PCIT v. Arun Malhotra (2025) 475 ITR 217 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-No discrepancy between purchases and sales-Entire bogus purchases could not be treated as income; addition restricted to GP element. [S. 260A]

The assessee had shown purchases from parties subsequently identified as hawala dealers, though the corresponding sales were accepted by the Revenue. The AO disallowed the full amount of purchases as bogus and taxed it as income. On appeal, it was observed that since sales were recorded and purchases supported sales, only the profit element embedded in such purchases could be added. Following PCIT v. Mohammad Haji Adam & Co(2019) 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom)(HC)the addition was restricted to GP element.

PCIT v. Dhondiram Naryan Limbhore [2023] 153 taxmann.com 539 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : SLP of revenue dismissed due to delay of 628 days and also on merits, PCIT v. Zahira R. Khatun [2025] 304 Taxman 514 (SC).

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Tribunal justified in restricting addition to 8% GP on impugned purchases, as purchases were genuine and paid by cheque. [S. 133(6), 260A]

The assessee made purchases from certain parties later found to be accommodation entry providers. The AO added the entire amount of such purchases to income since notices issued under section 133(6) were returned unserved. The CIT(A) restricted the addition to 12% of purchases considering the profit element, while the Tribunal further reduced it to 8%, observing that purchases were made, payments were through account payee cheques, and the assessee had already disclosed 7.5% GP. The High Court upheld the Tribunal's finding. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Hiren C. Parekh [2023] 153 taxmann.com 470 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information from sales tax department-Suspicious dealers-Only profit attributable on total purchase consideration could be subject to income-tax-Not entire purchase.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that where assessee purchased from suspicious dealers, the fact of consumption of goods was undisputed, the entire purchases could not be taxed. Only profit element on such purchases could be brought to tax. (AY. 2009-10, 2010-11, 2011-12]

PCIT v. Bharat Copy Centre (P.) Ltd. [2023] 155 taxmann.com 211 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Restricting addition to the extent of seven percentage of alleged bogus purchases-No question of law-Order of Tribunal was affirmed. [S.37(1), 69C, 260A].

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that the Department submitted that the restricting addition to the extent of seven percentage of alleged bogus purchases was held to be not proper. The appeal of the revenue was dismissed. No question of law.

PCIT v. Pravin U. Parmar (Jain) (2025) 474 ITR 171 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Sales tax department-Non-genuine supplier-Failure to produce bank statements-The order of the Tribunal estimating the income at 12. 5% of alleged bogus purchases is reversed insofar as the purchases from two parties and the order of the Assessing Officer making 100% of addition under Section 69C of the Act is affirmed-Partly in favour of revenue. [S.133(6), 260A]

The assessee is a firm engaged in the business of Real estate. The Assessing Officer made an addition under section 69C of the Income Tax

Act in respect of certain parties based on the report of the Sales Tax Department. On appeal the CIT(A) called for remand report and after considering the explanation of the assessee estimated income at 12.5% of alleged bogus purchases in respect of all the parties. In respect of two parties, they have not provided the bank statements. On appeal, the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). On appeal by the Revenue, the Court held that if the approach of the Appellate Authorities is accepted, then the provision of Section 69C, which is an enabling provision, would become redundant. Section 69C provides that where an assessee has incurred any expenditure and offers no explanation about the source of expenditure or the explanation offered is not in the opinion of the AO satisfactory, then the amount of expenditure may be deemed to be the income of the assessee and such unexplained expenditure which is deemed to be the income of the assessee shall not be allowed as a deduction under any head of income. The Court observed that if the approach of the CIT(A) and the Tribunal is accepted, then it would amount to endorsing outright conduct of illegality contrary to the express provisions of Section 69C of the Act, which the Appellate Authorities have entirely ignored. On the facts the Officer has done independent verification and has come to a conclusion that with respect to these two parties in the absence of bank statements, the purchases cannot be said to have been proved. With respect to the purchases from M/s Neptune Trading Co. and Hari Om Traders are concerned, the question is answered in favour of the Revenue and against the respondent-assessee. The order of the CIT(A) and the Tribunal is reversed insofar as the purchases from these two parties are concerned. However, the total additions would not exceed Rs.1,00,10,773, which is the total purchase from M/s Neptune Trading Co. and Hari Om Traders. The High Court considered the ratio of the following cases and distinguished on facts. PCIT v. Mohommad Haji Adam & Co. [2019] 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom) (HC), PCIT v. Vaman International Pvt. Ltd, ITXA/1940 /2017,dt. 29-1-2020 (Bom)(HC), P CIT v. JK Surface Coatings Pvt. Ltd. [2020] 423 ITR 220 (Bom)(HC) Pr. CIT v. Shapoorji Pallonji and Co. Ltd [2020]

[2020] 273 Taxman 167(Bom)(HC) (SLP of Revenue is dismissed) [2022] 288 Taxman 661(SC) PCIT v. Tejua Rohitkumar Kapadia[2018] 94 taxmann.com 324 (Guj.)(HC) / (2018] 256 Taxman 213 (SC), CIT v. Century Plyboards (I) Ltd(2019] 103 taxmann.com 178 (Cal.)(HC), PCIT v.. Ram Builders.(2023) 454 ITR 444 (Bom)(HC), PCIT v. S V. Jiwani [2022] 449 ITR 583 (Bom)((HC), PCIT v. Chawla Interbild Construction Co. (P.) Ltd. [2019] 412 ITR 152 (Bom)(HC) PCIT v.. JWC Logistic Park (P.) Ltd [2018] 100 taxmann.com 355 (SC), CIT v. Odeon Builders (P.) Ltd. [2019] 418 ITR 315 (SC), Babulal C. Borana v. ITO (2006] 282 ITR 251 (Bom)(HC) (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Shree Ganesh Developers [2025] 172 taxmann.com 542 / 476 ITR 568 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information from Sales-Tax Department-Failure to prove genuineness of purchases-Addition is justified-Order of the Appellate Tribunal holding that only profit estimation at 12. 5% can be made is set aside; the order of the Assessing Officer is affirmed. [S. 133(6), 143(3), 144, 147, 148, 260A]

The respondent-assessee, Kanak Impex (India) Ltd., engaged in trading of iron and steel declared an income of Rs. 2,84,700/-in its return under section 139, and the original assessment was completed under section 143(3) determining total income at Rs. 3,86,250/-. Subsequently, the case was reopened under section 147 based on information from DGIT (Inv.), Mumbai/Sales Tax Department regarding bogus purchases amounting to Rs. 20,06,80,150/-. Notice under section 148 was served via email and affixture, as notices sent via post remained unserved. Due to non-compliance, an order under section 144 r.w.s. 147 was passed, adding the entire amount of Rs. 20,06,80,150/-as bogus purchases since the assessee failed to prove the genuineness under section 69C of the Act. On appeal, the CIT(A) upheld the reassessment proceedings, rejecting the assessee's contention of non-service of notice, and confirmed the addition of bogus purchases. However, instead of sustaining the entire addition, the CIT(A) estimated 12.5% of the bogus purchases as taxable profit, relying on CIT v. Simit P. Sheth. (2013) 356 ITR 451 (Guj)(HC)) Both the revenue and the assessee appealed before the ITAT. The revenue contended that the entire bogus purchases should be disallowed, while the assessee challenged the estimation. The Tribunal, relying on PCIT-17 v. Mohammad Haji Adam & Co. (2019) 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom.)(HC) directed the AO to restrict the addition to the extent of bringing the GP rate of disputed purchases in line with genuine purchases. The Revenue appealed to the Bombay High Court, while the assessee did not file an appeal. The High Court held that the assessee failed to prove the genuineness of purchases and merely provided details of sundry debtors and creditors in the original assessment which did not absolve them from proving the purchases during reassessment. The Court held that the CIT(A) and ITAT misdirected themselves by estimating profits instead of confirming the full addition. Relying on Shoreline Hotel (P.) Ltd. v. CIT(2018) 98 taxmann.com 234 (Bom)(HC) and N.K. Industries Ltd. v. DCIT (2016) 72 taxmann.com 289 (Guj)(HC), the court held that section 69C is applicable, and the entire expenditure was to be disallowed. It further observed that the assessee intentionally avoided reassessment proceedings and could not later claim insufficient opportunity. Accordingly, the High Court allowed the revenue's appeal, restored the AO's order allowing the addition of Rs. 20,06,80,150/- , and reversed the order of the ITAT. However, it directed that the total addition should not exceed Rs. 20,06,80,150/-. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. (2025) 172 taxmann.com 283 / 474 ITR 175 /344 CTR 137 / 248 DTR 305 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial: SLP of assessee dismissed, Kanak Impex (India) Ltd v.PCIT 2026] 308 Taxman 167 / 485 ITR 3 (SC)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Order of Tribunal affirming the 7% of GP rate is affirmed-No substantial question of law.[S.143(3), 260A]

The ITAT has restricted the addition only to the extent of 7 % of GP in respect of alleged bogus purchases. On appeal by the Revenue, the dismissing the appeal and held that no substantial question of law arises from the order of the Tribunal. Honourable Court relied on PCIT v. SVD Resins & Plastics Pvt Ltd (2024) 300 Taxman 503 (Bom)(HC) (1662 of 2018 dt.7-8-2024) & Ashok Kumar Rungta v.ITO (2024) 301 Taxman 580 (Bom)(HC)) (1753 of 2018 dt. 15-10-2024) (ITA No.1015 of 2018 dt.9-1-2025)

PCIT v. Pravin U. Parmar (Jain) (Bom)(HC) www.itatonline.org

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Business Expenditure-Bogus Purchases-Accommodation Bills-Failure to give an opportunity of cross-examination-Deletion of addition was affirmed.[S. 37(1), 131, 133A]

The Assessing Officer disallowed purchases from a supplier solely on the basis of the supplier's statement that he had issued accommodation bills. The assessee produced purchase invoices, stock registers, ledger accounts, payment details through account-payee cheques and established corresponding sales. The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the primary burden of proving the genuineness of the purchases. The Revenue neither supplied the supplier's statement nor allowed cross-examination, and even disputed only a part of the purchases from the same supplier. In the absence of any contrary evidence, the disallowance was unsustainable. (AY. 2012-13)

Asst. CIT v. Sharp Corp. Ltd. (2025) 121 ITR 697 / 161 taxmann.com 207 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-AO treated two purchase parties as bogus and made 100% disallowance-Bhawarlal Jain group-Since sales had not been doubted and without purchases, there cannot be any sales, no adverse inference could be made insofar as the export of diamonds was concerned, for which all documentary evidence was placed on record-Addition was restricted to the profit element. [S. 69C, 133A, 148]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in manufacturing and trading of cut and polished diamonds, was issued a notice under section 148 based on Investigation Wing information following search/survey in the Bhawarlal Jain group, alleging accommodation purchase entries. In response, the assessee furnished purchase bills, stock register, sales and purchase registers, bank statements evidencing payments through banking channels, export invoices and shipping bills, and bank realisation advices, and correlated the impugned purchases to export sales with proceeds realised through banking channels. The AO treated the purchases from two parties as bogus and made a 100% disallowance of Rs. 46.46 lakhs. On appeal to the ITAT, the ITAT held that where assessee was alleged to have made bogus purchases from two entities based on third party investigation, but furnished all purchase and sales records, payment proofs and export documents correlating purchases with export sales and sales were not doubted, entire purchases could not be disallowed, and only the profit element relating to the disputed purchases could be added to income. Thus, addition was to be restricted to the profit element, i.e., the difference in gross profit on undisputed purchases and disputed purchases. (AY. 2010-11)

Arham Star v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 192 (Mum)(Trib.)

Editorial: Distinguished, PCIT v. Kanak Impex India Ltd. [2025] 172 taxmann.com 283 / 474 ITR 175 (Bom)(HC), followed, PCIT v. Mohammad Haji Adam and Company [2019] 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom)(HC)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Search assessment-Entire unaccounted business receipts cannot be taxed where corresponding unaccounted business expenditure is evidenced-Only profit element embedded in such receipts is taxable by applying a reasonable net profit rate and telescoping of expenditure is permissible. [S. 145, 153A]

The assessee, engaged in the hospitality business, was subjected to a search during which diaries and loose papers revealed unaccounted business receipts and corresponding unaccounted cash expenditure. The AO rejected the books of account under section 145, treated the entire unaccounted receipts as income and separately made additions under section 69C towards unexplained expenditure. The CIT(A) held that the expenditure had been incurred out of the unaccounted business receipts, allowed telescoping, deleted the addition under section 69C and estimated the profit at 12% of the unaccounted receipts. The Tribunal upheld the order of the CIT(A), holding that only the profit element embedded in unaccounted business receipts can be brought to tax and not the entire gross receipts. Since the seized material evidenced both unaccounted receipts and corresponding business expenditure arising from the same source, telescoping was rightly allowed to avoid double taxation. The Tribunal further held that the estimation of net profit at 12% was fair and reasonable in the facts of the case. Accordingly, the Revenue's grounds were dismissed, and the assessee's challenge to the 12% estimation was also rejected. [AY. 2013-14 to 2019-20]

Sankalp Recreation P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 517 (Ahd)(Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Alleged bogus purchases-Produced documentary evidence such as purchase invoices, stock records, RTGS payments, GST returns, supplier confirmations, and segment-wise accounts-Matter was remanded back to the AO to obtain the bank account details of MT Co., and verify whether there exists any cash trail; if no such cashback trail is established upon verification, and payments are found to have remained within the banking system, then the addition is to be restricted only to the embedded profit element @ 5 per cent. [S. 145]

Held that the Assessee furnished complete books of accounts, bank statements, stock records, purchase invoices, GST returns, supplier confirmations, and segmentwise financials and the AO having not brought any independent material on record to disprove these documents or trace any cash withdrawals after payments, the entire purchases made by the assessee from MT Co. cannot be treated as bogus merely because the latter was found to be non-existent entity during GST enquiry in later years; matter is remanded back to the AO to obtain the bank account details of MT Co., and verify whether there exists any cash trail; if no such cashback trail is established upon verification, and payments are found to have remained within the banking system, then the addition is to be restricted only to the embedded profit element @ 5 per cent. Distinguished: PCIT v. Shree Ganesh Developers (2025) 172 taxmann.com 542 /476 ITR 568 / 344 CTR 152 (Bom)(HC), N.K.Industries Ltd v.Dy.CIT (2016) 72 taxmann.com 289 (Guj)(HC) (AY. 2018-19)

Leela Greenship Recycling (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 471/ 180 taxmann.com 407 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Addition unsustainable where purchases, movement of goods and consumption are fully evidenced. [S. 145]

The Tribunal held that where the assessee produced invoices, ledger accounts, evidence of movement of goods, stock registers and proof of payment through banking channels, and the Assessing Officer had accepted the corresponding sales, purchases could not be treated as bogus merely because of an alleged irregularity in CENVAT credit. In the absence of any material disproving the genuineness of purchases, the addition was deleted. (AY. 2018-19 to 2020-21)

Rosha Alloys (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 357 / 127 ITR 76 / 175 taxmann.com 622 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Unverifiable Purchases-Only the profit element embedded in unverifiable purchases can be taxed and not the entire purchase amount-Estimation of 5% GP upheld. [S. 145(3)]

The Tribunal held that although purchases from three parties remained unverifiable, the books of account had not been rejected under section 145(3) and the turnover was accepted by the Revenue. Therefore, the settled principle that only the profit element embedded in such purchases is liable to tax was applicable. Considering the nature of the assessee's business as a wholesaler of building material and civil contractor, the Tribunal held that estimation of gross profit at 5% on the unverifiable purchases, after reducing the GP already declared, was reasonable. Invocation of section 69C was held to be unwarranted. (AY.2021-22)

DCIT v. Tirupati Matsup (P.) Ltd. (2025) 238 TTJ 465 / 125 ITR 715 / 177 taxmann.com 836 (Delhi)(Trib.).

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Recorded expenditure cannot be taxed under section 69C [S. 143(3)]

Where the expenditure was duly recorded in the books of account, it could not be treated as unexplained expenditure under section 69C. The Tribunal held that section 69C applies only to unrecorded or unexplained expenditure and directed the Assessing Officer to examine the allowability of expenditure under the normal provisions of the Act instead of invoking section 69C. (AY. 2018-19)

Sree Vishwabharathi Charitable Trust v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 828 / 178 taxmann.com 544 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Day-to-day stock records, GST documents and banking evidence produced-Sales accepted-Addition deleted-Estimated profit element-Purchase prices comparable with genuine purchases-No basis for estimating profit-Addition deleted.[S. 133(6)]

The Assessing Officer treated purchases as bogus mainly because certain suppliers did not respond to notices issued under section 133(6). The assessee produced complete documentary evidence including purchase invoices, PAN of suppliers, bank statements, e-way bills, transport receipts, GST records and maintained day-to-day stock tally. The Tribunal held that the books of account were not rejected, the sales were accepted, and the purchases were fully supported by documentary evidence. Mere non-response by suppliers to notices under section 133(6) could not justify the addition. The addition was deleted. The Commissioner (Appeals) sustained an addition by estimating the profit element embedded in alleged doubtful purchases at 12.5 per cent. The Tribunal held that the rates at which purchases were made from the disputed suppliers were comparable with or lower than purchases from other suppliers and, therefore, there was no possibility of extra profit or inflation of expenditure. In the absence of any defect in the books or evidence of inflated purchases, even the estimated addition was unsustainable. (AY. 2021-22).

Gaurav Singhi v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 259 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Computer printouts seized from accountant-No corroborative evidence-Addition deleted-Protective addition-Cash found with accountant-Accountant owning cash-Addition in assessee's hands not permissible.

The Assessing Officer made additions under section 69C on the basis of computer printouts and digital data found at the accountant's premises. The Tribunal held that no material linked the documents with the assessee's books of account. The deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld.. Cash seized during the search was admitted and explained by the accountant. The Tribunal held that making a protective addition of the same amount in the assessee's hands would amount to double taxation. The deletion of the addition was upheld. (AY. 2014-15 to 2020-21).

Dy. CIT v. DSG Papers (P.) Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 410 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Search assessment-Unexplained cash expenditure-Assessee failed to establish expenditure incurred on behalf of production house-Addition confirmed.[S.69A, 132, 132(4)]

The assessee claimed that the cash expenditure incurred for production of a film was on behalf of the production house and that she was merely a "pass-through entity". The Tribunal held that the cash expenditure was not recorded in the books; the assessee failed to produce the production house or establish the source of the cash payments and could not shift the burden after expiry of the limitation period. The additions under sections 69C and 69A were therefore upheld. (AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15).

Usha Satish Salvi v. Asst. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 452 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Business expenditure-Bogus purchases-Addition based solely on third-party statements without cross-examination-Not sustainable-Onus discharged by assessee-Burden shifts to Revenue-Addition deleted-Sales accepted-Entire purchases cannot be disallowed-No further addition warranted. [S. 37(1), 142(1), 147, 148,]

The Assessing Officer treated purchases made by the assessee, a civil contractor executing Government contracts, as bogus solely on the basis of Investigation Wing reports and statements of third parties without furnishing such statements or granting an opportunity of cross-examination. The assessee produced purchase bills, supplier confirmations, bank statements, inward registers and other documentary evidence establishing the genuineness of the purchases. The Tribunal held that the principles of natural justice had been violated and, in the absence of any rebuttal of the documentary evidence, the additions were unsustainable. The assessee maintained complete books of account, material registers and proved payment for purchases and receipt of sale proceeds through account-payee cheques. The Tribunal held that once the assessee discharged the initial burden of proving the identity of suppliers and genuineness of purchases, the burden shifted to the Revenue to disprove the evidence. In the absence of any evidence that the payments had returned to the assessee, the purchases could not be treated as bogus. The Tribunal held that the execution of Government contracts necessarily established consumption of materials and no discrepancy had been pointed out by the Government authorities. Since the sales/work receipts were accepted and the assessee had already declared a reasonable gross profit, no further addition was justified. (AY. 2007-08 to 2009-10).

Indravadan Hanjarimal Jain v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 352 / 180 taxmann.com 308 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Burden of proving taxability lies on Revenue-Assessee cannot be called upon to prove a negative-Addition deleted.[S. 145]

The reassessment was based on information received from the Investigation Wing alleging that the assessee had obtained accommodation entries for purchase of diamonds. The assessee consistently denied having purchased goods from the alleged supplier and produced its purchase registers and tax audit report showing no such purchases. The Tribunal held that the Revenue had failed to establish the existence of the alleged purchases by any cogent evidence. Since the burden of proving the conditions for taxability lay on the Revenue, the assessee could not be required to prove a negative. The addition under section 69C was deleted. (AY. 2012-13).

Ankit Gems P. Ltd. v. Circle 5(1)(1) (2025) 127 ITR 265 / 178 taxmann.com 454 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Sales accepted and books not rejected-Entire purchases cannot be disallowed-Only profit element taxable-Trading addition-Gross profit rate of 5 per cent. adopted to meet ends of justice.[S.133(6), 143(3)]

The Assessing Officer treated purchases from three suppliers as bogus since two suppliers did not respond to notices under section 133(6) and one denied the transactions. The Tribunal held that although the assessee failed to conclusively establish the genuineness of the purchases, the corresponding sales were accepted and the books of account had not been rejected. Therefore, only the profit element embedded in the alleged non-genuine purchases could be brought to tax and not the entire purchase value. The Tribunal found that the assessee had disclosed better gross profit than in earlier years and was engaged in the business of wholesale supply of building material and civil contracting. Considering the overall facts, it held that a gross profit rate of 5 per cent. on the disputed purchases would adequately cover the possible inflation of expenditure. The addition was accordingly sustained only as a trading addition, and no separate addition under section 69C survived. (AY. 2021-22).

Dy. CIT v. Tirupati Matsup (P.) Ltd. (2025) 125 ITR 715 / 177 taxmann.com 836 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Cash payments reflected in seized documents duly reconciled with books of account-Addition rightly deleted-Recovery from farmers towards unloading charges-Common trade practice-No evidence of receipt by assessee-Addition deleted-Cash receipts and sale of de-oiled cakes-Entries reflected in books-No rebuttal by Assessing Officer-Addition deleted-Additional income voluntarily surrendered-Telescoping against additions-Separate addition not justified-Excess stock-Difference only in valuation and not quantity-Books not rejected-Addition deleted. [S.68, 132, 145(3)]

The assessee, engaged in the business of running a ginning mill and dealing in cotton, declared additional income pursuant to search and paid tax thereon. The Assessing Officer made additions under section 69C on the basis of seized documents showing cash payments. The Tribunal held that the assessee had reconciled the cash payments with the books of account and the Commissioner (Appeals), after verification, rightly deleted the reconciled additions as the expenditure was duly recorded in the books. The Assessing Officer made an addition alleging that the assessee recovered unloading charges from farmers without recording the same in its books. The Tribunal held that it was a common trade practice for farmers to pay unloading charges directly to labourers and the Revenue failed to establish that the assessee had either recovered such charges from farmers or made the payments itself. The Commissioner (Appeals) rightly deleted the addition. The additions were made on the basis of a rough paper containing a message seeking cash for purchase of stores, spares and maintenance of machinery and on account of alleged sale of de-oiled cakes. The Tribunal held that the receipts were duly reflected in the books of account and the Assessing Officer failed to rebut the assessee's explanation with any evidence. The additions were therefore deleted. The assessee had voluntarily declared additional income during search and paid tax thereon. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of specific incriminating material supporting the additions made by the Assessing Officer, the Commissioner (Appeals) rightly telescoped the additions against the surrendered income and deleted the separate additions. The Tribunal found that there was no discrepancy in the physical quantity of stock and that the difference arose only on account of valuation during the middle of the financial year. Since the books of account had not been rejected under section 145(3) and the year-end valuation had been accepted, the addition towards excess stock was unsustainable. The addition sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) on account of alleged stock deficit was also directed to be telescoped against the surrendered income.(AY. 2015-16).

Asst. CIT v. Shrigopal Rameshkumar Sales (P.) Ltd. (2025) 123 ITR 1 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Books of account accepted by Commissioner (Appeals)-Purchases at prevailing market rates-No profit embedded-Addition deleted.[S.133(6) 145(3)]

The Assessing Officer, on the basis of information received from the GST Department regarding cancellation of registration of certain suppliers, treated purchases made from those parties as bogus, rejected the books of account under section 145(3) and estimated the profit embedded in such purchases at 12.5 per cent. The Commissioner (Appeals) accepted the books of account and restricted the addition to the declared gross profit rate of 5.94 per cent. The Tribunal held that once the books of account had been accepted and the purchases were found to have been made at rates comparable to or lower than other purchases, there was no basis to presume any additional profit. The entire addition was therefore deleted. (AY. 2021-22).

Prime Steel Industries (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 107 / 174 taxmann.com 547 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Expenditure recorded in the books of account-Supported by third-party invoices and replied by parties-Deletion of addition by the CIT(A) was affirmed. [S.133(6)]

Held that the expenditure incurred by the assessee is duly supported by third-party invoices as well as contracts entered into by the assessee with the said companies, and the transactions are duly recorded in the assessee's books of accounts; AO was not justified in making the addition by treating the said expenditure as bogus. Tribunal also held that S. 69C has no applicability in cases where the expenditure is recorded in the books of accounts. The order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

DCIT v. Vidarbha Infotech (P) Ltd. (2025) 234 TTJ 461 (Nagpur)(Trib)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Foreign travelling expenditure of daughter-borne by husband-Personal use of vehicle-Addition was deleted. [S. 132]

Held that foreign travelling, since the daughter of the assessee was a permanent resident of Canada and all her boarding and lodging expenses were borne by her and travel expenses relating to Canada were borne by the husband of the assessee, in the absence of any cogent evidence brought on record by the revenue to the contrary, addition merely on an estimation basis was not justified. As regards personal use of vehicle, the revenue had not brought on record any cogent evidence to the contrary, and considering the explanation tendered by the assessee, additions merely on an estimation basis were not justified (AY. 2020-21, 2021-22)

Lakhvir Kaur. v. DCIT (2025) 215 ITD 39 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Purchases-Mismatch between purchases in VAT returns and audited accounts-The difference was due to statutory compliance-Addition was deleted.

The assessee had a mismatch between purchases in VAT returns and audited accounts due to statutory VAT adjustments regarding input tax credit reversal on returned goods. The Assessing Officer made an addition under section 69C of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since assessee provided supplier-wise reconciliation showing the difference was due to statutory compliance rather than actual inflation or bogus purchases, and sales figures were otherwise consistent, the disallowance of such difference as unexplained expenditure was deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Ankur Fine Products. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 633 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Brokerage payment-Loose paper-Recovered from the partner of the firm-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. [S. 132,153C]

During search, certain loose papers were recovered which made reference to brokerage on the sale of flats. Assessing Officer made addition of amount under section 69C towards brokerage payment. CIT(A) deleted the addition. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer made additions towards alleged brokerage payment, solely based on loose paper, without conducting any independent inquiry or bringing any corroborative evidence on record. A loose paper, without any independent corroboration or inquiry, could not form a valid basis for initiating proceedings under section 153C of the Act. Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition was affirmed. (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20)

DCIT v. Saarrthi Reality and Infra LLP (2025) 214 ITD 27 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Renovation of residential house- Addition was to be restricted to 25 per cent of the net differential between accounted payments and estimated gross renovation cost.

Assessing Officer made an addition under section 69C on account of unexplained expenditure towards renovation of assessee's residential. CIT A) partly allowed the appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the house, since the addition was computed by aggregating only positive balances from the seized diary while ignoring negative balances and without any third-party verification, the addition was restricted to 25 per cent of the net differential between accounted payments and estimated gross renovation cost. (AY. 2015-16, 2016-17)

Minesh Bipinbhai Patel. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 285 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Accommodation entries Assessing Officer disallowed 100% purchases as bogus purchases-CIT(A) restricted the disallowance to 8% of purchases against 100% disallowed by the Assessing Officer-on appeal by Revenue, the Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer and confirmed 100% of bogus purchases. [S. 37, 68, 143(3), 147, 148]

The assessee, engaged in trading of cut and polished diamonds, was found to have obtained accommodation purchase bills from entities controlled by the Rajendra Jain Group, established by the Investigation Wing and the Maharashtra Sales Tax Department to be non-existent paper concerns issuing bogus invoices without actual supply of goods, with the entry operator himself admitting the modus operandi during search proceedings; the Assessing Officer accordingly made a 100% disallowance of the purchases u/s 69C as unexplained expenditure, which the CIT(A), despite accepting the purchases as bogus and noting that the assessee failed to discharge the burden of proving genuineness, restricted to 8% by applying profit-estimation precedents; on appeal by the Revenue, the Tribunal held that once purchases are proved to be non-genuine, no estimation of profit is permissible since such estimation indirectly allows a part of bogus expenditure, which is expressly prohibited under section 69C, and relying on binding decisions including PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. (2025) 172 taxmann.com 283 / 474 ITR 175 (Bom)(HC), SLP rejected No. 47369/2025 dt. 21-11-2025], Shree Ganesh Construction (ITA No. 719/2028 dt. 5-3-2025 (Bom)(HC)), Shoreline Hotel (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2018) 98 taxmann.com 234 (Bom)(HC), PCIT v. Premalata Tekriwal [(2022) 289 Taxman 337 (Cal)/(2023) 456 ITR 671 (Cal)(HC)], ACIT v. Shanti Swarup Jain (2015) 230 Taxman 533 (All)(HC), N.K. Industries Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2016) 72 taxmann.com 289 (Guj)(HC), SLP rejected (SLP No. 963/2017 dt. 16-1-2017) (SC) and N.K. Proteins Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (SLP No. 1952 dt. 16-1-2017; (2020) 421 ITR 15 (St)(SC)), held that the CIT(A)'s restriction to 8% was contrary to law and restored the AO's order disallowing 100% of the bogus purchases in full. (ITA Nos. 2166 & 2167/Mum/2025, dt. 10-11-2025) (AYs 2010-11, 2011-12)

ITO v. Romil Diam (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure- Bogus purchases- estimation of profit element-When purchases were supported by bills, bank payments and sales not disputed, addition restricted to 12.5% of alleged bogus purchases; Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) is distinguished and held not applicable. [S. 147, 148]

The assessee, engaged in trading and export-import of garments and textiles, was found to have made purchases of ₹2.19 crores from three concerns alleged to be hawala dealers. The AO, in reassessment proceedings, treated 18.5% of such purchases as bogus and added ₹40.57 lakhs. On appeal, the CIT(A) restricted the disallowance to 12.5% of purchases. Before the Tribunal, the assessee contended that the addition should be restricted to 5%, while the Revenue sought restoration of 100% addition relying on PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. (2025) 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom.)(HC) The Tribunal held that the facts of Kanak Impex were distinguishable since in that case the assessee had not appeared in reassessment proceedings, whereas in the present case the assessee furnished purchase invoices, bank statements, and evidence of sales. Following consistent Tribunal precedents, the ITAT upheld the CIT(A)'s estimation at 12.5% and rejected both the assessee's plea for further reduction and the Revenue's plea for enhancement. Appeals of both parties were dismissed. Referred, ITO v. Pradeep Kumar Agarwal (ITA No. 1544/JPR/2024) dated 04.04.2025 (Jaipur)(Trib), ACIT v. Dhiraj Parbat Gothi (ITA No. 580/Mum/2025) dated 30.05.2025 (Mum)(Trib), ITO v. Khimchand Okchand Bhansali (2025) 174 taxmann.com 148 (Mum)(Trib), Quality Heightcon Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT (ITA No. 1489/Mum/2025) dated 07.05.2025 (Mum)(Trib), ITO v. Mangalam Drugs & Organics Ltd. (ITA No. 5279/Mum/2015) dated 08.05.2025 (Mum)(Trib), Rajesh Shivji Shah v. ITO (ITA No. 525/Mum/2025) dated 29.04.2025 (Mum)(Trib). (ITA Nos. 2561/Mum/2025 & 2939/Mum/2024, dt. 28.07.2025)(AY. 2011-12)

Palmon Impex Pvt. Ltd. v. ITO (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org.

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Hawala-Accommodation entries-Purchases duly supported by bills, cheque payments, confirmations, and accepted sales cannot be treated as bogus. Disallowance of entire purchases unjustified-Disallowance deleted-Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) is distinguished. [S. 37(1), 44AB, 133(6)]

The assessee, engaged in trading of mustard oil cake and groundnut oil cake in the proprietary concern M/s Shiv Enterprises, made purchases of ₹9.60 crore from three related concerns-Jagdamba Traders (Prop. Purshottam Agarwal), Jagdamba Enterprises, and Parwati Cottex & Oil Industries (Prop. Smt. Parwati Agarwal). The AO treated the entire purchases as non-genuine on the ground that suppliers did not respond to notices u/s 133(6), transportation bills appeared fabricated, and certain vehicle numbers were non-commercial. Accordingly, the AO disallowed the entire purchases. On appeal, the CIT(A) deleted the addition noting that the assessee maintained audited books and stock register, filed purchase bills, GST returns, e-way bills, bank statements showing cheque payments, confirmations, and transport documents. The assessee explained that the suppliers had closed business due to heavy losses and dishonoured cheques, and therefore were not traceable. CIT(A) observed that the sales corresponding to the disputed purchases were accepted, rates were comparable with market rates, and the GP/NP declared was better than earlier years. As an alternative, CIT(A) held that even if purchases were unverifiable, only GP addition could be made, but no such addition was warranted as results were better than past history. The Tribunal upheld the CIT(A)'s findings. It distinguished the Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) relied upon by the Revenue, noting that in the present case there was no evidence of hawala or accommodation entries, while assessee had furnished corroborative evidence including GST and e-way bill records. Relying on PCIT v. Tejua Rohitkumar Kapadia (2018) 256 Taxman 213 (SC), the Tribunal held that purchases duly supported by bills, cheque payments, confirmations, and accepted sales cannot be treated as bogus. Disallowance of entire purchases unjustified. Appeal of the Revenue dismissed. (ITA No. 1544/JPR/2024)(AY. 2021-22)

ITO v. Pradeep Kumar Agarwal (Jaipur)(Trib) www. itatonline.org.

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Only profit element to be taxed-Addition restricted to 12.5% of alleged bogus purchases-Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) is distinguished. [S. 133(6), 147, 148]

The assessee, engaged in construction, filed return declaring income of ₹5.36 crore. Assessment was reopened u/s 148 on the basis of Investigation Wing information alleging bogus purchase bills. The AO issued notices u/s 133(6) which returned unserved as suppliers were non-existent and treated purchases of ₹42.82 lakh as bogus, disallowing 100%. CIT(A) confirmed the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal noted that in assessee's own case when it was a partnership firm (M/s. Quality Construction Co., ITA No. 1403/Mum/2024, AY 2010-11, order dated 05/12/2024), addition on identical facts had been restricted to 12.5% of alleged bogus purchases, following the Bombay High Court ruling in Pr. CIT v. Suraj Infrastructures (P.) Ltd. [2023] 156 taxmann.com 192 (Bom)(HC) Tribunal further held that reliance placed by Revenue on PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) was distinguishable since in that case assessee failed to cooperate with investigation and could not prove genuineness of purchases, whereas present assessee had participated in proceedings and filed details. Accordingly, addition was restricted to 12.5% of the alleged purchases representing profit element, and balance deleted. On denial of TDS credit of ₹24.46 lakh, matter was remitted to AO for verification of Form 26AS and TDS certificates. Ground challenging reopening was not pressed. Addition restricted to 12.5% of alleged bogus purchases; TDS credit issue restored to AO. Appeal partly allowed. (ITA No. 1489/Mum/2025,dt.07/05/2025)(AY. 2010-11)

Quality Heightcon Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT(Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Addition unsustainable when purchases supported by documents, payments through banking channel, sales accepted, and no cross-examination allowed-VAT authorities accepted purchases-Addition was deleted-Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) is distinguished.[S.133(6), 144]

The assessee, engaged in the business of new-born baby products, had purchases of ₹16.29 lakh disallowed u/s 69C on the basis of Sales Tax Department information alleging hawala transactions. The AO made the addition as the assessee could not produce the suppliers, though the assessee had furnished purchase bills, ledger, accounts, bank statements showing payments through banking channels, and corresponding sales were accepted. No opportunity of cross-examination of third-party statements was granted. The Tribunal held that the AO merely relied on third-party information without making further enquiry or providing cross-examination. Since the assessee had discharged the burden by submitting documents and showing payments through banking channels, and VAT authorities had accepted the transactions while granting ITC, the addition u/s 69C was unsustainable. Reliance placed on CIT v. Nikunj Eximp Enterprises (2015) 372 ITR 619 (Bom.) (HC) and Ashok Kumar Rungta v. ITO / [2024] 301 Taxman 580 (2025] 474 ITR 160 (Bom HC). Krishna Textiles v. CIT(2009) 310 ITR 227 (Guj)(HC), Case of PCIT v. Kanak Impex (Ind) Ltd[2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) (Bom HC) distinguished on facts as in that case books were rejected and assessee had not cooperated. Accordingly, the addition u/s 69C was deleted.(ITA No. 525/Mum/2025 dt. dt. 29.04.2025) (AY 2011-12)

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Addition made on estimated basis of 25% of purchases deleted-Purchases supported by bills, stock register, delivery challans and bank payments-Supplier appeared before AO and confirmed sales-ITAT held that once purchases are corroborated by evidence and vendor's statement, no addition could be sustained-Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex(India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) is distinguished. [S. 68]

The assessee, engaged in trading of craft paper and chemicals, had shown purchases of ₹43,75,381 from M/s. Arun Paper & Iron Traders. AO treated the purchases as accommodation entries and disallowed 25% (₹10,93,845) as bogus purchases. Before the CIT(A), additional evidence was filed and remand proceedings were conducted wherein the supplier, Shri Arun Agarwal, appeared and produced books of account, invoices, delivery challans, assessment orders, and confirmed the transactions. Despite this, CIT(A) sustained the addition. On appeal, ITAT noted that in the case of assessee's wife, Smt. Anuradha Dalmia, on identical purchases from the same supplier, the addition was deleted by CIT(A) and confirmed by ITAT after considering the vendor's sworn statement. Tribunal further observed that sales made by the vendor were accepted in his own reassessment and no allegation was made regarding sales to the assessee. Payments were through banking channels and stock registers and delivery challans supported the purchases. Followed PCIT v Mohammad Haji Adam & Co. [2019] 103 taxmann.com 459 (Bom) (HC); Distinguishing the Bombay High Court ruling in PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) which involved non-participation of the assessee in proceedings, the Tribunal held that in the present case the assessee fully participated and the vendor had confirmed the sales.

Accordingly, the addition of 25% of purchases was deleted and the appeal was allowed. (ITA No. 3883/Mum/2024 dt. 29.05.2025(AY. 2008-09)

Rahul M. Dalmia v. ITO (SMC) (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Addition restricted to 4%-Tribunal held that since purchases were supported by invoices, bank statements, stock register, and no defect was found in books or sales, only profit element could be added. High Court decision in PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) distinguished-Appeal of revenue was dismissed.

The assessee was alleged to have obtained bogus purchase bills of ₹3.33 crore from concerns linked to Shri Pravin Kumar Jain. The AO held that the assessee failed to produce parties for cross-examination, disregarded retraction affidavit of Shri Jain, and made addition of 12.5% of purchases as non-genuine. CIT(A), noting that assessee had filed purchase bills, bank statements, stock records, sales bills, MCA documents of suppliers and declared GP higher than past average, restricted the addition to 4% relying on prevailing VAT rate in Maharashtra. On appeal by the Revenue, the Tribunal noted that the AO had not found any defect in books or disproved evidences produced. Sales were accepted. The reliance placed by Revenue on PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) to support 100% addition was held distinguishable since in Kanak Impex the assessee had not participated in reassessment proceedings and purchases remained unproved, unlike in the present case where assessee furnished complete evidence. The Tribunal relied upon CIT v. Nikunj Eximp Enterprises Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT [2015] 372 ITR 619 (Bom)(HC) wherein it was held that when books of account are not rejected, sales are accepted, and payments are through banking channels, purchases cannot be disallowed merely on suspicion for non-production of parties. Accordingly, the restriction of addition to 4% by CIT(A) was upheld.

The appeal of revenue was dismissed.(ITA No. 580/Mum/2025 dt. 30.05.2025.) (AY. 2007-08)

ACIT v. Dhiraj Parbat Gothi (Mum)(Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 69C : Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information from sales tax department-Bogus accommodation entries-Purchases-Payments through banking channels-Sales accepted-Addition restricted to 5 percent-PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. [2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) distinguished. [S. 143(3)]

Assessee was engaged in the business of dealing in ferrous and non-ferrous metals. It made purchases through banking channels and filed relevant purchase invoices, copy of bank statements evidencing payment made through proper banking channels, chart showing details of purchases made from parties and corresponding sales. Assessing Officer held that sales tax department had given information with regard to bogus accommodation entries on account of bogus purchases/bills hence he estimated profit element at rate of 12.5 per cent of total purchases made by assessee which were claimed to be bogus and made addition under section 69C. Commissioner (Appeals) restricted addition from 12.5 per cent to 4 per cent of bogus purchases. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee had proved that transactions had been carried out through banking channels and Assessing Officer had not doubted same, addition made by Assessing Officer at rate of 12.5 per cent could not be restored, however, considering peculiar facts and circumstances, addition was to be restricted at rate of 5 per cent instead of 4 per cent as restricted by Commissioner (Appeals). Decision in PCIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd 2025] 474 ITR 175 / 172 taxmann.com 283 (Bom)(HC) distinguished. (AY. 2009-10, 2011-12)

ITO v. Khimchand Okchand Bhansali_[2025] 174 taxmann.com 148 (SMC) (Mum) Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Export of readymade garments-Sales not doubted-Profit margin embedded in value of such disputed purchases was to be estimated at 2.5 per cent. [S.133(6) 145]

Held that sales are not doubted; the case involved is a case of unverifiable purchases where profit margin would be slightly higher as purchases had been made in grey market; profit margin embedded in value of such disputed purchases is directed to be estimated at 2.5 per cent. (AY. 2014-15)

Braham Dev Gupta. v. JCIT (2025) 212 ITD 238 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Alleged out-of-books Murrum expenses-Where cash expenditure relates to business operations and its incurrence is not disputed, addition under section 69C cannot be made for the entire amount-Estimation of profit element is justified. Addition restricted to 5% of such expenses. [S. 132]

Pursuant to search proceedings, the Assessing Officer noted from trial balances and loose sheets that certain site-wise murrum expenses (earth work filling material) were incurred in cash outside the regular books of accounts. The AO made a total addition of ₹6,42,71,657 under section 69C, holding that the entire expenditure was unaccounted and unexplained. The assessee submitted that the murrum expenses were part of routine site-level working, that corresponding income was offered to tax, and that even if not fully recorded in the regular books, the expenses were incurred wholly and exclusively for business purposes. The CIT(A), agreeing partially with the assessee, deleted the full addition and estimated income at 5% of the murrum expenses, treating that as income embedded in the alleged out-of-books expenditure. The issue before the Tribunal was, whether the entire out-of-books expenditure (murrum expenses) can be added under section 69C as unexplained expenditure, or whether only a reasonable profit element should be brought to tax when the source and business purpose are not in doubt. On appeal the Tribunal held that the AO was not justified in treating the entire amount of cash murrum expenses as unexplained under section 69C. Key observations were, the murrum expenses were incurred during execution of civil contracts at specific project sites and were not in the nature of capital or personal expenses. The Department failed to show that the said cash expenditure was diverted for any purpose other than business. The AO relied merely on trial balances and loose papers seized, without corroborating the actual nature or quantum of cash outflows. Section 69C allows addition only when the source of expenditure is unexplained, not merely because it is outside the books. The Tribunal upheld the CIT(A)'s estimate of 5% of the alleged cash expenditure as reasonable in the context of the nature of business and cash-intensive operations. It also agreed with the finding that a contractor cannot be denied deduction for business expenditure merely because of procedural lapses in accounting. The Tribunal held that where cash expenditure relates to business operations and its incurrence is not disputed, addition under section 69C cannot be made for the entire amount. Estimation of profit element is justified. Addition restricted to 5% of such expenses. (AY. 2016-17 to 2022-23)

J. Kumar Infraprojects Ltd. v. DCIT (2025] 176 taxmann.com 193 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Estimate of 12% of alleged bogus expenses is affirmed- Pr. CIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd (2025) 474 ITR 175 / 172 Taxman.com 283 (Bom)(HC) distinguished. [S. 37(1)]

The AO has disallowed 100% of alleged bogus expenses. On appeal, the CIT(A) restricted the disallowance at 12% of the alleged bogus expenses. On appeal by the Revenue and the assessee, the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A) estimating the disallowance at 12% of alleged bogus expenditure. The Tribunal distinguished the ratio in Pr. CIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd. Pr. CIT v. Kanak Impex (India) Ltd (2025) 474 ITR 175 / 172 Taxman.com 283 (Bom)(HC). (AY. 2016-17 to 2022-23)

J. Kumar Infraprojects Ltd. v. DCIT (2025] 176 taxmann.com 193 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Search and seizure-Seized document was found from third party premises-Addition is deleted-Payment to travel agent-Payment received on the basis of rooms booked-Addition is deleted. [S. 132]

During course of search and seizure proceedings, ledgers pertaining to unaccounted payments by assessee made to interior designer for hotel purchase were found to be recorded and seized from residential premises of one JP. Assessing Officer held that payments were unaccounted and made an addition under section 69C. CIT(A) deleted the addition. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since there was no operative agreement between the assessee and said interior designer, the order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed. As regards the payment received by the travel agent being offered to tax, the order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.(AY. 2020-21)

DCIT v. Triton Hotels and Resorts (P.) Ltd. (2025) 211 ITD 1 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Unaccounted cash-Seized material, diary notings-Transfer within group-Taxed in respective entities-Addition is deleted-Unexplained receipts and payments-Estimation of gross receipts-CIT(A) is justified in adopting a profit rate of 30 per cent on total receipts, based on the principle of taxing real income.[S.48, 153A]

Held that based on the transactions recorded in the seized material, diary notings, which are transfers within group which are taxed in respective entities. Once again, the addition based on the same material is deleted.The Tribunal held that the CIT(A) is justified in adopting a profit rate of 30 per cent on total receipts, based on the principle of taxing real income.(AY. 2016-17 to 2019-20)

Kailash Ramavatar Goenka. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 317/234 TTJ 259 /124 ITR 210 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Deletion of addition by CIT(A) is affirmed. [S. 147]

Assessing Officer disallowed 25 per cent of total purchases. CIT(A), considering the evidence, deleted the addition. On appeal, the tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A).(AY. 2010-11

ITO v. Sumit Agrawal. (2025) 210 ITD 177 (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Search and seizure-Unabated assessment-Purchases are recorded in regular books of account-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.

The ITAT ruled that in cases of completed/unabated assessments, additions cannot be made without incriminating material found during search. The Tribunal followed the Supreme Court decision in Principal CIT v. Abhisar Buildwell (P) Ltd., which established that for completed assessments, additions can only be made if incriminating material related to that specific issue was found during search.

Section 69C could not be applied to purchases already recorded in regular books of account when the books were not rejected by tax authorities, payments were made from disclosed bank accounts and the source of expenditure was duly explained. (AY. 2014-15)

Dy.CIT v. Aba Builders Ltd (2025) 233 TTJ 328/ 245 DTR 105 / 176 taxmann.com 216 (Delhi)(Trib)

Dy.CIT v. IV Country (P) Ltd (2025) 233 TTJ 328 / 245 DTR 105 / 176 taxmann.com 216 (Delhi)(Trib)

Dy.CIT v. Country Infrastructures (P) Ltd 2025) 233 TTJ 328 / 245 DTR 105 / 176 taxmann.com 216 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 69C: Unexplained expenditure-Information from Investigation wing-The AO cannot proceed to disallow only the purchases in isolation, and the Tribunal disallowed the purchases at 12.5%. On appeal for A.Y. 2014-15, the Tribunal observed that the Assessee had only made payments towards purchases from the previous year; hence the addition for A.Y. 2014-15 was unjustified. [S. 147, 148]

The Assessee runs a proprietorship. On information received from investigation wing, the AO treated the purchase made by the Assessee as bogus and proceeded to disallow the purchases and made an addition. CIT(A) confirmed the addition. On appeal for A.Y. 2013-2014, the Tribunal observed that the AO has accepted the sales declared by the Assessee and only proceeded to disallow purchases. Hence, the Tribunal held that the AO cannot proceed to disallow only the purchases in isolation and the Tribunal disallowed the purchases at 12.5%. On appeal for A.Y. 2014-15, the Tribunal observed that the Assessee had only made payments towards purchases from previous year, hence the addition for A.Y. 2014-15 was unjustified. (AY. 2013-2014,2014-2015)

Manak Chand Daga v. ITO (2025) 233 TTJ 11 (UO) (Delhi)(Trib)

S.70: Set off of loss-One source against income from another source-Same head of income-arrangement of affairs within legal framework through legitimate means to reduce its tax liability-no evidence on record to doubt genuineness of transactions-STCL derived by assessee could not be prevented from being set off against LTCG. [S. 45]

During the relevant AY assessee set off her STCG (Short Term Capital Loss), which arose from the sale of shares of Mindtree Ltd, against (LTCG) Long Term Capital Gain derived from the sale of shares of another company, Avendus Capital Pvt Ltd. The AO opined that assessee had adopted 'colourable device' of selling shares having anticipated reduction in price due to issuance of bonus shares by M, by arranging her affairs in a manner so as to derive maximum benefit by selling shares purchased at a loss and reducing her tax liability on account of LTCG derived on sale of shares of Avendus Capital Pvt Ltd. Accordingly, the STCL was disallowed and the LTCG added back to income of assessee. The ITAT noted that the AO had not expressed any doubt regarding the nature of loss. It was held that if an assessee arranges affairs within legal framework and through legitimate means to reduce its tax liability, AO cannot prevent the assessee from doing so. Since there was no evidence on record to doubt the genuineness of transactions entered into by assessee, STCL derived by the assessee from sale of shares could not be prevented from being set off against LTCG by alleging adoption of a colourable device. Pr. CIT (Central) v. Adar Cyrus Poonawalla [2018] 100 taxmann.com 227/260 Taxman 41 (Bom)(HC) followed. (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT v. Ranu Vohra (2025) 210 ITD 285 / / 121 ITR 60 (SN) ((Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 71 : Set off of loss-One head against income from another-Constitutional validity and retrospectivity-Set off of loss from one head against income from another Deduction and vested entitlement to set off actual amount of loss-Income from house property to Rs. 2 lakhs for particular assessment year with effect from 1-4-2018-Insertion of sub-section (3A) in section 71 in terms of section 31 d amendment not violative of article 14-Income-tax Act, 1961, s. 71(3A)-Finance Act, 2017, S 31[1], Finance Act, 2017,(2017) 393 ITR (St.) 1) [S. 22,56(2), 71(3A), Art.13, 14, 19(1)(g), 226, 265]

On a writ petition by the assessee seeking to quash section 31 of the Finance Act, 2017 ((2017) 393 ITR (St.) 1) whereby sub-section (3A) has been inserted in section 71 of the 1961 Act to the effect that the assessee shall not be entitled to set-off of loss under the head "Income from house property" under section 56(2) to the extent the amount of the loss which exceeded two lakhs rupees against income under another head as being ultra vires the provisions of the Constitution of India or alternatively directing that sub-section (3A) to section 71 of the 1961 Act, is prospective in application and not applicable to the house loans raised prior to the amendment of the 1961 Act, i.e., prior to April 1, 2017 resulting in losses under the head "Income from house property dismissing the petition the Court held that, insertion of sub-section (3A) in section 71 in terms of section 31 d amendment not violative of article 14-Income-tax Act, 1961. The insertion of sub-section (3A) in section 71 of the 1961 Act was proportionate with the object sought to be achieved and not violative of Article 19 of the Constitution. The alteration in the manner of imposing tax did not deprive the taxpayer of a benefit; rather it tantamounted to a realignment of the existing provisions bearing in mind the broader economic and policy considerations, which the Legislature was duly empowered to do. Amendment not violative of Article 14. (AY. 2018-19)

Sanjeev Goyal v. UOI [2024] 163 taxmann.com 122 / (2025) 479 ITR 204 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 71 : Set off of loss-One head against income from another-Set off of business loss against capital gains-Sub-s. (2) of s. 71 does not provide any particular mode to set off the loss that should be followed-the assessee is entitled to set off the business loss against any head of income, including long-term capital gains.[S.45, 70, 71(2)]

Held that Sub-s. (2) of S. 71 gives the option to the assessee to set off any loss, other than the loss under the head "Capital gains", against income under any head, including capital gains and therefore, the assessee is entitled to set off the business loss against long-term capital gains (AY. 2019-20)

Priya Kapil Todarwal v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 953/ 176 taxmann.com 349 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 72 : Carry forward and set off of business losses-Investment business-Capital loss-Notional loss-Fall in value of equity shares-Sale of non-convertible debentures-Order of Tribunal allowing loss as carry forward loss not erroneous. [S 10(2A), 260A]

Held, dismissing the appeal the Court held that the fall in the value of shares of the entity Vardhan Spinning and General Mills Ltd had been worked out based on the market quotation in the Stock Exchange, wherein prior to the rights issue on October 13, 1992, last-cum-right price of the shares was Rs. 610 per share and the first ex-right price of the shares on November 11, 1992 was Rs. 400 per share, resulting in fall in the price of the shares by Rs. 210 per share and such aspect had not been disputed by the Department. The judgments of the Supreme Court and Bombay High Court had been followed by this court in Navin Jindal v. Asst. CIT, (2006) 280 ITR 608 (P&H)(HC). The order of the Tribunal was not erroneous in allowing the loss and directing the Assessing Officer to allow it as carry forward loss to the subsequent years (AY. 1993-94)

PCIT v. Adinath Investment and Training Co. (2025) 476 ITR 35 (P & H) (HC)

S. 72: Carry forward and set-off of business losses-Depreciable assets-Business loss short-term capital gains-Disallowance of set-off by CPC was affirmed-Matter remanded to the file of Assessing Officer to consider the Judgment in PCIT v. Alcon Developers (2020) 432 ITR 277 (Bom)(HC).[S. 50, 143(1)]

Assessee is an individual carrying on the business of running a petrol pump. Assessee filed its return of income claiming set-off of brought-forward business loss against short-term capital gain from sale of depreciable business assets-Central Processing Centre (CPC) did not allow said set-off on the ground that there was no mechanism available in income-tax return for such set off. CIT (A) upheld the order of the CPC. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since there were no specific provisions under the Act which clearly provided that short-term capital gains assessable under section 50 could be set off against brought forward business losses, disallowance of set-off by CPC was correct. However, since the assessee had not placed reliance on the judgment of the High Court in the case of PCIT v. Alcon Developers (2020) 432 ITR 277 (Bom)(HC), the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. (AY. 2019-20)

Pradeep Kisanlal Boob. v. ACIT (2025) 213 ITD 285/238 TTJ 1032 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 72A : Carry forward and set off of accumulated loss and unabsorbed depreciation-Amalgamation-Demerger-Scheme of restructuring involving transfer of only specified assets and liabilities and consideration paid in cash and not by issue of shares-Provisions of s. 72A(4) not attracted-Assessee entitled to carry forward and set off of loss. [S. 2(19AA), 2 (19AAA), 72A(4)]

Where pursuant to a scheme of restructuring sanctioned by the High Court in company jurisdiction only specified assets and liabilities of the Petrochemicals Division and Plastic Products Division were transferred to the resulting companies and the consideration was discharged in cash instead of issue of shares to shareholders of the demerged company, the essential statutory conditions of a “demerger” under s. 72A(4) were not satisfied; accordingly, the CIT(A) and the Tribunal were justified in holding that sub-s. (4) of s. 72A was not attracted, and the assessee was entitled to carry forward and set off accumulated loss and unabsorbed depreciation. Order of Tribunal affirmed. Affirmed Dy. CIT v. NOCIL Ltd. (2017) 190 TTJ 192 (Mum) (Trib) (AY. 2004-05)

PCIT v. Nocil Ltd. (2025) 345 CTR 549 (Bom)(HC)

S. 72A : Carry forward and set off of accumulated loss and unabsorbed depreciation-Amalgamation-Demerger-Relaxation of conditions under r. 9C(a)-Power of Central Government is discretionary and to be exercised only in exceptional cases-Failure to achieve stipulated capacity utilisation-Rejection of relaxation upheld-Writ petition dismissed.[S. 72A(2), R. 9C(a), Art. 226]

The proviso to r. 9C(a) confers an enabling power on the Central Government to relax the requirement relating to achievement of prescribed production capacity or the time period for achieving the same, having regard to the genuine efforts made by the amalgamated company and the circumstances preventing achievement thereof; however, such power being in the nature of an exception cannot be exercised liberally and must be invoked reasonably, objectively and only to the extent necessary to advance the object of s. 72A, namely revival and continuation of the business of the amalgamating industrial undertaking. The benefit of carry forward of accumulated loss and unabsorbed depreciation under s. 72A is conditional and intended to prevent abuse by profitable companies amalgamating with loss-making entities merely for tax advantage without genuine revival of business. In the present case, despite extension sought by the assessee, the stipulated production level of 50% of installed capacity was not achieved even within the extended period and successive requests seeking reduction of the threshold capacity and further extension of time were made only on the basis of business difficulties. The Central Government, after considering the assessee's efforts and circumstances, rejected the request for relaxation, and such decision could not be termed perverse or based on extraneous considerations. Where the scheme of amalgamation itself was aimed at simplification of corporate structure and maximisation of shareholder value, strict compliance with revival conditions assumed greater significance and the objective of s. 72A could not be extended to such restructuring absent achievement of prescribed operational revival. The Court held that the authority had exercised discretion in accordance with law and judicial review under Art. 226 was not warranted.

Cargill India (P) Ltd. v. CBDT (2025) 483 ITR 738 / 345 CTR 834 / 252 DTR 279 / 304 Taxman 236 (Delhi)(HC).

