S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of books of account-Cash seizure-Reassessment notice-Review petition-Information provided under Right to Information Act incorrect-Review petition dismissed.[147, 148, 148A, Art. 226]

The court dismissed the review petition, filed by the assessee based on the information received under the provisions of the Right to Information Act from the police station that no requisition or warrant of authorisation under section 132A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was issued, holding that the information provided to the assessee under the Right to Information Act from the police station was incorrect which was the only ground raised. S. 132B: Search and seizure-Retained assets-Jurisdiction of High Court-Writ petition not maintainable where search and seizure conducted by authorities of another State-Remedy to be sought before jurisdictional High Court-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S. 132, Art. 136]

The assessee filed a writ petition before the Hon'ble Delhi High Court seeking a direction to the Income-tax Department to release jewellery and bullion seized during the course of a search. The Revenue objected to the maintainability of the writ petition on the ground that the search operation and seizure were conducted by Income-tax authorities situated in the State of Haryana and, therefore, the Delhi High Court lacked territorial jurisdiction to entertain the petition. Accepting the contention of the Revenue, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court dismissed the writ petition holding that it had no justification to entertain or continue proceedings in respect of a search conducted by authorities outside its territorial jurisdiction. Aggrieved, the assessee filed a Special Leave Petition before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. During the course of hearing, it was brought to the notice of the Court that after filing of the writ petition, the Assessee's case had been centralized and transferred from the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle 61(1), Delhi to the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Central Circle-1, Faridabad (Haryana). The Hon'ble Supreme Court declined to entertain the Special Leave Petition and held that the assessee was at liberty to seek an appropriate remedy before the High Court having territorial jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Special Leave Petition filed by the assessee was dismissed.(AY. 2023-24)

S. 132B : Application of seized or requisitioned assets-Requisition of books of account-Stock in trade-Trader of gold jewellery/ornaments-Factual dispute regarding itemized stock register and quantity of gold seized-Non-release of gold ornaments held to be justified. [S. 132A, Art. 226]

The assessee, engaged in wholesale trading of gold ornaments, was intercepted during travel with stock supported by delivery challans. While the GST authorities found no irregularities, the Income Tax Department initiated proceedings under section 132A, seizing 398 pieces of jewellery weighing 4,603.110 grams (gross) and 4,146.69 grams (net). The department noted discrepancies between the jewellery and the stock register, non-furnishing of itemized stock records, and mismatch in valuation, leading to retention of goods. The High Court held that where factual disputes exist regarding itemized stock and quantity, the assessing authority is entitled to verify details during assessment. Non-release of goods pending assessment was justified, and the assessee could seek remedy post-assessment if tax liability arose. Petition dismissed. (AY. 2024-25)

S. 132B : Application of seized or requisitioned assets-Search and seizure-Seizure of jewellery from locker in company's name-Presumed to belong to company-Revenue cannot treat it as belonging to directors-Directed to release seized assets. [S. 132(1)(B)(iii), Art. 226]

The assessee, a jewellery company, faced search operations covering its business and associated premises, including Locker No. 161 registered in its name. Jewellery therein was inventoried but seized by the department, claiming it belonged to directors personally. The High Court held that under section 132(1)(B)(iii), stock-in-trade cannot be seized, only inventoried. Jewellery in a locker registered in the company's name is presumed to be company property. The revenue's action in retaining the stock was arbitrary and without authority, particularly after expiry of the retention period under section 132B(1)(i). Direction was issued to release the jewellery forthwith. (AY. 2022-23)

S. 132B : Application of seized or requisitioned assets-Search and Seizure-Jewellery-Release of seized assets-Strictures-Accountability-Jewellery seized in the year 2005-Not released to the assessee even after 25 years-Loss of seized jewellery from the Bank locker-Legal heir entitled to return of jewellery-Income tax department and Bank held liable to compensate-Interim relief granted-The Court emphasized the importance of fair tax governance and proper security measures in Nationalized Banks and Scheduled the matter for further hearing on February 11-Copy of the order is forwarded to the Chairman CBDT and the Chairperson and Managing Director of Bank of Maharashtra. [S. 132, Art. 226]

In July 2005, the premises of the assessee, Late Mrs. Shakuntala Hiralal Malu, were searched by the Income Tax Department, and jewellery weighing 901.98 grams (net weight 727.39 grams) valued at Rs. 7,56,640/-was seized. Upon the conclusion of the proceedings, it was found that no tax was payable, and some refunds were due to the assessee. In 2016, the assessee passed away. The petitioner, her husband and legal representative, wrote to the tax department in 2017, requesting the return of the seized jewellery. In April 2018, an order under Section 132B was passed directing the release of the jewellery. However, despite repeated follow-ups by the petitioner, the jewellery was not returned. In 2020, it came to light that the jewellery was deposited in a bank locker with the Bank of Maharashtra, but the bank claimed that the jewellery could not be traced. The Income tax Department and the Bank blamed each other for the loss, offering no relief to the petitioner. Aggrieved, Writ was filed by the petitioner. The Honourable Court held that there was no dispute regarding the petitioner's entitlement to the jewellery and noted that both the Tax Department and the Bank failed in their duty. Estimating the current value of the seized jewellery at Rs. 56,00,000/-, the Court held both the IT authorities and the bank jointly liable to compensate the petitioner for this amount. The Court emphasised the importance of fair tax governance and proper security measures in nationalised banks and scheduled the matter for further hearing on February 11, 2025. Copy of the order is forwarded to the Chairman, CBDT and the Chairperson and Managing Director of Bank of Maharashtra (WP No. 8026/2022, dt. 04-02-2025)

S. 132B : Application of seized or requisitioned assets-Search and Seizure-Adjustment of seized cash against self-assessment tax was allowed. [S. 132, 140A]

Cash seized during the search after the close of the financial year was claimed by the assessee towards self-assessment tax liability. The Tribunal held that Explanation 2 to section 132B prohibits adjustment only against advance tax and not against self-assessment tax. Since the seized cash belonged to the assessee and no defect notice was issued for non-payment of self-assessment tax, adjustment of the seized cash towards self-assessment tax was allowable. Held that since Explanation 2 inserted below section 132B by Finance Act, 2013 states that existing liability does not include advanced tax payable cash seized during search cannot be adjusted against advance tax liability of assessee. Cash seized during search as his undisclosed income and requested for adjustment of cash seized against self-assessment tax liability, since assessee had apparently not included said amount of cash seized as part of his total income and computed self-assessment tax liability corresponding to said income. The assessee, an educational institution, was subjected to survey under section 133A pursuant to a search conducted in the case of another educational institution. Additions were made on the basis of statements recorded during the survey and documents impounded from the premises of a third party alleging suppression of fee receipts. The Tribunal held that section 133A does not empower the Department to record statements having evidentiary value, and that documents found at the premises of a third party do not attract the presumption under section 292C against the assessee. As the Assessing Officer failed to establish that the seized documents belonged to the assessee or that the calculations contained therein were correct, the additions were deleted. S. 138 : Information respecting assessee-Disclosure-Public interest-Information sought for use in criminal trial-Not permissible-RTI information already furnished-Criminal trial could not fall in category of public interest-No further disclosure under section 138(1)(b). [RTI Act, S. 498A IPC, Art. 226]

The petitioner sought disclosure of information under section 138(1)(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 relating to tax evasion proceedings initiated against his father-in-law, pursuant to a complaint filed by the petitioner. The stated object of seeking such information was to establish the "real truth" in larger public interest and to use the information as evidence in criminal proceedings under section 498A of the IPC arising out of matrimonial disputes between the petitioner and his ex-wife. The petitioner had already been furnished limited information by the Income-tax Department under the Right to Information Act, 2005, including the broad outcome of the enquiry conducted pursuant to his tax evasion petition. The application under section 138(1)(b) was rejected by the Principal Director of Income Tax (Investigation) on the ground that the information sought did not involve any public interest. Aggrieved, the petitioner filed a writ petition before the Telangana High Court contending that the order was cryptic and that disclosure was necessary in public interest to enable him to defend himself in the criminal proceedings. The Hon'ble Telangana High Court dismissed the writ petition and upheld the rejection of the application. The Court observed that the petitioner was seeking disclosure of information relating to tax evasion proceedings against a third party for the purpose of using it as evidence in a criminal trial arising out of a personal matrimonial dispute. Such disclosure, beyond what had already been furnished under the RTI Act, could not be said to fall within the ambit of "public interest" as contemplated under section 138(1)(b) of the Act. The Court held that disclosure of further information relating to tax proceedings against an individual, particularly for use in private criminal litigation, is impermissible and does not serve public interest. The impugned order was found to be reasoned and not suffering from non-application of mind. Accordingly, the writ petition was dismissed.(AY. 2013-14)

On appeal the Tribunal held that the income earlier disclosed had not materialised because the agreements were terminable or could have been cancelled, that once they were cancelled, the properties reverted back to the assessee, that they were duly reflected in the balance-sheet and as assets of the assessee, that the revised accounts were also scrutinised and found to be in order and meeting the accounting practice adopted. It therefore accepted the return and reversed the order of the Assessing Officer. The High Court dismissed the Department's appeal holding that no substantial question of law arose, that the findings of the Tribunal were On appeal to the Supreme Court order of High Court affirmed. (AY. 2007-08)

Deficiency letters dated August 10, 1998 and a letter intimating that the return was liable to be rejected as defective dated December 29, 1998 had been issued to the assessee which was not in dispute. It was also not in dispute that the audited accounts were produced only on February 26, 2002, long after the last date for filing the rectified returns in respect of the year in question. S. 139 : Return of income-Due date for filing tax audit report-CBDT was directed to issue a circular extending the return filing due date to 30-11-2025, for Assessment year 2025-26 [S. 44AB, 119 Art. 226]

Assessee filed writ petitions seeking extension of due date for filing tax audit reports and income tax returns, citing delayed availability of e-filing utilities released on 14.08.2025, which curtailed filing time. CBDT extended the specified date for audit reports from 30.09.2025 to 31.10.2025 vide Circular No.14/2025 but did not extend the corresponding return filing date. Court held that in Income-tax Bar Association v. UOI [2025] 179 taxmann.com 290(Guj) HC) directed the CBDT to extend the return filing due date to 30.11.2025, observing that there must be a one-month gap between the audit report and return filing dates. Despite repeated adjournments and assurances, CBDT failed to act. Gujarat High Court order had attained finality. Court directed CBDT to issue a necessary circular in exercise of power under section 119 to extend due date for filing of returns by assessee required to file an audit report as per clause (a) of Explanation 2 to sub-section (1) of section 139 or required to file report of audit under provisions of the Act for Financial Year 2024-2025 (AY. 2025-26) to 30-11-2025. Assessee's land was acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, and he received an award in 2022 on which TDS was deducted under section 194LA. Since assessee, had no taxable business income till assessment year 2022-23, he did not file any return. Thereafter, in 2024, Assessee's CA registered his PAN on the income tax website for the first time and found that TDS was reflected in Form 26AS. Accordingly, assessee filed an application under section 119(2)(b) for condonation of delay and for permitting to file return for the relevant assessment year. The application was rejected. On writ, the Court held that it was not in dispute that assessee was not aware of TDS and only after being employed and on acquiring PAN, assessee came to be aware of tax deducted at source. Accordingly, the PCIT was directed to condone the delay and allow the assessee to file the return. (AY. 2022-23)

The Settlement Commission has passed an order under section 245B(4) and it was held that the losses and expenses of the assessee for the assessment year 2015-16 are allowable in the hands of the assessee and a particular sum of money towards item debited in the books of PTAL included in their return where added back and direction was issued to the Assessing Officer to consider the said losses and expenses in the hands of the assessee as the assessment of the assessee under section 153A was pending as on date. On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that the Assessing Officer was asking the assessee to do something that was legally impossible and therefore the same cannot be approved. On further appeal, the Tribunal also upheld the order of the Commissioner (Appeals). On appeal by the revenue the Court held that since the search operations in this case were initiated on 2-9-2004, it was no longer necessary for this assessee to file his regular return by 31-10-2004 notwithstanding the mandate of section 139(1). The obligation to file the return remained suspended, in view of the clear opening words of section 153A(1), till such time that a notice was issued to him under clause (a) of such sub-section. If such is the meaning of section 153A(1), the operation of section 139(3) qua the time available for filing a return in order to avail of the benefit of carrying forward any loss stands extended till a return is called for under section 153A(1)(a) and such return is filed, provided the return is filed within the time indicated in the relevant notice under section 153A(1)(a). There can be no dispute to such being the effect of section 153A(1)(a). Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 139 : Return of income-Tax audit report-Extension of due date-Technical glitches on e-filing portal-Delayed release / intermittent functioning of utilities-Sharp fall in number of tax audit reports filed as compared to earlier year-Extension granted for individual ITRs also relevant-Significant hardship to assesseees and professionals justified judicial intervention-As an interim measure, due date for filing tax audit reports for A.Y. 2025-26 extended from 30-9-2025 to 31-10-2025. [S. 44AB, 119, Art. 226]

On writ petitions filed by tax bar associations seeking extension of the due date for filing tax audit reports for A.Y. 2025-26, the Rajasthan High Court examined the comparative filing statistics for A.Ys. 2024-25 and 2025-26 and found a substantial shortfall in the number of tax audit reports filed up to 23-9-2025 as compared to the corresponding period in the earlier year. The Court noted that the material on record showed recurring technical glitches on the income-tax e-filing portal, delayed release and intermittent functioning of utilities, and widespread practical difficulties faced by Assesseees and tax professionals in complying with statutory requirements. The Court also took note of the extension already granted for individual ITR filings and held that the sharp disparity in filing data, coupled with portal-related issues and the foreseeable hardship to taxpayers, prima facie established the need for immediate judicial intervention. Referring to the CBDT's powers under section 119 and earlier precedents where Courts had intervened in similar circumstances, the Court held that the cumulative facts justified extension of time and, as an interim measure, directed the respondents to extend the due date for filing tax audit reports for A.Y. 2025-26 from 30-9-2025 to 31-10-2025. S. 139 : Return of income-Tax audit report-Specified date-Extension of due date-CBDT Circular No. 14 of 2025 extending only the "specified date" without extending the "due date" is contrary to Expln. (ii) to s. 44AB and legislative intent-There must statutorily remain a gap of one month between the tax audit report date and return filing due date-CBDT directed to extend due date for filing return to 30-11-2025 for assesseees liable to furnish audit report for AY. 2025-26.[S. 44AB, 119, 139(1), 139(2), Art. 226]

The Gujarat High Court held that after the amendment by the Finance Act, 2020, the "specified date" for furnishing the tax audit report under Expln. (ii) to s. 44AB is statutorily fixed as one month prior to the "due date" for filing the return under s. 139(1). Therefore, once CBDT, by Circular No. 14 of 2025, extended the specified date from 30-09-2025 to 31-10-2025, it was incumbent upon it to correspondingly extend the due date for filing the return from 31-10-2025 to 30-11-2025. Merely extending the specified date without extending the due date would render Expln. (ii) to s. 44AB otiose and defeat the legislative intent behind the 2020 amendment, effectively restoring the pre-amendment position of simultaneous filing of audit report and return. Rejecting CBDT's stand that it would monitor the e-filing portal and decide later, the Court held that such an approach was contrary to the statutory scheme. Accordingly, the Court directed CBDT to issue a consequential circular under s. 119 extending the due date for filing returns up to 30-11-2025 for assessees required to furnish audit reports for FY 2024-25 relevant to AY 2025-26.(AY. 2025-26)

S. 139 : Return of income-Return declared defective under s. 139(9)-AI-generated order-Principles of natural justice-Alternative remedy of revision-Writ petition dismissed.[S. 44AB,139(9),264, Art. 226]

The assessee challenged an AI-generated order declaring the return defective under s. 139(9), contending that though the order stated that the response was considered, it disclosed no reasons for rejecting the explanation. The Court observed that the impugned order contained only conclusions without reasons and resembled the “inscrutable face of a sphinx”, and that the duty to give reasons is a facet of natural justice which cannot be sacrificed on the ground of automation or system limitations. While noting that minimal reasoning is necessary even in such orders, the Court declined to entertain the writ petition as the assessee had an effective alternate remedy by way of revision under s. 264. Issues relating to alleged non-compliance with s. 44AB would require examination of returns, P&L account and accompanying documents, which could be more appropriately undertaken by the CIT in revisional jurisdiction. Though reliance was placed on the Gujarat High Court decision in Rohtak Panipat Tollway (P.) Ltd.v.Dy.DIT (SCA No. 5727 of 2024 the Court held that this was not an exceptional case warranting bypass of the statutory remedy. Accordingly, the writ petition was not entertained, leaving the assessee to avail the remedy under S. 264, while emphasizing that AI-based systems must evolve to reflect thoughtful consideration and adherence to principles of natural justice. S. 139 : Return of income-Limitation-Where assessment order was passed and consequential demand raised by treating return and audit reports as belated without considering CBDT Notification dated 31-12-2020 extending time limits due to COVID-19 under the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, the order was unsustainable-Return and audit reports filed on 14-02-2021 were within extended time up to 31-03-2021-Assessment order and demand set aside and Department directed to open e-portal to enable assessee to upload reports, if any. [Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, Art.226]

The assessee, for AY 2020-21, filed its return of income and audit reports on 14-02-2021 after the due dates originally prescribed under section 139, which stood extended up to 31-03-2021 by CBDT Notification dated 31-12-2020 issued under the 2020 Act due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Ignoring the said notification, the Assessing Officer disallowed expenses and raised a consequential demand by treating the filings as delayed. The High Court held that the return and audit reports were filed within the extended time and the assessment order passed without considering the statutory extension was contrary to law. Accordingly, the assessment order and demand were set aside, and the Department was directed to remove the demand and open the e-portal to enable uploading of reports, if any. (SJ) (AY. 2020-21)

The order under section 139(9) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, treating the return filed by the assessee for the assessment year 2021-2022 had to be quashed because it was a non-speaking and unreasoned order being violative of principles of natural justice.(SJ) (AY. 2021-22)

S. 139 : Return of income-Delay in filing return-Refunds-Computation of limitation period-CBDT Circular No. 9/2015, para 6

[2015] 374 ITR (St.) 25)-Order rejecting the application was set aside. [S. 139(9), 237, 240, 245, Art. 226]

The assessee belatedly filed an application for condonation of delay in filing a refund application. Revenue rejected the refund claim. On writ, the single judge relied on CBDT Circular No.9/2015 (para 6) [2015] 374 ITR (St.) 25), allowing belated refund applications within six years and set aside the revenue's order; the Division Bench later affirmed. The Court found that revenue authorities failed to consider paragraph 6 of CBDT Circular No.9/2015, which provides for admission of belated refund applications within a condonable period. Since the authorities did not apply that paragraph while declining the refund, the order was set aside and the matter remitted for fresh consideration. On appeal against the order of single judge, division bench affirmed the order of the single judge. (AY. 2013-14)

Editorial: Order of Single Judge in Vivek Krishnamoorthy v. PCIT (2024) 469 ITR 605 (Karn) affirmed.

S. 139AA : Return of income-Quoting of Aadhaar Number-Mandatory linkage of Aadhaar with PAN for operation of Demat account-Reasonable restriction on privacy-Provision constitutionally valid. [IT Rules, 1962, R.114AAA, Art. 14, 19(1)(g), 21, 300A]

The Orissa High Court upheld the validity of mandatory linking of Aadhaar with PAN for the operation of Demat accounts, holding that the measure is a reasonable regulatory requirement aimed at curbing tax evasion, money laundering, and misuse of securities markets through fake PANs and benami accounts. The Court applied the triple test of legality, necessity, and proportionality as laid down in K.S. Puttaswamy v. UOI (2018) 8SCR 1, and found that s. 139AA is backed by legislative mandate, serves a legitimate State interest in ensuring financial transparency, and imposes only a proportionate restriction on privacy. While concerns regarding data security and possible Aadhaar breaches were acknowledged, the Court held that these do not outweigh the compelling need for regulatory oversight, especially with safeguards in place. Accordingly, the provision mandating Aadhaar-PAN linkage for Demat accounts was held to stand on firm constitutional and legal footing and did not warrant interference.

S. 142(2A) : Inquiry before assessment-Special audit-Natural justice-Breach of natural justice does not automatically vitiate-No serious prejudice shown-Writ dismissed. [S. 142(1), Art. 226]

The AO ordered special audit u/s 142(2A) citing large discrepancies and suspected hawala transactions revealed in seized documents and digital data. Though the assessee was given only five days to respond, the Court held that there is no universal rule that every violation of natural justice warrants interference, especially when no serious prejudice is shown. At the stage of special audit, the AO is only required to form a prima facie opinion, which was justified in this case. The writ petition was dismissed.

The Assessing Officer referred the assessee's accounts for a special audit after obtaining approval from the Commissioner. The Tribunal held that satisfaction regarding the complexity of accounts must be that of the Assessing Officer alone and cannot be substituted or supplemented by the Commissioner. Further, the initial period for furnishing the special audit report must be fixed by the Assessing Officer and not by the Commissioner, while extension of time can be granted only in accordance with the proviso to section 142(2C). Since these mandatory statutory requirements were violated, the special audit proceedings were void ab initio and the consequential assessment was rightly quashed. (AY. 2010-11 to 2012-13.)

Allowing the appeal, that on the date of issuance, i.e., on December 16, 2021, of the intimation order under section 143(1)(a) by the Assessing Officer, the issue as to whether the delayed deposit of employees' share of contributions towards Employees' State Insurance and Employees' Provident Fund, though deposited by the assessee beyond the due date prescribed under the relevant Acts, but before the due date of filing of the return of income under section 139(1), could be held as the income of the assessee under section 36(1)(va) read with section 2(24)(x) or not or whether it was subject to the provisions contained in section 43B, was highly debatable, which was pending consideration before the Supreme Court in Checkmate Services Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT, (2022) 448 ITR 518 (SC) and subsequently, it was resolved by the Supreme Court by the judgment dated October 12, 2022. The assessee in its audit report had only furnished the details of delayed deposits and had not shown them as disallowances. Therefore, the Assessing Officer had committed a legal error in processing the return of the assessee under section 143(1)(a). The Assessing Officer should not have made the assessment under the provisions contained in section 143(1)(a); instead, he should have made the assessment under the provisions of section 143(3) of the Act. Order of Tribunal set aside. The Revenue to proceed in accordance with law. (AY. 2020-21)

The assessee filed its return declaring nil income after claiming exemption of Rs. 32.34 crore under section 11(1)(d). The CPC, while processing the return under section 143(1), declined the claim for exemption under section 11(1)(d) on the ground that the assessee society was neither registered nor had applied for registration under section 12A. The assessee contended that adjustments under section 143(1) were made without prior intimation as mandated under the proviso to section 143(1). On appeal, the ITAT held that CPC remained under a statutory obligation to notify assessee and call for its objections before carrying out an adjustment under section 143(1) to returned income. Accordingly, the matter is restored to CIT(A) to verify as to whether the CPC had complied with the statutory obligation as required under the proviso to section 143(1). (AY. 2019-20) before due date of return-CPC adjustment due to incorrect reading of Form 3CD-Matter remanded. [S.43B, 139(1)]

The Centralised Processing Centre disallowed the assessee's claim under section 43B on account of interest relating to pension bonds because the amount had been incorrectly reported in the return. The assessee contended that the entry represented only a notional fair value adjustment under Ind AS-109, whereas alternatively it was also claimed that the interest had actually been paid before the due date of filing the return. The Tribunal found the factual position to be unclear and held that the issue required verification. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination in the light of the evidence produced by the assessee. The Centralised Processing Centre disallowed the employer's contribution to the pension and gratuity trust by erroneously adding together the amounts reported in different clauses of Form No. 3CD. The assessee demonstrated that the contribution had been paid before the due date prescribed under section 139(1). The Tribunal held that the claim required factual verification and restored the issue to the Assessing Officer with a direction to verify the evidence and delete the disallowance if the payment was found to have been made within the prescribed time (AY. 2021-22).

The Centralised Processing Centre disallowed the assessee's claim for bonus under section 143(1). The Dispute Resolution Panel declined to examine the issue on the ground that it arose from the intimation under section 143(1). The Tribunal held that although the proper remedy against an intimation under section 143(1) is rectification under section 154 or appeal under section 246, once such adjustment forms part of the final assessment under section 143(3) read with section 144C, the Assessing Officer ought to examine the correctness of the adjustment. The issue was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2020-21).

[S. 36(1)(va), 143(1)(a)]

The Centralised Processing Centre disallowed employees' contribution to Provident Fund and Employees' State Insurance deposited beyond the due dates prescribed under the respective statutes while processing the return under section 143(1). The Tribunal held that the decision of the Supreme Court in Checkmate Services (P.) Ltd v. CIT (2022) 448 ITR 518 (SC). applies equally to proceedings under section 143(1) as well as scrutiny assessments. Since the delay was evident from the tax audit report itself, the adjustment under section 143(1) was valid. The assessee contended that the intimation under section 143(1) was time-barred because it was digitally signed and communicated by e-mail on 1 April 2021. The Tribunal held that the intimation itself was generated on 31 March 2021 and the subsequent digital signature and communication through e-mail did not alter the date of processing. Further, the time-limit for processing returns had been extended by the CBDT. Accordingly, the intimation was held to be within limitation. The adjustment relating to delayed deposit of employees' contribution was made on the basis of defaults reported by the tax auditor. The Tribunal held that where the incorrect claim is apparent from the information furnished in the return and tax audit report, adjustment under section 143(1)(a) is permissible. The assessee challenged the adjustment on the ground that no prior intimation had been issued. The Tribunal found that the Centralised Processing Centre had communicated the proposed adjustment through the assessee's registered e-mail address before processing the return. The statutory requirement of prior intimation under section 143(1)(a) was therefore duly complied with. (AY. 2019-20).

Assessee, an individual, filed a return of income and subsequently revised it by claiming exemption under section 10(10AA)(ii) in respect of leave encashment received on retirement-CPC processed said return vide an intimation issued under section 143(1) and made an adjustment which resulted in enhancement of income and demand. CIT(A) upheld the adjustment. On appeal, the Tribunal held that CPC, while processing the return under section 143(1), was not justified in adjusting assessee's claim of exemption under section 10(10AA)(ii) without issuing any prior intimation as contemplated under the first proviso to section 143(1)(a). Therefore, the intimation issued by CPC under section 143(1) was invalid in law and quashed. (AY. 2022-23)

Assessing Officer without considering Assessee's claim finalized draft assessment order by taking income assessed by CPC in intimation under section 143(1) and thereafter proposed further addition on account of TP adjustment as well as other addition proposed by Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer should have taken into cognizance of adjustment made by CPC in intimation generated under section 143(1) especially in circumstances where assessee had brought to notice to Assessing Officer about such adjustment. Accordingly the issue is set aside to file of Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication as per provisions of law. (AY. 2020-21)

Notice under section 143(2) was issued on 11-08-2018. The High Court held that removal of defects under section 139(9) does not constitute filing of a fresh return; the return relates back to its original filing date, making the limitation for notice six months from end of FY 2016-17, i.e., 30-09-2017. Held, dismissing the writ petition, that a notice under section 143(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, is a condition precedent for framing an Income-tax assessment and in the present case, such notice had been issued. The Assessing Officer had rightly issued notice under section 143(2) in the format normally utilised for this purpose and at paragraph 1 thereof had conveyed to the addressee, the assessee, that the return had been selected for limited scrutiny and that the issue of share capital/capital had been identified for further verification. He proceeded to fix the matter for hearing and provided an opportunity to the assessee to appear and cause evidence in support of the return of income. There was nothing further that was required to be set out as far as notice under section 143(2) was concerned, and with this, the notice under section 143(2) was complete. Where the Assistant Commissioner issued the notice under section 143(2), but the assessment was ultimately framed by the Income-tax Officer having pecuniary jurisdiction without issuing a fresh notice under section 143(2), the mandatory jurisdictional requirement was not satisfied. The assessee challenged the validity of the assessment on the ground that the notice issued under section 143(2) was not in any of the formats prescribed by CBDT Instruction No. F.No.225/157/2017/ITA-II dated 23.06.2017. The Revenue contended that the notice was computer-generated and the AO had no control over its format. The Tribunal held that the CBDT Instructions issued under section 119 are mandatory and binding upon the income-tax authorities. Since the notice under section 143(2) was not issued in the prescribed format, it was invalid in law, and the assessment framed pursuant thereto was liable to be quashed. Having quashed the assessment on this legal ground, the Tribunal did not adjudicate the other grounds relating to limited scrutiny and additions on merits. The appeal was allowed. (AY. 2018-19)

The assessee's assessment was completed by the Deputy Commissioner under section 143(3) pursuant to a notice under section 143(2) issued by an ITO, upheld by the CIT(A); the assessee's additional ground before the Tribunal challenging the validity of this notice on jurisdictional grounds was admitted, being a legal issue going to the root of the matter. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, as per CBDT Instruction No. 1 of 2011, since the assessee's declared income exceeded Rs. 20 lakhs and pertained to a non-corporate return, jurisdiction lay exclusively with the Deputy Commissioner and not the ITO who had issued the notice; since no order under section 127 transferring the case to the Deputy Commissioner was brought on record, and the officer completing the assessment ought also to have issued the jurisdictional notice, the notice under section 143(2) issued by the ITO was invalid, rendering the resultant defect incurable and the assessment liable to be quashed. Tribunal held that the issuing of a valid notice under s. 143(2) is mandatory, and without complying with the said provision and not issuing a valid notice under s. 143(2), the AO cannot assume jurisdiction to proceed with the carrying out of the assessment proceedings. Therefore, since the notice under s. 143(2) was issued at a wrong/ non-existing address, and this mistake has been accepted by the Revenue authorities in the later part of the assessment proceedings during which the assessee has strongly raised objection about non-receipt of valid notice under s. 143(2) on the address of communication mentioned in the PAN database, no valid notice was issued and served upon the assessee under s. 143(2) within the statutory time-limit provided under the Act. The Tribunal held that once jurisdiction over the assessee had been transferred under section 127 with immediate effect, the original Assessing Officer ceased to have jurisdiction. Consequently, the notice under section 143(2) issued thereafter by the erstwhile Assessing Officer was without jurisdiction and invalid. [S. 139(1), 139(9)]

The assessee filed its return within the prescribed due date on October 28, 2017, and rectified defects pointed out under section 139(9) on August 19, 2018, following which a notice under section 143(2) was issued on September 22, 2019 initiating scrutiny, and the assessment was upheld by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the limitation for issuing notice under section 143(2) runs from the year in which the original return was filed and not from the year in which the defect was cured, since the proviso to section 139(9) permits removal of defects up to the framing of assessment and empowers AO to condone delay in curing defects, which he had in fact done by processing the return under section 143(1) and issuing a refund; the Department's contention that the original return should be treated as invalid for non-removal of defect within time was self-defeating, since in that case no valid return would exist on which to found a notice under section 143(2) at all. As the notice under section 143(2) was issued beyond the limitation period reckoned from the date of the original return, the assessment framed was without jurisdiction and was quashed. The assessee filed a return in response to notice under section 148 but failed to e-verify it within the prescribed time. The Tribunal held that an unverified return is non est in law and cannot be treated as a valid return under section 139. Consequently, the Assessing Officer was not required to issue a notice under section 143(2), as such notice can be issued only where a valid return has been furnished. (AY. 2017-18).

S. 143(2) : Assessment-Notice-First notice returned unserved-Second notice issued beyond limitation-No valid service within prescribed time-Assessment without jurisdiction.[S. 143(3)]

The first notice under section 143(2) issued to the assessee's registered address was returned unserved and the Assessing Officer took no steps to effect service by any alternative mode. A fresh notice was issued more than sixteen months later, well beyond the statutory period prescribed under the Act. The Tribunal held that the Revenue failed to discharge its burden of proving valid service of notice within the prescribed time. As no valid notice under section 143(2) had been served within the limitation, the assessment was without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. (AY. 2012-13).

The High Court dismissed the assessee's writ petition against notices issued under sections 142(1) and 143(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, holding that the Central Board of Direct Taxes, in exercise of powers under rule 12E of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, had authorised the Assistant Commissioner or the Deputy Commissioner (IT), Circle-1(1)(1), Delhi to act as the "prescribed Income-tax authority" for the purpose of issuance of notice under section 143(2), that the powers of the Board to notify the "prescribed authority" was not confined to authorising Income-tax Officers of the National Faceless Assessment Centre, and that the notices under sections 142(1) and 143(2) were valid. Dismissing the appeal, that the entire assessment arose from a scam, in which the assessee was said to have been involved. The assessee had not produced any material before the Assessing Officer to substantiate the purchases made by him, from the amounts disbursed by the State Government for the purpose of providing flood relief. S. 143(3): Assessment-Service of notice-Change of address-Notices sent to old address provided by assessee in revised return-Department aware of new address while passing order of refund for subsequent assessment year Mistake due to adoption of mode of communication electronically-Assessment order quashed-Matter remanded with direction to pass speaking order within 45 days [S.69, 282, Rule 127]

Pursuant to a scheme of amalgamation, a company was merged with assessee company and registered office of assessee was shifted to new address. Assessee appeared to have intimated change in address to

Income-tax department and several communications were also sent to assessee to its new e-mail id and new address of its registered office. Since revised return had old address, impugned assessment order was passed on an old address whereby certain additions were made. On writ, the Court held that there was no doubt that there was a mistake committed by assessee that while filing revised return instead of giving new address and new e-mail id, assessee had given old postal address and old e-mail id. However, fact also remained that other wings of department were aware of shifting of address of assessee-Similarly, they were also aware of change in e-mail id-.While passing order of refund claim for subsequent financial year i.e., 2019-20, notices/orders were sent to correct address. Court held that Assessee had not committed a serious mistake in not providing correct address and e-mail address while filing return although it had turned out to be fatal to assessee and considering interest of parties, assessment order was quashed and case was to be remanded back to Assessing Officer with a direction to pass a speaking order. On writ the Court held that though the assessee had filed short adjournment vide application dated February 14, 2024 up to February 23, 2024 and on February 23, 2024 it had filed a detailed reply which was not considered by the Assessing Officer. Once the assessee had tendered the reply to the notice on February 23, 2024, it was incumbent upon the Assessing Officer to consider such reply and thereafter pass the assessment order dealing with the objections raised by the assessee with regard to additions proposed in the notice, otherwise issuance of notice prior to passing the assessment along with the draft assessment order would be a futile exercise contrary to the provisions of section 144B. Consequently, the assessment order and the demand notice under section 156 were quashed, directing a de novo assessment by the Assessing Officer, with due consideration of the assessee's reply and provision for a hearing, if requested by the assessee.

S. 143(3) :Assessment order-Appellate Tribunal-Powers-Additional grounds-Revised return-Assessed income below the returned income-Assessing Officer cannot deny the deduction relying on the Circular No 549 dt. 30-10-1989 (1990) 182 ITR (St.) 1)-DTAA-India-Japan. [S.9(1)(i), 254(1),Art. 5, 7, Art. 226]

Assessee filed revised return on ground that said revision was necessitated in light of settlement which had been arrived at with revenue in earlier years. Assessing Officer while framing order of assessment refused to accept aforesaid declarations. Assessee raised additional grounds before Commissioner(Appeals) with respect to error in taxing purchases while taxing sales and not excluding turnover from export of goods from India and error in holding that its Indian subsidiary was a PE. Commissioner (Appeals) upheld order of Assessing Officer. Tribunal remanded matter to Assessing Officer-However, Assessing Officer by relying on CBDT Circular no. 549, dated 31-10-1989 held that assessee could not be accorded relief which would result in assessed income falling below to disclosed income in return of income. On writ the Court held that while ordinarily an assessee might be bound by return of income as furnished, in case Tribunal were to admit a question and proceed to accord relief, same could not be denied or be made subject to a return of income being revised. Insistence of revenue on a revision of return being a precondition clearly failed to take into consideration plenary powers which stood conferred upon Tribunal by virtue of section 254 once Tribunal had called upon Assessing Officer to examine issue afresh, said direction could not have been disregarded by reference to a Circular issued by CBDT. The Assessing Officer is directed to pass the order in accordance with law.

The Assessee filed a NIL return claiming a refund; scrutiny notice under s.143 (2) was issued which was subsequently followed by a reference to TPO. The TPO determined the ALP to be higher than the value of the foreign transactions disclosed by the Assessee; the Revenue issued draft order. Upon challenge, the Hon'ble DRP directed Recomputation, and the Revenue passed final order making TP addition; The Hon'ble Tribunal set aside for breach of natural justice and remanded the issues to the file of the AO, holding that the Assessee had to be provided all information obtained during assessment proceedings so it could respond and remanded for fresh consideration after giving reasonable opportunity of being heard. The Hon'ble Delhi HC accepted that no final assessment order was passed after remand (Revenue did not file a counter and said files were "untraceable"). S. 143(3): Assessment-Non-existent Oriental Bank of Commerce-Strictures-Prior intimation of merger and request for PAN cancellation-Since action had already been taken against Assessing Officer on administrative side, only token cost of Rs. 10,000 was imposed, payable to Gujarat State Legal Services Authority, instead of Rs. 1 crore proposed earlier for negligent assessment without independent verification and over-reliance on software systems. [Art. 226]

Assessee-bank filed instant writ petition against assessment order passed in name of non-existent entity Oriental Bank of Commerce (OBC) despite prior intimation of merger and PAN cancellation. High Court, on 17-3-2025, proposed imposition of costs of Rs. 1 crore on respondents/revenue for negligent assessment action without independent verification and over-reliance on software systems, and issued notice granting revenue an opportunity to show cause why such costs should not be imposed. Revenue filed an affidavit stating that systems were being continuously updated to address such issues and tendered unconditional apology seeking relief from proposed costs. It was noted that revenue department was taking corrective proactive steps for resolution of issues which were raised in this petition pertaining to initiation of proceedings on dead persons/amalgamated companies or business and inactive or multiple PANs in software system of department. Court held since revenue department was blindly following information made available by software system and taking action without verifying veracity of same, present petition was a classic example where little verification or application of mind by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer would not have resulted into this litigation and it could have been avoided by not taking any action more particularly, when there was a merger of one National Bank with petitioner bank. Since action was taken by department against Jurisdictional Assessing Officer on administrative side, Court did not want to further prejudice such departmental action by observing in any manner. Petition was therefore to be disposed of with a cost of Rs. 10,000 to be paid by revenue with Gujarat State Legal Service Authority as a token cost instead of Rs. 1 crore proposed earlier.

Assessee challenged legality and/or validity of assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 144B on ground that assessment order was passed manually without mentioning Document Identification Number (DIN) in its body and same was passed beyond period of limitation. Dismissing the petition the Court held that since petitioner had directly approached jurisdiction of High Court under article 226 of Constitution of India and called upon High Court to adjudicate issues relating to facts and application of law on said set of facts, writ petition was not maintainable as an alternative and efficacious remedy was available to petitioner. Assessee filed writ petition challenging show-cause notice issued on 12-4-2022. The petitioner moved praecipe to take up matter urgently. Court held that the assessee had moved High Court at fag end when assessment was likely to be time barred by 31-3-2025. This facility for urgent circulation could not have been invoked by creating such artificial urgency. Further, challenge being only to a show cause notice, instant praecipe was to be dismissed with costs of Rs 25000 which is payable to Tata Memorial Hospital. (AY. 2016-17)

The ITO issued notice under S. 143(2), though he did not have pecuniary jurisdiction, and thereafter transferred the proceedings to the Dy. CIT, who completed the assessment under S. 143(3). The assessee participated in the assessment proceedings before the Dy. CIT without raising any objection as to jurisdiction or validity of notice. No such ground was raised even before the CIT(A). The Tribunal, however, quashed the assessment on the ground that no notice under S. 143(2) was issued by the Dy. CIT. On appeal by the Revenue, the High Court held that the Tribunal ignored the provisions of S. 292B and S. 292BB. The notice issued by the ITO was not found to be invalid in substance or contrary to the intent of the Act, and hence could not be treated as invalid merely on account of defect in jurisdiction. Further, in view of S. 292BB, the assessee having participated in the proceedings without objection till completion of assessment, was precluded from raising such objection for the first time before the Tribunal. The impugned order of the Tribunal was set aside and the matter remanded to the Tribunal for adjudication on other grounds. (AY 2015-16)

[S. 142(1), 282, 292BB, R. 127(2)(b)(iii) of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, Art. 226]

Notices issued during scrutiny assessment were transmitted electronically to the assessee-company at the email address available on the website of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs in terms of Rule 127(2)(b)(iii). The assessee admittedly received the notice informing selection of return for scrutiny and had also responded to notice issued under section 142(1). In absence of any averment denying receipt of notices and in view of participation in assessment proceedings, the provisions of section 292BB were clearly attracted and the assessee was precluded from contending that notices were not properly served. Since notices were also available on the ITBA portal and the assessee was fully aware of the proceedings, the assessment order could not be challenged on the ground of breach of principles of natural justice or lack of adequate opportunity. Writ petition dismissed. (AY. 2022-23)

Assessment, penalty and demand orders quashed-Work Domain-Directions issued to strengthen tax administration and ensure compliance with Court orders-Costs were imposed on the Department. [S 156, 270A, Art. 226, 265]

The assessee was granted only three days' time to respond to draft assessment order issued vide show cause notice dated 27-2-2021 and had sought adjournment up to 11-3-2021 as details were under compilation, though limitation for completing assessment stood extended up to 30-4-2021; however, without either granting or rejecting the adjournment request, the Department proceeded to pass assessment order dated 4-3-2021, which was held to be in blatant violation of principles of natural justice and liable to be quashed. The High Court noted that the lapse resulted from twin factors, namely portal deficiencies and human error, observing that faceless assessment portals have become silent stakeholders in justice delivery and must function in alignment with constitutional mandate under Article 265. The Court further recorded serious concern regarding systemic administrative deficiencies, contemptuous disregard of stay order dated 6-4-2021, and filing of false affidavit amounting to contempt and perjury by departmental authorities. Consequently, penalty order under section 270A and demand notice under section 156 dated 21-12-2021, passed despite subsisting stay, were also quashed. Taking cognizance of recurring institutional failures, the Court issued wider directions mandating impleadment of CIT (Judicial) as party respondent in all future income-tax petitions and placing responsibility upon such officer to ensure strict implementation of CBDT Instruction No. 1 of 2024 so as to prevent recurrence of procedural injustice and strengthen accountable tax administration. Costs were imposed on the Department. (AY. 2018-19).

Despite being duly informed of the amalgamation pursuant to which the amalgamating company had ceased to exist, the Transfer Pricing Officer passed the order in the name of the erstwhile entity and later sought to cure the defect by invoking section 154, which is confined to inadvertent or typographical errors. The Assessing Officer thereafter framed the draft and final assessment orders in the name of the non-existent entity, describing the assessee as “formerly known as”, thereby treating the amalgamation as a mere name change rather than a fundamental alteration in legal identity. The Tribunal held that the assessment was void ab initio and time-barred, the defect being substantive and not procedural, and incapable of being cured under section 292B. On appeal, the High Court affirmed that, absent any intent to assess the amalgamated entity, the assessment order against a non-existent entity was a nullity and the appeal of the Revenue was dismissed. S. 143(3): Assessment-Amalgamation-Assessment orders passed in names of amalgamating entities-Amalgamation approved by court was informed to Department with date and other details-assessment orders issued in names of non-existent entities void ab initio-Jurisdictional issue-Additional ground was raised first time before High Court-Additional ground was admitted-Interim applications allowed-Appeals by Revenue and Assessee's writ petition rendered infructuous.[S. 143(3), 254(1), 260A]

Additional ground on jurisdictional issue of assessment orders passed in names of amalgamating entities when the amalgamation approved by court was informed to Department with date and other details hence the assessment orders issued in names of non-existent entities was bad in law. High Court admitted the additional ground which was raised first time before the High Court and held that the assessment orders passed in names of amalgamating entities is bad in law. Consequently, the appeal orders would also not survive. The question of law framed on January 20, 2025 (Reliance Industries Ltd. v. P.L. Roongta, (2025) 479 ITR 763 (Bom)(HC) was therefore answered in favour of the assessee and against the Department. Consequently, the Department's appeal was dismissed as infructuous, the cause or grievance raised in the writ petition would not survive and the writ petition became infructuous. The interim order, if any, passed stood vacated. The Assessee's appeal was allowed only on the ground that the assessment orders under section 143(3) were passed in the name of the amalgamating companies. The Department was given liberty to initiate fresh proceedings against the amalgamated company RIL in accordance with law. Since the assessment orders were quashed, the questions of law admitted by this court in the years 2008 and 2013 in various appeals on the merits were not adjudicated upon. The appeals and interim applications filed by the assessee for the assessment years 1993-1994 to 1995-1996 were allowed, consequently the appeals filed by the Department for the assessment year 1994-1995 and the writ petition filed by the assessee were rendered infructuous. S. 143(3): Assessment-Principle of natural justice-Allegation that assessee had not been heard not proved-Writ petition dismissed-Given liberty to file statutory appeal.[S. 142(1), 147, 148, 246A, Art. 226]

Held, dismissing the petition, that on examining the assessment order, it could not be concluded that materials placed on record by the assessee were not taken into consideration. Upon the appraisal of such materials, findings were recorded by the Assessing Officer. On prima facie consideration of the material documents, it could not be concluded that the appraisal of evidence was perverse. Any reappraisal of such evidence would be squarely within the province of the appellate forum. As regards the objection that the notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was not received, it was noticeable that multiple notices under section

142(1) were issued thereafter and the reasons for reopening the assessment were communicated to the assessee. Therefore, the order of assessment could not be quashed.(AY. 2017-18)

On writ the fact remained that the assessee endeavoured to submit a reply on December 3, 2022 but could not do so because the portal was not accessible by that time. As a result, the assessee was unable to place on record submissions to support the contention that the income from sale of property was only liable to capital gains and that it should not be treated as business income. For that reason, the order had to be quashed. The matter was remanded for reconsideration subject to payment of Rs. 10,000 as costs by the assessee to the Adyar Cancer Institute, Chennai.(SJ) (AY.2021-22)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Appeal was filed against assessment order within extended limitation period granted by Supreme Court owing to pandemic-Writ petition dismissed-The assessee was relegated to statutory remedy of appeals before the Commissioner (Appeals) under section 246A and the Tribunal under section 253.[S. 246A, 253, Art. 226]

Dismissing the writ petition the Court held that the assessee could have filed an appeal from the assessment order on or before May 28, 2022, even without a delay condonation application. The writ petition itself had been filed only on November 2, 2022 almost five months after the time granted by the Supreme Court had expired. There was also no explanation as to why the assessee did not approach the appellate authority within the time provided by the Supreme Court. Hence the orders of assessment and penalty need not be interfered with in writ jurisdiction. The assessee was relegated to statutory remedy of appeals before the Commissioner (Appeals) under section 246A and the Tribunal under section 253.

On appeal the Court held that since the Assessing Officer had not issued notice under section 133(6) prior to the issuance of show-cause notice under section 144B comprising the draft assessment order, the assessee could not respond to the findings which were recorded in the assessment order by the Assessing Officer on the basis of the inquiry made by him pursuant to the notice under section 133(6). The assessment order under section 143(3) read with section 144B was in violation of the principles of natural justice and hence was not valid. The matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. Matter remanded.(AY. 2022-23)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Firm-Additional capital by partners-Fund flow established-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer to consider the additional documents provided by the assessee. [S. 68, 142(1), Art. 226]

On writ against the assessment order the Court held that the assessee had placed on record sufficient evidence of the financial capability of the partners. In certain cases, the flow of funds had been established but had not been established in cases of other partners. As regards the partners, (i) VST-the Assessing Officer had focused on the bank statement and there was no discussion with regard to the financial statement of VST including the cash flow statement appended thereto, (ii) ST-the Assessing Officer had disregarded the credit entry of Rs. 46.5 lakhs merely because there was a debit entry on the same date, (iii) BK-the bank statement had not been examined and (iv) MK-the variation was confirmed on account of non-production of the bank statement. The assessment order was set aside and the matter was remanded for reconsideration.(SJ)(AY. 2022-23)

On a writ allowing the petition, that the assessment in the name of a company which had been amalgamated and dissolved was null and void. The assessee had on at least five occasions intimated the assessing authority as to the factum of amalgamation and requested that the assessment be made in the name of the resultant company and hence the assessment order in the name of the non-existent company was liable to be set aside. Therefore, the assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with sections 144C and 144B for the assessment year 2017-2018 in the name of the non-existing entity was quashed and set aside. Dismissing the petition the Court held that it was due to inadvertent error on the part of the assessee in not updating or changing the e-mail address with the Department and the notices under section 143(2) of the Incometax Act, 1961 were unnoticed and could not be responded to, on time. When the assessee was at fault, as they did not update or change the e-mail address with the Department, they could not legitimately complain that there was violation of the principles of natural justice. There was no reason to entertain this writ petition under article 226 of the Constitution of India. The assessee could seek remedy of statutory appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) under section 246A of the Act.(AY. 2022-23) (SJ)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Jurisdiction-Transfer of case-Notice issued by Assessing Officer from whose jurisdiction case was transferred-Notice not valid.[S. 260A, 263]

Held, dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that on June 17, 2010 the assessment under section 143(3) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, was completed. Thereafter, two notices were issued under section 263 of the Act dated December 21, 2012 and December 15, 2013. On May 7, 2013 the Commissioner had passed the order under section 263 of the Act. By order dated March 15, 2013, the Commissioner transferred the file to the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer in Chennai. It was thereafter that the assessing authority had issued notice dated February 21, 2014 and proceeded to complete the assessment on March 24, 2014. After the order passed by the Commissioner transferring the files to the jurisdiction at Chennai by order dated March 15, 2013, the Assessing Officer Kolkata has passed the order who had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter. On writ the Court held that the proceedings leading up to the passing of the order lacked clarity and had resulted in the assessee being led to believe that its response or explanation in respect of the proposal to treat a sum of Rs. 3,86,63,654 as excess stock, except to the extent of Rs. 29,36,013 was accepted inasmuch as the officer had by notice dated August 16, 2022 called for an explanation only in respect of a sum of Rs. 29,36,013. This in turn had resulted in the assessee not putting forth any further explanation in respect of the alleged excess stock over and above Rs. 29,36,013, thereby resulting in violation of principles of natural justice. The assessment order was quashed and set aside. Court also held that the existence of alternate remedy is not an absolute bar for issue of writ Violation of principles of natural justice. Where the Assessing Officer disallowed purchases on the ground that the supplier had not responded to the notice u/s 133(6), though the supplier had in fact filed a detailed reply confirming the transaction with supporting documents, and further made an addition of unsecured loans by relying on non-existent judicial decisions and without showing any working or issuing a show-cause notice, it was held that the assessment was passed in gross violation of the principles of natural justice. The Department fairly admitted that the supplier's response was not considered and that certain cited judgments were non-existent. The Court observed that quasi-judicial authorities cannot rely blindly on results generated by AI tools without independent verification. Accordingly, the Assessment Order u/s 143(3) r.w.s. 144B, the consequential demand u/s 156, and penalty notice u/s 274 r.w.s. 271AAC were quashed and set aside, and the matter remanded to the Assessing Officer to issue a fresh show-cause notice, grant opportunity of hearing, and pass a speaking order. S. 143(3): Assessment-Pendency of appeal-Writ-Alternative remedy-Suppressing material information of filing of statutory appeal-Pursuing parallel remedies amounted to treating extraordinary remedy as an alternate remedy to appellate remedy-Petition dismissed and cost of Rs. 1 lakh was imposed to be paid to the High Court Employees Medical Welfare Fund at Mumbai. [S. 246A, Art, 226]

On a writ petition challenging the assessment order passed under the Income-tax Act, 1961 contending that it was without jurisdiction, dismissing the petition, that the assessee pursued parallel remedies at the same time. The assessee had filed statutory appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) under the Act and application for stay of demands before the Assessing Officer. The writ petition under article 226 of the Constitution of India was misconceived and amounted to taking chances with the judicial process which amounted to treating the extraordinary remedy as an alternate remedy to the appellate remedy provided in the statute. The assessee not only had an alternate and efficacious remedy but had already invoked it. The crucial facts, that an appeal and stay application were already filed as on the date of the institution of this petition, which constituted material facts, were suppressed. The averment was so couched as not to attract attention and contained no clear statement of the appeal having been filed, the date of filing or the fact that a stay was also applied for. The delay in instituting this petition was also not explained. All the material facts emerged only after this court posed queries, though the assessee had stated that it had not withheld any material information from this court. Cost of Rs. 1 lakh was imposed on the assessee. to be paid to the High Court Employees Medical Welfare Fund at Mumbai.

The assessee filed a rectification application under section 154 against an intimation under section 143(1), seeking set-off of unabsorbed business loss against long-term capital gains. The CPC did not allow the claim. On a revision application under section 264, the Principal Commissioner rejected it on the ground that the Deputy Commissioner, CPC, did not report to him. Held that such reasoning was incorrect. CPC is only a processing mechanism and does not displace the jurisdiction of the AO under section 120. Therefore, the Principal Commissioner had jurisdiction to entertain the revision petition, and rejection was unjustified.(AY. 2016-17)

S. 143(3) Assessment-Disallowance of expenditure-Business income-Entries in the books of account is not conclusive-Alternative remedy-No deduction of expenses claimed either by assessee or unit holders-Addition made by AO wholly without jurisdiction-Writ petition maintainable-Assessment order quashed. [S. 10(23FBA), 28(i), 37(1), 115UB, 144B, 246A, Art. 226]

The assessee, a SEBI registered Category II AIF with pass-through status u/s 115UB, filed NIL return for A.Y. 2022-23. It had incurred expenses of ₹118.99 Cr but claimed no deduction of the same, nor were they claimed by unit holders. The only income earned was short-term capital gains of ₹0.99 Cr, claimed exempt u/s 10(23FBA). The AO disallowed ₹103.15 Cr (excluding management fee of ₹15.84 Cr allowed) holding expenses to be non-genuine and added the same under "business income," issuing demand and penalty notice u/s 274. The High Court held that, though an alternative remedy before CIT(A) was available, writ jurisdiction is maintainable where the order is wholly without jurisdiction; the AO erred in relying on accounting treatment to disallow expenses never claimed as deduction, as settled by the Supreme Court in Kedarnath Jute Mfg. Co. Ltd. v. CIT (1971) 82 ITR 363(SC), Taparia Tools Ltd. v. JCIT (2015) 372 ITR 605 / 55 taxmann.com 361(SC) and United Commercial Bank v. CIT (1999) 240 ITR 355(SC) book entries are not conclusive for taxability; since no deduction was claimed, there was no basis to add back such expenses. Accordingly, the impugned assessment order, demand notice and penalty notice were quashed. (AY.2022-23)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Jurisdiction-Notices-Assessing Officer or prescribed authority-Powers of Central Board of Direct Taxes to prescribe authority not confined to authorising Income-tax Officers of National Faceless Assessment Centre alone as prescribed authority-Notification issued by Central Board of Direct Taxes authorising Assistant Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner (IT), Circle-1(1)(1)-Notice were within jurisdiction. [S.119, 142(1) 143(2), ITAT R, 1962, R. 12E.Art. 226]

Held, dismissing the petition, that the Central Board of Direct Taxes had issued a notification dated May 28, 2022 (2022) 445 ITR (St) 21), in exercise of powers under rule 12E of the Rules, and had authorised the Assistant Commissioner or the Deputy Commissioner (International Taxation),

Circle-1(1)(1), Delhi to act as the "prescribed income-tax authority" for the purpose of issuance of notice under section 143(2). The notice under section 143(2) for the Assessment year 2023-2024 had been issued by the Assistant Commissioner or the Deputy Commissioner (IT), Circle-1(1)(1), Delhi. Therefore, the contention that the Income-tax Officer did not have the jurisdiction to issue the notice under section 143(2) was not tenable. The contention that other than the Assessing Officer, only the authorised Income-tax Officers of the National Faceless Assessment Centre could issue notice under section 143(2) as it would be in furtherance of automation of such process, was also not tenable. This proposition is not supported by the plain language of section 143(2) of the Act or rule 12E of the Rules. The contention that the prescribed Income-tax Authority could only serve a notice under section 143(2) but could not issue it, was insubstantial. The notices dated July 10, 2024 and September 6, 2024 under section 142(1) for the assessment year 2023-2024 were not beyond the period of limitation. Once it was accepted that the Assessing Officer had the jurisdiction to issue the notice under section 143(2) which was also the contention of the assessee-the Assessing Officer could not be faulted for proceeding to complete the assessment.(AY.2023-24)

S.143(3):Assessment-Reassessment-Alternative remedy-Writ petition dismissed.[S. 147, 148, 246A, Art. 226]

Held, dismissing the petition, that in view of the facts and precedents, the court refrained from entertaining the writ petition and granted liberty to the assessee for filing appeal under section 246A before the Commissioner (Appeals). Though the period for filing of appeal had expired, the appellate authority was directed to hear the appeal on merit if it was filed within a period of 15 days subject to making pre-deposits.

S. 143(3): Assessment-Appeal pending before CIT(A)-Writ-Alternate remedy-Writ petition not maintainable-Extraordinary jurisdiction-Not to be invoked when alternate statutory remedy is available-The Court directed CIT(A) to dispose of the appeals (both against assessment and penalty orders) within eight weeks. [S. 144B 250, Art. 226]

The assessee challenged the assessment order passed, demand notice and penalty order before the Bombay High Court. The Revenue raised a preliminary objection that the assessee had already filed appeals before CIT(A), and therefore the writ petition was not maintainable. The assessee argued breach of natural justice and also pointed to attachment of his bank account. The Court held that once the assessee has availed alternate remedy before CIT(A), writ jurisdiction under Art. 226 should not be exercised. However, considering the grievance of bank attachment, the Court directed CIT(A) to dispose of the appeals (both against assessment and penalty orders) within eight weeks. Writ petition was dismissed with these directions. (WP No. 11536 of 2025, dt. 3-9-2025) (AY. 2021-22)

The assessee challenged a high-pitched assessment before the Local Committee constituted under CBDT instructions. It was argued that the Committee should grant a hearing before submitting its report. The Court noted that the Local Committee is an internal mechanism created by CBDT Instruction No. 17/2017, dated 9-11-2015 and Instruction No. 225/101/2021, dated 23-4-2022 to curb arbitrary or high-pitched assessments and to enable the Principal Chief CIT to take administrative action against errant officers. The Committee's report is not binding on appellate or revisional authorities, and it is discretionary for the Principal Chief CIT to act upon it. Since the Committee is neither a quasi-judicial nor statutory authority, it is not obliged to provide taxpayers with an opportunity of hearing. Thus, the petition was dismissed. The AO passed assessment orders in the name of RPEL and RPPL despite having been intimated that these companies had amalgamated with RIL. The assessee produced inter-partes documents and computation notes showing that the AO was aware of the merger. The Court held that once the AO is informed that the amalgamating company ceased to exist, any proceedings against such entity are void ab initio, even if the amalgamated company participated. Following CIT v. Maruti Suzuki India Ltd.(2019)416 ITR 613 (SC), the orders passed against non-existing entities were quashed as bad in law. S. 143(3): Assessment-Jurisdiction of AO-Best judgement-Order passed without complying the provision of section 127 is quashed and set aside. [S. 120, 127, 144,260A, Art. 226]

Assessee had been filing his IT returns with respondent No. 4 (AO, Delhi) ever since the date of inception. Assessment was finalized by respondent No. 4 even for the asst. yr. 2003-04. The assessment was completed by AO Solan. On appeal the ITAT dismissed the appeal. On writ the Court held that jurisdiction originally with respondent No. 4 could not have been unilaterally transferred to respondent No. 5 (AO, Solan) without complying with the provisions of S. 127. Respondents cannot dispute that the AO in this case has been changed and the records too stand transferred to him which could have only been done after complying with provisions of s. 127 and an order passed in absence of any reasons for transfer has essentially to be construed to be the one as having been passed without application of mind. Accordingly the order framing the best judgment assessment is quashed and set aside. (AY.2009-10)

Dismissing the appeal of the department, the Court held that the assessment is confined to section 153A and consequently the significance of the incriminating material found in the course of the search alone would be the basis for any additions to the income. As the pen-drive was an article which was not recovered in the course of the search but constituted material which had been obtained by the Department through the exchange of information route, it would not constitute incriminating material. Additions cannot be made relying on such data on the pen drive.(AY. 2007-08)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Corporate insolvency resolution plan was approved by National Company Law Tribunal on 14-10-2022 which provided that no person shall be entitled to initiate any proceedings against assessee in relation to claims so long such result to a period prior to effective date of resolution plan, i.e., 10-11-2022-Notice issued under section 143(2) to assessee for A.Y. 2022-23 is bad in law and quashed. [S. 142, 143(2), Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, S. 14, Art. 226]]

As per the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process of assessee-company under provisions of Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, 100 per cent shareholding of assessee-company was acquired by a company (resolution applicant) and thereafter name of assessee-company was changed from Uttam Galva Steels Pvt Ltd to AM Mining India Pvt Ltd, the name is changed to AMNS Khopoli Limited. Assessing Officer issued on assessee a notice under section 143(2) dated 31-3-2023 informing it that income tax return for assessment year 2022-23 had been selected for scrutiny assessment and this was followed by three notices issued under section 142(1). The assessee filed writ before the High Court, the court held that since resolution plan approved by National Company Law Tribunal on 14-10-2022, expressively provided that no person shall be entitled to initiate any proceedings or inquiry, assessment, enforce any claim or continue any proceedings against assessee in relation to claims so long such result to a period prior to effective date of resolution plan, i.e., 10-11-2022, notices issued by Assessing Officer were bad in law and set aside. On writ the Court held that the notice of hearing was sent to wrong email and the assessee was unable to response. The order is set a side. The Assessing Officer is directed to pass the order by giving a reasonable opportunity of hearing.

S. 143(3):Assessment-Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Rental income-Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Change of opinion-Audit objection-TOLA-Disputed facts cannot be adjudicated in writ jurisdiction-Availability of alternate remedy-Writ petition is dismissed with liberty to file an appeal. [S. 23, 45, 54F, 144B, 147148, 151, 250, Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act (TOLA), Art. 226]

The petitioner filed his return of income for AY 2015-16, which was accepted under Section 143(3) of the Act. Subsequently, based on audit objections, the Assessing Officer issued a notice under Section 148 for reassessment, citing incorrect deduction under Section 54F and non-disclosure of rental income under Section 23. The petitioner objected that the reassessment was based on a change of opinion and at the behest of the audit party. However, the reassessment order was passed, making additions to income from house property and disallowing part of the deduction under Section 54F. The petitioner challenged the reassessment order through a writ petition, contending that no sufficient opportunity of hearing was provided and raising objections under the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act (TOLA). The High Court dismissed the writ petition, holding that the petitioner had an alternate remedy of appeal under Chapter XX of the Income-tax Act. The court noted that the objections regarding TOLA and jurisdiction under Section 147 were not raised during the original reassessment proceedings. It further held that disputed facts could not be adjudicated in writ jurisdiction and directed the petitioner to file an appeal within four weeks, extending the ad-interim relief for the same period. The court also observed that it had not expressed any opinion on the merits and left all issues open for adjudication by the appellate authority. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 143(3) : Assessment-Suppression of Sales-Consignment sales are treated as unaccounted sales-Only gross profit and investment in purchases are taxable, not the entire sale proceeds. [S. 69]

The assessee, a dealer in food grains and a commission agent, claimed that a substantial portion of its turnover represented consignment sales on which no commission was charged as the consignors were petty agriculturists. The Tribunal found that the parties to whom consignment sales were allegedly made were the same parties with whom regular sales were effected, and no evidence of commission receipts or any documentary material was produced to substantiate the explanation. The explanation was held to be devoid of merit, and the Commissioner (Appeals) was justified in treating the consignment sales as suppressed sales. However, only the gross profit embedded in such suppressed sales could be assessed as income, and 20% of the suppressed sales could be treated as undisclosed investment for making the corresponding purchases, and not the entire sale proceeds. and determining the business loss by allowing set-off against capital gain-The order of the AO is set aside.[S. 45, 143(2)]

Held that in a "limited scrutiny", the scope of enquiry shall be restricted to the "limited scrutiny" issues; in view of the fact that the assessee's case was selected only for the examination of refund claim and whether investment and income relating to foreign bank account are duly disclosed, the AO exceeded his jurisdiction in disallowing the claim of capital loss and determining the business loss by allowing set off against capital gain by expanding the scope of "limited scrutiny" without obtaining prior approval from the concerned Principal CIT/CIT; impugned order of the AO is set aside.(AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

S. 143(3) : Assessment-Limited scrutiny-Conversion of limited scrutiny into complete scrutiny without prior approval-Cash deposit-AO was obliged to take the specific permission of the Principal CIT before expanding the scope of enquiry to cover the credits in the assessee's bank account-Failure to do so is a clear violation of the CBDT Instruction No. F. No. 225/402/2018/ITA.II, dt. 28th Nov., 2018-The addition made by him is not sustainable-Cash credit-Reconciliation was filed-Addition was deleted. [S.68]

Held that since the assessee's case was selected only to examine the cash deposits made during the year and the AO has himself recorded in his order that the cash deposits did not exceed Rs. 3,92,500, he could not have expanded the scope of his enquiry and make consequent additions by making enquiry into the entire credits in the bank account without specific permission from the Principal CIT addition is, deleted. Tribunal also held that the assessee has furnished an explanation by way of reconciliation of all the credits in his bank account, and the CIT(A) having neither offered any comments nor refuted as inaccurate any part of this reconciliation, and treated the difference between the amounts credited in the bank account and the assessee's turnover as unexplained, the impugned addition is not sustainable. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that the AO passed the assessment order on ITD/AST system and generated a DIN on 31st Dec., 2019 i.e., the due date. The order was not barred by limitation for the reason that the AO inadvertently generated a separate DIN on 24th Jan., 2020, while migrating to ITBA-portfolio and again a third DIN for the intimation letter, which was delayed due to technical glitches. The order was not barred by limitation. (AY.2014-15 & 2015-16)

S. 143(3) : Assessment-Valid DIN-Assessment order without assessee's name or PAN-Omission cannot invalidate the assessment-Protected by section 292B [S.11, 156, 292B]

The Tribunal held that the omission of the assessee's name, PAN, assessment year and relevant statutory provision from the assessment order did not invalidate the assessment where the order bore a valid DIN, was digitally signed by the Assessing Officer, uploaded on the portal and accompanied by a demand notice containing all material particulars. Such procedural defects were curable under section 292B, though computational mistakes in the demand notice could be rectified separately. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

The Tribunal held that no addition for alleged unaccounted production or sales could be made merely on the basis of variation in electricity consumption in the absence of evidence of unaccounted purchases, production or sales. Since the assessee had satisfactorily explained the variation in power consumption and no incriminating material was found during the search, the addition was deleted (AY. 2018-19 to 2020-21)

The assessment was selected for limited scrutiny regarding disclosure of investment in property; however, the AO disallowed the deduction under section 54F without converting the proceedings into complete scrutiny. The Tribunal held that the AO exceeded his jurisdiction and the addition was invalid. Further, where the assessee utilised the capital gains within the prescribed period for the purchase of an old uninhabitable house and construction of a new residential house, exemption under section 54F could not be denied merely because construction was completed after three years. AY. 2016-17).

The Centralised Processing Centre disallowed gratuity expenditure while processing the return under section 143(1). The Tribunal held that the payment had been made before the due date of filing the return and was duly supported by the tax audit report. Since the disallowance merged with the scrutiny assessment under section 143(3), the assessee was entitled to challenge the same in appeal. The disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2020-21).

S. 143(3): Assessment-Gross profit-Ad hoc enhancement without defects in books-Addition deleted-Depreciation-CPC disallowance without reasons-Matter remanded-[S.32, 143(1), 145(3)]

The Assessing Officer applied a gross profit rate of 25 per cent. and the Commissioner (Appeals) reduced it to 24 per cent. The Tribunal found both estimates arbitrary since the books were fully vouched and no defects were established. The addition sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) was deleted. The Tribunal held that the Centralised Processing Centre had disallowed depreciation on the assessee's power plant without assigning any reason. As no incriminating material had been found during the search, the issue was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication on merits. (AY. 2014-15 to 2020-21).

Dy. CIT v. DSG Papers (P.) Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 410 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Wrong mention of section 69 instead of section 50C-Typographical error-Assessment valid-Absence of Document Identification Number (DIN)-No prejudice shown-Assessment not invalid-Manual signature-Absence of digital signature-Assessment valid-Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Stamp duty value exceeding declared sale consideration-Addition upheld-Search assessment-Approval of prescribed authority-Approval available on record-Assessment upheld. [S.45, 50C, 69,132, 153D 282A]

Although the Assessing Officer mentioned section 69 while making the addition, the assessment order clearly discussed suppression of sale consideration under section 50C. The Tribunal held that the incorrect reference to section 69 was merely a typographical error, which was rightly corrected by the Commissioner (Appeals), and did not affect the validity of the assessment. The assessee challenged the assessment on the ground that the assessment order did not bear a Document Identification Number (DIN). The Tribunal held that, in the absence of any material showing prejudice to the assessee, the assessment could not be treated as invalid merely for want of a DIN, particularly when the issue was pending before the Supreme Court. The assessment order was manually signed by the Assessing Officer and did not contain a digital signature. The Tribunal held that since the assessee failed to demonstrate any prejudice caused by the absence of a digital signature, the assessment order was valid. The assessee disclosed sale consideration of ₹21 lakhs whereas the stamp valuation authority adopted the value of the property at ₹23.40 lakhs. The Tribunal held that as the stamp duty value exceeded the permissible tolerance limit, the provisions of section 50C were rightly invoked and the difference was liable to be taxed. The assessee contended that the assessment was invalid for want of approval under section 153D. The Tribunal found that the approval granted by the Additional Commissioner was available on record and rejected the challenge to the validity of the assessment. (AY. 2018-19).

The Assessing Officer treated certain purchases as bogus mainly on the basis of alleged irregular CENVAT credit. The assessee produced purchase invoices, ledger accounts, stock registers, evidence of movement of goods and proof of payment through banking channels. Since the sales were accepted and no defect was found in the records, the Tribunal held that the purchases were genuine and deleted the addition. The assessee filed the cross-objection with a delay of 136 days under the bona fide belief that, having substantially succeeded before the Commissioner (Appeals), no cross-objection was required. The Tribunal held that sufficient cause had been shown and condoned the delay in the interest of justice (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20 & 2020-21).

The assessee revised the quantum of deduction under section 10AA during the assessment proceedings by including interest income forming part of its business profits. The Tribunal held that the assessee had not made a fresh claim but had merely recomputed the deduction already claimed in the return. Even otherwise, the Tribunal was competent to entertain a lawful claim not made through a revised return. (AY. 2014-15).

The Assessing Officer compared the assessee's purchases recorded for eleven months with the suppliers' accounts for twelve months and treated the difference as unaccounted purchases. The Tribunal held that the comparison was fundamentally erroneous and incapable of establishing suppression of purchases. As the addition was based on an incorrect methodology, it was rightly deleted. (AY. 2010-11 to 2012-13).

S. 143(3): Assessment-Return filed in name of the amalgamating company after amalgamation-Return non est-Assessment in the name of a non-existent entity also invalid. [S. 139(9)]

After amalgamation, the assessee filed the original as well as the revised return in the name of the amalgamating company, which had ceased to exist. The Assessing Officer framed the assessment in the name of the non-existent entity. The Tribunal held that a return filed in the name of a non-existent person is non est and does not constitute a defect curable under section 139(9). Consequently, the assessment framed in the name of the non-existent company was also invalid and was rightly quashed. (AY. 2014-15).

Star India Pvt. Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 94 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 143(3) : Assessment-Document Identification Number (DIN)-Absence of DIN on assessment order-No prejudice established-Assessment not invalid-Digital signature-Absence of proof of prejudice-Assessment not invalid-Search assessment-Approval by Additional Commissioner-Prior approval obtained-Assessment valid.[S. 132, 153D, 282A]

The assessee challenged the validity of the assessment order on the ground that it did not contain a Document Identification Number (DIN). The Tribunal held that CBDT instructions regarding DIN are meant for departmental compliance and, in the absence of any allegation that the assessment order was fabricated or that any prejudice had been caused to the assessee, the omission to mention the DIN did not invalidate the assessment. The Tribunal held that the assessee failed to establish that the assessment order was invalid merely because it allegedly lacked a digital signature. In the absence of evidence showing prejudice or that the assessment order was fabricated, no interference was called for. The assessee contended that the assessment was void for want of approval under section 153D. The Tribunal found from the record that the Additional Commissioner had granted approval after examining the draft assessment order. Accordingly, the mandatory requirement of section 153D stood complied with and the assessment could not be treated as invalid (AY. 2016-17).

The assessee failed to effectively participate before both the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals), resulting in an ex parte appellate order. The Tribunal held that although the assessee had been negligent in prosecuting the matter, the dispute ought to be decided on the merits and no person's rights should be defeated without an effective opportunity of hearing. Accordingly, the assessment was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication with a direction that the assessee shall fully cooperate and shall not seek unnecessary adjournments. S.143(3): Assessment-Limited scrutiny-Enquiry into assets and liabilities arising from information furnished during assessment-Within scope of scrutiny.[S.2(13), 22, 23, 28(i), 44AD]

The assessee contended that the Assessing Officer travelled beyond the scope of limited scrutiny. The Tribunal held that the additions arose from information regarding assets and liabilities which the assessee was statutorily required to disclose in the return of income but failed to furnish. Since the issues emerged from details produced during assessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer had acted within the permissible scope of limited scrutiny. (AY. 2018-19).

S. 143(3) : Assessment-Protective assessment-Additional ground-No provision exists in the IT Act giving power to the AO to write a letter to the first appellate authority to consider and treat the protective assessment as a substantive assessment; no protective assessment survives in the absence of a substantive assessment-Legal representative-order of the CIT(A) in making cause title in the automatically generated system data-The mention of deceased assessee's name in the cause title did not vitiate the order. [S. 131,159, 254(1)]

Assessee, who is a power agent of one Tangarajan Nadar, sold property to Sethuprakasam. In his statement recorded under s. 131, Sethuprakasam stated that he purchased land from Tangarajan Nadar and paid sale consideration also to Tangarajan Nadar. AO assessed capital gains in the hands of the assessee protectively on behalf of Tangarajan Nadar. Later, in a letter addressed to the CIT(A), the Dy. CIT requested the CIT(A) to consider the protective assessment as a substantive assessment. Tribunal held that no provision exists in the IT Act giving power to the AO to write a letter to the first appellate authority to consider and treat the protective assessment as a substantive assessment. CIT(A) rightly held that no protective assessment survives in the absence of a substantive assessment. The procedural mechanism for generating cause title is based on the system linked with the PAN of the assessee. There was no intervention in the order of the CIT(A) in making the cause title in the automatically generated system data. Therefore, the mention of the deceased assessee's name in the cause title did not vitiate the order. (AY. 2009-10)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Limited Scrutiny-Depreciation-Goodwill-Increase in share capital-Assessing Officer could not have enlarged scope of limited scrutiny to full scrutiny without prior approval of Jurisdictional Commissioner-Addition made by Assessing Officer disallowing depreciation on goodwill was quashed.[S. 32, 143(2)]

Assessee-company filed its return of income, which was selected for limited scrutiny under CASS to examine the issue of a large increase in share capital during the year, and accordingly, a notice under section 143(2) was issued to the assessee. In response, assessee stated that it had taken over a proprietorship concern and had recorded all assets and liabilities, including intangible assets like goodwill, etc., at acquisition cost on the basis of a valuation report by a CA firm that was an expert in business valuation and had issued shares against assets and liabilities taken over as per said valuation report. Assessing Officer did not make any addition in respect of the issue of increase in share capital; however, he proceeded to examine the issue of claim of depreciation and made an addition by disallowing depreciation on goodwill. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that merely because issue of claim of depreciation was germane to issue of purchase of assets/goodwill, that itself, would not confer jurisdiction upon Assessing Officer to suo motu enlarge his jurisdiction from limited scrutiny to full scrutiny and entitle him to make additions by disallowing depreciation on goodwill, which issue was neither subject nor within scope of limited scrutiny issue of increase in share capital. The Assessing Officer, without seeking any permission from the competent authority, exceeded jurisdiction by enlarging the scope of limited scrutiny and made an addition by disallowing depreciation on goodwill; the assessment order was quashed. Held that the Assessing Officer had travelled beyond his jurisdiction and made additions on issues which were not part of reasons for limited scrutiny, same was to be set aside. Assessment was selected for limited scrutiny for examination of some specific issues. The AO made addition made under S. 41(1) and disallowance of transmission charges. CIT(A) affirmed the disallowances. On appeal the Tribunal held that the AO has not obtained the permission or approval was obtained from the Principal CIT for converting limited scrutiny into complete scrutiny. Tribunal held that in view of CBDT Instruction No. 20 of 2015, dt. 29th Dec., 2015 and Instruction No. 5 of 2016, dt. 14th July, 2016 read with Director General of IT (Vigilance) letter dt. 30th Nov., 2017 before venturing into other issues outside the scope of limited scrutiny, the AO should take prior approval of Principal CIT. Assessee had e-filed his return of income declaring certain amount as income. Subsequently, case of assessee was selected for limited scrutiny for examination of specific issues. During course of assessment proceedings, Assessing Officer held that assessee had purchased certain land for a consideration of Rs. 5 lakhs, whereas, Fair Market Value (FMV) of same was Rs.55.65 lakhs. He made an addition of Rs.50.65 lakhs under section 56(2)(vii)(b). On appeal the Tribunal held that since case of assessee was selected for limited scrutiny for examination of specific issues, Assessing Officer could not have ventured into an issue (difference in purchase consideration of property) that did not form basis for taking up case for such scrutiny assessment without getting said limited scrutiny converted into complete scrutiny as per CBDT Circular No.20/2015 dated 29.12.2015. S. 144 : Best judgment assessment-Principle of natural justice-All correspondence sent to Assessee's old address-Intimation received by assessee at new address after three years-Direction to provide opportunity of hearing.[Art. 226]

Held, allowing the petition, that it was an admitted fact that the assessee was initially residing at New Delhi and had shifted her residence from Delhi to Chennai in 2008. Hence, she was not at Delhi when the assessment order was passed. All the correspondence was sent to the old address of the assessee and she was intimated about the correspondence only in 2022. The assessee having submitted that if one last opportunity was provided to her to file a reply she would put forth her case before the Income-tax Officer, the order was set aside and the matter was remanded back to the Department, with a direction to provide an opportunity to the assessee for filing a reply and personal hearing. S. 144 : Best judgment assessment-Books of account not rejected-Based on departmental valuation Officer's report-Reference made under section 142A by the Assessing Officer to the Departmental Valuation Officer was not in accordance with law-Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 142A, 145, 260A]

Held, dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Court held that that the best judgment assessment wherein he had relied on the estimation of investment made by the assessee, as disclosed by the Departmental Valuation Officer. Undeniably, the books of account of the assessee were not rejected on or before April 5, 2006 but later after the submission of the Departmental Valuation Officer's report dated September 14, 2006. The Tribunal was correct in holding that the reference made under section 142A by the Assessing Officer to the Departmental Valuation Officer was not in accordance with law.(AY. 2004-05)

Held that Special Audit Report for earlier assessment year cannot be basis to make addition for later assessment year. Matter remanded to Assessing Officer for re computation of income. (AY.2018-19)(SJ)

World Vision India v. Add. CIT (2025)472 ITR 564 / 170 taxmann.com 594 (Mad)(HC)

S. 144 : Best judgment assessment-Rejection of books-Estimation of income-Addition restricted on basis of earlier accepted profit rate. [S. 44AB, 145(3)]

The assessee failed to file its return despite substantial turnover and also failed to get its accounts audited under section 44AB. The Assessing Officer rejected the books of account under section 145(3) and disallowed 10 per cent. of the expenditure. The Tribunal held that while rejection of books was justified, estimation of income had to be fair and based on accepted past results. Considering that the assessee's net profit rate accepted in the preceding year worked out to 1.52 per cent., the addition was restricted by directing the Assessing Officer to compute income at 1.52 per cent. of the turnover, after granting credit for the income already returned. Rekha Shah. v. NFAC (2025) 213 ITD 371 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Natural justice-Non-consideration of adjournment request-Alternative remedy-Writ petition was dismissed-SLP dismissed as withdrawn with liberty prayed. [Art. 136]

Assessee filed writ petition and challenged assessment order alleging breach of natural justice due to non-consideration of adjournment request despite seeking video conferencing hearing. It was noted that video conferencing facility and personal hearing was offered to assessee but assessee's representative could not attend due to being preoccupied with State Assembly. Dismissing the petition the Court held that this was not a fit case to deviate from standard rule of exhaustion of alternate remedies and all contentions now raised by assessee could be better adjudicated before Appellate Authority, and no extraordinary circumstances had been made out to bypass statutory remedies and entertain petition. Assessee filed instant SLP against said order. Assessee sought permission to withdraw instant SLP and stated that, if so advised, it would file an appeal and also move an application for grant of stay. SLP was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty as prayed. (AY. 2023-24)

S. 144B: Faceless Assessment-Opportunity of personal hearing must be given if requested-Order of assessment not valid.[S.144B(6), Art. 226]

Held that the assessee had specifically made a request for an opportunity of personal hearing through video conferencing. A similar request was also made on the web portal of the Income-tax Department. It was admitted that the assessee had not been given the opportunity of a personal hearing. Hence, the order of assessment under section 144 was not valid (AY. 2017-18)

S. 144B: Faceless Assessment-Variation proposed in draft. Twelve hours' time granted to reply to show-cause notice-cum-draft assessment order-Documents requested not supplied-Request for cross-examination of person not granted Reasonable opportunity of being heard not granted Violation of principles of natural justice-Assessment order set aside.[S. 144,147, 148, Art. 226]

Held, allowing the petition, that it was undisputed that the documents requested by the assessee were not supplied and an opportunity of cross-examination of the person was not granted to the assessee. Even otherwise, it was difficult for the assessee to submit a complete reply to the respondents within twelve hours. When the show-cause notice-cum-draft assessment order was issued to the assessee, reasonable and adequate opportunity was required to be given to him. Adequate opportunity was not given to the assessee and therefore, the assessment order was quashed and set aside. (AY.2014-15)

S. 144B: Faceless Assessment-Non-resident-Failure to grant personal hearing-Reassessment notice and consequential order were quashed. [S.10(15), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee, an NRI residing in Dubai, held NRE deposits in HDFC Bank and Standard Chartered Bank, claimed income only as interest on NRE deposits exempt under section 10(15), and was alleged by the department to have not filed a return for the relevant assessment year. The case was flagged under Risk Management Strategy, and a show-cause under section 148A(b) was issued. An order under section 148A(d) held it to be a fit case for reassessment, alleging escapement of income of about Rs. 3.05 crores, and a notice under section 148 was issued. During reassessment, notices under section 142(1) were issued, and a show-cause proposed addition of about Rs. 3.05 crores and fixed a personal hearing on 25-3-2023. Assessee sought 15 days' adjournment. However, without granting a personal hearing despite assessee's request, the Assessing Officer passed a reassessment order on 31-3-2023 under section 147 read with section 144B, adding about Rs. 3.05 crores. On writ, the Court held that it is a fundamental proposition of law that the other side should be heard before any order is passed, and maxim audi alteram partem is broad enough to include a rule against bias since a fair hearing is a must for an unbiased hearing. Since hearing was not granted to assessee despite a request being made, the reassessment order was quashed and set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 144B: Faceless Assessment-Failure to provide personal hearing-Assessment Order as well as notice were to be quashed and set aside-Matter remanded back to NFAC to comply with SOP and pass a fresh order after following due procedure of law.[S. 144B(6),147, 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer passed the assessment order without providing an opportunity for video conferencing as well as a draft assessment order to assessee. On writ, the Court held that since the assessee had responded and categorically demanded a personal hearing through video conferencing, which was not granted, authorities had failed to follow the mandatory requirement of the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) dated 3-8-2022 (Faceless Assessment). Accordingly, the Assessment Order as well as the notice were to be quashed and set aside and matter remanded back to NFAC to comply with SOP and pass a fresh order after following the due procedure of law. S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Validity of assessment order under section 143(3) passed by serving Show Cause notice for variation of income on email Id not provided by the assessee-Assessment set aside and remanded back at the stage of Show cause proceeding.[S.143(3), 144B(1)(xii), Art. 226]

On writ the Court held that where a show cause notice was served on an email ID never furnished by the assessee, and the assessment was completed on the premise that no reply had been filed, such assessment order is vitiated for violation of the principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the assessment order was set aside, and the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to recommence the proceedings from the stage of issuance of a valid show cause notice. S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Reassessment-Standard Operative Procedure-One day time was given to upload the evidences-Violation of principle of natural justice-

Assessee's case was selected for reassessment under section 147-In continuation with assessment proceedings, Faceless Assessment Unit instructed assessee to upload certain evidences granting him barely one day and assessment was completed. On writ the Court held that since show cause notice was issued on 7-3-2025 fixing due date of submission of reply on 9-3-2025, same was contrary to Standard Operating Procedure which stipulates response time of seven days. Therefore, there had been flagrant violation of principles of natural justice. Since inadequate time was granted to assessee to furnish voluminous documents, assessment order was to be set aside and matter was to be remitted for fresh adjudication.(AY. 2020-21) was to be restored to Assessing Officer for taking suitable steps for rehearing of case by providing reasonable opportunity of hearing to assessee. [Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income which was accepted and an assessment order was passed. Thereafter, a second notice was issued by department on 13-3-2025, wherein response was sought from assessee by 17:00 hours of 15-3-2025 i.e. within two days which was a very short time for filing response. The Assessment order was passed. On writ the Court held that date of 14-3-2025 was declared as holiday on occasion of Holi festival, therefore, assessment order having been passed in violation of principle of natural justice was set aside and matter was to be restored to Assessing Officer for taking suitable steps for rehearing of case by providing reasonable opportunity of hearing to assessee. S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Standard Operating Procedure Period of seven days must be given to respond the notice-Order is quashed and set aside [S. 144B(6)(xi), Art.226]

National Faceless Assessment Centre, has notified the "Standard Operating Procedure for Assessment Unit under the Faceless Assessment provisions of section 144B of the Act", dated August 3, 2024. Paragraph N of the order under the heading "Process of assessment", in clause N.1.3 thereunder provides that a period of seven days be given to the assessee for obtaining response from issuance of show-cause notice. Held, that the show-cause notice was issued on March 22, 2024. It was also clear that sufficient time was available to the Assessing Officer to pass an assessment order even if he were to grant seven days' time to the assessee to file a reply to the show-cause notice. However, the Assessing Officer granted only two days' time at the first instance and thereafter extended the time by another two days, which apart from being not sufficient, was certainly not in accordance with the time to respond to the show-cause notice, as prescribed under the Standard Operating Procedure. The Assessing Officer, had arbitrarily exercised jurisdiction by granting an extension of only two days. Such approach on the part of the Department was clearly in breach of the Standard Operating Procedure, which had also resulted in a breach of the principles of natural justice, which guarantees to the assessee a fair and reasonable opportunity to respond to the show-cause notice under the procedure prescribed, in undertaking the assessment proceedings. This had surely caused a prejudice to the assessee. Hence the order dated March 27, 2024 was quashed and set aside.

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Subsequent notice indicating the

and requiring the assessee to file a reply on the online portal rather than to the jurisdictional AO-Notice need not be interfered with. [S. 147, 148, 151(1), Art. 226]

The petitioner challenged the notice dated 28 March 2024 under section 148 alleging violation of section 151(1) and claiming the Department intended to conduct proceedings in a non-faceless manner. The Court observed that a subsequent notice dated 28 June 2024 under section 148 clarified the reassessment would be completed under the faceless procedure (section 144B) and that all proceedings would be conducted electronically through the assessee's e-proceedings account. The initial notice of 28 March 2024 merely indicated the Department's intention to reopen for faceless reassessment. The assessee was required to file responses via the online portal (and did so); there was no indication the Department intended to bypass faceless procedure. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.(SJ)

Dhiraj Lakhotia v. UOI (2025) 475 ITR 290 (Cal)(HC)

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Limitation-Commencement of limitation period-Directions of DRP uploaded on 31-1-2022 in Income-tax Business Application portal-Order visible and accessible to AO on same date-AO cannot rely on later internal intimation dated 3-2-2022-Assessment completed on 22-3-2022 held barred by limitation.[S.143(3), 144B(3), 144C(13),260A]

The Assessee's case was referred to the Dispute Resolution Panel (DRP). The DRP's directions were uploaded in the Income-tax Business Application (ITBA) portal on 31-1-2022, which was accessible to both the assessee and the Faceless Assessing Officer. However, as per case history, the AO recorded receipt of the DRP order on 3-2-2022 and completed the final assessment on 22-3-2022. The Department contended that limitation should commence from 3-2-2022, whereas the assessee argued that limitation commenced from 31-1-2022, the date of uploading in ITBA. The High Court held that section 144C of the Act is a self-contained code prescribing strict timelines for completion of assessment. Limitation cannot vary depending on internal processes or user functionalities in the ITBA. Since the DRP's order was uploaded on 31-1-2022 and was accessible in the "360-degree screen" to the Faceless AO immediately, limitation had to be reckoned from that date. The assessment order dated 22-3-2022 was thus beyond limitation. The Tribunal was justified in holding the assessment time-barred. Held, assessment order barred by limitation. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Personal hearing-Natural justice-Video conference-Order of the Assessing Officer was quashed and set a side-Statutory authority was directed to afford a personal hearing to assessee through video conferencing. [S. 143(2), 144B(7), Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income and a notice under section 143(2) was issued. Draft assessment order was passed making certain additions to assessee's income. Thereafter, a show cause notice was issued to assessee as to why assessment should not be completed as per draft assessment order. In response to show cause notice, assessee requested for a personal hearing through video conferencing. However, in online mode assessee had not exercised option but filed its reply through written submission against show cause notice. Without giving an opportunity of personal hearing, an assessment order was passed making an additional demand. On writ the Court held that the assessee had specifically made request for a personal hearing though it might be true that in online mode assessee had not exercised option, that was not a ground to deny opportunity of hearing when statute provided otherwise and no standards, procedures and processes for approving request for personal hearing had been framed by competent authority. Since assessee had specifically made request for a personal hearing, which had not been considered, there had been violation of principles of natural justice, and hence, statutory authority was directed to afford a personal hearing to assessee through video conferencing. Notification No. 3264(E) dated 12.9.2019. (AY. 2018-19) (SJ)

The Assessee's case was scrutinised and queries were raised, including payments to struck-off companies. The assessee sought adjournment and later furnished further details. However, the AO passed the final order without issuing any show cause notice-cum-draft assessment order. The Court held that s. 144B mandates issuance of such notice and opportunity to respond, being an embodiment of natural justice. Since this was not done, the assessment order suffered from incurable illegality and was quashed. Revenue may proceed afresh by following the due procedure within three months. (AY. 2018-19)

144B: Faceless Assessment-Principle of natural justice-Video conference was not provided-Order passed was quashed and set aside-Assessing Officer to pass a fresh de novo order in accordance with law. [Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income, which was selected for scrutiny. During assessment proceedings, assessee received a show-cause notice inquiring as to why expenses/loss from the sale of VDA assets should not be disallowed. Assessee gave a detailed explanation in response to said notice and also requested a hearing through video conferencing. Assessment order was passed without giving an opportunity for a video conference. On writ the assessee contended that no opportunity was granted to present argument or provide hearing through video conferencing prior to issuance of assessment order though specific request was made by assessee-

Revenue conceded to fact that opportunity of hearing through video conferencing was not made to assessee and assessment order was passed without granting opportunity of hearing through video conferencing- Whether therefore, impugned order was passed in clear breach and violation of principles of natural justice and, it was to be quashed and set aside and, matter was to be remanded to Assessing Officer to pass a fresh de novo order in accordance with law (AY. 2023-24)

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Ex parte order-Service of notice to an unregistered email address-Violation of principles of natural justice-Assessment order, demand notice and penalty notices are quashed and set aside-Department has given liberty to issue fresh notices if necessary in accordance with law. [S. 143(2),282, Art. 226]

The petitioner assessee filed her return of income for the AY: 2022-23, wherein she disclosed her registered email address tradingbco@gmail.com. The Income Tax Department processed the ITR u/s 143(1) without any discrepancy and served the intimation on the registered email address. Subsequently, it was found on the income tax portal several notices u/s 143(2) and 143(1) as also ex parte assessment order. However, all these notices and assessment order were not communicated to the assessee's registered email address but were sent to an unregistered email address named karun_b2001@hotmail.com. On Writ by the petitioner-assessee, the Hon'ble Court noted that the assessment proceedings were vitiated due to procedural lapses and non-compliances of statutory provisions as mandated u/s 282, resulting into depriving the petitioner of a fair opportunity to respond, violating the principles of natural justice. The Court further observed that the respondent's reliance on the petitioner's PAN database or an alternate email address cannot substitute for statutory compliance, that the assessment completed without issuance of notice u/s 143(2) is bad in law and accordingly the assessment order, demand notice and penalty notices are quashed, with a direction to the respondent authorities to issue fresh notices with strict adherence to the statutory provisions and ensuring proper service to the petitioner. [S. 14A, 143(3), 147, 148, 254(1), Art. 226]

The assessee-company filed its revised return of income. The AO passed the order with addition to the assessee's declared income invoking section 14A. The CIT (Appeals) deleted the additions. On further appeal, the Tribunal remanded the issue pertaining to the fines and penalties and disallowance u/s 14A to the AO for consideration of afresh with specific directions. Pursuant to the said directions, the JAO passed the order giving effect to the ITAT's order. Subsequent to that, the NFAC proceeded to pass another order. On Writ, the Hon'ble High Court held that there is no provision under the Act for continuing assessment proceedings after an assessment order is passed, that concluded assessment cannot be opened except by the recourse to specific provisions in this regard including Section 147 and accordingly, the initiation of further proceedings by NFAC held without jurisdiction and the impugned order is set aside. S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Cash credits-Un secured loan-No opportunity of cross examination is provided-Assessment order is set aside. [S. 68, 133(6) Art, 226]

Assessing Officer passed assessment order making addition of certain as cash credits. The Assessing Officer did not supply copy of reply received from 17 parties, pursuant to notice issued under section 133(6). After issuance of show cause notice in form of draft assessment order, no any opportunity of cross-examination of parties whose replies were considered to make addition under section 68 was granted to assessee. On writ the Court held that the assessment is quashed and set aside and direction is issued to pass an order by providing an opportunity of cross-examination to assessee, if requested. Matter remanded. (AY. 2022-23) dismissed. [S,143(3), Art. 226]

The petitioner challenged the order passed under section 143(3) read with section 144B of the Act on the ground of principle of natural justice. Revenue contended that the Petitioner was served with the show cause notice dated 14 December 2022 but digitally signed on 15 December 2022 at 12:55 p.m. The Petitioner applied for some time, and the Petitioner was granted the same. The Petitioner filed a reply to this show cause notice on 20 December 2022. Significantly, in this reply, which is fairly detailed, there is no grievance about inadequate notice or consequent prejudice. The Petitioner has raised all points in its defence, and there was no complaint about any serious prejudice on account of the alleged short notice. Dismissing the petition the court held that since the Assessing Officer may not have required any further clarification, no video conferencing opportunity was granted to the Petitioner. Again, based on this material, court cannot hold that this is a case of patent violation of natural justice based on which the rule of exhaustion of alternate remedies ought to be bypassed. Court relied on Oberoi Constructions Limited v. UOI (2024) 169 taxman.com 413 (Bom)(HC) (WP L.No. 33260 of 2023 dt.11-11-2024) Writ petition is dismissed. (AY. 2021-22)

In response to the draft assessment order issued by the Assessing Officer, the assessee informed the Assessing Officer of its intention of filing objections before the Dispute Resolution Panel, but the Assessing Officer passed the final assessment order confirming the draft assessment order, without waiting for the mandatory period of 30 days provided under section 144C(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Once the assessee received the assessment order, the assessee informed the Dispute Resolution Panel that the latter had no jurisdiction as the assessment order (albeit illegal) had already been passed and that the assessee had already filed an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) against it. Notwithstanding this, the Dispute Resolution Panel proceeded to issue directions based on which another assessment order was passed. On a writ petition the High Court quashed the directions issued by the Dispute Resolution Panel and the consequent assessment order. SLP of revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2015-16)

Assessee filed return claiming status of resident of India. Thereafter, a revised return was filed wherein he claimed status of non-resident. During draft assessment proceedings it was held that assessee was a resident and not a non-resident. However, despite said finding draft assessment order was passed. DRP also upheld said order. On writ the court held that since revenue upon considering material had categorically held that claim of assessee in revised return was incorrect, revenue could not distance itself from its own finding merely because assessee claimed otherwise in his revised returns. Assessee would not be eligible assessee as defined under section 144C(15) and procedure as prescribed under section 144C could not apply to assessee. Accordingly the draft assessment order was set aside.(AY. 2021-22)

Held that the assessee not being an "eligible assessee" in terms of section 144C(15)(b), was not an assessee for whom the Assessing Officer was competent to pass the draft assessment order under section 144C(1) and consequently, he could not have passed the final assessment order under section 143(3) read with section 144C(3) read with section 144B. Pursuant to earlier directions of the Tribunal remanding the transfer pricing issues to the Assessing Officer/TPO for fresh consideration with liberty to the assessee to raise all grounds, the Assessing Officer completed assessment without issuing a draft assessment order under section 144C(1). The High Court held that once the matter was remitted for fresh adjudication, the earlier draft assessment order ceased to exist and any fresh variation prejudicial to the assessee necessarily attracted the mandatory procedure prescribed under section 144C. The requirement to issue a draft assessment order applies equally to an assessment framed pursuant to Tribunal remand and non-compliance cannot be justified on the ground that proceedings originated earlier. Passing a final assessment order without first issuing a draft assessment order deprives the assessee of the statutory right to approach the Dispute Resolution Panel and constitutes not a procedural irregularity but an incurable illegality. Accordingly, the assessment order was quashed. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Assessment order-Limitation-Assessment orders passed beyond period prescribed in S.144C(13) invalid and set aside-Interpretation-When the language of the provision is clear, no external aid of interpretation is required. [S.144C(13), Art. 226]

The High Court held that the Assessing Officer is strictly bound by the limitation prescribed in section 144C(13) for passing the final assessment order after issuance of the draft assessment order and receipt of DRP directions. The chronology of events in the present cases established that the assessment orders were issued beyond the statutory time limit. The court held that when the language of the provision is clear, no external aid of interpretation is required; the amendment to section 144C must be construed in light of the legislative intention to streamline and expedite the DRP mechanism. Once the amended provision became part of the statute, it had to be given full effect, even if section 144C is a machinery provision. Any assessment order passed in violation of the mandatory timeline is invalid. Accordingly, all assessment orders passed beyond the limitation period were quashed.

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Document Identification Number ['DIN']-Circulars issued by CBDT in exercise of its powers under Section 119 of the Act are binding on the revenue-DIN has to be generated for DRP proceedings-Order of Tribunal quashing the order is affirmed by High Court-No substantial question of law. [S. 119, 143(3), 144(5), 260A]

The ITAT held that the direction issued by the Dispute Resolution Panel under Section 144C (5) of the Act did not contain a Document Identification Number ['DIN'] as mandated by the Central Board of Direct Taxes by its

Circular No.19/2019 [F.No.225/95/2019-ITA II] dated 14.08.2019; that the subsequent communication intimating the DIN for DRP proceedings did not satisfy the conditions prescribed in paragraph No.3 of the circular; and that therefore, the directions are invalid in law and as a sequitur, the assessment order which was impugned before ITAT is liable to be quashed. In the instant case, the assessment order also did not contain a DIN. The Hon Court observed that it is well settled that circulars issued by CBDT in exercise of its powers under Section 119 of the Act are binding on the revenue. The consequences of not following the directions issued in the circular are also provided in the circular. The issue is no longer res integra. Relying on a decision of Division Bench of Bombay High Court in Ashok Commercial Enterprises v. ACIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 144 (Bom)(HC) it was observed that, even a satisfaction note according to the Division Bench would fall within the scope of paragraph No.2 of the circular and therefore, in our view, there cannot be any doubt that the directions of the DRP which consists of a collegium of three Income Tax Commissioners also would fall within the scope of paragraph No.2 of the circular. Apart from the fact that DRP proceedings did not contain a valid DIN and was invalid for the reasons stated above, the assessment order also in this case does not contain a DIN. There was no explanation offered by appellant for not generating the DIN in the assessment order. Therefore, Appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2015-16)

The assessee challenged the Draft Assessment Order under section 144C and the consequential final assessment and penalty notices. The Assessing Officer had referred the case to the TPO, who accepted that the international transactions were at arm's length and made no variation. Despite this, the AO issued a Draft Assessment Order under section 144C. The Court held that the assessee could not be treated as an "eligible assessee" under section 144C(15)(b) since no variation had arisen from the TPO's order. Once there was no variation prejudicial to the assessee, the provisions of section 144C had no application, and the AO was required to frame the assessment under section 143(3) alone. The Court rejected Revenue's contention that "variation" includes "no variation." Relying on Pankaj Extrusion Ltd v. ACIT (2011) 10 taxmann.com 17 (Guj.) (HC) and *Honda Cars India Ltd v. The petitioner filed its objection to the draft assessment order before the Dispute Resolution Panel (DRP), which passed its order on June 30, 2022. The respondent issued the final assessment order on August 30, 2022 which the petitioner claims was outside the period of limitation of one month from the end of the month in which the direction is issued by the DRP as prescribed by Section 144C(5). The court while interpreting the term "on receipt of" as mentioned in section 144C (13), laid emphasis on the definition given in the section 13(1) Information Technology Act, 2000. By relying on various judgements, the court held that the Assessment Orders were passed beyond the period of one month of receipt of directions by DRP, being barred by limitation, and thus set aside. S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Not following mandatory requirements of section 144C(2)-Assessment Order cannot be treated as draft Assessment Order-Proceedings before DRP and Tribunal bad in law-Not curable defect-Defect cannot be cured by issuing corrigendum-Assessment order is void. [S. 144C(1), 292BB]

The Assessee filed a return of income, reference was made to the Ld. Transfer Pricing Officer ("TPO") for determining the Arm's Length Price ("ALP") and the Ld. TPO passed Transfer Pricing Order. The Ld. AO subsequently passed the assessment order under section 143(3) r.w.s 144C of the Act. The Ld. AO issued corrigendum stating that the Assessment Order should be treated as Draft Assessment Order ("DAO") under Section 143(3) r.w.s. 144C(1) of the Act after which the Ld. AO passed the Final Assessment Order ("FAO"). The Assessee challenged the Assessment Order before the Hon'ble CIT(A). The grievance of the Assessee is that the Ld. AO has not followed the procedure under section 144C of the Act which requires, DAO to be passed after which the Assessee is required to respond within 30 days of receipt of the DAO file its acceptance of the variations contained in the DAO with the Ld. AO or file its objection to the variations with the Dispute Resolution Panel ("DRP"). On receipt of the FAO, the Assessee filed objections before the Hon'ble DRP. The Hon'ble DRP rejected the objections, treated the Assessment Order as DAO. The Assessee filed an appeal before the Hon'ble Tribunal which ruled against the Assessee and upheld the DRP directions. The Assessee filed appeal before the Hon'ble High Court. The Hon'ble High Court ruled in favour of the Assessee, observed that mere reference to section 144C(1) of the Act in the Assessment Order without following the procedure does not make the Assessment Order a DAO. The Assessment Order merely concluded the assessment and raised demand, without reference to the mandatory requirement of section 144C (2) of the Act. The corrigendum issued cannot override the fundamental requirements of section 144C (2) of the Act. The Assessee was denied the statutory right to respond, as the Assessment Order was final in nature. The errors committed by the revenue are not procedural but fundamental to jurisdiction and go to the root of the matter. The Hon'ble Tribunal's decision was incorrect as the Assessment Order is valid as a regular assessment, making the Hon'ble DRP and Hon'ble Tribunal proceedings invalid. (AY. 2007-08)

The assessee contended that the assessment completed on 30-09-2022 was barred by limitation since, in a transfer pricing case, section 153(4) extended the limitation only up to 31-03-2022 and neither the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, nor the CBDT Notifications extended the period for completion of assessment under section 153(4). The Tribunal held that the reference to the TPO merely extended the limitation up to 31-03-2022. As no further statutory extension was available, the assessment order passed on 30-09-2022 was beyond the prescribed period and therefore invalid. (AY. 2009-10)

The assessee, a non-resident, was subjected to reassessment under section 147 on the basis of alleged unexplained investment. A draft assessment order was issued under section 144C and, after the DRP proceedings, the final assessment order was passed beyond one year from the end of the financial year in which notice under section 148 was served. The Revenue contended that the extended limitation applicable to eligible assesseees governed by section 144C applied. The Tribunal held that the additional period under section 153(4) is available only where a reference has been made to the Transfer Pricing Officer under section 92CA. Since no such reference was made, the normal limitation under section 153(2) applied and the reassessment order was barred by limitation and liable to be quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

The AO referred the assessee's specified domestic transactions to the TPO, who passed the order under section 92CA(3) on 01.11.2019. The assessee contended that the TPO ought to have passed the order on or before 31.10.2019 in terms of section 92CA(3A). The Tribunal held that the TPO's order passed on 01.11.2019 was barred by limitation. Consequently, the assessee could not be treated as an "eligible assessee" under section 144C(15)(b)(i), rendering the extended limitation under section 153 inapplicable. As a result, the draft assessment order, DRP directions and the final assessment order were held to be void ab initio and liable to be quashed. The appeal was allowed. [AY. 2016-17]

Tubacex Prakash India P. Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 130 ITR 77 (Mum.) (Trib.)

S. 144C: Reference to dispute resolution panel Assessment-Validity-Final assessment order pursuant to Dispute Resolution Panel's directions-Order time-barred once Dispute Resolution Panel's order held non est for want of document identification number-Extended time under section 144C(13) inapplicable-Final assessment order bad in law. [S. 116, 144C, 153, 253, 254(1)]

The assessee's appeal, delayed on account of the covid-19 pandemic and erroneous advice from its tax advisor regarding the correct appellate forum, also raised an additional legal ground challenging the validity of the DRP's and AO's orders for want of a valid computer-generated document identification number as mandated by CBDT Circular No. 19 of 2019. On appeal, the Tribunal condoned the delay in light of the SC's covid-19 limitation extension and the reasonable cause shown, admitted the additional ground being a pure question of law, and held that the circular, being binding on all Income-tax authorities, mandated allotment and quoting of a document identification number in the body of every communication, which requirement was not satisfied by a handwritten number generated subsequently and not traceable in the Department's database; it further held that the DRP's directions were not merely internal communications but were required to comply with the circular, that the DRP itself constituted an Income-tax authority bound by such circulars, and that since its directions were non est for want of a valid document identification number, the extended limitation under section 144C(13) for passing the final assessment order did not apply, rendering the final assessment order barred by limitation, void ab initio, and liable to be quashed. S. 144C: Reference to dispute resolution panel-Non-resident-Draft assessment order-Validity of assessment-Eligible assessee-[S.144C(15)(b), 147, 148]

Assessee being a non-resident and, therefore, an "eligible assessee" under s. 144C(15)(b), final assessment order under s. 147 passed by the AO without issuing a draft assessment order under S 144C(1) lacked jurisdiction and was null and void. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

DRP-The assessment order is quashed-Non-service of order is not invalid.[S.80IA, 144C (13)]

Held that the computation made by the AO in the final assessment order is not in conformity with the directions issued by the DRP, more specifically, in respect of the claim of deduction made under s. 80IA pertaining to the transfer of steam, and therefore, the assessment order is liable to be quashed. Order passed by the TPO complying with the directions of the DRP is not a fresh or an adverse order nor one requiring appeal or compliance by the assessee and, therefore, the order of the AO is not invalid for the reason that it was not served on the assessee. S. 144C: Reference to dispute resolution panel-Assessment-Limitation-Assessing Officer required to complete assessment within one month from the end of the month in which directions of Dispute Resolution Panel received-Directions of Panel dated 21-9-2021-Final order passed on 18-11-2021, after due date of 31-10-2021-Time-barred-Final assessment order void ab initio. [S. 92CA(3), 92CA(5), 144C(5), 144C(13)]

The DRP issued directions under section 144C(5) on September 21, 2021. As per section 144C(13), the AO was required to complete the assessment in conformity with the Panel's directions, without providing any further opportunity of hearing to the assessee, within one month from the end of the month in which the directions were received, i.e., on or before October 31, 2021. However, the AO passed the final assessment order only on November 18, 2021, after the TPO had given effect to the Panel's directions on October 29, 2021. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the final assessment order having been passed beyond the statutory time limit prescribed under section 144C(13), the order was expressly time-barred, and consequently null and void ab initio, and was liable to be quashed. The Dispute Resolution Panel initially granted partial relief in respect of transfer pricing adjustments relating to software development and IT-enabled services. Subsequently, on the assessee's rectification application, the Panel rectified its directions and the Transfer Pricing Officer passed a consequential order reducing the transfer pricing adjustment to nil. The Tribunal held that although the final assessment order had been passed before the rectified directions, the Assessing Officer was duty-bound to give effect to the revised directions of the Dispute Resolution Panel and the consequential order of the Transfer Pricing Officer. The Assessing Officer was directed to delete the entire transfer pricing adjustment. (AY. 2020-21).

S. 144C: Reference to dispute resolution panel-Directions issued without Document Identification Number (DIN)-CBDT Circular No. 19/2019 violated-Order null and void. [S. 92CA]

The Dispute Resolution Panel issued its directions without quoting a valid computer-generated Document Identification Number (DIN) as mandated by CBDT Circular No. 19 of 2019. The Tribunal held that compliance with the Circular was mandatory and the subsequent communication assigning a handwritten DIN could not cure the defect. As the directions were issued without a valid DIN, they were deemed never to have been issued and were liable to be quashed as null and void ab initio. The merits of the transfer pricing adjustment were left open. (AY. 2017-18).

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Assessment-Directions of Dispute Resolution Panel-Final assessment order passed beyond statutory time-limit-Order barred by limitation and void.[S. 144B, 144C(5), 144C(13)]

The final assessment order was passed more than six months after receipt of the Dispute Resolution Panel's directions. The Tribunal held that under section 144C(13), the Assessing Officer is required to pass the final assessment order within one month from the end of the month in which the directions are received. The Transfer Pricing Officer's effect order could not extend the statutory limitation. Accordingly, the final assessment order passed beyond the prescribed period was barred by limitation and void ab initio. (AY. 2018-19).

Held that the issuance of an assessment order against a non-existent entity was a substantive illegality going to the root of the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer. It could not be cured by section 292B, which only addresses procedural errors. Once the draft order was found to be vitiated for being passed in the name of a non-existent entity, mere reference to the correct name in the DRP order or final assessment order would not cure the foundational illegality, and thus, the draft assessment order would be void-ab-initio.(AY. 2012-13)

S. 144C: Reference to dispute resolution panel-Dividend-Rate of tax-Singapore tax resident-Mistakenly offered non-taxable capital gains and excess tax on dividends-Assessing Officer and DRP ignored correction request, citing lack of jurisdiction-Tribunal held that DRP can examine such issues under section 144C(8)-Tribunal restored matter to Assessing Officer to verify and allow relief if admissible-DTAA-India-Singapore [S.9(1)(i) 144C(8), Art.10]

Assessee, a tax resident of Singapore, filed its return of income. During assessment proceedings, assessee claimed that it had wrongly declared non-taxable long-term capital gain (LTCG) and short-term capital gain (STCG) in return of income and paid tax. Assessee also claimed that it had wrongly offered dividend income to tax at 20 per cent as against 15 per cent as per Article 10 of India-Singapore DTAA. Assessing Officer had not considered assessee's claim and passed the order. DRP also rejected assessee's claim, holding that it had no jurisdiction to admit additional evidence or additional claims. On appeal, the Tribunal held that, in terms of the Explanation to section 144C(8), DRP is empowered to examine issues arising out of assessment proceedings even if such issues do not form part of variations proposed by the Assessing Officer. Since the assessee had made its claim both before the Assessing Officer and before the DRP, in the interest of justice, the matter was to be restored to the file of the Assessing Officer with a direction to verify the assessee's claim and grant relief, if found admissible, in accordance with law. S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Revised direction of DRP-Rectification order-Assessing Officer is directed to consider rectified direction of DRP and corresponding revised giving-effect order of TPO and delete entire TP adjustment. [S.92C, 154]

On objections filed by assessee, DRP granted partial relief to assessee and thereby TPO in giving effect order reduced TP adjustments. Based on direction of DRP and giving effect order, Assessing Officer passed final assessment order. In meantime, assessee against DRP direction filed rectification application which was accepted and DRP passed rectification order. TPO in revised giving effect order reduced TP adjustment to nil, however, no effect was given by Assessing Officer in final assessment order to comply with revised direction of DRP and revised effect giving order by TPO. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer is bound to give effect to revised directions of DRP and giving-effect order passed by TPO. The AO is directed to consider rectified direction of DRP and corresponding revised giving-effect order of TPO and delete entire TP adjustment made in respect of software development and IT-enabled services. The Assessee, an NRI sold his property, however, did not file his return of income declaring capital gain. Assessee's contention was that the land sold was an agricultural land beyond 12 kms from the local limits of the municipality, hence was not a capital asset as per S. 2(14)(iii) of the IT Act. AO rejected the same and made addition. The same was challenged before the DRP. The DRP upheld the addition. On appeal, the Assessee argued that the order passed by the AO is barred by limitation because, as per the provisions of s. 153(2) of the Act, no order of assessment or reassessment, or recomputation shall be made under s. 147. The Tribunal held that the assessment order is barred by limitation as the extended time limit u/s 153 sub section (4) is not available to the AO in the case of Assessee.