S. 73 : Loss in share trading-Speculation loss-Set-off-Not allowable against profit from F&O transactions-Arbitrage operations-Explanation to S.73 operates independently of S.43(5)-Speculative loss cannot be adjusted against F&O business income.[S.28(i), 43(5)]

The assessee, a stock broker, engaged in arbitrage operations, simultaneously purchased shares in the cash segment and sold them in the F&O segment. While it incurred losses in the cash segment, it earned profits in the F&O segment, resulting in an overall gain. The AO held that loss in the cash segment constituted speculation loss under Explanation to S.73 and disallowed set-off against F&O profits. The CIT(A) allowed set-off following earlier ITAT orders. The Judicial Member, relying on Snowtex Investment Ltd. v. PCIT (2019)414 ITR 227 (SC) and PCIT v. Diamond Securities (P) Ltd. (2021)431 ITR 201 (MP) HC), held that cash segment loss is speculative and cannot be set off. The Accountant Member distinguished Snowtex, holding arbitrage as a composite business. On reference u/s 255(4), the Third Member held that F&O profits are business income by virtue of S.43(5), but delivery-based share trading loss is speculation loss under Explanation to S.73. Since both provisions operate independently, speculation loss cannot be set off against F&O business income. Accordingly, the Revenue's appeal was allowed. (ITA Nos. 3144, 6362, 3175 & 6114/Mum/2018 dt. 18.08.2025 (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

DCIT v. JM Financial Services Ltd (TM) (Mum)(Trib)
www.itatonline.org

S. 74 : Losses-Capital gains-Tax resident of Mauritius-Sale of shares acquired before 01.04.2017-Grandfathered sale-Non-grandfathered sale-Both transactions were distinct; assessee was entitled to claim carry forward of long-term capital loss to subsequent years-Dividend income can't be adjusted against long-term capital loss carried forward. DTAA-India-Mauritius.[S.56, 90, 245R, Art, 13 (4)]

Assessee, a tax resident of Mauritius, was engaged in dealing in shares. During the year, it earned long-term capital gains of Rs. 38.61 crores from the sale of shares which were acquired before 1-4-2017 (grandfathered sale) and the same was claimed as not taxable as per provisions of article 13(4) of India-Mauritius DTAA. It also incurred long-term capital loss of Rs. 24.70 crores from the sale of shares which were acquired after 1-4-2017 (non-grandfathered sale). It set off long-term capital gain of Rs. 6.74 crores against long-term capital loss of Rs. 24.70 crores and claimed carry forward of balance long-term capital loss of Rs. 17.96 crores. Assessing officer rejected the claim and also adjusted the dividend income of Rs. 5.09 crores declared by assessee under the head 'income from other sources' against the long-term capital loss of Rs. 17.96 crores incurred by assessee. On appeal, the CIT(A) held that the choice of Act or the treaty provisions was qua the stream of income and since both long term capital gains as well as the long-term capital loss from the same stream of income therefore carry forward of long-term capital loss was not permissible. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the choice of Act or Treaty is qua separate source of income and each transaction resulting in gain or loss is a distinct source of income. Since long-term capital gains earned by assessee from transactions which were grandfathered as per provisions of article 13(4) of India-Mauritius DTAA had already been accepted for exemption under provisions of treaty, therefore, both transactions were distinct and, hence, resulted in different sources of income. Further, since dividend income declared as taxable under the head 'income from other sources' could not be adjusted against long-term capital loss carried forward by assessee, the Assessing Officer was directed to allow carry forward of long-term capital loss to subsequent years as per provisions of section 74. (AY. 2022-23)

Atyant Capital India Fund-I. v. ADIT, IT (2025) 214 ITD 431 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 74 : Losses-Capital gains-Capital loss-Carry forward and set off-Shares acquired before 1st April, 2017 cannot be taxed in the source country i.e., India-Eligible to carry forward the long term capital loss under the provisions of the Act-Debatable issue-Adjustment was not valid-DTAA-India-Singapore [S.90,143(1), Art. 13]

Held that Long-term capital gains earned on the sale of shares by the assessee Singapore based company, cannot be taxed in India in view of Art. 13 of the India-Singapore DTAA and, therefore, assessee is eligible to carry forward the long-term capital loss under the provisions of the Act. Issue as to whether the long-term capital loss is to be allowed to be carried forward as per the Act or to be set off against the LTCG which is eligible for exemption under the DTAA is a debatable issue and, therefore, the AO was not correct in making the disallowance of carry forward of long-term capital loss by way of prima facie adjustment under s. 143(1).(AY. 2020-21)

Qualcomm Asia Pacific Pte. Ltd. v. CIT (A) (2025) 235 TTJ 785 / 173 taxmann.com 839 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 79 : Carry forward and set off losses-Change in share holdings-Companies which public are not substantially interested-Observations of Assessing Officer considering assessment for earlier year of no effect and not sustainable.[S. 260A]

The assessee carried forward business losses from earlier years, unabsorbed depreciation and capital loss of an earlier year. The Assessing Officer observed that the brought forward losses would not be allowed. The Commissioner (Appeals), dismissed the assessee's appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to expunge the concluding remark "brought forward loss is not allowed to be carry forward", holding that the question whether the loss, incurred in any year, could be carried forward to the following year, and set off against the profits, had to be decided by the Assessing Officer who would deal with the assessment for the subsequent year, when the aspect concerning carry forward and set off of losses would come to the fore. On appeal, the Court held that the view taken by the Tribunal was correct. The mere fact that the Tribunal had expunged the observations could not impact the stand of the Department. Thus, no interference was called for with the order of the Tribunal. Relied on the Supreme Court, while interpreting the provisions of section 24 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, which is pari materia to section 72 of the Act, held in CIT v. Manmohan Das (Deceased), (1966) 59 ITR 699 (SC) (AY.2014-15)

PCIT v. Burda Druck India Pvt. Ltd [2023] 157 taxmann.com 563 / (2025) 483 ITR 469 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 80DD: Medical treatment of dependent-Disability-Amendment made to S. 80DD vide Finance Act, 2022 cannot be applied retrospectively to policies taken prior to 2014. [Art. 32, 142]

The Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding a Writ Petition in nature of a PIL, observed that the plea for retrospective operation of the amendment is in the interest of the disabled persons nor can the Court give a retrospective operation to the amendment. This is particularly having regard to the fact that an insurance contract is in a sense, a commercial contract, having certain terms and conditions and the sub-stratum of the contract cannot be removed by giving a retrospective operation to the amendment. The benefit under S. 80DD of the Act would have been availed by the subscribers at the time when they have subscribed to the policy. The Court noted that the grievance of the persons like the Petitioner had stood addressed though with prospective effect in a Contempt Petition also heard by the Court. Accordingly, the Court was not inclined and disposed of the Writ Petition(s).

Ravi Agrawal v. UOI (2024)168 taxmann.com 320 / [2025] 302 Taxman 15 /343 CTR 55 /475 ITR 455 (SC).

Editorial : Ravi Agrawal v. UOI(2019) 260 Taxman 352/ 410 ITR 399 /306 CTR 177/ 173 DTR 194 (SC)

S. 80DD : Medical treatment of dependent-Disability-Medical treatment of handicapped dependent-Amendment made by Finance Act, 2022 to section 80DD could not be applied retrospectively to policies taken prior to 2014 as it was not in the interest of disabled persons-Court cannot give retrospective operation to insurance contract which is a commercial contract.[S.80DD(2)(a), Finance Act, 2022, S.21, Art. 32, 142]

Amendment in S. 80DD of the Income-tax Act, 1961 by s. 21 of the Finance Act, 2022 provides that on attaining the age of 60 years by an individual subscriber (or on a member of an HUF attaining that age), payment or deposit to the Jeevan Aadhar policy of LIC (a policy intended for the benefit of a dependent disabled person under s. 80DD) can be discontinued and the accumulated monetary benefit utilised. It was urged that the amendment should be given retrospective effect to benefit subscribers who took policies prior to 2014. Held: The plea for retrospective operation cannot be sustained-retrospective effect would defeat the very object of the Jeevan Aadhar policy, which is to secure the disabled dependent after the subscriber's death; allowing a subscriber to discontinue during his lifetime on attaining 60 would be contrary to the policy's intent and against the interests of the disabled beneficiary. Moreover, the amendment cannot be given retrospective operation by the Court, particularly as the insurance contract is commercial in nature and subscribers would not have contracted expecting the substratum of the contract to be removed retrospectively. W.e.f. 01-04-2023, the amendment held not retrospective. Court also held that the Court cannot give retrospective operation to an insurance contract which is a commercial contract.

Ravi Agrawal v. UOI [2024] 168 taxmann.com 320 / (2025) 475 ITR 455 (SC)

Editorial: Refer , Ravi Agrawal v. UOI (2019) 260 Taxman 352 / 410 ITR 399 (SC)

S. 80G : Donation-Registration under section 12AA granted and subsisting-Entitled to approval for purposes of section 80G(5)(vi) of the Act-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S. 12AA, 80G(5))vi), Art. 136]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that since the assessee stood registered as a charitable institution under section 12AA, the only corollary was that its application under section 80G(5) also deserved to be allowed. Order of the Tribunal directing the CIT (E) to grant approval under section 80G(5) of the Act is affirmed. SLP of the revenue dismissed.

CIT v. Dignity Education Society (2025) 481 ITR 222 / 307 Taxman 523 (SC)

Editorial : CIT(E) v. Dignity Education Society (2025) 481 ITR 217 /179 Taxman 373 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 80G : Donation-Registration under section 12AA granted and subsisting-Entitled to approval for purposes of section 80G(5)(vi) [S. 12AA, 80G(5)(vi)]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that since the assessee stood registered as charitable institution under section 12AA, the only corollary was that its application under section 80G(5) also deserved to be allowed. The order of the Tribunal directing the CIT (E) to grant approval under section 80G(5) of the Act is affirmed.

CIT(E) v. Dignity Education Society (2025) 481 ITR 217 /179 Taxman 373 (Chhattisgarh) (HC)

Editorial: CIT(E) v. Dignity Education Society (2025) 481 ITR 222/ 307 Taxman 523 (SC), SLP of revenue dismissed.

S. 80G : Donation-Renewal of approval under S. 80G(5)(vi) cannot be denied merely because an educational trust collects fees, incurs establishment expenses, or donates to other educational institutions lacking 80G approval, absent change in its charitable activities. [S.11, 80G(5)(vi) [S.80G(5)(vi)]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that renewal of approval under S. 80G(5)(vi) cannot be denied merely because an educational trust collects fees, incurs establishment expenses, or donates to other educational institutions lacking 80G approval, absent change in its charitable activities. Court also observed that the routine expenses are not a defect, and the political-party donation point, if at all, should be dealt with by adjustment against S. 11(1) application rather than denying 80G. (AY. 2007-08)

CIT v. P.S. Ramasamy Telugu Minority Educational & Charitable Trust (2025) 306 Taxman 33 (Mad.)(HC)

S. 80G : Donation-Registration of institution-Renewal of registration-Assessee granted registration under Section 12AA-Amount utilized for construction of Public Library is for charitable purpose-Failure to file form 10B-Denial of renewal of registration on that ground is not justified-Directed the respondents to grant renewal of registration under section 80G(5)(vi) of the Act. [S. 2(15), 11, 12AA, 80G(5)(vi), Art. 226]

The assessee was denied registration under section 80G(5)(vi) by the Commissioner of Income-Tax, Karnal (CIT). The commissioner declined the request on the ground that the petitioner-society was not carrying out any charitable activity as the genuineness of the donations and its use could not be proved. By relying on Sonepat Hindu Educational and Charitable Society v. CIT [2005] 278 ITR 262 (P&H)(HC) the court held that there has been no finding that the donations have been utilized for the purpose of profits, personal gain or any other purpose and it should not be discarded from seeking exemption merely on technicalities such as production of receipts/entries. No Finding was also recorded that the petitioner failed to carry out its aim and objects. Accordingly, the court granted the renewal of registration.

Mumukshu Mandal (Regd.) Shri Geeta Mandir v. CIT (2025) 473 ITR 452 (P&H) (HC)

S. 80G : Donation-Refusal of recognition-Registration u/s 12A not questioned-Mere suspicion on donations ancillary to objects not valid-Refusal of recognition under S. 80G(5) set aside.[S. 12A, 80G(5), Art. 226]

Where the assessee-trust was already registered u/s 12A, the refusal of exemption u/s 80G on the ground that the trust donated funds to other trusts was held unsustainable. The High Court noted that the assessee had substantial gross receipts and had made donations to another trust also registered u/s 12A and eligible for s. 80G approval; mere suspicion on such donations ancillary to the trust's objects could not justify denial. The impugned order declining recognition under s. 80G(5) was therefore set aside.

Tilok Tirath Vidyavati Chhuttani Trust v. CIT (2025) 343 CTR 161 / 247 DTR 73 (P&H)(HC)

S. 80G : Donation-Deduction-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-Donation to approved institution-Allowable as deduction-Education cess-Not allowable as deduction-Dividend Distribution Tax-Not entitled to claim a lower rate of Dividend Distribution Tax under the DTAA, [S. 37(1), Expln. 2 40(a)(ii), 115-0, 234A, 234B, 234C)

Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure, though not allowable as business expenditure under Explanation 2 to section 37(1), is eligible for deduction under section 80G where the donations are made to institutions registered under section 80G and the statutory conditions are fulfilled, since no corresponding restriction has been inserted in section 80G. The Tribunal accordingly directed the Assessing Officer to allow the deduction after factual verification. It was further held that the assessee was not entitled to claim a lower rate of Dividend Distribution Tax under the DTAA, the issue being covered by the Special Bench decision in Total Oil India P. Ltd. The Tribunal also held that, in view of the retrospective amendment by the Finance Act, 2022, education cess and secondary and higher education cess are not deductible under section 40(a)(ii). Levy of interest under sections 234A, 234B and 234C being consequential was upheld. (AY. 2015-16)

Ericsson India Global Services P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2024) 160 taxmann.com 599 / (2025) 121 ITR 89 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Approval-Application under wrong sub-clause- Curable defect-Commissioner (Exemptions) must permit rectification-Approval cannot be denied for technical error-Duty of Officers to assist assessee in obtaining relief to which assessee entitled-CBDT Circular No. 14 (XL-35), dated 11-4-1955 [S.12A, 80G(5) S. 119)

The assessee, a charitable institution registered under section 12A, inadvertently filed Form No. 10AB under the wrong sub-clause while seeking approval under section 80G(5). The Commissioner (Exemptions) rejected the application holding that the earlier provisional approval was invalid as the assessee had already commenced its activities. The Tribunal held that filing the application under an incorrect provision was only a curable procedural defect. Following CBDT Circular No. 14 of 1955, it observed that the tax authorities are under a duty to assist the assessee in securing the relief to which it is otherwise entitled and should have permitted rectification instead of rejecting the application on a technical ground. The CIT(E) was directed to treat the application as one filed under the correct provision and grant approval after satisfying himself regarding the genuineness of the activities and fulfilment of the statutory conditions.

IIT Ropar Technology Business Incubator Foundation v. CIT (E) (2025) 128 ITR 86 (Amritsar)(Trib).

S. 80G : Donation-Approval-Application for final approval- Application filed six months before expiry of provisional approval- Within limitation. =General principles-Rules of procedure are intended to advance justice-Tribunal quashed the order and restored the matter to the CIT E) to consider the application on merits after granting an effective opportunity of hearing. [S.80G(5)]

The assessee-trust, originally registered in 1980, was granted provisional approval under section 80G and thereafter applied in Form No. 10AB for regular approval before expiry of the provisional approval. The Commissioner (Exemption) rejected the application as time-barred on the ground that the trust had commenced its activities long before obtaining provisional approval. The Tribunal held that the application was governed by the first limb of clause (iii) of the proviso to section 80G(5), as it had been filed at least six months before expiry of the provisional approval, and not by the provision relating to commencement of activities. Holding that procedural provisions are intended to advance justice and not to penalise a litigant, the Tribunal quashed the order and restored the matter to the CIT(E) to consider the application on merits after granting an effective opportunity of hearing. (AY. 2004-05)

Agrasain Bhawan Trust (Regd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 516 (Delhi)(Trib.).

S. 80G: Donation-Charitable as well as religious objects-Trust applies less than 5 per cent of its income towards religious purposes-Matter is restored to the CIT(E) to consider the grant of registration after carrying out necessary verification in accordance with law. [S.80G(5) 80G(5B), Expiation 3.]

Tribunal held that registration under S. 80G(5) cannot be denied to the assessee only on the ground that two of its objects are of "religious" nature when there are several other objects; since the CIT(E) did not call for the necessary details with regard to expenditure incurred by the assessee on religious purposes to ascertain whether such expenditure was within the 5 per cent exemption limit provided under S.. 80G(5), matter is restored to the CIT(E) to consider the grant of registration under S. 80G afresh after carrying out necessary verification in accordance with law.

Vismruti Social & Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 235 TTJ 590 / 172 taxmann.com 582 ((Ahd)(Trib)

S. 80G : Donation-Charitable or religious trust-Registration-Rejection of application-CIT (E)-Failure to deal with the material placed on the record-Order of CIT(E) is set aside.[S.80G(5)]

Held that Assessee's detailed reply dt. 27th Nov., 2024, in response to the show-cause notice issued by the CIT(E), wherein the nature of the trust's activities, the interpretation of its object clause, and the absence of any religious activity or expenditure were specifically explained, was not considered by the CIT(E). Tribunal set aside the rejection of the assessee's application, and the matter is restored to the file of the CIT(E) for fresh adjudication in accordance with law.

Shri Umedkumari Mandir Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 236 TTJ 737/ 175 taxmann.com 406 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 80G : Donation-Recognition of institution, etc-CIT(E) has not brought any material on record to show that the activities of the assessee trust are not genuine or the conditions as specified above are not fulfilled by the assessee-trust-CIT(E) is directed to grant approval under s. 80G to the assessee-trust. [S.11, 12A, 80G(5)]

Held that while dealing with application for grant of approval under s. 80G(5) the scope of enquiry by the CIT(E) extends only to examination of the genuineness of the activities of the trust/institution and the fulfillment of conditions laid down in cls. (i) to (v) of s. 80G(5) and not the actual computation of surplus; issue whether the receipts in the form of tuition and other fees and hostel fees do not fall under the definition of donation are not at all relevant; CIT(E) is directed to grant approval under s. 80G to the assessee-trust.

Academy of Liberal Education v. CIT(E) (2025) 237 TTJ 366 / 176 taxmann.com 675 (Bang) Trib)

S. 80G : Donation-Medical relief to the poor in rural areas-Rejection of application by CIT(E) is set aside and directed to approve. [S.2(15),80G(5)]

Held that the medical facilities provided at nominal prices to the patients in rural areas are eligible to be a charitable activity. CIT(E) has erred in rejecting the application for approval. The rejection order was set aside, and the CIT(E) was directed to grant approval.

Matha Medical Centre Trust v. CIT(E) (2025) 237 TTJ 613 (Chennai)(Trib)

S. 80G : Donation-Composite charitable and religious trust-Approval cannot be denied if religious expenditure does not exceed 5%.-Matter was remanded. [S. 80G(5), 80G(5B)]

The Tribunal held that even a composite trust having both charitable and religious objects is eligible for approval under section 80G where expenditure incurred for religious purposes does not exceed the limit prescribed under section 80G(5B). The mere existence of certain religious objects does not disentitle the trust from approval. Since the CIT (E) failed to examine the assessee's claim under section 80G(5B), the matter was restored for verification of whether the religious expenditure was within the statutory limit and for grant of approval accordingly.

Shree Sthanak Vasi Jain Sanghji Vrajpark v. CIT (E) (2025) 238 TTJ 327 (Ahd.)(Trib.).

S. 80G : Donation-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-Eligible donation-Deduction allowable-Receipts not produced-Matter remanded for verification.[S. 37(1)]

The Assessing Officer denied deduction under section 80G on the ground that the donations formed part of Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure. The Tribunal held that Explanation 2 to section 37(1) merely prohibits deduction of CSR expenditure as business expenditure and does not bar deduction otherwise allowable under section 80G. Donations qualifying under section 80G are eligible for deduction notwithstanding that they also constitute CSR expenditure. The assessee claimed deduction under section 80G in respect of certain donations but failed to produce the supporting receipts before the Assessing Officer. The Tribunal restored the issue to the Assessing Officer for verification of the receipts and fulfilment of the statutory conditions for allowing the deduction. (AY. 2020-21).

Amway India Enterprises (P.) Ltd. v. NFAC (2025) 127 ITR 642 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Charitable institution-Registration-Application filed under wrong clause-Technical error not fatal-Registration directed.[S. 12AA, 80G(5)(vi)]

The assessee, an existing charitable institution registered under section 12AA, applied for approval under section 80G in Form No. 10AB by mistakenly referring to the clause applicable to newly established institutions. The Tribunal held that the assessee fulfilled all the substantive conditions for grant of approval and that the application had been filed within the extended time prescribed by the CBDT. A mere reference to the wrong clause could not defeat the substantive benefit. The Commissioner (Exemptions) was directed to treat the application as one filed under the appropriate clause applicable to existing institutions and grant regular registration under section 80G. (AY. 2024-25).

Society for Technology Business Incubator v. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 719 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Corporate Social Responsibility-Donation to approved institutions-Deduction cannot be denied merely because expenditure forms part of CSR activities. [S. 37, Companies Act, 2013, S. 135]

The Assessing Officer denied deduction under section 80G in respect of donations made to approved institutions on the ground that they formed part of the assessee's Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure. The Tribunal held that there is no statutory prohibition against allowing deduction under section 80G merely because the expenditure is disallowable as CSR expenditure under section 37. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether the statutory conditions for deduction under section 80G were fulfilled. (AY. 2017-18).

Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India Pvt. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 567 / (2025) 129 ITR 6 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Deduction-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-No bar to deduction if conditions of section 80G are fulfilled.[S. 37(1)]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 80G in respect of donations forming part of its Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure. The Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals) disallowed the claim on the ground that CSR expenditure was mandatory under the Companies Act, 2013 and could not be regarded as a voluntary donation. The Tribunal held that there is no correlation between the disallowance contemplated under Explanation 2 to section 37(1) and the deduction available under section 80G. The mandatory character of CSR expenditure does not disentitle an assessee from claiming deduction under section 80G if the statutory conditions are otherwise satisfied. Accordingly, the disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2020-21).

Cheil India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2024] 169 taxmann.com 507 / (2025) 122 ITR 194 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure-Donation to charitable institution-Deduction allowable.-Appeal to Appellate Tribunal-Co-ordinate Bench decision-Binding precedent.[S. 254(1)]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 80G in respect of donations made towards its Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) obligations. The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim and the Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed the disallowance. The Tribunal held that the issue was squarely covered by the decision of the co-ordinate Bench in Interglobe Technology Quotient (P.) Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2024) 114 ITR 611(Delhi)(Trib.), wherein it was held that CSR donations otherwise qualifying under section 80G are eligible for deduction. Following the binding precedent, the disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2018-19).

Ratna Sagar (P.) Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 18 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-Deduction under section 80G allowable notwithstanding disallowance under section 37(1).[S. 37(1), Expln. 2]

The Assessing Officer denied deduction under section 80G on the ground that the contribution formed part of Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure and was not allowable under Explanation 2 to section 37(1). The Tribunal held that the prohibition contained in Explanation 2 to section 37(1) is confined to computation of business income and does not bar a deduction otherwise admissible under section 80G. Since the donations did not fall within the statutory exclusions contained in section 80G(2)(a), the assessee was entitled to deduction under section 80G. (AY. 2018-19).

Mankind Pharma Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 235 / (2025) 125 ITR 263 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Rejection of application was set aside-Matter was remanded to the file of CIT(E) to examine the accounts of three preceding years-In case there are no expenses exceeding 5 per cent on religious activities, approval under s. 80G(5) is allowable to the assessee if the assessee fulfils all other conditions. [S.11AA(2)(g), 12A, 12AB, 80G(5)]

CIT(E) rejected the assessee's application for regular approval under S. 80G(5) by holding that it is not purely a charitable trust, without recording any finding that there is a violation of R. 11AA(2)(g). Tribunal restored back to the CIT(E) to examine the accounts of three preceding years; in case there are no expenses exceeding 5 per cent on religious activities, approval under s. 80G(5) is allowable to the assessee if the assessee fulfils all other conditions.

Shri Navsari Modh Vanik Panch v. CIT (E) (2025) 234 TTJ 328/175 taxmann.com 822 (Surat) (Trib)

S. 80G : Donation-Knowledge based spiritual programs-Promote high moral values and not rituals or religious practices-Rejection of application by CIT E) was set aside for re-examination. [S.80G(5)(iii)]

CIT E) rejected the application for registration on the ground that the objects of the trust deed were found to be religious in nature. Tribunal held that the object is organising knowledge-based and spiritual programs intended to promote high moral values, and not rituals or religious practices. The matter was to be remanded for re-examination.

Prayatna Charitable Trust. v.CIT(E) (2025) 215 ITD 26 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Mentioning wrong code-Rectified by filing another Form 10AB-Rejection application by CIT E) was set aside. [S.80G(5), Form No 10AB]

CIT(E) rejected the application for registration on the ground that the assessee had mentioned the wrong code in the original application, though the assessee rectified the same by filing another Form 10AB, within the time extended by CBDT Circular No. 7 of 2024 dated 25-4-2024 and even before the original form was considered and an order passed by CIT(E). Tribunal set aside the order of CIT(E) directed to consider assessee's application seeking approval under section 80G(5)

Radhe Krushna Gau Sala Trust.v.CIT(E) (2025) 215 ITD 32 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Rejection of application on the ground that the objects were religious and it had expended more than 5 per cent of its income on religious activities without considering the assessee's explanation of the assessee-Matter was remanded to the file of CIT E) for fresh examination of submission and grant approval if found eligible. [S.80G(5), 80G(5B)]

CIT(E) rejected the application of the assessee-trust for grant of approval under section 80G(5) on the ground that its objects were religious in nature and it had expended more than 5 per cent of its income on religious activities, which was a clear violation of provisions of sections 80G(5) and 80G(5B). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since CIT(E) had not considered assessee's explanation pointing out the inapplicability of section 80G(5B) to the facts of the case, the matter was to be remanded back to him for fresh examination of the assessee's submissions and grant of approval, if found eligible.

Sthanakvasi Jain Sangh Jivrajpark. v. CIT (2025) 215 ITD 213 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Rejection of application-Claimed exemption in earlier years-Claiming exemption in prior years does not debar a trust from seeking approval under section 80G(5)-Rejection order was quashed. [S.11, 80G(5)(iv)(B)]

CIT(E) rejected the application seeking approval under section 80G(5) on the ground that assessee had already claimed exemption of its income under section 11 in earlier assessment years, and thus, its case did not fall within the ambit of section 80G(5)(iv)(B). Tribunal held that since the amendment brought by the Finance Act, 2024, only clarifies that claiming exemption in prior years does not debar a trust from seeking approval under section 80G(5), the rejection order was quashed by CBDT Circular No. 1/2024 dated 23-1-2024.

Akshat Education and Charitable Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 483 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Delay in filing application-Order of CIT(E) rejection of application was set aside and directed to treat application as having been filed under clause (iv)(B) of first proviso to section 80G(5)[S. 80G(5)(iv)(B)]

Assessee charitable/religious trust, having been granted provisional registration under section 80G(5) for a period of three years, filed an application on 31-7-2024 for the grant of approval under section 80G(5). CIT(E) rejected as not maintainable on the ground that the application was filed after the cut-off date of 30-6-2024 prescribed by CBDT Circular No.7/2024 dated 25-4-2024. Tribunal held that section 80G had been amended by insertion of clause (iv) in first proviso to section 80G(5) by Finance Act, 2024 with effect from 1-10-2024 to enable assessee trust to apply for approval under section 80G(5) at any time after commencement of its activities, since order of CIT(E) rejecting application was passed on 27-1-2025 after amendment had come into force, order was set aside and CIT(E) was directed to treat application filed on 31-7-2024 as having been filed under clause (iv)(B) of first proviso to section 80G(5) and decide same in accordance with law. (AY. 2025-26)

Foundation for Friendly Environment & Medical Awareness. v. CIT (E) (2025) 215 ITD 410 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Promoting education in Gujarat-Company not-for-profit-Rejection of application by CIT(E)-Order of rejection was set aside, and the matter was restored to the file of CIT(E), with a direction to examine assessee's application afresh on merits in accordance with law [S. 11, 12, Companies Act, 2013, S. 8, Form 10AB, R. 11AA]

Assessee sought approval to enable donors to claim a deduction under section 80G. It had earlier been granted provisional approval under clause (i) via Form No. 10AC, valid from Assessment Year 2022-23. On 30.06.2024, it filed an application in Form No. 10AB seeking approval under clause (iii). CIT(E) rejected the application without going into the merits, recording that an existing approval under clause (i) via Form No. 10AC was valid from Assessment Year 2022-23 and concluding that fresh application under clause (iii) was non-maintainable. On appeal the Tribunal held that on a plain reading of statutory provisions and Rule 11AA, assessee's earlier approval in Form No. 10AC was provisional and was valid only for a limited period, and law specifically mandates that such provisional approval must be followed by a fresh application in Form No. 10AB for regular approval under clause (iii) once activities have commenced or before expiry of the provisional period. Therefore, the assessee's application was both proper and maintainable under the scheme of the Act, and the reasoning of CIT(E) that the existence of provisional approval rendered the fresh application redundant was contrary to the intent and framework of the amended law. Further, since CIT(E) denied an effective opportunity to be heard to the assessee, it amounted to a violation of principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the order was set aside, and the matter was restored to the file of CIT(E), with a direction to examine the assessee's application afresh on merits in accordance with law.

Niravadya Foundation.CIT(E) (2025) 215 ITD 446 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Wrong clause-Rejection solely on this basis was improper since an opportunity to rectify, or suo motu consideration under the correct clause, should have been provided. The presence of an object enabling application of funds outside India does not bar 80G registration if eligibility otherwise exists.[S. 12A, 80G(5), Form No 10AB]

Assessee, a charitable trust engaged in education and sports promotion, held registration under section 12A and had been granted provisional approval under section 80G valid up to Assessment Year 2024-25. It filed Form 10AB seeking regularisation of provisional approval, but in the first application, it mistakenly mentioned clause (ii) instead of clause (iii) of the first proviso to section 80G(5). CIT(E) rejected the first application as non-maintainable on that ground. Assessee then filed a fresh application under the correct clause, which CIT(E) rejected as not filed within the prescribed time, and not examined on merits. On appeal, the Tribunal held that mere mention of the wrong section could not be a ground for rejecting registration under section 80G unless the assessee was otherwise not eligible. The Tribunal further held that the CIT(E) ought to have allowed the assessee to rectify the mistake i.e. mentioning of the appropriate clause, or even could have suo motu passed an order treating said application under the relevant clause in section 80G(5). Tribunal also held that having an object clause in the trust deed which enables potential application of funds outside India was not a condition under section 80G(5), and therefore, the same could not be a reason for denial of registration under section 80G if assessee was otherwise eligible. Accordingly, the matter was remitted back to CIT(E) to consider the application for registration under section 80G on merits by calling for relevant details and to consider the same in accordance with the law. (AY. 2026-27)

Nilesh Kulkarni Foundation. v. CIT(E) (2025) 215 ITD 524 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) funds-Eligible for deduction.

Held that the Assessee would be eligible for claim of deductions under section 80G for eligible donations made out of its Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) funds, if stipulated conditions of section 80G were duly satisfied.(AY. 2020-21)

Hemani Industries Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 214 ITD 520 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Welfare trust-38.53% of income was spent on religious activities, exceeding the 5% limit, and it failed to provide evidence of charitable activities like education or health-Rejection of application by CIT(E) was justified.[S.80G(5)(iii)]

Assessee-trust made an application for approval under section 80G(5)(iii), claiming that it was a non-religious, welfare-oriented organisation. CIT(E) rejected said application and also cancelled provisional registration on ground that the trust was a religious trust, and it had integrated religious instances over and above 5 per cent of total income in violation of section 80G(5)(iii). On appeal the Tribunal held that as per requirement of section 80G(5)(iii), only 5% religious expenditure is allowable but in assessee's case, said religious expenditure was almost 38.53% and assessee had accepted that trust was promoting certain religious activities without giving any supporting evidences to substantiate activities such as education expenditure, health expenditure, as mentioned in clause of trust deed and trust had also not given any details related to expenditure incurred on actual charitable purposes. Further, assessee had not given any details about educational, health or environmental institutions which were run by the trust for charitable purposes and which were beneficial to society at large without any distinction of religion, caste, creed or gender. Accordingly, the order of the CIT(E) rejection of the application was affirmed.

Yuva Gayatri Pariwar Trust. v. CIT(E) (2025) 214 ITD 570 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Rejection of application-Selection of wrong code-Principles of natural justice-Matter was to be remitted to CIT(E) with direction to consider application as filed under correct clause and consider it afresh on merits. [S.80G(5), Form No 10AB]

CIT(E) rejected the application on the grounds of incorrect selection of a clause in Form 10AB. Tribunal held that due to technical difficulties and absence of opportunity of being heard, it constituted a violation of principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to CIT(E) with a direction to consider the application as filed under the correct clause (iii) and decide afresh if the assessee was otherwise eligible.

Shree Fofaria Family Charitable Trust. v. CIT (2025) 214 ITD 744 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-CSR expenditure-Entitled to deduction even if the amount was donated under CSR expenses.[S.37(1), 80G(2)(iihk), 80G(2) (iihI), Companies Act, 2013, S.135]

Assessee made a donation of Rs. 3 crore to a charitable institution under its CSR initiative and claimed a deduction of 50 per cent of the same under section 80G. Assessing Officer disallowed the same on the ground that as per section 135 of the Companies Act, 2013, expenditure under CSR was mandatory and, thus, same could not be allowed as deduction under section 80G. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that since it is specifically mentioned in section 80G that no deduction is allowable in two instances namely; contribution towards Swachh Bharat Kosh (Clean India Fund) and Clean Ganga Fund, CSR expenditure is not allowable under section 80G(2)(a)(iihk) and (iihl), however, provisions of section 80G are not applicable to other CSR expenditure. Thus, the assessee would be entitled to a deduction under section 80G even if the amount was donated under CSR expenses. (AY. 2018-19)

SREI Equipment Finance Ltd. v. CIT (Appeals) (2025) 214 ITD 769 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Error in filing of Form 10AB-Matter remanded back for de novo consideration [S 11, 12, 80G(5)(iv)(B)]

Tribunal held the CIT(E) was not justified in rejecting the application for approval due to an inadvertent error in filing of Form 10AB, wherein the application was made under incorrect sub-clause (B) of clause (iv) of first proviso to subsection (5) of section 80G instead of clause (iii) of the first proviso to subsection (5). The matter was remanded back to Commissioner (E) for de novo consideration.

Aatman Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 8 (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 80G: Donation-Medical relief-Medical facilities-Lab testing facility-Charitable activity-Eligible for approval.[S. 2(15), 11, 80G(5)]

Allowing the appeal against the rejection of the application by CIT E) the Tribunal held that medical facilities provided at nominal prices to patients in rural areas were eligible to be a charitable activity for considering it as medical relief as per section 2(15). The CIT(E) had erred in rejecting the application for approval under section 80G by stating that the activity of the trust was commercial in nature.

Matha Medical Centre Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025] 213 ITD 76/237 TTJ 613 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Non-compliance on notices-Failure to give sufficient opportunity-Matter remanded to CIT (E). [S.11, 12A, 80G(5)]

CIT(E) rejected applications for registration under section 12A and 80G on the ground of non-compliance with notices by the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since assessee was not given a proper and sufficient opportunity to explain its case, the matter was to be remanded to provide one more opportunity to the assessee.

Sai Seva Sansthan. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 12 (Lucknow) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Bona fide error-Selecting sub-clause (iv) instead of sub-clause (ii)-Matter was remanded to the CIT(E) to grant approval. [S.10(23C), 11, 12, 80G(5)(iv)(B), Form 10AB]

Assessee-trust, while submitting an application for approval under section 80G in Form 10AB, made a bona fide error of selecting sub-clause (iv) instead of sub-clause (ii) of the proviso to section 80G(5). On appeal, the Tribunal remitted back to CIT(E) to consider the application under clause (ii) and thereafter grant approval accordingly, if the assessee was otherwise found eligible.

Senior Citizen Council Gandhinagar. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 16 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-University-Approved under section 10(23C)(vi)-Nature of activities of assessee being charitable in nature could not be disputed while granting approval under section 80G(5)-Order of Commissioner rejecting the application was quashed and set aside. [S.10(23C)(vi, 80G(5))]

Assessee, a private university, was established under the Telangana State Private Universities (Establishment and Regulation) Act, 2020. Assessee was allowed said recognition solely for the reason that the charitable activity of education was to be carried out by it. Assessee was approved under section 10(23C)(vi). The assessee filed an application for approval under section 80G(5) of the Act. CIT(E) denied approval on the ground that assessee failed to produce proof of expenditure to establish the charitable nature of its activities. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had a campus spreading over 107 acres of land wherein more than 4000 students were enrolled, and 240 faculty members were working to provide education to students. Since the assessee had satisfied the conditions for grant of approval under section 10(23C)(vi), the nature of activities of the assessee being charitable in nature could not be disputed while granting approval under section 80G(5) unless it was found that the assessee had carried out activities in contrary to the objects or activities of the assessee were found to be not genuine. Since CIT(E) had summarily rejected the application without giving a definite finding of fact, the matter was to be remanded back to CIT(E) for reconsideration of the application. Matter remanded. (AY. 2025-26)

Mahindra University. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 153 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Delay of 27 days in filing application for registration-Delay condoned and matter was remanded back to CIT (E) for fresh adjudication. [S. 12A]

CIT(E) rejected assessee's application for grant of approval under section 80G on the ground that assessee did not have valid registration under section 12A, the application was filed belatedly, and full details of activities, beneficiaries and expenses were not furnished. Tribunal held that there was a minor delay of 27 days in light of CBDT Circular No. 7/2024, dated 25-4-2024, extending the date for such application; the issue was to be remanded back to CIT (E) for fresh adjudication (AY. 2025-26)

Baburao Chandere Social Foundation. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 433 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Scope of enquiry-While dealing with application for grant of approval under section 80G scope extends only to satisfaction of genuineness of activities of such trust/institutions and fulfilment of all conditions laid down in clauses (i) to (v) of section 80G(5)-It does not cover examination of surplus accumulation or its utilization-Rejection of application was set aside.[S.12A, 80G(5)]

Assessee-trust was registered under section 12A. It applied for approval under section 80G. CIT(E) rejected the application on the ground that the assessee-trust reported surplus every year, which was not utilised towards charitable purposes, and it had been accumulated in FDs and received interest income. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the scope of enquiry by CIT(E) while dealing with an application for grant of approval under section 80G extends only to satisfaction of genuineness of activities of such trust/institutions and fulfilment of all conditions laid down in clauses (i) to (v) of section 80G(5) and not actual computation of surplus. Since the activities of the assessee-trust were genuine and it fulfilled all conditions for approval under section 80G. CIT (E) was directed to grant approval under section 80G of the Act.

City Hospital Charitable Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 213 ITD 399 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-CSR expenses-allowable as a deduction. [S. 37(1)]

Held that the contribution as CSR expenses is allowable as a deduction.
(AY. 2012-13)

DCIT v. Hinduja Global Solutions Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 453 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Granted registration under section 12AB-Application for approval under section 80G(5) cannot be denied-Matter remanded. [S.80G(5)]

The Assessee filed an application for approval under section 80G(5). CIT (E) denied approval on the ground that no substantial charitable activities were being carried out by the assessee-trust. On appeal, the Tribunal held that CIT(E) had not discussed the record filed by the assessee showing activities carried out by it as well as the record filed by the assessee at the time of seeking registration under section 12AB. Tribunal held that since the assessee had already been granted registration under section 12AB and had also responded to notices issued by CIT€, the matter was to be remanded to CIT(E) for reconsideration of the application for approval under section 80G(5) of the Act (AY. 2025-26)

Veedhi Balala Sneha Sangam. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 541 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Wrong selection of section code/clause in application-Rejection of application was set aside. [S.80G(5), Form No.10AB]

CIT(E) rejected the application on the ground that the assessee had selected the wrong section code while e-filing Form No. 10AB. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the wrong selection of the section code/clause would not disentitle the assessee to its rightful claim and could not be treated as fatal to proceedings initiated after the filing of the application. The matter was remanded to the file of CIT(E) with the direction to grant an opportunity to rectify the mistake and to decide on the merits.

Abhinav Shikshan Sanstha. v. CIT (2025) 213 ITD 619 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Time limit-Delay in filing of Form No 10B-CIT (E) rejected application on the ground that it was beyond the time limit prescribed for filing of Form No. 10AB-Commencement of activity-Matter was to remanded to CIT (E) for reconsideration of application on merits.[Form No 10AC]

Assessee was granted provisional registration/approval in Form No. 10AC on 22-6-2022, valid from assessment year 2023-24 to 2025-26. The assessee filed an application in Form No. 10AB seeking regular approval under section 80G on 30-9-2024, which was rejected by the CIT (E) on the ground that the assessee had made an application in Form 10AB beyond the time limit prescribed by the Finance Act, 2020 and Circular No. 7 of 2024. Tribunal held that the assessee had stated that it commenced its charitable activity with effect from the date of its registration, i.e. 22-6-2016; therefore, when the activities of assessee were commenced before provisional registration granted on 22-6-2022, then the limitation reckoned from the commencement of activity became irrelevant. The matter was remanded to the record of CIT(E) for reconsideration of the assessee's application for grant of regular registration/approval under section 80G on merits by considering all relevant facts, details and record.

KMV Foundation v.CIT(E) (2025) 213 ITD 582 (Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Provisional registration-Delay in filing Form No. 10AB-Technical glitch-Tribunal and CIT(E) empowered to condone the delay-Mere enabling clause to apply funds outside India cannot be ground to reject registration-Delay condoned-Matter restored to CIT(E) for fresh consideration on merits. [S. 11(1)(c), 12A(1)(ac)(iii), 80G(5)(iii), Form No. 10AB]

The assessee, is a charitable company registered under the Companies Act, was granted provisional registration under section 80G on 09.02.2022, valid up to A.Y. 2024-25. The assessee filed Form No. 10AB for regular registration on 03.08.2024, i.e., 33 days after the extended due date of 30.06.2024. The CIT(E) rejected the application as time-barred and further observed that certain clauses in the Memorandum of Association permitted application of funds outside India, allegedly violating section 11(1)(c). The assessee submitted that it was a small organisation without a full-time accountant and the delay occurred due to technical glitches on the income-tax portal. It also produced an affidavit and board resolution showing that steps had been initiated to amend the Memorandum to remove the offending clauses. The Tribunal observed that the assessee had filed Form No. 10AB before the end of A.Y. 2024-25 and, even assuming a delay, sufficient cause was shown. Relying on Swachh Vapi Mission Trust v. CIT(E) (2024) 160 taxmann.com 657 (Surat)(Trib.) and Saaksh Foundation v. CIT(E) (2024) 162 taxmann.com 474 (Mum)(Trib.), it was held that technical difficulties constitute reasonable cause and delay can be condoned to advance substantial justice. The Tribunal noted that it is the final fact-finding authority under section 254(1) and has power to condone such delay. After insertion of the proviso to section 12A(1)(ac)(iii) by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2024 w.e.f. 01.10.2024, even the CIT(E) is empowered to condone such delay. It was further held that mere inclusion of enabling clauses authorising application of funds outside India cannot be a ground to reject registration, particularly when the assessee has taken steps to amend its Memorandum. Such issues may be examined at the assessment stage. Accordingly, the delay of 33 days was condoned and the matter restored to the CIT(E) for fresh consideration on merits and to verify whether the amendment to the Memorandum has been duly effected. (Followed: Vaishya Welfare Gaushala v. UOI (2024) 167 taxmann.com 582 (Chh.)(HC); Sitaldas K. Motwani v. DGIT (2010) 323 ITR 223 (Bom)(HC); K.P. Varghese v. ITO (1981) 131 ITR 597 (SC)). (A.Y. 2024-25) (ITA No. 2617/Mum/2025, dt. 14.10.2025)

Mohanji Bharat Welfare Foundation v. CIT(E) (Mum.)(Trib.)
[www.itatonline.org]

S. 80G: Donation-Some objects were religious in nature-Not incurred any expenditure which was of religious nature-Mere use of words 'religious' or 'religion' in few objects of trust deed would not mean that trust was not for charitable purpose but was for religious purpose. [S.80G (5), Form No 10AB]

Assessee-trust filed an application for registration under section 80G. Commissioner (E) rejected the same on the ground that some objects of the assessee-trust were religious in nature; hence, assessee-trust was not established only for charitable purposes. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since assessee-trust had not incurred any expenditure which was of a religious nature, mere use of words 'religious' or 'religion' in a few objects of the trust deed would not mean that the trust was not for charitable purposes but was for religious purposes. The matter was remanded back to the Commissioner (E) to carry out verification as to whether 5 per cent of the total income of the assessee-trust was spent for religious purposes and thereafter to consider grant of registration in accordance with law.

Shree Mahavideh Charitable Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 587 (Surat) (Trib)

S. 80G: Donation-Deduction of 50% of CSR expenses-Receipts produced-Claim allowed [S. 37(1)]

The assessee disallowed CSR expenses under section 37(1) and claimed deduction under section 80G at 50% of the amount donated. The AO rejected the claim, but the Tribunal held that since valid donation receipts were produced, deduction under section 80G was allowable. (AYs. 2018-19 to 2020-21)

DCIT v. Gabriel India Ltd. (2025) 212 ITD 468 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Rejection of application-Non-service of notice-Matter remanded [S. 80G(5), 282]

The Commissioner (E) rejected the assessee's application for 80G registration citing non-compliance with notices issued through the portal. The Tribunal held that no notice was served by email or post, nor was proper communication made. The matter was remanded for fresh consideration on merits.

Sharan Foundation v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 463 (Amritsar)(Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Issue linked with registration u/s 12A-Matter remanded.[S.12A]

The assessee-trust's application for registration u/s 80G was rejected by the Commissioner (E). Since the Tribunal had already remanded the assessee's application for registration u/s 12A to the Commissioner (E) for reconsideration, it held that the approval u/s 80G, being dependent on 12A registration, must also be reconsidered. Held, issue of 80G approval remanded along with 12A registration. (AY. 2024-25)

Nanchahal Family Memorial Trust v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 372 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80G: Donation-Receipt of school bus fees, tuition fees and exam fees-Registration was granted-Approval under section 80G cannot be denied. [S. 2(15),11, 12, 12A, 13]

Assessee-trust was established for charitable purposes. It received school bus fees, tuition fees and exam fees. Commissioner (E) held that since said receipts did not fall under the definition of donation, assessee-trust was not eligible for approval under section 80G. On appeal, the Tribunal held that at time of granting approval under section 80G, authority had to satisfy herself that charitable institution was established in India for charitable purposes and that activities of assessee-trust were genuine. However, Commissioner (E) had not brought any material on record to show that assessee-trust activities were not genuine. Mere fact that assessee received school bus fees, tuition fees and exam fees, approval under section 80G could not be denied, specially when it was established for charitable purposes within meaning of section 2(15) and registration under section 12A had already been granted. Provisions of section 11 and 12 along with section 13 including application of fund collected by a charitable organization were to be examined during the course of assessment proceedings and not at the time of granting approval under section 80G. Tribunal has directed the Commissioner (E) to grant approval under section 80G of the Act. (AY. 2024-25)

Anugraha Education Trust. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 520 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Failure to furnish documents-Opportunity to be given. [S. 254(1), Form No 10AB]

The assessee filed an application in Form 10AB for approval u/s 80G. Commissioner (E) rejected it due to failure to submit crucial documents like intent letter for corpus donation, though the assessee had substantially complied with earlier notices. Tribunal observed that in the interest of justice, one more opportunity should be given to furnish missing documents. Matter remanded to Commissioner (E) for fresh decision.

Sultankhan Educational Trust v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 376 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Failure to file reply to discrepancies-Matter is remanded back Commissioner (Exemption) to grant one more opportunity of hearing. [S.11, 12A, 80G(5), Form No. 10AB]

Assessee-trust, running educational institutions, made an application in Form 10AB under sub-clause (B) of (iv) of first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 80G. Commissioner (E) held that assessee had regular registration under section 12A since 1994 and thus, provisions of sub-clause (B) of (iv) of first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 80G would not be applicable. CIT(E) issued notice to assessee with respect to certain discrepancies. However, assessee did not file any reply. Commissioner (E) rejected application for grant of approval under section 80G. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee did not furnish any explanation to discrepancies communicated to it, matter is remanded back to Commissioner (E) to give one final opportunity to assessee to substantiate its case by filing requisite details.

Dr. Vikhe Patil Foundation. v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 57 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Provisionally approved-Inadvertent and clerical error-Matter remanded to Commissioner (E) to grant an opportunity to assessee to file revised application under clause (iii) of first proviso to section 80G(5). [S.80G(5)]

Assessee-trust was provisionally approved under section 80G. It filed an application for approval under clause (ii) of first proviso to section 80G(5). Commissioner (E) rejected said application on ground that assessee was required to file application under clause (iii) of first proviso to section 80G(5). On appeal the Tribunal held that since error committed by assessee was merely inadvertent and clerical, matter hence the matter is remanded to Commissioner (E) to grant an opportunity to assessee to file revised application under clause (iii) of first proviso to section 80G(5). (AY. 2025-26)

Subharma Charitable Trust. v. CIT (E) (2025) 212 ITD 44 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Wrongly applied for provisional registration under new regime-Matter remanded to the Commissioner (E) for de novo adjudication. [S.80G(5),Form No.10AB]

Assessee-trust was granted provisional registration under sub-clause (A) of clause (iv) of first proviso to section 80G. Assessee filed an application in Form No.10AB under clause (ii) of first proviso to section 80G(5) seeking approval under section 80G. Commissioner (E) rejected application on ground that application was filed under wrong section. On appeal the assessee contended that it was registered under section 80G since its incorporation and wrongly applied for provisional registration under new regime. Tribunal held that since assessee was already an approved trust, application was rightly made by assessee under clause (ii) of first proviso to section 80G(5), and grant of provisional approval could not be sole basis for rejecting same. Matter is remanded to Commissioner (E) for de novo adjudication. (AY. 2025-26)

Sheth Vijilal Laxmidas Tribvondas Kesar Bai Jijilal Poona Convalcent Home. v. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 205 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Registration-Mentioning of wrong section-Matter is remanded to the file of CIT(E) with a direction to grant final approval to assessee under clause (iii) of the first proviso to section 80G(5), if assessee was otherwise found eligible.[S.80G(5), Form 10AB]

The assessee filed an application for final registration under section 80G(5). Commissioner (E) rejected the said application on the ground that assessee was not fulfilling the stipulated conditions prescribed for filing an application for approval in Form 10AB. On appeal, the assessee submitted that it had inadvertently mentioned the wrong section as sub-clause (B) of clause (iv) of the first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 80G instead of clause (iii) of the first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 80G. Further, the assessee did not have an opportunity of being heard before the Commissioner (E) due to incorrect advice, which otherwise assessee might have explained facts to avoid the impugned rejection. Tribunal set aside the order of the CIT(E) and directed the CIT (E) to grant final approval to assessee under clause (iii) of the first proviso to section 80G(5), if the assessee was otherwise found eligible. (AY. 2024-25)

Rotary Charity Trust. v. CIT (2025) 211 ITD 297 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Rejection of application-Violation of natural justice-Matter is remanded back to CIT(E). [S.80G(5)(iv)(B)]

Assessee-trust had applied for registration under section 80G of the ACT. Commissioner (E) rejected the assessee's application on a technical ground that the application was not filed under the correct provisions of the Act. On appeal, the Tribunal held that necessary information sought was duly submitted by the assessee from time to time, since the principle of natural justice had been violated by taking action against assessee without confronting it about the reasons for such rejection. Matter is remanded to CIT(E) to decide the issue in accordance with law. (AY. 2024-25)

Bhagwan Mahaveer Jain Relief Trust. v.CIT(E) (2025) 211 ITD 454 (Raipur) (Trib.)

S. 80G : Donation-Cancellation of approval-Details of FCRA funds utilization for assessment years 2021-22 to 2023-24 to meet out its objects-Cancellation of registration is set aside. [S.80G(5)]

Commissioner (E) cancelled approval under section 80G(5) granted to assessee-trust on ground that funds of assessee-trust were lying idle year-to-year in bank accounts/FDRs without its actual utilization. On appeal the assessee contended that funds were being utilized for objects of assessee-trust. Tribunal held that the assessee trust had placed on record details of FCRA funds utilization for assessment years 2021-22 to 2023-24 to meet out its objects by complying with statutory requirements under Act. Order of cancellation is set aside.

Tiger Research and Conservation Trust. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 441 (Nagpur) (Trib.)

S. 80GGB: Contribution-Companies-Political parties-Remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for verification. [Finance Act, 2017, Companies Act, 2013, S. 182]

Assessee made a political contribution of Rs. 2 crores to BJP and claimed the entire amount as a deduction under section 80GGB-Assessing Officer restricted deduction to Rs. 15.51 lakhs. Commissioner (Appeals) restricted deduction under section 80GGB to Rs. 23 lakhs, being 7.5 per cent of average net profits of the immediately preceding three financial years. On appeal, the Assessee contended that the restriction of 7.5 per cent of average net profits was no longer applicable as the Finance Act, 2017, with effect from 31.03.2017, deleted the first proviso to section 182 of the Companies Act, 2013, which restricted political contribution to 7.5 per cent of average profits of the immediately preceding three financial years. Tribunal considering the section 80GGB and amendments to the Companies Act, 2013, the issue was remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer to allow deduction under section 80GGB in accordance with prevailing law. (AY. 2018-19)

Centum Finance Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 213 ITD 269 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 80GGC : Contribution-Any person-Political parties-Political party not genuine, not existing online, not responding to official notices, not filing required financial reports to the Election Commission for several years, and its own return showing nil contributions received-No certified documents furnished-Political party an unrecognised political party-Deduction rightly disallowed. [S. 133(6)]

Assessee claimed deduction under section 80GGC of Rs. 50 lakhs, being nearly half of his GTI of Rs. 1,08,83,909, towards contribution to a political party which, on verification under section 133(6), was found untraceable online, non-responsive to notices, and had not filed required financial reports or Form 24A to the Election Commission for seven years, and whose own return showed nil voluntary contributions received during the year, leading AO to disallow the claim, which was confirmed by CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had failed to explain how he came into contact with the political party or the reason for making such a huge donation, had furnished no fresh evidence beyond what was placed before AO, and had not filed any certified documents to substantiate the bank statement or receipts produced, and since the donee was found to be an unrecognised political party with no evidence of any political activity, the disallowance of the deduction was rightly upheld. (AY. 2016-17)

Jayeshkumar Gopalbhai Akbari v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 407 (Surat) (Trib.)

S. 80HHC : Export business-Total turnover-Excise duty, custom duty, windmill power receipts-Not part of turnover. [S.260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the court held that excise duty, custom duty, windmill power receipts. Not part of turnover.(AY. 1996-97)

CIT v. Ramco Cements Ltd. [2025] 481 ITR 705 / 173 taxmann.com 226 (Mad)(HC)

S. 80HHC : Export business-Search and seizure-Block assessment-Genuine export sales-Order of Tribunal allowing the benefit was affirmed. [S. 132, 158BC, 260A.]

Court held that it was a case of succession and books of account and audit report of the proprietorship concern had continued from the concern and since the statement of account was available which was filed with the return of income of the company, the report of such audit in the prescribed form should not be rejected simply because it was filed along with return of the company which had succeeded the proprietorship concern. Such factual findings had not been displaced with the help of any relevant and cogent evidence by the Department. No question of law arose.(BP. 1-4-1989 to 14-7 1999)

PCIT v. Arun Malhotra (2025) 475 ITR 217 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 80I : Industrial undertaking-For computing deduction under section 80I, it would be necessary to give effect to, and factor in, deduction allowed under section 33AC and if result of such deduction under section 33AC was that there was no profit from ship-Deduction under section 80I is allowable-Shipping business-

Reserves-Reserve created to be primarily used for acquiring new ship-Cannot partake character of profit-Deduction inextricably linked to business of shipping with direct nexus to shipping operations brought out in provision itself-Total income-Income from capital gains and other sources contribute merely in computation of scale of cap on deduction-Profits of ship to be given effect to and factored in for computation of deduction under Sectionm80I-Provision for creating reserve to acquire new ship-Amendment not applicable to relevant assessment years prior to effective date-Proportionate allocation-Court cannot provide own basis and proportions for apportionment in appeal-Interpretation of meaning of word Ship in provision.[S.80I(3), 80I(6),260A]

Dismissing the appeals, the Court held that the deduction under section 33AC was towards creating a reserve in order to acquire a new ship and was not linked to whether shipping operations had yielded a profit, but linked to enabling acquisition of a new ship for business purposes, i. e., purely for shipping business operations. That the usage of the phrase total income in section 33AC enabled indicating the numerical cap applicable to the allowance amount. No allowance could have been claimed in excess of the total income. That the Tribunal was right in noticing that the amendment of 1996 was only in connection with the computation of the cap on the amount of the allowance and did not throw any fresh light on interpretation of the provisions of section 33AC that existed prior to the amendment (between 1991 and 1993). The deduction allowed under section 33AC was directly linked to shipping operations and aimed at sustaining earnings from shipping operations (by enabling a reserve in order to acquire a new ship). A deduction for such purpose, not only met the nexus test, but was also reasonable, logical and commercially commonsensical. That by the very design of section 33AC, there was a nexus between the deduction allowed under section 33AC and the shipping business operations. That the reference to a ship would need to be regarded as a reference to any ship that qualifies under section 80-I(1) which uses the phrase to which this section applies. Section 80-I(3) provides that the section would apply to any ship that meets the three criteria stipulated in that sub-section. Therefore, applying section 80-I(6), the qualifying ship PD must be treated as the only source of income, but it could not be stated that the reserve created under section 33AC could never be attributed to the ship PD. It would not be possible to make adjustments at this stage by apportionment between qualifying and non-qualifying ships and the court could not provide the basis and proportions for such apportionment in an appeal under section 260A.(AY.1992-93, 1993-94)

Tolani Ltd. v.Dy. CIT (2025)472 ITR 121/ 165 taxmann.com 697 /344 CTR 11 / 247 DTR 198 (Bom)(HC)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Does not restrict computation of gross total income-Restricts deduction under any other provision under heading C to extent of deduction claimed under section 80IA-The aggregate deduction under section 80IA and other provisions under heading C of Chapter VI-A do not exceed 100 per cent. of the profits of the business of the assessee, is logical and correct. [S. 4(1), 80AB, 80B(5), 80HHC, 80IA(9), Chap. VI-A.]

The different High Courts have taken different view as regards deduction under section 80HHC of the Act. The High Court of Bombay in Associated Capsules Pvt. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT, (2011) 332 ITR 42 (Bom)(HC) has decided the case in favour of assessee and where as a different view has taken by the High Court of Delhi in Great Eastern Exports v.CIT (2011) 332 ITR 14 (Delhi)(HC) Group of appeals has been referred to a Bench of three judges in view the order dated December 10, 2015 in ACIT v. Micro Labs Ltd (2016) 380 ITR 1 (SC). The three judges bench held that the Bombay High Court's view in Associated Capsules Pvt. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT, (2011) 332 ITR 42 (Bom)(HC) that section 801A(9) does not affect the computability of deduction under various provisions under heading C of Chapter VI-A, but it affects the allowability of deductions computed under various provisions under heading C of Chapter VI-A, so that the aggregate deduction under section 80IA and other provisions under heading C of Chapter VI-A do not exceed 100 per cent. of the profits of the business of the assessee, is logical and correct. The court directed the registry to place the appeals before the appropriate Bench. (AY. 2002-03)

Shital Fibers Ltd. v. CIT (2025) 476 ITR 309/306 Taxman 103 /345 CTR 363 / 251 DTR 329 (Three Judges) (SC)

Editorial: Associated Capsules Pvt Ltd v.Dy.CIT (2011) 332 ITR 42 (Bom)(HC), approved. ACG Associated Capsules P. Ltd v.CIT(343 ITR 89 (SC), Difference of opinion between two judges, ACIT v. Micro Labs Ltd (2016) 380 ITR 1 (SC), ACIT v. Rogini Garments (2007) 294 ITR (AT) 15 (Chennai)(SB)(Trib)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Infrastructure facility-Interest on fixed deposits kept under contractual and business compulsion and interest on TDS refund-Direct nexus with eligible business of operating and maintaining port facility-Eligible for deduction. [S. 80IA(1), 80IA(4), 244A]

The assessee, Gateway Terminals India Pvt. Ltd., a joint venture between APM Terminals Mauritius Ltd. and Container Corporation of India Ltd., was engaged in operating a container terminal at JNPT under a BOT agreement, an eligible business u/s 80IA(4) of the Act. Pursuant to the licence agreement with JNPT, the assessee was under a mandatory obligation to replace major container handling equipment, including cranes, after a specified period and was required to plan for such replacement well in advance. Accordingly, the assessee set aside funds in fixed deposits for replacement of equipment. Further, pursuant to an interim order of the Bombay High Court in a tariff dispute with the Tariff Authority for Major Ports (TAMP), the assessee was permitted to collect higher tariffs subject to maintaining and safeguarding the differential amounts, which were also parked in fixed deposits. Interest earned on such fixed deposits was claimed as deduction under section 80IA. The assessee also received interest under section 244A on income-tax refunds arising from excess TDS wrongly deducted by its customers from port charges. The Assessing Officer denied deduction under section 80IA in respect of interest on TDS refund and the CIT(A), by way of enhancement, also denied deduction on interest from fixed deposits. The Tribunal upheld the disallowance. On appeal, the Bombay High Court held that the fixed deposits were not made for deployment of surplus or idle funds but were necessitated by contractual obligations under the licence agreement and by judicial directions in the tariff dispute. The placement of funds was imperative for carrying on the eligible business and had a direct and inextricable nexus with the operation and maintenance of the port facility. The Court further held that TDS wrongly deducted by customers constituted part of the assessee's business receipts and the consequent refund, together with interest thereon, was integrally connected with the eligible business. Had excess TDS not been deducted, such funds would have remained available for business purposes. Distinguishing Liberty India v. CIT (317 ITR 218)(SC), CIT v. Sterling Foods (237 ITR 579)(SC), Shah Originals v. CIT (459 ITR 385)(SC) and following CIT v. Karnataka State Co-operative Apex Bank (251 ITR 194)(SC), CIT v. Meghalaya Steels Ltd. (383 ITR 217)(SC), CIT v. Indo Swiss Jewels Ltd. (284 ITR 389)(Bom.) and PCIT v. Hiranandani Builders (ITA No.1413 of 2016, Bom HC), the Court held that where the interest income has a direct nexus with and arises from business compulsion connected with the eligible infrastructure activity, the same qualifies for deduction under section 80IA. Accordingly, deduction under section 80IA was allowable on both the interest earned on fixed deposits and the interest received on TDS refund. The order of the Tribunal was set aside, and the appeal of the assessee was allowed (AY. 2012-13)

Gateway Terminals India Pvt. Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 177 taxmann.com 707 /479 ITR 726 (Bom) (HC)

S. 80IA: Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Income tax refund-Interest on excess payment of tax-Income derived from eligible business-Eligible for deduction-No substantial question of law. [S. 260A]

The assessee, a developer of IT Parks and SEZ, claimed deduction u/s 80-IA not only on lease rental income (undisputedly eligible) but also on interest received on income tax refund arising from excess payment of tax. The Assessing Officer denied deduction, holding that such interest had no nexus with the eligible business. The CIT(A) and ITAT, however, held in assessee's favour. The High Court upheld the Tribunal's view. It observed that interest on excess tax paid was integrally connected with the assessee's business of leasing out premises in IT Parks and SEZ, since the payment and refund of income tax formed part of the same business cycle. The Tribunal had rightly concluded that such income can be said to have been derived from the assessee's eligible business, and therefore, deduction u/s 80IA was allowable. Accordingly, no substantial question of law arose, and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (ITA No.1413 of 2016, dt. 10-01-2019) (AY.2009-10)

PCIT (Central)-1 v. Hiranandani Builders,(Bom)(HC). (UR)
www.itatonline.org

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Infrastructure facility-Road projects-Developer vis-à-vis works contractor-Assessee undertaking development, rehabilitation, widening, upgradation and strengthening of roads under Government contracts-Eligible for deduction. [S. 80IA(4), 80IA(13)]

The assessee, Montecarlo Ltd., was engaged in execution of various infrastructure projects including road and canal projects awarded by Government authorities. For AY 2017-18, it claimed deduction under section 80IA(4) in respect of profits derived from such infrastructure development activities. The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim of ₹86.52 crore on the ground that the assessee was merely a contractor executing works contracts and was hit by the Explanation below section 80IA(13), which denies deduction to undertakings executing works contracts. The CIT(A), after examining the terms and conditions of the agreements and tender documents, held that the assessee had undertaken development of infrastructure facilities and not merely execution of works contracts. The Tribunal affirmed the finding. On appeal, the Gujarat High Court noted that both the CIT(A) and the Tribunal had concurrently found, on appreciation of the contractual terms, that the assessee was acting as a developer of infrastructure facilities. The authorities had examined the scope of work, which included rehabilitation, widening, upgradation and strengthening of roads, and had further considered factors such as investment and execution responsibility resting with the assessee, furnishing of security deposits, exposure to penalties for delays, responsibility for procurement of materials, deployment of qualified engineers, liability for defects, insurance obligations, and other developmental risks and responsibilities. The Court held that section 80IA(4) grants deduction to an enterprise carrying on the business of developing, or operating and maintaining, or developing, operating and maintaining infrastructure facilities, whereas the Explanation below section 80IA(13) excludes only pure works contracts. Since the concurrent factual findings established that the assessee had entered into development agreements and not works contracts, it satisfied the conditions of section 80IA(4). Following its earlier decision in Pr. CIT v. Montecarlo Construction Ltd. (Central) [2024] 161 taxmann.com 222 (Guj.), the Court held that the assessee was a developer of infrastructure facilities and therefore entitled to deduction under section 80IA(4). Consequently, the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2017-18)

PCIT v. Montecarlo Ltd [2024] 162 taxmann.com 389 / (2025) 475 ITR 143 (Guj)(HC)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertaking-Special deduction-Container freight station approved and notified as infrastructure facility-Deduction allowable.[S.80IA(4)]

Held that since the container freight station was a duly notified infrastructure facility entitled to deduction. (AY. 2013 14)

Asst. CIT v. Kerry Indev Logistics P. Ltd (2025) 131 ITR 100 (Chennai) (Trib)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Industrial park-Withdrawal of approval by CBDT-CBDT could not have on its own motion withdrawn the notification-The communication of Ministry of Commerce which was relied upon by the CBDT for withdrawing the notification has been subsequently clarified by the Ministry of Commerce itself as well as by the High Court-There was no reason for withdrawal of notification-The AO is directed to allow the claim of deduction under S. 80IA(4).[S.80IA(4)(iii), 119]

Held that the Industrial Park Scheme 2002, the approval under S. 80IA(4)(iii) has to be granted only by the Central Government, and the power to withdraw such approval is also granted to the Central Government. Central Government empowered committee having given approval to the assessee and also modified the approval, the issue of notification by the CBDT was merely a ministerial act and thus, the CBDT could not have on its own motion withdrawn the notification. The claim of deduction was allowed. (AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15)

Pantheon Infrastructure (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 601 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Sale of steam by one eligible unit to other eligible unit for captive consumption-Rejecting the comparable of the assessee and the enhancement made by the DRP by giving direction to treat the claim of deduction under s. 80-IA for steam transfer as 'Nil' is set aside-Claim of deduction is allowed.

Held that the rejecting the comparable of the assessee without bringing anything cogent on record and directing to treat the claim of deduction under s. 80-IA as 'Nil' is not justifiable. Tribunal also held that considering the facts of the case, detailed discussion made above corroborated by documentary evidence on record, the enhancement made by the DRP by giving direction to treat the claim of deduction under s. 80-IA for steam transfer as 'Nil' is set aside. Accordingly, the claim of deduction is allowed and enhancement made by DRP by giving directions to treat the deduction under s. 80-IA in respect of the sale of stem to another eligible unit as nil is set aside.(AY.2020-21)

Laxmi Organic Industries Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 268 / 177 taxmann.com 118 (Mum.) (Trib)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Claim was not made in the return-Additional ground before CIT(A)-The disputed claim of deduction under S. 80-IA(4) was neither made in the original return nor in any revised return till the conclusion of the assessment proceedings-Claim was made first time before CIT(A)-Additional ground was rejected-Not eligible for deduction.[S. 80A(5),80IA(4), 139(1), 139 (4), 250]

Held that S. 80A(5) mandates the claim of relevant deduction in the return of income itself, whether under S. 139(1) or S. 139(4), assessee having neither made the claim for deduction under S. 80-IA(4) in the original return nor in any revised return and made the claim for the first time before the CIT(A) as an additional ground sans any return, said claim is not admissible. Followed,PCIT v. Wipro Ltd. (2022) 446 ITR 1 (SC) and Commr. of Customs (Import) v. Dilip Kumar & Co. (2018) 95 taxmann.com 327 (SC). (AY.2013-14)

BSC C & C Joint Venture v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 377(Delhi)(Trib)

S. 80-IA : Industrial undertaking-Deduction-To be allowed from gross total income-Order of CIT(A) to allow deduction after verification of claim was held to be proper. [S. 143(3)]

The Tribunal held that denial of deduction under section 80-IA while processing the return under section 143(1) did not preclude the assessee from raising the issue in appeal against the assessment under section 143(3). Deduction under section 80-IA is allowable from the gross total income and cannot be denied merely because the eligible profits stand adjusted against losses under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession". The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) directing verification and allowance of the claim was upheld. (AY. 2018-19).

Geecee Ventures Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 371 / 174 taxmann.com 1285 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 80-IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Generation of steam-Steam constitutes power-Captive consumption-Arm's length price cannot be taken at Nil-Transfer pricing adjustment deleted. [S. 92BA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the value of steam generated by the assessee's biomass steam power plant at Nil on the ground that biomass was a by-product. The Tribunal held that steam is a form of power eligible for deduction under section 80-IA and its arm's length price could not be taken at Nil. The evidence established that only 20 per cent. of the steam generated was used for electricity generation and the balance was consumed in the manufacturing process. The assessee's transfer price, supported by an engineer's report and the CUP method, was held to be at arm's length and the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Nectar Lifesciences Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2022] 138 taxmann.com 557 / (2025) 129 ITR 542 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Captive power generation-Market value of electricity-Rate charged by distribution company to consumers to be adopted for computing deduction.[S.80IA(8)]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 80-IA in respect of electricity generated and consumed captively by adopting the rate charged by the electricity distribution company to consumers. The Transfer Pricing Officer substituted the rate at which the assessee supplied surplus power to the distribution company. The Tribunal held that for determining the market value of electricity under section 80-IA, the appropriate benchmark is the tariff at which the electricity distribution company supplies power to consumers and not the purchase price paid by the distribution company to generating companies. Accordingly, the deletion of the transfer pricing adjustment was upheld. (AY. 2016-17).

Asst. CIT v. Tamil Nadu Newsprint and Papers Ltd. (2025) 129 ITR 138(Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Infrastructure facility-Audit report in Form 10CCB filed belatedly due to technical glitches on e-filing portal-Audit report furnished before processing of return-Deduction under section 80IA(4) cannot be denied-Disallowance under section 143(1) not justified. [S. 80IA(4), 80IA(7), 143(1)]

The assessee, engaged in the business of development of infrastructure projects, filed its return of income for AY 2022-23 claiming deduction of Rs.3.42 crore under section 80IA(4). The CPC, while processing the return under section 143(1), disallowed the claim on the ground that the audit report in Form No.10CCB, required under section 80IA(7), was not furnished within the prescribed due date. The assessee contended that although the due date for filing Form 10CCB stood extended to 07.10.2022 and the tax audit report in Form 3CD was filed within time, the Form 10CCB could not be uploaded due to technical glitches on the income-tax portal. Grievances were lodged with the Department and after the issue was resolved, Form 10CCB was filed on 31.10.2022, much before the CPC processed the return on 16.03.2023. The CIT(A) upheld the adjustment, holding that filing of Form 10CCB within the prescribed time had become mandatory after the amendment made by the Finance Act, 2020 and that the delay was attributable to the assessee and its Chartered Accountant. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the audit report had been filed before processing of the return and was therefore available on record when the CPC made the adjustment. Relying on CIT v. G.M. Knitting Industries (P.) Ltd. [2016] 376 ITR 456 (SC), Tarasafe International (P.) Ltd. v. DDIT, CPC [2024] 168 taxmann.com 514 (Kol. Trib.) and Natesan Precision Components (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (ITA No.1397/Chny/2024, dated 09.08.2024), the Tribunal held that filing of the prescribed audit report for claiming deductions under Chapter VI-A is directory in nature and a deduction cannot be denied merely because the report was filed belatedly, provided it is furnished before completion of assessment/processing proceedings. The Tribunal further observed that the Supreme Court in PCIT v. Wipro Ltd. [2022] 446 ITR 1 (SC) had itself distinguished deduction provisions under Chapter VI-A from exemption provisions under Chapter III. Since Form 10CCB had been furnished prior to processing of the return and the assessee had otherwise satisfied the conditions for claiming deduction under section 80IA(4), the CPC was not justified in denying the deduction while processing the return under section 143(1). Accordingly, the order of the CIT(A) was reversed and the deduction under section 80IA(4) was directed to be allowed.(AY. 2022-23)

Desai Infra Projects (I) (P) Ltd v. CIT (A) (2025) 234 TTJ 879 /121 ITR 31(SN) (Pune)(Trib)

S. 80IA : Industrial undertakings-Enterprises engaged in infrastructure development-Contractor for execution of metro rail project-Not entitled to claim exemption. [S.80IA(4)]

Assessee was a contractor for execution of metro rail project. It claimed deduction under section 80-IA. Assessing Officer denied the claim on the ground that assessee was not carrying on business of developing, operating and maintaining any infrastructural facility which fulfilled condition for claiming deduction under section 80IA. CIT(A) allowed the claim. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee was acting as only a contractor for execution of work awarded to it and on successful completion of contract, assessee had no role insofar as revenue from Metrorail was concerned. The Tribunal also held that the assessee did not fulfil condition that agreement had to be with Central Government/State Government/Local Authority/Statutory Authority as LMRCL, with which assessee entered into contract, did not fit in any of them. Order of the AO disallowing the claim is affirmed.(AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

DCIT v. Gulermak TPL Joint Venture. (2025) 211 ITD 349 /234 TTJ 497 (Mum) (Trib.)

Editorial : Order of Tribunal set aside, Gulermak TPL Joint Venture v. ITAT (2025) 307 Taxman 597 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 80IB : Industrial undertakings-Manufacture or production-Ayurvedic medicinal capsules-Filling mushroom powder into gelatin capsules through a regulated manufacturing process-Commercially distinct product emerges-Eligible for deduction. [S. 43B]

The assessee, DXN Herbal Manufacturing (India) (P.) Ltd., was engaged in manufacturing Ayurvedic medicinal products and held various statutory licences issued by the Drugs Control authorities, Central Excise Department, Factories Department and Pollution Control authorities for manufacture of Ayurvedic capsules. The assessee imported mushroom powder and, through a prescribed production process involving encapsulation, quality control testing, polishing, sorting, bottling, labelling and packing, manufactured Ayurvedic products marketed as "Reishi Gano (RG)" and "Ganocelium (GL)" capsules. For AYs 2003-04 and 2004-05, it claimed deduction under section 80IB. The Assessing Officer disallowed the claim holding that the assessee was merely trading in mushroom powder and that putting mushroom powder into gelatin capsules did not amount to manufacture. The CIT(A) and the Tribunal affirmed the disallowance, holding that the mushroom powder retained its original identity even after capsulation. On appeal, the Madras High Court held that the Tribunal's conclusion was unsupported by evidence and ignored the extensive statutory licences, manufacturing approvals and regulatory compliances obtained by the assessee for manufacture of Ayurvedic medicines. The Court noted that the production activity involved a detailed and controlled manufacturing process with prescribed formulations, machine-assisted encapsulation, quality control tests, disintegration and stability testing, polishing, bottling and packaging in accordance with the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945. The Court observed that the expression "manufacture" had to be understood in its common parlance meaning and that a process resulting in a commercially distinct product would constitute manufacture. Relying on Aspinwall & Co. Ltd. v. CIT (251 ITR 323)(SC), CIT v. Hindustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd. (396 ITR 696)(SC) and CIT v. N.C. Budharaja & Co. (204 ITR 412)(SC), the Court held that the product emerging after the manufacturing process was commercially distinct, capable of consumption in measured dosage form and different from the bulk mushroom powder originally used as input. The Court further noted that the assessee was registered with the Central Excise authorities as a manufacturer of excisable goods, had paid excise duty, availed CENVAT credit and operated an industrial manufacturing unit. Accordingly, the activity undertaken by the assessee amounted to manufacture and production of an article, entitling it to deduction under section 80IB. The Court also allowed the assessee's claim under section 43B in respect of excise duty actually paid and held that no prejudice had been demonstrated merely because a former employee whose statement was relied upon was not offered for cross-examination. The appeal was partly allowed. (AY.2003-04 , 2004-05)

ITO v. DXN Herbal Manufacturing (India) (P.) Ltd. (2025) 303 Taxman 407 (SC)

Editorial: DXN Herbal Manufacturing (India) (P.) Ltd v. ITO (2018) 257 Taxman 492 (Mad)(HC)

S. 80IB : Industrial undertakings-Manufacture or production-Production of paints, varnish and thinners-Casual workers-The undertaking engaging ten or more workers-Entitled to exemption.

Held that the activity of mixing certain raw materials to produce paints, varnish and thinners is carrying on manufacturing activity, and the Contractual workers engaged by the assessee fulfilled the condition of engaging ten or more workers. Entitled to deduction under section 80IB. (AY.2006-07 & 2007-08)

Jaydeep Petro Chem Company (P) Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 316 / 176 taxmann.com 871 (Chennai) Trib)

S. 80IB(10): Housing projects-Built up area of each flat less than 1000 square feet-Approved construction plan-Unexplained money-Three flats on the same floor were sold at different rates-Rates at which flats were sold were higher than stamp valuation-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition was affirmed-No question of law. [S.69A, 260A]

The assessee was engaged in a housing project and claimed deduction under section 80IB(10). During assessment proceedings, the Revenue alleged that certain residential units exceeded the prescribed built-up area limit of 1,000 sq. ft. and further contended that substantial variation in sale rates of three flats situated on the same floor indicated undisclosed cash transactions and a colourable device to evade tax. While two flats were sold at approximately Rs. 34,926 and Rs. 35,618 per sq. ft., a third flat was sold at a substantially higher rate of about Rs. 62,893 per sq. ft. The Assessing Officer treated the differential sale consideration as undisclosed income. The CIT(A) and the Tribunal, however, recorded concurrent findings that the approved building plans demonstrated that the built-up area of each residential unit was below 1,000 sq. ft. and therefore all statutory conditions prescribed under section 80IB(10) stood satisfied. In relation to the alleged undisclosed income, both appellate authorities noted that the third flat enjoyed direct access to an attached terrace measuring approximately 318 sq. ft., which justified a higher valuation. The CIT(A) accordingly granted a premium for this additional feature and the Tribunal affirmed the factual finding regarding terrace access. On appeal, the Bombay High Court held that the findings regarding compliance with section 80IB(10) were pure findings of fact concurrently recorded by the CIT(A) and the Tribunal and therefore gave rise to no question of law, much less a substantial question of law. The Court further held that mere difference in sale prices of flats could not, in the absence of corroborative evidence, justify an inference that cash transactions were involved in the sale of the other flats. The dispute regarding the appropriate premium attributable to terrace access was essentially a valuation issue and a factual determination. Since all sale values were higher than the stamp duty valuation and there was no material demonstrating receipt of unaccounted money, no addition could be sustained. Accordingly, the appeal of the Revenue was dismissed as raising no substantial question of law.

PCIT, Central v. AHCL PEL (2025) 307 Taxman 317 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 80IB(10) : Housing projects-Date of commencement of construction-Concurrent finding that construction commenced after 1-10-1998-Deduction allowable. Rule 8D prospective and not applicable prior to AY 2008-09. [S. 14A, Rule 8D]

The assessee, a developer of a housing project, claimed deduction under section 80IB(10) for AY 2007-08. The Assessing Officer denied the deduction on the ground that the project had commenced prior to 1-10-1998 and therefore did not satisfy the statutory condition prescribed under section 80IB(10). The CIT(A), after examining the material on record, held that the actual construction commenced on 18-4-1999 and the commencement was duly intimated to the Municipal Corporation on 5-5-1999. The Tribunal affirmed the finding and further noted that an identical contention raised by the Revenue in the assessee's own case for AY 2001-02 had already been rejected. On appeal, the Bombay High Court held that the findings of the CIT(A) and the Tribunal regarding the date of commencement of construction were purely factual findings based on evidence on record. Once it was established as a matter of fact that construction commenced after 1-10-1998, the assessee would be entitled to deduction under section 80IB(10), subject to fulfilment of the other statutory conditions. Since the issue involved only appreciation of facts, no substantial question of law arose for consideration.

The Revenue also challenged the deletion of disallowance made under section 14A read with Rule 8D. The Assessing Officer had invoked Rule 8D for AY 2007-08 in respect of exempt income earned by the assessee from partnership profits and dividend income. The CIT(A) held that Rule 8D, inserted with effect from 24-3-2008, was applicable only from AY 2008-09 onwards and therefore could not be invoked for AY 2007-08. He accordingly restricted the disallowance to 10% of the exempt income. The Tribunal upheld the order following Godrej & Boyce Manufacturing Co. Ltd. v. DCIT (328 ITR 81)(Bom.). The High Court affirmed the Tribunal's view and, relying upon CIT v. Essar Teleholdings Ltd. (401 ITR 445)(SC), held that Rule 8D is prospective in operation and cannot be applied to any assessment year prior to AY 2008-09. Consequently, no substantial question of law arose on this issue either and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed.(AY. 2007-08)

PCIT v. Kumar Housing Corporation Ltd. (2025) 306 Taxman 23 (Bom.) (HC)

S. 80IB(10) : Housing projects-Built-up area-Flower bed area, being below floor level, open to sky, outside residential unit and not habitable, cannot be included in "built-up area"-Cupboard projections already forming part of wall area, service area being common utility duct area, and window projections at sill level being unsafe/elevational features also not includible-Tribunal justified in directing allowance of deduction under section 80-IB(10)-Order affirmed. [S. 80-IB(14)(a), 260A]

The Bombay High Court held that the expression “built-up area” in section 80-IB(14)(a) refers to the inner measurements of the residential unit at floor level, including only such projections and balconies as are habitable or capable of effective use by the flat purchaser, together with wall thickness, but excluding common areas. The flower bed area, admittedly outside the residential unit, below floor level, open to the sky and merely ornamental, could not be treated as part of built-up area. Likewise, cupboard projections already formed part of the wall area, the service area was a common duct space for pipes and not usable by flat owners, and window projections at sill level were unsafe and only elevational features. Accordingly, these areas were rightly excluded while computing the 1000 sq. ft. limit, and the assessee was entitled to deduction under section 80-IB(10). (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Nahar Enterprises (Bom)(HC) (2025) 176 taxmann.com 570 / 347 CTR 97 / 255 DTR 25 (Bom)(HC)

S. 80IB(10) : Housing projects-Bungalows which were duplexes surrendered by compound wall-Portico and open terrace-Open terrace and portico was an area which was otherwise totally open and exposed and could not be brought within purview of inner measurement of residential unit-Two areas had to be excluded from computation of built-up area entitling assessee to benefit under section 80IB(10) of the Act. [S. 260A]

Assessee, a real estate developer, was engaged in business of construction of residential units/bungalows which were duplexes surrounded by a compound wall. Each residential unit consisted of a portico and an open terrace. Assessee claimed deduction under section 80IB(10) of the Act. Assessing Officer disallowed same on ground that terrace which was open to sky and portico without walls could be included in computing built-up area of each residential unit which exceeded 1,500 sq. ft. for purposes of determining eligibility for deduction under section 80-IB. Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing officer. On appeal the Court held that since open terrace and portico was an area which was otherwise totally open and exposed and could not be brought within purview of inner measurement of residential unit, said two areas had to be excluded from computation of built-up area entitling assessee to benefit under section 80IB(10) of the Act. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2008-09, 2009-10)

Modi Builders & Realtors (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 305 Taxman 277/347 CTR 176 / 255 DTR 37 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 80IB(10) : Housing projects-Amendment by Finance Act, 2006 w.e.f. 1-4-2006-Joint venture development agreement and agreement for sale entered into on 23-11-2005, when s. 80AC was not on statute-For AY 2006-07, deduction u/s 80-IB(10) cannot be denied merely because no claim was made in return filed u/s 139(1)-However, for AYs 2007-08 onwards, in view of express bar in s. 80AC, no deduction allowable where assessee had not claimed deduction in return filed within due date-Plea that s. 80AC is only procedural/directory can be examined only in collateral proceedings under Art. 226 and not in appeal u/s 260A. [S. 80AC, 139(1), 260A, Art. 226]

The assessee entered into a joint venture development agreement and an agreement for sale on 23-11-2005 with a developer for development of its land, under which it became entitled to 37.54% of the built-up area. In reassessment proceedings for AYs 2006-07 to 2011-12, one of the issues was whether the assessee was entitled to deduction u/s 80-IB(10) though no such claim had been made in the returns filed u/s 139(1). The High Court held that s. 80AC, inserted by the Finance Act, 2006 w.e.f. 1-4-2006, imposed a statutory condition that deduction u/s 80-IB would not be allowable unless claimed in a return filed within the due date prescribed u/s 139(1). Since the agreements were executed on 23-11-2005, when s. 80AC was not in force, that restriction could not be invoked to deny deduction for

AY 2006-07. However, for AYs 2007-08 onwards, in view of the express language of s. 80AC, the assessee having admittedly not claimed deduction u/s 80-IB in the returns filed u/s 139(1), was not entitled to deduction u/s 80-IB(10). The Court further observed that the contention that s. 80AC was only procedural and directory, and not mandatory, could be considered only in an independent challenge under Art. 226 and not in an appeal u/s 260A. Accordingly, the appeals were dismissed. (AY. 2006-07 to 2011-12)

Coromondel Cabeles Pvt. Ltd. v. ACIT. (2025) 480 ITR 314 / 175 taxmann.com 587 (Mad)(HC)

CIT v. Coromondel Cabeles Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 480 ITR 314 / 175 taxmann.com 587 (Mad)(HC)

S. 80IB(10): Housing projects-Slum redevelopment projects-CBDT notification issued under proviso to section 80IB(10)-Corrigendum restricting benefit to projects approved on or after 1-4-2004 and before 31-3-2008-Validity-Proviso introduced by Finance (No.2) Act, 2004 operates prospectively from 1-4-2005-CBDT competent to align notification with statutory provision-Corrigendum not ultra vires. [Art. 226]

The petitioners challenged CBDT Notification No. 02/2011 dated 05.01.2011, issued as a corrigendum to Notification No. 67/2010 dated 03.08.2010, contending that the corrigendum illegally restricted the benefit available under the proviso to section 80IB(10) in respect of slum redevelopment projects. The petitioners argued that the proviso to section 80IB(10), which exempts notified slum redevelopment projects from the requirements contained in clauses (a) and (b), applied to all eligible housing projects irrespective of the date of approval and that the CBDT, being only a delegate, lacked authority to curtail the scope of the statutory provision. The Revenue contended that the proviso granting special treatment to slum redevelopment projects was introduced by the Finance (No.2) Act, 2004 with effect from 01.04.2005 and was prospective in operation. It was submitted that the original notification dated 03.08.2010 had inadvertently granted the benefit only from the date of publication and the corrigendum was issued merely to align the notification with the statutory provisions. The Bombay High Court held that prior to the substitution of section 80IB(10) by the Finance (No.2) Act, 2004, no special benefit existed for housing projects undertaken under slum redevelopment schemes. The proviso granting such benefit came into force only from 01.04.2005 and was neither declaratory nor clarificatory in nature. Therefore, the benefit introduced by the proviso could not be regarded as retrospective. The Court observed that if Parliament intended to extend the benefit retrospectively, it would have expressly so provided. The corrigendum merely ensured that the CBDT notification operated in conformity with the amended statutory provision and did not create any additional restriction beyond the scope of section 80IB(10). Relying upon CIT v. Brahma Associates (333 ITR 289)(Bom.) and CIT v. Sarkar Builders (375 ITR 392 / 7 SCC 579)(SC), the Court reiterated that amendments to section 80IB(10) introduced by the Finance (No.2) Act, 2004 are prospective in nature. Accordingly, the Court held that the impugned corrigendum was intra vires the Act, represented a valid exercise of delegated authority, and merely aligned the notification with the legislative intent underlying the amended provision. The writ petitions were dismissed.

Kiran Harsukhlal Hemani v. UOI (2025) 343 CTR 343 / 247 DTR 161 (Bom)(HC)

Bombay Slum Redevelopment Corporation (P) Ltd. v. UOI (2025) 343 CTR 343 / 247 DTR 161 (Bom)(HC)

S. 80IB(10) :Housing projects-Deduction under section 80IB(10) disallowed on ground of delayed completion and alleged size violations-Assessee subsequently obtaining crucial evidence under RTI Act regarding completion application filed with local authority-Additional evidence admitted-Matter remanded for fresh adjudication. Penalty under section 271(1)(c) also remanded for verification of additional evidence. [S. 115JC, 271(1)(c), 274]

The assessee, an individual engaged in real estate development through a proprietary concern, claimed deduction under section 80IB(10) in respect of a housing project named "Teerth Towers". The Assessing Officer disallowed the deduction on the ground that the project, approved on 30.03.2007, was not completed within the prescribed period of five years from the end of the financial year in which approval was granted and that certain residential units exceeded the maximum permissible built-up area. The Tribunal, in the quantum proceedings, had earlier held that the project was approved on 30.03.2007 and that the completion certificate was issued only on 30.03.2013. The Tribunal also treated the assessee's alleged completion application dated 07.03.2012 as unproved and held that the project did not satisfy the requirements of section 80IB(10). Thereafter, the Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 271(1)(c) for furnishing inaccurate particulars of income and the CIT(A) confirmed the penalty. Subsequently, the assessee obtained documents from the District Collector's office under the Right to Information Act, including copies of the application dated 07.03.2012 and official replies indicating that such application had in fact been filed with the local authority. The assessee contended that these documents directly rebutted the earlier finding that the application was unproved and constituted crucial evidence going to the root of the matter. The Tribunal held that the assessee had disclosed all primary facts in the return of income and audit report while claiming deduction under section 80IB(10), including the commencement certificate, project details, architect's certificate and completion-related particulars. Since the RTI documents were not available earlier and were capable of materially affecting the conclusion regarding timely completion of the project, the Tribunal admitted the additional evidence. It held that the Assessing Officer should verify the authenticity and implications of the RTI material and, if it was established that the assessee had indeed filed the completion application on 07.03.2012 before the competent authority, appropriate relief should follow. Accordingly, the penalty matter was restored to the Assessing Officer with a direction to re-examine the issue after considering the additional evidence and to cancel the penalty if the assessee's contention was found correct. Similar directions were issued for AYs 2014-15 and 2015-16.

Further, for AY 2020-21, where deduction under section 80IB(10) and credit under section 115JC had been denied following the earlier quantum orders, the Tribunal held that the same RTI documents had a direct bearing on the allowability of deduction. Since the additional evidence went to the root of the eligibility issue, it was admitted and the matter concerning deduction under section 80IB(10) was also restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication in accordance with law after granting adequate opportunity to the assessee. Thus, both the quantum and penalty issues were remanded for reconsideration in light of the newly obtained RTI evidence. (AY.2013-14 to 2015-16, & 2020-21)

Vijay Tukaram Raundal. v. DCIT (2025) 214 ITD 661 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 80IB(10) : Housing projects-Completion certificate issued after statutory cut-off date-Assessee claiming project was completed and applications for completion/occupancy certificate were filed before prescribed date-Delay attributable to local authority to be examined-Matter remanded. [S. 80IB(10)(e), (f)].

The assessee, City Corporation Ltd., engaged in the business of development of properties and construction of residential and commercial buildings, claimed deduction under section 80IB(10) in respect of housing projects designated as R-4, R-5 and R-22. The Assessing Officer disallowed the deduction on the ground that completion certificates from the competent authority had not been obtained before the prescribed date of 31-03-2013. The Assessing Officer further alleged violation of section 80IB(10)(e)/(f) on account of more than one residential unit being allotted to the same family and also denied pro-rata deduction. The CIT(A) upheld the disallowance, holding that the completion certificates for the projects were issued only after the statutory deadline and that the conditions of section 80IB(10) were not satisfied. The assessee contended before the Tribunal that all projects had been completed before the cut-off date, architect certificates evidencing completion had been obtained, and applications seeking completion/occupancy certificates had been filed before the competent authority well before 31-03-2013. It was argued that any delay in issuance of completion certificates was attributable to the Collector's office and was beyond the assessee's control. The Tribunal observed that if a developer completes the project in all respects and files the requisite applications before the competent authority within the stipulated period, the assessee cannot be denied deduction merely because the authority delays issuance of the completion or occupancy certificate. If the certificate ultimately issued is based on the original application without any material deviation, the conditions of section 80IB(10) would stand satisfied. However, since the applications allegedly filed before the cut-off date were produced as additional evidence and had not been properly verified by the Assessing Officer, factual verification was required. Distinguishing its earlier decision in ACIT v. Vijay Tukaram Raundal [2023] 147 taxmann.com 53 (Pune-Trib.), where the project itself was found to have been completed beyond the prescribed period, the Tribunal held that the present case required examination of whether the assessee had in fact applied for completion/occupancy certificates prior to 31-03-2013 and whether there was any variation between the original applications and subsequent applications filed later. Accordingly, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer with directions to obtain information from the office of the Collector, verify the dates and contents of the applications, examine the reasons for delay in issuance of the certificates, and thereafter decide afresh the assessee's eligibility for deduction under section 80IB(10), including the issues of pro-rata deduction and alleged violation of section 80IB(10)(e)/(f), after granting adequate opportunity of hearing to the assessee. The appeals were allowed for statistical purposes.(AY. 2011-12 , 2012-13)

City Corporation Ltd. v. Dy.CIT-(2025) 233 TTJ 367 / 170 taxmann.com 203 (Pune) (Trib)

80IB (10) : Housing projects-Slum Rehabilitation Authority (SRA) Projects-CBDT circular-Notification-Claim u/s.80IB (10) would be allowable even the approval was granted before 01/04/2004 and commencement certificate after 01-4-2004-Circulars and notifications cannot override the provisions of the Act.-Notification No. 1/2011 dated 5-1-2011 restricting the eligibility of section 80IB(10) to SRA project on or after 1-4-2004 and before 31-3-2008 is inconsistent to the proviso to clauses (a) and (b).) [S.80IB(10)(a), 80IB(10) (b), 119, 254(1)]

The scheme for Slum development has been prepared by the Maharashtra Government (SRA). The assessee undertook a project under the scheme of Slum Rehabilitation Authority (SRA) framed by the government of Maharashtra for carrying out a housing project. The claim of deduction has been declined by the revenue authorities on the ground that the project was approved before 01.04.2004, whereas the amendment to section 80IB(10) (a & b), vide finance (2) Act 2004 relaxed the condition imposed by section 80IB(10)(b) by introducing the proviso to section 80IB(10)(a)&80IB(10)((b). The CIT(A) and Tribunal affirmed the view of the AO. The Assessee filed an appeal against the order passed by this Tribunal before the Hon'ble Bombay High court. Hon'ble Bombay High Court, set aside the order to Tribunal. Tribunal held that the rigours of section 80IB(10) were relaxed by introduction of proviso by finance Act, 2004, wherein it was provided that the condition stipulated in clauses (a) & (b) shall not be applicable to SRA Project under. Further with regards to the condition/requirement of section 80IB(10)(b) in respect of the project size of the plot of 1 acre is concerned, the a proviso has been added to sub clause (b) to section 80IB (10) as per amendment by finance Act (2) 2024 w.e.f 01.04.2005, wherein the condition of 1 acre has been relaxed in the cases of Delhi or Mumbai on the condition that the relaxation was subject to the approval by local authority under slum rehabilitation scheme and notified by the CBDT. Therefore, the settled legal position that the circulars or directions cannot be permitted to curtail the substantive provisions of the Act. The circular cannot therefore curtail the benefit conferred on assessee or be contradictory to the Act. Deduction is allowed. Followed Ramesh Gunshi Dedhia v. ITO (2014) 148 ITD 356 (Mum)(Trib.) (ITA No. 4389/MUM/2014 & ITA No. 4390/MUM/2014, dt. 25/02/2025) (AY. 2006-07, 2007-08)

Bhavya Construction CO. v. ACIT (Mum)(Trib.) www.itatonline.org.

S. 80IC : Special category States-Substantial expansion-Deduction at 100 per cent rate on undertaking carrying out substantial expansion-Restriction to 25 per cent deduction not permissible-Assessee entitled to full deduction. [S. 80IC]

The assessee, proprietor of M/s Himshell Industries, Baddi (Himachal Pradesh), engaged in manufacturing corrugated boxes, offset printed material, duplex printed boxes and promotional material, filed its return of income claiming deduction of Rs. 81.45 lakh under section 80IC. During scrutiny assessment, the Assessing Officer restricted the deduction to 25 per cent of the eligible profits and allowed deduction of only Rs. 20.36 lakh, as against the 100 per cent deduction claimed by the assessee. The CIT(A), Tribunal and subsequently the Punjab & Haryana High Court upheld the action of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Supreme Court noted that the controversy regarding eligibility of 100 per cent deduction upon substantial expansion already stood concluded by its decision in Pr. CIT v. Aarham Softronics (412 ITR 623)(SC), wherein it was held that an eligible undertaking carrying out substantial expansion is entitled to claim deduction at the rate of 100 per cent in accordance with section 80IC and that the earlier view expressed in CIT v. Classic Binding Industries (407 ITR 429)(SC) no longer represented the correct legal position. Following Aarham Softronics, the Supreme Court held that the assessee was entitled to the 100 per cent deduction claimed under section 80IC. Accordingly, the judgment of the High Court, as well as the orders passed by the revenue authorities, were set aside and the appeal of the assessee was allowed. (AY. 2011-12)

Shelly Bansal v. CIT (2025) 304 Taxman 182 /347 CTR 673 (SC)

Editorial : Shelly Bansal v. CIT (2025)171 taxmann.com 807 (P& H)(HC)

S. 80IC : Special category States-Substantial expansion-Initial assessment year-Undertaking already enjoying 100% deduction for first five years cannot claim fresh 100% deduction on substantial expansion by treating it as a new initial assessment year-Deduction for remaining period restricted to 25% (30% in case of company). Review petition dismissed.

The assessee claimed that after availing deduction under section 80IC at the rate of 100 per cent for the first five assessment years, it became entitled to a fresh period of 100 per cent deduction on account of undertaking substantial expansion of its industrial unit. Earlier, the Supreme Court in CIT v. Classic Binding Industries (2018) 407 ITR 429(SC) had held that once the initial assessment year commences and an assessee starts enjoying deduction under section 80IC, there cannot be another initial assessment year within the overall ten-year period merely because substantial expansion has been undertaken. Consequently, after claiming deduction for the first five years at 100 per cent, the assessee would be eligible only for deduction at the rate of 25 per cent (or 30 per cent where the assessee is a company) for the balance period and not a fresh deduction at the rate of 100 per cent. The assessee filed a review petition seeking reconsideration of the said decision. The Supreme Court noted that there was an unexplained delay of 412 days in filing the review petition and that no satisfactory grounds for review had been made out. Accordingly, the review petition was dismissed both on the ground of delay and on merits, thereby affirming the earlier decision in Classic Binding Industries.. (AY. 2006-07)

Lyon D.C. v. Pr. CIT (2025) 304 Taxman 280 (SC)

Followed: CIT v. Classic Binding Industries [2018] 96 taxmann.com 405 / 407 ITR 429 (SC).

S. 80IC : Special category states-Substantial expansion-Entitle exemption of 100 per cent beyond period of five years on ground that it now carried out substantial expansion in terms of section 80-IC(8)(ix) within aforesaid period of ten years in its manufacturing unit. [S.80IC(2), 80IC(3), 80IC(8)(ix), 260A]

On appeal the Court held that The order passed by the Tribunal is not sustainable in the eyes of law, as it is solely based upon the judgment rendered by two Judge Bench of the Supreme Court in CIT v. Classic Binding Industries[2018]257 Taxman 324/407 ITR 429, which judgment, admittedly, has been over-ruled by a Bench of five Judges of the Supreme Court in PCIT vs Aarham Softronic [2019] 261 Taxman 529/412 ITR 623, wherein the Supreme Court has clearly held that an assessee who sets up a new industry of a kind mentioned in section 80-IC(2) and starts availing exemption of 100 per cent tax under section 80-IC(3) (which is admissible for five years) can start claiming exemption at same rate of 100 per cent beyond the period of five years on the ground that the assessee now carried out substantial expansion in terms of section 80-IC(8)(ix) within aforesaid period of ten years in its manufacturing unit. The judgment of the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court is binding and, therefore, in terms thereof, the assessee is held entitled to the benefit under section 80-IC at the rate of 100 per cent of its profit and findings to the contrary cannot be sustained and are accordingly set aside. (AY. 2010-11)

J.C. International v. Dy. CIT (2025) 305 Taxman 425 (HP)(HC)

S. 80IC : Special category States-Industrial undertaking-Approval of local or State authority-Section 80-IC(2)(b)(ii) does not require such agreement or approval-Requirement under rule 18BBB(4) and form 10CCB cannot be read as mandatory where parent provision does not stipulate it-The issue not constituted grounds of appeal-Tribunal erred in examining the issue not constituted grounds of appeal-Order of Tribunal was set aside. [S. 80IC)2)(b)(ii), 80IA(4),254(1), 260A, R.188BBB]

Held that the Tribunal had while framing direction for remit lost sight of the principal distinction between sections 80IA and 80IC and had also overlooked the fact that rule 18BBB as well as form 10CCB extended to more than one provision in the Act. It was intended to cater to varied enterprises and eligible businesses as envisaged in section 80-1, 80-IA, 80-IB or 80-IC. In the absence of section 80-IC requiring an agreement between the assessee and the Central or State Government or local authority or mandating such an agreement as being a mandatory precondition for claiming benefits, the Tribunal had erred in reading such a requirement in respect of an assessee claiming benefits under section 80-IC. That the Tribunal had examined the case of the assessee from the stand point of section 80-IA(8) and section 80-IA(10). This exercise undertaken by it for purposes of discerning abnormal profits and whether the assessee had shifted profit or expenditure to an eligible business was an issue which was neither canvassed, raised nor urged either before the Assessing Officer or the Commissioner (Appeals). It also did not appear to have constituted a ground of appeal that was urged by the Department for the consideration of the Tribunal. Tribunal erred in examining the issue not constituted grounds of appeal. Its observation in this regard were unwarranted and liable to be set aside.

Legacy Foods Pvt. Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 476 ITR 582/172 taxmann.com 50 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 80IC : Special category States-Profits and gains derived from industrial undertaking-Income from sale of scrap-Scrap was a by-product arising directly from the manufacturing process undertaken at the eligible unit-Eligible for deduction-Disallowance under S. 40(a)(ia) would form part of the eligible profits for the purpose of deduction under s. 80-IC, allowable deduction. [S.40(a)(ia)]

Held that the scrap was a by-product arising directly from the manufacturing process undertaken at the eligible unit of the assessee and, therefore, deduction under s. 80-IC is allowable qua income arising from the sale of scrap. Disallowance under s. 40(a)(ia) would form part of the eligible profits for the purpose of deduction under s. 80-IC.(AY. 2012-13, 2013-14, 2020-21 & 2022-23)

DCIT v. Reckit Benkiser Healthcare India (P) LTD. (2025) 237 TTJ 129 / 176 taxmann.com 573 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 80-ID : Hotels and convention centres in specified area-Existing hotel taken on lease and later purchased-Only nominal additions to fixed assets-Business continued under new name-Assessee failed to prove setting up of a new eligible hotel-Denial of deduction affirmed by High Court-SLP dismissed.[Art. 136]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 80-ID for AY. 2012-13 in respect of hotel SIRIS 18, at Agra. The Assessing Officer found that the hotel property had originally been developed and operated earlier in the name "Rani Mahal" by the previous owners; the assessee had first operated the same hotel on lease during FY 2008-09 and thereafter purchased it on June 8, 2009 along with furniture and fixtures on "as is where is" basis. The record further showed that only nominal additions were made to building, computers and kitchen equipment, and there was no substantial investment indicating establishment of a new hotel. The Ministry of Tourism approval for the renamed hotel SIRIS 18, was obtained subsequently. The Assessing Officer held that the assessee had merely continued the existing hotel business under a new name and was not entitled to deduction under section 80-ID. The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal affirmed the disallowance. On appeal, the High Court held that the concurrent factual findings clearly established that the hotel was already in existence and functioning prior to the assessee's claim, and the assessee had failed to show that those findings were perverse. On appeal, the Court held that since the business was only a continuation/transfer of an existing hotel and not a newly established eligible undertaking, deduction under section 80-ID was rightly denied. SLP dismissed. (AY. 2012-13)

Ramesh Bhatia (HUF) v. ITO (2025) 481 ITR 38 /181 taxmann.com 502 (SC)

Editorial : Ramesh Bhatia (HUF) v. ITO (2025) 481 ITR 27 /181 taxmann.com 162 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 80-ID : Hotels and convention centres in specified area-Existing hotel taken on lease and later purchased-Only nominal additions to fixed assets-Business continued under new name-Assessee failed to prove setting up of a new eligible hotel-Denial of deduction affirmed. [S. 260A]

The assessee claimed deduction under section 80-ID for AY. 2012-13 in respect of hotel SIRIS 18, at Agra. The Assessing Officer found that the hotel property had originally been developed and operated earlier in the name "Rani Mahal" by the previous owners; the assessee had first operated the same hotel on lease during FY 2008-09 and thereafter purchased it on June 8, 2009 along with furniture and fixtures on "as is where is" basis. The record further showed that only nominal additions were made to building, computers and kitchen equipment, and there was no substantial investment indicating establishment of a new hotel. The Ministry of Tourism approval for the renamed hotel SIRIS 18, was obtained subsequently. The Assessing Officer held that the assessee had merely continued the existing hotel business under a new name and was not entitled to deduction under section 80-ID. The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal affirmed the disallowance. On appeal, the High Court held that the concurrent factual findings clearly established that the hotel was already in existence and functioning prior to the assessee's claim, and the assessee had failed to show that those findings were perverse. Since the business was only a continuation/transfer of an existing hotel and not a newly established eligible undertaking, deduction under section 80-ID was rightly denied. (AY. 2012-13)

Ramesh Bhatia (HUF) v. ITO (2025) 481 ITR 27 /181 taxmann.com 162 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : SLP dismissed, Ramesh Bhatia (HUF) v. ITO (2025) 481 ITR 38 (SC)

S. 80JJA : Biodegradable waste-Collecting and processing-Allocation of expenses-Consistency of practice-Order of CIT(A) affirmed.

Held that the allocation of expenses was proper and consistently followed. Order of CIT(A) was affirmed.(AY 2010-11 to 2012-13)

Anil Ltd. (formerly Anil Products Ltd.) v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 351 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 80JJA : Bio-degradable waste-Collecting and processing-Related filing of audit report requirement of furnishing the report of an accountant is mandatory-Procedural aspect The report of the Accountant in Form 10DA was available before the CPC at the time of passing intimation under S. 143(1), even though the same may not be filed on or before the due date of furnishing the same-The assessee is entitled to claim the deduction under S. 80JJA [S.139(1), 143(1) Form No 10DA R.19AB]

Held that the requirement of furnishing the report of an accountant in Form No. 10DA is mandatory; however, the filing thereof is a procedural aspect; once the report in Form No. 10DA was available before the CPC at the time of passing intimation under s. 143(1), even though the same may not be filed on or before the due date of furnishing the same, the assessee is entitled to claim the deduction under s. 80JJA. (AY. 2023-24)

IIFL Samasta Finance Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 870 / 176 taxmann.com 278 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 80JJAA : Employment of new workmen-Deduction-Amended provisions wrongly applied-Matter remanded for examination under unamended provisions.

The Assessing Officer rejected the assessee's claim for deduction under section 80JJAA by applying the amended provisions of the section. The Tribunal held that the claim had to be examined in accordance with the provisions applicable to the relevant assessment year and that section 80JJAA being an incentive provision deserved liberal interpretation. The issue was remanded to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination under the unamended provisions. (AY. 2017-18).

Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India Pvt. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 567 / (2025) 129 ITR 6 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80JJAA : Deduction in respect of employment of new employees-Deduction claimed in return accompanied by Form 10DA containing typographical error showing 'zero' new workmen-Corrected Form 10DA furnished during assessment proceedings-Deduction cannot be denied on technical ground that revised report was not filed before due date of return. Matter remanded for verification of quantification. [S. 143(3), 270A]

The assessee, O.C. Sweater LLP, engaged in the business of manufacturing wearing apparel, filed its return of income for AY 2018-19 claiming deduction of Rs. 30.34 lakh under section 80JJAA. Along with the return, the assessee e-filed the prescribed audit report in Form No. 10DA. During assessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer noticed that columns relating to the number of new workmen employed reflected "zero" and, consequently, disallowed the deduction on the ground that the audit report was incomplete. The assessee explained that there was an inadvertent typographical error in Form No. 10DA and furnished a corrected and duly signed audit report before the Assessing Officer during the course of assessment proceedings containing the correct particulars of newly employed workmen. The Assessing Officer, however, declined to consider the revised report on the ground that it had not been filed electronically before the due date prescribed under the Act. The CIT(A) upheld the disallowance.

On appeal, the Tribunal observed that the assessee had already claimed deduction under section 80JJAA in the original return of income and had also filed Form No. 10DA along with the return. The revised audit report did not amount to a fresh or additional claim but merely rectified a typographical mistake in the particulars furnished. The Tribunal further noted that the Assessing Officer had not examined the claim on merits and had rejected it solely on procedural grounds. Relying on International Tractors Ltd. v. DCIT (2021)435 ITR 85(Delhi)(HC) and Jubilant Food Works Ltd. v. ACIT [2025] 177 taxmann.com 374 (Delhi)(Trib.), the Tribunal held that procedural defects or delayed filing of a corrected audit report cannot defeat a substantive claim otherwise available under section 80JJAA. Since the claim had already been made in the return and the corrected Form No.10DA was furnished during the assessment proceedings, the deduction could not be denied merely because the revised report was not filed before the due date of filing the return. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the assessee was entitled to deduction under section 80JJAA and restored the matter to the Assessing Officer only for the limited purpose of verifying and quantifying the eligible deduction. Consequently, the penalty levied under section 270A on account of such disallowance was also deleted.(AY. 2018-19)

O. C. Sweater LLP. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 251 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 80JJAA : Deduction in respect of employment of new employees- Form No. 10DA filed along with revised return and available before CPC/AO at time of processing of return-Non-filing of Form No. 10DA with original return is a procedural omission-Deduction cannot be denied on such technical ground. Matter remanded for verification of quantification. [S. 139(5), 143(1), 80AC]

The assessee, Jubilant FoodWorks Ltd., filed its return of income for AY 2022-23 claiming deduction under section 80JJAA amounting to Rs.13.49 crore. However, Form No. 10DA, being the prescribed accountant's report for claiming the deduction, was not filed along with the original return under section 139(1) but was subsequently furnished along with a revised return filed under section 139(5). The CPC, while processing the return under section 143(1), denied the deduction on the ground that Form No. 10DA had not been furnished with the original return and the CIT(A) upheld the disallowance. On appeal, the Tribunal noted that the assessee had claimed deduction under section 80JJAA in the original return itself and that Form No. 10DA was available before the CPC/Assessing Officer at the time of processing of the revised return. The Tribunal observed that furnishing of Form No. 10DA is a procedural requirement and that failure to file the form along with the original return, when the same is subsequently furnished and is available on record before completion of processing/assessment, cannot defeat a substantive claim for deduction. Relying on CIT v. G.M. Knitting Industries (P.) Ltd. (376 ITR 456)(SC), Sai Computers Ltd. v. ADIT, CPC [2023] 155 taxmann.com 607 (Delhi-Trib.) and other decisions, the Tribunal held that the omission was merely procedural and that the deduction under section 80JJAA could not be denied solely because Form No. 10DA was not filed before the due date for filing the original return. The Tribunal distinguished the decision of the Supreme Court in PCIT v. Wipro Ltd. (446 ITR 1)(SC) as being concerned with exemption provisions and not deductions under Chapter VI-A. Accordingly, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer/CPC for the limited purpose of verification and quantification of the admissible deduction under section 80JJAA after examination of the supporting documents. The appeal was allowed for statistical purposes. (AY. 2022-23)

Jubilant Food Works Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 214 ITD 361 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Deduction-Absence of banking licence-Deduction allowable-Disallowance of gratuity contribution-enhancement of business profits would also qualify for deduction in view of CBDT Circular No. 37 of 2016. [S.80P(2)(4)]

The assessee, a co-operative society, was denied deduction under section 80P on the ground that it was a co-operative bank within the meaning of section 80P(4). The Tribunal held that merely because the word "bank" formed part of the assessee's name, it could not be treated as a co-operative bank in the absence of a banking licence issued under the Banking Regulation Act. Since the assessee was not carrying on banking business as contemplated under the Banking Regulation Act, the Department was not justified in denying deduction merely on nomenclature. Accordingly, the assessee was held entitled to a deduction under section 80P. The Tribunal further observed that any disallowance of gratuity contribution resulting in enhancement of business profits would also qualify for deduction in view of CBDT Circular No. 37 of 2016 (AY. 2015-16)

Muzaffarnagar District Co-operative Bank Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 121 ITR 11 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Deduction under section 80P cannot be denied merely because the assessee claimed deduction under the wrong provision. [S. 80A(5), 80P(2)(a)(i), 80P(2)(c), 154]

The assessee, a co-operative society engaged in providing banking and credit facilities to its members, inadvertently claimed deduction under section 80P(2)(c) instead of section 80P(2)(a)(i) in its return of income. Although a rectification application was filed, the same was not considered, and the Commissioner (Appeals) rejected the claim by invoking section 80A(5). The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer is duty-bound to grant a legitimate deduction even if it is claimed under an incorrect provision or omitted due to a bona fide mistake. Further, section 80A(5) has no application to a deduction claimed under section 80P by a co-operative society. Accordingly, the assessee was held entitled to deduction under section 80P(2)(a)(i). (AY. 2018-19)

Habrol Co-operative Agricultural Service Society Ltd. v. ITO (2025)
130 ITR 425 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Interest income from fixed deposits with scheduled banks, personal loans to employees and house building loans not attributable to business of providing credit facilities to members-Deduction rightly denied-Commission, miscellaneous and sundry receipts not attributable to business of providing credit facilities-Deduction rightly denied.Income-Method of accounting-Overdue interest on non-performing assets-Income recognition-Matter remanded to exclude interest only if supported by statutory guidelines or accounting standards-Assessment-Income from other sources-Expenses against interest income-No further expenses allowable beyond those already claimed in computation of income-Disallowance confirmed Principles of natural justice-Alleged lack of opportunity before Commissioner (Appeals)-Appellate order passed after considering submissions-No violation was found.[S.4,80P(2)(a)(1), 80P(2(d)), 143(3), 250]

The assessee, a co-operative society engaged in lending to its members and to primary co-operative agriculture and rural development banks, had its deduction under section 80P disallowed and Rs. 17,76,82,947 added as overdue interest by AO, which was upheld by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal, following its own decision in the assessee's case for an earlier year, confirmed the disallowance of deduction under section 80P(2)(a)(i)/(d) on interest from banks, personal loans and house building loans to employees, and on commission, miscellaneous and sundry income, holding these not attributable to the assessee's business of lending to members, since employees were not members; held that no further expenses beyond those already claimed and allowed could be attributed to earning such interest and other income; rejected the assessee's plea of lack of opportunity before CIT(A) as unsubstantiated; and remanded the issue of overdue interest on NPA to AO to examine and exclude such interest from income only if supported by statutory guidelines or AS, subject to the assessee demonstrating and quantifying the same. (AY.2013-14)

West Bengal State Co-operative Agri and Rural Development Bank Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 434 (Kol) (Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Deduction-Related return-Deduction under section 80P cannot be denied merely because the return was filed after the due date. [S.80AC(ii), 139(1), 143(1)]

The assessee, a co-operative society, filed its return belatedly claiming deduction under section 80P, which was denied by the Centralised Processing Centre and confirmed by the Commissioner (Appeals) by invoking section 80AC(ii). The Tribunal held that section 80AC(ii) does not bar the grant of deduction under section 80P merely because the return was filed beyond the due date prescribed under section 139(1). Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to allow the deduction under section 80P. (AY. 2019-20).

Shramik Vikas Sahkari Shram Samvida Samiti Ltd. v. Assessing Officer (2025) 122 ITR 169 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 80P: Co-operative societies-Commission income from MSEDCL Bill Collection-Services rendered to members-Entitled to exemption. [S.80P(2) (c)]

Assessee, a co-operative credit society, earned commission income from collecting electricity bills for MSEDCL (Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Limited) and locker rent charges from its members. AO disallowed the deduction claimed under section 80P(2)(c), treating the commission income as 'Income from Other Sources.' Assessee argued that the income was derived from services rendered to members and was eligible for deduction, supported by audited accounts and expense details

(salaries, electricity charges, etc.).The commission income was attributable to services provided to members and was duly verified. The expenses incurred were directly linked to the income, and the accounts were audited by the Maharashtra State Cooperation Ministry. The income qualified under section 80P(2)(c) as it was incidental to the society's primary credit activities.(AY. 2017-18) (ITA No. 990/Mum/2025, dt.30/04/2025)

DCIT v. Jaimuni Sahakari Patpedhi Maryadit (Mum) (Trib)(UR)

S. 80P: Co-operative societies-Interest from Nationalised banks-Income from other sources-Proportionate expenditure-The matter was remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for verification.