Held, dismissing the appeal, that based on the estimated gross profit for the assessee's group of companies and considering the subsequent assessment orders passed by the Assessing Officer for the later assessment years, the Tribunal had confirmed the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) restricting the gross profit rate of the assessee at two per cent. for the assessment year 2012-2013. The Tribunal's order is affirmed.(AY.2012-13)

S. 145 : Method of accounting-No rejection of books of account-Deletion of addition by the Tribunal based on three years' gross profit is affirmed.[S.260A]

Held that in the absence of any other objection found in the books of account of the assessee, there survived no room to reject the books of account of the assessee. Consequently, there was no intrinsic evidence to enhance the gross profit rate. Once the books of account of an assessee had been accepted, the Assessing Officer should have remained within the confines of his powers and not disturbed the gross profit rate, as that would remain in the nature of the result of the book entries and not an original entry by itself. It was not open to the Assessing Officer to reject the gross profit rate disclosed by the assessee. The finding on the acceptance of books of account of the assessee recorded by the Commissioner (Appeals) was not even specifically challenged. The order of the Tribunal was affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 145: Method of accounting-Project competition method-Civil construction-Order of the Tribunal estimating the income at 8% on the basis of receipts was deleted-Directed the Assessing Officer to accept the project competition method. [S. 260A]

Assessee was engaged in the business of civil construction on a contractual basis. In respect of contract receipts from one, Gujarat Torrent Energy

Corporation Ltd (GTEC) assessee followed the project completion method. Assessing Officer noticed that assessee received payment from GTEC on the basis of RA bills raised from time to time and estimated profit at 8 per cent on the basis of receipts from GTEC and made an addition to assessee's income. Tribunal confirmed the addition made by the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Court held that the assessee had followed the project completion method since 1992 in respect of the project with GTEC. Since the assessee had followed a method of accounting which was well recognised and was in consonance with standard accounting practice, more particularly as per revenue recognition note forming part of accounts, which disclosed that assessee had followed the project completion method as per Accounting Standard-7 in respect of the said contract, the addition made on account of income estimated at 8 per cent was deleted. S. 145: Method of accounting-Undisclosed sales-Search-Estimated yield ratio-Low yield-Rejection of books of account not valid-Order of Tribunal deleting the disallowance was affirmed.[S.69A, 132, 145(3), 260A]

Assessee was engaged in the manufacturing of re-rolled products such as heavy steel structural, joist and girder. A search was conducted upon assessee. Assessing Officer made an addition on account of unaccounted sales based on an estimated production yield of 89 per cent in assessee's SMS Division. Assessing Officer adopted an estimated yield ratio and proceeded to calculate alleged unaccounted production and consequential sales, resulting in substantial additions. He further held that books of account were not reliable and rejected the same while resorting to section 145(3). Commissioner (Appeals) found that variation in consumption of sponge iron and power in SMS Division was reasonable as the same was certified by a registered valuer. He thus concluded that there was a complete absence of any adverse material against assessee which could support the allegation of the Assessing Officer towards unaccounted production presumed based on the alleged low yield declared by the assessee, and thus rejection of books of accounts was invalid. Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT A). On appeal, the High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Trading in jewellery-Discrimination-Parliament power to prescribe accounting standards-Provision making it mandatory for assessees to adopt first-in-first-out or weighted average cost method for valuing stock and inventory-Provision applicable to all assessees-Not an unreasonable classification or arbitrary-Valid in law-Valuation of stock-Closing and opening stock to be valued by applying same method of valuation-Valuation of stock-Enhancement by revaluation of stock not real income in hands of assessee-Provision making it mandatory for assessees to adopt first-in-first-out or weighted average cost method for valuing stock and inventory with retrospective effect Amendment meant to give relief to assessees who regularly adopted first-in-first-out to value stock in assessment year 2017-2018 and to save returns from being declared incorrect or invalid-Not applicable to assessees who did not apply first-in-first-out to value opening and closing stock but followed last-in-first-out consistently and had filed returns before amendment Income-tax Act, 1961-Mercantile system of accounting and consistently valuing stock and inventory using last-in-first-out method-Department to either accept valuation of both opening and closing stock based on last-in-first-out method or permit assessee to value stock applying first-in-first-out or weighted average cost method. [S. 145A Art, 14, Art. 226, 145A Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (II), cl. 16.]

Court held that Parliament, after a wide range of consultation from all stakeholders and based on the recommendations of the committee to maintain uniformity in accounting the income and valuing stock, made clause 16 of the Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (II) mandatory for the adoption of the first-in-first-out or weighted average cost method. This mandatory provision applies to all assessees, and, therefore, making clause 16 of the Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (II) mandatory for adopting the first-in-first-out or the weighted average cost method as the only method for valuing the stock and inventory does not suffer from the vice of unreasonable classification or manifest arbitrariness as violative of article 14 of the Constitution of India. Court also held that, an assessee is entitled to adopt one or the other method of computation of its income if a particular method has not been made mandatory. The assessee was applying the last-in-first-out method of accounting as the standard for valuing the closing and opening stock up to April 1, 2017. Before April 1, 2017, there was no mandatory provision for adopting one or another method of Accounting Standards. The statute also did not mandate only one method of valuing the closing and opening stock. The assessee was free to adopt any one of the Accounting Standards as notified by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India. By applying the method of first-in-first-out with effect from April 1, 2017, the income of the assessee had increased to the tune of Rs. 51.07 crores without any real income. Therefore, the stipulation under clause 16 of the Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (II) for the adoption of the first-in-first-out or weighted average cost for valuation of stock and inventory could not be applied in the assessment year 2017-2018 for the valuation of the opening stock, as the opening and closing stock of the year were to be valued by applying the same methodology. The Department was to either accept the valuation of both opening and closing stock, for the assessment year 2017-2018, based on the last-in-first-out method or permit the assessee to value his stocks by applying the first-in-first-out or weighted average cost method.(AY. 2017-18) (SJ)

Assessee filed its return of income declaring income on the basis of regularly maintained books. Assessing Officer, invoking section 145(3) passed assessment under section 144, applying net profit rate of 10 per cent. Commissioner (Appeals) and Tribunal c held that no infirmity in books was noticed and application of net profit rate was based on pure guesswork. On appeal by the revenue the Court held that, since no defect or discrepancy was recorded in the books maintained for the relevant year, Assessing Officer could not have invoked section 145(3) and applied the net profit rate of 10 per cent solely on the basis of assessee's earlier declaration before the Settlement Commission. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

The assessee, a solicitor, declared receipts from profession of Rs. 1,82,02,958 for AY 2007-08, while TDS certificates showed receipts of Rs. 5,56,88,817. The AO added the difference (Rs. 3,74,85,859) to the assessee's income. The assessee explained the excess represented advances received from clients, part of which were spent on behalf of clients for counsel fees, stamp paper, court fees, payments to the rent controller, bank drafts in lieu of stamp duty/registration, etc., and provided head-wise particulars. The Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal accepted the explanation. Held: No adverse inference under s. 145 could be drawn; the monies were held in a fiduciary capacity and payments made as agent were not disputed. The differential amount was not assessable as income.(AY. 2007-08)

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Project completion method-Real estate development-Assessing Officer followed percentage completion method-Alternative remedy-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 43CB, 144B, ICDS III & IV, Art. 226]

The assessee followed the project completion method, but the AO assessed income using the percentage completion method, issuing a demand under section 143(3) r.w.s. 144B. The assessee filed a writ claiming the order taxed income already accepted in AYs 2015-16, 2018-19, and 2023-24, and was thus without jurisdiction. The High Court noted there was no challenge to constitutional validity, nor breach of natural justice, and that all arguments went to merits, which could be raised in appeal before the CIT(A). The Court reiterated that writ jurisdiction cannot be used to bypass effective alternative remedies under the Act. Petition dismissed.

Assessee consistently followed LIFO method till AY 2017-18. Retrospective amendment by Finance Act, 2018 requiring FIFO could not be applied to opening stock of AY. 2017-18 as returns were filed earlier. Court directed that both opening and closing stock for AY 2017-18 be valued under same method, either LIFO or FIFO/Weighted Average, and quashed contrary notices. (AY. 2017-18)

S.145 : Method of accounting-Wastage-Suppression of weight or production-Addition is made on presumptions and assumptions-Addition affirmed by the Tribunal is deleted-Scarp value of discarded cables-Addition is deleted.[S. 41(2), 256(2)]

On reference the Court held that the assessee's books of account, trading account and the stock had been found to be within the satisfaction of the authorities and the Assessing Officer had accepted them. The wastage of 13.04 per cent. shown by the assessee had been held to be higher than the wastage shown for the previous year, i. e., 8.66 per cent. That the stock production and consumption records were maintained under the supervision of the Excise authorities and there was no objection raised with regard to the stock. The Assessing Officer had not objected to the total stock maintained and could not have proceeded on a presumption alleging higher wastage shown by the assessee. Addition affirmed by the Tribunal is deleted. As regards the addition of profit under section 41(2) on the sale of copper wire, the assessment order and the explanation given by the assessee showed that the assessee had explained each and every question of the Assessing Officer. The reasoning given by the Assessing Officer for such an addition was found to be contrary to the facts. The Tribunal had erred in assessing the additions made by the Assessing Officer.(AY. 1983-84)

The Assessing Officer rejected the books of account, estimated profit at 8% of turnover, made an addition for the difference between the turnover reflected in Form 26AS and the books, and taxed the waiver of the principal amount of the loan. The Tribunal held that the rejection of books was unjustified as the assessee consistently followed the mercantile system and recognised revenue on the percentage-completion method in accordance with Accounting Standard-7 and ICDS. The reconciliation with Form 26AS was duly explained. It was further held that waiver of the principal amount of the loan under a one-time settlement was neither taxable under section 41(1) nor under section 28(iv), as only the principal was waived and the interest had already been paid. Accordingly, all additions were rightly deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Rejection of books of account-Estimation of profits-Addition was deleted-Delay in appeal-Delay of 880 days-Delay was condoned. [S. 144, 145(3),253, Rule 46A]

Where, during remand proceedings, the Assessing Officer verified the books of account and categorically reported that no discrepancies existed, the rejection of books under section 145(3) and estimation of profit by the lower authorities became unsustainable. The FIR and forensic audit also supported the assessee's contention that he was merely a signatory and had no control over the transactions. Accordingly, the additions were deleted. Further, the delay of 880 days in filing the appeal, attributable to the assessee's bona fide reliance on his former employer and the COVID-19 period, was condoned in the interest of substantial justice. Assessee challenged additions made on account of revenue recognition/de-recognition in the books of account. Issue stood concluded against assessee by the judgment of the jurisdictional High Court in Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd v. ACIT (2017) 396 ITR 667(Bom)(HC). Assessee's Special Leave Petition and Review Petition before the Supreme Court had also been dismissed. Therefore, additions made on account of revenue recognition/de-recognition were liable to be sustained (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15, 2015-16)

Housing & Urban Development Corporation Ltd. v. DCIT [2025] 128 ITR387 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 145: Method of accounting-Accommodation entries-In the case of accommodation entry providers, commission income is to be estimated only on the sales turnover and not on the aggregate of purchases and sales-The ITAT directed the AO to estimate commission income at 0.05% of the total sales turnover. [S. 145(3), 153A]

The assessee was found, on the basis of DRI investigation, to be engaged in providing accommodation entries through bogus purchase, sale and loan transactions. The AO rejected the books under section 145(3) and estimated commission income at 0.5% of the aggregate of purchases and sales turnover. The CIT(A) reduced the commission to 0.05% of the aggregate of purchases and sales and estimated commission on loan transactions separately. The Tribunal, following its earlier decision in Sanjay Kumar Choudhary (HUF) v. ACIT (ITA No. 1367 /Ahd /2017 dt 29-12-2021(Ahd)(Trib)) held that commission in the case of accommodation entry providers is to be estimated only on the sales turnover and not on both purchases and sales, since profit is linked with sales. Accordingly, it directed the AO to estimate commission income at 0.05% of the total sales turnover in the case of all the assessees. The technical ground challenging the limitation was treated as not pressed. Assessee's appeals were partly allowed and Revenue's appeals were dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

Held that the assessee, a builder and developer, has been consistently following the project completion method and the same has been accepted by the Revenue in the past; the advances received by the assessee from the customers cannot be taxed in this year when the same have been adjusted in the sales in asst. yr. 2018-19, and the income declared in that year has been accepted. GP rate disclosed by the assessee in the relevant year being more than its average GP rate of the past six years, the gross profit declared by the assessee is to be accepted, and no addition on account of GP rate is called for. Purchase invoices were produced before the Assessing Officer; hence there is no violation of R.46A. Since the assessee's books of accounts have been rejected by applying s. 145(3) and the gross profit has been estimated on the basis of past history of the assessee at a certain percentage; the books results are deemed to have been the claim of the assessee to allow ERP software expenses as revenue expenditure cannot be accepted. S.145: Method of accounting-Project-completion method-Real estate developer-Sale proceeds recognised only upon obtaining completion certificate and handing over possession, not during year under consideration-No sales effected or possession handed over during relevant year-Ad hoc addition based on registration of sale deeds not justified-Allocation of common expenses among group companies based on business volume accepted by Department in earlier years-Project-completion method regularly followed-No discrepancy pointed out in audited accounts-Ad hoc disallowance not justified. [S. 43CA,143(3)]

Assessee, engaged in real estate development and following the project-completion method of accounting, had its sale proceeds of 54 properties brought to tax by AO applying a net profit rate of 10% on the ground that the registration deeds executed amounted to complete transactions, and 10% of total expenses allocated among group companies for common projects were disallowed for want of substantiation, both of which additions were upheld by CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the documents in respect of the 54 units were mere agreements to sell containing termination clauses, with substantial consideration received and possession handed over only in the subsequent year, and since AO had accepted the applicability of section 43CB and the project-completion method without invoking section 263, the ad hoc addition based on registration of sale deeds was not justified and was to be deleted; it further held that the allocation of common expenses such as salaries, marketing and administration among group entities based on business volume, consistently accepted by the Department in earlier years and capitalised to WIP under the regularly followed project-completion method, could not be disallowed on an ad hoc basis without pointing out any discrepancy in the audited accounts, and the disallowance was accordingly deleted. S. 145: Method of accounting-Books of account-Rejection-Delay in furnishing details due to data corruption-Rejection unjustified-Estimation of income deleted.[S.139, 145(3)]

The Assessing Officer rejected the books of account and estimated the profit without recording any finding that the accounts were incorrect, incomplete or that the method of accounting was not regularly followed. The Tribunal held that the delay in furnishing the list of sundry creditors was due to data corruption, which was subsequently rectified, and the audited books were duly verified. As the rejection of books was unsustainable, the consequential estimation of income also failed, and the Assessing Officer was directed to accept the returned income. (AY. 2013-14).

S. 145 : Method of accounting - Rejection of books of account-Failure to produce records due to factory seizure-Estimation of gross profit-Reduction by Commissioner (Appeals) upheld-Assessing Officer doubting only trading results-No defect found in manufacturing segment-Overall rejection of books unjustified.[S. 145(3)]

For the assessment year 2014-15, the assessee failed to produce supporting records as its factory had been seized by banks. The Assessing Officer rejected the books of account and estimated gross profit. The Commissioner (Appeals) substantially reduced the addition after considering the losses suffered due to industry recession, export rejections and closure of the factory. The Tribunal held that the assessee had failed to challenge the rejection of books or produce evidence before the Assessing Officer and found no reason to interfere with the reduced addition sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals). For the assessment year 2013-14, the Assessing Officer doubted only the losses from the trading segment but proceeded to reject the entire books of account and estimate gross profit for the whole business. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of any defect in the manufacturing segment, rejection of the entire books was unwarranted, and there was no basis for estimating overall gross profit. The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) deleting the addition was upheld. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15).

S. 145: Method of accounting-Percentage Completion Method-Consistently followed and accepted-Revenue cannot substitute completed sales method without pointing out defects-Percentage Completion Method-Double taxation avoided-Addition deleted.

The Assessing Officer rejected the Percentage Completion Method consistently followed by the assessee and taxed the entire sale value of flats sold during the year. The Tribunal held that the Percentage Completion Method is a recognised method of accounting and had been consistently accepted by the Revenue in earlier years. In the absence of any defect in the books of account or change in facts, the Assessing Officer was not justified in discarding the method. The Tribunal found that the profits from the project had already been recognised in earlier years under the Percentage Completion Method and formed part of the closing work-in-progress. Taxing the entire sales again in the year under consideration would result in double taxation. Accordingly, the deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld (AY. 2015-16).

The assessee changed its accounting policy by recognising premium received on long-term health and personal accident policies over the duration of the policies instead of in the year of receipt. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer was entitled to determine the correct taxable income notwithstanding the accounting treatment adopted and upheld the addition. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

S. 145: Method of accounting-Business expenditure-Real estate developer-Project completion method-Percentage completion method-Consistent method of accounting accepted in earlier year-No justification to change method-Addition deleted.[S. 28(i),37(1), Accounting Standard-9.]

The assessee, a real estate developer, consistently followed the project completion method and recognised revenue in accordance with Accounting Standard-9. The Assessing Officer rejected the method and computed income under the percentage completion method by applying Accounting Standard-7 and ICDS-III. The Tribunal held that the assessee's method had been accepted by the Revenue in the preceding assessment year and there was no change in facts warranting a departure. The Assessing Officer had also wrongly adopted the wholesale value of the entire project, including the co-owners' share, though revenue was to be divided among all co-owners. As the project ultimately resulted in a loss, the addition made on the percentage completion method was rightly deleted. (AY. 2018-19).

Held that the assessee-firm, engaged in the business of real estate development, had been consistently following the Project Completion Method (PCM) for recognition of revenue since inception, and the same method had been accepted by the Department in all preceding assessment years. Assessing Officer applied the Percentage Completion Method (PCM) and made an addition. Tribunal held that since the Assessing Officer had not pointed out any change in factual or legal position warranting deviation from consistently accepted accounting method, the application of the Percentage Completion Method by the Assessing Officer was unjustified. Tribunal also held that an addition made merely on the basis of a statement recorded during survey proceedings under sections 133A/131, without any corroborative evidence, could not be sustained. Assessee was awarded a contract for the collection of toll operation, maintenance and improvement of the Mumbai-Pune section of NH-4 for a period of 15 years for a consideration of Rs. 918 crores. Assessee has shown net consideration, reducing the estimated expenditure, as per the agreement. Assessing Officer, while completing the assessment, had considered only the income of the assessee but had failed to consider cost estimated to be incurred towards maintenance and improvement. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the Assessing Officer had not considered the cost estimated to be incurred towards maintenance and improvement, the addition made by the Assessing Officer was to be deleted. Tribunal also held that if income was to be recognised on a gross basis, then reduction towards estimated expenditure was also to be allowed. (AY. 2006-07)

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Capital or Revenue-b Loss and gain on account of revaluation of outstanding dues payable to its overseas sister concern due to fluctuation in valuation of foreign exchange-Rule of consistency is followed.

Assessee earned gain on account of revaluation of outstanding dues payable to its overseas sister concern due to fluctuation in valuation of foreign exchange. Assessee claimed that if loss due to foreign exchange fluctuation was treated as capital in nature, gain on similar transaction should also be treated as capital in nature and, therefore, foreign exchange fluctuation gain offered as income in impugned assessment year should be withdrawn. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since offer of gain as income was consistent with accounting principle regularly followed by assessee, claim of withdrawal of such income could not be accepted. Tribunal also held that the rule of consistency applied not only to the assessee, but also to the revenue and, in case gain derived is treated to be in the character of revenue, loss arising in similar account also has to be treated as revenue account. Assessee was engaged in the business of hiring earth-moving equipment and commercial vehicles. Assessee claimed depreciation on tipper at a rate of 30 per cent, which was allowed in the course of assessment proceedings. The assessment was reopened on the ground that the claim of higher depreciation on tipper-plant and machinery was not admissible at 30 per cent as the assessee was in the business of mining and not in the business of motor lorries on hire, and accordingly, depreciation was not allowable. High Court quashed the reassessment proceedings. SLP of revenue was dismissed as the revenue could not explain the delay of 244 days. (AY. 2016-17)

Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice on the ground that assessee earned income of a certain amount from commercial activities, and receipt of said sum indicated that assessee's activities were commercial in nature. He held that the assessee would not be entitled to exemption under section 11. On writ, the Court held that there was not even an allegation with respect to uncontrolled discretion or authority to open or maintain a commercial institution in object of assessee. Also, there was not even a finding to that effect. High Court held that merely because there were certain receipts received by the assessee while conducting its charitable activities, irrespective of their quantum, said receipts could not be treated as income from commercial activities, and further, since reasons to believe indicated non-application of mind, the same could not be sustained. SLP filed by the revenue was dismissed on account of a delay of 445 days, which was not satisfactorily explained. (AY. 2007-08)

S. 147: Reassessment-Borrowed satisfaction-Underinvesting of export-Justice M.B. Shah Commission's Report-SLP delay of 411 days-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [S. 148, Art. 136]

Assessee received notice under section 148 of the Act. The first reason was under-invoicing of exports based on Justice M.B. Shah Commission's Report. The second reason was based on the decision of Apex Court thereby declaring mining leases in Goa expired on 22-11-2007, and subsequent activities considered to be illegal. The third ground was that income had escaped assessment because of failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts. This reason was again based on Justice M.B. Shah Commission's Report and observations of the Apex Court. High Court held that the third report of the Justice M.B. Shah Commission contained merely an expression of its opinion, and it lacked finality as well as authoritativeness, and only based on the expression of such opinion by the Commission, there could not be any prima facie belief which could be recorded by the Assessing Officer, without any independent material for the purpose of re-opening. Further, for making disclosure truly and fully assessee must have knowledge of it and since case of Goa Foundation v. Union of India in Writ Petition (Civil) No. 435 of 2012 declaring expiry of mining leases in Goa on 22-11-2007, was decided by Apex Court on 21-4-2014, such fact could not have been disclosed by assessee in return filed in year 2009-10. Moreover, since reasons for re-opening clearly went to show that Assessing Officer, except borrowing information from the third report of Justice M.B. Shah Commission, failed to record independently to his own satisfaction any reason so as to direct re-opening of assessment, reopening was not permissible. Court held that there was a delay of 411 days in filing the SLP, which had not been satisfactorily explained, and there was no good ground to interfere with the order. SLP filed was dismissed on account of delay and also on the merits. (AY. 2010-11 & 2011-12)

On writ High Court held that the assessee-company acquired injectable business from its holding company as a going concern on slump sale basis and claimed depreciation on amount of goodwill, since issue regarding depreciation on goodwill was duly considered during course of regular assessment, Assessing Officer would not have any jurisdiction to reopen assessment. Court also held that the assessee-company acquired injectable business from its holding company as a going concern on slump sale basis and claimed depreciation on assets, since assessee had purchased entire unit on slump sale basis without values being assigned to individual assets and assessee had also obtained valuation report from expert valuer, who had physically verified each of assets to derive value, assessee was entitled to claim depreciation on assets on basis of valuation made by an expert valuer of each of assets forming part of sale consideration. held that the there was no dispute with regard to the assessee entering into transaction of slump sale to acquire the injectable unit as a going concern from its holding company. Therefore, all the notices under section 148 were to be quashed and set aside. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2015-16 to 2017-18)

When the case came up for hearing, dismissing the appeal, that there was no proof of the costs having been paid as directed by the court and by letter dated February 19, 2019, the Deputy Commissioner had informed the assessee's counsel that the assessment records in the case of the assessee for the assessment year 2004-2005 were not traceable. [[S.2(47), 68, 148, Art. 136]

The Hon'ble High Court noted that the Reassessment notice was founded on a bogus 'sauda chitthi' produced by the complainant, which was neither stamped, registered, nor notarized and was merely on plain paper. Further, it was found that no sale deed was executed and the properties continued to stand in the assessee's name and possession was never handed over. The High Court held that there was no transfer of a capital asset under section 2(47) and hence no income accrued either by way of sale deed or handing over possession; therefore, there was no escapement of income due to failure to disclose material facts. Reopening beyond four years was invalid and notices under section 148 were quashed. SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay of 846 days as well as on merits. (AY. 2014-15)

The Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice alleging that the entire amount of ₹98.04 lakhs received by the assessee through Client Code Modification (CCM) constituted undisclosed income. The assessee argued that the AO had incorrectly treated the gross amount as taxable, whereas only the net income from buy and sell transactions-₹77,280-was relevant for tax purposes. High Court agreed, noting that the AO had failed to apply his mind to the nature of contra entries and had erroneously added both buy and sell amounts to compute escapement of income. The Court emphasized that only the net gain could be taxed and, since ₹77,280 was below the basic exemption limit for the year, no income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. SLP dismissed on grounds delay not satisfactorily explained. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Income from other sources-Share premium-Change of opinion-No new tangible material-SLP of revenue dismissed.[S. 56, 68, 148, Art. 136]

The Assessee had issued shares at a premium; the crux was whether assessment for AY 2015-16 could be reopened solely due to a perceived exponential hike in share premium when that very issue had been scrutinized originally. The Assessee contended that since the rise in share premium was already considered in the original assessment, reopening without new/tangible material was barred as a mere change of opinion.

The Revenue sought reopening under Sec. 148 citing substantial increase in share capital due to high share premium, contending income chargeable under Sec. 56 required reassessment. The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court set aside Sec. 148 notice, holding that reopening on the same issue without fresh material constitutes a change of opinion. The Hon'ble Supreme Court found no ground to interfere under Article 136 and dismissed the Revenue's SLP, in favour of the Assessee. (AY. 2015-16)

The High Court held that the petitioner had the alternate remedy of an appeal before the appellate authority and did not entertain the petition. Being aggrieved by the order of the Hon'ble Delhi High Court, the Assessee filed a special leave petition before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court upheld the decision of the High court as an alternative remedy was available with the Assessee and refused to intervene in the matter.(AY. 2020-21)

S.147 : Reassessment-Cash credits-Information from GST data-Non-furnishing of sales and purchase register-Assessee furnished GSTR-I and complete audited books-Reopening unjustified-Dealy of 233 days-SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [S. 68,148, Art. 136]

Parmukh Exports is a partnership firm engaged in trading cotton yarn and textile machinery spare parts. The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment citing information from the Insight Portal about huge sales and purchases which were alleged to be unexplained transactions and that the assessee failed to furnish its sales and purchase register despite having substantial sales and purchases. However, the assessee had already provided Audited Financial Statements, Form GSTR-1 details, ledger accounts, and other supporting documents, demonstrating that all transactions were duly recorded and reconciled with the information reported to the GST department. The Gujarat High Court held that reopening was based on non-application of mind of the AO and the mere ground of non-submission of the sales/purchase register was unjustified when comprehensive records were already on file. The Revenue challenged this decision before the Supreme Court through a Special Leave Petition.

The Court noted a delay of 233 days in filing the petition and dismissed the SLP on grounds of delay as well as lack of merit.(AY. 2018-19)

S. 147: Reassessment-Unexplained money-Unaccounted sales-Information from Partner's Complaint-Opportunity of Hearing-No Reliance Solely on Third-Party-Writ not maintainable-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S.69A, 148, Art. 136]

The reassessment notice was issued on the basis of a complaint received from one of the partners of the assessee firm, alleging that the firm had understated its actual business receipts with an intent to defraud the Revenue. Based on the information received and the replies furnished by the assessee, the AO passed the reassessment order, making additions to the income of the assessee. The assessee challenged the reassessment proceedings on the ground that they were based on third-party information, namely the complaint, and that no opportunity of cross-examination of the complainant had been granted. The Court noted that the AO had not recorded any statement of the complainant or any other witness, nor was the reassessment order passed solely on the basis of the complaint. Instead, the Assessing Officer had examined the documentary material evidencing the firm's transactions, all of which had been made available to the assessee. The assessee was also afforded an adequate opportunity to explain and substantiate how the alleged undisclosed sales were accounted for in the books of account. The Court held that, sitting in writ jurisdiction, it could not undertake an appreciation or analysis of factual material and documentary evidence. Accordingly, no jurisdictional error was found in the reassessment proceedings. The writ petition was dismissed, with liberty granted to the assessee to avail the alternate statutory remedy by way of appeal. SLP of assessee dismissed. (AY.2016-17, 2017-18)

Assessee filed its return of income which was selected for scrutiny and an assessment order under section 143(3) was passed, making additions under section 68. Thereafter, a reopening notice was issued on the ground that assessee had not disclosed fully and truly all facts and details with regard to trading done through a broker and, as such, the return was processed under section 143(1), and no scrutiny assessment was passed under section 143(3). On writ the Court held that at time when assessment order under section 143(3) was passed, Assessing Officer was in possession of transaction details through broker and thereby, same could not be made subject matter again to assume jurisdiction under section 148 for reopening of assessment, as same had already been concluded-High Court held that reopening notice was nothing but change of opinion and same was not permissible in law. On SLP by revenue, the Court dismissed the SLP on account of delay of 308 days in filing SLP by revenue and delay had not been satisfactorily explained, and also on merits. (AY. 2011-12)

Assessee was in business of shares and stock broking. Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 on ground that assessee had wrongly claimed loss on certain trades as business loss and thus income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. High Court held that since issue involved in reasons for reopening were examined at time of original assessment, it was a clear case of change of opinion which did not constitute justification and/or reasons to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. S.147: Reassessment-Unexplained investments-Low tax effect-Report of enquiry Commission-Miscellaneous application-Three weeks' time to get further instructions was to be granted to both assessee and revenue as jointly prayed for.[S. 268A, Art. 136]

Assessee-company was engaged in the business of trading iron ore. On the basis of the report of enquiry of the Commission, the Assessing Officer found that the assessee was one of such companies which quoted an export price lesser than base value. Assessing Officer made an addition on the basis of the aforesaid report of enquiry of the Commission. Tribunal held that when the assessee had purchased 'royalty paid' iron ore from the open market and exported the same at ALP, no addition could be made to the assessee's income on the basis of the aforesaid report.

The High Court held that the Tribunal, having taken into consideration the applicability of report of the Enquiry Commission, the findings recorded by Tribunal could not be interfered with.

Special Leave Petition against said impugned order was dismissed on ground of low tax effect. Revenue filed a Miscellaneous Application against said order and pointed out that present should be treated as an exception under relevant Circular issued by Ministry of Finance. There was threshold limit for proceeding under section 147 but this was only trigger point for initiating necessary proceedings against assessee in due course. S. 147 : Reassessment-Within four years-Donation-CSR expenditure-original assessment completed u/s. 143(3)-Change of opinion-Reassessment notice quashed-SLP of revenue dismissed for failure to explain gross delay of 268 days. [S. 37(1), 80G, 147, 148, Art. 136]

Assessee-company engaged in business of manufacturing lubricating oils, filed its return of income for AY 2017-18. It disallowed a portion of CSR amount as per Explanation 2 to section 37(1), and additionally, it claimed a deduction under section 80G for donations to approved trusts/institutions. Return was selected for scrutiny, and after providing necessary details, an assessment order was passed, allowing claimed deductions. Subsequently, AO issued a notice for reopening assessment, alleging income escapement. On writ, the Court observed that before finalizing original assessment order, AO had raised queries to which assessee responded adequately, clarifying that deductions were only claimed under section 80G, supported by donation receipts and AO had examined all these aspects while passing original assessment order. Further, documents on record also indicated that Audit Wing of Department raised certain objections to original assessment order including issue of deduction under Section 80G and AO justified the original assessment order to the audit party without accepting any adjustment to the same. In view of the above, it could be said that the assessment was reopened on the basis of a change of opinion and it lacked tangible information on the basis of which AO allegedly formed the requisite belief. Accordingly, the reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection were quashed by the Hon'ble High Court. Revenue filed SLP against the High Court order.

SLP of the revenue was dismissed for failure to explain gross delay of 268 days. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 147: Reassessment-Second Notice issued pursuant to liberty granted by Supreme Court relating to foreign assets-Supreme Court decision in first round of litigation binding on parties sufficient material existed to justify reassessment-SLP dismissed-Corporate guarantee; the issue is kept open. [S. 68, 92B, 147, proviso (ii), 148, Art.136, 142]

Dismissing the appeal the Court observed that reassessment proceedings initiated on the ground that the United Kingdom subsidiary of the assessee, which raised funds through step-up coupon convertible bonds was a sham entity and the funds were actually the assessee's unaccounted income, the Supreme Court held that there were sufficient reasons to believe that income had escaped assessment, but found that the assessee had made full and true disclosure of all material facts and quashed the notice under section 148 issued after four years without establishing non-disclosure, but granted liberty to the Department to issue a fresh notice taking the benefit of the second proviso to section 147, which related to income in relation to assets located outside India. Based thereon, the Assessing Officer issued a second notice for reassessment stating that the assessee had a financial interest in the United Kingdom-based company which had raised funds, and that the genuineness of the entire transaction was dubious and relying upon the findings of the Dispute Resolution Panel that the subsidiary companies were sham transactions and that the assessee had routed its undisclosed income through these companies.

On a writ petition the court held that the findings rendered by the Supreme Court bound the parties including the assessee, that the decision to reopen was based on the liberty which was granted by the Supreme Court in the first round of litigation and only placed the Department under the obligation of informing the assessee of their intent to invoke and rely upon the second proviso to section 147, that sufficient material existed before the Assessing Officer which would have justified the power to reassess being exercised, and that the court would not review the findings rendered in this context in the first round of litigation. The appeal dismissed. However the question whether the undertaking furnished by the assessee would amount to a corporate guarantee or a mere obligation which could be viewed as an international transaction was kept open for the assessee to canvass before the Assessing Officer.

Art.136]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the entire scheme of reopening of assessment under section 147, in search cases had undergone a change by paradigm shift of the reassessment proceedings replacing the earlier block assessment and thereafter the provisions under section 153A read with section 153C for reopening of the past assessment years on the basis of material found during the course of search were applicable. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the satisfaction note could not be said to be a communication as contemplated under Board Circular No. 19 of 2019 ((2019) 416 ITR (St.) 140) and even otherwise it could be regularized by issuing a copy of the satisfaction note with a document identification number which would be a procedural aspect for issuing notice under section 148 which already contained the document identification number and date. That there was no time limit prescribed for initiation of reassessment proceedings and sending the proposal for reopening the assessment under section 147 on the basis of search and seizure under section 132. The time limit provided in Board Circular No. 24 of 2015 ((2016) 380 ITR (St.) 32) was prescribed for recording satisfaction of the Assessing Officer of the searched person either at the time of initiation of proceedings against the searched person or during the course of assessment proceedings or immediately after assessment proceedings were completed. Such guidelines would not apply for recording satisfaction note in the case of a person other than the searched person on the basis of materials seized or found during the course of search. On writ High Court quashed the reassessment notice on the ground that the Assessing Officer could not have formed a prima facie belief that there was escapement of income in view of the material available on record during the original assessment proceedings and the notice was based on a change of opinion on the part of the Assessing Officer on borrowed satisfaction without there being any fresh tangible material to prima facie material. On writ the High Court held that the assessment was merely based on change of opinion which did not constitute justification or reasons to believe that the income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. There was a specific contention that the Assessing Officer had strongly objected to the audit query and had filed a detailed reply in support of his action of allowing the claim. Thus there was no denial in the affidavit-in-reply and on the contrary it was simply stated that it was matter of record, factual and formal in nature, and therefore, no comments were offered. Reopening beyond four years to recharacterize it as speculation loss under the Explanation to s. 73 was held invalid since the issue had been considered in the original assessment and no allegation of failure to disclose was made. Allowing the petition, that there was no failure by the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts. Reopening of the assessment under section 147 was on an audit objection and there was no tangible material available to conclude that income had escaped assessment. All material particulars had been disclosed by the assessee pursuant to which the order under section 143(3) was passed for the assessment year 2013-2014. The Assessing Officer had proceeded on the ground that the entire expenditure was corporate social responsibility expenditure and had disallowed it placing reliance on Explanation 2 to section 37(1) which was inserted with effect from April 1, 2015 and therefore not in the statute during the assessment year 2013-2014. Explanation 1 was not applicable as corporate social responsibility expenditure was incurred as required by section 135 of the Companies Act, 2013 and its proposed disallowance would not constitute an offence. The Assessing Officer had acted in excess of his jurisdiction to reopen the assessment in the exercise of powers under section 147 read with section 148. The notice issued under section 148 and the order passed under section 147 read with section 144B and consequent notices of demand and penalty were to be quashed.

Allowing the petition, that the Assessing Officer had no reason to believe that the payment made on account of settlement under the agreement with the on-site employees in the United States of America in the class action law suit was a payment towards a penalty imposed and therefore, there was no reason for the Assessing Officer to believe that income had escaped assessment under section 147. The Department had not alleged that the penalty imposed upon the assessee was a part of a sentence in criminal proceedings which if it were, would result in denying the benefit of the deductions claimed. The Assessing Officer had sought to accord a fresh consideration to an issue which was already concluded in the regular assessment proceedings. There was no basis for the Assessing Officer for forming reason to believe and the basis shown on the face of it was totally perverse. The notice issued under section 148 and the order rejecting the assessee's objections were set aside.

Allowing the petition, the Court held that there was nothing on record to show as to what the information relating to the client code modification was, when it was received, and how it would point to any income in the hands of the assessee escaping assessment. Equally, there was not a whisper that the assessee had instructed modification of the client codes. S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Change of opinion-Failure to disclose material facts-Notice not valid.[S. 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that there was nothing to indicate failure to disclose any material fact. Upon examining the order under section 143(3) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, it was clear that the Assessing Officer had considered all documents and accepted the business loss and allowed unabsorbed depreciation to be carried forward to the subsequent years in accordance with the Act. The notice of reassessment was not valid.(AY. 2012-13)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Educational Society-Accumulation of income-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection was quashed and set aside. [S. 11 (2), 14 Art. 226]

On writ the Court held that the assessee-society,in response to the query regarding the accumulation/ deemed application u/s 11(2), as specifically raised by the AO during the original scrutiny proceedings by issuing notices u/s 143(2) and thereafter u/s142(1), answered clearly bringing to the notice of the AO that they had claimed deemed application/ accumulation u/s 11(2) of Rs. 32 Crores and the after being satisfied with the explanation, AO passed his Order u/s 143(3) concluding that the Petitioner being a Trust, the taxable income of the Petitioner was nil.The Court held that there was no failure on the part of the assessee to fully and truly disclose all material facts necessary for AY 2013-14 which would give jurisdiction to the current AO to initiate re-assessment proceedings under Sections 147 and 148 of the Income Tax Act more particularly because admittedly the Section 148 notice has been issued after a period of 4 years from the date of the end of the relevant Assessment Year. The Court also agreed with Petitioner that on perusing the reasons for re-opening the assessment, it can be seen that it is nothing but a change of opinion which wholly impermissible and does not allow the Assessing Officer to reopen the Assessment. It was also held that the power given to the Assessing Officer is not to review the earlier order but only to reassess and both are quite different. Reassessment can only take place (if the first proviso to Section 147 is attracted) when there is a failure to disclose all material facts necessary for that particular Assessment Year. If that jurisdictional requirement is not met, the Assessing Officer has no power to reopen the assessment or issue any notice under Section 148 of IT Act.(AY.2013-14)

Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 on ground that assessee had entered into bogus transactions with one Naresh Jain. Assessee filed objections against said reopening notice contending that it did not know any Naresh Jain and that no financial transactions had ever been entered into with said Naresh Jain during relevant assessment year. Without disposing of said objections, Assessing Officer issued a show-cause notice and passed assessment order in complete breach of principles of natural justice. On writ the Court held that since objections of assessee were not disposed of before passing of assessment order, entire proceedings were vitiated and matter was to be remanded back to Assessing Officer. (AY. 2014-15)

Assessee was in the business of shares and stock broking. Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 on ground that assessee had wrongly claimed loss on certain trades as business loss and thus income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. High Court held that since issue involved in reasons for reopening were examined at time of original assessment, it was a clear case of change of opinion which did not constitute justification and/or reasons to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. During assessment proceedings, the assessee claimed promotional expenses incurred by it on promotional articles distributed to doctors for promotion of assessee's products. Assessing Officer disallowed one-third of such expenses on the ground that recipient details and documentary evidence thereof were not furnished and allowed the balance expenses.

Reopening notice was issued against assessee on ground that entire expenditure on promotional articles should have been disallowed in view of CBDT Circular No. 5 of 2012. On writ, the Court held that it was an admitted position, as per reasons recorded, that the issue was examined during the course of assessment proceedings and one-third of promotional expenses were disallowed and the balance expenses were allowed; the pre-condition of failure to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment could not be satisfied. Failure, if there was any, was on the part of the Assessing Officer for not disallowing entire expenditure earlier, not on assessee. Therefore, reopening amounted to a mere change of opinion. Reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection was quashed. (AY. 2009-10)

Assessee issued compulsory convertible debentures (CCDs) to its subsidiaries. Same was converted into optionally convertible debentures (OCDs). Subsequently, OCDs were redeemed and repaid along with premium on such OCDs to the holding company. Assessee claimed deduction towards premium paid. Assessing Officer allowed the claim. After four years, Assessing Officer sought to reopen assessment on ground that the entire premium amount was paid from securities premium account and not routed through profit and loss account and, thus, the claim of entire amount should have been denied. On writ, the Court held that reasons recorded by Assessing Officer nowhere stated that there was failure on the part of assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment. The Assessing Officer had not disclosed which material facts, according to him, were not fully and truly disclosed by assessee for the relevant assessment year. Accordingly, the notice and order disposing the objection was quashed. (AY. 2014-15)

[S.92C, 143(3), 148, Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income, which was accepted, and an assessment order was passed. The Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice after a period of four years on the ground that the guarantee fee claimed by assessee pertaining to the financial year 2013-14 but booked in the financial year 2015-16 was not allowable in assessment year 2014-15. On writ, the Court held that the reasons for reopening did not allege any failure on the part of assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts anywhere in the assessment. There was no fresh tangible material which would empower the Assessing Officer to reopen assessment. Further, issue of 'guarantee fee' was pending consideration before the Tribunal and thus the Assessing Officer was debarred from initiating reassessment proceedings on that very issue. disposing of the objection was quashed-[S. 68, 144, 144B(6)(xi), 148, Art. 226]

Petitioner filed her return of income in response to notice issued under section 148. Assessing Officer issued a show cause notice-cum-draft assessment order to assessee under section 144 and proposed to make a best judgment assessment under section 144. Assessee sought adjournment of 15 days to reply to notices issued under section 142(1) on the ground of then prevalent Covid-19 pandemic. Assessing Officer did not consider assessee's letter seeking adjournment of 15 days to reply to notices and proceeded to issue draft assessment order giving assessee only 3 days' time to file a reply to such show cause notice cum draft assessment order. On writ the court held that since SOP, as issued under provisions of section 144B(6)(xi), clearly provides a response time of seven days from issuance of Show Cause Notice to assessee to submit his reply, Assessing Officer acted contrary to SOP under section 144B by giving assessee only three days' time to respond to show cause notice, which had resulted in breach of principles of natural justice order is quashed and set aside. The Assessing Officer sought to reopen the assessment on the ground that the assessee had taken huge financial transactions. The Court held that since there was no fresh tangible material on record to justify reopening of the reassessment order passed against the assessee after a period of four years was unjustified and set aside. Assessee-company filed its return of income, which was selected for scrutiny assessment and an assessment order was passed disallowing a certain percentage of expenses on samples given to doctors on ground that the same constituted sale promotion expenses incurred on doctor. Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice against the assessee. On writ, the Court held that the Assessing Officer, in the reasons recorded, had admitted that the issue for which reopening was sought had either been disclosed in the profit and loss account or in the balance sheet. It was also found that reasons based on which reopening was initiated comprised the issue of sale promotion, which was disallowed in the course of assessment proceedings and the issue with respect to export incentives, security deposit and expenses of rationalisation initiatives were not disallowed during the course of assessment proceedings. Since there was no failure on the part of assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment, the reopening notice was quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure to disclose material facts-Capital gains-Reopening would amount to review of the assessment order which is not permissible. [S. 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that where the reasons recorded do not specify any material facts allegedly not disclosed by the assessee and reopening is based only on assessment records already examined in original scrutiny (capital gains), the jurisdictional condition under the first proviso to s. 147 is not satisfied. Reassessment after four years in such circumstances amounts to an impermissible review. Furnishing reasons at the fog end and completing reassessment in haste without properly disposing of objections was also held to be unfair and unconstitutional. Followed Hindustan Lever Ltd. v. R.B. Wadkar (2004) 268 ITR 332 (Bom) (HC) (AY. 2015-16)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that it was only upon consideration of complete disclosures made by the assessee that the original assessment order was passed for the assessment year 2015-2016. The Tribunal for the assessment year 2011-2012, in the assessee's own case, had taken the view that there was no requirement to set off the losses incurred in one unit against the profits of the other unit following the decision of the Supreme Court. The Department had admitted that reassessment proceedings were initiated due to audit objection. No such reason was given to the assessee along with the notice seeking to reopen the assessment under section 147. The jurisdictional parameters for reopening the assessment beyond four years had not been satisfied. Reopening of the assessment was on mere change of opinion. Proceedings to reopen an assessment were not akin to review proceedings. The notice issued under section 148, the draft assessment order and the consequential proceedings were quashed. (AY.2015 16)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that, where during original scrutiny under section 143(3) the assessee had fully disclosed the receipt of dividend from a trust and the claim of investment allowance and the Assessing Officer had examined the same, reopening after four years based on a mere bald allegation of failure to disclose material facts amounted to a change of opinion. On writ the Court held that the assessment was merely based on the basis of change of opinion which did not constitute justification or reasons to believe that the income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. There was a specific contention that the Assessing Officer had strongly objected to the audit query and had filed a detailed reply in support of his action of allowing the claim. There was no denial in the affidavit-in-reply and on the contrary it was simply stated that it was matter of record, factual and formal in nature, and therefore, no comments were offered. Moreover, in view of scrutiny of the issue of disallowance under section 14A of the Act read with rule 8D of the Rules during the regular assessment proceedings, reopening on the same issue would amount to mere change of opinion of the Assessing Officer. The assessee's income for AY 2015-16 was assessed under section 143(3) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 ('the Act'). The assessment was reopened after five years on the ground that leasehold improvement costs and amortization of investments were capital in nature and, therefore, not allowable under section 37(1). The reassessment also questioned the omission of donation disallowance and non-disallowance of interest under section 201(1A). Aggrieved by the reopening, the assessee filed a writ petition before the Hon'ble Bombay High Court.

The Court held that since the reassessment was beyond four years, the first proviso to section 147 applied, requiring the Assessing Officer to demonstrate that the assessee failed to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for the assessment. The original assessment had been conducted through scrutiny proceedings where all relevant facts were disclosed, and the reassessment was based on a mere change of opinion. Additionally, the sanction under section 151 was held to be mechanical and without proper application of mind, rendering it invalid. Accordingly, the reassessment proceedings were quashed as illegal and without jurisdiction.(AY. 2015-16)

The assessee's income for AY 2015-16 was assessed under section 143(3) of the Income Tax Act, 1961('the Act'). The assessment was reopened beyond four years on the ground that the assessee had failed to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment as the assessee had failed to substantiate its payments towards interest on loan taken from the banks, and a proportionate interest deduction was incorrectly allowed. Aggrieved from the re-opening, the assessee filed a writ petition before the Hon'ble Bombay High Court, where it was held that since the reassessment was beyond four years, the first proviso to section 147 of the Act applied, whereby the Assessing Officer has to satisfy the jurisdictional condition that there was failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for the assessment. No such failure was evident, as the reopening was based on information already available in the original assessment. The reassessment was initiated merely on the basis that the predecessor officer had not assessed the income correctly, which is not a valid ground for reopening. Further, the objections raised by the assessee were not rebutted by the Assessing Officer and in absence of rebuttal it shall be presumed that the department have accepted the objections raised by the Petitioner and, therefore, the impugned proceeding is liable to be quashed. Furthermore, the department placed reliance on audit objections that could not justify the reassessment. Accordingly, the Hon'ble High Court quashed the reassessment proceedings as being wholly without jurisdiction, illegal, arbitrary, and liable to be quashed.(AY. 2015-16)

The Assessee filed a return of income declaring a loss. The learned Assessing Officer ("Ld. AO") completed the assessment proceedings under section 143(3) of the Income Tax Act ('the Act') and made a disallowance under section 14A of the Act. Aggrieved, the Assessee filed an appeal before the Hon'ble CIT (A), which was pending for adjudication.

Subsequently, the Ld. AO initiated Reassessment proceedings and issued notice under section 148 of the Act, alleging that the Assessee had given loans and advances to related parties against which no interest income was offered and claimed finance cost as interest on borrowed funds. The Ld. AO held that the proportionate interest expenses were not allowable expenses under section 36(1)(iii) of the Act. Aggrieved, the Assessee filed a Writ Petition before the Hon'ble High Court against the Reassessment proceedings.

The Hon'ble High Court observed that the Reassessment is on the basis of materials which were already available with the Ld. AO, in finalising the assessment proceedings under section 143(3) of the Act. The Ld. AO has acted on a complete change of opinion on the same material and/or intending to have a review of the Assessment Order, which was not permissible under law. On both the counts, namely on failure of the Ld. AO in adhering to the mandate as contained in the first proviso to section 147 of the Act and on exceeding his jurisdiction as conferred by the said provision by forming an opinion on the same material, which was available with him in the course of assessment proceedings, was wholly an impermissible exercise of jurisdiction; the notice and thereby reopening were quashed.(AY. 2013-14)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure to disclose material facts-Purchase of land-Reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection is quashed and set aside.[S.69C, 147, 153A, Art. 226]

Assessee created a special purpose vehicle (SPV) company namely, Allcargo Logistics Limited, in joint venture with two companies which purchased land for project of shipbuilding yard undertaken by assessee. A search was conducted upon the Allcargo Logistics Limited group of companies, which also included the assessee being MD of a company. During the search, it was found that the said SPV of the assessee had issued cheques to various entry providers as capital expenditure for purchase of land, but the same was received in the form of cash by the assessee. The assessee had engaged Vasudev Ramdas Thacker, a land broker, for acquiring land and obtained bogus bills for generating cash by way of accommodation entries. Accordingly, assessment was completed under section 143(3) read with section 153A. Thereafter, a reopening notice was issued to the assessee on the ground that Allcargo Logistics Limited had issued cheques to Vasudev Ramdas Thacker and cash was received by the assessee, but the assessee did not disclose said transaction.

On writ, the Court held that there was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly material facts during regular assessment. Non-furnishing of details of bank account maintained by a different legal entity, namely, Allcargo Logistics Limited, that had been made basis for reopening of assessment by assessee could not be said failure on part of assessee to make full disclosure. There was no tangible material with the Assessing Officer, which would form a basis for his 'reason to believe' that payments made to Vasudev Ramdas Thacker resulted in generation of cash, which ultimately found its way to the assessee. On facts, reopening of notice and order disposing of the objection is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Change of opinion-Internal audit-Failure to dispose of objections-Reopening of assessment based on change of opinion and internal audit objections is without jurisdiction-Notice is quashed. [S. 147, 144B, Art. 226]

The petitioner, Crystal Pride Developers, a partnership firm engaged in real estate development, filed its original return for AY 2014-15, declaring a loss of Rs. 5,53,822/ which was assessed by the AO. However, on 27.03.2021, beyond the four-year limitation period, the AO issued a notice under Section 148 for reopening the assessment, alleging that Rs. 7.64 crores had escaped taxation. The petitioner contended that the reopening was bad in law as it was beyond four years and based on a mere change of opinion, as the issue of partner withdrawals and interest-free loans had already been examined in the original assessment. Additionally, the reopening was triggered by an internal audit objection, which is impermissible.

On writ the Court relied on Teerth Developers v. ACIT 2024 SCC OnLine Bom 3621, CIT v. Kelvinator India Ltd [2010]320 ITR 561(SC), KSS Petron Pvt. Ltd v. ACIT 2016 SCCOnline Bom 13550 and GKN Driveshafts

(India) Ltd v. ITO 2003 1 SCC 72 to hold that reassessment beyond four years requires a failure to disclose material facts, which was absent in this case. Further, the court noted that the AO failed to dispose of the petitioner's objections separately before passing the reassessment order, violating the principles of natural justice and GKN Driveshafts (India) Ltd. Consequently, the reassessment notice was quashed as being without jurisdiction. (AY.2014-15)

The assessment of the petitioner was completed under Section 143(3) of the Act. The petitioner challenged the reopening notice, arguing it lacked jurisdiction and was based on materials already considered during the original assessment. The notice under Section 148 was issued after four years from the end of the relevant assessment year. The petitioner filed a writ petition challenging the notice and order disposing of the objection. Allowing the petition the Court held that reasons for reopening were based entirely on records already available during the original assessment. This amounted to a change of opinion, which is not permissible under the law. The Court observed that assessments after four years require strict compliance with the conditions in the first proviso to Section 147. Accordingly, the reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection is quashed. Relied on Hindustan Lever Ltd. v. Even from the record, it was evident that in the statement of income, minimum alternate tax credit details were filed. No details or further inquiry was made on the claim. Allowing the petition, the Court held that queries were raised during the original assessment, which included questions concerning the sale of the subject land. More particularly, answers were furnished by the assessee, along with the relevant documents and material sought by the Assessing Officer. Clearly, the transaction was examined, and thereafter, an assessment order dated February 28, 2014 was passed. Therefore, it could not be said that the subject transaction was not scrutinised by the Assessing Officer. The Department's contention that the original assessment order did not disclose any reasoning was untenable in law, as an assessee has no control over how the assessment order is framed. Therefore, this was a case of a change of opinion that cannot form the basis of reassessment. Court also held that the sanction was granted without application of mind. The reassessment notice and order disposing the objection were quashed. (AY.2011-12)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Non application of mind-Change of opinion-Notice and order rejecting objections quashed and set aside [S. 68,143(3), 148,Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Assessing Officer had mechanically recorded that the return was processed only under section

143(1) which itself suggested that he had recorded reasons in a mechanical manner and with no application of mind. At the time when the assessment order under section 143(3) was passed, the then Assessing Officer was in possession of the details of the transactions done through the entity DC and these could not be made the subject matter again to assume jurisdiction under section 147 of the Act for reopening of the assessment, since it had already been concluded. Reopening of the assessment under section 147 on the basis of the same details was nothing but a change of opinion which was not permissible in the eyes of law. The notice issued under and the order rejecting the assessee's objections were quashed and set aside.(AY. 2011-12)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Stamp value-Information regarding enhanced stamp value of property purchased by assessee, was before the Assessing Officer at the time of making assessment-Reopening of assessment to assess amount enhanced beyond was not justified.[S. 56, 148, Art. 226]

Assessee purchased a property which was shown in the return of income at certain value. Registering Authority, however, demanded stamp duty on the guideline value of said property, which was much higher than the value disclosed by the assessee. Assessing Officer made an addition considering the guideline value of the property. The assessee filed an appeal against the decision of the Stamp Authority to enhance the guideline value of the property. In appeal, the stamp value of the property was further enhanced. Assessing Officer reopened the assessment to assess the amount of difference between the enhanced guideline value and the original guideline value. On writ, the Court held that since reasons furnished for reopening indicated a differential amount omitted to be considered, it was clear that information was available either in the form of an order of the Stamps

Authority or in form of an endorsement in sale deed, which would have been produced for inspection before re-assessment was completed and therefore, reopening of assessment beyond period of four years was not justified. Reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection were quashed. (AY. 2014-15) (SJ)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Second round of notice-Change of opinion-No failure to disclose material facts-Notice and order disposing of the objection are quashed. [S. 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that once the assessee has disclosed all the material and primary facts, truly and fully before the Assessing Officer, it is for the Assessing Officer to draw the requisite inferences from those primary facts. The onus on the assessee cannot be extended beyond the true and full disclosure of such facts. The power of the Assessing Officer to reassess an income chargeable to tax which has escaped assessment is permissible in light of the pith and substance enshrined in section 147, but allowing the authority to review the decision taken during the original assessment proceedings would be violative of the mandate of this section.(AY. 2011-12)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Cash credits-Failure to disclose material facts-Reassessment notice is held to be valid.[S. 148, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the debit and credit entries were the primary basis for proceeding with reassessment. During the course of the hearing, the assessee had undisputedly conceded that the transactions had been carried out between the parties mentioned. The assessee had not been able to allude to any enquiry either expressly or indirectly conducted by the Assessing Officer in the earlier assessment proceedings qua the issue under consideration, which could suggest that the present proceedings were merely based upon a change of opinion. Thus, the Assessing Officer could not be said to have traversed beyond its mandate to assume jurisdiction under section 147 of the Act. (AY. 2011-12)

S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Bad debts-Change of opinion-No new facts-Notice and order disposing of the objection is quashed. [S. 36(1)(vii), 148, Art.226]

Held, that in the original assessment for the assessment year 2015-2016, notice had been issued calling upon the assessee to tender specific details relating to the issue of bad debt and non-performing assets in view of section 36(1) (vii) and section (viia) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. In response to the notice, a detailed reply was forwarded by the assessee on October 16, 2017 and thereafter, after having been satisfied, the Assessing Officer had not made any addition on this issue and passed an assessment order. The Assessing Officer had not thought it fit to make any addition with regard to the claim of Rs. 24.63 crores, and as such, when the material was very much available and accepted by the Assessing Officer while passing the assessment order, now to reopen that issue again was based upon a change of opinion. Hence, the notice dated March 26, 2021 and the order dated November 9, 2021 were liable to be quashed. (AY.2015-16)

Allowing the petition the court held that issue with regard to rise in share premium was discussed during the course of assessment proceedings and the said issue was well within the mind of the then Assessing Officer at the time of scrutiny assessment. In view thereof, it would not be now permissible for the Department to reopen the concluded assessment proceedings on the same issue and details. No new or tangible material had come into the possession of the Department which was not truly and fully disclosed by the assessee at the time when the assessment proceedings were concluded. Accordingly, the notice under section 148 of the Act seeking reopening of the concluded assessment was based on nothing but a mere change of opinion. Allowing the petition the Court held that the assessee-company acquired injectable business from its holding company as a going concern on slump sale basis and claimed depreciation on amount of goodwill, since issue regarding depreciation on goodwill was duly considered during course of regular assessment, Assessing Officer would not have any jurisdiction to reopen assessment. The Court also held that the assessee-company acquired injectable business from its holding company as a going concern on slump sale basis and claimed depreciation on assets, since assessee had purchased entire unit on slump sale basis without values being assigned to individual assets and assessee had also obtained valuation report from expert valuer, who had physically verified each of assets to derive value, assessee was entitled to claim depreciation on assets on basis of valuation made by an expert valuer of each of assets forming part of sale consideration. held that there was no dispute with regard to the assessee entering into transaction of slump sale to acquire the injectable unit as a going concern from its holding company. Therefore, all the notices under section 148 were to be quashed and set aside.(AY. 2015-16 to 2017-18)

Allowing the petition the Court held that there was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts, as all relevant details and agreements had been placed on record during the original assessment proceedings. The reopening was thus held to be based on a mere change of opinion, which is impermissible. Accordingly, the reassessment proceedings were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2003-04)

S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Alleged bogus purchases-Unexplained expenditure-Full disclosure-Reason to suspect-Order of Tribunal quashing the reassessment order was affirmed. [S.69C, 148, 260A]

The AO initiated reassessment proceedings based on information received from the investigation wing. The AO initiated the proceedings on the ground that the genuineness of purchases was doubtful. However, while doing so, the AO accepted the corresponding sales transactions entered into with the same parties as well as with other parties, thereby acknowledging that the assessee was carrying on genuine business activities.

The Court held that the reopening was sought on the basis of a mere suspicion. The Court held that reassessment can be initiated only on the basis of "reason to believe" and not "reason to suspect", and that mere suspicion of possible escapement of income does not justify reopening of a completed assessment. The High Court further noted that there was no failure on the part of the assessee to fully and truly disclose all material facts necessary for the assessment. The transactions relating to purchases and sales had already been scrutinised in the original assessment under section 143(3) and were not disputed by the Revenue.

The High Court also observed that the Tribunal failed to appreciate that the Assessing Officer had concluded escapement of income without properly considering the material already available on record. Additionally, the statements recorded during the search were retracted within one month, and neither the Assessing Officer nor the CIT (A) dealt with the issue of such retraction. Accordingly, the reopening of the assessment was held to be invalid, and the reassessment proceedings were quashed. (AY.2011-12,2012-13, 2013-14)

Assessee-company was engaged in the business of trading in shares, securities, equity and currency derivatives, mutual funds, etc. Assessee filed its return of income, which was accepted and an assessment order was passed. The Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice against the assessee on the ground that assessee had traded in a penny stock company and said transactions were sham transactions done only to create an adjustment or a set off in books of account and same was assessee's own money which was routed through closely held penny stock and assessee had entered into these transactions to evade payment of due taxes. On writ, the Court held that information provided by the Investigation Wing was of a general nature and it was more in the nature to flag trading transactions in listed stock of a penny stock company as against credible and definite information that all transactions in shares of the penny stock company were sham transactions. Further, there was no indication that this information was applicable or related in any manner to assessee. There was also no indication of a range of sharp increase in price or movement of price of shares of the penny stock company during the relevant period. Information did not disclose period during which share prices of the penny stock company were stated to have widely fluctuated. Information clearly furnished no reason for Assessing Officer to believe that assessee's income for relevant assessment year had escaped assessment. On facts, notice and order were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2011-12)

The AO issued a reopening notice on the ground that assessee got said money from Rupak Developers Pvt Ltd as a beneficiary in the form of bogus LTCG/STCG. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. Tribunal set aside the order of the Assessing Officer, holding that the case was reopened on very vague reasons. On appeal by revenue, the Court held that the Assessing Officer had material to show that said company was actually used for providing accommodation entries to various beneficiaries in the form of bogus LTCG on sale of penny stock shares. Further, as per the survey conducted by the Investigation Wing in the case of Rupak Developers Pvt Ltd it was found that no business activity was carried out by said company. Court held that since the assessee had failed to establish the genuineness of the transaction, creditworthiness of the company, which was found to be a shell company with no business activities, reopening was done for valid reasons. [S. 37(1), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b), Art. 226]

The assessee, a joint venture company of GAIL and NTPC, had filed its return for AY 2013-14 declaring loss, which was assessed under section 143(3). The assessee had claimed expenditure under the head "Wages and salaries", including Rs. 6.29 crore pertaining to earlier years, on the ground that the liability crystallised during the relevant previous year pursuant to a retrospective salary revision circular issued by NTPC in respect of seconded employees. The Assessing Officer sought to reopen the assessment beyond four years alleging excess claim of expenditure. On writ, the High Court held that the conditions of section 149(1)(b), as substituted by the Finance Act, 2021, were not satisfied since the alleged escaped income was not represented in the form of an asset, the wages and salaries account being only a nominal account. Further, since the original assessment was completed under section 143(3), reopening beyond four years was barred in the absence of any failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts. The assessee had specifically disclosed in its accounts that the wages and salaries included prior period liability arising on account of retrospective revision of salaries of seconded employees, and the liability had crystallised during the relevant year. Accordingly, the order passed under section 148A(d), notice issued under section 148 and the reassessment proceedings were quashed. (AY. AY. 2013-14)

The assessee had claimed deduction of ₹6,54,75,440 twice, firstly by reducing the said amount from sales and thereafter again claiming it as a deduction under other allowable expenditure. The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment beyond four years on the ground that there was failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment. The assessee was unable to demonstrate either before the AO or the Writ Court that it was not a case of double deduction. The High Court held that the reasons recorded for reopening were relevant and based on tangible material indicating escapement of income due to double deduction. Since the assessee had made a wrong claim and had not made full and true disclosure during the original assessment, the conditions for reopening beyond four years were satisfied. The Court also noted that the assessee had already availed the statutory appellate remedy before the CIT(A) and, having failed in the writ petition, could not reagitate the same issues. The assessee was at liberty to contest the merits of reopening before the appellate authority. Accordingly, the writ appeal was dismissed and the order of the Single Judge was affirmed. Dismissing the petition the Court held that although materials were disclosed during the course of assessment, the prima facie fact reveals that the deduction was wrongly claimed twice in the primary material and contains incorrect particulars. There was no proper declaration of income in the return of income. The AO cannot be faulted while reopening the Assessment and overrule the objection of the assessee. Further, Explanation to s. 147 makes it clear mere filing of information is not sufficient. (AY. 2014-15)(SJ)

On an appeal against the order of single judge, the division bench held that where reassessment proceedings were initiated solely on the basis of an inadvertent error in Form 10CCB, in which the chartered accountant mentioned the date of grant of licence to work as the date of commencement of commercial production, the High Court held that such an error could not justify reopening of assessment. The date of licence can never normally be the date of commencement of business, and the mismatch in Form 10CCB itself showed that the mistake was bona fide and not motivated by any intention to suppress material facts. Since there was no failure on the part of the assessee to make a true and full disclosure, the Department was not entitled to invoke the extended limitation of six years under the proviso to S. 147. Further, reassessment was finalized without issuance of mandatory notice u/s 143(2), violating principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the reassessment notice and the order rejecting objections were quashed. Writ appeals are dismissed. (AY. 2002-03 to 2004-05)

On writ allowing the petition the Court held that the appraisal report was available before the Assessing Officer during the original assessment. The assessment order was passed based on materials seized during search and seizure operations including the ledger and cash book of different years found in the Tally data of the assessee and in the wake of the fact that the assessee had failed to produce any books of account, ledgers, bills, vouchers and any other Supporting evidence substantiating his case. From the record, it was apparent that the initiation of proceedings for reassessment was not based on discovery of new materials which were not available before the Assessing Officer during. The audit objection was based upon the same appraisal report. The notice dated March 31, 2021 and the order rejecting his objection dated February 21, 2022 were accordingly to be set aside. Court also held that in terms of the existing provisions of section 149(1)(b) prior to amendment by the Finance Act, 2021 with effect from April 1, 2021, reassessment proceedings could be initiated beyond the period of four years up to six years counted from the end of the assessment year, i.e., in the assessee's case March 31, 2015 up to March 31, 2021. The notice dated March 31, 2021 under section 148 was not barred by limitation. That under the provisions of section 151 of the Act as they stood before the amendment with effect from April 1, 2021, the Principal Commissioner was fully competent to accord permission for reopening of assessments beyond the period of four years as prescribed under section 149(1)(b). That the Department had made a categorical statement that the Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 of the Act by digitally signing the notice on March 31, 2021 at 7.01 p.m. The moment he put his digital signature on the notice in the specified online portal of the Department, it went out of his hands to the centralised online application unit of the Income-tax Department and, therefore, it was beyond the control of the Assessing Officer. It was the software on the online portal, to which the Department had no access, which automatically delivered the notice at the e-mail address of the assessee. Therefore, the notice under section 148 issued on March 31, 2021 at 7.01 p.m. was within the prescribed time limit of six years as provided under section 149(1)(b) of the Act. It was only the generation of the document identification number by the online portal that had been done on April 1, 2021. The notice was not barred by limitation though it may have been uploaded on the portal on April 1, 2021.(AY. 2014-15)

Allowing the writ appeal the Court held that the notice of reassessment had been issued beyond the period of four years. In terms of the proviso to section 147, the assessing authority had to establish as a precondition, that the invocation of larger limitation of six years was on account of the failure on the part of the assessee to file a proper return of income or to make a full and true disclosure of all material facts. The assessee had filed the return of income. The original order of assessment contained unambiguous findings to the effect that all materials required by the assessing authority to arrive at a proper conclusion in regard to the claim of bad debts, were available before the authority. No new tangible material had been noted or cited by the assessing authority to justify the reassessment, that too, beyond a period of four years. The Department had not brought on record any material to establish failure of the assessee to make a full and true disclosure. Hence, the assumption of jurisdiction under section 147 was bad in law.(AY. 2009-10)

[S. 80IA(7), 139, 148, Form 10CCB, R.12, Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer's reasons for reopening referred solely to the failure to digitally file the audit report in Form 10CCB. Failure to digitally upload a form, when the audit report had in fact been furnished and was available for scrutiny, could not be equated with failure to make a full and true disclosure under section 147; therefore, reassessment notices dated March 26, 2019, and subsequent reassessment proceedings for AYs 2013-14 and 2014-15 were invalid. The Department issued notices under section 148 on the basis that a Singapore entity had invested in the assessee. S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Agricultural land-Capital gains-Adventure in the nature of trade-No new material-Re assessment notice and order disposing the objection were quashed. [S. 2(14)(iii)(b),28(i), 45, 143(3), 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the assessee had not claimed the sale consideration of the agricultural land as capital gains, but had at all times asserted the land in question to be falling beyond the municipal limits and, therefore, beyond the provisions of section 2(14)(iii), though the Department had contended that there was no evidence produced in support of any agricultural activity. The assessee's contention had been supported by the report of the Income-tax Officer (Intelligence). The Assessing Officer does not refer either to the report of the Income-tax Officer (Intelligence) nor to the submissions of the assessee. It was a colourable exercise of power. When an authority was empowered to exercise and pass orders in terms of the Act, it had to remain within the four corners of the manner in which the power was required to be exercised. Once the basis for reopening the assessment was under section 147 for non-disclosure of income under capital gains and non-disclosure of sources of investment, the Assessing Officer had no authority in law to pass order holding that income had escaped assessment, on account of "adventure in the nature of business". The notice and order were quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

The assessee disclosed F&O losses in return, which were examined in scrutiny. Reopening after four years was initiated solely on insight portal information without independent verification. The Court held this to be Assessee-firm entered into transactions in Futures & Options (F&O) trading which resulted in loss. Such loss was duly reflected in the profit and loss account Assessment was completed under section 143(3). After four years, the Assessing Officer issued reopening notice against assessee based on information received from the insight portal that the assessee had entered into non-genuine transactions in F&O trading. On writ the Court held that the assessee had disclosed particulars of loss under head of 'F&O' in its return which was subsequently accepted by the department. No verification of material on record was made by Assessing Officer. There was no failure on part of assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for its assessment, hence, the notice and order disposing of the objection were quashed and set aside. S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure to disclose material facts-Business expenditure-Discovery appreciation plan (DAP)-Material for reopening assessment had been gathered from assessment record of subsequent year-Reasons recorded stated that the claim was allowed by mistake-Change of opinion-Notice and order disposing the objection is set aside. [S. 37(1),143(3), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 on the ground that assessee had debited an amount on account of DAP paid to employees, which was in the nature of dividend and not admissible as expenditure and also production and translation expenses of a certain amount could not be allowed. The material for reopening assessment had been gathered from assessment record of subsequent year. On writ, the Court held that there was no whisper, what to speak of any allegation, that assessee had failed to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for its assessment and because of that failure, there had been an escapement of income chargeable to tax. The Assessing Officer specifically recorded in reasons that it was a mistake which resulted in under-assessment of income. Thus, it was manifest that the Assessing Officer had not attributed the alleged escapement of income to any failure on the part of assessee but to a mistake and lack of verification on his own part. Court held that the reasons that prompted Assessing Officer to reassess and disallow expenditure incurred on DAP only demonstrated a change of opinion on the part of the Assessing Officer, which could not form the basis of reopening assessment. Accordingly, the notice and order disposing of the objection is set aside. (AY. 2011-12)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the notice was issued on the basis of borrowed satisfaction without having any live nexus with the facts on record when transactions in question were duly reflected in books of account in the form of audited balance-sheet as well as in reply to notice under section 142(1). On the facts, since there was no failure on the part of assessee to disclose truly and fully all material facts during regular assessment, the notice and order disposing of the objection are quashed. S.147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Material facts not considered-When the assessee's objections to alleged foreign receipts are not adequately considered by the revenue authorities in response to a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, a remand to the Assessing Officer with directions. [S. 133(6), 148, Art. 226]

The assessee is a partnership firm providing professional services such as auditing, tax consulting, and advisory services. The issue involved is whether the income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for a given assessment year. The revenue authorities issued a notice under section 148, alleging that certain foreign receipts had not been offered to tax.

The assessee contended that none of the alleged amounts were related to the assessment year in question. Further that a portion of the amounts in question was also never received by the assessee. That some of these amounts were either received in subsequent years or by a different firm. The assessee also requested the relevant details to reconcile the payments, but these details were not provided. Aggrieved, the assessee filed the petition contending that the objections were not considered, and essential information was also not provided.

The Hon'ble High Court found that the revenue authorities had failed to adequately consider the objections raised by the assessee, and thereby remanding the matter to the Assessing Officer laid down the directions to provide the necessary information relied upon for issuing the notice under section 148, and to give the assessee an opportunity for a hearing to consider their objections in detail. That this exercise was to be completed within 12 weeks from the date of receipt of the court's order. (AY. 2012-13)

Assessing Officer reopened assessment in case of assessee beyond four years on the ground that the assessee's bank account was credited by three transactions on various dates from account of Sarathak Enterprises and same amount was debited on the same dates to account of Munjal B.Shah and he opined that said amount remained unexplained in hands of assessee. However, communication whereby reasons recorded were supplied, no satisfaction was recorded by Assessing Officer that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. From the facts, it was evident that the amount was received by assessee as partners' capital and had a valid source. Assessee had utilised amount for repayment of a loan obtained from Munjal B.Shah.High Court held that question of escapement of income chargeable to tax did not arise and thus, the Assessing Officer having misdirected himself in invoking powers to reopen assessment, the reassessment proceeding initiated beyond four years was set aside. The agreement referred to in the reasons recorded was dated May 9, 2013, which pertained to the assessment year 2014-2015, and that could not be a basis for escapement of income for the assessment year 2015-2016. The notice under section 148 was quashed and set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 147: Reassessment-Return filed in response to notice of reassessment. Inadvertent error in stating that the return was under Error should be ignored-Reassessment order passed without considering the submission-Order and consequential notices were quashed and set aside.[S. 139, 148, 292B, Art.226]

On writ, the court held that the facts on record showed that the assessee did file a return of income in response to the notice issued under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and had also furnished appropriate responses and material pursuant to the notices issued under section 142(1) by the Assessing Officer. After the case of the assessee was transferred to the Assessing Officer dealing with International Taxation, the information which was already sought for and submitted was called for yet again. An inadvertent error was committed by the assessee in reflecting that the return of income had been filed under the category under section 119(2)(b) instead of selecting the option under section 148. This could have been treated to be a return validly filed by invoking the provisions of section 292B of the Act, especially when the assessee claimed that the mistake was brought to the notice of the Assessing Officer at the appropriate stage. Consequently, the order of assessment dated April 29, 2022, the notice of demand issued under section 156 of the Act dated April 29, 2022, as also the notice dated April 29, 2022 initiating penalty proceedings under sections 271(1)(c) and 271F of the Act were not valid.(AY. 2015-16)

On writ, the Court held that the assessee had consistently requested the Assessing Officer to furnish the reasons for reopening, which admittedly were never provided to the assessee. Even otherwise, the time granted by the Assessing Officer to the assessee to file its response to the draft assessment order was quite insufficient. Hence, the assessment and notice of demand, both dated March 21, 2022, as well as the notice under section 148 of the Act dated March 30, 2021, were not valid. Held that acknowledgement receipts had been generated by the system and, in the absence of any doubt about the authenticity of such acknowledgement receipts, there was no case made out to doubt the assessee's statement made on oath that the objections were filed not once but twice to the notices issued by the respondents. Accordingly, the order dated July 29, 2022 was made without considering the assessee's objections and based on the improper premise that it was the assessee who had failed to file the objections. Allowing the petition the Court held that the reasons recorded for reopening the assessment were on the basis of material which was available with the Assessing Officer during the course of the original scrutiny assessment proceedings and were not based on any fresh or new tangible material but on a new opinion being formed on the legal provisions. The reply affidavit did not state that the reopening of the assessment for the assessment year 2014-2015 was on the basis of fresh tangible materials, which later on had come to the knowledge of the Assessing Officer and which did not form part of the original assessment proceedings under section 143(3). The contention of the Department, that since the assessment was reopened within the period of four years, the materials which were already available before the Assessing Officer and considered in passing an assessment order under section 143(3) could form the basis of reopening of the assessment on the ground that such materials were ignored in finalising the original assessment, could not be accepted in view of the settled position in law. Unless there was fresh material available with the Assessing Officer to disturb the reasoning which had gone into in finalising the original assessment under section 143(3), the Assessing Officer would not have jurisdiction to reopen the assessment under section 147.(AY. 2014-15)

Assessing Officer issued reopening notice on ground that cash deposits were made by three medical representatives, without any clarification, who were prima facie not even employed by assessee on deposit dates or who had joined just two months earlier. On writ, the Court held that though assessee was called upon to submit details, details furnished were far from clear and quality of explanations belatedly offered by assessee appeared to be in nature of after-thoughts. Since the circumstance that demonetization had been ordered and there was a rush to make cash deposits also could not be ignored, the reopening notice issued against the assessee was justified. S. 147 : Reassessment-Within four years-Issues already examined in original assessment-Change of opinion-Reasons recorded without application of mind-Objections not properly dealt with-Reassessment notice and order disposing objections quashed. [S. 36(1)(vii), 36(1)(viii), 80-IA, 143(3), 148, Art. 226, Companies Act, 2013, S. 129]

The Bombay High Court held that reassessment proceedings initiated within four years were unsustainable where the issues sought to be reopened had already been examined during the original scrutiny assessment under S. 143(3). The Court found that the reasons recorded contained several factual inaccuracies (wrong dates, incorrect figures, and even a deduction under S. 80-IA which was never claimed), showing complete non-application of mind. Further, the foundation of reopening was based on findings which had already been reversed by the CIT(A), leaving no "reason to believe" that income had escaped assessment. The computation of book profit under S. 115JB and deductions under S. 36(1)(vii) and 36(1)(viii) were also matters already scrutinised earlier, and reopening on the same amounted to an impermissible review on a mere change of opinion. The order disposing of objections was also held defective as it failed to deal with the assessee's objections and merely reproduced case law extracts without reasoning. Accordingly, the reassessment notice and the order rejecting objections were quashed. (AY 2016-17)

Allowing the petition the Court held that there was no tangible fresh material based upon which the Assessing Officer could have reason to believe that income had escaped assessment under section 147. The queries particular to the issue were raised by the Assessing Officer and were answered by the assessee, and upon consideration of all these materials, an assessment order was passed under section 143(3). On the ground that some other view was possible, the Assessing Officer could not have changed his earlier opinion and, based upon such change of opinion, issued the notice under section 148 seeking to reopen the assessment. The notice and the order rejecting the assessee's objections were set aside.(AY.2016-17)

[S. 148, Art. 226]

On writ the Court held that the entire assessment order dated December 28, 2018 was based upon the report of the Directorate General of Goods and Services Tax Intelligence, based upon which the Assessing Officer had assessed the income of the assessee. The same report had been considered as a reason for reopening the assessment in the order, which clearly would indicate that it was not a case of mistake, but was a change of opinion, on the same material, which was not sustainable in law.(AY.2016-17)

The assessee, engaged in the real estate business, filed his return of income for AY 2013-14 in September 2013, declaring total income of ₹54,91,960. The assessment under Section 143(3) was completed on 31.12.2015, accepting the returned income. Subsequently, on 29.11.2017, a notice under Section 263 was issued by the CIT, questioning non-disclosure of ₹2,74,94,950 from the sale of six flats, disallowance of interest payments, and unreported house property income. The CIT set aside the original assessment order on 16.03.2018, directing a fresh examination. The AO, in compliance, passed a reassessment order on 14.12.2018 under Section 143(3) r.w.s. 263, assessing income at ₹57,06,250 by making an addition on account of notional rent under Income from House Property. Subsequently, on 25.03.2021, the AO issued a notice under Section 148 to reassess AY 2013-14, prompting the assessee to file a return in January 2022. The reasons for reopening were provided in March 2021, and the assessee objected in March 2022, contending that the same issues were already subject to Section 263 proceedings, making reopening invalid under the third proviso to Section 147. Further he contended that the reopening was based on a change of opinion and that the sanction under Section 151 was not valid. The AO rejected the objections on 11.03.2022, justifying reassessment based on oversight or inadvertence in the original proceedings. Aggrieved, the assessee filed a writ petition; the Bombay High Court quashed the reassessment notices for AY 2013-14 and AY 2014-15, holding that the original assessment order (31.12.2015) no longer existed, as it was set aside under Section 263, making the reopening procedurally invalid. Further, it held that the reassessment was based on the same grounds already examined in 263 proceedings, violating the third proviso to Section 147, and no failure to fully and truly disclose material facts was demonstrated. It also held that reopening constituted an impermissible review of the earlier order, not a valid exercise of reassessment jurisdiction. Accordingly, the court ruled in favour of the assessee and set aside the reassessment proceedings. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15]

S. 147: Reassessment-Within four years-Change of opinion-Alleged double deduction-No failure to disclose material facts-Reassessment is quashed and set aside. [S. 143(3), 148, 149, 151, 36(1)(vii), 37(1), Art. 226]

The assessee filed its original return of income in October 2007 and revised it in March 2009, claiming a deduction of ₹69,88,37,464 for inventories, sundry debtors, loans & advances, and cost of set-top boxes written off against the share premium account pursuant to an amalgamation scheme approved by the Bombay High Court. The case was selected for scrutiny, and the AO passed an assessment order under Section 143(3) on 30.12.2009, disallowing ₹1,00,41,557 on account of bad debts. The assessee's total income was assessed as NIL after adjusting unabsorbed business losses and depreciation. On 30.03.2012, the AO issued a notice under Section 148, stating that the assessee had claimed deductions for amounts already adjusted against the share premium account, resulting in an alleged double deduction of ₹69,88,37,464. The reasons for reopening were provided in May 2012. The assessee filed objections in November 2012, arguing that the issues had already been examined during the original assessment and the reassessment was based on a change of opinion, which is impermissible under the Income Tax Act. He further added that there was no actual double deduction and the AO failed to provide the date of recording reasons, making the reassessment invalid. The AO rejected the objections in January 2013, thus, the assessee challenged the reassessment before the Bombay High Court. The High Court quashed the reassessment notice under Section 148, holding that the same issues were already examined during the original scrutiny assessment, and the reassessment amounted to a change of opinion, which is not valid. It further held that failure to discuss an issue in the assessment order does not mean it was not considered; if the AO raised queries and accepted the assessee's response, reopening on the same issue is not justified, and no failure to disclose material facts was demonstrated. The court also added that the AO did not rebut the assessee's objection that no double deduction occurred, which indicated a lack of valid reasoning for reopening, and the claim was a balance sheet adjustment and not a profit and loss account deduction, making the AO's reasoning flawed. Accordingly, the court quashed and set aside the reassessment notice for AY 2007-08 and the order disposing of the objection. (AY. 2007-08)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Search and seizure-Reasons recorded based on material unearthed during search-Where proceedings are founded on search material, recourse must be taken under sections

153A/153C and not under section 147-Notice issued under section 147 held without jurisdiction. [S. 132, 148, 153A, 153C, Art. 226]

Where reopening proceedings were initiated on the basis of information and material gathered pursuant to a search conducted under section 132 in the case of a third party, the very foundation of the reassessment arose from incriminating material discovered during the search. In such circumstances, the statutory scheme mandates that assessment must necessarily be undertaken under sections 153A/153C, which contain a non-obstante clause overriding sections 147 and 148. The provisions relating to reassessment under section 147 operate in a distinct field and can be invoked only where income escaping assessment is not based on search proceedings. Once the Revenue seeks to rely upon material emanating from a search action, resort to section 147 is impermissible and would result in overlapping of mutually exclusive statutory regimes. Following PCIT v. Abhisar Buildwell (P.) Ltd. (2023) 332 CTR 729 (SC) and concurring with decisions of the Rajasthan and Karnataka High Courts, it was held that since the reopening was founded entirely on search material, proceedings ought to have been initiated under section 153C read with section 153A and not under section 147. Accordingly, the notice issued under section 147 and all consequential proceedings were quashed as being without jurisdiction and bad in law. (AY. 2012-13).

S. 147: Reassessment-Objection disposed along with the assessment order-Order passed without disposing the objection by passing a separate order-Failure to dispose of objections separate order-Reopening notice and reassessment order is quashed and set aside. [S. 80 IA, 142 (1), 143(3),148, Art. 226]

The assessment of the petitioner was completed under Section 143(3) of the Act. In response to reassessment notice, the petitioner filed the return and requested for copy of the recorded reasons. On receipt of the recorded reasons the petitioner filed objections. Respondent issued a notice under Section 148, seeking to reopen the assessment. However, without disposing of the objections, the respondent issued a notice under Section 142(1) on 22.11.2021, directing the petitioner to justify its claims under Section 80IA with supporting documents. The petitioner once again requested to dispose of the objections before proceeding further. However, instead of addressing the objections separately, the respondent issued a consolidated reassessment order which purportedly disposed of the objections while completing the reassessment. Aggrieved by the order, the petitioner filed a writ petition before High Court to quash the notice and assessment order. The Hon'ble Court held that the respondent's failure to dispose of the objections separately before passing the reassessment order is vitiated due to noncompliance with jurisdictional parameters and without jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Court quashed the notice and the reassessment order. The Court also directed the appeal to be withdrawn.

On writ allowing the petition, the Court held that once all materials which were furnished by the assessee were subject matter of consideration in the assessment order being passed under s. 143(3), in such event in the absence of any fresh tangible material, the AO could not have issued a notice under s. 148 to reopen the assessee's assessment for the reason that the AO would not have jurisdiction under the garb of reassessment under s. 147, to reopen the assessee's assessment merely on the basis of change of opinion and/or review the assessment order passed against the assessee. During assessment, the AO raised a query regarding deduction under S.36(1)(viiia). The assessee replied and furnished details. The assessment accepted the position. Subsequently, a notice under s.148 was issued to

A mere change of opinion does not constitute a reason to believe that income has escaped assessment. Reopening on the same facts without fresh material is unjustified, and the notice under s.148 was invalid. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Notice-Subject matter of appeal-Income which is subject matter of appeal, reference or revision-Reassessment notice is not valid [S. 11, 148, Art. 226]

On writ the Court held, that the Assessing Officer has no jurisdiction to assess or reassess any income which is the subject matter of an appeal. Since the grant of benefit of section 11 of the Act was the subject matter of appeal and had been held in favour of the assessee, the notice of reassessment was not valid. The third proviso to section 147 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 provides that the Assessing Officer may assess or reassess such income, other than the income involving matters which are the subject matter of any appeal, reference or revision, which is chargeable to tax and has escaped assessment.

S.147: Reassessment-Amounts of investments not fully disclosed in books of account-Search-Information from public domain-Fishing enquiry-Reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection were quashed. [S.69B, 148, Art. 226]

Petitioners purchased bungalows in a scheme. A search under section 132 was conducted upon one Dr. Dilip Amabalal Modi, wherein loose papers were found and seized, which contained handwritten details of financial transactions of property situated at various places along with bifurcation of cheque and cash payments. On the basis of this, the Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice against petitioners on the ground that they had made cash payments over and above the sale consideration for the purchase of bungalows. On writ the Court held that the Assessing Officer had no other material except seized material which was found during search of residential premises of Dr. Dilip Amabalal Modi and on basis of such information, Assessing Officer had arrived at a prima-facie conclusion that petitioners would have also made payment of on-money over and above sale consideration reflected in sale deed without taking into consideration that each transaction made by petitioner was much earlier than that of transactions of purchase of Bungalow No. 6 made by Dr. Dilip Amabalal Modi in year 2021-22, just prior to search carried out on 16-11-2021. Reliance placed on information found from the public domain was also without any basis, as the Assessing Officer could not have assumed jurisdiction on the basis of such information, which had no live nexus with material available on record in the form of a sale deed, which was executed by the petitioners much prior to the date of search. Valuation report of DVO could never have been the basis for assuming jurisdiction, as the valuation report was only an opinion of the valuer and the same was required to be supported by corroborative evidence to prima facie come to the conclusion that the petitioners must have paid on-money for the purchase of the bungalow. Notices being issued only for the purpose of making a fishing inquiry were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20 to 2021-22)

Assessing Officer issued to the assessee a notice under section 148 dated 17-9-2013 seeking to reopen assessment for subject assessment year for reasons that assessee in lieu of cash had received an accommodation entry from a party Transnational Growth Fund Ltd of Rs. 50 lacs during the year and said entry had been shown in various papers seized during search and seizure action conducted on a party S.K.Jain Group and, therefore, he had reason to believe that the income of Rs. 50 lacs chargeable to tax had escaped assessment-Assessing Officer accepted explanation of assessee and framed an assessment order under section 143(3) dated 30-3-2015. Assessing Officer thereafter issued on assessee another notice under section 148 dated 30-3-2018 seeking to reopen the aforesaid assessment for reasons that search action was conducted on 14-9-2010 in case of K.Jain Group and the record seized indicated that K.Jain Group was involved in providing accommodation entries and assessee was one of beneficiaries of the accommodation entry amounting to Rs. 50 lacs. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that since allegation with regard to source of accommodation entry and amount was similar, both when assessment order dated 30-3-2015 was passed and when notice under section 148 dated 30-3-2018 was issued, it was a clear case of change of opinion and thus invalid in law (AY.2011-12)

The assessee showed all facts and details in the return of income. Neither foundational facts existed nor could it be said that any tangible material was available with the Assessing Officer to justify the exercise of power. Held, dismissing the writ petition, that a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was issued calling upon the assessee to deliver a return in the prescribed form for the assessment year 2012-2013. The authority received information from the Investigation Wing, Kolkata, during the year under consideration that the assessee made transaction in penny stock in the scrips of Twenty First Century (I) Ltd for an amount of Rs. 6,49,000. On the basis of material before it, if the Assessing Officer was satisfied to harbour reasons to believe that there was escapement of income and if on such basis, he had exercised his powers under sections 147 and 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, no fault could be found. S. 147 : Reassessment-Notice-Review of judgment-Disputing deposit of cash in bank account forming ground for reassessment notice-Notice valid.[S. 148, Art.226]

On a review petition by the assessee against the judgment passed in a writ petition challenging the validity of the notices issued under section 148 and section 142(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 contending that the reliefs sought for were not considered while disposing of the writ petition and that it was incumbent on the court to first establish as to whether or not those prayers were made out, dismissing the review petition, that there was no error apparent on the face of the record. While closing the writ petition the court had indicated that since the assessment order did not foist any tax liability on the assessee, as the income of Rs. 1,96,430 declared by him was accepted, the writ petition need not progress any further but had granted the assessee leeway to take recourse to a statutory remedy in accordance with law, in case he was still aggrieved by the assessment order. The reasons for issue of notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 were based on the information from the Department system firstly, that the assessee was a "non-filer" and secondly, that he had deposited cash of Rs. 14,00,000 in his bank account in the financial year 2011-2012 relevant to the assessment year 2012-2013. Allowing the petition, the Court held that the procedure laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of GKN Driveshafts (India) Ltd. v. ITO, (2003) 259 ITR 19 (SC) had to be followed when a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, was issued. The procedure required that on the issue of notice under section 148 of the Act, the Assessing Officer was bound to dispose of the objections raised by the assessee by a speaking order prior to the issue of the reassessment order. Admittedly, the reasons for reopening having been communicated and reply to such reasons having been furnished by the assessee, the Assessing Officer was bound to dispose of the assessee's objections by passing a speaking order before proceeding to pass an order under section 143(3) read with section 147 of the Act.

Court also held that the practical difficulties of the Assessing Officer could be of no reason to condone the non-adherence to the procedure in GKN Driveshafts (India) Ltd. v. ITO, (2003) 259 ITR 19 (SC). Notices and reassessment order were set aside. (AY.2011-12)

Held, allowing the petition, that the reassessment order under section 147 violated the elementary principles of natural justice and, therefore, was unsustainable. Though April 14, 2023, was fixed in the notice dated April 10, 2023, under section 144B, no orders were passed on April 14, 2023, by the National Faceless Assessment Centre, and no further date was fixed. The assessee had filed its reply on May 1, 2023, on the Department's portal. The National Faceless Assessment Centre passed the order on May 2, 2023, without considering the reply of the assessee. The order was ex parte and without application of mind inasmuch as, the reply of the assessee had not been considered at all. In an appeal by the Department against the order of the Tribunal affirming the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) who set aside the order of the Assessing Officer in the context of reopening of assessment of the assessee, the court directed the Department to place on record copies of the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer and of the original assessment order under section 143(3) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Department, after several opportunities to comply with this direction, stated that the original file was not traceable and sought an adjournment. The court granted the Department another opportunity to comply with directions within ten weeks, subject to payment of costs of Rs. 5,000. When the case came up for hearing, the appeal, as there was no proof of the costs having been paid as directed by the court and by letter dated February 19, 2019, the Deputy Commissioner had informed the assessee's counsel that the assessment

Assessing Officer reopened assessee's assessment framed under section 143(3) for reasons that premium on forward contract and options and foreign exchange loss was not actual exchange fluctuation loss but were notional in nature and, thus, same was to be disallowed and brought to tax. S. 147 : Reassessment-With in four years-Interest on borrowed capital-Change of opinion-Full disclosure during original assessment-Reopening held invalid.[S.36(1)(iii), 147, Art. 226]

The Madras High Court held that the reassessment proceedings initiated under section 147 were invalid as they were based merely on a change of opinion and not on any fresh tangible material. The assessee had fully and truly disclosed all primary facts relating to interest paid and utilisation of borrowed funds during the original assessment proceedings, and the Assessing Officer, after raising queries and examining the details, had completed the assessment under section 143(3). The Court observed that once relevant particulars are disclosed and considered, the Assessing Officer cannot reopen the assessment simply because he subsequently forms a different view on the same material. It was further held that the assessor's duty does not extend to disclosing inferences and reopening on the same issue amounts to impermissible review of the original assessment. Accordingly, the reopening was quashed and decided in favour of the assessee.(AY.2006-07)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Within four years-Deemed Dividend-Trade Advances-Credit Balances-Common Shareholding-Reassessment Invalid. [S.2(22)(e), 148, Art. 226]

The AO contended that the assessee had obtained substantial unsecured loans from its amalgamated company in which a common director held a substantial interest, and therefore sought to treat the amount as a deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e). The Court, however, noted that the amounts in question did not represent unsecured loans, but arose from credit balances in running accounts, comprising payment receipts, margins, interest on margins, and trade advances. Such trade-related credit balances were held to be outside the scope of section 2(22)(e). Accordingly, the reassessment proceedings were held to be unsustainable and were quashed and set aside. S. 147 : Reassessment-Within four years-Change of opinion-Depreciation-Survey-Examined during the original assessment proceedings-Reassessment not valid-Omission to pass a speaking order on receipt of objections cannot be considered as fatal.[S. 133A,143(3), 148, Art. 226]

The reopening of the assessment was initiated on the basis of a survey conducted under section 133A, during which it was alleged that the assessee had not properly capitalised self-constructed units and had incorrectly claimed depreciation on computer software. However, the Court noted that during the original scrutiny assessment under section 143(3), the Assessing Officer had specifically called for details. The assessee had furnished all the relevant details and had duly responded to the queries raised. In these circumstances, the Court held that there was no justification for reopening the assessment, as the reassessment proceedings were founded on the same material that had already been examined during the original assessment. Such reopening amounted to a mere change of opinion, which is impermissible. Further, the Court observed that the failure of the Assessing Officer to pass a speaking order while disposing of the objections could not, by itself, be considered fatal in the absence of any serious prejudice having been demonstrated by the assessee. S. 147 : Reassessment-Long term capital gains from equities-Information from Investigation wing-Accommodation entry-Reassessment is affirmed-Order of Tribunal set aside. [S. 145, 148, 260A]

Assessment order was passed in case of assessee under section 147 read with section 144B. Subsequently, the Assessing Officer issued reopening notice against assessee on ground that information was received from the investigation wing that the assessee was one of the beneficiaries who received accommodation entry which was used to avail bogus LTCG/STCL. Tribunal held that Assessing Officer had not formed an opinion and he had mechanically followed the report of the investigation wing; hence, reopening was not justified. On appeal, the Court held that the Tribunal committed an error in coming to a conclusion that the Assessing Officer had not applied his mind for reopening assessment under section 147. Accordingly the order of reassessment is affirmed. (AY. 2013-14)

Assessee filed return of income which was processed under section 143(1). Subsequently, Assessing Officer reopened assessment based on information from Investigation Wing that assessee had claimed exemption under section 10(38) on Long-Term Capital Gain (LTCG) arising from sale of shares of a company-However, records revealed that there was no LTCG on sale of shares of said company, and assessee had in fact offered Short-Term Capital Gain (STCG) to tax in the original return. The Tribunal held that no material was placed on record to show how Assessing Officer concluded that LTCG exemption had been claimed. On appeal order of the Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2012-13)

On facts reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection were quashed and set aside. [S. 45, 68, 148, Art. 226]

Assessee had traded in shares of two companies, namely, India Infotech and Software Ltd (IISL) and SRK Industries Ltd (SRK). Information was received by the Assessing Officer from Investigation Wing that shares of IISL were a penny stock, and it was being rigged to provide bogus accommodation entry to beneficiaries. Assessing Officer found that SRK was flagged as one of BSE listed penny stock companies in the Investigation Report circulated from Principle DIT (Inv.). On the basis of same, a reopening notice was issued on the ground that assessee had claimed bogus short-term capital loss on penny stocks to evade tax liability. On writ, the Court held that the information on basis of which the reassessment notice was issued was general in nature and did not point towards involvement of assessee in the arrangement of providing accommodation entry by contriving bogus short-term capital loss. Further, there was nothing to show that information produced above was applicable to assessee. Materials based on which said report was prepared had also not been placed on record by revenue. Conclusion arrived at by Assessing Officer was based on suspicion created by information that shares of IISL and SRK were penny stocks. On facts, the reassessment notice and order disposing the objection were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2014-15)

S.147: Reassessment-Cash credits-Information from investigation wing-Round tripping-Share subscription agreement and shareholders agreement with KKR Mauritius-Failure on part of assessee to fully and truly disclose material facts-Reassessment notice was valid.[S. 148, Art. 226]

Assessee-company had entered into definitive agreements with KKR Mauritius as per which KKR invested Rs. 500 crores in assessee-company and was allotted 3.79 crores equity shares. These shares were bought back by DBL, holding company for a sum of Rs. 1218 crores. Subsequently, Assessing Officer received information from investigation wing that investment pumped in by KKR Mauritius was assessee's own black money and that there had been round tripping since later KKR's shareholding in assessee-company was bought back by the holding company and that whole transaction needed to be investigated properly to find out if any black money had been used in the transaction. Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice. Audit report of assessee specifically noted that holding company as well as assessee had entered into definitive agreements, namely, share subscription agreement and shareholders agreement with KKR Mauritius. Single judge allowed the writ petition against reassessment notice. On appeal by the revenue the Court held that copies of share subscription agreement and shareholders' agreement were not placed before the Assessing Officer. Since full contours of arrangement between KKR Mauritius and assessee-company were not placed before Assessing Officer in the first instance, there was failure on the part of the assessee to fully and truly disclose material facts; there was sound basis for reasonable belief entertained by the Assessing Officer for issuing notice under section 148. Order of single judge is set aside. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 147: Reassessment-Cash credits-Reason to believe-Suspicious Transaction Report (STR)-Burden of proof-Tribunal could not have applied the principle enunciated by the court in a criminal case to discharge the burden of proof beyond reasonable doubt-Order of Tribunal set aside. [S. 68, 148, 260A]

Assessee was engaged in business of financing and leasing. Assessing Officer issued a reassessment notice based on fund movements in assessee's bank account, treating them as taxable income. Tribunal decided in favor of assessee, holding that there was no taxable income involved, relying on Supreme Court's decision in Raja Naykar v. State of Chhattisgarh in [Criminal Appeal No. 902 of 2023, dated 24-1-2024] (a criminal case) and applied the principle of "proof beyond reasonable doubt" to tax law concept of "reason to believe". On appeal, the Court held that principles enunciated in criminal jurisprudence in respect of proof beyond reasonable doubt were erroneously applied to an issue which was subject to the provisions of Act and construction of words "reason to believe" as construed by Tribunal on the anvil of said Supreme Court case, was absolutely erroneous. Accordingly, the Tribunal misdirected itself in predicating its entire reasoning on an incorrect and inapplicable principle of law, which are confined to purely penal provisions which were not present situation and, thus, on this error alone impugned judgement was found to be unsustainable in law and the matter was to be remanded back to the Tribunal to decide on merits.(AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

S. 147: Reassessment-Shell companies-Information from Investigation Wing that assessee raised share capital through paper/shell companies controlled by accommodation entry operator-Assessee failed to furnish crucial details sought by Assessing Officer-Information constituted tangible material having live link with formation of belief that income had escaped assessment-Reassessment notice held valid-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 68, 148, Art. 226]

The assessee had filed return declaring loss for AY 2010-11 and assessment was earlier completed under section 153C r.w.s. 143(3) at nil income. Thereafter, notice under section 148 dated 31-3-2017 was issued on the basis of information received from the Director of Investigation, Kolkata that the assessee had raised share capital of Rs. 1.51 crore by issuing shares at face value of Rs. 10 and premium of Rs. 90 to certain paper/shell companies, most of which were allegedly controlled by one NKJ, an admitted accommodation entry operator. The Assessing Officer had also called upon the assessee to furnish details such as share application forms, names of allottees, number of shares allotted, breakup of face value and premium, and mode of receipt of funds, but there was no material to show that the assessee had furnished proper supporting details or answered the specific queries. On writ, the Court held that the information received from the Investigation Wing regarding bogus share capital and shell companies was germane material and had a live link with the formation of belief that income had escaped assessment. Since the assessee neither rebutted the allegations with supporting material before the Assessing Officer nor before the Court, and the statutory requirements of recording reasons, obtaining sanction and furnishing reasons were duly complied with, the reopening could not be said to be without jurisdiction. The wider post-1-4-1989 scope of section 147 permitted reopening on the basis of such tangible material. Accordingly, the writ petition was dismissed. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 147: Reassessment-Audit objection-Non-resident-Assessing Officer must apply independent mind-Audit objection is only "information" and not a command to reopen-Reassessment cannot be used to review a concluded scrutiny assessment-Change of opinion not permissible-In absence of failure to disclose fully and truly all material facts, extended period of six years not available-Limitation restricted to four years from end of relevant assessment year-Notice issued beyond four years held barred by limitation-Notice under section 148A(b), order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 quashed. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, Art. 226]

The assessee, a non-resident, for AY 2017-18 was assessed under section 143(3), wherein the Assessing Officer had specifically examined the taxability of finance, sales and corporate service recharges received from its Indian associated enterprise and accepted the returned position. Subsequently, reassessment was sought to be initiated on the basis of an audit objection. Though an audit objection may constitute “information” for purposes of sections 148/148A, the High Court held that it does not compel reopening and the Assessing Officer must independently apply his mind and decide whether income has in fact escaped assessment. Since the very issue of taxability of the receipts had already been examined in original scrutiny and there was no fresh tangible material, the reopening amounted to a mere review of the concluded assessment and was based on a change of opinion, which is impermissible under section 147. The Court further held that there was no allegation of failure by the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts and, therefore, under the old law preserved by the first proviso to section 149, the extended six-year period was unavailable; limitation remained four years from the end of AY 2017-18, and the impugned notices having been issued beyond that period were time-barred. Accordingly, the notice and consequential proceedings were quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

The assessee had originally filed its return of income for A.Y. 2007-08, which was assessed under section 143(3). Subsequently, the assessment was reopened under section 147 on the allegation that the assessee had received bogus accommodation entries. During the reassessment proceedings, however, the Assessing Officer did not make any addition on the basis of the recorded reasons for reopening. Instead, an addition under section 68 was made in respect of share premium reflected in the balance sheet. The Commissioner (Appeals) rejected the assessee’s challenge to jurisdiction but deleted the addition on merits. On further appeal, the Tribunal held that since no addition had been made on the issue forming the basis of reopening, no other addition could be sustained, and accordingly deleted the addition and quashed the reassessment. On appeal by the Revenue, the High Court dismissed the appeal and held that section 147 permits reopening only in exceptional circumstances where the Assessing Officer has reason to believe that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. If the very ground on which the assessment is reopened does not survive, there is no justification for expanding the scope of reassessment to other issues. Explanation 3 to section 147 only clarifies that once the Assessing Officer validly assumes jurisdiction and assesses or reassesses the income for which the assessment was reopened, he may also assess other income that comes to notice during the course of proceedings. It does not permit the Assessing Officer to make additions on other issues where no addition is made on the issue recorded as the reason for reopening. Accordingly, the Tribunal was justified in deleting the addition under section 68 and quashing the reassessment order. (AY. 2007-08)

The assessee claimed exemption under s. 54F in respect of investment in a residential property, wherein separate floors of a singular house were purchased by her family members. The AO reopened the assessment alleging that the assessee owned more than one residential unit and had failed to disclose material facts. The Tribunal quashed the reassessment. On appeal, the High Court held that ownership of different floors of the same building does not convert a singular residential house into multiple residential houses. Merely because different floors are owned or partly owned by different persons would not detract from the fact that the property constituted one residential house for the purpose of s. 54F. Reliance was placed on CIT v. Gita Duggal (2013) 257 CTR 208 (Delhi)(HC) and Mrs. Kamla Ajmera v. Pr. CIT (2025) 342 CTR 626 (Delhi) (HC)). The Court further held that the assessee had truly and fully disclosed all material facts relating to the sale of the original asset and investment in the residential property. The configuration of ownership as reflected in Municipal Corporation records did not establish any failure of disclosure. Accordingly, no substantial question of law arose and the order of the Tribunal quashing the reassessment was affirmed. (AY. 2011-12).

On writ, the High Court held that the impugned reassessment order for AY 2017-18 passed in the name of Oriental Bank of Commerce, Bharuch Branch, under PAN "AAAC07436M", was a nullity, as OBC had merged with Punjab National Bank w.e.f. 1-4-2020 and the surrendered PAN stood requested to be cancelled; despite this being specifically brought on record, the AO and NFAC proceeded without application of mind to frame a high-pitched reassessment under ss. 147 r/w 144, making an addition of ₹393.97 crore and raising a demand of ₹648.26 crore solely on the basis of undisclosed "Multi Year MNS Data", without inquiry and without considering the return and explanations; the approval under s. 151 was also accorded mechanically. The Court quashed the reassessment and, noting the egregious non-application of mind and the severe prejudice caused by the high-pitched demand against a non-existent entity, directed issuance of show-cause to the respondents on imposition of exemplary costs of ₹1 crore. Kept for further hearing on 4 th April, 2025. (AY. 2017-18)

The assessment order was initially issued without a Document Identification Number (DIN), but the defect was subsequently cured on the same date by issuance of a digitally signed communication containing a computer-generated DIN. The reassessment for AY 2017-18 was based on information and voluminous transaction documents furnished by a complainant (a partner of the assessee-firm), which were supplied to the assessee along with an opportunity to respond. The AO examined the materials and found that the assessee failed to substantiate how undisclosed sales of various products were accounted for in the books. Since the impugned order was not based on any statement or examination of the complainant, there was no requirement of cross-examination and Andaman Timber Industries v. CCE (2015) 281 CTR 241 (SC))/ (2016) 15SCC 785, was distinguished. On writ, the Court held that the orders passed on March 30, 2022 were preceded by the notices and show-cause notices-cum-draft assessment orders dated March 26, 2022. It was evident that the assessment orders had been passed in a hurry to avoid lapsing of the assessment proceeding due to limitation under section 153 of the Act. There had been a manifest violation of principles of natural justice as not enough time was given to the assessee to respond to the respective show-cause notices-cum-draft assessment orders dated March 26, 2022 and therefore, the orders were liable to be quashed as not enough time was given to the assessee to respond to the respective show-cause notices-cum-draft assessment orders dated March 26, 2022. On writ the Court held that the duration to comply the notice was too short a period, particularly, when the explanation and details had been sought of an assessment year about seven to eight years old. Thereafter, by notice dated March 21, 2022 the period had been extended by another two days. There was no proof whether or not these notices issued on March 21, 2022 extending the period from March 21, 2022 to March 23, 2022 had been effectively served upon the assessee. Meanwhile the assessee had sent his reply on March 19, 2022, before the authority concerned. Proceedings had been drawn by the Department in a hasty manner without a reasonable opportunity of being heard given to the assessee. Therefore the order under section 147 read with section 144B was quashed and set aside. The matter was remitted to the Assessing Officer for proceeding in accordance with law after affording an opportunity of hearing to the assessee without any further delay.(AY. 2014-15)

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the findings rendered by the Supreme Court bound the parties including the assessee. The decision to reopen was based on the liberty which was granted by the Supreme Court in the first round of litigation and only placed the Department under the obligation of informing the assessee of their intent to invoke and rely upon the second proviso to section 147. Sufficient material existed before the Assessing Officer which would have justified the power to reassess being exercised. The submission regarding misinterpretation of the Dispute Resolution Panel's order was unsustainable considering the undisputed fact that this was not a contention raised, urged or canvassed either before the High Court or before the Supreme Court. The assessee had not even argued that the conclusion drawn by the Assessing Officer on the basis of the order of the Dispute Resolution Panel was incorrect or arbitrary. It essentially required the court to review and revisit the findings rendered in this context in the first round of litigation. There was no justification to tread down this path. [S. 132, 147, 153C, 260A]

Pursuant to a search under section 132 in the case of a third party, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessee's assessment under section 147 on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing. The Tribunal set aside the reassessment, holding that once search material relating to a third person was found, assessment could be made only under section 153C and proceedings under section 147 were barred by the non obstante clause in section 153C. On appeal, the High Court held that section 153C is an enabling provision and its non obstante clause becomes operative only when jurisdiction under section 153C is validly assumed. Since no satisfaction note was recorded by the Assessing Officer of the searched person and no seized material was transmitted to the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over the assessee, the jurisdictional conditions of section 153C were not fulfilled. In such circumstances, recourse to section 147 was not barred. The Court held that the Tribunal erred in treating section 153C as mandatory and in holding that section 147 stood excluded merely because a search had taken place. As the Tribunal had not examined the other grounds raised by the assessee, the matter was restored to the Tribunal for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2011-12)

On writ allowing the petition the Court held that considering the challenge to the order was based mainly on the ground that it pertained to proceedings of reassessment under section 147 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 on the basis of search carried out under section 132 prior to April 1, 2021, the issue raised had been covered by the order passed in Tirupati Construction Co. v. S. 147 : Reassessment-Audit objection-No new material-Notice and order disposing the objection was quashed. [S. 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held, that the case of the assessee was selected for scrutiny and detailed notice under section 142(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was issued, requiring the assessee to furnish various details with respect to break-up of "any other amount allowable as deduction" claimed in Schedule BP of the return, wherein notional guarantee commission was claimed. The assessee submitted the requisite details. Thereafter, the assessment order under section 143(3) of the Act was passed. It is a settled legal position that reopening on the basis of audit party objections is invalid and on a bare perusal of the reasons recorded, it was apparent that there was no material available with the Assessing Officer to form a reason to believe that the income had escaped assessment. In such circumstances, the notice issued under section 148 was not valid.(AY. 2017-18)

Satisfaction note is internal communication of Department not requiring document identification number-No provision requiring supply of copy of satisfaction note to assessee with notice for reopening assessment-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 132, 148, 153A, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the entire scheme of reopening of assessment under section 147, in search cases, had undergone a change by paradigm shift of the reassessment proceedings replacing the earlier block assessment and thereafter the provisions under section 153A read with section 153C for reopening of the past assessment years on the basis of material found during the course of search were applicable. According to the amendment Dismissing the petition the Court held that the satisfaction note could not be said to be a communication as contemplated under Board Circular No. 19 of 2019 ((2019) 416 ITR (St.) 140) and even otherwise it could be regularized by issuing a copy of the satisfaction note with a document identification number which would be a procedural aspect for issuing notice under section 148 which already contained the document identification number and date. That there was no time limit prescribed for initiation of reassessment proceedings and sending the proposal for reopening the assessment under section 147 on the basis of search and seizure under section 132. The time limit provided in Board Circular No. 24 of 2015 ((2016) 380 ITR (St.) 32) was prescribed for recording satisfaction of the Assessing Officer of the searched person either at the time of initiation of proceedings against the searched person or during the course of assessment proceedings or immediately after assessment proceedings were completed. Such guidelines would not apply for recording satisfaction note in the case of a person other than the searched person on the basis of materials seized or found during the course of search. Allowing the petition the Court held that the amount was already recorded and included in the return of income filed for the assessment year 2020-2021 and was duly processed by the Assessing Officer and it was offered for tax as part of business turnover. The notice under section 148 had been issued without application of mind and hence stood vitiated. The proceedings initiated under section 147 therefore, were not sustainable in law. The notice under section 148 dated March 31, 2024 had been issued by the Assistant Commissioner while the notices issued under section 133(6) were issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer. Court held that the Assistant Commissioner was not competent to issue the notice. On both counts, the notices were not sustainable and hence were quashed.(AY. 2021-22)

Therefore, without forming such opinion, solely and mechanically relying upon the information received from the other sources, the Assessing Officer could not have assumed the jurisdiction to reopen the assessment. Accordingly, the notice issued under section 148 for the

Allowing the petition, the Court held that there should have been a live link between the information that was surfaced for issuance of notice under section 148 to reopen the assessment and to pass a fresh reassessment order under section 147. It could not be said that the Assessing Officer was unaware of the search proceedings and the seizure made pursuant to the search conducted on September 3, 2013 resulting in seizure of cash from the assessee and its partner and gold recovered from related party. The notice issued under section 148, inspired by a change of opinion, and the order rejecting the assessee's objections were quashed and set aside.