[S. 56, 57, 80P(2)(d)]

The assessee submitted a revised computation offering interest from Nationalized banks under the head 'Income from Other Sources' instead of 'Profits and gains from business', and claimed proportionate administrative expenses under section 57. Assessing Officer rejected this revised computation and did not allow the expenditure claimed under section 57 and disallowed the entire deduction claimed by assessee under section 80P. CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee should be allowed proportionate expenditure against interest income, subject to the assessee establishing a connection between incurring such expenditure and earning of interest income from banks, which is a specific requirement for the claim of such expenditure under section 57. The matter was remanded to the file of the Assessing Officer for verification. (AY. 2018-19)

Kheralu Taluka Primary Teachers Co. Op. Credit Society Niyamit.v. NFAC (2025) 214 ITD 420 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Mutuality-Three classes of members, namely, regular members, associate members and nominal members-Mutuality cannot be denied-Interest from fixed deposit with co-operative Bank-Within mandatory limit allowed deduction-Rental income, commission and other income-Disallowance affirmed. [S. 40(a)(ia), 57, 80P(2)(a)(i), Karnataka Cooperative Societies Act, 1959,S. 18]

Assessee was a co-operative society carrying out banking business and providing credit facilities to its members. It had three classes of members, namely, regular members, associate members and nominal members. Assessing Officer disallowed deduction claimed under section 80P on ground that assessee was catering to different classes of members having different rights with regard to participation in share profit and dividend, therefore, essential feature, i.e. concept of mutuality, was missing in case of assessee-Assessee submitted that as per section 18 of Karnataka Cooperative Societies Act, 1959, a cooperative society was legally allowed to admit nominal and associate members. Since the assessee operated under Karnataka Cooperative Societies Act, which permits inclusion of nominal and associate members, and Supreme Court in Mavilayi Service Co-operative Bank Ltd. v. CIT (2021) 279 Taxman 75/431 ITR 1 (SC) held that eligibility under section 80P must be determined under relevant State law, presence of such members did not vitiate mutuality. The Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to verify mandatory requirement for making FD as per provision of Karnataka Cooperative Societies Act, 1959 and if deposit was found within limit of mandatory requirement, then interest earned from such deposit be allowed. Matter remanded. Deduction on rental income, commissions and small other income heads, since said income was not arising from business of assessee as envisaged under section 80P, disallowance was confirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

ITO v. Sahakara Nagar Credit Co-operative Society Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 178 (Bang) (Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Marketing of sugarcane produced by its members-Commission from sugar mills on supply of sugarcane by its members-Derived from-Business receipt-Eligible for deduction. [S. 56, 80P(2)]

Assessee-society was engaged in marketing of sugarcane produced by its members. It received commission from sugar mills on supply of sugarcane by its members. Assessing Officer held that commission received by assessee was assessable under head income from other sources and not as income from business and, thus, deduction under section 80P was not allowable. CIT(A) allowed the deduction. On appeal the Tribunal held that both Cane Development Councils or Cooperative Cane Development Unions (Cane Growers Cooperative Society or Societies) performed an important role in cane production and marketing in a particular area or zone. Unions were directly involved in marketing of sugarcane to various factories, Council performed a number of functions to facilitate production and supply of sugarcane in area assigned to it. Payment of commission by occupier of factory or by Gud, Rub or Khandsari units was not on account of some investment that was made by these Councils or Unions with factories but rather because of their role in production and marketing of sugar cane in that particular area and was attributable to activity of production and marketing of sugarcane for which Cane Development Councils and Co-operative Cane Development Unions had been set up under Sugarcane Act and Rules. On facts, commission received by assessee was business receipts and, thus, eligible for deduction under section 80P. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16, 2017-18)

ITO v. Cooperative Cane Development Union Ltd. (2025) 212 ITD 558 /236 TTJ 108 (Lucknow) (Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Return was not filed within due date-PCIT condoned the delay-issue was to be remitted to Assessing Officer.[S.80AC, 119, 139(1)]

Assessee, co-operative society, could not file return within due date- Assessing Officer issued reopening notice. the Assessing Officer disallowed the deduction under section 80P on the ground that Assessee did not file return within due date specified in section 139(1).The Hon'ble CIT(A) has up held the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Hon'ble Tribunal held that the Assessee had filed a condonation petition before Principal Commissioner who condoned delay in filing return for assessment year 2019-20 beyond due date specified under section 139(1). Accordingly the issue was to be remitted to Assessing Officer with a direction to give effect of order of Principal Commissioner and pass necessary order after due verification allowing deduction as claimed by assessee under section 80P. (AY. 2009-10)

Angamaly Service Co-operative Bank Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 288 (Cochin) (Trib.)

S. 80P : Co-operative societies-Interest income from its investments held with a co-operative bank-Entitle to deduction. [S.80P(2)(d)]

The Assessee, a co-operative society, derived interest income from its investments held with a co-operative bank and claimed deduction under section 80P(2)(d). However, the Centralized Processing Centre ('CPC') disallowed the claim while processing the return under section 143(1). On appeal, the ITAT observed that the issue was already covered in favour of the Assessee by several judicial precedents, particularly the decision of the Mumbai Tribunal in Pathare Prabhu Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. v. ITO [2023] 202 ITD 464. The Tribunal reiterated that Section 80P(2)(d) grants deduction in respect of interest or dividend income derived by a co-operative society from investments made with another co-operative society. A co-operative bank continues to be a co-operative society registered under the relevant co-operative laws, and therefore interest earned from investments with a co-operative bank qualifies for deduction under Section 80P(2)(d). The Tribunal further clarified that the restriction contained in Section 80P(4) applies only to co-operative banks claiming deduction for themselves and does not deny deduction to a co-operative society earning interest from investments with a co-operative bank. Accordingly, following the consistent view taken in earlier decisions and applying the principle that any ambiguity in a taxing provision should be interpreted in favour of the Assessee, the Tribunal allowed the deduction claimed under Section 80P(2)(d). (AY. 2021-22)

Sai Ankur Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 265 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 80P: Co-operative societies-Delay in filing of return-The amendment to section 143(1)(a)(v) enabling disallowance of deduction claimed under Chapter VIA was made by Finance Act, 2021, w.e.f. 1-4-2021-The Assessing Officer is directed to allow the claim. [S.80AC, 139(1), 143(1)(a)(v)]

The return of income was processed by Central Processing Centre (CPC) and Assessee's claim for deduction under section 80P was rejected. The Hon'ble CIT(A) confirmed the addition as he was of the view that assessee was hit by section 80AC; as assessee had not filed return of income within time limit prescribed under section 139(1). The Hon'ble ITAT held that the amendment to section 143(1)(a)(v) enabling disallowance of deduction claimed under Chapter VIA was made by Finance Act, 2021, w.e.f. 1-4-2021, however as the instant case pertained to assessment year 2019-20, assessee's claim for deduction under section 80P (which falls under Chapter VI-A) was not hit by section 80AC while processing return and making adjustments under section 143(1). (AY 2019-20)

Sahkari Ganna Vikas Samiti Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 375 (Lucknow) (Trib.)

S. 86: Share of member of an association of persons-Syndicates engaged in liquor business-Income of AOP assessable only in hands of AOP, not in hands of member-Inadmissible expenses of AOP cannot be added in hands of member. [S. 2(31), 67A, 153A, 260A]

The Assessee, an individual, derived income from mainly from sale of liquor for which he had formed groups/syndicates with various persons and used to receive his share of profits from the said groups/syndicates. Following a search and seizure operation, the AO made additions to the Assessee's income based on the Assessee's share in undisclosed income and inadmissible expenses of the syndicates. However, the CIT(A) deleted these additions, stating that the syndicates are separate taxable entities classified as an Association of Persons (AOP) and subject to tax at the maximum marginal rate. The Tribunal upheld this ruling, concluding that the syndicates must be assessed separately, making the assessee's profit share and expense share non-taxable. The HC acknowledged the fact that the income of the AOP was already being taxed by way of assessment of the AOP and hence in view of the clause (a) of the first proviso to section 86 read with section 67A, the share received by the members cannot be taxed again in the hands of the recipients. The HC held that no substantial question of law arose and dismissed the revenue's appeals. (AY. 2010-11-2011-12, 2013-14 to 2016-17)

PCIT v. Ramesh Chandra Rai (2024)168 taxmann.com 43 / (2025) 481 ITR 231 (MP) (HC)

Editorial : SLP dismissed in PCIT v. Ramesh Chandra Rai /PCIT v. Ramswaroop Shivhare [2025]181 taxmann.com 890 (SC)

S. 87A : Rebate to be allowed in computing income-tax-The assessee could not be restrained from claiming rebate under section 87A by modifying utility by which assessee was forbidden at threshold itself from making such a claim. [S.115BAC, 139D, Rule 12, Art. 226]

The Revenue had published the income-tax utility wherein the taxpayers were not able to claim rebate under section 87A for taxes computed under chapter XII of the Act. The petitioner filed a writ challenging the said modification in the utility by the revenue claiming that rebate under section 87A was to be allowed not only from tax computed under section 115BAC but also from tax computed following other provisions of Chapter XII of the Act unless such other provisions expressly debar them from making claim. Revenue contended that rebate under section 87A could not be granted from tax specified in other sections of Chapter XII other than section

115BAC and form prescribed was in accordance with provisions of Act and there was no need to seek prayer for modification of the utility. The HC held that section 139D, read with rule 12, provides for filing of return in electronic form and authorises Board to make rules for class of persons who are required to file return in electronic form, however, section 139D, read with rule 12, does not empower authorities to design form on basis of their reading of law or provisions which debar an assessee from making a claim at threshold itself. Since issue raised for consideration on claim under section 87A was highly debatable and contentious, revenue would not be justified in assuming that its interpretation was open and shut, and based upon such a conclusion, shut out bona fide claims for rebate under section 87A. The assessee could not be restrained from claiming rebate under section 87A by modifying utility by which assessee was forbidden at threshold itself from making such a claim.(Dt. 24-1-2025) (AY.2024-25)

Chamber of Tax Consultants v.DGIT (systems) (2025) 473 ITR 85 / 303 Taxman 451 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : Chamber of Tax Consultants v. Director General of Income-Tax Systems & Ors (2025) 302 Taxman 505 (Bom)(HC)

S. 87A : Rebate on Income-tax in case of certain individuals-Tax on short-term capital gains-Computation of income under S. 115BAC-Amendment made by the Finance Act, 2025 supports the view that under the unamended provision applicable for asst. yr. 2024-25, rebate under S 87A cannot be denied merely because tax arises under s. 111A-The assessee is eligible for rebate under s. 87A for asst. yr. 2024-25 even though the income includes STCG taxable under s. 111A[S. 111A,112A(6), 115BAC]

Held that there exists no express bar either in S. 87A or s. 111A for denial of rebate in respect of tax payable on short-term capital gains at special rates under S. 111A; subsequent amendment made by the Finance Act, 2025, which is prospective in nature, clarifies that no such restriction was in force during the asst. yr. 2024-25; assessee is eligible for rebate under

S. 87A for asst. yr. 2024-25 even though the income includes STCG taxable under S 111A and the assessee has exercised option under S. 115BAC. (AY. 2024-25)

Jayshreeben Jayantibhai Palsana v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 817 / 177 taxmann.com 411 (SMC) (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 87A : Rebate on Income-tax in case of certain individuals-Tax on short-term capital gains-Computation of income under S. 115BAC-No restriction in S. 111A which reflects the tax rate on short-term capital gains that the rebate under s. 87A would not be eligible for short-term capital gains.[S.111A]

Held that there is no restriction or prohibition either in s. 111A or s. 87A, rebate under S. 87A is allowable to the assessee on the tax on short-term capital gains. (AY-2024-25)

Pramod Kumar Dubey v. ITO (2025) 237 TTJ 827 (SMC) (Agra) (Trib)

S. 89 : Relief for income-tax-Arrears or advance of salary-One time lumpsum ex-gratia amount in lieu of payments till completion of 63 years of age-Advance salary-Entitled to relief under section 89(1)[S. 17(3(i), 89(1), R. 21A]

Assessee was an employee of company which had incurred heavy losses as a result of which its textile mill unit was shut down. Subsequently, as per individual agreements between company and workers, assessee was paid an ex-gratia amount. Assessee filed his return claiming relief under section 89(1). Assessing Officer disallowed claim on ground that payment made to him by company was one time lumpsum exgratia amount which did not qualify to be treated as advance of salary. The Hon'ble CIT(A) held that the amount is liable to be taxed under section 17(3)(i) of the Act. On appeal the Tribunal held that company also treated one-time compensation as a salary paid in advance and deducted TDS on same which clearly indicated that compensation received by assessee was only salary received in advance and not as termination compensation even though this was paid in lumpsum as ex-gratia in one go and allowed the claim of the Asseessee. following the decision of the co-ordinate bench in the case of other employee of the same company in Rajesh Shantaram Chavan v. ACIT [2022] 141 taxmann.com 513. (AY. 2017-18)

Sunil Vishnu Gaikwad. v. ITO (2025) 211 ITD 30 (Mum) (Trib.)
S. 89A : Relief from taxation in income from retirement benefit account maintained by notified country-Denial of relief-Filed Form No. 10EE for assessment year 2022-23-Option exercised therein would continue to apply to all subsequent years-It would not be mandatory for assessee to file said Form afresh for every assessment year to claim relief under section 89A.[R. 21AAA, Form No 10EE]

Assessee, resident individual, had a retirement benefit account maintained in a notified country. He filed Form 10EE to exercise the option in assessment year 2022-23 for taxation of income accrued from such retirement benefit account in the assessment year in which income from said account was taxed at the time of withdrawal or redemption, as the case may be, in the notified country. For the relevant assessment year, assessee claimed relief under section 89A towards income accrued on retirement benefit account. Assessing Officer disallowed the same on the ground that assessee had not filed Form No. 10EE for the relevant assessment year. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. Tribunal held that the assessee had filed Form No. 10EE for the assessment year 2022-23. Once Form No. 10EE had been filed in respect of a previous year, the option exercised therein would continue to apply to all subsequent years and, consequently, it would not be mandatory for the assessee to file the form afresh for every assessment year. Since relief under section 89A had been granted on the basis of Form No. 10EE already furnished, the same relief could not be denied merely for the reason that the form had not been filed again in subsequent years. Accordingly, the denial of relief under section 89A to assessee on such procedural grounds was not sustainable in law (AY. 2023-24)

Jignesh Naresh Jariwala. v.Dy.CIT (2025) 214 ITD 585 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-elimination of double taxation-Curative petition filed against the review petition dismissed against order of the Supreme Court that a notification under section 90(1) is a mandatory condition to give effect to a DTAA, or any protocol changing its terms or conditions, which has the effect of altering existing provisions of law-DTAA-India-France-curative petition dismissed. [ITATR. 128, Art. 10, 13]

The Hon'ble Supreme Court had in its judgement [2023] 458 ITR 756 held that interpretation of Expression 'is' occurring in DTAA's [clause IV(2) of India-Netherlands DTAA protocol-other two clauses in relation to France and Switzerland being similar] would have present signification, therefore, for a party to claim benefit of a same treatment clause, based on entry of DTAA between India and another state which was member of OECD, relevant date is entering into treaty with India and not a later date. When, after entering into DTAA with India, such country becomes an OECD member such member cannot be entitled to the benefits of the treaty. Further, it was held that MFN clauses do not automatically import benefits granted under a later DTAA with another OECD country and that a notification under section 90(1) is mandatory to give effect to DTAA provisions or protocols that alter legal rights. A review petition was filed against the said order which was dismissed. Subsequently, a curative petition was filed. The SC, after considering the curative petition held that none of the parameters as laid down in the case of Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra (2002) 4 SCC 388 were present and hence dismissed the curative petition.

Nestle Sa v. Assessing Officer (IT), New Delhi (2025) 307 Taxman 167 (SC)

Editorial: Nestle SA v. AO (IT) (2024) 300 Taxman 361/ 341 CTR 320/ 243 DTR 88 (SC)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Interpretation of agreements-Matter covered by Supreme Court-Writ petition was dismissed-SLP of assessee dismissed. [Art.136]

The dispute concerned the taxpayer's claim for the benefit of the Most Favoured Nation (MFN) clause contained in the India-France DTAA. The assessee contended that, by virtue of the MFN clause, it was entitled to the same beneficial treatment that India subsequently granted under its tax treaties with certain other countries that later became members of the OECD. However, during the pendency of the matter, the Hon'ble SC in Nestlé SA (supra) had authoritatively held that for the purposes of an MFN clause, the relevant date for determining OECD membership is the date on which the concerned country entered into the DTAA with India, and not a later date when that country subsequently became an OECD member. The Hon'ble SC further held that any beneficial provision available under another DTAA cannot automatically be imported into an existing treaty through the MFN clause; a separate notification under section 90 of the Act is required to amend or give effect to such changes. Before the Delhi HC, the assessee fairly conceded that the issue was covered against it by the SC's decision in Nestlé SA. The HC observed that it was bound by the law declared by the Supreme Court and, therefore, closed the writ petitions, effectively rejecting the assessee's claim. The High Court reaffirmed that a notification under section 90(1) is a mandatory requirement for giving effect to treaty modifications arising from a protocol or MFN clause that would alter existing legal provisions. The decision was rendered in favour of the Revenue. Subsequently, the SC also dismissed the SLP of the Assessee against the HC order.

Societe DE Participations Financieres v. ACIT (2025) 474 ITR 199 (SC)

Editorial : Societe De Participations Financieres v. Dy.CIT (IT) ([2024] 297 Taxman 75 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-A non-resident is entitled to the credit of Tax Deducted at Source (TDS) even if the income on which the tax was deducted was not offered to tax in India, provided the income is not taxable under the provisions of Section 90 of the Income Tax Act, 1961-Directed to refund of TDS along with interest. S. 143(3), 155(14). 264,Form 26AS Art. 226]

The assessee is a non-resident reinsurance company. The primary issue was whether the assessee, was entitled to the credit of TDS deducted for the Assessment Year, despite not offering the corresponding income for tax in India. The revenue contended that the assessee was not entitled to the credit of TDS because the income received by the Assessee was never offered to tax in India. Further that the assessee should have revised its Return of Income to include the earnings to claim the TDS credit. The assessee contended that the income received was not taxable in India under Section 90 and therefore, they were entitled to a refund of the TDS amount. Moreover, the TDS credit was duly reflected in Form 26AS, and the return was processed under Section 143(3) without any additions, thereby accepting their position. The Hon'ble High Court held that the assessee was entitled to the TDS credit as the income was not taxable in India under Section 90 of the Act. The Hon'ble High Court also emphasized that Section 155(14) of the Act does not require the original return to be amended or revised for the TDS credit to be granted. The Hon'ble High Court ordered the refund of the TDS along with statutory interest to the assessee. (AY. 2015-16)

Munchener Ruckversicherungs Gesellschaft Aktiengesellschaft in Munchen v. CIT (IT) (2025) 473 ITR 53 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Non-resident-Tests-Fixed place permanent establishment-Assessee company providing remittances services to non-residents in USA-Liaison office set up in India under conditional permission granted by Reserve Bank of India-Reports to Reserve Bank of India not showing any violations of conditions-No material to establish that liaison office at disposal of assessee or belonged to assessee to conduct its business wholly or partly-Nature of activities of liaison office preparatory and auxiliary-Liaison office not permanent establishment of assessee.- Not exigible to tax in India-DTAA-India-USA. [Art. 5(1), 5(2), 5(3)]

The Assessee, a US based non-resident company established a Liaison Office (LO) in India with RBI approval, restricted to preparatory activities like distributing brochures, liaising with authorities, and exploring business opportunities, while being prohibited from engaging in commercial activities or signing agreements. For relevant assessment years, the assessee had paid commission to its agents situated in India. The AO alleged the place used by the LO to be fixed place PE and also alleged that the LO constituted a dependent agent PE. The CIT(A) upheld the order of the AO. The Tribunal held that the Assessee had a business connection in India as per the Act, however, it did not constitute a PE in India. Dismissing the appeal of the department, Hon'ble High Court held that the liaison office did not meet the criteria established in sub-paras 1 and 2 of article 5, so as to constitute a "fixed place" of business or meet the tests of virtual projection, a takeover of the premises as well as the precepts of control and disposal in order to be a fixed place permanent establishment. The activities undertaken by the liaison office even otherwise were clearly auxiliary in character and would thus clearly fall within Article 5(3)(e) of the DTAA. The liaison office also did not meet the requirements of a dependent agent permanent establishment as per clauses (a), (b) and (c) of para 4 of article 5. Furthermore, the software utilised for the purpose of connecting the Indian agents to the mainframe, being intangible property, would invariably be excluded from the threshold of permanent establishment. Hence, it was held that the liaison office of the assessee did not constitute a permanent establishment in India, there was no dependent agent permanent establishment and that the software did not result in the creation of a permanent establishment. (AY. 2001-02 to 2004-05 2006-07 to 2008-09, 2011-12, 2013-14 2015-16)

DIT (IT) v. Western Union Financial Services Inc. (2025) 472 ITR 220 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Foreign tax credit cannot be denied merely because Form No. 67 was filed after the due date, where the claim is otherwise supported by the return of income. [S. 139(1), R. 128]

The assessee became a resident in India during the relevant year, declared global income and claimed foreign tax credit under section 90. The Assessing Officer rejected the claim solely because Form No. 67 was not filed along with the return within the prescribed time. The Tribunal held that the delay in filing Form No. 67 is procedural in nature and cannot defeat a substantive claim for relief where the requisite particulars are available on record. The Assessing Officer was directed to grant a foreign tax credit. (AY. 2022-23)

Vaibhav Singh v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 17 (SN) (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 90: Double taxation relief-Tax on excess interest under Article 11 cannot exceed the treaty rate of 10%-Surcharge and education cess not leviable separately-DTAA-India-Cyprus. [Art. 11]

The Revenue sought to levy surcharge and education cess over and above the tax payable on interest under Article 11 of the India-Cyprus DTAA. The Tribunal held that the treaty specifically restricts tax on gross interest to 10 per cent and such ceiling includes the tax payable under the treaty. Accordingly, surcharge and education cess could not be levied over and above the treaty rate, and the Assessing Officer was directed to restrict the tax to 10 per cent of the gross interest. (AY. 2014-15)

Fairfield Developments Ltd. v. Dy. DIT (2025) 130 ITR 211 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 90: Double taxation relief-Foreign Tax Credit-FTC cannot be denied merely because Form No. 67 was filed after the due date under section 139(1), where it was furnished before completion of assessment-Requirement under Rule 128(9) is directory and not mandatory. [S., 91, 143(1), R. 128(9)]

The assessee claimed Foreign Tax Credit (FTC) of ₹7.70 lakh in respect of taxes paid in the USA. Though Form No. 67 was filed after the due date prescribed under section 139(1), it was furnished before the intimation under section 143(1). The CPC denied the FTC and the CIT(A) upheld the denial solely on the ground of delayed filing of Form No. 67. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the requirement of filing Form No. 67 within the prescribed time under Rule 128(9) is directory and not mandatory, and FTC cannot be denied when the form is filed before completion of the assessment. Since the authorities failed to consider Form No. 67 despite it being available on record prior to the intimation under section 143(1), the matter was restored to the CIT(A) to verify the claim and grant the eligible FTC in accordance with law. Appeal allowed for statistical purposes. [AY. 2020-21]

Ashish Sood v. Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 436 (Chd)(Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Non-resident-Government authority-Interest income-Abu Dhabi Investment Authority-Exempt under India-UAE DTAA-Denial based on Truecaller search unsustainable-DTA-India-UAE.[Art. 24(2)(b)(ii)]

The assessee, Abu Dhabi Investment Authority, produced a valid Tax Residency Certificate, registration as a Foreign Portfolio Investor with SEBI and other documentary evidence establishing its identity and status as an authority of the Government of Abu Dhabi. The Commissioner (Appeals) denied exemption under Article 24 of the India-UAE DTAA solely because the mobile number mentioned in the return appeared as fraudulent on the "Truecaller" application. The Tribunal held that such an approach was wholly unsustainable. Once the statutory documents established that the assessee was the Abu Dhabi Investment Authority specifically covered by Article 24(2)(b)(ii) of the DTAA, its income was exempt from tax in India. The interest income was therefore held not taxable. (AY. 2019-20).

Abu Dhabi Investment Authority v. Dy. CIT [2024] 160 taxmann.com 104 / (2025) 126 ITR 209 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Foreign tax credit-Form No. 67 filed-Substantive compliance-Credit allowable.

The Tribunal held that where the assessee had furnished Form No. 67 along with the prescribed documents, denial of foreign tax credit merely on technical grounds was not justified. The Assessing Officer was directed to allow the foreign tax credit in accordance with law. (AY. 2020-21).

Toyota Boshoku Automotive India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 298 / 174 taxmann.com 933 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Foreign tax credit-Credit on income exempt in India-Available where permitted by applicable DTAA-DTAA-India-USA [Art.25]

The assessee claimed foreign tax credit in respect of taxes paid overseas on income exempt from tax in India. The Tribunal held that such credit was allowable only where the relevant Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement expressly permitted credit even in respect of income exempt in India. Accordingly, credit was available only in respect of countries whose treaties contained such provisions. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Non-resident-Rights Entitlement-Capital gains-Rights entitlement distinct from shares-Taxable only in State of residence-DTAA-India-Ireland [[Art. 13(4), 13(5), 13(6), Companies Act, 2013, S. 62]

The assessee, an Irish tax resident and registered Foreign Portfolio Investor, earned short-term capital gains on the sale of rights entitlements of Indian companies and claimed exemption under Article 13(6) of the India-Ireland DTAA. The Revenue treated rights entitlements as shares taxable in India under Article 13(5). The Tribunal held that rights entitlement is a distinct asset, separate from equity shares, capable of being transferred, renounced or allowed to lapse, and is akin to a derivative rather than a share. Since Article 13(5) applies only to shares and rights entitlements are not covered therein, the gains were taxable only in Ireland under Article 13(6). Accordingly, the capital gains were held not taxable in India. (AY. 2021-22).

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund, A Series of VISPLC v. Asst. CIT (2025) 125 ITR 128 / 172 taxmann.com 515 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Non-resident-Delaware Limited Liability Company-Fiscally transparent entity-Liable to tax in USA-Treaty benefits available-DTAA-India-USA [

The Assessing Officer denied treaty benefits on the ground that the assessee, being a Delaware Limited Liability Company, was a fiscally transparent entity. The Tribunal held that "liable to tax" denotes the legal liability to taxation and not actual payment of tax. Accordingly, the assessee was entitled to the benefits of the India-USA Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement. (AY. 2016-17 to 2019-20 & 2021-22).

GoDaddy.com, LLC v. ACIT (IT) (2025) 123 ITR 29 / 170 taxmann.com 408 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Foreign tax credit-Filing of Form No. 67 is not mandatory, but it is a directory requirement, and mere delay in filing Form No. 67 as per provisions of Rule 128(9) will not preclude the assessee from claiming benefit of foreign tax credit in respect of tax paid outside India.-DTAA-India-USA.[R. 128, Form No 67, Art. 25]

The Assessee filed his return of income claiming foreign taxes, however there was a delay in filing Form 67. The CPC disallowed the claim of foreign taxes. On appeal the Hon'ble CIT(A) allowed the claim of foreign taxes. On appeal by the department, the Tribunal held that filing of Form No. 67 is not mandatory, but it is a directory requirement, and mere delay in filing Form No. 67 as per provisions of Rule 128(9) will not preclude assessee from claiming the benefit of foreign tax credit ('FTC') in respect of tax paid outside India. The Tribunal further held that FTC is assessee's vested right as per DTAA read with section 90, and the same cannot be disallowed for non-compliance with the procedural requirement. (AY. 2020-21)

ITO v. Fashion Factory (International) (P.)Ltd. (2025) 213 ITD 545 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Filing of Form No. 67 read with rule 128 is only directory in nature and not mandatory-Belated filing of Form No. 67 would not bar claim of Foreign Tax Credit (FTC)-Dividend income from USA based company-Rate of tax on said income is already prescribed under India-USA DTAA, same shall prevail over and above normal tax rate provided under Income-tax Act-DTAA-India-USA. [S. 143(1)(a), Art. 10, 25, R. 128, Form No 67]

Assessee claimed Foreign Tax Credit (FTC) of a certain amount in its return of income. In support of claim of FTC, assessee filed Form No. 67 belatedly. Assessing Officer denied FTC solely on ground of belated filing of Form No. 67. On appeal the Tribunal held that filing of Form No. 67 read with rule 128 is only directory in nature and not mandatory. Therefore, belated filing of Form No. 67 would not bar claim of FTC. Assessee, an individual, earned dividend income from USA based company. In income-tax return, assessee offered this income to tax at rate of 25 per cent as per article 10 of India-

USA DTAA However, CPC while processing return under section 143(1)(a) taxed said dividend income at rate of 30 per cent The Tribunal held that since the rate of tax is already prescribed under Treaty, same shall prevail over the normal tax rate provided under Act and further held that the Assessee had rightly offered to tax dividend income at rate of 25 per cent. (AY. 2021-22)

Vipul Chandrakant Sawalwade. v. ITO (2025) 212 ITD 581 (Pune) (Trib)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Education cess-Tax rates as prescribed under DTAA would include education cess as well-Adjustment made is directed to be deleted-DTAA-India-USA. [S. 143(1), 154, Art. 2(1)b)(i)&(ii), 10, 11]

The Assessee is a citizen of USA and was residing permanently in India. The return of income of the Assessee was processed and the CPC raised a demand after levying education cess on entire tax including DTAA rates. On appeal, the assessee submitted that the rates as specified in DTAA included surcharge and surtax and the education cess would be applicable only for income earned in India. The Hon'ble CIT(A) rejected the same on the ground that education cess is an additional levy that is applied on the basic tax liability by the Government to generate revenue for education. On appeal the Tribunal held that, as per Article 2(1)(b)(i) & (ii) of India-USA DTAA, surcharge and surtax are included in maximum rates as specified under Articles 10 and 11 of DTAA. The Hon'ble Tribunal, relying on DDIT v. BOC Group Ltd (2015) 156 ITD 402(Kol)(Trib), ITO v. M. Far Hotels Ltd(2013) 32 taxmann.com 100(Cochin)(Trib), Sunil V. Motiani v. ITO (IT) (2013) 33 taxmann.com 252(Mum)(Trib), held that the tax rates as prescribed under DTAA would embed education cess as well and directed the CPC to recompute the tax liability. (AY. 2022-23)

Sankaranarayanan Ramasubramanian. v. ACIT (2025) 211 ITD 155 (Chennai) (Trib.)

S. 90 : Double taxation relief-Foreign tax credit-Form No. 67 not filed within due date of filing return under section 139(1) but filed before processing of return by CPC-Directory and not mandatory-Foreign tax credit cannot be denied. [S. 139(1) Form No 67]

Form No. 67 was not filed by assessee within the due date of filing return under section 139(1), but the same was filed before processing of return by CPC. CPC denied Assessee's claim of Foreign Tax Credit (FTC) alleging that Form No. 67 was not filed within prescribed time. The Hon'ble CIT(A) confirmed the action of CPC on the ground that Form No. 67 was not filed before the time limit specified under section 139(1) and filing of Form No. 67 is mandatory to claim the benefit of FTC. Assessee contended that filing of Form No. 67 is a directory requirement but not mandatory. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the CPC was not justified in denying the Assessee's claim of FTC merely because Form No. 67 was not filed within the due date specified for filing return under section 139(1), as it is merely directory in nature. [ITA No. 2491/PUN/2024 dated 21/01/2025] (AY. 2019-20)

Preeti Das v. ITO (Pune) (Trib) (UR)

S. 90: Double taxation relief-Foreign business income-Tax paid in Nepal-Delay in filing Form No. 67-Assessee would be entitled to FTC. DTAA-India-Nepal [Form No 67]

Assessee earned foreign business income on which tax was paid in Nepal. Assessee filed its return claiming FTC. The learned AO denied the claim on the ground that Form No. 67 was filed belatedly. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the Assessee deserved credit for taxes paid in Nepal since provisions of India-Nepal DTAA, which provides for eliminating double taxation of income, have an overriding effect over other provisions of the Act. Therefore, it would be entitled to FTC even if Form No. 67 was filed belatedly (AY. 2021-22)

BGA Electrical & Services (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 210 ITD 472 (Kol.) (Trib.)

S. 90: Double Taxability Relief-Foreign Tax Credit (FTC)-Denial due to delayed filing of Form No. 67-Directed to allow the claim. DTAA-India-Netherlands.[Form No.67, Art. 23]

Assessee was on assignment to Netherlands and had received salary in Netherlands. Assessee had received salary income in India and offered same to tax and claimed foreign tax credit (FTC) in revised return which was disallowed by the CPC on the ground that Form No. 67 was filed beyond time allowed in terms of rule 128(9). The Hon'ble Tribunal held that Rule 128(9) prescribing the filing of Form No. 67 by the due date of the return, is directory and procedural and non-compliance with this procedural requirement does not extinguish the substantive right to claim FTC. The Hon'ble Tribunal further held that the provisions of DTAA override domestic law if they are more beneficial to the Assessee and procedural compliance should not override the DTAA's substantive provisions, which guarantee relief from double taxation. Accordingly, the AO was directed to allow FTC as per DTAA between India and Netherlands. (AY. 2020-21)

Surendra Kumar Goenka v. ADIT, CPC (2025) 210 ITD 315 (Kol.) (Trib.)

S. 90 :Double taxation relief-Mauritius company-Indian company shares acquired before 01-04-2017-Sale claimed as exempt using Article 13(4) of the DTAA-No capital gains as TRC was given and grandfathering of treaty.-DTAA-India-Mauritius [S.90, Art. 13(4)]

Assessee company was investment company based in Mauritius and invested in India in number of companies. The capital gains of sale of equity shares of Indian companies were claimed as non-taxable by taking recourse to Article 13(4) of India-Mauritius Treaty. The AO treated the company as shell company and alleging that there was no real economic activity, and TRC was not sufficient and that the company was managed from USA parent and no treaty benefit could be given. It was observed by ITAT that the assessee company submitted all documentary evidences to claim treaty benefit as per Article 13(4) and as per section 90 read with rule 21AB. Form

No.10F and category-1 Global business license issued by the Financial Services Authorities Mauritius was submitted. It was held that the income-tax authorities sitting in India cannot question the correctness of the TRC issued by the Mauritius Tax Authority. Once, the concerned authorities in Mauritius have issued the TRC and the Cat-1 Global business license, it has to be assumed that all facts and evidences were verified by them and only after being satisfied that the relevant conditions have been fulfilled, the certificates have been issued. The AO could not establish on record that the assessee is a shell/conduit company through proper evidence. It was held that the assessee remains entitled to treaty benefits. Further, since the shares were acquired before the amendment to the tax treaty was made, the LTCG can be claimed as exempt. (AY. 2020-21)

Norwest Venture Partners X-Mauritius v. DCIT / [2024] 160 taxmann.com 632 / [2025] 121 ITR 239(Delhi)(Trib)

S 90: Double taxation relief-Capital gains-Exempt income-Set-off of losses-Carry-forward allowed-No set-off of capital losses against exempt gains permitted-Carry-forward of losses for future years is allowed, subject to that the set-off must be applied only to income which is taxable in India-DTAA-India-Mauritius. [S. 70,74(1),90(2), Art. 4, 13(3B),13(4)]

The Assessee, TVF Fund Ltd, a company incorporated in Mauritius and registered with SEBI as a Foreign Portfolio Investor (FPI), earned LTCG of Rs. 225 crores and STCG of Rs. 39 crores during AY 2021-22 from the sale of shares and derivatives acquired prior to 01.04.2017. The Assessee, a resident of Mauritius under Article 4 of the India-Mauritius DTAA, claimed exemption for these gains under Article 13(3) and 13(4) of the DTAA, holding that such gains are taxable only in Mauritius. The assessee also carried forward LTCL of Rs. 45 crores for AY. 2020-21 and Rs. 11 crores for AY 2021-22, as well as STCL of Rs. 9 crores after setting off Rs. 3 crores in AY 2021-22. The learned AO passed an order setting off the brought-forward capital losses against the exempt capital gains, thereby restricting the exemption claimed under the DTAA. The DRP upheld the order of the AO. The Tribunal held that capital gains on shares and derivatives acquired prior to 01.04.2017 are exempt from tax in India under Article 13(3) and 13(4) of the India-Mauritius DTAA, as such gains are taxable only in Mauritius. The Tribunal also held that the set-off of capital losses against exempt income is not permissible as the gains are not chargeable to tax in India, no loss can be set off against such exempt income. The Tribunal also held that carry-forward of losses for future years is allowed, subject to the condition that the set-off must be applied only to income that is taxable in India. (AY.2021-22)

TVF Fund Ltd. v. Dy.CIT [2025] 171 taxmann.com 349 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 90 :Double taxation relief-Capital gains-Mutual fund Units-Singapore resident-Sale/redemption of mutual fund units would be covered under Article 13 of DTAA-Not taxable in India-DTAA-India-Singapore. [Art. 13(4), 13(5)]

Assessee is a non-resident Indian and is a resident of Singapore. The Assessee has claimed exemption for the capital gains earned on sale of Mutual funds under Article 13 of the India Singapore DTAA. The AO denied the exemption. The DRP affirmed the denial of exemption by the AO. On appeal the Hon'ble Tribunal held that the short term capital gains arising from sale/redemption of mutual fund units would fall within the ambit of Para 5 of Article 13 of DTAA between India and Singapore. Accordingly the Tribunal deleted the addition. (AY.2022-23)

Anushaka Sanjay Shah(Ms) v.ITO (IT)(2025) 173 taxmann.com 570 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 92B : Transfer pricing-International transaction-Determination of-whether corporate guarantee was an international transaction-Remand directions by the Tribunal held to be unclear-HC sets aside order of Tribunal and directs AO for de novo exercise [S.92CA, 260A]

The Assessee had given a corporate guarantee in respect of bonds issued by its AE. The AO made a reference to the TPO, however, the TPO did not make any additions. The AO independently examined the issue and made the addition of alleged guarantee fee by treating it as an international transaction. The CIT(A) upheld the order of the AO. Subsequently, the Hon'ble Tribunal constituted a special bench but it was held that the question of whether giving a corporate guarantee was an international transaction did not arise as the Assessee had only given an undertaking. The Tribunal remanded the matter to the AO for fresh examination of the issue. On appeal to the Hon'ble HC, the HC held that the Tribunal's remand directions were overly broad and failed to specify the precise issue that remained to be examined. The Court observed that the real question was whether the obligation arising from the undertaking given by NDTV could itself qualify as an "international transaction" under Section 92B. The Court further noted that this issue had not been conclusively determined by the lower authorities and therefore required examination at the assessment stage.

The order of the Tribunal was set aside with the direction that after the learned AO came to a conclusion that the corporate guarantee amounted to an international transaction the matter was to be considered and referred to the TPO. Since the principal direction of remit by the Tribunal and a de novo exercise was liable to be undertaken by the AO, the order of the TPO and the consequent draft assessment order also stood set aside.(AY.2008-09)

New Delhi Television Ltd v. ACIT [2025]478 ITR 536 / 171 taxmann.com 425 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92B : Transfer pricing-International transaction-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-Lending or Borrowing / Capital Financing-Delay in receipt of receivables beyond a reasonable credit period partakes the character of an advance and results in an international transaction in view of the Explanation to section 92B(2), which can thereafter be subjected to computation of notional interest. [S. 92C]

The assessee was engaged in the business of providing software services. The case was selected for scrutiny, and international transactions entered into with AEs were referred to TPO under section 92CA(1) for determination of ALP. The TPO passed an order under section 92CA(3) proposing a transfer pricing adjustment on account of outstanding trade receivables from AE, treating the delay in realization of receivables beyond the reasonable credit period as a separate international transaction and imputing notional interest thereon. The DRP upheld the order passed by the TPO. On appeal to the Tribunal, it was held that delay in receipt of trade receivables beyond reasonable credit period constituted an international transaction and warranted computation of notional interest at LIBOR plus markup under rule 10CB. Thus, the appeal of the assessee was dismissed. [AY. 2017-18]

Avaya India (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 128 ITR 504 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92B : Transfer pricing-International transaction-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-Royalty-Payment for technical know-how-Royalty transaction cannot be aggregated with manufacturing transactions-Transaction held to be at arm's length. [S.92C, R. 10AB]

The Transfer Pricing Officer aggregated the assessee's payment of royalty with other manufacturing transactions for determining the arm's length price. The Tribunal held that payment of royalty for use of technical know-how was an independent international transaction and could not be aggregated with manufacturing activities merely because the technology was used in the manufacturing process. Since the royalty charged by the associated enterprise from another independent party for the same product was higher than that charged from the assessee, the royalty paid by the assessee was held to be at arm's length, and the adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2018-19).

MAN Energy Solutions India P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 149 taxmann.com 347 / (2025) 129 ITR 562 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 92B : Transfer pricing-Determination of Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Interest on outstanding receivables is international transaction-Separate benchmarking-Appropriate rate of interest is LIBOR + 200 basis point. [S.92C]

The Assessee had outstanding receivable from its AEs beyond the agreed credit period. The learned TPO opined that the delay in payment of receivables from the AEs constituted an International Transaction under section 92B, which explicitly included such deferred payments under the ambit of transfer pricing provisions, thereby warranting an Arm's Length Price (ALP) determination. As a result, the learned TPO worked out the delayed period in excess to 90 days of agreed credit period for each and every invoice and applying interest rate as SBI-PLR i.e. 13.27 per cent. The Assessee filed objections before the Hon'ble DRP. The Hon'ble DRP held that outstanding receivable was not an international transaction, the TP adjustment should be made where there was real income arises, the Assessee being debt free had not incurred borrowing cost, therefore interest on outstanding receivable was not required to be charged etc.

The learned TPO passed giving effect order, and the learned AO passed final assessment order making an addition of interest on outstanding receivable for certain amount only. The Hon'ble DRP revised its direction as there was inadvertence mistake crept in the direction. The DRP in rectified direction directed the TPO to compute the ALP of interest on delayed receivable only for the period pertaining to year under consideration. The learned TPO passed revised giving effect order and thereby computed the interest amount at certain amount. The revised computation of the interest was not incorporated by the learned AO in the final assessment order as the learned AO had not received the revised direction issued by the Hon'ble DRP. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that as per amendment to section 92B of the Act by way of Finance Act, 2012 with retrospective effect from 1-4-2002, interest on outstanding receivables is an international transaction, which requires separate benchmarking. The Hon'ble Tribunal directed the learned Assessing Officer to compute interest on delayed receivable for period falling with year under consideration only and appropriate rate of interest would be LIBOR + 200 basis point. (AY. 2020-21)

Ariba Technologies India (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 212 ITD 17 /235 TTJ 420 (Bang) (Trib)

S. 92B : Transfer pricing-Determination of Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Transactions between head office (HO) and Project Office (PO) in India-Transactions between a foreign enterprise and its PE in India qualify as international transactions under section 92B, even if both are non-residents subject to ALP adjustment-The matter is directed to be placed before the Division Bench to give effect to the direction. [S.92 Art. 7(2),9, India-China DTAA]

The Assessee was Project Office in India of TBEA a company incorporated in China. The Head Office in China had made/ received certain payments on behalf of the Project Office as the Project Office did not have a bank account in India at the relevant time. The learned Assessing Officer held the payments as 'reimbursement' and termed them as 'international transaction' for the purpose of reference to learned TPO.

The learned TPO held that since the original onshore service contract was executed between head office in China and PGCIL, the act of carrying out execution of the contract by the Project Office in India on behalf of head office in China and consequent incurring of expenses by it was required to be considered as the international transaction between the Head Office in China and Project Office. The learned TPO observed that the per unit civil work rate received from PGCIL was lower than the rate paid to sub-contractor. The learned TPO held that the Project Office was not adequately compensated for the onshore activity and had incurred losses. Therefore the learned TPO held that the TP provisions were applicable to transactions between Project Office and its Head Office in China. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal and Special Bench was constituted by the Hon'ble Tribunal.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the difference in per-unit civil work rates received from PGCIL and the rate paid to subcontractors showed inadequate compensation to the PO. Since the PO was a separate enterprise under Article 7(2) of the India-China DTAA, transactions between HO and PO were subject to transfer pricing adjustments under section 92B. Assessee challenged the adjustment. Held: The PO must be treated as a distinct and separate enterprise from HO, as per Article 7(2) of the India-China DTAA. Transactions between a foreign enterprise and its PE in India qualify as international transactions under section 92B of the Act, even if both are non-residents. The matter is directed to be placed before the Division Bench to give effect to the direction. (AY. 2012-13)

TBEA Shenyang Transformer Group Company Ltd. v. Dy. CIT(IT) (2025) 210 ITD 53 /233 TTJ 906 (SB) (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S.92BA : Transfer pricing-Specified domestic transaction-Arm's length price-Market value of electricity-Indian Energy Exchange not comparable to supply by State Electricity Boards-Comparable uncontrolled price method not applicable in case of material dissimilarity-Deletion of transfer pricing adjustment justified. [S.80-IA(8), 92B, 92BA, 92C, 92F, 260A]

The assessee, engaged inter alia in power generation, transferred electricity from eligible units to non-eligible units and claimed deduction under section 80-IA. The TPO, while accepting CUP as the most appropriate method, benchmarked the transactions by adopting average rates of electricity traded on the Indian Energy Exchange (IEX) and made a transfer pricing adjustment on the ground that the transfer was not at market value, resulting in reduction of section 80-IA deduction. The Tribunal held that electricity traded on IEX represents spot market transactions for purchase of power and is materially different from regular supply of electricity by State Electricity Boards or power distribution companies for consumption, and therefore cannot be considered as a comparable uncontrolled transaction. It was held that CUP method can be applied only where there is a high degree of comparability and where differences materially affecting price can be reasonably adjusted, which was not possible in the present case. The Tribunal thus accepted the rates charged by State Electricity Boards as an appropriate external CUP and deleted the transfer pricing adjustment. On appeal, the High Court dismissed the Revenue's appeal, holding that the Tribunal was justified in concluding that IEX rates see significant dissimilarity and cannot be applied for determining arm's length price of specified domestic transactions, and that no substantial question of law arose. (AY.2014-15.)

PCIT v. DCM Shriram Ltd. (2025) 478 ITR 385 / 170 taxmann.com 631 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 92BA : Transfer pricing-Specified domestic transaction-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-Industrial undertaking-Generation of electricity-Internal CUP available-Purchase price of electricity from State Electricity Board constituted market value-Transfer pricing adjustment deleted. [S. 80IA]

The assessee benchmarked the transfer of electricity generated by its captive power unit to its manufacturing unit by adopting the Comparable Uncontrolled Price (CUP) method based on the tariff charged by the Punjab State Power Corporation Ltd. The Transfer Pricing Officer substituted the Indian Energy Exchange trading rate as the benchmark. The Tribunal held that where a direct internal CUP was available, the electricity tariff charged by the State Electricity Board represented the appropriate market value. In the absence of any justification for adopting the IEX trading rate, the assessee's transfer price was held to be at arm's length, and the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2013-14).

Nectar Lifesciences Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2022] 138 taxmann.com 557 / (2025) 129 ITR 542 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S.92BA: Transfer pricing-Specified domestic transaction-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax Transfer Pricing-"Arrangement" between eligible and non-eligible units is condition precedent-Additional evidence admitted-Matter remanded.[S. 80-IA (10) 80-IC, 80-IE, 92BA, 254(1), R. 29 of the ITAT Rules, 1963]

The Transfer Pricing Officer invoked section 80-IA(10) merely because the eligible units earned higher profits than comparable concerns and inferred that profits had been shifted from non-eligible units. The assessee sought to produce additional evidence before the Tribunal to demonstrate that the transactions with associated enterprises were at market price. The Tribunal held that existence of an "arrangement" is a mandatory pre-condition for invoking section 80-IA(10), and higher profitability or close connection alone cannot establish such an arrangement. Since the additional evidence was necessary for a just adjudication, it was admitted under rule 29, and the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination. (AY. 2018-19).

Mankind Pharma Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 235 / (2025) 125 ITR 263 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92BA : Transfer pricing-Specified domestic transaction-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-Captive power plant-Transfer pricing-State Electricity Board tariff not comparable-Arm's Length Price to be determined on internal comparable-Eligible business-Non-claim of deduction under section 80-IA-Does not exclude applicability of section 92BA.[S.80IA(8), 80IA(10), 80IB 92CA, R. 10B]

The assessee adopted the tariff charged by the State Electricity Board as the comparable uncontrolled price for benchmarking the transfer of power generated by its captive power plant to its cement manufacturing unit. The Tribunal held that the functions, assets and risks of the State Electricity Board were materially different from those of the assessee's captive power plant. In the absence of an open market price, the Transfer Pricing Officer was justified in applying the arm's length price principle under section 92C read with rule 10B and benchmarking the transaction by adopting the arithmetic mean of the rates charged by the assessee to independent consumers. The assessee contended that section 92BA was inapplicable as no deduction under section 80-IA had been claimed for the relevant assessment year. The Tribunal held that the applicability of section 92BA depends upon the nature of the specified domestic transaction covered by section 80-IA(8) or section 80-IA(10) and not upon the actual claim of deduction under section 80-IA. Mere non-exercise of the option to claim deduction does not take the transaction outside the ambit of section 92BA (AY. 2017-18).

Sanghi Industries Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 133 / 170 taxmann.com 716 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 92BA : Transfer pricing-Specified domestic transaction-Determination of Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Firm-Partner-Capital contribution from partner-Failure to give comparable-Assessing Officer valued at a lower rate based on cost of construction-Addition affirmed.

The Assessee entered into a specified domestic transaction relating to the transfer of land by a partner in the Assessee to the Assessee as capital contribution. The transaction was recorded to have taken place in the books of the Assessee. The Assessee had not given any comparable price and benchmarking analysis for establishing the transaction with its AE to have taken place at arms' length, the learned TPO showcased the Assessee as to why the cost of acquisition of the land by the partner be not considered as ALP of the land transferred to the Assessee. The Assessee filed reply justifying the transaction to be at ALP stating that the land had been transferred to the assessee-firm at cost pointing out that the sale deed itself mentioned the cost of land. The Assessee filed comparable transaction to demonstrate that the impugned specified domestic transaction had taken place at ALP.

The learned Assessing Officer held that land originally acquired was 7,537 sq. mt. by the partner and the contention therefore that only 4,522 sq. mt. land was acquired was incorrect. The Assessee was not justified in stating that the cost of acquisition of land mentioned in the sale deed of Rs. 5.20 crores pertained to cost of acquisition of 4,522 sq. meters of land transferred to the Assessee.

The comparable transaction furnished by the Assessee pertained to Assessment Year 2016-17, since the date of transaction was 15-10-2015 and the Assessment Year being assessment year 2015-16, the learned Assessing Officer held that the transaction was not comparable for the purpose of CUP method prescribed in rule 10B(1)(a) of the Income Tax Rules, 1962.

and recomputed ALP of applying rate of Rs. 9,659/-per sq. meters to the land, 4,522 sq. meters, transferred to the Assessee and made an upward adjustment to the impugned specified domestic transaction of Rs. 83.20 lakhs. The Hon'ble CIT(A) upheld the order of the learned Assessing Officer. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that, TPO/Assessing Officer noted that comparable transaction furnished by Assessee pertained to assessment year 2016-17, since date of transaction was 15-10-2015 and impugned year being assessment year 2015-16, he accordingly held that transaction was not comparable for purpose of CUP method prescribed in Rule 10B(1)(a) and made an upward adjustment to specified domestic transaction. The Hon'ble Tribunal affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer (AY. 2015-16)

Dhara Developers. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 692 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Intra-group services-Matter remanded by Tribunal to Transfer Pricing

Officer-High Court holding no infirmity in order of Tribunal-Revenue SLP dismissed.[S.92CA(3), Art. 136]

The Assessee had computed the arm's length price in respect of the allocation of intra-group services adopting the transactional net margin method but the learned Transfer Pricing Officer held that the services were nil on an application of the comparable uncontrolled price method but the Hon'ble Tribunal remanded the matter to the learned Transfer Pricing Officer to consider the matter afresh. The Hon'ble High Court held that the Hon'ble CIT(A)) and the Hon'ble Tribunal having recorded concurrent findings that the Assessee had received the intra-group services and the transfer pricing study of the assessee could not be rejected unless the conditions as set out in section 92C(3) of the Act were satisfied, that the learned Transfer Pricing Officer had not examined the transfer pricing analysis furnished by the assessee regarding the value of the services received, there was no infirmity in the Tribunal's decision in remanding the matter to the Transfer Pricing Officer to consider afresh whether any of the conditions under section 92C(3) of the Act were satisfied before proceeding to make transfer pricing adjustment on account of intra-group services. The SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2019-20)

American Express Banking Corporation v. ACIT (2025] 307 Taxman 226 / (2026) 484 ITR 1 (SC)

Editorial: American Express Banking Corporation v. ADIT (IT) (2025) 476 ITR 752 (Delhi HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of failure to explain 597 days of delay. [Art. 136]

The Hon'ble High Court held that where learned TPO made protective as well as substantive addition on account of AMP expenditure, however perusal of transactions undertaken by assessee with AE showed no discernible pattern which would suggest any arrangement or understanding between assessee and its AE that would qualify said transaction as an international transaction; no addition could have been made. There being gross delay of 597 days in filing SLP by revenue which had not been explained, SLP was dismissed on ground of delay. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

PCIT v. Amadeus India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 276 (SC).

Editorial : PCIT v. Amadeus India (P.) Ltd(2022) 145 taxmann.com 311 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arms' length price-Tax Avoidance-Gross delay of 434 days in filing SLP had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue-SLP of revenue dismissed.[Art. 136]

The Assessee was a distributor which did not make any value addition to the goods received by it from its principal; the MAM for ascertaining ALP concerning the international transaction was the Resale Price Method. The learned Assessing Officer made upward adjustments and relied upon the TNMM for benchmarking the international transaction. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that although the TPO had observed that the assessee was a full-fledged risk-bearing distributor performing various functions; therefore, the MAM was not RPM, but no comparable instances had been brought on record by the learned TPO. The Assessee resold the goods in the market without any value addition. Bearing these two aspects in mind, the Hon'ble Tribunal concluded that RPM was the MAM to benchmark the concerned international transactions. The Revenue filed an appeal before the Hon'ble High Court.

The Hon'ble High Court held that RPM was most appropriate method for determining ALP of international transaction in case of distribution and marketing activities especially when goods are purchased from AEs and there were sales to unrelated parties without any processing and value addition. Since gross delay of 434 days in filing SLP had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue, SLP of revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

PCIT v. Fujitsu India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 657 (SC)

Editorial : PCIT v. Fujitsu India (P.) Ltd(2024) 296 Taxman 197 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Specified domestic transaction-Royalty-Most appropriate method-SLP of revenue dismissed. [Art. 136]

The Assessee was engaged in the business of manufacturing. The Assessee made payment of royalty to its foreign based AE for providing technical know how and technical knowledge for manufacturing of engines to be sold to the customers. The Assessee benchmarked this transaction alongwith other international transactions of export sales under overall 'manufacturing segment'. The Assessee used TNMM to benchmark all its international transaction. The learned Transfer Pricing Officer segregated the international transaction of payment of royalty from other international transactions of the Assessee and used CUP method to benchmark the international transaction.

The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal which upheld the order of the learned Transfer Pricing Officer. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble High Court.

The Hon'ble High Court allowed the Assessee's appeal holding that the Transfer Pricing Officer having accepted the transactional net margin method as the most appropriate method could not have applied the comparable uncontrolled price method for only one element of the international transaction of payment of royalty, that even after the new agreement was entered into by the assessee. The Hon'ble High Court dismissed the Revenue's petition, that sufficient cause and grounds had not been made out to condone the delay in filing the petition.(AY. 2015-16 to 2017-18)

ACIT v. Cummins India Ltd.(2025) 476 ITR 158 /304 Taxman 604 (SC)

Editorial : Cummins India Ltd. v. ACIT (2023) 294 Taxman 619/ 335 CTR 387 / (2024) 470 ITR 184 (Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Distributor purchasing goods from associated enterprises and reselling without value addition-Gross profit is determinative factor-Resale price method is most appropriate.[S. 144C, 260A]

The Assessee was distributor which did not make any value addition to the goods received by it from its principal, the MAM for ascertaining ALP concerning the international transaction was the Resale Price Method. The learned Assessing Officer made upward adjustments, relied upon the TNMM as most appropriate method. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that although the learned TPO had observed that the Assessee was a full-fledged risk-bearing distributor performing various functions and, therefore, the MAM was not RPM, but no comparable instances had been brought on record by the learned TPO. The Hon'ble Tribunal found that assessee resold the goods in the market without any value addition, concluded that RPM was the MAM to benchmark international transactions.

The Hon'ble High Court dismissing the Revenue appeal , held that the Hon'ble Tribunal found that the Assessee resold the goods in the market without any value addition and therefore, the gross margin earned on such transaction was the only determinative factor for analysing the gross compensation after the cost of sale. It held that although the learned Transfer Pricing Officer and the Hon'ble Dispute Resolution Panel had observed that the Assessee was a full-fledged risk-bearing distributor performing various functions and therefore the most appropriate method was not the resale price method, they did not bring any comparable instances on record and rejected the transactional net margin method adopted by them.(AY. 2011-12 to 2013-14)

PCIT v. Fujitsu India Pvt. Ltd [2024] 296 Taxman 197 / (2025) 483 ITR 400 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : SLP rejected, PCIT v. Fujitsu India Pvt. Ltd (2025) 304 Taxman 657 (SC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Advertising, marketing and promotion expenditure-Applying the bright line test was sustainable-Pendency of SLP-Liberty given to revive the appeal if the Revenue succeeds. [S.260A]

The learned Assessing Officer made reference to the learned the Transfer Pricing office. The learned Transfer Pricing Officer during Transfer Pricing assessment proceedings, observed that the Assessee had incurred substantial Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion ('AMP') expenses. A portion of these AMP expenses resulted in promotion of the Timex brand owned by the foreign AEs and therefore constituted an international transaction under section 92B of the Act applying the Bright Line Test ('BLT'), the learned TPO determined that the Assessee had incurred AMP expenditure in excess of what an independent enterprise would have incurred and made transfer pricing adjustments. The Assessee challenged the adjustment, contending that the AMP expenditure was incurred solely for increasing its own sales in India and that there was no arrangement with the AEs for brand promotion. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal. The Hon'ble Tribunal, both for the assessment years 2010-2011 and 2008-2009, had remitted the matter to the learned Assessing Officer. The Revenue filed appeal before the Hon'ble High Court.

The Revenue had not been able to demonstrate that the position in the assessment year 2010-2011 was any different from that of the assessment year 2008-2009, both in fact and in law.

The Hon'ble High Court affirmed the view of the Hon'ble Tribunal which ruled that excessive AMP expenditure did not fall in category of an International Transaction therefore, adjustment made qua same was unsustainable in eyes of law as assessee was primarily engaged in manufacturing operations and that AMP expenditure had been Incurred to benefit its own operation and not for promoting an AE and had remitted matter back to file of learned Assessing Officer. The Hon'ble High Court dismissed the Revenue appeal.

(AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Timex Group India Ltd [2023] 157 taxmann.com 528 / (2025) 483 ITR 475 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance - Tribunal Order affirmed.[S.260A]

The Revenue appeal dismissed , held that the auditors had accepted it. The accounts had been approved by the company in general meeting and had also been filed with the Registrar of Companies. Therefore, the Hon'ble Tribunal was correct in not interfering with the order of the Hon'ble Dispute Resolution Panel with regard to computation of the profit level indicator. The Hon'ble Dispute Resolution Panel had correctly held that the solar trial activity was an extraordinary item and was not part of the regular business of the Assessee and there was impairment of asset.

PCIT v. Schott Glass India Pvt. Ltd (2025) 483 ITR 3 (Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Interest on delayed receivables-Selection of comparables-Exclusion of comparables by Tribunal Functional dissimilarities-Tribunal Order affirmed. [S.92B, 92CA]

The Assessee established in Mauritius engaged in providing IT enabled back office research and data analytics services to its AEs. The show cause notice was issued to Assessee with respect to disallowance under section 14A of the Act to be made pertaining to the dividend income pertaining to which expenses were not declared. The learned Assessing Officer made reference to the learned Transfer Pricing Officer for ALP determination. The learned TPO selected two comparables and made upward adjustment with respect to IT enabled services. The Assessee filed objections before the Hon'ble DRP. The Hon'ble DRP upheld the disallowance of expenses made by the learned Assessing Officer and the selection of comparables and held that deferred receivables from AE would be an international transaction. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal. The Hon'ble Tribunal deleted the disallowance made under section 14A of the Act and held that the Assessee was debt-free company thus, adjustment on account of interest on receivables cannot be sustainable.

The Hon'ble High Court held that the Hon'ble Tribunal was justified in excluding the two comparables, which were included by the learned Transfer Pricing Officer for determination of the arm's length price under section 92B, on the ground of functional dissimilarities. The Hon'ble Tribunal Order affirmed. (AY.2012-13)

PCIT v. Inductis India Pvt. Ltd (2023) 157 taxmann.com 87 / (2025) 483 ITR 492 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial: PCIT v. Inductis India Pvt. Ltd [2025] 175 taxmann.com 423 (SC), SLP dismissed on account of delay of 387 days.

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-Tribunal holding transfer pricing to be proportionate to value of international transaction-Business expenditure-Provision for warranty-Tribunal deleted disallowance-No substantial question of law. [S.37(1), 260A]

The Hon'ble High Court dismissed the Revenue appeal upheld the order of the Hon'ble Tribunal holding that the transfer pricing adjustment under section 92C of the Act should be proportionate to the value of international transaction. The Hon'ble High Court upheld order of the Tribunal deleting disallowance for provision for warranty. No substantial question of law.

PCIT v. Mahle Behr India Ltd. (formerly known as Behr India Ltd.) (2025) 482 ITR 1000(Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Comparables-Transfer Pricing Officer, included high brand value companies-Functional similarity alone not decisive factor-Exclusion of comparables in subsequent AY's-Directed to exclude two comparables.[S.92CA]

The Assessee engaged in providing IT Software Development Services, Information Technology back office support services together with pre-sales marketing and post-sales technical support services to its group entities. The learned TPO rejected certain comparables selected by the Assessee and used new comparables. The Hon'ble DRP upheld the view taken by the learned Transfer Pricing Officer. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal. The Hon'ble Tribunal upheld the inclusions of comparables selected by the TPO. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble High Court.

The Hon'ble High Court allowed the Assessee appeal held that the exclusion of three comparables for determination of arm's length price under section 92CA of the Act merited acceptance. For two entities, the Hon'ble Tribunal, in the Assessee's own case pertaining to assessment year 2011-2012, excluded two entities i.e. TCS E-Serve and Infosys BPO from list of comparables and consequently were to be excluded for assessment year 2010-2011.(AY. 2010-11)

Cadence Design Systems (India) v. Dy. CIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 122 ((2025) 482 ITR 415 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Distribution business-No ALP adjustment made by TPO-Separate AMP adjustment uncalled-Tribunal Order affirmed. [S. 260A]

The Assessee was engaged primarily in import and distribution of audio/visual entertainment products in the Indian market. The Assessee incurred AMP expenses on behalf of its Associated Enterprise ('AE') and benchmarked the international transaction by aggregating with the other transactions using Transactional Net Margin Method ('TNMM'). For benchmarking software development segment, the Assessee selected 19 comparables in SISC Division and 7 comparables in SARD Division.

The learned Transfer Pricing Officer adopted Bright Line Test ('BLT') for benchmarking the AMP expenses and accordingly made adjustment towards AMP expenses. Further, the learned Transfer Pricing Officer rejected the comparable selected by the Assessee and selected fresh comparables. The Assessee filed objections before the Hon'ble DRP. The Hon'ble DRP upheld the order passed by the learned Assessing Officer. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that in case of distribution business, where there was no ALP adjustment made by the learned TPO, separate AMP adjustment was uncalled. The Hon'ble Tribunal relied on the decision of Hon'ble High Court in Commissioner of Income-tax v. Ansal Properties & Infrastructure Ltd. [2012] 20 taxmann.com 770/207 Taxman 61 (Delhi) held that Assessee would be entitled to depreciation on assets which were discarded during year and were no longer in ownership of Assessee. The Revenue filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal.

The Hon'ble High Court dismissed Revenue appeal held that, where no ALP adjustment was made by the learned Transfer Pricing Officer, hence separate AMP adjustment was uncalled f. Affirmed the Hon'ble Tribunal Order. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. Sony India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 173 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tribunal Order deleting adjustment affirmed. [S. 260A]

The Assessee acting as a distribution channel in India. The Assessee incurred certain AMP expenses on behalf of its AE in India. The learned Transfer Pricing Officer proposed adjustments on the issue of AMP expenses using the "Bright Line Test". The Hon'ble DRP upheld the order of the learned Transfer Pricing Officer which directed upward adjustment. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal. The Hon'ble Tribunal deleted the AMP adjustment of AMP. The Revenue filed appeal before the Hon'ble High Court

The Hon'ble High Court observed that the learned TPO had proposed adjustments on the issue of AMP expenses using the 'Bright Line Test'.

The Hon'ble High Court noted that in Assessee's own case, the Hon'ble High Court rejected bright line test method for making adjustment under section 92C of the Act. The Hon'ble Tribunal affirmed the order of the Hon'ble Tribunal and justified in deletion of addition on account of AMP expenses incurred by Assessee .(AY. 2016-17)

Pr. CIT v. Casio India Company (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 122 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Cost plus pricing methodology-Advance Pricing Agreement would be persuasive value.[S.92CC]

Assessee company was engaged in the provision of software development and related support services to its AEs. The Assessee entered into international transactions of providing "Software Development Services" (SDS) to its AEs. In the course of assessment proceedings, the learned Transfer Pricing Officer made an adjustment in respect of said transaction. The Assessee submitted that it had entered into an advance pricing Agreement with CBDT under section 92CC of the Act for period of five consecutive years from 2014-15 to 2018-19 and rollback for four consecutive years from the year 2010-11 to 2013-14 and said Advance Pricing Agreement was applicable to international transaction of SDS entered into by Assessee with its AEs during year as there was no change in FAR of Assessee during year vis-a-vis years covered under APA Agreement. The Hon'ble Tribunal accepted the contention of the Assessee. The Revenue filed appeal before the Hon'ble High Court, held that since there was no change in FAR of Assessee during year under assessment vis-a-vis years covered under APA Agreement and consolidated margin (OP/OC) computed as per APA Agreement was much more than consolidated margin agreed upon between assessee and CBDT for years covered under APA Agreement, though APA Agreement was not specifically applicable to year under assessment, it would have persuasive value to dispute of Assessee for other years. The Hon'ble High Court affirmed the order of the Hon'ble Tribunal deleting adjustment. (AY. 2010-11)

PCIT v. FIS Global Business Solutions India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 309 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Assessee cannot be treated as wholesale trader-Tolerance limit of ± 3 per cent applicable.[S. 260A]

The Assessee was engaged in the trading of automobile components, processing of steel products and providing logistic services, primarily catering to the automotive industry. It filed its return declaring a loss of a certain amount. The learned Assessing Officer made a reference to TPO for determination of arm's length price of international transactions of assessee with its AEs. The learned TPO rejected comparables selected by the assessee and computed the transfer pricing adjustment. The Hon'ble DRP upheld the same. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that under CBDT Notification No. 30/2013, tolerance was 1 per cent for wholesale traders and 3 per cent for others. As per Notification No. 86/2015, wholesale trading required (i) purchase cost ≥ 80 per cent of total cost and (ii) average monthly inventory ≤ 10 per cent of sales. Assessee satisfied the first condition but not the second, as its average inventory exceeded 10 per cent of sales. Since the Assessee did not cumulatively satisfy both conditions, it could not be classified as a wholesale trader and therefore was not entitled to ± 3 per cent tolerance. The Hon'ble High Court affirmed the order of the Hon'ble Tribunal. CBDT Notification No.30/2013 dated 15-4-2013 and Notification No.86/2015 dated 29-10-2015.(AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Toyota Tsusho India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 307 Taxman 135 (Karn.)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Exclusion or inclusion of RS Software as comparable would have no bearing-Excluding RS Software as comparable academic.[S. 260A]

The Hon'ble High Court dismissed Revenue appeal, held that exclusion or inclusion of RS Software as comparable would have no bearing, in view of said stand, appeal of Assessee on issue of excluding RS Software as comparable, dismissed as academic.

PCIT v. Avaya India (P.) Ltd (2025) 481 ITR 788/ 307 Taxman 179 ((Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Captive Power Plants (CPPs)-Internal CUP method-Average landed cost of electricity paid to SEBs-Corporate guarantee-Arm's length guarantee fee-0.5 per cent-Tribunal Order affirmed. [S. 92BA, Rule 10B]

The Assessee transferred electricity generated from its Captive Power Plants (CPPs) to its non-eligible units and benchmarked the specified domestic transaction by adopting the internal CUP method, using the average annual landed cost of electricity paid by its manufacturing units to State Electricity Boards (SEBs). The learned Transfer Pricing Officer held that the arm's length price should be determined based on average tariff orders applicable to independent power producers supplying electricity to SEBs and proposed an adjustment. The Hon'ble CIT(A) deleted the adjustment, and the Hon'ble Tribunal affirmed the same. On appeal, the Hon'ble Calcutta High Court held that CPPs are established for captive consumption and not for sale of power to SEBs. The internal CUP method adopted by the Assessee, based on the landed cost of electricity purchased from SEBs, constituted the most appropriate method for determining the arm's length price. The Hon'ble High Court noted that the issue was squarely covered by its earlier decisions in Star Paper Mills Ltd. [2025] [172 taxmann.com 391] (Calcutta HC) and Rungta Mines Ltd. [2025] [176 taxmann.com] 410 (Calcutta HC) and answered the substantial questions of law against the Revenue. With regard to the corporate guarantee issued by the assessee on behalf of its associated enterprise, the assessee adopted the CUP method for benchmarking said transactions.. The learned TPO on the basis of a broad functional comparability approach under the CUP Method, computed the interest savings by applying the percentile approach at 137.5 bps and assuming that 50 per cent benefit ought to have been paid by the associated enterprise to the assessee in the form of a corporate guarantee fee, the ALP of the corporate guarantee fee was computed at 69 bps. The Hon'ble Tribunal restricted the arm's length guarantee fee to 0.5 per cent. The Hon'ble High Court upheld this finding, observing that the Tribunal had followed settled judicial precedent and, in fact, applied the very rate contended by the Revenue before the Tribunal. The Hon'ble Court held that no substantial question of law arose on this issue.(AY. 2015-16) PCIT v. Dhunseri Ventures Ltd. [2025] 306 Taxman 375 (Cal) HC

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-SEZ unit-Assessing Officer cannot deny section 10AA exemption on portion of income relating to TP adjustments-No income enhanced by Assessing Officer Conditions of section 92C(4) proviso not attracted.[S.10AA, 92C(4), 260A]

The Assessee-company, engaged in providing back-office support and data processing services, had SEZ unit eligible for deduction under section 10AA of the Act. For relevant assessment years, Assessee had voluntarily offered TP adjustments on account of an APA. The learned Assessing Officer denied deduction under section 10AA of the Act on portion of income relatable to TP adjustments made pursuant to APA on ground that Assessee had declared TP adjustments in anticipation of adjustments by learned TPO to avoid rigour of section 92C(4) of the Act and Assessee had not furnished details to show how such TP adjustments arose as eligible profits and only gains derived from exports were to be allowed. On appeal, the Hon'ble CIT(A) allowed the appeal and found that the exemption under section 10AA could not be denied on the enhanced income and the proviso to section 92C(4) of the Act was not a bar for allowing such a claim. The Hon'ble Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A).On appeal by the Revenue the Hon'ble High Court held that where Assessee had voluntarily factored in ALP pursuant to APA entered into with CBDT, for computing income as declared in its returns, learned Assessing Officer could not deny exemption under section 10AA in respect of declared income of assessee insofar as it related to TP adjustments made pursuant to APA. (AY.2015-16, 2016-17)

PCIT v. Eygbs (India) (P) Ltd. (2025) 180 taxmann.com 681 / 347
CTR 280 / 254 DTR 385 (Karn)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arms' length price-Tax Avoidance-Business of distribution of solar products-No value addition by Assessee on products purchased and sold subsequently.-
Assumption of TPO erroneous-RPM was most appropriate method-Tribunal Order affirmed. [S.92CA, 260A]

The Assessee was engaged in business of distribution of solar products- Assessee used RPM as most appropriate method for benchmarking international transactions relating to purchase of solar products and other methods to benchmark transactions of warranty cost claim and reimbursement of expenses. TPO proposed adjustment by selecting TNMM as most appropriate method on ground that warranty cost claim and reimbursement of expenses were inextricably inter-linked with transaction of purchase of solar products and they could not survive without each other and, thus, these three transactions were required to be aggregated or clubbed together for benchmarking or determination of ALP. The Hon'ble Tribunal deleted the adjustments. On appeal the Hon'ble High Court held that warranty cost claim would be reimbursed by AE apart from reimbursement of expenses and amounts so recovered/reimbursed did not comprise of any service element as AE would have borne these expenses directly, had assessee not incurred same and, thus, purchase of solar products/lights on one hand and warranty cost claim on other, were unrelated transactions and could not be aggregated/clubbed. There was no value addition done by assessee on products purchased and subsequently sold by it. The learned TPO's order was erroneous and RPM was most appropriate method. (AY. 2017-18)

PCIT v. D. Light Energy (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 426 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arms' length price-Tax Avoidance-TNMM-While ALP determination-Benchmarking should be done only on associated enterprise or re-lated party transactions-Not with respect to entire turnover.[S. 260A]

The learned Assessing Officer made transfer pricing adjustment to the assessee's international transactions. The Hon'ble Tribunal restricted the adjustment only on international transactions where the assessee had selected TNMM and applied the same on entity level. On appeal, the Revenue submitted that the presumption underlying arm's length principle was that uncontrolled transactions were at arm's length. and therefore, if the overall margins were less than arm's length margins, the shortfall must be on account of AE transactions only and not on pro rata basis. The decisions of the Co-ordinate Bench hold that benchmarking should be done only on associated enterprise or related party transactions and not with respect to the entire turnover. The Hon'ble Tribunal Order affirmed. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Terex India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 282 (Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-MAP settlement under India-USA DTAA-Applicable only to transactions covered under MAP-ALP of non-US transactions cannot be determined on basis of MAP framework-ALP independently determined under Act and Rules-DTAA-India-USA [S.92CA, R.10B, Art. 27]

The assessee had invoked Mutual Agreement Procedure (MAP) under Article 27 of the India-USA DTAA and transfer pricing adjustments relating to US transactions were resolved through agreement between the competent authorities of India and USA, the Hon'ble Tribunal was not justified in directing the learned TPO to adopt the same approach for determining ALP in respect of non-US international transactions. The Hon'ble High Court held that MAP is a consensual dispute resolution mechanism confined only to transactions covered by such agreement for elimination of double taxation and cannot substitute statutory determination of arm's length price under the Act and Rules for transactions not forming part of MAP. Acceptance of a negotiated MAP settlement for US transactions does not bind or govern determination of ALP for transactions with entities situated in other jurisdictions, in absence of any corresponding agreement between competent authorities. Accordingly, ALP for non-MAP transactions must necessarily be determined independently in accordance with section 92C of the Act read with Rule 10B and the Hon'ble Tribunal's direction to extend MAP methodology to non-US transactions was held to be unsustainable. (AY. 2008-09).

Aon Consulting (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 171 taxmann.com 336 / 346 CTR 121 / 252 DTR 476 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Most appropriate method-TNMM consistently accepted in earlier years-Rejection without reasons-Invocation of "any other method" under Rule 10AB not justified-Assessee's PLI higher than mean PLI of comparables-Revenue Appeal dismissed [S. 260A, R. 10AB]

The learned TPO rejected the Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM), consistently accepted in the preceding six assessment years, without assigning any cogent reasons and adopted the residual "any other method" under Rule 10AB of the Rules. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that though res judicata does not strictly apply to income-tax proceedings, consistency in approach is desirable unless there are valid reasons for deviation, particularly in transfer pricing matters. The learned TPO had neither demonstrated any statutory change nor furnished reasons for discarding TNMM as the most appropriate method. Merely pointing out alleged flaws in comparables or observing that the assessee operated as a commission agent did not justify rejection of TNMM. The Rule 10AB can be invoked only where none of the prescribed methods are appropriate and requires benchmarking with same or similar uncontrolled transactions under similar circumstances. In the present case, the learned TPO failed to establish similarity of transactions used as comparables. The Assessee's PLI under TNMM (OP/VAE and Berry ratio) was significantly higher than the mean PLI of comparables and was further corroborated by independent benchmarking studies. The Tribunal rightly faulted the TPO's approach. Applying the principle in Radhasoami Satsang v. CIT (1992) 193 ITR 321 (SC), the Hon'ble High Court held that no substantial question of law arose. (AY. 2016-17).

PCIT v. Sabic India (P) Ltd. (2025) 345 CTR 104 / 250 DTR 176 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer Pricing-Arm's length price-Sale of power by eligible unit claiming deduction u/s 80-IA to non-eligible units-Market for electricity regulated-CUP Method-Rates charged by SEB constitute appropriate external CUP. [S. 80-IA(8), 92BA, 260A]

The Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that where the Assessee transferred electricity from its eligible captive power units (claiming deduction under section 80-IA of the Act to non-eligible units, the Hon'ble Tribunal was justified in applying the CUP method by adopting the rates charged by the State Electricity Boards/power distribution companies as an appropriate external comparable. The Hon'ble High Court observed that the electricity market is regulated and transactions on the Indian Energy Exchange (IEX) are materially different, being subject to bidding, unpredictability, wide rate fluctuations and payment for power purchased rather than power actually consumed. Such differences significantly affect pricing, making IEX rates unsuitable as a comparable uncontrolled transaction. Since SEB tariffs provide a stable and regulated benchmark with sufficient similarity, the Hon'ble Tribunal correctly held them to be the proper external CUP for determining the market value/ALP of electricity supplied by the eligible unit to non-eligible units. Accordingly, the transfer pricing adjustment was rightly deleted. (AY . 2014-15)

PCIT v. DCM Shriram Ltd. (2025) 344 CTR 817 / 247 DTR 25 / 179 taxmann.com 240 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Specified domestic transaction-Principle of natural justice-Notice and grant of approval by Principal Commissioner quashed and set aside-Matter remanded to Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. [S.92CA(1), 92CA(2), 92CA(3), Art. 226]

The Hon'ble High Court allowing the Writ Petition held that the Assessing Officer had made a proposal dated 24 December 2019 in a great hurry after issuing notice under section 142(1) of the Act calling upon the Assessee to furnish the accounts and documents specified on or before 24 December 2019 at 12: 15 p.m. The notice was admittedly issued at 10:03 p. m. on 23 December 2019. fixing the date of hearing on December 24, 2019. However, there was no response from the Assessee and none had attended. The Reasons furnished for making transfer was also recorded on December 24, 2019 and thereafter the Principal Commissioner had granted approval also on December 24, 2019. The assessee was never provided any opportunity to make submissions in response to the notice dated December 23, 2019. In such circumstances, the further opportunity of hearing granted on December 23, 2019 was only an empty formality resulting into breach of principles of natural justice. The reference made by the Assessing Officer under section 92CA(3) to the Transfer Pricing Officer and the approval granted by the Principal Commissioner were quashed and set aside. The proceedings were remitted to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration of the matter to pass a fresh de novo reasoned order after giving an opportunity of hearing to the assessee and considering the objections in accordance with law.(AY. 2017-18)

Axis Bank Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 477 ITR 297/ 304 Taxman 538 (Guj)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Specified domestic transaction-No substantial question of law.[S. 260A]

The Hon'ble High Court held that the Assessee's contentions that Bloomberg database was not reliable or that the assessee's export price was more than the Indian Customs quoted rate and accordingly, that the exports were at the arm's length price even under the comparable uncontrolled price method had not been controverted by the Department. The Hon'ble Tribunal also rejected the reasons given by the Transfer Pricing Officer that the assessee had made arbitrary adjustment to the prices quoted by the indices with the intention to bring them to the tolerance level of +/-five per cent. It accepted the scientific calculation given by the assessee to arrive at the prices. The Hon'ble Tribunal had arrived at its conclusion on factual basis with valid reasons circumstances, there was no reason to interfere.(AY.2009 10-2012-13)

PCIT v. Phoenix Comtrade Pvt. Ltd [2024] 162 taxmann.com 99 / (2025) 477 ITR 498 (Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance Specified domestic transaction-Entertainment business-Royalty Payment-Transfer Pricing Officer cannot examine commercial expediency-Royalty payable under licence agreement-No question of law Tribunal Order affirmed. [S. 9(1)(vi), 260A]

The Hon'ble High Court dismissed Revenue appeal, held that the Transfer Pricing Officer cannot examine commercial expediency. Royalty payable under licence agreement. No question of law arose regarding disallowance on account of royalty paid by assessee to associated enterprises. The Hon'ble Tribunal Order affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

PCIT v. Sony India Pvt. Ltd [2024] 167 taxmann.com 549 / (2025) 477 ITR 576 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Specified domestic transaction-Reimbursement of expatriate employees salaries-Net margin method-Tribunal Order affirmed. [S. 37(1), 92C, 92CA, R.10A(d), 260A]

The Hon'ble High Court dismissed Revenue appeal held that the learned Transfer Pricing Officer could not question the commercial expediency of the Assessee in hiring expatriate employees for rendering assistance and could not supplant his opinion in place of the assessee in regard to the need for such services. That the arm's length price in respect of royalty could not be determined as nil on the ground that the assessee had incurred losses. The fact that the assessee had incurred a loss in its business, did not necessarily mean that the value of the utilities availed of by it or the value of the labour employed was nil. The arm's length analysis is not concerned with the commercial expediency of incurring costs. It was merely confined to determining the arm's length price of the material or the services used. The decision of the Assessee to procure technical know-how for its activities was a commercial decision. This decision was not subject of a review on the merits by the Transfer Pricing Officer who was to merely examine whether the amount paid by the assessee for acquiring the technical know-how was on arm's length basis. The cost paid for technical know-how was one of the elements of costs, which was incurred by the assessee for carrying on its business. The conclusion of the learned Transfer Pricing Officer that since royalty was paid for technical know-how, the fact that the assessee had not earned profit was indicative that the value of technical know-how, if any, received by the assessee was nil was flawed. There was no infirmity in the decision of the Hon'ble CIT(A) or the Hon'ble Tribunal in setting aside the arm's length price adjustment made by the learned Assessing Officer on the recommendation of the learned Transfer Pricing Officer. The Hon'ble Tribunal Order affirmed. (AY. 2007-08, 2009-10)

CIT v. Benetton India Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 476 ITR 404 / 171 taxmann.com 536/ 347 CTR 825 / 256 DTR 393 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Specified domestic transaction-Concurrent findings of appellate authorities that assessee had received intra-group services-Matter remanded by Tribunal to Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh consideration No infirmity in order of Tribunal remanded matter for fresh consideration. [S.92CA(3) 254(1), 260A.]

The Hon'ble High Court held that the Hon'ble Tribunal had concurrently found that the Assessee had received intra group services it was necessary for the Transfer Pricing Officer to examine the transfer pricing studies furnished by the assessee in that perspective. If the conditions as specified under section 92C(3) of the Act were not satisfied, the learned Transfer Pricing Officer could not proceed to make any adjustment. The Tribunal had remanded the matter to the Transfer Pricing Officer to consider afresh since his fundamental premise was that the assessee had not received any services and had been rejected. In such circumstances, there was no infirmity in the Hon'ble Tribunal's decision in remanding the matter to the learned Transfer Pricing Officer to consider afresh. The learned Transfer Pricing Officer was required to consider whether any of the conditions under section 92C(3) of the Act were satisfied before proceeding to make transfer pricing adjustment on account of intra group services.(AY. 2009 10)

American Express Banking Corporation (India Branch) v. ADIT (2025) 476 ITR 752/174 taxmann.com 595 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tax Avoidance-Specified domestic transaction-Disallowance of expenditure-Existence of international transaction must be established and not inferred-Burden on Revenue to prove existence of international transaction-Amendment introducing deeming fiction in section 92B(2) with effect from 1-4-2015 not applicable to assessment years 2009-2010 and 2012-2013-Assessment Orders set aside. [S. 92B, 92CA, 92D, 92F, 260A]

On the issue whether the Hon'ble Tribunal was justified in (i) deleting addition made on account of advertisement, marketing and promotion expenses (AMP) incurred by the assessee for brand-building of its associated enterprise, and (ii) holding that the Department must establish on the basis of tangible material that there existed an international transaction regarding AMP expenses: Held, dismissing the appeal, that an international transaction requires a discernible arrangement between two or more associated enterprises for allocation or apportionment of expenses. Section 92F defines a transaction to include an arrangement or action in concert, but its existence must be first established. The Explanation to section 92B of the Act only clarified the scope of intangible property but did not relieve the Revenue from proving the existence of a transaction. Since the Revenue failed to establish such a transaction and merely invoked the bright line test on excessive AMP expenditure, the Hon'ble Tribunal rightly set aside the assessments. The deeming fiction in section 92B(2) of the Act applied prospectively from 1-4-2015 and did not cover AYs 2009-10 and 2012-13. (AY. 2009-10, 2012-13)

PCIT v. Beam Global Spirits and Wine (India) Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 475 ITR 664 / 304 Taxman 397 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Tribunal after giving detailed reasons rejected comparables selected by TPO-No question of law arose for consideration. [S. 260A]

The Assessee was engaged in international transactions with its associated enterprises. The learned TPO had adopted certain comparables for determining ALP, which the Hon'ble Tribunal rejected after detailed factual analysis. The Revenue filed appeal contending substantial question of law arose. The Hon'ble High Court held that once the Hon'ble Tribunal's findings were based on factual analysis, no question of law arose.

PCIT v. Warburg Pincus India (P.) Ltd. [2023] 153 taxmann.com 574 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : On SLP by revenue, Supreme Court PCIT v. Warburg Pincus India (P.) Ltd [2023] 295 Taxman 417 (SC) set aside High Court order and remanded for fresh consideration.

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-CUP method-TPO adopting CUP method unjustified-Subsequent years assessee's benchmarking method was accepted-Tribunal Order affirmed. [S. 260A]

The Assessee had undertaken two separate transactions with its AE: export of steel items benchmarked using CPM, and commission income benchmarked using IRR method. The learned TPO instead applied CUP method for both. The Hon'ble CIT(A) deleted adjustment, noting that in subsequent years the Revenue itself had accepted assessee's method and no adjustment was made. The Hon'ble Tribunal upheld deletion, holding CUP inapplicable where sales considered by TPO were negligible. The Hon'ble High Court affirmed. (AY. 2005-06)

PCIT v. Thyssen Krupp Electrical Steel India (P.) Ltd. [2023] 154 taxmann.com 441 (Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Risk adjustment-Tribunal remitted matter for risk adjustment margin-Revenue appeal not maintainable as issue not raised earlier. [S. 260A]

The Assessee claimed risk adjustment in its TP analysis which Hon'ble Tribunal accepted and remitted to AO for working out margin. The Revenue argued before the Hon'ble High Court that risk adjustment is not permissible under Rule 10B(e)(iii) of the Rules. However, since this plea was never raised before the Hon'ble Tribunal, the Hon'ble High Court held Revenue cannot raise a fresh question before it. The Revenue Appeal dismissed.

PCIT v. Mahle Behr India Ltd [2023] 154 taxmann.com 224 (Bom)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-International transaction-Trading of imported luxury goods-Resale price method (RPM) is most appropriate method. [S. 260A]

Assessee is engaged in trading of imported luxury goods. It had used RPM as corroborative method for benchmarking international transactions relating to import of finished goods. TPO rejected RPM for the reason that assessee had incurred excessive sum towards AMP expenses and therefore adopted TNMM as the most appropriate method and accordingly made transfer pricing adjustment. The Hon'ble Tribunal accepted assessee's contention that its AMP expenses were not excessive and were similar to those incurred by other comparable entities and held that RPM would be most appropriate method in given facts. Aggrieved by the order of Hon'ble Tribunal, the revenue filed an appeal before the Hon'ble High Court wherein the Hon'ble High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal holding that AMP expenses were not excessive and were similar to those incurred by other comparable entities and there is no cavil that the AMP activities are a part of the functional profile of the assessee. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

PCIT v. Burberry India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 302 Taxman 257 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-International transaction-Exclusion of Comparables-Brand value-Entities having high brand value not to be selected as comparables-Order of Tribunal is set aside.[S. 260A]

The assessee is engaged in providing IT Software Development Services, Information Technology back-office support services together with pre-sales marketing and post-sales technical support services to its group entities. The Hon'ble Tribunal upheld TPO's order on inclusion of TCS E-serve International, TCS EServe Limited and Infosys BPO Limited as comparables in respect of the Arm's Length Price determination pertaining to the appellant's international transactions for Assessment Year 2010-11. The inclusion of TCS E-Serve International Ltd., TCS E-Serve and Infosys BPO Limited was essentially raised on the ground of the huge expenditure incurred by those entities in brand building and advertisement as also on account of the reputed brand value and profile of those entities which clearly resulted in higher profitability.

Aggrieved by the order the Hon'ble Tribunal, the assessee filed an appeal before the Hon'ble High Court challenging the inclusion of said comparables. The Hon'ble High Court, relying on the decision of Pr. CIT v. Evalueserve Sez (Gurgaon) Pvt. Ltd [ITA No. 241 of 2018, dated 26-2-2018] held that the entities are having high brand value and, therefore, are being able to command greater profits. Hence, these comparables could not be selected as comparables. In view of the above, order of Hon'ble Tribunal was set aside. (AY. 2010-11)

Cadence Design Systems (India) v.DCIT [2025] 482 ITR 415 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Advertising, marketing and promotion expenses-Bright line method-Adjustment deleted [S. 260A]

Assessee has entered into international transactions with respect to distribution functions, cost allocations, reimbursement received and reimbursement paid. The TPO made a transfer pricing adjustment on account of Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenditure incurred by the assessee by applying the Bright Line Test (BLT), alleging that the assessee had incurred excess expenditure for promotion of its foreign AE's brand. The Tribunal rejected the Revenue's contention and held that the BLT could not be applied for benchmarking AMP expenses.

The Hon'ble High Court dismissing the appeal, held that the the Bright Line Test has no statutory mandate, as already laid down in Sony Ericsson Mobile Communications India (P.) Ltd. and Bausch & Lomb Eyecare (India) (P.) Ltd. Mere pendency of appeals before the Supreme Court does not dilute the binding nature of those decisions in the absence of any stay. Accordingly, the AMP adjustment based on BLT was held to be unsustainable and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

PCIT v. Sharp Business Systems (India) Pvt. Ltd. (2025) 472 ITR 582 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Working capital adjustment-Comparables selected by Transfer Pricing Officer-Matter remanded-Adjustment on overdue receivables consequential.[S.92CA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer denied working capital adjustment on the ground that the assessee had failed to establish its impact on profits and separately treated overdue receivables from associated enterprises as an international transaction. The Tribunal held that once the comparables were selected by the Transfer Pricing Officer, it was his duty to examine and compute the working capital adjustment or record reasons for denying it. As neither party had furnished the requisite computation, the matter was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh determination. The Tribunal further held that if, after allowing the working capital adjustment, the assessee's margin falls within the arm's length range, no separate transfer pricing adjustment on account of overdue receivables would survive. (AY. 2020-21).

Schneider Electric IT Business India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2025] 181 taxmann.com 342 / 128 ITR 57 (SN) (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenditure-Revenue failed to establish existence of international transaction-No transfer pricing adjustment-Information Technology support services-Separate international transaction-Matter remanded for fresh benchmarking.[S.92, 92B, 92CA, 92F]

The assessee, engaged in import and resale of BMW automobiles in India, incurred advertisement, marketing and promotion (AMP) expenditure. The Transfer Pricing Officer treated the expenditure as an international transaction for brand-building services rendered to the associated enterprise by applying the bright-line test. The Tribunal held that the Revenue failed to establish any agreement or arrangement requiring the assessee to incur AMP expenditure for the benefit of its associated enterprise. The bright-line test has no statutory recognition for determining the existence of an international transaction. Since the assessee's operating margins were higher than those of the comparables and no material established any brand-building service rendered to the associated enterprise, no transfer pricing adjustment was warranted. The Tribunal held that the payment for information technology support services received from the associated enterprise constituted an independent international transaction and could not be aggregated with other international transactions. Following the decision in the assessee's own case for the earlier assessment year, the issue was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh determination of the arm's length price. (AY. 2011-12).

BMW India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2019] 108 taxmann.com 419 / (2025) 124 ITR 584 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Captive software development services-Business closed after expiry of service agreement-Adjustment cannot be made on expenses incurred for closure of operations-Notional income not taxable.[S.92CA]

The assessee, a captive software development service provider, rendered services to its associated enterprise only during the first nine months of the previous year, after which its operations were discontinued owing to non-renewal of the service agreement. The Tribunal held that the Transfer Pricing Officer erred in determining the arm's length price for the entire year by treating the assessee as a going concern. Expenses incurred for closure of business and impairment losses did not constitute international transactions and no mark-up could be imposed thereon. Since the assessee had declared only actual income and claimed only actual expenditure relatable to the international transactions, no transfer pricing adjustment could be made on notional income. The adjustment was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2012-13).

Motricity India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 166 / 170 taxmann.com 504 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Working capital adjustment-Comparables selected by Transfer Pricing Officer-Matter remanded-Adjustment on overdue receivables consequential.[S.92CA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer denied working capital adjustment on the ground that the assessee had failed to establish its impact on profits and separately treated overdue receivables from associated enterprises as an international transaction. The Tribunal held that once the comparables were selected by the Transfer Pricing Officer, it was his duty to examine and compute the working capital adjustment or record reasons for denying it. As neither party had furnished the requisite computation, the matter was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh determination. The Tribunal further held that if, after allowing the working capital adjustment, the assessee's margin falls within the arm's length range, no separate transfer pricing adjustment on account of overdue receivables would survive. (AY. 2020-21).

Schneider Electric IT Business India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2025] 181 taxmann.com 342 / 128 ITR 57 (SN) (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenditure-Revenue failed to establish existence of international transaction-No transfer pricing adjustment-Information Technology support services-Separate international transaction-Matter remanded for fresh benchmarking.[S.92, 92B, 92CA, 92F]

The assessee, engaged in import and resale of BMW automobiles in India, incurred advertisement, marketing and promotion (AMP) expenditure. The Transfer Pricing Officer treated the expenditure as an international transaction for brand-building services rendered to the associated enterprise by applying the bright-line test. The Tribunal held that the Revenue failed to establish any agreement or arrangement requiring the assessee to incur AMP expenditure for the benefit of its associated enterprise. The bright-line test has no statutory recognition for determining the existence of an international transaction. Since the assessee's operating margins were higher than those of the comparables and no material established any brand-building service rendered to the associated enterprise, no transfer pricing adjustment was warranted. The Tribunal held that the payment for information technology support services received from the associated enterprise constituted an independent international transaction and could not be aggregated with other international transactions. Following the decision in the assessee's own case for the earlier assessment year, the issue was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh determination of the arm's length price. (AY. 2011-12).

BMW India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2019] 108 taxmann.com 419 / (2025) 124 ITR 584 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Captive software development services-Business closed after expiry of service agreement-Adjustment cannot be made on expenses incurred for closure of operations-Notional income not taxable.[S.92CA]

The assessee, a captive software development service provider, rendered services to its associated enterprise only during the first nine months of the previous year, after which its operations were discontinued owing to non-renewal of the service agreement. The Tribunal held that the Transfer Pricing Officer erred in determining the arm's length price for the entire year by treating the assessee as a going concern. Expenses incurred for closure of business and impairment losses did not constitute international transactions and no mark-up could be imposed thereon. Since the assessee had declared only actual income and claimed only actual expenditure relatable to the international transactions, no transfer pricing adjustment could be made on notional income. The adjustment was accordingly deleted. (AY. 2012-13).

Motricity India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 124 ITR 166 / 170 taxmann.com 504 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Export Commission-Adjustment was deleted-Royalty and technical know-how-Revenue expenditure-Expenditure incurred on glow signboards, signage, sales tools and dealer fixtures was also held to be revenue expenditure-Education cess-Not allowable as deduction-Dividend Distribution Tax-Matter remanded to the file of Assessing Officer. [S.37(1), 40(a)(ii)]

The assessee, engaged in the manufacture and sale of motorcycles and scooters, paid export commission and royalty to its associated enterprises. The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the arm's length price of both transactions to be nil. Following earlier orders in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the assessee had established commercial expediency and higher profitability from exports, and therefore the export commission adjustment was unsustainable. Royalty paid under the technical know-how agreement was held to be revenue expenditure and allowable. Expenditure incurred on glow signboards, signage, sales tools and dealer fixtures was also held to be revenue expenditure. However, the deduction of education cess was rejected in view of the retrospective amendment to section 40(a)(ii). The claims relating to excess dividend distribution tax and technical know-how expenditure, not having been made in the original or revised return, were restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2018-19)

Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India P. Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 121 ITR 92 (Delhi)(Trib).

S. 92C : Transfer Pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Comparables-Functionally dissimilar companies are to be excluded while determining the arm's length price. [S. 92CA, 92F]

The assessee, engaged in providing digital mapping, software development and support services to its associated enterprises, challenged the inclusion of certain comparables selected by the Transfer Pricing Officer. The Tribunal held that companies engaged in activities functionally different from the assessee, including engineering services, medical transcription and information technology-enabled services, could not be regarded as valid comparables for software development or production services. It further held that comparables with distorted segmental results due to substantial unallocated expenditure were also liable to be excluded. On exclusion of the functionally dissimilar comparable, the assessee's profit margin fell within the permissible tolerance range of ± 5 per cent. The Tribunal also directed the Transfer Pricing Officer to explain the computation of the profit margin of one comparable and re-determine its inclusion after granting an opportunity of hearing to the assessee. (AY. 2012-13)

Here Solutions India P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 170 taxmann.com 583 / 121 ITR 42 (SN) (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Selection of comparables-No estoppel-Assessee is not estopped from seeking exclusion of company originally selected in TP study.[S.92CA]

The assessee sought exclusion of certain comparables which had originally been included in its own transfer pricing study after discovering that they were functionally dissimilar. Tribunal held that there is no estoppel against an assessee in transfer pricing proceedings. Merely because a company was initially selected by the assessee as a comparable, the assessee is not precluded from subsequently seeking its exclusion upon demonstrating functional dissimilarity or lack of comparability. Functional comparability must prevail over the initial selection made in the transfer pricing study (AY.2013-14)

Here Solutions India (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT [2025] 128 ITR 454 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Selection of comparables-Companies engaged in diversified activities without segmental results-Functionally not comparable-Addition was deleted. [S.92CA]

The assessee, engaged in providing digital map data for vehicle navigation, internet and wireless applications and business solutions to its associated enterprises, benchmarked its international transactions under the Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM). During transfer pricing proceedings, the Transfer Pricing Officer rejected certain comparables selected by the assessee and included companies engaged in diversified business activities despite the absence of reliable segmental information. Tribunal held that a company deriving revenue from multiple business streams without reliable segmental accounts cannot be regarded as functionally comparable for transfer pricing analysis. Where relevant segmental data relating to software development services or IT-enabled services is unavailable, such company is liable to be excluded from the final set of comparables. Accordingly, the Transfer Pricing Officer was directed to exclude the disputed comparables from the benchmarking analysis.(AY.)

Here Solutions India (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT [2025] 128 ITR 454 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Ad-hoc determination of ALP of intra-group royalty payments at Nil without applying any prescribed method or comparable transaction is unsustainable-Where the assessee benchmarked the transaction under CUP and substantiated receipt of services, TP adjustment is liable to be deleted. [S.92CA]

The assessee paid royalty to its AE towards central services and benchmarked the transaction under the CUP method by furnishing comparable agreements and extensive documentation evidencing the receipt and benefit of services. The TPO rejected the benchmarking, determined the ALP at Nil by adopting an ad-hoc approach under the "Other Method" without relying on any comparable uncontrolled transaction, and made a transfer pricing adjustment. The Tribunal held that the TPO had failed to apply any of the prescribed methods under section 92C and merely adopted an impermissible ad-hoc approach. Since the assessee had substantiated the rendition of services and benchmarked the transaction under the CUP method, and identical adjustments had consistently been deleted in the assessee's own case for earlier years, the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. The appeal was allowed. (AY. 217-18, 2018-19)

Unilever India Exports Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 455 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Overseas AE, being the least complex entity, can be selected as the tested party where the assessee substantiates its functional profile and comparability-Matter remanded for fresh examination. [S.92A, 92B]

The assessee selected its overseas AEs as the tested parties for benchmarking its international transactions, contending that they were the least complex entities performing limited functions and assuming minimal risks. The TPO rejected the approach and selected the Indian entity as the tested party without examining the functional analysis and transfer pricing documentation furnished by the assessee. The Hon'ble Tribunal, following the decisions in Atmecs Technologies (P.) Ltd. and Virtusa Consulting Services (P.) Ltd., held that an overseas AE can be selected as the tested party where it is the least complex transacting entity and the requisite documentation is available. Accordingly, the issue was restored to the TPO for fresh consideration after examining the assessee's transfer pricing documentation and functional profile. The appeal was partly allowed for statistical purposes. (AY. 2018-19)

Unilog Content Solutions P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 477 (Bang)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Foreign exchange gain arising from trade receivables of international transactions constitutes operating income for computing PLI-Functionally dissimilar companies cannot be selected as comparables for benchmarking ITES transactions. [S.92BA]

The assessee, engaged in providing telecommunication networking services to its AE, treated foreign exchange gain arising from trade receivables as operating income and benchmarked its ITES transactions under TNMM. The TPO treated the foreign exchange gain as non-operating and modified the set of comparables. The Tribunal held that foreign exchange gain arising from trade receivables of international transactions forms part of operating income and must be considered while computing the PLI. The Tribunal further directed exclusion of functionally dissimilar comparables and inclusion of appropriate comparable companies in accordance with settled principles, and restored the matter to the AO/TPO for recomputation of the ALP. The appeal was partly allowed for statistical purposes. (AY. 2017-18)

Vodafone Global Services P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 323 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Intra-group services-ALP of GIS services cannot be determined at NIL where assessee substantiated receipt, benefit and cost allocation of services-Addition deleted-GSA services remanded for fresh benchmarking. [S. 92CA]

The assessee, engaged in advertising and media planning services, made payments to its AEs towards Global Information Services (GIS) and Global Service Agreement (GSA) services. The TPO rejected the benchmarking under TNMM, applied the "Need-Evidence-Benefit Test" under the Other Method, determined the ALP of both GIS and GSA services at NIL, and made a transfer pricing adjustment of Rs.8.32 crore. The Tribunal noted that in the assessee's own case for AY 2018-19, on identical facts and documentation, the Tribunal had deleted the adjustment relating to GIS services after holding that the assessee had satisfactorily demonstrated the need, rendition and benefit of services, supported by agreements, cost allocation workings and documentary evidence. Following the earlier order, the Tribunal deleted the adjustment of Rs.6.60 crore relating to GIS services. As regards GSA services, the Tribunal observed that such services were pari materia with MSF/MNC services considered in AY 2018-19, where the issue had been restored to the TPO for fresh examination. Accordingly, the issue relating to GSA services was remanded to the TPO for fresh determination of ALP after considering the documents and benchmarking analysis furnished by the assessee. Appeal partly allowed for statistical purposes. (AY. 2021-22)

Lintas India P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 28 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Interest on compulsorily convertible debentures to be benchmarked as debt till conversion-Recharacterisation not permissible-Benchmarking at Libor + 200 basis points proper and in accordance with Reserve Bank of India Guidelines. [S. 92CA]

The Assessing Officer recharacterised interest paid on compulsorily convertible debentures and made a transfer pricing adjustment. The Tribunal held that compulsorily convertible debentures retain the character of debt until conversion into equity and, therefore, the Assessing Officer could not recharacterise the transaction. Benchmarking of interest at LIBOR plus 200 basis points, being consistent with the Reserve Bank of India guidelines, was upheld and the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2014-15)

Fairfield Developments Ltd. v. Dy. DIT (2025) 130 ITR 211 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Comparable companies having exceptionally high turnover to be excluded while determining ALP.-Working capital adjustment is allowable while determining arm's length price-Purchases from non-associated enterprises cannot be treated as deemed international transactions in the absence of evidence of influence by the associated enterprise [S. 92, 92B, 92CA]

The assessee challenged the inclusion of companies having substantially higher turnover for benchmarking its international transactions relating to manufacture of rigid and steering drive axles. The Tribunal held that companies having turnover exceeding Rs. 200 crores could not be regarded as comparable with the assessee, as huge turnover materially affects profitability and functional comparability. The matter was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh determination of the arm's length price after excluding such companies. While determining the arm's length price, the Transfer Pricing Officer denied the assessee's claim for working capital adjustment. The Tribunal held that, in accordance with the OECD Guidelines, reasonable adjustments must be made to eliminate material differences between controlled and uncontrolled transactions. Since differences in working capital materially influence profitability, the assessee was entitled to working capital adjustment. The issue was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh determination after granting such adjustment. The Transfer Pricing Officer included purchases made by the assessee from local vendors as deemed international transactions on the ground that the purchases were under the overall supervision of the associated enterprise. The Tribunal held that section 92B applies only where there is evidence of a prior agreement or where the terms of the transaction are determined by the associated enterprise. In the absence of any supporting evidence, purchases from local vendors could not be regarded as deemed international transactions. Accordingly, only transactions with associated enterprises were directed to be considered for determination of the arm's length price. (AY. 2017-18)

Comer Industries India (P.) Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 238 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Selection of Comparables-Companies having huge brand value, intangibles, R&D activities and related party transactions not comparable to captive software service provider-Working capital adjustment-Adjustment cannot be denied without assigning reasons-Assessee entitled to relief-TPO must adopt one of the prescribed statutory methods-Second attempt to rectify omission not permissible. [S.92CA, 92B]

The assessee, a captive software development service provider, challenged the inclusion of WTS and IL as comparables. The Tribunal held that WTS had related party transactions by virtue of section 92B(2), thereby ceasing to be an uncontrolled comparable. IL was a full-fledged entrepreneur owning valuable intangibles, carrying out substantial research and development activities, possessing significant brand value and assuming all business risks, whereas the assessee was a low-risk captive service provider without any intangibles. Following its orders in the assessee's own case for earlier years, the Tribunal directed exclusion of both companies from the final list of comparables. The Transfer Pricing Officer denied working capital adjustment despite differences in working capital levels between the assessee and the comparable companies. The Tribunal held that working capital adjustment materially affects profitability and had consistently been allowed to the assessee in its own cases for earlier and subsequent assessment years. As the lower authorities had not assigned any specific reasons for denying the adjustment, the Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer/Transfer Pricing Officer to grant the benefit of working capital adjustment. The Tribunal held that determination of the arm's length price must strictly be made by adopting one of the methods prescribed under the Act. Since the Transfer Pricing Officer failed to apply any of the statutory methods while determining the arm's length price, the determination was unsustainable. The Tribunal further held that such failure could not subsequently be cured by undertaking a fresh exercise, as the prescribed methods are mandatory and not merely directory. The issue was accordingly decided in favour of the assessee. (AY. 2011-12)

Capgemini India P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 431 (Mum.)(Trib.)

Editorial: Affirmed in PCIT v. Capgemini India P. Ltd. (2025) 181 taxmann.com 7 (Bom.)(HC).

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Management consultancy services-Internal CUP/Internal TNMM to be preferred over external comparables-Transfer pricing adjustment deleted-Transfer Pricing Officer not adopting any prescribed method-Adjustment unsustainable-Selection of comparables-Comparable engaged in similar line of business cannot be excluded. [S. 92CA, R. 10B]

The assessee benchmarked its international transaction of rendering management consultancy services by adopting the Comparable Uncontrolled Price (CUP) Method based on comparable services rendered to unrelated parties. The Transfer Pricing Officer rejected the method and adopted external comparables under the Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM). The Tribunal held that where reliable internal comparable uncontrolled transactions are available, they deserve preference over external comparables. As no defect was found in the assessee's benchmarking and the Transfer Pricing Officer had proceeded on erroneous factual assumptions, the transfer pricing adjustment in respect of management consultancy services was directed to be deleted. The Transfer Pricing Officer made adjustments in respect of licence fees, information technology cost allocation and reimbursement of expenses without determining the arm's length price by adopting any of the methods prescribed under section 92C. The Tribunal held that determination of arm's length price must necessarily be made by applying one of the statutory methods prescribed under the Act. As no prescribed method had been followed, the transfer pricing adjustments were liable to be deleted. While benchmarking regional co-ordination services, the Transfer Pricing Officer excluded one comparable on the ground of functional dissimilarity and substituted another. The Tribunal held that where the excluded comparable was engaged in a business similar to the comparable selected by the Transfer Pricing Officer, there was no justification for its exclusion. The Assessing Officer was directed to include the comparable in the final set of comparables. (AY. 2011-12).

Boston Consulting Group (India) Pvt. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 717 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-While benchmarking specified domestic transactions, the TPO cannot cherry-pick only low-priced products from a basket of products for determining ALP-Where TNMM is accepted as the Most Appropriate Method in the subsequent year, the supplementary TP study adopting TNMM ought to be considered. [S. 92BA]

The assessee, engaged in the manufacture and sale of pharmaceutical products, benchmarked its specified domestic transactions of transfers from non-SEZ units to SEZ units under the CPM. The TPO rejected the benchmarking and determined the ALP by selecting only certain low-priced product families while ignoring the remaining products. Before the DRP, the assessee furnished a supplementary transfer pricing study adopting TNMM, which was not considered. The Tribunal held that the TPO was not justified in cherry-picking only selected products from the entire basket of product families for determining the ALP. It further held that, since the TPO himself had accepted TNMM as the Most Appropriate Method for identical transactions in the subsequent assessment year, the supplementary TP analysis adopting TNMM ought to have been considered. Accordingly, the matter was restored to the AO/TPO for fresh determination of the ALP under TNMM after considering the supplementary TP study. Appeal partly allowed for statistical purposes. (AY. 2019-20)

Aurobindo Pharma Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 15 (Hyd)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction Management support services-Fresh evidence filed before Tribunal-Matter remanded for examination by Transfer Pricing Officer.[S.92CA]

Tribunal admitted the additional evidence, and Matter remanded for examination by the Transfer Pricing Officer. (AY. 2013 14)

Asst. CIT v. Kerry Indev Logistics P. Ltd (2025) 131 ITR 100 (Chennai) (Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Most appropriate method-Royalty-Department adopting comparable uncontrolled price method-Tribunal in assessee's own case for earlier year holding transactional net margin method most appropriate-Assessee's use of same method justified-Payment of management fees to associated enterprise-Identical payment accepted by Transfer Pricing Officer in earlier years-Facts similar in current year-Payment held to be at arm's length.[S.92CA]

Claimed deduction for reimbursement of professional service costs to its German associated enterprises which was disallowed without any specific finding of non-business purpose, paid royalty benchmarked by the TPO using the comparable uncontrolled price method as against the transactional net margin method applied by the assessee, and paid management fees to associated enterprises in China and Germany which the Transfer Pricing Officer treated as stewardship activity and benchmarked at nil, though the CIT(A) ruled in the assessee's favour on the royalty and management fee issues. On appeal, the Tribunal condoned a one-day delay in filing the appeal caused by an intervening holiday; restored the issue of deduction under section 37 for reimbursement of professional service costs to the Assessing Officer to enable the assessee to produce supporting documents; upheld the CIT(A)'s acceptance of the transactional net margin method for benchmarking royalty payments, following the Tribunal's decision in the assessee's own case for an earlier year; and upheld the CIT(A)'s finding that the management fees paid to associated enterprises, being similar to fees accepted without adjustment in the case of a group company and not in the nature of stewardship activity, were at arm's length. (AY. 2010-11 to 2014-15)

Schaeffler India Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 237 (Ahd.)(Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Selection of comparables-Related-party transactions ratio to be applied consistently on aggregate basis, 15 per cent. filter appropriate-Functionally different companies without segmental data to be re-verified-Companies with unreliable export data excluded-Negative net worth not a factor for rejection if functions, assets and risk analysis acceptable-Functionally similar companies satisfying export turnover filter to be included-Matter remitted for company-wise functions, assets and risk analysis-OECD guidelines to be followed for broad comparability-Working capital adjustment affecting net profit margin to be allowed-Inadvertent wrong reckoning by Assessing Officer-Rectification application pending-Assessing Officer directed to carry out rectification. [S.92CA, 154]

The assessee, a wholly owned subsidiary providing software development and marketing support services, challenged the selection of comparables adopted for benchmarking both segments and the TPO's denial of working capital adjustment, the additions having been made pursuant to the directions of the DRP. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the related-party transaction ratio must be computed consistently on an aggregate basis with a 15 per cent. filter, and since the DRP had proceeded only on a turnover filter without considering functional comparability, the matter was remitted for fresh adjudication; several comparables were remitted to the TPO for verification of segmental data, export revenue reliability, and functions, assets and risk analysis, with negative net worth alone held insufficient ground for exclusion, while one company was excluded as functionally dissimilar being an information technology enabled services provider and another was held functionally comparable having satisfied the export turnover filter; in the marketing support segment, since the DRP had not undertaken a company-wise functions, assets and risk analysis for comparables sought to be included or excluded by the assessee, the issue was remitted for fresh adjudication with the assessee directed to furnish supporting documents; working capital adjustment, having a bearing on net profit margin, was directed to be granted in line with OECD guidelines on broad comparability; and the AO was directed to verify and rectify the inadvertent wrong computation of the assessee's total income pursuant to the pending rectification application. (AY.2017-18)

MetricStream Infotech (India) P. Ltd v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 310 (Bang.)(Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Selection of comparables-Companies included by assessee itself in final list, later sought to be excluded on functional difference/turnover filter-Functional similarity established-Turnover difference not sufficient for exclusion-Interest on outstanding receivables constitutes international transaction-Rate depends on currency of denomination-Remanded for reconsideration-Employees' contribution to provident fund- Belated remittance not deductible even if paid before due date of filing return [S. 2(24)(x), 36(1)(va), 92CA, 139(1)]

The Tribunal upheld inclusion of two comparables, L and P, since both had been self-selected by the assessee in its own transfer pricing study and were functionally similar, turnover difference alone being insufficient for exclusion; remanded the interest adjustment on outstanding receivables to the TPO since the SBI prime lending rate was wrongly applied without ascertaining the currency of denomination; and upheld disallowance of belated remittance of employees' PF contribution under section 36(1)(va), even though paid before the due date for filing the return. (AY 2012-13)

Oakton Global Technology Services Centre (India) P. Ltd v ITO (2025) 131 ITR 418 (Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Corporate guarantee-Rate limited to 0.60 per cent. In assessee's own case for earlier year-Same rate sustained for all corporate guarantees-Income-Higher turnover reported in service tax return, including mobilisation advances from customers, treated as income by Assessing Officer-Advances not taxable as income-Appeal-Power of appellate authorities-Claim raised for first time before appellate authorities can be considered-Remitted to Assessing Officer for statistical purposes.[S. 4, 250]

The Tribunal sustained the arm's length rate of 0.60 per cent. for corporate guarantees, consistent with its decision in the assessee's own case for earlier years; held that mobilisation advances received from customers, shown as advances in service tax returns for services yet to be performed, could not be treated as income, contrary to the AO's view based on percentage of completion; and remanded certain issues raised for the first time during assessment to the AO for verification and fresh decision after affording a hearing. (AY. 2018-19)

KEC International Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 450(Mum) (Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Not charging interest on late realisations of receivables-Addition made towards notional interest on delayed receivables from AEs is deleted.

Held that the Assessee benchmarked its international transactions of export of finished goods to AEs under the TNMM, and made a working capital adjustment while computing the PLI; receivables due from the AEs are merely an extension of the main international transaction of sale of goods and do not constitute a separate international transaction warranting an independent adjustment. (AY. 2015-16)

ACIT v. Intas Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (2025) 236 TTJ 550/ 174 taxmann.com 867 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Advertisement, marketing and sales promotion (AMP) expenses-TP adjustment made on account of AMP expenses incurred by the assessee is not sustainable-Selection of comparables-For benchmarking under the RPM, functional attribute is a primary factor rather than the similarity of the products-Reimbursement of expenses-TPO, as well as the DRP, were not justified in treating the value of the international transaction of reimbursement of expenses to be Nil.[S.92CA]

Held that Revenue has adduced no material to prove the existence of any arrangement, understanding or action in concert between the assessee and its AEs for incurring the AMP expenses on behalf of the AEs; the impugned TP adjustment made on account of AMP expenses incurred by the assessee is not sustainable. For benchmarking under the RPM, the functional attribute is a primary factor rather than the similarity of the products and therefore, Satyatej Commercial Co Ltd. cannot be excluded as a comparable on the basis that it is dealing in different products as compared to the assessee; purchases in foreign currency have no impact on the gross sales margin, which are compared under RPM. Since the product profile of Hand Innovation Inc is similar to that of Smith & Nephew, Inc which has been excluded by the TPO from the list of comparables, Hand Innovation Inc is also to be excluded for benchmarking the international transaction of receipt of indenting commission. Since RG Medical has a similar product line to that of Cincinnati Sub-Zero Products Inc (CSZ) and both companies are operating in the same/similar territories, and the TPO has excluded CSZ from the list of comparables, RG is also to be excluded for benchmarking the international transaction of receipt of indenting commission. Held that the Assessee having filed the evidence for services received by it and the details of reimbursement made by it to the AEs for such expenses, and the TPO having neither undertaken any benchmarking analysis nor searched for any comparable transaction, the value of the international transaction of reimbursement of expenses could not be treated as Nil. (AY. 2010-11)

Thermo Fisher Scientific India (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 865 / 176 taxmann.com 501 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Inter-unit sale of electricity-the enhancement made by the DRP by resorting to weighted average of purchase price of electricity by BEST @ Rs. 5.11 per unit is not tenable-Accordingly, addition made by the AO/TPO in respect of sale of electricity by the eligible units to non-eligible units is not sustainable.