Held, dismissing the petition, that where undervaluation of income is found, AO has power to refer matter to DVO under section 131. On writ allowing the petition, the Court held that the assessee had furnished details pertaining to capital gains including the short-term capital gains on sale of shares along with documentary evidence in support of the sale in the scrutiny assessment under section 143(3). In the reasons, it was stated that during the year under consideration the assessee had made high value suspicious banking transactions. In the entire recording of reasons, the Assessing Officer had not revealed the nature of the transaction, date of the transaction and the name of the party with whom such transaction had been entered into. Allowing the petition the Court held that the assessee's bank had clearly stated in the reply that there were two different entries captured in the statement of account and remittance sheet had two different types of rates, one was notional and the other one was actually realised and statement of account submitted to the assessee, it was duly recorded in the books of account reflecting the actual realised rate of foreign exchange. The bank had given an explanation and clarification from the Forex Department to the effect that the bank after receiving the bill from the party or customer, the bill amount was firstly calculated on the notional rate decided by the bank from time to time and finally, at the time of realisation of the bill, it was calculated on the actual settlement or exchange rate on that day. On application of the basic accounting principles, the assessee had produced all the material during the course of the regular assessment. When such record was already available with the Assessing Officer, which was produced by the assessee during the original assessment proceedings under section 143(3), he ought to have considered them and applied his mind with regard to the material made available by the survey action under section 133A which was conducted on the bank coupled with the explanation tendered by the bank. The notice issued under section 148 was on change of opinion on the part of the Assessing Officer on borrowed satisfaction without there being any fresh tangible material to prima facie conclude that income had escaped assessment and hence quashed and set aside.(AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

The assessee challenged notices issued u/s 148 (old regime) during April-June 2021 and subsequent notices/orders u/ss. 148A(d)/148 (new regime) for AYs 2013-14 to 2017-18 on grounds of limitation u/s 149(1)(b) and absence of proper sanction u/s 151. The Court noted that by Finance Act, 2021, new procedure u/ss. 147-151 was introduced w.e.f. 01.04.2021. Pursuant to UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC), such notices issued under the old regime were treated as deemed notices under the new regime. Later, in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal (2024) 469 ITR 46 (SC), the Apex Court clarified that reassessment after 01.04.2021 must strictly comply with the new regime and limitation/sanction requirements thereunder. Applying the ratio of Rajeev Bansal, the High Court held that where limitation under S.149 had expired or sanction under S.151 of the appropriate authority was lacking, the reassessment notices were invalid considering the surviving time available. Accordingly, the batch of petitions was disposed of following the Supreme Court's directions.(AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2016-17, 2017-18)

Assessee had filed its return of income disclosing short-term capital gain on sale of shares. Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice against assessee on the ground that assessee had claimed bogus LTCG on sale of shares. On writ, the Court held that the Assessing Officer had failed to give requisite details in the reasons recorded so as to form a requisite prima facie belief that income had escaped assessment. Reasons recorded only referred to information received from credible sources that search was carried out in case of Kausal Group (Kaushal Limited) and during course of search, incriminating documents were found and seized and it was found that assessee was one of beneficiaries of accommodation entries in form of different types of income like Long Terms Gains/Loss/Short Terms Gains/Loss and also beneficiary of unsecured loans etc., without there being any basis for forming such belief. The Court held that on facts, Assessing Officer could not be said to have formed an independent satisfaction regarding the reasons recorded to re-open assessment to come to a prima facie conclusion that there was escapement of income. Reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection are quashed and set aside. (AY. 2017-18)

The assessee, a foreign company engaged in manufacturing products for power transmission, reactive power compensation, and harmonic filtering, had supplied equipment from outside India under a contract with an Indian company. It received only a 10% advance during the year and declared nil income. The assessment under section 143(3) accepted this position. Subsequently, a survey under section 133A(2A) was conducted at the GE group, which had taken over the assessee's grid business in 2015. Based on the survey, reassessment was initiated on the ground that the assessee had a fixed place and dependent agent PE in India. The Court held that the Assessing Officer had merely reiterated survey findings without recording facts specific to AYs 2013-14 to 2017-18. The reassessment proceedings were quashed. The assessee was a partnership firm engaged in the business of trading and exports of marble. The assessee filed e-return for the assessment year 2009-10 declaring total income of certain amount. Such return was taken up for scrutiny and assessment order was passed under section 143(3). A notice under section 148 was issued against the assessee on ground that the assessee had escaped income due to non-deduction of tax at source under section 195 on commission paid by it to a non-resident for services rendered outside India. Allowing the petition the Court held that commission if any paid for the services rendered by a person outside India is not chargeable under the IT Act; further, during the process of scrutiny, the assessee submitted all the books of accounts, payment details to the assessment officer and the assessment officer considered the same and passed order; reopening was not therefore sustainable. (AY. 2009-10)

In the course of search large volume of documents were seized. The Assessing Officer, also received information from investigation wing that the assessee had purchased penny scrips. Based on the information and material available, Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148, for reassessment of income after prior approval from the competent authority. The reassessment order was passed wherein additions were made under section 68 w indicating receipt of entries from shell companies. On appeal the CIT(A) upheld the order. On further appeal the Tribunal held the Assessing Officer was required to frame the assessment/reassessment under section 153C and was precluded from proceeding under section 147. On appeal by the Revenue the Court held that where jurisdictional conditions to initiate further steps under section 153C were not satisfied, non obstante clause as used in section 153C could not be read to completely exclude provisions of section 147 and thus, Assessing Officer could initiate reassessment proceedings under section 147 even if proceedings under section 153C could have been initiated. [S. 132(9A), 132A(3), 147, 148, 153C, 260A]

Hon'ble Court held that the Investigating Officer who has seized the goods on the basis of which reassessment proceedings were initiated, did not share it with the AO of the assessee within the period of 15 days as mandated under section 132(9A) of the Act. Further, the decision of the AO to initiate the reassessment proceedings under section 147 was not independent but at the behest of the superior officer. Hence, the entire proceedings is bad in law. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. Rule of law is of the elementary principle of Constitution of India. The rule of law requires rule within the ambit of law and every statutory authority must function themselves as required under the law. Every authority may however, high should only function within four corners of law because the rule of law requires that all machinery of State must function according to mandate of statute. (AY. 1988-89 to 1992-93)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Change of opinion-Notice beyond period of limitation-Interest paid and interest received-Capital receipt-No failure on part of assessee to make true and full disclosure in original assessment-Reassessment proceedings to bring to tax interest receipts based on change of opinion impermissible.[S. 143(3), 148, 260A]

Once the AO had consciously applied his mind for not treating the interest paid and the interest received as revenue items but as capital items, his subsequent attempt to tax the interest receipt as revenue receipt in the reassessment proceedings under section 147 is based on change of opinion. There was full disclosure of the interest receipt by the assessee in the original assessment under section 143(3) and AO in the original assessment order, after discussion, had formed an opinion that the interest paid and interest received were not revenue but capital in nature. Thus, the reassessment proceedings are bad in law.(AY. 1997-98)

Allowing the petition against the ex parte re assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer, the Court held that the foundation of the assessment order pursuant to the re assessment order is based on the first information report allegations filed by daughter against her husband and in laws on the alleged ground that the assessee had spent Rs 8 lakh apart from giving other articles at the time of marriage. The complaint was quashed upon compromise arrived between parties. The Assessing Officer neither conducted any independent investigation nor produced any evidence that the assessee had earned the alleged amounts during the relevant year. The assessee's inability to participate due to his vegetative state at the relevant point of time, the ex parte assessment order passed on assumptions and presumptions and consequent notices were quashed and set aside.

Mohinder Singh v. ITO (2025) 473 ITR 354 (P& H)(HC)

S. 147 : Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Bogus transactions-Change of opinion-Borrowed satisfaction-Lack of application of mind-Reopening invalid. [S. 68, 148, 151]

The assessment was reopened beyond four years on the allegation that the assessee had benefited from accommodation entries received through an amalgamated company. The Tribunal found that the Assessing Officer recorded contradictory facts regarding the nature of the transactions and failed to conduct any independent enquiry before recording reasons to believe. There was no material to establish failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment. The reopening was based on borrowed satisfaction and mechanical approval under section 151. Accordingly, the reassessment proceedings and consequential addition under section 68 were held to be invalid. [AY. 2011-12]

CIT v. Capseal Vyapaar P. Ltd. (2025) 121 ITR 47 (Guwahati)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Difference in GST and Income-tax Turnover-Addition cannot be sustained merely because turnover declared for GST purposes differs from turnover disclosed in the return, where the assessee furnishes a proper reconciliation explaining the difference.[S. 148]

The assessment was reopened on the basis of information from the Directorate General of GST Intelligence that the turnover disclosed for service tax purposes exceeded the turnover declared in the income-tax return. During reassessment proceedings, the assessee furnished a reconciliation explaining that service tax turnover was based on receipt of advances, whereas income was recognised on project completion in accordance with accounting principles. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals) ignored the reconciliation and supporting documents without rejecting the books of account. Since the variation arose from different methods of recognising turnover and not from suppression of receipts, the additions were deleted.(AY. 2014-15)

Aarone Developers P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 121 ITR 21 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Scope of reassessment-Addition on issues unconnected with recorded reasons-Reassessment is invalid where the addition made is unrelated to the reasons recorded for reopening. [Ss. 40A(3), 147, Expln. 3]

The assessment was reopened to examine alleged unexplained bank credits of ₹26.91 crore. During reassessment, however, the Assessing Officer did not make any addition on the bank credits but instead disallowed 10 per cent of purchases on the ground of cash payments. The Tribunal held that though Explanation 3 to section 147 permits assessment of other escaped income noticed during reassessment, it does not confer unrestricted power to make additions wholly unconnected with the reasons recorded for reopening. Since the reassessment ultimately rested on an issue unrelated to the recorded reasons, the reassessment was held to be invalid. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

Atiq Ahmed v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 24 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Reassessment cannot be initiated merely on vague 'high-risk transaction' information without tangible material. [S 68, 69, 148]

The assessment was reopened on the basis of information reflected in the Department's portal that the assessee had received unsecured loans of ₹50 lakh under the category of "high-risk transactions". The reasons recorded neither disclosed the names of the lenders nor the dates of the transactions, nor any tangible material indicating the escapement of income. The Tribunal held that the expression "reason to believe" requires specific and reliable material having a live nexus with the alleged escapement of income and cannot be substituted by a mere "reason to suspect". Since the reopening was based only on vague and unspecified information without any supporting material, the assumption of jurisdiction under section 147 was without legal foundation, and the reassessment was quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

Naveen Kumar Singhal v. ITO (2025) 121 ITR 28 (SN) (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Validity of addition on new issue-Assessment reopened for escapement of salary income, but addition made on account of Recurring Deposit Investment-Addition was deleted. [S. 148]

The AO reopened the assessments based on information from a survey at Aakash Hospital & Diagnostic. The reason recorded for reopening was that the assessee allegedly had unreported salary income of Rs.6 lakh. However, while completing the reassessment, the AO did not make any addition for the alleged Rs.6 lakh escaped income. Instead, additions were made for unexplained investment in a recurring deposit scheme/bank deposits. On appeal, the ITAT held that the AO's recorded reasons must show the basis for reopening. The AO cannot make additions on a new issue when the original reason for reopening does not result in an addition. The Tribunal followed the principle that if the income for which reassessment was initiated is not added, other unrelated additions cannot survive. The appeals filed by the assessee were allowed. The additions made deleted. [AY. 2017-18 2018-19]

Bhupesh Gupta v. ACIT (2025) 128 ITR 317 (Chd)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Additional ground-Reassessment proceedings initiated solely on the basis of NMS, without any independent verification, tangible material, or proper satisfaction recorded by the AO, would not confer valid jurisdiction under section 147-Initiation of reassessment proceedings under section 147 was void ab initio. [S. 115A, 139, 148, 194LD, 254(1)]

The assessee, a Singapore tax resident and Category III FPI, invested about Rs. 448 crores in Non-convertible Debentures (NCDs) of an Indian company (SVHPL). It earned interest of about Rs. 8.24 crores on these NCDs, on which tax was deducted under section 194LD. Relying on section 115A(5), the assessee did not file its return. Based on information received through the Non-filers Management System, the AO issued a notice under section 148 and conducted a reassessment. The AO noted that the NCD investment was funded by the Singapore holding company, treated the assessee as a shell entity, and added the NCD subscription of Rs.448 crores as unexplained business income. The AO further added interest of about Rs. 8.24 crores. On objections, the DRP sustained the additions. Pursuant to remand directions in connected writ proceedings, the DRP issued second-round directions, again upholding the draft order. Consequent to these directions, the AO passed the final reassessment order. On appeal to the ITAT, it was held that the AO reopened the assessment solely on an NMS non-filing alert, without independent verification or proper reasons, despite being aware that assessee was a non-resident with only TDS-deducted interest income. Thus, such reassessment was held to be void ab initio. [AY. 2015-16, 2017-18]

Argos Holdings Pte. Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 128 ITR 582 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Addition cannot be made on issues unconnected with the reasons recorded for reopening- Addition was deleted. [S. 148]

The assessment was reopened on the ground that income from sale of flats had escaped assessment. However, in the reassessment order, no addition was made on that issue, and instead additions were made towards unexplained sundry creditors. The Tribunal held that where the Assessing Officer does not make any addition on the issue for which the assessment was reopened, he cannot make additions on altogether different issues unless fresh reasons are recorded and the assessment is validly reopened in respect thereof. Accordingly, the additions relating to sundry creditors were held to be beyond the scope of reassessment and were deleted. (AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15.)

Rajesh Kumar Bansal v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 123 (Chd.)(Trib.).

S. 147: Reassessment-"Reason to believe"-Reopening invalid where reasons recorded are factually incorrect and based on non-application of mind-Assessment was quashed. [S. 148, 151]

The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment on the basis of Annual Information Return information relating to purchase of immovable property, erroneously recording that the assessee had not filed any return of income, though the return had in fact been filed. The Tribunal held that information received from another wing merely sets the process in motion and the Assessing Officer must independently verify the facts before forming the requisite belief. Since the reopening was based on incorrect facts and the approval under section 151 was also granted mechanically, the reassessment proceedings were held to be invalid and were rightly quashed. (AY. 2011-12)

ITO v. Taj Land Developers and Promoters (P.) Ltd. (2025) 128 ITR 167 (Chd.)(Trib.).

S. 147: Reassessment-Reopening is invalid where the very same income has already been assessed substantively in the hands of another assessee, and the AO records only a contingent belief that the income may escape assessment if the other assessee succeeds in appeal-Contingent reopening was without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. [S. 148]

The assessee, a Mauritius company, received facilitation fees of ₹125 crore from MSM under a Facilitation Services Deed. The very same amount had already been assessed substantively in the hands of its Indian group company (WSGI) in search assessment proceedings. Thereafter, the AO reopened the assessee's assessment under section 147 to tax the same amount in its hands. The Tribunal held that once the Revenue had already assessed the income substantively in the hands of another assessee, it could not reopen the assessment merely on a contingent apprehension that the income may escape tax if the other assessee succeeded in appeal. The reasons recorded disclosed only a belief that the income "may escape assessment" and not the statutory requirement of a belief that income "has escaped assessment". Such contingent reopening was without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. The appeal was allowed. [AY. 2010-11]

World Sport Group (Mauritius) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (IT) (2025) 130 ITR 641 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-No failure to disclose material facts-Notices issued under S. 148 under the new regime for the relevant asst. yrs. 2014-15 and 2016-17 on 25th July, 2022 and 26th July, 2022, respectively, were barred by limitation-Reassessment proceedings are quashed.[S. 148, 148A(b)]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer has referred only to the P&L a/c and balance sheet of the assessee while reopening the assessment which were filed along with the original return of income, the reopening was based on the same set of facts which were available at the time of original assessment and, therefore, reopening was not valid; also, there is no allegation of any failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for completion of assessment. The Tribunal also held that notices issued under s. 148 under the new regime for the relevant asst. yrs. 2014-15 and 2016-17 on 25th July, 2022, and 26th July, 2022, respectively, were barred by limitation; reassessment proceedings are quashed. (AY.2014-15 & 2016-17)

Kavya Satija v. Dy.CIT (2025) 235 TTJ 217 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 147: Reassessment-Reason to believe-Information received from Dy. CIT(E)-No live link or rational belief in the reasons recorded-AO should not act on the dictate of any other authority like Dy. CIT(E)-Reassessment was quashed. [S. 11, 13(1)(a), 148]

There being no whisper in the reasons recorded by the AO that the assessee has applied its income for any particular religion or caste in violation of s. 13(1)(a), the information received from the Dy. CIT(E) that a large amount of foreign contributions has been received by the assessee-trust for carrying out religious activities, in the absence of any independent enquiry by the AO or any relevant tangible material, cannot be a reason to believe that assessee's income has escaped assessment and therefore, the reopening of assessment and the consequential reassessment are bad in law. Held that a paper seized during the course of a search in the case of a group of institutions, a trust and its chairman, pertains to the assessee and it indicates a certain payment to the assessee, the AO ought to have initiated the proceedings under s. 153C against the assessee; no action under s. 147/148 could be taken against the assessee. Held that the Assessee has offered lesser interest income received from its foreign subsidiary and furnished no details of the interest income either in its financial statements or by way of notes to accounts; there was no full and true disclosure of necessary facts in respect of interest income. Tribunal also held that there was no specific disclosure of provision for obsolete inventory either in the notes to accounts or by way of explanation to the AO during the course of assessment proceedings; there was failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for its assessment-reopening of assessment after the expiry of four years from the end of the relevant assessment year is valid. Tribunal held that the reasons recorded, the AO has not made a mention of assessee's failure to disclose fully and truly material facts necessary for assessment; reopening is bad in law also for the reason that there is no indication that the AO received any fresh information/tangible material from external sources which formed the foundation for forming his belief that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment (AY. 2014-15)

Held that the notice under S 148, issued to the assessee based on the document seized during the search in the case of Kokani Group, is bad in law as none of the seized documents pertains to the assessee. S. 147: Reassessment-Search cases-Mechanical approval-After a search, assessment for the preceding years must necessarily be framed under section 148 and not under section 143(3); mechanical approval without application of mind vitiates the assessment. [S. 132, 143(3), 148, 148A. 151]

The Tribunal held that once a search under section 132 was conducted, the assessment for the preceding assessment years covered by Explanation 2(iv) to section 148 could be framed only by following the reassessment procedure under sections 148 and 148A after obtaining the prescribed statutory approval. The Revenue could not continue regular scrutiny proceedings under section 143(3). The Tribunal further found that approval had been granted mechanically on the very same day despite voluminous seized material, without any evidence of independent application of mind by the approving authority. Accordingly, the assessment was held to be without jurisdiction and was quashed. (AY. 2022-23)

Jamna Dass Nikkamal Jain Saraf (P.) Ltd. v. DCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 473 (Chd.)(Trib.).

The Tribunal held that for AY 2014-15, the assessee had fully and truly disclosed all material facts relating to the transactions resulting in losses and, therefore, the proviso to section 147 was not applicable. Consequently, the notice issued on 28-4-2021 was barred by limitation, and the reassessment was quashed. In respect of AY 2016-17, since the alleged escaped income was only ₹21.78 lakh, section 149(1)(a) permitted reopening only within three years. Accordingly, the notice issued on 30-7-2022 was also held to be barred by limitation, and the reassessment was quashed.

S. 147: Reassessment-Information derived from a search on another person-Reassessment under S. 147 is valid in the absence of seized material.[S.132, 153C]

The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment under section 147 on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing regarding cash deposits made by the assessee. No books of account, documents or assets belonging to the assessee had been seized during the search on the third party, nor was any satisfaction recorded under section 153C. The Tribunal held that section 153C applies only where seized material belonging to or relating to the assessee is available. Mere intelligence or information derived from a search cannot be equated with seized material. Accordingly, reopening under section 147 was held to be valid (AY. 2013-14 to 2017-18)

S. 147: Reassessment-Change of opinion-No fresh tangible material-Reopening invalid [S.2(47)(vi), 37(1)]

The reassessment was initiated solely on the basis of a different legal inference drawn from the same material examined during the original scrutiny assessment. The Tribunal held that there was no fresh tangible material and the reopening amounted to a mere change of opinion, which is impermissible in law. It further held that royalty paid by the assessee to a duly authorised power of attorney holder for use of land was a genuine business expenditure incurred out of commercial expediency and allowable under section 37(1). The assessment order bore only a manually written DIN, while the computer-generated DIN was issued nearly three weeks later. The Tribunal held that CBDT Circular No. 19/2019 mandates that every communication must bear a computer-generated DIN at the time of issuance. Subsequent generations of DIN cannot cure the defect. Accordingly, the reassessment proceedings were held to be void ab initio. (AY. 2014-15 to 2017-18, 2019-20 to 2022-23)

S. 147: Reassessment-Condition precedent-Tangible material to reopen assessment-Assessing Officer seeking to verify computation of total income-No new material to show escapement of income-Reassessment not sustainable. [S. 143(3), 148]

The assessee's assessment was completed under section 143(3) after scrutiny, wherein all details, including purchase and sale of land documents and the tax audit report, were furnished. Within four years, the AO reopened the assessment merely for verification of the computation of total income and a loss on sale of assets already disclosed, without any fresh material. The CIT(A) held the reopening invalid, being mere reverification without evidence of escapement of income. On appeal, the Tribunal held that reopening cannot be resorted to for the purpose of thorough verification, and there must be tangible material in the form of fresh evidence before initiating such a step; since the entire material on the basis of which reasons were recorded was already available in the assessment record and no new material showed escapement of income, the reassessment proceedings were not sustainable in law. DCIT v. DRS Logistics P. Ltd. (2025) 132 ITR 67(Hyd) (Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Borrowed satisfaction-Mechanical approval-Reassessment quashed.[S. 148, 151]

The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment solely on the basis of the Investigation Wing report and undisclosed handwritten papers without making any independent enquiry. The sanctioning authority also granted approval under section 151 on incorrect facts, assuming that the assessment was being framed for the first time although an assessment under section 143(3) had already been completed. The Tribunal held that both the reasons recorded and the approval reflected complete non-application of mind. The reassessment was therefore quashed. (AY. 2008-09).

Nova Formworks (P.) Ltd. (formerly Wonder Moldplast (P.) Ltd.) v. ITO (2025) 126 ITR 63 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 147 : Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Bogus purchases-No independent enquiry-Reassessment invalid-Incorrect reasons recorded-Wrong entity mentioned-Proceedings void ab initio-Addition based on third-party statements without cross-examination-Addition deleted.[S.69C, 148, 149]

The notice under section 148 was issued beyond four years from the end of the assessment year merely on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer neither conducted any independent enquiry nor recorded his own satisfaction regarding escapement of income. The reopening was based entirely on borrowed satisfaction and was therefore void. The reasons recorded for reopening referred to an incorrect entity from whom the assessee had allegedly made bogus purchases. The Tribunal held that this demonstrated complete non-application of mind while recording the reasons to believe. Consequently, the reassessment proceedings and the notice issued under section 148 were held to be void ab initio. The Assessing Officer treated purchases as bogus solely on the basis of statements of suppliers recorded behind the assessee's back without permitting cross-examination. The assessee produced purchase invoices, stock records, transportation details and evidence of payment through banking channels. The Tribunal held that the books of account were not rejected, stock records and sales were accepted, and no defect was found in the documentary evidence. Since no opportunity of cross-examination was granted, the addition under section 69C was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

S. 147 : Reassessment-Notice after four years-Failure to disclose material facts not alleged-Reassessment invalid-Borrowed satisfaction-Reasons recorded based solely on Investigation Wing report-Reopening invalid.[S.68, 143(3), 148]

The assessment completed under section 143(3) was reopened after expiry of four years. The Tribunal held that the reasons recorded did not allege any failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment. Consequently, the mandatory condition prescribed in the first proviso to section 147 was not satisfied and the reassessment was held to be invalid. The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment solely on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing without making any independent enquiry or verification. The Tribunal held that mere reproduction of the Investigation Wing report without application of mind amounted to borrowed satisfaction and rendered the reassessment proceedings invalid. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15).

S. 147 : Reassessment-Amalgamated company-Notice issued in the name of non-existent entity despite knowledge of amalgamation-Reassessment void ab initio.[S. 148]

The notice under section 148 was issued in the name of a company which had already amalgamated with another company pursuant to an order of the High Court. The fact of amalgamation had been duly intimated to the Assessing Officer much before issuance of the notice. The Tribunal held that the Revenue was fully aware that the original company had ceased to exist and, therefore, the reassessment proceedings initiated in the name of a non-existent entity were void ab initio. The order annulling the reassessment was upheld. (AY. 2010-11).

Dy. CIT v. KKalpana Industries India Ltd. (2025) 127 ITR 24 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 147: Reassessment-Educational institution-Fresh claim for exemption under section 10(23C) cannot be raised in reassessment proceedings-Order of CIT(A) was restored to decide on merits. [S 10(23C), 139(4C), 143(3), 148, 250]

The assessee, an educational institution, sought exemption under section 10(23C) by raising an additional ground before the Commissioner (Appeals) during reassessment proceedings, though no such claim had been made in the original return. The Tribunal held that reassessment proceedings are intended to examine escaped income and do not permit an assessee to seek review of concluded matters or raise a fresh claim unrelated to the reasons recorded for reopening. The Commissioner (Appeals) exceeded his jurisdiction in entertaining the new claim. However, the matter was restored to decide the appeal on the merits of the additions made by the Assessing Officer. Dy. CIT v. Navodaya Education Trust (2025) 129 ITR 109 (Bang.)(Trib.)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Reasons recorded for reopening based on cash deposits-No addition made on recorded reasons-Addition on other issues beyond jurisdiction-Assessment quashed. [S. 148]

The assessment was reopened on the ground that the assessee had deposited cash in his bank account and had not filed the return of income. During reassessment, the Assessing Officer accepted the explanation regarding the cash deposits and made no addition on that issue, but made additions on other issues which came to his notice during the proceedings. The Tribunal held that once no addition was made on the issue forming the basis of the recorded reasons for reopening, the Assessing Officer lost jurisdiction to assess any other income. The reassessment was therefore quashed. (AY. 2012-13).

S. 147: Reassessment-Income from other sources-Interest reflected in Form 26AS-No actual receipt-Addition deleted-Reassessment was invalid.[S. 56, 148, Form No. 26AS]

The reassessment was based solely on tax deducted at source reflected in Form 26AS showing interest income. The assessee, a Government special purpose company, established through audited accounts, bank statements and Accounting Standard-9 that no interest had actually been received during the relevant year. The Tribunal held that mere reflection of tax deducted at source in Form 26AS could not justify taxation in the absence of accrual or receipt of income. The deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. Reassessment was quashed. (AY. 2014-15 to 2017-18).

ITO v. Gas and Power Investment Co. Ltd. (2025) 125 ITR 489 / 174 taxmann.com 341 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 147 : Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Disallowance under section 14A already deleted in assessee's own case-No failure to disclose material facts-Reassessment invalid-Speculative transactions-No addition made on issue forming basis of reopening-Addition on other issues not permissible-Reassessment invalid. [S.14A,40A(2)(b), 43(5), 73 148, R. 8D]

The assessment was reopened beyond four years on the ground that the disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D had been incorrectly computed. The Tribunal held that the very disallowance made in the original assessment had already been deleted in the assessee's own case as no exempt dividend income had been earned during the year. As there was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts, the reopening beyond four years was without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. The reassessment was also initiated on the allegation that receipts from transactions with the National Spot Exchange Ltd. represented speculative income. The Tribunal found that there were no such transactions during the relevant assessment year and the addition itself pertained to a later year. Since no addition survived on the reasons recorded for reopening, the Assessing Officer could not make additions on other issues not forming part of the recorded reasons. The reassessment and consequential additions under sections 43(5), 73 and 40A(2)(b) were therefore quashed. (AY. 2009-10).

S. 147 : Reassessment-Change of opinion-Reinsurance premium paid to non-resident reinsurers-No fresh tangible material-Reopening invalid.[S. 40(a)(i),148, 195,

The reassessment was initiated on the allegation that the assessee had failed to deduct tax at source from reinsurance premium paid to non-resident reinsurers. The Tribunal held that the issue had been thoroughly examined during the original assessment proceedings and the Assessing Officer had formed an opinion after detailed enquiry. As there was no fresh tangible material and no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts, the reopening amounted to a mere change of opinion and was liable to be quashed. (AY. 2008-09 to 2014-15).

Royal Sundaram General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 507 / 175 taxmann.com 427 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 147 : Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Full and true disclosure-Survey-No failure to disclose material facts-Reassessment was quashed and set aside.[S.133A, 148]

Held that the AO neither specified the incriminating material allegedly found during the course of the survey under S. 133A nor the contents of such material in the reasons recorded for reopening the assessment, nexus between such material and formation of belief that income has escaped assessment has not been established, and there being no material on record which has nexus with the opinion formed by the AO that the income escaping assessment is in excess of Rs. 1,00,000, the AO did not have the requisite authority to reopen the assessment under s. 147, and consequently, the reassessment proceedings are set aside. Assessee, a SPV for the BOT road project assessed under scrutiny without addition. The assessment was reopened on alleged escaped income due to interest-free advances to the EPC contractor. Tribunal held that reassessment was without any fresh information or material being provided by the Assessing Office and was based merely on a change of opinion and hence quashed. The cross objection of the assessee was allowed. As regards the notional interest, the Tribunal held that the assessee executing a BOT road project gave interest-free advances to the EPC contractor as per the contract and industry practice, and had not claimed any related interest expenditure as a deduction nor earned or accrued notional interest. The addition of notional interest as business income was unsustainable since tax cannot be levied on hypothetical income. Order of CIT(A) deleting the notional interest was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 147: Reassessment-Unexplained investments-No addition was made on the reasons recorded-Reassessment order was quashed and set aside.[S.50C, 69, 148]

Assessing Officer reopened the assessment on the ground that the purchase consideration remained unexplained. However, no addition was made on account of payment towards purchases of immovable property. Thereafter, the Assessing Officer went on discussing issues of capital gains declared on other properties, viz application of provisions of section 50C and disallowance of interest paid on home loans and made additions on said issues. CIT A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since none of additions/disallowance made was linked with the reasons recorded for reopening of assessment, the Assessing Officer had exceeded its jurisdiction by making additions on issues which were not forming part of the reasons recorded for reopening assessment, when no addition was made on the issue covered in the reasons recorded. Reassessment was quashed and set aside. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 147: Reassessment-Purchase of agricultural land-MOU on 21-3-2016-Presented before Joint Sub-Registrar on 24-3-2016, falling in financial year 2015-16 relevant to assessment year 2016-17-

Reassessment for the assessment year 2017-18 was not valid. [S. 148 ITAT Rule.27, Registration Act, 1908, S. 47]

Assessee, an NRI, had entered into an MOU on 21-3-2016 with one 'GNC' and 11 other persons for clearing of pending litigation in respect of agricultural land situated at Manchirevula Village. Assessee had also entered into 2 agreements of sale cum GPA, both dated 21-3-2016 with 'GNC' and others for purchase of 2 parcels of land against consideration which was paid through banking channels. All these documents were presented before the Joint Registrar and were duly registered on 24-3-2016. On the basis of the reporting of said transaction vide agreement of sale cum GPA, Assessing Officer reopened assessment of assessee by issuing notice under section 148 dated 30-3-2021. On appeal, the CIT(A) held that, held that there was no transfer of immovable property by way of these documents, namely agreement of sale cum GPA dated 21-3-2016, because the vendors in these documents did not have valid possession of the said property and, therefore, due to lack of handing over of physical possession of the land, there was no transfer of immovable property. On appeal by the revenue, the Assessee raised an issue of the validity of reopening by invoking Rule 27 of the ITAT Rules, 1963. Tribunal held that documents were duly signed by parties and presented for registration on 24-3-2016, and thereupon these documents were registered on 24-3-2016. Thus, the transaction of sale of land was completed on the date when these documents were presented before the Sub-Registrar and thereafter registered on 24-3-2016, which fell in the financial year 2015-16 relevant to assessment year 2016-17 and not in the financial year 2016-17 relevant to assessment year 2017-18. Therefore, reopening of assessment for the year under consideration was not valid. The order of CIT(A) was affirmed. (AY. 2017-18)

Companies were in existence in ROC portal and had huge shares capital and reserves in their balance sheets; non-compliance by these companies itself could not be a reason to treat receipt of share capital money as bogus. The assessment was completed under section 143(3), making certain additions/disallowances. The assessment was reopened after expiry of 4 years from the end of relevant assessment year and disallowed relief under section 90, on the ground that the arrangement of payment had caused revenue loss to the Government of India.CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that part relief under section 90 was granted under original assessment; there was no allegation by the Assessing Officer that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment due to failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts. Since there was not even a mention of any new or tangible material which formed the basis to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment, the reassessment order is quashed. S. 147 : Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Penny stock-Long term capital gains-Reassessment is bad in law.[S.68]

During assessment proceedings, assessee had claimed Long Term Capital Gain (LTCG) from sale of share as exempt and assessment was completed accordingly. After a period of four years, the Assessing Officer issued reopening notice against the assessee on basis of information from the office of the Chief Commissioner (CCIT) that assessee was a beneficiary in penny-stock bogus cases and had claimed bogus exempt income, and he treated the capital gain as unexplained cash credit under section 68. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the information given by CCIT only constituted a starting point of enquiry and could not be held as tangible material for reopening assessment. Further, in the absence of failure on the part of the assessee in disclosure of material facts, the impugned reopening notice issued against the assessee is not valid and justified in law. S. 147 : Reassessment-Information from third-party search-Accommodation entries-Cash credits-Section 153C not triggered, reopening u/s 147 is valid-On merits, addition based mainly on untested third-party statement without cross-examination requires fresh adjudication by CIT(A). [S. 68, 132(4), 133(6), 148, 151, 153C, ITAT Rule, 1963,R. 27]

In a search on the Sushil Lahoti group, statements indicated accommodation entries; relying on this information (and not on any seized material "belonging to" the assessee), the AO reopened the case of Manju Diamonds Pvt. Ltd. u/s 147 and added ₹75.50 lakh u/s 68 for unsecured loans from four Lahoti-linked companies after 133(6) notices went uncomplied. On appeal the CIT(A) deleted the additions on merits, on the ground that the addition rested solely on Lahoti's untested statement without supplying the statement or permitting cross-examination and breach of natural justice and shifted onus under S. 68 once confirmations/PANs/bank statements were filed. On appeal by the revenue before the Tribunal, the assessee invoked Rule 27 to contend that the correct route was 153C and not reassessment proceedings under section 147, hence re assessment was bad in law. The Tribunal admitted the application under Rule 27 of the ITAT Rules. The Tribunal held that since no document/material “pertaining to/belonging to” the assessee was found in the Lahoti search, 153C was not attracted, and the AO could invoke 147 on external information; therefore, the reassessment was upheld and the application under Rule 27 was rejected on merits. As regards the deletion of addition by the CIT(A), on merit the Tribunal held that as the CIT(A) had deleted the addition outright without a full appraisal vis-à-vis the AO’s enquiries and the assessee’s primary evidence, and because the foundation was largely a third-party statement without cross-examination, the issue on merits was set aside and remanded to the CIT(A) for fresh decision after supplying material and affording effective cross-examination/verification as per law. The assessee, a Government employee, filed a return declaring salary income. Based on an Investigation Wing report, the AO reopened the assessment u/s 147 alleging receipt of ₹9.60 lakh as accommodation entry in the form of LTCG claimed exempt u/s 10(38). In reassessment, the AO made an addition of ₹9.60 lakh LTCG u/s 68 (basis for reopening), ₹15.48 lakh towards cash/cheque deposits u/s 68 and ₹20.62 lakh towards investment in property u/s 69. The CIT(A) deleted the LTCG addition but sustained the other additions. The Judicial Member (Vice President) held that when the sole basis for reopening was deleted, the reassessment was bad in law, following *ATS Infrastructure Ltd. v. The AO reopened the assessment based on DIT(Inv) information alleging bogus LTCG on shares of BSR Finance & Construction Ltd. The reasons recorded by the AO were vague, lacking details of transactions, parties or evidence, indicating borrowed satisfaction. Assessee-trust filed return and claimed exemption under section 11 of the Act. During scrutiny, assessment was completed under section 143(3) accepting claim of assessee. Reassessment for relevant assessment year was initiated on basis of assessment framed on assessee for assessment year 2015-16 wherein payment made by assessee-trust towards car hire charges to trustee were disallowed as car was never given on rent to assessee-trust. Accordingly, Assessing Officer held that car hire charges paid by assessee during relevant assessment year was also in violation of fiduciary relation between trust and trustee. He made addition by invoking provisions of section 13(1)(c) read with section 13(3)(cc) and withdrew benefit of exemption under section 11. On appeal the CIT(A) affirmed the reassessment. On appeal the Tribunal held that specific query in relation to vehicle hiring charges was raised during relevant assessment proceedings and in response to same assessee had made disclosure of primary facts and furnished supporting documents during regular scrutiny assessment proceedings. Since in reasons recorded for reopening assessment there was nothing to indicate that reopening was sought on ground of failure on part of assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for framing assessment, initiation of reassessment proceedings under section 147 could not be sustained. Reassessment order is quashed. (AY. 2014-15)

Held that assessee, except in a case of reference to the TPO, extended time-limit of 12 months for completion of assessment as per S. 153(4) is not available even in a case of non-resident, even though the said assessment proceedings are covered under S. 144C of the Act. Additional ground on limitation is admitted. On the facts the notice was issued under s. 148 on 29th March, 2021 and served in the month of April, 2021. Reassessment on the basis of report from Investigation Wing. The Tribunal affirmed the reassessment order. During the course of survey under S. 133A, proprietor Swastic Corporation confessed that three transactions are non-genuine. The first transaction made on 27th Jan., 2015 pertains to the financial year 2014-15. Therefore, no addition in respect of the aforesaid transaction can be made in the year under consideration. As regards the other two transactions which were made in the relevant year, the assessee could not furnish documents to prove the delivery of goods by Swastic Corporation even during the appellate proceedings. Further, the assessee could not co-ordinate the purchases with the corresponding sales. It is evident that the assessee has failed to prove the genuineness of the aforesaid two purchases made from Swastic Corporation. The matter is

S. 147 : Reassessment-Assessment order passed by non-jurisdictional AO-Invalid transfer on request of assessee-Mandate of law is not followed-Notice and order are bad in law.[S.114B, 127(4), 139A(5), 143(3), 148, 272B]

On the facts, the ITO at Muktsar transferred assessee's case to ITO, Ward 4(1), Chandigarh and the case was finally transferred to ITO, Ward 4(5), Chandigarh. The prescribed authority i.e., senior officer of the Department, has not exercised the power of transfer within the meaning of S. 127. Consequently, the issue of transfer, even though triggered at the instance of assessee, ought to have gone through the rigours of S. 127. Though the transfer was effected at the instance of the assessee, it lacks statutory teeth and the assessee has rightly agitated the same by way of a legal issue. It is the duty of the ITO, at Muktsar to have brought the issue to the notice of his superior officers to set in motion the provisions of S. 127, which he has not done. As there is no valid order of transfer under S. 127. The ITO, at Muktsar and ITO, Ward-4(1) Chandigarh usurped the power of their senior officers by transferring the case of the assessee in a manner not known to law. Consequently, the transfer to ITO, Ward 4(5), Chandigarh is bad in law. Since the assessment order is not as per S. 127, protection of s. 127(4) is not available to the Revenue. Consequently, notice under S. 148 which was issued by ITO, at Muktsar is bad in law. Therefore, all subsequent proceedings are bad in law and illegal. (AY. 2012-13)

Assessee company issued equity shares at a premium of a certain amount to shareholders of amalgamating company in pursuance of approved amalgamation scheme. It filed its return of income declaring certain loss which was scrutinised and an assessment order was passed under section 143(3). The AO reopened the assessment on the ground that the assessee had issued equity shares at a premium of an amount which was more than fair market value and, thus, it had resulted in under-assessment of income in the hands of the assessee. On appeal, the CIT(A) held that the issue of share premium was duly examined by the Assessing Officer in the original scrutiny assessment proceedings and formed his opinion about non-applicability of the provision of section 56(2)(viib). Further, the Assessing Officer did not have any fresh tangible material to form an opinion that there was any escapement of income. Also, the Assessing Officer failed to establish that the assessee did not disclose all material facts during the original assessment. The reassessment order was quashed. On appeal the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A) (AY. 2015-16)

The assessment was reopened on the basis of information from the Investigating Wing indicating that assessee had indulged in bogus transactions through commodity trading via client code modification. On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that all transactions had taken place on NSEL platform and income derived from such transactions had been offered to tax. Reassessment is quashed. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee has established that the assessee has established that its own funds were utilized to conduct transactions on the NSEL platform. As per information received from ACIT (Benami Prohibition), assessee had purchased immovable property in name of another person (Bhanupratap) in cash. Assessing Officer reopened assessment and made additions in hands of assessee treating same as unexplained investment under section 69. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that issue of benami transaction was under adjudication before authorities under PBPT Act, 1988 which is pending for adjudication before ATPML. Accordingly the matter is restored matter back to file of Assessing Officer with direction to adjudicate case of assessee afresh, taking into cognizance of orders of authorities under PBPT Act, 1988. AO issued a show cause notice u/s 148; the assessee failed to file a return in response. Since the assessee did not reply to any notices, AO added the entire cash deposit to the income u/s 69A. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on grounds of limitation. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the CIT(A) has not exercised his jurisdiction under section 249(3) for condoning the delay even though the delay was only of 50 days. On the issue of reopening, the Tribunal held that the AO had enough information about cash credit in the bank account of the Assessee and sufficiency or correctness of the material was not a thing to be considered at the stage of reopening, as held by Raymond Woolen Mills Ltd. v. ITO (1999) 236 ITR 34 (SC). With regard to addition under Section 69A to the income, the tribunal held that the entire transaction/credit entry in the bank can never be the income of the assessee, particularly when the bank account demonstrates that the amount deposited in the bank was immediately debited by way of clearance; only a reasonable estimation of income would be sufficient to avoid the possibility of revenue leakage. Appeal partly allowed. Income of the assessee is estimated at 10 per cent of cash credit and other credit. (AY. 2012-13)

The scrutiny assessment was completed under Section 143(3) 29-12-2017. The assessment was reopened in 31-7-2022 based on a search action in the case of Himanshu Verma and others, wherein it was alleged that the assessee facilitated accommodation entries through shell companies. The reassessment proceedings resulted in an addition of ₹39,75,00,000 under Section 68 on the grounds that the assessee failed to establish the identity, creditworthiness, and genuineness of loan transactions. The CIT(A) upheld the reassessment. On appeal, the ITAT quashed the reassessment, holding that TOLA did not apply as the limitation period expired before 20.03.2020. Relying on UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 138 taxmann.com 64 (SC) and UOI v. Rajeev Bansal (2024) 167 taxmann.com 70 (SC), the Tribunal held that the notice under Section 148 was barred by limitation. S. 148 : Reassessment-Notice-Notice through his Chartered Accountant-No notice was issued within period of limitation-Service of notice to Chartered Accountant was not valid service of notice-High Court quashed the reassessment notice-SLP delay of 327 days-Explanation rendered for delay was not satisfactory, SLP was dismissed on ground of delay and laches. [S. 149(1)(b), Art. 136]

Reassessment proceedings were initiated by issuing notice on 15-3-2016 by Assessing Officer. Assessee filed writ petition on ground that on 13-04-2016, for first time, he was served with notice under section 148(1) through his Chartered Accountant and, thus, no notice was issued within period of limitation as prescribed under section 149(1)(b) read with section 148(1) and, therefore, initiation of proceeding for reassessment was barred by limitation. Single Judge allowed writ petition holding that no notice was served to assessee under section 148(1) and service of notice to Chartered Accountant was not service at all. High Court held that had it been a case of revenue that notice was served upon assessee before 31-03-2016, then why they have again issued notice through Chartered Accountant on 13-04-2016 was not understood and, therefore, notice under section 148 issued on 13-04-2016 was after period of limitation, i.e., dated 31-03-2016. The notice was quashed. Revenue filed SLP which was delay of 327 days. Court held that explanation rendered for said delay was not satisfactory, hence SLP was dismissed on the grounds of delay and laches. (AY. 2009-10)

S. 148: Reassessment-Amalgamation-Notice issued to non-existent company-Order is non-est and void-SLP of revenue dismissed. [S. 147, Art. 136]

The assessee-company, by a communication dated 28-4-2021, informed the Assessing Officer about the factum of non-existence of company Elitecore Technologies Private Limited ("ETPL") on account of its amalgamation with the assessee-company with effect from 29-9-2015 and emphasised that since notice had been issued in the name of a non-existing entity, the same was non est and void ab initio. Despite objections of the assessee, the Assessing Officer issued a fresh notice requiring the non-existent entity to show cause as to why the proposed variation should not be made and passed an assessment order against it, followed by a penalty notice and a demand notice. The High Court held that since notice under section 148, assessment order, as also penalty notice and demand notice, had been issued in the name of a non-existent entity despite having been informed about the factum of amalgamation, the assessment order and notices were untenable and set aside. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

The High Court, allowing the assessee's writ petition against notices of reassessment, held that the notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 had been issued (not served) on April 1, 2021 or on a later date, that since the notice had been dispatched from the Department on or after April 1, 2021 which itself was beyond the period of limitation, the notice issued under section 148, dated March 31, 2021, was barred by limitation under sections 148 and 149, since the notice had left the Income-tax Business Application portal on or after April 1, 2021 and that therefore, it was unsustainable. S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Merger-Tribunal quashed the order-No specific direction for reassessment-Section 150 could not be invoked-Notice was time-barred and invalid under section 149.[S. 149, 150]

Assessee-company was engaged in the business of development and export of software. Assessing Officer passed in name of a company that existed prior to the merger with assessee. Tribunal quashed the order, reserving liberty to revenue to take action in accordance with law. Pursuant to said order, a notice was issued under section 148 read with section 150 proposing to reopen assessment of assessee for assessment year 2008-09 in year 2019. Assessee objected to the same on the ground that notice was issued 10 years after assessment. On writ the Court held that the Tribunal set aside assessment order on the ground that the assessment order was passed in the name of the merged company and not in the name of the assessee and it did not give any finding or direction for reopening the assessment. Section 150 enables revenue to reopen an assessment pursuant to an order in appeal, but on twin conditions, i.e., to give effect to any finding or direction. Notice under section 148 could not be saved by the addition of section 150 as it did not satisfy two conditions with regard to findings in furtherance of the order in appeal and direction as contained in section 150 and, thus, reopening of assessment was barred by the time limit prescribed under section 149(1)(a) or (b) of the Act. Assessee filed a writ petition contending that satisfaction note of Assessing Officer exercising jurisdiction in respect of assessee was recorded on 27.8.2024. Court held that since the satisfaction note was recorded during financial year 2024-25, period of ten years was required to be considered from end of assessment year 2025-26 and, thus, assessment year 2014-15 fell beyond ten-year block period; therefore, impugned notice issued under section 148 was barred by limitation. Assessing Officer passed an order disposing of objections raised by the assessee. However, it was found that the Assessing Officer had not dealt with objections raised by the assessee. objections followed by cross objections are an endless process, which should end at a certain point in time, was not justified. Assessee expired on 13-8-2016. Assessing Officer issued reassessment notice in the name of deceased assessee on 6-4-2022-Petitioner, son of deceased assessee, filed writ petition seeking to quash reassessment notice and order passed under section 148A(d) and section 147. Allowing the petition, the Court held that the petitioner informed the Assessing Officer about the demise of assessee vide communication dated 22-5-2018. This communication bore endorsement of receipt, and along with this communication, the death certificate was enclosed. The department had notice of assessee's demise by May 2018; despite notice final orders were issued in the name of the deceased assessee. Court held that once it was established that assessee had expired by the time notices were issued and the department had knowledge of demise, there was no justification for issuing notices. Since no notices were issued to legal representatives and notices were issued to the dead person, notices or orders made could not bind legal representatives. Notices and orders were quashed and set aside.

A notice under section 148 was issued in the case of assessee. Assessee filed objections against said notice contending that information pertaining to some other assessee was attached to said notice. However, an order rejecting objections of the assessee was passed without considering said error. On writ, the Court held that while issuing the impugned notice under section 148, respondents by pure inadvertence had annexed/attached information pertaining to some other individual/assessee and not assessee. Since such aspect appeared to be an error or mistake and neither deliberate nor wilful, no fatality could be said to attach to issuance of notice under section 148. Notice issued under section 148, to the extent that it reflected information of some other person, shall be rectified by respondents. not on the assessee's residence or registered office-Assessee relegated to remedies at Kolkata. [Art. 226]

Where reassessment notices under S. 148 were issued by income-tax officials at Kolkata and the entire record, material and assessing jurisdiction were also situated in Kolkata, the Bombay High Court held that the mere fact that the assessee had its registered office in Mumbai was not sufficient to confer writ jurisdiction. Even if a minuscule part of the cause of action could be said to have arisen in Mumbai, that by itself could not compel the Court to exercise discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226. The jurisdiction depends on the location of the authority passing the impugned order/notice, and the residence or location of the affected person is irrelevant. Applying the principle of forum conveniens, the Court held that the interest of justice would be served by relegating the assessee to avail remedies before the appropriate forum at Kolkata. The High Court held that a notice issued under section 148 is merely a show-cause notice initiating reassessment proceedings, and ordinarily no writ will lie at this preliminary stage when an effective alternative remedy exists. Challenges to such notices under Article 226 should be rare since entertaining them results in unnecessary delay of pending proceedings. In the present case, the assessee contended that the notice was issued without complying with Notification No. SO 1466(E), dated March 29, 2022. However, since reassessment proceedings were still pending, the assessee had full liberty to file a reply and raise all objections before the Assessing Officer. There was no justification for the court to interfere at this stage, and the writ petition was dismissed.

S. 148 : Reassessment-Notice-Income-tax-Existence of alternative remedy-Writ petition dismissed. [Art. 226]

Dismissing the writ petition, the Court held that the assessee had not challenged the notice and had permitted the Assessing Officer to pass the assessment order. The assessee having raised the dispute on the satisfaction note as well as on the merits, it could not be said that the controversy arising in the petition was purely legal because it involved disputed questions of fact as to whether or not the satisfaction note of the Assessing Officer pertained to the incriminating material which has direct relation with the income escaped during the assessment year and for that documentary evidence was required to be appreciated. Hence the writ petition was not maintainable. Referred Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. v. Excise and Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority, (2023) 109 GST 402 (SC); 2023 SCC OnLine SC 95. (AY. 2016-17)

On writ, the Court held that there was some basis for reopening the assessment. However, the assessee had placed additional documents on record. These documents indicated that the assessee transferred the shares to S on February 12, 2015. If the documents were found to be valid and genuine on verification, they indicated that the share transfer took place during the financial year 2014-2015 and not 2015-2016. This would have a material impact on the reassessment proceedings initiated by the Assessing Officer. Assessee-company is undergoing Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP). A resolution plan was approved by NCLT. As per resolution plan, value of all dues including income tax dues was treated as nil and was deemed to have been fully discharged and settled for any period prior to closing date. After resolution plan had been given effect to, department initiated reassessment proceedings against assessee by issuing a notice under section 148. On facts, issue of notice under section 148 to assessee company after approval of resolution plan for a period prior to closing date was invalid and bad in law, having been issued contrary to provisions of Code and Resolution Plan. Court also held that the Assessing Officer should modify demand giving effect to order of adjudicating Authority in Corporate Insolvency process under Code. S. 148 : Reassessment-Notice-Death of assessee-Notice in name of deceased assessee-Notice is not valid.[S. 147, 159, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the documents revealed that the petitioner had duly informed the Department regarding the death of the assessee by acknowledging the notice sent by the Department and also to the verification team. Since the notices were issued and orders were passed in the year 2021, i. e., much after the death of the assessee on February 14, 2015, in the name of the deceased person without bringing on record the legal heir or legal representative under section 159, they were liable to be quashed and set aside. Court also observed that merely because the Department was not intimated about the death of the assessee, that cannot, by itself, extend the period of limitation prescribed under the statute. There is no statutory obligation on the part of the legal representatives of the deceased assessee to immediately intimate the death of the assessee or take steps to cancel the permanent account number registration. [S. 147,152(2), 226(3), 263, Art. 226]

The original assessee passed away on 11th July, 2013 and after his demise, he was declared as an insolvent by order dt. 9th Aug., 2017 and in which the petitioner was also one of the legal heirs and that the Official Assignee has taken charge of the entire estate, issuing notices and assessment orders one after another to the petitioner in the name of the dead person, who is the original assessee, by the respondents are not sustainable. On

Held that a notice or proceedings drawn against a dissolved company or one which no longer exists in law would invalidate proceedings beyond repair. The Pr. CIT v. Maruti Suzuki India Ltd. It is noted that in this batch of writ petitions and in light of the disclosures which have been made, the assessee clearly appear to have apprised their respective Assessing Officers of the factum of amalgamation and merger at the first available instance. If the respondents chose to ignore or acknowledge those fundamental changes, they would have to bear the consequences which would follow. Once the Scheme came to be approved, the transferor companies came to be dissolved by operation of law. They, thus, ceased to exist in the eyes of law. Proceedings, thus, drawn in their name would be a nullity and cannot be validated by resort to section 292B. (AY. 2012 13 to 2019-20)

S. 148 : Re-assessment-Notice-Notice issued in the name of amalgamating company instead of amalgamated company-Not a curable defect-Notice is invalid. [S.260A, 292B].

The Hon'ble Calcutta High Court decided an appeal under S. 260-A of the Act dealing with the question whether the reopening of the assessment was valid in law, inasmuch as, the notice was admittedly sent to a non-existing entity. It was observed that the assessing officer was aware of the amalgamation even at the time when proceedings were initiated under S. 147 of the Act pursuant to the notice dated 6.12.2018. Apart from that in the reasons to believe which was appended to the notice the AO has specifically referred to the details regarding the amalgamation. Therefore, the submission of the Revenue was not accepted. Further, so far as filing of return in the name of the assessee company prior to its amalgamation was an event which could not be avoided by the assessee and in any event mere filing of such return cannot be taken to be a ground to cure the inherent defect which goes to the root of the matter. Accordingly, the appeal was dismissed.(AY. 2011-12)

S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Claim for deduction of interest-Intimation is not an order of assessment-Assessment for the first time under section 147-Entitle for permissible deductions under the law.[S.43B, 143(1) 147]

The assessee filed original return and revised return of income prior to the issuance of any notice under section 148. The assessee had claimed deduction of interest paid to financial institutions and banks during the previous years relevant to the assessment years 1999-2000 and 2000-01. No intimation under section 143(1)(a) was sent by the Assessing Officer. Even if the acknowledgment of return was treated to be an intimation under section 143(1)(a), yet it was not an assessment order. Since there was no original assessment proceeding and assessment order, the question of reassessment did not arise. The order passed by the Assessing Officer to not a reassessment order but an assessment order pursuant to the original and revised returns filed by the assessee. The assessee claimed interest as deductible expenditure under section 43B and its admissibility was not disputed by the Assessing Officer. The proceedings before the Assessing Officer not being reassessment proceedings, the assessee had lawfully claimed interest as a deductible expenditure which the Assessing Officer was bound to have allowed. The charge of tax was on the income and not on gross receipts. It was the profits and gains of business or profession which had to be computed after deducting the losses and expenditures incurred for business. Interest is an allowable expenditure. S. 148: Reassessment-Income of any other person-Search-Search material pertains to third party-Notice of reassessment under Section 148 is held without jurisdiction-Section 153C and not Section 148 is to be resorted to-Notice of reassessment is quashed and set aside. [S. 132, 147, 151(1), 153A, 153C, Art. 226]

The petitioner, a partnership firm engaged in manufacturing and trading gold and diamond jewellery, filed its return of income for AY 2012-13 on 28.09.2012. On 04.10.2018, a search under Section 132 was conducted at the premises of Shilpi Jewellers Pvt. Ltd., during which incriminating materials, including loose papers and electronic data, were seized. No direct incriminating material was found against the petitioner. The AO issued a notice under Section 148 on 29.03.2019, alleging escapement of income for AY 2012-13 and initiated reassessment proceedings. The primary objection raised by the petitioner was to the effect that the assessment could have been made only under Section 153C and not under Section 147 since the notice was based on search material from a third party. The petitioner also dealt with each of the reasons on the merits, to contend that no case was made out for reopening of the assessment on such materials. It was contended that the reopening under Section 147 was without jurisdiction and violated legal provisions. The AO rejected the objections, stating that since the search was conducted in AY 2019-20, Section 153A did not apply to AY 2012-13, and proceeded under Section 147. On writ the Bombay High Court, relying on the Supreme Court's decision in PCIT v. Abhisar Buildwell Pvt. Ltd. (2023) 149 taxmann.com 399/293 Taxman 141/444 ITR 212 (SC), Shyam Sunder Khandelwal v. The Court held that the AO lacked jurisdiction under Section 147, rendering the notice invalid. Consequently, the court quashed and set aside the notice under Section 148 and allowed the petition. despite the respondents' knowledge of its non-existence-Notice is quashed and set aside. [S. 2(31), 292B, 148A, 151, 292B, Art. 226]

The petitioner company, City Corporation Limited (CCL), merged with its subsidiary company, Amanora Future Towers Pvt. Ltd. (AFTPL) in 2018, as per the order of the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT). The petitioner informed the Income Tax Department of the merger in 2020. However, in 2023, the ACIT issued a notice under Section 148 to AFTPL on its pre-merger PAN, despite the fact that AFTPL had ceased to exist after the merger. The petitioner filed writ challenging the notice on the ground that since AFTPL was a non-existent entity, no notice could have been issued to it. Relying on the Supreme Court decision in Maruti Suzuki India Ltd. v. PCIT (2019) 107 taxmann.com 375 /265 Taxman 515/ 416 ITR 613 (SC), the court held that issuing a notice to a non-existent company is a substantive illegality and not merely a procedural lapse under Section 292B. The court quashed and set aside the notice, emphasising that procedural compliance is critical and cannot be ignored even if a technical glitch occurs. S. 148: Reassessment-Notice issued to deceased person-Legal heir informing Department of death-Reassessment void ab initio.[S.147, 159(2)(b)]

The assessee had expired before issuance of the notice under section 148. During the reassessment proceedings, the legal heir informed the Department of the death and furnished the death certificate. Despite being aware of the death, the Assessing Officer neither issued a fresh notice to the legal heir under section 159 nor substituted the legal representative, but completed the reassessment in the name of the deceased. The Tribunal held that a notice issued to a dead person is a nullity in law and the Department, having failed to invoke section 159(2)(b), could not sustain the reassessment. The assessment was therefore void ab initio. (AY. 2012-13).

S. 148: Reassessment-Notice under section 143(2) issued before return filed in response to notice under section 148-Reassessment invalid.[S. 143(2), 147]

The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 143(2) before the assessee requested that the original return be treated as the return filed in response to notice under section 148. No fresh notice under section 143(2) was issued thereafter. The Tribunal held that issuance of a valid notice under section 143(2) after the filing of the return in response to section 148 is a mandatory jurisdictional requirement. Failure to issue such notice rendered the reassessment orders invalid. (AY. 2009-10 & 2010-11).

However, the notice under section 148 was issued by the Income-tax Officer, Meerut, who had no jurisdiction over the assessee. The case was subsequently transferred to the jurisdictional Assessing Officer at Saharanpur. The Tribunal held that the initiation of reassessment proceedings by a non-jurisdictional Assessing Officer was without authority of law and the subsequent transfer did not cure the defect. The reassessment was quashed. (AY. 2010-11).

The assessee, a non-resident citizen of the United States, was issued a notice under section 148 by an Assessing Officer having no jurisdiction over non-resident assesseees. Subsequently, the Assessing Officer (International Taxation) completed the reassessment on the basis of the same notice without issuing a fresh notice under section 148. The Tribunal held that the original notice itself was without jurisdiction and could not confer authority upon the Assessing Officer (International Taxation). Consequently, the reassessment proceedings were held to be void ab initio. Delay of 57 days was condoned. (AY. 2012-13).

S.148: Reassessment-Notice-Issued notice without disposing of assessee's objections-Breach of principle of natural justice-Reassessment order was quashed.[S. 147, 153A]

The AO failed to dispose of the assessee's objections before passing the reassessment order. The ITAT observed that when an assessee files objections against a reassessment notice, the AO is required to first address and dispose of those objections in a separate, formal order and only after communicating this decision can the AO proceed with the final assessment. Since the AO bypassed this mandatory step entirely and issued the final reassessment order without ruling on the assessee's objections, the ITAT held that the entire assessment was in breach of the principle of natural justice and thus was void. S. 148: Reassessment-Unexplained money-Undisclosed foreign bank account-Notice u/s 143(2) was not issued within specified time limit-Reassessment was completed beyond period of limitation, exchange of information came into operation from the first day of April, 2011 whereas the relevant financial year corresponding to the assessment year 2007-08 is from 01.04.2006 to 31.03.2007-Reassessment order is quashed as time barred. [S.69A 133A, 143(2) 147,]

On the basis of information received from the 'French' Government indicating that the assessee was maintaining a foreign bank account in HSBC Geneva, Switzerland. The said information is commonly known as the base note in relation to a bank account. The said base note contains personal details of the assessee including his name, date of birth, place of birth, sex, nationality along with date of opening bank account and amount of the balance in a particular year. Subsequently, a survey u/s 133A of the Act was carried out on 30.09.2011 by the Investigation Wing of the Income-tax Department, Mumbai. During the survey proceedings, the assessee was confronted with the information related to the foreign bank account, then, he accepted the amount lying in the foreign bank account as undisclosed income in his hands. In view of the information received coupled with the finding during the course of the survey proceedings, the Assessing Officer recorded reasons to believe that income escaped assessment and issued notice u/s 148 of the Act on 30.03.2012. During the course of the reassessment proceedings, a summon u/s 131 of the Act was also issued to the assessee. Further a show cause notice was also issued on 23.10.2013 calling upon as why the balance amount of Rs.19,48,46,625/- equivalent to USD 43,29,943 (@ 45 INR per USD) should not be added to the total income of the assessee. The assessee contended that the said account was neither opened nor operated or controlled by him. The Ld. Assessing Officer related the balance lying in the foreign bank account of Rs.19,48,46,625/- as unexplained income as part of total income of the assessee u/s 69A of the Act. CIT (A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal allowing the appeal the Tribunal quashed the reassessment on the ground that no notice u/s 143(2) was issued within specified time, reassessment was completed beyond period of limitation, exchange of information came into operation from the first day of April, 2011 whereas the relevant financial year corresponding to the assessment year 2007-08 is from 01.04.2006 to 31.03.2007 and therefore, said protocol was not in operation during the period relevant to the assessment year therefore, this reference which was sent by the AO in the year under consideration was invalid. The Tribunal also observed that an addition has been made on the basis of a photocopy of a document commonly known as a base note of bank account with HSBC Geneva. The said base note was obtained by a non-official route by the French government, and then the same has been forwarded to the Indian government. But the existence of said bank account has not been confirmed by HSBC, Geneva. Therefore, no addition can be sustained on merit also. As the reassessment is quashed, the Tribunal has not decided the issue on merits. Followed. Shri Pravin Sawhney v. ACIT in ITA No. 1539-1544/Mum/2017 ACIT v. Sh. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) requiring the assessee to furnish information with respect to the source, genuineness and creditworthiness of persons who gave loans to the assessee just after its incorporation. The assessee filed a detailed reply objecting to the validity of said notice on the ground that such notice did not disclose any information with regard to escaped income of the assessee, but it was in the nature of an inquiry to be conducted under section 148A(a). Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) rejecting the assessee's objection and issued a notice under section 148 for reopening of assessment. On writ, the High Court held that the notice issued under section 148A(b) could not have been issued for verification on the part of the Assessing Officer; hence, the notice was quashed. High Court dismissed the assessee's writ petition against the order under section 148A(d) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and the notice of reassessment under section 148 issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer, instead of the officer under the faceless scheme, holding that when there was no dispute that the jurisdictional Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to issue the order and notices in question, the order and the notices issued by him were not in compliance with the scheme notified by the Central Government implementing the provisions of section 151A of the Act which was in the nature of a subordinate legislation governing the conduct of proceedings under section 148A and section 148 of the Act, and that thus the order and notice were invalid and the proceedings initiated under section 148 of the Act were not sustainable. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Satisfaction of Assessing Officer at notice stage is sufficient for reopening-SLP of assessee dismissed. [S. 147, 148A (b), 148A (d), Art. 136]

The assessee filed his return of income, which was later sought to be reopened on the ground that he had made bogus purchases from non-existent or accommodation entry providers. The assessee argued that the information relied upon by the Assessing Officer related to income already disclosed in the return and, therefore, there was no escapement of income. It was noted that at stage of issuance of notice under section 148, the Assessing Officer was not required to conclusively determine income that escaped assessment. Assessing Officer was required to be satisfied that there were reasons that indicated that assessee's income had escaped assessment. High Court, by impugned order, held that since the Assessing Officer had, at threshold stage examined response furnished by assessee and had found it a fit case to continue with re-assessment proceedings, the impugned reopening notice issued against the assessee was justified. It was also held that even going through the materials on record, there was no good reason to interfere with the impugned order passed by the High Court. Hon Supreme Court held that SLP filed by assessee against impugned order of High Court was to be dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-A reassessment notice that was already time-barred before 1-4-2021 under the erstwhile law cannot be revived by applying Sec. 149(1)(b) (w.e.f. 1-4-2021)-Reassessment proceedings (including those routed through Ashish Agarwal judgement) would still be beyond limitation-the Revenue's SLP was dismissed for delay.[S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, TOLA, 2020, S. 3 Art. 136]

The dispute concerns reassessment proceedings initiated through orders under Sec. 148A(d) and notices under Sec. 148 with the central issue being limitation/time-bar considering Sec. 149 (as amended w.e.f. 1-4-2021). The Assessee contended that the matter is covered by the Bombay High Court ruling in New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. ACIT, i.e., notices already time-barred prior to 1-4-2021 cannot be revived by applying Sec. 149(1)(b) effective from 1-4-2021, and reassessments initiated pursuant to Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal would also be beyond the time limit.

Revenue agreed with the assessee's submission before the High Court. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court quashed Sec. 148A (d) orders and Sec. 148 notices as beyond limitation. The Department, despite agreement, filed an SLP before the Hon'ble Supreme Court ('SC'). The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the SLP on the ground of unexplained delay.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Non-application of mind-Notice and consequential order was quashed by High Court-Delay of 331 days-SLP of revenue was dismissed as the delay has not been satisfactorily explained. [S. 50C, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

Assessing Officer issued on assessee a notice under section 148A(b) on ground that there was violation of provisions of section 50C and passed order under section 148A(d) and issued to the assessee a notice under section 148 seeking to reopen the assessment. On writ, the High Court held that the Assessing Officer, before issuing a notice must have satisfied himself that what he wrote made sense, and even the Principal Commissioner, who granted sanction should have also applied his mind and satisfied himself that the order passed under section 148A(d) was being issued correctly by applying his mind. High Court further held that since there was nothing in the notice to explain as to how, if the transaction amount was less than the stamp duty value, there could be escapement of any income, particularly in hands of a buyer, the impugned notices and order were to be set aside. On appeal the Court held that since delay of

331 days in filing SLP had not been satisfactorily explained, the SLP filed by the revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained investments-Writ against issue of notice under section 148 was dismissed-Assessee filed SLP against order of High Court-Assessee sought permission to withdraw SLP with liberty to file review before High Court-SLP filed against order was to be dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file review before High Court.[S. 131(1A), 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

Assessee-charitable society filed nil return for the relevant assessment year. Notice under section 131(1A) was issued by the Investigation Wing to submit details with respect to donations paid by assessee. Assessing Officer, based on ex parte report, issued notice under section 148A(b) and thereafter, an order was passed under section 148A(d). Assessee had filed writ challenging order passed under section 148A(d) and notice issued under section 148 on ground that impugned order was passed mechanically without application of mind. Court held that from perusal of report that during course of proceedings before Investigation Wing assessee did not produce any supporting documentary evidence in respect to donation paid. High Court held that merits of information referable to section 148A would remain subject to reassessment proceedings initiated vide notice under section 148, thus issues which required determination at stage of reassessment proceedings and in respect of which departmental remedy was otherwise available would not require to be determined at stage of decision by Assessing Officer under section 148A(d) and thus, impugned order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 would not warrant any interference under article 226 as challenge to such order would be available to assessee while challenging order passed in reassessment proceedings consequent to notice issued under section 148. Assessee filed SLP against the order of High Court, but subsequently it sought permission to withdraw SLP with liberty to file review before High Court. SLP filed against the order was to be dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file a review before the High Court. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry and providing opportunity before issue of notice-Information received under risk management strategy framed by CBDT-Approval of Principal Commissioner obtained-AO cannot be compelled to obtain two identical approvals under sections 148A and 151-SLP dismissed. [S. 148, 151, Art. 136]

The Delhi High Court upheld the notice issued under section 148 for A.Y. 2021-22. It held that merely because information relating to the assessee surfaced during a search on another group, it did not rule out the Assessing Officer having also received information in accordance with the risk management strategy formulated by the CBDT for purposes of section 148A. The Court further held that where the Assessing Officer had already obtained approval of the Principal Commissioner for issuance of notice under section 148, the assessee could not insist on a second, identical approval under clause (c) of the proviso to section 148A read with section 151, as the requirement was substantially the same. Accordingly, the challenge to the reassessment notice failed. The Supreme Court dismissed the SLP filed against the High Court judgment. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Where High Court, while issuing notice in writ petition, permitted assessment proceedings to continue but directed that final assessment order, if passed, shall not be given effect to till disposal of writ petition-High Court ultimately quashing notice under section 148A(b), order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148-Assessee stating before Supreme Court that it intended to challenge completed assessment order on merits independently and not on grounds urged in writ petition-Revenue's appeal held not required to be examined and dismissed. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

The assessee, a non-resident, had received consideration under a single agreement for grant of exclusive telecast rights of league matches for assessment years 2016-17 to 2018-19. The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(b) on the ground that tax had not been deducted at source from receipts allegedly chargeable to tax in India, thereafter passed an order under section 148A(d) and issued notice under section 148. In writ proceedings, the High Court, at the stage of issuing notice, clarified that reassessment proceedings could continue, but any final assessment order passed would not be given effect to and would remain subject to further orders of the Court. Subsequently, the High Court held that the Assessing Officer's view that there was no basis for bifurcation of receipts in the ratio of 95 per cent and 5 per cent was perverse in light of the agreement and accordingly quashed the notice under section 148A(b), order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148. On Revenue's appeal, the Supreme Court held that since a final assessment order had already been passed and the assessee stated that it intended to challenge that assessment independently on its own merits, and not on the grounds urged in the writ petition against the section 148A(d) order, there was no good reason for the Court to examine the Department's appeal. Accordingly, the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2016-17 to 2018-19)

SLP filed by the assessee against the order of High Court was dismissed. [S. 143(3), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

The assessee had filed its return, which was processed, and an assessment order was passed. The assessee received a reopening notice under section 148. The assessee filed a writ petition alleging that the notice under section 148 was issued without passing a mandatory order under section 148A(d) and objections filed by it had not been disposed. High Court held that in none of the replies sent in response to the notice under section 148 assessee had even raised this ground of order under section 148A(d) not having been passed. High Court further held that the assessee had responded to three notices issued under section 142(1), and a personal hearing was also granted, but this ground was never raised. High Court held that since the Assessing Officer had passed a well-detailed order after rebutting the assessee's contentions, the assessee should be directed to adopt the alternate remedy of appeal against the assessment order. incorrect name in original notice-Reassessment proceedings under fresh notice valid-SLP of assessee dismissed.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

Dismissing the petition on writ the Court held that the notice could not be construed as a notice under section 148 and was required to be considered as a notice under section 148A(b). The notice dated July 29, 2022 was issued under section 148 after following the procedure as prescribed under section 148A and was in the name of the assessee and, therefore, could not be faulted on account of the notice having been issued in the name of a non-existent company. The reassessment proceedings under section 147 in respect of the assessment year 2014-2015 were now being continued pursuant to the notice issued under section 148 and not the notice, which was to be construed as a notice under section 148A(b). On a writ petition against an order under section 148A(d) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, directing issuance of notice under section 148 of the Act, the High Court ordered a remand to the Assessing Officer. Upon the remand the Assessing Officer again passed an order under section 148A(d) directing issuance of notice under section 148. On a writ petition, the High Court held, dismissing the petition, (i) that pursuant to the remand order of the court in the earlier writ petition, the Assessing Officer had once again examined the assessee's response to the notice under section 148A(b) and passed a fresh order under section 148A(d) for issue of notice under section 148 finding that there was information which had remained unexplained, that the alleged bogus purchases required verification and that the assessee had not produced sufficient material to establish the movements of goods. The court also held that the issue of jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer in light of the provisions for faceless assessment would abide by the decision in petitions pending before the court, and that the Assessing Officer had at the threshold stage examined the response furnished by the assessee and had found it to be a fit case to continue with the reassessment proceedings. SLP of the assessee was dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

The Supreme Court dismissed the Revenue's SLP (with a delay of 248 days) against the judgment of the Bombay High Court. The Bombay High Court had quashed the reassessment notice dated 05.04.2022 issued for AY 2018-19 on the ground that the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) lacked jurisdiction to issue notice u/s 148 once the faceless regime under section 151A (Notification dated 29.03.2022) had come into force. Only the Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO) could issue such notice through automated allocation. Relying on Hexaware Technologies Ltd v. ACIT (2024) 464 ITR 430 Bom)(HC) the Court held that there is no concurrent jurisdiction between JAO and FAO, and any contrary view would render the faceless scheme redundant. Additionally, since the reassessment was initiated beyond 3 years, sanction had to be obtained from higher authority u/s 151(ii), as held in Siemens Financial Services Pvt. Ltd v. Dy.CIT (2023) 154 taxmann.com 159/ 457 ITR 647 (Bom HC) and Vodafone Idea Ltd v. Dy.CIT (2024) 468 ITR 346 (Bom HC). Since the sanction was wrongly granted by PCIT under s.151(i), the approval itself was invalid. The Bombay High Court therefore declared the notice and order u/s 148A(d) as void and without jurisdiction. The Supreme Court refused to interfere and dismissed the SLP both on delay as well as merits. (AY. 2018-19)

Assessee filed Writ Petitions and submitted that all these petitions will be covered by judgment of New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. ACIT [2024] 158 taxmann.com 367 (Bom)(HC) wherein it was held that, a notice, which had become time barred prior to 1-4-2021 as per then prevailing provisions, would not be revived by virtue of application of section 149(1)(b) effective from 1-4-2021, hence, reassessment proceedings initiated pursuant to judgment in Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal [2022] 138 taxmann.com 64/286 Taxman 183/444 ITR 1 (SC) would also be regarded as beyond time limit. Revenue agreed with the submissions of assessee. High Court held that orders passed under section 148A(d) and notices issued under section 148 in respective petitions were to be quashed and set aside. On SLP, the Court held that the issue involved in SLP was covered in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 167 taxmann.com 70/301 Taxman 238 (SC). SLP filed by the revenue against the order of the High Court was disposed of. The Assessing Officer will dispose of the objections in terms of law laid down by the apex court in Rajeev Bansal (Supra). The assessee is given liberty to pursue all the rights and remedies in accordance with law.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Difference between remittance-sheet and account statement of various parties of bank-Reassessment was quashed earlier-Merely on ground that this being a new regime of reassessment after 1-4-2021, scope was enlarged by amended provisions for reopening-Reopening notice was to be quashed and set aside-SLP filed by revenue against order of High Court was dismissed. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

Notice under section 148A(b) was issued to assessee on the ground that in the survey conducted in the case of Jammu & Kashmir Bank, wherein assessee transacted, it was found that there was a difference between the remittance sheet and account statement of various parties of the bank. Assessing Officer, without considering the explanation of assessee company, passed order under section 148A(d) on ground that assessee's case was not selected for scrutiny and no further inquiries were conducted nor any queries were raised on said issue. He, consequently, issued a reopening notice. High Court held that since for earlier assessment years which were subjected to reopening for which notice was already quashed on same material, there could not be a reopening for year under consideration merely on ground that this being a new regime of reassessment after 1-4-2021, scope was enlarged by amended provisions for reopening. High Court further held that the reopening notice was quashed and set aside. SLP filed by revenue against the order of High Court was dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Writ petition was dismissed-SLP is disposed following the order in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 301 Taxman 238 (SC). [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

High Court dismissed the petition on the ground that Assessing Officer was yet to frame a reassessment order under section 147, and it is well settled that there is vexed distinction between jurisdictional error and error of law/fact within jurisdiction and for rectification of errors, a statutory remedy has been provided. On SLP, the Court held the issue is covered in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 301 Taxman 238 (SC), accordingly, the order is disposed. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Final assessment order passed by AO is quashed only for the purpose of enabling the assessee to take up all objections and contentions vis-a-vis the impugned notices-On SLP, the Court held that the concerned AO shall consider the objections and contentions of the assessee. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

Assessee filed writ after delay of almost one year, that too just a few days before final assessment order came to be passed, impugning an order passed under section 148A(d) and consequent reopening notice; in such circumstances, assessee should exhaust its alternative remedies under provisions of Income-tax Act before approaching High Court. On SLP, the Court held that final assessment order under s. 147 is quashed for the purpose of enabling the assessee to take up all objections and contentions vis-a-vis the impugned notices; the concerned AO shall consider the objections and contentions of the assessee vis-a-vis the impugned notices and pass a fresh order in accordance with law. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

On 24-5-2022, notice under section 148A(b) was issued in the name of the assessee who had, in fact, died prior thereto on 2-9-2016. On writ before the High Court the Legal heirs of assessee contended that solely because they as legal representatives, subsequently responded to notices would not imply that the proceeding initiated was valid. The High Court disposed of the Writ petition by holding that the legal representatives could take all contentions available to them except the fact that the initial notice was issued in the name of a dead person. On SLP, the Supreme Court modified the order of the High Court and the AO is directed to consider all legal arguments, including the defect in the notice issued in the name of a dead person. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Revenue itself wanted the Order under S. 148A(d) to be set aside with liberty to issue fresh notice under S. 148A(b)-Order of High Court rejecting Writ Application of the Petitioner thereby affirming the order under S. 148A(d) is set aside with liberty as prayed for. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

The Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding a Civil Appeal against the impugned order of the High Court wherein the High Court had rejected the writ application filed by the appellant assessee thereby affirming the order passed by the Revenue under S. 148A(d) of the Act, observed and recorded the Revenue's concession that the order under S. 148A(d) of the Act may be set aside with liberty to issue fresh notice under S. 148A(b) of the Act. Accordingly, the impugned order of the High Court came to be set aside with liberty to the Revenue to issue a fresh notice to the appellant (assessee) under S. 148A(b) of the Act in accordance with law.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Initial notice issued within limitation period-Subsequent order and notice for reopening assessment issued based on assessee's reply to initial notice-Held, Notice not barred by limitation-Notice and reassessment proceedings valid. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b),148A(d), 149(1)(a), Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the date of issuing the initial notice under section 148A(b) was the relevant and crucial date for the purpose of the limitation period. The initial notice dated March 28, 2024, issued under section 148A(b), was within the limitation period prescribed under section 149(1)(a). The subsequent notice dated April 22, 2024 was issued in response to the assessee's reply dated March 31, 2024 and did not affect the validity of the reassessment proceedings under section 147. Held, allowing the petition, that the notice issued under the pre amended provisions of section 148, after the amendment with effect from April 1, 2021, for the assessment year 2014-2015, was barred by limitation under section 149 and accordingly quashed. The order was restricted only to the point of limitation since the notice had been issued after the amendment by the Finance Act, 2021, on April 1, 2021, and that too under the provisions existing prior to the amendment.(AY. 2014-15)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Death of assessee-Department not informed of death of assessee-Legal heir deemed to be assessee-Directed to respond to notice under section 142(1)-Assessing Officer directed to issue subsequent notices in name of legal heir.[S. 142(1), 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Held that the Department had not been informed and the view expressed by the Income-tax Officer in his order passed under section 148A(d) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, that an attempt to suppress the details had been made by the legal heir was correct. The Income-tax Officer had accepted that the death of the deceased had been noted and that in future the legal heir would be treated as deemed to be an assessee in respect of the deceased assessee and the future notices would be issued in the name of the legal heir. The legal heir's contention that since the notice issued and the orders had been passed were in the name of dead person, they were non est was not acceptable. Though the notice under section 142(1) had been issued in the name of the deceased assessee, the legal heir should respond to this notice in accordance with law. The Income-tax Officer was directed to ensure and correct his record to reflect the name of the deceased as c/o. the legal heir, and could issue a fresh notice under section 148(1). Time up to date was excluded. All rights and contentions other than that the notice issued to a dead person were kept open.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice issued at old address-Notice was issued by jurisdictional assessing Officer and not Faceless Assessing Officer-Notice and order quashed and set aside. [S. 144B, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the Assessing Officer based in Kolkata issued notice under section 148 (preceded by a notice under section 148A(b)) and passed a reassessment order under section 147 read with section 144B. Assessee contended that notice under section 148 was invalid as it was issued by a Jurisdictional Assessing Officer instead of a Faceless Assessing Officer, and that this defect vitiated reassessment. Following the judgment in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/464 ITR 430 (Bom.)(HC), notice under section 148 and consequential proceedings were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Territorial Jurisdiction-Notice issued by Assessing Officer outside territorial jurisdiction of High Court-Notice served on petitioner who is assessee within territorial jurisdiction of High Court-Petitioner required to defend notice issued on it at Mumbai-Part of cause of action arising within territorial jurisdiction of High Court maintainable-Notice-Amalgamation of companies-Notice issued to non-existent amalgamating company Intimation of amalgamation given to Department-Reassessment proceedings cannot be initiated against non-existent entity-Notices and order invalid and non est.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b),148A(d), Art. 226]

On writ, the Court held that though the Assessing Officer who issued the notice was based outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court, the notice was served on the petitioner within the territorial jurisdiction of the court. The petitioner, who was required to defend the notice at Mumbai, had its registered office within the jurisdiction of the court. A part of the cause of action having arisen within the territorial jurisdiction of the court, the petition was maintainable. Court also held that there was neither legal basis nor jurisdiction with the Assessing Officer to issue the notice under section 148A(b), pass an order under section 148A(b) and issue the notice under section 148 to a non-existing entity UB. Once the amalgamating company had ceased to exist as a result of the scheme of amalgamation approved by the National Company Law Tribunal, there was no warrant in law for the Assessing Officer to proceed against a non-existent company. The notices at the threshold were illegal, invalid and non est.(AY. 2017-18)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Deceased person Details available on Income-tax portal-Notice invalid-Sanction-Mechanical sanction-Time limit wrongly mentioned as more than three years-Principal Commissioner had no power to approve-Approval sanction invalid. [S. 147, 147, 148A(b) 148A(d) 151, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the court held that the initial notice under section 148A(b) was invalid as the Assessing Officer failed to make a basic enquiry or verify the Income-tax portal details showing the assessee's death. Such notice issued without mandated enquiry under section 148A(a) had to be quashed. Court also held that the approval under section 151 demonstrated non-application of mind as neither the Assessing Officer, Additional or Joint Commissioner, nor Principal Commissioner noticed that the limitation period was erroneously shown as more than three years, though notice was issued within three years. If the period was more than three years, the Principal Commissioner had no power to approve.(AY. 2019-20)

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless regime-Jurisdiction of JAO-Notice after three years-Sanction of Specified Authority-Approval to be obtained from Principal Chief Commissioner-Approval from Principal Commissioner-Sanction is invalid-Order and consequent notice is invalid S. 148. [S. 147, 148A(b) 148A(d) 151(i), 151(ii) 151A, Art. 226]

The Bombay High Court had quashed the reassessment notice dated 05.04.2022 issued for AY 2018-19 on the ground that the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) lacked jurisdiction to issue notice u/s 148 once the faceless regime under section 151A (Notification dated 29.03.2022) had come into force. Only the Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO) could issue such notice through automated allocation. Relying on Hexaware Technologies Ltd v. ACIT (2024) 464 ITR 430 Bom (HC) the Court held that there is no concurrent jurisdiction between JAO and FAO, and any contrary view would render the faceless scheme redundant. Additionally, since the reassessment was initiated beyond 3 years, sanction had to be obtained from higher authority u/s 151(ii), as held in Siemens Financial Services Pvt. Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2023) 154 taxmann.com 159/ 457 ITR 647 (Bom HC) and Vodafone Idea Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2024) 468 ITR 346 (Bom HC). Since the sanction was wrongly granted by PCIT under s.151(i), the approval itself was invalid. The Bombay High Court therefore declared the notice and order u/s 148A(d) as void and without jurisdiction. (AY. 2018-19)

On writ, the Court held that the order under section 148A(d) for the assessment year 2019-2020 was set aside. The assessee was directed to file his reply to the order under section 148A(d), treating the allegations therein as a show-cause notice under section 148A(b). The Assessing Officer was to consider the reply and pass an order in accordance with law after giving opportunity of hearing to the assessee.(AY. 2019-20)(SJ)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the statements of the witnesses were not the sole basis for passing the order but there were other documentary materials which had been considered while passing the order under section 148A(d). The Department based on the evidence in the form of documents, statements of entry operators and other key persons involved, facts and other circumstantial evidence and after recording satisfaction had issued notice under section 148 for initiating reassessment proceedings under section 147. There was no good ground to interfere with the order passed by the authorities under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147.(AY. 2019-20)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the documents had been supplied to the assessee in pursuance of the order passed by the court; thereafter notice was issued under section 148A(b) of the Act; the reply was filed by the assessee; thereafter the order was passed under section 148A(d) of the Act and at the same time, notice under section 148 of the Act was issued; the matter was pending before the authority and the assessee had sufficient opportunity to take all defences available to him. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Non-resident-Failure to file return of income Remittances from India-Fees for technical services-Assessing Officer is directed to consider provisions of sections 115A and 139 and pass fresh order after hearing assessee.[S.9(1)(vii), 115A, 139, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

On writ, the Court held that on the facts and circumstances, the Assessing Officer had to consider the provisions of sections 139 and 115A and decide whether an obligation to file a return of income was cast on the assessee. The Assessing Officer should also decide as to whether, even if the return of income was not filed, that would by itself lead to a conclusion that the remittances received by the assessee were income chargeable to tax which had escaped assessment under section 147. Therefore, the order passed under section 148A(d), and the consequent notice issued under section 148 were set aside with liberty to the Assessing Officer to pass a fresh order after giving due opportunity of hearing to the assessee.(AY. 2019-20)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the order issued under section 148A(d) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 referred to the petitioner as the legal heir of the deceased assessee. However, it was issued in the name of the deceased assessee. The notice and all consequential proceedings arising therefrom in the name of the deceased assessee were not sustainable. Consequently, the notice as well as order under section 148A(d) of the Act and all actions in furtherance thereof were quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Natural justice-Assessee not responding to two show-cause notices despite grant of time requested-Refusal to grant further time-No violation of principles of natural justice-Alternative remedy-writ petition dismissed. [S. 144B, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 246A, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that on the facts, there was no violation of principles of natural justice. In respect of the first show-cause notice, the assessee had asked for time up to May 20, 2023 and it was granted to him. The assessee did not file a reply and therefore, the authority was well within its power not to grant further time. Though the second show-cause notice was issued, the assessee asked for time and did not file a reply. The assessee could not go on asking for time in response to the show-cause notice issued one after another. Therefore, there was no ground to interfere. The assessee could avail of the remedy of filing an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) under section 246A against the assessment order. Since the writ petition had remained pending, the Commissioner (Appeals) was to examine the appeal on the merits and the stay application, if any, filed along with the appeal, without getting into the question of limitation. The Department issued an initial notice under section 148A(b), an order under section 148A(d) and consequent notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and the assessment order serving them at the address available in the permanent account number database of the assessee in accordance with rule 127(2) of the Income-tax Rules, 1962. On a writ petition by the assessee contending that he was unaware of the notices and that the order under section 147 read with section 144 and section 144B were passed in violation of the principles of natural justice, allowing the petition, that although the Department could not be faulted for passing the assessment order under section 147 read with section 144 read with section 144B, since the notices had been issued in accordance with rule 127(2) of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, the fact was that the assessment order had been passed by the Assistant Commissioner from

New Delhi. The assessee had no other connection with Karnataka State barring a brief stay there between 2010 and 2012, when he was employed in Bellary and after that had been a non-resident till date. The assessment order having been passed without the assessee being served with the notices under section 148A(b), order under section 148A(d), notices under sections 148 and 142(1) and the order under section 147 read with section 144 read with section 144B were quashed. The matter was remitted to the Assistant Commissioner, New Delhi, to pass a fresh order on the merits. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Assessee must be given an opportunity of personal hearing.[S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The heading of section 148A of the Income-tax Act, 1961, itself provides for conducting an enquiry and providing an opportunity before issuance of notice under section 148. Section 148A(b) begins with "provide an opportunity of being heard to the assessee". Hearing does not mean filing a reply to the show-cause notice. If the provision of this section contemplates the opportunity of being heard, it has to be construed as a personal hearing. Therefore, there was no substance in the submission of the Department that an opportunity of being heard to the assessee contemplated under section 148A(b) does not necessarily mean a personal hearing. Held that, admittedly, no opportunity of being heard personally was given to the assessee. Hence, the notice under section 148A was not valid.(AY. 2019-20) (SJ)

Asamannoor Service Co-operative Bank Ltd v.ITO (2025) 483 ITR 648 (Ker)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC) Notice under section 148 deemed to be issued under section 148A-Assessee has right to reply to notice.[S. 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art.226]

Held, that it was clear that the court had set aside and quashed both notices respectively dated March 31, 2021 and April 8, 2021, issued under section 148. The Revenue was left to proceed in accordance with law. The Revenue did proceed. However, in issuing the show-cause notice for effecting the variation, it did not comply with the amended provisions of section 148A inserted by the Finance Act, 2021 ((2021) 432 ITR (St) 52). In the facts and circumstances, the Revenue had to proceed from the stage of section 148A(b), on dispensation of inquiry as directed by the Supreme Court in Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC); (2023) 1 SCC 617; 2022 SCC OnLine SC 543. The assessee had the right to reply to the show-cause notice, consideration of which may have led to an order passed under section 148A(d), for issuance of notice under section 148 subsequent thereto. The assessee would then have had to comply by filing a return for the reassessment. This procedure was not followed. The show-cause notice dated May 3, 2023, assessment order dated May 12, 2023, and demand also dated May 12, 2023 were set aside and quashed.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Failure to provide personal hearing-Violation of statutory condition and principles of natural justice-Order of single judge affirmed. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue against a single judge, the Court held that the express provisions of section 148A contemplated that the assessee should be granted an opportunity of being heard and that opportunity to be effective should include a right to a personal hearing as well. The order passed in the writ petition quashing the notice issued under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2019-2020 was not interfered with.(AY. 2019-20)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless assessment-Notice sent to registered e-mail account of assessee from web portal of Department-Notice valid-Mentioning of Officer's name curable defect and would not vitiate notice and proceedings-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 130, 151A,144B, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Dismissing the petitions, that the Directorate of Income-tax (Systems) had made the allocation through automated allocation system to the respective Assessing Officer based on the permanent account number card jurisdiction. Hence, the requirement of automated allocation system had already been duly complied with. The faceless manner means, sending notice electronically by way of "e-proceedings" to the assessee's registered account through the Income-tax Business Application portal itself, i.e., web portal which is designated and controlled by the Directorate General of Income-tax System). The notices were signed digitally and were sent to the assessee electronically from the web portal of the Income-tax Business Application through the e-proceeding facilities available with the Department through the assessee's registered account from the web portal of the Income-tax Business Application. All the requirements of the scheme were duly complied with, i.e., the notice had been sent under section 148 in a faceless manner, through automated allocation, in accordance with the risk management strategy formulated by the Board as referred to in section 148A. The Directorate of Income-tax (Systems) selected the cases based on the discrepancies identified-risk management system as referred to in clause (i) of Explanation 1 to section 148. In the absence of specific provisions empowering the Faceless Assessing Officer in terms of section 144B, the power and the jurisdiction of the jurisdictional Assessing Officer could not be taken away as long as a section 148 notice is sent by automated allocation based on a risk management strategy and in a faceless manner in terms of the provisions of the scheme. All the three ingredients had been duly complied with by the Department in issuance of the notice under section 148. Therefore, it could not be construed that the Department had sent the notice under section 148 through the Income-tax Business Application portal not in the faceless manner. If the notices had been sent in a faceless manner, the name of the officer should not be mentioned. Mentioning of the Officer's name would only be considered as a procedural error and would not vitiate the entire initiation of the proceedings under section 147 and hence, it would not affect the jurisdiction to issue the notice by the Department. Liberty was granted to the assessee to file their reply within a period of 30 days and the authorities were directed to consider the reply and pass orders after affording an opportunity of personal hearing to the assessee. (AY.2023-24)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Natural justice-Opportunity of hearing was not given-Strictures-Obiter dicta-Matter remanded.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art.226]

Held, that once the order under section 148A(d) was quashed by the High Court, the Assessing Officer was required to consider the assessee's reply to the notice under section 148A(b) and issue a fresh order under section 148A(d). After such order was passed, a fresh notice under section 148 should have been issued. This was not done. Moreover, the reply of the assessee on all aspects was completely disregarded by the Assessing Officer. The virtual hearing was an empty formality and no questions were put to the assessee when the assessee made submissions. Hence, the order under section 148A(d) of the Act issued without providing a reasonable opportunity to the assessee was not valid.

Obiter dicta:(para 10).” The purpose of personal hearing, whether physical or virtual is to enable the assessee to make submissions, provide clarifications and respond to questions, if posed. This can only be achieved if such hearing is interactive. Faceless assessments were introduced so as to avoid the deleterious consequences of direct interaction. Even making an allowance therefor, an appropriate mechanism should be evolved by the Income-tax Department to ensure that such hearings are conducted in a meaningful manner.” (SJ)

Held that the notice for reassessment was not valid. First, the notice issued under section 148A(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, proceeded on a completely incorrect premise, i.e., that the assessee was a non-filer of an income-tax return. Second, the information concerning the salary received by the assessee, as well as the sale of property, was disclosed in the return. Third, the e-mail said to have been received from the buyer of the subject property had not been shared with the assessee. The notice was liable to be quashed.(AY. 2016-17)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Cash credits-Accommodation entries-Opportunity of hearing was given-Reassessment notice is affirmed-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 68, 143(1), 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee, a partnership firm engaged in the business of trading of ferrous and non-ferrous metals. Notice under section 148A(1) was issued alleging that the assessee had entered into bogus transactions involving accommodation entries with Karthik Alloys Pvt Ltd (KAPL) during the financial year 2018-19 amounting to Rs. 88.86 lakhs. Assessee replied and sought the opportunity to hear. Assessing Officer, after perusing the reply and documentary evidence, held that mere maintenance of books and documents does not rule out discrepancies in purchases; KAPL was a defaulter and debtor of huge payments; had filed return only for one year showing 'nil' income and 'nil' profit, and its huge transactions were not commensurate with the ITR filed by it. Assessing Officer held that purchases from KAPL were sham and income had escaped assessment-Whether genuineness of transaction was a pure question of fact requiring scrutiny in reassessment; there was no violation of natural justice since opportunity was granted; sufficiency of material was beyond judicial review; and Assessing Officer had sufficient information to initiate proceedings, reassessment was justified. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Cash credits-Accommodation entries-Failure to consider the reply-Violation of principle of natural justice-Order of the Assessing Officer is set aside-the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to pass a fresh de-nova order under section 148A(d) after considering the reply of assessee. [S. 68, 132, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice under section 148A on the ground that a search conducted under section 132 upon one 'M' revealed that he was an accommodation entries provider in the form of unsecured loan and as per such information, assessee was one of the beneficiaries who had availed accommodation entry in the form of loan, which was not reflected in the accounts of the assessee. It was noted that the assessee had filed a detailed reply along with relevant documents. However, the Assessing Officer, without considering said reply, passed the impugned order under section 148A(d), holding that it was a fit case to reopen the assessment. On writ, the Court held that the Assessing Officer had failed to consider the detailed reply filed by the assessee, which would result in a breach of principles of natural justice. High Court set aside the notice issued under section 148, and the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to pass a fresh de novo order under section 148A(d) after considering the reply of the assessee. the reply-Natural justice-Order and notice set aside-Matter remanded.[S. 69, 115BBE, 147,148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art.226]

Assessee filed its return of income, which was accepted and an assessment order was passed. Subsequently, an issue arose that loss pertaining to the sale of shares of company kushal Ltd declared by the assessee could not be ascertained and, thus, an income to a certain extent had escaped assessment and notice of reassessment was issued and addition was made u/s 69 of the Act. On writ, the Court held that in response to the show cause notice, assessee filed a detailed submission explaining that transactions executed with company kushal Ltd were genuine transactions and the same was also backed by documentary evidence. However, the Assessing Officer passed an order making addition alleging unexplained investment. Since the Assessing Officer had not even bothered to consider the detailed reply made by the assessee in response to the show-cause notice. The order of the Assessing Officer was a breach of principles of natural justice and was set aside. Matter remanded. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained money-Allowed only four days to respond to notice-Order passed under section 148A(d) as well as notice issued under section 148 were quashed and set aside. [S. 69A, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income, which was accepted and an assessment order was passed. Subsequently, information was uploaded on the insight portal alleging evasion of income on account of bogus purchases made by assessee from one Tanman Jewls pvt Ltd. On the basis of the same, a notice under section 148A(b) was issued to assessee. Thereafter, another notice under section 148A(b) was issued alleging bogus sales transactions with the same party and directed assessee to furnish a reply by a certain date. It was noted that assessee was allowed only four days to respond to notice, which was contrary to the minimum required statutory period of seven days as mandated under section 148A(b). However, due to insufficient time provided, assessee was unable to file a reply and adequately rebut allegations made in the second notice. Thereafter, an order under section 148A(d) was passed alleging bogus sales, and on the same date, a notice under section 148 was issued seeking to reopen assessment. On writ, the Court held that since assessee was not given adequate time as required under section 148A(b) and was not heard before the order, the order passed under section 148A(d) as well as the notice issued under section 148 were not tenable and were quashed and set aside. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Cash deposited in bank-Failure to consider the reply-Principle of natural justice-Order of assessment was quashed and set aside. [S.144B, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee, an agriculturist, did not file a return of income. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) for reopening assessment on the ground that the assessee had deposited a certain amount of cash in a bank which had remained unexplained. He passed an order under section 148A(d) and also issued a notice under section 148. Subsequently, the Assessing Officer issued a show-cause notice as per section 144B proposing addition. The assessee filed a reply to the show-cause notice. However, the Assessing Officer, without considering the reply, passed an assessment order making an addition. On writ, the Court held that the assessee had already filed a reply to the show-cause notice-Whether non-consideration of reply to the show-cause notice by the Assessing Officer had resulted in breach of principles of natural justice. The order of the Assessing Officer was set aside and directed to pass a fresh order. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Time limit-Minimum of seven days to respond-Order of single judge quashing the order was affirmed. [S. 148A(b) 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee filed a writ petition challenging the notice issued under section 148A(b) on the ground that it did not afford a minimum of seven days to respond. Single Judge quashed said notice, accepting contention of the assessee and reserving liberty to the revenue to initiate appropriate proceedings against the assessee in accordance with law. On appeal, the Revenue contended that time provided under section 148A(b) was not mandatory and it was directory. Dismissing the contention, the Court held that section 148A requires providing a minimum of seven days' notice to the assessee to respond to said notice. The order of a single judge was affirmed.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Transfer of shares-Agreed to provide the share purchase agreement, TRC, full bank statements and full reconciliation of foreign exchange and cost to the Assessing Officer-The order and notice were set aside and the matter was to be remanded back to the Assessing Officer for a fresh consideration.[S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee, an Australian company, transferred its shares in an Indian company to its UK subsidiary. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(1) on the ground that information from the risk management strategy showed that assessee was involved in a financial transaction and, in the absence of a return filed by assessee, the taxability of said transaction remained unexplained. Pursuant to said notice, assessee submitted a computation that it had incurred a long-term capital loss and made a short-term capital gain from said share transfer. Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(3) rejecting the computation and issued a reopening notice on the ground that, in the absence of relevant documents, the transaction required examination in detail. On writ, the Court held that since the assessee was willing to submit the share purchase agreement, TRC, full bank statements and full reconciliation of foreign exchange and cost to the Assessing Officer, the order and notice were set aside and the matter was to be remanded back to the Assessing Officer for a fresh consideration. Assessee, a cooperative society, surrendered its old PAN and was allotted a new PAN. From assessment year 2014-15 onwards, it filed returns on new PAN, and scrutiny assessments for assessment years 2014-15 to 2017-18 were completed on the new PAN. For the relevant assessment year, the Assessing Officer received information flagged on the CBDT Insight portal that certain information cropped up under the assessee's old PAN on account of transactions relating to cash deposits, withdrawals, and foreign remittances totalling Rs. 5.49 crore. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(a) to the assessee on the old, surrendered PAN. Subsequently, a notice under section 148A(b) followed, and an order under section 148A(d) and a notice under section 148 were issued on the old PAN. On writ, the court held that since it was not in dispute that old PAN had been surrendered, which was communicated to the office of revenue and the return relating to the relevant assessment year was filed by the assessee under the new PAN, the order under section 148A(d) as well as the notice under section 148, both under old PAN, were quashed.(AY. 2018-19)

Assessee's father sold a property and made a capital gain. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A against the assessee for alleged escapement of income on the ground that there was a sale of immovable property by the late father of assessee and passed an order under section 148A(d) and issued a notice under section 148. On writ, the court held that the assessee had informed the Assessing Officer about the death of his father by letter, which was not considered by the Assessing Officer. The court held that any proceedings against a deceased person are a nullity and thus the order passed under section 148A(d) as well as the notice under section 148 issued against the dead person were quashed and set aside. The return was selected for scrutiny, and assessment was passed under section 143(3) of the Act. Reassessment notice was issued on the ground that cash deposits had been made in a bank account during the demonetization period, which was not supported by any available facts and records. The assessee had explained that business being in a rural area, end-users were used to make cash payment instead of any UPI payment and thus, he had explained cash deposits in bank account during assessment year as well as during demonetization period. Along with the objection, assessee had submitted requisite details, copies of bank statement, audited balance sheet, etc. However, the Assessing Officer has not referred to while disposing of the objection. On writ, the court held that since the reasons assigned by the Assessing Officer in order to disclose the objection were contrary to the facts on record, the notice issued under section 148 as well as the order passed under section 148A(d) were quashed and set aside. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Directions of Supreme Court in UOU v. Ashish Agarwal without following amended law-Bar of limitation-Dicta laid down by Supreme Court in UOI v. Rajeev

Bansal-Notices and order barred by limitation.[S. 142(1), 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 226].

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the notices and order were not in accordance with law as amended by the Finance Act, 2021 ((2021) 432 ITR (St.) 52). In the Supreme Court decision in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal, (2024) 469 ITR 46 (SC), it had been specifically conceded by the Department that for the assessment year 2015-2016, all the notices issued on or after April 1, 2021 would have to be dropped as they would not fall for completion during the period prescribed under the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020. Admittedly, the assessee's case pertained to the year 2015-2016 and the notice is issued after April 1, 2021. Therefore, it was expected of the Department to act in conformity with the binding dicta of the Supreme Court. Therefore, the order dated July 27, 2022 passed under section 148A(d), the notice dated July 27, 2022 under section 148 and the notice dated December 9, 2024 under section 142(1) for the assessment year 2015-2016 were barred by limitation and hence quashed and set aside.(AY. 2015-16)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless assessment-Jurisdiction lies with Faceless Assessment Officer or Jurisdictional Assessing Officer-Contrary views in precedents-Decision in Mark Studio India Pvt. Ltd. v. ITO1 dissented from; matter referred to Division or larger Bench.[S. 144B, 147, 148, 148A, 151A, Art. 226]

On writ the Court held that the notice under section 148A and order passed thereon were issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) and not by a Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO), as required by provisions of section 151A, reducing "faceless assessment" to assessment by JAO by means of E-Proceedings might not constitute assessment in a faceless manner, thus, matter was to be referred to a Division/ Larger Bench on question of jurisdiction of JAO to conduct proceedings under section 148A. TVS Credit Services Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2025) 481 ITR 574/ 174 taxmann.com 1078 (Mad)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Principle of natural justice-Standard Operating Procedure (SOP)-Time allowed for reply to notice under section 148A(b) was 4 days instead of 7 days as per the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) issued by the CBDT-No prejudice caused to the assessee merely because 4 days were provided instead of 7 days as suggested in SOP-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art. 226]

The assessee challenged the legality and validity of the re-assessment proceedings before the Hon'ble Calcutta HC, arguing that the proceedings are vitiated since the assessee was granted only three days to reply to the show cause notice instead of seven days as provided in the CBDT's standard operating procedure. In reply, the Department argued that the assessee was granted sufficient opportunities throughout the proceedings by way of issuance of notices under section 148A(b) of the Act, 148 of the Act and 142(1) of the Act, none of which was relied to by the assessee. The Department also relied on the decision in case of PCIT v. P L Goenka HUF [(2025) 174 taxmann.com 588 (Cal) HC)] wherein it was held that mere breach of a SOP would not render the assessment invalid. Further, the Department also placed reliance on the decision in case of State of U.P. v. Sudhir Kumar Singh [(2021) 19 SCC 706 (Supreme Court)], wherein it was held that an order cannot be said to be invalid solely on account of breach of natural justice and if there is no prejudice caused to the assessee, it cannot be said that natural justice has been denied. Accordingly, it was argued by the Department that as the assessee had not submitted replies to any of the earlier notices, no prejudice was caused. Dismissing the assessee's writ, the Hon'ble Calcutta High Court observed that the assessee had sufficient opportunities to respond to the earlier notices issued and had remedies available under the law to challenge the reassessment order and therefore, no prejudice was caused to it. However, the Hon'ble High Court gave the liberty to the assessee to challenge the reassessment order before the appropriate appellate forum.(SJ)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Return in response to section 148 was delayed due to technical constraint-Faceless assessment-Assessment order quashed and set aside-Directed to consider the exemption. [S.10(23), 144B, 148, Art. 226]

The Assessee is a society manufacturing and selling Khadi products (textiles, agarbathis, oils, honey) claiming exemption under S. 10(23) of the Act; the dispute centres on an assessment passed without considering a slightly delayed reply under the faceless regime, despite the return having been filed within the Sec. 148 timeline. The Assessing Officer denied the exemption. On writ, the High Court quashed the assessment and remanded the matter to the Assessing Officer to reconsider the show-cause after taking the Assessee's reply on record and to decide the exemption under Sec. 10(23), granting an opportunity of hearing. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained investments-No reason was given in support of conclusion that escaped income was more than Rs. 50 lakhs-Matter was to be remanded back to Assessing Officer to decide the same afresh in accordance with law.[S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer issued notice to assessee under section 148A(b) on the ground that assessee had purchased immovable property worth Rs. 1.21 crore but had not disclosed the same in her return of income. Assessee submitted that immovable property purchased by her was not of value of Rs. 1.21 crore but of Rs. 1.31 crore. Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d); however no reason was given in support of the conclusion that escaped income was more than Rs. 50 lakhs. On writ, the Court held that since the order passed by the Assessing Officer was bereft of any cogent or plausible reasons, same was to be set aside and the matter was to be remanded back to the Assessing Officer to decide the same afresh in accordance with law. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained expenditure-Bogus purchases-Information received from GST department-Disregarding response furnished by assessee solely for reason of information on portal and simply reiterating information as available, would render procedure under section 148A meaningless-Accordingly, reopening notice issued against assessee was set aside . [S. 69C, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee's assessment was sought to be reopened on ground that as per information received from GST department, assessee had made bogus purchases from a dummy company. Assessee submitted that it had purchased MS Ingot from said company but denied that purchases were bogus and claimed that same were duly recorded in books of account. Assessee also provided copies of purchase bills, E-way bills, transporter bill, toll tax receipts and screenshot of GSTR-1 filed through GST portal. Assessing Officer rejected evidence furnished by assessee and held that it was a fit case for re-opening of assessment. On writ, the Court held Investigation Wing had conducted an enquiry and found that no action in the case of another company, GFPL and assessee, was recommended. Disregarding response furnished by assessee solely for reason of information on portal and simply reiterating information as available, would render procedure under section 148A meaningless. Accordingly, the reopening notice issued against assessee was set aside. (AY. 2020-21)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Purchase of house in joint name-Cash credits-Entire consideration was paid by the husband-Reassessment notice in the name of wife was quashed and set aside.[S.68, 133(6), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessee filed her return of income for the relevant assessment year declaring taxable income of a certain amount. Thereafter, a notice under section 133(6) was issued to assessee seeking details with respect to the purchase of an flat. In response, the assessee explained that she was a housewife and that the purchase of said flat was done entirely by her husband from his own funds/sources and not by her. She further stated that she had not contributed anything towards purchase of said flat and her name was added only for sake of convenience. She also produced purchase agreement as well as bank statement of her husband which indicated that entire consideration was paid by her husband. Reopening notice was issued against assessee on the ground that she had not disclosed correct income in her return. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that agreement for sale was duly stamped and registered and it was not in dispute that same was produced before Assessing Officer; bank statement of husband of assessee was also produced which showed that entire consideration paid for purchase of said flat was from funds of husband. Court held that the reopening notice issued against assessee was unjustified and same was set aside. (AY. 2021-22)

S 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice under section 148 was issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) instead of Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO)-Notice was quashed-Reopening notice had been issued after more than three years from end of relevant assessment year and thus, reopening without sanction/approval of specified authority in accordance with section 151 was bad in law-Assessee and CBDT entered into a unilateral Advance Pricing Agreement

(APA) and assessee filed a modified return as per agreement, since no adverse report was received from TPO which could lead to cancellation of agreement, Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to make further ALP adjustments and was bound to accept modified return.[S. 92CD, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(b) 151, 151A, Art. 226]

Jurisdictional Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 to assessee- Assessee challenged reopening of assessment on ground of lack of jurisdiction of JAO. Court held that in case similar to the assessee, High Court held that where notice under section 148 was issued by JAO instead of FAO, same was to be quashed. Following the order view notice issued under section 148 by JAO was without jurisdiction. Assessing Officer issued order under Section 148A(d) and a notice under section 148 on 07-04-2022 with approval of Principal Commissioner. Revenue claimed that the period of seven days furnished to the assessee to submit reply to the notice under section 148A(b) issued on 23-03-2022 was to be excluded for counting period of three years. On writ the Court held that proviso to section 151, inserted by Finance Act, 2023, with effect from 1-4-2023 could not be applied retrospectively to exclude period of seven days in furnishing reply to notice under section 148A(b) by assessee and thus, Assessing Officer could not have assumed exclusion of such a period while passing order under section 148A(d) or issuing notice under section 148 on 7-4-2022. Accordingly, the order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 had been issued after more than three years from the end of the relevant assessment year and prior approval of the Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General or Chief Commissioner or Director General was required to be obtained before passing of order under section 148A(d) or before issuance of notice under section 148. Accordingly, reopening of assessment without sanction/approval of specified authority in accordance with section 151 was bad in law. Assessee entered into a unilateral Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) with CBDT covering the relevant assessment year wherein 17 per cent of net margin was agreed upon as ALP. Pursuant thereto, assessee filed a modified return under Section 92CD and filed Annual Compliance Report in Form 3CEF within time. Subsequently, Assessing Officer issued notices proposing an adjustment in relation to modified return on the ground that nil income pursuant to APA was not supported with documentary evidence. He, accordingly, passed a reassessment order making an arm's length adjustment. Reassessment proceedings for the relevant assessment year were pending on the date of filing of the modified return. Furthermore, TPO had not submitted any finding of failure on part of assessee to comply with the terms of agreement, which could lead to cancellation of the agreement. On writ, the Court held that the Assessing Officer was not vested with jurisdiction to interpret APA as to whether assessee had satisfied terms and conditions of APA, and it was only TPO who had jurisdiction over assessee to carry out compliance audit of the agreement. In the absence of any adverse report from TPO, Assessing Officer was obligated to accept that assessee had complied with the terms of APA and thus, the Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to make any adjustment/addition to income disclosed in such modified return. Writ petition was allowed. (AY. 2018-19)

On writ, the Court held that revenue could not have issued the notices under S. 3(1) of TOLA as, considering the time period as prescribed under S. 149 w.e.f. 1st April, 2021, three years would be over on 31st March, 2019, which is prior to the coming into force of TOLA and six years would

On writ the court held that-power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 of Constitution of India is plenary and discretionary in nature, and availability of alternative remedy does not bar exercise of such jurisdiction. High Court, in exercise of its discretion, could entertain writ petition against order under section 148A(d) notwithstanding availability of alternative remedy.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Assessee was given extended time to respond to notice under section 148A(b)-Time was excludable for computing limitation under section 149(1)-Order passed under section 148A(d) was not time-barred. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1), Art. 226]

Court held that upon issuance of notice under section 148A(b), time or extended time allowed to assessee to file response is to be excluded while computing period of limitation under section 149(1), in addition to any period of stay granted by Court. Further, in terms of the fourth proviso to section 149(1), if remaining time for passing the order under section 148A(d) is less than 7 days, such remaining period shall stand extended to a further period of 7 days and period of limitation shall be deemed to be extended accordingly. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was entitled to exclude 25 days for computing limitation, and order dated 6-4-2023 was within time. Dismissing the writ, the Court held that since assessee also had an alternate remedy, he should pursue the same before the statutory authority. (AY. 2019-20)

Post amendment on account of treating notices issued under section 148 as notice under section 148A(b), the natural corollary would be that such replies which may be received to notice issued under section 148A(b), would be examined by the same Assessing Officer, who had originally issued notices under old regime. Thereafter, the same Assessing Officer is required to pass an assessment order under the new scheme after giving notice under section 148 of the old Act. On writ, the Court held that a notice which was originally issued under section 148 by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer in terms of the old regime and which had been deemed to be issued under section 148A(b) could be continued to be processed by the same officer. All writ petitions are dismissed.

The Delhi High Court held that merely because the Assessing Officer had received information in accordance with the CBDT risk management strategy, it did not exclude recourse to Explanation 2(iv) to the proviso to section 148, where incriminating material relating to the assessee was also found during search on a group concern. The Court further held that once approval of the Principal Commissioner had been obtained for issuance of notice under section 148, the assessee's contention that a separate additional approval under clause (c) of the proviso to section 148A was also mandatory was untenable, since both approvals were substantially identical in nature. Accordingly, the writ petition challenging the notice was dismissed. (AY. 2021-22).

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Alleged escapement on share transactions-Short-term capital gains below Rs. 50 lakhs-Notice issued beyond three years-In absence of material showing escapement exceeding threshold, notice held barred by limitation-Reassessment invalid. [S 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(a), Art. 226]

For AY 2014-15, the assessee had disclosed short-term capital gains on sale of shares of a listed company and paid tax thereon. After expiry of three years, the Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(b) alleging escapement of income in relation to share transactions, followed by order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148. On writ, the Delhi High Court held that at the stage of section 148A(d), the Assessing Officer is required to examine the material on record and the assessee's reply and determine whether income chargeable to tax had in fact escaped assessment and whether the extended limitation under section 149 was available. In the present case, the allegation regarding long-term capital gains was factually incorrect, as the assessee had never claimed exempt long-term capital gains. There was also no material to show that the assessee had received the gross sale proceeds of Rs. 61.93 lakhs; the unrebutted material showed receipt of only Rs. 9.43 lakhs, which had already been offered to tax as short-term capital gains. Even assuming the share transaction was dubious, the alleged escapement could not exceed Rs. 50 lakhs so as to attract the extended limitation. Accordingly, notice issued beyond three years was barred by limitation and the reassessment proceedings were quashed. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Sanction-Specified authority-Time limits-Surviving time-Effect of extension under 2020 Act-Approval of specified authority-Though approval under section 151(1) by Principal Commissioner for passing order under section 148A(d) and issuing notice under section 148 was valid, notices/orders issued beyond “surviving time” as explained in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal(2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC) were barred by limitation and liable to be quashed. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b), 151(1), Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, S. 3(1), Art. 226]

For A.Ys. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2016-17 and 2017-18, the Department had issued old-regime notices under section 148 between 1-4-2021 and 30-6-2021 by taking recourse to the 2020 Act and thereafter issued fresh notices/orders under the new regime between July and September 2022. The High Court held that the dictum of the Supreme Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal(2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC) had to be followed in letter and spirit. Accordingly, the later notices under the new regime were to be treated as substituted notices, and the validity thereof had to be tested on the basis of the “surviving time” available after excluding the period from 30-6-2021 to 4-5-2022, the time taken for furnishing information under section 148A(b), and 15 days allowed to the assessee for reply. On this basis, the approval granted by the Principal Commissioner under section 151(1) for passing orders under section 148A(d) and issuing notices under section 148 was held to be valid. However, the question of limitation had to be examined separately in each case by computing the surviving time from the date of the original notice issued under the old regime till 30-6-2021. For A.Ys. 2016-17 and 2017-18, old-regime notices issued between 1-4-2021 and 30-6-2021 were to be treated as having been issued within three years from the end of the relevant assessment year, since the three-year period expired during 20-3-2020 to 30-6-2021. Nevertheless, on facts, the impugned orders under section 148A(d) and consequent notices under section 148 had been issued beyond the available "surviving time" and were therefore invalid. The notices, orders under section 148A(d), and all consequential proceedings were quashed. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2016-17 2017-18)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice Jurisdiction of Assessing Officer-Review of original scrutiny assessment impermissible-No fresh tangible material-Loans and expenditure fully disclosed in limited scrutiny-Notice under section 148A(b), order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 quashed. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, 151, Art. 226]

The assessee's assessment for A.Y. 2017-18 had been completed under section 143(3) pursuant to limited scrutiny. Thereafter, the Assessing Officer sought to reopen the assessment by issuing notice under section 148A(b) on the footing that loans advanced to certain entities and expenditure of Rs. 329 crores had escaped assessment, though all relevant details had already been called for and furnished in the original proceedings. On writ, the Court examined the post-1-4-2021 reassessment scheme and held that after the amendment, section 148 is expressly subject to section 148A, and reassessment cannot be resorted to merely to review a concluded scrutiny assessment. In the absence of any fresh and tangible material available with the Assessing Officer, reopening was without jurisdiction and amounted to an impermissible review of the original order. Accordingly, the notice under section 148A(b), the order under section 148A(d), the consequential notice under section 148 and all further proceedings were quashed. (AY. 2017-18) (SJ)

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Audit objection-Limitation-Amended provisions of section 149 apply to notices issued after 1-4-2021 even for earlier assessment years-Notice issued within six years not barred-Audit objection must clearly state that assessment was not made in accordance with Act-Reopening valid only to limited issues supported by definite audit objection-Matter remanded. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, Art. 226]

The assessee's return for AY 2017-18 was accepted under section 143(3). Reassessment proceedings were initiated on the basis of an audit objection alleging escapement of income exceeding Rs. 329 crores. The assessee challenged the notice under sections 148A(d) and 148, contending that the reopening was based on change of opinion, without fresh material, and was barred by limitation. The High Court held that for notices issued after 1-4-2021, the substituted provisions of section 149 would apply even to past assessment years and, therefore, the notice issued within six years from the end of AY 2017-18 was not time-barred. However, it was held that an audit objection would constitute "information" under section 148(3)(ii) only if it clearly and unambiguously stated that the original assessment was not made in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Since this test was satisfied only in respect of processing charges and legal/professional charges, reopening on all other issues was without jurisdiction. Accordingly, the order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 were quashed, and the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to issue a fresh notice under section 148A(b) confined only to those specified issues.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Capital gains-Assessing quantum of escaped income in matters like this, amount mentioned in registered conveyance could not be straight away taken as income escaping assessment without deducting cost of acquisition therefrom. Order of single judge was affirmed. [S. 45, 48, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer issued reopening notice dated 21-3-2023 on the ground that on sale of property LTCG arose and Rs 55 lakhs had escaped assessment. Assessee submitted that capital gain was Rs. 33.85 lakhs and as income escaping assessment did not exceed Rs. 50 lakhs, in terms of section 149(1)(b), notice under section 148 could not be issued. Single Judge, High Court held that the entirety of sale consideration should not be taken into account and words found in section 149, which was 'income chargeable to tax' must be read in terms of 'income' as arising out of 'capital gains' as provided under section 48. Single judge set aside reopening notice. While assessing the quantum of escaped income in matters like this, the amount mentioned in registered conveyance could not be straight away taken as income escaping assessment without deducting the cost of acquisition therefrom. Order of single judge was affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice under section 148A(b), alleging that the assessee, a Singaporean company, had received a certain sum on account of FTS/FIS from an Indian company on which TDS was not deducted by the Indian payer even though consideration received by assessee was income chargeable to tax which had escaped assessment. On writ, the assessee contended that it was registered in Singapore and had no Permanent Account Number, nor any credentials in the Income-tax Portal, apart from not having received any communication whatsoever at Singapore. Court held that the revenue had not been able to demonstrate that the reopening notice under section 148A(b) was ever served upon the assessee at its registered office in Singapore, and the fact that the assessee had no Permanent Account Number nor any credentials in the IT Portal had neither been contradicted nor controverted by the revenue. The matter was remanded back to the stage of consideration of notices under section 148A(b) of the Act. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Notice under s. 148A(b) issued on 28-3-2024 within three years is the relevant date for computing limitation-Subsequent notice dated 22-4-2024 issued pursuant to assessee's reply does not extend or shift limitation-Notice under s. 148 dated 30-4-2024 not barred by limitation. [S. 148, 148A(b), 149(1), Art. 226]

Dismissing the writ petition, the Court held that proceedings for reassessment commenced with the issuance of notice under s. 148A(b) on 28-3-2024, which was within the time-limit prescribed under s. 149(1). The assessee's contention that limitation should be computed from notice dated 22-4-2024 was rejected, as the said notice was issued only in response to the assessee's reply dated 31-3-2024 and was merely consequential. On a combined reading of the fifth and sixth provisos to s. 149(1), delay, if any, has to be reckoned with reference to the first notice initiating proceedings. Since the initial notice dated 28-3-2024 was within limitation, the Assessing Officer had jurisdiction and the notice under s. 148 dated 30-4-2024 was valid. (AY. 2020-21)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice-Limitation-Where the first notice under s. 148 issued on 23-6-2021 (to be treated as notice under s. 148A(b) in view of Ashish Agarwal) was within extended time up to 30-6-2021 under TOLA, the order under s. 148A(d) and consequential second notice under S. 148 were required to be issued within seven days of assessee's reply; second notice dated 14-7-2022 being beyond limitation, entire proceedings quashed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, 151, Art. 226]

For AY 2016-17, the limitation for issuance of notice under S. 148 under the pre-31-3-2021 regime was four years from the end of the relevant assessment year, i.e., up to 31-3-2021. The first notice dated 23-6-2021 was issued within the extended period up to 30-6-2021 by virtue of TOLA and, in terms of the decision of the Supreme Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 326 CTR 473 (SC) was required to be treated as a notice under S. 148A(b). The assessee filed reply on 7-6-2022. Consequently, the order under S. 148A(d) and the fresh notice under S. 148 were required to be issued within seven days thereafter. However, the second notice under s. 148 was issued on 14-7-2022, which was beyond the prescribed period of limitation. The Revenue's contention that the second notice was non est on account of proceedings under s. 153C, while simultaneously arguing for revival of abated proceedings under S. 153A, was rejected as intrinsically inconsistent. In view of the definite stand of the Revenue that limitation was four years, the second notice being time-barred, all proceedings pursuant thereto were set aside without examining the issue of parallel proceedings. *Ram Balram Buildhome (P) Ltd. v. S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry and providing opportunity before issue of notice-Reopening after approval of resolution plan under Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code-Alleged transactions with shell companies for tax evasion-CIRP cannot be used to defeat reassessment proceedings-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 148,148A(b), 148A(d), Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, S.31, Art. 14, 19, 226]

The assessee challenged initiation of reassessment proceedings under sections 148 and 148A after completion of the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) and approval of the resolution plan by the NCLT contending that all past liabilities stood extinguished. The High Court held that although recovery proceedings in respect of past liabilities may not survive after approval of a resolution plan under section 31 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, initiation of reassessment proceedings is not barred in law. Based on information available with the Department indicating suspicious trading patterns involving shell entities, identical purchase and sale quantities, abnormal price variations and momentary trades suggestive of fraudulent transactions undertaken to evade tax, the authorities were justified in invoking section 148A proceedings. The Court observed that CIRP cannot be permitted to operate as a mechanism to shield misdeeds, misappropriation or illegal transactions intended for tax evasion. Reassessment at this stage was only for inquiry and verification and not for fastening immediate tax liability, and the Department could also proceed against responsible directors if illegality was established. Accordingly, initiation of proceedings under section 148A was held valid and the writ petition was dismissed. Followed, Dishnet Wireless Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT (2022) 139 taxmann.com 493 (Mad)(HC). S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry and providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless collection of information-No challenge to constitutional validity of S. 135A-Disputed factual issues cannot be examined in writ jurisdiction-Reassessment notice upheld and writ petition dismissed. [S. 135A, 148, Art. 226] upon in the notice was erroneous and duplicated, the Court held that the petition contained no prayer challenging the constitutional validity of section 135A and, in absence of proper pleadings and reliefs, such constitutional issue could not be examined. The dispute raised by the assessee involved adjudication of factual aspects regarding correctness of statements contained in the notice, which required detailed examination by the Assessing Officer and could not be undertaken in writ jurisdiction under Article 226. Since the reassessment scheme itself contemplated full opportunity to the assessee during proceedings and no jurisdictional error or lack of authority was demonstrated in issuance of the notice, interference at the notice stage was unwarranted. Accordingly, the writ petition seeking quashing of reassessment proceedings was dismissed. (AY. 2020-21).

Allowing the petition the court held that order section 148A(d), the consequential notice dated June 30, 2022 under section 148 and the show-cause notice dated March 10, 2025 for the assessment year 2015-2016 were issued to the assessee without following the procedure for issuance of notice in terms of the law as amended by the Finance Act, 2021 ((2021) 432 ITR (St.) 52). The Department had conceded before the Supreme Court in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal, (2024) 469 ITR 46 (SC); 2024 SCC OnLine SC 2693 to the effect that for the assessment year 2015-2016, all notices issued on or after April 1, 2021 would have to be dropped as they would not fall for completion during the period prescribed under the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020. Accordingly, the order dated June 30, 2022 under section 148A(d), the consequential notice dated June 30, 2022 under Section 148 and the show-cause notice dated March 10, 2025 were set aside.(AY.2015-16)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Shares issued at less than fair market value-Revision proceedings dropped-Change of opinion-Reassessment notice and proceedings quashed and set aside. [S.56, 147, 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), 263, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Principal Commissioner had dropped the revision proceedings under section 263 accepting the assessee's reply and hence, it was evident that at the time of original scrutiny assessment under section 143(3) and the revision proceedings under section 263, the authorities were aware of the shares held by the assessee for a consideration which was considered to be less than the fair market value. The reasons for issuing notice under section 148A(b) were exactly similar to the reasons on which the Principal Commissioner had invoked section 263. Once the Principal Commissioner had decided in favour of the assessee after having considered its reply, the Assessing Officer had no authority to reopen the assessment under section 147. Reopening of assessment was on mere "change of opinion", and the reassessment proceedings were in the nature of review of the original assessment. Grant of approval by the Principal Chief Commissioner would not confer legitimacy to the initiation of the reassessment as the issue on which the reassessment was initiated had already been considered in the original proceedings. The higher authority could not grant approval which was in violation of the settled principles on the basis of which reassessment action could be initiated. The initial notice under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d), the notice under section 148 and the consequential proceedings under section 147 were set aside.(AY. 2014-15)

Allowing the petition the Court held, that issue was covered by the decision of the court in Venkataramana Reddy Patloola v. In writ proceedings challenging an order passed under section 148A(d) and consequential notice under section 148, the High Court held that at the pre-notice stage, the scope of judicial review is confined only to examining the existence of information suggesting escapement of income. Issues such as sufficiency or correctness of material, or merits of the proposed reassessment, cannot be adjudicated under Article 226. A show-cause notice under section 148A(b) must contain precise and concise information enabling the assessee to understand the Assessing Officer's mind and to respond effectively. The assessee had denied the allegation of accommodation entries and sought the underlying material; however, the Assessing Officer, after considering the reply and available information, recorded satisfaction that it was a fit case for issuance of notice under section 148. The Court held that (i) observations in an order under section 148A(d) do not prejudice the assessee or the Department since the reassessment will proceed independently under section 147; and (ii) the assessee failed to show non-application of mind or that the findings were contrary to record. At this intermediary stage, interference under articles 226 or 227 was unwarranted. Writ petition dismissed. (AY 2017-18)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that a perusal of the order dated March 31, 2023 passed under section 148A(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 would indicate that the detailed response dated March 24, 2023 submitted by the assessee had not been considered or appreciated by the respondents, which was sufficient to vitiate the order. Under these circumstances, non-consideration of the response of the assessee, by passing the unreasoned and non-speaking order, was violative of principles of natural justice and on this ground alone, the order was liable to be set aside. However, since the assessee's appeals in relation to the preceding assessment years were pending before the appellate authority, necessary directions were to be issued to the appellate authority to dispose of the appeals within a stipulated time frame, pursuant to which the respondents could be directed to reconsider the matter afresh in accordance with law. The assessee was in manufacturing business. In the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Proceeding initiated before the National Company Law Tribunal under the provisions of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 the resolution professional took control and custody of the management and operations of the assessee as a going concern and by virtue of a final order dated October 22, 2019, the bank loans were written off and the statutory dues were waived off. The Principal Commissioner passed an order dated January 11, 2023 under section 127(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and transferred the case of the assessee from Vadodara to Ahmedabad with immediate effect. The Assessing Officer at Vadodara issued a notice under section 148A(b) on February 14, 2023 for reopening of the assessment for the assessment year 2019-2020 on the ground that the assessee did not file return of income for the assessment year 2019-2020 though there were transactions by way of term deposits and interest income. The assessee could not respond due to the change in place of office and mail ID. The Deputy Commissioner passed an order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice under section 148 was issued. On a writ, allowing the petition the Court held that in view of the settled legal position, the notice under section 148 and the order passed under section 148A(d) for issue of notice were untenable and were accordingly, quashed and set aside.(AY. 2019-20)

Held that Section 148A(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, requires providing opportunity of being heard to the assessee by serving upon him or her a notice to show cause within such time as may be specified in the notice being "not less than seven days" but not exceeding thirty days from the date on which such notice is issued. Both the terminal days have to be excluded for the purpose of complying with the requirement of words "not less than... days". Held, that admittedly, the notice dated March 16, 2022 was issued or posted on March 17, 2022 and the date fixed for response was March 23, 2022. Excluding the date of sending of the notice as well the last date indicated, even if the notice was received by the assessee, the time granted fell short of the seven day period, as envisaged by the provisions of section 148A(b) of the Act; and, for violation of mandatory provisions of section 148A(b) of the Act, the notice issued to the assessee could not be sustained. Court also held that, moreover, the amount was less than Rs. 50,00,000 and for the assessment year 2015-2016, the notice had been issued on March 16, 2022, i.e. beyond three years. It was ex facie barred by limitation and consequently was without jurisdiction.(AY. 2015-16)

Held, allowing the petition, that the fact that the assessee was converted into a private limited company with the dissolution of the partnership firm on July 14, 2010. With such conversion, the permanent account numbers were also altered. The documents that had been filed by the assessee in respect of which the proceedings were initiated pertained to exports made by the assessee with the same Importer-Exporter Code, and copies of the export shipping bills showed that the permanent account number of the company with the Importer-Exporter Code had been declared. Similarly, copies of the bills of entry also indicated that the bills of entry contained the permanent account number of the assessee-company with the same Importer-Exporter Code and not the permanent account number of the partnership firm which had expired with effect from July 14, 2010. The assessee had also filed copy of form 15CA acknowledgment with respect to remittance to non-resident or foreign company which also indicated the name of the assessee-company with the assessee's permanent account number. On the other hand, the order itself had been passed in the name of the non-existing firm based on a notice that was issued in the name of non-existing firm. All along the assessee had replied to the Department. However, the Department had failed to take note of the same and had thus confirmed the demand. The Assistant Commissioner had also rightly dropped the proceedings by an order, under section 148A(d) for the subsequent assessment year 2016-2017. The notice issued under section 148 and the order passed under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B were arbitrary and showed clear non-application of mind and hence were set aside. On a writ petition challenging the notice issued under section 148A(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 pursuant to the directions of the Supreme Court in Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC) the order passed under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 on the ground that it was issued beyond the period of limitation prescribed under section 149(1) for the assessment year 2013-2014, dismissing the petition, the Court held that the notice under section 148 had been signed digitally on the system on March 31, 2021 and was, thus, placed on the portal, though the e-mail was despatched to the assessee on the morning of April 1, 2021 at 07:30: 47 a.m. and was delivered at 07:30: 48 a.m. The notice was also despatched to the assessee by speed post on April 1, 2021. The date of notice was vital for determining the rights of the parties and there could be no uncertainty regarding the date of issuance of notice. Therefore, it was necessary that the date of issue of notice be ascertained on completion of the precise steps for issuance of the notice. Where the notice was sent electronically, the date of dispatch of the e-mail was to be considered as the date of issue of the notice and the date of issue of notice would have to be taken as April 1, 2021. If there was no dispute that the date of issuance of notice was considered as April 1, 2021, then such notice was required to be treated as a notice under section 148A(b) in terms of the decision of the Supreme Court. The notice under section 148 is a jurisdictional notice and issuance of such notice is necessary for the Assessing Officer to assume jurisdiction to reassess the income under section 147. If the notice under section 148 is found to be invalid, it would vitiating the proceedings commenced pursuant thereto. Merely because the parties had laboured under a misconception at the initial stage that the initial notice issued under section 148 was valid, that would not invalidate the subsequent actions taken by the Department. If the original notice dated March 31, 2021 was construed as a notice served on April 1, 2021, the assessee's challenge to the notice and the order was rejected. (AY. 2013-14)

Rajesh Chopra v. ITO (2025) 479 ITR 354/179 taxmann.com 84 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice issued by jurisdictional Assessing Officer under old regime Effect of Supreme Court decision in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC)-Writ petition dismissed-Liberty granted to file an appeal.[147, 148, 148A(b) 148A(d),246A, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the jurisdictional Assessing Officer would continue to proceed and have jurisdiction to decide the notices under section 148 which were originally issued by him. The original notice under section 148 was issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer, which had been treated as a notice under section 148A of the new regime and section 148 of the old regime, as notices under section 148A(a) and (b). He would, therefore, be the best person to assess and reassess under section 147. Where there was an allegation of escapement of income, on account of which notices were issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer, it must be reached to a logical conclusion by the same officer. The procedure which had been laid down under the new regime would have to be followed by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer. No prejudice would be caused if such a course was adopted by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer. The assessee's relating to the orders passed by the Assessing Officer on the merits could be raised in appeal before the appellate authority. If appeals were filed, they should be decided on the merits, and the delay should be condoned. The prescribed time limitation under the Act should be accordingly treated as extended on account of the pendency of the writ petitions.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless regime-Notice issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) after 01.04.2022-Held to be valid-The Court clarified that paragraph 3 of the Scheme requires only automated allocation, not faceless issuance-Writ petitions dismissed-Not followed Hexaware Technologies Limited v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/ 464 ITR 430 / 338 CTR 536 (Bom)(HC). [S. 119 120, 124, 144B, 147, 148 148A, 151A, Art. 226]

A group of petitions challenged the jurisdiction of the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer ("JAO") to issue notices u/s 148 after 01.04.2022 on the ground that, after introduction of Section 151A and the e-Assessment of Income Escaping Assessment Scheme, 2022 (Notification No. 18/2022 dated 29.03.2022), such notices could be issued only by the Faceless Assessing Officer through automated allocation. Petitioners relied heavily on the Bombay High Court judgment in Hexaware Technologies Limited v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/ 464 ITR 430 / 338 CTR 536 (Bom)(HC) and similar rulings of Telangana, Gauhati, Punjab & Haryana and Rajasthan High Courts holding that notices issued by JAOs post-1-4-2022 are without jurisdiction; Revenue pointed out conflicting views of Calcutta and Delhi High Courts and submitted that SLP against Hexaware is pending before the Supreme Court. The Gujarat High Court examined the statutory scheme under Sections 147, 148, 148A, 151A, 120, 124, 130 and Section 144B along with the 2022 Faceless Schemes to determine whether issuance of notice by the JAO, instead of the Faceless system, vitiates jurisdiction. The matter was admitted earlier and, considering over 400 pending petitions on the same issue and divergent views of various High Courts, the Court heard both sides on the common question of law regarding the validity of reassessment notices issued by JAOs after 1-4-2022 under the faceless regime. After analysing Section 151A, the E-Assessment of Income Escaping Assessment Scheme, 2022, and Section 144B, as well as divergent High Court rulings (including Hexaware Technologies Limited v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/ 464 ITR 430 / 338 CTR 536 (Bom)(HC, Kankanala Ravindra Reddy v. ITO [2023] 295 Taxman 652 (Telengana)(HC) *Triton Overseas P. Ltd v. The Court held that:

1. The Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) can validly issue notice under Section 148.

The Court rejected the contention that only the Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO)/NFAC can issue such notices.

2. "Faceless manner" in the Scheme applies only to assessment/reassessment, not to issuance of notice.

The Court held that the phrase "and in faceless manner" in the Scheme is qualified by the words that follow it-"to the extent provided in Section 144B with reference to making assessment or reassessment"-meaning:

3.Faceless assessment is mandatory,

Faceless issuance of notice under Section 148 is not mandated, because Section 144B does not cover issuance of Section 148 notices.

4. The Scheme, 2022 does NOT eliminate the JAO's jurisdiction to issue notice.

The Court clarified that paragraph 3 of the Scheme requires only automated allocation, not faceless issuance. Section 148A enquires and satisfaction must still be carried out by the Assessing Officer, which is consistent with JAO issuing the notice.

5. The interpretation adopted by Bombay & Telangana High Courts (Hexaware line of cases) was not accepted.

The Court expressly disagreed with the view that only NFAC/FAO has jurisdiction to issue Section 148 notices.

Petitions challenging the jurisdiction of JAO to issue notice under Section 148 were dismissed.

The Court upheld the validity of notices issued by JAOs after 01-04-2022.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Amalgamation-Fresh notice issued as per Supreme Court directions in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal(2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC))-Fresh notice following new procedure issued in correct name of assessee Reassessment proceedings not vitiated by incorrect name in original notice-Reassessment proceedings under fresh notice valid.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the notice could not be construed as a notice under section 148 and was required to be considered as a notice under section 148A(b). The notice dated July 29, 2022 was issued under section 148 after following the procedure as prescribed under section 148A and was in the name of the assessee and, therefore, could not be faulted on account of the notice having been issued in the name of a non-existent company. The reassessment proceedings under section 147 in respect of the assessment year 2014-2015 were now being continued pursuant to the notice issued under section 148 and not the notice, which was to be construed as a notice under section 148A(b). The contention that the proceedings were vitiated on account of the fact that the notice was issued in the name of a non-existent company was unmerited. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Issue of notice under new regime not permissible if time barred under old regime-By virtue of TOLA, Assessing Officer had period of twenty-nine days limitation left on date of commencement of reassessment proceedings to issue a notice under section 148-Notice dated 30-7-2022 for Assessment Year 2013-14 issued beyond period of limitation-Order and consequential notices set aside. [S. 144, 144B, 147, 148, 148(A)(b), 148A(d), 149, TOLA, 2020, S 3(1), Art. 226]

Assessee filed writ on ground that a notice dated 01-06-2021 issued under section 148 and notice under section 148A(b) issued on 30-5-2022 in furtherance of notice dated 1-6-2021 and impugned order passed under section 148A(d) and notice issued under section 148 issued on 30-7-2022 were beyond period of limitation as provided under section 149(1). The Court held that last date for issuance of notice under section 148 for assessment year 2013-14 under statutory framework, as was existing prior to 1-4-2021 was 31-3-2020 and by virtue of section 3(1) of TOLA, it was extended till 30-6-2021 and, thus, notice dated 1-6-2021 was issued twenty-nine days prior to expiry of period of limitation for issuing a notice under section 148 as was extended by TOLA. The period from 1-6-2021 and date of decision of Supreme Court on 4-5-2022 in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal(2022) 286 Taxman 183/ 444 ITR 1(SC) and period from date of said decision till date of providing material, as required to be accompanied with a notice under section 148A(b), was required to be excluded by virtue of third proviso to section 149(1). Further, time granted to assessee to respond to notice dated 30-5-2022 was also required to be excluded by virtue of third proviso to section 149(1). By virtue of TOLA, Assessing Officer had period of twenty-nine days limitation left on date of commencement of reassessment proceedings, which began on 1-6-2021, to issue a notice under section 148 and said notice was required to be accompanied by an order under section 148A(d), thus, an order under section 148A(d) was required to be passed within said twenty-nine days notwithstanding time stipulated under section 148A(d). Since assessee had furnished its response to notice under section 148A(b) on 13-6-2022, time available to Assessing Officer to pass an order under section 148A(d) was necessarily truncated and same was required to be passed on or before 12-7-2022. Thus, notice dated 30-7-2022 had been issued beyond period of limitation and was to be set aside. (AY. 2013-14)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the Assessing Officer wanted to verify the genuineness of the contract work done by the assessee or whether any accommodation entry was provided to P. The Assessing Officer had accepted the contention of the assessee and held that the information report by the insight portal was accounted for by the assessee in his books and income arising out of those transactions was duly offered for taxation. Therefore, the order dated April 21, 2023 under section 148A(d) of the Act could not be sustained. (AY. 2019-20)

On a writ petition challenging the order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice under section 148 dated July 29, 2022 for the assessment year 2013-2014 as time barred in view of the first proviso to substituted section 149 as interpreted by the Supreme Court, allowing the petition, the Court held that the submission of the Revenue that section 148A(d) extended the time limit under section 149(1) or had a bearing on the time under section 149(1) was misconceived and lacked legal sanctity.

The period for reassessment in terms of section 149 of the old regime was deemed to be extended till June 30, 2021 under the 2020 Act. The notice dated June 29, 2021 would be deemed to be a notice under section 148A(b). The surviving period excluding the date of re-issuance of notice on June 29, 2021 would be the remaining days in the month of June 2021 (June 30, 2021-June 28, 2021), namely, two days. On June 30, 2021, the extension in terms of the 2020 Act, would come to an end. The period that was excluded would be the period up to June 30, 2021, covered by the provisions of the Income-tax Act read with the 2020 Act, the period from July 1, 2021 to May 3, 2022 being the period before the decision of the Supreme Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC), the period from May 4, 2022 till May 20, 2022, the date when the material was furnished and the reasons for reopening were given to the assessee, the period of two weeks for reply to be filed by the assessee, which ended on June 4, 2022 and the extended time to file reply (additional reply was filed by the assessee on June 28, 2022). Further extension was given to the assessee in pursuance of notice dated July 14, 2021 giving additional time of one week in view of change in the incumbent to the office, which period ended on July 21, 2022. On the facts, considering all the exclusion periods, the remainder days for conclusion of the procedure for passing of an order under section 148A(d) and issuance of notice under section 148 would be two days from July 21, 2022 which had expired on July 23, 2022. The notice under section 148 dated July 29, 2022 was time barred. The order under section 148A(d) and the notice issued under section 148, dated July 29, 2022, which were after the surviving period that had expired on July 21, 2022 were beyond the time period specified under section 149(1) and hence quashed. Consequently, the assessment order dated May 29, 2023 passed on the basis of the notice under section 148 was quashed and set aside.(AY. 2013-14)

The Court held that no time was granted to the assessee by the Assessing Officer to file a reply and, therefore, the notice issued under section 148A(b) of the Act was not valid. That the Principal Commissioner had granted the approval to the issuance of notice under section 148 of the Act prior to even digitally signing of the notice under section 148A(b) of the Act as well as to the date of passing of the order under section 148A(d) of the Act on March 26, 2022. That therefore, the notice under section 148 of the Act is issued admittedly without jurisdiction and contrary to the provisions of the Act. The order dated March 26, 2022 passed under section 148A(d) of the Act as well as the notice dated March 29, 2022 issued under section 148 of the Act were quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the credible information which constituted the bedrock for the formation of opinion had categorically alluded to the alleged diversion of the loan to sister concerns. The direction of the court was to carry out an exercise of examining the explanation as proffered by the assessee afresh. The Assessing Officer was not disabled from proceeding to examine the entire case, including on the basis of the allegations which formed part of the original reasons to believe. (AY. 2016-17)

Dismissing the petition, the court held that, on an analysis done by the Departmental authorities, they had formed an opinion that the entries found recorded in the electronic books of account of OML were coded. There was nothing to doubt the prima facie relevancy of the information received by the Departmental authorities for the purpose of initiating the reassessment proceedings. The assessee was not subjected to regular assessment under section 143(3) for the assessment year 2017-2018. Therefore, there was no earlier assessment where the facts being alleged against the assessee or his income had been examined. The reassessment notice was valid. Court also held that the limitation of reassessment proceedings for the assessment year 2017-2018 would exist beyond March 31, 2021. Whether six years or ten years, the reassessment proceedings initiated against the assessee vide notice under section 148 dated March 6, 2024, remained within the time limit. (AY. 2017-18)

However, bank credits pertained to earlier years, and the assessee had already furnished the ledger and tax audit details for transactions with 'M'. Allowing the petition the Court held that the reassessment proceedings had already concluded and an order had been passed under section 147. The reassessment action was reinitiated on the same set of reasons vide a notice under section 148A(b) of the Act. The right of the Department to reopen the concluded assessment was based on a perceived reading of the decision of the Supreme Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR

On writ, the Court held that though a personal hearing was sought for by the assessee, it had been denied on the ground that the assessee would have nothing further to add to the reply already filed in response to the initial notice under section 148A(b). Such an approach was not appropriate. If the law requires the grant of a personal hearing, it should not be ordinarily denied. Although the assessment order was appealable under the Act, the writ petition was entertained since there was violation of principles of natural justice. The assessment order and the consequent notice of demand were set aside. The matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer for fresh disposal.

On writ the Court held that the Department was on the verge of concluding the assessment proceedings, the assessee despite having made out a prima facie case was not entitled to stay of further proceedings, though a limited protection could be afforded. The assessment order was yet to be passed. The assessee was granted liberty to respond to the notice proposing variation dated March 13, 2025 before March 29, 2025. Accordingly, if such response was filed, the faceless assessment unit should accept such response and upon providing opportunity of hearing, if sought for, could take the proceeding under section 148A to its logical conclusion. [S. 132, 132A, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148 A(d), 153A(1), proviso 4.]

Allowing the petition the Court held that there was no allegation that the income which had escaped assessment was represented in the form of an asset. Therefore, the conditions as stipulated in clause (a) of the fourth proviso to section 153A(1) were not satisfied. The Assessing Officer did not have possession of any books of account, other documents or evidence, which revealed that the assessee's income that was represented in the form of an asset as defined in terms of Explanation 2 to section 153A(1) which included immovable property being land or building or both, shares and securities, loans and advances, deposits in bank accounts, had escaped assessment. He had sought to disallow expenses doubting their genuineness holding that they were not incurred wholly or exclusively for the purpose of the assessee's business. In the absence of any further material to establish that such expenses had resulted in the acquisition of any asset, the conditions stipulated in the fourth proviso to section 153A(1) would not be satisfied. Therefore, the period of limitation for issuing a notice under section 153A had to be confined to a period of six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which the search under section 132 was conducted. The search having been conducted in the financial year 2022-2023, the relevant block of six assessment years would be the six assessment years preceding the assessment year 2023-2024. Accordingly, since the assessment year 2016-2017 fell beyond the block of six years the notice issued under section 148 and the reassessment proceedings under section 147 initiated pursuant thereto were set aside.(AY. 2016-17)

Held that the Assessing Officer had once again examined the assessee's response to the notice under section 148A(b) and had deleted the reference to income, which on examination, was found to have been declared by the assessee. However, the Assessing Officer had also found that there was information which had remained unexplained and had accordingly passed a fresh order under section 148A(d) for issue of notice under section 148. Although the assessee had reiterated that the alleged bogus purchases were genuine, the Assessing Officer had found that they required verification and that the assessee had not produced sufficient material to establish the movements of goods. That in the earlier writ petition on the contention that the Assessing Officer did not have jurisdiction to initiate the reassessment proceedings under section 147 in the faceless assessment regime, the court had observed that the issue was pending consideration in a batch of matters and directed that the outcome of the proceedings initiated by the Assessing Officer would abide by the decision in those petitions. The issue regarding the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer to initiate reassessment proceedings under section 147 had been concluded.(AY. 2018-19)

Writ petitions challenged notice under s. 148A(b), order under s. 148A(d), notice under s. 148, assessment under s. 147 read with s. 144B and consequential orders for AYs 2014-15 and 2016-17, pending statutory appeal under s. 246A before the Commissioner (Appeals). The court observed that the appellate authority is bound by the jurisdictional High

Court's decisions, including Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2024) 464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC), and therefore the assessee may raise before the Commissioner (Appeals) all pleas argued in the writ petitions-including illegality of the s. 148 notice. The appellate authority must consider those pleas and pass appropriate orders; accordingly, the assessment orders should not be acted upon until appellate proceedings conclude. All contentions were kept open.(AY. 2014-15, 2016-17) disposing the objection was quashed.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The assessee had deposited specified bank notes during the demonetisation period. In the scrutiny assessment completed under section 143(3) on December 31, 2019, the Assessing Officer had examined this issue in detail and accepted the return of income after verifying the records. Later, on the basis of audit objection, notice under section 148A(b) was issued on March 19, 2024. The Court held that the power to reopen assessment post April 1, 1989 is wider, but the words "reason to believe" cannot be interpreted so as to permit reopening merely on a change of opinion. Since the issue of demonetisation cash deposits had already been examined and accepted in scrutiny, the reassessment amounted to review of the same matter, which is impermissible. Accordingly, the notice and order disposing of the objection were quashed as invalid.(AY. 2017-18)

Held, allowing the petition, that the mandatory requirement of prior show-cause notice, hearing and passing of order under section 148A before issuance of reassessment notice under section 148 could not be fulfilled in the case of a dead person. Allowing the petition the Court held that the son of the deceased assessee had informed the Department about the demise of the assessee by way of a communication along with a copy of the death certificate and the receipt of such communication had been endorsed. The explanation that the Department was corresponding with the chartered accountant was neither relevant nor convincing. No notices were issued to the legal representatives under section 159. The assessee filed the writ petition and challenged the Notice issued under Section 148 of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 on various grounds. One of the grounds is that the Notice has been issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer when the law mandates that it has to be issued by the Faceless

Assessing Officer. This is a fatal defect, and therefore the Notice has to be quashed. The petitioner relied on Hexaware Technologies Limited v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/ 464 ITR 430 / 338 CTR 536 (Bom)(HC), The Revenue contended that the said decision has been challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the Hon'ble Supreme Court is likely to take up the matter immediately on re-opening. Revenue also fairly stated that there is no stay to the judgment in Hexaware Technologies Ltd (Supra). The Honourable Court followed the jurisdictional High Court and allowed the petition of the assessee and set aside the notice issued under Section 148 and all other proceedings/orders emanating therefrom. Honourable Court has granted liberty to the Revenue to revive the order simply by moving a Praecipe before this Court. [S. 144, 144B, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 250, 253; Art. 226]

Where an initial notice under s. 148A(b), order under s. 148A(d), notice under s. 148 and an assessment order under ss. 147 read with 144 and 144B were challenged while a statutory appeal under s. 246A before the Commissioner (Appeals) and a revision application under s. 264 before the Principal Chief Commissioner were pending, the High Court held that the assessee was entitled to raise all contentions before those statutory fora. The appellate and revisional authorities, being bound by the court's earlier decisions, must consider legal challenges to the notices and assessment; consequently, the writ court should not pre-empt issues that could be decided by the appellate or revisional authorities. Liberty was therefore granted to the assessee to raise all contentions before those authorities, and the assessment order under S. 147 read with 144B was directed to remain stayed until conclusion of the pending proceedings.

For AY 2017-18, notice under section 148 was issued on 28-6-2021 culminating in an order on 30-3-2022, which attained finality. Relying on UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC), the AO issued a fresh notice under section 148A(b) on 1-6-2022 leading to a fresh order under section 148A(d). Held, allowing the petition, that the Supreme Court's directions were confined to reassessment notices pending as of 4-5-2022 and did not authorize reopening of already concluded assessments. Therefore, the order under section 148A(d) and consequential notice under section 148 dated 31-7-2022 were quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the reasons stated in the notice issued under section 148A(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, dated March 26, 2022, did not justify the conclusion that the assessee was not a professional. Unless the Department had the document to substantiate that the assessee was an employee in the respective hospitals, from whom he had received consideration and deductions were made wrongly under section 194J instead of section 192, the Department could not reopen the assessment. The assessee being an anesthesiologist was consulting in several hospitals and thus, had received remuneration for the services rendered to these hospitals, although on a monthly basis. There was no justification in reopening the assessment. The order under section 148A was not valid.(AY. 2018-19) (SJ)

On writ, the Court held that from the order or the documents relied on by the assessee, it did not appear that the assessee had made any specific request before the Assessing Officer, inter alia, praying for issuance of summons on A for him to be produced for the purpose of cross-examining him. The assessee having not approached the court earlier and having not made any specific prayer for cross-examining A before the Assessing Officer at the stage of the proceeding under section 147 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, the writ petition could not be entertained on such ground. Admittedly, there was an alternative remedy in the form of appeal. Hence, the order could not be quashed.

For the assessment year 2017-2018, the Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 on June 28, 2021 which had culminated in an assessment order dated March 30, 2022. Both the Department and the assessee accepted this order, and no further proceedings were initiated thereafter. However, following the Supreme Court's directions in Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC); (2023) 1 SCC 617; 2022 SCC OnLine SC 543 dated May 4, 2022, the Assessing Officer issued a fresh notice under section 148A(b) on June 1, 2022 which led to an order under section 148A(d) and a consequential notice under section 148 both dated July 31, 2022. On a writ petition: Held, allowing the petition, that the Supreme Court decision in Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC); (2023) 1 SCC 617; 2022 SCC OnLine SC 543 under article 142 of the Constitution of India was to put to rest the issues that arose out of the amendment to the Income-tax Act, 1961 by the Finance Act, 2021 (2021) 432 ITR (St) 52). The Supreme Court had not given any direction to the Assessing Officer to reopen assessments that were already completed by treating notices issued under section 148 as initial notices under section 148A(b) as amended with effect from April 1, 2021. Therefore, the order passed under section 148A(d), and the consequential notice under section 148, both dated July 31, 2022, were quashed. (AY. 2017-18) (SJ)

The court held that the demand raised by notice dated 20 March 2023 pursuant to the assessment order dated 13 March 2023 did not pertain to any claim that formed part of the resolution plan. Proceedings continued under S. 147 read with 144 likewise did not relate to any claim included in the resolution plan; consequently, notices issued by the Commissioner (Appeals) and references for hearing of appeals filed by the assessee stood extinguished on 1 July 2022 because no demand existed in the absence of any claim raised before the resolution professional by the Department. For the assessment year 2018-19, in the absence of any demand pending as on 1 July 2022, any demand raised subsequently could not be treated as a claim before the resolution professional; therefore, the demand arising from the assessment order dated 13 March 2023 could not be said to have been extinguished. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC)-Notice cannot be issued in respect of completed assessment.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d) Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the notices dated June 1, 2022 and July 16, 2022, issued under section 148A(b) and section 148, respectively and the order dated July 16, 2022 passed under section 148A(d) were liable to be quashed. The procedure envisaged in Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal, (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC) is unambiguously confined to matters where, although notices may have been issued, proceedings were yet to attain finality. Judgment neither spoke of completed assessments nor did it embody any direction that could be legitimately or justifiably construed as mandating completed assessments being reopened. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notices of reassessment for earlier years issued under old procedure quashed-Order for issue of notice under new procedure based on same material not valid. [S. 143(1), 147, 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that when notices for reopening of assessments for the earlier assessment years on the same material had been quashed, there could not be a reopening for the year under consideration only because for the year under consideration no scrutiny assessment is undertaken by the Assessing Officer. This being a new regime of reassessment after April 1, 2021, no different treatment could be given for reopening only because the scope was enlarged by the amended provisions for reopening. Therefore, the order passed under section 148A(d) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, as well as the notice under section 148, were not valid and hence quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

The assessee did not file a return of income for A.Y. 2019-20 on the ground that her income was below the exemption limit. She had purchased an immovable property for Rs. 1.56 crores. The AO issued notice under section 148A(b), considered the reply, and thereafter issued notice under section 148. Additions were made of Rs. 1.56 crores under section 69A and Rs. 26.16 lakhs under section 56(2)(vii)(b) for differential value between agreement and market value. In writ proceedings, the assessee contended that funds were provided by her husband directly to the vendor, evidenced by bank statements, and that section 69A applied only to assessee maintaining books of account.. On writ the Court held that, Section 69A applies even where an assessee is not required to maintain books of account, as evident from the words "books of account, if any." Since the assessee failed to establish that the source funds of Rs. 1.56 crores were reported in her husband's return of income, the matter was remanded to the NFAC for fresh consideration subject to payment of Rs. 10,000 as costs to Adyar Cancer Institute. As regards the addition under section 56(2)(x)(b)(B), the Court held that reference in the notice to section 56(2)(vii)(b) instead of section 56(2)(x)(b)(B) did not vitiate the assessment since the provisions were substantially similar, and the differential value exceeded the statutory thresholds. The addition of Rs. 26.16 lakhs was therefore sustained.(AY. 2019-20)

The assessee had not filed a return of income for A.Y. 2019-20 on the ground that her income was below the exemption limit. She purchased an immovable property for Rs. 1.56 crores, which triggered reassessment proceedings under section 148A. Additions were made of Rs. 1.56 crores under section 69A and Rs. 26.16 lakhs under section 56(2)(vii)(b) [later applied as section 56(2)(x)(b)(B)] being the differential between agreement value and stamp duty value. On a writ petition, the Court held that section 69A applies even where the assessee is not required to maintain books of account. Though the Assessing Officer was prima facie satisfied with the explanation regarding the source of Rs. 1.56 crores, the assessee failed to produce her husband's return of income and relevant documents. The matter was remanded to NFAC for fresh consideration of the section 69A addition, subject to payment of Rs. 10,000 as costs to Adyar Cancer Institute. The addition of Rs. 26.16 lakhs under section 56(2)(x)(b)(B) was upheld as valid.(AY. 2019-20) (SJ)

Survey on an entry operator revealed that the assessee's purchases/sales were only paper transactions with no underlying movement of goods. AO complied with s. 148A procedure and concluded that these were bogus transactions. Court upheld the reopening as valid and refused to interfere under Art. 226. (AY 2018-19)(SJ)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Succession to business otherwise than on death-Merger-Factum of disclosure of merger had remained uncontested; notice for reassessment issued in name of entity which had ceased to exist could not be sustained. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 170, Art. 226]

The assessee company was amalgamated with another company. Subsequently, a notice under section 148 was issued in the name of the pre-merger assessee. Assessee filed its reply to aforesaid notice and specifically brought to the attention of the revenue the factum of merger of the assessee with another company. Despite that disclosure being made, revenue proceeded to frame a final order under section 148A(d) as well as to issue notice under section 148, both drawn in the name of the pre-merger assessee. On writ, the Court held that since the factum of disclosure of merger had remained uncontested, the impugned notice for reassessment issued in the name of an entity which had ceased to exist could not be sustained. (AY. 2014-15)

Moonlight Equity (P.) Ltd. v. UOI (2025) 303 Taxman 603 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Central Circle-Notice issued by jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) rather than the Faceless Assessment Officer (FAO)-Notice and consequential order under section 148A(d) is quashed and set aside-Liberty is granted to the Revenue to seek revival if the Supreme Court later reverses the decision in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151A Art, 226]

The petitioner challenged a show cause notice dated 29.08.2024 issued under Section 148A(b) of the Income Tax Act, an order dated 31.08.2024 passed under Section 148A(d), and a consequential reassessment notice dated 31.08.2024 issued under Section 148. The primary ground of challenge was that the notices were issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) rather than the Faceless Assessment Officer (FAO), which the petitioner claimed rendered them invalid.

1. Whether the issuance of reassessment-related notices by the JAO, instead of the FAO, renders them invalid?
2. Whether the law laid down in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. ACIT and followed in subsequent Bombay High Court decisions is applicable?
3. Whether the reassessment process was legally sustainable given the procedural defect?
- 4.

The Court noted a divergence in views between two Single Judges on the issue and resolved the conflict by following the decision in Hexaware Technologies Ltd v.ACIT (2024) 162 taxmann.com 225 / 464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC) authored by the present Chief Justice. The honourable Court also referred, BMC Software India (P) Ltd v. Dy.CIT (2024) 167 taxmann.com 39 (Bom)(HC), Kairos Properties (P) Ltd v.ACIT (2024) 165 taxmann.com 760/468 ITR 1688 (Bom)(HC). Court held that it is mandatory for the FAO to issue such notices. Since the respondent had issued the notices through the JAO, they were declared invalid. The Court also noted that Special Leave Petitions against Hexaware and related cases were pending before the Supreme Court. It clarified that if the Apex Court reverses Hexaware, the Revenue would be at liberty to seek revival of the present case. Any other issues not covered by the Hexaware ruling were kept open for adjudication at an appropriate stage. Accordingly, the writ petition was allowed. The impugned notices were quashed. There was no order as to costs. Liberty was granted to the Revenue to seek revival if the Supreme Court later reverses the decision in Hexaware. (WP No.35385 of 2024 dt.24-6-2025)(AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Petitioner had explicitly sought a personal hearing-Not granted-Breach of the principles of natural justice-Order is set aside.[S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

On writ the Court held that though a personal hearing was sought, the same has been denied to the Petitioner on the ground that the Petitioner would have nothing further to add to the reply already filed by the Petitioner. The Court noted that such an approach would not be appropriate. If the law requires the grant of a personal hearing, then the same should not be ordinarily denied on the grounds that nothing further could be said in the personal hearing. The Petitioner must be allowed to convince the Assessing Officer of the merits of its version. This is more so when a law provides for a personal hearing when requested by the Assessee. Accordingly, the order and notice are quashed and set aside.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Income from other sources-Failure to respond to notice-Audit objection after amendment-Factual disputes can not be adjudicated in writ proceedings when an alternative remedy is available-Writ petition is dismissed with liberty to file an appeal. [S. 57, 142(1), 143(3), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The petitioner, an individual, filed his return of income for AY 2017-18 on 3 August 2017, which was selected for scrutiny under Section 142(1) to examine the deduction claim under Section 57. During the original assessment, the petitioner submitted an email response with evidence to establish the nexus between the income from other sources and the claimed deduction. The assessment order under Section 143(3) was passed on 24 December 2019, accepting the return without explicitly mentioning the petitioner's response. On 16 March 2024, a notice under Section 148A(b) was issued, requiring the petitioner to submit a reply by 25 March 2024 via email. The notice was based on audit objections, stating that no documentary evidence or bank statement was found to substantiate the interest expense claimed under Section 57. The petitioner did not file a reply within the stipulated time and did not seek an adjournment. Instead, he submitted his reply on 27 March 2024 via email, after the deadline. On 28 March 2024, an order under Section 148A(d) was passed, along with a reassessment notice under Section 148, citing no explanation was provided by the petitioner. The petitioner then filed a writ petition challenging the reassessment. The court noted that the petitioner failed to reply within the prescribed time and had not annexed the attachments referred to in his response, making it impossible to verify the claim that the issue was already examined during the original assessment. The court declined to exercise its discretionary jurisdiction, observing that factual disputes could not be adjudicated in writ proceedings and that an alternative remedy was available. The court dismissed the writ petition, granting liberty to the petitioner to challenge the reassessment before the appellate authority. [WP(L) No. 31458/2024, dt. 26.02.2025, (AY. 2017-18)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice Principle of Natural Justice-Non-Application of Mind by Authorities-Role of Principal Commissioner of Income Tax (PCIT)-Approval under Section 151-Strictures-Interplay Between CGST Act and Income Tax Act-Costs and Accountability of Tax Authorities-The High Court held that the reopening of assessment under Section 148 was invalid as it was based on mechanical approval and a lack of due diligence by the tax authorities-Imposed personal costs of ₹25,000 each on the Assessing Officer and the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, payable to the National Association for the Blind, Mumbai for arbitrary and unjustified actions serves as a deterrent against abuse of authority and reinforces accountability in the exercise of statutory powers-Directed the Ministry to scrutinize the conduct of the involved officers for accountability. [S. 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), 151, Art. 226]

The petitioner a chartered accountancy firm, challenged a notice issued under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961, for reopening the assessment for AY 2018-2019. The notice was based on a report from CGST authorities alleging that the petitioner received bogus invoices for fraudulent Input Tax Credit (ITC) without the supply of goods. Arbitrary actions by assessing officers and approving authorities, based on unrelated or erroneous assumptions, violate principles of natural justice. On writ, the Court held that proper scrutiny of facts and circumstances is mandatory. Approval granted under Section 151 must demonstrate independent application of mind. Vague, irrelevant, or unsupported remarks in granting such approval render the reassessment process invalid. Information obtained under the CGST framework cannot automatically be applied to proceedings under the Income Tax Act unless substantiated with evidence relevant to the assessee's disclosed income. Imposing personal costs of ₹25,000 each on the Assessing Officer and the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, payable to the National Association for the Blind, Mumbai, for arbitrary and unjustified actions serves as a deterrent against abuse of authority and reinforces accountability in the exercise of statutory powers. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Loan-Cash credits-Once assessment is reopened, it is not confined to those subjects only-If no addition is made on the recorded reasons-The Assessing Officer cannot make additions in respect of items forming part of original return-Assessment order is quashed and set aside. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

On basis of information that assessee had received loan from its 100 per cent subsidiary and said issue was not examined during assessment proceedings, notice under section 148A(b) was issued to assessee. In response to notice under section 148A(b), assessee submitted that during the year relevant to assessment year, it had received no loans rather, repayment had been made of the advance received earlier. Assessing Officer in order passed under section 148A(d) considered reply of assessee and had found it tenable and observed that assessee had not provided any evidences with regard to source of funds utilized for making payment of the loan and he, thus, treated loan repayment amount as income and made addition to income of the assessee. On writ, the Court held that the Assessing Officer could not supplement or improve upon the reason which formed basis for initiating action under section 148A. Explanation 3 of section 147 can be applied only where power to reassess is validly invoked. Since foundational material alone would be relevant for purposes of evaluating whether reassessment powers were justifiably invoked, reassessment proceedings were quashed and set aside. benefits-Reassessment notice and consequential order were set aside-DTAA-India-Mauritius. [S.9(1)(i)), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 13, Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) on the ground that the assessee had not filed its return of income for the assessment year in question and proposed to initiate reassessment based on a purported remittance to a non-resident or foreign company. The Assessee submitted that it had filed its return for assessment year 2016-17 and the assessee had in fact sold shares leading to capital gains, which too were duly disclosed in the return which had been furnished and claimed exemption from taxation by virtue of Article 13(4). The Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) denying exemption under Article 13 to the assessee. On a writ, the assessee contended that the original show cause notice had proceeded on the premise that the assessee was a non-filer; however, it was established that the assessee had filed its return, which was duly acknowledged and the financial transactions in question were duly disclosed in the return; thus, reassessment was unjustified. Held that the reopening notice was not even founded on the allegation that assessee was not entitled to claim the benefit of Article 13(4) of the DTAA. Since the Assessing Officer had issued a notice under section 148A(b) on a false premise, the impugned reassessment was not valid and was to be set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Seizure of cash by police-Proceedings under section 132A-Notice held to be valid though issued without compliance of procedure-Order of single judge is affirmed. [S.132A, 147, 148, Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, S 451]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that though when an item or cash, was produced before a criminal court the Department could not issue a notice under section 132A to the court in question, once the item was produced before the court in connection with any criminal case registered by the police or any other law enforcement agency, an application for release or for giving custody of it to the Department could only be in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure and specifically section 451 of the 1973 Code. However, that did not take away the fact that the Department had initiated proceedings under section 132A to requisition the amount from the police station. Therefore, the case was covered by the first proviso to section 148A and the procedure prescribed under the provisions of section 148A need not be complied with before issuing the notices under section 148 for the assessment years 2020-21 to 2023-24. On appeal order of single judge was affirmed. (AY.2020-21 to 2023-24)

Ahmedabad District Co-op Milk Producers Union Ltd. v. ITO (2025) 472 ITR 214 (Guj.) (HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-The interest income received from Non-Convertible Debentures (NCDs) was appropriately taxed under section 194LD, and could not be characterized as dividend liable for Dividend Distribution Tax (DDT) under section 115-O-Nexus between material relied on and formation of belief is necessary-Recorded reasons cannot be substituted-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S.115O, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 194LD, Art. 226]

The assessee, a company incorporated in Luxembourg and a registered Foreign Portfolio Investor (FPI) under the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Foreign Portfolio Investors) Regulations, 2014 subscribed to Non-Convertible Debentures (NCDs) issued by an Indian company.

The revenue contended that the interest income received by the assessee from NCDs was mischaracterized and that the transaction was structured to evade tax by recharacterizing what should have been dividend payments as interest payments. That the funds, although taken out in the form of interest payments, were in fact liable to be declared as dividends and subjected to DDT under section 115-O.

The assessee contended that the interest income was correctly offered to tax under section 194LD at the prescribed rate. That they were merely the recipients of interest income and not the entity that declared or paid any dividend. Therefore, even if the payments were to be assumed as dividends, the liability to pay DDT could only be imposed on the company that declared, distributed, or paid the dividend, which in this case would not be the Assessee.

The Hon'ble High Court quashed the reassessment notice issued u/s 148A(b) and the consequential orders under section 148A(d) on the premise that the revenue lacked valid basis for recharacterizing the interest income as dividend income. The Hon'ble High Court further held that the interest income was correctly taxed under section 194LD and could not be recharacterized as dividends subject to DDT under section 115-O.

Moreover, the Hon'ble Court emphasized that DDT liability could only be imposed on the company that declared, distributed, or paid the dividend, which was not the case with the assessee. Court also observed that an inefaceable connect must exist between the reasons initially disclosed proposing reassessment under section 147 of the Act and the basis which constituted formation of opinion with respect to escapement of income and the final decision to commence reassessment proceedings. Notice and order disposing the objection were quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-No opportunity of being heard-Violation of principles of natural justice-Reassessment notice u/s 148 and order u/s 148A(d) quashed [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(a), 149(1)(b)]

The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 on 15 March, 2022 for the assessment year 2015-16, alleging escapement of income amounting to ₹78,59,057. The petitioner sought additional time to respond, but the request was denied, and an order under section 148A(d) was passed on 31 March 2022, leading to the issuance of a reassessment notice under section 148. The Petitioner argued that the notice was barred by limitation under section 149(1)(a), as the escaped income was less than ₹50 lakh and the due date to issue notice in his case would be 3 years from end of the the relevant assessment year i.e. 31 March, 2019. However, the Revenue claimed that the extended period of limitation under section 149(1)(b) applied since the escaped income exceeded ₹50 lakh.

The Hon'ble Gauhati High Court held that the Petitioner was not given a reasonable opportunity to respond, which violated section 148A(c) and the principles of natural justice. The Court noted that the notice was received only six days before the deadline, which was inadequate. Further, the Court held that the denial of additional time was unjustified, and even if the escaped income exceeded ₹50 lakh, the due date would be 31 March 2026 and not 31 March 2022, and hence the reason so assigned in the affidavit for not granting additional opportunity amounted to non-application of mind. Consequently, the reassessment order and notice were quashed, and the Assessing Officer was directed to consider the Petitioner's reply and provide a fresh hearing.(AY. 2015-16) (SJ)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Purchase of property-Income from other sources-Order u/s 148A(d) was on an issue not mentioned in the initial notice-Notice and order were quashed-Matter remanded.[S. 56(2)(viib), 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) on basis of information gathered from Insight Portal calling upon assessee to show cause as to why a notice under section 148 should not be issued in respect of transactions related to purchase of two properties and another entry related to a TDS statement for certain amount. However the Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) that there was difference between amount of guideline value and sale consideration of properties purchased by assessee which was assessable under section 56(2)(vii)(b). On writ the Court held that the notice under section 148 had raised an issue which was not previously raised in show cause notice, it was necessary for Assessing Officer to issue a fresh show cause notice calling for an explanation with regard to all issues that warranted issuance of a notice under section 148. Accordingly, the notice and consequential order were quashed. The matter was remanded back to the AO. (AY. 2016-17) (SJ)

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Surviving limitation after Rajeev Bansal-Notice issued beyond surviving period-Reassessment quashed.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d)]

The original notice under the old regime was issued on 28-6-2021, leaving only two days of the original limitation period. Applying the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Rajeev Bansal and Ashish Agarwal, the Tribunal held that after expiry of the time granted to the assessee to respond to the deemed notice under section 148A(b), the Assessing Officer was required to complete the proceedings under section 148A and issue notice under section 148 within the surviving period of two days. Since the notice was issued beyond the surviving limitation, it was barred by limitation, and the reassessment was quashed. (AY. 2017-18).

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Search cases-Approval granted without recording finding of escapement of income-Notice under section 148 invalid. [S. 132, 147, 148, 148A(b), 151]

The reassessment proceedings were initiated pursuant to a search without any finding that the information unearthed during the search had resulted in escapement of income for the relevant assessment years. The Principal Commissioner granted approval mechanically without recording satisfaction regarding escapement of income. The Tribunal held that fulfilment of the condition of escapement of income was a sine qua non for reopening the assessment and, in the absence of proper approval under section 151, the notices issued under section 148 were invalid. (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20 & 2020-21).

CIT(A)-No further additions beyond the original reason could be sustained-All additions were held to be made without jurisdiction were deleted.[S.69A, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d)]

The Assessee was an agriculturist having no any other source of income than agricultural income. Since, income from agricultural operations was exempt from tax, he was not obliged to file return of income. The Assessing Officer based on information that assessee had deposited a sum of Rs. 76 lakhs in bank, initiated reassessment proceedings in case of assessee by recording reasons that income to extent of Rs. 76 lakhs had escaped assessment. Accordingly, the notice under section 148 was issued. The Assessing Officer passed reassessment order wherein he made additions by treating the agricultural income as income from other sources and further made additions of Rs. 76 lakhs being cash deposited during demonetization as unexplained money under section 69A. CIT(A) deleted the addition made on account of cash deposited in the bank account by accepting the plea that said account did not belong to the assessee and further restricted the addition on account of interest made by the Assessing Officer and upheld the addition made on account of agriculture income, treating the same as income from other sources. On appeal, the assessee contended that once the very basis of initiation of proceedings under section 147 did not survive, the Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to consider those issues which were not forming part of the reasons for reopening. Tribunal held that once information regarding cash deposited in bank was found to be incorrect and addition made on this account was deleted, it was established that reasons for which case of assessee was reopened had no legs to stand, therefore, Assessing Officer had exceeded his jurisdiction in making additions on issues which were not forming part of reasons recorded for reopening and, thus, no additions could be made beyond reasons recorded for initiating proceedings under section 147 and addition was deleted .(AY. 2015-16)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Beyond three years-Income alleged to have escaped was less than Rs. 50 lakhs, i.e., Rs. 32.78 lakhs-Reassessment notice and consequential assessment orders were void ab initio, hence quashed. [S. 56 (2) (vii)(b), 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b)]

The Assessee had entered into a transaction for the purchase of immovable property for a sale consideration of Rs. 80 lakhs. Assessment was reopened for the reason that the stamp value of the property was Rs. 1.12 crores. Assessing Officer passed an assessment order under section 147, determining total income after making an addition of Rs. 32.78 lakhs under section 56(2)(vii)(b), being the difference in stamp duty value and sale consideration. CIT (A) affirmed the addition and reassessment. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since notice had been issued beyond 3 years but not more than 10 years from the end of the relevant assessment year, it would fall under the provision of section 149(1)(b). Since notice under section 148 was issued only for income which had escaped assessment amounting to Rs. 32.78 lakhs, the reassessment notice and consequential assessment order were void ab initio, hence quashed. S. 148B : Prior approval for assessment, reassessment or recomputation in certain cases-Search-related assessment-Assessment completed under section 143(3) instead of section 147-Mandatory procedure under Finance Act, 2021 not followed-Assessment quashed-Third-party documents and statements-No cross-examination-No incriminating material found from assessee-Additions deleted-Appeal to Appellate Tribunal-Additional legal grounds-Pure questions of law-Grounds admitted.[S. 68, 69, 132,132(4) 143(2) 143(3), 147, 148, 254(1)]

Following a search on third parties, the Assessing Officer relied upon seized material while framing the assessment under section 143(3) without invoking the reassessment provisions introduced by the Finance Act, 2021 or obtaining the mandatory approval under section 148B. The Tribunal held that where the assessment year falls within the three preceding years covered by Explanation 2 to section 147, the procedure prescribed under the new reassessment regime is mandatory. Failure to comply with these jurisdictional requirements rendered the assessment void ab initio. The additions towards alleged on-money receipts and unexplained investment were based entirely on digital data and statements obtained from independent deed writers and brokers during search. The Tribunal held that none of the seized material was recovered from the assessee, no satisfaction was recorded that the documents belonged to the assessee, and no opportunity of cross-examination was granted. In the absence of corroborative evidence or incriminating material found from the assessee's premises, the additions were deleted. The assessee raised additional legal grounds challenging the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer to complete the assessment under section 143(3) instead of following the reassessment procedure prescribed after the Finance Act, 2021. The Tribunal held that the grounds involved pure questions of law arising from the existing record and did not require investigation into new facts. The additional grounds were accordingly admitted. The Assessing Officer issued a notice dated 30-6-2021 under section 148 during an extended time period as per TOLA, which was to be treated as a notice under section 148A(b). Thereafter, the Assessing Officer provided information on 27-7-2022. The Assessee filed his reply on 11-08-2022. The Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) on 29-08-2022, and a notice under section 148 was issued on 30-08-2022. On a writ, the Court held that, considering the period of limitation from the date of issuance of notice under section 148 read with TOLA up to 30-6-2021, limitation for issuance of notice under section 148 would be 25-8-2022. S. 149: Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Concession made by Additional Solicitor General before the Supreme Court as recorded in Rajeev Bansal-Notice being barred by limitation was to be dropped, and consequently reassessment order, demand notice and penalty notices were quashed and set aside. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer initiated reassessment proceedings pursuant to notice issued under section 148 on 5-4-2022. The High Court, vide its order dated 9-5-2024, allowed the writ petition. However, the Assessing Officer continued with reassessment on premises that order passed by the Supreme Court in case of UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 301 Taxman 238/469 ITR 46 (SC) would be applicable in the facts of the case of the petitioner. The Court held that the Assessing Officer overlooked the fact that, in view of the decision of the High Court in Hexaware Technologies Limited v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225 /464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC), he could not have proceeded further. Both parties agreed that, in view of the decision of the High Court in Hexaware (supra), the assessment order dated 3-3-2025 was bad in law. However, revenue contended that, as per his reading of Rajeev Bansal (supra), though a concession had been made by ASG in respect of assessment year 2015-16, said concession did not appear to have been judicially recognised by the Supreme Court. Since notice under section 148 was undisputedly issued on 5-4-2022, which was after 1-4-2021, said reassessment proceedings ought to have been dropped in view of the concession made by Additional Solicitor General before the Supreme Court as recorded in Rajeev Bansal (supra). Notice being barred by limitation was to be dropped, and consequently impugned reassessment order, demand notice and penalty notices were to be quashed and set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

The Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice on 5-4-2022. Assessee contended that since the notice was issued after 1-4-2021; it was without jurisdiction and had to be withdrawn in light of the concession made by the revenue before the Supreme Court in UOI v. It was noted that revenue had categorically made a concession before the Supreme Court that for the assessment year 2015-16, it would drop all notices issued under section 148 after 1-4-2021. Notice under section 148 dated 5-4-2022, and all consequential orders/notices were quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

A Notice was issued under section 148A and the Assessing Officer passed an order holding that it was a fit case for issuance of notice under section 148. On a writ the assessee contended that notice was issued beyond period of limitation as prescribed under section 149(1)(a) and conditions specified so as to attract provisions of section 149(1)(b) were not satisfied. It was noted that the assessee had computed exempt LTCG on sale of shares in previous year relevant to assessment year 2013-14. Only transaction in previous year relevant to assessment year 2013-14 was sale of shares of Gemstone and PMPL. There was no material with the Assessing Officer to indicate that gross sale consideration had escaped assessment in assessment year 2013-14. If information as available with the Assessing Officer was verified to be correct, income which assessee had claimed as exempt under section 10(38) would be income that was chargeable to tax under Act and had escaped assessment. The amount was below threshold limit of Rs. 50 lakhs for attracting provision of section 149(1)(b). Therefore, notice having been issued beyond the period of limitation as prescribed under section 149(1)(a) and conditions as specified so as to attract provisions of section 149(1)(b) were not satisfied. Accordingly the notice was quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Since only one day was available for issuance of notice, after giving opportunity of filing reply to assessee-Last date to issue notice as per judgment of Supreme Court in Rajeev Bansal would be 12-6-2022-Notice under section 148 was issued on 15-7-2022-The Notice dated 30-6-2021 was an invalid notice. The Notices dated 15-7-2022 and 30-6-2021 were quashed and set aside. [S. 148,148A(b), 148A(d), Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020 (TOLA). S.3, Art. 226]

The Assessee filed its return of income for relevant assessment year- Subsequently, a notice dated 30-6-2021 was issued under section 148 under provisions of TOLA. Pursuant to the decision of the Supreme Court in case of UOI v. Ashish Agarwal [2022] 286 Taxman 183/444 ITR 1(SC) Assessing Officer issued notice dated 24-5-2022 under section 148A(b). Thereafter, an order dated 15-7-2022 was passed under section 148A(d) alleging that income to certain extent had escaped assessment. Pursuant to the said order, a reassessment notice under section 148 was issued on 15-7-2022. On a writ challenging the order and notice, the Court held that as per the decision of Supreme Court in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024]301 Taxman 238/469 ITR 46 (SC) the notice dated 30-6-2021 would relate to notice dated 15-7-2022. Since only one day was available for issuance of notice, after giving opportunity of filing reply to assessee, last date to issue notice as per judgment of Supreme Court in Rajeev Bansal (supra) would be 12-6-2022, whereas notice under section 148 was issued on 15-7-2022-therefore, notice dated 30-6-2021 was held to be an invalid notice hence notice dated 15-7-2022 as well as notice dated 30-6-2021 were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Saroj Predhiman Kaw v. Dy. CIT (2025) 305 Taxman 650 (Guj)(HC)

S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Finding or direction in appeal-S. 150 cannot be invoked to revive time-barred reassessment proceedings-Notice issued beyond limitation invalid. [S. 148, 148A(d), 150, Art. 226]

The Court held that S. 150 enables departure from the limitation prescribed under S. 149 only for giving effect to a finding or direction issued in appellate, revisional or court proceedings, but does not contemplate rejuvenation of reassessment proceedings which were already barred by limitation on the date of issuance of notice. Sub-s. (2) of S. 150 carves out an exception and restricts application of sub-s. (1) where reassessment action was already time-barred when the order forming subject matter of appeal or revision was passed. In the present case, the notice under s. 148 was admittedly barred by limitation under s. 149(1) on the date of its issuance and the earlier remand order directing reconsideration of the assessee's reply did not obliterate or extend statutory timelines. The AO was required to examine limitation before proceeding afresh and could not assume that remand diluted statutory time restrictions. Accordingly, the order passed under S. 148A(d) dt. 31-3-2024 and notice issued under S. 148 dt. 1-4-2024 were quashed as barred by limitation. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Non-resident-Assets located outside India-Rule against retrospectivity-Intent and language to be considered-Whether new time limit would apply where assessments concluded prior to date of amendment-Matter referred to larger Bench-Finance Act 2012) (2012) 345 ITR 1 (St). [S. 147, 148, 149(1(c), Art. 226]

The assessee a non-resident, received a notice u/s 148 of the Act on various dates between March 2014 and 2021 for the Assessment years 1997-98 to 1999-2000 and 2001 to 2005-06 for which the time limits expired under section 149 as existing prior to the amendment in 2012 on various dates prior to March 31, 2012. On a writ the assessee contended that clause (c) of section 149(1) was not operative retrospectively and therefore, would be applicable only in respect of those assessment years in respect of which assessments had not been concluded. The Department contended in favour of retrospective application of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 149 which clarified that provisions of sub-sections (1) and (3) of section 149 as amended by the Finance Act, 2012 were applicable for any assessment year beginning on or before April 1, 2012. The Court held that it was important to examine the legislative intent and the language of the statute to determine whether it was intended to be applicable retrospectively. Accordingly the matter was referred to a larger Bench. (AY. 1997-98 to 1999-2000, 2001 to 2005-06)

S. 149 : Reassessment-Time-barring-First proviso-Faceless regime-Jurisdiction of AO-Notice held barred by limitation and without jurisdiction. [S. 80IA, 133A, 143(3), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151A, Art.226]

The assessee, engaged in manufacture and sale of cement, filed ROI for AY 2017-18 claiming deduction u/s 80IA on profits from SWM, WTS and NIPU. The claim was examined in scrutiny and allowed by the AO/CIT(A), with quantum partly in dispute before ITAT. During pendency of appeal, survey u/s 133A was conducted (June 2023), and AO alleged fresh facts showed wrong claim of deduction of ₹ 841.25 cr. On 31-3-2024, notice u/s 148A(b) was issued; objections on limitation, change of opinion and non-fulfilment of s. 149(1)(b) conditions were rejected, and notice u/s 148 dated 1-5-2024 was issued by Jurisdictional AO. On writ the Court held that following Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/ 464 ITR 430 (Bom.)(HC) and Godrej Industries Ltd v. ACIT (2024) 338 CTR 25 / 160 taxmann.com 13/ 470 ITR 628 (Bom HC), that for AY 2017-18, the 6-year limit under the erstwhile s. 149(1)(b) expired on 31-3-2024; first proviso to s. 149 bars issue of notice thereafter. Fifth/sixth provisos cannot extend the "restriction" period in the first proviso. Notice dated 1-5-2024 was thus time-barred. Further, under s. 151A and CBDT Notification dt. 29-3-2022, issuance of notice u/s 148 must be through automated allocation by a Faceless AO; issuance by a Jurisdictional AO was contrary to the mandatory scheme and without jurisdiction. Consequently, both the notice u/s 148 and the order u/s 148A(d) were quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 149: Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Provisions of relevant assessment year applicable for reassessment proceedings. [S. 147 148,149(1)(b), Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer issued a reassessment notice under Section 148 in 2022 for AY 2013-14, applying the amended provisions of Section 149 introduced by the Finance Act, 2022. However, under the pre-amended Section 149(1)(b) (which applied to AY 2013-14), the limitation period of six years had already expired on 31 March 2020, and was only extended until 31 March 2021 by COVID-related notifications. The reassessment notice was issued much later, beyond this extended period.

The Bombay High Court held that the amended provisions of Section 149 (as given in the Finance Act, 2022) could not be applied retrospectively to AY 2013-14. Hence, the AO lacked jurisdiction, and the entire reassessment proceedings, including the notice and consequential assessment order, were held to be void ab initio.(AY. 2013-14)

The Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice under section 148 dated 31-8-2024. On writ, the Court held that the notice issued under section 148A(b) and the order passed under section 148A(d) prior to the issuance of notice were set aside on the ground that same is barred by limitation. The period of six years from the end of the relevant assessment year 2016-17 expired on 31-3-2024. Notice and order are set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Notice under section 148 dated June 16, 2021 was deemed a section 148A(b) notice per Ashish Agarwal, and after providing material and rejecting objections, a fresh notice under section 148 was issued on July 29, 2022, leading to assessment under section 147 read with section 144B. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the 4-year limitation period expired within the window covered by the 2020 Act's extension (up to June 30, 2021), the Revenue had only 15 days from receipt of the assessee's reply (till June 25, 2022) to issue notice under section 148, but the notice issued on July 29, 2022 came 34 days late; the notice was accordingly barred by limitation under section 149, void ab initio, and the entire reassessment proceedings were quashed. Held that notice for asst. yr. 2015-16 issued on 15th July, 2022 under S 148 is barred by limitation and hence bad in law, and therefore, impugned reassessment proceedings as well as the impugned reassessment order are bad in law. Followed UOI v. Rajeev Bansal (2024) 340 CTR 865 (SC) (AY.2015-16)

S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Income escaping assessment was certainly more than Rs. one lakh. Notice dt. 31st March, 2021, issued under s. 148 within six years from the end of the asst. yr. 2015-16, falls within the time-limit of the old regime.- Notice through electronic platform on assessee's email-ID-No illegality or invalidity either in the notice under s. 148 r/w s. 142(1) or at any stage of the assessment proceedings.[S.143(2), 144B,147, 148, 151]

Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer found that the assessee had not disclosed sale consideration of immovable property of Rs. 45,00,000 in his return, the income escaping assessment under the head capital gains was certainly more than Rs. one lakh and, therefore, notice issued under s. 148 within six years from the end of the relevant asst. yr. 2015-16 fell within the time-limit prescribed under s. 149 of the old regime. Tribunal also held that the notice issued under s. 148 through the electronic platform on the assessee's email ID available with the Department and the assessee having participated in the assessment proceedings, which were carried out in a faceless manner under S. 144B, there was no illegality or invalidity in the service of notice (AY. 2015-16)

Tribunal held that the AO issued original notice under S. 148 within the TOLA period on 30th June, 2021, the minimum days available as per the fourth proviso to s. 149(1) was seven days and thus the 'surviving period' was also seven days; since the material relied upon for issuance of notice was communicated to the assessee by letter dt. 2nd June, 2022, the period of two weeks allowed to the assessee to respond to the notice ended on 16th June, 2022, and, therefore, the last date for issuing notice under S. 148 was 23rd June, 2022; notice dt. 28th July, 2022, issued under s. 148 in respect of asst. yr. 2013-14 is time-barred. S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Limitation-Time spent in proceedings under section 148A to be excluded-Reassessment order passed beyond limitation-Invalid.[S.148, 148A(b)]

The reassessment proceedings arose pursuant to the decision of the Supreme Court in Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal. The Tribunal held that while computing limitation under section 149, the period required to be excluded under the third proviso to section 149(1), as explained by the Supreme Court in Union of India v. Rajeev Bansal, had to be considered. On the facts, the reassessment order was passed beyond the period of limitation and was therefore liable to be quashed. (AY. 2013-14).

S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Notices under new regime issued beyond limitation prescribed by Supreme Court-Proceedings time-barred-Withdrawal of approval under section 10(23C)(vi) invalid-Second proviso-Applicable only from assessment year 2022-23-Reference to Principal Commissioner for earlier years invalid-Withdrawal of approval-Jurisdiction-

Reference made to wrong authority-Order without jurisdiction.[S 10(23C)(vi) 148, 148A(b), 148A(d)]

The reassessment notices under section 148 were issued after the expiry of the extended limitation period recognised by the Supreme Court in Union of India v. Rajeev Bansal. The Tribunal held that the notices issued for the relevant assessment years were barred by limitation and, therefore, no valid reassessment proceedings were pending before the Assessing Officer. Since the reference made to the Principal Commissioner under the second proviso to section 143(3) was founded on invalid reassessment proceedings, the orders withdrawing approval under section 10(23C)(vi) were quashed. The Tribunal held that the second proviso to section 143(3), inserted with effect from 1 April 2022, applies prospectively from assessment year 2022-23. Consequently, the Assessing Officer had no authority to invoke the proviso for the earlier assessment years under consideration while making a reference for withdrawal of approval under section 10(23C)(vi). The consequential orders were therefore held to be without authority of law. The approval granted to the assessee under section 10(23C)(vi) was withdrawn by the Principal Commissioner pursuant to a reference made by the Assessing Officer. The Tribunal held that, under the applicable notifications, only the Commissioner (Exemption) having territorial jurisdiction was competent to grant or withdraw approval under section 10(23C)(vi). As the impugned orders were passed by an authority lacking jurisdiction, they were liable to be quashed. (AY. 2018-19 to 2020-21).

Held that since the period of four years from the end of the relevant asst. yr. 2015-16 expired on 31st March, 2020, which fell within the period from 20th March, 2020 to 31st March, 2021, the original notice under s. 148 issued on 16th June, 2021, which was deemed to be a notice under s. 148A(b), is covered under the extended time-limit till 30th June, 2021 provided under the TOLA.; however, Revenue had only fifteen days i.e., between 16th June, 2021, and 30th June, 2021, to issue notice under s. 148 i.e., till 25th June, 2022, after receipt of the response from the assessee to the show-cause notice under s. 148A(b) on 10th June, 2022 and, therefore, the notice under s. 148, issued on 29th July, 2022, is barred by limitation specified under S. 149 and is void ab initio. The Assessee did not file a return, and cash deposits resulted in a reassessment notice under section 148A in July 2022. Tribunal held that since the Supreme Court clarified in UOI v. The assessee, a contractor, had sold immovable property in AY 2015-16 but did not file a return. Based on information from the Sub-Registrar, the AO issued a notice u/s 148A(b) on 24-03-2022, passed an order u/s 148A(d) on 18-04-2022, and issued a notice u/s 148 on the same date, completing reassessment with additions of ₹1.77 crore. The assessee contended that, as per the first proviso to s. 149(1)(b) and relying on Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225 /464 ITR 430 (Bom.)(HC) and UOI v. Rajiv Bansal [2024] 167 taxmann.com 70 /340 CTR 865 (SC) the six-year limit under the old regime expired on 31-03-2022, hence the notice dated 18-04-2022 was time-barred. The Tribunal held that the first proviso restricted reopening for years prior to AY 2021-22 where the six-year limit had expired, and that the fifth proviso (exclusion of time allowed to respond to SCN) could not extend the bar under the first proviso. Since the notice was issued after 31-03-2022, it was invalid; the reassessment and additions were quashed.(AY. AY. 2015-16))(ITA No. 926/Mum/2025, dt. 28-04-2025)

S. 150: Assessment-Order on appeal-Survey-Direction issued by the CIT(A) beyond the limitation period-No assessment or reassessment could be made as the time period prescribed under section 149 had already expired-Assessing Officer could not have reopened assessment in compliance with said direction.[S. 133A, 148, 149, 150(1),250, Art. 226]

The Assessee-firm filed a return of income for assessment year 2014-15. During survey proceedings, undisclosed income was found, and the same was added to the income of assessee. The Commissioner (Appeals) partly allowed the appeal and held that the addition made by the Assessing Officer was to be made in the respective assessment years 2011-12 to 2014-15 inasmuch as the project based on which gross profits were estimated was completed during the duration of the assessment years 2011-12 to 2014-15. In compliance with the directions of the Commissioner (Appeals), the Assessing Officer issued notices under section 148 for reopening the assessment for the relevant years. Assessee raised objections on the ground that, as per section 150(2), which restricts power under section 150(1), to give direction to reopen assessment, the period of limitation prescribed under section 149(1) had expired. However, the Assessing Officer disposed of objections on the ground that notices were issued in compliance with the directions issued by the Commissioner (Appeals). On a writ, the Court held that, as per section 150(1), notice under section 148 can be issued at any time to give effect to a direction passed by the Commissioner (Appeals). However, provisions of section 150(1) are subject to section 150(2), which provides that section 150(1) shall not be applied in a case where assessment, in respect of which direction was passed by the Commissioner (Appeals), could not have been reopened at the time of passing such appellate order. Since Commissioner (Appeals) had issued direction after the expiry of four and six years, respectively, for assessment years 2011-12 and 2012-13, no assessment or reassessment could be made as the time period prescribed under section 149 had already expired, and thus, the Assessing Officer could not have reopened the assessment in compliance with said direction. Shubh Buildcon v. ITO (2025) 307 Taxman 181 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 150 : Assessment-Order on appeal-Reassessment-Time limit for notice-No finding or direction-Notice issued beyond limitation-Quashed.[S. 69A, 148, 148A(3), 149(1), 153A, Art. 226]

Pursuant to search proceedings, additions under section 69A were made and later deleted by CIT(A) and confirmed by the Tribunal; the High Court dismissed revenue's appeal. AO then issued notice under section 148A(b) followed by order under section 148A(3). The Court held that the earlier High Court order could not be construed as "finding or direction" under section 150 to permit issue of notice beyond the limit in section 149(1). The notice and order were quashed as time-barred. (AY. 2015-16)

Sanjay Singhal v. ACIT (2025) 303 Taxman 35 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 150: Assessment-Order on appeal-Conditions set out in S. 150 are required to be fulfilled for invoking S. 150 for issuance of notice under S. 148 beyond the period stipulated under S. 149-Appeal of Revenue is dismissed. [S. 148, 149, 254(1), 260A]

The Hon'ble Delhi High Court in an appeal, was faced with a question whether there was any 'finding or direction' in the order of the Tribunal or in the order of Coordinate Bench of the High Court to give effect to which the AO could have issued notice under S. 148 of the Act for the purpose of reassessment or re-computation and specifically with regard to the addition of an amount of Rs. 7 crores on the ground of the same being undisclosed income of the assessee. The Court ultimately concluded that it was clear from the perusal of the order of the co-ordinate Bench of the High Court dated 29.07.2015 as well as the order of the Tribunal, the CIT(A) that in none of the orders, there was any finding or direction that the undisclosed income of Rs. 7 crores was required to be assessed to tax in the hands of the assessee, which warranted issuance of notice under S. 148 of the Act to give effect to such finding or direction. Appeal of the Revenue was dismissed.(AY. 2007-08)

PCIT Central v. Capital Power Systems Ltd. [2025] 302 Taxman 481 /481 ITR 615 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 151: Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Approval granted after expiry of three years-SLP delay of 411 days-SLP of revenue was dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits. [S.148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b), Art. 136]

The Assessee challenged the initiation of reassessment proceedings on the ground that sanction for initiation of reassessment should be granted by the Principal Chief Commissioner. As per the section 151 approval form, that case was covered under section 149(1)(b) (beyond three years but not more than ten years). However, the Assessing Officer proceeded after obtaining administrative approval under section 151 from the Commissioner, with approval granted on 27-4-2023. High Court held that since approval was granted after expiry of 3 years from end of relevant assessment year, Commissioner should have realized that it was more than three years after expiry of assessment year, which was 2019-2020 and if some time had to be excluded as per fifth proviso to section 149, that should have been mentioned in order-sheet, otherwise it would only amount to exercising jurisdiction which he never had. The order passed under section 148A(d), and the notice issued under section 148, were quashed. On SLP, the Court held that since there was a gross delay of 411 days in filing SLP, which had not been satisfactorily explained by revenue, the SLP filed by revenue was to be dismissed on the grounds of delay as well as merits. The assessee had deposited donations received in cash in its bank account and thereby disclosed nil total income for the relevant assessment year. Accounts of assessee were recorded, accounted for, and audited. The AO issued notice for reassessment. On writ, the Court held that there was no live link, which was a sine qua non between material before the Assessing Officer in the present case and belief which he had to form regarding escapement of income-Sanction under section 151 granted by prescribed authority as well as notice for reopening issued by Department was without any application of mind.High Court held that, on facts, the impugned reopening notice issued against the assessee was unjustified and the same was to be set aside. Revenue filed SLP. Court held that, there being a gross delay of 246 days in filing SLP by the revenue, which had not been satisfactorily explained, the SLP was dismissed. (AY. 2014-15)

On a writ the Court held that there was a discrepancy between the draft of the order under section 148A(d) of the Act which stated that income of Rs.97,06,911 had escaped assessment and the approval granted by the Principal Commissioner, which showed the income which had escaped assessment as Rs. 63,16,784, and that therefore, the approval under section 151 was obtained and granted without application of mind. The court quashed the order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 for reassessment. The Supreme Court dismissed the petition on the grounds of delay of 181 days and also on the merits.(AY.2019-20)

The High Court dismissed the writ petition against a notice of reassessment holding that the Commissioner had read the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer to believe that income had escaped assessment, and by a written order under section 151 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, had stated that he was satisfied on the basis of reasons recorded that this was a fit case for issue of notice under section 148, and that there was no reason to interfere with the notice issued under section 148. SLP of assessee dismissed. (AY. 2013-14)

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the Principal Commissioner applied his mind and granted approval in terms of the requirement of law as provided in section 151 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. obtained before issuance of reopening notice in terms of provision of section 151(ii)-Reopening notice was quashed and set aside. [S. 148,149, 151(1), 151(ii), Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 on 25-7-2022. On writ it was contended that as the amount involved is more than Rs. 50 lakhs, approval has to be obtained from the Principal Chief Commissioner or the Chief Commissioner as defined under section 151(ii). On facts, the amount involved in writ petition was a sum of Rs. 3.65 crores and Section 148 notice was issued on 25-7-2022, which was beyond period of three years Since approval was obtained from Principal Commissioner in terms of section 151(i) and no approval was obtained before issuance of reopening notice in terms of provision of section 151(ii), which was mandatory, reopening notice was issued in violation of provision of section 151(ii). The Assessee-company filed its return of income, which was accepted. Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice to the assessee alleging that assessee had taken an accommodation entry of fictitious purchases of shares from a company. On a writ, the court held that the notice was not issued with prior approval of the Principal Chief Commissioner or any other authority specified under section 151(ii), which was a mandatory requirement for issuance of notice under section 148 beyond the period of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year. Notice was quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Kusum Healthcare (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 304 Taxman 471 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 151: Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Limitation-Notice issued beyond six years-Time spent by assessee in earlier litigation can neither be excluded nor can it be claimed to result in extension of limitation period-Notice without sanction from prescribed authority-Notices and order invalid.[147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b), 151(ii), Art. 226]

On a writ allowing the petition the Court held that there was no merit in the Department's contention that the time period during which the assessee's petition against earlier notice, dated July 27, 2022 under section 148 was pending before this court was required to be excluded for the purposes of computing the limitation period. The notice issued in the earlier round was set aside on the ground that the Assessing Officer had not followed the mandatory requirement of seeking approval from the competent authority under section 151. The Department ought to have taken all necessary steps for initiation of the assessment proceedings within the period of limitation in accordance with law. The fact that the Department had not taken the steps in accordance with law could not be construed as a factor in favour of the Department for extending the limitation as stipulated under section 149. No period could be excluded unless there was an express bar created by a court order. The pendency of a petition or a stay of notice could not extend the limitation to issue a fresh notice. The time spent in the earlier litigation could neither be excluded nor could lead to an extension of the limitation period under section 149(1)(b). Accordingly, the initial notice under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice dated April 24, 2024 issued under section 148 for the assessment year 2016-2017 were set aside.(AY. 2016-17)

Allowing the Petition the Court held that for the assessment year 2015-2016, the Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, digitally signing the notice on April 9, 2021, although it was dated March 31, 2021. The notice issued on April 9, 2021 was barred

S. 151: Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Satisfied-The approval is a safeguard and has to be meaningful and not merely ritualistic or formal-General order of approval for all the 111 cases-Mechanical according of sanction-Not valid.[S. 147, 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the Petition, the Court held that the competent authority must apply its mind independently on the basis of material placed before it before grant of approval or sanction. It was evident that the approval for notice of reassessment dated March 28, 2021 was a general order of approval for all the 111 cases. There was no whisper as to what material had weighed in the grant of approval in the present case. While the Principal Commissioner was not required to record elaborate reasons, he had to record satisfaction after application of mind. The approval is a safeguard and has to be meaningful and not merely ritualistic or formal. The sanction order did not refer to the material of any of the 111 cases. The grant of approval in such a manner did not fulfil the requirement of section 151 of the Act. The notice issued under section 148 of the Act for the assessment year 2015-2016 and the proceedings emanating therefrom were not valid.(AY. 2015-16)

Allowing the Petition the Court held, that a perusal of the record revealed that the request for approval under section 151 of the Act in a printed Format was placed before the Principal Chief Commissioner on March 20, 2023. The Principal Chief Commissioner granted the approval on the same day. Hence, the approval granted by the Principal Chief Commissioner for issuance of the order under section 148A(d) was not valid. Consequently, the order passed under section 148A(d), and the notice under section 148 issued pursuant to the order under section 148A(d) had to be set aside and quashed.

On a writ the Court held that the assessee has already filed an appeal against impugned order, as also assessee had filed a review application before Principal Chief Commissioner under section 264. Accordingly the assessee was directed to pursue the pending proceedings before the appropriate Appellate Authority instead of filing instant writ petition. S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Within four years-Non-application of mind-Approval granted by the specified authority is not in accordance with the law-The notice for reopening and the subsequent assessment order is bad in law [S. 147, 148]

The Assessee was subjected to the reopening under section 147 of the Act and a notice dated 30.03.2017 was issued under section 148 of the Act

based on some information received from the Investigation Wing. The AO, based on the said information, alleged that the Assessee indulged in accommodation entries of bogus purchases. The AO finalised the assessment by making the additions on account of alleged bogus purchases. On appeal, the CIT(A) restricted the addition from 100% to 5%. Being aggrieved with the order of CIT(A), the Assessee filed the appeals to the ITAT. Before ITAT, the Assessee raised legal issue challenging the notice under section 148 of the Act. It was contended ~~before the ITAT~~ that, in the present case, the notice under section 148 of the Act is issued without seeking proper approval and satisfaction as per section 151 of the Act. The ITAT after considering the arguments of the Assessee, observed that the Additional Commissioner of Income Tax wrote a letter to the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax on 27.03.2017 stating that a search and seizure action has conducted on 03.10.2013 in the group of Shri Rajendra Jain, Sanjay Jain etc, the Assessee is one of the beneficiary of this group, therefore necessary sanction under section 151(1) of the Act may be given. However, the form for recording the reasons for initiating proceedings under section 147 was prepared on 23.03.2017 for obtaining the approval of the Commissioner of the Income-Tax. The approval was granted merely mentioning 'yes. I am satisfied'. The ITAT held that as per section 151 of the Act, the appropriate authority for granting approval was the Additional Commissioner of Income Tax and not the Commissioner of Income Tax. Thus, there is no application of mind before granting approval. The ITAT, therefore, quashed the reassessment proceedings, holding the notice under section 148 bad in law. Thus, the Appeal of the Assessee was allowed. [AY. 2010-11, 2011-12]

ITO v. Ravjibhai Bechabhai Dhameliya (2025) 131 ITR 557 (Surat)(Trib.)

S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Specified authority-Sanction form Principal CIT and not Chief CIT-Reopening proceedings and the reassessment order passed are quashed.[S. 151(ii)]

For the relevant asst. yr. 2016-17, the time-limit of three years lapsed on 31st March, 2020, which falls between 20th March, 2020 and 31st March, 2021, during which provisions of TOLA would apply. Accordingly, the amended provisions under the Act r/w TOLA extended the time-limit for granting of approval under s. 151 till 30th June, 2021 by the specified authority. Since the notice under s. 148 and order under s. 148A(d) have been issued beyond the said period of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year, the case of the assessee fell within the provisions of s. 151(ii) of the amended law, whereby the specified authority for the grant of approval is the Principal Chief CIT, Principal Director General, Chief CIT or Director General. Contrary to this requirement, approval was obtained from the Principal CIT. Accordingly, since a proper sanction by the specified authority has not been obtained for the issue of a notice under s. 148 under the applicable provisions of law, said notice is invalid and bad in law. Reopening proceedings and the reassessment order passed thereafter are quashed. Followed. UOI v. Rajeev Bansal (2024) 340 CTR 865 (SC) (AY. 2016-17)

Notice was issued only on 1st April, 2021, though the same is dated 31st March, 2021 and, therefore, the notice under s. 148 was barred by limitation; since the AO reopened the assessment simply on account of the fact that the assessee made a cash deposit in the bank, it cannot be said that there was escapement of income from assessment and, therefore, reassessment is not valid; that apart, notice under s. 148 issued after obtaining the approval from the Jt. The Tribunal held that reassessment proceedings were invalid where the approval granted by the Principal CIT did not correspond with the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer, omitted approval for major issues forming the basis of reopening and reflected no independent application of mind. Mere search action does not automatically justify reopening in the absence of material indicating escapement of income. The Principal Commissioner accorded approval for reopening by merely recording, "Yes, I am satisfied and may be reopened." The Tribunal held that the use of the word "may" reflected lack of a definitive direction and showed absence of proper application of mind. Such casual approval did not satisfy the requirement of section 151. The reassessment proceedings were, therefore, quashed. (AY. 2012-13 to 2015-16).

The assessee challenged the reopening on the ground that approval under section 151 ought to have been granted by the Principal Chief Commissioner and not by the Director General. The Tribunal held that, since the Principal Chief Commissioner had no jurisdiction over the Central Charge or the Director General concerned, the sanction granted by the jurisdictional Director General was valid and in accordance with section

151. Pursuant to search, seized diaries revealed undisclosed cash transactions in the nature of loans and advances exceeding the monetary threshold prescribed under section 149(1)(b). The Tribunal held that such loans and advances constituted "assets" within the meaning of Explanation 2 to section 153A and the corresponding provision in section 149(1)(b). Accordingly, the reopening of assessment was valid and not barred by limitation. The Tribunal held that search assessments assigned to the Central Charge are outside the scope of the faceless assessment scheme. Consequently, the jurisdictional Assessing Officer was competent to initiate and complete the reassessment proceeding. The assessee admitted during the search that the seized handwritten diaries belonged to him and contained details of his cash transactions. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of any material identifying the diaries as belonging to family members or group concerns, the subsequent retraction was not acceptable. The Tribunal held that the tally books prepared after the search contained substantial alterations, including removal of notional interest, merger of family accounts and additional claims for bad debts. As they did not faithfully reflect the seized diaries, the Assessing Officer rightly rejected the tally books and determined the income on the basis of the seized diaries. The Assessing Officer estimated the assessee's profit from land trading at 35 per cent. of the credits recorded in the seized diaries. The Tribunal held that the estimate was excessive and, considering the assessee's own average profit ratio of 13.14 per cent. reflected in the seized records, directed the Assessing Officer to apply that rate. The Tribunal found no basis for the Assessing Officer's estimate of 20 per cent. profit on share trading transactions recorded in the seized diaries. It directed that income be computed by applying a net profit rate of 8 per cent. on the total credits, considering the nature of the transactions and the statutory presumptive scheme. The Tribunal held that the Maal Khaate ledger contained both credit and debit entries and could not be treated as representing net profit. Rejecting the Commissioner (Appeals)' estimate of 20 per cent., the Tribunal directed estimation of income at 10 per cent. of the total credits, considering the turnover and nature of the business. The Tribunal held that, while peak credit should be computed ledger-wise in the absence of identification of individual parties, the assessee was entitled to telescoping of income already assessed in earlier years against the peak addition made in subsequent years. The Tribunal held that no bad debts had been written off in the seized diaries and the claim was raised only in the tally books prepared subsequently. As the tally books were rightly rejected and the statutory requirements for deduction were not satisfied, the claim for bad debts was disallowed. The Tribunal held that the accrued interest entries recorded in the seized diaries were merely notional and that actual interest had already been brought to tax on receipt basis. Taxing the notional interest separately would result in double taxation. Accordingly, the deletion of the addition by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Tribunal held that the seized diaries for earlier years formed an integral part of the evidence and the opening cash balance recorded therein could not be ignored merely because assessment for those years had become time-barred. The matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for recomputation of the negative peak cash balance after considering the opening balances reflected in the seized diaries. The Tribunal held that only the undisclosed income arising from the unexplained transactions and not the entire undisclosed receipts could be brought to tax. The Commissioner (Appeals) rightly adopted the peak credit method after excluding entries already considered under other heads and deleted protective additions relating to family members.(AY. 2013-14 to 2021-22).

Prakash Misrimal Sanghvi v. Dy. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 387 (Ahd.)(Trib.)

S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Order passed by ignoring the revised return filed by assessee-No satisfaction recorded by Pr. CIT before granting approval-Reassessment order was quashed and set aside. [S. 147, 148]

The Assessee filed the original return, which was revised subsequently. However, AO, while reopening the assessment and while obtaining the approval of the competent authority, failed to take cognizance of the same. Further, there were so many factual mistakes by AO while recording the reasons. Furthermore, in the reasons recorded, the Pr. CIT stated 'fit case, approved' and no satisfaction was recorded by him before granting the approval. It is a settled position that mere mechanical manner of approval is not valid and reopening made based upon that said approval is bad in law. Further, it is also settled position of law that once a revised return is filed, the original return must be taken to have been withdrawn and substituted by a fresh return for the purpose of assessment. Therefore, since reassessment was framed by ignoring the revised return filed by assessee, the re-assessment proceedings initiated on the basis of such incorrect and vague facts and invalid approval, could not be sustained. Karia Builders. v. ITO (2025) 214 ITD 161 (Pune) (Trib.)

S. 151: Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Notice beyond a period of three years-Assessing Officer was statutorily obligated to have obtained approval from either of the authorities specified under section 151(ii) as per section 151 as amended by Finance Act, 2021, effective from 1-4-2021-Reassessment notice and consequential orders were quashed.[S.68, 148, 147,151 (ii)]

The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 dated 4-4-2022 on the ground that the assessee had made substantial cash deposits in its bank accounts, the assessment was made with addition as cash credits. The CIT(A) also affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice after obtaining approval from the Principal Commissioner. It was also noted that notice under section 148 was issued beyond a period of three years from the end of assessment year. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer was statutorily obligated to have obtained approval from either of the authorities specified under section 151(ii) as per section 151, as amended by the Finance Act, 2021, effective from 1-4-2021. Since the Assessing Officer had obtained approval from the Principal Commissioner, i.e., an authority who was not vested with any jurisdiction as per the mandate of section 151, the assessment so framed by him under section 147, being devoid of a valid assumption of jurisdiction, was quashed. S. 151: Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Notice issued under section 148 with sanction of PCIT instead of JCIT-Survey-Invalid sanction-Assessment held to be null and void. [S. 133A, 143(3),151(2), 147, 148]

The assessee, engaged in stock broking and financial services, had filed its return, which was assessed under section 143(3). Subsequently, on the basis of information received from search and survey in the case of Naresh Jain group (providing accommodation entries in penny stocks), the assessment was reopened under section 148 with the sanction of the PCIT. The AO made an addition of ₹16.86 lakhs as bogus loss, which was upheld by the CIT(A). On further appeal, the Tribunal admitted additional grounds challenging the validity of sanction. Relying on the Supreme Court decision in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 469 ITR 46 (SC) and Bombay High Court decision in Ghanshyam K. Khabrani v. ACIT (2012) 346 ITR 443 (Bom) (HC) it held that since the reopening pertained to AY 2015-16, the sanctioning authority under section 151(2) was the JCIT and not the PCIT. Sanction from a higher authority does not cure the defect. Consequently, the notice under section 148 was invalid and the reassessment order was quashed as null and void. Other grounds were rendered academic. Appeal of assessee allowed. (AY. 2015-16)

The AO reopened assessment after three years with approval from the Principal Commissioner. The Tribunal held that under section 151(ii), approval of the specified authority was mandatory beyond three years. Approval by the Principal Commissioner was invalid, and the reassessment notice and order were quashed as void ab initio, following the Supreme Court in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal (2024) 469 ITR 46 (SC). S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Shall be signed-Validity of reassessment-As per the CBDT Notification dated 31.03.2021, reassessment proceedings initiated prior to 01.04.2021 were to be governed under the old regime, and all functions were to be performed by the Jurisdictional AO-Sanction and jurisdiction is bad-Order of reassessment is quashed Unsigned sanction-Order is quashed and set aside. [S. 120, 147, 148,149, 282A(1) R.127A(1)]

The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 of the Act on the basis of alleged unaccounted cash receipts. The assessee challenged the very foundation of the reassessment proceedings, arguing that the mandatory sanction under section 151 of the Act as required before issuance of notice under section 148 was neither manually signed nor digitally signed by the competent authority. The sanction sheet merely contained the name and designation of the Principal Commissioner of Income-tax (PCIT), without any signature, initials, or DSC. The assessee heavily relied on the Allahabad High Court decision in Vikas Gupta v. UOI (2022) 448 ITR 1 (All)(HC), which held that unsigned approvals do not fulfil the mandatory requirement of "authentication" under section 282A(1). The issue before the Tribunal was whether reassessment proceedings initiated under section 147/148 are valid when the mandatory approval under section 151 is unsigned-i.e., neither manually nor digitally signed, and whether such approval satisfies the legal test of authentication under section 282A of the Income-tax Act.

The Tribunal, after extensively examining the provisions of sections 151 and 282A, held that the Authentication under section 282A(1) is not a mere procedural formality; it is a statutory mandate. An unsigned approval cannot be considered valid, whether issued in paper form or electronic form. A notice or document must bear a valid manual or digital signature to be held as "signed". The approval obtained in the case was admittedly not signed by the PCIT, either physically or electronically. The Tribunal distinguished the contrary view expressed by the Chhattisgarh High Court in Bharat Krishi Kendra v. UOI (2022) 444 ITR 584, noting that it was a single-judge decision and did not deal with section 282A(1) in detail. The Tribunal followed the ratio of Vikas Gupta (All)(HC) and Daujee Abhushan Bhandar v. UOI (2022) (All)(HC), as both were Division Bench rulings specifically interpreting section 282A(1). The Tribunal further relied on the Supreme Court decision in CIT v. Vegetable Products Ltd. (1973) 88 ITR 192 (SC), which laid down that where two views are possible on a provision, the view favourable to the assessee must be adopted.

Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the unsigned sanction was invalid, and since valid prior approval is a jurisdictional condition under section 151, the entire reassessment proceedings were bad in law; therefore reassessment proceedings initiated on the basis of such approval are without jurisdiction and hence quashed. S. 151: Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Date of sanction for issuance of notice-Date on which the notice is uploaded on ITBA portal of department-Not the date on which it was communicated manually. [S. 148]

On an appeal the assessee contended that the approval under section 151 was granted after issuance of notice under section 148 dated 29-3-2018, since Assessing Officer had received approval from Pr. Commissioner on ITBA Portal on 29-03-2018, however, manual communication through letter was forwarded to the Assessing Officer on 31-03-2018, hence bad in law. The Tribunal held that the date of approval was 29-03-2018, which was on the ITBA portal of the department, and not the date on which it was communicated to the assessee. Accordingly, there was proper compliance of pre-requisite conditions to obtain approval under section 151 as per mandate of law. (AY. 2011-12)

Communication of assessment order-Assessment orders and demand notices issued u/s. 156, without a Document Identification Number (DIN) are unsustainable in law and can be considered invalid. [S. 119, 147, 148, 156]

The approval was granted in a mechanical manner and without application of mind. The reassessment notice and order were quashed. As per CBDT

Circular No. 19/2019, dated 14-08-2019, it is a mandatory requirement that the Document Identification Number (DIN) must be quoted on the body of the assessment order and demand notice at the time of issuance. A subsequent generation of DIN (either on the same day or the next day) and its intimation to the assessee via a separate communication does not satisfy the conditions laid down in paragraphs 3 and 4 of the circular. Since the requirement of quoting the DIN on the original assessment order and demand notice was not met, they were unsustainable in law. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice--Notice u/s 148 issued beyond 3-year period-As per amended Section 151 (post 01.04.2021), approval from PCCIT/CCIT was required, but approval was taken from PCIT-Reassessment proceedings quashed. [S. 147, 148]

In this case notice u/s 148 under old provisions was issued on 19/05/2021, so the survival period of 42 days was available to the AO up to 30/06/2021, and the same period would be available after excluding the period of stay up to the date of filing response by the assessee. which has been filed on 10/06/22. Pursuant to the supply of material/ issue of notice u/s 148A(b) of the Act on 28.05.2022, the assessee filed its response on 10.06.2022; therefore, the Assessing Officer got 42 days from 10.06.2022 for issue of reassessment notice u/s 148 of the Act under the amended regime of reassessment. Thus, the survival period of 42 days ended on 22.07.2022, whereas the Assessing Officer in the instant case has issued notice u/s 148 of the Act on 30.07.2022, which is otherwise beyond the period of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year. Notice issued on 30/07/2022 was beyond the permitted 42-day survival period post assessee's reply dated 10.06.2022. Approval was taken from PCIT, not the competent authority under amended Section 151 (PCCIT/CCIT). Thus, reassessment proceedings were invalid, and the entire proceedings were quashed. (AY. 2016-17), (ITA Nos.1582/M/2024 2026/MUM/2024)

The assessee, a non-resident Indian, filed an e-return of income for AY 2017-18 on 02.07.2017, declaring income at Rs. 80. Subsequently, it was found that out of Rs. 16,00,000/-cash seized by the police in old denomination notes (Rs 500 and 1000), Rs. 7,35,000/-belonged to the assessee. The AO reopened the case under Section 147 and issued a Section 148 notice on 29.07.2022, after obtaining prior approval from the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax (PCIT-27), Mumbai. The assessee raised additional ground before the Tribunal on the issue of incorrect sanction by the specified Authority. The Tribunal admitted the additional ground. The assessee contended that since more than three years had elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year, approval should have been obtained from the Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General as mandated under Section 151(ii) of the new regime and contested the validity of the notice, arguing that the approval from an unauthorised authority rendered the reassessment proceedings invalid. The ITAT held that the issuance of notice without approval from the correct authority is a jurisdictional defect that invalidates the entire assessment. Tribunal referred the UOI.v. Rajeev Bansal (2024) 340 CTR 865 / 242 DTR 297 / 301 Taxman 238 / 167 /469 ITR 46 (SC) UOI v. The Assessing Officer framed the assessment under Section 147 read with Section 144B of the Act, making an addition of Rs. 20,42,000 under Section 56(2)(vii)(b). The assessee challenged the order before the CIT(A) on legal grounds and on merits, which was dismissed. On appeal the ITAT held that the approval for issuing notice under Section 148 was required to be obtained from the Principal Chief Commissioner (Pr. CCIT) as per Section 151(ii) since the notice was issued after three years from the end of the relevant assessment year. However, the AO obtained approval from the Principal Commissioner (Pr. CIT-2), which was invalid. The ITAT quashed the reassessment order for lack of valid approval. The Tribunal emphasized that procedural compliance under Section 151(ii) is mandatory, and failure to obtain approval from the appropriate authority renders the reassessment order void. S. 151A : Faceless assessment scheme-Interlocutory application seeking restoration of SLP was allowed and restored to its original number on file-Sanction to issue of notice-Reassessment was initiated after the expiry of three years-Interlocutory application seeking restoration of SLP was to be allowed and restored to its original number on file. [S. 148, 151, Art. 136]

Assessee filed petition challenging the validity of the reassessment notice issued to it. Notice under section 148 and order of the same date under section 148A(d) were issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer and not under the mandatory faceless mechanism as per provisions of section 151A. The High Court held that for a notice to be validly issued under section 148, the Assessing Officer would be required to comply with the provisions of section 151A, so as to adhere to the faceless mechanism, as notified by the Central Government by notification dated 29-3-2022. Since the order and notices issued by the Assessing Officer were not in compliance with the scheme notified by the Central Government implementing provisions of section 151A, the reassessment notice issued to the assessee was set aside. SLP of revenue was dismissed on the grounds of delay as well as on merits. Interlocutory application seeking restoration of SLP was to be allowed and restored to its original number on file. As regards sanction, the High Court held that where reassessment in the case of the assessee was initiated after expiry of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year, sanction for issue of notice under section 148 ought to have been granted by authorities of rank referred to in section 151 (ii) and not by authorities of relatively lower rank under section 151 (i). SLP of revenue was dismissed on the grounds of delay as well as on the merits. Interlocutory application seeking restoration of SLP was to be allowed and restored to its original number on file. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151(i), 151(ii), Art. 136]

In this case, the Supreme Court addressed the validity of reassessment proceedings initiated under Section 148 of the Income-tax Act for Assessment Year 2018-19. The assessee had challenged the validity of the reassessment notice and the order under Section 148A (d) on the ground that they were issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer and not through the mandatory faceless mechanism prescribed under Section 151A, as notified by the Central Government on 29 March 2022. The Bombay High Court held that compliance with Section 151A was essential for issuing a valid notice under Section 148, and since the impugned notices were not in accordance with the faceless scheme, they were invalid and liable to be set aside. Additionally, the High Court also observed that the reassessment was initiated after the expiry of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year, and therefore, sanction for issuing the notice should have been obtained from the higher authorities specified under Section 151(ii) and not from lower-ranked authorities under Section 151(i). The Revenue filed a Special Leave Petition before the Supreme Court, which was dismissed on account of gross delay of 248 days in filing the petition as well as on merits. (AY. 2018-19)

Kings Pride Infra Projects Pvt. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 479 ITR 651 /176 taxmann.com 704 (Telengana) (HC)

S. 151A: Faceless assessment scheme-Notice under section 148 issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer instead of Faceless Assessing Officer-Non-compliance with provisions of section 151A-Banking business-Capital or revenue Purchase of securities-Broken period interest-Allowable revenue expenditure-Audit objection-Notice held to be invalid.[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art.226]

Held that that the notice issued under section 148 and the order under section 148A(d) were issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer and not by the Faceless Assessing Officer, as required under the provisions of section 151A of the Act. The Jurisdictional Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to issue the notices under sections 148A(b) and 148. In view of the law in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asst. CIT, (2024) 464 ITR 430 (Bom); (2024) 2 HCC (Bom) 204, the notice was unsustainable, and consequently, the very manner in which the proceedings were initiated vitiated the proceedings. The contention of the assessee on the position in law in regard to the broken period interest on the purchase of hold-to-maturity securities was accepted and the issue on the entitlement of the assessee to the deduction of the broken period interest was no more res integra. The initial notice under section 148A(b), the order under section 148A(d) and the notice issued under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2018-2019 were set aside.(AY. 2018-19)

Bank of India v. ACIT (2025) 477 ITR 208/170 taxmann.com 422 (Bom)(HC)

S. 151A: Faceless assessment scheme-Notices issued by jurisdictional Assessing Officer quashed and set aside-In a taxing statute, one has to look at the text as it is. There is no equity in taxation law. There is no intendment and presumption as to tax-Nothing is to be read in and nothing is to be implied-Revenue granted liberty to issue fresh notices in compliance with Central Board of Direct Taxes circular read with section 151A of the Act-Interpretation of taxing statute-term "randomly". [S. 147, 148, 148A(b) 148A(d), Art. 226, 265]

Allowing the Petitions, that any jurisdictional error in the notices had to be cured and hence the notices which had been issued under section 148 for reassessment under section 147 did not withstand the broader scheme of law which required automated allocation based on algorithm and random assignment of the Assessing Officer. The mandate of section 151A had to be strictly followed. The Jurisdictional Assessing Officer shall not have the jurisdiction to issue notices under section 148, as it would not only render section 151A weak, but may also lead to its diminishing activation. For the purpose of notices and reassessment proceedings under sections 147, 148 and 148A and in the light of the sanction under section 151A, adherence had to be made to algorithm based random assessing system, and therefore, the notices issued under section 148 were quashed and set aside. Article 265 of the Constitution of India, prohibits the State from extracting tax from the citizens without authority of law. It is axiomatic that taxation statute has to be interpreted strictly because State cannot at its whims and fancies burden the citizens without authority of law. In a taxing statute, one has to look at the text as it is. There is no equity in taxation law. There is no intendment and presumption as to tax. Nothing is to be read in and nothing is to be implied. The basic principle of charge under the tax statutes is, "No tax can be imposed on the subject without words in the Act clearly showing an intention to lay a burden upon him. Burden of proof of bringing someone under a charge is on the Revenue and that of bringing assessee under exemption or deduction is on the assessee itself. If an interpretation of a fiscal enactment is open to doubt and two views are reasonably possible then the one more beneficial or favourable to the assessee should be adopted. Provisions related to machinery of assessment or collection should be construed to make it workable and effectuate the levy and advance the objectives of the provisions. Construction of machinery provisions that disables the taxing machinery, and enables the person to escape taxation shall be avoided. In case of provisions creating rights, courts must lean in favour of construction that saves the right instead of the one defeating it."

S. 151A: Faceless assessment scheme-Notices issued and orders passed outside purview of Jurisdictional Assessing Officer in faceless mechanism and hence set aside-Revenue given liberty in accordance with new procedure on outcome of Supreme Court decision in pending special leave petition on similar issue.[147, 148, 148A(b),148A(d), 151A, Art. 226]

On a writ allowing the petition the Court held that the initial notice under section 148A(b), the order under section 148A(d) and the notice under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147 should not have been issued in a faceless manner, at least till the Supreme Court had decided the special leave petitions pending before it. In spite of the matter having been taken on many occasions, the Supreme Court had not granted any interim protection to the Department. Large number of High Courts had taken a consistent stand that such action of the Department as being violative of the Finance Act, 2020 ((2020) 422 ITR (St.) 25) and Finance Act, 2021 ((2021) 432 ITR (St.) 52). The Department's persistent initiation of fresh proceedings was contrary to established judicial pronouncements. This court had already provided a balanced approach by preserving both the Department's rights and the assessee's interests. The initial notice under section 148A(b), the order under section 148A(d) and the notice under section 148 and consequential orders, if any, were quashed and set aside. Allowing of this writ petition was subject to outcome of the special leave petition preferred by the Department against the decision in Kankanala Ravindra Reddy v. ITO, (2023) 22 ITR-OL 728 (Telangana)(HC) and either of the parties, could in an appropriate petition seek revival of this writ petition in the light of the decision of the Supreme Court in the pending special leave petition on the very same issue.

S. 151A : Faceless assessment scheme-Reassessment-Notice-Notice issued by Jurisdictional AO instead of Faceless AO-Notice invalid [S.147, 148]

The reassessment notice under section 148 was issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer instead of the Faceless Assessing Officer as required under the scheme notified under section 151A. S. 151A: Faceless assessment scheme-Reassessment-Faceless jurisdiction-Manual DIN-Reassessment held void ab initio-Jurisdictional AO issued notice instead of Faceless AO-Assessment order manually issued without computer-generated DIN-Proceedings invalid. [S. 147, 148, 151, CBDT Circular No. 19/2019]

Pursuant to a search on the Seksaria Group, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessments of The Estate Investment Company Pvt. Ltd. for several years and made additions towards alleged capital gains and unexplained money on the basis of seized diaries and employee statements. The assessee contended that the notice under section 148 was issued by the Jurisdictional AO instead of the Faceless AO as required under section 151A, and that the assessment order dated 27-03-2023 was manually issued without a pre-generated DIN, contrary to CBDT Circular No. 19/2019, which mandates electronic generation and quoting of DIN on all communications. The Tribunal held that the faceless reassessment scheme confers exclusive jurisdiction on the Faceless AO, and any notice issued by the Jurisdictional

AO is coram non judice and void. Further, since the assessment order contained a manually written DIN and no exceptional circumstances or prior approval were recorded as prescribed by the Circular, the order was non est and deemed never to have been issued. The reassessments were accordingly quashed as void ab initio. Followed, Ashok Commercial Enterprises v. ACIT [(2023) 154 Taxmann.com 144 (Bom)(HC)] *Hexaware Technologies Limited v. S.151A: Faceless assessment of income escaping assessment- Reassessment issued by Jurisdictional AO instead of FAO-Order is held to be valid on the presumption that the operation of the Jurisdictional High Court in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. ACIT(2024) 464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC) is stayed by the Honourable Supreme Court. [S. 148, 151, Art. 136]

The assessee challenged the validity of the reassessment proceedings for AY 2016-17 on the ground that the notice under section 148 was issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO), whereas under section 151A and CBDT Notification No. 18/2022 dated 29.03.2022, reassessment notices post-01.04.2021 were to be issued only by the Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO). The assessee relied heavily on the decision of the Bombay High Court in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. ACIT, (2024) 464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC)) which quashed reassessment notices issued by the JAO on identical grounds. The issue before the Tribunal was, whether reassessment notice issued by JAO post-01.04.2021 is without jurisdiction in light of the mandate under section 151A and CBDT notification requiring reassessment to be conducted through the FAO. The Tribunal noted the assessee's reliance on the Bombay High Court ruling in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. However, it also recorded that the operation of the said High Court judgment had been stayed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. In view of the Supreme Court stay, the Tribunal declined to follow the said precedent as binding, distinguishing it from ordinary jurisdictional rulings. The Tribunal held that once the judgment relied on by the assessee is stayed by the Apex Court, the principle of judicial discipline does not oblige the Tribunal to apply it. Consequently, the Tribunal did not accept the argument that the issuance of notice by the JAO rendered the proceedings void or without jurisdiction. Thus, this issue was decided against the assessee, and the reassessment proceedings were held to be valid despite the procedural objection. Reassessment notice issued by the JAO is not invalid where the High Court judgment holding it so has been stayed by the Supreme Court. (AY 2016-17 to 2022-23)

S. 153 : Assessment-Limitation-Proceedings under s. 144C- Whether time consumed in DRP procedure is to be included within limitation prescribed under S. 153-Divergent judicial views-Issue relating to applicability of twelve-month limitation under S. 153(3) even in DRP cases and determination of maximum permissible period for completion of assessment referred to Larger Bench. [S. 144C, 153(3)]

The Supreme Court noted divergence of opinion on whether the time taken in proceedings before the Dispute Resolution Panel under s. 144C is to be subsumed within or excluded from the limitation period prescribed under s. 153 for completion of assessment. While examining the scheme of ss. 144C and 153, the Court observed that s. 144C prescribes a special procedure with fixed timelines for eligible assessees, whereas s. 153 governs overall limitation for completion of assessments. Since conflicting interpretations existed regarding whether, even where s. 144C applies, the twelve-month limitation contemplated under s. 153(3) would continue to govern completion of assessment and what constitutes the outer time limit for passing the final assessment order pursuant to DRP directions, the Court directed that the matter be placed before the Hon'ble Chief Justice of India for constitution of an appropriate Larger Bench to authoritatively settle the issue. The Assessing Officer passed an order under section 143(3) read with section 144C(1) read with section 92CA of the Income-tax Act, 1961 for the assessment year 2013-2014 in which he had accepted the income declared by the assessee in the return but added the transfer pricing adjustment and disallowed the expenses claimed towards research and development. The Tribunal allowed the assessee's appeal in respect of the transfer pricing adjustment but remitted the matter to the Assessing Officer in respect of the disallowance of research and development expenses. Thereafter, the Deputy Commissioner raised a demand for certain outstanding amounts for the assessment years 2013-2014, 2018-2019 and 2021-2022. On a writ petition contending that pursuant to the order of the Tribunal, the Transfer Pricing Officer did not pass an order giving effect to the order under section 254 and that only thereafter the Deputy Commissioner ought to have passed a fresh assessment order. High Court directed the Assessing Officer to pass an order as per the direction of the Tribunal within four weeks. (AY. 2013-14) (SJ)

S. 153 : Assessment-Reassessment-Limitation-Tribunal, by order dated 31-3-2015, remanded matter to Assessing Officer for de novo consideration-Fresh assessment, as directed by Tribunal, ought to have been completed on or before 31-3-2017 as per sub-section (7) of section 153, as amended by the Finance Act, 2016-Notice dated 6-11-2020 issued by Assessing Officer was barred by limitation. [S. 153(6), 153(7), 254(1), Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer completed assessment under section 143(3) on 31-12-2009-Tribunal, by order dated 31-3-2015, remanded matter to Assessing Officer for de novo consideration. Thereafter, the Assessing Officer, by notice dated 6-11-2020, sought to provide an opportunity to assessee to complete assessment afresh in terms of the Tribunal's directions. The assessee challenged said notice in a writ petition, inter alia contending that proceedings were time-barred. The Single Judge held that, in view of section 153(7), notice dated 6-11-2020 was barred by limitation and accordingly quashed the same. It was noted that sub-section (3) is expressly made subject to provisions of sub-section (2A) which governs cases where an order of fresh assessment is to be made in pursuance of an order of Tribunal setting aside or cancelling an assessment and it prescribes a period of limitation of one year from end of financial year in which order of Tribunal is received by Principal Chief Commissioner, Chief Commissioner, Principal Commissioner, or Commissioner, as case may be.

The Court held that on a combined reading of sub-sections (7) and (9) of section 153, it is to be held that sub-section (7) of section 153, as amended by Finance Act, 2016, is applicable to instant case, and fresh assessment, as directed by Tribunal, ought to have been completed on or before 31-3-2017. Notice issued by the Assessing Officer on 6-11-2020 to complete assessment was barred by limitation. The order of single judge was affirmed. (AY.2007-08)

Editorial : United Spirits Ltd. v Asstt. CIT (2024) 296 Taxman 141/ 464 ITR 167 / 337 CTR 826/ 236 DTR 47 (Karn)(HC) affirmed.

S. 153: Assessment-Reassessment-Limitation-Assessment order uploaded on portal after expiry of limitation period-Order time-barred-Violation of natural justice-Notices issued to wrong email ID despite intimation of fresh email IDs-No effective opportunity of personal hearing-Assessment order passed under influence of superior officers and without independent application of mind-Order quashed as non est. [S. 143(3), 142(1), 119, Art. 226]

For AY 2022-23, the limitation prescribed under section 153(1), as amended by the Finance Act, 2022, required the assessment to be completed within twelve months from the end of the assessment year, i.e., on or before 31-3-2024. Though the Revenue contended that the assessment order was made on 31-3-2024, the order was undated and was reflected on the assessee's portal only on 4-4-2024. In the absence of any contemporaneous evidence of service or uploading on 31-3-2024, and as no email containing the assessment order was shown to have been sent on that date, the Court held that the order was passed beyond limitation and was therefore time-barred. The Court further held that the Assessing Officer had violated principles of natural justice by issuing notices to an old email ID of a former Chartered Accountant despite intimation of fresh email IDs and by not granting personal hearing despite specific request. It was also found that the Assessing Officer had been influenced by superior officers during the assessment proceedings, whereas their role was confined only to approval of the final order under the CBDT Circular, resulting in abdication of quasi-judicial discretion. Accordingly, the assessment order was held to be illegal, arbitrary and non est, and was quashed.(AY. 2022-23)

S. 153: Assessment-Reassessment-Limitation-Finding or direction in appeal etc.-Stay of proceedings-Dismissal of writ petition-AO required to complete reassessment within sixty days from vacation of stay-Reassessment quashed as time-barred. [S. 148, 153(6), Explanation 1 proviso, 245C, Art. 226]

The assessee had challenged the reassessment notice issued u/s 148 dated 20th March, 2019 for AY 2013-14, in the backdrop of pending proceedings before the Settlement Commission u/s 245C. The High Court had granted an interim stay on 20th Dec., 2019 restraining the AO from continuing reassessment proceedings. Subsequently, the writ petition was dismissed as withdrawn on 13th Dec., 2023, thereby vacating the stay. The Revenue contended that the limitation stood extended u/s 153(6) on account of Court proceedings. The High Court held that s. 153(6) had no application since there was neither any "finding" nor any "direction" issued by the Court requiring completion of assessment. Instead, the proviso to Explanation 1 to s. 153 applied, since the reassessment was otherwise required to be completed by 31st Dec., 2019 and the remaining time available was less than sixty days. Therefore, the AO was mandatorily required to complete the reassessment within sixty days from the date the stay was vacated, i.e., by 11th Feb., 2024. As the reassessment proceedings continued beyond this period, they were held to be barred by limitation and were accordingly quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 153 : Assessment-Reassessment-Limitation-When there is no finding or direction in terms of clause (i) of sub-section (6) of Section 153, the extended time shall be 60 days, as specified in the first proviso to Explanation 1 of Section 153, rather than 12 months-Direction-In consequence of-To give effect to-Finding-Assessment order is barred by limitation. [S. 143(3) 144B, 147, 148, 153(3)(ii), 153(6), 260,Income Tax Act, 1922, S. 34(3), Art. 226]

The firm is engaged in the business of construction and real estate development. The primary issue involved was whether the reassessment proceedings initiated against the Assessee were time-barred due to the expiration of the limitation period as prescribed under Section 153 of the Income Tax Act, 1961. The specific contention was whether the extended period of limitation under sub-section (6) of Section 153 applied in this case.

The notice under Section 148 was issued on 29 March 2019, and the financial year ended on 31 March 2019. The nine-month period from 1 April 2019 ended on 31 December 2019. The reassessment proceedings were stayed by the High Court from 13 December 2019 to 21 September 2021. Excluding this period, the limitation period was extended to 20 November 2021. Since the remaining period after the exclusion was less than sixty days, the period of limitation was extended to sixty days, ending on 20 November 2021.

The assessee contended that the entire reassessment proceedings were time-barred. The Assessee argued that the last date for passing the assessment order was 31 December 2019, and even after excluding the period during which the proceedings were stayed by the High Court, the limitation period expired on 20 November 2021. The assessee asserted that the impugned assessment order passed on 30 September 2022 was almost ten months after the limitation period had expired.

The revenue contended that the order dated 21 September 2021 passed by the High Court constituted a direction to deal with the fresh objections. Therefore, the Revenue argued that the extended period of twelve months from the end of the month in which the court's order was passed, as provided under sub-section (6) of Section 153, was applicable. According to the Revenue, the impugned assessment order passed on 30 September 2022 was within the prescribed limitation.

The Hon'ble High Court found that the order dated 21 September 2021 passed by the Division Bench did not contain any findings or directions as understood in terms of clause (i) of sub-section (6) of Section 153 but was merely a remand back to consider the matter afresh. Therefore, the extended period of limitation under sub-section (6) of Section 153 did not apply. The Hon'ble High Court held that the limitation period for the Assessing Officer to pass the assessment order had ended on 20 November 2021, and the impugned assessment order passed on 30 September 2022 was time-barred. Consequently, the High Court quashed and set aside the impugned assessment order. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 153 : Assessment-Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Limitation-Writ-Finding or directions-Assessment order was passed ten months after limitation expired-Order is barred by limitation.[S. 45, 147, 148,153(2), 153(9), 260, Art. 226]

The Assessee filed a return, which was accepted. After four years, notice under section 148 was issued against the Petitioner on 29-3-2019 on the ground that the assessee had transaction of sale of property for a certain amount. On a writ the Court granted ad-interim stay on 13-12-2019. Writ petition was disposed of on 21-09-2021. On 28-09-2022, an assessment order was passed under section 143(3) read with sections 147, 260 and 144B making an addition of certain amount to the income of assessee. Assessee contended that entire re-assessment proceedings were time barred. Order dated 21-9-2021 passed by the Court did not, in any manner, record a finding or issue directions as understood in terms of clause (i) of sub-section(6) of section 153. As per the provisions contained in section 153(2), the last date for passing the assessment order was 31-12-2019 i.e. 9 months from the end of the financial year in which notice under section 148 was served. The Assessment proceedings were stayed by the High Court from 13-12-2019 till 21-09-2021-Accordingly, as per section 153(2), limitation for the Assessing Officer to pass assessment order had come to an end on 20-11-2021 i.e., sixty days from 21-9-2021 (orders passed by High Court) by applying extended period as per first proviso below Explanation 1, whereas assessment order had been passed ten months after limitation expired. The Assessment order passed was quashed and set aside. (AY.2012-13)

S. 153: Assessment-Limitation-Transfer pricing adjustments-Tribunal's order remitting matter to Assessing Officer dated 21-10-2020 (after 01-04-2019)-Limitation period of twelve months expired on 21-10-2021-Assessment is barred by limitation. [S. 92CA, 153(3); Art. 226]

For AY 2010-11, following transfer pricing adjustments and partial relief by the Dispute Resolution Panel, the Tribunal remitted the matter to the AO on 21 October 2020. Because the Tribunal's order was passed after 1 April 2019, the nine-month period in s. 153(3) is to be read as twelve months; computing twelve months from 21 October 2020 meant the Department's jurisdiction to make an assessment pursuant to the Tribunal's direction ended on 21 October 2021. Thereafter, notices issued on 6 March 2023 and

S. 153 : Assessment-Limitation-Limitation to be computed from date order is received from higher authority-Order received on 30-1-2021; order of assessment on 13-2-2023 barred by limitation. [S. 92CA, 153(3), Art. 226]

Following directions of the Tribunal, the Transfer Pricing Officer passed an order under section 92CA on 30 January 2021. The Assessing Officer failed to frame the final assessment within the time prescribed under section 153(3). The AO's claim that the TPO's order was not communicated or known to him was factually untenable. The limitation period under section 153(3) runs from the date the AO receives the Tribunal/TPO order; even allowing benefits of the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, the assessment should have been completed by 30 September 2021. The assessment passed on 13 February 2023 was therefore barred by limitation and was quashed. Additionally, the AO's adjustments of refunds in 2022 against a non-existent demand for AY 2011-12 were improper.(AY. 2011-12)

S. 153 : Assessment-Limitation-Final assessment order passed beyond time-limit prescribed under section 153(2)-No reference to Transfer Pricing Officer-Reassessment proceedings barred by limitation-Assessment order quashed. [S. 69, 144, 144C(13), 147, 148, 153(2)]

The assessee, a non-resident individual who had not filed a return, had reassessment proceedings initiated under section 147 on the ground that he had purchased immovable property for Rs. 2.55 crores in cash, and AO completed the assessment under section 144 treating the consideration as unexplained investment under section 69, which was upheld by DRP. On appeal, the Tribunal admitted the additional legal grounds challenging the validity of the reassessment and held that since the notice under section 148 was issued on February 24, 2021, and there was no reference to the TPO for determination of arm's length price, the time-limit for completion of assessment under section 153(2) expired on March 31, 2022; however, the final assessment order under section 144 read with section 144C was passed only on January 30, 2023, beyond the prescribed time-limit, and the assessment order was accordingly quashed as barred by limitation. S. 153A : Assessment-Search-Limitation-Exchange of information under Indo-Swiss DTAA-Reference made to Swiss authorities for period prior to 1-4-2011 not maintainable under amended Article 26-Benefit of exclusion of time under Explanation (ix) to S. 153B not available-Assessment orders rightly held barred by limitation-DTAA-India-Swiss. [S.69C,90, 132, 143(3), 153B, Expl. (ix), Art. 14, 26]

Reference made to Swiss authorities for obtaining information regarding assessee's Swiss bank account for period prior to 1-4-2011. Amending Protocol dated 30-8-2010 substituted Article 26 and, in absence of any saving clause, earlier exchange of information provision stood obliterated/novated. Under Art. 14(3) of the Amending Protocol, substituted Article 26 applied only to information relating to fiscal years beginning on or after 1-4-2011. Hence request made by Indian competent authority on 11-6-2013 for information pertaining to earlier years was not in terms of DTAA. Consequently, Revenue could not claim exclusion of one year under Explanation (ix) to S. 153B for computing limitation for completion of assessments u/s 153A. Tribunal was justified in holding that assessments dated 4-3-2015 for AYs 2006-07 to 2011-12 were barred by limitation and in quashing same. Revenue's appeals dismissed. (AY. 2006-07 to 2011-12)

S. 153A : Assessment-Search-Writ not maintainable merely on alleged breach of natural justice-Non-grant of cross-examination not a ground to bypass statutory appeal-S. 65B of Evidence Act, 1872 and 63 of Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023 inapplicable to assessment proceedings-CBDT Digital Evidence Investigation Manual, 2014 has no statutory force-Single Judge order set aside.[S. 119, 132,143(3) 246A, Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023, S. 63, Evidence Act 1872, S. 65B, Art. 226]

Pursuant to searches conducted in October 2018, assessments for AYs 2013-14 to 2019-20 were completed in June 2021 making substantial additions based on seized digital materials and statements. The Single

Judge entertained writ petitions and interfered, inter alia, on the ground of violation of natural justice and non-compliance with S. 65B of the Evidence Act in respect of electronic evidence. On appeal by the Revenue, the High Court held that though exceptions to the rule of alternative remedy have been recognised in CIT v. Chhabil Dass Agarwal, (2013) 217 Taxman 143 / 357 ITR 357/ 261 CTR 113 (SC) even in cases alleging breach of natural justice, exercise of writ jurisdiction remains discretionary and cannot be invoked routinely to bypass the statutory appeal. Mere non-grant of cross-examination, especially when no specific request was made by the assessee before the AO, cannot justify sidestepping the remedy under s. 246A; the issue can be urged before the appellate authority. Sections 65B of the Evidence Act, 1872 and 63 of the Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023 apply only to judicial proceedings before Courts and not to quasi-judicial proceedings under the Income-tax Act; IT authorities and the Tribunal are not bound by technical rules of evidence. Hence, absence of a certificate under s. 65B cannot preclude reliance on electronic records seized from the assessee's own systems. The CBDT's Digital Evidence Investigation Manual, 2014 cannot confer statutory force so as to import the Evidence Act into assessment proceedings or override binding Supreme Court precedents. Observing that large-scale unaccounted transactions were unearthed after extensive investigation over nearly three years, the Court held that the Single Judge's directions virtually micromanaged the assessment process and were unsustainable. The impugned order was set aside; however, the Revenue was directed to furnish copies of the 101 panchnamas within three weeks and the assessee was granted four weeks thereafter to file appeals, with all contentions left open except on the applicability of S. 65B of the Act. S. 153A : Assessment-Search-Reassessment-Notice-Limitation-Where search under s. 132 was conducted in FY 2022-23, the block of six assessment years would be six years preceding AY 2023-24 and thus AY 2016-17 falls beyond the permissible period-Extended period of ten years not applicable in absence of income represented in the form of an asset-Notice and consequential proceedings quashed. [S. 132, 148, 149(1)(b), Art. 226]

The Petitioner challenged the notice issued under S. 148 seeking to reopen AY. 2016-17 pursuant to a search conducted in FY 2022-23. The Court held that once it is accepted that a notice under S. 148 cannot be issued if such notice could not have been issued under S. 153A as applicable to searches conducted prior to 31-3-2021, the limitation prescribed under S. 153A would govern the field. The fourth proviso to S. 153A(1) permits extension up to ten years only where the escaped income is represented in the form of an "asset" as defined in Expln. 2. On the facts, the reasons recorded did not allege that the escaped income was represented in the form of any asset such as immovable property, shares, loans, advances or bank deposits; the proposed addition was merely on account of disallowance of expenditure. In absence of material indicating income represented in the form of an asset, the conditions for invoking the extended ten-year period were not satisfied. Consequently, limitation had to be confined to six assessment years preceding AY 2023-24 (the assessment year relevant to the previous year of search). Since AY.2016-17 fell beyond the block of six years, the impugned notice and all proceedings pursuant thereto were set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-No incriminating material discovered during search-Principle of finality in tax proceedings-Reassessment, revision-Multiple proceedings on same issue-Order of Tribunal affirmed.[S. 54F, 143(3), 147, 148, 153A, 260A, 263.]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that no incriminating material was found in the search proceedings. Since the reassessment stood concluded as on the date. The search had admittedly not yielded any incriminating materials in regard to the claim under section 54F for assumption of jurisdiction under section 153A. The purpose of an assessment under section 153A was to bring to tax income that had been hitherto undisclosed for the purpose of assessment, emanating from incriminating materials found in the course of the search. Hence, the order of assessment under section 153A could not be sustained even on this score. The policy of law was that there must be a point of finality in all legal proceedings and stale issues should not be reactivated beyond a particular stage and that lapse of time must induce repose in and set at rest judicial and quasi-judicial controversies.(AY.2008-09)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Search warrants-Laptop containing relevant data found from third party search No incriminating material evidence found from the assessee's premises to justify additions-Held, proceedings under section 153A initiated without incriminating material found from the assessee's premises unsustainable.[S. 132 Art. 226]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that mentioning the name of M3MIH for the address would not be a reason to hold that no search operation was conducted at the premises of the assessee because even if the name of the other private limited company was mentioned in the warrant, the fact remained that the registered address of the assessee-firm was searched and the names of their partners were mentioned. The findings of the Tribunal that there was no search conducted at the premises of the assessee were found to be erroneous and perverse. The laptop of another group of companies recovered from Mumbai. Recovery of the laptop was not from the office belonging to the assessee. The search operation in which the laptop was recovered was of different firm and it was not during the course of search operation conducted under section 132 against the assessee or its partners that such incriminating material was recovered. If there was any indication of violation of provisions of the Act or suppression of income or any other incriminating material, which may have been recovered from the premises, the proceedings under section 153A could be said to be justified and legal. However, since no such material was collected or found from the premises of the assessee, the proceedings initiated under section 153A were unsustainable. The pleas raised were purely factual which had been examined by the Tribunal. Proceedings, if at all which could have been initiated on the basis of material collected while conducting search of some other assessee and found to be relevant for the purpose was only under section 153C, since the provisions of sections 153A and 153C had been held to operate in different fields.(AY. 2012-13)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Additions unsustainable in the absence of incriminating material for unabated assessments-No addition can be made-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 132, 133A, 153C, 260A]

The assessee, a commission agent operating through his proprietary concern had entered into an agreement with a non-resident company, for facilitating RBI contracts for supply of banknote paper. The agreement terminated on 31.12.2012. A search was conducted under Section 132 on 26.12.2016, and assessments for AYs 2012-13 to 2017-18 were reopened under Section 153A. The Assessing Officer made additions across all years, alleging that remittances continued from foreign group entities related to the aforementioned non-resident company, which he treated as undisclosed income arising from the same line of activity.

The Delhi High Court upheld the ITAT's decision deleting all additions, holding that there was no incriminating material found during the search to support additions for the unabated assessments (AYs 2012-13 to 2015-16). It relied on the settled law laid down in Kabul Chawla and Abhisar Buildwell that completed assessments under Section 153A cannot be reopened without incriminating evidence. The Court observed that the payments in question were already disclosed, and there was no fresh material linking them to any business activity post-termination of the agreement. For AYs 2016-17 and 2017-18, the Revenue also failed to establish any active Indian business connection or evidence of services rendered. Since the entire assessment was based on assumptions rather than evidence, the Court held there was no substantial question of law and dismissed the Revenue's appeals.(AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

PCIT v. Shri Satya Prakash Gupta (2024) 164 Taxmann.com 137 / (2025) 473 ITR 515 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-No incriminating material is found- The Assessing Officer (AO) can only reopen assessments for the block period of six years if incriminating material related to each specific year is found during the search and not otherwise-Order of Tribunal is set aside. [S. 132, 158BB, 260A]

The assessees were various business units under one group, which included partnership firms and a proprietorship concern. The group was engaged in the business of gold ornaments and operated under different names.

The primary issue involved was whether the Assessing Officer was justified in reopening the assessments for the assessment years 2002-03 to 2007-08 under Section 153A of the Income Tax Act, based on incriminating material found during a search conducted on 21.08.2007, which pertained only to the assessment year 2008-09.

The revenue contended that the incriminating material found during the search operation for the assessment year 2008-09 justified the reopening of assessments for the earlier years (2002-03 to 2007-08). That the suppression of income detected for the year 2008-09 could be presumed to extend to the earlier years as well.

The assessees argued that the search conducted under Section 132 of the Income Tax Act did not yield any incriminating material for the assessment years 2002-03 to 2007-08. That the reopening of assessments for these years was unjustified and based merely on assumptions and estimations derived from the findings of the year 2008-09.

The Hon'ble Tribunal had allowed the appeals preferred by the Department for the assessment years 2002-03 to 2007-08, thereby upholding the reopening of assessments for these years based on the incriminating material found for the year 2008-09.

The Hon'ble High Court set aside the orders of the Hon'ble Tribunal, ruling that the reopening of assessments for the years 2002-03 to 2007-08 was not permissible in the absence of incriminating material specific to those years. Further that the Assessing Officer could not use the material from the year 2008-09 to justify reopening assessments for earlier years unless such material directly related to those years. Moreover, that the jurisdiction to reopen assessments under Section 153A must be based on incriminating material pertinent to each specific assessment year within the block period. Search proceedings were conducted not only on the assessee's husband and his business premises but also at the residential premises jointly occupied by the assessee and her husband. The Tribunal held that since the assessee herself was a searched person, the assessment was rightly framed under section 153A and not under section 153C, which applies only to persons other than the searched person. The additions under section 68 were made on the basis of entries found in a seized ledger showing transfers from the assessee's husband's proprietary concern. The Tribunal found that the assessments for the relevant years had already attained finality, the transactions were duly recorded in the husband's books and reflected in the assessee's bank statements, and no incriminating material was discovered during the search. Since the seized ledger merely reflected recorded transactions without indicating any unexplained financial implication, the additions under section 68 were unsustainable. The assessment order and the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) were set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

Pursuant to a search, the Assessing Officer made additions under sections 68 and 69C in respect of share capital/share premium and alleged unexplained expenditure solely on the basis of an appraisal report prepared in the case of a third party without relying upon any incriminating material found during the search conducted on the assessee. The Tribunal held that in respect of unabated assessments, no addition can be made under section 153A unless it is based on incriminating material unearthed during the search. Since the additions were founded only on the appraisal report relating to another person and no incriminating material was found from the assessee, the additions were liable to be deleted. Tribunal also held that the AO, having neither proved the authenticity of the alleged incriminating document relatable to the assessee which was found at the premises of a third party, Kapil Romana, nor allowed any opportunity of cross-examination of Kapil Romana to the assessee, the addition made simply based on said documents in the assessment under S. 153A is not sustainable. [S. 132, 143(2), 254(1)]

Held that since the time-limit was available for issue of notice under s. 143(2) as on the date of the search, i.e., 2nd May, 2018, the assessment for the asst. yr. 2017-18 stood abated in terms of first proviso to s. 153A and consequently, the AO had the power to assess/reassess the total income, including undisclosed income, if any, found as a result of the search. Assessee having initially not filed cross-objections under bona fide belief that once relief has been granted by the CIT(A), there is no necessity for filing cross-objection on other issues which have been decided against the assessee and later filed the cross-objections acting on the advice of its counsel, the reasons cited by the assessee for the delay appear to be bona fide and reasonable, and therefore, the delay of 205 days in filing the cross-objections is condoned, and the cross-objections are admitted for adjudication. Assessee having furnished all the evidences including relevant work order, tax invoice and delivery challans of old machinery purchased from Pardeep Kumar Babulal & Co (PKB & Co.) and also filed relevant bank statement to prove the payment through proper banking channel, impugned additions made towards disallowance of depreciation on plant and machinery solely by relying upon the statement of Kewal Chand Jain who is controlling PKB & Co. that he is providing accommodation entries in the form of bogus bills cannot be sustained, more so as the AO has not provided the statement of said KJ to the assessee for his comments and cross-examination. Assessee having filed the sub-contract agreements relating to the work, work orders, bills submitted by the sub-contractors and made payments to the subcontractors by cheques after deducting TDS as per law, the addition made by the AO on the basis of enquiry conducted on two sub-contractors and the statement recorded from an employee of the assessee cannot be sustained, more so as the AO has not given the enquiry report to the assessee for his comments and rebuttal. The Tribunal held that the pen-drive which was received by the IT Department from the ED and the Excel sheets found in the supplementary charge-sheet in the other pen-drive during the course of search against the assessee did not constitute incriminating material/evidence and, therefore, the additions made by the AO in the assessment under s. 153A, based on said material, cannot be sustained. S. 153A : Assessment-Search-Undisclosed income-The assessee received software services, and the consideration paid for such services cannot be disallowed. [S. 37]

Held that all software and online activities of the assessee-trust and JC have been functional since 2017 till the date of search and the assessee is highly successful and has grown multifold in the last two decade which has possible only by regular development updation, adaptation to new technology and maintenance of software, it has to be accepted that the software team of the software developer TFMSS has been genuinely providing maintenance services on regular basis and therefore, the software development charges paid for such services could not be disallowed, on the ground that the trust funds were intentionally diverted to a related foreign entity which was controlled by one of the assessee's former employees. Tribunal also held that the AO mechanically disallowed the business consultancy charges paid by the assessee trust along with software charges without realising that the business consultancy charges were erroneously clubbed with the software charges. Disallowance was deleted. (AY. 2017-18 to 2021-22)

Held that the assessee having furnished documentary evidence to substantial that the contractors to whom packaging of some products was outsourced had genuine business, and the CIT(A) having recorded finding of fact that the transactions between the assessee and the said parties cannot be treated as non-genuine after verifying all the materials available on record, there is no valid reason to differ with the factual finding of the first appellate authority. Tribunal also held that the fact that no incriminating document indicative of out of book purchases of raw materials was found in the course of search and seizure operations either from the assessee's premises or from the premises of its supplies nor any discrepancy was found in the stock position of raw materials, semi finished goods or finished goods, the impugned addition made by the AO towards the alleged out of books purchases on the basis of input-output ratio derived during the trial run is not sustainable (AY. 2013-14 to 2019-20)

During search, cash of Rs. 7,52,50,500 was found at the assessee's residence, of which he admitted Rs. 5,52,50,000 as undisclosed income but claimed the balance Rs. 2 crores belonged to the H group; his settlement application was rejected, following which the AO taxed the disclosed income year-wise as offered before the Settlement Commission and also taxed the same income again for assessment year 2014-15, which was upheld by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the H group had also claimed the Rs. 2 crores and sought advance tax credit therefore, the same sum could not be taxed twice, and remanded the matter for verification; it further held that taxing the same income both year-wise before the Settlement Commission and again for assessment year 2014-15 amounted to double taxation, absent any evidence of the income being earned in the years disclosed, and remanded the matter for de novo assessment.(AY. 2008-09, 2010-11,to 2014-15)

S. 153A : Assessment-Search-Unabated assessments-No incriminating material found during search-Addition deleted-Documents found during search of third party-Proceedings under section 153C mandatory-Assessment under section 153A invalid.[S. 68,132, 143(3), 153C]

The Assessing Officer made additions under section 68 in assessments completed under section 153A on the basis of statements recorded during the search of another person. The Tribunal held that no incriminating material was found or seized from the assessee's premises in respect of the unabated assessment years. Statements recorded during the search of a third party could not constitute incriminating material for initiating proceedings under section 153A against the assessee. Accordingly, the Commissioner (Appeals) rightly deleted the additions. The Revenue relied upon documents and statements found during the search of another person to support additions in the assessee's assessment under section 153A. The Tribunal held that where material belongs to or relates to a person other than the searched person, the mandatory procedure under section 153C must be followed. Since no proceedings were initiated under section 153C or section 148, the additions made under section 153A were unsustainable. (AY. 2012-13 to 2015-16).

The additions made by the Assessing Officer were not based on any incriminating material found during the search relevant to the assessment year under consideration. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of incriminating material, the assessment framed under section 153A was illegal and void ab initio. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13).

The Assessing Officer treated the assessee as a participant in an alleged price-rigging syndicate and estimated commission income on the basis of the Investigation Wing report, statements of alleged operators and unusual price movement in the shares of a listed company. The Tribunal held that no incriminating material was found during the search, the statements neither named the assessee nor were confronted to him, no opportunity of cross-examination was granted, and no corroborative evidence or cash trail was established. Suspicion, however strong, could not substitute for evidence. The deletion of the additions by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Assessing Officer estimated commission at 2 per cent. of the total value of transactions in the shares traded on the stock exchange on the assumption that the assessee was responsible for the alleged accommodation entry operations. The Tribunal held that there was no evidence establishing the assessee's participation in the alleged syndicate or receipt of commission. Estimation based on presumptions and conjectures was unsustainable. The Assessing Officer estimated commission income on the basis of the statement of an office boy alleging that he handled cash on behalf of the assessee. The Tribunal held that the statement was unsupported by independent evidence, was denied by the assessee, and no cash trail was established. In the absence of corroborative material, the addition was rightly deleted (AY.2013-14 to 2019-20).

The Assessing Officer made an addition under section 69A in proceedings under section 153A on the basis of documents impounded during a survey under section 133A. The Tribunal held that documents impounded during the survey could not be treated as incriminating material found during the course of search so as to justify an addition in assessment under section 153A. Accordingly, the addition was deleted. However, the Revenue was left free to initiate proceedings under section 148, if otherwise permissible in law. (AY. 2018-19).

The assessment under section 153A was framed pursuant to a search conducted at the assessee's premises. However, the search warrant and the panchnama were issued in the names of third parties and not in the name of the assessee. The Tribunal held that, in the absence of a valid search against the assessee, the Assessing Officer lacked jurisdiction to invoke section 153A. The Commissioner (Appeals) was justified in annulling the assessment. (AY. 2011-12 to 2015-16).

A search under section 132 was conducted in the assessee's group cases. The Assessing Officer made disallowance of expenditure towards special salary and commission charges merely on the basis of the sworn statement of one of the directors. The Tribunal held that the difference between physical stock and book stock by itself could not constitute incriminating material, as such details could be called for during the regular assessment proceedings. Further, the addition was based solely on the sworn statement without any corroborative documentary evidence found during the search. In the absence of incriminating material, the assessment framed under section 143(3) read with section 153A was liable to be quashed. On merits also, the deletion of the disallowance by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. (AY 2010-11 to 2012-13).

Cost of construction-Addition based only on retracted confession-
No supporting evidence-Addition deleted.[S. 69, 132(4), 153D]

The Assessing Officer made an addition alleging payment of on-money for purchase of immovable property on the basis of the assessee's statement recorded during search. The assessee subsequently retracted the statement and explained that the seller had ultimately sold the property to the assessee's wife at a substantially lower consideration owing to financial distress. The Tribunal held that the subsequent agreement clearly referred to the earlier transaction and supported the assessee's explanation. In the absence of any independent enquiry or incriminating material establishing payment of cash over and above the recorded consideration, no addition could be sustained merely on the basis of a retracted statement. The Assessing Officer made an addition on the basis of notings on the reverse of a seized rental agreement showing rent allegedly higher than that disclosed by the assessee. The Tribunal found that the assessee had already offered proportionate rental income in the relevant year and the balance in the subsequent year after termination of the agreement. As the Assessing Officer failed to controvert these facts, the addition was deleted. The assessee had initially admitted undisclosed investment in construction during search but later retracted the statement and explained that part of the amount had already been offered to tax in different assessment years. The Tribunal held that the balance addition was made solely on the basis of the retracted statement without any supporting evidence or valuation material. Since no corroborative evidence was brought on record, the addition was directed to be deleted (AY. 2012-13 & 2014-15 to 2016-17).

assessment-Addition based on difference from original return-Not justified-Undisclosed income-Sale of plots-Transactions duly recorded in books-No evidence of suppression-Addition deleted-Unexplained expenditure-Development expenses-Assessee only landowner-Expenditure incurred by associates-Addition deleted-Cash credits-Sale proceeds of plots deposited in bank-Source explained-Enhancement of profit by Commissioner (Appeals) deleted-Inter-bank transfer-Amount taxed twice as unexplained credit-Addition deleted-Cash credits-Documentary evidence explaining source-Addition restricted to profit element upheld. [S. 68, 69, 69C, 132, 139 153C]

The search conducted at the assessee's premises did not result in seizure of any incriminating material. The additions were based entirely on documents found during the search of another person. The Tribunal held that section 153A permits additions only on the basis of incriminating material found during the search of the assessee. Material seized from a third party, if at all relevant, could be used only by invoking section 153C. Consequently, assumption of jurisdiction under section 153A was held to be invalid. The Assessing Officer made an addition merely because the income disclosed in the return filed under section 153A differed from the original return. The Tribunal held that the assessee had filed a revised computation during the assessment proceedings itself, offered the correct income and paid the due taxes. The addition was based only on suspicion and not on any material establishing suppression of income. The addition was therefore deleted. The Revenue alleged that the assessee received undisclosed consideration from sale of plots in a real estate project. The Tribunal found that all sale transactions were duly recorded in the books of account and no evidence was brought on record to establish receipt of any amount over and above the disclosed consideration. The addition towards undisclosed income was accordingly deleted. The Assessing Officer treated project development expenditure as unexplained expenditure in the hands of the assessee. The Tribunal held that the assessee was merely the landowner and all development expenditure had been incurred by the other project associates. As the Revenue ignored the assessee's explanation and failed to establish that the expenditure had been incurred by him, the addition was deleted. The assessee furnished plot-wise details of sale proceeds deposited into the bank account together with supporting documents. The Tribunal held that the Commissioner (Appeals) accepted the documentary evidence and the revised computation but still enhanced the gross profit rate without any supporting material. Since the source of deposits stood established, the addition under section 68 and the enhanced profit addition were deleted. The Revenue challenged the finding that a particular amount had been counted twice while computing undisclosed income. The Tribunal held that the impugned amount represented only an inter-bank transfer and not an independent receipt. Since the Assessing Officer failed to controvert the factual finding, no addition under section 68 could be sustained. The Tribunal held that the assessee had explained the nature and source of the bank credits through documentary evidence. The Assessing Officer disputed only the sale consideration and not the cost of acquisition. In the absence of any contrary evidence, the profit rate adopted by the Commissioner (A) on the basis of seized material was upheld and the Revenue's appeal was dismissed. (AY. 2015-16).

S. 153A : Assessment-Search-Unabated assessment-No incriminating material found during search-Addition based on third-party statements recorded outside search-Not sustainable-Conditions for reopening under fourth proviso to section 153A not fulfilled-No seized material representing escaped income in the form of assets-Addition deleted.[S. 68, 69C 131, 132, 142(1)]

The assessment for the relevant year had attained finality prior to the search and had not abated. The Assessing Officer made additions under sections 68 and 69C on the basis of statements of third parties recorded under section 131, without any incriminating material having been found during the search and without confronting those statements to the assessee. The Tribunal held that, in the case of an unabated assessment, additions under section 153A can be made only on the basis of incriminating material seized during the search. As no such material existed, the additions were without jurisdiction and were rightly deleted by the Commissioner (A). The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer neither referred to any seized books of account nor to any seized documents revealing income represented in the form of assets as required under the fourth proviso to section 153A. The additions were based only on third-party statements recorded under section 131 outside the course of search, which were never confronted to the assessee. The statutory conditions for invoking section 153A were therefore not fulfilled and the assessment could not be sustained. (AY. 2013-14).

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Unabated assessment-No incriminating material found during search-Addition towards unsecured loans and commission deleted-WhatsApp messages found in third person's mobile phone-Not incriminating material for completed assessment-Addition deleted-Assessment of third person Satisfaction note mandatory-Procedure under section 153C not followed-Assessment unsustainable. [S. 68, 69C, 132, 153C]

The Revenue made additions under sections 68 and 69C on the basis of statements recorded during search in the cases of third parties alleging accommodation entries. The Tribunal held that no incriminating material was found during the search conducted in the assessee's case and the assessments for the relevant years had already attained finality. In the absence of incriminating material, no addition could be made in proceedings under section 153A. The statements relied upon had also been retracted, and the deponents had no connection with the assessee. The additions were therefore deleted. The Revenue relied upon WhatsApp messages found in the mobile phone of a third person to make additions towards unexplained expenditure. The Tribunal held that the messages related to a subsequent assessment year and were recovered from a third person's mobile phone. They did not constitute incriminating material against the assessee for the completed assessment years and could not form the basis of additions under section 153A. The Tribunal held that where material belonging to a person other than the searched person is found during search, the statutory procedure prescribed under section 153C must be followed by recording satisfaction and transferring the material to the jurisdictional Assessing Officer of such other person. As the mandatory procedure was not followed, the assessment could not be sustained under section 153A (AY. 2013-14 to 2016-17).

Tribunal held that during search proceedings, not a single question about receipt of on money was enquired of the principal partner during the search statement recorded under section 131 of the Act. Seized documents incapable of testifying to partner's receipt of on money, and addition was made on mere suspicion. Tribunal also held that extrapolation of receipt of on money for other flat purchasers and years was without any evidence. Addition was deleted.(AY. 2017-18 to 2019-20)

Held that the Tribunal cannot examine the legality of the search once the warrant and Panchnama were drawn on the assessee. When no incriminating material was found in respect of un-abated and concluded assessments, addition can not be made. Revenue authorities have not demonstrated that the entries in the diary found at the residential premises of the director of the assessee-company, who is also a director of the other companies, relate to the assessee-company and there being no corroborative material to link the said entries with the assessee-company, the addition is not sustainable on the basis of said entries. [S.132, 132(4)]

Held that the Revenue authorities, having unearthed two parallel sets of books of accounts maintained by the assessee and evidence of suppression of sales from the seized electronic material in the course of search, said electronic material coupled with the statement given by the accounts manager of the assessee under s. 132(4) constituted incriminating material unearthed in the course of a search and, therefore, the validity of jurisdiction assumed by the AO under s. 153A cannot be assailed for want of incriminating material. Tribunal also held that since the assessee has been found to be maintaining two sets of books of accounts showing variation in expenses, CIT(A) was justified in rejecting the accounts and estimating the profits of the assessee @ 2.21 per cent of the turnover by following the decision of the Tribunal in the case of assessee's sister concern which was based on identical facts; unaccounted sale proceeds could be telescoped towards the source of unaccounted expenditure and therefore, no separate addition on this account was permissible. Addition was made solely on the basis of the assessee's retracted statement recorded during the search, and no incriminating material was found to support the unaccounted investment in house construction; the addition was deleted. Technodot Engineers Ltd v. Dy.CIT (2025) 233 TTJ 29 (Ahd) (Trib)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Alleged transfer of Development rights-Reassessment based on seized ledger account and third-party statement-No independent inquiry conducted by the AO-No evidence to link the assessee to the transaction-Addition is deleted. [S. 131, 147, 148, 153A, 153C]

The assessee has been a dormant firm since 2003 and received a reassessment notice u/s 147 r/w 148 based on information that a partner of the firm received large cash payments for the sale of Transferable Development Rights (TDR) by another entity. The AO alleged that the assessee was used to route these unaccounted funds. However, the ITAT observed that the seized materials, including a ledger account and the third-party statement, failed to establish a connection to the assessee. The AO did not conduct any independent inquiry or find corroborative evidence to support the claim that this dormant firm was used to route cash for a TDR transaction owned and executed by a separate joint venture. Thus, the additions were deleted by the ITAT on the grounds that they were based on speculation and assumptions, rather than concrete evidence that could establish the assessee's involvement in the transactions. M.K. Shelters v. ITO Ward (Mum) (Trib) www.itatonline.org

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-No addition can be made merely on the basis of statement-On money-Presumption-Addition is deleted.[S. 132, 153C, 292C]

Search u/s 132 was conducted at Assessee's residential and business premises. During statement, the MD of the Kalyan Development Corporation admitted to additional income. Other unaccounted receipts were also found. The same was declared on an estimate basis and quantified at 5% of the total receipts. The Tribunal held that, no incriminating material has been unearthed during the course of search for the relevant assessment year, no addition can be made by the AO in the impugned assessment.

For A.Y. 2016-17, the Tribunal observed that the addition has been made and sustained by the authorities below which was solely based on the statement recorded under s. 132(4). The said disclosure was general in nature and without pinpointing to the specific seized documents in respect of which additions have been made in the hands of the Assessee and drawing inferences from his individual case to make an addition in the hands of KDC was uncalled for. Therefore, addition was deleted.

For A.Y. 2014-15, the issue before the Tribunal was that assessment ought to have been framed under s. 153C and not under s. 153A, as there was no jurisdiction with the learned AO because the addition made in the case of Assessee was based on the seized documents found in another person's home, on whom also a search was conducted. The Tribunal held that the assessment was bad in law as the AO has used the seized material/document found in the course of search conducted in the case of third party. Hence, the addition was deleted. Presumption under S 292C applies only in the case of persons searched-Since the AO was using the excel sheets found and seized from a third person against the assessee, it is was mandatory requirement under s. 65B of the Evidence Act to comply with the procedures given therein. None of these aspects have been discussed by the AO. Therefore, impugned addition made by the AO towards "on-money" alleged to be received by the assessee is deleted.

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Addition can not be made in the absence of incriminating material found during the search. [S. 69A, 69C, 132]

Search u/s 132(1) took place at the group's premises. The AO made addition on estimate basis. For A.Y. 2013-14 and A.Y. 2014-15, the Tribunal held that in the absence of any incriminating material during the course of search, no addition could be made in a completed assessment.

For A.Y. 2013-14, the addition made was on account of bogus purchase, however the same was also not based on the documents found during the search conducted. Hence, the addition was deleted.

For A.Y. 2016-17, the issue before the Tribunal was whether an addition on account of bogus purchase per se could be made by applying the provisions of s. 69C of the Act. The Tribunal observed that when the provisions of s. 69C of the Act are sought to be invoked, the Revenue does not doubt the genuineness of incurrence of such expenditure. Only the source of such expenditure is being doubted by the revenue. Since the source of the expenditure was the regular books of account, the addition u/s 69C was deleted. (AY. 2014-15

S. 153B : Assessment-Search and seizure-Time limit-Satisfaction note-date was required to be considered as 24-6-2022-Period available for making an assessment pursuant to notice dated 19-12-2023 would lapse on expiry of twelve months from end of financial year in which documents were handed over, that is, on 31-3-2024-The notice was quashed and set aside.[S. 132, 153C, Art. 226]

Search and seizure operations were conducted in respect of persons belonging to Alankit Group on 18-10-2019. On 19-12-2023, notice under section 153C was issued. The Assessee had filed return of income for relevant assessment year on 30-9-2015. Assessing Officer of searched person had recorded a satisfaction note dated 24-6-2022 to effect that he was satisfied that documents belonging to or containing information relating to assessee, were found during course of search. It was also recorded that documents in question were handed over to the Assessing Officer exercising jurisdiction in case of assessee. On a writ the Court held that as per proviso to section 153C, date of receiving of documents or material by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over the other person [person other than one searched] from the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over searched person is required to be considered as date of initiation of search under section 132. On the facts said date was required to be considered as 24-6-2022 and, period available for making an assessment pursuant to notice dated 19-12-2023 would lapse on expiry of twelve months from end of financial year in which documents were handed over, that is, on 31-3-2024, twelve months from end of financial year 2022-23. Accordingly, the Petition was allowed and the notice was quashed and set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 153B : Assessment-Search-Time limit-Proceedings initiated under section 153C-No question of transfer of records seized-Time limit provided by first limb of clause (ii) of third proviso to section 153B(1) shall apply-12 months from end of financial year in which search took place-Time barred-Order quashed.[S. 132, 153C, Art. 226]

A search and seizure operation under section 132 was carried out on 21-8-2019 in case of one ORL during which certain documents and information concerning petitioner, a third party, were seized. On basis of same, notices under section 153C were issued to Petitioner for relevant assessment years. On a writ the Petitioner contended that the order was time barred. Allowing the Petition the Court held that, fresh time given in second limb of clause (ii) of third proviso to section 153B(1) is applicable only if the Assessing Officer of searched party transfers record from himself to the Assessing Officer of the third party, in case where both the Assessing Officers are different; there is no provision of granting time for completion of assessment with reference to transfer of records from Investigation Wing to the Assessing Officer Since the Assessing Officer of searched party as well as the Assessing Officer of third party, i.e. Petitioner, was one and same, time limit provided by first limb of clause (ii) of third proviso to section 153B(1) was to be applied, which was 12 months from end of financial year in which search took place. Since said time limit expired on 31-3-2021 and in light of TOLA and Notification No. S.O. 966(E) dated 27-2-2021, aforesaid time limit stood extended till 30-9-2021, thus, assessment under section 153C for relevant assessment years should have been completed by 30-9-2021. Since the Assessing Officer had not completed assessment by 30-9-2021, proceedings under section 153C for relevant assessment years were quashed.(AY. 2014-15 to 2019-20)

Held that since the first notice was issued against the transferor companies which stood amalgamated, thus, the said notice and action were void in nature, and accordingly, the same vanished in thin air and relevant dates for issuance of said notices were of no relevance for counting limitation. Merely because some time was consumed in centralising and handing over relevant incriminating material to the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction, the Petitioner would not come out of rigours of proviso to section 153B. Notice was held to be not barred by limitation. (AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

S. 153B : Assessment-Time limit-Exchange of information-Reference was on 14-11-2012-Article 26 ceased to exist after 30-8-2010-Period of limitation could not be extended under Explanation (ix) to section 153B to frame assessment based on such reference-Assessment order was quashed and set aside on ground of limitation-DTAA-India-Swiss [S. 90, 90A, 153B(ix) Art.24, 26]

The revenue initiated a reference to Swiss Tax Authorities under Exchange of Information Article 26 of Indo-Swiss DTAA on 14-11-2012. The Assessing Officer invoked clause (ix) of the Explanation to section 153B and passed assessment orders on 27-2-2015. On appeal, the assessee challenged the assessment orders on the ground of being barred by limitation. Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that the amending protocol of the Indo-Swiss DTAA was signed on 30-8-2010. Article 26 would be effective for the exchange of information that relates to the following fiscal year commencing from 1-4-2011; thus, no request could be made under Article 26 (which was earlier numbered as Article 24) of the Indo-Swiss DTAA after 30-8-2010, as said article ceased to exist after 30-8-2010. Thus, where the Assessing Officer made reference for exchange of information to Switzerland tax authorities on 14-11-2012, the period of limitation could not be extended under Explanation (ix) to section 153B to frame an assessment based on such reference. Accordingly, the orders were quashed on the ground of limitation. (AY. 2006-07 to 2011-12)

A search action u/s 132 was carried out at the residential premises of 'D'. Pursuant to the same, a notice u/s 153C was issued to the Assessee.

Assessment proceedings were carried out, and the AO passed an assessment order u/s 153C r.w.s. 143(3) on 21.04.2021, making addition of certain amounts u/s 69B. It was held that as per the first proviso to S. 153B, the assessment order ought to be passed by 31.12.2020 for AY 2016-17, and the delay in passing the said assessment order of 111 days was barred by limitation. S. 153B : Assessment-Search-Time limit-Assessment of any other person-Satisfaction note was drawn in assessment year 2018-19-Order passed beyond period of limitation of six years-Barred by limitation.[S. 143(3),153C]

The Assessing Officer received information on 31-3-2018 that a search and seizure action was carried out in case of 'A' and incriminating documents pertaining to the assessee were found. On the basis of the said information, a notice under section 153C was issued and assessment under section 143(3) read with section 153C was completed for the relevant assessment year. It was noted that the Tribunal in case similar to the assessee held that for initiating proceedings against non-searched entity under section 153C, date of recording satisfaction by the Assessing Officer was commencement point for proceeding under section 153C and the power to assess block period of ten years could not be attracted in case of a search which had taken place prior to 1-4-2017. Since search was conducted before the amendment made under section 153C and also satisfaction note for assessee, being a non-searched party was drawn in assessment year 2018-19, order of the Assessing Officer passed under section 153C read with section 143(3) was beyond permissible period of six years and thus, assessment order passed was to be quashed. High Court held that where a satisfaction note issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer of assessee did not refer to any incriminating material for the relevant assessment years, it was ex facie evident that no incriminating material had been found for the relevant assessment years. Further, the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer completely failed to record any reasons indicating how the material referred to by the Assessing Officer of the searched person could "have a bearing on the determination of total income of such other person". S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Not recording of satisfaction-No incriminating material-Abated-Proceedings invalid-SLP of revenue dismissed.[S. 153A, Art. 136]

The Assessee, approaching Hon'ble High Court contended that the proceedings under S. 153C were invalid because there was no incriminating material for the impugned years and the satisfaction notes did not explain how any seized material had a bearing on the determination of total income for those years.

The Hon'ble Delhi High Court quashed the S. 153C proceedings/notice on the grounds that, absent incriminating material and proper satisfaction demonstrating bearing on total income for the year, Sec. 153C could not be sustained.

The Revenue challenged the High Court's quashing of the 153C proceedings by filing an SLP before the Supreme Court (i.e., Revenue sought to sustain the 153C action set aside by the High Court), albeit with substantial delay and did not overcome the High Court's reasoning on the need for incriminating material and proper satisfaction for each year.

The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the SLP as time-barred and on merits; the Supreme Court refused to interfere, effectively affirming the High Court's quashing of the S. 153C proceedings. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Proceedings must be taken under S. 153C read with assessment under S. 153A), and not under S. 148/147-Delay of 322 and 358 days-SLP of revenue dismissed on account of delay as well as on merits.[S. 147, 148, 153A, Art. 136]

The Assessee contended that since the seized material “belonged/related” to the Assessee but was found during a search on another person, the correct route was Sec. 153C leading to Sec. 153A, and therefore the Sec. 148 notices and orders rejecting objections were invalid. The Revenue pursued reassessment under S. 148 notwithstanding that the trigger was seized material relatable to a person other than the person searched.

The Hon’ble Rajasthan High Court set aside/quashed the S. 148 notices and the orders rejecting objections, holding that S. 153A, 153D prevail and that S. 153C, not Sec. 148, must be used where material relates to an “other person”. The Hon’ble SC dismissed SLPs on the grounds of delay as well as on merits. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search and seizure-No incriminating material had been gathered or obtained-Satisfaction notes also failed to record any reasons as to how material discovered and pertaining to a particular Assessment Year was likely to have a bearing on determination of total income for year which was sought to be abated or reopened in terms of notices-SLP filed by revenue against the order of High Court was dismissed on ground of delay of 250, 215 and 267 days as well as on merits.[S. 132, Art. 136]

The High Court held that section 153C would apply only to such Assessment Years where Jurisdictional Assessing Officer is satisfied and has incriminating material for those Assessment Years and which may be concerned with disclosed and undisclosed income. The High Court also held that unless Assessing Officer is satisfied that material gathered could potentially impact determination of total income, it would be unjustified in mechanically reopening or assessing all over again all ten Assessment Years that could possibly form part of block of ten years. The High Court further held that where section 153C was invoked in respect of Assessment Years for which no incriminating material had been gathered or obtained and satisfaction notes also failed to record any reasons as to how material discovered and pertaining to a particular Assessment Year was likely to 'have a bearing on determination of total income' for year which was sought to be abated or reopened in terms of impugned notices, proceedings initiated under section 153C would not sustain and notice was to be quashed. The SLP filed by revenue against order of the High Court was dismissed on the ground of delay of 250, 215, and 267 days as well as on merits (AY. 2015-16)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Block Assessment-Satisfaction note-Block period-Seized material must pertain to relevant assessment year-Bearing-Notices issued in absence of incriminating material based on non-speaking satisfaction notes unsustainable-Satisfaction notes in these petitions had alluded to incriminating material having been recovered for the assessment years 2013-14 and 2014-15, respectively, and the materials that were co relatable had been specifically identified. All other contentions of parties could be raised in the ongoing proceedings-SLP dismissed on account of delay and also on merits. [S. 132, 153A 158BB, Art. 136]

The High Court held that section 153C would apply only to such Assessment Years where jurisdictional Assessing Officer is satisfied and has incriminating material for those Assessment Years and which may be concerned with disclosed and undisclosed income. The High Court also held that it is only once the Assessing Officer of non-searched entity is satisfied that material coming into its possession is likely to "have a bearing on determination of total income" that a notice under section 153C would be issued and abatement would thus be a necessary corollary of that notice. The High Court further held that since in instant case section 153C was invoked in respect of Assessment Years for which no incriminating material had been gathered or obtained and satisfaction notes also failed to record any reasons as to how material discovered and pertaining to a particular Assessment Year was likely to "have a bearing on determination of total income" for year which was sought to be abated or reopened in terms of impugned notices, in such circumstances, proceedings initiated under section 153C would not sustain and notice was to be quashed. [S. 124, 127(2), Art. 136]

On a writ the High Court held that a notice under section 153C was served on the assessee on 11-5-2009 by DCIT, Central Circle 1(1). Meanwhile, an order under section 127(2) was issued on 20-7-2009 by Commissioner, Bengaluru and case of the assessee was transferred from ACIT, Circle 6(1) to DCIT, Central Circle 1(1), Bangalore. However, notices under section 153C were issued by DCIT, Central Circle, Bengaluru on 11-5-2009 and furthermore, date of transfer of files from ACIT was 19-8-2009. The High Court held that it was ex-facie apparent that notices under section 153C were issued prior to transfer of case and jurisdiction conferred on DCIT and since notice issued by the DCIT, Circle-1(1), Bangalore, was without jurisdiction, all further proceedings would be rendered void ab initio. The High Court also held that the amendment by insertion of clause (c) in sub-section (3) of section 124 by Finance Act, 2016, which came into effect from 1-6-2016, is prospective in nature. SLP filed by the revenue against the impugned order of the High Court was dismissed. (AY. 2003-04 to 2008-09)

Editorial: CIT v. Himalaya Drug Company (2023) 22 ITR-OL 33(Karn)(HC)/ 2021 SCC online Kar 16067

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Material related to assessee being other person found during search and handed over to AO-Assessment ought to have been made under S. 153C and not S. 143(3) of the Act-Order of Tribunal quashing the addition is affirmed. [S. 143(3), 260A]

The Hon'ble MP High Court while deciding an appeal on the question of law being whether on the facts and circumstances of the case and in law, the Hon'ble ITAT was justified in annulling the 143(3) assessment on the ground that the assessment should have been framed under S. 153C of the Act, without appreciating that since seized documents in the instant case are not of incriminating nature, the AO is legally barred from framing assessment under S. 153C as confirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court judgment in the case of Abhishar Buildwell P. Ltd. [TS-202-SC-2023]. The Hon'ble Court adopted the reasoning of the Hon'ble Court's judgment in Pr. CIT (C) v. Kalyanika Infra Mega Ventures (P.) Ltd. [ITA No. 113/2024, dated 28-8-2024] to arrive at the conclusion that where during search in case of other person certain material related to the assessee was handed over to the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over assessee assessment should have been made under S. 153C, assessment order passed under S. 143(3) was not valid.

PCIT v. Tarun Devcon Pvt. Ltd. [2025] 302 Taxman 444 (MP(HC)).

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Additions based on a survey conducted in premises of assessee and not based on incriminating material found/seized during search and neither recorded in 'Satisfaction Note' during assessment under S. 153C cannot be sustained and deserves to be deleted.[S. 133A, 260A]

The Hon'ble Delhi High Court while deciding an appeal involving questions relating to the scope of S. 153C of the Act observed that the Revenue was seeking to rely on three documents recovered during survey to justify the assumption of jurisdiction under S. 153C of the Act against the assessee. Two of them viz., the licence issued to the assessee by the DTCP and the letter issued by the DTCP permitting it to transfer such licence, have no relevance for the purposes of determining escapement of income of the assessee for the AYs in question. Consequently, even if those two documents can be said to 'belong' to the assessee they are not documents on the basis of which jurisdiction can be assumed by the AO under S. 153C of the Act. Accordingly, the Court concluded that the question of law raised in the present appeals had already been settled by the earlier Division Bench of this Court in Kabul Chawla [2015] 61 taxmann.com 412 and Dreamcity Buildwell (P) Ltd. [2019] 110 taxmann.com 28. Accordingly, no substantial question of law arose for consideration in the present appeals. The same were accordingly dismissed.

PCIT Central v. TDI Infrastructure Ltd. [2025] 302 Taxman 540 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Cash credits-Accommodation entries-No incriminating material found in respect of non-searched persons-Statement under section 132(4) alone, without corroborative material, insufficient basis for addition-Assessment proceedings vitiated. [S. 132, 153A, 153C, 292B]

In a case involving the BPTP group, the assessee companies were assessed under sections 143(3) and 153C following a search that revealed Rs. 325.23 crores in advances from the Jain group. The directors acknowledged these amounts during questioning. However, despite these admissions, the Tribunal deleted the subsequent additions of Rs. 341 crores made under section 68, noting that no incriminating material was found during the searches of the assesses. The Court upheld the Tribunal's decision, stating that undisclosed income cannot be determined solely based on statements made during a search unless corroborated by actual evidence found in the search. In this case, the satisfaction note lacked specific incriminating details against the assessee companies, and the revenue failed to show relevance of materials seized from the Jain group's search.

The court addressed the relevant date for computing assessment years under section 153C related to a search conducted on 05.02.2011. It held that the initiation date should be based on when the seized documents are handed to the jurisdictional AO, not the search date itself. This determines the assessment years under review, which include 2005-06 through 2010-11. The court rejected the revenue's claim of a bona fide mistake under section 292B, clarifying that this provision only addresses minor errors and does not rectify jurisdictional defects that nullify proceedings.

In a case concerning one of the assessee companies, the Tribunal found a significant violation of natural justice as the owner of the Jain group of companies was not permitted to provide a statement nor was the assessee given the chance to cross-examine him, despite repeated requests. The Court upheld the Tribunal's finding that denying cross-examination, which was necessary when a witness's statement was pivotal to the assessment order, constituted a gross violation of natural justice, nullifying the order. S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Cash credits-Accommodation entries-Pendrive-Transaction pertaining to financial year 2014-15-Satisfaction note for the Assessment year 2021-22-Pendrive cannot be considered as incriminating documents for the AY. 2021-22-Notice was quashed.[S.68, 132, Art. 226]

On the basis of search conducted in case of searched person, a satisfaction note was recorded by the Assessing Officer which indicated that a pen-drive was found containing information regarding transactions entered into by the assessee with companies that had provided accommodation entries through generation of bogus invoices. The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 153C for the Assessment Year 2021-22. On a writ the Court held that information allegedly found was regarding a purported transaction pertaining to financial year 2014-15, therefore pen drive found could not be considered as containing any incriminating material pertaining to the assessee in respect of relevant assessment year. Accordingly assessment for the AY. 2021-22 could not be reopened under section 153C of the Act. Notice was quashed and set aside. (AY. 2021-22)

Panch Tatva Promotors (P.) Ltd. v. ACIT (2025) 305 Taxman 171 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Seized documents relating to cash payments for land purchase pertaining to earlier year-No incriminating material having bearing on income of relevant assessment years-Notice and proceedings held invalid and quashed.[S.132A, 153A, Art. 226]

Pursuant to search proceedings, notices under section 153C were issued to the assessee on the basis of a singular satisfaction note alleging cash payments in respect of immovable properties purchased in the name of the assessee's wife. The Court held that the seized material related to financial year 2013-14 relevant to AY 2014-15 and had no bearing on determination of income of the assessee for AYs 2015-16 to 2020-21. Section 153C mandates that the Assessing Officer must be satisfied that seized documents have a bearing on determination of total income of the other person for the relevant assessment year; mere reference or relation to the assessee is insufficient. Since no incriminating material pertaining to the relevant assessment years was found, assumption of jurisdiction under section 153C was unsustainable. Accordingly, the impugned notices and consequential proceedings were quashed. Reliance was placed on CIT v. Sinhgad Technical Education Society (2017) 387 ITR 344/ 297 CTR 441 (SC) CIT v. Abhisar Buildwell (P.) Ltd. (2023)454 ITR 212/ 332 CTR 385 (SC) and CIT v. Kabul Chawla (2015) 281 CTR 45 (2016) 380 ITR 573 (Delhi) (HC) (AY. 2015-16 to 2020-21).

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Limitation-Assessment proceedings before AO not judicial proceedings-Evidence Act not applicable-Amendment to S. 2(12A) defining “books or books of accounts” is clarificatory and retrospective-Electronic/digital data covered-Date of satisfaction note deemed date of handing over for computing limitation-Assessments not time-barred-Writ partly allowed for limited remand. [S.2(12A), 132, 153A, 153B, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, S. 65A, 65B, Art. 226]

A search under s. 132 was conducted in the case of the searched person and certain electronic data and materials were relied upon to initiate proceedings under s. 153C against the assessees. The assessees challenged the jurisdiction under s. 153C and contended that electronic data could not be treated as “books of account” prior to amendment by the Finance Act, 2022; that provisions of ss. 65A, 65B and 66 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 were not complied with; and that the assessments were barred by limitation. Dismissing the writ petitions on jurisdiction and limitation, the Court held that assessment proceedings before the AO are quasi-judicial and not judicial proceedings; therefore, strict rules of evidence under the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 including ss. 65A, 65B and 66 have no application. The definition of “books or books of accounts” in s. 2(12A) uses the expression “includes” and has wide amplitude. The amendment by the Finance Act, 2022 inserting “electronic form”, “digital form” and printouts thereof is clarificatory in nature, intended to align the provision with technological developments, and is therefore retrospective. Even prior to amendment, data stored in electronic media such as hard disks, pen drives, etc., constituted books of account. For the purpose of limitation under the third proviso to s. 153B(1), the date of recording of satisfaction note is to be treated as the deemed date of handing over of seized material to the AO of the other person, even where the AO of the searched person and the other person is the same. There is no statutory time-limit for issuance of satisfaction note; assessments completed within twelve months from the end of the financial year in which such handing over is deemed to have taken place were within time. However, on facts, since unexplained income had been added in the hands of both directors, the impugned orders were quashed to that limited extent, and matters were remanded for fresh exercise. LKS Gold House (P) Ltd. v. DCIT [2024] 161 taxmann.com 604/ (2025) 345 CTR 15 / 250 DTR 231 (Mad)(HC)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Limitation-In case of "other person", limitation period is to be reckoned from the date on which seized material is received by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person and not from the date of issuance of show-cause notice-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 132, 132A, Art. 226]

Where search under section 132 was conducted on 10-11-2020 in the case of another person and documents/materials relating to the assessee (being the "other person") were collected by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over the assessee on 30-6-2022, the assessee contended that limitation should be computed from the date of issuance of show-cause notice dated 30-12-2024 and therefore proceedings were time-barred. Dismissing the writ petition, the Court held that as per the first proviso to section 153C(1), in the case of an "other person", the reference to the date of initiation of search under section 132 or requisition under section 132A has to be construed as the date on which books of account, documents or assets seized are received by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person. Since the search was not conducted in the assessee's premises and materials were received only on 30-6-2022, the limitation period of six years had to be computed from that date and not from the date of show-cause notice; consequently, the notice issued on 30-12-2024 was within limitation. Issues on merits were left open to be agitated before the Assessing Officer in accordance with law. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Objection to jurisdiction-Delay in filing-Writ petition to quash the assessment order is dismissed. [S. 132, Art.226]

On a writ to quash the assessment, the assessee has raised objections to the assumption of jurisdiction on August 13, 2022. The Court held that the objection was rejected by a written order dated September 28, 2022. The satisfaction note was appended thereto. The assessee slept over the matter for more than one year. Merely because the assessment proceedings may have been transferred in the meanwhile, that did not explain the laches that otherwise existed. The Court held that the assessee had acted with delay. Since the assessment proceedings were about to become time-barred and the assessee had acted late, the discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India was dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

Ranjana Agarwal v. ACIT (2025) 478 ITR 463 (All)(HC)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-

Assessment order passed many years after assessee had filed return-Order passed without giving assessee opportunity to be heard-Order to be treated as notice and assessment to be made after giving assessee opportunity of being heard-The Assessing Officer was directed to provide a reasonable opportunity to be heard, including a personal hearing, and thereafter issue a fresh assessment order within two months. [S. 132, 143(3)]

On a writ the Court held, that although, since the assessee had not replied to notices, the Assessing Officer could not be faulted for completing the assessment on best judgment basis in the facts and circumstances, it was clear that the assessment was made several years after the assessee had filed the return of income and on the basis of material unearthed in the course of search in 2012. When these facts and circumstances were considered cumulatively, it was appropriate that the assessee be provided an opportunity of being heard before the reassessment was concluded. Solely for this reason, the assessment order dated December 30, 2019 in respect of the assessment year 2013-2014 had to be quashed. The assessment order was to be treated as a show-cause notice. The Court directed the assessee to file a reply within 15 days from receipt of a copy thereof, where after, the Assessing Officer was to provide the assessee reasonable opportunity to be heard, including a personal hearing, and thereafter issue a fresh assessment order was directed to be passed within two months.(SJ) (AY. 2013-14)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Assessing Officer accepting explanation of searched party that document seized pertained to financial year 2016-2017 and not financial year 2017-2018-Notice issued for assessment year 2018-2019 and therefore consequent assessment order not sustainable.[S. 132(4), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the court held that the Assessing Officer considered incriminating material as having a bearing on the assessee's income for the financial year 2017-2018 relevant to the assessment year 2018-2019. The jurisdictional condition was not satisfied since the search had not yielded any incriminating material, which could confer jurisdiction to the Assessing Officer to issue a notice under section 153C in respect of the assessment year 2018-2019. Since no incriminating material whatsoever was found in respect of the assessee's income for the financial year 2017-2018 relevant to the assessment year 2018-2019, the notice issued under section 153C and the assessment order were set aside.(AY. 2018-19)

Dismissing the appeals of the revenue the Court held that in respect of completed assessments or unabated assessments, no addition could be made by the Assessing Officer in the assessment under section 153C in the absence of any incriminating material found during the course of search of the searched party under section 132 or requisition under section 132A. However, it was clarified that the completed or unabated assessments could be reopened by the Assessing Officer in exercise of the powers under section 147 or 148 of the Act subject to fulfilment of conditions as envisaged under these provisions and as might be permissible in law.

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Block assessment-Satisfaction note of searched person not indicating anything against third-party assessee-CBDT circular binding on assessing authority-Assessment orders and notices invalid for absence of satisfaction. [S. 132, 158BD, 260A] year 2005-06. The AO made additions after considering the assessee's return; on appeal many matters were remitted, and on remand the AO reconfirmed earlier additions. The Tribunal, accepting the assessee's additional ground, found that there was no satisfaction note on record indicating reason to believe that incriminating documents pertained to the other person (the assessee). The High Court held that a satisfaction note specific to the other person is a sine qua non before invoking s. 153C, and even where the AO for the searched person and the other person is the same, a separate satisfaction must be recorded; CBDT Circular No. 24/2015 dated 31-12-2015(2016) 380 ITR 32 (St) supports withdrawal of litigation that does not meet Supreme Court guidelines. Accordingly, proceedings under S. 153C were vitiated for want of a proper satisfaction note and the appellate orders upholding that view were affirmed.(AY. 1999-2000 to 2005-06)

Assessment against the searched person was completed under section 158BC (now section 153A) in September 2022. The AO of the searched person drew a satisfaction note on June 7, 2023 and transmitted documents to the assessee's AO, who prepared his satisfaction note on October 31, 2023. Notice under section 153C was issued on March 30, 2024. The High Court held there was no delay; the words "immediately after" in Circular No. 24/2015 could not mean within a few days. Preparation of a satisfaction note requires reasoned consideration and is not mechanical. Since the assessee did not raise the objection of limitation beyond six years before the AO, it could not be considered later. No jurisdictional error was found and the writ petition was dismissed.(AY. 2015-16 to 2017-18)

S.153C: Assessment-Limitation-Finance Act, 2017 amendment-Extension of period from six to ten years-Applicability only when search made on or after 1-4-2017. [S. 132(1), 153A, 153D, Art. 226]

The Finance Act, 2017 extended the block period for search assessments to ten assessment years by introducing "relevant assessment years". However, the extension applies only where the search occurred on or after April 1, 2017. The date on which the Assessing Officer records satisfaction for the searched and non-searched persons is material for limitation calculations. Where the search took place on April 7, 2016 (prior to the amendment), the ten-year extension did not apply and the assessment under section 153C was barred by limitation. (AY. 2012-13)

Search on 10-03-2015 at Venus Infrastructure and Developers Pvt Ltd group premises led to seizure of documents relating to the assessee. Satisfaction was recorded on 23-10-2019 by the jurisdictional AO. The assessee argued notices were time-barred. The Court held that with satisfaction recorded on 23-10-2019, the first AY was 2018-19 and the tenth AY 2009-10. Applying the extended 10-year limit under section 153C

r.w.s. 153A (as amended by Finance Act, 2017) for escaped income exceeding Rs. 50 lakhs, the notices were within time. Petition dismissed.

Mixed questions of fact and law cannot be decided in the absence of pleadings. [S.69, 132(9A), 153B, Art. 226]

On a writ dismissing the petition the Court held that Section 132(9A) can be construed as mandatory only to the limited extent of imposing a mandatory obligation on the authorised officer to hand over the seized materials to the Jurisdictional AO but not with regard to time-limit; besides, in the absence of any reference or link between s. 132(9A) and ss. 153A to 153C, such non-compliance cannot be construed as vitiating the subsequent assessment proceedings. On facts seized materials which belonged to the assessee were handed over to the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer on 20-11-2021. Assessment orders were issued on 30-3-2023 or 31-3-2023. Time limit of 12 months would run from 31-3-2022 to 31-3-2023-Assessment orders were issued within period of limitation. Court also held that issuance of notice under section 153A is triggered by search or requisition, whereas notice under section 153C is triggered only upon occurrence of three conditions. The assessee did not raise any objections to the centralisation either by replying to the communication or otherwise in spite of being provided an opportunity to object. Mixed questions of fact and law were involved in determining whether the order under S. 127 was issued after obtaining the consent of or consulting the persons concerned. It was held that the mixed questions of fact and law cannot be decided in the absence of pleadings. The Court also held that use of the expression "if any" in s. 69 indicates that that it would also apply to unexplained investments in cases wherein the assessee does not maintain books of account. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Material seized from another person-Addition under section 153A not sustainable. [S. 132, 153A]

The Assessing Officer made additions under section 153A on the basis of incriminating documents seized during the search of another person relating to alleged cash receipts of the assessee. The Tribunal held that where the incriminating material belongs to or relates to another person, the proper course is to invoke section 153C after recording the requisite satisfaction. Material seized from a third party cannot form the basis of an assessment under section 153A in the absence of incriminating material found during the search of the assessee. The addition was therefore rightly deleted. (AY. 2013-14 to 2015-16)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-A satisfaction note is required to be recorded under section 153C for each assessment year-A consolidated satisfaction note recorded for different assessment years would vitiate entire assessment proceedings [S. 132, 153A]

The AO initiated assessments under section 153C r.w.s. 143(3) based on documents seized during a search on the Chetak Group. The assessee argued that the AO failed to record a separate satisfaction note for each assessment year, as required under law. The ITAT held that satisfaction under section 153C must be recorded separately for each year. Since a combined satisfaction note was prepared for multiple years, the ITAT held the proceedings as defective and quashed the notices under section 153C as well as assessments for AY 2014-15 and 2015-16. Pursuant to documents seized from a third party during a search, proceedings under section 153C were initiated alleging that the assessee had made an unaccounted cash payment for purchase of land. The Tribunal held that the seized agreement had never been acted upon, as the assessee, on discovering the intermediary's conduct, cancelled the proposed transaction and directly purchased a smaller parcel of land from the original farmers at the actual consideration, a fact corroborated by the intermediary's statement. The Assessing Officer's allegation of cash payment was unsupported by any cogent evidence. The satisfaction note initiating proceedings was vague, general and recorded without application of mind, merely proposing an enquiry without indicating escapement of income or linking it to any assessment year. Further, the approval under section 153D was granted mechanically by a composite approval for all assessment years instead of separate approvals. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the proceedings under section 153C were vitiated and deleted the addition. Delay in filing the appeal was also condoned on showing sufficient cause. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Undisclosed contract receipts-Estimation of profit at 8% upheld-Addition was deleted. [S. 44AD, 132(1)]

During search proceedings in the case of a third party, seized documents recorded both cheque and cash payments made to the assessee towards construction contracts. While the assessee admitted the cheque receipts, it denied receipt of cash. The Assessing Officer treated the cash receipts as undisclosed contract receipts and estimated income at 8 per cent under section 44AD. The Tribunal held that the seized documents were corroborated by the statement of the person from whose premises they were recovered and the assessee failed to produce any material to disprove the cash payments or explain their source. The legal objections regarding proceedings under section 153C were also found to be without merit. Since estimation of profit at 8 per cent was reasonable and beneficial to the assessee, the additions were upheld. (AY. 2012-13, 2014-15)

Sai Chandra Construction Co. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 128 ITR 493 (Delhi)(Trib.).

S. 153C: Search and seizure-Assessment of third person-Satisfaction note-Must state with reference to information from seized material its relevance to assessee's income-Assessee's business not commenced-No question of turnover being suppressed-Seized documents bearing no reference to turnover-Satisfaction note issued without application of mind-Approval under section 153D also invalid-Assessments not sustainable. [S. 69C, 153A, 153D]

The assessee, part of the K.K.Builders group and engaged in construction of two hotel buildings under contract with K.K.Builders for its hotel business which was yet to commence, had assessments framed under section 153A read with section 153C making additions for unexplained construction expenditure under section 69C, based on a loose document seized during search at K.K.Builders premises pertaining to the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the satisfaction note failed to specify the seized material or its bearing on the assessee's income, and since the seized document, being the only material pertaining to the assessee, bore no reference to turnover, there could be no question of suppressed turnover when the assessee's business itself had not commenced; the satisfaction note thus reflected complete non-application of mind both by the AO and the approving authority, rendering the approvals under section 153D equally invalid in law, and consequently the assessments, suffering from want of jurisdiction and valid approval, were bad in law and could not be given effect. S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-loose sheets seized from the locker of a third party-Order of CIT(A) deleting the addition is affirmed.

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue the Tribunal held that loose sheets seized from the locker of a third party which were not in the assessee's hand-writing and did not bear the assessee's name, dates or details of land were dumb document having no evidentiary value in respect of the entries noted therein and, therefore, no addition could be made towards alleged payment of on-money in the hands of the assessee solely on the basis of said documents. S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-No incriminating material-Addition was deleted.[S. 132]

Held that the AO, having not mentioned or referred to any incriminating document relating to the assessee in the assessment order and made the addition simply on the basis of the difference in valuation of the property sold by the assessee which was already available in the return filed by the assessee in the normal course, the assessment made by the AO under s. 153C cannot be sustained. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Recording of satisfaction-Assessment for the Assessment year 2009-10 was not pending at the time of recording of the satisfaction by the Assessing Officer-Joint development agreement entered into between the assessee and other codeveloper cannot be held as incriminating material as the amount received by the assessee as the refundable security under the JDA is reported in the assessee's balance sheet as well as in the cash book and bank account-Proceedings initiated on the basis of invalid satisfaction are not sustainable. [S. 2(47)(v), 132, 153A]

Tribunal held that since the assessment for the assessment year 2009-10 was not pending at the time of recording the satisfaction by the AO as on 4th Aug., 2015, then in the absence of any incriminating material, the AO cannot make any addition. Tribunal also held that Joint development agreement entered into between the assessee and other codeveloper cannot be held as incriminating material as the amount received by the assessee as the refundable security under the JDA is reported in the assessee's balance sheet as well as in the cash book and bank account; further, satisfaction recorded by the AO without specifying the linkage between the seized material and the undisclosed income of a particular assessment year did not satisfy the requirements of the statutory provisions and consequently, the proceedings initiated by the AO under S. 153C on the basis of such invalid satisfaction are not sustainable. Tribunal held that the AO made addition on account of alleged cash loans availed by the assessee, simply based on notings found in loose papers/book seized from the premises of a third party Anbhu despite assessee's explicit and categorical denial that no cash loan whatsoever has been borrowed from Anbhu and in the absence of any statement of Anbhu specifically incriminating the assessee and any independent enquiry, CIT(A)

has rightly held the seized material to be unreliable and deleted the addition. (AY.2015-16 to 2017-18, 2019-20 & 2020-21)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Satisfaction note-Required to be recorded for each assessment year-Consolidated satisfaction note recorded for different assessment years-Bad in law-Approval-Mechanical manner-Order quashed. [S. 153D]

Held that the satisfaction note is required to be recorded under S 153C for each assessment year; a consolidated satisfaction note recorded for different assessment years would vitiate the entire assessment proceedings. Tribunal also held that the Jt. CIT/Addl. CIT had given the approval under s. 153D by referring to the period covered by asst. yrs. 2012-13 to 2018-19 though the incriminating material referred to in the satisfaction note of the Dy. CIT relates to only two assessment years, and without examining the issue as to whether the AO has jurisdiction to issue notice under S 153C when the searched party has approached the Settlement Commission, the approval has been given in a mechanical manner. Approval not being in accordance with the law, the assessment orders are quashed. (AY. 2016-17 & 2017-18)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Seized documents-Subsequent exchange agreement-Addition was deleted. [S. 68, 69]

Tribunal held that the documents, including the mortgage deed, amended mortgage deed, dt. 7th March, 2016 and the subsequent exchange agreement of sale make it clear that the assessee firm has given Rs. 6 crore loan to KV in the year 2013 and secured the property for mortgage by a mortgage deed; said mortgage deed has been replaced by entering into an exchange agreement of sale; reason given by the AO that subsequent exchange agreement of sale dt. 7th March, 2016, is an altogether different transaction is devoid of merit and cannot be accepted. Addition was deleted. (AY. 2016-17)

ACIT v. Suresh Productions (2025) 237 TTJ 486 (Hyd)(Trib)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Recording of satisfaction-The AO has recorded the satisfaction not as per the statutory convention-The entire assessment is vitiated and bad in law-Addition made on presumption was deleted. [S. 132]

Held that AO recorded in the satisfaction note that the incriminating material found during the search needs to be verified/examined from the regular books of account of the assessee during the assessment proceedings, this is absolutely general and casual recording of satisfaction; since there is no recording of details of escapement of income or quantification of escapement of income or any reference to the specific assessment year, the recording of satisfaction is not as per the requirement of law and therefore, the entire assessment under s. 153C is vitiated and bad in law. Tribunal also held that the assessee, having cancelled the original agreement made with Ghanshyam Gupta for the purchase of land and eventually purchased the land directly from the farmers at a lower rate, the impugned addition made by the AO on the basis of a copy of the agreement found during the search of Ghanshyam Gupta is not sustainable. Proceedings under section 153C are invalid where the seized documents merely relate to or pertain to the assessee but do not belong to the assessee. The amendment made by the Finance Act, 2015, substituting the words "pertains to" for "belongs to" is prospective from 1-6-2015 and does not apply to earlier searches. Accordingly, the notices issued under section 153C and the consequential assessments were quashed for want of jurisdiction. (AY. 2008-09 to 2011-12)

Documents relating to the assessee were found during a search conducted on another person. Although the Assessing Officer recorded satisfaction that proceedings were required to be initiated under section 153C, he completed the assessment under section 143(3) without issuing notice under section 153C or obtaining approval under section 153D. Information obtained under the Right to Information Act confirmed these lapses. The Tribunal held that failure to invoke the mandatory provisions of section 153C constituted a fundamental jurisdictional defect rendering the assessment unsustainable. (AY. 2021-22).

Ranjan Sharma v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 216 / 178 taxmann.com 475 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Assessment of other person-Absence of satisfaction note-Jurisdiction not assumed in accordance with law-Assessment quashed-Presumption regarding seized documents-Applicable only against person from whose possession documents were seized-Addition deleted.-Addition based solely on Departmental Valuation

Officer's report-No rejection of books or incriminating material-Addition deleted-DVO valuation-CPWD rates-Allowance for PWD rates and self-supervision-No addition survives.[S. 69B, 132, 292C]

Pursuant to a search conducted on an erstwhile partner of the assessee-firm, the Assessing Officer initiated proceedings under section 153C and made additions towards unexplained investment based on a Departmental Valuation Officer's report and documents seized from the former partner. The Tribunal held that neither the Assessing Officer of the searched person nor the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over the assessee had recorded the mandatory satisfaction contemplated by section 153C. Further, no incriminating material belonging to the assessee had been found or handed over to the jurisdictional Assessing Officer. As the jurisdictional requirements of section 153C were not fulfilled, the assessment was quashed. The Revenue relied upon documents recovered from the residence of an erstwhile partner to make additions in the hands of the assessee-firm. The Tribunal held that the statutory presumption under section 292C operates only against the person from whose possession the documents are seized. Since the former partner had ceased to be a partner on the date of search and no incriminating material was found from the assessee or its existing partners, the documents could not automatically be attributed to the assessee-firm. The deletion of the additions was upheld. The Assessing Officer made additions for alleged unexplained investment in construction solely on the basis of the Departmental Valuation Officer's estimate without rejecting the assessee's books of account or finding any evidence of cash investment during the search. The Tribunal held that a valuation report is merely an opinion and cannot, by itself, justify an addition under section 69B in the absence of incriminating material. The addition was deleted. The Tribunal held that adoption of CPWD rates resulted in inflated valuation. Following settled principles, it directed that appropriate rebate be granted for the difference between CPWD and State PWD rates as well as for self-supervision. After allowing these deductions, no unexplained investment survived, and the addition under section 69B was deleted. (AY. 2016-17 to 2019-20).

Dy. CIT v. RKS Builders and Promoters (2025) 126 ITR 421 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Third-party search-Dumb document-Abbreviated entries without corroborative evidence-Addition deleted-Limitation-Satisfaction note received beyond permissible period-Assessment for assessment year 2015-16 without jurisdiction-Satisfaction note-Prima facie satisfaction sufficient for assumption of jurisdiction-Delay of 16 days-Sufficient cause-Delay condoned.[S. 132(4), 153A, 292C]

Additions were made on the basis of abbreviated entries in notebooks seized during the search of a third party, alleging that they referred to the assessee, a former Highway Minister. The Tribunal held that the notebooks were merely dumb documents, containing no details regarding the nature of payment, purpose of payment or identity of the recipient. In the absence of corroborative evidence and after the retraction of the employee's statement relied upon by the Revenue, the additions could not be sustained. The satisfaction note relating to the assessee was received by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer during assessment year 2022-23. The Tribunal held that jurisdiction under section 153C extended only to the six assessment years immediately preceding the relevant assessment year. Consequently, assessment year 2015-16 fell beyond the permissible period and the assessment for that year was held to be without jurisdiction and was quashed. The Tribunal held that, for assuming jurisdiction under section 153C, only a prima facie satisfaction is required. Since the seized material and the statement recorded during search prima facie connected the abbreviation "HW" with the Highway Minister during the relevant period, the satisfaction recorded by the Assessing Officer was sufficient to assume jurisdiction under section 153C. The Tribunal found the delay of 16 days in filing the appeal to be marginal and, in the interest of justice, condoned the delay. (AY. 2015-16 to 2017-18).

Dy. CIT v. Karuppagounder Palaniswami (2025) 122 ITR 380 (Chennai)(Trib.)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Proceedings under section 153C mandatory-Reassessment under sections 147/148 invalid-Loose paper found from third party-Statement of accountant not tested by cross-examination-Addition deleted-Return filed in response to notice under section 148-Notice under section 143(2) mandatory-Assessment invalid.[S. 132, 147, 148]

During a search of a third party, loose papers allegedly relating to the assessee were seized. Instead of invoking section 153C, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessment under sections 147 and 148. The Tribunal held that section 153C, containing a non obstante clause, governed the assessment of third persons where seized material pertaining to them was found. Since the mandatory procedure under section 153C had not been followed, the reassessment was without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. The addition was based solely on a loose paper found during the search of a third party and the statement of the searched person's former accountant. The Tribunal held that the loose paper was neither in the handwriting nor in the possession of the assessee, the accountant's statement recorded outside search proceedings carried no statutory presumption of truth, and the accountant was not produced for cross-examination. In the absence of corroborative evidence establishing cash payment to the assessee, the addition was deleted. The assessee requested that the original return be treated as the return filed in response to notice under section 148. The Tribunal held that once such request was accepted, issuance of notice under section 143(2) became mandatory before framing the reassessment. As no notice under section 143(2) had been issued, the reassessment was invalid (AY. 2011-12).

Subhash Chander Gupta v. ITO (2025) 124 ITR 247 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Incriminating documents specifically identifying assessee-Addition upheld-Cash payments evidenced by seized documents-Failure to rebut evidence-Addition sustained-Satisfaction under amended provision-Proceedings valid.[S 69A, 69C,. 132, 133A, 153A]

During search and survey operations conducted in the cases of third parties, incriminating documents and electronic data specifically referred to the assessee and reflected unaccounted cash transactions. The assessee failed to respond to notices issued under sections 153C and 142(1) or explain the seized material. The Tribunal held that the vouchers and seized documents maintained in the ordinary course of business constituted reliable evidence and mere denial without supporting material could not dislodge the additions. The addition under section 69A was accordingly upheld. The Assessing Officer made additions under section 69C on the basis of payment vouchers and electronic records seized during search proceedings. The Tribunal held that the assessee neither challenged the evidentiary value of the seized documents nor furnished any explanation before the Assessing Officer. Since the additions were supported by contemporaneous business records and corroborative statements recorded under section 132(4), the Commissioner (Appeals) was not justified in deleting them. The assessment order was restored. The Tribunal held that after the amendment to section 153C with effect from 1 June 2015, proceedings can be initiated where the Assessing Officer is satisfied that seized documents pertain to or contain information relating to a person other than the searched person. Since the assessee failed to establish absence of the requisite satisfaction and the seized material clearly related to the assessee, the proceedings under section 153C were held to be valid. (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20).

Asst. CIT v. Unique Realities Builders and Developers (2025) 125 ITR 472 (Nagpur)(Trib.)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Absence of satisfaction note and incriminating material-Assessment invalid.[S. 132]

The assessee's assessment under section 153C was framed pursuant to documents allegedly found during a search conducted on a third party. The Tribunal called upon the Department to produce the satisfaction note and incriminating material forming the basis of assumption of jurisdiction. As neither the satisfaction note nor any incriminating document relating to the assessee was produced, and the addition was made only on the basis of valuation disclosed in the return of income, the Tribunal held that the mandatory jurisdictional requirements of section 153C were not fulfilled. Accordingly, the assessment and the addition were held to be unsustainable. (AY. 2018-19).

S. 153C : Assessment-Income of any other person-Search year-Wrongly applied the provision of Section 153C by the CIT(A); the matter is remanded to the file of CIT(A) to decide the issue on merits-Application for adjournment was rejected. [S. 132, 143(3),255, ITATR,1963, R. 23]

Tribunal held that though the AO has made the addition in the hands of the assessee on the basis of documents found at the time of search in the premises of a third party, rigours of s. 153C are not attracted as the year under consideration is the search year; additions were required to be made by the AO within four corners of s. 143(3) of the Act. The CIT(A) had deleted the addition on the wrong understanding that the requirements under s. 153C are required to be fulfilled. The order of the CIT(A) was set aside and the matter was remanded back to the CIT(A) to decide the issue afresh on merit. Application of the assessee for adjournment was rejected. Satisfaction Note did not refer to the material seized during the course of the search u/s. 132 of the Act. The Tribunal held that a single consolidated satisfaction note could be prepared for more than one AY but AO should record satisfaction that which incriminating material pertains to which AY's to depict application of mind and initiation of action under section 153C of the Act qua such assessment years. In absence of the same, assessment order passed u/s. 153C of the Act was quashed by the Delhi Tribunal. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Mechanical approval invalid.[S. 132, 153A, 260A]

Pursuant to a search under section 132, assessments for AYs 2009-10 to 2011-12 were completed under section 153A/143(3) after obtaining approval under section 153D. The Tribunal held the assessments to be invalid on the ground that the approval was granted mechanically without due application of mind, as the Additional Commissioner approved multiple draft assessment orders on the same day without verifying records and even approved additions of opening balances which were erroneous. On an appeal, the High Court upheld the Tribunal's view, holding that an approval under section 153D cannot be accorded in a casual or mechanical manner and must reflect due consideration of the material on record. The court held that the Tribunal was justified in holding the approval to be invalid. (AY. 2009-10 to 2011-12).

Navratan Management P.Ltd v. Dy.CIT(2025) 128 ITR 100 (Mum)(Trib)

S. 153D: Assessment-Search-Approval-Failure to examine the seized documents-Addl. CIT approved 86 other orders pertaining to different assessees in these three days. The language of all these approvals is identical-The approving authority has granted common approval for all the assessment years in respect of the assessee-while granting the approval, the benefit of presumption under S. 114(e) of the Indian Evidence Act that all official acts are regularly performed is not available to the Revenue. The assessment order was held to be void ab initio, hence quashed. [S.153A, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, S.114(e)]

Held that the Addl. CIT has granted omnibus approval under s. 153D to the draft assessment orders pertaining to eleven assessment years within three days, merely stating that the approval is accorded after perusing the draft assessment orders and the case records without providing any further details and without stating that the seized material or the appraisal report has been perused by her, it is clear that the approval under S. 153D has been granted by the Addl. CIT in a mechanical manner without due application of mind and, therefore, the assessment framed by the AO is void ab initio. (AY. 2011-12 to 2017-18)

Sushen Mohan Gupta v. ACIT (2025) 236 TTJ 32 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Departmental Representative produced a sealed envelope stating that he is relying on a "Confidential" document to prove "Application of mind" by the officer.-Each assessment year is different from the other, and the facts/additions made in separate assessment years demand separate application of mind, as is the requirement of S. 153D. Non-application of mind-The order was quashed and set aside.[S. 132, 153A]

Tribunal observed that approval granted by the Department is neither an executory nor administrative function, as the same gives rise to a civil consequence of assessment being framed against the assessee. Tribunal held that what is mandatorily required is independent application of mind by the Addl. CIT while granting approval under S. 153D for each separate case after thoroughly and judiciously examining the draft order as well as other relevant documents based on which the assessment is completed; approval must ex facie disclose that the approving/sanctioning authority has considered the evidence and other material placed before it; no such evidence is adduced and the approvals appear to be mere templates; approvals so granted are violative of mandate of s. 153D and, therefore, the assessments made under S. 153A are invalid and bad in law in the absence of valid and proper approval under S. 153D.(AY. 2016-17 to 2020-21)

Tribunal held that a separate approval of the draft assessment order under S. 153D for each year is to be obtained; a single approval granted by the Addl. CIT for all six assessment years is bad in law. The AO sent only a proposal to the Addl. CIT, which was not accompanied by any assessment folder, seized material or any other related documents, the approval was granted in a mechanical manner without application of mind by the Addl. S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Mechanical approval without independent application of mind-Assessment invalid. [S. 132, 153A, 153C]

The Joint Commissioner granted approval under section 153D to draft assessment orders for several assessment years on the very next day after receipt of the proposal from the Assessing Officer through a single common approval. The Tribunal held that approval under section 153D is a mandatory quasi-judicial function requiring independent examination of the seized material, enquiries made by the Assessing Officer, replies of the assessee and the conclusions reached in the draft assessment order. A mechanical approval granted without due application of mind defeats the legislative safeguard envisaged under section 153D. Since the approval was granted mechanically for all assessment years together without independent consideration, the approval was invalid, and the consequential assessments framed under section 153A were held to be bad in law. S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Consolidated approval for seven assessment years-Mechanical approval-Assessment quashed.[S.153A]

The Joint Commissioner granted a consolidated approval under section 153D for all seven assessment years on the very next day after receiving the proposal from the Assessing Officer. The approval did not record that the assessment records, appraisal report or seized material had been examined and merely relied upon the Assessing Officer's certification. The Tribunal held that the approval under section 153D is a quasi-judicial function requiring independent application of mind. The mechanical approval rendered the consequential assessment order unsustainable in law and the assessment was quashed. (AY. 2015-16).

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Composite approval for seven assessment years-No independent application of mind-Assessment quashed.[S.153A]

The Assessing Officer forwarded only the draft assessment orders while seeking approval under section 153D. The competent authority granted a composite approval for assessment years 2014-15 to 2020-21 by issuing a single approval with check marks against each year, without referring to the appraisal report, seized material or assessment records. The Tribunal held that the approval was granted mechanically without any independent scrutiny or reasoning and merely on the basis of the draft assessment orders. As the mandatory requirement of application of mind under section 153D was not satisfied, the approval and the consequential assessments were held to be invalid. (AY. 2014-15 to 2020-21).

Kehar Singh v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 609 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Quasi-judicial function-Mechanical approval without application of mind-Assessment quashed.[S. 153A]

The Tribunal held that the power of granting approval under section 153D is statutory and quasi-judicial in nature and requires examination of the assessment records, seized material and replies of the assessee. As the Additional Commissioner granted approval without verifying these records and without demonstrating any application of mind, the approval was mechanical. Consequently, the assessment framed pursuant to such approval was quashed. (AY. 2013-14 to 2018-19).

S. P. Singla Constructions (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 536 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Mechanical and omnibus approval for seven assessment years-Assessment quashed.[S.153A]

The assessee challenged the validity of the assessment on the ground that the approval granted under section 153D was mechanical. The Tribunal held that the approval letter did not indicate that the Additional Commissioner had examined the draft assessment orders, seized material or assessment records. A single omnibus approval was granted for seven assessment years without any independent application of mind. Since the statutory approval contemplated under section 153D is required to be year-specific and based on due application of mind, the mechanical approval vitiated the assessment. (AY. 2018-19).

Inder Chand Bajaj v. Dy. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 500 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Due application of mind established-Additional ground rejected. [S. 132, 153C]

The assessee challenged the validity of the assessment contending that the approval granted under section 153D was mechanical. The Tribunal admitted the additional legal ground but held that the approving authority had examined the draft assessment order, appraisal report, seized material, queries raised by the Assessing Officer and the assessee's replies before granting approval. The suggested modifications were incorporated in the assessment order, demonstrating due application of mind. Accordingly, the challenge to the approval under section 153D was rejected. (AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15).

Usha Satish Salvi v. Asst. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 452 (Mum.)(Trib.)

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Composite approval for multiple assessment years-Mechanical approval-Assessment quashed-Mere proposal letter without assessment records-Approval invalid-Appeal to Appellate Tribunal-Additional grounds-Pure question of law-Delay due to change of counsel-Additional grounds admitted.[S. 153A, 254(1)]

The Third Member majority held that the Additional Commissioner granted a composite approval for all the assessment years without separately examining each draft assessment order or the assessment records and seized material. Such approval reflected total non-application of mind and violated the mandatory requirements of section 153D. Consequently, the assessment orders were held to be void ab initio and quashed. The Assessing Officer forwarded only the proposal letter seeking approval without placing the assessment records, seized material or other relevant documents before the approving authority. The Tribunal held that approval granted without examining the relevant records and contrary to the CBDT Manual of Office Procedure was mechanical and unsustainable. The consequent assessments were quashed. The assessee raised additional grounds challenging the validity of the assessments after change of counsel. The Tribunal held that the grounds involved pure questions of law arising from facts already on record and that the delay had been satisfactorily explained. The additional grounds were accordingly admitted. (AY. 2009-10 to 2014-15).

S. 153D : Assessment-Search-Approval-Approval under section 153D-Mechanical approval granted on same day in several cases-Assessment void ab initio-Appellate Tribunal-Additional grounds-Pure questions of law going to root of assessment-Admitted.[S. 132]

The draft assessment order, approval under section 153D and final assessment order in the assessee's case formed part of several cases disposed of on the same day. The Tribunal held that the approval was granted mechanically without proper application of mind to the material on record. Since approval under section 153D is a mandatory safeguard and cannot be a mere ritual, the approval was invalid, rendering the assessment order void ab initio. The assessee raised additional legal grounds challenging the validity of the assessment. The Tribunal held that the additional grounds involved pure questions of law arising from the assessment proceedings, required no further investigation into facts and went to the root of the matter. Accordingly, they were admitted for adjudication (AY. 2017-18).

On a writ, the court directed the Deputy Commissioner to ensure that the rectification application initiated by the assessee was dealt with and finalised at the earliest within eight weeks. Subject to the migration of cases being done successfully, the assessee would be entitled to claim whatever refund it was entitled to refund in accordance with law. The refund application, if any, should also be processed and finalised as expeditiously as possible.

Virtusa Consulting Services Pvt. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 483 ITR 356 (Telangana) (HC)

S. 154 : Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record- Depreciation-Powers of appellate Authority-Merely because an appeal was filed before Appellate Authority or revision pending before Revisional Authority would not preclude Original Authority to rectify any mistake or error apparent from record under section 154 in respect of which either no order has been passed by Appellate/Revisional Authority or yet an order was to be passed.[S. 32, 250,251(ia),260A]

While powers are vested with the Assessing Officer to pass an order rectifying the assessment order under section 154 even if appellate or revisional proceedings are pending, it would also not preclude the Appellate Commissioner from enhancing tax liability in respect of an issue which was subject matter of the assessment. Therefore, where in an assessment order claim for adjusting unabsorbed depreciation against income arising from capital gains was subject matter of assessment, the Appellate Commissioner was justified in re-looking same irrespective of order passed under section 154 (AY. 2002-03)

S. 154 : Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record- Designated authority-Certificate in Form 5 was issued-Scope of section 154 was limited to amend any order passed by Assessing Officer under provisions of Income-tax Act, 1961 and it would not be extended to sit over order passed and declaration issued by designated authority under section 5 of DTVSV Act-Order passed by Assessing Officer under section 154 was set aside [S.132(IA), Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 Form No 5, Art. 226]

Pursuant to seizure of cash from its collection agent, the assessee was issued a warrant under section 132(1A) and an assessment order was passed under section 143(3) raising a tax demand. During pendency of appeal, assessee filed a declaration under section 3 of Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 before designated authority and a certificate in Form 5 was issued. The Assessee paid entire amount but since it was entitled to a refund and department was not refunding excess amount of tax paid by assessee, it pursued his claim before competent authority. The Assessing Officer on basis that despite disputed tax demand already settled earlier, there were two more additional demands under section 69/69A, for which tax liability would be charged at rate of 60 per cent under section 115BBE in addition to 30 per cent amount charged under section 143(3). On a writ the Court held that the Designated Authority under Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 entertained application of assessee and based on pleadings and admission, in presence of both parties, a certificate of closure of proceeding was issued. The Court held that scope of section 154 which talks of rectification of mistake is limited to amend any order passed by the Assessing Officer under provisions of Income-tax Act, 1961 but in no way in garb of exercise of its power under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 154 it may be extended to sit over order passed and declaration issued by designated authority under section 5 of DTVSV Act. Accordingly the order passed by the Assessing Officer under section 154 was set aside.