Held that the Market price of inter-unit sale of electricity has to be computed on the basis of the rate charged from a consumer in the open market and not at the weighted average purchase price at which thermal power plants sold electricity to BEST. The enhancement made by DRP by applying the weighted average purchase price paid by BEST to the thermal power plants is not sustainable. (AY.2020-21)

Laxmi Organic Industries Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 268 / 177 taxmann.com 118 (Mum) Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Sale of power by assessee's eligible units to non-eligible units-Market value-Matter remanded.[S.80IA(8), 92BA]

Held that the decision of the Delhi High Court in Principal CIT v. DCM Shriram Ltd. (2025) 344 CTR 817(Delhi) (HC) was not before the DRP, it is required to revisit its decision; order of the AO is set aside with the directions that the DRP may be requested by the AO/TPO, to reconsider the directions in the light of the amendment in the definition of 'market value' read with the decision of the Delhi High Court, examine the facts of the case and thereafter, modified directions, if required, may be issued to the AO for incorporation in the assessment order as per law. (AY. 2021-22)

Indian Metals & Ferro Alloys Ltd. v. AUID(2025) 237 TTJ 699 / 177 taxmann.com 586 (Cuttack)(Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Surcharge on sale of air tickets to AEs-There is no evidence that assessee has charged a surcharge to non-AEs higher than what is chargeable to AEs-The AO is directed to delete the adjustment made to the ALP of the international transaction of sale of air tickets. [S.92CA]

Held that the Assessee has compared the price which has been charged for the same and similar uncontrolled transaction carried out with non-AEs under similar circumstances with the price charged from its AEs in the benchmarking methodology adopted by it, there was no justifiable reason for rejection of the transfer pricing study report prepared by the assessee; since there is no evidence that assessee has charged surcharge to non-AEs higher than what is chargeable to AEs, the AO is directed to delete the adjustment made by adopting TNMM. (AY. 2021-22)

Ebix Travels (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 751/ 178 taxmann.com 68 (Bang)(Trib)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Notional interest on receivables due from AE-Outstanding receivables from AE are an international transaction-LIBOR being the internationally accepted rate of interest for benchmarking, LIBOR plus 200 basis points should be adopted for imputing interest on overdue receivables.[S.92B]

Held that the assessee charges interest on third party receivables, receivables from AE should be benchmarked with reference to third party transactions because it is an international transaction; since the assessee failed to file relevant details, the argument of the assessee that overdue payables to the AE should be adjusted and only the net overdue receivables from AE should be considered cannot be accepted; LIBOR being the internationally accepted rate of interest for benchmarking, LIBOR plus 200 basis points should be adopted for imputing interest on overdue receivables. (AY. 2020-21)

ADP (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 1080/ 177 taxmann.com 708 (Hyd)(Trib)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-No TP adjustment where consistent benchmarking was accepted in an earlier year. [S.92CA]

The Tribunal held that where the assessee, a joint venture company, had entered into a principal-to-principal arrangement with ONGC and merely passed on the bareboat charter hire received from ONGC to its associated enterprise without retaining any margin, the transfer pricing adjustment was unwarranted. The benchmarking methodology based on revenue split had already been accepted by the DRP in the assessee's own case for an earlier year, and there was no change in facts or contractual arrangement. Even after imputing a 2.5% commission, the payment to the AE remained lower than comparable uncontrolled transactions. Accordingly, the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted (AY. 2021-22)

SP Armada Oil Exploration (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 209 / 179 taxmann.com 196 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Advertising, marketing and promotion expenses-No agreement with associated enterprise to share/reimburse expenses-Not an international transaction-Addition not justified.-Royalty for trademark separate from royalty for technology-Cannot be clubbed-Adjustment on royalty for technology deleted-Arms length price-To be determined only by one of five prescribed methods-Ad hoc estimation of salary and man-hours not permissible-Adjustment deleted-Income-Disallowance of expenditure relating to exempt income-Sufficient own funds available-No disallowance warranted-Direct/indirect expenses remitted for verification-Business loss-Foreign exchange loss on forward contracts terminated by bank on/after maturity, not prematurely cancelled by assessee-Integral to export of goods-Allowable as business loss-Special deduction-Allocation of operating and establishment expenses on ratio of unit's revenue to total revenue-Method consistently accepted in earlier years-Deduction allowable-Interest-No delay in filing return-No interest under section 234A-Interest under section 234C levied on assessed income instead of returned income-Matter remitted for recomputation. [S. 14A,R. 8D, 28(i),80IC,234A, 234C]

The assessee, a subsidiary of a UK company engaged in the food segment of the FMCG industry, faced transfer pricing adjustments and disallowances confirmed by the DRP on account of advertising, marketing and promotion expenses, royalty on technology, service charges paid to its associated enterprise, disallowance under section 14A, foreign exchange loss, deduction under section 80-IC, and addition based on annual information return mismatch. On appeal, the Tribunal, largely following its own decisions in the assessee's case for earlier years, held that in the absence of any agreement to share or reimburse advertising and marketing expenses, such expenditure was not an international transaction; that royalty paid for trademark and technology being under separate agreements could not be clubbed, and the technology royalty adjustment was to be deleted; that the arm's length price could be determined only by one of the five methods prescribed under section 92C(1) and not by ad hoc estimation; that no disallowance under section 14A was warranted since the assessee had sufficient own funds, though the quantum was remitted for verification; that the foreign exchange loss on forward contracts terminated by the bank on maturity, not prematurely cancelled by the assessee, was allowable as business loss; that the assessee's consistent method of allocating operating and establishment expenses for claiming deduction under section 80-IC was to be accepted; that no interest under section 234A was leviable as there was no delay in filing the return; and that the levy of interest under section 234C on assessed rather than returned income was remitted to the AO for re-computation.(AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

Mondelez India Foods P. Ltd. (formerly known as Cadbury Ltd.) v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 83 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Manufacturing of power distribution equipment-Import of raw materials-Transactional net margin method-No defect pointed out-Contract manufacturing not a proper comparable-No adjustment required-Information technology services from associated enterprise-Transfer Pricing Officer's simultaneous use of comparable uncontrolled price and nil valuation contradictory-Assessee's transfer pricing study acceptable-No adjustment called for.-Reimbursement of travel, lodging and employee cost on cost basis-Cost incurred without benefit improbable-Transfer Pricing Officer's benchmarking proper. [S. 92]

Following its own decision for the earlier year on identical facts, the Tribunal held that the assessee's transactional net margin method for import of raw materials from associated enterprises could not be disturbed by adopting contract manufacturing as comparable without pointing out any defect; that TPO's contradictory approach of applying the comparable uncontrolled price method while also valuing the transaction at nil for information technology services was untenable, and the assessee's transfer pricing study was acceptable; and that since a non-associated party would not incur costs like travel, lodging and employee expenses on behalf of another without benefit, the assessee must have deployed resources in providing administrative services, justifying the TPO's benchmarking with a mark-up. The adjustments on raw material imports and information technology services were deleted, while the adjustment on reimbursement of expenses was upheld.(AY. 2018-19)

Schneider Electric Infrastructure Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 132 ITR 358 (Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Comparable companies-Related party transactions filter-Companies having 99 per cent. and 100 per cent. related party transactions-To be excluded from final set of comparables-Assessing Officer obligated to compute income in conformity with arm's length price determined by Transfer Pricing Officer-Assessing Officer changing cost allocation methodology from headcount ratio to salary expense ratio, partly disallowing support services cost-Not proper-Depreciation on intangible assets being customer contracts and assembled workforce-Allowable-Deduction of tax at source-Credit for-Assessing Officer directed to verify and grant credit for tax deducted at source, advance tax and self-assessment tax.[S. 32(1)(ii), 92B, 92CA(3), 92 CA(4)]

The assessee, an independent business unit of GE providing offshore business process management services to its associated enterprise, faced a transfer pricing adjustment of Rs. 1,48,30,634 towards provision of information technology enabled support services, upheld by DRP, with AO also altering the cost allocation methodology from headcount ratio to salary expense ratio, thereby partly disallowing support services cost. On appeal, the Tribunal held that two comparable companies deriving 99% and 100% of their revenue from inter-company transactions were rendered non-comparable due to excessive RPT and were to be excluded; that, following its own decision for the preceding AY, since the TPO had not disturbed the ALP of the transaction, AO's relook into the basis of allocation of support services cost militated against section 92CA(4), which obligates AO to compute income in conformity with the ALP determined by TPO, and relief was to be granted accordingly; that depreciation of Rs. 73,95,017 on intangible assets being customer contracts and assembled workforce was allowable; and that AO was directed to grant credit for TDS, advance tax and self-assessment tax in accordance with law. (AY. 2017-18)

Genpact Services LLC v. ACIT (2025) 132 ITR 612 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Specified domestic transaction-Loan to associated enterprise in Bahrain-Benchmarking using US/European data inappropriate-Bahrain Central Bank's prime lending rate reflects arm's length rate-Upward adjustment unsustainable-Business expenditure-Disallowance-Payment for product certification services-Not fees for technical services-No tax deductible at source-Disallowance deleted.-Withholding liability arises only when income taxable in recipient's hands-Royalty payable only on activation by end-user-Provision for royalty rightly allowed. [S.9(1)(vii) 40(a)(ia(195 R.10B]

The TPO's upward adjustment on interest charged to the assessee's Bahrain associated enterprise, based on US/European loan data with added risk spreads, was held unsustainable since the Bahrain prime lending rate already reflected regional risk and had been consistently applied; payments for product certification services evaluating software quality were held not to constitute fees for technical services, requiring no TDS given the payees' absence of a fixed place of business in India; and the provision for royalty expenses was held rightly allowed since royalty became payable only on activation of software by the end-user, so withholding tax liability under section 195 did not arise until then. (AY. 2011-12)

DCIT v. Elitecore Technologies P. Ltd. (now merged with Sterlite Technologies Ltd.) (2025) 132 ITR 740(Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Royalty-Transactional Net Margin Method-Principle of consistency-Matter remanded-Outstanding receivables-Delay beyond agreed credit period-Interest to be benchmarked at LIBOR + 200 basis points.[S.92B, 92CA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer benchmarked royalty payment by adopting the Profit Split Method and determined the arm's length price at nil after recharacterising the assessee as a contract manufacturer. The Tribunal held that in the earlier years the Transactional Net Margin Method had consistently been accepted as the most appropriate method and there was no change in the functions, assets or risks assumed by the assessee. Applying the principle of consistency, the matter was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer to benchmark the royalty transaction by adopting the Transactional Net Margin Method. The Tribunal held that overdue receivables from Associated Enterprises constituted a separate international transaction. Since the transactions were denominated in foreign currency, interest was directed to be computed by applying LIBOR + 200 basis points after allowing the agreed credit period, instead of the SBI Prime Lending Rate applied by the Transfer Pricing Officer . (AY. 2020-21).

Toyota Boshoku Automotive India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 298 / 174 taxmann.com 933 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Outstanding receivables from Associated Enterprises-Separate international transaction-Interest to be computed at LIBOR + 200 basis points.[S. 92B, 92CA, 143(3), 144C]

The Transfer Pricing Officer treated delayed realisation of receivables from Associated Enterprises as a separate international transaction and computed interest by applying the SBI Prime Lending Rate. The Tribunal held that, in view of the retrospective amendment to section 92B, delayed receivables constitute an international transaction requiring separate benchmarking. However, since the transactions were foreign currency transactions, interest was directed to be recomputed in accordance with the rectified directions of the Dispute Resolution Panel by applying LIBOR + 200 basis points only for the relevant period of delay. (AY. 2020-21).

Ariba Technologies India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 212 ITD 17 / 126 ITR 272 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenses-Commission to distributors not AMP expenditure-Addition deleted. [S. 92CA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer included commission paid to distributors under the multi-level marketing model as Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion expenditure and made a transfer pricing adjustment. The Tribunal held that distributor commission was directly linked to sales achieved and not to brand promotion. Following the principle of consistency adopted in earlier years, such commission could not be treated as AMP expenditure or an international transaction. The transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2020-21).

Amway India Enterprises (P.) Ltd. v. NFAC (2025) 127 ITR 642 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Management fee for advisory-TPO was not justified in making a downward adjustment by taking management fee expense at 'Nil' under CUP method, disregarding TNMM employed by assessee as most appropriate method, without pointing out any defects in application or relevance of TNMM by the assessee-Payment of management fee for advisory services and use of brand name, said services received by assessee could not be labelled as shareholder/stewardship services.[S.92CA]

Held that where assessee-hospital made payment of management fee to AE for advisory services and use of brand name at rate of 2.5 per cent of gross operating revenue and applied TNMM as most appropriate method, TPO was not justified in making downward adjustment by taking management fee expense at 'Nil' under CUP method disregarding TNMM employed by assessee as most appropriate method without pointing any defects in application or relevance of TNMM in this case.. Tribunal also held that the payment of management fee for advisory services and use of brand name, said services received by assessee could not be labelled as shareholder/stewardship services. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

Dy.CIT v. Apollo Gleneagles Hospital Ltd. [2023] 150 taxmann.com 210 / (2025) 129 ITR 352 (Kol)(Trib)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Profit Level Indicator-Gross margin on sales appropriate where associated enterprises are risk-bearing distributors.-Tested party-Alternative benchmarking adopting associated enterprises as tested parties-Accepted-Interest on loans to associated enterprises-Assessee's contention that loans formed part of shareholder activities not examined-Matter remanded-Corporate, financial and performance guarantees-International transactions-Guarantee commission chargeable at 0.5 per cent-Imputation of royalty from associated enterprises-Assessee not owner of brand-No notional royalty could be charged. [R. 10B]

The Tribunal held that the associated enterprises performed significant distribution and marketing functions and bore commercial risks. Accordingly, the gross margin on sales constituted the appropriate Profit Level Indicator for benchmarking the international transactions. The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Tribunal upheld the order of the Commissioner (Appeals), who accepted the assessee's alternative benchmarking by treating the associated enterprises as the tested parties after examining appropriate comparables. The Transfer Pricing Officer's selection of comparables without a proper search process was rejected. The Tribunal found that the lower authorities had failed to consider the assessee's contention that the loans advanced to its associated enterprises constituted shareholder activities. The issue of arm's length interest was, therefore, restored to the Assessing Officer/Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh adjudication. The Tribunal held that, after insertion of Explanation (i)(c) to section 92B, corporate, financial and performance guarantees furnished on behalf of associated enterprises constituted international transactions. Guarantee commission was directed to be computed at 0.5 per cent. The Transfer Pricing Officer imputed royalty on the footing that the assessee had created valuable brand rights used by its associated enterprises. The Tribunal held that the assessee itself did not own the brand and merely had a right to use it. Since the assessee was not the owner of the brand, no royalty could be imputed from the associated enterprises. The transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 372 / (2025) 129 ITR 667 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Royalty-Benchmarking-Transactional Net Margin Method adopted at entity level-Separate benchmarking of royalty not warranted.

The Transfer Pricing Officer proposed a separate benchmarking of royalty paid by the assessee to its associated enterprises on the ground that the Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM) was not the most appropriate method for benchmarking the royalty transaction. The Tribunal, following its decisions in the assessee's own case for the earlier assessment years, held that where TNMM had been accepted and applied at the entity level, no separate benchmarking of royalty was called for. Accordingly, the transfer pricing adjustment proposed in respect of royalty was deleted. (AY. 2018-19).

Toyota Kirloskar Motor P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 515 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C : International transactions-Arm's length price-Comparables-Functionally different company-Absence of segmental results-Comparable directed to be excluded.[S.92CA]

The Tribunal held that a company deriving substantial revenue from software services, without segmental financial information, was functionally different from the assessee and could not be accepted as a comparable. Accordingly, the company was directed to be excluded from the final set of comparables. (AY. 2018-19).

MAN Energy Solutions India P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 149 taxmann.com 347 / (2025) 129 ITR 562 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Liability and doubtful debts written back-Operating income-Foreign exchange fluctuation loss-Operating in nature-Technical know-how fees-Arm's length price cannot be determined at Nil-Need-benefit test not permissible. [S.4, 5, 92CA]

The Tribunal held that remission of liability and doubtful debts written back, being intrinsically connected with the business operations of the assessee, constituted operating income for determining the arm's length price. The Tribunal held that foreign exchange fluctuation loss arising in the ordinary course of business constituted an operating item for transfer pricing purposes, particularly when it had been accepted as such in the preceding and succeeding assessment years. The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the arm's length price of technical know-how fees paid to associated enterprises at Nil. Following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, the Tribunal held that the Transfer Pricing Officer could not disregard the prescribed methods under section 92C or apply a need-benefit test while determining the arm's length price. (AY. 2010-11).

UPS Express P. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 381 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction Technical know-how fees-Transfer Pricing Officer cannot determine arm's length price at Nil without applying prescribed method-Need-benefit test not permissible. [S. 92CA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the arm's length price of technical know-how fees paid by the assessee to its associated enterprises at Nil. The Tribunal held that the Transfer Pricing Officer was bound to determine the arm's length price by applying one of the methods prescribed under section 92C and had no authority to determine the arm's length price at Nil or insist upon a need-benefit test. The matter was decided in favour of the assessee following the decision in its own case for the earlier year. (AY. 2010-11).

Dy. CIT v. Hexagon Manufacturing Intelligence India P. Ltd. (2025) 129 ITR 317 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Transfer of shares-Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) method-Transfer Pricing Officer cannot substitute projected figures with actual subsequent results. [S.56(2)(viib), 92B, 92CA, Rr. 10B, 11UA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer rejected the valuation of shares based on the Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) method by replacing projected financial figures with actual financial results of subsequent years and made a transfer pricing adjustment. The Tribunal held that valuation under the DCF method has to be based on information available on the valuation date and not on hindsight. Rule 10B permits only contemporaneous data and does not authorise reliance on subsequent years' financial results. Accordingly, substitution of projected figures with actual results was held to be impermissible, and the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2017-18).

TPG Growth II Markets Pte. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 368 / (2025) 129 ITR 175 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Export commission paid to Associated Enterprise-Higher export profitability established-Transfer pricing adjustment deleted-Jurisdiction confined to determination of Arm's Length Price-Commercial expediency of expenditure cannot be questioned-Model fee paid to Associated Enterprise allowable.[S.92CA]

The assessee, engaged in the manufacture of two-wheelers, paid export commission to its Japanese Associated Enterprise for export of specified models. The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the arm's length price of the commission at nil on the ground that no services had been rendered.

The Tribunal held that the average export price and profitability from exports were substantially higher than those from domestic sales, demonstrating commercial benefit derived by the assessee. Since the payment was at arm's length and resulted in higher profitability, the transfer pricing adjustment on export commission was directed to be deleted. The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the arm's length price of model fees paid by the assessee to its Associated Enterprise for launching new and upgraded models at nil without applying any of the prescribed methods under the Act or the Rules. The Tribunal held that the jurisdiction of the Transfer Pricing Officer is confined to determination of the arm's length price and he cannot assume the role of a businessman to question the commercial expediency of a transaction or disregard contractual obligations between the parties. As the adjustment was made without following the statutory transfer pricing provisions, the payment was held to be allowable. (AY. 2017-18).

Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India Pvt. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2023] 153 taxmann.com 567 / (2025) 129 ITR 6 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Adjustment to be confined to international transactions with Associated Enterprises-Comparables-Functional similarity-Government company not to be excluded merely because of Government ownership-Matter remanded-Trading segment-Commission earned on direct sales by Associated Enterprises to third-party customers-Not part of trading activity-Transactional Net Margin Method-Global sales and marketing expenditure-Operating cost.[S.92CA]

The Transfer Pricing Officer computed the arm's length price by considering both Associated Enterprise (AE) and non-AE transactions. The Tribunal held that transfer pricing provisions apply only to international transactions with Associated Enterprises and directed that the adjustment be restricted only to AE transactions. The Tribunal held that comparables accepted in the assessee's own case for earlier years should ordinarily be followed unless material differences exist. Government ownership by itself is not a ground for exclusion if the company satisfies the functional, asset and risk (FAR) analysis. The matter was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh examination of the FAR analysis, with a direction that a company cannot be treated as persistently loss-making unless it incurred losses in all the relevant years. Functionally similar companies were directed to be included. The Associated Enterprises made direct sales to customers in India and paid commission to the assessee. The Tribunal held that such commission income did not arise from the assessee's trading segment and could not be treated as part of its trading activity for transfer pricing analysis. The Transfer Pricing Officer treated global sales and marketing expenditure as Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion expenditure for adjustment purposes. The Tribunal held that such expenditure constituted operating cost and was required to be allocated in the ratio of the turnover relating to the relevant international transactions while applying the Transactional Net Margin Method. (AY. 2013-14).

Yokogawa India Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 499 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 92C: Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenditure-No international transaction established-Transfer pricing adjustment deleted-Intra-group services-Earlier year's order followed-Matter remanded to Transfer Pricing Officer-Assessment-Fresh claim made during assessment proceedings-No revised return filed-Claim raised before appellate authorities maintainable-Matter remanded.[S.92CA, 143(3)]

The Transfer Pricing Officer treated excess Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenditure incurred by the assessee as an international transaction for brand building of its Associated Enterprise and made an adjustment by applying the Bright Line Test and Cost Plus Method. The Tribunal held that the existence of an international transaction is a sine qua non for invoking Chapter X. Mere use of the Associated Enterprise's brand or incurring higher AMP expenditure does not establish an international transaction. In the absence of any agreement or evidence showing that the assessee had undertaken brand promotion for its Associated Enterprise, the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. The Tribunal observed that an identical issue relating to intra-group services had been restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer in the assessee's own case for an earlier assessment year. Since the Revenue could not point out any distinguishing feature, the issue was restored to the Transfer Pricing Officer for fresh adjudication in accordance with the earlier order. The assessee claimed deduction of interest on customs duty, excise duty, service tax, warranty provision and deduction under section 80JJAA by letters filed during assessment proceedings without filing a revised return. The Tribunal held that an assessee is entitled to raise an additional claim before the appellate authorities even without filing a revised return, provided the relevant material is available on record. The claims were restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination on merits (AY. 2012-13).

BMW India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2019] 109 taxmann.com 528 / (2025) 125 ITR 16 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer Pricing-Arm's length price-International transaction-Entrepreneurial Service Provider-Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM) appropriate-Other Method under Rule 10AB-Re-characterisation of Transactions-Royalty Computation-Transfer Pricing Adjustment of ₹444.93 Cr held to be unsustainable.[R. 10AB]

The assessee, engaged in distribution of access to the global Netflix streaming service, applied TNMM as the most appropriate method for benchmarking its payment of distribution fee to its Associated Enterprises (AEs). The TPO rejected this characterization and recharacterised the assessee as an entrepreneurial content and technology provider, applying the "Other Method" under Rule 10AB based on royalty rates derived from third-party agreements, leading to a transfer pricing adjustment of ₹444.93 crore. The DRP affirmed this approach.

On appeal, the Hon'ble Tribunal held that Netflix India was a limited-risk distributor performing routine functions of marketing, billing, customer support, and compliance, without owning or controlling any content, intellectual property, or technology. The Open Connect Appliances (OCAs) were only cache devices for bandwidth efficiency and not core technology assets. The TPO's reliance on unrelated royalty agreements was found to be arbitrary, unsupported by comparables, and contrary to the contractual and factual framework. The Tribunal held that the distribution agreement and subscriber terms clearly established that the assessee merely distributed access to the Netflix service and did not acquire any rights in content, technology, or intellectual property. It was further held that TNMM, based on software-product distributors as comparables, remained the most appropriate method, and the TPO and DRP had erred in discarding it in favour of a speculative "Other Method." The re-characterisation of a bona fide distribution arrangement into a licence transaction was impermissible. Following Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2021) 432 ITR 471 (SC), it was held that the assessee neither received nor transferred any copyright or licence and that the payment of distribution fee did not constitute royalty. Accordingly, the entire transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. (AY. 2021-22)

Netflix Entertainment Services India LLP v. DCIT [2025] 179 taxmann.com 644 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 92C : Transfer pricing-Arm's length price-Avoidance of tax-International transaction-Interest on outstanding receivables from AES-Outstanding dues beyond an agreed credit period are separate international transaction separate benchmarking-Working capital adjustment subsumed accrued interest on trade receivables-Issue is restored back to the TPO.[R. 10A]

The assessee did not separately benchmark outstanding receivables from its AEs, contending that they were closely linked to the principal international transactions and were covered under TNMM. The TPO held that receivables outstanding beyond the agreed credit period constituted a separate international transaction of capital financing and made a transfer pricing adjustment by imputing interest on delayed realization. The DRP upheld the adjustment.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that outstanding dues beyond an agreed credit period are separate international transaction, which requires to be benchmarked separately and cannot be clubbed together with other transactions; since the argument of the assessee that the working capital adjustment subsumed accrued interest on trade receivables, and no separate adjustment should be made was not advanced before the TPO or the DRP, this issue is restored back to the TPO. (AY. 2020-21)

Biocon Biologicals Ltd v. ACIT (2025) 233 TTJ 930 / 170 taxmann.com 372 / 121 ITR 39 (SN) (Bang)(Trib)

S.92CA: Transfer pricing-Reference to Transfer Pricing Officer-Arm's Length Price-Appropriate method-Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM)-Resale Price Method (RPM)-No material difference-Tribunal order deleting adjustment affirmed.[S.92C, 260A]

The assessee benchmarked its international transaction of purchase of computer hardware components from its AE using the Resale Price Method (RPM). The TPO rejected RPM and adopted the Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM), resulting in a transfer pricing adjustment. The CIT(A) agreed that TNMM was the appropriate method but adopted comparable companies used in the preceding year and held that the assessee's margin fell within the permissible tolerance range, thereby deleting the adjustment. The Tribunal upheld the CIT(A)'s order. The TPO rejected RPM and applied TNMM using operating profit to sales, resulting in a transfer pricing adjustment. The Commissioner (Appeals) held TNMM to be appropriate method, but adopted comparable companies used in the preceding year and held that the assessee's margin fell within the permissible tolerance range. The Hon'ble Tribunal upheld the CIT(A)'s order and deleted the upward transfer pricing adjustment.

The Delhi High Court dismissed the Revenue's appeal and held that the revenue failed to show any material factual differences across assessment years that would justify reopening the Tribunal's finding. The rejection of certain comparables and methodology choices were upheld, and no substantial question of law arose.(AY. 2004-05, 2005-06)

PCIT v. ESYS Information Technologies Ltd [2024] 168 taxmann.com 431 / (2025) 474 ITR 396 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92CA : Transfer pricing-Arm's Length price-Benchmarking to be done at entity level-not transaction level-That Profit margins required to be compared with profit margins of enterprise and not that of any sub-unit or division of enterprise-Res Judicata-Once deduction under 10A accepted in earlier year-Thee same has to be accepted.[S. 2(31),10A, 92CA(3), 92F(iii) R.10A]

The assessee, engaged in software development services through multiple STP units, benchmarked its international transactions with AEs under TNMM at the enterprise level. The TPO, however, examined operating margins of each STP unit separately and made transfer pricing adjustments in respect of certain units. The CIT(A) and the Tribunal held that benchmarking was required to be undertaken at the entity level and deleted the adjustment. Further, the Assessee claimed deduction under section 10A in respect of its STP units, but the same was denied on the ground that said new unit was a mere extension of existing unit.

The Delhi High Court upheld the Tribunal's decision and held that where services were rendered under a common agreement with AEs and there was unity of management and interlacing of funds, it was inappropriate to split the transactions unit-wise for determining the arm's length price. It was further held that profit margins required to be compared with profit margins of enterprise and not that of any sub-unit or division of enterprise. Splitting transactions unit wise for determining Arm's Length Price would not be apposite. The Court observed that under TNMM, profit margins of comparable uncontrolled transactions were determined at the enterprise level and, therefore, the assessee's PLI was also required to be compared at the enterprise level. Accordingly, the entity-level benchmarking adopted by the CIT(A) and the Tribunal was held to be correct and the transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. Further, with regard to claim of deduction under section 10A, the Hon'ble High Court held that where revenue had accepted in initial year of operation that a new undertaking had been set up and did not fall within exclusionary clauses, new STP unit was eligible for deduction under section 10A.

CIT v. Birlasoft Ltd. (2025)472 ITR 170/ 302 Taxman 324 /344 CTR 464 / 249 DTR 34 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92CA : Transfer pricing-Arm's Length price-Comparables-Objections of assessee on account of functional dissimilarities is not considered by Tribunal-Matter remanded to Transfer Pricing Officer.[S.92CA(3), 254(1)]

The assessee, engaged in providing IT-enabled services, objected to the inclusion of E4e Healthcare as a comparable on the ground that its annual report was not available and, therefore, its functional comparability could not be verified. The TPO, DRP and Tribunal nevertheless retained the company as a comparable, proceeding on the erroneous assumption that the assessee's objection related only to the employee-cost filter and it was apparent that the assessee was in the possession of the annual accounts of the company.

On appeal, the Hon'ble High Court held that the orders passed by the Transfer Pricing Officer, the Dispute Resolution Panel and the Tribunal had proceeded on an assumption which were ex facie incorrect. Accordingly, the matter was restored back to the file of the Transfer Pricing Officer, to the limited extent, to examine the inclusion of e4e as a comparable entity.(AY.2013-14)

Sequential Technology International India Pvt. Ltd. v. Add. CIT (2025)472 ITR 753/ 169 taxmann.com 256 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 92CA : Transfer pricing-Arm's Length price-Computation of Arm's Length Price-Issues of inclusion and exclusion of comparables for determination of arm's length price-Contentions regarding dissimilarities in product, function and export revenue earned not considered and adjudicated by the tribunal-Matter remanded back to Tribunal.[S.92CA(3), 260A]

The assessee consisting of two merged companies ALTIPL and ADIPL engaged in rendering software development services determined the arm's length price by adopting the transactional net margin method. The Transfer Pricing Officer determined the arm's length price on the basis of certain comparable entities and made upward adjustments in his order. The assessee challenged the order of the Assessing officer which were confirmed by the Dispute Resolution Panel and the tribunal by raising three questions i.e. whether the tribunal has misdirected itself in : (i) not excluding comparables Avani Cincom Technologies Limited (Avani) and Ishir Infotech Ltd (Ishir) (ii) not including comparable Akshay Software Technologies Ltd. and (iii) failing to adjudicate the contentions of the assessee with regards to the inclusion of comparables Tata Elxsi Limited (Tata) and Sasken Communication Technologies(Sasken). As regards to the first question, the Hon'ble High court held that the tribunal while rejecting the assessee's claim as to Avani, had disregarded the information available on the website which stated that they were involved in sale of other software products which was not confirmed and therefore held that it could not be considered a valid comparable since it earned revenue from both software services and software products and no segmental information was available to isolate software-development income. As regards to Ishir, the Hon'ble High court held that the order of tribunal was erroneous in rejecting assessee's challenge to inclusion of Ishir as it followed a different business model-outsourcing-based business model. Further, the tribunal's decision to exclude Akshay as a comparable was held to be unsustainable as the Tribunal had rejected assessee's challenge on the ground other than the those actually raised and thus, remanded back to the Tribunal as it was the assessee's contention that Akshay did comply with the revenue filter as well as export filter. Further on the third question, the tribunal had not considered assessee's objection to the inclusion of Tata and Sasken and thus the matter was remanded back.(AY. 2007-08)

Alcatel Lucent India Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 472 ITR 22 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 92CA : Transfer pricing-Reference to Transfer Pricing Officer-Arm's Length price-Avoidance of tax-Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion (AMP) expenses-No international transaction beyond agreed reimbursement-Adjustment deleted-Comparables-Functionally dissimilar companies to be excluded-Working capital adjustment-DRP directions binding-Adjustment to be allowed-Royalty-Transactional Net Margin Method accepted-Separate benchmarking under CUP not permissible-Salary of expatriate employees-Secondment-No evidence of services rendered to parent company-Disallowance deleted.[S.37(1), 92C, 144C]

The Transfer Pricing Officer treated the assessee's Advertisement, Marketing and Promotion expenditure as an international transaction and made adjustment by applying the Bright Line Test and the Transactional Net Margin Method. The Tribunal held that reimbursement of marketing expenditure was confined to items specifically approved by the associated enterprise and there was no agreement requiring the assessee to incur AMP expenditure for brand promotion on behalf of the associated enterprise. In the absence of an international transaction, no transfer pricing adjustment was permissible. The Tribunal directed exclusion of several comparables selected by the Transfer Pricing Officer in the trading, networking and manufacturing segments as they were functionally different from the assessee or lacked comparable financial data. Appropriate comparables were directed to be included or excluded after applying proper functional analysis. The Tribunal held that, consistent with earlier years and in accordance with the binding directions of the Dispute Resolution Panel, the assessee was entitled to working capital adjustment while computing the arm's length margin of the comparables. The Transfer Pricing Officer was directed to recompute the adjustment after factual verification. The Transfer Pricing Officer separately benchmarked royalty paid by the assessee by applying the Comparable Uncontrolled Price Method despite having accepted the Transactional Net Margin Method for the manufacturing segment. The Tribunal held that royalty formed an integral part of the manufacturing activity and could not be separately benchmarked. The CUP analysis was based on incomparable transactions and resulted in an impermissible double adjustment. The transfer pricing adjustment was deleted. The Assessing Officer disallowed salary paid to expatriate employees on the ground that they worked for the foreign parent company. The Tribunal held that no evidence was brought on record to establish that the seconded employees furthered the business of the parent company. Following earlier decisions, the disallowance of salary expenditure was deleted. (AY. 2015-16).

Samsung India Electronics (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 543 (Trib.)

S. 92CA : Transfer pricing-Reference to Transfer Pricing Officer-Arm's Length price-Avoidance of tax-Interest on unsecured compulsorily convertible debentures-Arm's length rate accepted in earlier years-Revenue could not adopt a different view in absence of change in facts. [S.92C, 143, R. 10B]

The Transfer Pricing Officer recomputed the arm's length rate of interest on unsecured compulsorily convertible debentures issued to the assessee's associated enterprise. The Tribunal held that the coupon rate on the same debentures had been accepted by the Revenue in the earlier assessment year and there was no change in the facts. The comparables selected by the Transfer Pricing Officer were also not appropriate as they included financing companies and secured debentures. Accordingly, the deletion of the transfer pricing adjustment by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY. 2015-16).

ITO v. V. R. Surat P. Ltd. [2023] 152 taxmann.com 679 / (2025) 129 ITR 626 (Surat)(Trib.)

S. 92CA : Transfer pricing-Reference to Transfer Pricing Officer-Arm's Length price-Avoidance of tax-Investment in equity shares of overseas subsidiary-Not an international transaction of loan-No notional interest could be charged. [S. 92B, 92C]

The Transfer Pricing Officer treated the assessee's investment in the equity share capital of its overseas subsidiary as an interest-free loan and made an adjustment by imputing notional interest. The Tribunal held that the investment was made out of internal accruals for business expansion and shares had been allotted against the remittances. Such investment in equity could not be recharacterised as a loan. Accordingly, no arm's length adjustment on account of notional interest was called for, and the addition was deleted. (AY. 2010-11 & 2011-12).

Brightcom Group Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 149 taxmann.com 450 / (2025) 129 ITR 645 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 112 : Tax on long-term capital gains-Determination of tax in certain cases-Rate of tax-Redemption of debentures-Debentures are explicitly excluded from the concessional tax treatment under s. 112A, the correct rate of tax applicable on the LTCG from the redemption of market-linked debentures is 20 per cent under s. 112 [S.112A]

Held that the benefits of s. 112A is restricted to certain securities, and debentures are not covered under this provision, since debentures are explicitly excluded from the concessional tax treatment under s. 112A, the correct rate of tax applicable on the LTCG from the redemption of market-linked debentures is 20 per cent under S. 112. (AY.2021-22)

Doraiswami Rajagopalan v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 597 / 172 taxmann.com 735(SMC) (Bang)(Trib)

S. 112 : Tax on long term capital gains-Determination of tax at special rate-Income from other sources-Exemption not claimed under 10(38)-Purchase transaction in earlier year-Cannot be disturbed in subsequent year-Special rate of tax cannot be denied-Buyback of shares-Exemption on distributed income-Tax not payable by buyback company-Exemption cannot be denied. [S. 10 (34A, 10(38), 45, 56, 115QA]

The assessee earned profits on buyback of shares of unlisted companies and claimed exemption under section 10(34A). The Assessing Officer denied the exemption on the ground that the companies buying back the shares had not paid tax under section 115QA and alleged that the transactions were part of a colourable device. The CIT(A) held that there was no violation of the conditions prescribed under section 10(34A) and that, in the absence of any differential between the issue price and the buyback price in the hands of the issuer companies, liability under section 115QA itself did not arise. The Hon'ble Delhi Tribunal upheld the CIT(A)'s order and held that once the statutory conditions of section 10(34A) were satisfied, exemption could not be denied merely on the basis of suspicions regarding share transactions undertaken in earlier years. The Tribunal observed that alleged irregularities relating to issue prices in concluded assessment years could not be used to deny exemption on a buyback transaction that was duly recorded and assessed in accordance with law

Further, the assessee earned long term capital gain (LTCG) on sale of shares of two companies. Assessing Officer treated LTCG as income from other sources and thus denied benefit of special rate of tax available on LTCG under section 112. CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. On appeal to the Tribunal, the Hon'ble Tribunal held that since purchase transactions carried out in earlier years could not be disturbed in a subsequent year to deny concessional rate of tax claimed by assessee as available under provisions of Act. Therefore, the order of the assessing officer is set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT v. Magical Enterprises L.L.P. (2025) 211 ITD 46 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 115A : Foreign companies-Tax on interest income-Interest on compulsory convertible debentures and optionally convertible debentures-Entitled to concessional rate under S. 115A(1)(a)(BA)(ii) r/w s. 194LD in respect of OCDs and CCDs [S. 115A(1)(a)(BA)(ii), 194LD]

Held that the nature, rights and obligations attached to OCDs/CCDs cannot be equated with that of shares until conversion thereof; till then OCDs/CCDs retain the character of debenture simplicitor; tax authorities have fallen into error by not giving the assessee the benefit of s. 115A r/w s. 194LD regarding OCD/CCD. (AY. 2020-21 & 2021-22)

Amplus Energy Solutions Pte Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 1034 / 175 taxmann.com 1070 (Delhi) (Trib)

S. 115BAA: Certain domestic companies-Concessional tax regime-Failure to opt for concessional tax regime-Revised return filed after the due date of filing of return was not entertained-SLP of assessee was dismissed.[S. 115JB, 139, Form 10-IC, Art. 136]

Assessee company filed its return of income for the relevant assessment year on 13-2-2021. In its return, assessee had not opted for taxation under section 115BAA. Assessee contended that there was some confusion regarding the manner of claiming the benefit of lower taxation under section 115BAA, and it failed to select the option for the same. It further stated that soon thereafter, its finance officer recovered from COVID-19 and verified the return, and he became aware that assessee had not opted for the option under section 115BAA, and, therefore, filed a revised return on 26-3-2021 and also surrendered depreciation on goodwill. However, the Assessing Officer passed an assessment order under section 115JB. On writ, the Hon'ble High Court held that sub-section (5) of section 115BAA clearly provides that section 115BAA would not be applicable unless (a) an option is exercised by the assessee in a prescribed manner; and (b) before the due date specified under section 139(1) for furnishing the return of income. Further, since assessee had not opted for lower taxation under section 115BAA in its return and its computation of depreciation was not strictly in accordance with terms of sub-section (2) of section 115BAA, it could not be allowed to revise its return and file Form 10-IC after due date for filing return under section 139(1) so as to avail benefit of lower taxation under section 115BAA of the Act. Hence, SLP of the assessee was dismissed. (AY. 2020-21)

Sarla Holdings (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 307 Taxman 446 /(2026) 487 ITR 235 (SC)

Editorial : Sarla Holdings (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT [2025] 179 taxmann.com 83 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 115BAA : Tax on income of certain domestic companies- Concessional tax regime-Delay in filing form No. 10-IC Genuine mistake-Failure to file e.filing Form No 10-IC within due date and filed belated Form-Court held the authority must consider condonation under S. 119(2)(b) and permit a fresh Form 10-IC filing to give effect to the concessional rate. [S.119(2)(b), Art, 226]

The Assessee is a private limited company that intended to exercise the concessional tax regime at 22% under Sec. 115BAA in ITR-6 but inadvertently failed to e-file Form 10-IC within the stipulated date. The assessee sought condonation of delay under Sec. 119(2)(b) after filing the form belatedly. The contention of the Assessee was that it had opted for S. 115BAA in the return and the non-filing of Form 10-IC on time was a bona fide Chartered Accountant error. CBDT Circular No. 6/2022 reflects a liberal intent to avoid genuine hardship, so delay should be condoned and Form 10-IC should be treated appropriately to allow the 22% rate. The Revenue, however, held the view that Sec. 115BAA (5) mandates filing Form 10-IC in the prescribed manner by the due date under Sec. 139(1), and reliance was placed on Principal Commissioner of Income Tax v. Wipro Limited [2022] 140 taxmann.com 223 (SC) to argue that belated compliance was not permissible. PCIT rejected condonation under Sec. 119(2)(b), citing the lack of power in view of CBDT Circular No. 6/2022.

On writ, the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court allowed the petition and directed that the Assessee be permitted to obtain/submit a fresh Form 10-IC and that the authority should consider condonation under S. 119(2)(b) in light of the Court's observations, recognizing S. 115BAA as a relief provision and S. 119(2)(b) as a hardship redressal tool. (AY. 2020-21)

Camino Herbal Remedies (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 306 Taxman 279 (Guj)(HC)

S. 115BAA : Tax on income of certain domestic companies- Concessional tax regime-Exercise of option under 115BAA-Revised return-Non-filing of Form 10-IC-CBDT Circular condoning delay does not relax requirement of exercising option in return filed under S. 139(1)-Assessee having expressly stated "none of above" not eligible-Writ dismissed [S. 115BA, 115BAB, 139(1), Art. 226, Form 10-IC]

The assessee sought benefit of concessional tax under s. 115BAA for AY 2020-21 but had not exercised the option before the due date for filing the return under s. 139(1). In the return of income (Part A-GEN), against the specific column regarding option under S. 115BA/115BAA/115BAB, the assessee had expressly selected "none of above". The plea that there was no specific box to exercise the option was found to be factually incorrect. The contention that the option was intended but inadvertently not indicated was also rejected, particularly when the computation of depreciation was not in conformity with S. 115BAA(2). Further, reliance on CBDT Circular No. 6/2022 dated 17-3-2022 was held misplaced, as the Circular merely condoned delay in filing Form 10-IC in specified cases but did not relax the statutory requirement that the option must be exercised in the return filed within the time prescribed under S. 139(1). Clause (ii) of para 3 of the Circular makes it clear that condonation was available only where the assessee had opted for lower taxation under S. 115BAA in the return. Since the assessee had not done so, it did not satisfy the stipulated conditions. Accordingly, the assessee was denied the benefit of section 115BAA. The writ petition challenging the assessment order was dismissed.(AY. 2020-21)

Sarla Holdings (P) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 345 CTR 129 / 179 taxmann.com 83 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : SLP dismissed, Sarla Holdings (P) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025)307 Taxman 446 (SC)

S. 115BAA: Tax on income of certain domestic companies-Concessional tax regime-Return of income-Failure to file form 10IC within extended period-CBDT circular No 6 of 2022 dt-17 3-2021-Tribunal directing the assessee to file form-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 139(1), 260A, Form No. 10IC]

Assessee filed its return of income opting for taxation under section 115BAA but failed to file mandatory form 10-IC within extended period provided under CBDT Circular No. 6/2022 due to covid pandemic. The Assessing Officer denied the benefit of section 115BAA on the ground that Form 10-IC had not been filed within the stipulated time, and the CIT(A) upheld the denial.Hon'ble Tribunal setting aside CIT(A)order directed Assessing Officer to permit assessee to file form 10IC stating that the delay is condonable considering Central Board of Direct Taxes Circular No. 6 of 2022 dated 17-3-20221. On further appeal to the Hon'ble High Court, affirmed the order of the Tribunal and held that the matter should be restored to the Assessing Officer to permit filing of Form 10-IC and examine the assessee's claim for relief under section 115BAA, subject to fulfilment of all other statutory conditions. (AY.2020-21)

PCIT v. Fastner Commodore Pvt. Ltd (2025) 172 taxmann.com 573 (Cal)(HC)

S. 115BAA : Tax on income of certain domestic companies-Determination of tax in certain cases-Concessional tax regime-Revised return-Option under section 115BAA can validly be exercised through a revised return filed within the due date. [S. 139(5)]

The assessee exercised the option under section 115BAA for the first time through a revised return filed within the prescribed time. The Tribunal held that a revised return substitutes for the original return and validly exercises the option. It further held that business losses and capital losses not covered by section 115BAA(2) continue to be eligible for set-off. (AY. 2021-22).

ACIT v. Lahari Holiday Homes (P.) Ltd. (2025) 238 TTJ 708 / 179 taxmann.com 217 (Hyd.)(Trib.)

S. 115BAA: Tax on income of certain domestic companies-Concessional tax regime-Failure to file Form No 10IC due to technical glitch-Assessee was to be directed to file Form No. 10IC within one month from the date of receipt of this order.[Form No 10IC]

Assessee filed its return of income claiming the benefit of section 115BAA, but could not file Form No. 10IC due to a technical glitch on the income-tax portal. Consequently, while processing the return under section 143(1), CPC denied the benefit of the concessional tax rate under section 115BAA on the ground that Form No. 10-IC had not been filed, and the CIT(A) upheld the adjustment. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that since there were technical issues relating to filing of form 10-IC during the relevant period.

It further noted that CBDT had issued Circular No. 19/2023 and Circular No. 17/2024 providing mechanisms for filing or condonation of delay in filing Form No. 10-IC, though the assessee had not availed those remedies. . Accordingly, the impugned order was set aside and Assessee was to be directed to file Form No. 10-IC within one month from the date of receipt of this order with a corresponding direction to CPC to open the portal for this limited purpose.(AY. 2021-22)

Sanjana Clothings (P.) Ltd. v. AID, CPC (2025) 215 ITD 256/ 238 TTJ 446 (Indore) (Trib.)

S. 115BAA: Tax on income of certain domestic companies- Concessional tax regime-Opted concessional tax regime-Total income-Long Term Capital Gain, would be 22 per cent as per section 115BAA and not 20 per cent under section 112. [S. 112]

The assessee-company had exercised the option under section 115BAA by filing Form 10-IC and was, therefore, subject to the concessional tax regime applicable to domestic companies. For AY 2021-22, it earned Long-Term Capital Gain (LTCG) on sale of land and computed tax on such gains at 20% under section 112. However, while processing the return under section 143(1), the Assessing Officer applied the tax rate of 22% under section 115BAA on the assessee's total income and raised an additional demand. The CIT(A) upheld the adjustment.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that where the assessee has opted for taxation u/s. 115BAA, the rate of tax applicable in respect of the total income of the assessee company is 22%. Thus, the rate of tax applicable on Long Term Capital Gain would be 22% u/s. 115BAA and not 20% u/s. 112.(AY. 2021-22)

Maharishi Education Corporation P. Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 215 ITD 320 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 115BAB : Tax on new manufacturing domestic companies- Concessional tax rate-Manufacturing company-Option once exercised continues for subsequent years-Adjustment under section 143(1) not permissible without opportunity of hearing. [S.143(1)]

The assessee had exercised the option under section 115BAB in the earlier assessment year by filing Form No. 10-ID within the prescribed time. While processing the return under section 143(1) for the subsequent year, CPC applied the normal tax rate of 30 per cent. on the ground that no fresh option had been exercised. The Tribunal held that once the option under section 115BAB is validly exercised, it continues to apply to subsequent years and no fresh Form No. 10-ID is required. Further, the question whether the assessee had commenced manufacturing was a debatable factual issue which could not be adjusted while processing the return under section 143(1). The denial of the concessional tax rate without granting an opportunity of hearing was therefore unsustainable. (AY. 2023-24).

GFCL EV Products Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2025] 180 taxmann.com 17 / 128 ITR 1 (SN) (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 115BAC : Tax on income of individuals and Hindu undivided family-Assessment-Non-filing of Form No.10-IE-Claiming the benefit of option-The denial of exercise of this option in the relevant year for failure to file Form No. 10-IE is not in accordance with law. [S.115BAC(5), Form No-10-IE]

Held that in the preceding year the assessee had exercised its option of paying taxes under the new regime for the first time and the option was denied to the assessee for the reason that Form No. 10-IE was not filed within the prescribed time, there was no requirement for the assessee to file a fresh Form No. 10-IE at all as per sub-s. (5) of s. 115BAC and therefore, the denial of exercise of this option in the relevant year for failure to file Form No. 10-IE, is not in accordance with law. (AY. 2023-24)

Arun Gopilal SamnanI v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 258/ 174 taxmann.com 33 (Ahd)(Trib)

Bhargavkumar Parsottambhai Patel (HUF) v. ITO (2025) 236 TTJ 258/ 174 taxmann.com 33 (Ahd)(Trib)

S.115BAC: Tax on income of individuals and Hindu undivided family-New tax regime-Delay in filing Form No. 10-IE-Option cannot be denied.[S. 115BAC(5), 139(2)]

The assessee filed Form No. 10-IE after the prescribed due date while opting for taxation under section 115BAC. The Assessing Officer denied the benefit of the new tax regime. The Tribunal held that delay in filing Form No. 10-IE does not invalidate the exercise of the option, as the statute treats the option as invalid only where the conditions of section 115BAC(2) are violated. The assessee was therefore entitled to the benefit of the new tax regime. (AY. 2022-23, 2023-24)

Sanju Soni v. ITO (2025) 238 TTJ 578 (Jodhpur)(Trib).

S. 115BAC : Tax on income of individuals and Hindu undivided family-Option for new tax regime-Form No 10-IE-New regime and old regime-The assessee cannot be forced to adopt the new regime-The action of the CPC in processing the return of income determining the total income under the new regime of taxation is quashed and set aside.[S. 139, Form No.10E]

The assessee originally exercised the option for taxation under S. 115BAC by filing Form No. 10-IE on 18th July, 2022. Subsequently, he filed the return of income on 20th July, 2022 declaring total income under the old regime of taxation claiming additional depreciation and deductions under Chapter VI-A. CPC processed the return under new regime and determined the total income. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the CPC. On appeal, the Hon'ble Tribunal held that it is not a case that the assessee filed Form No. 10-IE and also filed the return under the new tax regime and thereafter filed a revised return withdrawing the option which is not permissible in the said previous year. The Tribunal held that the assessee cannot be forced to adopt the new regime. Addl. CIT(A) was not justified in upholding the action of the CPC in processing the return of income determining the total income under the new regime of taxation. (AY.2022-23)

Akshay Nitin Malu v. ITO (2025) 173 taxmann.com 684 (Pune)(Trib)

S. 115BBE : Tax on specified income-Determination of tax in certain cases-Unexplained money-Search conducted prior to amendment-Enhanced tax rate of 60% not applicable. [S. 69A, 132]

Pursuant to a search conducted on 16-08-2016, the Assessing Officer taxed unexplained gold and jewellery under section 69A at the enhanced rate prescribed under section 115BBE as amended with effect from 01-04-2017. The Tribunal held that the amendment enhancing the rate of tax was prospective and could not be applied to a search conducted prior to its coming into force. Accordingly, the addition under section 115BBE at the higher rate was held to be unsustainable. (AY. 2017-18).

Samir Shantilal Mehta v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 83 (Surat)(Trib.)

S. 115J : Company-Book profit-The AO has no jurisdiction to question the correctness of the profit and loss account prepared and certified by the Chartered Accountant.[Companies Act, 1956]-Expenditure incurred for subsidiary under winding-up-Commercial expediency-Deductible as business expenditure [S. 37(1)]

The assessee-company incurred expenditure towards maintenance of its subsidiary company, MMC, which had become financially unviable and was in the process of being wound up. The assessee had promoted MMC, held a substantial equity stake therein, and had acted as its managing agent for several years. The Assessing Officer disallowed expenditure incurred for maintenance of MMC as well as write-off of deposits and interest, holding that the assessee had effectively discharged the liabilities of MMC for reasons unrelated to its own business. The Tribunal affirmed the disallowance

The Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that the expenditure was incurred on grounds of commercial expediency. The Court noted that MMC was closely associated with the assessee and was regarded as a Mahindra group company. The assessee incurred the expenditure to protect its business reputation, goodwill, and investment in MMC. Following its earlier decision in the assessee's own case, the Court held that the expenditure and corresponding write-offs were directly connected with the assessee's business interests and were therefore allowable as business expenditure/loss. Accordingly, the deductions claimed by the assessee were allowed.

Further, While computing book profits under section 115J, the Assessing Officer and appellate authorities sought to make adjustments to the profit and loss account prepared by the assessee. The issue before the Court was whether the Assessing Officer could question the correctness of the audited profit and loss account prepared in accordance with Parts II and III of Schedule VI to the Companies Act.

The Hon'ble High court held that the Assessing Officer does not have jurisdiction to question correctness of profit and loss account prepared and certified by statutory auditors of assessee-company as having been prepared in accordance with requirements of Parts II and III of Schedule VI to Companies Act. Therefore, following the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Malayala Manorama Company Ltd. v. CIT Trivandrum (2008) 169 Taxman 471/ 300 ITR 251 (SC) it was held that the Assessing Officer does not have jurisdiction to go behind net profit shown in profit and loss account except to extent provided in Explanation to section 115J.. (AY. 1990-91)

Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. v. CIT City-II, Mumbai, [2025] 174 taxmann.com 154 (Bom)(HC)

S. 115J : Company-Book profit-Disallowance under section 14A r.w.r 8D-expenditure towards generating exempt income-Matter remanded.[S. 14A, R.8D]

Pursuant to a search conducted under section 132, assessments for certain years were framed under section 153A read with section 143(3). The Assessing Officer made additions by including disallowances under section 14A read with Rule 8D while computing book profit under section 115JB. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D could not be added while computing book profit under section 115JB. However, expenditure directly relatable to exempt income may be considered under clause (f) of Explanation 1 to section 115JB(2), independent of the Rule 8D computation..

Further, the assessee contended that the assessment years under consideration were unabated/completed years and no incriminating material relating to such additions was found during the course of search. It was further argued that disallowance computed under section 14A read with Rule 8D could not be added while computing book profit under section 115JB. The Hon'ble Tribunal further observed that, in view of the Supreme Court decision in Abhisar Buildwell (P.) Ltd., no addition can be made in respect of completed/unabated assessments under section 153A in the absence of incriminating material unearthed during the search. Accordingly, the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether any expenditure was actually incurred for earning exempt income and whether the assessment years were unabated years without any incriminating material. If no incriminating material was found, no addition could be sustained, though reopening under sections 147/148, subject to statutory conditions, would remain available to the Revenue. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

S.R. Ingots (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 210 ITD 254 (Raipur)(Trib.)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Provision for doubtful loans and advances Loss-Actual and certain-No upward adjustment required. [S.115JB(2)(c)]

For Assessment Year 2004-05, the Assessing Officer made a disallowance under section 14A by applying the amended provisions introduced by the Finance Act, 2022, which inserted a non-obstante clause and Explanation to section 14A. The Assessing Officer also made an upward adjustment while computing book profits under section 115JB by treating the amount debited towards provision for doubtful loans and advances as an unascertained liability. The Tribunal deleted the disallowance under section 14A and held that no adjustment under section 115JB was warranted since the amount represented an ascertained liability that had actually been written off.

The Hon'ble High Court held that the Tribunal had recorded findings that in the assessment order, the Assessing Officer had not given any reason for making upward adjustment while calculating the book profit for the purpose of minimum alternate tax and despite this fact the Commissioner had presumed that the Assessing Officer might have invoked the provisions of section 115JB(2)(c) by treating the loans and advances which were actually written off as doubtful. The assessee had consistently submitted that the loss was real and such loss had been debited to the profit and loss account under the head provision for doubtful loans and advances and on perusal of audited accounts it was clear that it was written off in the account as irrecoverable though the nomenclature was used as provision. The revenue could not show any factual matrix which led them to take a view that such amount was not certain and was merely a provision. Since the amount had in fact been written off and represented a certain liability, no upward adjustment under section 115JB(2)(c) was permissible. Accordingly, the Court found no reason to interfere with the Tribunal's factual findings and dismissed the Revenue's appeal.(AY. 2004-05)

PCIT v. Avantha Realty Ltd [2024] 164 taxmann.com 376 /(2025) 482 ITR 599 (Cal)(HC)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Interest under S. 234B-Binding precedent of Co-ordinate Benches-Revenue bound to disclose contrary judgments-Allegation that earlier judgments were "obtained" deprecated-The duty of fairness expected from the Revenue, the Court observed that binding precedents should not be suppressed or casually attacked-Appeal dismissed. [Ss. 234B, 260A]

Where the assessee had computed book profits in accordance with the prevailing law and interest under section 234B was sought to be levied consequent to retrospective amendments made by the Finance Act, 2008 w.r.e.f. 1-4-2001, the Court held that identical questions had already been decided against the Revenue by at least three Co-ordinate Benches and such binding precedents were not even brought to the notice of the Court by the Revenue while seeking admission of the appeal. The contention of the Revenue that earlier judgments were “obtained” by suppression of material was strongly deprecated, the Court observing that such allegations against Co-ordinate Bench decisions are objectionable and cannot substitute proper legal challenge or distinction. The Court further held that a question not raised before the Tribunal nor framed in the memorandum of appeal cannot be urged in an appeal under section 260A. Emphasising the duty of fairness expected from the Revenue, the Court observed that binding precedents should not be suppressed or casually attacked and, following earlier decisions holding that no interest under section 234B is leviable where book profits were computed as per law then prevailing, dismissed the Revenue’s appeal. (AY. 2005-06).

CIT v. Reliance Industries Ltd. (2025) 345 CTR 747 / 252 DTR 65 (Bom)(HC)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Expenditure towards corporate social responsibility-No basis for excluding expenditure on corporate social responsibility for determining book profits-Book profits to be determined as per accounts maintained in accordance with law Income-tax Act.

The assessee, engaged in the business of import and distribution of products under the “Sony” brand, incurred Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure and included the same in its accounts while computing book profits under section 115JB. The Assessing Officer sought to add back the CSR expenditure while computing MAT, contending that such expenditure ought not to be considered for determining book profits. The Tribunal deleted the adjustment and held that the CSR expenditure as debited in the books formed part of the accounts prepared in accordance with law and could not be excluded while computing book profits under section 115JB

The Hon'ble High Court held that section 115JB permits only those adjustments to the net profit which are specifically provided for in the statute. There is no provision under section 115JB requiring CSR expenditure to be added back or excluded while determining book profits. Book profits are to be computed on the basis of accounts maintained in accordance with applicable accounting principles, subject only to the adjustments expressly prescribed in the section. Since the revenue had no basis for excluding expenditure on corporate social responsibility for determining book profits, book profits to be determined as per accounts maintained in accordance with law Income-tax Act.(AY. 2016-17)

PCIT v. Sony India Pvt. Ltd [2024] 167 taxmann.com 549 / (2025) 477 ITR 576 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Provision for bad and doubtful debts-Electricity company-Applicability of MAT provisions-Tribunal deleting additions made to enhance book profit justified.[S. 260A, Schedule VI of Companies Act, 1956, Electricity Act, 2003, Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948.]