On receipt of above documents, revenue shall dispose of rectification petition filed by assessee after giving assessee an opportunity of hearing. [S. 44AB, 139(9), Art. 226]

The Centralized Processing Centre, Bengaluru treated the return filed by the assessee as defective return under section 139(9) on the ground that assessee had not filed tax audit report as required under section 44AB. The Assessee filed a rectification petition for rectification of order. Revenue rejected rectification petition on ground that there was no base order available on system to be rectified. On a writ the Court held that assessee having accessed system of revenue to download the impugned order, even revenue could have accessed the said order and rejected rectification application on the ground that base order was not available. However, assessee was directed to file order treating return as invalid with revenue and a copy of ITR form uploaded with system of revenue and return which was treated as defective. Disallowance of claim in assessment order passed in year 1995 for Assessment Year 1992-93, on the ground that the claim crystallised only in the year 1997. Pursuant to Court Order. The Tribunal confirming rejection of rectification application on the ground that claim not made in return of income and records of Assessment Year 1996-97 not available was misconceived. On appeal the Court held that grounds of appeal before appellate authorities were not considered on merits. The Court held that the object of Section 154 cannot be defeated by reason of mechanical and technical objections. S. 154: Rectification-Mandatory requirement of DIN-Back-dated rectification order-Limitation-Violation of CBDT Circular No. 19/2019-Order deemed never issued-Writ maintainable despite alternate remedy. [S. 119, 154(3), 154(7), 250, 292B, Art. 226]

The assessee challenged a rectification order purportedly dated 29-03-2024 passed u/s 154 giving effect to the directions of the TPO for AY 2005-06, on the ground that the order did not bear a Document Identification Number (DIN) as mandated by CBDT Circular No. 19/2019 and was back-dated to overcome the limitation prescribed u/s 154(7). On a writ the Bombay High Court held that the requirement of DIN is mandatory and any communication issued without DIN, not falling within the limited exceptions in the Circular and without prior approval of the competent authority, is invalid and is deemed never to have been issued. The subsequent intimation letter supplying DIN could not cure the defect. The Court further held that issuance of a show-cause notice u/s 154(3) on 20-06-2024 itself demonstrated that the rectification order could not have been passed on 29-03-2024 and was clearly back-dated after expiry of limitation on 31-03-2024. Reliance by the Revenue on s.292B and the Jharkhand High Court decision in Prakash Lal Khandelwal was rejected as misconceived and distinguishable. Following *Ashok Commercial Enterprises, v. The AO passed an assessment order in the name of the Company already merged with another company pursuant to a scheme of arrangement sanctioned by the High Court. The AO initiated proceedings u/s 154 during pendency of an appeal before CIT (Appeals).

On appeal, the Hon'ble Court observed that the factum of merger was already within the knowledge of the AO; even then, the AO passed the order in the name of the entity which had ceased to exist. Accordingly, the Hon'ble Court held that there is no case of inadvertent error or mistake and therefore, rectification order passed three years after framing of the original assessment order even during the pendency of the appeal of the assessee, the rectification order was unsustainable. The Assessing Officer made disallowance under section 14A. The Assessee filed an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) but did not press the ground of disallowance made by the Assessing Officer. The CIT(A) partly allowed the appeal. Thereafter the Commissioner (Appeals) issued notice to assessee seeking to rectify order passed in appeal. The Assessee objected to proposed rectification. The Commissioner (Appeals) in an order passed under section 154 rejected objections preferred by the assessee and directed the Assessing Officer to enhance disallowance under section 14A. On an appeal the Tribunal affirmed the order of the CIT(A). On an appeal the Court held that since assessee itself had accepted disallowance under section 14A, it was not a debatable issue and Commissioner (Appeals) after following due procedure as contemplated under law including issuance of notice and after considering objections of parties, rectified error and made disallowance, same was within purview of provisions of Act. Appeal was dismissed. (AY. 1999-2000)

On the basis of the order passed by Authority for Advance Rulings that payment received by the assessee from its Indian distributor for sale of software product in India was royalty, the assessee filed its returns and paid taxes under protest. Order of AAR had been challenged by assessee before Apex Court and it was expressly overruled. Subsequent to order of the Apex Court, the assessee filed rectification application and sought for refund of taxes by invoking section 154 but lower authorities rejected the assessee's rectification application on the premise that section 154 was not applicable to the facts of the case. On a writ the Court held that as per circular No. 68, dated 17-11-1971, an assessee is entitled to seek rectification pursuant to interpretation of law by the Apex Court, taxes paid by the assessee under protest deserved to be refunded by rectifying income-tax returns filed by the assessee. included in the book profit-Not a patent error-Rectification not justified. [S.115JB, 133A]

The Assessing Officer passed an order under section 154 and added surrendered amount in book profit. The Tribunal held that the amount included in book profit of the assessee on the basis of a voluntary disclosure made during course of survey under section 133A, was not supported by any incriminating material found during the course of survey, and therefore, it could not have been considered as a mistake apparent on record under section 154 of the Act. On an appeal by the Revenue, the High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2011-12)

[S.80AC(ii), 80P, 143(1)(a)(v)]

Tribunal held that CPC's power to deny claim for deduction under s. 80P by virtue of the application of s. 80AC(ii) became effectively operational from 1st April, 2021, irrespective of the assessment year to which such a belated return relates, since the assessee's return was processed under s. 143(1) on 25th Nov., 2021, i.e., much after 1st April, 2021, the CPC did neither traverse nor exceed its jurisdiction in disallowing the assessee's claim for deduction under s. 80P by applying the provisions of s. 80AC(ii) and, therefore, the tax authorities rightly denied to rectify the denial of deduction by reversal under s. 154.(AY. 2020-21)

The Tribunal held that any inadvertent misreporting of income in the return of income filed by an assessee, which is suitably explained by the assessee amounts to a mistake apparent from the record and is rectifiable under the provisions of s. 154. In view of the fact that the affidavit has been filed by the chartered accountant submitting that an inadvertent typographical error has been committed by his staff in reporting the figures in Sch. CG(LTCG) while filing the assessee's return, which led to the enhancement of income in the intimation under s. 143(1), the matter was restored to the AO for verification of the said affidavit and other details/evidence submitted by the assessee in support of her contention. On an appeal, the Tribunal held that since the investment in the mutual fund was made by wife of the assessee and name of the assessee was appearing only as a second holder and not as a primary holder. The Tribunal also held that the Assessing Officer neither issued notice of hearing to the assessee nor provided any opportunity of hearing to the assessee before amending the order passed under section 143(3); the order passed under section 154 was bad in law and was set aside. The Assessee, a charitable trust, claimed provision for expenses. The Assessing Officer passed the order u/s 154 and disallowed on the ground that provisions were not allowable as same were not actual expenses incurred but estimate for expenses to be incurred in subsequent period. On an appeal the CIT(A) held that the assessee had made provision for expenses, it had not claimed amount as applied during year. Consequently, since assessee did not claim any amount from provision as applied income, question of disallowance did not arise. Therefore, rectification order under section 154, which made an addition on account of provision for expenses was held to lack merit and was set aside. [In favour of assessee](AY. 2012-13)

In block assessment proceedings, the assessee argued there was no valid satisfaction note for issuing a search warrant. Despite the Tribunal directions, the revenue failed for years to produce it, later claiming it was destroyed in a fire. The High Court held that without the satisfaction note, the search and consequent assessment, penalty under section 158BFA, and criminal case could not survive. S. 158BC: Block assessment-Search and seizure-Deemed seizure-Limitation-Search initiated on 8-12-1999-Prohibitory order under section 132(3) on 21-1-2000-Search concluded on 2-3-2000-Assessment order dated 28-3-2002 not barred by limitation-Matter remanded to Tribunal to decide on merits. [S. 132, 132(3), 143(3), 158BE, 260A]

Search under section 132 was initiated at the assessee's premises on 8-12-1999 and, as it could not be completed on the same day, prohibitory orders under section 132(3) were issued and the search was continued on 21-1-2000 and finally concluded on 2-3-2000 when the prohibitory order was lifted. The Tribunal held that limitation under section 158BE(1)(b) had to be reckoned from the date of initiation of search, i.e., 8-12-1999, and therefore the block assessment order dated 28-3-2002 passed under section 143(3) read with section 158BC was barred by limitation. On an appeal by the Revenue, the High Court held that there is a clear distinction between "deemed seizure" contemplated under the second proviso to section 132(1) and a restraint/prohibitory order under section 132(3), and an order under section 132(3) cannot be equated with seizure. Where the search remains incomplete and is validly continued on subsequent dates, limitation under section 158BE(1)(b) is to be computed from the end of the month in which the search is actually concluded and not from the date of initial search. Since the search concluded only on 2-3-2000, the block assessment order dated 28-3-2002 was within limitation. As the Tribunal had not adjudicated the issues on merits, the matter was remanded to the Tribunal for decision on merits along with the assessee's cross-objection. S. 158BC : Block assessment-Undisclosed income-On money-Purchase of agricultural property-No incriminating material-Purchaser declaring capital gains-Seized documents without signature and statement of original owners-Addition is deleted. [S. 132, 260A]

Allowing the appeal the Court held that there was no incriminating material seized, which could suggest that the assessee had paid any on-money. The Assessing Officer had relied upon only two circumstances, firstly, the seized documents, which did not bear any signature, secondly, on the statement of the original owners, wherein the original owners had confirmed on oath the actual value of the land. One of the original owners of lands had stated on oath that a police complaint was given against him and therefore, he had given statement against the purchaser before the Income-tax authorities and subsequently, retracted it. In the circumstances, the assessment order passed based on the seized material and the statements, which had been redressed, was perverse. The Assessing Officer had no material to hold that the assessee had paid any on-money. Order of Tribunal is set aside..(AY.BP. 1990 to 2001)

S. 158BC : Block assessment-Undisclosed income-Evidence collected and noticed during the search can be considered for assessment-Cross-examination of parties-Ghost of benami companies-Assessment order is correctly assessed-No substantial question of law.[S. 158BB, 260A]

A search was conducted at the residential premises of the assessee and incriminating material was found in the form of unaccounted sales from liquor vends. Assessing Officer passed an assessment order making an addition on account of the same. On appeal, the Tribunal held that ample evidence, including partnership deeds of various liquor firms, was found in the course of the search itself regarding undisclosed income of assessee from liquor business carried on by him; thus, it could not be said that assessment of undisclosed income in that regard was outside the purview of section 158BC. On appeal, the Court held that during the search, statements of a number of persons were recorded who stated that they were salesmen working in those vends and the assessee was their employer and real owner of vends. It was also noted that documents of rent agreement for the premises were taken on record in the name of the company, which was signed by assessee as a contractor. Since there was cross-examination of almost all persons whose statements were relied upon and after cross-examination nothing contrary to earlier statements emerged, inference could be drawn that undisclosed income was earned by assessee through ghost and benami companies which were running on properties taken on rent by him. Therefore, assessment order was found to have been correctly re-assessed by the Tribunal. No substantial question of law. (BP.1-4-1986 to 28 th June 1996)

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that the statute mandates that a satisfaction note has to be recorded by the AO. Office note at best can be treated as a speculation and cannot qualify to be a valid satisfaction note. On the factual aspect, the Tribunal has rendered a finding in favour of the assessee, and this finding of fact cannot be allowed to be reopened by the Revenue. Further, initiation of the proceedings under s. 158BD pursuant to a letter dt. 5th Aug., 2003 issued by the AO of the searched person is barred by time as it is almost a year after the block assessment was completed on the searched person on 28th Aug., 2002. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that since the Assessing Officer of the searched person had not recorded any satisfaction note for initiating proceedings under section 158BD against the assessee and also had not handed over to the Assessing Officer of assessee seized documents, etc., to enable him to proceed under section 158BC, the order passed by the Assessing Officer is without jurisdiction and unauthorised. PCIT v. Milia Tracon (P.) Ltd (2024) 165 taxmann.com 150 (2025) 473 ITR 155 (Cal)(HC)

S. 158BD: Block assessment-Undisclosed income of any other person-No satisfaction note from the Assessing Officer of the searched person-Initiation is without jurisdiction-Order of Tribunal is affirmed.[S.132, 260A]

The primary issue was the validity of the initiation of proceedings under section 158BD of the Income-tax Act, 1961, against the Assessee without a satisfaction note from the Assessing Officer of the searched person.

The revenue contended that the satisfaction note for initiating proceedings under Section 158BD against the assessee was duly recorded by the Assessing Officer of the searched person, and thus, the initiation of proceedings was valid.

The assessee argued that the initiation of proceedings under Section 158BD was invalid as there was no satisfaction note recorded by the Assessing Officer of the searched person. Additionally, the required procedure of handing over documents by the Assessing Officer of the searched person to the Assessing Officer of the assessee was not followed.

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the satisfaction note was not recorded by the Assessing Officer of the searched person but by the Assessing Officer of the assessee. The Hon'ble Tribunal found that the procedure prescribed under Section 158BD, including the handing over of documents, was not followed, rendering the initiation of proceedings unauthorised and without jurisdiction.

The Hon'ble High Court affirmed the Hon'ble Tribunal's decision, holding that the initiation of proceedings under Section 158BD by the Assessing Officer of the assessee was unauthorised and without jurisdiction due to the absence of a satisfaction note from the Assessing Officer of the searched person. The Hon'ble High Court dismissed the revenue's appeal, answering the substantial question of law in favour of the assessee and against the revenue. (BP. 1-4 1996 to 7-5 2002)

S. 158BE : Block assessment-Time limit-Search and seizure-Deemed seizure-Limitation to be reckoned from date of conclusion of last search and not from date of initial search-Block assessment order held within limitation. [S. 132(1), 132(3), 158BC, 260A]

Where search at the assessee's premises was conducted on different dates pursuant to the original authorization, the limitation for completion of block assessment had to be computed from the date on which the search proceedings were finally concluded and not from the date of first search. A restraint or prohibitory order under section 132(3) cannot be equated with "deemed seizure" contemplated under the second proviso to section 132(1), as such order is passed only when immediate seizure is impracticable and does not amount to seizure itself. Since the search initiated on 8-12-1999 continued on subsequent dates and was ultimately concluded only on 2-3-2000 upon lifting of the prohibitory order, the search could not be treated as completed on the earlier dates. Accordingly, limitation under section 158BE(1)(b) was to be reckoned from 2-3-2000, and the block assessment order dated 28-3-2002 was within time. The distinction between restraint order and deemed seizure was reiterated, and the decision in VLS Finance Ltd. v. CIT (SC) applied. Matter remitted to Tribunal for decision on merits. [S. 143(3), 221(1), 246A, Art. 226]

Assessing Officer passed assessment order on assessee and issued notice of demand under section 221(1). Assessee died after assessment order was passed. Husband of assessee filed appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) against aforesaid assessment order in capacity as legal representative of deceased assessee with the PAN of deceased assessee and appeal had not been numbered so far. Petitioner challenged the assessment order by filing a writ petition. The Court held that after death of assessee petitioner must register on Income Tax Portal by submitting PAN of deceased assessee along with his PAN as legal representative of deceased assessee and produce a death certificate of deceased assessee together with his legal heirship certificate and only after such compliance appeal against assessment order could be numbered and heard. Having opted to correctly challenge assessment order before Commissioner (Appeals) by filing an appeal though with defects, it was not open to petitioner to challenge assessment order and/or notices that preceded impugned assessment order before High Court in writ. Petitioner was granted liberty to work out remedy before Commissioner (A) by curing defects in appeal filed. Writ petition dismissed. (AY. 2015-16) (SJ)

[S. 2(29), 119(2)(b), 139, 159, Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, S. 2(11), Art. 226]

The petitioner, son and executor of the will of the deceased assessee Shri Babulal, filed returns of income relating to income earned by the deceased during his lifetime, though beyond the prescribed time limit. The Assessing Officer completed assessments under section 143(3); however, for AY 1995-96, where refund of TDS was due, the Chief Commissioner rejected the application for condonation under section 119(2)(b), doubting the petitioner's status as legal representative. The High Court held that an executor of a will squarely falls within the expression "legal representative" under section 159 and is liable to comply with tax obligations of the deceased for the period when he was alive. The rejection of condonation on the ground of lack of status was contrary to statutory provisions and CBDT directions issued under section 119(2)(b), rendering the order illegal and without jurisdiction. Accordingly, the impugned order was quashed, and the Revenue was directed to condone the delay in filing the return. (AY 1995-96).

S. 164 : Representative assessee-Charge of tax-Beneficiaries unknown-Beneficiaries are to share benefit as per their investment made in proportion to investment made-Shares are determinate-Income of that respective sharer or beneficiaries is to be taxed in hands of beneficiary and not in hands of trustees-Tax effect was below taxable limit-SLP of revenue is dismissed.[S.268A, Art.136]

High Court held that in order to attract section 164(1), beneficiaries on whose benefit such income or such part thereof is receivable are indeterminate and unknown. Where beneficiaries are to share benefit as per their investment made in proportion to investment made, any person with reasonable prudence would reach the conclusion that shares are determinable and thus, once shares of beneficiaries are found to be determinable, income of that respective sharer or beneficiaries is to be taxed in hands of beneficiary and not in hands of trustees. SLP of revenue is dismissed due to low tax effect. (AY. 2009-10)

S. 164 : Representative assessee-Charge of tax-Beneficiaries unknown-Alternative Investment Fund (Category III)-Where SEBI law prohibits an AIF from accepting investments or identifying investors before registration, non-mention of investors/beneficial interests in original trust deed cannot attract maximum marginal rate under section 164-Doctrine of impossibility ("lex non cogit ad impossibilia") applied-Once beneficiaries and their shares become determinable under contribution agreements, requirement of law stands satisfied-CBDT Circular No. 13 of 2014 could not be applied in such impossible circumstances-Board for Advance Rulings order quashed. [Ss. 161, 245Q, 245R(4), SEBI Act, 1992, s. 12, SEBI (AIF) Regulations, 2012, regs. 3, 6(3), Art. 226]

Assessee, a SEBI-regulated Category III AIF trust, sought advance ruling on whether section 164 applied merely because names of investors/beneficial interests were not mentioned in the original trust deed. The BAR, relying on CBDT Circular No. 13 of 2014, held that in the absence of such particulars in the original trust deed, the trust was indeterminate and liable to maximum marginal rate in the hands of trustees. Allowing the writ petition, the Delhi High Court held that under section 12 of the SEBI

Act and regulations 3, 4, 6 and 7 of the SEBI (AIF) Regulations, an AIF cannot accept commitments/investments until registration is obtained; hence, at the stage of execution/registration of the original trust deed, it is legally impossible to name investors or specify their beneficial interests. Law does not compel performance of the impossible and the maxim lex non cogit ad impossibilia squarely applied. Once the investors and their shares became ascertainable/determinable under contribution agreements after registration, the requirement of certainty stood satisfied and section 164(1) was not attracted. The Court also held that para 6 of CBDT Circular No. 13 of 2014, suggesting that contrary High Court decisions would operate only within that High Court's territorial jurisdiction, was contrary to settled judicial discipline, since a decision of a Constitutional Court on a pure question of law binds Revenue authorities nationwide unless overturned. Accordingly, the order of Board for Advance Rulings quashed and set aside. Equity Intelligence AIF Trust v. CBDT (2025) 480 ITR 278 / 306 Taxman 214 (Delhi)(HC).

S. 164 : Private Discretionary Trust-Maximum marginal rate-Surcharge-To be computed as per slab prescribed in Finance Act and not at highest surcharge rate.[S. 2(29C), 111A , 167B , Finance Act, 2023]

The issue before the Special Bench was whether a private discretionary trust, whose income is taxable at the maximum marginal rate, is automatically liable to the highest rate of surcharge irrespective of its total income. The Tribunal held that the expression "maximum marginal rate" in section 2(29C) refers to the highest slab of income and not the highest rate of tax or surcharge. Surcharge is to be levied only in accordance with the slab-wise provisions contained under the heading "Surcharge on Income-tax" in Paragraph A, Part I of the First Schedule to the relevant Finance Act. Where the total income does not cross the prescribed threshold, no surcharge is leviable. Levying the highest surcharge irrespective of income would render the statutory surcharge slabs otiose and lead to absurd results. Accordingly, surcharge on a private discretionary trust taxable at the maximum marginal rate must be computed with reference to the applicable income slab under the Finance Act. A discretionary trust filed return at maximum marginal rate. CPC levied surcharge at highest rate (37%). Tribunal held that surcharge must be computed as per slab rates in Finance Act. Maximum marginal rate means tax rate applicable to highest slab (30%) plus surcharge as per relevant slab, not automatically the highest 37%. (AY. 2023-24).

Allowing the appeal of the assessee, the Tribunal held that, in terms of provision of the First Proviso to section 164(1), trusts created by Will are not to be subjected to be taxed at Maximum Marginal Rate (MMR) but are to be taxed at rates applicable to AOPs. Therefore, the adjustment made by CPC while processing the return of the assessee-trust created by a Will by levying tax at MMR was not in accordance with law. (AY. 2021-22)

[Art. 136]

Assessee, a joint owner of immovable property, filed a writ petition to restrain Income Tax Department from proceeding with sale of attached property. The sale was based on an attachment order and an order under section 179, holding assessee jointly and severally liable for tax dues of certain company. The assessee had not challenged the order under Section 179 holding her jointly and severally liable with said company. Further, she had also not challenged the attachment order based on which the proclamation was issued. Assessee had also not bothered to implead company as a party, though; record showed a very close nexus between her and this company and without challenging foundational orders, attempt was to stall proclamation and sale by alleging the bar of limitation. High Court held that in fiscal matters, there is no justification for granting unconditional interim reliefs merely upon Petitioner making out a prima facie case and aspects of balance of convenience must also be considered and here, assuming that a prima facie arguable case was made out, still, balance of convenience did not favour grant of an unconditional stay. Thus, considering all those factors cumulatively, ad. interim orders granted earlier could be confirmed if the assessee would deposit 50% of the demanded amount with the department within eight weeks of today and if no such deposit was made within eight weeks of today, this interim order would stand vacated without further reference to this Court. Against the order of the High Court the assessee filed an SLP. Supreme Court dismissed the SLP.

On writ against the order under section 179 the court held that the assessee had not impleaded the company as a party, though the record showed a very close nexus between her and the company. The fact that the assessee or the company were unwilling to pay any taxes, though the tax demands had attained finality, was relevant. The fact that none of the foundational orders was challenged was important. The fact that no severe financial hardships were pleaded or urged was also important. Even assuming that a prima facie arguable case was made out, still, the balance of convenience did not favour the grant of an unconditional stay. The court directed that the ad interim orders granted earlier could be confirmed if the assessee deposited 50 per cent. of the demand within eight weeks. If no such deposit was made within eight weeks, the interim order would stand vacated without further reference to the court. The court clarified that the interim order only restrained the Tax Recovery Officer from selling the attached property. The assessee was directed to maintain status quo regarding the property, which was the subject of attachment and proclamation.

The deceased assessee was one of the directors of the Company, and an order u/s 179 was passed upon the deceased assessee raising tax demand from him.

The Hon'ble Court found that the AO passed the order u/s 179 upon the deceased assessee without first taking any step to trace out the assets of the Company or any evidence indicating no possibility of recovery of tax dues from Company, that the Company was under Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process under IBC and order admitting petition u/s 7 of IBC was

During the period in which the tax liability arose, disputes existed among the partners of the firm. One of the partners contended that he was a sleeping partner and had been excluded from the affairs of the partnership, allegedly taking advantage of his advanced age. It was also contended that the partnership firm had subsequently been dissolved pursuant to a judgment and decree of the Court; accordingly, it was not liable for the taxes. The Court held that, notwithstanding internal disputes among partners or the dissolution of the firm, all partners remain jointly and severally liable under section 188A for the tax liabilities incurred by the partnership firm during the relevant period. The plea that the partner was a sleeping partner or was not actively involved in the business was held to be irrelevant for the purpose of statutory liability. However, having regard to the peculiar facts of the case, including the advanced age of the partner, the Court directed that the impugned demand order shall remain stayed insofar as it related to the said partner, for a period of two months. S. 192: Deduction at source-Salary-Salaries in the form of Grant-in-aid received by Nuns, Sisters or Missionaries working as teachers in religious institutions, from State Government, are liable to TDS-SLP of assessee is dismissed.[S. 15, Art. 136]

High Court held that the applicability of section 192 relating to TDS provisions is uniform and not affected by the religious character of teachers who are paid such salary by the State in the form of Grant-in-aid and thus salaries received by Nuns, Sisters or Missionaries working as teachers in religious institutions from State Government are liable to TDS. SLP of the assessee is dismissed.

S. 192 : Deduction at source-Salary-Consultant doctors-No employer-employee relationship-TDS deductible u/s 194J-Income from business or profession-No substantial question of law-Contract-Annual Maintenance Contracts (AMCs)-Whether technical services-Matter remanded to the Tribunal to verify the contract. [S. 133A, 194C, 194J, 201(1), 201(1A), 260A]

On appeal by the revenue, the Court held that where consultant/honorary doctors engaged by the assessee-hospital were free to practice elsewhere, did not receive fixed monthly remuneration, were not covered by PF/ESIC, nor bound by service rules or fixed timings, the relationship was not of employer-employee. Their remuneration was assessable as "professional fees" and not "salary". Accordingly, tax was rightly deducted under section 194J and not u/s 192. The doctors themselves declared the receipts under the head "Income from business or profession". Following CIT (TDS) v.

Grant Medical Foundation (2015) 375 ITR 49 (Bom.), (HC), it was held that no substantial question of law arises. As regards the annual maintenance contract, the matter is remanded to the ITAT for fresh adjudication on whether payments fell under s.194C or s.194J. (ITXA Nos. 2166, 2448, 2451, 2612, 2758 of 2018 & ITXA No. 605 of 2020, dt. 15-9-2025. (AY. 2007-08 to 2012-13)

S. 194A : Deduction at source-Interest other than interest on securities-Payment of interest by co-operative bank to other cooperative societies-the exemption for deducting tax at source from the payment of interest is only up to Rs. 10,000-The assessee was liable to deduct TDS from payment of interest above this threshold. [S.194A(3)(v), 201(1)]

Held that in view of the amendment of cl. (v) of sub-s. (3) of S. 194A w.e.f. 1st June, 2015, interest paid by a co-operative society engaged in banking business is exempt from deduction of tax at source up to an amount of Rs. 10,000; since the assessee is a co-operative bank covered by sub-cl. (b) of cl. (i) as well as cl. (vii) of s. 194A(3), the exemption for deducting TDS from the payment of interest is only up to Rs. 10,000, and, therefore, it was liable to deduct TDS from the payment of interest above this threshold limit. S. 194A: Deduction at source-Interest other than interest on securities-Acquisition of loan-Purchased loans (including NCDs, ICDs and term loans)-No part of consideration paid by assessee could be termed as 'interest' paid by assessee to transferors-No obligation to deduct tax at source under section 194A. [S. 2(28, 133B(2), 201(1), 201(IA)]

Assessee purchased loans (including NCDs, ICDs and term loans) from Piramal Enterprises Ltd and Piramal Capital Ltd at carrying value, comprising principal and accrued interest till the date of transfer of the loan. During the survey under section 133B(2), it was found that the assessee typically accrued interest in books based on the period of its holding of the loan and had defaulted in deducting TDS on accrued interest and excess interest on revision in interest rates. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer treated the assessee as an 'assessee-in-default' for non-deduction of tax under section 194A on payment of consideration with respect to accrued interest for acquiring loans from 'P' and 'C' and raised a demand. CIT(A) allowed the appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal held that payment made by assessee to transferors towards the purchase of loans was purchase consideration for acquiring the right to receive principal along with interest from the debtor at maturity and no part of the consideration could be termed as 'interest' paid by the assessee to transferors. Since no part of the consideration paid by the assessee could be termed as 'interest' paid by the assessee to transferors, there was no obligation to deduct tax at source under section 194A. S. 194A: Deduction at source-Interest other than interest on securities-Intermediary between clients-Not required to deduct TDS under section 194A in respect of payment made to its clients.[S. 2(28A)]

Assessee-company is a broker in financial markets to facilitate its clients in placing trades and transactions with National Spot Exchange Ltd. (NSEL). All transactions were in the nature of purchase/sale of commodities between clients and NSEL. In respect of transactions, assessee received brokerage. Assessing Officer held that assessee accepted deposits from its customers, which were invested in such a manner that returns on investments were assured for beneficiaries. He held that fixed returns given to investors by assessee were nothing but interest payment within the meaning of section 2(28A) on which TDS under section 194A should have been deducted. Commissioner (Appeals) held that provisions of section 194A could not be invoked and, thus, assessee was not liable to deduct TDS. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee was merely an intermediary between clients and NSEL and was never party to any counter party members. Entire responsibility had been put on to exchange and not of brokers facilitating these transactions. The assessee is not liable to deduct tax at source. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

S. 194A: Deduction of tax at source-Interest other than interest on securities-Assessee in default-Reimbursement of interest to Group Company-Not liable to deduct TDS by the Assessee-Levy of interest is deleted. [S. 201(1), 201(IA)]

The assessee was part of a group engaged in building and developing properties, selling flats and offices for residential and commercial use. The group had taken a loan from a bank. The assessee borrowed a sum of money from its group entities and paid interest on the same. The Assessing Officer held that the assessee was under a statutory obligation to deduct TDS u/s.194A on the interest paid to its group entities.

Held that since the interest paid by the assessee was only a reimbursement of interest already subjected to TDS by the group entities, the assessee had no liability to deduct TDS under Section 194A. Consequently, the provisions of S.201 (1), treating the assessee as an "assessee in default" and interest liability u/s.201 (1A) did not apply.(AY. 2016-17 to 2020-21)

S. 194C : Deduction at source-Contractors-Slum rehabilitation scheme on a particular plot of land-Transferable development rights (TDR)-Assessee having made out a prima facie case, implementation and operation of impugned order passed under sections 201 and 201(1A) deserved to be stayed, and consequently, demand and penalty notices were also to be stayed-Revenue was directed to file reply on or before 25 th August 2025. [S.194B, 194LA,194R,201, 201(IA), 271C, 274, MRTP Act, 1966, S.126, Art. 226]

Assessee was implementing a slum rehabilitation scheme on a particular plot of land. As per instructions of the Slum Rehabilitation Authority, assessee issued Transferable Development Rights (TDRs) to (i) developers, for carrying out development work, and (ii) landowners, as compensation for land acquired for public purposes from original owners. Revenue treated assessee as assessee-in-default for failure to deduct TDS under sections 194C and 194LA on such issuance of TDRs, and also issued consequential demand and penalty notices. On writ, the assessee contended that issuance of TDRs did not amount to payment in 'cash or by cheque/draft or any other monetary mode' and, therefore, sections 194C/194LA would not apply, especially since those provisions do not specifically deal with payments in kind, unlike sections 194B and 194R. Court held that, prima facie, section 194C and section 194LA would not apply when TDR Certificates are issued in lieu of compensation. Court held that sections 194B and 194R specifically contemplate situations involving payments wholly or partly in kind; therefore, assessee having made out a prima facie case, implementation and operation of the impugned order passed under sections 201 and 201(1A) deserved to be stayed, and consequently, demand and penalty notices were also to be stayed. Revenue was directed to file reply on or before 25 th August 2025. (AY. 2021-22)

Assessee was engaged in business of fashion products from premises owned by Ambience Group which operated Ambience Mall Assessee paid Common Area Maintenance (CAM) charges to Ambience Group after deducting tax at rate of 2 per cent on said charges. Assessing Officer found that CAM charges paid by mall owners were essentially a part of rental activities and, therefore, tax was required to be deducted on such payments under section 194-I at rate of 10 per cent. Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed order of Assessing Officer. Tribunal held that CAM charges were not paid for use of land/building but were paid for carrying out work for maintenance of common area/facilities that were available along with lease premises and, therefore, same could not be characterized and/or brought within meaning of 'rent' as defined in section 194-I. Tribunal held that CAM charges would fall within meaning of 'work' as defined under section 194-C. Order of Tribunal affirmed. (AY. 2011-12)

The subsidy or financial support which was extended by the assessee to the concessionaire and was only envisaged to work as viability gap funding could not possibly have been construed as a payment made for work undertaken by the contractor. Though section 194C did not stand confined to works contract alone, unless the Revenue had established that the sum in question and represented by the viability gap funding was recompense for a physical activity undertaken or labour expended, the disbursements could not have formed the subject matter of withholding tax under section 194C of the Act. S. 194C : Deduction of tax at source-Contractors-Common Area Maintenance (CAM) charges-Charges paid to independent service providers-Not part of rent-Tax deductible under section 194C at 2 per cent and not under section 194-I. [S. 194-I, 201(1), 201(1A)]

The assessee deducted tax at source under section 194C on common area maintenance charges paid to independent service providers in respect of leased premises. The Assessing Officer treated the assessee as an assessee in default on the ground that the payments formed part of rent liable for deduction of tax under section 194-I. The Tribunal held that the common area maintenance charges were paid separately to service providers and did not form part of the rent payable to the property owners. Accordingly, tax was rightly deducted under section 194C and the addition made under sections 201(1) and 201(1A) was deleted. (AY. 2014-15).

S. 194C: Deduction at source-Contractors-Rent-Common Area Maintenance (CAM) charges-Separate agreements-CAM charges not part of rent-Tax deductible under section 194C at 1% and not at 10% u/s 194I. [S. 194I, 201(1), 201(1A)]

The assessee deducted tax at source at 10 per cent. on rent under section 194-I and at 1 per cent. on Common Area Maintenance (CAM) charges under section 194C. The Assessing Officer treated the CAM charges as part of rent and raised a demand under sections 201(1) and 201(1A). The Tribunal held that the lease agreements separately identified rent and CAM charges and the maintenance services were provided independently.

Accordingly, CAM charges did not constitute rent and were liable to TDS under section 194C. The demand for short deduction of tax and consequential interest was deleted. (AY. 2013-14 & 2016-17).

Assessee, owner of a plot of land, entered into an agreement with one ADPL to develop said plot of land. In the course of survey under section 133A, it was found that the assessee had made a payment of Rs. 80 crores to ADPL during financial year 2009-10. Assessing Officer held that the payment made by the assessee to ADPL was on account of 'commission or brokerage' as defined under section 194H and, hence, the assessee was required to deduct tax at source at 10 per cent on said payment. On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that the amount paid by the assessee to ADPL was not in the nature of 'commission or brokerage' and hence there was no requirement of the assessee to deduct tax at source under section 194H. Tribunal held that transactions entered into by the assessee and ADPL were on a principal-to-principal basis and, thus, not covered under section 194H. On appeal the Court held that since revenue had not challenged any of the factual findings given by the Tribunal, the impugned order passed by the Tribunal did not give rise to any substantial question of law. Assessee bank was a tenant of temple property. It had deducted TDS from rent paid to the temple at the rate of 20%. The temple objected to TDS deduction, relying on a 1994 letter from the Income Tax Department and its religious status, claiming it was not required to be registered under section 12A. The Temple made a claim on the bank as arrears of rent and claimed a refund from the petitioner. The assessee (DBS Bank) filed a writ petition seeking quashing of the temple's demand and a refund of ₹72.73 lakhs deposited under protest, which included the TDS amount. The Temple contended that it was registered under section 12A and, therefore, no TDS was to be deducted. Court held that since no steps were taken by the temple at relevant point of time to establish that TDS need not be deducted, assessee was not in error in deducting the TDS amount. Temple was directed to file appropriate proceedings and seek a refund from Income Tax Department. (SJ)

The assessee purchased property from two sellers, with payments to each being below Rs. 50 lakhs. The AO held the assessee liable for non-deduction of TDS under section 194IA. Since payments to each seller were below the limit, no TDS obligation arose, and levy of interest was unjustified. (AY. 2015-16)

S.194IC: Deduction at source-Payment under specified agreement-Joint development agreement-Exchange for constructed area and monetary consideration-Payments constituted those under a specified agreement as per section 45(5A)-Attracted TDS at 10 per cent under section 194IC-Treated as assessee in default-Short deduction of tax deduction at source-Payee offered the income and paid tax-Matter was to be remitted to Assessing Officer to verify if payee offered income to tax, and if so, assessee should not be treated as assessee in default. [S. 45(5A), 201, 201(IA), Form No 26A]

Assessee, engaged in the business of development and construction of real estate projects, entered into a development agreement with Shri Premal Dayal Doshi, who was the alleged owner of the land on which the building was constructed. As per the agreement, Shri Premal Dayal Doshi allowed the assessee to develop/ construct new buildings and to sell the saleable area to prospective buyers and Shri Premal Dayal Doshi was entitled to a share of the area out of total constructed area in the new building. Shri Premal Dayal Doshi was also entitled to receive a certain sum of cash/ monetary consideration as per the agreement. Assessing Officer held that the assessee should have deducted TDS under section 194-IC at 10 per cent since payment was made as per 'Specified Agreement'. However, the assessee contended that Shri Premal Dayal Doshi was holding only a leasehold right, which did not fall within the definition of specified agreement under section 45(5A) and therefore TDS was deducted under section 194-IA at a rate of 1 per cent. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that if a narrower interpretation as contended by assessee was to be accepted, then it would lead to an anomaly that a transfer by a leasehold right owner under JDA would go out of the tax net as the transferor was not the owner as mentioned in the definition of specified agreement. Since the payee held the right to give land for development and receive consideration, payments fell within a “specified agreement” under section 45(5A), attracting section 194IC; therefore, assessee was liable to deduct TDS at 10 per cent under section 194IC and having failed to do so, the assessee was treated as an assessee in default. Tribunal also held that the assessee made short deduction of TDS on payments under a JDA but claimed that payee had declared such receipts in tax returns but failed to submit Form 26A, matter was to be remitted to Assessing Officer to verify if payee offered income to tax, and if so, assessee should not be treated as assessee in default. S. 194J: Deduction at source-Fees for professional or technical services-An agreement with IGSPT for availing services-Not liable to deduct tax at source. No substantial question of law. [S.260A]

Assessee had entered into an agreement with IGSPT for availing services. Assessing Officer held that services received by assessee were technical and professional in nature; hence, assessee should have deducted tax at source from the above payments under section 194J. Commissioner (Appeals) and Tribunal ruled in favour of assessee, stating that the agreement did not involve professional, managerial, or technical expertise but was merely a call centre service where service providers were engaged in handling customer complaints, and their employees were mostly graduates or undergraduates, following prescribed guidelines. On appeal, the Court held of work they discharged could not be said to be perverse. Further, Tribunal had recorded that the service providers to whom assessee made those findings of fact were supported by the terms of agreement between the assessee and IGSPT and other material on record, such as details of call service executives, their qualifications, and the nature of payments that had already been paid; appropriate taxes by way of advance tax / self-assessment tax. No question of law arises. (AY. 2008-09)

CIT (TDS) v. Vodafone Essar Ltd. (2025) 304 Taxman 389 (Bom.)(HC)

S. 194LBC : Deduction of tax at source-Income in respect of investment in securitisation trust-Definitions of "investor" and "securitised debt instrument"-Originator not holding any pass-through certificates of securitisation trust-Where minimum retention requirement commitment is met via other permissible alternative, originator does not hold instrument in securitisation trust and cannot be reckoned as investor-Assessee not "assessee-in-default". [S. 115TCA, 201(1), 201(1A)]

The assessee was a securitisation trust formed to secure a pool of loan receivables from an originator, AMPL. The assessee-trust paid Rs. 1,88,67,795 to AMPL under the head "excess interest spread" without deducting tax at source under section 194LBC of the Act. The AO held the trust liable for default under section 201(1) and 201(1A) of the Act, which was confirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the liability to deduct tax at source under section 194LBC arose only where income was payable to an "investor", defined under section 115TCA as a holder of any securitised debt instrument or securities or security receipts issued by the securitisation trust; since the originator, AMPL, had met the minimum retention requirement through a permissible alternative and did not hold any pass-through certificates or securitised debt instrument of the trust, it could not be regarded as an "investor", and consequently the conditions of section 194LBC were not attracted. It was further held that the assessee had filed Form 26A as additional evidence before the Tribunal establishing that AMPL had discharged its tax liability on the excess interest spread, and in any event, since there was no liability to deduct tax at source in the first place, the filing of Form 26A was rendered academic. Accordingly, the assessee could not be treated as "assessee-in-default" and the entire demand and interest levied by the AO was deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 194LBC : Deduction of tax at source-Payments to investors in securitisation trust-Excess interest spread paid to originator by assessee, a securitisation trust-Originator not an "investor"-Not liable to deduct tax at source. [S. 115TCA, 201(1)]

The assessee, a securitisation trust, paid Rs. 8.27 crores as excess interest spread to the originator, S Ltd., without TDS under section 194LBC, and was held a defaulter under section 201(1) by the AO, though the CIT(A) held that the originator could not be regarded as an "investor" under section 115TCA. On appeal, the Tribunal held that section 194LBC applies only where the payee is an investor holding a securitised debt instrument, securities or security receipts of the trust, and the payment relates to income from such investment; since the originator was merely the assignor of the loan portfolio and not a holder of any securitised debt instrument, and the deed of assignment could not be regarded as such an instrument, neither condition was satisfied, and the assessee was not liable to TDS. (AY 2018-19)

ITO v. Syamantaka IFMR Capital 2017 (2025) 132 ITR 61(Mum) (Trib.)

S. 194LBC : Investment in securitisation trust-Deduction of tax at source-Securitisation trust-Excess interest spread paid to originator-Originator not an investor-No liability to deduct tax at source.[S.115TCA, Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, S. 2(h (ie), Securities and Exchange Board of India (Public Offer and Listing of Securitised Debt Instruments) Regulations, 2008, regln. 2(1)(s)]

The assessee, a securitisation trust, paid excess interest spread to the originator after acquisition of a loan portfolio. The originator had not subscribed to pass-through certificates or any other securitised debt instruments issued by the trust and, therefore, was not an "investor" within the meaning of sections 115TCA and 194LBC. The Tribunal held that the excess interest spread represented consideration for creation of the loan pool and not income from investment in the securitisation trust. Accordingly, the provisions of section 194LBC were not attracted, and the assessee was not liable to deduct tax at source. (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19). SME Pool Series v August 2016 v. S. 195: Deduction at source-Non-resident-Other sums-Income deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty-Fees for technical services-Diamond testing/certification charges paid to GIA USA through Hong Kong laboratory-Mere rendering of services, without making available technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how or processes, cannot be treated as FTS under Art. 12 of India-USA DTAA-Assessee not liable to deduct tax at source-SLP of Revenue dismissed. [S. 9(1)(vi), 9(1)(vii), Art. 12, Art. 136]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in the business of cutting and polishing diamonds and export thereof, made remittances towards diamond testing and certification services to GIA USA, which operated a laboratory in Hong Kong through GIA Hong Kong. The Assessing Officer held that the payment was made to GIA Hong Kong and not to GIA USA and, therefore, treaty benefit under the India-USA DTAA was not available and tax was deductible at source under section 195. The High Court, however, found that the invoices were issued by GIA USA and the remittances were received in the offshore bank account of GIA USA, and held that though there was only a "take-in window" in Hong Kong where diamonds were delivered, the service arrangement was with GIA USA and the beneficial owner of the remittances was GIA USA. The High Court further held that the diamond grading / certification services did not “make available” any technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how or process to the assessee and, therefore, the payment could not be characterised as fees for technical services under Art. 12 of the India-USA DTAA; accordingly, no tax was deductible at source under section 195. The Supreme Court dismissed the Revenue’s SLP. (AY. 2015-16).

S. 195 :Deduction at source-Non-resident-Other sums-Income-Deemed to accrue or arise in India-Royalty FTS- Advertisement/Web charges)-Not liable to deduct tax at source-Order of Tribunal affirmed-DTAA-India-USA. [S. 9(1)(vi), 9(1)vii),201(1), Art. 12]

Assessee company is in the business of dealing in home decor products and had made Payments to non-resident companies towards advertisement charges. Assessing Officer held that assessee had failed to deduct tax at source on said payments and, thus, assessee was held to be an assessee-in-default as per provisions of section 201(1) for non-deduction of tax at source. On appeal the Tribunal held that recipients of payments Le, Facebook and Rocket Science Group only allowed assessee to use their facilities for purpose to use their advertisement contents Payment to Amazon Web Ser vices was only for using information technology facilities provided by it, that too billing would depend upon extent of usage of those facilities Facilities provided by non-resident companies were only enabling facilities which resident helped assessee lo place its advertisement contents on their platform effectively-In case of Amaz4%, payment was in nature of rent payments for use of infrastructure facilities. Payments made by the assessee to non-resident companies could not be considered as 'royalty payments' and, hence, they did not give rise to any income chargeable in India There was no requirement to deduct tax at source from those payments under section 195 and, hence, assesses could not be considered as an assessee-in-default under section 201(1). Tribunal also held that consideration paid by assessee for purchase of software, cloud computing, and cloud space hiring involving transfer of right to use software was not royalty and, thus, there was no requirement to deduct tax at source from those payments under section 195. Order of Tribunal affirmed by High Court. (AY. 2015-16 to 2017-18)

S. 195 : Deduction at source-Non-resident-Payment towards reimbursement of salary of seconded employees-Not liable for TDS-DTAA-India-USA. [S. 9(1)(vii), 90, 195(2), 197(2), Art. 12, Art. 226]

On appeal against the single judge in Flipkart Internet (P) Ltd v.Dy.CIT (IT) (2022) 288 Taxman 699/ 448 ITR 268/ 327 CTR 289(Karn)(HC) division bench held that payments made by the assessee-company to its US group entity towards reimbursement of salaries of seconded employees could not be treated as fees for technical services/fees for included services and therefore no tax was deductible at source u/s 195. The Court found that the secondment arrangement under the MSA clearly established an employer-employee relationship between the assessee and the secondees, supported by appointment letters, job responsibilities, PF contributions and visa arrangements. The remittances were on a pure cost-to-cost reimbursement basis, and the assessee had rightly sought a certificate u/s 195(2). Applying the "make available" test under Article 12 of the India-USA DTAA, the Court held that the payments did not involve transfer of technical knowledge or consultancy services so as to qualify as FIS/FTS. Accordingly, reimbursement of salary paid to seconded employees fell outside the scope of taxable sums under the Act, and no withholding obligation arose. The direction to issue certificate u/s 195(2) was upheld. Order of single judge affirmed. (AY.2020-21)

The assessee placed advertisements on platforms of FB, AWS and RSC, making payments without TDS. AO treated the assessee as assessee-in-default. CIT(A) confirmed. Tribunal, relying on Engineering Analysis Centre of Excellence Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT (2021) 432 ITR 471 (SC), held payments were not royalty under s. 9(1)(vi) or Art. 12(3) of DTAA. S. 195 : Deduction at source-Non-resident-Other sums-Statutory authority-Retention of amounts on pretext of Income-tax contingency-Illegal-Direction to refund with interest-Costs imposed on Managing Director-Precedent-Statutory authority must be fair in its commercial transactions. [S. 201(IA), R. 31, Form 16A, Art. 12, 226]

The assessee-firm, engaged in EPC services, entered into a contract with Jharkhand Bijli Vitran Nigam Ltd. (JBVNL) for rural electrification works. JBVNL deducted 2% TDS from bills raised for supply of materials but did not deposit it with the Department. Instead, it retained the sums on the pretext of "Income-tax contingency", linking release of the amount and issue of Form 16A with the outcome of its appeal against a demand raised u/s 201(1A). The assessee's repeated requests for release of the withheld amount failed. On writ, the Court held that JBVNL had no authority to retain the sums deducted, since under S. 195 read with s. 201 it was its statutory obligation to deposit the TDS with the Department and issue Form 16A. Pending appeal against the demand could not justify illegal retention. Such unjust withholding violated the principles of justice, equity, and good conscience, caused losses to the assessee, and resulted in unjust enrichment of JBVNL. The withheld sums were directed to be refunded with interest as per the Electricity Supply Code Regulations, 2015. The High Court also imposed costs of ₹5 lakhs on JBVNL, recoverable from its Managing Director, holding that the litigation was frivolous and actuated with oblique motives. Court also held that the statutory authorities are bound to act fairly even in commercial dealings; they cannot retain amounts due to contractors on the pretext of tax disputes. Costs can be imposed personally on officials where mala fide conduct is established. Court referred Mahabir Auto Stores v. Indian Oil Corporation, (1990) 3 SCC 752; 1990 SCC OnLine SC 43 the Supreme Court held that the State or its instrumentalities are "State" under article 12 of the Constitution and its actions even in commercial transactions must be reasonable, fair and just, that the requirement of being just, fair and reasonable on the part of the State and its instrumentalities extends even in cases where no formal contract has been entered into.

The assessee made payments to a U.S. company for installation services under three job-work orders executed between January and July 2013. The Revenue treated the assessee as an assessee in default on the ground that the U.S. entity constituted an installation permanent establishment in India. The Tribunal held that for determining the existence of an installation permanent establishment under Article 5(2)(k) of the India-USA DTAA, the actual period of stay of employees in India had to be computed on a cumulative basis. Since the employees stayed only 26 days in A.Y. 2013-14 and 65 days in A.Y. 2014-15, the prescribed threshold of 120 days was not crossed. Accordingly, the non-resident had no permanent installation in India, and the assessee was under no obligation to deduct tax at source on the payments made (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15)

The assessee, a cellular mobile telephony service provider, made remittances to a UK entity for software licences without TDS under section 195(1), which AO treated as royalty under section 9(1)(vi) and DTAA, raising a demand under sections 201(1) and 201(1A), though CIT(A) allowed the assessee's appeal holding that payments for copyrighted products without rights to exploit the copyright did not qualify as royalty under the Agreement. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the end-user licence agreements did not grant the end-user any right amounting to use of, or right to use, any copyright, and hence the payments did not constitute royalty and were not chargeable to tax in India; since the domestic law definition of royalty under section 9(1)(vi) was not more beneficial to the assessee than DTAA, it was not applicable in view of section

90(2), and consequently there was no obligation to TDS under section 195. (AY.2013-14)

The assessee, a US company, rendered pre-clinical laboratory services to Indian customers and supplied reports based on its research. The agreements provided that all inventions, techniques and methodologies remained the exclusive property of the assessee and the Indian customers were not enabled to perform the research independently. The Tribunal held that the services did not "make available" any technical knowledge, skill or process within the meaning of Article 12 of the India-USA DTAA. The receipts were, therefore, not taxable in India as fees for included services and there was no obligation on the Indian customers to deduct tax at source under section 195. S. 197: Deduction at source-Certificate for lower rate-Assessing Officer passed an order on the assessee's application under section 197 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, determining the rate of deduction of tax of 0.80 per cent. instead of the lower rate of 0.35 per cent. on payments covered by section 194-O-Order set aside.[S.194-O, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the Assessing Officer was bound to indicate reasons for determining the deduction of tax at 0.80 per cent. instead of 0.35 per cent. The Assessing Officer does not possess unguided discretion to decide the rate of deduction of tax at source as he thinks fit. He is bound to furnish reasons which would demonstrate application of mind by him in the circumstances. The matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer for de novo consideration. Before disposing of the application under section 197, he should grant a personal hearing to the assessee and thereafter pass a reasoned order.

Assessee filed an application under section 197 seeking 'nil' withholding tax certificate in respect of cross charges received from its AEs for services rendered by it. Assessing Officer rejected the application and held that charges paid to assessee by its AEs were taxable as fees for technical services (FTS) and fees for included services (FIS). On writ the Court held that services rendered by assessee did not make available technical knowledge, experience, skill, know-how, or processes to AEs and service provided did not confer any right in favour of recipient in respect of knowledge, experience, skill or know-how, condition that services 'make available' such technical knowledge, know-how, skill, or process so as to fall with sweep of FIS would not be satisfied. On fact the AEs did not acquire any copyright in software; cross-charges paid by them could not be construed as royalties within scope of article 12(3) of India-US DTAA, Accordingly, the order rejecting the application was set aside and Assessing Officer was directed to issue the necessary certificate or 'NIL' withholding Tax Certificate in respect of cross-cost charges as received by the assessee from its AEs.

S. 197 : Deduction at source-Certificate for lower rate-Income Deemed to accrue or arise in India-Shipping, Inland Waterways Transport and Air Transport-Directed the issuance of the certificate for nil withholding tax under section 197-However, it is clarified that issuance of the certificate shall not preclude the Assessing Officer from examining whether the income/receipts of the assessee are chargeable to tax in India in assessment proceedings, uninfluenced by this order-India-Germany. [S. 9(1)(i), 195(3), Rule, 29B(1), 29B(2), Art, 8, Art. 226]

The assessee, a Germany based company engaged in the business of international cargo handling and transportation of cargo through operation of aircraft in international traffic, claimed that its income was not chargeable to tax in India in terms of article 8 of the India-Germany DTAA and applied for a nil withholding tax certificate. The Assessing Officer, however, issued a certificate for withholding tax at 0.10 per cent. The High Court held that the assessee had been regularly filing returns and had been granted nil withholding tax certificates for more than a decade on identical facts, except for one year where ultimately nil certificate was also granted after remand. There was no change in the nature of services rendered and the Revenue had not controverted the assessee's claim that the receipts were not chargeable to tax in India under article 8 of the DTAA. The Assessing Officer had also not assigned any cogent reason for permitting deduction at 0.10 per cent instead of nil rate. Accordingly, the impugned order could not be sustained. Considering that the financial year was to expire within a few days, the Court, instead of remanding the matter, directed issuance of certificate for nil withholding tax under section 197. However, it was clarified that issuance of such certificate would not preclude the Assessing Officer from examining in regular assessment proceedings whether the income/receipts were chargeable to tax in India, uninfluenced by the order. The Assessing Officer attributed 15% of receipts as income attributable to the assessee's PE in India and applied a 40% tax rate, resulting in a withholding tax rate of 6%. On writ, the assessee contended that, in a similar case, the Supreme Court had held that there was no taxable income in India where expenses exceeded the gross revenue attributable to the PE. [S. 221 (1), Art. 226]

Assessee-firm had filed its return of income claiming credit for TDS as per TDS certificate issued by the company. Assessing Officer rejected on the ground that the same was not verified from data available on the portal. On request of Assessing Officer that same be verified in order to enable him to process assessee's application, the concerned authority had stated that data on the TRACES Portal was available commencing from financial year 2007-08 and data for financial year 2006-07 was not available. On writ, it was noted that company had provided details of cheques and concerned bank account where same were deposited to the credit of Central Government. Same could be verified from concerned banks; however, such exercise had not been initiated. S. 199 : Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-When the income was not offered for taxation, credit for tax deducted at source was rightly denied by the Tribunal. Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 198, 260A]

Assessee transferred its business and filed nil return. Assessee claimed credit for TDS on income which was not offered for assessment. The Assessing Officer denied the credit of TDS on the ground that the assessee had transferred its income, and it had shown nil income. The order of AO was affirmed by CIT(A) and Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that there could not be a situation that principal income corresponding to TDS as claimed was not offered for assessment as a NIL return was filed; however, merely the benefit of TDS income was claimed. Such incongruence and a position contrary to return of the assessee went contrary to the provisions of section 198 read with section 199 and thus, credit for TDS was rightly denied to the assessee. Assessee-employee received a monthly salary from the employer, who deducted TDS. However, the employer/deductor did not deposit the same to the Central Government, resulting in no TDS credit in Form 26AS. Assessee filed a return and claimed TDS as prepaid taxes. Assessing Officer denied the claim. On appeal, the Tribunal held that apparent from the verification of salary slips of the assessee that tax was deducted from salary by the employer. Since the employer, after deducting tax, did not deposit the same to the credit of the Central Govt., that could not be a cause for denying credit to the employee who had suffered TDS by the employer. Assessee claimed TDS of Rs. 31.25 lakhs, including TDS of Rs. 23.92 lakhs on such receipt as refund in return for the assessment year 2023-24. Assessing Officer restricted TDS claim to Rs. 8.69 lakhs while completing assessment under section 143(1). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee in assessment year 2019-20 had paid due tax after taking credit only to the extent of tax deducted by the purchaser. Since the assessee received part payment/settlement during the assessment year 2023-24, the purchaser deducted TDS and paid the net amount to the assessee and the same was reflected on Form 26AS for the assessment year 2023-24. Further, on verification of both Form 26AS for assessment years 2019-20 and 2023-24, it matched the sale consideration declared by the assessee in assessment year 2019-20. Since the assessee had declared the full value of the sale consideration in the assessment year 2019-20 and offered tax, deduction of TDS at the time of part settlement was to be allowed to the assessee. The assessee was eligible to claim TDS in the assessment year 2023-24. (AY. 2023-24)

Yogesh Gandhi. v. ACIT(2025) 215 ITD 662 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 199: Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-TDS was not allowed by the Assessing Officer/CPC due to an error in writing the wrong alphabet in PAN-The matter was remitted back to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration.[S. 154]

Assessing Officer restricted assessee's TDS claim due to a technical error and an error in writing the wrong alphabet in PAN credits; a certain amount of TDS was not allowed by the Assessing Officer/CPC. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the objective of the statute is not to punish the assessee for an error of omission not done with mala fides and an intentional motive. The matter was to be remitted back to the Assessing Officer for fresh consideration. (AY. 2020-21, 2021-22)

S. 199: Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-Trust-Trustee-TDS in the name of Trustee-Assessing Officer was to be directed to give due credit to assessee-trust if credit of TDS was in name of trustee and details were given whether money was credited by trustee into account of trust. [S. 143(1), 154]

Assessee-trust filed its return claiming a refund of TDS. Intimation under section 143(1) was passed, and the claim for TDS was not allowed. The assessee filed a rectification application for TDS credit. Thereafter, assessee filed a grievance application, which was closed, and assessee's claim for credit of TDS was rejected, and a demand was raised. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on the grounds of delay, as well as observing that the closure of the grievance application was not an appealable order. On appeal, the assessee claimed that the TDS deducted was reflected in the name of Hasmukhbhai S. Dave who was a trustee of the trust, and TDS was not claimed by Hasmukhbhai S. Dave; thus, it should be given credit for TDS. The Tribunal remanded the matter to the Assessing Officer with direction that if credit of TDS was in the name of the trustee and trust being given details whether money was credited by the trustee into the account of the trust, the same should be taken into account and due credit to the assessee trust be given accordingly. S. 199 : Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-CPC reduced TDS credit allowable to assessee on ground that gross receipts of assessee reflected in Form 26AS on which credit for TDS was claimed were higher than total of receipts shown under all heads of income in return of income-Matter remanded back to Commissioner (Appeals) to verify facts.[S. 143(3), Form No 26AS]

Assessee had filed its return of income claiming certain amount of TDS credit. However, on processing return, CPC found that gross receipts of assessee reflected in Form 26AS on which credit for TDS was claimed were higher than total of receipts shown under all heads of income in return of income. While credit for TDS was being claimed, corresponding receipts were not offered in respective income schedules, to arrive at taxable total income-Hence, return of income was regarded as defective and accordingly, TDS credit granted to assessee was computed and reduced. Commissioner (Appeals) upheld order passed by CPC. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had made explanatory submissions and reply before Commissioner (Appeals), however, decision of Commissioner (Appeals) was without verifying facts by himself or through Assessing Officer. The matter was remanded to the Commissioner (A). (AY. 2023-24)

S. 199: Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-Sale of agricultural land-Tax was deducted at rate of 1 per cent-No tax was required to be deducted-Entitled to credit for entire TDS appearing in Form 26AS.[S. 194-IA, R. 37BA]

Assessee sold an agricultural land and purchaser deducted TDS on sale consideration at rate of 1 per cent. Assessee claimed credit of TDS; however, Assessing Officer denied same on account of mismatch of corresponding income as assessee had not shown corresponding receipts as exempt income in return. It was noted that section 194IA applied to immovable property other than agricultural land. Assessing Officer had not taken into consideration agricultural income shown in schedule of exempt income. CIT(A) upheld the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that since TDS was not required to be deducted by the purchaser, the Assessing Officer was to be directed to give credit for the entire TDS claimed as appearing in Form 26AS and claimed by assessee in the return. [Form 26AS]

Assessee, a sole beneficiary of a private trust filed his return of income claiming credit for tax deducted at source (TDS) on income earned from trust. Assessing Officer denied TDS credit on the ground that the same did not appear in Form No. 26AS of assessee. CIT(A) directed the AO to verify the claim. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Commissioner (Appeals) had already directed Assessing Officer to verify assessee's claim and grant TDS credit and if such credit had not been granted till date of passing of this order, Assessing Officer was to be directed to take necessary steps to address request of both assessee and trust for transfer of TDS credit from Form No. 26AS of trust to Form No. 26AS of assessee and, thereafter, to allow credit in accordance with law. (AY. 2023-24)

S. 199: Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-Not reflected in Form 26AS-Submitted supporting documents-Matter remanded to Assessing Officer for proper verification.[S. 143(1), 154, 201, Form 26AS.]

Assessee filed Income Tax Return claiming TDS credit of Rs.23.66 crore, but Form 26AS did not reflect full credit. Assessing Officer disallowed excess TDS claim, adhering to CBDT guidelines requiring TDS credit to match Form 26AS. Assessee contended that Assessing Officer should allow TDS credit based on its claim, irrespective of Form 26AS. Commissioner (Appeals) remitted the matter back to the Assessing Officer for verification. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished various documents, including a copy of ITR acknowledgement and computation, Form 26AS, a chart of disallowed TDS claims, party-wise ledgers, and bank statements. However, those documents were not available before the Assessing Officer when the return was processed under section 143(1) and later rectified under section 154. Matter is remanded to the AO with the direction to allow the claim of deduction of TDS irrespective of whether the claim is reflected in Form 26AS on account of default on the part of deductors. S. 199: Deduction of tax at source-Credit for tax deducted-Cancellation of agreement-The contract was terminated, the income did not accrue, and the advance was refunded-Entitled to claim a refund of the TDS deducted on the advance paid by the party. [R. 37BA(3), Art. 265]

The assessee, a joint venture engaged in undertaking construction contracts, entered into an agreement with HPCL for setting up an ethanol plant in India. Subsequently, due to technical issues, HPCL decided not to pursue the project, and therefore, same was cancelled as per the mutual decision between the assessee and HPCL. Since the assessee had already offered income to extent of certain amount in AY 2020-21, only balance amount was offered in AY 2021-22. However, the amount of advance received by the assessee (including TDS deducted on it) was required to be refunded back to HPCL by the assessee. Since HPCL did not wish to revise the TDS return, the assessee had claimed the credit for the tax deduction. Held that the assessee was entitled to claim a refund of TDS deducted from the entire advance given by HPCL, as the contract was terminated and the advance (including TDS) was refunded. However, the AO was directed to verify that HPCL had not already claimed a refund by filing a revised TDS return before allowing the brought-forward TDS credit to the assessee. (AY. 2021-22)

S.199: Deduction of tax at source-Credit for tax deducted-Sale of jointly owned immovable property-The property was jointly owned, and the capital gain was shared equally between the spouses cannot be the sole reason for disallowing the TDS credit.[Form No.26AS]

The Tribunal held that merely because the property was jointly owned by the assessee and his wife and the capital gain was equally shared between them, that alone should not be the reason to disallow the assessee's claim for the TDS credit. Directed the AO to factually verify whether the assessee's wife had claimed any part of the TDS credit. If the assessee's claim that his wife had not claimed any part of the TDS was found to be correct, then the entire TDS credit should be allowed to the assessee.(AY. 2023-24)

S. 201 : Deduction at source-Failure to deduct or pay-Order passed beyond reasonable time-Barred by limitation-Deduction of tax at source default after four years from financial years in question. [S. 201(1) 201(1A), 260A]

Dismissing the appeal, that the orders under section 201(1) and (1A) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, in both the appeals, were passed on April 27, 2007. Admittedly, there was no limitation provided in the statute for an order to be passed under section 201, deeming an assessee to be in default in respect of such tax, which is not deducted or paid or after deduction failed to pay such tax, as an employer, due from the employee. The Tribunal found that the assessment orders were passed after four years from the financial years 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 beyond a reasonable period. The Tribunal was justified in holding that the orders were barred by limitation.(AY. 2002-03, 2003-04)

S. 201: Deduction at source-Failure to deduct or pay-Deducted tax at a lower rate as payee had secured a certificate from concerned Assessing Officer for deduction of tax at a lower rate-No proceedings under section 201 were warranted-Notice was set aside.[S. 201(1), 201(1A), Art. 226]

Assessee had filed a petition challenging the notice issued under section 201. Court held that the assessee had deducted tax at a lower rate as the payee had secured a certificate from the concerned Assessing Officer for deduction of tax at a lower rate. There was no material on record to suspect that assessee had failed to deduct TDS or deposit the same with Income Tax Authorities. Therefore, no proceedings under section 201 were warranted in the case of assessee and the notice was set aside.

S. 201: Deduction at source-Failure to deduct or pay-Assessee in default-Limitation-Order passed beyond period prescribed under section 201(3) is barred by limitation-Liberty granted by Court to proceed "in accordance with law" does not override statutory limitation-Order and notice quashed. [S. 153(6)(i), 194C, 201(3), Art. 226]

Where payments towards External Development Charges (EDC) were made during financial year 2015-16, the limitation of seven years prescribed under section 201(3) expired on 31-3-2023 and therefore the order passed thereafter treating the assessee as an assessee in default under sections 201(1) and 201(1A) was time-barred. The contention of the Revenue that such action was saved by section 153(6)(i) pursuant to liberty granted by the High Court in earlier proceedings was rejected, as the liberty to proceed further was expressly subject to action being taken "in accordance with law" and did not dilute or override the statutory limitation contained in section 201(3). The earlier judgment merely clarified the applicable TDS provision and did not contain any finding or direction enabling initiation of proceedings beyond limitation. Accordingly, the impugned order and consequential notice were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17).

S. 201 : Deduction at source-Failure to deduct or pay-Compensation for acquisition of land-Deduction of tax on payment of interest on compensation or enhanced compensation-Legal advice-Land Acquisition Officer acted upon directions of his superior, District Revenue Officer who in turn took legal advice which was based on High Court order-Land Acquisition Officer not at fault-Order levying penalty set aside.[S.45(5)(b), 56(2)(viii), 194A, 194LA, Land Acquisition Act, 1894.S. 28, Art. 226]

The petitioner challenged the imposition of liability under section 201(1) of the 1961 Act on the ground that the petitioner had failed to deduct tax at source upon interest on enhanced compensation under section 28 of the 1894 Act. Allowing the petition the Court held that the Department had not denied that the Land Acquisition Officer and his Department had at the time of enquiry submitted the reasons for non-deduction of tax and therefore, the Land Acquisition Officer was not at fault. He had genuinely followed the advice given to him by his superior, the District Revenue Officer, whose directions of not deducting tax were based on legal advice. The legal advice was given on the basis of the directions of this court. While this court may have passed order which was not in conformity with some other orders passed by the High Court, it was not available for the Land Acquisition Officer to ignore or flout the court's orders, which were to be presumed to be correct till they were set aside in appeal. Thus, no fault could be attributed on the Land Acquisition Officer or on his officials. In the absence of there being any fault and there being a genuine belief based on the judgment of the High Court that tax was not required to be deducted on the interest paid, the action of the Land Acquisition Officer was wrong or illegal. The action of releasing the interest amount without deducting tax at source, therefore, could not be a reason for imposing penalty under section 201(1) and 201(1A) of the 1961 Act and could not be justified. The Land Acquisition Officer could not be made to suffer on account of the orders passed by the court. Penalty imposed on him by the Assistant Commissioner (TDS) was set aside.

Pursuant to a survey under section 133A(2A), proceedings were initiated to treat the assessee as an assessee in default under section 201(1) and to levy interest under section 201(1A). The Tribunal held that a reasonable time-limit for initiating proceedings under section 201(1) is four years. Since the notices had been issued beyond four years from the end of the relevant financial years, the proceedings were barred by limitation. The orders passed under sections 201(1) and 201(1A) were accordingly quashed. The assessee explained that the delay of 218 days in filing the appeal occurred because its authorised representative had undergone heart surgery and was unable to attend to professional work. Hospital records and other supporting evidence were produced. The Tribunal held that the delay was supported by sufficient cause, there was no mala fide intention and, accordingly, condoned the delay (AY. 2012-13 & 2013-14).

Assessee deducted tax at source under section 194J on payment made by it. Assessing Officer treated assessee as assessee in default and charged interest under section 201(1A). Commissioner (Appeals) held that assessee admitted short deduction of tax at source as a result of wrongly applying provisions of section 194C and, thus, assessee is liable to pay interest under section 201(1A) on account of admitted short deduction. On appeal the assessee contended that interest under section 201(1A) was incorrectly charged. Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to look into contention of assessee with regard to incorrect levy of interest under section 201(1A) and pass order afresh in accordance with law. Assessee, a local authority, paid leave encashment to its employees and did not deduct TDS on the same. Assessing Officer held that payments were in excess of Rs. 3 lakhs and since recipients were neither State Government nor Central Government employees, exemption limit could not exceed Rs. 3 lakhs and accordingly tax had to be deducted by assessee. Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed addition on the ground that employees of assessee were neither State Government nor Central Government employees. On appeal the Tribunal held that since exemption given on account of leave encashment varies according to category of employees and exemption of leave encashment is allowed to State and Central Government employees in full and exemption to other than State and Central Government employees is upto Rs. 3 lakhs as per provisions of section 10(10AA), assessee was liable to deduct tax on payments made against leave encashment to its employees. Accordingly, the revenue Authorities are directed to re-compute quantum of tax deductible taking into consideration exemption limit of Rs. 3 lakhs prescribed by Act. S. 201 : Deduction at source-Failure to deduct or pay-Deducting lower tax in earlier months of financial year-Short fall is made good in next month-Not liable to pay interest. [S. 192(3), 201(IA)]

Tribunal held that on mere short deduction of tax at source from salaries paid to employees, section 201(1A) cannot be invoked unless total tax deducted by end of year is less than tax deductible on salary paid to employee in that year. Section 192(3) not only authorizes adjustment in case of excess or deficient deduction, but also authorizes adjustment in case of total failure to deduct tax during financial year. If there are bona fide reasons in deducting lower tax in earlier months of financial year and same is made good immediately after noticing such shortfall, then in such eventuality section 192(3) would save employer from liability of making payment of interest. In this case, the employer deducted tax at source from the assessee's salary for two years but failed to deposit it with the Government. The Department raised demand on the assessee on account of mismatch in the system. The Court held that in view of S. 205 and CBDT Instruction No. 275 dt.1-6-2015 and Office Memorandum dt.11-3-2016 no demand can be enforced against the employee where tax is deducted but not deposited by the employer. The Court criticized the reliance on faulty software systems which ignored statutory provisions and binding CBDT instructions. Petitioners were former employees of a company under investigation for financial crimes. Tax department issued demand notices against petitioners for non-deposit of TDS by their former employer. On writ the petitioners contended that as per section 205, they could not be held liable for TDS not deposited by their employer. On writ the Court held that the object and purpose behind provision of section 205 is to effect that when an obligation to deposit tax is on employer and if employer has defaulted, liability to pay such tax cannot be shifted so as to be foisted on employee, who is in fact beneficiary of payment to be received from employer and who would also become beneficiary of tax being deposited at source on his behalf. Since tax department had without any warrant in law, foisted liability to pay such tax on employees, it was clearly in breach of section 205. Demand notices issued to petitioners were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 205 : Deduction at source-Bar against direct demand-Tax deduction at source on salary-Employer failed to deposit the amount of TDS from salary to the Central Government-Discrepancy reflected in Form 26AS-The department should not deny the benefit of TDS by employer simply on mismatch in 26AS arising out of non deposit of TDS amount to the Central Government-Any recovery or adjustment made by the Department in interregnum is to be refunded to the assessee with statutory interest. [S.191, 192, 234A, 234B, 234C, Art. 226]

The assessee is the salaried employee. The return of income for the Asstt.Year: 2013-14 filed demonstrating Gross Salary from employer Company with TDS deducted. The Revenue found the significant discrepancy between TDS amount deducted and reflected in Form 26AS. Accordingly the department denied to grant the credit for the full amount of TDS and consequently, demand notice together with the interest u/s 234B and 234C was issued.

On Writ Petition, the Hon'ble Court noted that there is no dispute as to the TDS from salary made by the deductor employer company, that the Revenue has not taken any step against the employer for non-depositing the TDS amount. The Hon'ble High Court held that in view of Section 205 r.w. CBDT's Circular issued on 01-06-2015 and the Office Memorandum on 11-03-2016, the tax credit mismatch cannot be enforced coercively against the petitioner assessee shall give credit of TDS amount to the petitioner. [S.194-IA, Income-tax Rules, 1962 r.30(2A), Art.226]

The assessee purchased a residential flat and deducted tax at source at 1% as mandated under section 194-IA after the vendor furnished his PAN, which was duly mentioned in Form 26QB and accepted by the Department's system. The CPC-TDS passed orders alleging short deduction by invoking section 206AA on the ground that the vendor's PAN was invalid. The High Court held that section 206AA was not attracted as the vendor had linked PAN with Aadhaar, paid the prescribed late fee and the PAN was accepted by the Department's portal without any indication of invalidity. In absence of any failure to furnish PAN and without affording proper opportunity, the impugned orders were contrary to facts and violative of principles of natural justice and hence quashed.

S. 206C(1C) obliges collection of tax at source only from a person to whom rights in a mine or quarry are granted and who is liable to pay royalty to the State Government, and such obligation cannot be extended to persons involved in illegal mining or illegal transportation of minerals. Compounding fee or fine collected under S. 23A of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 r/w Rule 71(5) of the 2015 Rules arises from compounding of offences, the effect of which is cessation of criminal proceedings akin to acquittal, and such compounding fee is distinct and mutually exclusive from royalty. S. 206C : Collection at source-Trading-Forest produce-Illegal mining-TCS applies only to payments by lease/license/contract-holders and cannot extend to compounding fees/fines from illegal miners-Order of Tribunal set aside. [S.133A, 206(IC), MMDR Act, 23A(1), R.71(5)]

The Assessee (State mining authority/lease grantor) collected compounding fees/fines from illegal miners/transporters; the dispute was whether TCS under Sec. 206C (1C) must be collected on such compounding receipts. The Assessee contended that Sec. 206C(1C) targets amounts paid by leaseholders/licensees/contract-holders liable for royalty, not offenders in illegal mining; compounding fees under Sec. 23A of the MMDR Act read with Rule 71(5) are penalties, not royalty, and fall outside 206C(1C).

The Revenue argued that the TCS obligation under 206C (1C) extends to cases where rights or interests in a mine are "otherwise transferred," and should cover compounding receipts from illegal miners. CIT (A) NFAC dismissed the Assessee's appeal. The Hon'ble Tribunal upheld TCS's demand/interest/penalty on compounding fees. The Hon'ble High Court of Chhattisgarh, after strictly construing fiscal statutes, held that 206C(1C) applies only to consideration from lessees/licensees/contract-holders paying royalty; no legislative mandate to collect TCS on compounding fees/fines under MMDR Sec. 23A read with Rule 71(5); Hon'ble Tribunal's order set aside and appeal allowed in favour of Assessee. S. 206C : Collection at source-Trading-Forest produce-Coal sales-Public sector undertaking-Verification of Form 27C declaration under section 206C(1A)-Assessee in default-Order of Tribunal quashing the order is affirmed. [S.206C(1A), 260A, Form 27C]

The assessee, a public sector undertaking, sold coal to buyers who submitted Form 27C declarations under section 206C(1A) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, stating that the coal would be utilized for purposes of manufacturing, processing or producing articles or for generation of power and not for trading purposes. The Assessing Officer demanded tax collection at source for the assessment years, treating the assessee as "assessee-in-default" under section 206C, alleging that certain buyers used the coal for trading purposes despite submitting a declaration in form 27C, and was of the view that the assessee was required to verify the genuineness of buyers who submitted form 27C declarations under section 206C(1A). The Tribunal deleted the tax collection at source demand, holding that once form 27C was duly filled and signed by the declarant and received by the assessee, and the seller's portion was forwarded to the Revenue authorities within the prescribed time limit, the assessee should not be held responsible if any buyers gave false statements in form 27C. Appeal of revenue dismissed.(AY. 2013-14 to 2018-19)

S. 206C: Collection at source-Trading-Forest produce-Scrap-Declarant in Form 27C is purchaser and not seller-Revenue's contention rejected. [S. 206C(1A), R. 37C, Form 27C]

The issue was whether the responsibility of verification in Form 27C lies with the seller or the purchaser. The Revenue argued that the seller must verify the declaration furnished. The High Court rejected this contention, holding that the Act and Rules make it explicit that the declarant is the purchaser who furnishes the verified form to the seller. Neither S. 206C(1A) nor Rule 37C imposes any duty on the seller to verify the correctness of the declaration. Relying on Atibir Industries Co. Ltd. v. Central Coalfields Ltd(WP No. 46 of 2018 dt.3-12-2018 (Jharkhand) (HC) the Court reiterated that the obligation rests squarely on the purchaser and not the seller. Since the Revenue's argument was contrary to the statutory scheme, no substantial question of law arose.

S. 206C: Collection at source-Auction by state government of right to collect toll fees on roads-Proceedings against Department of State Government for Failure to collect tax at source on toll money-No liability can be imposed on State Government if the lessees has already paid taxes on the toll fees collected-In the event of default of taxes being paid by lessees the State Government Department liable to pay interest for period between date of default in collection of tax and date of actual payment of tax by toll licensee.[S. 206C(IC), 206(7), 260A, Art. 289]

Hon'ble High Court held that before any liability to pay tax under the 1961 Act is imposed on the assessee, it is required to be verified as to whether or not respective toll lessees of the Himachal Pradesh Government had paid taxes on their income or sale turnover while collecting tolls at the barriers erected by the State Government. If the toll lessees had already paid taxes on their income, even if the assessee had not deducted the tax at source on such income, the assessee could not be mulcted with the liability to pay the tax again. If the toll lessees had not paid the tax which ought to have been deducted as tax collected at source by the assessee when it had filed its return, the assessee was liable to pay it and the assessee is liable to pay interest under section 206C(7) of the Act to the department for the period between the date of default in deduction of tax on the amount for which the toll licensee had actually paid the tax on the amount for which there had been a short fall in such deduction within the prescribe period.(AY. 2004-05 to 2008-09)

Held that since the income of the minor child was clubbed with the income of the assessee as per s. 64(1A), the corresponding TCS collected in the hands of the minor should be allowed, and due credit should be given in the hands of the assessee. Tribunal also held that the amendment of S. 206C by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2024, can be applied retrospectively. (AY. 2024-25)

S. 220 : Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-High-pitched assessment-Pre-deposit of 20 per cent. of assessed tax-

Discretion to waive pre-deposit, Effect of CBDT circular. Circular cannot override powers of appellate authority-Commissioner considering facts and rejecting application but granting facility of paying tax in instalments-Circular cannot override powers of appellate authorities-CBDT Instruction No. 96, dated 21-8-1969-Writ petition dismissed. [S. 119,220(6), 246, Art. 226]

On writ the court held that the Assistant Commissioner while considering the request made by the assessee for waiver of pre-deposit of 20 per cent. of the assessed tax liability under section 220(6) of the Act had granted instalment facility to the assessee to deposit Rs.30,73,524 per month which was payable before the 15th of every month starting July, 2023 till March, 2024 and the Principal Commissioner had reduced the instalment amounting to Rs. 13,85,000 for 20 months till such instalment reached 20 per cent. of the total tax liability amounting to Rs.13,84,43,552 or till the disposal of the appeal by the Commissioner (Appeals) whichever was earlier. From the record it was clear that the Departmental-authorities had considered the grievances of the assessee by granting monthly instalment of Rs. 13,85,000 from December, 2023 and the record of the case would clearly demonstrate that the assessee had not submitted his genuine hardship at the time of filing of the application under section 220(6) of the Act before the Assistant Commissioner or before Principal Commissioner or before the court. The assessment order for the assessment year 2018-2019 was passed on March 28, 2023 and more than ten months had been lapsed, but the assessee had not filed an application for stay before the Commissioner (Appeals), who is empowered under section 246 of the Act to waive the pre-deposit of 20 per cent. The order was valid.(AY. 2018-19) (SJ)

Held, that even though the assessee had already filed a petition for stay, it was still pending, where no decision seemed to have been taken. That being so, the assessee may not be remediless during the pendency of the appeal. The respondents were directed to decide and dispose of the appeal filed by the assessee against the assessment order dated September 23, 2021, for the assessment year 2018-2019, on the merits and in accordance with law, after giving a fair hearing to the assessee within a period of four months from the date of receipt of a copy of the order.(AY. 2018-19) (SJ)

Held, dismissing the writ petition, that the discretion exercised by the authority while passing the order thereby granting a stay subject to deposit of 20 per cent. The amount under demand with the facility of instalments could not be said to be arbitrary when such an order was passed with the consent of the assessee. Assessee-society was assessed) and a demand of certain amount was raised. Assessee filed an appeal and Commissioner (Appeals) allowed same-Consequently, revenue refunded tax deposited by assessee along with statutory interest. Tribunal allowed revenue's appeal. To give effect to Tribunal's order, a fresh notice under section 156 was issued raising demand which included recovery of earlier refund. Assessee deposited tax liability and refunded interest. Thereafter, a separate demand of interest was raised under section 220(2). The assessee challenged the demand by filing writ petition. Allowing the petition, the Court held that since the liability assessed by the Assessing Officer was set aside by First Appellate Authority, as soon as Appellate Authority set aside the assessment order, the notice issued under Section 156 lost its significance and ceased to exist hence the petitioner was not liable to pay interest as per first notice issued under Section 156.Since the revenue issued fresh notice under section 156 which was in consequence of orders passed by the Appellate Tribunal under section 254, liability of interest would commence if liability was not discharged within period specified in notice issued under Section 156. Therefore, liability of interest commenced from the day immediately following expiry of one month period from fresh notice under section 156. Court also held that the circular dated April 3, 1982 ((1982) 135 ITR (St.) 10) issued by the Central Board of Direct Taxes was not binding upon the court.

On writ the Court held that once the resolution plan was approved and the demand raised by the Income Tax Department was not claimed in said resolution plan, such dues, if not forming part of the resolution plan, would stand extinguished and no proceedings in respect of such dues for period prior to date on which the adjudicating authority (NCLT) granted its approval under section 31 could be continued. S. 220: Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-High pitch assessment-Recovery of Rejection of application for stay of demand Precondition of depositing 20 per cent. of demand-Stay of recovery in interim order of court until disposal of pending appeal before Commissioner (Appeals)-Direction to appellate authority to expedite disposal of appeal Interim relief granted to continue until outcome of order in statutory appeal [S. 147, 220(6), 250, Art. 226]

The assessee challenged a high-pitched assessment order computing the income which was 51 times the returned income, raising a demand under section 156 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, which was 180 times the self-assessed tax paid by the assessee for the assessment year 2018-2019. A statutory appeal was preferred before the Commissioner (Appeals). The application filed under section 220(6), seeking stay of recovery was rejected by the Assistant Commissioner who permitted payment of 20 per cent. of the demand in monthly instalments. The Principal Commissioner partly modified the order but retained the 20 per cent. deposit requirement for proceeding with the appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals). These orders were upheld by the court in the writ petition filed by the assessee. On appeal allowing the appeal, that considering that the statutory appeal under section 246A had been pending before the Commissioner (Appeals) for one year and five months and that the assessee had already deposited Rs.41.55 lakhs and the grant of stay of recovery, under section 220(6), in the interim order of the court being in force for the past five months, the appellate authority was directed to decide the appeal within three months and to continue the interim protection until the outcome of the statutory appeal. The order in the writ petition was set aside.(AY. 2018-19)

S. 220 : Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-Waiver of interest-Genuine hardship-Non-co-operation-Adjusted tax by selling gold bars and diamond jewellery-Rejection of waiver application was affirmed. [S. 220(2A), Art. 226]

Rejecting the petition the Court held that the assessee had failed to make out any case with the non-payment of the tax demanded in time under circumstances beyond his control. There was significant ambiguity about the sources from which the assessee had arranged the amount to pay part of the tax. However, no case was made out that the assessee could not pay the taxes because the investments, gold and diamonds were seized in 2007. The investments were not substantial in the tax and interest demand context. The Chief Commissioner had applied his mind to the relevant circumstances and had passed a reasoned order rejecting the application under section 220(2A) for waiver of interest. Considering the limited scope of judicial review, no case was made out to interfere with the order rejecting waiver of interest under section 220(2A). Order of rejection was affirmed. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assessee had not presented any documents showing its financial incapacity to pay 20 per cent. of the demand. The issue of whether the purchases were genuine was a question of fact to be determined on the facts of each particular case. The assessee had attempted to delay the recovery proceedings of 20 per cent. demand and had not made out a case for a complete stay of demand. Order of Commissioner affirmed. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 220 : Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-Waiver of interest-No genuine hardship was established, as financial disclosures were inadequate, failure to pay was not due to uncontrollable circumstances, evidenced by conflicting requests regarding seized assets and assessee's inconsistent cooperation undermined claims of full compliance-Writ petition against rejection of waiver application is affirmed. [S. 220(2A), Art 226]

Assessee sought a waiver of interest under section 220(2A), arguing that tax liability could not be paid due to delays in encashing seized assets by the department. Chief Commissioner rejected the waiver application, citing insufficient grounds-Assessee challenged Chief Commissioner's rejection alleging genuine hardship due to seized assets. On writ, the Court held that the assessee failed to provide a balance sheet or acceptable material disclosing assets and liabilities, as required to substantiate claims of hardship. Although gold and diamonds were seized in 2007, assessee did not request their sale until 2013 and later requested that sale be withheld. Claims that seized assets were not utilized for tax payments were inconsistent and contradicted by the record. Assessee's responses about income sources were ambiguous, and actions showed a constant flip-flop on key matters. CBDT guidelines also excluded diamond jewellery from 'Streedhan,' undermining related claims. Court held that the assessee failed to meet all three mandatory conditions for waiver (i) no genuine hardship was established, as financial disclosures were inadequate; (ii) failure to pay was not due to uncontrollable circumstances, evidenced by conflicting requests regarding seized assets; and (iii) assessee's inconsistent cooperation undermined claims of full compliance. Chief Commissioner was justified in rejecting assessee's application for waiver of interest under section 220(2A). Writ petition is dismissed.

S. 220 : Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-Stay-Pendency of appeal-Dealing with stay applications to ensure a fair balance between tax collection and taxpayer rights without necessitating pre-deposit as a mandate for considering the stay-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer. [S. 132, 220(6) 246A, Art. 226]

The assessee is an individual who was subjected to search and seizure operations under Section 132 of the Income Tax Act, 1961. The issue involved is the challenge against the orders of the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, which required the assessee to deposit 40% of the outstanding tax demand as a precondition for considering the stay application.

The revenue contended that the assessee had not deposited even 20% of the outstanding demand, which was a prerequisite for considering the stay application. That the additions made in the assessment order were based on credible evidence collected during a search operation. Moreover, that mere filing of an appeal before the CIT(A) was not sufficient ground for granting a stay.

The assessee contended that the assessment orders were arbitrary and unsustainable, particularly considering the Supreme Court's judgment in Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, Central v. Abhisar Buildwell Private Limited. The additions were based on documents and statements not gathered during the search, making them untenable. The authorities failed to consider the prima facie merits of the case and the undue hardship caused by the demand. And that the assessee had offered to pledge properties to guarantee the outstanding demand to the extent of 20%.

The Hon'ble High Court held that the authorities erred in assuming that a 20% pre-deposit was mandatory for entertaining stay applications. The Principal Commissioner of Income Tax (Central) further erred by requiring a 40% deposit without evaluating the prima facie merits of the case. Quashing the Orders, the Hon'ble High Court remitted the matter to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination, considering the legal position as enunciated in the case of NASSCOM v. Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (E) Circle 2(1), New Delhi & Ors, and necessitating evaluation of merits of the case to decide on the stay application. (AY.2010-11 to 2020-21)

During search, cash was seized from assessee and assessee filed return accepting cash seized as his undisclosed income. Assessing Officer issued notice of demand dated 30-12-2016, allowing assessee 30 days time for payment of demand-However, Assessing Officer adjusted seized cash against tax liability only on 21-3-2018 and levied interest. On appeal the Tribunal held that since cash seized was available for adjustment by Assessing Officer, and assessee made request for such adjustment during course of assessment proceeding as well as in post-assessment period, however, Assessing Officer had adjusted seized cash against tax liability demand dated 30-12-2016 only on 21-3-2018, assessee could not be held as assessee in default for non-payment of tax on time and thus, no interest under section 220 could be charged from assessee. S. 222: Collection and recovery-Certificate to Tax Recovery Officer-Priority of secured creditor over Government dues-Prohibitory order-Prior hypothecation-Revenue's inaction-Attachment cannot impede auction sale.[Art. 226]

On writ, the High Court held that, in the absence of a specific statutory provision to the contrary, the dues of a secured creditor have priority over Government dues. In the present case, the hypothecation agreement in favour of respondent No. 3 was executed on 12-12-2008, much prior to the issuance of the prohibitory order by the Tax Recovery Officer under S. 222, and therefore the secured creditor was entitled to enforce its security and sell the assets. Though the Revenue had issued a prohibitory order, it took no further steps for recovery and cannot keep the properties attached indefinitely. Despite being duly informed at every stage about the proposed and completed auction, the tax authorities neither raised objections nor initiated proceedings to challenge the sale, thereby indicating acquiescence. Accordingly, the attachment order could not be construed as an impediment to the auction sale in favour of the petitioner, the secured creditor's claim having precedence over the Revenue's claim. S. 226 : Collection and recovery-Modes of recovery-Deposited entire outstanding tax dues along with accrued interest during pendency of appeal-Department itself had purchased land through auction with no third-party rights involved-Department was to be directed to release land to assessee upon receipt of payment from Court Registry. [Art. 136]

The assessee filed appeals challenging the orders attaching and auctioning their lands for recovery of tax dues. During the pendency of the appeals, the assessee deposited the entire outstanding tax dues along with accrued interest before the Court. The assessee sought release of the lands. The Department contended that substantial questions of law arose and sought adjudication thereon. During the course of submissions made at the Bar, it is also pointed out that the respondent(s)/Department itself purchased the land through an auction process and there are no third-party rights created insofar as the lands in these cases are concerned. Court held that the interest of justice would be met in these cases if a direction is issued to the Registry of this Court to release the amount deposited by the appellant(s) herein along with accrued interest, if any, to the Department forthwith. However, a substantial question of law, if any, is left open.

S. 226 : Collection and recovery-Modes of recovery-Stay-Book profit-Mere existence of a strong prima facie case does not automatically warrant unconditional stay-Tribunal having upheld addition under section 115JB, conditional stay justified-Pending rectification application and possible reduction in demand considered-Interim relief granted on deposit of Rs. 60 crores within four weeks-SLP dismissed. [S. 115JB, Art.136]

Where the Tribunal upheld addition of Rs. 200 crores to book profits under section 115JB on the ground that capital expenditure had been debited to the profit and loss account in a manner not permissible under the Companies Act, 2013, applicable accounting standards and guidance notes, the High Court, pending disposal of the appeal, held that the assessee was not entitled to unconditional stay of demand merely because it claimed a strong prima facie case. The Court observed that once the Tribunal had confirmed the demand, the normal rule would be deposit of the entire demand, though since a rectification application was pending and, if allowed, the tax liability could stand reduced, the interests of justice would be served by granting interim stay subject to deposit of Rs. 60 crores within four weeks. The Court also rejected the subsidiary's request to substitute the deposit with a bank guarantee, holding that substantive modification of the order could not be sought through praecipes and that no case for further concession was made out. The Supreme Court dismissed the SLP.

Where the assessee, a charitable society, challenged the assessment order and consequential penalty notice under sections 274 read with section 271F and filed an appeal before the CIT(A) along with an application for stay of recovery, the stay application was rejected solely on the ground that the assessee had not deposited 20% of the disputed demand as per the CBDT Office Memorandum dated 31-7-2017. Allowing the writ petition, the High Court held that the Income-tax Act does not prescribe any statutory requirement of pre-deposit for grant of stay and that executive instructions may supplement the statute but cannot impose a condition contrary to it. The Court observed that discretion in stay matters must be exercised reasonably and judiciously, particularly where the assessee had raised a substantive challenge to the assessment, and serious prejudice was likely to be caused by coercive recovery. Since the Department itself had treated the case as non-priority and the appeal was fixed for hearing after several months, exemption from pre-deposit ought to have been granted. Accordingly, the order refusing stay was set aside, and the operation of recovery and penalty notices was stayed by the High Court. SLP of revenue dismissed. (AY. 2015-16)

On a writ petition to lift the attachment of the bank accounts, the Court held that since a statutory appeal was filed against the order issued under section 271DA of the Act, it was not appropriate to record definitive conclusions on the issues raised in the order. The assessee was directed to remit a sum of Rs. 12.5 lakhs as a condition for raising the attachment of its bank accounts. High-pitched assessment of about 170 times higher than the returned income and raised a demand which was about 161 times higher. The assessee filed an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) and sought a stay of demand under section 220(6). The Assessing Officer, applying the Central Board of Direct Taxes' office memorandum, directed a 20 per cent predeposit. The review petition before the Principal Commissioner was rejected. The assessee then filed a writ petition, which was allowed with a direction to reconsider the stay application and decide the appeal expeditiously. The Principal Commissioner directed the assessee to deposit Rs. 5 lakhs per month until 20 per cent. of the total demand was deposited or the appeal was decided. On a writ petition, the Court held that until the appeal was decided by the appellate authority, the assessee was directed to pay a reduced monthly sum of Rs. 1 lakh, either until a smaller percentage of the outstanding demand was paid or the decision of the appellate authority was received, whichever was earlier. The assessee should not alienate or mortgage any immovable property owned by him without the prior written permission of the concerned jurisdictional Assessing Officer, and this restriction shall be subject to the outcome of the appeal. Assessee-HUF received a donation of Rs. 5 lakhs from an individual. Assessment was completed, which reflected said receipt. However, ITO, after seventeen years, reopened assessment under section 147 and held that demand of Rs. 5 lakhs had emanated from assessee. Assessee's appeal against said order was allowed by AAC as well as Tribunal. On reference to the High Court, the matter was set aside to Tribunal. Tribunal thereafter passed ex parte order upholding the assessment. Assessee filed reference against said order under section 256(2). Meanwhile, recovery proceedings were initiated, and assessee submitted objections that a sum of Rs. 2,45,000 had already been deposited and a sum of Rs. 1,20,000 had already been recovered and, thus, same was to be deducted from the total shown in the recovery certificate to TRO. TRO had rejected objections and conducted auction of said property and sold same and recovered disputed sum. Assessee filed writ petition, and while writ was pending, High Court answered reference in favour of assessee and entire proceedings under section 147 were held to be bad in law. Court held that once the sum of Rs. 2,45,000 was deposited, the recovery certificate was required to be revised. TRO should have withheld proclamation and further proceedings of auction, particularly when demand notice and recovery certificate were based on order of Tribunal which had been set aside by High Court. Since ultimately it had been found that there was no tax requirement to be paid, writ petition is allowed and orders were to be set aside and department is directed to restore properties of assessee from auction purchaser and compensation should also be paid to him by department. TRO has power even to cancel recovery certificate on being informed that payment has been made by concerned defaulter. Where a reference has been admitted by the High Court against an order of the Tribunal, prudence demands to keep away from conducting auction of properties for the purpose of recovery. Consequently, interest under section 234B was levied for short payment of advance tax. The Tribunal held that, at the time of filing the return, the assessee could not have anticipated the subsequent retrospective amendment enlarging the scope of "international transaction". The assessee's regular assessment under section 143(3) had been completed before 1-6-2003, i.e., before the insertion of section 234D. Pursuant to the Tribunal's order, the Assessing Officer passed a consequential order under section 143(3) read with section 254 and levied interest under section 234D. The Tribunal held that interest under section 234D is leviable only where the regular assessment contemplated under sections 143(3), 144, 147 or 153A is completed after 1-6-2003. A consequential order giving effect to an appellate order cannot be treated as a regular assessment for this purpose. Held that Section 234E of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was introduced by the Finance Act, 2012 ((2012) 345 ITR (St.) 10) with effect from July 1, 2012. It provides for levy of late fee for not filing the statement of tax deducted at source. The amendment was to take effect only from June 1, 2015 and was thus prospective in nature. The jurisdiction to levy late fee under section 234E of the Act arises only from June 1, 2015 and not earlier. Accordingly, the imposition of late fees under section 234E of the Act was not valid. Court also held that, since in matters where total lack of jurisdiction is alleged, delay cannot be relied upon as a ground to deny the relief, the objections of the Income-tax Officer were without any basis.(AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15)

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Department had imposed the late fee only under section 234E of the Act for the assessment years 2012-13, 2013-14, 2014-15. However, section 200A(1)(c) of the Act was not introduced during the assessment years in question. In the absence of any provisions under section 200A of the Act, when processing the application for tax deducted at source under section 200A, no late fee could be imposed under section 234E. On writ, the court categorically clarified that an appeal under section 260A was a statutory right and the court could not prevent anyone, either assessee or the Department, from availing of such right and rejected the plea of CCL as misconceived. The court indicated that, for any other interest claimed by the assessee would be at liberty to move the competent civil court for redressal of his grievance of interest, if so advised. SLP of assessee dismissed (AY. 2013-14 to 2018-19)

The assessee had erroneously deposited certain tax amounts under an incorrect head and thereafter deposited the same amounts again under the correct head. The assessee filed a writ petition seeking a direction to the Department to grant refund of the excess tax paid for AYs 2021-22, 2022-23 and 2023-24 under section 237 along with interest. The Court held that it was undisputed that the assessee had deposited the tax under an incorrect head and therefore the excess payment was liable to be refunded. Accordingly, the Department was directed to verify the challans through which the deposits were made and, if it was found that excess payment had been made and there was no other impediment, the refund should be granted. If the authority concluded that the refund under section 237 could not be processed, it must communicate the reasons in writing to the assessee, who would be at liberty to avail remedies in accordance with law. S. 237: Refunds-Limitation-Excess TDS-CBDT Circular prescribing two-year time limit for refund claim of tax erroneously deducted at source held ultra vires-In absence of statutory limitation under ss. 237/239, Board cannot curtail substantive right to claim refund-Interest on FCCBs/ECBs utilised for overseas subsidiary held covered by s. 9(1)(v)(b), hence no TDS deductible-Taxing statutes are interpreted by following the principles of strict interpretation. On writ the High Court held that after omission of s. 239(2) w.e.f. 1-9-2019, the Act does not prescribe any limitation for claiming refund under ss. 237/239 in such cases, and therefore para 9 of CBDT Circular No. 7 of 2007 fixing a two-year period for refund of excess TDS was beyond the power conferred under s. 119 and could not extinguish the assessee's substantive right to seek refund. Accordingly, rejection of the assessee's refund claim as time-barred was held unsustainable. The Court further held that interest/premium paid on FCCBs and ECBs utilised for funding overseas subsidiary operations was for purposes of earning income from a source outside India and fell within s. 9(1)(v)(b); hence no tax was deductible at source u/s. 195, and the excess tax deposited was refundable. S. 237: Refunds-Defective return-Rectified return filed-Return cannot be ignored merely due to TDS mismatch-Where no addition made in scrutiny, refund claim must be processed. [S. 139(9), 143(3), 153C, Art. 226]

The assessee filed a revised/rectified return which, according to the Revenue, was treated as defective and therefore not processed. The High Court held that there was no material on record to show that the revised return had ever been declared invalid or that any communication treating the return as defective was issued to the assessee. A mere mismatch between TDS reflected and income disclosed in the return cannot be a ground to disregard the return altogether; at best it may warrant further inquiry. Since the rectified return could not be ignored and no addition had been made by the Assessing Officer at the scrutiny stage, the assessee's claim for refund was required to be processed. The Court disposed of the writ petition directing the Revenue to process the rectification application seeking refund after giving credit of advance tax and TDS as reflected in Form 26AS, while binding the Revenue to the statement made before the Court. Cash and gold bars were seized by police from the assessee, non-filer of return of income and handed over to the Magistrate after registering a crime. The Department treated these assets as the assessee's income and took custody of the cash under section 132A. An assessment order followed, fixing the assessee's total income for the assessment year 2016-2017 and imposing a penalty under section 271AAB. The assessee filed a declaration under the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 ((2020) 422 ITR (St.) 121). The assessee's declaration under section 4 of the 2020 Act was accepted. Since out of the cash seized, an amount was retained by the Department and an order was issued, giving effect to form 5 certificate and directed refund confirming that the assessee was eligible for a refund from the seized cash. The Department delayed issuing the consequential refund order by twenty-three months, beyond the thirty-days limit set by the Central Board of Direct Taxes. On a writ petition, allowing the petition, that since form 5 certificate was issued to the assessee under the 2020 Act, the consequential order granting a refund ought to have been issued within the prescribed thirty-days timeline. Section 7 of the 2020 Act and its Explanation indicated that if the declarant had paid any amount in excess of tax found payable under section 3, he would be entitled only to a refund of the excess amount paid, but without interest. Such provision could not enable the Department to deny interest due to the assessee since the situation was different. The provisions of section 7 interdicted the grant of interest on payments made prior to the submission of the declaration by the declarant. After the declaration was made by the Department in form 5, identifying the amount of arrears due from the declarant, the delay thereafter, in refunding any excess amount paid earlier, could not be protected by the Explanation to section 7 of the 2020 Act. The Department was directed to issue orders granting interest on the amount of refund at the rate of six per cent. from expiry of thirty days from the date of issue of Form 5 till the date of refund order. The interest was to be quantified and paid within thirty days. (SJ) (AY. 2016-17)

The assessee filed a writ petition seeking disposal of its rectification applications. The High Court directed the Deputy Commissioner to decide the applications by a speaking order and release consequential refunds with up-to-date interest. Pursuant thereto, the Assessing Officer passed an order under section 154 read with section 143(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, acknowledging substantial tax deducted at source credits but granted only partial refund under section 237. The assessee sought rectification contending that the balance refund was wrongly withheld and that even the admitted refund was not released. On a writ, the Court held that the Department was directed to refund the undisputed amount under section 237 to the assessee. If the amount was not refunded within two weeks, liberty was granted to the assessee to revive the present application, and the presence of the Assessing Officer in the court would be called for.

S. 237 : Refunds-Dividend distribution tax-Income-tax Refund order Essential factors Order must reflect conclusive and final-Preliminary or prima facie opinion not sufficient. Communication not demonstrating full and final satisfaction regarding entitlement to No breach of article 265 of Constitution where refund not conclusively determined Refund cannot be granted based on such communication. Fresh adjudication ordered. [Art. 265]

On writ the Court held that since the adjudication or determination of the entitlement to a refund under section 237 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 is an appealable order, it follows that there must be a written communication in which there is a final determination of the entitlement or disentitlement supported by reasoning so that the appellate authority can test it. Therefore, there must be an "order" under section 237. Such an order must be a conclusive and final determination of the entitlement or disentitlement to a refund of the excess amount paid. The emphasis need not be on the form or citation of the relevant legal provision. But the essential attributes of conclusiveness must be reflected. The parties must know that a formal determination of the refund claim was being considered and dealt with, so that all aspects could be pointed out and considered.

Article 265 of the Constitution of India also provides that no tax shall be levied or collected except by authority of law. The phrase "authority of law" would mean liability or entitlement under the Act. This would contemplate that before a person can be entitled to a refund, the Assessing Officer must satisfy that such an entitlement is in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and there must be a final determination of the correctness of the claim for refund. Based upon an inconclusive or tentative opinion of an Assessing Officer, no breach of Article 265 can be alleged or established.

Section 237 refers to the phrase "satisfied". The phrase satisfaction means fully and conclusively satisfied and not a prima facie satisfaction. Accordingly, the Court directed the Assessing Officer to pass a final order determining the refund claim of the assessee within eight weeks after giving it the opportunity of hearing and by passing a speaking order. (AY. 2018-19)

Assessee was entitled to refunds for relevant assessment years. However, revenue was of the opinion that certain procedural lacunae persisted and, therefore, although refund was payable to assessee, it was not being credited to assessee's bank account. On writ, the Court held that once the assessee was entitled to refund, it needed to be paid with all expediency and more particularly, when refunds pertained to such old assessment years. the revenue was directed to process refunds and credit amount to assessee's account and if any modalities needed to be complied by assessee in that regard, the assessee was to be informed within a period of four days so that further appropriate steps to credit refunds along with applicable interest were undertaken on or before the returnable date. Assessee filed a writ petition seeking refund of a certain amount of TDS on the ground that since TDS certificate had been placed on record, revenue should at least verify position regarding deductions and grant a refund. Court directed that the, revenue department was to dispose of assessee's representation within three months, and if it was satisfied that deductions were indeed made as reflected in TDS certificate, the amount should be refunded to assessee within a month from such determination. If refund was made within two months from such determination, there would be no question of paying interest to assessee, however, if there was a delay beyond two months, revenue would be liable to pay interest as per law.

On writ the Court held that the delay in payment of refunds to the assesseees is on account of negligence/laxity on the part of the Department which results in imposition of unwarranted interest burden on the public exchequer; respondents are directed to take instructions from CBDT and make an appropriate statement either on the adjourned date of hearing or earlier to that so that appropriate orders can be passed. Court directed to frame such rules and mechanism by which accountability needs to be fixed on a particular officers, whose actions are increasing the burden on the Government of India, is required to be immediately. The assessee had claimed refund in its income-tax return but filed a formal condonation application later. The Revenue rejected the claim citing delay beyond the permissible period under CBDT Circular No. 9 of 2015 dt. 9-6-2015. The High Court held that both para 3 (prescribing six years' limit) and para 6 (providing for condonation in deserving cases) of the circular must be considered. Importantly, when a refund is claimed in the return itself, the relevant date for computing delay is the date of the return, and not the date of a subsequent condonation petition. Since the claim was part of the return and the delay was otherwise condonable, the rejection by Revenue was not justified. Affirming the Single Judge's order, the Court directed that the refund be considered. (AY. 2013-14)

(S. 119(2)(b), 139(5), 244A, Art. 226)

The assessee filed a revised return claiming refund for AY 2008-09 after completion of assessment and subsequently sought condonation of delay. As per S. 139(5), a revised return is to be filed before three months prior to the end of the relevant assessment year or before completion of assessment, whichever is earlier. CBDT Instruction No. 13 of 2006, issued under S. 119(2)(b), provides that in cases where refund claims exceed Rs. 10 lakhs but are up to Rs. 50 lakhs, an application for condonation must be filed within six years from the end of the relevant assessment year. In the present case, the refund claim was Rs. 24,83,851 and the six-year period from AY 2008-09 expired on 31-3-2015. The assessee, however, filed the condonation application only on 25-7-2016, beyond the prescribed period. The Revenue rejected the claim and the Single Judge directed consideration of the refund claim with applicable interest. On appeal, the High Court held that the assessee could not be granted the benefit of his own wrong; though the refund claim may have been genuine and bona fide, interest under S. 244A could not be directed as interest is compensatory and payable only for delay attributable to the Revenue. Since the delay was on account of the assessee in not filing the condonation application within the prescribed time, the direction to grant interest was set aside. However, the Revenue was directed to consider the assessee's claim for refund, if not already considered, within four weeks. (AY. 2008-09)

The assessee's applications for refund of excess TDS deposited u/s 195 for AYs 2010-11 to 2012-13 were rejected by the Commissioner, relying on para 9 of CBDT Circular No. 7/2007 dated 23-10-2007, which restricted the time period. The Delhi High Court held that neither S. 237 nor S. 239 prescribes a limitation for refund claims, and the earlier sub-S. (2) of S. 239 prescribing timelines had been omitted by the Finance Act 2019. CBDT's power under S. 119 is only to relax statutory provisions, not to curtail rights or extinguish claims. Para 9 of the Circular was therefore held ultra vires and beyond CBDT's powers. The rejection order was quashed and refunds directed to be granted. (AY. 2010-11 to 2012-13)

[S. 119(2)(b), 194LA, Rule 13 of IT Rules, Art. 136]

Agricultural land belonging to the assessee was acquired by the State of Gujarat under the 'Survo Scheme'. The Land Acquisition Officer awarded compensation, and pursuant to enhancement by the Reference Court, the Irrigation Department deducted tax at source on the interest component of the compensation while depositing 50% amount with the Court. However, the deductor neither informed the assessee about such tax deduction nor issued Form 16A. The assessee, upon becoming aware of the deduction, filed an application for condonation of delay in filing the return of income to claim refund. The delay was condoned under section 119(2)(b), but the Revenue denied interest on the refund on the ground that the claim was belated. The High Court held that the assessee was not at fault in not filing the return on time, as the deductor failed to comply with its statutory obligations, and further held that no tax was deductible under section 194LA on interest paid on acquisition of agricultural land. Accordingly, the Hon'ble High Court directed the Revenue to grant interest on the refund from the date of deposit of TDS till the date of refund under section 244A. The Revenue filed a Special Leave Petition before the Hon'ble Supreme Court with a gross delay of 471 days, which was not satisfactorily explained. The Supreme Court dismissed the SLP on the grounds of delay as well as on merits, holding that no reason was made out to interfere with the order of the High Court. Accordingly, the direction to grant interest on the refund from the date of TDS deposit till the date of refund was upheld. (AY. 2013-14)

However, the deductor neither informed the assessee about such tax deduction nor issued Form 16A. The assessee, upon becoming aware of the deduction, filed an application for condonation of delay in filing the return of income to claim refund. The delay was condoned under section 119(2)(b), but the Revenue denied interest on the refund on the ground that the claim was belated. The High Court held that the assessee was not at fault in not filing the return on time, as the deductor failed to comply with its statutory obligations, and further held that no tax was deductible under section 194LA on interest paid on acquisition of agricultural land. Accordingly, the Hon'ble High Court directed the Revenue to grant interest on the refund from the date of deposit of TDS till the date of refund under section 244A. On appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the Special Leave Petition filed by the revenue, noting a gross and unexplained delay of 457 days. The Court further held that, even on merits, no interference was warranted with the order of the High Court. Accordingly, the direction to grant interest on the refund from the date of TDS deposit till the date of refund was upheld.(AY. 2013-14)

[Art. 136]

Tribunal directed Assessing Officer to compute interest under section 244A following principles laid down by Delhi High Court in case of India Trade Promotion Organisation v. CIT [2013] 38 taxmann.com 233/263 CTR 18/ [2014] 361 ITR 646(Delhi)(HC). However, Assessing Officer came to conclusion that further interest under section 244A was not payable. High Court also directed Assessing Officer to strictly apply principles laid down by Tribunal. Assessing Officer again held that further interest under section 244A was not payable. High Court by order held that payment of interest on unpaid amount occurs because of non-payment of total amount refundable, which was due and payable to assessee consisting of tax, which had to be refunded and interest accrued on delayed refund of tax. High Court further held that principal amount and interest due were to be added and treated as primary amount and interest would become due and payable on this primary amount, thus, matter was to be remanded to Assessing Officer with direction to compute interest payable to assessee under section 244A by strictly applying principles laid down by Tribunal and High Court. SLP filed by revenue against order of High Court was to be dismissed, on account of delay of 444 days and also on merits.

The High Court, on writ petitions seeking refund of the tax deducted at source on the interest on the compensation for acquisition of the assessee's agricultural lands, directed the grant of refund to the assessee under section 244A of the Income-tax Act, 1961, holding that the assessee was not at fault for the delay in claiming refund as no tax was payable by the assessee on interest under section 194LA of the Act. SLP of the revenue was dismissed as the delay of 371, 390 and 374 days, respectively, had not been satisfactorily explained. Even otherwise, there was no good reason to interfere with the orders passed by the High Court. (AY. 2013-14)

On writ, the High Court directed the revenue to grant interest on refund to assessee at rate of 15 per cent per annum from the date on which it was determined, till the date of payment of the same to assessee. On appeal, revenue submitted that statutorily fixed rate of interest under section 244A is only 6 per cent per annum, therefore, High Court could not have ordered for refund at a rate of 15 per cent per annum. Assessee submitted that revenue had already complied with the direction issued by the High Court.