The assessee is a company engaged in generation and distribution of electricity. While computing book profits under section 115JB, the Assessing Officer made certain adjustments relating to expenditure attributable to exempt income and the appellate authority further enhanced the book profit. On further appeal, the Tribunal held that section 115JB, as it stood during the relevant assessment year, had no application to an electricity company and directed deletion of the additions made for enhancing book profits. The Revenue challenged the Tribunal's order before the High Court.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the Tribunal was justified in deleting the additions made on account of book profit under section 115JB. The Court observed that prior to the amendment made by the Finance Act, 2012, section 115JB(2) required companies to prepare their profit and loss accounts in accordance with Parts II and III of Schedule VI to the Companies Act, 1956. However, electricity companies were statutorily required to prepare their accounts under the provisions of the Electricity Act, 2003 and the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948, and not under Schedule VI of the Companies Act. Consequently, the machinery provisions contained in section 115JB were incapable of being applied to such companies. The Court further noted that the Finance Act, 2012 specifically amended section 115JB to bring electricity, banking and insurance companies within its scope by permitting them to prepare accounts in accordance with their governing statutes. The Memorandum explaining the amendment also clarified that the amendment was prospective and applicable from Assessment Year 2013-14 onwards. Accordingly, the Court held that section 115JB, as it stood prior to the Finance Act, 2012, was not applicable to electricity companies and therefore the Tribunal was justified in deleting the additions made while computing book profits. The order of the Tribunal deleting the additions made to the book profit did not suffer from infirmity or error and, was, therefore upheld. (AY. 2006-07)

PCIT v. Tata Power Delhi Distribution Ltd. (2025) 476 ITR 639 /171 taxmann.com 59 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Electricity generation and distribution-Provisions of section 115JB inapplicable to assessee in assessment year 2008-2009 prior to amendment by Finance Act, 2012.[S. 260A]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that section 115JB would be inapplicable, to the assessee engaged in electricity generation and distribution, prior to its amendment by virtue of the Finance Act, 2012, for the assessment year 2008-2009. The order of the Tribunal was upheld. (AY. 2008-09)

Dy. CIT v. Tata Power Delhi Distribution Ltd. (2025) 476 ITR 659 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Limited power of AO-AO cannot go behind audited accounts approved under Companies Act except for adjustments in Explanation. [S. 260A]

The assessee had demerged its resort division, resulting in a loss on demerger disclosed as extraordinary item in audited profit and loss account. While computing book profit under section 115JB, AO disregarded the loss disclosed in the profit and loss account and proceeded on the basis of profit before the extraordinary adjustment, taking the view that the demerger loss ought to have been adjusted against reserves and not charged to the profit and loss account. The Tribunal deleted the adjustment made by the Assessing Officer.

The Hon'ble High Court held that the Ld. AO made adjustments beyond the specific additions permissible under Explanation 1 of section 115JB. The Court held that AO's jurisdiction under MAT provisions is limited to specified adjustments; once accounts are certified and approved under Companies Act, AO cannot alter book profits. Since the loss arising on demerger had been duly reflected in the audited accounts and no adjustment in respect thereof was contemplated under Explanation 1 to section 115JB, the Assessing Officer was not justified in excluding such loss while computing book profits. Accordingly, the Tribunal was justified in deleting the adjustment and accepting the book profit as reflected in the audited accounts. (AY. 2009-10)

PCIT v. Varun Corporation Ltd [2023] 154 taxmann.com 548 (Bom)(HC)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Long-term capital gains-exemption under section 10(38)-Order of Tribunal allowing the exemption is affirmed.[S.10(38), 260A]

The assessee claimed exemption under section 10(38) in respect of long-term capital gains (LTCG) arising from the sale of listed shares. While computing book profits under section 115JB, a substantial portion of such gains was not included in the profit and loss account and was carried directly to capital reserve. The Assessing Officer held that since the LTCG had not been considered for determining book profits under section 115JB, the assessee was not entitled to exemption under section 10(38) and accordingly included the amount in the taxable income under the normal provisions of the Act. The CIT(A) and the Tribunal, however, held that the LTCG continued to be exempt under section 10(38).

The Hon'ble High court, dismissing the appeal of the Revenue upheld the order of the Tribunal, in rejecting the Department's contention and holding that the assessee was entitled to exemption under section 10(38) of the long-term capital gains on account of sale of shares by the amalgamating companies, which was denied by the Assessing Officer. (AY.2015-16)

PCIT v. Hespera Reality Pvt. Ltd. (2025)472 ITR 630/303 Taxman 154 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 115JB: Company-Book profit-Sales tax subsidy-Credited to capital reserve-Adjustment made by the Assessing Officer is not justified.

Since the sales-tax subsidy has been directly credited to the capital reserve and never credited to the P&L a/c, in accordance with AS-12 and the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956, the AO was not justified in making an addition to book profit under s. 115JB; there being no finding in the CIT(A)'s order that the accounts of the assessee-company were not prepared in accordance with the Companies Act, the adjustment made by the AO was beyond his jurisdiction. (AY.2003-04, 2006-07)

Munjal Auto Industries Ltd. v.ITO (2025) 235 TTJ 84 / 173 taxmann.com 498 (Ahd)(Trib)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Method of accounting-Provision for loss of inventory-Diminution in value of asset-Any reduction in the value of inventory is to be added back to book profit computed in terms of s. 115JB(2)-Addition is affirmed. [S.115JB(2), 145]

Held that the assessee follows lower of cost or net realizable value method of accounting for the purpose of valuation of inventory, any reduction in the valuation of inventory is reflected in closing value of stock-in-trade or inventory and there is no question of debiting the said reduction to the material consumption account; 4 / 15 reduction in the value of inventory is to be added back to the book profit computed in terms of S. 115JB(2).(AY.2011-12)

Dr. Reddy's Laboratories Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 236 TTJ 699 / 174 taxmann.com 238 (Hyd)(Trib)

S. 115JB : Company-Book Profit-Sick Industrial Company-Exemption under Explanation 1(vii)-Net worth becoming positive-BIFR Scheme-The BIFR directions merely required the Department to consider continuation of the exemption and did not override the statutory provisions of section 115JB-Exemption not available. [Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985,(SICA), S. 32

The assessee-company claimed exclusion of its profits from book profits under section 115JB on the strength of the rehabilitation scheme sanctioned by the BIFR. The Tribunal held that the exemption under Explanation 1(vii) to section 115JB is available only till the assessment year in which the net worth of the sick company remains below the accumulated losses. Since the assessee's net worth had become positive on 31-03-2009 and it was discharged from the purview of SICA/BIFR on that basis, the profits of A.Y. 2012-13 could not be excluded while computing book profits. The BIFR directions merely required the Department to consider continuation of the exemption and did not override the statutory provisions of section 115JB. (AY. 2012-13.)

Supertex Industries Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 887 / 179 taxmann.com 677 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Amalgamation-General reserve arising on amalgamation not equivalent to accumulated profits-Matter restored-Interest-Levy consequential. [S. 234B, 234C]

The Assessing Officer treated the general reserve created on amalgamation as accumulated profits while computing book profit under section 115JB. The Tribunal held that the reserve did not represent accumulated profits and followed its earlier decision in the assessee's own case directing the Assessing Officer to allow deduction of the lower of the brought-forward business loss or unabsorbed depreciation while computing book profit. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer. The Tribunal upheld the directions of the Commissioner (Appeals) regarding computation of interest under sections 234B and 234C in accordance with the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Rolta India Ltd., holding that the levy of interest was consequential and required recomputation by the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13).

Dy. CIT v. Bodal Chemicals Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 194 / 177 taxmann.com 448 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Minimum Alternate Tax-Book profit-Sales tax subsidy-Capital receipt-Subsidy reduced from written-down value of assets-Not includible in book profit. [S.2(24)(xviii)]

The assessee received sales tax subsidy under the Maharashtra Package Scheme of Incentives, 2007, which was treated as a capital receipt and adjusted against the written-down value of fixed assets for computing depreciation. Although the subsidy was credited to the profit and loss account, no reduction was claimed while computing book profit under section 115JB. The Tribunal held that once the subsidy had been adjusted against the written down value of the assets and accepted by the Department as a capital receipt, it ceased to be income under section 2(24)(xviii). A capital receipt cannot be subjected to tax even while computing book profit under section 115JB. The assessee was therefore entitled to reduce the subsidy from the computation of book profit notwithstanding that the claim had not been made in the original return. (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19).

Economic Explosives Ltd. v. Asst. CIT [2024] 167 taxmann.com 9 / (2025) 124 ITR 443 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 115JB: Company-Book profit-Corporate Social Responsibility expenditure-Provision made in accordance with Companies Act-Not liable to be added back while computing book profit.[S. 37(1), 115JB, Expln. 1]

The Assessing Officer added back the provision for Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) expenditure while computing book profits under section 115JB by relying upon CBDT Circular No. 1 of 2015. The Tribunal held that the Circular dealt only with allowability of CSR expenditure under section 37(1) and had no application to computation of book profits under section 115JB. Since the accounts were prepared in accordance with the Companies Act, 2013 and the CSR provision was not covered by any of the adjustments specified in Explanation 1 to section 115JB, the Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to recompute the book profits. The deletion of the addition was upheld. (AY. 2016-17 to 2018-19).

Dy. CIT v. Jammu and Kashmir Power Development Corporation Ltd. (2025) 125 ITR 556 / 177 taxmann.com 530 (Amritsar)(Trib.)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Insurance company-Reserve for unexpired risks and premium deficiency-No adjustment permissible under Explanation 1-Addition deleted.

The Tribunal held that section 115JB does not provide for adding back reserve for unexpired risks or premium deficiency while computing book profit. As these items are not specified in Explanation 1 to section 115JB, the additions made by the Assessing Officer were deleted. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 115JB : Company-Book profit-Income from operation of ships-Income offered under deeming provision-Provision of book profit is not applicable-DTAA-India-Hong Kong. [S. 44B, 145A, 90(2), Art. 8]

The assessee, a non-resident shipping company, offered its income from operation of ships to tax under the presumptive provisions of section 44B. The Assessing Officer included the GST collected by the assessee in the gross receipts for computing deemed profits under section 44B and accordingly enhanced the presumptive income.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that section 44B is a special provision providing for taxation of non-resident shipping companies on a presumptive basis and the deemed income is required to be computed only with reference to the specific amounts mentioned in section 44B(2), namely, amounts paid or payable or received on account of carriage of passengers, livestock, mail or goods. The Tribunal observed that section 145A deals with valuation of purchases, sales and inventory for determining business income under the normal provisions and cannot override the special computation mechanism prescribed under section 44B. It further held that GST is a statutory levy collected by the assessee in a fiduciary capacity on behalf of the Government and does not contain any element of profit. Inclusion of GST in the gross receipts would effectively amount to levying income-tax on tax itself, which could not be the legislative intent

Further, in view of Expln. 4A to s. 115JB(1), the provisions of S. 115JB are not applicable to the assessee. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that GST cannot be included while computing presumptive income under section 44B and deleted the addition made by the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2020-21)

Orient Overseas Container Line Ltd. v. Dy.CIT (IT) [2024] 168 taxmann.com 269 / (2025) 233 TTJ 83 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 115-O : Company-Dividend distribution tax-Payment of dividend to non-resident shareholder-Dividend distribution tax payable by company at rate under section 115-O, not at rate applicable to non-resident shareholder under Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement, unless contracting States by specific provision extend treaty protection to domestic company. [S. 90]

Held that the DTAA does not apply to DDT paid by a domestic company under section 115-O unless the contracting States specifically extend treaty protection to such company, and hence the tax was rightly levied at the rate under section 115-O.(AY. 2010-11 to 2014-15)

Schaeffler India Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 131 ITR 237 (Ahd.) (Trib)

S. 115-O : Domestic companies-Tax on distributed profits-Refund-Entitlement-Refund of Dividend Distribution Tax paid on dividend to International Finance Corporation-Entitled to refund. [IFC Act, 1958]

Held that the dividend paid to entities enjoying absolute immunity under the IT Act, such as IFC, which has been granted tax-free status, should in all forms be excluded from the taxable base for the purpose of DDT; hence, the amount of dividend paid to IFC is to be reduced from the total amount on which DDT is payable, and the assessee is entitled to a refund. (AY.2018-19 to 2020-21)

Polycab India Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 237 TTJ 837 / 175 taxmann.com 707 (Mum) Trib)

S. 115-O: Domestic companies-Tax on distributed profits-Dividend Distribution Tax-Dividend paid to non-resident shareholder-Rate prescribed under section 115-O applicable-Rate under DTAA not applicable to domestic company paying dividend distribution tax.

The assessee contended that dividend distribution tax was payable at the rate prescribed under the applicable Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement as the dividend was distributed to non-resident shareholders. The Tribunal held that dividend distribution tax is a liability of the domestic company under section 115-O and is payable at the rate prescribed therein. The concessional rate available to a non-resident shareholder under the applicable DTAA could not be extended to the domestic company unless the treaty specifically so provided. (AY. 2018-19).

Toyota Kirloskar Motor P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 515 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 115P : Domestic companies-Tax on distributed profits-Interest-Dividend Distribution Tax-Credit-Matter remanded for verification.

The Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to verify the challans and books of account evidencing payment of Dividend Distribution Tax and grant consequential credit along with recomputation of interest in accordance with law. (AY. 2020-21).

Toyota Boshoku Automotive India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 298 / 174 taxmann.com 933 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 115P: Domestic companies-Tax on distributed profits-Dividend Distribution Tax-Credit-Assessing Officer directed to grant credit after verification.

The assessee sought credit for Dividend Distribution Tax paid and reflected in the statutory records. The Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to verify the challans and Form 26AS and grant the appropriate credit together with consequential recomputation of interest and demand. (AY. 2018-19).

Geecee Ventures Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 371 / 174 taxmann.com 1285 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 115V-I: Shipping business-Shipping income-Allocation of administrative expenditure-Required to be allocated on a reasonable basis.

Held that the administrative expenses are required to be incurred for all activities of the assessee-company, and therefore, the same are required to be allocated on a reasonable basis to arrive at profit from the incidental activities in accordance with s. 115V-I. (AY. 2018-19)

Shipping Corporation of India v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 163 / 173 taxmann.com 190 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 115V-I: Shipping business-Shipping income-Interest from deposits with banks-AO is directed to treat the interest income as part of the profits from core shipping activities carried on by the assessee as business income. [S.115VJ]

Held that the fixed deposits maintained with the banks, which are marked as lien, fixed deposits with the banks out of the funds which were generated from public offerings for the purpose of financing ship-building projects pending utilization for the said purpose, fixed deposits placed with the banks, for complying with the covenants in the loan agreement entered for the purpose of acquiring ships and vessels are linked with the business of operating ships and therefore interest income constitutes business income and relates to the core shipping activity. (AY. 2018-19)

Shipping Corporation of India v. DCIT (2025) 235 TTJ 163 / 173 taxmann.com 190 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Delay in filing tax audit report in form 10B-High Court directed to allow the exemption-SLP of revenue was delayed by 237 days-SLP is dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [S. 11, 12, Form No 10B Art. 136]

Assessee, a Public Charitable Trust, filed a return for Assessment Year 2021-22, declaring a deficit. CPC disallowed exemptions under Sections 11 and 12 due to non-filing of the audit report in Form 10B and treated the entire income as taxable. The Hon'ble Tribunal, relying on Gujarat High Court's decision in Association of Indian Panel Board Manufacturers v. DCIT [2023] 157 taxmann.com 550 (Guj)(HC), held that filing of Form 10B is a procedural requirement and allowed the exemption claim of the assessee.

The Hon'ble High Court held that no substantial question of law arose out of the order of the Tribunal and upheld the order of Tribunal stating that claim of the assessee for exemption to its entire income under Section 11 of the Act is required to be allowed and AO/CPC was directed accordingly to delete the adjustment made in the intimation under Section 143(1) of the Act.

The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the SLP filed by the revenue on the ground of delay of 237 days in filing the SLP and the reasons assigned were neither satisfactory nor sufficient in law to condone the delay. SLP filed by revenue was dismissed on the grounds of delay as well as on the merits. (AY. 2021-22)

CIT (E) v. Anjana Foundation (2025) 307 Taxman 169 / (2026) 485 ITR 10 (SC)

Editorial : CIT(E) v. Anjana Foundation [2024] 168 taxmann.com 462 (Guj) HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Delay in filing Form No 10B-Delay of 1257 days-Oversights by the Chartered Accountant-Human error lacking any malafide intention-Delay was not intentional or deliberate-Assessee could not be prejudiced on account of an ignorance or error committed by professional engaged by it-High Court condoned the delay and CIT(E) is directed to proceed with the return in accordance with law-SLP delayed by

323 days-Delay was condoned-Order of High Court affirmed. [S. 11, 119(2) Form No 10B, Art,136]

Assessee, a charitable trust filed its return for assessment year 2016-17 on 6-9-2016, declaring nil income and seeking a refund. Assessee failed to FILE audit report in Form No. 10B along with return, which was eventually filed on 15-2-2020, with a delay of approximately 1257 days. Despite explaining delay as an oversight by their Chartered Accountant/Auditor, condonation application under section 119(2)(b) was rejected by CIT(E).

On writ, allowing the petition, the Hon'ble High Court held that since assessee had been filing its returns and Form 10B for subsequent years within due dates on this ground alone, delay condonation application should have been allowed because failure to file returns for AY 2016-17 could be only due to human error lacking any mala fide intention. On facts, the delay was not intentional or deliberate and therefore, assessee could not be prejudiced on account of an ignorance or error committed by professional engaged by it. The Hon'ble High Court condoned the delay and directed CIT(E) to proceed with the return in accordance with law. SLP of revenue was delayed by 323 days. Delay was condoned and on merits, the Hon'ble Supreme court dismissed the SLP affirming the order of the High Court. (AY. 2016-17)

CIT (E) v. AL Jamia Mohammediyah Education Society (2025) 481 ITR 215 / 176 taxmann.com 761 (SC)

Editorial : AL Jamia Mohammediyah Education Society v.CIT(E)(2024) 298 Taxman 650 / 339 CTR 572 / (2025) 482 ITR 41 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Delay in filing return-Condonation of delay for filing revised returns-National Company Law Tribunal-Revised books of account-Genuine hardship-Power vested in Authority to be judicially exercised-The assessee could file before the jurisdictional Assessing Officer physical returns of income based on books of account revised under section 130(2) of the 2013 Act, as taken on record by the National Company Law

Tribunal for the assessment years 2015-16 to 2020-21 within the time stipulated in this order-SLP of Revenue is dismissed. [S. 119(2)(b). 139(4), Companies Act, 2013, S. 130, Art. 136]

Pursuant to an order passed by the NCLT under section 130 of the Companies Act, 2013, the assessee's books of account and financial statements for earlier years were reopened, recast and audited by firms appointed by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs. The recasted financial statements were subsequently accepted by the NCLT and filed with the Registrar of Companies. Based on the revised accounts, the assessee sought condonation of delay under section 119(2)(b) for filing revised returns of income for Assessment Years 2015-16 to 2020-21. However, the CBDT rejected the condonation applications on various grounds, including pendency of proceedings before other authorities and the need to examine the veracity of the recasted accounts. The Tribunal/High Court proceedings arose from the challenge to such rejection.

On a writ petition, the Hon'ble High Court allowed the petitions holding, inter alia, that when by the order under section 130(2) of the Companies Act, 2013 passed by the National Company Law Tribunal on an application filed by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs the accounts had been recast and accepted by the National Company Law Tribunal and also filed with the Registrar of Companies under the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, the Department could not raise frivolous objections and hold that the delay in filing the returns of income based on the revised books of account should not be even be condoned. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. It further held that the expression "genuine hardship" under section 119(2)(b) must be construed liberally to advance substantial justice and enable determination of income on merits. Accordingly, the impugned order rejecting condonation was quashed and the Department was directed to permit filing of revised returns based on the recasted accounts and assess the income accordingly. The Supreme Court dismissed the Revenue's SLP and affirmed the High Court's decision. (AY.2015-16 to 2020-21)

ACIT. v. CG Power and Industrial Solutions Ltd (2025)472 ITR 642/
303 Taxman 256 (SC)

Editorial : CG Power and Industrial Solutions Ltd v. ACIT (2024)465 ITR 432 / 162 taxmann.com 315 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Deemed application of income-Filed Form No 10 instead of Form No 9A delay condoned [S.11(1), 12A, 80G,119(2)(b), Form No.9A Form No 10, Art. 226]

Assessee, a charitable trust registered under sections 12A and 80G, filed its return for Assessment Year 2016-2017 claiming deemed application of income under section 11(1). Owing to an amendment by Finance Act, 2015, Form No. 9A became mandatory from Assessment Year 2016-17, but the assessee inadvertently did not file it and instead filed Form No. 10. On realizing mistake during assessment, the assessee filed Form 9A, and a condonation application. Assessing Officer rejected the claim for deemed application for late filing of Form 9A, raising a tax demand. Commissioner rejected the condonation application, citing no reasonable cause for delay. On writ, the Hon'ble High court held that assessment year 2016-17 was the first year wherein filing of Form No. 9A was prescribed. Further, assessee was a charitable trust carrying on various charitable activities for the last 38 years, and if this delay was not condoned, there would be genuine hardship to assessee, since assessee would be saddled with a huge tax liability, even though it had substantially complied with provisions of section 11. Accordingly, the order rejecting condonation of delay in filing Form No. 9A was set aside and the delay in filing Form 9A was condoned. (AY. 2016-17)

Lakhi Trust v. ITO (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 557 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119: Property held for charitable purposes-Charitable trust-Accumulation of income-Filed after due date of return-Delay of 338 days-Suffered genuine hardship if delay was not condoned, as accumulated amount had already been applied towards objects of trust in relevant assessment year and if exemption in respect of accumulated amount was denied and tax demand arising on account of denial of benefit of accumulation was recovered, it would place assessee in gross financial difficulty, delay in filing Form No. 10 was condoned. [S. 11(2), 11(5), 139(1), Form No 10, Art.226]

Assessee-trust filed return claiming exemption under section 11 and accumulation under section 11(2). Form No. 10 for accumulation was filed electronically after the due date under section 139(1). Assessing Officer denied assessee's claim for accumulation under section 11(2) on the ground that assessee failed to file the requisite Form within the stipulated time. Application for condonation of delay was rejected by the CIT(E).

On writ, the Hon'ble High court held that accumulation was already disclosed in the return of income and supported by Board resolution and audit report in Form No. 10B, all existing prior to the due date; thus, the claim was not a new claim but one always made and supported by contemporaneous documents. Substantive requirements of section 11(2), viz., investment under section 11(5) and application within the stipulated time, stood fulfilled. Further, delay occurred as the year under consideration was the first year after statutory amendment and assessee bona fide believed Form No. 10 could be filed during scrutiny proceedings based on the pre-amended position. The Hon'ble High Court held that since assessee would suffer genuine hardship if delay was not condoned, as the accumulated amount had already been applied towards objects of trust in relevant assessment year and if exemption in respect of the accumulated amount was denied and tax demand arising on account of denial of benefit of accumulation was recovered, it would place assessee in gross financial difficulty, delay in filing Form No. 10 was condoned. (AY. 2018-19)

Columbia Global Center in India v. ITO (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 548 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Condonation of delay of 1257 days-Accumulation of income-Form No. 10-Delay was condoned-Directed to file application under section 154 of the Act. [S. 11(2), 119(2)(b), R. 17, Form No.10B, Art. 226]

Assessee-trust filed an audit report in Form No. 10B and sought a claim of accumulation of income under section 11(2). The learned Assessing Officer rejected said claim on the grounds that Form 10 was not filed. Subsequently, Form 10 was filed beyond the due date along with an application for condonation of delay. However, the learned Assessing Officer rejected the application. The application for condonation of delay was dismissed by the Commissioner. On writ, it was contended by the assessee's auditor that since factum of accumulation of receipts was reported in the audit report in Form No.10B, he was under bona fide impression that there was no separate requirement to file a separate statement and that provisions of section 11(2) were complied with. The assessee's auditor admitted to oversight that he did not consider provisions of Rule 17, which required a separate statement in Form No. 10 to be filed, apart from the audit report in Form No. 10 B, and also the intimation with respect to denial of accumulation of income was received during the pandemic period. Allowing the petition, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that since delay was not intentional or deliberate, assessee could not be prejudiced on account of an ignorance of rules admitted by a professional engaged by assessee and thus, delay was condoned. (AY. 2019-20)

Shree Jain Swetamber Murtipujak Tapagachha Sangh v. CIT(E) [2024] 161 taxmann.com 114 / (2025) 482 ITR 38 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Delay of 70 days-Order of CIT(E) not condoning the delay was quashed and set aside-Authority concerned was directed to grant the exemption.[S. 11, 119(2)(b), Form No 10B, Art. 226]

Assessee, a charitable trust, filed its return of income along with the audit report under Form 10B with a delay of 70 days. It was denied exemption under section 11 owing to the aforesaid delay. Assessee sought condonation of delay of 70 days in filing Form No. 10B, but the same was rejected by the Commissioner (Exemptions) on the ground that the application for condonation of delay was filed beyond the period of three years from the end of the assessment year in question by relying upon Circular No. 16/2024 dated 18-11-2024. On writ, the Court held that the due date to file the audit report for assessment year 2020-21 was preponed by one month, and the same was inadvertently not noticed by the assessee. Further, during the relevant time, assessee was effectively operating in the absence of key trustees as well as permanent accounting staff, and it was only pursuant to a review of records carried out by newly appointed trustees in March 2025 that the assessee became aware of denial of exemption under section 11. Moreover, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that not condoning such delay would cause genuine hardship to the assessee inasmuch as assessee had been denied exemption under section 11 and a demand of a certain amount upon the assessee after computing the total income of the trust. On facts, the order passed by Commissioner (E) was set aside, and a delay of 70 days in filing of Form No. 10B for assessment year 2020-21 was condoned. (AY. 2020-21)

Dinesh Surendra Kotecha v. UOI (2025) 307 Taxman 504 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Form No 10B delayed by 29 days-Delay was condoned, and the revenue was directed to allow exemption. [S. 11, 12A, 119(2)(b), Form No.10B, Art. 226]

Assessee, a charitable trust, was registered under section 12A of the Income Tax Act, 1961. It filed its return of income for the relevant assessment year on 5 November 2022, claiming exemption under section 11. The assessee filed Form No. 10B on the same day as the filing of the return, which was beyond the applicable due date of 7-10-2022 and consequently, there was a delay of 29 days in filing Form No. 10B. Assessee filed an application seeking condonation of delay, claiming that the form could not be filed in due time because its accountant suffered a miscarriage and was advised to take bed rest, which prevented timely finalisation of accounts. However, the Commissioner rejected the application on the ground that the assessee had not shown any reasonable cause that prevented it from filing the audit report within the specified date. On writ, condoning the delay, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that since there was only a 29-day delay in filing Form No. 10B and the Commissioner never doubted the factual situation put forth by the assessee to explain the delay, the Commissioner ought to have condoned the delay. If this delay was not condoned, there would be genuine hardship to the assessee, inasmuch as the assessee would be denied exemption otherwise claimed under section 11, which was of a substantial amount. Hence, delay was condoned. (AY. 2022-23)

St. Thomas High School v. CIT (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 141 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Audit report in Form 10B was obtained in time and uploaded with a delay of 181 days-Mistake of the accountant of the Auditor-Delay was condoned-Order of CIT(E) was quashed and set aside.[S. 11, 12, 119(2)(b),143(1) form No 10B, Art. 226]

Assessee, a charitable trust running an educational institution, filed its return of income for the relevant assessment year declaring NIL income. Audit report under Form 10B was obtained in time but uploaded late due to the inadvertence of the auditor's accountant. CPC issued an intimation under section 143(1) raising demand. Assessee applied for condonation of 181 days' delay in filing Form 10B under section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961. CIT(E) rejected the application for condonation of delay on the ground that there was no reasonable cause and non-filing within the due date. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that since the delay was neither deliberate nor mala fide but was on account of the inadvertence of the accountant of auditor, and the assessee had otherwise complied with statutory requirements, obtained the audit report in time, and filed it immediately upon noticing the lapse the order under section 119(2)(b) of the Act was liable to be quashed and the delay of 181 days in filing Form No. 10B was condoned. (AY. 2019-20)

Vesava Koli Samaj Shikshan Sanstha v. CIT (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 83 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust -Form No 10BB-Delay of 81 days-Chartered Accountant failed to prompt or instruct authorized person from the assessee institute to verify the audit report on the e-filing portal before the due date of filing of return-Delay was condoned. [S.10(23C)(vi), 11, 119(2)(b), 143(1), Form No 10BB, Art. 226]

Assessee, a charitable educational institution, filed its return of income declaring nil income after claiming exemption under section 11 as well as under section 10(23C)(vi) of the Income Tax Act, 1961. Audit report in Form No. 10BB was obtained and uploaded on the Income-tax portal within the due date for filing the return of income. However, said Form No. 10BB was verified on the e-filing portal after 81 days. Assessing Officer issued an intimation under section 143(1) denying the assessee's claims of exemption under section 11 and section 10(23C)(vi) and raised a tax demand. During appeal before the National Faceless Appeal Centre, assessee filed an application under section 119(2)(b) seeking condonation of delay in verification of Form No. 10BB. The learned Principal Commissioner of Income Tax rejected the application on the ground that no reasonable cause was shown for the delay. On writ, the assessee explained that delay had occurred as the Chartered Accountant failed to prompt or instruct an authorised person from the assessee institute to verify the audit report on the e-filing portal before the due date of filing of return. Allowing the petition, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that since assessee institute would suffer grave hardship if the delay was not condoned and the exemption denied merely on this count, delay. Delay was condoned. (AY. 2018-19)

Institute of Actuaries of India v. CIT (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 256 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return for losses-Inadequate advice by a Chartered Accountant admitted by filing an affidavit-Delay was condoned-Order rejecting the application was set aside. [S.80, 119(2)(b) 139, 153(1B) Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income belatedly, claiming a loss of a certain amount. The assessee filed an application for condonation of delay under section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961. Assessee claimed that the delay occurred because the Chartered Accountant was not acquainted with the legal and accounting treatment to be given apropos compensation received in the form of TDR in lieu of compulsory acquisition of certain immovable property and, accordingly, he had to seek appropriate legal advice. The learned Commissioner of Income Tax rejected the assessee's contention because the assessee failed to exercise due diligence to ensure the timely filing of its return and due to the his lack of supervision. On writ, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that the delay in filing return was not due to any negligence on the part of the assessee but due to inadequate advice by a Chartered Accountant, which fact stood admitted by him in his affidavit. Whether the issue that was being grappled with was fairly complex and there were no well-settled judicial precedents at the relevant time, assessee ought not to be put to a considerable disadvantage as a result of belated advice given to it by a Chartered Accountant. Court also held that, in view of the provisions of section 153(1B), the Assessing Officer would have 12 months from the end of 31 March 2026 to complete an assessment, i.e. he will have time till 31 March 2027 to frame an assessment under section 143/144, thus, there would be no prejudice to revenue if the delay was condoned. Accordingly, the delay in filing the return was condoned, and the return filed was to be treated as the return filed in accordance with section 153(1B) of the Act. (AY. 2018-19)

Balaji Landmarks LLP v. CBDT (2025) 307 Taxman 498 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Delay of 12 days-COVID-19-related constraints-PCIT acts as a quasi-judicial body-Under an obligation to pass a reasoned order-Order was set aside, and the matter was remanded back to PCIT for a de novo consideration to decide the application. [S. 119(2)(b),139(4) Art, 226]

Petitioner filed his return of income 12 days later than the applicable due date of filing the said return. He filed an application under section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 seeking condonation of delay, citing COVID-19-related constraints. The learned PCIT rejected the said application, holding that there was no genuine hardship in filing the return, inter alia noting that public transport was operating at 50% capacity in late December 2021 and that assessee had sufficient time to file the return, further referring to CBDT Circular No. 09/2015. On writ, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that the learned PCIT had not dealt with various averments made by assessee/applicant and had rejected the application for condonation of delay in a mechanical manner. The learned PCIT who admittedly exercises powers under section 119(2)(b) of the Act, acts as a quasi-judicial body and is under an obligation to pass a reasoned order. Since the order, except stating that there was no genuine hardship in filing the return of income, did not deal with the detailed application filed by the assessee/applicant, the learned PCIT's action was held to be unsustainable. Therefore, the order was to be set aside, and the matter was remanded back to the learned PCIT for de novo consideration to decide the application. CBDT Circular No. 09/2015, dated 9-6-2015. (AY. 2021-22)

Udit Goyal v. PCIT (2025) 307 Taxman 34 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Concessional tax regime-Form 10-IC-60-day delay-Mistake of accountant-Matter remanded to the file of PCIT for de novo consideration. [S. 115BAA,119(2)(b), 139(1), Form-10-IC, Art. 226]

Assessee-company opted for taxation under section 115BAA of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for Assessment Year 2023-24, requiring the filing of Form 10-IC by the due date under Section 139(1) of the Act. Due to the accountant's inadvertence, Form 10-IC was filed on 29 December 2023 and the return of income on 30 December 2023, with a 60-day delay. Assessee filed an application under Section 119(2)(b) of the Act for condonation, explaining reliance on the accountant and prompt filing upon realising the lapse. The learned PCIT rejected the said application, citing prior timely filings and lack of reasonable cause. On writ, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that since fault on part of accountant surely reflected reasonable cause for non-compliance by assessee and after receipt of email from respondent regarding non-filing of the return of income, Form 10-IC, and the return were promptly filed, this would substantiate explanation for filing Form 10-IC and the return of income beyond the due date and accordingly, the order passed by the the learned PCIT was without considering averments made by petitioner in application and to that extent, it was an unreasoned order and thus, matter was to be remanded back to the learned PCIT for de novo consideration. Circular no. 9/2015 [F.No. 312/22/2015-OT] dated 9-6.2025. (AY. 2023-24)

VRG Electronics (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 307 Taxman 109 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Carry forward and set off of business losses-Failure to up load the return within the due date of filing of return-Chartered accountant was busy with family function-Application for condonation of delay was rejected by the CCIT-On writ the Court held that Chief Commissioner could not have rejected application as filing of return for claiming benefit under provision of Act was procedural and benefit accrued to assessee could not be taken away on account of technicalities when there was a genuine hardship. The matter was remanded to the Chief Commissioner to pass a fresh order to condone the delay in filing the return. [S. 44B, 72 139, Art. 226]

Assessee-HUF incurred losses in the relevant assessment year. Assessee's books were duly audited, and the tax audit report was uploaded on the income tax portal within the due date. However, assessee could not file the return of income before the prescribed due date under the Income Tax Act, 1961. Consequently, assessee filed an application for condonation of delay in filing return of income for the relevant assessment year. The learned Chief Commissioner of Income Tax rejected the said application. On writ, the assessee claimed that it was eligible to carry forward such losses and set off the same against income of future years and if the delay was not condoned, it would face genuine hardship. It was noted that the Chartered Accountant of assessee was preoccupied with his family function, which resulted in the non-filing of the return. It was also noted that the audit report had been duly certified and losses of the assessee were not doubted. As soon as the function was over in the family of CA, an application was made promptly under section 119(2)(b) of the Act. The Court held that the learned CCIT could not have rejected the application as filing a return for claiming benefit under the provision of Act was procedural and the benefit accrued to the assessee could not be taken away on account of technicalities when there was a genuine hardship. The matter was remanded to the learned CCIT to pass a fresh order to condone the delay in filing the return. (AY. 2023-24)

Manish Popatbhai Jiwani HUF v. CCIT (2025) 307 Taxman 50 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Delay of 16 days in uploading the Form No 10B-Mistake of the auditor-Order rejecting the application was set aside. [S.11, 12,12A, 119(2)(b),143(1), 154, Form No 10B, Art. 226]

Assessee-society engaged in welfare activities filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 11 of the Income Tax Act, 1961. However, due to an inadvertent error on the part of the auditor/tax professional, the audit report could not be uploaded along with the return and, accordingly, the assessee filed the audit report in Form No. 10B belatedly. Assessing Officer denied exemption under section 11 of the Act while processing the return of income under section 143(1) of the Act. The learned Commissioner of Income Tax rejected assessee's application for condonation of delay, relying on the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ranka v. Rewa Coalfields Ltd., AIR 1962 SC 361. On writ, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that since law is well-settled that inadvertent mistake of the auditor should not prejudice assessee and in the instant case delay was bona fide as assessee could not upload audit report along with the return of income and due to such inadvertent mistake, the order rejecting condonation of delay was set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

Delhi Maharashtra Educational and Cultural Society v. CIT (E) (2025) 307 Taxman 448 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Form No 10B was not filed along with the return-Mistake of chartered accountant-Delay of 1448 days-High Court condoned the delay and directed the authority concerned to allow the exemption. [S. 11, 12A, 119(2)(b), Form No 10B, Art. 226]

Assessee, a charitable trust, filed its return of income along with Form 10. However, Form 10B was inadvertently not filed by the Chartered Accountant along with the said return of income. Subsequently, assessee filed a belated Form 10B and also filed an application for condonation of delay under section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961, which was rejected. On writ, the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court held that inadvertent oversight had occurred in not filing Form 10B due to impending due dates and the overwhelming workload of CA. Since the delay in filing Form 10B was due to inadvertent oversight of CA, the same was directed to be condoned by the authority concerned under section 119(2)(b) of the Act. (AY. 2018-19)

Babubhai C Jariwala Charitable Trust v. CBDT (2025) 307 Taxman 592 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Rejection of application for condonation of delay without following guidelines-Not valid. [S. 139, Art. 226]-

Petitioner/Assessee was constantly under medical treatment owing to his frequent illness, and hence failed to file the return of income. The assessee filed an application u/s 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for condonation of delay citing his reasons for the same. However, the learned Principal Commissioner of Income Tax rejected the request of the assessee. The Hon'ble Orissa High Court, allowing the writ petition of the assessee held that the illness of the assessee as well as uploading of statutory audit report on March 31, 2022 by the concerned chartered accountant rendered the delay beyond the control of the assessee. The application for condonation of the delay filed by the assessee should not have been rejected in a cryptic manner. The order rejecting the application was not justified. (Circular No. 9 of 2015 dated June 9, 2015 ((2015) 374 ITR (St) 25) (AY. 2021-22)

Abhilash Panda v. ITO (2025) 482 ITR 326 (Orissa)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Carry forward of losses-Assessee must prove genuine hardship-Rejection of application for condonation of delay was affirmed. [S.139(1), 139(3), Art. 226]

The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in a recent ruling held that section 139(3) of the Act provides for filing a return of income so as to enable the assessee to carry forward losses if the return is filed within time as per section 139(1) of the Act. Therefore, there was no question of condoning the delay to carry forward the loss by the assessee. Moreover, the assessee had also failed to show any hardship, much less any genuine hardship for filing the return of income for the assessment year 2015-2016 belatedly on March 29, 2016. Since it was also clear from the order passed by the Central Board of Direct Taxes that the assessee was habitual in late filing the return of income from the assessment years 2011-2012 to 2017-2018, the order rejecting the application to condone the delay in making the claim was justified.(AY. 2015-16))

Gaurangbhai Chimanbhai Kapadiya v. UOI [2024] 161 taxmann.com 304 / (2025) 482 ITR 649 (Guj)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Condonation of delay-Application filed wrongly under form 10BB instead of form 10B-Authority ought to have condoned delay instead of dismissing form 10B on anvil of limitation Order set aside and delay condoned Authority directed to consider form 10B under section 119(2)(b) on merits. [S.119(2)(b),Form No 10B, 10BB, Art. 226]

Assessee filed an application under section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961, seeking condonation of delay in filing Form 10B. Same was rejected on ground that explanation offered for delay was not satisfactory, particularly on premise that assessee was obliged to explain delay on a day-to-day basis. On writ, the Hon'ble Orissa High Court held that it is not necessary that a day-to-day explanation is required and that continuity of events constituting sufficient cause is adequate, and authority must not adopt a pedantic approach but should follow a liberal and justice-oriented approach so that issue is decided on merits. Since assessee was prevented by sufficient cause from filing Form 10B within statutory period, order rejecting condonation application solely on ground of limitation was set aside and application for condonation was allowed. Further, the authority was directed to consider form 10B on the merits in accordance with law.

Joharimal High School v. PCIT (2025) 181 taxmann.com 709 / 481 ITR 333 (Orissa)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Delay in filing of return-Financial crises-Delay can not be condoned for assessee's negligence in filing the return on time-Order rejecting the application was affirmed. [S.80AC, 119 (2), 139, Art. 226]

Assessee filed application for condonation of delay under section 119(2) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for filing of the return of income within the due date as specified under the Act. CBDT refused to condone delay on ground that as per profit and loss account for the year ending 2020, the assessee had shown profit which was more than previous year. Also, as per the cash flow statement for year ending 2020, total cash equivalents of substantial amount were recorded and said positive cash flow contradicted the claim of financial crunch. Further, assessee was regularly filing belated return. On writ, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that the recital of facts clearly demolished any assertion of financial constraints that may have befallen assessee. Hence, it was held that order refusing to condone delay for late filing of return was justified. (AY. 2020-21)

Lava International Ltd. v. CBDT [2024] 163 taxmann.com 148 / (2025) 481 ITR 795 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Charitable or religious trust-Delay in filing of Form 10B-PCIT rejected the condonation application filed after 9 months for a delay in filing Form 10B by 24 days-Non-condonation of delay would be a genuine hardship for the assessee-Delay in filing Form 10B condoned. [S.11, Form No 10B, Art. 226]

The assessee is a Charitable trust claiming exemption under section 11 of the Income Tax Act, 1961. During the year under consideration, the trust filed Form 10B with a delay of 24 days. Accordingly, the assessee's claim for exemption was denied. Aggrieved, the assessee filed a condonation application under section 119 of the Act approximately nine months after denial of the assessee's claim for exemption. The assessee's application was rejected by the learned PCIT on the grounds that the condonation application was not filed instantly but after approximately 9 months. Aggrieved, the assessee filed a writ before the Hon'ble Bombay High Court which granted relief to the assessee holding that the delay of nine months is not such that the learned PCIT should deny the assessee's application. Relying on the decision in case of Sarvodaya Charitable Trust v. ITO (exemption) [2021] 278 Taxman 148 (Guj)(HC) it was held that an assessee should not be denied the exemption under section 11 of the Act merely on account of the bar of limitation when it fulfils all the conditions for availing such an exemption since the legislature has conferred discretionary powers for condonation of delay. Further, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court also recognized that if the delay is not condoned, it would lead to genuine hardship to the assessee as it would be denied an exemption under section 11 of the Act of a substantial amount.

Mirae Asset Foundation v. PCIT [2025] 306 Taxman 3 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Delay in Filing Form 10-Delay of 522 days-Due to Auditor's Negligence-Condonation of Delay-Matter Remanded for Granting Exemption.[S.11, 12A, 119(2)(b), Form No 10, Art. 226]

The Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that delay in filing Form No. 10 for claiming accumulation of income under section 11(2) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 is a procedural lapse capable, of being condoned under section 119(2)(b) of the Act, where the assessee is a genuine religious/charitable institution and has otherwise substantially complied with the statutory requirements. The Hon'ble court observed that when the intention to accumulate income is evident from contemporaneous records such as resolutions, audit reports and the return of income, denial of exemption solely on the ground of delayed filing of Form No. 10 would defeat the object of the beneficial provisions of section 11. Accordingly, the rejection of the assessee's request for condonation by the CIT (E) was held to be unsustainable and was set aside.(AY. 2016-17)

St. Anne's Church v. CIT (E)(2025)306 Taxman 358 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Delay of 353 days in filing audit report in Form 10B-Genuine hardship due to Covid-19 and auditor's negligence-Condonation of delay-Matter remanded for granting exemption.[S. 12A, 119(2)(b), R.17B, Form No.10B, Art. 226]

Allowing the writ petition and remanding the matter, the Hon'ble Orissa High Court held that exemption under section 12A of the Income Tax Act, 1961 should not be denied merely on account of a delay of 353 days in filing the audit report in Form 10B, particularly when the delay was attributable to genuine hardship. The Hon'ble court observed that the Commissioner (Exemption) failed to consider the petitioner-trust's application for condonation of delay in its proper perspective under section 119(2)(b) read with CircularNo.10/2019, dated 22-5-2019., despite the fact that the trust had been consistently availing exemption in earlier years and the delay occurred during the Covid-19 pandemic period, coupled with the auditor's negligence. Emphasising that procedural requirements should not override substantial justice, the Hon'ble court held that the Commissioner had exercised discretion arbitrarily and without due application of mind. Accordingly, the impugned order rejecting condonation was set aside and the matter was remitted to the Learned Commissioner of Income Tax to consider the audit report in Form 10B and grant consequential relief by treating the report as filed within the prescribed time.(AY. 2017-18)

Society for Training Action Research and Rehabilitation v. CBDT (2025) 306 Taxman 52 (Orissa.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Audit report in Form 10B could not be uploaded with return due to inadvertent error of auditor-Delay was bona fide-Delay was condoned-Commissioner was directed to pass a fresh order in accordance with law. [S. 12A, 139,119(2)(b), 143(1), 154, Form 10B, Art. 226]

Assessee-society engaged in welfare activities filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 11 of the Income Tax Act, 1961. Due to inadvertent error on part of auditor/tax professional, audit report could not be uploaded along with return of income, and accordingly, assessee filed audit report in Form No. 10B belatedly. The learned Assessing Officer, therefore, denied exemption under section 11 of the Act while processing return under section 143(1). Subsequently, rectification application u/s 154 of the Act was also rejected. The assessee filed an application under section 119(2)(b) seeking the condonation of delay, explaining that the delay was inadvertent and bona fide due to the mistake of the auditor/tax professional; however, the Commissioner (Exemptions) rejected the condonation application holding that such lapse could not constitute reasonable cause. On writ, order passed by the learned CIT was set aside and he was directed to pass a fresh order on the application filed by the petitioner/applicant under section 119(2)(b) within a period of eight weeks from the receipt of the copy of the order and thereafter proceed in accordance with law. (AY2018-19)

Delhi Maharashtra Educational & Cultural Society v. CIT (E)(2025) 307 Taxman 448/ 347 CTR 193 / 255 DTR 193 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Related revised return of income-Condonation of delay-Reasonable cause-Mistake by chartered accountant-Rectify error in Tax Audit Report pertaining to due date of payment of employees contribution to PF/ESI-Incorrect dates in Form 3CD-On writ the Court held that Principal Commissioner ought to have condoned delay in filing return of income by assessee.[S 36(1)(va), 43B, 119(2(b)). Form No 3CD, Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income for relevant year and claimed refund of certain amount. Subsequently, assessee received a communication from CPC proposing a positive adjustment under section 36(1)(va) in respect of Employees' contribution to Provident Fund/Employees' State Insurance (PF/ESI) on ground that same had not been credited to employees' account on or before prescribed due date. Assessee, upon receipt of said communication, examined Tax Audit Report (Form 3CD) and found that there was an error in mentioning due date for payment of PF/ESI contribution in column 20b of Form 3CD. The assessee filed a revised return and raised a claim of refund, revised return was filed beyond prescribed time-limit and assessee filed an application for condonation of delay in filing revised return. Application was rejected by the learned Principal Commissioner of Income Tax on ground that reason for inordinate delay in filing of returns did not seem to be genuine. On writ, the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court held that assessee was not responsible for mentioning incorrect dates in Form 3CD as same was issued by Chartered Accountant of assessee wherein, mistakes were committed in mentioning due dates for payment of PF/ESI in column 20(b) in Form 3CD. The learned Principal Commissioner while exercising jurisdiction under section 119(2)(b) of the Act ought to have condoned delay in filing revised return by assessee so as to enable assessee to claim refund as per return of income filed by assessee. The impugned order was quashed, condoning the said delay, and the learned Commissioner was directed to pass de novo order in accordance with law. (AY. 2017-18)

P. Kavin & Company v. PCIT (2025) 176 taxmann.com 909/ 347 CTR 401 / 255 DTR 345/ (2026) 484 ITR 414 (Guj)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Circular-Delay in filing Form No 9A-Misprint contained in taxman publication-Delay was condoned-Directed to grant the exemption. [S.11(1)(a), 11(7), 119(2)(b), 139,Form 9A, Art. 226]

The learned Assessing Officer denied the exemption under section 11 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 on the ground that there was delay in submitting the Form 9A. Application by the assessee for condonation of delay was rejected by the learned Commissioner of Income Tax. On writ, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that delay was due to misprint contained in taxman publication hence the delay was condoned. The learned CIT was directed to grant the said exemption to the assessee. (AY. 2022-23)

Savitribai Phule Shikshna Prasarak Mandal v. DG(Inv)(2025) 347 CTR 561 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Delay of 700 days in filing Form No. 10B-No mala fide intention-Assessee, a registered public charitable trust, could not be denied exemption merely on technical bar of limitation when substantive conditions were satisfied-Order rejecting condonation application quashed-Delay condoned and assessee permitted to upload Form No. 10B. [S. 11, 12, 119(2)(b), Art. 226, Form No. 10B]

The assessee, a registered public charitable trust, filed Form No. 10B for AY 2018-19 belatedly with a delay of 700 days, attributable to the illness and subsequent death of its president, which disrupted the day-to-day affairs of the trust. Its application under section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for condonation of delay was rejected by the Revenue. Allowing the writ petition, the Hon'ble Rajasthan High Court held that there was no allegation of any mala fide intention in belated filing of Form No. 10B, nor was the charitable status of the assessee in dispute. The Hon'ble Court observed that although limitation provisions are intended to attach finality, where the Legislature confers wide discretionary powers to alleviate hardship, such powers must be exercised in a reasonable, equitable and judicious manner. Since the assessee substantially fulfilled the conditions for exemption and the delay was occasioned by genuine hardship, denial of exemption on a mere technical ground was unjustified. Accordingly, the order rejecting condonation was quashed and set aside, the delay was condoned, and the assessee was permitted to upload Form No. 10B. (AY. 2018-19)

Manav Seva Samiti v. PCCIT (2025) 480 ITR 457 /347 CTR 881 (Raj) (HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Delay in filing Form 10B-No mala fide intention in Order rejecting assessee's application quashed and set aside-Delay condoned.[S. 11, 12, 119(2)(b), Art.226, Form, 10B]

Where the staff of the chartered accountant firm had met with an accident, which fell under the circumstances beyond control, resulting in the delay caused in uploading or e-filing of form 10B, the Hon'ble Rajasthan High Court, allowing the writ petition, held that there was no allegation of lack of bona fide in uploading or e-filing form 10B, and uploading it belatedly. The Hon'ble court held that it was evident that the Department had in a perfunctory manner rejected the application filed by the assessee for condoning the delay, without considering the facts specified by the assessee. Hence, the delay was condoned and the Department was directed to allow benefits of sections 11 and 12 to the assessee.

Khandelwal Vaishya Samaj Charitable Trust v. CIT (2025) 480 ITR 463/181 taxmann.com 710 /(2026) 349 CTR 217 (Raj)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Property held for charitable purposes-Form No 10B filed manually within prescribed time-Delay in electronically uploading the form-Affidavit of Chartered Accountant-Delay is condoned-Directed to grant exemption. [S. 11, 139(9), Form No.10B, Art. 226]

Assessee-society filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 11 of the Income Tax Act, 1961. In this return of income, the assessee disclosed that audit report in Form 10B was physically filed. The learned Assessing Officer rejected assessee's application for exemption on the ground that the form No 10B was not uploaded within applicable due date as per the Act. The application for condonation was rejected. On writ, the Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that non-filing of Form 10B was due to advice of a professional CA who had filed an affidavit explaining her bona fide and factum of advice. It was also noted that assessee was not intimated for long time that uploading form electronically was one of the requirements for claiming exemption. It was held that, even though length of delay was one of considerations, quality of explanation offered was crucial, and focus must be quality of cause shown in explanation. Since assessee had already filed Form 10B manually within prescribed period, delay in electronically uploading Form 10B was condoned. (AY. 2014-15) Borivli Education Society v. CIT (E) (2025) 304 Taxman 34 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Related filing of Form 10-IC-Genuine hardship-Filing of Form 10-IC prior to filing of return not mandatory-Delay is to be condoned where substantial justice warrants relief.[S. 115BAA, 119(2)(b), Art. 226]

The assessee sought condonation of delay in filing Form No. 10-IC for availing concessional tax rate under section 115BAA of the Income Tax Act, 1961, which was rejected by the learned Principal CIT adopting a strict and technical approach. The Hon'ble Allahabad High Court held that section 119(2)(b) of the Act confers discretionary power upon authorities to mitigate genuine hardship and must be construed as a beneficial provision. The assessee demonstrated genuine hardship arising from successive family deaths of the person handling its tax matters, which directly affected timely statutory compliance. The Hon'ble court observed that when substantial justice and technical considerations conflict, preference must be given to substantial justice, particularly where the assessee's intention to opt for section 115BAA of the Act was evident from the return of income and audit report. It was further held that filing of Form 10-IC prior to filing of return is not mandatory and procedural delay should not deprive an assessee of a substantive statutory benefit if genuine hardship is established. The rejection of condonation was therefore held to be arbitrary and contrary to the remedial intent of section 119(2)(b) of the Act. Accordingly, relying on the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of B.M. Malani v. CIT (2008) 219 CTR 313 (SC) the impugned order was quashed and the respondent authority was directed to condone the delay, hence, accept Form 10-IC and grant consequential relief by recomputing tax liability. (AY. 2021-22).

Cell Com Teleservices (P) Ltd. v. UOI (2025) 176 taxmann.com 712 / 346 CTR 1 / 252 DTR 353 (All)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Genuine hardship-Clerical error in ITR-Incorrect ticking of audit information column resulting in rejection of return as invalid-Delay in filing revised return to cure defect to be condoned.[S. 44AB, 119(2)(b), 139, Art. 226]

The assessee's return of income was rejected as invalid on the ground that it was not accompanied by a Tax Audit Report, though admittedly the assessee was not required to furnish the same. The defect arose solely due to an inadvertent clerical error whereby the assessee had wrongly ticked "No" instead of "Yes" in the audit information column relating to cash receipts and payments, despite cash receipts being nil and cash payments not exceeding the prescribed limit. The Hon'ble Delhi High Court held that the entire controversy arose on account of checking an incorrect box in the return, which had no bearing on computation or assessment of income, and since no statutory appeal was available against rejection of the return of income as invalid, the assessee had established genuine hardship within the meaning of section 119(2)(b) of the Act. Accordingly, the impugned order was set aside and the assessee was permitted to file a revised return of income limited to curing the defect, which was directed to be considered without being influenced by delay. (AY. 2022-23).