Court held that an interim order had stayed the direction of High Court insofar as it pertained to the award of interest in excess of 6 per cent per annum. Therefore, the appeal was to be allowed by directing the assessee to refund the amount of interest in excess of 6 per cent per annum. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 244A : Refunds-Interest on refunds-Equalisation levy-Refund Interest on refund equalisation levy paid by assessee after three years compensation for use and retention of money collected in excess-Direction for payment of interest at rate of six per cent. From April 1 of the year following the financial year in which excess payments were made by assessee till date of actual refund-When the collection is illegal, there is a corresponding obligation on the Department to refund such amount with interest inasmuch as they have retained and enjoyed the money deposited. A refund due and payable to the assessee is a debt owed and payable by the Department.[Finance Act, 2016, ss. 164(i), 165, 166, 168(1), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the State, having received the money without right, and having retained and used it, is bound to make the party good, just as an individual would be under like circumstances. The obligation to refund money received and retained without right implies and carries with it the right to interest. Whenever money has been received by a party which ex aequo et bono ought to be refunded, the right to interest follows, as a matter of course. S. 244A : Refunds-Interest on refunds-Limitation-for assessment year 2012-13, assessment order was passed on 31.01.2017 for the AY. 2012-13-Order giving effect to ITAT order was passed beyond the prescribed three months under section 153(5) on 23.08.2023-Order was time-barred-Single judge is justified in directing refund with interest under section 244A(1)(b) and 244A(1A). [S.153(5),153(9), Art. 226]

The assessee filed an application on 01.12.2022 seeking refund for AY 2012-13 along with interest under Section 244A(1)(b). As the refund application was not considered, it filed a writ petition seeking a mandamus for refund of about Rs. 4.73 crores. The revenue thereafter passed an order giving effect to the Tribunal's order dated 07.07.2017 determining the refund; the order giving effect is dated 23.08.2023. The assessee contended that the order giving effect was passed beyond the time limit prescribed under Section 153 and that it was entitled to additional interest under Section 244A(1)(b). The learned Single Judge set aside the order giving effect dated 23.08.2023 as time barred and directed grant of refund of about Rs. 4.73 crores with interest under Sections 244A(1)(b) and 244A(1A). On appeal by the revenue the Court held that for assessment year 2012-13 order was passed on 31.01.2017, exception under sub-section (9) of section 153 to the inapplicability of the Finance Act, 2016 is not applicable and, thus, the time limit for passing an order giving effect to ITAT order is governed by the provisions of section 153(5). On appeal, the Division Bench held that since order giving effect was passed on 23.08.2023 beyond the time limit of three months as provided under section 153(5), the learned Single Judge was justified in declaring the order giving effect dated 23.08.2023 as time-barred and in directing grant of refund with interest under section 244A(1)(b) and section 244A(1A) of the Act. (AY. 2012-13)

Approval granted under s. 194LC(2)(ia) was based on a thorough evaluation of ECB agreement entered into between assessee and HSBC. Once such approval is granted, it logically follows that same agreement qualifies not just for concessional treatment under domestic law but also triggers beneficial treatment under DTAA, wherever applicable. Approval granted under S. 194LC(2)(ia) is substantive and sufficient for applying DTAA rate on interest payments to foreign lender. Foreign lender's eligibility under DTAA having been established through supporting documentation, no further separate approval under S. 195(2) or S. 197 was required. Where excess amount paid pursuant to declaration under the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act, 2020 was refunded after an inordinate delay, the High Court held that though section 7 of the DTVSV Act excludes statutory interest under section 244A, there is no absolute prohibition against grant of interest where refund is unreasonably delayed due to fault of the Revenue. The Court observed that since the scheme mandates payment by the assessee within fifteen days upon acceptance of declaration, a corresponding obligation rests upon the Department to issue refund within a reasonable time. In the present case, despite acceptance of declaration on 24-11-2021, the Department released refund only on 29-11-2023, which constituted unjustified delay. The Court held that powers under sections 3 and 4 of the Interest Act, 1978 enable grant of reasonable interest notwithstanding exclusion under the Income-tax Act or the DTVSV Act where delay is solely attributable to the Revenue. Accordingly, grant of interest on delayed refund was upheld.

Obligation to refund money received and retained without right implies and carries with it the right to interest. S. 244A : Refunds-Interest on refunds-Adjustment of part refund-Refund to be first adjusted towards interest component and thereafter towards principal-Interest under section 244A is allowable accordingly.[S. 140A, 220]

The dispute related to the manner in which the Revenue adjusted part refunds against outstanding tax demands. The Tribunal held that although the Act does not prescribe the method of adjustment, the principle underlying sections 140A and 220 requires adjustment first against the interest component and thereafter against the principal. Any other method would enable the Revenue to withhold the interest component indefinitely without compensating the assessee under section 244A. Such an adjustment does not amount to payment of interest on interest. Accordingly, the Revenue was directed to first adjust the refund against the outstanding interest component and thereafter against the principal while computing interest under section 244A. The assessee contended that interest under section 244A had not been granted up to the actual date of receipt of refund. S. 244A: Refunds-Interest on refunds-Filing of a revised return to claim additional TDS does not postpone interest on the refund already claimed in the original return filed within time-Where the refund is issued by demand draft, the date of issue of the demand draft is the date of grant of refund. [S. 139(5), 244(1)(a)(i)]

The Tribunal held that where the assessee had filed its original return within the due date claiming a refund and subsequently filed a revised return only to claim additional TDS credit, the delay attributable to the filing of the revised return would apply only to the additional TDS claimed therein and not to the refund already claimed in the original return. Accordingly, interest under section 244A(1)(a)(i) was directed to be granted from 1st April of the assessment year on the refund arising from the original return. It was further held that where the refund is issued through a demand draft, the date of issue of the demand draft constitutes the date of grant of refund for computing interest under section 244A. S. 244A : Refunds-Interest on refunds-Refund to be adjusted first from the outstanding interest and thereafter the principal amount.[S. 140A, 220]

Appeal was filed against the order of CIT(A) on the ground that adjustment of part income tax refund received by assessee against the total outstanding refund which comprises tax as well as interest is incorrect. The plea was that first the refund needs to be adjusted against the interest element and then the balance towards the principal amount of refund. The tribunal allowed the ground of the assessee by relying on the decision in case of Union Bank of India v. ITO [72 taxmann.com 348 (Mumbai)] and on Delhi High Court in the case of India Trade Promotion Organisation v. CIT [2014] 361 ITR 646 (Delhi) where it was held that there is no provision in law for manner of adjustment of part refund granted. And taking into account the provisions of section 140A requiring self-assessment tax paid short by the assessee to be first adjusted against interest outstanding and then against tax, and also the provisions of section 220 charging interest on the portion of outstanding demand of tax including interest, the Court held that the same principle would follow if revenue defaults in full payment of refund. Since section 244A debars payment of interest on interest refund, it held that part refund needs to be adjusted against interest first otherwise the AO would refund the principal amount and not pay the interest component under section 244A for an unlimited period with impunity and without any sanction which would tantamount to allowing a premium on non-compliance with the law (AY.1993-94, 1998-99)

Assessee-company, engaged in manufacture and sale of electric two-wheelers, filed return declaring loss, which was initially accepted. Pursuant to revision under section 263, the Assessing Officer passed a fresh order under section 144 read with section 263/144B, making addition under section 56(2)(viib) and levying penalty under section 271(1)(c), resulting in total demand of Rs. 3.11 crores. Commissioner (Appeals) directed the assessee to pay 20 per cent of the demand, which it discharged by way of earlier refund adjustments. Assessee also filed rectification petition for set-off of unabsorbed depreciation. Meanwhile, refund of Rs. 3.74 crores determined for assessment year 2024-25 was adjusted by CPC against disputed demand for assessment year 2016-17. On writ allowing the petition, the Court held that, since 20 per cent of tax demand stood discharged and both appeal and rectification petition were pending, assessee was entitled to refund of adjusted amount and deferment of recovery proceedings; adjustment of refund was set aside. date of approval of resolution plan on 7-11-2017. [Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, S. 31, Art. 226]

The petitioner was a successful resolution applicant (RA), and revenue raised a demand upon it regarding arrear tax dues. The petitioner submitted that the claim was not placed before the Resolution Professional (RP).

The revenue submitted that in the stated table of statutory/other legal liabilities there was provision for 'income tax old' at Rs.14.26 crores. Subsequent disclosure in the writ petition also provided for the manner, in which said amount, approved in the resolution process, was to be paid by assessee. It remained unpaid. In the circumstances, adjustment of the refund against old income tax dues was duly made. On writ, the Court held that SRA could only claim to have stepped into and managed affairs of corporate debtor from date of approval of resolution plan on 7-11-2017. Writ petition was dismissed. The assessee's refund for AY 2020-21 was adjusted by the Revenue against outstanding demands for AYs 2016-17, 2017-18 and 2018-19. The High Court noted that adjustment of refund against demand may, in certain cases, amount to a coercive measure, particularly where interim protection against recovery is operating. In respect of AYs 2017-18 and 2018-19, the issue was covered by the earlier decision in Huawei Telecommunications

India Co. (P) Ltd v. ACIT (WP No. 10835 of 2024 dt-4-12-2024 (Delhi)(HC) wherein such adjustment was set aside. Further, even regarding AY 2016-17, the Revenue's action was held unsustainable since no prior notice or intimation under S. 245 was issued, and the mandatory procedure for adjustment was not followed. Accordingly, the adjustment of refunds was quashed, and the Revenue was directed to release the refund amount along with applicable interest expeditiously, preferably within eight weeks. S. 245: Refunds-Setting off against tax due-Stay application-Pendency of appeal-Adjustment of refunds for AYs 2021-22 and 2024-25 against demand for AY 2017-18 is bad in law when appeal for AY 2017-18 is pending; such demand ought to be stayed till disposal of the appeal.[S. 143(1), 246A, Art. 226]

A scrutiny assessment for AY 2017-18 led to additions to the assessee's income and a tax demand. The assessee applied for a stay on the demand, but the AO immediately rejected the application and directed payment of 20% of the demand, which the assessee paid. Later, u/s. 143(1), refunds were determined for AYs 2021-22 and 2024-25.

Part of these refunds was adjusted against the outstanding demand for AY 2017-18. While the assessee's appeal for AY 2017-18 was still pending before the CIT (A), the AO initiated reassessment proceedings for that same year. On writ the High Court observed that, concerning reassessment and refund adjustments for AY 2017-18, it established that when an appeal is pending, tax demands should be stayed, and refund adjustments against such demands are not permissible. The demand from reassessment proceedings (u/s 147r/w 144B) must be stayed until the appeal before the

CIT (A) is resolved. Adjustment of refunds for AYs 2021-22 and 2024-25 against the outstanding demand for AY 2017-18 is illegal. The balance demand for AY 2017-18 under both original and reassessment orders is stayed pending appeal disposal.(AY 2021-22, 2024-25)

S. 245A : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Search & seizure-Proceedings under S.153A deemed pending from date of search-Applications filed before 30-9-2021 maintainable-Orders rejecting applications unsustainable-Applications restored to Interim Board-Interpretation-Anomalous results to be avoided and legislative intent behind deletion of provisions to be effected. [S. 119, 132, 139, 147, 148, 149, 151, 153A, 245C, Art. 226]

On writ, the High Court held that where a search under section 132 is conducted prior to 31-3-2021, all assessment years covered by section 153A stand reopened and are deemed "pending" for purposes of section 245A(b), notwithstanding that earlier proceedings under sections 139/147/148/149/151/153 may have been concluded. The definition of "case" cannot be restricted by Explanation (iiia), as the provisos to section 245A(b) were deleted to expand the scope of pending proceedings, and the Explanations cannot override that legislative intent. Since anomalous results must be avoided, the only proper interpretation is that a "case" becomes pending from the date of the search itself. Therefore, assessees subjected to search before 31-3-2021 were entitled to file settlement applications up to 30-9-2021 pursuant to CBDT's order under section 119(2)(b), and such applications must be adjudicated by the Interim Board for Settlement. The rejection of applications as not maintainable was invalid, and the applications were directed to be restored.(SJ)

S. 245C: Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Conditions-Immunity from penalty and prosecution-High Court held that there was no foundation for finding of full and true disclosure by Settlement Commission-Matter remanded for reconsideration of grant of immunity-Review petition dismissed-SLP dismissed by Supreme Court with clarification that Settlement Commission shall decide matter independently in accordance with law and without being influenced by observations of High Court. [S. 245H, Art. 136]

On writ petitions filed by the Department challenging the order of the Settlement Commission granting immunity from penalty and prosecution, the High Court held that there was no foundation for the Commission's satisfaction regarding full and true disclosure by the assessees. The matter was therefore remanded to the Settlement Commission for reconsideration of the question whether immunity under section 245H ought to be granted. The review petitions filed by the assessees were dismissed, the Court observing that neither the original order nor the final order of the Settlement Commission disclosed any reasons as to how it was satisfied about full and true disclosure or why the assessees were entitled to immunity. On SLP, the Supreme Court dismissed the petition and clarified that it had not interfered with the direction of remand and that the Settlement Commission shall examine the matter in accordance with law, without being influenced by the findings recorded by the High Court.

S. 245C : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Law amended with retrospective effect from 1-2-2021, but notified on 1-4-2021-Application filed prior to 31-3-2021-No prohibition in statute as on that date for assessee to make such application-Interim Board holding applications invalid-High Court held order of Interim Board not sustainable and remanded matters for consideration on merits-SLP dismissed-Question of law kept open [Ss. 245A(b), 245C, 245D(4), Art. 136].

Notices under sections 148/153 were issued to the assesseees, who filed applications under section 245C(1) before 31-3-2021, i.e., after 1-2-2021 but prior to 1-4-2021. The Interim Board for Settlement treated such applications as invalid by relying upon the amended provisions introduced by the Finance Act, 2021. On writ petitions, the High Court held that though the amendment was stated to operate retrospectively from 1-2-2021, it was notified only on 1-4-2021 and, therefore, till 31-3-2021 there was no statutory prohibition against filing settlement applications. The Court read down para 4(i) of Circular dated 28-9-2021 and held that applications filed between 1-2-2021 and 31-3-2021 were to be treated as pending and eligible for consideration by the Interim Board. Accordingly, the orders of the Interim Board were set aside and matters were remanded for decision on merits. The Supreme Court dismissed the SLP and left the question of law open.(AY. 2010-11, 2013-14, 2016-17, 2017-18, 2019-20, 2020-21)

Allowing the petition of the revenue the Court held that, when there was unimpeachable evidence of a much larger amount of concealed income, about which there was no ambiguity, what was disclosed by the assessee in the application filed under section 245C could not be regarded as full and true disclosure of income merely because the assessee, when cornered in the course of the proceedings before the Settlement Commission, offered to disclose the entire concealed income. Since the Settlement Commission had ignored this crucial aspect, the majority order of the Settlement Commission was contrary to the provisions of section 245H(1).(AY. 2004-05 to 2010-11)(Dt. 10-2-2014)

On writ petitions by the Department contending that the Settlement Commission had granted the assessee immunity from penalty and prosecution without recording its satisfaction, that there had been a full and true disclosure of the income, which was a mandatory condition under section 245H(1), Court held that the order of the Settlement Commission to the extent it had granted the assessee immunity from penalty and prosecution was set aside and the matter was remanded to the Settlement Commission for a fresh decision on that question in accordance with law. On writ petitions by the Department challenging the order passed by the Settlement Commission to the extent that it granted the assessees immunity from prosecution and penalty, the court in CIT v. Raheja Builders Pvt. Ltd., (2025) 483 ITR 619 (Delhi)) observed that there was no foundation for the finding of the Settlement Commission that there was full and fair disclosure, and remanded the matter to the Settlement Commission for reconsideration whether or not immunity from penalty and prosecution ought to be granted. On review petitions by the assessees contending that at both stages (at the stage of applications under section 245C and section 245H), there had been no non-co-operation by the assessees, that the assessees' applications had been allowed to be proceeded with by the Settlement Commission on the finding that the assessees fulfilled all the conditions prescribed under section 245C(1) of the Act, read with the background recorded in the order passed by the Settlement Commission, and that that was sufficient to grant immunity: Held, that no reason had been given by the Settlement Commission either in its initial order December 28, 2011 or in its final order dated June 27, 2013 as to why the Commission had recorded its satisfaction in respect of true and full disclosure and as to why the assessees made out a case for grant of immunity from prosecution and penalty. There was no error apparent on the face of the record or any other grounds that merited consideration for reviewing CIT v. Raheja Builders Pvt. Ltd., (2025) 483 ITR 619 (Delhi)(HC). S. 245C : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Conditions-Abolition of Settlement Commission-Interim Board Settlement Commission inoperative from 1-2-2021-Application on 17-3-202, i.e., prior to date when assent of President of India had been received for Finance Act, 2021-Application was restored to file of Settlement Commission. [S. 24B. 245C(1), 245(5) Art. 226]

Assessee filed applications before the Settlement Commission for settlement of his income tax matters for assessment years 2014-15 to 2020-21. Settlement Commission treated application as invalid on the ground that the requisite conditions for filing a settlement application under section 245C read with the Finance Act, 2021, press release dated 7-9-2021 and CBDT's order under section 119(2)(b), dated 28-9-2021, had prima facie not been fulfilled. On writ, the Court held that sub-section (5) of section 245C was not to make an application already filed after 1-2-2021 as invalid but it should be read as no application shall be made after 1-2-2021 once assent of President of India had been received, and any application made by assessee before grant of assent would not be hit by sub-section (5) of section 245C. The Settlement Commission was abolished by the Finance Act, 2021, which was notified on 01-04-2021, and an Interim Board was constituted to deal with pending applications. Since assessee filed the application before the Settlement Commission on 17-3-2021 i.e., prior to the date when assent of the President of India had been received for the Finance Act, 2021, the application was to be restored to the file of the Settlement Commission and the Interim Board was directed to consider the said application. S. 245C : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Conditions-Applications of petitioners were validly filed before ITSC which legally and factually existed, i.e., much before Finance Act, 2021 was promulgated on 1-4-2021-Application shall be treated as pending applications to be considered by Interim Board-Direction was issued to consider application. [S. 119(2)(b), 153A, 245C(1), 245C(5) Art. 226]

Petitioner-company was subjected to search and seizure-Subsequently, notices under section 153A were issued to it. Petitioner filed an application under section 245C on 22-3-2021 along with an amount of Rs. 30.04 crore by way of tax and interest on income disclosed in said application as statutorily required. ITSC did not take any action on said application filed by petitioner. Meanwhile, Finance Act, 2021 was promulgated on 1-4-2021 which abolished ITSC and constituted an Interim Board for settlement of pending applications. Petitioner filed a writ petition contending that because of introduction of Finance Bill, 2021, respondents were not accepting applications for settlement under old dispensation. Court held that It cases of assessee commenced with issuance of notice under sections 153A, 153C and 142(1) in month of March, 2021, and settlement applications were made on 22-3-2021, pursuant to orders passed by High Court. Thus, applications were validly filed before ITSC which legally and factually existed, i.e., much before Finance Act, 2021 was promulgated on 1-4-2021. Court held that settlement applications of petitioners, even if filed after 1-2-2021, on 22-3-2021, shall be treated as pending applications to be considered by Interim Board. S. 245C : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Full and true disclosure-Assessee disclosed entire receipts and offered part thereof as income after claiming balance as expenses-Deeper factual enquiry required-Rejection of application at stage of s. 245D(2C) not justified-Matter to be proceeded with under s. 245D(4)-Consequent transfer to Interim Board under s. 245AA. [S. 245AA, 245D(2C), 245D(4), Art. 226]

The assessee had disclosed the receipts in full and offered part of such receipts as income while claiming the remaining portion as deductible expenses. The Settlement Commission rejected the applications at the stage of s. 245D(2C) on the ground of absence of full and true disclosure. On writ, the Court held that where receipts are disclosed and only the quantification of allowable expenses requires verification, the matter calls for deeper factual examination. The proper course was to allow the applications to proceed beyond s. 245D(2C) and adjudicate the claim under s. 245D(4) after calling for evidence and determining the correct taxable income. Rejection at the preliminary stage was not justified. The impugned order was quashed. In view of abolition of the ITSC and constitution of the Interim Board for Settlement under s. 245AA w.e.f. 1-2-2021, the matters were directed to be placed before the Interim Board for disposal in accordance with law.

eligibility conditions by delegated legislation-Clause in CBDT Order requiring pendency as on 31-3-2021 held ultra vires-Order partly reversed. [S. 119(2)(b), 132, 153A, 153C, 245A(b), Art. 226]

The assesseees were subjected to search under section 132 prior to 31-3-2021; however, notices under sections 153A / 153C were issued after 31-3-2021. Applications for settlement were filed before the Interim Board for Settlement on or before 30-9-2021, which were rejected relying on CBDT Order dated 28-9-2021 on the ground that no "case" was pending as on 31-3-2021. The single judge allowed the writ petitions holding that pendency had to be reckoned with reference to the date of search. On appeal by the Revenue, the High Court held that in the absence of any challenge to the statutory definition of "case" under section 245A(b), there was no scope to artificially construe search proceedings as constituting pendency; however, section 245C mandates only that a "live and unadjudicated" case must be pending on the date of filing of the application. The Court further held that the CBDT, while exercising power under section 119(2)(b), could not introduce substantive eligibility restrictions or deny the benefit of extended time to a class of assesseees by prescribing an additional cut-off date. Consequently, the clause in the CBDT Order requiring pendency of a case as on 31-3-2021 was held ultra vires the Act. While setting aside the single judge's finding equating search with pendency, the Court upheld the direction to consider settlement applications on merits where notices under sections 153A / 153C were issued between 31-3-2021 and 30-9-2021.

During the pendency of assessment proceedings, assessee filed application before Settlement Commission under section 245C on 30-3-2021. Assessing Officer, however, completed assessment proceedings and passed assessment orders on 27-7-2021 on ground that applications was filed before Settlement Commissioner after cessation of settlement commission. CBDT came out with a press release dated 7-9-2021, directing to admit all applications filed after 31-1-2021 and before 30-9-2021. On writ the Court held that application filed by assessee under section 245C would be an eligible application though filed after 31-1-2021 and same was required to be considered as pending application for adjudication on merits. As per provision of section 245F(2), Interim Board was vested with powers of Settlement Commission and jurisdiction and Income-tax authority could not have proceeded further with assessment proceedings in view of pendency of settlement application before Interim Board. Therefore the assessment order were non est and liable to be quashed and set aside as same could not have been passed as per provision of section 245F(2) of the Act. (AY. 2013-14 to 2018-19)

S. 245D: Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-True and full disclosure-High Court set aside order of Single Judge interfering with Settlement Commission order-Once ITSC was satisfied about true and full disclosure and had proceeded beyond stage of s. 245D(2C), writ court cannot re-appreciate sufficiency of material or interpretation of seized documents-Alleged calculation error could be brought before appropriate authority for correction. [S. 245C, 245D(2C), 245D(4), Art. 226]

The Single Judge set aside the order passed by the Income Tax Settlement Commission (ITSC) on the premise that the assessee had failed to make a true and full disclosure; however, it was not even the case of the Department that there was absence of true and full disclosure, since in such a situation the ITSC would not have proceeded beyond the stage contemplated under s. 245D(2C). The ITSC having recorded satisfaction regarding true and full disclosure and thereafter passed an order under s. 245D(4), interference in writ jurisdiction was unwarranted. The Court held that even assuming that the ITSC had committed a calculation error or adopted an incorrect interpretation of seized documents, the same would not justify judicial interference, as the High Court cannot sit in appeal over the sufficiency of material considered by the Settlement Commission. If the grievance of the Revenue related to a computational mistake, it was open to the Department to approach the competent authority/Interim Board in accordance with law. Accordingly, the order of the Single Judge was quashed and the order of under s. 245D(4) passed by the ITSC affirmed. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13)

S. 245D : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Procedure-Application-Report by Principal Commissioner-Rejection of request for further enquiry-No adverse inferences drawn in assessment proceedings pursuant to search and seizure Nothing to establish that mere agreement of sale between two persons led to concealment of income Order of Settlement Commission rejecting further enquiry was held to be proper.[S. 132, 153A, 245C, 245D(3), Income-tax Settlement Commission (Procedure) Rules, 1997, R. 9, Art. 226

The Settlement Commission rejected the plea of the Department for further enquiry. On a writ the Court held that the Settlement Commission, in its order, had specifically referred to seven deeds of registration seized in the search and had found that three of those properties were purchased in the individual names of the partners of the firms in question and not in the names of the assesseees. Proceedings under section 153A were initiated and orders were passed, wherein no adverse inference was drawn. The enquiry was with respect to the investment in certain properties found during the search and seizure operation under section 132. There was no enquiry conducted by the Department on the website, and no materials were produced before the Settlement Commission in respect of the properties in question. In respect of the sale agreements, the only contention of the Department was that though notices were issued to the parties mentioned in the deeds, none had appeared, and hence they were bogus persons, and the agreements were set up to conceal the investments made. But for the bland assertion of concealment of income, there was nothing to establish as to how the mere agreement of sale between two persons could lead to concealment of income. The Department also had not conducted any enquiry except for issuing letters to the registered addresses of the persons mentioned in the deeds and on receiving no response, it had styled them as bogus, summarily. On such findings the Settlement Commission had rejected the plea for a further inquiry, which was proper and no interference was warranted.

On Writ the Court held that the Settlement Commission had accepted that the returns for the assessment year 1989-1990 could not be filed in time, and were delayed on account of the fact that the seized papers were not available with them. While exercising the discretion by the Settlement Commission, no reasons had been assigned as to why the interest had been reduced by 50 per cent. only, and as to why the complete interest had not been waived for the assessment year 1989-1990. The interest charged in terms of section 234A was to be waived. As regards seizure of cash during the search could not be a ground for waiver of advance tax or payment of tax for the subsequent year. The advance tax was required to be paid the interest under sections 234B and 234C was not waived.(AY. 1989-90)

The Commissioner of Income-tax had challenged the final order passed by the Settlement Commission under section 245D(4) of the Act. The single judge set aside the orders of the Settlement Commission. On appeal the Court held that there was no allegation of bias or fraud or malice in the order of the Settlement Commission. It may be true that when the orders in question were passed by the Settlement Commission, the judgment of the Bombay High Court was not decided. But, a judicial decision acts retrospectively as held in Blackstonian theory. It is not the function of the court to pronounce a "new rule" but to maintain and expound the "old one". Judges do not make law, they only discover or find the correct law. The law has always been the same. If a subsequent decision alters the earlier one, the later decision does not make new law. It only discovers the correct principle of law which has to be applied retrospectively. Even where an earlier decision of a court operated for quite some time, the decision rendered later on would have retrospective effect, clarifying the legal position which was earlier not correctly understood. The orders passed by the single judge was quashed and set aside.(AY. 1999-2000 to 2005-06)

S. 245D : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Cash credits-Share application-Order of Settlement Commission accepting claim for deduction need not be interfered with-Order of Settlement Commission holding that addition of unsubstantiated share capital under s. 68 would not qualify for deduction under s. 80-IC set aside-Section 115BBE (introduced later) not applicable; assessee entitled to special deduction. [S. 68, 80-IC, 115BBE, 245D(3), 245D(4), Art. 226]

The Settlement Commission's conclusions were upheld in large measure. The Director of Industries had certified the claim, and the Assessing Officer had accepted the deduction under section 80-IC during scrutiny assessments for AYs 2006-07 to 2008-09. In respect of additions to the share capital of entity A (amounting to Rs. 37.60 crores), those additions had already been subjected to tax in assessments of entity A and the Department had identified the source of funds; therefore, the Settlement Commission erred in making further additions on that basis. Section 115BBE-which disallows special deductions for certain incomes-was inserted only by the Finance Act, 2012, with effect from 1 April 2013, and thus did not apply to the assessment years in question. The assessee had explained circumstances for surrendering income and the Department produced no material to displace the claim that the share capital was connected with the business. The Settlement Commission's order was set aside in part (to the extent of certain additions) but, importantly, the assessee was held entitled to consequential relief and the denial of deduction under section 80IC on that ground was set aside.(AY. 2004-05 to 2010-11)

The assessee stated the Settlement Commission had formally pronounced the case as settled and recorded the terms, with hearings concluded and only the written order under section 245D(4) pending. The Settlement Commission ceased to exist with effect from 1 February 2021 (Finance Bill, 2021), and no orders under section 245D(4) were issued before that date. On affidavit, the Vice-President and a member of the Settlement Commission confirmed that hearings concluded on 28 January 2021 and that the terms of settlement were accepted and pronounced. The Court found the affidavit by the Vice-President and member to be credible and inconsistent with the Assistant Commissioner's case diary account. Consequently, the Interim Board was directed to pass an order under section 245D(4) accepting the application as "settled" on the terms pronounced by the Settlement Commission, granting immunity from penalties and prosecution as indicated.

Gagjibhai Bhurabhai Koshiya & Ors. v. Interim Board of Settlement & Anr. [2024] 161 taxmann.com 48 / (2025) 475 ITR 249 (Guj)(HC)

S. 245D : Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Procedure-Application-Search and seizure-Additional income-Settlement Commission entitled to consider evidence beyond materials seized during search operation or disclosed before it-Writ petition was dismissed. [S.2(22)(e), 132, 245D(4), 245I, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that section 245D of the Act states that after examination of the records and the report of the Principal Commissioner or Commissioner, if any, "and after examining such further evidence as may be placed before it or obtained by it," the Settlement Commission may, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, pass such order as it thinks fit. The Commission must pass orders under section 245D(4) in accordance with the provisions of the Act, but it is not precluded from considering other evidence and materials which were not before the Assessing Officer if they were brought to the notice of the Commission to determine the true and correct undisclosed income of the assessee and this is amply clear from the language employed in the Act. Therefore, the Commission is not barred from considering the material evidence which was not discovered during the search and seizure operation. The order of the Settlement Commission under section 245D(4) is in the nature of a package deal. An assessee cannot be permitted to accept what is favourable to him and reject what is not. S. 245D : Settlement Commission-Search-Additional income-Finding of fact arrived at by Settlement Commission and in absence of any evidence found contrary to disclosure made, order passed by Settlement Commission was just and proper and required no interference. Writ petition of revenue was dismissed. [S. 132, 153A, 245C(1), 245D, Art. 226]

During search under section 132 carried out at premises of assessee, various incriminating documents pertaining to unaccounted income of assessee were found and seized. Thereafter, assessee filed application under section 245C(1) before Settlement Commission offering additional income of certain amount. Assessee contended that said income was out of land dealing through one Mr. Kishor P. Koshiya as assessee was parking his fund with him who was making investment, entering into land transactions and parting with gap income with assessee. Settlement Commission admitted application filed by assessee under section 245D(1). Revenue filed writ petition contending that in absence of condition of disclosing manner of earning of additional income disclosed by assessee, Settlement Commissioner could not have accepted settlement application. The Court held that Settlement Commission while accepting application of assessee, found that assessee was not directly dealing with land from which income had been earned which had been invested in land and therefore, it would not be possible for assessee to disclose manner in which such undisclosed income was earned from real estate transaction. Finding of fact arrived at by Settlement Commission and in absence of any evidence found contrary to the disclosure made, the order passed by Settlement Commission was just and proper and required no interference. Writ petition of revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2011-12 to 2017-18)

S. 245D: Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Interim Board for settlement (IBS)-Deemed dividend-Undisclosed income-Remuneration earned-[S.2(22)(3) 132, 153A, 245C, 245D(4), Art.226]

Assessee filed an application under section 245C admitting undisclosed income of certain amount towards remuneration earned outside banking channels which was admitted. Assessing Officer in his report opined that assessee had not disclosed an additional income to the extent of certain amount. Settlement Commission (IBS) passed a final order settling the income of assessee at a certain amount. Assessee filed a writ petition on issue of loan amount received by assessee from two companies in which it was a shareholder, which IBS considered as deemed dividend income of assessee under section 2(22), which was dismissed by a single judge, on finding that there was no scope for interfering with the impugned order of IBS in proceedings under Article 226. On appeal against the order of the single judge, dismissing the appeal the Court held that the assessee might be able to demonstrate that loans availed by him for sister concerns were for furtherance of business of group as a whole, and therefore, would not attract concept of deemed dividend, fact remained that from another perspective said amount could be seen as income that was not disclosed for purposes of settlement. Further, a defect that vitiates a settlement must be one that vitiate whole and not merely any one part of the settlement. Therefore, a partial acceptance of a settlement is not envisaged under I.T. Act, and courts must defer to that scheme of statutory finality envisaged for settlement under I.T. Act while exercising jurisdiction of judicial review under Article 226. Order of single judge is affirmed. (AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

S. 245H: Settlement Commission-Settlement of cases-Power-Grant of immunity from prosecution and penalty-High Court setting aside order of Settlement Commission and remanding matter for reconsideration on ground that assessee had not made full and true disclosure at the outset-Special Leave Petition dismissed with clarification that remand direction of High Court would remain unaffected and matter to be examined afresh in accordance with law without being influenced by observations of High Court. [S. 245C, Art. 136]

The assessee had approached the Settlement Commission seeking settlement of its case and the Commission granted it immunity from penalty and prosecution. The High Court, on a review petition, held that for invoking the settlement mechanism the assessee must make a full and true disclosure of undisclosed income at the first instance and that disclosures in instalments would not satisfy the statutory requirement. Observing that there was no basis for the finding of the Settlement Commission that the assessee had made a full and fair disclosure, the High Court set aside the order granting immunity and remanded the matter to the Settlement Commission for reconsideration. On Special Leave Petition by the assessee, the Supreme Court dismissed the petition but clarified that the direction of remand issued by the High Court remained undisturbed and the matter should be examined afresh by the concerned authority strictly in accordance with law without being influenced by any observations or findings recorded in the High Court's judgment. SLP dismissed.

S. 245H : Settlement Commission-Immunity from prosecution and penalty-Full and true disclosure-Writ petition of revenue was dismissed. [S. 245C, 245D(4), Art. 226]

The assessee-company approached the Settlement Commission for A.Ys. 2004-05 to 2011-12 and offered additional income for settlement. The Commission, while passing the final order, granted immunity from penalty and prosecution under section 245H. The Revenue challenged the grant of immunity contending that the Commission had exceeded its jurisdiction and that the statutory conditions were not satisfied. Dismissing the petition, the Court held that since the twin conditions on part of assessee i.e., (i) to make a full and true disclosure and (ii) to cooperate in proceedings, were satisfied for purposes of section 245D(4), the validity of discretionary power exercised by ITSC under section 245H could not be questioned. The order of ITSC was affirmed. Writ petition of revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2004-05 to 2011-12)

The respondent, a Mauritius-based company, acquired shares of Flipkart Singapore between October 2011 and April 2015. It later transferred them to a Luxembourg entity. The High Court held that the respondent had economic substance, as it incurred expenses of USD 1,063,709 and had liabilities and shareholders' equity of USD 1,764,819,299. The mere connection of two board members with the TG Group did not establish it as a puppet entity under the LOB clause of the India-Mauritius DTAA. The Court held that, as no tax rate was prescribed under Art. 13(3B) for gains from shares acquired before 1-4-2017, the grandfathering provision in Art. 13(3A) applied, excluding the transaction from capital gains tax. The Supreme Court stayed the High Court order pending disposal of the Revenue's SLP. (AY 2018-19)

S. 246A : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Appealable orders-National Faceless Appeal Centre Delay in disposal of appeal before Commissioner (Appeals)-Directions issued to expedite adjudication of appeal within stipulated period. [S. 250, Art. 226]

On a writ petition seeking a direction to the National Faceless Appeal Centre to decide, within a period of four to eight weeks, the assessee's appeal under section 246A of the Income-tax Act, 1961, filed on October 14, 2022, which was pending adjudication before the Commissioner (Appeals):

The court directed the National Faceless Appeal Centre to expedite the disposal of the assessee's appeal within a period of eight weeks. The court expressed concern over the delay in disposal of appeals, for which the National Faceless Appeal Centre was envisaged and observed that the National Faceless Appeal Centre should endeavour to implement the remedial measures in all earnest.

S. 246A : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Appealable orders-Assessment order-Alternative remedy-Writ petition was dismissed with liberty to assessee to avail alternate remedy available under Act. [S.143(3), 250, Art.226]

Assessment order was challenged by assessee by way of writ petition. On writ the Court held that the assessee had alternate remedy of appeal available under Act. a There was no statement about no alternate or efficacious remedy not being available to assessee. Since assessee had alternate and efficacious remedy to question impugned assessment order, alternate statutory remedy could not be bypassed so casually and without disclosing full and correct facts. Writ petition was dismissed with liberty to assessee to avail alternate remedy available under Act.

S. 249 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Form of appeal and limitation-Condonation of delay-Non-consideration of assessee's application-Order passed without examining records amounts to gross negligence-Order set aside and matter remanded-Cost of Rs 10000 was imposed on Department with liberty to recover the same from the erring officer in accordance with law. [S. 246A, 249(3), 250, Art. 226]

The CIT(A), functioning through the National Faceless Appeal Centre (NAFC), dismissed the assessee's appeal without considering the application for condonation of delay and without taking note of binding judgments of the Supreme Court and the High Court granting time to pursue alternative remedies. The Department fairly conceded before the High Court that the impugned order appeared to have been passed without proper examination of records and deserved remand. The Court held that the action of the CIT(A) reflected gross negligence, if not dereliction of duty, as an appellate authority is expected to examine all relevant aspects before passing an order, and such mechanical disposal caused unnecessary hardship and multiplicity of litigation. Accordingly, the impugned order was set aside and the CIT(A) was directed to consider the appeal afresh after granting personal hearing and to pass a reasoned order within three months. Considering the hardship and litigation expenses suffered by the assessee, the Department was directed to pay costs of Rs. 10,000 to the assessee, with liberty to recover the same from the erring officer in accordance with law. The CIT(A) dismissed the appeal filed manually. On writ allowing the petition, the Court held that when the manually filed appeal was dismissed as invalidly filed, the appellate authority is directed to take into consideration the date of filing of the manual appeal for the purposes of calculating and appreciating the issue of delay in respect of the appeal preferred online.

Assessee having not filed the appeal in time on the advice of the professional who was handling its assessment proceedings and subsequently filed the appeal pursuant to the advice of another professional, the reason for the delay given by the assessee appears to be genuine, and bona fide and it cannot be said that there was no sufficient cause for the delay; appeal is restored to the CIT(A) with a direction to decide the appeal on its own merits. S. 249: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Form of appeal and limitation-Condonation of delay-Ex parte assessment-Matter remanded for fresh adjudication. [S. 143(3), 221(1), 271(1)(c)]

The assessee-firm's appeals against the assessment and penalty orders were dismissed by the Commissioner (Appeals) on the ground of delay. The assessee established that the business had been discontinued, the partners had shifted from the place of business and the assessment and penalty orders had never been served, the assessee becoming aware of them only on receipt of a recovery notice. The Tribunal held that sufficient cause had been shown for condonation of delay and that participation by the chartered accountant during assessment proceedings did not establish knowledge of the assessment orders. On the merits, the addition was made solely due to a clerical error in the date mentioned in the supplier's invoice, despite the assessee producing revised invoices and supplier confirmation. Since these documents had not been properly examined, the assessment was restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication after due verification. As the quantum addition was remanded, the penalty under section 271(1)(c) was also set aside for fresh consideration, if necessary. (AY. 2014-15.)

The assessee-company had inadvertently been allotted two PANs, one in the status of a firm and another in the status of a company. Returns of income were filed under the new PAN, whereas reassessment proceedings were initiated under the old PAN on the basis of information received from the DGFT. Since the assessee was unaware of the proceedings under the old PAN, it could not file appeals within the prescribed time. The Tribunal held that the existence of two PANs constituted sufficient and reasonable cause for the delay in filing the appeals. The delay was condoned, and the matter was restored to the Assessing Officer to verify whether the transactions reported by the DGFT under the old PAN had already been accounted for by the assessee in its books of account. Assessing Officer passed an ex-parte assessment order against assessee under section 144. Assessee filed an appeal before CIT(A) after a delay of 1386 days. CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on the ground of delay. On appeal, the assessee contended that his father was lodged in jail and notices were issued to the jail superintendent, and no compliance with the notices issued by the Assessing Officer could be made. Tribunal held that since an ex parte order had been passed by the Assessing Officer without serving notice to assessee, delay in filing appeal was condoned and matter was remanded back to CIT(A) to decide afresh on merits. (AY. 2017-18)

Assessment order was served on assessee on 7-8-2023, and the due date for filing of appeal was 5-9-2023. Assessee filed an appeal on 25-8-2023. Tribunal held that merely issuing an order on 30-3-2023 would not start the due date for filing of the appeal, but the calculation of the due date for filing of the appeal was from the date of service of the order, which was plausible; therefore, CIT (A) was correct in dismissing the appeal on the ground of delay. The matter was remanded to the file of CIT(A) to decide on merits. (AY. 2017-18, 2021-22)

[S. 69A, 249 (4)(b), 250]

The AO made addition under section 69A of the Act, in respect of cash deposited in the Bank. The assessee denied the addition u/s 69A of the Act. On appeal, the CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on the ground that the admitted tax was not paid by the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee, who is residing outside India, has no admitted income in India and is disputing the addition under s. 69A made by the AO, there was no admitted tax liability and, therefore, the appeal filed by the assessee before the CIT(A) could not be dismissed on account of non-compliance with the provisions of s. 249(4)(b). S. 250 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-There is no provision for rejecting an appeal for non-appearance of appellant-Irrespective of question whether appellant had appeared or not, appellate authority had to take decision by strictly following mandate contemplated under section 250(6) which could only be a decision adjudicating grounds raised in appeal-CIT(A) was directed to decide the appeal within three months from the date of receipt of the order. [S. 10(10C), 89(1), 250(6), Art. 226]

The petitioner was an employee ICICI Bank, who took voluntary retirement during the assessment year 2004-05. As part of the benefits of retirement scheme, he received a compensation of Rs.4,52,814/-. He submitted return of income for the said assessment year claiming relief under section 89(1) amounting to Rs.24,353/-. Subsequently he submitted a rectification application, seeking exemption under section 10(10C) on retirement compensation, which was turned down by the assessing officer. Against the same, a revision petition was submitted by the petitioner before the Commissioner (Appeals), which was rejected, relegating the petitioner to invoke the appellate remedies. On writ, the Court held that section 250(6) imposes an obligation upon the appellate authority that while disposing of appeal, the order shall be in writing and shall state points for determination, decision thereon and reason for the decision. It was obligatory on the part of the appellate authority to refer to the points raised in the appeal and to determine the same by supplying reasons for such determination. There is no provision for rejecting an appeal for non-appearance of appellant. Therefore, in the absence of any such provision, irrespective of the question whether appellant had appeared or not, the appellate authority had to take a decision by strictly following the mandate contemplated under section 250(6), which could only be a decision answering points raised in the appeal. CIT(A) was directed to decide the appeal within three months from the date of receipt of the order. (AY. 2004-05)(SJ)

On writ allowing the petition, that there should not be any difficulty on the part of the first appellate authority to decide the appeals at the earliest, more so, taking into account the mandate of section 250(6A) and the guidelines dated March 7, 2024. The Principal Commissioner was to ensure that the appeals filed by the assessee for the assessment year 2020-2021 and 2018-2019 on October 18, 2022 and April 10, 2023 were disposed of within a period of three months. [S.246A, Art.226]

The petitioner filed an appeal on 14.10.2022, which remained pending before the Commissioner [CIT(A) for more than two years. Aggrieved by the delay, the petitioner approached the High Court through a writ petition, seeking directions to dispose of the pending appeal within 4 to 8 weeks and to issue guidelines for timely disposal of pending appeals. The petitioner also sought interest and compensatory costs for the delay in adjudication. During the hearing, the Senior Standing Counsel for the National Faceless Appeal Centre (NFAC) submitted a roadmap for the disposal of 5,49,042 pending appeals in a time-bound manner, as per the Central Action Plan 2024-25, which was taken on record by the Court. The High Court observed that the NFAC was created to expedite disposal of appeals and expressed concern over the large backlog. While it did not issue specific guidelines, it expected NFAC to implement remedial measures earnestly. Regarding the petitioner's appeal, the court noted with concern that it had been pending for more than two years and directed that it be taken up for consideration and disposed of expeditiously, within eight weeks. No order was passed on the request for interest or compensatory costs [WP(C) 356/2025 and CM Appl. 1749/2025, dt. 24.02.2025]

An assessment under s. 143(3) resulted in a demand under s. 156. The assessee filed a stay application after voluntarily depositing 20% of the demand. On 6-10-2022, a refund for AY 2022-23 was adjusted against the demand for AY 2015-16. The stay application was decided only on 17-04-2024, granting a stay for the balance demand. The court deprecated the Department's delay (stay application filed 29-01-2018 but decided after over six years). The Department could not profit from its delay by adjusting a later refund against the earlier demand, which caused the assessee to pay an amount exceeding the 20% voluntarily deposited. The Department ought to have refunded the excess either on the assessee's representation or while passing the stay order. The court directed refund of the excess adjustment and ordered expeditious adjudication of the appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals), and directed investigation into the delay in adjudication. (AY. 2015-16)

On a writ petition seeking direction for expediting the disposal of a pending appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) filed under section 246A of the Income-tax Act, 1961, in the year 2015, the Court held that the appeal was filed under section 246A on May 8, 2015, almost ten years back and till date there was no progress in the proceedings before the Commissioner (Appeals). The Commissioner (Appeals) was directed to decide the appeal within six months from the date of the order of the court.

S. 250 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Time bound disposal of appeals)-Delay in disposal of appeals-Pending for five years-Stipulation of one year period for disposal of appeal in provisions of section 250(6A)-Legislative intent-Inordinate delay would defeat objective of provision-If the appeal was not disposed within this period, the reasons for such delay must be explicitly recorded in the orders, so as to reflect whether the delay was attributable to the assessee or the Department and efforts should be made to decide the appeals maximum within a period of two years-Commissioner (Appeals) directed to decide appeal within three months from date of order of court-The Registry was directed to send a copy of this order to Union of India, the Central Board of Direct Taxes, the Commissioner (Appeals), the Assistant Commissioner and the Principal Commissioner (Central) for necessary compliance. [S. 246A, 250(6A), Art. 226.]

On writ the Court held the Commissioner (Appeals) was directed to decide within a period of three months, the appeal filed by the assessee under section 246A for the assessment year 2018-2019, five years back in the year 2020, in which there was no progress till date. Considering that substantial amount of revenue involved in these appeals remained blocked during the pendency of these proceedings, it was imperative that the appellate authorities should endeavour to dispose of the appeals, preferably within one year as prescribed under the provisions of the Act. If the appeal was not disposed of within this period, the reasons for such delay must be explicitly recorded in the orders, so as to reflect whether the delay was attributable to the assessee or the Department and efforts should be made to decide the appeals within a maximum period of two years. The Registry was directed to send a copy of this order to the Union of India, the Central Board of Direct Taxes, the Commissioner (Appeals), the Assistant Commissioner and the Principal Commissioner (Central) for necessary compliance. Section 250 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 shows the intention of the Legislature since it has been specifically mentioned that in every appeal, the Joint Commissioner (Appeals) or the Commissioner (Appeals), as the case may be, where it is possible, may hear and decide such appeal within a period of one year from the end of the financial year in which such appeal is filed before him. Although the expression "where it is possible" has been used, the intent of the Legislature unequivocally is in favour of time-bound disposal of appeals. An inordinate delay in adjudication at the appellate level defeats the objective of section 250(6A). (AY. 2018-19)

S. 250 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-Sufficient opportunity was provided-Order of single judge dismissing the writ petition is affirmed-Order is modified to the extent of remitting 20 per cent of the disputed tax as a precondition for filing a stay petition along with the appeal before the Tribunal.[S. 220(6), 250(4), Art. 226]

On appeal, the Court held that the assessee was repeatedly called upon by the NFAC to produce the supporting documents, if any, he had not chosen to produce any such documents and had only kept on seeking adjournments; there was thus no violation of principles of natural justice; there was no scope to contend that the notices were issued under s. 250(4) as part of the inquiry that would be conducted by the CIT(A) under the said sub-section; nor was there any cause or reason to believe that a separate notice for hearing would be issued to the assessee by the NFAC. However order of the single judge dismissing the writ petition is affirmed. The order is modified to the extent of remitting 20 per cent of the disputed tax as a precondition for filing a stay petition along with the appeal before the Tribunal. (AY.2017-18)

S. 250 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Penalty-Ex parte order-Commissioner (Appeals) bound to decide appeal on merits-Short and inadequate opportunity of hearing violates principles of natural justice-Matter restored. [S. 250(6), 251, 271B]

The Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed the assessee's appeal ex parte after issuing notices at long intervals and thereafter granting only seven days for compliance before passing the appellate order. The Tribunal held that an effective opportunity of hearing necessarily means a proper and reasonable opportunity. An appeal cannot be dismissed in limine without adjudicating the issues on the merits, as sections 250(6) and 251 cast a duty on the Commissioner (Appeals) to pass a reasoned order on the merits of the case. Since adequate opportunity had not been afforded to the assessee, the ex parte order was set aside, and the matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh disposal in accordance with law. S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Ex parte order-Technical glitches in uploading documents-Matter restored for fresh adjudication. [S. 251]

The assessee, a Regional Rural Bank, challenged an ex parte order of the Commissioner (Appeals), contending that although it had responded to the notice of hearing, the supporting attachments could not be uploaded due to technical glitches. Further, the subsequent notice contained an incorrect hearing date and though a corrected notice was later issued, the assessee did not receive it and remained under the impression that the original date continued to apply. The Tribunal held that the discrepancy in the hearing dates had deprived the assessee of a reasonable opportunity of being heard. Accordingly, the ex parte order was set aside and the matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh disposal after granting adequate opportunity of hearing. The assessee was directed to extend full co-operation in the appellate proceedings (AY. 2020-21) must examine additional evidence or call for a remand report before deciding the appeal. [S. 68, 139, 142(1), 144, Rule 46A]

The Assessing Officer completed an ex parte assessment treating cash deposits made during the demonetisation period as unexplained. Before the Commissioner (Appeals), the assessee, an aged illiterate farmer, produced additional evidence, including land records and bank statements and explained that the deposits represented agricultural receipts and redeposits of earlier cash withdrawals. He also explained that he could not respond before the Assessing Officer because his only son, who maintained the records, had suffered a prolonged illness and died. The Tribunal held that the Commissioner (Appeals) erred in rejecting the appeal without considering the additional evidence or calling for a remand report from the Assessing Officer as contemplated under Rule 46A. The matter was, therefore, restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for de novo adjudication after examining the additional evidence and the assessee's contentions. (AY. 2017-18)

The Commissioner (Appeals) cannot dismiss an appeal merely for non-compliance by the assessee and is statutorily required under section 250(6) to pass a reasoned and speaking order on the merits. Since the assessee's contention regarding the retrospective benefit of the amended proviso to section 12A(2) was not adjudicated and the appellate order merely affirmed the reassessment order without reasons, the order was held to be cryptic and in violation of section 250(6). The matter was restored to the

The Commissioner (Appeals) is empowered to direct the Assessing Officer to make necessary enquiries and verify facts where the record so warrants. Where the Assessing Officer, pursuant to such directions, verified the identity and creditworthiness of the share subscribers and accepted the transactions as genuine, no useful purpose would be served by remanding the matter merely for the Commissioner (Appeals) to pass a consequential order. Further, the Revenue's appeal, filed with a delay of 130 days based on a factually incorrect affidavit of the Assessing Officer, was held to be barred by limitation, and the delay was not condoned. An ex parte order passed by the Commissioner (Appeals) in a faceless appeal, without affording the assessee an effective opportunity of hearing, cannot be sustained where the possibility of communication gaps between the assessee and counsel cannot be ruled out. The matter was restored to the Commissioner (Appeals)/NFAC for fresh adjudication after granting adequate opportunity to the assessee, who was directed to diligently prosecute the appeal. The Tribunal held that the Commissioner (Appeals) proceeded on an incorrect factual premise. The Assessing Officer made additions under sections 68 and 69 in respect of unsecured loans, unexplained cash deposits, share capital and other credits, besides disallowing 10 per cent. of purchases for want of complete evidence. The Tribunal held that the assessee had produced additional evidence before the Commissioner (Appeals), who dismissed the appeal without calling for a remand report, resulting in violation of rule 46A. As several explanations relating to share capital, unsecured loans, cash deposits and purchases required proper verification, the entire matter was restored to the Assessing Officer for de novo adjudication after admitting the additional evidence and granting adequate opportunity to the assessee. The assessee filed its return of income claiming exemption under section 10(23C)(iiiad), but in the return processed under section 143(1)(a), the benefit of exemption was denied. The assessee's appeal for AY 2013-14 against additions made u/s 143(3) had been allowed by the CIT(A)-7 vide order dated 22.01.2018 in physical mode. Subsequently, after the introduction of the Faceless Appeal regime, the same appeal was again taken up by the National Faceless Appeal Centre and decided ex parte against the assessee. The Tribunal observed that once the appeal had already been decided, there was no occasion for the CIT(A) to pass a second order in the same matter. The lapse was due to departmental laxity, which caused the assessee to incur unnecessary litigation expenses. The Tribunal set aside the impugned order and directed the Department to pay costs of ₹10,000, equivalent to the appeal fee paid, in accordance with Rule 32A(2) of the ITAT Rules, 1963, within three months.(AY. 2013-14 (ITA No. 519/Mum/2023, Dt. 31.05.2023)

S. 251 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-Matter remanded to Assessing Officer by Tribunal-Consequential order passed by Assessing Officer-On appeal, Commissioner (Appeals) can consider matter on merits and is not bound by order of remand.[S. 254(1) 260A]

Allowing the appeal, the Court held that once the Assessing Officer passes an order, the Commissioner (Appeals) is independently empowered to examine the appeal and is not bound by the orders of remand passed earlier by the Tribunal. The order passed on remand by the Assessing Officer dated March 27, 2001, was not on remand by the Tribunal to the Commissioner (Appeals). The Tribunal, on appeal from the order dated January 16, 2002, therefore, erred in remanding the case back to the Commissioner (Appeals) directing him to follow the order of the Tribunal dated December 31, 1998. The said aspect had been completely ignored in the subsequent order passed by the Tribunal. (BP 1-4 1985 to 31-12-1995)

S. 251 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-Assessment-Ex parte order-Officer issuing notices should strictly explore possibilities of sending notices through some other mode as prescribed in section 169(1) of GST Act which were also valid mode of service under Act-Delay of six months-Application for condonation of delay was rejected-On writ the delay was condoned, subject to payment of Rs.5000 to the credit of the Principal Government of Naturopathy College and Hospital-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A) to decide on merits. [S. 143(3), 246A, Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, S.169(1), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer passed ex-parte assessment order. Assessee filed an appeal to Commissioner (Appeals) with a delay of more than six months. He also filed an application for condonation of delay claiming that all show cause notices were issued to an outdated e-mail ID of assessee's former auditor and he was unaware of said notices. Application was rejected on grounds that delay was beyond condonable period i.e., after 6 months from date of ex-parte order. The order also had reference to some provisions of the GST Act. On writ the Court held that when there was no response from tax payer to notice sent through a particular mode, Officer who was issuing notices should strictly explore possibilities of sending notices through some other mode as prescribed in section 169(1) of GST Act which were also valid mode of service under Act, otherwise it would not be an effective service, rather, it would only fulfilling empty formalities. Since reason assigned by assessee appeared to be genuine, delay in filing appeal was condoned. Delay was condoned, subject to payment of Rs.5000 to the credit of the Principal Government of Naturopathy College and Hospital. Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A) to decide on merits. [Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer disallowed the Commission and passed an ex parte order. CIT(A) allowed the claim of the assessee. Tribunal reversed the order of the CIT(A). High Court set aside the order of the Tribunal to the Assessing Officer. Revenue initiated the disciplinary proceedings against the CIT(A). CAT dismissed the petition. On writ by the Revenue the Court held that since gravity of charge against respondent was diluted when Tribunal remanded matter back to Assessing Officer, delay in initiation of disciplinary proceedings against respondent, six months prior to retirement of respondent, was fatal. Therefore, the writ petition of the Revenue is dismissed.

S. 251: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-Duty to adjudicate jurisdictional grounds-Matter remanded where legal grounds not decided before setting aside assessment. [S. 144, 147, 148, 250, 254]

The assessee's assessment was completed under section 144 read with section 147 after failure to file a return in response to notice under section 148. The Commissioner (Appeals), relying upon the amended provisions of section 251(1), set aside the assessment for fresh consideration without adjudicating the jurisdictional and legal grounds raised by the assessee. The Tribunal held that such grounds ought to have been decided first. Following its earlier decision on identical facts, it restored the matter to the Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh adjudication of all legal and jurisdictional issues after providing adequate opportunity of hearing to the assessee. The CIT(A), while deciding an appeal arising from an order passed under section 201, restored certain issues to the Assessing Officer for fresh verification. The Tribunal held that, after the amendment made by the Finance Act, 2024 with effect from 1 October 2024, the power of the first appellate authority to remand a matter is confined only to cases where the assessment order under appeal has been passed ex parte under section 144. Since the order before the CIT(A) was passed under section 201, the remand was beyond the jurisdiction conferred by section 251(1)(a). The CIT(A), being a statutory authority, is required to decide the appeal on merits and cannot assume powers not conferred by the Act. Accordingly, the order remanding certain grounds to the Assessing Officer was set aside, and the matter was restored to the file of the CIT(A) with a direction to adjudicate those grounds afresh by passing a reasoned order. During appellate proceedings, the Commissioner (Appeals) enhanced the assessee's book profits under section 115JB without issuing a statutory notice under section 251(2). The Tribunal held that issuance of a specific enhancement notice is a mandatory jurisdictional requirement. In the absence of such notice, the Commissioner (Appeals) lacked authority to enhance the income. The enhancement was therefore deleted. The assessee claimed reduction in book profits following recasting of its financial statements to account for hedging costs relating to external commercial borrowings. As the Commissioner (Appeals) failed to adjudicate this issue, the Tribunal restored the matter for de novo consideration in accordance with law (AY. 2019-20).

Assessee having specifically assailed the validity of the jurisdiction that was assumed by the AO for framing the assessment vide his order passed under s. 144 r/w s. 147, inter alia, for the reason that the Principal CIT, while transferring the case of the assessee under S. 127, failed to give an opportunity of being heard to him. CIT(A) decided the matter without deciding the issue of jurisdiction. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the CIT(A) was vested with jurisdiction to deal with the specific challenge raised by the assessee as regards the validity of the assessment order and ought to have adjudicated the said issue; the matter is restored to the CIT(A) with a direction to adjudicate the challenge raised by the assessee. Assessee filed its return, which included certain foreign income taxable at special rates under DTAA. The assessee duly filed Form 67 in compliance with Rule 128 before issuance of intimation under section 143(1). The Assessing Officer/CPC processed the return and raised a demand, treating the entire income at normal rates of taxation. On appeal, CIT(A) directed the assessee to file a section 154 rectification application. On appeal, the

Allowing the appeal, the Tribunal held that it is not open to the CIT(A) to dismiss the appeal ex parte without addressing all the grounds of appeal on the merits of the case; the CIT(A) having dismissed the appeal by passing an ex parte order qua assessee without issuing any notice fixing the case for hearing of appeal as mandated by S. 250(1). The order of the CIT(A) is set aside, and he is directed to pass a de novo order as per law, in accordance with law. Followed CIT v. Held that since there was no effective disposal of case on the merits especially before the Commissioner (Appeals), the case was to be remanded back to the Commissioner (Appeals) with directions to the assessee to avail one more opportunity of hearing as and by way of last chance. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 251 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-Ex-parte assessment order-Foreign tax credit-Order is set aside-DTAA-India-USA [S. 90, 139(1), Form No.67, Art. 25]

Assessing Officer passed an ex parte assessment order denying claim of Foreign Tax Credit (FTC) relief under section 90 on the ground that Form No. 67 was not filed along with the return of income. Commissioner (Appeals) held that filing of Form No. 67 before the time limit under section 139(1) [now extended to 139(4)] was mandatory and, having failed to file the same within the 139(1) limit, the Assessing Officer was correct in denying credit of FTC. Assessee claimed that filing of the form was not mandatory and thus, he should be given claim of FTC on late filing of Form No. 67. Since appeal against ex-parte assessment order was still pending before National Faceless Assessment Centre, appellate order passed by Commissioner (Appeals) is set aside with a direction to decide same along with other appeal. S. 251: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-CIT (A) has wide powers akin to reassessment authority and must ensure thorough adjudication while deleting additions made by AO-Matter remanded back to AO to conduct fresh enquiries.[S. 250]

The AO disallowed the expenditure incurred by the assessee based on the information received from CGST department, citing fraudulent tax invoices. CIT(A) deleted the additions made by the AO citing he acted merely on suspicion without conducting a proper investigation and the AO failed to make further investigations despite it being warranted. ITAT held that CIT(A) is granted wide powers to confirm, reduce, enhance or annul assessments as well as make further enquiries as deemed necessary, and also direct the AO to conduct investigations. The matter was remanded back to the AO to conduct fresh enquiries. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 251: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-CIT(A) did not give opportunity to assessee for hearing-Held, CIT(A) does not have power to dismiss appeal summarily without going on merits-matter back to NFAC for de novo consideration. [S. 250, 251(1)(a), 251(2)]

The only issue for consideration before the Tribunal is the summary dismissal of the appeal as no fair and reasonable opportunity of hearing was extended to the Assessee during the appellate proceedings, as the appellant did not receive any notices or communication from the learned CIT(A) to avail an opportunity to represent before CIT(A). The Tribunal observed and held that as per the provisions of s. 251(1)(a) and (b) and Explanation to s. 251(2) of the Act, the CIT(A) is required to apply his mind to all the issues which arise from the impugned order before him when the same has been raised by the appellant before him. Accordingly, the law does not empower the CIT(A) to dismiss the appeal summarily, as is evident from the provisions of the Act. The matter was remanded back to the CIT(A)/ NFAC for de novo consideration. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 253 : Appellate Tribunal-Delay of 166 days-Justice-oriented approach-Delay condoned-Tribunal directed to decide appeal on merits.[S. 254(1), Art. 136]

The Tribunal declined to condone a delay of 166 days in filing an appeal, which was affirmed by the High Court. The Supreme Court held that both the Tribunal and the High Court ought to have adopted a justice-oriented and liberal approach in condoning delay. Accordingly, the delay was condoned, the impugned orders were set aside, and the Tribunal was directed to decide the appeal on merits.

S. 253 : Appellate Tribunal-Appeal-Delay of 1797 days-Reasonable cause-Affidavit-Liberal approach in condonation-Tribunal not justified in dismissing appeal without considering explanation-Delay condoned and matter remanded. [S. 254(1), 260A]

The assessee filed an appeal before the Tribunal with a delay of 1797 days along with an application for condonation supported by an affidavit explaining the circumstances leading to the delay. The Tribunal, without properly considering the reasons assigned or examining whether "sufficient cause" was made out, rejected the application and dismissed the appeal as time-barred without entering into the merits. The High Court held that although delay cannot be condoned mechanically and must be supported by sufficient cause, the merits of a case cannot be thrown out solely on technical grounds of limitation when substantial justice is at stake. A liberal approach is required where refusal to condone delay would undermine adjudication on merits. Since the assessee had placed adequate material showing reasonable and sufficient cause for the delay, the rejection by the Tribunal was not justified. Accordingly, the delay was condoned, and the matter was remanded back to the Tribunal for decision on merits. Reliance was placed on Inder Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2025 INSC 382, and Mool Chandra v. UOI (2025) 1 SCC 625.

S. 253: Appellate Tribunal-Appeals-Delay of 530 days in filing appeal-Delay because assessee was pursuing rectification and review options-Delay must be condoned-Matter remanded to the Tribunal to decide on merits. [S. 80P(2)(a)(i), 260A]

Allowing the appeal, the Court held that the reason for delay in filing the appeal to the Tribunal was prima facie shown to be bona fide. The record showed that the time spent diligently pursuing the review or rectification application ought to have been condoned and the facts had to be seen in a cluster, not in fragments. Consequently, the delay of 530 days in filing the appeal before the Tribunal had to be condoned. Matter remanded to the Tribunal to decide on merits. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 253 : Appellate Tribunal-Appeals-Condonation of delay of 55 days-Delay in filing appeal on wrong advice of Counsel-Sufficient cause within the ambit of Section 253(5)-Delay is condoned.[S. 12A, 253(5), 260A]

The assessee is the society registered under the Societies Act. It submitted an application in Form 10A for provisional registration u/s 12A, which has been granted by CIT (E). However, the application and Form No. 10AB for permanent registration u/s 12A were rejected by CIT (E).

Aggrieved by such order, the assessee-society filed appeal before the Tribunal, but delayed by 55 days. The assessee-society, in discharge of its onus, explained that the delay occurred due to wrong advice of the Counsel to reapply for registration and due to delay in deciding the second application for registration and realizing the mistake, the appeal before the ITAT was preferred with a delay of 55 days. The ITAT rejected the application for the condonation of delay. On further appeal, the Hon'ble High Court observed that the rejection of appeal for condonation of delay has serious civil consequences upon the status of the society that the society would not be able to claim tax exemption u/s 11 and 12, that no counter affidavit filed by the assessee opposing the application for condonation of delay supported by the affidavit, that the delay occurred for such obvious sufficient cause within the meaning and ambit of the provisions of Section 253(5) of the Act. The Hon'ble High Court noted that the Tribunal ought to have condoned the delay in preferring the appeal as there is no allegation that the delay in filing the appeal is mala fide or it is deliberate; rather, it is bona fide based on wrong advice of the Counsel to reapply for registration and accordingly, the High Court set aside the Tribunal's order with the condonation of delay.

Assessee-firm made payment of employees' contribution towards PF and ESIC beyond due date and claimed deduction of same under section 36(1)(va). Assessing Officer disallowed the claim. Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed the appeal on the ground of non-compliance. The assessee filed an appeal before the Tribunal with a delay of 680 days. Tribunal declined to condone delay and dismissed appeal. Held that since the appeal filed by the assessee before the Tribunal was not only devoid of merits but also barred by limitation as provided under section 253, the Tribunal had rightly dismissed the appeal of assessee. [S.133A, 245C, 245D, 245F(2), Art. 136]

Assessee filed an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals), who dismissed appeal on account of pendency of the application filed by the assessee before Settlement Commission as per section 245F(2). Settlement Commission disposed of the settlement application as abated on account of amendment in Act. Assessee then filed an appeal before the Tribunal challenging the order passed by Commissioner (Appeals) with an application to condone delay in preferring appeal. Tribunal condoned delay and remitted matter back to Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh consideration on merits. On writ by Revenue affirming the order of the Tribunal, the Court held that since Commissioner (Appeals) did not adjudicate issue on merits and dismissed appeal as not maintainable in light of Settlement Commission's order abating proceedings, Tribunal had rightly condoned delay in filing appeal and remand matter back to Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh consideration. High Court held that the Commissioner (Appeals) had dismissed the appeal ex parte. On further appeal, the Tribunal had ex-parte restored the issue back to the Commissioner (Appeals), and the appeal was dismissed by him for non-compliance. The Tribunal, in the interest of natural justice, had restored the issue to the Commissioner (Appeals) so that the assessee could be granted the opportunity to substantiate its case. This clearly showed that the assessee was not interested in showing the reconciliation but had attempted to use technical reasons to avoid the responsibility. This scathing remark of the Tribunal showed the triviality of the matter. The submissions made with regard to section 255 showed the intention of the assessee to delay the case. While scrutinising the documents at hand, it was clear that due compliance had been made with respect to the reassessment proceedings and all the subsequent appeals. Additionally, the assessee had been provided with regular chances to submit his representation, but the assessee had been delaying it. Appeal is dismissed. SLP of the assessee is dismissed. (AY. 2008-09)

[Art. 136]

Assessee-company filed an appeal before the Tribunal after a delay of six to seven years. Assessee also filed an application for condonation of delay on the ground that it promptly handed over documents to counsel and a professional expert grossly failed to take action, for which assessee-company should not be penalised. Tribunal held that assessee was aware of orders passed by Commissioner (Appeals), but assessee had not exercised any care to enquire about the status of second appeal and tried to shift responsibility towards his lawyer. Tribunal, thus, refused to condone the delay and consequently dismissed appeals as time-barred. High Court held that there is no general proposition that mistake of counsel by itself is always a sufficient ground for condonation of delay, and every case is required to be considered on the basis of the facts and circumstances of the case, and further findings recorded by the Tribunal were just and proper, and there was no infirmity in the order. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal-SLP of revenue dismissed.[S. 245D(4), 245HA, 246A, 250, Art. 136]

The assessee approached the Settlement Commission to determine the issues. However, during the pendency of the settlement proceedings, the AO passed an order under section 143(3). The appeal filed before the CIT (A) was dismissed on the ground that the issues were pending before the Settlement Commission. The Tribunal condoned the delay, allowed the appeal, and set aside the order of the CIT (A), directing that the issues be considered in light of the proceedings before the Settlement Commission. The Supreme Court held that there was no infirmity in the Tribunal's order and directed that the CIT(A) should keep the matter pending until the application before the Settlement Commission is finally determined. The principal reiterated that, in view of section 245F, the Settlement Commission enjoys exclusive jurisdiction, and once an application is admitted, no other income-tax authority has jurisdiction to pass any order on the matters covered by the settlement application. Held that the Tribunal was required to adjudicate on the grounds which were urged before it by the assessee. Remanding the matter in its entirety to the Assessing Officer had caused serious prejudice to the assessee inasmuch as even those reliefs which had been granted by the first appellate authority would stand nullified in view of the Tribunal's direction to the Assessing Officer to redo the whole exercise in its entirety. On appeal the Tribunal by recording that no representative had appeared on behalf of the assessee on July 12, 2016 and also on the previous occasions proceeded to decide the matter on the merits. Court held that the nature of disputes involved for adjudication of the Tribunal were on factual aspects. The Tribunal being the final fact finding authority was expected to grant sufficient opportunity to the assessee to submit his case. The Tribunal's proceeding to decide the appeal on the merits without granting sufficient opportunity to the assessee would prejudice the assessee's interest. The further appeal under section 260A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 before the court would be on substantial questions of law. Assessee-company filed appeal before Tribunal after a delay of six to seven years. Assessee also filed an application for condonation of delay on the ground that it promptly handed over documents to counsel and a professional expert grossly failed to take action for which assessee-company should not be penalized. Tribunal held that the assessee was aware of orders passed by the Commissioner (Appeals) but the assessee had not exercised any care to enquire about status of the second appeal and tried to shift responsibility towards his lawyer. Commissioner filed a writ petition before High Court seeking a writ of mandamus directing Tribunal to admit additional evidence submitted by revenue and consider same. Court held that record showed that Tribunal had already allowed certain documents to be produced, which, by implication, meant it rejected production of remaining documents regarding which mandamus was sought. Court also observed that order of Appellate Tribunal was not challenged in the instant petition. Accordingly, in absence of any challenge to the order of the Appellate Tribunal, it was not permissible to issue a mandamus to the Appellate Tribunal to admit and consider remaining documents. S. 254(1) : Appellate Tribunal-Duties-CIT(A) decided the appeal on merits-Revision by the Commissioner-It was incumbent upon Tribunal to have decided appeal on merits rather than finding that the assessee ought to have questioned under section 263 in separate proceedings-Order of Tribunal set aside to decide for fresh consideration. [S. 115JB, 253, 263, 250, 260A]

Commissioner invoked revisional power on the ground that Assessing Officer had not conducted proper enquiries with respect to assessee's claim for set-off of carry forward depreciation while computing book profit under section 115JB. Commissioner set aside the order of assessment and remanded the matter back to the Assessing Officer to make a fresh assessment as per law. On remand, Assessing Officer passed revised order of assessment. Assessee preferred an appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) who dismissed appeal. Against order of the Commissioner (Appeals), assessee preferred an appeal before the Tribunal. Tribunal held that the order of the Commissioner under section 263 having reached its finality, proceedings consequent to order of the Commissioner under section 263 could not be challenged until and unless proceedings under section 263 were agitated by assessee. Accordingly, appeal was dismissed as not maintainable. On appeal, the Court held that since the Commissioner (Appeals) had decided appeal preferred by assessee against revised assessment order on merits, it was incumbent upon Tribunal to have decided appeal on merits rather than finding that assessee ought to have challenged the order under section 263 in a separate proceedings. Since the Tribunal erred in dismissing appeal preferred by the assessee as 'not maintainable', the order of the Tribunal was set aside and the appeal was restored to the files of the Tribunal for fresh consideration. (AY. 2006-07)

S. 254(1): Appellate Tribunal-Powers-Condonation of delay-Search and seizure-Cross objection-Rejection of assessee's cross-objections on ground barred by limitation-Order of Tribunal quashed and set aside-Tribunal directed to hear cross-objections filed by assessee along with appeal filed by Department.[S. 132, 158BC, 253(5), 254(2), 260A.]

On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Tribunal, instead of considering the facts and appreciating the submissions made by the assessee, had gone at a tangent by referring to the provisions of section 255(5), ignoring the provisions of section 253(5). From the observations and the findings arrived at by the Tribunal, it was apparent that it had decided the miscellaneous application as if the assessee had filed an appeal rather than referring to the mistake committed by it while rejecting the cross-objection filed by the assessee. When there was sufficient cause explained by the assessee by filing an affidavit in support of the cross-objections, the Tribunal had not applied its mind but had, without any basis, mentioned to the effect that the assessee had made a story for condonation of delay, which was not supported by any evidence and hence, even delay of 31 days could not be condoned. The delay of 31 days was condoned. Order of Tribunal set aside and the Tribunal is directed to decide the matter on the merits.

The order of the Tribunal was set aside and the matter was remanded to the Tribunal for fresh consideration and pass a reasoned order.(AY. 2012-13)

S. 254(1) : Appellate Tribunal-Duties-Alleged AI-generated order-Bias apprehension-Transfer of case-Once the ITAT President reassigned the matter to another Bench, writ petition seeking deferment of hearing became infructuous.[Art. 226, 227]

The assessee filed a writ petition before the Karnataka High Court seeking a direction to defer ITAT proceedings in ITA No.1051/24 until disposal of its petition pending before the President, ITAT, Mumbai, for transfer of the case to another Bench. It was contended that the earlier ITAT order appeared to have been driven by Artificial Intelligence and was later recalled; some members who were part of that order had recused themselves. The assessee apprehended bias since the same Judicial Member intended to hear the matter again. The High Court had earlier stayed further proceedings before that Member and permitted the President to consider the transfer application. Subsequently, the President assigned the matter to a different Bench. Considering this development, the Court held that the writ petition had become infructuous and disposed it while reserving liberty to the assessee to pursue remedies, if any adverse order is passed. The assessee, a small trader of glass articles, filed appeal against the order of the ITAT, Kolkata `SMC' Bench, for AY 2017-18. The ITAT had remanded the matter to the AO for fresh assessment but imposed a cost of ₹50,000 payable to Legal Aid Services, citing repeated non-compliance of notices. On appeal the assessee explained that due to ill health, poor knowledge of online compliances, and complete reliance on a consultant who failed to appear, he could not attend proceedings before the AO and CIT(A). The High Court observed that the CIT(A)'s order suffered from violation of S. 250(6) as it did not deal with grounds raised by the assessee. The ITAT itself had accepted that the matter required a fresh assessment. In such circumstances, imposing heavy cost on an individual small trader would be harsh and unjustified. The Court accordingly set aside the cost, while remanding the matter to the AO with direction to issue fresh notice and complete assessment after giving full opportunity to the assessee, who undertook to cooperate in the proceedings. Substantial questions of law were left open. Court held that when the Tribunal itself finds that the matter needs to be remanded, imposing hefty cost on a small assessee for restoration is unjustified. A mutual agreement procedure (MAP) communication recorded that the competent authorities of India and the US did not determine whether the assessee had an Indian PE. Instead, the parties agreed to an exercise of attribution to settle disputes across years. The Tribunal proceeded without addressing the PE issue. The Court found that the issue of permanent establishment remained unaddressed and had not been brought to the Tribunal's attention. Since the Tribunal proceeded on an incomplete factual and legal foundation, its orders were set aside and the matters remanded to the Tribunal to be decided afresh on merits, leaving all contentions open (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2017-18 to 2019-20)

Assessee, Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI), was granted registration under section 12A on 12-2-1996. Assessee amended its objects in 2006 and 2007. No intimation about such amendments was given to Director (E). Therefore, Director(Ex) wrote to the assessee that since assessee had modified its objects and no intimation of such modification was sent to him, registration granted to assessee under section 12A on 12-2-1996 did not survive from date on which objects were changed. Assessee filed an appeal before Tribunal. Tribunal held that impugned communication/order did not amount to either cancellation or withdrawal of registration under section 12A and that assessee's appeal was not maintainable under section 253. However, after recording above conclusion, Tribunal held that the registration granted in 1996 could not extend to the amended objects. On appeal the Court held that Tribunal exceeded its jurisdiction in virtually upholding said communication/order on its merits. Court held that such observations and findings were without jurisdiction, and, therefore, such observations/findings would have to be ignored by revenue, inter alia, when deciding issue of registration under section 12A of the Act.

Pursuant to a search under section 132, assessments were made under section 153A for A.Ys. 2013-14 to 2020-21. The assessee contended that the assessment order lacked a DIN (Document Identification Number) and was not uploaded on the Income-tax Portal within the period of limitation, in violation of CBDT Circular No. 19/2019 dt. 14 th August, 2019. It was also contended that the Tribunal failed to consider the arguments on limitation and DIN, as well as failed to address the assessee's cross objections. Further, it was submitted that the Tribunal reversed findings of CIT(A) without proper reasoning and adopted inconsistent views as compared to the group company's case (Hi-Tech Engineers), even though facts were identical. The Revenue argued that compliance with the Circular was done through other means and that the order was valid. However, the High Court held that the Tribunal did not deal with the issue of DIN and limitation at all, and failed to consider conclusive evidence submitted by the assessee. It noted that the DIN issue goes to the root of the matter and must be addressed. Accordingly, the common orders of the ITAT dated 28-02-2023 and 04-04-2024 (order in MA) were quashed. The Tribunal is directed to decide all appeals afresh, with liberty to both parties to adduce additional materials and grounds (AY. 2013-14 to 2020-21)

Assessee contested the jurisdictional validity of the de novo assessment framed under section 143(3) read with sections 254 and 144B on the ground of absence of a transfer order under section 127, apart from raising substantive grounds relating to interest on capital loans, disallowance under section 40A(2), undervaluation of closing job-in-progress and non-grant of foreign tax credit under section 91, but CIT(A) passed the order without adjudicating the jurisdictional issue despite pending HC directions and without granting a final hearing. [S.80IA(4)(1)(b),254(1), Art.226]

Assessee, an un-incorporated joint venture, entered into a contract with a nodal agency, namely, LMRCL, established for the purpose of administering and regulating metro rail in the city of Lucknow, under which assessee was to design and construct an underground tunnel and 3 underground metro stations for a fixed consideration. Assessee filed its return claiming a deduction under section 80-IA for developing an infrastructure facility on profits earned from the aforesaid contract with LMRCL. Assessing Officer denied deduction under section 80-IA on the ground that assessee was only a contractor and not a developer of an infrastructure facility and, further, the condition as set out in section 80-IA(4)(i)(b) was also not satisfied as agreement was not entered into with Central Government, State Government, Statutory Authority or a Local Authority. On appeal, the CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. Tribunal also confirmed the disallowance made by the Assessing Officer. The Miscellaneous application of the assessee was dismissed by the Tribunal. On writ allowing the petition, the Court held that the Tribunal, while coming to the conclusion that assessee was a mere contractor, had failed to consider various clauses of the agreement entered into by assessee with LMRCL. Court held that since LMRCL was appointed as a nodal agency by the Central and State Governments for the administration of the metro rail project in Lucknow, the agreement entered into by assessee with LMRCL would satisfy the requirement of section 80-IA(4)(i)(b). Since the Tribunal had not considered the evidence on record and had merely recorded bare conclusions without setting out any reasons in support thereof, the order of the Tribunal was set aside, and the matter was remitted back to the Tribunal for disposal afresh. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

Tribunal dismissed the miscellaneous application filed by the assessee for not considering the second paper book filed by the assessee. On writ, the Court held that there was no denial of the averments in paragraph 4.4 of the petition, about the first paper book, second paper book of seventy-one pages, when it was filed, and the fact that the copy of the second paper book of seventy-one pages was served on the respondents. On February 23, 2022, the court had directed the first respondent to file an affidavit after inspecting the records and proceedings and make a statement whether such a paper book was filed. The affidavit had been filed stating that the paper book was not found. The assessee had filed an affidavit through its director stating that the paper book was filed. A copy of the paper book was also served on October 1, 2019, on the Departmental representative through a covering letter addressed to the Registrar, Appellate Tribunal. In the circumstances, the assessee's explanation that a paper book containing seventy-one pages was filed was accepted. Without going into or dealing with this point, the Tribunal had simply rejected the miscellaneous application. Therefore, the order was quashed and set aside and remanded the matter to the Tribunal with a direction to the assessee to file a compilation once again in the Tribunal within two weeks, and the Tribunal shall consider the compilation and decide whether its order dated November 13, 2019, dismissing the assessee's appeal required any modification.(AY. 2014-15)

The assessee filed return for AY 2019-20. CPC disallowed employees' PF/ESI contribution u/s 36(1)(va) read with S. 43B, adjusted u/s 143(1)(a). CIT(A) upheld the addition relying on Expl. 5 to S. 43B (Finance Act, 2021). On appeal, ITAT allowed the claim holding amendment prospective, relying on *CIT v. The Tribunal therefore exceeded its jurisdiction in recalling its order. Writ petition allowed and ITAT orders dated 17-09-2024 set aside. S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record-Failure to appear due to indisposition of advocate-Order of Tribunal quashed and set aside-Appeal restored.[S. 254(1), Art. 226]

The assessee filed a miscellaneous application stated to be under S. 254(2). Since the provision deals with rectification, the Tribunal could not be faulted for examining the matter from that perspective. However, while rejecting the application, the Tribunal also held that it was not satisfied with the cause shown for non-appearance and referred to its earlier observation that what could not be collected in five years could not be produced within twenty days, and that the adjournment sought was a challenge to the functioning of the Bench. The High Court held that the Tribunal failed to appreciate that the real issue was whether sufficient cause was shown for absence on the date of hearing. The assessee had specifically pleaded indisposition of the advocate, supported by a medical certificate, and had also filed additional grounds and documents along with the application, thereby addressing the Tribunal’s earlier concern. Accordingly, the impugned order was quashed and set aside, the miscellaneous application was allowed and the appeal was restored. (AY. 2014-15)

CIT(A) allowed the claim on the ground that the payments were made before due date of filing of the return. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed by the Tribunal. The order of the Tribunal was dated 26th July 2022. Subsequently the Honourable Supreme Court in Checkmate Services

Pvt Ltd v. CIT (2022) 448 ITR 518 /290 Taxman 19 (SC) held that the payment is not allowable as deduction unless the payments are made within specified dates of the Respective Acts. The order of the Supreme Court is dated 12-10-2022. The Revenue has filed Miscellaneous application before the Tribunal to rectify the order of the Tribunal based on the Judgement of Supreme Court in Checkmate Services Pvt Ltd v. CIT (2022) 448 ITR 518 /290 Taxman 19 (SC). The miscellaneous application of the Revenue was delayed by 92 days. The Tribunal allowed the Miscellaneous application of the Revenue. The petitioner filed a writ petition and contended that the Tribunal has no power to condone the delay in filing the Miscellaneous application and also the Tribunal cannot review the order based on the subsequent decision of Supreme Court. Allowing the petition, the Court held that the Tribunal was in a patent error in exercising jurisdiction under Section 254(2) and setting aside the original order. The order of the Tribunal is quashed on the grounds of delay as well as on the merits. Referred to Sanjay Kumar Agrawal v. S. 254(2) : Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record-Subsequent decision of Supreme Court-Employee's contributions (EPF/ESI)-Tribunal cannot invoke section 254(2) on basis of subsequent change in law-Order of rectification quashed. [S. 36(1)(va), 139(1), 143(1), 260A, Art. 226, 227]

The assessee had deposited the employees' share of provident fund and ESI before the due date for filing return under section 139(1). The Assessing Officer disallowed the same in the intimation under section 143(1). The CIT(A) upheld the disallowance. On appeal, the Tribunal, relying on Ghatge Patil Transports Ltd. v. CIT (2015) 53 taxmann.com 141 (Bom)(HC) and CIT v. Alom Extrusions Ltd. (2009) 319 ITR 306 (SC), allowed the deduction. Subsequently, the Supreme Court in Checkmate Services (P.) Ltd. v. CIT (2022) 448 ITR 518 (SC) held that employees' contributions are deductible only if deposited within the due date prescribed under the relevant Acts. Based on this subsequent decision, the Revenue filed a rectification application under section 254(2), which the Tribunal allowed, thereby reversing its earlier decision. On writ, the Bombay High Court held that a subsequent change in law or later judgment of the Supreme Court cannot constitute a "mistake apparent from record" within the meaning of section 254(2). The Tribunal's jurisdiction under section 254(2) is limited to rectifying errors apparent on record and cannot be invoked to review or revisit the merits of the case based on subsequent developments in law. The Court relied on Infantry Security & Facilities v. ITO (WP No. 17175/2024, dated 3-12-2024), Prakash D. Koli v. ITAT [2025] 176 taxmann.com 481 (Bom)(HC) *Vaibhav Maruti Dombale v. Asst. Accordingly, the High Court quashed the rectification order passed under section 254(2) and restored the Tribunal's original order. However, liberty was granted to the Revenue to challenge the original order under section 260A, if permissible in law. (W.P. (L) No. 24647 of 2025, dt. 16-9-2025).

[S.28(i), 56, 254(1), Art. 226]

Assessee relied on decision of High Court with similar issue and claimed set off of brought forward business loss and unabsorbed depreciation in return. Assessing Officer treated interest income received on staff loan and other advances along with miscellaneous receipt as income from other sources. Tribunal distinguished the decision relied upon by the assessee and remanded the issue to the Assessing Officer. Rectification application was rejected. On writ, the Court held that the Tribunal had not followed a decision on identical facts by a co-ordinate bench, which was confirmed by High Court, there was a mistake apparent on record which ought to have been considered by the Tribunal. The matter is remanded back to the Tribunal to pass fresh orders in the miscellaneous application. (AY. 2010-11, 2012-13 to 2014-15)

S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record-Limitation-COVID extension not applicable-Rectification application is filed beyond period of six months-Income Tax Appellate Tribunal has no jurisdiction to condone delay-Writ petition is dismissed. [Art. 226]

The ITAT dismissed the petitioner's appeal on 21 September 2021, and the order was communicated on 17 November 2021. Under Section 254(2), the limitation period for filing a Miscellaneous Application (MA) expired on 31 May 2022. The petitioner, however, filed the MA on 26 August 2022, resulting in a three-month delay. The ITAT dismissed the MA on 03 November 2023, holding that it lacked jurisdiction to condone the delay. The petitioner challenged the ITAT's decision by filing a writ petition and contended that there was no delay, relying on the Supreme Court's order dated 10 January 2022 in WP(C) No. 3 of 2020, which extended the limitation during the COVID period. Alternatively, the petitioner sought condonation of delay. The Revenue countered that the Supreme Court's order did not apply, as the limitation expired on 31 May 2022, beyond the COVID extension period (15 March 2020-28 February 2022). Further, under Section 254(2), a rectification application must be filed within six months, and even the ITAT lacks jurisdiction to condone a delay beyond this period. The court held that the petitioner had not raised the contention regarding the Supreme Court order before the ITAT, bringing it up for the first time before the High Court. Even if considered, the argument would not benefit the petitioner, as the limitation expired on 31 May 2022, and the Supreme Court's order did not extend time beyond 28 February 2022. Court held that the ITAT correctly held that Section 254(2) contains no provision allowing condonation of delay beyond six months, making sufficient cause irrelevant. Citing *Karuturi Global Ltd. v. [S.254(1), 260A]

Held that the time permitted for filing an application under section 254(2), for rectifying a mistake in an order passed by the Tribunal under section 254(1) is six months from the end of the month in which the order under section 254(1) was passed. The Appellate Tribunal, being a creature of Statute, could not have extended its jurisdiction beyond what was expressly conferred on it under Statute, and thus, it could not have granted liberty to the revenue to file rectification applications to restore appeals beyond the period permitted under Statute. S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record-Deduction-Rectification application of revenue was dismissed. [S. 80P (2)(d))]

The Revenue filed a miscellaneous application seeking rectification of the Tribunal's order. The Revenue argues that the Tribunal wrongly relied on the decision, ignoring binding Karnataka High Court decisions in two Totagars Cooperative Sale Society cases. One held that cooperative banks qualify as cooperative societies u/s. 80P (2)(d), while the other denied deduction when the interest income wasn't from business operations.

The Revenue claims this constitutes an apparent mistake warranting recall of the order. However, the assessee opposes the application, arguing that similar relief was granted in earlier years and upheld consistently by the Tribunal and other High Courts. The assessee further contends that the Revenue's request amounts to a review, not a rectification, which is beyond the scope of s. 254(2) of the Income Tax Act, citing the Supreme Court ruling in CIT v Reliance Telecom Ltd(2022] 284 Taxman 517 / 440 ITR 1 (SC). Tribunal held that the predecessor's decision aligns with consistent judicial views, including those of the Mumbai Tribunal, which conclude that for deduction u/s. 80P (2)(d), co-operative banks qualify as co-operative societies. This position has been upheld by various coordinate benches and higher judicial forums. The Revenue seeks to recall the order u/s. 254(2), however, such a recall falls outside the limited scope of S. 254(2), as clarified by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in CIT v. Reliance Telecom Ltd. Accordingly, the appeal was rightly decided in favour of the assessee, and the application for recall is without merit. Assessee filed an appeal before the Tribunal against the penalty order dated 17-3-2020, contending that the Assessing Officer had passed an order before obtaining approval from the Joint Commissioner and relied on the later approval dated 18-3-2020 to support this. Tribunal allowed assessee's appeal and deleted the penalty. Revenue filed a miscellaneous application under section 254(2), contending that the order was validly passed based on the Joint Commissioner's approval dated 17-3-2020. The Tribunal held that the revenue failed to produce valid, signed approval dated 17-3-2020, and the documents relied upon were unsigned. Since no valid approval was brought on record, the penalty order could not be sustained, and the miscellaneous application was dismissed. (AY. 2013-14)

The Assessing Officer, while processing the return under section 143(1), disallowed employees' contribution to PF and ESI on the ground of delayed payment under the respective statutes. The CIT(A) confirmed the disallowance. The Tribunal, in the original appellate order dated 31-05-2022, deleted the disallowance by following the binding judgment of the Bombay High Court in CIT v. Ghatge Patil Transport Ltd (2014) 368 ITR 749 (Bom) (HC). holding that such payments made before the due date of filing the return are allowable. The Revenue filed Miscellaneous Applications under section 254(2) seeking recall/rectification of the Tribunal's order in view of the subsequent Supreme Court judgment in Checkmate Services Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT. The Tribunal held that jurisdiction under section 254(2) is limited to rectifying patent and obvious mistakes apparent on the record and that a subsequent judgment, even of the Supreme Court, cannot be a ground for rectification if, on the date of the original order, the Tribunal had correctly applied the law as it then stood. Relying on the recent Bombay High Court judgment in Vaibhav Maruti Dombale v. Assistant Registrar, ITAT, the Tribunal held that no mistake apparent from the record was shown and dismissed the Revenue's Miscellaneous Applications. [S. 12A, 127]

On appeal filed by the assessee the Tribunal quashed the cancellation of registration by PCIT Central Circle Poona on the ground that he was not competent to cancel the registration which was granted by the PCIT (E) Mumbai. Revenue filed the miscellaneous application before the Tribunal on the ground that the Mumbai Tribunal had no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal at Mumbai as the cancellation of registration was done by the PCIT Central Circle Pune, hence the order passed by the Mumbai Tribunal was beyond jurisdiction. Dismissing the Rectification application of the Revenue the Tribunal held that remedy available to the Revenue is to file an appeal before the High Court against the order of the Tribunal. The lack of jurisdiction was not raised before the Tribunal when the appeal was argued on merit. The Tribunal also held the issue involved is not of jurisdiction under section 127 of the Act, accordingly the Rectification application filed by the Revenue is dismissed. S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record-Development agreement-Cost Inflation Index-Year of taxability-Tribunal's common order applied to all co-owners-Miscellaneous application of Revenue is dismissed. [S. 45, 48, 254(1)]

The assessee filed a return for AY.2008-09, declaring long term capital gains in respect of development rights. The Assessing Officer assessed the total income. On appeal the CIT(A) granted partial relief and directed the AO to adopt the Cost Inflation Index (CII) for FY 2007-08 instead of 2002-03. The Revenue filed ITA No. 3195/MUM/2015 challenging this direction. The assessee also filed an appeal and raised the additional ground on the issue of year of taxability. Other co-owners had also appealed, and a common order dated 19.04.2018 was passed by the Tribunal dismissing the appeal of the Revenue and allowing the appeal of the assessee the Tribunal held that the development agreement was entered in the year 2003-04 and not in the assessment year 2008-09 relying on the decision in Chaturbhuj Dwarkadass Kapadia of Bombay v. CIT(2003) 260 ITR 491 (Bom)(HC) addition was deleted. Revenue filed the Miscellaneous Application (MA), and contended that the Tribunal wrongly referenced the case of another assessee (Shri Jaiprakash L. Singh for AY 2007-08), which was unrelated to ITA No. 3195/MUM/2015, and failed to render a decision on the present assessee (Neelam Omprakash Singh). The Tribunal held that its common order explicitly stated that all co-owners' appeals would be governed by the findings in ITA No. 3303/Mum/2013 and ITA No. 4530/Mum/2013. Accordingly, the MA was dismissed. (MA No. 629/MUM/2019 arising out of ITA No. 3195/MUM/2015) (dt. 24.01.2025) (AY 2008-09)

The ITAT Bar Association Mumbai has filed a PIL before the Bombay High Court for allotting the premises for an additional five Benches of the ITAT. The Honourable Court, by an interim order dated 28th June 2000, directed the All India Radio to hand over the possession of the premises to the ITAT. The All India Radio has filed an SLP before the Supreme Court, No. 15549/2000, order dated February 18, 2002. The SLP was dismissed in view of a consensus reached between the learned counsel for the parties. The Honourable Bombay High Court by order dated July 3, 2025 held that as the ad. interim relief, the Benches were functioning for the past 16 years the and the ad-interim order was also upheld by the Supreme Court, as the

S. 255: Appellate Tribunal-Procedure-Functions-No prohibition requiring a Special Bench as a rule to stay its hands when a similar/identical issue is pending before the High Court-Special Bench can proceed to hear and decide the appeal in accordance with law. [S. 14A,158A, 250]

The assessee, a foreign bank incorporated in the USA and having its Branch in Mumbai, claimed that the amount of interest received by the Indian Branch from its Head office could be treated as "income not chargeable to tax" on the principle of mutuality. The AO is treated the same as business income. On further appeal before ITAT, the assessee claimed that the issue was squarely covered in its favour by the decision of the Special Bench in the case of Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corpn. v. Deputy DIT (IT) [2012] 19 taxmann.com 364/136 ITD 66 (Mumbai) (SB). The revenue filed a cross-objection raising the issue whether the provisions of section 14A would be applicable in the event it was held that the interest received by the assessee from its Head Office was not taxable in the hands of the Indian Branch office. On behalf of the revenue, reliance was placed on the decision of the Division Bench of this Tribunal in Oman International Bank SAOG v. JCIT [ITA Nos. 335 and 336 (Mum) of 2004, dated 22-3-2013] and CO Nos. 86 and 87/Mum/2004, which was challenged and admitted before the Bombay High Court on 28-7-2015. The regular Division Bench of ITAT expressed its inability to concur with the view taken by the co-ordinate Bench in Oman International Bank SAOG (supra) and sought the constitution of a Special Bench. The President referred the matter to the Special Bench. When the matter came up before the Special Bench, the Department objected to the constitution of the Special Bench on the ground that a similar issue was pending consideration before the Bombay High Court, and once a similar issue was pending before the High Court, the Special Bench deserved to be disbanded/discontinued. However, the ITAT held that there is no prohibition either in law or in practice that would require the Special Bench, as a rule, to stay its hands when a similar/identical issue is pending before the High Court. Hence, the ITAT held that it was not necessary to withdraw the reference and/or to deconstitute the Special Bench. (AY. 1998-99)

A preliminary objection was raised by the DR seeking disqualification of the assessee's advocate on the ground that the advocate had earlier represented a Member of the Tribunal, in his capacity as Central Public Information Officer, before the Central Information Commissioner in an unrelated RTI matter. The Tribunal rejected the preliminary objection holding that there was no conflict of interest since none of the situations cited by the Department existed in the present matter, that the Tribunal was not a disciplinary body competent to disqualify an advocate, that the Ministry of Law and Justice had no control over the Tribunal's judicial functions which were subject only to High Court supervision, and that raising such an issue repeatedly amounted to a frivolous and mischievous obstruction of justice. On further appeal: Held, partly allowing the appeal, that if the appeal was not listed for hearing, it was not the fault of the appellant. The appeal cannot be dismissed on the ground that the appellant made no efforts to get the appeal listed. Failure to answer the question put by the court was no ground to dismiss the appeal. S. 260A: Appeal-High Court-Substantial question of law-High Court asked to formulate the second question of law as proposed by the Revenue as one of the substantial questions of law where High Court had already admitted the first question of law. [S. 13(1)(c), Art. 136]

The Hon'ble Supreme Court on an SLP filed by the Department observed that having admitted the first question of law, the High Court seems to have declined to admit the appeal on the second substantial question of law as proposed by the Revenue, on the premise that the same is covered by Finance Act, 1984, Circular No. 387 dated 6-7-1984(1985) 152 ITR 1 (St) issued by the Income Tax Department. Thus, it was observed that it would be in the interest of things if the High Court also looks into the second question of law in circumstances where the Revenue has raised the point that the said Circular would not apply. The Hon'ble Court, however clarified that it will be for the High Court to take the final call as regards the merits of the said substantial questions of law.

Editorial: Jila Sahakari Kendriya Bank Maryadit v. PCIT (2024)471 ITR 413 (MP) (HC)

S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Substantial questions of law-No challenge to High Court order-Mistake of counsel-Counsel erroneously submitting that two of them covered against assessee by decision of Supreme Court-High Court disposing of appeal deciding third question alone in favour-Order of High Court set aside to enable restoration of appeal to High Court.[Art. 136]

Three questions of law were raised by the assessee before the High Court but counsel of the assessee having erroneously contended before the High Court that two substantial questions of law were covered by the judgment of the Supreme Court in Checkmate Services Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT, (2022) 448 ITR 518 (SC) against the assessee, although this was not so, the High Court considered the third question and disposed of the appeal in its favour. The assessee and Department accepted the High Court's decision on that question, the assessee filed an appeal before the Supreme Court seeking an opportunity to make submissions before the High Court on the other two substantial questions of law, or in the alternative, that the Supreme Court hear the appeal on those two substantial questions of law. Supreme Court held that an opportunity must be given to the assessee to make submissions on those two substantial questions of law and for the purpose of reconsidering whether or not they were covered by the judgment of the court in Checkmate Services Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT, (2022) 448 ITR 518 (SC) against the assessee. Although there was no challenge to the order of the High Court on the ground of there being any error therein, the order had to be set aside as it was a final order of the High Court, so as to enable the appeal to be restored on the file of the High Court.

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the disputes between the parties had been settled under the provisions of the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020, and requisite certificates had been issued. It was also stated by the Revenue that the issues in respect of discrepancies in the permanent account numbers had been resolved.

S. 260A: Appeal-High Court-Order of Tribunal rejecting application for rectification of its order not appealable.[S. 254(2)]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the appeal was dismissed by the Tribunal on September 26, 2019 on account of low tax effect. Since the monetary limit for filing an appeal had been withdrawn in the Central Board of Direct Taxes Circular No. 23 of 2019, dated September 6, 2019¹, and special order dated September 16, 2019², the miscellaneous application was filed before the same Tribunal. However, the application was dismissed by order dated March 30, 2022. An appeal from such an order of the Tribunal was not maintainable to the High Court. (AY.2014-15)

S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Delay of 40 days-Service of ITAT order on Chartered Accountant not specifically authorised to accept service-Chartered Accountant not a recognised agent of assessee-Tribunal bound to communicate order to assessee-Delay condoned.

[S. 254(3), 282, ITAT R. 35, Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, Order, 3, 5, R. 12]]

The Tribunal had served a copy of its order upon the Chartered Accountant who represented the assessee before the ITAT, but the order was not communicated to the assessee personally. The assessee contended that knowledge of the order was obtained only upon receipt of recovery notice in April 2024, where after certified copy was applied for and appeal was filed with delay of 40 days. The High Court held that under the statutory scheme of the Act read with Rule 35 of the ITAT Rules, the Tribunal is mandatorily required to communicate the order to the assessee, and mere service upon an authorised representative does not absolve such obligation unless the representative is specifically empowered to accept service. A Chartered Accountant acts only as an authorised representative and cannot be treated as a recognised agent within the meaning of Order 3 of the CPC in absence of specific authority to receive service. Service upon such representative therefore cannot be equated with service upon the assessee. Since the assessee established absence of knowledge of the order and acted promptly after becoming aware of it, the delay in filing appeal deserved to be condoned and the appeal was directed to be heard on merits; dissenting from Sultanpur Kshetriya Gramin Bank v. Jt. CIT(2011) 245 CTR 64 (All)(HC) and following Nandram Hunatram v. CIT.(1959) 37 ITR 500 (Orissa) (HC). (AY. 2009-10).

S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Review-Mistake apparent from record-Reassessment-Writ petition was filed after one year of assessment order-Dismissal of writ petition on ground of alternative remedy-Violation of principles of natural justice-Order recalled and writ petition restored.[S. 144, 144B, 147, 148, 260A(7), Art. 226]

Where the writ petition challenging reassessment proceedings was dismissed by the Single Judge on the ground of availability of alternative statutory remedy, though the assessee had not been properly intimated about the reassessment proceedings and received the assessment order only subsequently, resulting in denial of effective opportunity of hearing, the High Court held that the earlier order suffered from errors apparent on the face of the record warranting exercise of review jurisdiction. The Court observed that rejection of a writ petition solely on the ground of alternative remedy is not justified where the impugned order is passed in breach of principles of natural justice. As the assessee was deprived of reasonable opportunity to present its case and even the recording that counsel for parties were heard was factually incorrect, the reassessment proceedings stood vitiated by procedural irregularity. Accordingly, the order dismissing the writ petition was recalled and the writ petition was restored for fresh adjudication on merits after granting reasonable opportunity to the assessee.

S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Cross objections-Right of respondent- assessee to file cross-objections-The right to prefer cross-objections is statutorily recognised by S. 253(4), Parliament chose not to confer such a right upon a respondent in an appeal referable to the former-Legislative silence may sometimes resonate louder than express words and which may be either ambiguous or capable of more than one interpretation-Cross objection not maintainable. [S.253 (4), 256(1), 260A(3), 260A(4), 260A(6), 260A(7), Civil Procedure Code, 1908,S.100, Order XLI, R. 22]

The Delhi High Court held that the right to file cross-objections is a statutory remedy expressly conferred under S. 253(4) before the Tribunal, but Parliament has consciously not provided any corresponding right to a respondent in an appeal under S. 260A. The scope of a respondent's right in S. 260A is confined to contending that no substantial question of law arises, and permitting cross-objections would impermissibly widen the appeal proceedings and amount to reading into the provision a substantive right not envisaged by the statute. Legislative silence in S. 260A, contrasted with express provision in S. 253(4), makes cross-objections before the High Court not maintainable. Referred CIT v. V. Review petition was filed in CIT (E) v. Jharkhand State Cricket Association (2025) 344 CTR 547 ((Jharkhand)(HC), the Jharkhand High Court held that once an appeal has been decided on the basis of a concession made by counsel appearing for the parties, the concerned party cannot subsequently seek review of such order. Review jurisdiction can be invoked only where there is an error apparent on the face of the record or where some material fact, despite due diligence, was not within the knowledge of the litigant. Since the earlier order dated 11th July 2024 was passed purely on concession and no such error or new factual circumstance was shown, no ground for review was made out. Accordingly, the review petition was dismissed. (AY. 2014-15)

Dismissing the review petition, the Court held that a decision or order could not be reviewed merely because it was erroneous. There was no error apparent on the face of the record warranting interference in the order of the court. There was no reason to review or recall the order as recognised by Order 47, rule 1 of the Code. (AY.2012-13)

On a writ petition challenging the validity of assessment orders passed in the name of non-existent entities and several connected Income-tax appeals, the issue arose whether the court could frame an additional substantial question of law not raised before the Tribunal, held, that the question was whether the factum of the merger was intimated to the Assessing Officer or whether he was otherwise aware of this fact before making the assessment orders. There was no question of prejudice as such. The additional question, "whether on the facts and in the circumstances of the case and in law, the assessment order under Section 143(3) passed on a non-existent entity is bad in law, void ab initio ?", as proposed by the assessee, was involved In these appeals, and, therefore, the question was framed in all these appeals. The issue of whether the assessee's case was fully covered by the decision of the Supreme Court was a question that had to be decided once the additional substantial question as proposed was framed. If answered in favour of the assessee, the proposed question would go to the root of jurisdiction. Referred Veena Estate Pvt Ltd v.CIT (2024)) 461 ITR 483 (Bom)(HC). Refer Reliance Industries Ltd v. Ordinarily, "condonation of delay" is a matter of discretion to be exercised by the concerned court. Even if the delay is short and there is no proper explanation forthcoming, the delay need not be condoned. Similarly, despite the fact that the delay is enormous, if sufficient reasons are given thereunder, the delay can be condoned.

Held, that the delay was short and sufficient reasons had been given and so the delay had to be condoned.

Held that, in an appeal under section 260A, the court could not verify whether in the earlier assessment years, there was a final determination that the entity IC was not liable to pay tax, which required verification by the lower authorities. That none of the authorities below had examined and analysed the various clauses of the agreement which provided for the scope of services to be rendered by IC to the assessee, to ascertain the nature of the services rendered to the assessee and how the definition of "royalty" under the Act or under article 12(3) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement could be made applicable to such services. It was incumbent upon the three authorities, the assessing authority, the Commissioner (Appeals) and the Tribunal to have examined and analysed the nature of services as agreed upon by the parties in the agreement, to thereafter give a finding of fact and then apply the definition of "royalty" under the Act or under article 12(3) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement. How the services rendered to the assessee by IC were covered by the Act or article 12(3) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement was not discussed. The orders of the three authorities were non-speaking. Matter remanded to the CIT(A). The court made it clear that it had not expressed any opinion on the merits and on the applicability of article 12(3) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement to the nature of services rendered by the foreign entity to the assessee. The assessee and the Revenue were at liberty to raise all the contentions on the liability to tax under the Act or article 12(3) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement. Matter remanded to Commissioner (Appeals). The Court made it clear that it had not expressed any opinion on merits and on applicability of article 12(3) of the DTAA to the nature of services rendered by the foreign entity to the assessee. The assessee and the revenue were at liberty to raise all the contentions on the liability to tax under the Act or article 12(3) of the DTAA. (AY. 2009-10 to 2013-14)

In the case where the Department filed the SLP with a delay of 524 days, the Supreme Court noted that despite being aware of the impugned order, the Department undertook a prolonged internal process, first calling for a scrutiny report, then a second scrutiny report, seeking explanations for the delay, sending papers to panel counsel for drafting, followed by three rounds of vetting, and again sending back the papers for drafting the delay-condonation application. The Court observed that no one in the Department took steps to shorten the process, despite having legal experts, and even appeared not to trust its own lawyers. Though the explanation for delay was found unsatisfactory, considering that other matters on similar issues had already been entertained, the Court condoned the delay as a special case, directed the matter to be tagged with Civil Appeal No. 1294 of 2015, and further directed that the order be communicated to the concerned Commissioner and higher authorities for corrective measures. [S. 147, 148 Art. 136]

The High Court held that the Tribunal had found that the reasons supplied to the assessee were not the same reasons recorded and found in the assessment record and that the order of reassessment was not valid, and that since the original reassessment order itself was not validly passed, the subsequent revision order by the Principal Commissioner was invalid. [S. 54B, Art. 136]

Assessee sold a piece of land and claimed a deduction under section 54B on the purchase of other agricultural land. The same was allowed. Thereafter, Pr. Commissioner invoked revision jurisdiction under section 263 on the ground that the assessee was not eligible for deduction under section 54B as no documentary evidence was placed before the Assessing Officer about agricultural activities carried out by the assessee in said land. Assessee had filed a reply raising objection that jurisdiction under section 263 was being exercised over 2/3rd of the parcel of land, while on 1/3rd parcel of land, capital gain was already allowed. Further, assessee had also filed details of reply to various show cause notices issued by the Assessing Officer for seeking certain information about short term/long term capital gain and agricultural income. CIT revised the order. Tribunal set aside the revision order. On appeal, the High Court held that since Assessing Officer had examined issue in depth and allowed exemption under section 54B to assessee, view taken by the Assessing Officer was one of reasonable, plausible and legally sustainable view which could not be said to be erroneous and, thus, order passed by Pr. Commissioner under section 263 could not be sustained and same was to be set aside. SLP of revenue was dismissed as the revenue could not explain the inordinate delay of 305 days in filing the SLP. (AY. 2016-17)

During the assessment proceedings, the AO raised specific queries regarding unsecured loans and, after obtaining the relevant information and conducting necessary enquiries, was satisfied with the details furnished by the assessee, including the identity and genuineness of the creditors, and completed the assessment under section 143(3). The CIT subsequently initiated revision proceedings under section 263. The Court noted that the CIT had made only general observations alleging a lack of enquiry by the AO, without specifying what further information ought to have been called for, nor did the CIT record any finding on the material already placed on record before holding that the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Accordingly, it held that the Tribunal was justified in setting aside the revision order passed by the Commissioner, and no substantial question of law arose for consideration. The Supreme Court declined to interfere with the judgment of the High Court, and the Special Leave Petition was dismissed. (AY.2014-15)

Assessee claimed exemption under section 54F in respect of capital gains arising from sale of a long-term capital asset. Assessing Officer had issued notices under sections 143(2) and 142(1), specifically seeking details related to exemption claimed and assessee had responded with relevant documents, including explanations regarding nature and use of various properties-Upon consideration, Assessing Officer accepted claim and completed assessment under section 143(3). Principal Commissioner invoked provisions of section 263 on the ground that assessee was not eligible for deduction under section 54F as assessee owned more than one residential house other than new asset on date of transfer of original asset. Tribunal quashed order of Principal Commissioner passed under section 263 and held that Assessing Officer had applied his mind and framed assessment order and thus order passed by Assessing Officer was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to interest of revenue. High Court held that findings of fact recorded by the Tribunal in the impugned order could not be termed as perverse or contrary to evidence on record and in the overall view of the matter, the decision of the Tribunal was correct and required no interference.SLP of revenue dismissed. Cash credit-Order of High Court quashing the revision order was affirmed-SLP of revenue dismissed.[S. 68, Art. 136]

Assessee-firm filed its return for relevant assessment year declaring total income as nil. Assessment was reopened assessment based on information from Investigation Wing that assessee maintained a bank account with ING Vysya Bank with substantial amount of credit entry which was not disclosed by assessee in its return. The Assessing Officer disallowed deduction under section 10AA. Principal Commissioner invoked revisionary jurisdiction on ground that Assessing Officer had not made any inquiry in respect of credit entries and same remained undisclosed and held that assessment order passed by Assessing Officer was erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue. Tribunal held that Assessing Officer had examined two issues raised in reopening of assessment under section 147 viz. credit entry in bank account and disallowance of deduction under section 10AA and set aside revisionary order on ground that entries in said bank statement were examined by Assessing Officer in reassessment proceedings. High Court held that Assessing Officer had conducted sufficient inquiry and it was not a case of 'no inquiry' or 'lack of inquiry', thus, when an opinion was formed as a result of inquiries, which was in exclusive domain of Assessing Officer, it was not open for revisional authority to arrive at conclusions merely on basis of a subjective exercise. It was not case of failure to investigate, but one where no addition was made on issue. SLP filed by the revenue was dismissed. The impugned order of the High Court was to be dismissed. While matter was pending, Assessing Officer completed assessment pursuant to search and seizure operation under section 153A. Commissioner did not consider effect of order passed under section 153A by stating that it was irrelevant and Commissioner proceeded to pass order under section 263. Tribunal held that Principal Commissioner while exercising his jurisdiction under section 263 was bound to look into subsequent action of Assessing Officer i.e. reassessment order under section 153A, wherein no adverse inference was drawn against share capital/premium collected by assessee during year under consideration and same had been accepted after enquiry. Further, under section 263, Principal Commissioner had to examine all records pertaining to assessment year at time of examination by him, which included post-search assessment proceedings and thereafter only if he found that the order passed by the Assessing Officer on any issue was erroneous insofar as it was prejudicial to the interest of the revenue, then only he would interfere by enhancing/modifying/cancelling assessment order. On appeal High Court held that finding rendered by Tribunal was justified as Principal Commissioner could not have ignored order passed under section 153A as being immaterial and irrelevant and the order of Tribunal affirmed. SLP of revenue was dismissed as the revenue court did not explain the delay of 646 days in filing SLP. AY. 2009-10)

Commissioner invoked revisionary jurisdiction under section 263 in respect of share application money received by assessee-company. Tribunal set aside revisionary order passed by Commissioner on ground that Assessing Officer in compliance with first revisionary order had called for details of share application money received and conducted detailed enquiry regarding same and thereafter passed the consequential order. Dismissing the appeal the Court held that since in second round of litigation, Tribunal had found that Assessing Officer in compliance with revisionary order had conducted detailed enquiry in respect of share application money, Tribunal was justified in setting aside second revisionary order passed by Commissioner. [S. 32(1), 43(6), Expln. 3(b), 143(3) Art, 136.]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that the Assessing Officer had considered the action of granting approval and also the valuation report and since the Assessing Officer had examined the aspect of the assessee's claim during the course of assessment while passing order under section 143(3) he had taken a plausible view sustainable in the eyes of law. It held that the assessee was entitled to claim depreciation under section 32 on goodwill expended at the time of amalgamation. The Assessing Officer had also relied on the decision of the Supreme Court in CIT v. Smifs Securities Ltd., (2012) 348 ITR 302 (SC) and allowed the depreciation. No substantial question of law. The High Court allowed the Department's appeal against the order of the Tribunal setting aside the revision proceedings under section 263 of the Act holding that the Commissioner was justified in setting aside the assessment order under section 263, on the grounds that the record, prima facie, suggested that no business was undertaken by the assessee during the year though it had claimed business expenses with a view to carrying forward losses, that the records clearly indicated that the assessee had not charged any fees for technical or management services said to have been rendered during the year, that without a thorough inquiry, the Assessing Officer was not justified in allowing the assessee to carry forward losses, that this was not a case of some plausible view taken by the Assessing Officer but a case where his decision was a result of non-application of mind to the materials on record and that it was only in pursuance of inquiry that the Commissioner had recorded a categorical finding that the assessee had not claimed payment of any fees from Paradeep Phosphates Ltd in respect of any technical or management services said to have been rendered by it. Assessee sold immovable property for a sum of Rs. 6.5 crores. Admittedly, a sum of Rs. 5.05 crores was received by the assessee and the balance amount of Rs. 1.45 crores was not received, as cheques for said amount were dishonoured. Assessee did not reflect sale of his immovable property during the relevant assessment year and did not offer capital gains to tax. PCIT passed the revision order on the ground that the Assessing Officer did not examine details regarding dishonour of cheques. Tribunal affirmed the revision order. On appeal, the High Court held that the assessment order was passed without making necessary inquiries and verification and thus, in terms of clause (a) of Explanation 2 to section 263, the assessment order was deemed to be erroneous in so far as it was prejudicial to interests of revenue. Dismissing the appeal, the High Court held that the Tribunal had examined the entire record and found that the Assessing Officer had raised several queries and had also demanded documents through the questionnaire, which was comprehensive and covered all relevant aspects of the share issue transactions. The assessee had answered and furnished all the requested documents to the Assessing Officer, and had also informed the Principal Commissioner, who had taken proceedings under section 263. The Principal Commissioner had not pointed out any further enquiries which were required to be made by the Assessing Officer. The power under section 263 could not be invoked in such circumstances by the Principal Commissioner. The factual aspects had been completely and thoroughly examined by the Tribunal. Commissioner passed the Revision order. On appeal, the Tribunal, placing reliance on its decision passed in earlier years, set aside order passed by the Commissioner. On appeal, Revenue contended that the decision of Tribunal in an earlier year was set aside by the High Court in appeal and hence, the revision order was just. High Court held that merely because the order of the Assessing Officer was passed relying upon the order of the Tribunal, which was subsequently reversed by High Court, could not justify the order passed by the Commissioner under section 263 of the Act. Dismissing the SLP of the Revenue, the Court held that the finding that the transaction was a solitary transaction and no development activity was made was in consonance with the facts recorded by the Assessing Officer. The only difference was that the Assessing Officer had taken a view that for any purchase or sale of land, the assessee was liable to pay capital gains tax, and the Commissioner had taken a different view. High Court held that merely because two plausible views were available and the Assessing Officer had taken one view, jurisdiction under section 263 could not have been exercised; the revision order is set aside. [S. 45, Art. 136]

The assessee sold immovable property during the relevant year. However, the assessee did not reflect the sale of immovable property neither paid tax on Capital Gains on the ground that the cheques towards balance of sale considerations were dishonoured.