Nikon Finlease (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 175 taxmann.com 867 / 345 CTR 859 / 251 DTR 161 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Instructions-Revised return-Intimation-Condonation of delay-Refund-Mistake in filling appropriate columns in the return-intimation by CPC-CBDT ought to have condoned the delay in filing the corrected/ revised return-Writ petition allowed. [S. 119(2)(b), 139(5), 143(1)(a), 237, Art. 226]

The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in a recent ruling held that the assessee, having found such mistake in his return of income, had rightly filed a corrected/revised return under S. 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961, as the time to file the revised return had already expired on 31st March, 2019. There was no impact of the corrected return of income on the taxable income of the assessee and it was only to facilitate the CPC to process the return so that the assessee is entitled to the refund, if any, so as to compute the taxable income of the assessee in accordance with law as provided under s. 143(1)(a) of the Act. Hence, the revenue was directed to condone the delay in filing the revised return of income. (AY.2018-19)

Ujala Dyeing & Printing Mills (P) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 344 CTR 179 (Guj)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Delay in filing Form No. 10-ID-Reasonable cause-Benefit claimed in return cannot be denied for procedural lapse-Authorities directed to accept belated Form as valid. [S. 119(2)(b), 139, Form 10-IC, Art. 226]

The assessee had claimed the concessional tax regime benefit u/s 115BAB of the Income Tax Act, 1961 in its return of income but filed Form No. 10-ID belatedly on 12 September 2022. The application for condonation of delay u/s 119(2)(b) of the Act was rejected by the Department. The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court held that once the substantive benefit is claimed in the return of income, filing of the prescribed Form is only a procedural requirement and denial of benefit for such lapse is not justified when reasonable cause is shown. The Hon'ble Court noted that the CBDT itself had issued a series of circulars (Circular Nos. 6/2022, 19/2023 and 17/2024) acknowledging widespread difficulties faced by assesseees in timely filing of Forms 10-IC/10-ID. Given this departmental recognition, the assessee's lapse constituted sufficient cause. The Hon'ble Court further observed that had the assessee's application remained pending till the issuance of Circular No. 17 of 2024, the delay would have been automatically condoned. Accordingly, the impugned rejection order was quashed and the authorities were directed to treat Form 10-ID filed on 12 September 2022 as legal and valid. (AY. 2021-22)

Royal Led Equipments (P) Ltd. v. CCIT (2025) 344 CTR 725 / 249 DTR 449 / 174 taxmann.com 61 (Guj)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Filing of return of loss-Genuine hardship-Delay of 5 months in filing return due to bona fide professional advice by Chartered Accountant-Assessee should not suffer grave hardship for a professional's mistake-Circular No. 9 of 2015-Delay was condoned-CBDT's rejection order set aside-Directed that the return filed on 30th March 2019 be treated as filed in time, and permitted assessment to be completed under section 153(1B) of the Act. [S. 72, 80, 119(2)(b), 139(1), 139(3), 153(1B), Art. 226]

The assessee filed its return of income for AY 2018-19 declaring a loss on 30 March 2019, beyond the due date of 31 October 2018, but within the extended period under section 139(4) of the Income Tax Act, 1961. Since the delay of five months prevented carry forward of losses under sections 72 and 80 of the Act, the assessee sought condonation of delay under section 119(2)(b) as per CBDT Circular No. 9/2015. The delay was explained to be due to the Chartered Accountant's uncertainty regarding the tax treatment of compensation received in the form of TDRs for compulsory acquisition of property, for which legal opinions were sought. The CBDT rejected the application citing lack of diligence. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court observed that the delay was neither deliberate nor negligent but occasioned by bona fide reliance on professional advice regarding a complex issue. It held that denial of condonation would cause genuine hardship as the assessee would lose the benefit of carry-forward losses, which satisfies the condition of "genuine hardship" under section 119(2)(b) of the Act. The Hon'ble Court further held that section 153(1B) adequately protects the Revenue's interests by extending the assessment period in cases where condonation is granted. Accordingly, the Hon'ble Court quashed the CBDT's order, condoned the delay, directed that the return filed on 30th March 2019 be treated as filed in time, and permitted assessment to be completed under section 153(1B). (AY. 2018-19)

Balaji Landmarks LLP v. CBDT [2025] 307 Taxman 498 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Power to condone delay in case of genuine hardship-Power to be exercised in judicious manner-Permitted to file the return of income claiming the refund-Assessing Officer was directed to allow the refund in accordance with law. [S.119(2)(b),139, Art 226]

Allowing the writ petition, the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court held that, the amount claimed in the return of income was liable to be refunded by the authority in accordance with the provisions of the Act. In such circumstances, the denial on the part of the learned Principal Commissioner to condone the delay in filing the return of income by the assessee either in the name of his father or in his individual name ought to have been permitted and the authority ought to have examined such claim on the merits and if it was found to be genuine, the assessee would be entitled to the refund with statutory interest, if any, to be paid on such amount.(AY. 2017-18)

Nileshkumar Uttamchand Rathod v. PCIT (2025) 476 ITR 62 (Guj)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Delay of 1585 days in filing revised return-Personal hearing mandatory-Violation of natural justice-Order was set aside-Matter remanded to CBDT to pass well reasoned after hearing assessee. [S. 119(2)(b),139, Art. 226]

The assessee applied for condonation of 1,585 days' delay in filing a revised return of income for AY 2015-16. The learned Additional Commissioner signed an order under S.119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 stating it was with the approval of the Member (Income-tax), CBDT. The assessee challenged the order by writ petition. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court set aside the order and remitted the matter to CBDT to decide the application afresh. It held that orders under S.119(2)(b) of the Act that affect civil consequences should ordinarily be passed after compliance with principles of natural justice, including a personal hearing. An approval by a member without the member personally passing a reasoned order and giving opportunity of hearing is not sufficient. The impugned order was set aside and matter remanded to CBDT to pass well reasoned after hearing assessee. (AY. AY 2015-16)

Bharat Education Society v. AO (2025) 474 ITR 485 (Bom) (HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Specified authority-Order passed by subordinate with member's approval-Requirement of authorised authority [S. 119(2)(b), Art. 226]

An Additional Commissioner (OSD) rejected an application for condonation of delay for an assessee, stating the order had the approval of the CBDT member. The assessee/petitioner challenged the validity of the order said to be passed by the CBDT when the signature on the order belonged to the learned Additional Commissioner. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court held that paragraph 9.3 of the Central Secretariat Manual (relating to authentication) does not replace the statutory requirement that CBDT or its authorised member must pass the order under s.119(2)(b). The mere approval of a member does not validate an order purportedly passed by the CBDT when, in fact, it was signed by another officer. The matter was remanded to CBDT or the duly authorised member for fresh consideration and for giving a personal hearing.(AY. 2020-21)

Nd's Art World Pvt. Ltd. v. Addl. CIT, (2025) 474 ITR 491 (Bom) (HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Delay of 1585 days in filing revised return-Order signed by Additional Commissioner with approval of Member (IT)-Matter remanded to CBDT [S. 119(2)(b), 139(5), Art. 226]

The assessee's application for condonation of a 1585-day delay in filing a revised return of income was rejected by an order signed by the Additional Commissioner (ITA Cell) merely with the approval of Member (IT), without the CBDT itself passing the order. On writ the High Court held that such rejection visited the assessee with serious civil consequences and ought to comply with principles of natural justice, including personal hearing. The impugned order was set aside, and the matter remanded to the CBDT or its Member with direction to hear the assessee and pass a reasoned order.
(AY 2015-16)

Bharat Education Society v. Assessing Officer (2025) 303 Taxman 630 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Profits and gains from housing projects-Condonation of delay-Genuine hardship-Delay in filing of return of income-Genuine hardship-Claim for deduction under section 80IBA-Delay of 45 days due to illness of managing partner-Rejection not justified. [S. 80IBA, 119(2)(b), 139, Art. 226]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in construction, received a completion certificate for its housing project in AY. 2024-25 and claimed deduction under section 80IBA of the Act. Although audit reports were filed in time, the return of income was delayed by 45 days due to the managing partner's illness. The Principal Commissioner rejected the application for condonation of delay, stating that professional assistance was available and supporting documents for deduction under section 80IBA of the Act were not submitted. On writ the High Court held that being guided by professionals cannot mean that there is no possibility of errors or delay. , and that there is no legal requirement to substantiate the deduction claim at the stage of condonation. It observed that non-condonation would result in denial of a substantial claim, causing genuine hardship. Accordingly, the delay was condoned, and the department was directed to reopen the portal to enable filing. (AY. 2024-25)

Western Arch Developers v. Pr. CIT [2025] 177 taxmann.com 313 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Delay of 216 days-Delay is not explained satisfactorily-Rejection of application for condonation of delay in filing the return is affirmed.[S. 80P, 119(2)(b), 139, Art. 226]

Assessee, a co-operative society, filed its return of income after a delay of 216 days due to which it could not claim deduction under section 80P. The Court held that the audit report was available on 2-7-2019 and the COVID outbreak occurred in March 2020 but return was filed only on 3-6-2020 , so the reason did not justify the delay. Thus the application for condonation of delay was rejected on the ground that delay is not explained satisfactorily. (AY. 2019-20)

No.9074 Neermullikuttai Primary Agricultural Co-operative Credit Society Ltd. v. Chief CIT (2025) 302 Taxman 22 (Mad.)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable trust-Accumulation of income-Related filing of Form No. 9A-Genuine hard ship-Substantial justice-Delay is condoned. [S. 11, 119(2)(b), Form No 9A, Form No. 10, Rule 17(1), Art. 226]

Application for condonation of delay of filing Form No 9A is rejected by the Commissioner. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that the powers and statutory discretion conferred on the commissioners to condone delay under section 119(2)(b) of the Act ought to be judiciously exercised so that undue hardship to the assessee is avoided. Instead, the impugned order makes it evident that the Assessing Officer has mixed up issues of the assessee claiming deductions towards depreciation and capital expenditure made and duly disclosed by it during the assessment proceedings with intentional delay in belated filing of Form 9A attributed to the assessee. In fact the chart relied on by the assessee setting out the revised computation of income by the assessee of Rs. 2.70 lakhs as against that of Rs. 59.99 lakhs not being accepted by the respondents considering delayed filing of Form 9A by the assessee, would lead to undue financial burden, hardship foisted upon the assessee-trust. Such vital aspect ought to have weighed with the respondents in considering and deciding the aspect of hardship, while rejecting its application for condonation of delay. On the facts the assessee-trust filed Form 9A along with revised computation for claiming deduction under section 11, however there was delay in filing Form 9A due to change in procedure from manual to electronic filing, since assessee filed Form 9A along with application for delay condonation within three days from date of extension granted to file such Form 9A vide CBDT Circular, same is directed to be condoned. (AY. 2017-18)

Nav Chetna Charitable Trust v. CIT (E) [2024] 169 taxmann.com 543/(2025) 342 CTR 121 (Bom)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay-Genuine hardship-Audit report was made available on 9th Sept., 2019 i.e., 5 months prior to the COVID outbreak-No reasonable cause-Rejection of application is up held-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 119(2)(b), 139, 234F, Art. 226]

Rejecting the writ petition against the condonation of delay in filing of return, the Court held that the Audit report was made available on 9th Sept., 2019 itself and there is no substances in the reason assigned by the assessee on the aspect of delay in receipt of the audit report; further, nothing prevented the assessee to file their return before the said COVID outbreak period; taking into consideration of all these aspects, the respondent had rightly rejected the application filed by the assessee. (AY-2019-20)(SJ) (Writ Petition No. 9535 of 2025).

S208 Kanjanaickenpatty Primary Agricultural Cooperative Credit Society Ltd. v. Chief CIT (2025) 342 CTR 335 / 245 DTR 144 (Mad)(HC)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Property held for charitable purposes--Form No. 10B was filed manually before due date of filing of return-Mandatory e-filing of Form 10B-Delay of 2732 days in filing the form electronically -Delay is condoned-The delay should be condoned as long as such lapse is not mala fide and the assessee has not derived any undue advantage out of his own lapse-Order of CIT(E) rejecting the application for condonation of delay is quashed and set aside. [S. 11, 119 (2)(b), 139(9), 143(1), 154, Art. 226]

The petitioner, an educational trust running schools and colleges, manually filed Form No. 10B for AY 2014-15 within the prescribed time but failed to submit it electronically. The respondent denied exemption under Section 11 without issuing a mandatory show cause notice. The petitioner filed rectification applications before CPC in 2016 and 2017, which were rejected. The petitioner also filed rectification application under Section 154 on 2 July 2018 before the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer. In the course of rectification proceedings the petitioner was informed that exemption was denied for not up loading the form No 10B electronically. The petitioner up loaded the form 10B on 24-3 2022. The petitioner then sought condonation of delay on 30.03.2022 before the CIT(E), supported by an affidavit from the Chartered Accountant stating she was unawareness of the mandatory e-filing requirement. The CIT(E) rejected the application on 10.10.2024 without granting a hearing. A rectification application was also filed on 12.11.2024 which was similarly dismissed on 13.11.2024 without a hearing. Aggrieved, by the order of rejection the petitioner filed writ petition before the High Court. Honourable Court held that the petitioner is acting on bona fide advice, believed manual filing constituted substantial compliance. The Honourable Court held that the delay should be condoned as long as such lapse is not mala fide and the assessee has not derived any undue advantage out of his own lapse, length of delay should not be sole consideration. The quality of the explanation offered is crucial and the focus must be the quality of the cause shown in the explanation. Accepting the petitioner's contention that the delay should be computed from the date of actual intimation, the court condoned the delay and set aside the orders dated 10.10.2024 and 13.11.2024.(AY.2014-15) (WP No. 5420 of 2024 dt. 17.02.2025)

The Borivali Education Society v. CIT (E) (Bom) (HC)
www.itatonline.org

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Return-Condonation of delay of 1585 days-Revised return-Principle of natural justice-No personal hearing was granted-In the absence of any provision to the contrary, such principles should be read into the unoccupied interstices of a statute-Order of rejection is set aside and directed to pass the order after granting the personal hearing. [S.119(2)(b), 139(5) Art. 226]

The Petitioner, filed a revised return under Section 139(5) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, for the Assessment Year 2015-16, with a delay of 1585 days. The Revenue rejected the Petitioner's application for condonation of the delay without granting a personal hearing. The Petitioner challenged the order refusing to condone the delay of about 1585 days in filing a revised return under Section 139(5) of the Income Tax Act, 1961. The Petitioner contended that no opportunity of personal hearing was given before rejecting the application for condonation of delay. The Honourable High Court set aside the order and directed the Revenue for fresh consideration for considering the application for condonation of delay further consideration should be following the law and after giving the Petitioner an opportunity of a hearing. The CBDT or the Member to whom such function is assigned must pass a reasoned order and communicate to the Petitioner. This exercise must be completed within three months of uploading the order. (AY. 2015-16) (WP(L) No.21487 of 2024 dt.21-1-2025)

Bharat Education Society v. UOI (Bom HC).www.itatonline.org

S. 119: Central Board of Direct Taxes-Powers of CBDT-CBI and Serious Fraud Investigation Office (SFIO) made a false claim of income generated in relevant years instead of loss-Genuine hardship-Reassessment-Fictitious income-CBDT's refusal to allow re computation despite established fraud-Order quashed and set aside. [S. 10A, 119(2)(b), 139(5), 147, 154,245, 264, 281B, Art. 14, 19(1)(g), 226, 265, 300A]

The petitioner, Satyam Computer Services Limited (now known as Tech Mahindra Limited), was embroiled in a major corporate scandal when its former Chairman, Mr. B. Ramalinga Raju, admitted to falsifying accounts, inflating income by Rs. 5,040 crores. This resulted in excess tax payments and distorted financial statements. Following the government intervention and a change in management, the petitioner sought relief from the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) under Section 119(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act,1961 requesting recomputation of income for Assessment Years 2003-04 to 2008-09 to reflect actual income and exclude fictitious amounts. Despite findings by investigative agencies like CBI, SFIO, and Court rulings confirming the fraud, the CBDT rejected the application, citing lack of jurisdiction and absence of "genuine hardship." The petitioner challenged the order in the Telangana High Court, arguing that denial of relief contravened Article 265 of the Constitution of India, which mandates tax collection based solely on lawful income. The High Court held that the CBDT's refusal ignored established fraud and the petitioner's genuine hardship. It emphasized that tax cannot be levied on non-existent income and that the CBDT's powers under Section 119(2)(b) include granting relief in extraordinary situations to prevent injustice. The Court quashed the CBDT's order, directing reassessment based on actual income and allowing the petitioner's writ. (W.P. No. 23255 of 2011 & Batch, dt. 31/01/2025) (AY. 2002-03, 2007-08, 2009-10)

Satyam Computer Services Limited v. CBDT(2025) 343 CTR 521 / 247 DTR 401 /171 taxmann.com 656 /476 ITR 262 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 120: Jurisdiction of income-tax authorities-Assessment-Jurisdiction-Additional Commissioner acting as Assessing Officer-Absence of authorisation under sections 120(4)(b) and 127-Assessment without jurisdiction liable to be quashed-Additional legal grounds challenging jurisdiction admissible before Tribunal. [S. 2(7A), 120(4)(b), 124(3), 127, 143(3), 144C, 254(1)]

The assessee raised an additional ground before the Tribunal challenging the jurisdiction of the Additional Commissioner to pass the assessment order in the absence of valid authorisation under sections 120(4)(b) and 127. The Tribunal held that a challenge to the authority of the officer to frame the assessment is a pure question of law going to the root of the matter and can be raised at any stage if no fresh investigation of facts is required. Since the Revenue failed to produce any order empowering the Additional Commissioner to act as the Assessing Officer or transferring jurisdiction in accordance with law, the assessment order was held to be without jurisdiction and was quashed. (AY. 2007-08)

ITO (IT) v. Tata Steel Ltd. (2025) 121 ITR 641 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 124: Jurisdiction of Assessing Officers-Faceless Assessment-Objection to jurisdiction has to be raised within reasonable time-Writ petition is dismissed-Alternative remedy. [S. 119(2), 143(3) 144B, 154, 246A, General Clauses Act, 1897, S. 24, Art. 226]

The Petitioner has impugned first respondents assessment order and the questions raised by the petition are whether the Additional Commissioner of Income-Tax, National Faceless Assessment Centre could have assumed jurisdiction in respect to issuance of notice under section 143(2) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if not then would the consequent proceedings arising out of the said order fail and whether the petitioner can invoke this Court's jurisdiction despite the fact that the petitioner has participated in the Court's proceedings and has filed a statutory appeal against the order. The court discussed the amendments to the section 143 of the Act. Substitution of Section 143(2) and insertion of section 143 (3A), (3B) and (3C) along with the notification of the Faceless Assessment Scheme, 2019 vide the notification dated September 1, 2019 which was initially called as E-Assessment Scheme. By the order dated August 13, 2020 [F No. 187/3/2020-ITA-1] it was stated that all assessment orders shall be passed by the National E-Assessment Centre except the orders related to Central Charge and International Charge. Vide an internal communication dated May 17, 2021 wherein the Directorate on Income Tax (Systems) stated that in cases pertaining to Central Charges and International Charges notices under section 143(2) have been issued by the prescribed income tax authority and displayed to the concerned jurisdictional Assessing Officer for carrying out further jurisdiction Assessing Officer. The Faceless Assessment Scheme was repealed and National Faceless Assessment Scheme was introduced with the insertion of Section 144B. The petitioner thus challenged the validity of the communication. The Court after taking into consideration the Section 24 of the Act-Continuation of orders, etc. issued under enactments repealed and re-enacted the court held that the order dated August 13, 2020 is saved. On the second question the assessee had participated in the proceedings and completed its payment of first instalment, and questioning the authority of the Assessing Officer under section 124(1) is not only limited to territorial jurisdiction but extends to all types of jurisdiction and has a limitation period of one month and therefore the petitioner fails on the second question as well.(AY. 2020-21)

Adarsh Developers v. Dy. CIT (2025) 472 ITR 765 (Karn.) (HC)

S. 124: Jurisdiction of Assessing Officers-Pecuniary jurisdiction-Income exceeding ₹30 lakhs-Notice issued by Income-tax Officer without jurisdiction-Assessment invalid.[S. 119, 120, 127, 143(2)]

The assessee declared total income of ₹91.05 lakhs. Under CBDT Instruction No. 1 of 2011 issued under section 119, cases involving returned income exceeding ₹30 lakhs were required to be assessed by an Assistant Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Income-tax. The assessment, however, was completed by an Income-tax Officer and the Revenue failed to produce any order under section 127 transferring jurisdiction. The Tribunal held that the notice issued under section 143(2) by the Income-tax Officer was without jurisdiction and the consequential assessment was void ab initio. (AY. 2017-18).

Arjun Rishi v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 664 / 176 taxmann.com 720 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 124: Jurisdiction of Assessing Officers-Reassessment-Notice-Transfer of case-AIR information-Purchase of property-ITO, Bareilly issued notice-Not designated Assessing Officer-Mere mention of a Bareilly address in sale deed could not confer jurisdiction-Notice was quashed as beyond jurisdictional competence and therefore non-est in law-Assessment order was quashed. [S. 124, 144, 147, 148]

Assessing Officer, Bareilly, received an AIR information that assessee had purchased a residential land of a certain amount in Bareilly. He issued a notice under section 148 to assessee for making reassessment. Thereafter, he discovered PAN of assessee and transferred reassessment proceedings to ITO, Lucknow. Subsequently, an assessment order was passed making an addition on account of the amount paid by assessee for the purchase of residential land. CIT(A) affirmed the reassessment proceedings. On appeal, the Tribunal held that ITO, Bareilly was designated officer authorized to collect AIR information and make an enquiry in this regard; however, he was not the designated Assessing Officer of the assessee. The mere fact that a Bareilly address was mentioned in the sale deed could not confer jurisdiction upon the ITO, Bareilly, to assess the income of the assessee. Accordingly, the notice issued by ITO, Bareilly, was clearly beyond his jurisdictional competence and, therefore, non-est in the eyes of the law. Accordingly, the assessment order under section 147 read with section 144 was quashed. (AY. 2008-09)

Poonam Sen. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 50 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 127: Power to transfer cases-search and seizure-Transfer was for co-ordinated investigation and assessment proceedings-High Court held that the order of transfer is held to be justified-SLP dismissed. [S. 127(2), 132, Art.136]

High Court dismissed the petition and held that the case of the assessee had been centralised with the relevant Income-tax Authority as specified in the office order. The search was conducted in case of P and other related persons in the State of Haryana, and the assessee's case had been centralised in connection with the search. The orders set out that the centralisation was being done for the purpose of co-ordinated investigation and assessment proceedings considered expedient on the ground that the search and seizure operations were conducted in the case of Pavel Garg and others. SLP dismissed. (AY. 2020-21)

Alta Vista Info Solutions Pvt. Ltd. and another v Pr. CIT (2025) 481 ITR 43/181 taxmann.com 889 (SC)

Editorial : Alta Vista Info Solutions Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 481 ITR 40 /181 taxmann.com 172 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Centralisation of assessment-Suspicious cash transactions-Transfer from one jurisdiction to another-Assessee not disputing transactions-Order of transfer upheld-SLP of the assessee challenging transfer dismissed.[S. 127(2)(a), Art. 136.]

Dismissing the Special Leave Petition filed by the assessee, the Supreme Court upheld the order passed under section 127 of the Act, transferring the assessee's case from Vadodara to Pune for the purpose of centralised and coordinated investigation. The Court noted that the transfer was based on significant suspicious cash transactions between the assessee and an entity assessed at Pune, which the assessee had not denied. It was further observed that the impugned show cause notice and subsequent transfer order were issued in continuation of the earlier transfer order to comply with the statutory requirement of granting an opportunity of hearing and could not be quashed merely on the ground that they were styled as corrigendum. The Court held that the assessee's failure to respond to the notice and the absence of any denial of the underlying transactions justified the transfer. Accordingly, finding no infirmity in the judgment of the High Court, the Supreme Court declined to interfere and dismissed the SLP in favour of the Revenue.

Vishal Darshanlal Talreja v. Pr. CIT (2025) 306 Taxman 164 / 481 ITR 476 (SC)

Editorial: Vishal Darshanlal Talreja v. Pr. CIT (2025)174 taxmann.com 469 /481 ITR 459 (Guj)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Search-On SLP the Court held since transfer had already taken place, if authority concerned wanted to pass an order, it might proceed to do but it would not give a final effect to order till matter was heard on merits. [Art. 136]

A search operation was conducted under section 132 in case of a group of companies by Investigation Wing, Kolkata. As a result of said search in Kolkata Office, many incriminating documents were found and it was concluded that assessee was conducting business operations of lottery in jurisdiction of Kolkata Central Circle. Notice under section 127 was issued to transfer income tax assessment file of assessee from Assessing Officer, Coimbatore to jurisdiction of Kolkata Central Circle. On writ High Court held that transfer of a case from place where assessee had its place of residence or business to another place would cause inconvenience but if it was necessary in public interest then transfer on ground of proper and co-ordinated investigation could not be held to be impermissible in law and thus, transfer of assessee's case did not require interference. Court held since transfer had already taken place, if authority concerned wanted to pass an order, it might proceed to do but it would not give a final effect to order till matter was heard on merits.

Future Gaming and Hotel Services (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 305 Taxman 490 (SC)

Editorial :Jose Charles Martin v.PCIT (2025) 174 taxmann.com 1196 (Mad)(HC) (para 3), stayed.

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Transfer of case for effective co-ordinated investigation to avoid loss of revenue-Transfer order stating adequate reasons and centralisation for limited period until conclusion of assessment according to norms and decentralisation thereafter-Communications between transferor and transferee jurisdictional Commissioners indicating their agreement-Assessee given opportunity of hearing-No infirmity in transfer order-Interference in writ jurisdiction not warranted-SLP of assessee dismissed, [S. 127(2), Art. 136]

The assessee challenged before the High Court the transfer of its case from Mumbai to New Delhi under section 127(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, on the grounds that the order lacked reasons and that there was no agreement between the jurisdictional Commissioners. The Court noted that the order clearly recorded reasons, namely, centralisation of group cases at Delhi for effective co-ordinated investigation to safeguard revenue interests, and that such centralisation was for a limited period until completion of assessment, followed by decentralisation. The objections raised by the assessee were duly considered and clarifications obtained from the Delhi Commissioner. Both the Mumbai and Delhi Principal Commissioners had communicated and agreed to the transfer proposal, with due opportunity of hearing afforded to the assessee. The Court held that convenience of the assessee was subordinate to the larger interest of centralised investigation, and modern technology obviated hardship of physical travel. Since the transfer order was supported by reasons and statutory compliance, there was no infirmity warranting interference under article 226. SLP of assessee dismissed. (AY. 2022-23))

Laxminath Investment and Management Consultants Pvt. Ltd. v. P CIT (2025) 474 ITR 7/ 174 taxmann.com 55 (SC)

Editorial : Laxminath Investment and Management Consultants Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 474 ITR 1/ 174 taxmann.com 54 (Bom)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Search and seizure-A search and seizure operation was conducted at assessee's premises at Kolkata in which several incriminating documents were seized that were involved in his lottery business. The transfer of case was justified since the incriminating documents were found at Kolkata Office [S. 132, Art. 226]

Held, dismissing the petition, that there was no material to show that the Principal Commissioner had failed either to provide an opportunity or sufficient materials to transfer the case under section 127 from Coimbatore to Kolkata. Hence, it would be appropriate to transfer the case since the Kolkata circle office had traced out and seized some incriminating material with regard to the involvement of the assessee in the lottery business for the evasion of taxes within their jurisdiction.

Therefore, the Principal Commissioner had rightly transferred the case from Coimbatore jurisdiction to Kolkata jurisdiction and there was no reason to interfere with the notification. No prejudice would be caused due to the notification because no adverse order was passed except the transfer of the assessee's case by the Principal Commissioner from Coimbatore to Kolkata, and no show-cause notice was issued for the purpose of making any assessment, whereby it would affect the assessee's interest.(SJ)

Arise Industries and Agency Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT [2024] 167 taxmann.com 152 / (2025) 483 ITR 782 (Mad)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Failure to give an opportunity of hearing-Transfer of case not valid. [Art. 226]

Held that by the notice dated December 14, 2023, only three days' time was provided to the assessee to respond thereto. The notice referred to the search and seizure action and the documents seized consequently thereof. It also referred to the interconnected nature of the documents. Conspicuous by its absence was any reference to the role of the assessee in this transaction. By contrast, the order referred to the assessee as one of the key persons. When these facts and circumstances were considered cumulatively, reasonable opportunity was not provided to the assessee. Hence the order for transfer of case was not valid.

Sindhu Shree Charles v. PCIT (2025) 482 ITR 625 (Mad)(HC)

S. 127: Power to transfer cases-Search-Udaipur to Delhi-With implementation of faceless assessment regime, transfer was neither reasonable nor justifiable-Order of transfer was set aside [S. 132, Art.226]

The assessee's case was sought to be transferred from Udaipur to Delhi by the Principal Commissioner for uniformity in the assessment of persons involved, following a search that the revenue had conducted under section 132(1) on the Brindavan group. On writ, the court held that the assessment of Brindavan Group was completed in December 2019. Proceedings initiated by the revenue against the assessee were pending for more than 6 years. Since the factual position as it was prior to issuance of the earlier transfer order had not changed, except for a few formal approvals of competent authorities of Revenue at Delhi. The order of Transfer was set aside. Further, with the implementation of the faceless assessment regime, the transfer was neither reasonable nor justifiable.

Murliwala Agrotech (P.) Ltd. v. UOI (2025) 307 Taxman 543 (Raj)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-search and seizure-Transfer was for co-ordinated investigation and assessment proceedings-Order of transfer is held to be justified.[S. 127(2), 132, Art. 226]

On writ dismissing the petition the Court held that the case of the assessee had been centralised with the relevant Income-tax authority as specified in the office order. The search was conducted in case of P and other related persons in the State of Haryana, and the assessee's case had been centralised in connection with the search. The orders set out that the centralisation was being done for the purpose of co-ordinated investigation and assessment proceedings considered expedient on the ground that the search and seizure operations were conducted in the case of Pavel Garg and others.(AY. 2020-21)

Alta Vista Info Solutions Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 481 ITR 40 /181 taxmann.com 172 (Delhi)(HC)

Editorial : SLP dismissed, Alta Vista Info Solutions Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 2025] 481 ITR 43/ 181 taxmann.889 (SC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Centralisation of assessment-Suspicious cash transactions-Transfer from one jurisdiction to another-Assessee not disputing transactions-Order of transfer upheld.[S. 124, 127(2)(a), Art.226]

Revenue passed order dated 2.1.2025 transferring case of assessee. On writ the assessee submitted that impugned notice dated 21.12.2024 and order dated 2.1.2025 were contrary to provisions of section 127(2)(a) because both notice and order were in form of corrigendum to earlier order passed dated 29.11.2023, and further, revenue had improved upon facts as well as reasons which were not available in order 29.11.2023. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the notice dated 21.12.2024 and order dated 2.1.2025 were in continuation of order dated 29.11.2023 so as to comply with provisions of Act to provide opportunity of hearing to assessee. It was not in dispute that assessee had not filed any reply to notice dated 21.12.2024 and now it was contended that assessee did not file reply as said corrigendum notice referred to details relied upon to transfer case. Such approach of assessee could not be accepted to quash impugned order. Further, assessee had not denied transactions entered into by assessee with GKA. Writ petition was dismissed.

Vishal Darshanlal Talreja v. PCIT (2025) 481 ITR 459/ 174 taxmann.com 469 (Guj)(HC)

Editorial : Vishal Darshanlal Talreja v. PCIT (2025) 481 ITR 476/306 Taxman (SC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Reasonable opportunity of being heard-Principle of natural justice-No Mandatory Requirement of personal Hearing-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 132, Art. 226]

Pursuant to a search conducted under section 132, certain incriminating material was found, and the case of the assessee was transferred under section 127 of the Act for the purpose of coordinated investigation. The assessee challenged the transfer order on the ground of violation of principles of natural justice, alleging that no personal hearing had been granted. The Court held that section 127 does not mandatorily require a personal hearing. The Court observed that the expression "after giving the assessee a reasonable opportunity of being heard" does not necessarily imply an oral or personal hearing, and that the opportunity to submit objections in writing is sufficient compliance with the requirements of section 127. Accordingly, no violation of natural justice was made out. Writ petition was dismissed.,(AY. 2024-25)

Shreeji Foods (P.) Ltd. v. UOI (2025) 306 Taxman 180 (Telangana)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Revocation of transfer order during pendency of writ and finalisation of assessments-Volte-face without reasons-Strictures passed-CBDT and Ministry of Finance directed to conduct enquiry. [S. 119, 127(2), Art. 226]

The petitioner challenged an order passed under s. 127(2) transferring its assessment proceedings from Mumbai to Indore on the ground of centralisation. During the pendency of the writ petition and despite interim orders, the Revenue authorities, without assigning any reasons and without apprising the Court, revoked the earlier transfer order and instead retransferred the case from one Circle to another within Mumbai. Simultaneously, assessment orders were hurriedly passed by the Mumbai authorities substantially accepting the assessee's submissions. The Court noted that the original transfer order had recorded detailed reasons for centralisation, and therefore it was inexplicable how the same authorities could review and reverse their own order without any reasons or disclosure to the Court. The conduct of the Revenue officials, including failure to properly assist the Court during hearings and non-disclosure of subsequent developments, prima facie suggested misuse of Court proceedings and possible compromise of Revenue's interests. Though the impugned transfer order had been abandoned and the petition had become infructuous, the High Court held that the developments warranted deeper scrutiny. Accordingly, the CBDT and the Ministry of Finance were directed to take cognizance of the matter, conduct at least a preliminary enquiry into the circumstances leading to revocation of the transfer and finalisation of assessments during pendency of the writ, and determine whether any action was warranted against the officials involved. The Chairperson of CBDT was directed to file a compliance report by 27 th June, 2025

52 Weeks Entertainment Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 173 taxmann.com 615 / 345 CTR 233 / 250 DTR 401 (Bom)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Co-ordinated investigation-Subjective satisfaction of authorities-Power is administrative in nature and not circumscribed by express language-Transfer justified where search reveals incriminating material across group concerns-No mala fides-Writ appeals dismissed. [Art. 226]

Pursuant to a search and seizure operation conducted by the Directorate of Investigation, Kolkata, incriminating documents were seized from the premises of the assessee belonging to a lottery group. The Revenue recommended centralisation of cases u/s 127 for coordinated and meaningful assessment of the entire block, as the assessee was sister concerns with common family control and interlinked business affairs. The assessee challenged the transfer orders contending lack of justification. The High Court held that the power under S. 127 is administrative in nature, requiring opportunity of hearing wherever possible, and the decision whether coordinated investigation is necessary is based on the subjective satisfaction of the competent authority. Since seized documents affected assessments of multiple entities and centralisation was essential for effective investigation, the transfer was within the object of s. 127. In absence of any allegation of mala fides and with no reason to doubt the bona fides of the authority, the Court found no infirmity in the transfer order. Accordingly, the Single Judge's decision was affirmed and the writ appeals were dismissed.

M & C Property Development (P) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 344 CTR 715 / 250 DTR 137 / 174 taxmann.com 926 (Mad)(HC)

Editorial : Arise Industries & Agency (P) Ltd v. PCIT (2024) 341 CTR 321/ 243 DTR 89 (Mad)(HC) (SJ)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Facilitate co-ordinated investigation of cases-Order of transfer was valid.[Art. 126]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the reason which necessitated the authorities to pass the order was to have a co-ordinated investigation. In the notice under sub-section (1) of section 142 of the Act, there was a clear elaboration of cash transactions between the petitioner's establishment with the I group, which was under the jurisdiction of a different Assessing Officer. There was no sufficient supporting documentary evidence with the assessee's establishment or with its officials at the time of survey to establish that the transactions were genuine and they were done strictly in accordance with the provisions of law. A plain reading of the order itself would clearly indicate that the assessee was in fact given an opportunity of hearing of which the assessee did avail. The order of transfer of case was valid.

Akshara Enterprises Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 477 ITR 121 (Telengana)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Denial of reasonable time to respond to notice-Matter remitted to Principal Commissioner to afford personal hearing to assessee and decide in accordance with law.[Art.226]

Allowing the petition the court held that denying the reasonable time to respond the notice the order was set aside and the matter was remitted back to the Principal Commissioner to decide the issue in accordance with law after giving a personal hearing to the assessee

Dr. Anita Choudhary (w/o Shri Vijay Prakash Khichar) v. PCIT (2025) 475 ITR 01 (Raj)(HC)

S. 127: Power to transfer cases-Search and seizure-No compliance with requirement of agreement between jurisdictional Principal Commissioners-Transfer order set aside [S. 127(2), Art. 226]

Following a search, the Assessee's case was transferred from Kolkata to Dhanbad citing "incriminating material" and CBDT instructions, without furnishing the material or affording a hearing. The Court found that the reasons were vague, unsubstantiated, and that there was no documented agreement between the Principal Commissioners of Kolkata and Central

Patna as required under S. 127(2). Such lapses rendered the transfer order invalid, and all consequential notices were quashed. (SJ)

Pradeep Kumar Kajaria v. UOI (2025) 303 Taxman 111 (Cal)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Order passed without opportunity of hearing-Best judgment order quashed [S. 144, 260A, Art. 226]

The assessee, regularly assessed in Delhi, had its case transferred to Himachal Pradesh without following the mandatory requirements of s. 127, giving reasonable opportunity and recording reasons. The Himachal AO completed best judgment assessment under S. 144. The Court held that such transfer without S 127 compliance was invalid and quashed the assessment, though allowing fresh proceedings in accordance with law. (AY 2009-10)

Deluxe Enterprises v. ITO (2025) 303 Taxman 366 (HP)(HC)

S. 127 : Power to transfer cases-Transferring the case from the Jurisdictional officer in Mumbai to the counterpart in New Delhi-No agreement between the Principal Commissioners of Mumbai and Delhi for the proposal of such a transfer-Compliance of natural justice-Transaction with specific group-Coordinated and centralised investigation-Transfer is valid-Writ petition is dismissed [S.127(2), Art. 226]

The assessee challenged the transfer of case from Jurisdictional officer in Mumbai to the counterpart in New Delhi. Dismissing the petition the Court held that cases are centralised with Central Circle for coordinated investigation in group cases to protect the interest of revenue. The convenience of the assessee is adverted to, order also observed the centralisation is for a limited period, and once the assessment concludes as per the norms, then there would be de-centralization. The Court also observed that the contentions of the inconvenience raised by the assessee can always be addressed through modern technological advances, thereby obviating the necessity of extensive travel by the assessee or its representative. The process of natural justice is observed before transferring the case. The writ petition is dismissed. (WP No.2277 of 2023 dt.7-1-2025) (AY. 2022-23)

Laxminath Investment & Management Consultants Pvt. Ltd. v.PCIT(2025) 474 ITR 1 / 174 taxmann.com 54 / 344 CTR 30 / 246 DTR 305 (Bom)(HC)

Editorial : SLP of assessee dismissed, Laxminath Investment & Management Consultants Pvt. Ltd. v.PCIT(2025) 474 ITR 7 / 174 taxmann.com 55 (SC)

S. 132 : Search and seizure-Reason to believe-Material considered was irrelevant and unrelated satisfaction note did not fulfil jurisdictional preconditions-Search proceedings were not legal-SLP of revenue was dismissed. [S. 132(1)(a) to (c), Art. 136]

High Court allowed writ petition challenging the validity of search action against the assessee holding that the information giving a reason to believe as contemplated under section 132(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, must be prior to such seizure, that the contents of the file of the Department given to the court in a sealed envelope did not disclose any information which would lead the authorities to have reason to believe that any of the contingencies as contemplated by section 132(1)(a) to (c) of the Act, were satisfied, that the material considered was irrelevant and unrelated, that no notice or summons had been issued to the assessee calling for any information from them at any prior point of time to form a reasonable belief that the assessee had omitted or failed to produce books of account or other documents for production of which summons or notice had been issued, or that such person would not produce such books of account or other documents even if summons or notice is issued to him, that the satisfaction note did not fulfil the jurisdictional preconditions specified in section 132 of the Act, and that therefore, the search proceedings were not legal. SLP of revenue dismissed. However, the question of law was kept open.

DIT (In) v. Echjay Industries Pvt. Ltd (2025) 476 ITR 367/175 taxmann.com 846 (SC)

Editorial : Echjay Industries Pvt. Ltd. v. Rajendra, DIT (2024) 299 Taxman 432 /340 CTR 82 / (2025) 475 ITR 331 (Bom)(HC)

S. 132 :Search and seizure-Reason to believe-Three lockers-Jewellery and bullion worth crores-Sufficiency of the information for forming the reasons to believe cannot be examined in writ proceedings-Writ petition dismissed.[S. 132(1), 132(3), Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that Sufficiency of the information for forming the reasons to believe cannot be examined in writ proceedings.(AY. 2023-24)

Raj Krishan Gupta v. PCIT (Inv) (2025) 178 taxmann.com 371/347 CTR 707 / 255 DTR 1 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 132 : Search and seizure-Bank account of political party was not linked with its PAN-Satisfaction arrived at by revenue to initiate a search and seizure under section 132 could not be held to be perverse or legally untenable-Prohibitory order-Period of 60 days had already expired, prohibitory order had already expired by operation of law and hence could not remain valid.[S.131(IA),132(3), 132(8), Art. 226]

The petitioner was a member of the political party called Communist Party of India (Marxist) (CPI(M)) and was the Secretary of the District Committee, Thrissur. The said political party had a Central Committee with its office at New Delhi and State Committees in various States, apart from District Committees in the States. The 'CPI(M)', was an assessee to income tax and the Central Committee filed the returns every year including the accounts of the State and District Committees. The District Committee of Thrissur CPI(M) had an account at the Bank of India, Thrissur Branch. A search and seizure proceedings under section 132 was initiated against him on ground that bank account of political party was not linked with its PAN which led to non-disclosure of particular bank account from which huge amount was withdrawn, giving rise to a reasonable belief that petitioner was in possession of money representing wholly or partly income which had not been disclosed for purpose of income tax. On writ the petitioner contended that failure to link PAN with bank account was due to default of bank as a result of a typographical error. Court held that materials obtained by department prima facie indicated that despite request by bank from 2010 onwards to submit documents for providing KYC and also to link bank account with PAN, there had been a total refusal on part of persons operating bank account to furnish such records. Further, bank account had not even been linked to PAN. There was material available with revenue to prima facie assume that petitioner was in possession of money, which had not been disclosed to income tax department. Satisfaction arrived at by revenue to initiate a search and seizure under section 132 could not be held to be perverse or legally untenable. As regards prohibitory order issued under section 132(3), Chief Manager of Bank of India, Thrissur Main Branch was directed not to deal with four specified accounts and all other bank accounts of political party held in that Branch, however, by virtue of sub-section (8A) of section 132, such an order could not remain valid beyond 60 days. Since period of 60 days had already expired, prohibitory order had already expired by operation of law and hence could not remain valid. (SJ)

M.M. Varghese v. ADIT (2025) 305 Taxman 105 (Ker)(HC)

S. 132 : Search and seizure-Business premises at Ranchi-Seizure of jewellery by Deputy Director of Investigation Wing, Ranchi-Outside territorial jurisdiction of High Court at Calcutta-Writ of mandamus could not be issued to an authority which was situated outside jurisdiction of High Court. Direction could not be issued to Income tax officer, who was outside jurisdiction of court, to return jewellery. [Art. 226]

Search operation was conducted at business premises of assessee at Ranchi. During search, certain jewellery was seized by Deputy Director of Investigation Wing, Ranchi. Assessee filed writ petition before High Court, Kolkata and sought release of jewellery seized by Deputy Director. Single Judge of High Court dismissed writ petition. On appeal the Court held that since seizure of jewellery had been effected at Ranchi in State of Jharkhand which was outside territorial jurisdiction of High Court at Calcutta, a writ of mandamus could not be issued to an authority which was situated outside jurisdiction of High Court. Direction could not be issued to Income tax officer, who was outside jurisdiction of this court, to return jewellery.

Dia Gold Jewels (P.) Ltd v. PCIT (2025) 305 Taxman 255 (Cal.)(HC)

Editorial : Dia Gold Jewels Ltd v. PCIT (2025) 173 taxmann.com 386 (Cal)(HC)(SJ)

S. 132: Search and seizure-Authorisation-“Reason to believe”-Satisfaction not perverse-Search action valid-Prohibitory order under S. 132(3) ceases after 60 days by virtue of S. 132(8A). [S. 132(3), 132(8A), Art. 226]

On information that a bank account maintained by CPI(M) was neither linked with PAN nor disclosed in the returns filed, and that despite repeated requests from the bank since 2010 to furnish KYC documents and link PAN there was refusal by the operators of the account, the Department gathered further material showing substantial transactions including withdrawal of Rs. 1 crore on 2-2-2024 with a balance of Rs. 4.81 crores. On the basis of such material, the Director General of Income-tax (Investigation) recorded satisfaction and authorised search and seizure under S. 132. The petitioner challenged the action under Art. 226. The High Court held that invocation of S. 132 is a drastic step but permissible where there is prima facie material indicating undisclosed income. On perusal of the satisfaction note and approval order, it was evident that detailed reasons were recorded and approval granted after due application of mind. There was no material to establish mala fides. In the circumstances, the “reason to believe” could not be said to be perverse or legally untenable and the search action did not warrant interference (relying on Director General of IT (Inv.) v. Spacewood Furnishers (P) Ltd. (2015) 277 CTR (SC) 322). However, as regards the prohibitory order issued under S. 132(3) on 5-4-2024 directing the bank not to operate specified accounts, in view of S. 132(8A), such order cannot remain in force beyond 60 days. Since the statutory period had expired, the prohibitory order ceased to operate by force of law, and no further declaration was required.

M.M. Varghese v. ACIT (Inv.) (2025) 345 CTR 86 / 250 DTR 201 (Ker.)(HC)

S. 132: Search and seizure-Reasonable belief-All three conditions must be satisfied-Satisfaction note-Failure to disclose capital gains-Absence of jurisdictional pre-requisites for exercise of power under section 132 Search and seizure illegal Revenue granted liberty to initiate reassessment proceedings in accordance with law-Warrant of authorisation quashed and subsequent search and seizure illegal-Competent authority not empowered to issue notice under section 131 (1) after initiation of search and seizure under section 132(1) Notice issued after search and seizure unsustainable-Interpretation of taxing statutes Strict interpretation and compliance.[S 45, 55(2)(ac), 131(1), 132, 147, 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the exercise of power under section 132 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 is hedged by certain conditions so as to ensure avoidance of arbitrary and mala fide actions against the assesseees. They also balance the demands of the Revenue against the rights and liberties of the assesseees including the right to privacy. Therefore, the provisions of section 132 have to be understood and interpreted strictly just as they have to be complied with strictly. In order to initiate any action under section 132, firstly, there has to be information in possession of the officers referred thereunder. Secondly, such officers should have reason to believe as a consequence of such information and based thereon. Thirdly, this information and reason to believe should have a relation with any of the three clause, (a), (b) or (c) contained therein, otherwise such exercise would be bad in law. The search and post-search information or reason to believe cannot form the basis for justifying the warrant of authorisation or the search and seizure conducted under section 132 in pursuance thereof. Information and reason to believe referred to in section 132 have to pre-exist the search operations under section 132. On facts absence of jurisdictional pre-requisites for exercise of power under section 132 Search and seizure illegal Revenue granted liberty to initiate reassessment proceedings in accordance with law. Warrant of authorisation quashed and subsequent search and seizure illegal. Competent authority not empowered to issue notice under section 131 (1) after initiation of search and seizure under section 132(1). Notice issued after search and seizure unsustainable. Interpretation of taxing statutes Strict interpretation and compliance. (AY. 2022-23)

Pramod Swarup Agarwal v. PDIT (Inv) (2025) 477 ITR 453 /305 Taxman 314/ 345 CTR 565 / 251 DTR 193 (All)(HC)

Sneh Lata Agarwal v. PDIT (Inv) (2025) 477 ITR 453 /305 Taxman 314/345 CTR 565 / 251 DTR 193 (All)(HC)

S. 132: Search and seizure-Satisfaction note-Reasons recorded-Non-compliance with statutory requirements under section 132(1) vitiated search and seizure operations. [S. 132(1), Art. 226]

A search and seizure under section 132 was conducted at the petitioners' premises from 1 November 2023 to 3 November 2023 based on five transactions dated 20 December 2019, 21 December 2019, 17 August 2020, 25 August 2020 and 2 February 2022, where B was the purchaser of immovable property jointly with one Anil Sapra. These transactions had been disclosed in returns filed by B for the relevant years; consequently, there was no fresh material to justify a search under section 132. The Court held that the Department's satisfaction note did not disclose any information leading to a reason to believe the contingencies in section 132(1)(a)(c) were met. The note failed to show any prior reason to believe a requirement that cannot be supplied retrospectively by what was found in lockers during the search. No prior notice or sufficient recorded reasons existed; therefore, the search and seizure were vitiated and were quashed. All consequential actions were also set aside, but the Department was given liberty to take action lawfully using the seized material if permissible.

Balkrushna Gopalrao Buty v. PDIT (Inv) [2024] 164 taxmann.com 1056 / (2025) 475 ITR 323 (Bom)(HC)

S. 132 : Search and seizure-Stock in trade-Burden of proving goods constituted stock-in-trade of business, lies on assessee.[S. 131(1A), 132(1)(iii),132(4) Art. 226]

Dismissing the writ appeal the Court held that when the assessee itself had stated in the statement recorded under section 132(4) that it did not possess any bill or invoices, prima facie, the goods so seized were not stock-in-trade within the meaning of section 132(1)(iii). The assessee was not entitled to release of the assets from seizure. Under section 132(1)(iii) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, if the goods which are seized form part of stock-in-trade, then they could not be seized at all. Prima facie it is to be proved as stock-in-trade by supporting documents. The term "stock-in-trade" has not been defined under the Income-tax Act, 1961. It is a general parlance expression, and means goods purchased or procured and put into the stock of a running business.

Paras Jewelers v.PCIT (2025) 475 ITR 134 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 132: Search and Seizure-Ultra vires seizure-Stock in trade-Writ petition disposed of with directions to avail alternative remedy under S. 132B of the Act. [S. 131(1A), 132(1)(iii), 132B, Art. 226]

The petitioners' gold and jewellery were seized at Bhubaneswar Airport on 12 May 2024. They contended that the seizure was illegal and ultra vires under Section 132(1)(iii) of the Income-tax Act, as the provision prohibits seizure of stock-in-trade and only allows for an inventory to be made. The revenue, however, disputed the date of seizure, asserting that it occurred on 1 June 2024, and argued that the petitioners had an alternative and efficacious remedy under Section 132B. The petitioners submitted clarifications regarding their statement recorded under Section 131(1A) on 10 July 2024. However, they did not raise any specific plea at that stage regarding the seizure being ultra vires or demand the return of the seized gold and jewellery. The court observed that a writ of mandamus requires a prior demand for justice followed by a refusal. Since no such demand was evident, the court granted the petitioners one week to make a formal demand with full particulars and reference to the relevant legal provisions. The revenue was directed to respond within two weeks of receiving the demand, granting the petitioners an opportunity of hearing and passing a reasoned order addressing all contentions, including those based on the proviso to Section 132(1)(iii). The court disposed of the petition with these directions, leaving all contentions open for adjudication by the revenue authorities.

H. K. Jewels Private Limited v. ADIT [2025] 172 taxmann.com 616 (Bom)(HC)

S. 132(3) : Prohibitory order-valuable article-Liquor bottles are valuable articles within the meaning of section 132. Liquor bottles can be seized-Prohibitory order in respect of liquor bottles-Not valid.[S. 132, 133(1)]

Sub-section (3) of section 132 is an exception to section 133(1) in its sweep and purpose. Section 132(3) provides that where it is not practicable to seize the articles (books of account, other documents, money, jewellery or other valuable articles or things) for reasons other than those mentioned in the second proviso to sub-section (1) of section 132, a prohibitory order can be passed preventing the person concerned from removing the articles found in his possession. The factors necessary for invoking the second proviso to section 132(1) are: (i) volume; (ii) weight; (iii) other physical characteristics; (iv) and dangerous nature, making it impossible or impracticable for the competent authority to remove the articles. The intention of the Legislature is very clear, viz., it is the duty of the authorised officers to effect seizure wherever any valuable article or thing is found during the course of the search and the words "not practicable to seize" used in section 132(3) have to be understood in this sense, viz., where there is a practicable difficulty in effecting seizure, an order under section 132(3) can be passed.

Dilip Mehta v. ITD [2024] 166 taxmann.com 280 / (2025) 483 ITR 662 (MP)(HC)

Editorial : ITD v. Dilip Mehta [2024] 300 Taxman 584 (SC), SLP dismissed due to delay of 200 days.

S. 132(4) : Search and seizure-Statement on oath-Statement recorded during search-Retractation after seven months-No evidence of coercion-Statement admissible.[S. 132]

The accountant retracted his statement recorded under section 132(4) after seven months, alleging coercion. The Tribunal held that the burden to establish coercion or duress lay on the person retracting the statement. In the absence of supporting evidence, the delayed retraction could not invalidate the statement. (AY. 2014-15 to 2020-21).

Dy. CIT v. DSG Papers (P.) Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 410 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 132(8): Search and seizure-Retention of the books of account and other documents-Authorities are directed to return the books of accounts and other documents forthwith.[S. 132,132(9B), Art. 226]

The account books and documents of assessee seized during search were retained by income-tax authorities for almost two years from search without communicating to assessee reasons recorded by authorised officer for same and without approval of Commissioner. On writ the Court held that the Respondent-authorities have never communicated the reasons recorded to the assessee for retention of books and documents beyond thirty days; further, CIT(A) has granted substantial relief to the assessee by reducing demand; authorities are directed to return the books of accounts and other documents forthwith. (AY. 2017-18 to 2020-21)

Virendra Amrutlal Patel v. ACIT [2024] 168 taxmann.com 143 / (2025) 342 CTR 221 / 245 DTR 23 (Guj)(HC)

S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of books of account-Cash seized from vehicle-High Court held that seized property would be released only upon furnishing bank guarantee(s) and personal bond(s) and once amount was secured-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S.69A, Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 451, 452, Art. 136]

Cash was seized from assessee and his companion while travelling, and was produced before Magistrate as they failed to explain its source. Assessee's request for interim custody was denied, and amount was released to Income Tax Department. Petition under Section 452 CrPC was also rejected. Assessee challenged Magistrate's order in revision petition and by relying on decision of Kerala High Court in Ravirajan R. v. State of Kerala [2023 (6) KHC SN 23/[2023] 155 taxmann.com 670 (Ker.)(HC) and contended that Income Tax Department could not claim custody of money under section 132A when it was in possession of a criminal court and that a Magistrate could not compel Revenue to complete assessment within a prescribed timeframe under Section 451 CrPC. High Court held that there was no reason to deviate from view taken by this Court in Ravirajan R. (supra) and accordingly, order was set aside. High Court directed amount would be released to assessee upon execution of a bond to repay/redeposit it if directed, and furnishing a bank guarantee from a Nationalised or Scheduled Bank for same amount and Department would complete assessment as per law. On SLP the Court held that order passed by High Court directing release of cash seized from vehicle of assessee for reason that High Court had already provided that seized property would be released only upon furnishing bank guarantee(s) and personal bond(s) and once amount was secured, there was no reason to interfere with order. Order of High Court affirmed.

Government of India, Income-tax Department v. Mohammed K. (2025) 305 Taxman 487 (SC)

Editorial : Mohammed K. v.State of Kerala (2025) 174 taxmann.com 1242 (Ker)(HC)

S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of books of account-Theft of cash-On criminal application by the Revenue, the Court held that department would be free to undertake all actions permitted under law, subject deposit of entire amount of Rs.35.28 lakhs in P.D. Account in accordance with provisions and Rules of Income Tax Act.[S.132A(1)(c)]

Informant lodged FIR before police station for theft committed by accused in his house for golden and silver ornaments worth of Rs. 90,000, however subsequently, he informed about theft of his passport and cash worth of Rs. 1.40 crores. Police recovered Rs. 60.29 lakhs and swift car worth of Rs. 1.75 lakhs purchased from stolen rupees out of total Rs. 1.40 crores as also gold and silver ornaments. Informant gave satisfactory reply to police authority, however when interrogation by Income-tax department was made, he failed to give satisfactory explanation for an amount of Rs. 35.28 lakhs. Department issued warrant of authorization under section 132A(1)(c) to police inspector for requisition of seized cash, which was not accepted as matter was pending before Magistrate. Department appeared before Magistrate and upon request being made by department, Magistrate passed an order holding that Income-tax department was free to take all actions permissible under law including to make fixed deposit of Rs. 35.28 lakhs in name of informant with any Nationalized Bank initially for a period of two years renewable from time to time. Said order was challenged before Sessions Court inter alia praying for permission to allow them to deposit aforesaid amount in a fixed deposit in name of Income-tax department, however, said request was rejected. On criminal application by the revenue the Court held that department would be free to undertake all actions permitted under law, however, he shall deposit entire amount of Rs.35.28 lakhs in P.D. Account in accordance with provisions and Rules of Income Tax Act (SJ)

Dy. DIT v. State of Gujarat (2025) 305 Taxman 133 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of books of account-Search and seizure-Cash and seizure of articles-Seizure of jewellery by State Surveillance Team (SST) of District Election Officer and handing over to IT Department-Logistics company-Application for release of seized assets Consignments of jewellery seized by Static Surveillance Team under guidelines issued by Election Commission and handed over to Income-tax Department-Non-recording of satisfaction note-Reassessment notice was quashed-The application filed by the AT Jewellers was liable to be considered by the AO, i.e. Dy. CIT, Central-2. Apart from AT Jewellers, whoever is the consignee claiming ownership and release, may submit an application before the same AO-Writ petitions are allowed with a direction to the Dy. CIT, Central-2 to release the jewellery consignments-Cost of Rs.50000 was awarded in favour of all the writ petitioners payable by the respondents severally and jointly.[S. 127, 131,132,147, 148, Art. 226]

Petitioners have filed application for release of seized consignment of jewellery Limitation Consignments of jewellery for delivery to various consignees seized by Static Surveillance Team under guidelines issued by Election Commission and handed over to Income-tax Department Power under section 127 to centralize proceedings. On writ against seizure of cash and jewellery the Court held that, as per the SOP of Election Commission, there has to be satisfaction by the State Surveillance Team (SST) or the District Grievance Committee (DGC) that the seized cash, articles or goods are being transported or in possession of a person concerned belonging to any candidate of the election and brought for influencing the voters. There is absolutely no satisfaction recorded either by SST or by the District Grievance Committee. No FIR was registered against AS, SLPL or any other candidates. Therefore, as per this SOP, these consignments ought to have been released to AS, from whom it was seized, instead of being handed over to the IT Department. SST and District Grievance Committee did not consider the important facts that the vehicle was not carrying any unaccounted cash, election posters, election materials, drugs, arms, etc., except these consignments, which could create suspicion leading to seizure and handing over to the IT Department. It is also not the case with the SST that the vehicle does not belong to SLPL, which is a logistics company. Valuation of the consignment or jewellery, which is more than Rs. 6,00,00,000 became the basis of seizure and information to the IT department. There is no dispute about the employer employee relationship between SLPL and AS and the seizure of consignments by the SST, during the election period, from the vehicle of SLPL in which AS was travelling. When it is a case of AS, he is an employee of SLPL and transporting these jewellery boxes from the consignor of Indore to the consignees of Ratlam, then he is not supposed to disclose, either wholly or partly, his income or property. Documents which were in his possession relating to transportation, viz., bills and invoices, etc., were produced. Hence, all the proceedings initiated under s. 148 against AS are hereby quashed. Words 'AO' means the same AO who is dealing with the seized asset, not the AO of the person concerned. AO of person concerned may not have any material or record pertaining to the seizure, therefore, he would not be in a position to pass an effective order. Therefore, the application filed by the AT Jewellers was liable to be considered by the AO, i.e. Dy. CIT, Central-2. Apart from AT Jewellers, whoever is the consignee claiming ownership and release, may submit an application before the same AO. Writ petitions are allowed with a direction to the Dy. CIT, Central-2 to release the jewellery consignments. Cost of Rs. 50,000 is awarded in favour of all the writ petitioners payable by the respondents severally and jointly.(AY. 2020-21 to 2022-23)

Arihant Jewellers v. PCIT (2025) 177 taxmann.com 709/ 347 CTR 750 /(2026) 485 ITR 569/ 257 DTR 126 (MP)(HC)

Amit Shrama v. PCIT (2025) 177 taxmann.com 709/ 347 CTR 750 /(2026) 485 ITR 569 / 257 DTR 126 (MP)(HC)

Sequel Logistics (P) Ltd v. PCIT (2025) 177 taxmann.com 709/ 347 CTR 750 /(2026) 485 ITR 569 / 257 DTR 126 (MP)(HC)

S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of books of account, etc.-Assets in custody of Police-Criminal case-Stolen property seized by police-Department cannot claim possession by issuing notice under s. 132A-Separate proceeding can be initiated only after decision of Court. [CrPC, 1973, Ss. 397, 401, 457]

The applicant lodged an FIR for theft; during investigation the police recovered stolen cash and gold from the accused. The applicant moved an application under S. 457 of the CrPC for release of the seized articles, which was opposed by the Income-tax Department on the ground that the assets were unaccounted and liable for requisition under s. 132A. The trial Court rejected the application merely on the Department's objection. On revision, the High Court held that in proceedings under S. 457 of the CrPC, the Court is required to examine whether the claimant establishes ownership over the seized property on the basis of cogent material; the Income-tax Department cannot, in a criminal case where stolen property is seized by police, claim possession of such property by issuing notice under S. 132A, as that is a separate proceeding which can be initiated only after the decision of the criminal Court. If the Department seeks to tax unaccounted assets, it is free to initiate appropriate proceedings under the Act independently. Since the applicant had produced documentary evidence including a Tahsildar's certificate in support of ownership, the trial Court erred in rejecting the application solely on the Department's objection. The impugned order was set aside and the trial Court was directed to allow the application subject to satisfaction regarding ownership. (SJ) Shravan Kumar Pathak v. State of M.P. (2025) 345 CTR 433 / 251 DTR 377 / 175 taxmann.com 894 (MP)(HC).

S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of cash-Explanation unsupported by documents-Writ dismissed-If no demand crystallised, seized cash to be returned within four weeks [S. 153B(1)(a), Art. 226]

The Assessee's explanation for cash seized, including alleged collections from retail concerns and refund of advances, was found unsupported by credible documents. The Court upheld the requisition under s. 132A, holding that the Department had reason to believe the cash was undisclosed. However, it directed that if the time for assessment u/s 153A had expired and no demand stood crystallised, the seized cash be returned to the assessee within four weeks.

Gautam Thadani v. DCIT (Inv) (2025) 343 CTR 120 / 246 DTR 97 / 171 Taxmann.com 94 (Delhi)(HC)