The Pr. CIT observed that the two cheques issued by the purchaser was post dated cheques. The AO at the time of framing the assessment order, accepted the auditor's report given before the date of post dated cheques and accordingly, passed the assessment order without any enquiries as to dishonoured post dated cheques. The Pr. CIT assumed the jurisdiction in terms of clause (a) of Explanation 2 to Section 263 with the observation that the AO failed to examine the details of the dishonoured cheques and thus, the assessment order being an erroneous in so far as the prejudicial to the interest of the Revenue. The assessee-company had received a substantial amount as share capital/share premium. The Assessing Officer made an addition under section 68 in respect of the share capital/share premium. Principal

Commissioner invoked revisionary power under section 263 on the ground that the Assessing Officer had passed the order without carrying out a detailed investigation. The Assessing Officer passed the fresh assessment order under section 143(3) read with section 263 and deleted the addition already made under section 68 in respect of the share capital/share premium. PCIT once again passed the revision order. On appeal, the Tribunal held that it was not a case of no enquiry or lack of enquiry as the Assessing Officer had made an enquiry and taken a view after considering the evidence furnished by the assessee as well as by the share subscribers. Assessee, engaged in the business of real estate development, filed its return of income, which was accepted accordingly. Commissioner invoked powers vested under section 263 and observed that it was a case of lack of inquiry, which ought to have been made on part of Assessing Officer as issue of loans advanced to assessee by Sarvottam Securities Ltd and Upaj Leasing and Finance Pvt Ltd was not properly examined by Assessing Officer despite DDIT investigation report. Tribunal held that Assessing Officer had duly inquired into the matter and PCIT had erroneously invoked jurisdiction under section 263. On appeal by the Revenue, the Court held that perusal of assessment order would reflect that it nowhere discussed, examined or evaluated said loan transactions. In light of findings from DDIT investigation report and assessment proceedings of Upaj Leasing and Finance Pvt Ltd that entities Sarvottam Securities Ltd and Upaj Leasing and Finance Pvt Ltd were shell companies of an entry operator, relevance of ascertaining genuineness and creditworthiness of transactions could not be undermined and since there was no discussion about aforesaid aspects in assessment order, revision order was valid. Explanation 2 to section 263 of the Act would be applicable as the Explanation was inserted by the Finance Act, 2015 (2015) 373 ITR (St.) 25 with effect from June 1, 2015 and the case of the assessee belonged to the assessment year 2016-2017. The Tribunal also reappreciated the factual position and found that the Commissioner while exercising power under section 263 of the Act had not recorded a specific finding that it was a case of no enquiry by the Assessing Officer rather the observation was that there could be a possibility of understatement of the closing stock. The assessee-HUF sold agricultural land for Rs. 33.82 crores, claiming a deduction of Rs. 17.75 crores under section 54B for the purchase of other agricultural land. The AO accepted the income after a thorough inquiry, including documentary evidence such as sale deeds and bills. However, the PCIT set aside the assessment, citing a lack of cross-verification with the agriculture department and previous non-declared agricultural income. On appeal, the Tribunal quashed the PCIT's order, concluding that the AO had reasonably determined the transaction as capital gains eligible for deduction, and that both conditions under section 263 were not met. Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that the Tribunal had recorded that on the first issue, the Commissioner had misconstrued the facts. On issue Nos. 2, 3 and 4, the Assessing Officer had taken "possible views". The Tribunal was justified in setting aside the order of revision. In CIT v. Amitabh Bachchan, (2016) 384 ITR 200 (SC), the Supreme Court has held that so long as the view taken by the Assessing Officer is a "possible view", it ought not be interfered with by the Commissioner under section 263 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 merely on the ground that there could be another possible view in the matter. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Tribunal finding that the Assessing Officer had made sufficient inquiry and the order of assessment was not erroneous-Order of revision not valid.[S. 260A]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the Tribunal had found that an adequate inquiry was done and it was not a case of lack of inquiry. Repayment of the loan did not constitute any expenditure, and as the source of such repayment was explained before the Assessing Officer as well as the Principal Commissioner, section 69C of the Income-tax Act, 1961, could not have been invoked. The receipts had already been taxed in the hands of the assessee, and the assessee had filed an appeal against the order, which was finally closed under the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Scheme. The Tribunal was right in holding that it was not a case where there was a lack of inquiry and therefore there was no ground on which revisionary powers under section 263 could have been invoked. Similarly, for the commission expenses, the assessee had furnished the details of both parties. Out of four parties, three parties were located at distant places. The Principal Commissioner had not disputed the existence of the parties, nor the payment against the purchases or the commission paid, nor the evidence filed by the assessee to substantiate the allegation that the purchases or commissions paid were bogus. The order of assessment was not erroneous, and the order of revision was not valid. (AY.2014-15)

The assessment under sections 153A and 143(3) was completed by the AO after the assessee provided evidence of unsecured loans. The PCIT invoked Section 263, claiming that the AO conducted an inadequate inquiry into the creditworthiness and identity of the loan providers. However, the Tribunal quashed the PCIT's revision, asserting that the AO had conducted sufficient inquiries and had a plausible basis for accepting the loans. The Court upheld the Tribunal's decision, stating that the PCIT must provide specific findings on the AO's alleged failures and independently verify any additional information needed to challenge the assessment order. The revenue's appeal was dismissed, confirming no substantial question of law arose. (AY. 2014-15)

Order of Tribunal affirmed. [S. 32, 260A]

Assessee-company carried out leasehold improvements at its leasehold office premises. Assessee claimed 100 per cent depreciation on the ground that additions were in the nature of dismantling and temporary erection, which were eligible for depreciation as per rates prescribed under Rule 5 of the Income-tax Rules, 1962. Assessing Officer allowed the same. Principal Commissioner invoked revisionary proceedings on the ground that assessee would be entitled to depreciation thereon at 10 per cent as per the Rules. He directed the Assessing Officer to re-do the assessment afresh. Tribunal dismissed the appeal of the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the issue of depreciation at 100 per cent was a non-issue before the Assessing Officer, i.e., the Assessing Officer had neither examined nor applied his mind in respect of the available rate of depreciation on leasehold improvements, granting said depreciation was erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of revenue. Assessing Officer passed an assessment order allowing exemption under section 11. Commissioner passed the revision order for failure to consider certain receipts as business income. Tribunal quashed the revision order. On appeal, the Court held that the Assessing Officer had issued a questionnaire raising 34 questions on various issues and the assessee had given an explanation and also submitted materials. Since there was no discussion or finding on 34 questions raised under section 142(1), the Assessing Officer should be taken as having accepted the assessee's explanation. The assessment was reopened based on documents found during a search at a certain firm, revealing financial transactions. Assessing Officer assessed income, adding it using the G.P. rate of 19.40%. PCIT invoked Section 263, arguing that the Assessing Officer failed to verify cash transactions and ordered fresh assessment. Tribunal quashed the PCIT's

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Jurisdiction to be tested with reference to law prevailing on date of exercise of revisional power-Subsequent Supreme Court decision cannot invalidate revision-Lack of enquiry by Assessing Officer on section 32AB deduction and computation of book profits under section 115J rendered assessment erroneous and prejudicial-Commissioner's order to be read as a whole and not by isolating one sentence-Where assessee did not challenge order giving effect to section 263, merits could not thereafter be agitated-Tribunal upholding assumption of jurisdiction affirmed. [S. 32AB, 115J, 260A]

The Bombay High Court held that where the Assessing Officer had not examined the issues relating to deduction under section 32AB and computation of book profits under section 115J in the original assessment, the Commissioner validly assumed jurisdiction under section 263, since absence of enquiry rendered the assessment order erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The Court held that the validity of revisional jurisdiction must be tested on the basis of the legal position prevailing on the date the Commissioner exercised such jurisdiction, and a subsequent decision of the Supreme Court in Apollo Tyres Ltd. could not be relied upon to invalidate the revision. It was further held that the Commissioner's operative order had to be read holistically and the assessee could not isolate one sentence to contend that a final finding on merits had been given; the Commissioner had only directed fresh examination in accordance with law. Since the assessee had not challenged the order passed by the Assessing Officer giving effect to the section 263 order, the assessee could not be permitted to indirectly agitate the merits in appeal against the revisional order. The Tribunal's order upholding the exercise of jurisdiction under section 263 was affirmed. (AY. 1988-89)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Survey-Lack of proper enquiry-Specific show-cause notice-Excess stock-Principal CIT unjustified in invoking revisionary jurisdiction-Tribunal order affirmed. [S. 69, 115BBE, 133A, 260A]

During survey, excess stock was found and the AO issued a specific show-cause notice asking why the amount should not be treated as unexplained investment under S. 69 and taxed under S. 115BBE. The assessee explained that the excess stock represented business stock duly recorded in the books and offered as business income. After considering the reply, the AO accepted the explanation and made only a small addition. The Principal CIT invoked S. 263 alleging lack of enquiry and non-application of mind. The High Court held that since the AO had conducted enquiry through a specific notice and taken a plausible view, the twin conditions of "erroneous" and "prejudicial to revenue" were not satisfied. Mere loss of revenue or disagreement with the AO's view could not justify revision. Accordingly, the revision order was rightly set aside by the Tribunal. (AY. 2017-18)

[S. 43B, 56(2)(x), 260A].

The Assessing Officer, after examining the valuation of leasehold land and building acquired for setting up a mega industrial unit and considering the registered valuer's scientific valuation report along with incentives granted by the Government of Maharashtra, accepted the assessee's claim and completed assessment after due enquiry. The Tribunal found that invocation of revisionary jurisdiction by the Principal CIT was primarily at the instance of the Assessing Officer, which is impermissible in law, and that adequate enquiries had in fact been conducted during assessment proceedings. It was also held that section 56(2)(x) was inapplicable since the agreement for acquisition preceded its introduction. Further, reversal/write-back of a provision earlier disallowed under section 43B could not be brought to tax, as such action would amount to double taxation of the same sum. The Principal CIT failed to deal with the assessee's detailed explanation and judicial precedents while directing reconsideration by the Assessing Officer. Accordingly, the Tribunal rightly set aside the revision order and the High Court affirmed that the conditions for exercise of jurisdiction under section 263 were absent. (AY. 2018-19).

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-

Number of partners exceeded 20-Remuneration to partners-Commissioner not showing how order of Assessing Officer prejudicial-Order of Tribunal quashing the revision order was affirmed. [S.40(b)]

Dismissing the Department's appeal the Court held that the notice issued by the Commissioner there was no explanation as to why the order of the Assessing Officer was prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Even if prejudice to the Revenue was to be reckoned in terms of the actual loss to the exchequer, no figures had been given in the notice to suggest that the average rate of Income-tax on the total income of the association of persons would be far higher than the average rate of Income-tax applied to the firm. That if the Revenue's stand of disallowing under section 40(b), the remuneration paid by the assessee to its partners was upheld, then the total tax that would be paid by the assessee and its partners would amount to Rs.7,11,81,848. If the stand of the assessee was accepted, still the tax paid collectively by the firm and the partners in their individual assessments would amount to Rs. 7,11,81,848. Therefore, there was no prejudice that could be stated to have been caused to the Revenue. Court also held that a firm is a compendious way of describing the individuals constituting the firm. The view of the Commissioner that the assessee's partner MDK acted in two capacities, i.e., on his own behalf and as a partner in a representative capacity of DHSM and, therefore, should be counted as two in numbers, thereby adding one more partner to the existing strength of 20 partners, was erroneous. On the facts and circumstances, DHSM could not be added as a partner of the assessee-firm. The Tribunal was right in holding that the Commissioner in his power under section 263, had erroneously directed the Assessing Officer to modify the assessment order passed under section 143(3), treating the status of assessee as an association of persons.(AY. 2008-09)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Consortium of private entities not a statutory body-Deduction wrongly allowed by AO-Revision justified-Order of Tribunal set aside. [S.80IA(4) Expl. 263]

The assessee claimed deduction u/s 80IA on the basis of a concession agreement entered into with a consortium of private entities for operating, maintaining and developing the cargo terminal at Delhi Airport. The consortium was formed pursuant to a bidding process conducted by Airports Authority of India (AAI). The AO allowed the deduction. The PCIT invoked S.263, holding that the mandatory condition of S.80IA(4) that the agreement must be with the Central/State Government, local authority or statutory body was not fulfilled since the consortium was not a statutory body merely because AAI delegated certain functions to it. Tribunal set aside the revision order. On appeal, the High Court held that the Tribunal erred in ignoring these statutory preconditions; the concession granted by the consortium could not qualify for S. 80IA benefits, and the AO's order was therefore erroneous and prejudicial to the Revenue. Revision order of PCIT restored. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- -Finding by Tribunal that proper enquiry had been conducted-order was not prejudicial to Revenue Order of revision not valid.[S. 260A]

Held, dismissing the appeal, that the Tribunal had dealt with the issue and found that the Assessing Officer thoroughly examined the sale of immovable property that had resulted in capital gains. He had examined the written reply, sale deed, purchase of property and computation of capital gains. He had also examined the evidence led by the assessee to claim benefit of section 54 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Tribunal had observed that the revisional authority had not expressed any doubt regarding the quantum of capital gains arising at the hands of the assessee and that it was invested in purchase and construction of residential house. Seen in the context of an assessee with modest means, the Commissioner had unnecessarily drawn up revision proceedings upon a procedural lapse as no real prejudice may have ever arisen to the Revenue authorities in the context of the petty amount involved. The Tribunal was justified in setting aside the order of revision.(AY. 2012-13)

For initiation of penalty proceedings under section 271(1)(c) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, the satisfaction of the Assessing Officer that the matters mentioned in clauses (a) to (d) of section 271 subsist, is to be recorded during the course of the proceedings. The assessment and penalty are separate proceedings. The recording of the satisfaction has to be during the course of the proceedings though the notice can be issued during or after the proceedings. Once the satisfaction is recorded, the penalty can be imposed after conclusion of the proceedings but within the limitation period provided under section 275. The initiation of penalty proceedings by the Assessing Officer during the proceedings is not a substitute for recording of the satisfaction in the order. The assessment order cannot be held to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue for non-recording of the satisfaction by the Assessing Officer to initiate the penalty proceedings. The satisfaction has to be of specific provisions and penalty proceedings cannot be initiated a different provision for which no satisfaction was recorded.(AY. 2012-13 to 2018-19)

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the Assessing Officer had considered the action of granting approval and also the valuation report, and since the Assessing Officer had examined the aspect of the assessee's claim during the course of assessment while passing an order under section 143(3) he had taken a plausible view sustainable in the eyes of law. It held that the assessee was entitled to claim depreciation under section 32 on goodwill expended at the time of amalgamation. The Assessing Officer had also relied on the decision of the Supreme Court in CIT v. Smifs Securities Ltd., (2012) 348 ITR 302 (SC) and allowed the depreciation. No substantial question of law. Allowing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that the operative portion of the show-cause notice under section 263 of the Act showed that the Principal Commissioner had applied his mind and had come to the prima facie conclusion that the Assessing Officer should have treated the entire credit as bogus and added it back, rejecting the claim for exemption under section 10(38) of the Act. This was not a case where the Principal Commissioner solely proceeded based on the report of the Assessing Officer but, on a perusal of the report, had examined the facts. The assessee sold a business and related assets and claimed a short-term capital loss for AY 2004-05. The AO completed assessment under s. 143(3) after calling for and receiving explanations and documents, and made minor additions. The Commissioner invoked s. 263 and held the assessment order erroneous and prejudicial on several grounds, including disallowance of s. 54EC investments as allegedly made before the date of transfer. The Tribunal allowed the assessee's appeal in part. On the Department's appeal to the High Court: Held there was no error warranting intervention under s. 263. The assessee had been asked for and had provided necessary documents; the schedule of payments and the agreement showed advances contemporaneous with the sale agreement (2-01-2003), and investments in bonds were made thereafter from those proceeds (initially routed through mutual funds). For AY 2014-15, the assessee deducted tax at source on fees for technical services and lease rent but deposited it belatedly. The AO accepted the assessee's submission, supported by Form 26A, that the payee had already offered the income and paid taxes; hence no disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) was required. The Principal Commissioner revised the order under section 263, treating the assessee as in default. Held, dismissing the appeal, that once the payee had offered the income and paid tax, the assessee was not in default under section 201(1). Consequently, no disallowance could be made under section 40(a)(ia). The AO's view was plausible; hence, the order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to Revenue. PCIT v. Asiatic Bearing Co [2025] 172 taxmann.com 646(Guj)(HC)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Capital gains-Sale of land-Twin conditions of order being erroneous and prejudicial to Revenue-Lack of inquiry and documents not verified by Assessing Officer-Principal Commissioner correctly invoked power of revision under section 263 of the Act. [S. 2(14), 45, 260A]

Allowing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that the sale deed is not a document issued by the revenue authorities or any Government authority which would certify the agricultural nature of the land. The AO had allowed the exemption claimed by the assessee on the ground that the land sold is agricultural in nature and situated beyond municipal limits without inquiry and verification. Tehsildar certificate and reply of District Town Planner not establishing assessee's claim. Thus, the order passed by the AO was prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue amenable under section 263 of the Act.(AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Sangeeta Jain (Ms.) [2024] 168 taxmann.com 276 /(2025) 472 ITR 662 / 342 CTR 150 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to Revenue-Merely the fact that no inquiry was conducted by the AO on record of the survey before him cannot be the basis for assumption of jurisdiction under S. 263 of the Act. [S. 28(i), 68, 69A, 115BBE, 133A, 263, Explanation 2.]

The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court decided an appeal on the substantial questions of law involving issues relating to S. 263 of the Act. In such circumstances it was observed that since there was nothing on record to point out that documents pertaining to survey could have led to a belief different from one entertained by Assessing Officer, Tribunal was justified in holding that non-examination of records could not be basis for invoking revisional jurisdiction under S. 263 and PCIT could not have assumed the jurisdiction on mere change of opinion on his part, when the Assessing Officer while during the course of regular assessment has made inquiry regarding the issue which is the subject matter of the revision.(AY. 2017-18)

PCIT v. Parshottambhai Maganlal Ramotia [2025] 302 Taxman 448 (Guj)(HC)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Non-resident-AO allowed the claim under India-Singapore DTAA-CITA initiated the revisions proceedings on the ground that the assessee conduit company used for treaty shopping-without putting the allegation in the 263 notice-The assessee has not been heard on the said issue-Revision is bad in law-Appeal of Revenue is dismissed-DTAA-India-Singapore. [S.9(1)(vii), 260A, Art. 12]

Dismissing the appeal of the department, Hon'ble Court held that the revision order passed by the Commissioner under section 263 without providing the assessee an opportunity to counter the allegation that it was a conduit company without any substance. In the show-cause notice the Commissioner had faulted the Assessing Officer for not undertaking certain enquiries including verifying whether, (i) the assessee had a permanent establishment in India, (ii) in terms of section 9(1)(vii) of the Act, the income was chargeable as fees for technical services, (iii) tax at source at the rate of 10 per cent. on all the remittances made to the assessee were deducted, (iv) the condition as set out in article 12 of the India-Singapore Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement in regard to taxation of fees for technical services were satisfied, (v) regarding the commercial substance of the assessee in Singapore and (vi) it was a conduit company formed for obtaining the tax benefits under the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement. These observations were made only for the purposes of calling upon the assessee to show cause why the proceedings not be initiated under section 263 of the Act but, thereafter, the Commissioner had not put the issue regarding treaty shopping to the assessee. The tentative opinion formed by the Commissioner that the assessee was a conduit company for the reasons as articulated in the revision order was not put to the assessee. Hence, the assessee had not been given an opportunity to satisfy the Commissioner regarding such view for the assessment year 2017-2018.(AY. 2017-18)

CIT (IT) v. Zebra Technologies Asia Pacific Pte. Ltd. (2025) 472 ITR 745 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Remittances to non-resident-Import of raw materials-Deduction of tax at source-Tribunal setting aside the order of Commissioner-Commissioner cannot make addition without directing the Assessing Officer to re-examine issue. [S. 40(a)(ia), 195, 254, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the conclusion of the Tribunal, to the extent, that the Commissioner could not have unilaterally directed the Assessing Officer to add back the sum paid towards the import of raw materials by holding that it was disallowable as expenditure could not have been issued under section 263 without the Assessing Officer re-examining the issue was beyond the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, did not suffer from any legal infirmity. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. No substantial question of law. (AY. 2007-08)

Editorial :SLP of Revenue is dismissed, CIT v. Paradeep Phosphates Ltd. (2024) 471 ITR 419 (Orissa) (HC)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Sale of immovable property-Allowing deduction on amount paid directly by purchaser to release charge of mortgage in property sold under attachment due to personal guarantee given by assessee-Discharge of debt-Order of the Assessing Officer to allow the claim is nether erroneous nor prejudicial to the interest of Revenue. [S. 143(3), 260A]

On appeal the Tribunal held that it was not a case where no enquiry was made by the Assessing Officer during the course of assessment proceedings or that the Assessing Officer failed to apply his mind to the issues on hand and taken a view which was not legally plausible on the facts and set aside the revision order under section 263 on the ground that merely because the Principal Commissioner had a different opinion he should not have invoked revision jurisdiction. On appeal was not legally plausible on the facts and set aside the revision order under section 263 on the ground that merely because the Principal Commissioner had a different opinion, he should not have invoked revision jurisdiction. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee did not create any mortgage on the property, but he had given a personal guarantee to the entity for discharge of the debt for which there was a charge over the property and for release of the mortgage on the personal guarantee of the assessee, the amount was paid by the buyer directly to the entity, Titco Ltd. It was also not in dispute that the assessee did not avail of any loan on mortgage of the property sold by him. The Tribunal had rightly held that the assessment order by the Assessing Officer was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. No substantial question of law. (AY. 2013-14)

PCIT v. Rinki Shashikant Gandhi (2024)471 ITR 321 (Guj) (HC)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Book profit-Decapitalization of interest-Failure of Assessing Officer to examine computation of book profits-Order of Tribunal affirming the revision order of Commissioner is affirmed. [S. 32AB, 115J, 260A]

The Assessing Officer accepted the assessee's computation of book profits under Section 115J of the Act. The CIT invoked Section 263, stating that the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to revenue as the AO failed to examine the issue of decapitalization of interest while computing book profits. The Tribunal upheld the CIT's order, affirming the validity of revisional jurisdiction. On appeal, the High Court dismissed the assessee's challenge, holding that the AO had not applied his mind to key aspects, making the order erroneous. It further held that the CIT's observations were not a final finding but a direction to recompute the book profits, and the assessee failed to challenge the reassessment order, making it final and precluding further contestation. Accordingly, the court held that the CIT's exercise of jurisdiction under Section 263 was justified, and the appeal is dismissed. Followed CIT, Nagpur v. Ballarpur Industries Ltd(2017) 85 taxmann.com 10 (Bom) (HC). Court has not expressed any opinion on merits. (AY.1998-99)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Survey-Assessment completed after survey-One possible view taken by Assessing Officer-Explanation 2(a) to section 263 does not confer unfettered powers upon the Principal Commissioner to revise every assessment order merely because another view is possible.-Revision not valid.[S 69, 69A, 115BBE, 133A]

The assessee offered the income surrendered during the survey as business income, which was accepted by the Assessing Officer after issuing a specific show-cause notice regarding the applicability of section 115BBE and examining the issue. The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263, holding that the surrendered amount ought to have been assessed under sections 69 and 69A. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had made proper enquiries, applied his mind and adopted one of the legally permissible views. Explanation 2(a) to section 263 does not confer unfettered powers upon the Principal Commissioner to revise every assessment order merely because another view is possible. Since the assessment order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, the revision order was quashed. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Book profit-Amalgamation-Depreciation-Revision is invalid where it is based on incorrect facts and the Assessing Officer has already examined the depreciation claim arising from amalgamation.[S. 32, 115JB]

Pursuant to an amalgamation, the transferor company filed a revised return claiming book depreciation in accordance with the revised financial statements. The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263, alleging excess depreciation by relying on figures pertaining to the transferee company. The Tribunal held that the revision proceedings were founded on incorrect factual assumptions, whereas the depreciation claimed by the transferor company had already been verified by the Assessing Officer and was consistent with the revised financial statements. As there was no error in the assessment order, the revision under section 263 was quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

VITP P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2025) 170 taxmann.com 90 / 121 ITR 19 (SN) (Hyd.)(Trib.)

263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Share capital and share premium-Lack of enquiry by the Assessing Officer on valuation of shares justifies revision, though the Commissioner cannot direct a straightaway addition. [S 56(2)(viib), 143(3)]

The assessee issued shares at a premium supported by a merchant banker's valuation report. In the preceding assessment year, the Assessing Officer had rejected a similar valuation under identical financial circumstances, whereas in the year under consideration, he accepted the valuation without any enquiry. The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 on the ground that the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer, while completing a scrutiny assessment under section 143(3), was duty-bound to examine the valuation report and conduct necessary enquiries. Failure to do so rendered the assessment order erroneous and prejudicial to the Revenue, warranting revision under section 263. However, the Principal Commissioner could not direct the Assessing Officer to make a straightaway addition of the share premium and was required to leave the issue open for fresh examination. The Assessing Officer was accordingly directed to carry out a de novo verification of the valuation after considering the evidence produced by the assessee. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Reassessment-Long-term capital gains-Penny stock-Enquiry-Bogus capital gains-Inadequate enquiry-Revision order was set aside.[S. 10(38), 45, 147, 148]

Where, during reassessment proceedings, the assessee furnished complete documentary evidence including bank statements, demat account, share certificates, contract notes, broker's ledger, capital gains computation and other supporting records establishing the genuineness of the share transactions, and the Assessing Officer, after examining the material, accepted the claim of exemption under section 10(38), the Principal Commissioner was not justified in invoking section 263 merely on the basis of Investigation Wing information alleging penny stock transactions. In the absence of any finding as to what further enquiry was required or how the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, the revision order was held to be invalid. S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Partnership firm-Remuneration to partner-Minor typographical error in partnership deed-Revision not justified-Delay in filing of appeal was condoned. [S.40(b), 253(5), 254(1)]

The Commissioner invoked section 263 on the ground that one partner's name was omitted in the clause providing for remuneration under the partnership deed, though the partner was otherwise shown as a partner in the deed. The Tribunal held that the omission was merely a typographical error and the Assessing Officer had correctly interpreted the deed while allowing the remuneration. Such a trivial defect neither rendered the assessment order erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision order was therefore quashed. The delay in filing the appeal before the Tribunal, occasioned by a bona fide misunderstanding regarding the effect of the revision order, was also condoned. (AY. 2017-18.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Twin conditions of "erroneous" and "prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue" mandatory-Revision on payment of bonus to director quashed. [S. 40A(2)(b)]

The Assessing Officer completed the assessment after examining the tax audit report which disclosed payment of bonus to a director. The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 on the ground that the payment was excessive and unreasonable. The Tribunal held that the Principal Commissioner failed to establish how the assessment order was both erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, which are mandatory preconditions for invoking section 263. The increased turnover and profits of the assessee, the Board's approval of the bonus and the fact that the director had paid tax on the bonus at a higher rate than the company were ignored by the Principal Commissioner. Merely because another view was possible, the revisionary jurisdiction could not be exercised. Accordingly, the revision order was quashed. (AY. 2020-21)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Issue already examined during assessment-Proceedings initiated on basis of audit objection-Fresh issues beyond limitation-Revision invalid on legal and merits. [S. 143(3), 147, 148]

The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 on the basis of an audit objection relating to deposits in an ICICI Bank account, although the issue had been specifically examined by the Assessing Officer during reassessment and an annotated report rejecting the audit objection formed part of the assessment record. After the Tribunal set aside the earlier revision order, the Principal Commissioner issued a fresh notice introducing altogether new issues beyond the original notice and beyond the period of limitation. The Tribunal held that revision merely on the basis of an audit objection was impermissible where the Assessing Officer had already made due enquiries and taken a conscious view. Further, new issues could not be introduced beyond the prescribed limitation. The revision order was quashed both on legal grounds and on merits. (AY. 2011-12)

Vaneet Gupta v. ITO (2025) 128 ITR 352 (Chd.)(Trib.).

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Assessing Officer having accepted the claim that interest received on enhanced compensation formed part of compensation exempt under section 10(37), revision under section 263 was not justified as the issue was debatable and the AO had adopted a possible view. [S. 10(37), 45, 56(2)(viii)]

The assessee received enhanced compensation on compulsory acquisition of agricultural land, including interest under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act, and claimed exemption under section 10(37). The AO, after examining the claim during scrutiny, accepted the exemption. The PCIT invoked section 263 on the ground that the interest was taxable as "Income from Other Sources" in view of the decision in Mahender Pal Narang, The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the AO had made due enquiries and accepted the claim by following the Supreme Court decision in Ghanshyam (HUF), which treated interest under section 28 as part of enhanced compensation. Since the issue was debatable and the AO had adopted one of the possible views, the assessment order could not be held to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Accordingly, the order passed under section 263 was quashed. The appeal was allowed. [AY.2018-19]

Pawan Kumar v. Pr. CIT (2025) 130 ITR 132 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Where the AO, after examining the assessee's eligibility for exemption under section 10(21), adopted a possible view that incidental receipts were eligible for exemption, the Commissioner could not invoke section 263 merely because he held a different opinion on a debatable issue. [S. 10(21)]

The assessee, a research association approved under section 35(1)(ii), claimed exemption under section 10(21). During reassessment, the AO accepted the claim after considering the assessee's eligibility and records, including receipts from auditorium hire charges, hoarding site and service charges and rent. The Commissioner invoked section 263 on the ground that these receipts were not incidental to the objects of the trust and that the AO had failed to make proper enquiries. The Tribunal held that the AO had examined the material on record and adopted a possible view that the impugned receipts were eligible for exemption under section 10(21). Whether such receipts were incidental to the objects of the trust was a debatable issue and, therefore, the assessment order could not be regarded as erroneous merely because the Commissioner held a different view. Accordingly, the assumption of jurisdiction under section 263 was held to be invalid, and the revision order was quashed. The appeal was allowed. (AY.2013-14)

Synthetic and Art Silk Mills Research Association v. CIT (E) (2025) 130 ITR 13 (Mum)(Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-No revision where Assessing Officer rightly made no disallowance under section 14A as interest-free funds exceeded investments-Commissioner cannot invoke section 263 on an issue which is the subject matter of appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals)-Failure to refer specified domestic transaction to Transfer Pricing Officer does not render assessment erroneous where CBDT Instruction is not attracted. [S. 14A, 92BA, 92CA 250, Rule 8D]

The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 on the ground that the Assessing Officer had failed to make disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D. The Tribunal held that the assessee possessed interest-free funds far in excess of the investments yielding exempt income and, therefore, no disallowance of interest was called for. As the assessment order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, assumption of jurisdiction under section 263 was held to be invalid. The Principal Commissioner exercised revisional jurisdiction under section 263 in respect of disallowance under section 14A, although the same issue was pending before the Commissioner (Appeals). The Tribunal held that Explanation 1(c) to section 263 prohibits exercise of revisional jurisdiction in respect of matters which are the subject matter of appeal before the first appellate authority. Accordingly, the revision order on that issue was quashed. The Principal Commissioner revised the assessment under section 263 on the ground that the Assessing Officer had failed to refer specified domestic transactions to the Transfer Pricing Officer. The Tribunal held that none of the conditions prescribed in CBDT Instruction No. 3 of 2016 requiring mandatory reference to the Transfer Pricing Officer were satisfied. Further, after omission of section 92BA(i), no determination of arm's length price was required in respect of such domestic transactions. Consequently, the assessment order could not be regarded as erroneous or prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue and the revision under section 263 was set aside. (A.Y. 2014-15)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-
-Assessment was completed after duly examining the issue of unsecured loan-Invocation of revision jurisdiction to verify the same issue is not permissible.[S.36(1)(va), 143(3)]

The case of the Assessee's case was selected for complete scrutiny to verify the issue of transactions with a company whose registration has been cancelled by MCA. The assessment order was passed accepting the returned income. Thereafter, PCIT invoked the jurisdiction under section 263 of the Act. On perusal of the records, the PCIT observed that the Assessee has taken an unsecured loan from Alliance Commodities Ltd during the year under consideration. The PCIT noticed that, on the website of MCA, the status of the said company is shown as 'struck off'. The PCIT held that the Assessee failed to establish the genuineness of the loan transaction. Thus, the same needs to be added under section 263 of the Act. Further, the PCIT noticed from Form 3CD-Col 20(b) that the PF contribution received from employees of Rs.14,796/-for which the due date for payment was 15.06.2017; however, the same is made on 23.06.2017. As per the provisions of section 36(1)(va), the contribution of the employees paid after the due date and the amount of Rs.14,796/-was required to be disallowed. Thus, the PCIT held that, the AO should have disallowed the claim under section 36(1)(va) of the Act. The revision order was passed holding the assessment order erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of the revenue. On appeal, the ITAT observed that, during the course of assessment proceedings, the AO vide notice under section 142(1) of the Act asked the specific query with respect to loan transaction with Alliance Commodities Ltd. In response to the same, the Assessee furnished all the details like ledger account, loan confirmation. The AO also examined certificate of incorporation and ~~also examined~~ the genuineness of the transaction. Thus, the ITAT held that the AO made adequate inquiry pertaining to the said loan transaction and then passed the assessment order. Thus, the assessment order cannot be held as erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of the revenue. Further, with respect to the issue of PF under section 36(1)(Va) is concerned, the ITAT held that, the said issue is covered against the Assessee by the decision of supreme court in the case of Checkmate Services Pvt. Ltd. [Civil Appeal No.2833 of 2016 (SC)]. Thus, the appeal of the Assessee was partly allowed by the ITAT. [AY. 2018-19]

Held that the Assessee acquired the property through a registered gift deed from his father which was acquired by the latter well before 1st April, 2001, and the AO having allowed the assessee to compute the capital gains on the sale of said property by adopting the cost of acquisition based on FMV thereof as on 1st April, 2001, the order passed by the AO cannot be held to be erroneous; AO having thus reached a right conclusion in determining the indexed cost of acquisition for working out the capital gains, the revisional jurisdiction exercised by the Principal CIT under s. 263 cannot be sustained. [S. 153C]

Held that the Assessing Officer had not identified and correlated the seized material for the determination of the total income of the assessee, for the relevant assessment years for which satisfaction is purported to have arrived at, the satisfaction recorded by the AO for the purpose of S. 153C for the said assessment years cannot be considered to be a bona fide and legally valid satisfaction and, therefore, the consequential assessment orders passed under S. 153C are ab initio void in the absence of valid jurisdiction to pass the said orders; once the assessment orders are ab initio void, said invalid orders cannot be subjected to revision under S. 263 and therefore, the order passed by the Principal CIT under s. 263 is not sustainable.(AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

Held that the Assessing Officer has raised queries during the course of assessment proceedings regarding the claim of long-term capital gains arising on the sale of shares as well as purchase of two immovable properties by the assessee which were properly replied by the assessee and also carried out checking and verification of the relevant documents submitted by the assessee before accepting the return, it cannot be said that the assessment was made by the AO without conducting any inquiry and verification and the case is one of no inquiry so as to warrant invocation of provision under s. 263. Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had made an enquiry and the assessee had produced the necessary documents to substantiate the assessee's claim of the cost of improvement of the property. The Assessing Officer has accepted the computation of capital gains as made by the assessee after considering the bank statements and the valuer's report submitted by the assessee. The AO's order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue for want of adequate enquiry, and therefore, the revisionary order is not sustainable (AY. 2019-20)

Held that the assessee claimed exemption under s. 54 on the basis of purchase of property from his wife under an unregistered sale agreement and filed no evidence to prove that he has made any effort to register the property by presenting the document before the registration authorities, the assessment order passed by the AO allowing the claim for exemption on the basis of said sale agreement without conducting relevant enquires is not only erroneous but also prejudicial to the interest of the Revenue and, therefore, the Principal CIT has rightly set aside the assessment order in terms of provisions of s. 263. Held that PCIT has found no fault at all in the reasoned explanation of the assessee demonstrating that its claim of short-term capital loss on the sale of shares was correct even as per the method prescribed by the Principal CIT himself and the assessee having furnished all the facts to the AO during the assessment proceeding, the assessment order cannot be said to be erroneous for having allowed the claimed of short-term capital-loss and, therefore, the finding of the Principal CIT is not sustainable. Tribunal held that the claim of deduction under s. 80G of CSR expenses was in accordance with the law and, therefore, the assessment order allowing such a legally tenable claim to the assessee was not erroneous, causing prejudice to the Revenue. Tribunal also held that the disallowance under s. 14A ought to have been Rs. 42,82,354 as per the assessee's own calculation, the assessment order was erroneous for having allowed the assessee's claim of disallowance of expenses under s. 14A only to the extent of Rs. 4,92,537.(AY. 2020-21)

Torrent Investments Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 237 TTJ 802 (Ahd) Trib)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Invalid Reassessment-PCIT cannot revise a reassessment order which is itself void for want of proper sanction under section 151-Reassessment without approval of the competent authority is non est. [147, 148, 148A(d), 151(1), 151(ii)]

The Tribunal held that where the notice under section 148 and the order under section 148A(d) were issued after expiry of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year, approval was required from the authority prescribed under section 151(ii). Since the approval had been granted only by the Principal CIT under section 151(i), the reassessment proceedings were vitiated for want of valid sanction. The subsequent amendment made by the Finance Act, 2023, was held to be prospective and could not cure the defect. Consequently, the reassessment was non est in law, and the Principal CIT could not invoke section 263 to revise such an invalid reassessment order. The revision order was accordingly quashed. (AY.2018-19)

Megnanapuram Primary Agricultural Co-operative Credit Society v. PCIT (2025) 238 TTJ 513 (Chennai)(Trib.).

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Cash deposits during demonetisation period-Assessing Officer having made detailed enquiries regarding source of cash deposit and accepted explanation after verification-Principal Commissioner cannot invoke revision merely because he believes deeper enquiry was required-Revision unwarranted. [S. 143(2), 142(1)]

The assessee's return was accepted after complete scrutiny wherein the AO had called for and examined the assessee's explanation regarding cash deposits of Rs. 38.37 lakhs made during the demonetisation period, verified the purchase bills, purchase account, mode of payment, confirmation from parties and the cash book relating to the assessee's seasonal cloth trading business, and accepted the source of cash deposits as genuine sale proceeds; however, the PCIT invoked revision under section 263(1) holding that detailed and deeper enquiry ought to have been made. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since AO had carried out due enquiry, applied his mind and formed a reasonable view based on the material on record, and since PCIT, without bringing any fresh material or conducting any further enquiry of his own, merely re-appreciated the same material based on suspicion regarding the manner of conduct of business, the revisionary jurisdiction under section 263 could not be sustained; a solitary or seasonal trading activity duly supported by documentary evidence and accepted by AO after examination could not be revised merely on the belief that deeper enquiry was warranted, and the order of PCIT was accordingly set aside and the assessment order revived. (AY. 2017-18)

Manuj Jain (HUF) v. PCIT (2025) 132 ITR 298 (Chd) (Trib.)

S. 263 : Revision-Erroneous and prejudicial to Revenue-Assessee a trust running engineering colleges-Anonymous donations in cash and demand drafts found during search-Receipts offered to tax and taxed under section 115BBC-Principal Commissioner invoking section 263 to deny exemption on capitation fees relying on decision stayed by Supreme Court-Assessment framed after full verification-Twin conditions for section 263 not satisfied-Revision void ab initio-Precedent-Distinction between "stay" of order and "quashing of order"-An order stayed does not become operative from the date of the stay order, whereas quashing restores the position as it stood prior to the order quashed. [[S. 11, 12AA, 115BBC, 153A]

The assessee, a trust registered under section 12AA running engineering colleges, following a search, had offered cash receipts as "anonymous donations" taxed under section 115BBC and reclassified demand draft receipts as "voluntary donations" claiming exemption under section 11, which disclosures were accepted by AO after due examination in the order passed under section 153A/153B; however, PCIT invoked section 263 for the AY 2018-19 and 2020-21 to deny exemption on alleged unaccounted capitation fees, relying on the Madras High Court decision in CIT v. MAC Public Charitable Trust. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since AO had examined the issue in detail during the search assessment proceedings and taken a plausible view without any resultant prejudice to the Revenue, the twin conditions for invoking section 263 were not satisfied; further, since the Madras High Court decision relied upon by the PCIT had already been stayed by SC prior to issuance of the section 263 notice, the PCIT ought to have made a preliminary enquiry regarding its applicability, and invocation of jurisdiction under Explanation 2(d) to section 263 on the basis of a non-operative judgment rendered the revision void ab initio; it was further noted that the assessee's registration under section 12AA remained in force and no proceedings for its cancellation or for violation of the Tamil Nadu Educational Institutions (Prohibition of Collection of Capitation Fee) Act, 1992 had been initiated, and that a stayed order, unlike a quashed order, does not restore the pre-existing position from the date of stay. Accordingly, the revision order was set aside. (AY. 2018-19, 2020-21)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Real estate business-Change in method of accounting from percentage-of-completion to completed-contract method-Change revenue-neutral, following Accounting Standards, verified by auditors and accepted in subsequent years-No loss to exchequer-Principal Commissioner's directions to reconsider financial expenses, depreciation, current liabilities, deduction under section 80-IAB, house property income, loans and advances to related parties, etc.-Matters already examined by Assessing Officer-No indication of how order erroneous-Revision amounting to fishing and roving enquiries-Assessment order not prejudicial to Revenue-Revision quashed. [S. 2(22)(e), 80-IAB, 145]

Assessee, a real estate developer, changed its method of revenue recognition from percentage-of-completion to completed-contract method per AS-7, making a one-time claim of deduction for reversal of excess revenue booked in earlier years, which was accepted by NFAC as revenue-neutral and consistently followed in subsequent years, but PCIT invoked revision under section 263 directing reconsideration on the former accounting method as well as several other issues including financial expenses, depreciation, current liabilities, deduction under section 80-IAB, house property income, increase in assets, loans and advances to related parties, corporate guarantee expenditure and applicability of section 2(22)(e). On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the change in accounting method was revenue-neutral, being merely a timing difference with no loss to the exchequer, PCIT could not assume revisional jurisdiction under Explanation (c) to section 263(1); and that on each of the other issues, the assessee had furnished detailed replies to specific queries raised by AO during assessment, no defect was pointed out by PCIT in such replies, and his directions, being vague and issued without indicating how AO's order was erroneous, amounted to impermissible fishing and roving enquiries and an attempt to substitute his own view, particularly where issues such as deduction under section 80-IAB stood already decided in the assessee's favour by the Tribunal; accordingly, the assessment order was not erroneous or prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, and the revision order was quashed in its entirety. DLF Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 132 ITR 448 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Notice and order issued in name of erstwhile company but mentioning factum of amalgamation in cause title-Not invalid- Nothing to establish that issues on which revision exercised were examined by Assessing Officer during assessment-Duty cast on Assessing Officer to examine issues not performed-Order of Principal Commissioner setting aside assessment order-Propor. [S. 14A, 40(a)(i), 143(3)]

PCIT passed an order under section 263 directing AO to reassess afresh the issues of escapement of income under section 40(a)(i) and under section 14A, which was challenged by the assessee on the ground that since it had merged with another company with effect from October 1, 2009, having a different PAN, the order issued in its name was unsustainable. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the cause title of the order clearly mentioned the assessee's name along with the fact of its merger, the factum of amalgamation had been duly taken into account by PCIT, and merely because the order was issued in the name of the erstwhile company did not render it without jurisdiction or a nullity, given that the corporate venture and its rights and liabilities continue within the transferee entity even though the transferor company's corporate identity ceases to exist; it further held that since no material was furnished before AO or the Tribunal to show that the issues relating to non-deduction of TDS under section 40(a)(i) or disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D had actually been examined during assessment proceedings, AO had failed to discharge the duty cast upon him to examine such issues, and the order of the PCIT setting aside the assessment as erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue was proper and called for no interference. (AY. 2008-09)

Siemens Healthcare Diagnostics Ltd. (through successor in interest Siemens Ltd.) v. PCIT (2025) 132 ITR 679(Ahd) (Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Assessing Officer failing to consider applicability of minimum alternate tax provisions to assessee-company-Incorrect assumption of facts and incorrect application of law-Revision justified-Book profits-Exclusion from minimum alternate tax-No specific exemption for company under voluntary liquidation-Provisions of company law regarding preparation of accounts not relevant-ITR-6 pro forma recognising liquidation cannot override the Act-Section 115JB clearly applicable-Provisions of minimum alternate tax clearly applicable-Revision justified-Assessee-company undergoing voluntary liquidation citing impossibility of preparing statement of profit and loss-Held, profits and losses determinable under any system of accounts followed, enabling computation of minimum alternate tax.[S.115JB, Companies Act, 1956, S. 551, Companies Act, 2013, S. 348]

The assessee, a wholly-owned Government company under voluntary liquidation since 2012, declared nil taxable income after setting off its total income against brought-forward business losses, without AO examining the applicability of MAT under section 115JB, leading the PCIT to invoke revision under section 263 on the ground that the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the Revenue. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the twin conditions under section 263 require an erroneous order prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, and the Assessing Officer had neither enquired into nor applied the provisions of section 115JB, there was an incorrect assumption of facts coupled with incorrect application of law, and it was not a case of mere change of opinion; it further held that section 115JB contains no exemption for companies under voluntary liquidation, that the mechanism for accounts prescribed under the Companies Act does not override the Act, that the recognition of liquidation entities in the ITR-6 pro forma exempting them from filing balance-sheet and profit and loss schedules could not be read as a blanket exemption from MAT, and that profits and losses were determinable under any system of accounts followed by the assessee, enabling computation under section 115JB; since the assessee's case did not fall within any statutory exception, the provisions of section 115JB were clearly applicable, and the revision order was upheld. Industrial Investment Bank of India Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 132 ITR 698(Kol) (Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Search and seizure-Seized documents showing unaccounted loan/investment transactions with repayments through billing account and large cash payments-Assessment made without proper enquiry-Assessing Officer taxing only commission instead of undisclosed income-Revision upheld. [S. 68, 69, 69A, 132, 153A]

Following a search action revealing unaccounted loan and investment transactions between the assessee and another party, the AO made additions under sections 68, 69 and 69A in the section 153A assessment, but the PCIT revised the order under section 263, holding it erroneous and prejudicial to the Revenue. On appeal, the Tribunal held that despite seized documents showing repayments through the billing account and substantial cash payments, the Assessing Officer had taxed only the commission on bogus billing instead of the entire undisclosed income, rendering the assessment erroneous and prejudicial to the Revenue, and upheld the revision. (AY. 2016-17)

Naveen Narang v. Pr. CIT (2025) 132 ITR 759 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Weighted deduction for scientific research-Assessee furnished all requisite particulars-Revision not justified. [S. 35(2AB), 143(3), R. 6]

The Principal Commissioner revised the assessment on the ground that Forms No. 3CL and 3CLA were not furnished in the prescribed electronic format. The Tribunal held that the assessee had produced all relevant details before the Assessing Officer and there was no lack of enquiry. The amended provisions of rule 6, effective from 1 July 2016, had no application to the previous year relevant to the assessment year under consideration. Further, issuance and filing of Forms No. 3CL and 3CLA were matters within the domain of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research and not under the control of the assessee. As the assessee's research and development facility stood duly approved and the statutory requirements were otherwise fulfilled, the revision under section 263 was held to be unsustainable, and the original assessment order was restored. (AY. 2016-17).

Genus Power Infrastructures Ltd. v. Pr. CIT (2025) 126 ITR 397 (Lucknow)(Trib.)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Cash credits-Unsecured loans-Inadequate enquiry regarding genuineness and creditworthiness-Revision justified.[S.68, 143(3)]

The Assessing Officer accepted unsecured loans without obtaining loan confirmations, income-tax returns of lenders or satisfactory evidence regarding their creditworthiness. The Tribunal held that the assessment was completed without making enquiries which ought to have been made. As the assessee also failed to establish the genuineness of the transactions even during revision proceedings, the Principal Commissioner was justified in invoking section 263 and restoring the issue to the Assessing Officer for fresh verification. (AY. 2018-19).

EHealthsystem Healthcare Ltd. v. Pr. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 609 (Pune)(Trib.)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Survey-Additional income disclosed as professional income-Assessing Officer examined applicability of section 115BBE and accepted explanation-Revision not justified. [S. 69, 69A, 69B, 69C, 69D, 115BBE, 133A, 142(1), 143(3)]

During a survey, the assessee, a medical practitioner, voluntarily disclosed additional income to cover any discrepancies that might arise on verification of loose papers and consistently treated it as professional income. The Assessing Officer specifically examined the applicability of section 115BBE by issuing a detailed questionnaire, considered the assessee's explanation and completed the assessment by taxing the income at normal rates. The Tribunal held that the Commissioner had not produced any material to establish that the income represented unexplained investment or income falling under sections 69, 69A or 69B. Since the Assessing Officer had taken a possible view after due enquiry, the assessment order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision under section 263 was quashed. (AY. 2018-19).

Gulzar Mohd. v. Pr. CIT (2025) 127 ITR 1 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Reassessment-Scope of revision confined to issues arising from reassessment-Commissioner cannot direct enquiry into matters outside reasons recorded for reopening. [S. 147, 148]

The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 to revise a reassessment order by directing the Assessing Officer to examine issues and judicial decisions which were neither part of the reassessment proceedings nor the assessment records. The Tribunal held that the jurisdiction under section 263 can be exercised only where the assessment order is both erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Since the Assessing Officer had confined the reassessment to the issues forming part of the recorded reasons for reopening and had conducted the necessary enquiries on those issues, the Commissioner could not direct investigation into unrelated matters or rely upon material outside the assessment records. The revisionary order was, therefore, quashed. (AY. 2012-13).

Daffodills Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Pr. CIT (2025) 129 ITR 63 (Delhi)(Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Appeal pending before Commissioner (Appeals)-Revision on issues not forming subject matter of appeal-Revision valid-Penalty initiated under wrong provision-Correction through revision permissible where assessment otherwise erroneous-Addition under section 68 taxed at normal rate instead of mandatory rate under section 115BBE-Revision valid. [S.68,115BBE, 250, 271AAC]

The assessee contended that the Principal Commissioner could not invoke section 263 because the assessment order was already under appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals). The Tribunal held that the revisionary jurisdiction under section 263 extends to issues which are not the subject matter of the pending appeal. Since the issues relating to section 115BBE and penalty under section 271AAC were not before the Commissioner (Appeals), the exercise of revisionary jurisdiction was valid. The Assessing Officer initiated penalty proceedings under section 271(1)(c) instead of section 271AAC after making an addition under section 68. The Tribunal held that although revision cannot ordinarily be invoked solely for directing initiation of penalty, where the assessment suffers from other jurisdictional errors causing prejudice to the Revenue, the Principal Commissioner can validly revise the assessment and direct initiation of penalty under the correct provision. The Assessing Officer made an addition under section 68 but taxed it at the normal rate instead of applying the mandatory provisions of section 115BBE. The Tribunal held that there was nothing on record to show that the Assessing Officer had examined the applicability of section 115BBE or had taken a conscious view. Failure to apply the mandatory provision rendered the assessment erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision under section 263 was therefore upheld. (AY. 2017-18).

Vijay Kumar Patel v. Pr. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 436 (Raipur)(Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Capital introduced by partners-Burden to explain source lies on partners-Assessment of firm not erroneous-Cash deposits in bank-Cash sales recorded in books and accepted-Revision invalid-Audit objection-Internal audit information can form basis-Independent application of mind by Principal Commissioner sufficient-Unsecured loan-Issue not challenged by assessee-Matter restored to Assessing Officer.[S.68, 143(3)]

The Principal Commissioner revised the assessment on the ground that the Assessing Officer had not examined the source of capital introduced by the partners. The Tribunal held that the assessee-firm was in its first year of business and the burden to explain the source of capital contribution rested upon the partners in their individual capacity. Any addition, if warranted, could be made only in the hands of the partners and not in the hands of the firm. Accordingly, the assessment of the firm could not be treated as erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The assessee explained that the cash deposits in its bank account represented cash receipts from sale of small plots and showrooms. The Assessing Officer examined the books of account, cash book, sales records, bills and vouchers and accepted the explanation. The Tribunal held that once the books of account and cash sales had been accepted, the Principal Commissioner could not selectively question individual cash deposits. Revision on this issue was therefore unsustainable. The assessee contended that the revision was initiated solely on the basis of an internal audit objection. The Tribunal held that there is no legal bar to the Principal Commissioner acting upon information received from the internal audit, provided he independently applies his mind before invoking section 263. The objection was therefore rejected. The Tribunal observed that the assessee had not challenged the revision relating to the unsecured loan received from one creditor. Consequently, that issue was left open and restored to the Assessing Officer for fresh examination in accordance with law. (AY. 2012-13).

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Survey-Surrender of excess cash and unaccounted advances as professional income-Assessing Officer after due enquiry accepting claim-Revision held invalid. [S.69A 115BBE, 133A]

Pursuant to a survey under section 133A, excess cash and unaccounted advances were found at the assessee's clinic. The assessee, a medical practitioner, surrendered the amount as professional income, credited it to the profit and loss account and paid tax thereon. The Assessing Officer examined the survey statement, surrender letter and books of account and accepted the income under the head "Business or Profession". The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 on the ground that the surrendered amount ought to have been taxed under section 115BBE. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had taken a conscious and plausible view after due enquiry and the Principal Commissioner had not recorded any finding establishing the applicability of the deeming provisions. Following the co-ordinate Bench decision on identical facts, the revision order was quashed. (AY. 2017-18).

evidence of receipt of loans found in books or bank accounts-Revision based on suspicion-Order quashed. [S. 68, 147, 148]

Reassessment proceedings were initiated to examine alleged accommodation loans. The assessee consistently denied having received any such loans and produced its audited books of account, bank statements and ledger accounts demonstrating that no such transactions existed. The Assessing Officer completed the reassessment without making any addition. The Principal Commissioner revised the reassessment order under section 263 directing further enquiry into the alleged loans. The Tribunal held that neither the Assessing Officer nor the Principal Commissioner found any entry in the books or bank statements evidencing the alleged accommodation entries. Once the assessee had produced all relevant records, the burden shifted to the Revenue to establish receipt of the alleged loans. Revision based merely on suspicion, without any tangible material, was unsustainable and the order under section 263 was quashed. (AY. 2017-18).

Assessing Officer conducted detailed enquiry-Mere absence of discussion in assessment order not sufficient-Revision quashed-Failure of Principal Commissioner to examine entire assessment record-Earlier reassessment order ignored-Revision without jurisdiction.[S. 143(3)]

The Principal Commissioner revised the assessment under section 263 on the ground that the Assessing Officer had failed to examine cash purchases made by the assessee. The Tribunal held that the assessment records revealed repeated queries issued under sections 142(1) and 143(2), detailed replies by the assessee and due verification by the Assessing Officer in accordance with CBDT Instruction No. 8 of 2017. Merely because the assessment order did not discuss the issue in detail did not render it erroneous. Since the Assessing Officer had made adequate enquiries and applied his mind, the assumption of jurisdiction under section 263 was invalid. The Tribunal held that while invoking section 263 the Principal Commissioner was required to examine the entire record, including an assessment order passed under section 147 only a few days earlier accepting the returned income. Failure to consider that assessment order, which formed part of the statutory record under section 263(1)(b), vitiated the revision proceedings. As no independent enquiry was conducted by the Principal Commissioner before branding the assessment as erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, the revision order was quashed.(AY. 2018-19).

Exotic Realtors and Developers v. Pr. CIT (2025) 122 ITR 556 (Chd.)(Trib.)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Limitation-Issue arising from intimation under section 143(1) and not reassessment under section 147-Limitation to be reckoned from date of intimation-Revision barred by limitation-Delay of 96 days-Person responsible for filing appeal on leave due to daughter's marriage-Sufficient cause-Delay condoned. [S. 143(1), 147, 148, 254(1)]

The Commissioner invoked revisionary jurisdiction under section 263 in respect of issues concluded by an intimation issued under section 143(1), though a reassessment under section 147 had subsequently been completed on unrelated issues. The Tribunal held that, where the subject matter of revision pertained to the original intimation under section 143(1), the limitation prescribed under section 263 had to be computed from the date of such intimation and not from the subsequent reassessment order. As the revision order was passed beyond the prescribed period, it was barred by limitation. The assessee explained that the delay of 96 days in filing the appeal occurred because the person responsible for filing the appeal was on leave owing to his daughter's marriage and the appeal was filed immediately after he became aware of the position. The Tribunal held that the explanation constituted sufficient cause and, adopting a liberal approach, condoned the delay in the interest of justice (AY. 2017-18).

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Best judgment assessment under section 144-Estimation of income at 2 per cent. of the bank credits-Different opinion of Principal Commissioner not sufficient-Revision invalid-Best judgment assessment-Statutory discretion of Assessing Officer-Cannot be interfered with merely on difference of opinion.[S. 142(1), 144,]

The Assessing Officer completed a best judgment assessment under section 144 after the assessee failed to comply with notices and estimated the business income at 2 per cent. of the bank credits. The Principal Commissioner revised the assessment under section 263 on the ground that the income ought to have been estimated differently. The Tribunal held that section 144 confers statutory discretion on the Assessing Officer to make a best judgment assessment and such exercise of discretion cannot be revised merely because the Principal Commissioner prefers a different estimate. The order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision was therefore quashed. The Tribunal held that once an assessment is validly completed under section 144 after considering the available material, the Assessing Officer exercises an independent statutory discretion. Such discretion cannot be interfered with under section 263 merely because the revisional authority considers another estimate to be more appropriate (AY. 2014-15).

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Non-resident-Offshore supply contract-Offshore design, engineering and commissioning performed outside India-Receipts not taxable in India-Revision under section 263 not justified.[S. 44BBB]

The assessee, a Chinese company, entered into separate offshore supply and onshore service agreements with Indian public sector undertakings for supply of optical ground wire cables and communication equipment. The Commissioner revised the assessment under section 263 by clubbing the offshore and onshore receipts and sought to tax the offshore receipts under section 44BBB. The Tribunal held that the offshore supply contract was independently executed outside India and the onshore activities were carried out through an Indian entity under a separate agreement. Following the decisions of the Supreme Court in Hyundai Heavy Industries Co. Ltd. and Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries Ltd., the offshore receipts were not chargeable to tax in India. Once the receipts were not taxable under the normal provisions, section 44BBB had no application. The revision order under section 263 was therefore quashed. (AY. 2017-18).

The Revenue made a protective assessment in the assessee's case while making a substantive assessment in the hands of another person. Subsequently, the substantive assessment was confirmed in appeal. The Tribunal held that once the substantive assessment had attained finality in the other person's case, the protective assessment against the assessee could not survive. Consequently, the revision proceedings initiated under section 263 were without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. The Tribunal found that the Commissioner had passed the revisionary order without dealing with the detailed submissions made by the assessee. Such non-consideration amounted to a serious violation of the principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the order passed under section 263 was set aside (AY. 2013-14).

Dinesh Kumar Chaurasia v. Asst. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 702 (Jaipur)(Trib.)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Notice under section 143(2) not issued in prescribed format- Assessment invalid-Revision under section 263 without jurisdiction-CBDT Instruction F. No. 225/157/2017/ITA-II dated 23-6-2017.[S. 143(2), 143(3)]

The assessee challenged the validity of the assessment on the ground that the notice under section 143(2) was not issued in any of the three formats prescribed by the CBDT Instruction dated 23 June 2017. The Tribunal held that the issue involved a pure question of law going to the root of the assessment. Since the notice did not conform to the mandatory prescribed format, the assessment under section 143(3) was invalid, and the consequential revision under section 263 was also without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. (AY. 2018-19).

Nadia District Central Co-operative Bank Ltd. v. Pr. CIT (2025) 123 ITR 178 (Kol.)(Trib.)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue Long-term capital gains-Reassessment completed after due enquiry-Principal Commissioner making no independent enquiry-Revision invalid-Purchase of immovable property wrongly treated as sale-Documentary evidence ignored-Revision invalid. [S.10(38), 45, 147]

The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment to verify the assessee's claim of exemption under section 10(38) in respect of long-term capital gains from sale of shares and, after examining the contract notes, bank records and other supporting documents, accepted the claim. The Tribunal held that the assessee had discharged the initial burden by producing all relevant evidence and could not be faulted for the manner in which the Assessing Officer conducted the enquiry. As the Principal Commissioner failed to conduct even a prima facie independent enquiry before invoking section 263, the assessment order could not be regarded as erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision was therefore quashed. The Principal Commissioner proceeded on the erroneous assumption that the assessee had sold immovable properties, whereas the records established that the transactions were purchases supported by purchase deeds, bank statements, loan records and tax deduction details. The Tribunal held that the Principal Commissioner failed to make even the minimum enquiry before directing a fresh assessment and did not establish that the assessment order was either erroneous or prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision order under section 263 was therefore held to be invalid (AY. 2015-16).

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Commodity trading-Revision order was quashed and set aside-Cash deposit-No enquiry was made-Revision order was affirmed-Delay in filing of appeal was condoned. [S. 143(3),254(1)]

Tribunal held that the AO having called for the assessee's explanation and documentation to substantiate the commodity trading transactions and accepted the assessee's explanation that the commodity trading transactions were undertaken in his name by his employer along with its associate entity and disallowed the claim of loss, it is not a case where no examination has been carried out by the AO and, therefore, the exercise of revisional jurisdiction by the Principal CIT on these issues is not sustainable; other issues were not part of initial show cause notice issued by the Principal CIT and, therefore, revisional order passed by the Principal CIT qua such issues is also not sustainable. As regards cash deposit, since there is nothing on record to show that the AO made any enquiry regarding the source of cash deposit made by the assessee with a co-operative society, it is clearly a case of no enquiry and, therefore, the order passed by the AO is erroneous insofar as prejudicial to the interest of Revenue. Delay in filing the appeal was condoned, considering the affidavit of the assessee. (AY-2011-12 & 2012-13)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Penalty for under-reporting and misreporting of income-Direction of CIT to invoke the applicable penalty provisions under section 270A(9)(e) on the entire amount of estimated undisclosed income is bad in law. [S.153A, 270A(2), 270A(9)(e)]

AO having quantified assessee's undisclosed income in the assessment under S. 153A by applying gross profit rate to unaccounted sales which was more than the income admitted in the return, sub-s. (9) of s. 270A is not invocable as the case does not fall in any of sub-clauses of sub-s. (2) of s. 270A and therefore, the direction given by the Principal CIT to the AO to invoke the penalty provisions under s. 270A(9)(e) on the entire amount of said estimated undisclosed income is bad in law. S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Limited scrutiny-Deemed dividend-Assessing Officer passed assessment order in accordance with limited scrutiny assessment and did not make inquiries on issue of amount received by assessee company as loan from another company which was outside scope of CASS selection-Order cannot be treated as erroneous-Revision order was quashed-Tribunal also held that the deemed dividend can be taxed only in hands of shareholder of lending company, and not in hands of concern in which such shareholder is interested. [S. 2(22)(e), 143(3)]

Assessee-company filed its return of income, which was selected for scrutiny under CASS with the reason 'Very Low PBDIT as compared to business turnover'. Assessing Officer issued detailed questionnaires in line with the notice, examined the matter, called for supporting evidence, and completed the assessment after being satisfied with the explanations tendered by the assessee. Accordingly, returned loss was accepted in full as assessed income. Subsequently, PCIT invoked revisionary jurisdiction under section 263 on ground that Assessing Officer had failed to examine issue in respect of loan transaction of certain amount received by assessee from one company Kesar Built system Pvt Ltd. PCIT recorded that as per MCA website, both assessee and 'Kesar Built system Pvt Ltd. PCIT had common management, and two directors of assessee were holding 20 per cent shares each in Kesar Built system Pvt Ltd, thus, transaction of loan received by assessee squarely fell within definition of deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e). Accordingly, the assessment order was both erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of revenue. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had recorded the response as 'N.A.' (not applicable) against queries pertaining to limited scrutiny, including whether additional issues were examined. Thus, the Assessing Officer was never required, within the statutory framework of limited scrutiny under the Faceless Assessment Scheme, to travel beyond CASS parameter, unless the case was formally converted into complete scrutiny with prior approval of the competent authority. No such conversion was done. Therefore, the order passed by the Assessing Officer could not be termed erroneous merely because he did not make inquiries on an issue which was outside the scope of CASS selection and, thus, assumption of jurisdiction by PCIT under section 263 was unsustainable. Tribunal also held that the deemed dividend can be taxed only in the hands of the shareholder of the lending company, and not in the hands of the concern in which such shareholder is interested. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Donation to political party-Bogus donation-Kisan Party of India- Allowed deduction after verifying supporting documents and evidence-No direct incriminating material against assessee- Revision order was quashed.[S.80GGC, 132]

Assessee donated Rs. 15 lakhs to a political party and claimed a deduction under section 80GGC. Assessing Officer, after recording that the evidence had been verified, accepted the claim and completed the assessment. Subsequently, a search under section 132 was conducted in the case of said political party, and it was found that it was engaged in a bogus donation racket whereby donations received through banking channels were returned to donors in cash after deducting commission. On the basis of the same, the Principal Commissioner issued a notice under section 263 to the assessee proposing to revise the order of the Assessing Officer on the ground that the donation was not genuine. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished all details in response to notice under section 142(1), including receipts and bank statements, which were verified by the Assessing Officer. Further, no incriminating material, no third-party statement, and no specific adverse fact connecting assessee's donations to any bogus transaction had been brought on record by the Principal Commissioner. Therefore, assumption of jurisdiction by Principal Commissioner under section 263 was unsustainable in law.(AY. 2020-21)

R&D expenditure in Form 3CL was mandatory-Failure to quantify the deduction-assessment order erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of revenue. [S. 35(2AB),143(3), R.6(7A)]

Held that post Finance Act, 2015 amendment and corresponding Rule 6(7A) change, DSIR's quantification of eligible R&D expenditure in Form 3CL was mandatory for claiming deduction under section 35(2AB). The Assessing Officer was duty-bound to restrict deduction to the extent of expenditure approved and quantified by DSIR, and failure to do so would make the assessment order erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of revenue. Held that the assessee was engaged in providing a platform for conducting transactions of member banks and was charging only nominal fees to recover the cost of infrastructure and operations, and the Assessing Officer, after making specific inquiries, allowed exemption under section 11. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Purchase of immovable property-Below circle rate-Sale consideration and DVO-determined FMV for assessee's share was within permissible 10 per cent variation-CBDT Circular No. 8/2018-

Revision by PCIT treating variation as taxable and Circular as prospective was an unsustainable, change of opinion not supported by law-Revision order was quashed. [S.50C, 56(2)(viib), 143(3), 147]

Assessee, an individual engaged in the business of manufacturing, export and selling Form-H electrical wiring accessories, filed a return processed under section 143(1). The case was reopened under section 147 on the ground that the assessee purchased an immovable property for consideration significantly lower than the circle rate. The assessee held a 1/3rd share in the property. On the assessee's request disputing the circle rate vis-à-vis FMV, the Assessing Officer referred the matter to DVO, who determined FMV at ₹5.16 crores; the assessee's 1/3rd share came to ₹1.72 crores, leaving a difference of ₹15.14 lakhs, being less than 10 per cent of the consideration. Assessing Officer, after considering the assessee's response, applied the amendment to section 50C and CBDT Circular No. 8/2018 (treated as retrospective), and accepted that a variation below 10 per cent between sale consideration and DVO-determined value was to be ignored, thereby accepting the returned income. PCIT invoked section 263 (including Explanation 2) to revise the assessment, holding that Circular No. 8/2018 applied prospectively and that the difference between the stamp duty value and the sale consideration should have been added to the assessee's income. On appeal, the Tribunal held that since the view of PCIT was not supported by any judicial authority, his action in treating the assessment order as erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of revenue was merely a change of opinion and unsustainable. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Excess stock-Survey-Additional income was offered-Specific queries raised by Assessing Officer and had explained that the only source of income of assessee was from business-Revision order of

CIT for not invoking provision of section 115 BBE was quashed and set aside.[S. 28(i), 69, 115BBE, 133A, 143(3)]

In the course of survey under section 133A, the assessee had made a total declaration of a certain amount as additional income, out of which a certain amount was on account of excess cash found and a certain amount on account of excess stock. Assessee disclosed the abovesaid amount in ITR. Assessing Officer completed the assessment under section 143(3), accepting the returned income. PCIT held that the order passed by the Assessing Officer was erroneous insofar as it was prejudicial to the interest of revenue on the ground that the Assessing Officer failed to tax excess cash and excess stock found under section 69, read with provisions of section 115BBE. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer, during the course of assessment proceedings, had raised specific queries to which the assessee had duly replied, and it had been explained that the only source of income of the assessee was from business; such excess cash and excess stock found during the course of the survey had to be treated as business income. Therefore, an order passed by the Assessing Officer cannot be held to be erroneous, although it might be prejudicial to the interest of revenue in the opinion of the PCIT, on account of not invoking the provisions of section 115BBE. Accordingly, the PCIT was not justified in invoking his revisionary powers under section 263 for not invoking the provisions of section 115BBE on additional income. (AY. 2019-20)

Assessee's return was selected for limited scrutiny to verify capital gain deductions Assessing Officer completed the assessment by disallowing the deduction under section 54B, but allowed the claim towards cost of improvement under section 48. PCIT revised the order. The revision order was affirmed. (AY. 2020-21)

Assessee filed its return of income claiming agricultural income from sale of coffee. Case was selected for limited scrutiny under CASS to verify substantial increase in agricultural income. PCIT invoked revisionary jurisdiction on ground that as per rule 7B, 25 per cent of income derived from sale of coffee grown and cured and 40 per cent of income derived from sale of coffee grown, cured and roasted and grounded had to be deemed as business income. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer, vide notice under section 142(1), specifically asked for details of the nature and type of agricultural income along with details of the process undertaken and documentary evidence with regard to the mode of sale of agricultural proceeds along with a copy of contracts, if any. Assessee had specifically replied that coffee was picked, dried and sold as raw coffee without curing. Since a query was raised by the Assessing Officer during the original assessment with respect to agricultural income, which was responded by assessee, invocation of section 263 was not justified. Tribunal held that the assessee-company, engaged in the business of building, operating and transferring a section of the national highway, claimed depreciation on the road construction project as an intangible asset; the assessee was entitled to claim depreciation on road construction as admissible on intangible assets. Tribunal also held that depreciation on negative grant, which was to be paid to NHAI, since the assessee was following the mercantile system of accounting, negative grant being part of the total expenditure incurred or to be incurred by the assessee for the project, was to be included in the cost of the asset for the purpose of calculating depreciation. Revision order set aside. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14) IRCON Soma Tollway (P.) Ltd. v. PCIT (2025) 214 ITD 139 (Delhi) (Trib.)

Commissioner invoked revisionary jurisdiction, observing that assessee had incurred expenditure towards its CSR activities and the same was mandatory under the Companies Act, 2013, and, thus, the same could not be allowed as a deduction under section 80G. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had raised a specific query and assessee had responded in detail, and the Assessing Officer had accepted the same after due verification. Since there was no material to support that the Assessing Officer failed to apply his mind, the order passed by the Assessing Officer cannot be characterised as erroneous or prejudicial to the interests of Revenue. Revision order was quashed and set aside.(AY. 2020-21)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Limited scrutiny-Commissioner presumed that the Limited scrutiny case was converted into full scrutiny- Unsecured loan- Revision order was quashed.[S. 68]

Assessee's case was selected for limited scrutiny on two issues: unsecured loans and credit card payments. Assessing Officer raised relevant queries. Assessee explained details of alleged unsecured loans and filed PAN data of creditors and submitted other details. Further, the assessee had also submitted details of credit card payments. Assessing Officer was satisfied with the quality of evidence submitted by the assessee and accepted the return of the assessee. PCIT invoked revisionary proceedings and raised three issues, namely, an increase in opening capital balance, credit card payments, and unsecured loans. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Commissioner had committed an error in construing that the case was selected for complete scrutiny in the show-cause notice issued under section 263, whereas, there was no detail available on record which suggested that a limited scrutiny case was converted into full scrutiny. Tribunal held that the foundation of the order of the Commissioner was based upon wrong facts, the Commissioner having erred in taking cognisance under section 263, and the order was quashed. S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Application of income-Donation to another charitable trust- Revision order affirmed. [S. 11, 12A]

Assessee-charitable trust made donations to 72 institutions stated to be institutions duly registered under section 12A. Assessee claimed exemption under section 11 and filed a nil return of income. Assessing Officer accepted the return and passed an order under section 143(3). PCIT revised the order on the ground that the Assessing Officer had failed to examine the question of eligibility of donations made by the assessee-trust to another institution for exemption under section 11. On appeal, the Tribunal held that merely because donee trusts were duly registered under section 12AA, ipso facto, they would not qualify for deduction under section 11. On the facts, since the Assessing Officer had failed to examine the aspect of whether donee trusts had similar objects as that of the assessee-trust, the order of revision was affirmed. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Limited Scrutiny-Deemed rental income-Order passed after due enquiry cannot be treated as erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of revenue-PCIT cannot revise assessment to include issues beyond the scope of limited scrutiny.[S.143(3), IND AS-115]

The assessee, an individual builder and developer, filed return declaring income from house property and other sources after setting off business loss. The case was selected for limited scrutiny to verify business loss and agricultural income. The Assessing Officer issued detailed notices u/s 142(1), examined all expenses claimed, verified supporting evidence, and accepted the returned income. The PCIT invoked s. 263 holding that the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the revenue, inter alia, for not bringing to tax deemed rental income from a flat at Greater Noida and for not applying IND AS-115. The Tribunal held that since the assessment was made under limited scrutiny, the Assessing Officer was not required to examine issues beyond those specified. Further, detailed enquiries were made and replies furnished by the assessee on the issues of business loss and agricultural income. Hence, the assessment could not be considered as passed without enquiry or application of mind. The Tribunal observed that IND AS-115 applies only to companies and not to individual proprietary concerns. Relying on Malabar Industrial Co. Ltd. v. CIT (2000) 243 ITR 83 (SC) and ITO v. DG Housing Finance Co. Ltd. (2012) 343 ITR 129/ 20 taxmann.com 587/ 212 Taxman 132 (Delhi)(HC), it held that both conditions of “erroneous” and “prejudicial” must coexist for invoking s. 263 and that the PCIT cannot travel beyond the limited scrutiny scope or direct a roving enquiry without recording a finding of error. Accordingly, the order passed u/s 263 was quashed and the assessee’s appeal allowed. (AY 2018-19 (ITA No. 164/Mum/2025; dt. 30.10.2025)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Special category States-Manufacture of essential oils and perfumery-Assessment without incriminating material-Search assessment-Deduction u/s 80IC-Revisionary power cannot be exercised in respect of completed/unabated assessments in absence of incriminating material-Revision order quashed. [S. 80IC, 132, 143(3), 153A, 153C, 153D]

Search u/s 132 was conducted in the case of the assessee, a partnership firm engaged in the manufacture of essential oils and perfumery, which claimed deduction u/s 80IC as its unit was located in Himachal Pradesh. The AO completed assessments u/s 153A r.w.s. 143(3) accepting the returned income without making any addition. The PCIT invoked revisional jurisdiction u/s 263 on the ground that the AO allowed deduction u/s 80IC without making necessary enquiries, holding that the assessee’s products were not covered in the eligible list under Schedule XIV and setting aside the assessment for fresh enquiry. On appeal, the Tribunal held that all the years under consideration were unabated assessment years and that no incriminating material was found during the search to justify any addition or disallowance. Following the ratio of PCIT v. Abhisar Buildwell (P.) Ltd. (2023) 149 taxmann.com 399 (SC), it was held that in absence of incriminating material, no addition or disallowance can be made in an assessment u/s 153A for completed/unabated years. Since the PCIT's revision was not based on any such incriminating material and the AO had duly examined the assessee's claim, the assessment could not be treated as erroneous or prejudicial to the interest of Revenue. Accordingly, the order u/s 263 was quashed. (AY 2011-12 to 2018-19) (ITA Nos. 3713-3719/Mum/2025 dated 27.10.2025.)

During preceding assessment year 2017-18, assessee had claimed additional depreciation at rate of 10 per cent on plant and machinery put to use for a period of less than 180 days. Balance additional depreciation was carried forward to be claimed in assessment year 2018-19 as per third proviso to section 32(1)(ii). For year under consideration, assessee claimed aggregate depreciation, which included additional depreciation pertaining to assets put to use for less than 180 days in the preceding assessment year. Principal Commissioner revised the assessment order on the ground that the assessee had claimed excess normal depreciation for the year under consideration. On appeal, the Tribunal held that there was no error in depreciation claimed by the assessee and, hence, the revision order is set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

Tribunal held that provisions of section 35(2AB) read with rule 6 clearly mandate filing of Form 3CL and limit weighted deduction to 150 per cent of eligible expenditure incurred on in-house research and development from assessment year 2018-19 onwards. Since Assessing Officer allowed deduction at 200 per cent in clear contravention of law, and without verifying whether basic condition of submission of Form 3CL by DSIR quantifying eligible expenditure had been fulfilled, Principal Commissioner was justified in invoking revisionary powers under section 263 and setting aside assessment order with a direction to Assessing Officer to frame a fresh assessment after conducting proper verification and affording reasonable opportunity to assessee. The assessee received interest on enhanced compensation for compulsory acquisition of agricultural land and claimed exemption under section 10(37). The AO accepted the claim. The Principal Commissioner invoked section 263, holding the order erroneous as interest under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act is taxable under section 56(2)(viii) read with section 145B(1). Held that AO, having conducted detailed enquiries into assessee's claim of deduction under s. 35(2AB) and arrived at the conclusion that apportionment of R&D expenditure incurred by the assessee-company to its Assam Unit is not required, the Principal CIT has no authority to substitute his views by invoking his revisionary powers under s. 263 of the Act. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Survey-AO raised specific queries-Revision order is quashed.[S. 133A]

Tribunal held that the AO has raised specific queries which were submitted by the assessee; after verification, the assessment order was passed. While passing the order, the Principal CIT has not indicated the failure on the part of the AO that he did not specifically deal with Annex. 3 and annex. 23. The Principal CIT invoked the provision of s. 263 only for the reasons that the AO has not raised any question and the assessee has not filed any reply. The Tribunal held that the conduct itself suggests that the action of the Principal CIT is based on surmises and conjectures. The Tribunal also held that nowhere in the order the Principal CIT invoked the Expln. 2 of s. 263, which implies that she was not sure as to whether the order fell within any of the criteria given vide Expln. 2. Order passed by the Principal CIT is quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

On appeal against the revision order the Tribunal held that Jurisdictional High Court in the case of Principal CIT v. Inderjit Singh Sodhi (HUF) in IT Appeal No. 769 of 2023 and Civil Misc. Appln. No. 65057 of 2023 vide order dt. 8th April, 2024, [2024] 161 taxmann.com 301 (Delhi)/[2025] 475 ITR 294 (Delhi)(HC) considered the insertion of cl. (viii) to sub-s. (2) of s. 56 w.e.f. 1st Oct., 2010 and held that the interest on compensation and enhanced compensation granted under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 is to be considered as income from other sources and is taxable. Once the jurisdictional High Court reiterates the law considering the amendment to the provision and also the previous judgments, the law laid down by the jurisdictional High Court becomes binding precedent and the IT authorities or the Tribunal cannot ignore the same and take different view. The view taken by the AO that the interest on enhanced compensation is part of the compensation and not 'interest' per se and allowing the same as exempt under S. 10(37) cannot be called as plausible view..Revision order is affirmed. Jagjit Singh Kataria v. PCIT (2025) 233 TTJ 1 / 245 DTR 49 (Delhi)(Trib)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Assessing Officer partly disallowed the claim-Reassessment order is quashed. [S. 56, 57, 263, Explanation 2.]

Held that the AO having disallowed part claim of deduction under s. 57 after making a detailed enquiry and satisfying himself that the assessee is eligible to claim deduction under s. 57 in respect of the remaining amount as claimed by the assessee, the assessment order cannot be said to be erroneous insofar as prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Order passed by the Principal CIT under s. 263 is quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

Rakesh Kumar Doshi v.PCIT (2025) 233 TTJ 846(Jodhpur)(Trib)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Invalid reassessment cannot be set aside under section 263-Reopened to examine cash deposits-No addition was made-Revision on the ground that the AO has wrongly allowed exemption under section 54B and 54F-Revision order is quashed and set aside.[S.54B, 54F, 147, 148]

The assessment was reopened to examine the cash deposited in his bank account. In the assessment order, AO enquired this aspect and was satisfied with the explanation given by the assessee. Commissioner revised the order on the ground that the the AO wrongly allowed exemption under ss. 54B and 54F to the assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that when the AO has not made addition on the issue of reasons recorded, he was ousted of his jurisdiction to make any other addition. Hence the Revision order is quashed and set aside on the ground that invalid reassessment cannot be set aside under section 263. Followed CIT v. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Reimbursement of expenditure on account of Employee Stock Option Plan (ESOP) costs incurred by holding company-Allowable as deduction-Revision order is quashed.[S. 37(1)]

Assessee, a subsidiary of a Mauritius based company, was a travel agent and tour operator. It had claimed deduction on account of reimbursement of expenditure on account of Employee Stock Option Plan (ESOP) costs incurred by holding company. Assessing Officer had allowed claim of ESOP. Commissioner passed the revision order. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessee had provided complete list of employees, as subscribed to these shares and their current employment status and benefit provided to them and consequent benefit to assessee-company. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Accumulation of income-Corpus donation-Issue dealt in revision proceedings was unrelated in character from issue of corpus donation received by assessee which was dealt in re-assessment proceedings-Revision order was beyond period of two years-order is barred by limitation-Revision is quashed and set aside.[S. 11, 12A 143(1), 147, 148]

Re-assessment proceedings were initiated against assessee on ground that assessee had received capitation fees or development fund in cash or kind which had not been disclosed in return, resulting in escapement of income.

Re-assessment order was passed treating corpus donation received by assessee as general donation to trust and thereby re-computing exemption available under sections 11 and 12. Commissioner passed revision order on 21-3-2024 against said re-assessment order dated 25-3-2022 on ground that Assessing Officer had not verified accumulation and application for year under consideration for purpose of object of trust for which amount was set apart. On appeal the Tribunal held that issue dealt by Commissioner in revision proceedings was altogether unrelated and different in character from issue dealt by Assessing Officer in re-assessment proceedings. The issue raised by Commissioner to invoke revisionary proceedings had to necessarily relate to intimation passed under section 143(1). On facts the revision order passed by Commissioner is beyond period of two years hence the order is barred by limitation hence quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

Indian Education Society. v. CIT (E) (2025) 210 ITD 92 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue- Since all necessary verification and examination of documents in reasonable manner was done, the assessment order cannot be called erroneous and prejudicial within the meaning of s. 263, Explan. 2-Revision order is set aside. [S. 143(3), 147, 148]

The AO completed the assessment, accepting the returned income consisting of agricultural income after examining the assessee's replies and documents. The Principal CIT later invoked section 263 powers, claiming the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the revenue. ITAT observed that when an AO had assessed the assessee on the returned income after examining detailed replies and documents explaining the agricultural income, the assessment order cannot be deemed to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of revenue for the purposes of section 263. Hence, the order under section 263 by the PCIT was set aside. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Short term capital loss-Section 263 cannot be used just because the PCIT holds a different view-No finding of lack of enquiry or perversity in AO's conclusion-Reaffirmed that revisional jurisdiction cannot substitute AO's discretion where AO acted judiciously.[S. 143(3)]

Revision u/s 263 initiated twice by PCIT on short-term capital loss from penny stock (Sulabh Engineering Services Ltd.). AO had already verified the genuineness of the transactions twice (original + reassessment). Judicial resistance to arbitrary or repetitive invocation of section 263 when the Assessing Officer has exercised due diligence and formed a reasoned opinion. The ITAT reiterated that the revisional authority must not act merely as a supervisory authority unless there is palpable error or lack of enquiry that renders the assessment order unsustainable in law.(AY. 2016-16) (ITA No. 2682/Mum/2024, Dated 11/03/2025)

Surplus Finvest Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT(Mum) (Trib)(UR)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Capital expenditure-The expenses in dispute were already capitalized-No prejudice to revenue-Revision order is quashed.[S.37(1)]

The PCIT, during the examination of assessment records u/s. 263, found that the assessee had claimed deduction of capital expenditure, which the AO had allegedly failed to verify during the assessment proceedings.

Held that the PCIT himself noted that the expenses in dispute were already capitalized by the assessee in its books of account. The assessee had not claimed the deduction of these expenses in its profit and loss account. Since the expenses were capitalised and did not reduce the taxable income, there was no loss of revenue. Therefore, the PCIT's revisionary order was invalid and quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

The issue of disallowance u/s. 40(a)(ia) was already pending adjudication before the National Faceless Appeal Centre (NFAPC), the Principal Commissioner lacked jurisdiction to invoke Section 263 in view of clause (c) of Explanation 1 to Section 263. Charitable purpose-Objects of general public utility-Merely because the society's participants included members from the private sector, it does not change the fundamental non-commercial nature of its activities-The society's role as a facilitator for the hydrocarbon industry does not make its activities commercial-Revision order is quashed.[S. 2(15), 11, 12 12AA]

The assessee society was formed to carry out educational activities in the oil and gas industry. It acted as an interface between the oil industry, government authorities, the public, and representative bodies to promote research, assist in policy-making, and support the hydrocarbon sector. The society provided a platform for experts in the field to exchange knowledge and expertise. It was registered u/s. 12AA and granted an exemption u/s. 80G. The AO allowed the exemption u/s. 11 and 12. The CIT passed an order u/s.263, asserting that the society's activities were commercial in nature and not charitable, thus invoking the second proviso to S.2 (15).

Held that a similar society with identical objectives had been treated as charitable. Since both societies had the same scope and purpose, the impugned order passed by the Commissioner was not sustainable. The assessee was formed as an initiative by the Government of India highlighted that its purpose was to bring all stakeholders together, ultimately benefiting consumers. The involvement of private sector participants did not make the society's activities commercial, as its role was to act as a facilitator for the hydrocarbon industry, supporting the sector's growth. Order u/s.263 was not sustainable, and the society's activities were charitable, and its non-commercial nature was upheld. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Disallowance of expenditure-Exempt income-Outstanding GST-Revision order is affirmed-Registration and provision for warranty-Revision is not justified. [S. 14A,37(1) 43B]

Held that the Assessing Officer had passed assessment order without making any enquiry or verification in respect of correctness of disallowance under section 14A read with rule 8D as well as in respect of disallowance under section 43B in respect of outstanding GST, impugned assessment order was rightly termed by PCIT as erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue. As regards registration and provision for warranty the AO had made detailed enquiry and issues were decided in favour of assessee in earlier years, revision is not justified. (AY. 2016-17, 2018-19) year-Revision order is justified. [S. 2(24)(iv) 47(x),47(x)(a), 49(2A), 56(2),(id), 145]

Where assessee was a director and shareholder of a company which issued zero-coupon debentures redeemable after 9 years to its directors, the company converted the same prematurely into equity shares during the relevant year, the entire accumulated interest income on the debenture was deemed to be received by assessee upon conversion into equity shares and was to be brought to tax in the relevant assessment year. Revision order is justified. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Income from other sources-Purchase of immovable property-difference in actual sale price and the stamp duty value-Addition of total stamp duty value-Matter remanded to CIT for further verification. [S. 56(2)(x), 69A]

Assessee's case was reopened for purchasing immovable property, and there was a difference between the actual sale consideration and stamp duty value. AO made an addition u/s 56(2)(x) to the income of the total stamp duty value. The Pr. CIT observed that AO should have only added the difference to u/s. 56(2)(x) and the actual purchase consideration as unexplained investment under s. 69A of the Act. Pr. CIT invoked jurisdiction u/s. 263 and initiated revision proceedings and set aside the order for fresh consideration. On Appeal, the Tribunal held that the Principal CIT has rightly invoked provisions of s. 263 of the Act as an incorrect application of law will satisfy the requirement of the order being erroneous. On the issue of addition of actual purchase consideration as unexplained investment, the Tribunal held that the payments were not made in the current A.Y. and hence cannot be made in the subject assessment year. Due to contrary facts, the matter was set aside to the file of Pr. CIT for further inquiry.

S. 264 : Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Rejection of application for rectification on ground that error sought to be rectified was not manifest-Commissioner had no power to revise order under section 264.[S. 143(1), 154]

Held, dismissing the writ petition, that the assessee had declared in the return, Rs. 10,08,359 as remuneration paid to the partners which would be exigible to tax in the hands of the partners. However, the remuneration paid to the partners as declared in the very same return came only to Rs. 3,54,000. There were a number of expenses shown in the profit and loss account and it required a process of deduction, as to the expenses claimed, to conclude that those were in fact to be declared as "other expenses" wherein, there was specific indication that the assessee should specify the nature and amount. Hence, it could not be said that even if it were a bona fide mistake, there could be a rectification made under section 154. In such circumstances neither could the order under section 154 be assailed nor could rejection of a revision be made, from that order under section 154.(AY.2016-17)

[The court observed that the assessee could file an appeal or revision from the intimation under section 143(1), the delay in filing which would be condoned on the compelling circumstances of the assessee having pursued his remedy, but under a different provision against a different order.]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assessee has not submitted any satisfactory explanation regarding the discrepancy at the time of assessment proceedings or at the time of penalty proceedings and discrepancy was accepted; contention that only GP should be added to income cannot be accepted; CIT was justified in rejecting the revision petition. Order of single judge affirmed. (AY.2009-10)

S. 264 :Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Unexplained money-Non-Resident-Cash deposit in bank-Non-service of notice-Order passed under section 264 was quashed and set aside and matter was to be remanded to Commissioner to pass a fresh order after considering facts of case and submissions of assessee that assessment order was passed on basis of notice never served.[S. 69A, 144, 147, 148, Art. 226]

The assessee is a non-resident. An assessment order was passed under section 144 read with section 147 in case of assessee making an addition by treating cash deposit of certain amount as unexplained cash deposit under section 69A. Assessee filed revision application under section 264 praying for setting aside of assessment order contending that no notice under section 148 or section 142(2) was served upon assessee, and thus, entire reassessment proceedings were without jurisdiction in absence of valid service of notice. Revision application was rejected. On writ it was contended that notice under section 148 was never served upon assessee. Even notice under section 142(1) was also not served and assessee came to know about passing of assessment order only when bank accounts were put under lien for recovery proceedings. Court held that when notice under section 148 was never served upon assessee, Assessing Officer could not have assumed jurisdiction. Accordingly the order passed under section 264 was quashed and set aside and matter was to be remanded to Commissioner to pass a fresh order after considering facts of case and submissions of assessee that assessment order was passed on basis of notice never served.(AY. 2012-13)

S. 264 :Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Failure to respond questions-Hospitalisation-Genuine reasons-Rejection of application was quashed. [Art. 226]

On writ the Court held, that the Principal Commissioner had summarily rejected the revision petition on the ground that the assessee had not produced evidence to substantiate the income declared and had not explained the source of cash deposits. However, despite the specific contentions urged by the assessee before the Principal Commissioner, that his inability and omission to appear before the Income-tax Officer and file his objections, was due to hospitalisation and due to bona fide reasons, unavoidable circumstances and sufficient cause, had not been considered. The rejection of the application for revision was not valid.(SJ) (AY.2017-18)

S. 264 :Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Property held for charitable purposes-Receipts from donors who deducted tax at source-No element of trade-Principle of consistency-No change in law or facts-Department cannot take different view without convincing reasons-Entitle to exemption-Rejection of revisional order was set aside. [S. 2(15) 11, 12,12A, 12AA, 13(8),80G, 194C, 194J, Art. 226]

The assessee, a non-governmental organisation registered under sections 12A, 12AA and 80G, was engaged in social development and welfare activities for upliftment of poor and underprivileged children and women. The Assessing Officer denied exemption under sections 11 and 12, treating these receipts as consultancy fees and contractual income, invoking the proviso to section 2(15). The assessee's revision petition under section 264 was dismissed. In all preceding assessment years 2011-2012, 2012-2013, 2013-2014 and 2015-2016 and the subsequent assessment year 2018-2019, similar receipts with deductions of tax at source were accepted as charitable in nature and exemption under sections 11 and 12 was granted. On a writ allowing the petition, the Court held that the sole reason to construe the receipts from donors was founded on the assumption that they were towards professional or technical services or contractual income since tax was deducted under sections 194C and 194J. This alone could not be the only basis to conclude that the receipts were to be considered under the category of consultancy fees and contractual income. There was no element of activity in the nature of trade, commerce or business, or any activity of rendering any service in relation to any trade, commerce or business. In the absence of any cogent reason, the receipts in question could not be treated as falling under the sixth limb of section 2(15) "advancement of any other object of general public utility". If the deductor in its Income-tax return, under misconception, had deducted tax under section 194C and section 194J, it would not disentitle the assessee to claim benefit under sections 11 and 12 unless the case of the assessee was specifically hit by the proviso to section 2(15). Rule of consistency was followed. The revenue was directed to grant the exemption. (AY. 2017-18)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the contention raised by the assessee was that he was entitled to claim a deduction in respect of expenditure incurred wholly or exclusively in connection with the sale of property. This contention was contained in the revision petition. On examining the order, it was clear that the officer had not dealt with this contention. The order was quashed, and the matter was remanded for reconsideration after giving the assessee an opportunity to be heard.(SJ (AY.2021-22.)

Assessee filed his return of income claiming deduction under section 54F. Assessee's case was selected for scrutiny, and a notice under section 142(1) was accordingly served on assessee. Assessee engaged a Chartered Accountant to represent him before the department, who had made submissions on issue of capital gains, which according to the assessee, was exempt from tax under section 54F. However, the Chartered Accountant did not comply with notice and consequently the Assessing Officer proceeded to pass an ex parte assessment order. The assessee, being aggrieved by ex-parte assessment order, had approached the Commissioner in revision filed under section 264, praying for deletion of additions. Assessee submitted all materials in that regard., hHowever, the revision came to be rejected by Commissioner as not maintainable. On writ, the Court held that merely on an erroneous presumption in law, the revision was not maintainable for the reason that assessee had failed to produce certain materials in response to notice. The order of revision was quashed and set aside, and assessee's revision application was remanded to the Commissioner to be decided in accordance with law. (AY. 2018-19)

The assessment was completed on the basis of stamp valuation. The authorised representative has agreed to the addition. No appeal was filed. The assessee filed the revision application which was rejected by the Commissioner. On writ, the Court held that even if objections were not raised before the AO, the assessee could raise them in revision. Under the proviso to S. 56(2)(vii)(c), r/w s. 50C(2), AO must refer valuation to DVO when disputed. Since rejection of revision was unsustainable, the order was set aside. Assessee-company filed its return of income, which was subjected to scrutiny assessment. Thereafter, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessment based on information from the Investigation Wing suggesting that assessee made bogus purchases from two suppliers but failed to establish any direct nexus between such purchases and alleged bogus transactions. Tribunal deleted addition on ground that assessee had in fact established genuineness of purchases made from named two persons and same could not be considered bogus. Findings of fact, which were premised on cogent material, could not by any stretch of imagination be termed as perverse or unsustainable. Court also held that since there was no material on record which would substantiate that purchases reflected were accommodation entries, and the tax effect was below ₹2 crore threshold as stipulated in CBDT Circular No. 9/2024 dated 17-09-2024, the revenue's appeal was dismissed. Appeal of the revenue dismissed due to the monetary tax limit. Circular No. 9/2024 [F. NO. 279/MISC./M-74/2024-ITJ], dated 17-09-2024

PCIT v. Savitri Verma (2025) 304 Taxman 695 (Chhattishgarh)(HC)

S. 268A : Appeal-Instructions-Circulars-Monetary limits-2 crores-Applicability of revised CBDT monetary limits (Circular No 3 of 2018 dt 11-7 2028 (2018) 405 ITR 29 (St), Circular 9 of 2024, dated 17 th September, 2024 (2024) 468 ITR 1 (St))-Exceptions Apply Prospectively-Pending Appeals Covered by revised threshold-Appeal of Revenue is dismissed.[S.260A]

In this case, the Revenue had filed an appeal against the assessee before the Bombay High Court. The assessee argued that the appeal should be dismissed as the tax effect involved was less than Rs.2 crores, in accordance with the monetary threshold laid down by CBDT circulars. The Revenue contended that the appeal was validly filed in 2018, when the applicable limit was Rs.50 lakhs, and that the appeal amount was Rs.74.69 lakhs. The Revenue also relied on a CBDT letter dated 20 August 2018 (2018) 407 ITR 7 (St.) asserting that the appeal fell within an exception to the monetary limit restriction. The Bombay High Court held that though the Revenue had filed the appeal in 2018 when the applicable monetary limit for filing appeals was Rs.50 lakhs, the subsequent increase in the monetary threshold by the CBDT would still apply to pending appeals at the time of disposal. The Court referred PCIT v. Premier Industrial Corporation Ltd (2025) 172 taxmann.com 289 (Bom)(HC) to its earlier judgments, including CIT v. V.M. Salgaonkar and Brothers (P) Ltd (2024) 169 Taxman 597 (Bom)(HC))and Pr. CIT v. IPL Loan Trust,(. 2025] 171 taxmann.com 725 (Bom)(HC), PCIT v. Axis AD Print Media (India) Ltd [2025] 172 taxmann.com 114 (Bom)(HC) where it had held that while revised monetary limits apply retrospectively to pending cases, any exceptions to those limits introduced by later CBDT circulars-such as the letter dated 20 August, 2018 (2018) 407 ITR 7 (St.) relied upon by the Revenue would apply only prospectively, i.e., from the date of their introduction. Since the present appeal was filed before 20 August, 2018 and was not covered by any exception at the time of filing, the Court found no justification to keep it pending merely because an exception was introduced later. Accordingly, the Court upheld the assessee's objection and disposed of the appeal on the ground of low tax effect under the revised monetary limits, without expressing any opinion on the substantive legal issues involved, which were kept open for future adjudication. S. 268A : Appeal-Instructions-Circulars-Monetary limits-Revision-Penalty-Concealment penalty-Monitory limit is also applicable to proceedings under section 263 of the Act-The CIT u/s.263 of the Income-tax Act directed the AO to initiate a penalty for concealment, which was not originally initiated in the assessment order-Tribunal set aside the order of the Commissioner-On appeal, as the tax effect involved is below threshold limit of 2 crors-The appeal of the Revenue is dismissed.[S.260A,263, 271(1)(c)]

The appeal was filed by the Revenue challenging the Tribunal's order regarding AY's 2010-11, 2011-12, and 2012-13. The primary issue was whether the CIT u/s.263 of the Income Tax Act could direct the AO to initiate a penalty for concealment, which was not originally initiated in the assessment order. The Revenue relied on the CIT v. Surendra Prasad Agrawal (2005) 142 Taxman 653 (HC), which held that such directions could be given under Section 263. However, the High Court observed that the decision, laid down the correct law, the penalty which could be levied would be calculated on the amount surrendered during the course of survey. The tax on this, assuming the rate to tax is 33%, will work out to Rs.42,90,000/-. The minimum penalty which could be levied would be 100% of such tax i.e. Rs.42,90,000/-and the maximum penalty would be 300%, which would be Rs.1,28,70,000/-. In either case, the penalty amount will not exceed Rs.2 Crore, which is the amount prescribed in the CBDT circular dated 17 September 2024 2024) 468 ITR 1 (St). Relied on PCIT v. Vinodbhai Parekh (2020) 429 ITR 225 (Guj)(HC) wherein the Court held that CBDT circulars on tax effect limits also apply to orders u/s. 263 of the Act. Court held that since as the tax effect involved was below the prescribed limit as per the CBDT Circular dated 17 September 2024, the appeal being deemed academic and is not entertained. However, the High Court kept open the substantial question of law for future consideration. Appeal of Revenue is dismissed (ITA NO. 1906 & 2713 of 2018 dated 06/03/2025) (AY. 2010-11, 2011-12)

S. 268A : Appeal-Instructions-Circulars-Monetary limits- Departmental appeal-Low tax effect-CBDT Circular No. 9 of 2024- Exception relating to bogus penny stock transactions not applicable where assessee claimed business loss and not short-term capital loss-Revenue's appeal dismissed. (S.28(i), 45, 68, 143(3), 147, 148, 153A, 253)

The assessee had declared loss from trading in shares as business loss, which was accepted in the original assessment. Subsequently, reassessment was made treating the alleged loss as bogus short-term capital loss arising from accommodation entries. The CIT(A) deleted the addition. The Revenue filed an appeal before the Tribunal though the tax effect was below the monetary limit prescribed under CBDT Circular No. 9 of 2024, contending that the case fell within the exception relating to bogus short-term capital loss. The Tribunal held that the assessee had never claimed short-term capital loss but had consistently claimed business loss from share trading. Therefore, the exception contained in the CBDT Circular was inapplicable, and the Revenue's appeal was not maintainable on account of low tax effect. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 269ST : Mode of undertaking transactions-Cash payment-Redevelopment of immovable property-Defendant, seeking rejection of the plaint under Order VII rule 11(d) of the CPC on the ground of statutory violation, is misconceived, as the same fails to establish any express legal prohibition that would preclude the Court from adjudicating the instant claim for recovery. [S.269ST(b), 271DA, 273B, Indian Contract Act, 1872, S.2(h), 10, 23]

Plaintiff entered into a collaboration agreement with defendant for redevelopment of immovable property. Plaintiff paid certain amount in cash. Suspecting certain fraud, plaintiff lodged a police complaint, leading to an FIR against defendant. Despite multiple attempts to resolve dispute and recover funds, no refund was made. In suit, plaintiff claimed refund of amount paid to defendant in cash, along with interest. Defendant contended that this payment in cash made by plaintiff was in direct violation of section 269ST(b), accordingly, Collaboration Agreement, being founded on an illegal consideration, was null and void. Consequently, this Court was precluded from entertaining suit for recovery on account of alleged illegality of transaction. Court held that section 269ST merely regulates the mode of transaction and imposes a fiscal penalty without rendering agreement itself void and thus, mere receipt of cash in violation of section 269ST would not, by itself, render the underlying agreement void or unenforceable in a civil court nor would it preclude initiation of a money recovery proceeding.

Further, statutory penalty prescribed for contravention of section 269ST was imposed upon the recipient and not the payer. Accordingly, the defendant could not be allowed to unjustly enrich himself by retaining money under the guise of statutory violation of section 269ST, which drew penal liability solely against him. Defendant, seeking rejection of the plaint under Order VII rule 11(d) of the CPC on the ground of statutory violation, is misconceived, as the same fails to establish any express legal prohibition that would preclude the Court from adjudicating the instant claim for recovery. S. 269UC : Purchase by Central Government of immoveable properties-Restrictions on transfer-Failure by Government to deposit apparent consideration within stipulated time pursuant to order of Appropriate Authority for compulsory purchase-Parties terminating agreement and vendors selling property to new purchaser. Suit filed by new purchaser for declaration that order for compulsory purchase stood abrogated and all rights in property vested in its favour-Abrogation of order taking place by operation of law consequent upon failure to deposit consideration within time frame as stipulated in section 269UG-No question of giving a further declaration that order cancelled or set aside-Not a case where order for compulsory purchase being "called in question" by filing suit if decreed will not have effect of setting aside or modifying order of Appropriate Authority-Suit neither barred under provisions of section 269UN or section 293-Order of single judge holding suit barred set aside and suit restored-Called in question"- "Abrogate" [S. 269UD, 269UE(1), 269UF, 269UG, 269UH, 269UN, 293, Civil Procedure Code, 1908, S. 9.]

The Appropriate Authority passed the an order for compulsory purchase of the property vide order dated September 12, 2002. However, the Central Government did not deposit the apparent consideration after the third compulsory purchase order was passed on September 12, 2002. The original purchaser also called upon the Appropriate Authority to issue a declaration under the Act to the effect that the third compulsory purchase order dated September 12, 2002 stood abrogated under section 269UH(2). However, no such declaration was issued by the Appropriate Authority. Thereafter, the parties terminated the agreement dated July 13, 1991, and the plaintiff purchased the suit property by a registered deed of conveyance dated May 16, 2006. The plaintiff filed a suit seeking a declaration that the third compulsory purchase order, dated September 12, 2002, stood abrogated on and from October 31, 2002, and on and from that date, all the rights, title and interest in the suit property and all rights to the floor space index thereto, stood re-vested in the owners, and that on and from May 16, 2006, the plaintiff was the absolute owner of the suit property. The single judge dismissed the suit filed on the ground that it was barred under the provisions of section 269UN and/or section 293 of the Act. On appeal: Held, allowing the appeal, the Court held that seeking a declaration that the order passed under section 269UD(1) stood abrogated could not mean that the order was being challenged or being "called in question" as referred to in section 269UN. The declaration sought in the suit that the third compulsory purchase order dated September 12, 2002 stood abrogated on and from October 31, 2002, and from that date the suit property re-vested in the vendors, did not in any way "call in question" the order dated September 12, 2002. In fact, the plaintiff proceeded on the basis that the order was valid, and because the consideration was not paid within the time stipulated in section 269UG, it stood abrogated as provided in section 269UH of the Act. The abrogation took place by operation of law as stipulated in section 269UH(1) as the consideration was not paid within the time frame as stipulated in section 269UG. This by no stretch of imagination could mean that the third compulsory purchase order passed under section 269UD(1) was being "called in question" in the suit.

That any suit which had the effect of setting aside or modifying any proceeding taken under the Act, or to set aside or modify any order made under the Act, it would be barred under section 293. The declarations sought for by the plaintiff did not have any such effect. What was sought in the suit was that the third compulsory purchase order passed by the Appropriate Authority under section 269UD(1) stood abrogated. This declaration was sought on the basis that the consideration payable for the purchase of the immovable property by the Central Government was not paid within the time stipulated in section 269UG. Seeking such a declaration would neither set aside nor modify any proceeding taken or order made under the 1961 Act. If the plaintiff failed to establish this fact at the trial, it would not be entitled to the declaration. This would not mean that this court did not have jurisdiction to entertain the suit. The jurisdiction of civil courts is all embracing except to the extent it is excluded by an express provision of law or by clear intendment arising from such law. This is the purport of section 9 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908. Order of single judge holding suit barred, set aside and suit restored.

S. 270A : Penalty for under-reporting and misreporting of income-
of hearing and pass a speaking order. [S.92CD(3) Art. 226]

Assessee filed its return of income declaring NIL income after set-off of brought forward loss. The case was selected for scrutiny, and the assessment was completed, making a transfer pricing adjustment of about Rs. 31.15 crores. The assessee entered into an Advanced Pricing Agreement (APA) with CBDT covering assessment years 2011-12 to 2018-19. Pursuant to section 92CD(1), it filed a modified return offering to tax about Rs. 14.16 crores towards transfer pricing adjustment as per APA. No order under section 92CD(3) on the modified return was passed by the Assessing Officer. A penalty order under section 270A was passed imposing a penalty on the assessee in relation to the assessment year 2017-18. On writ, the Court held that the assessee had entered into an APA with CBDT, filed a modified return under section 92CD(1) offering to tax about Rs. 14.16 crores as per APA, and paid tax thereon, and it was also an admitted fact that no order under section 92CD(3) had been passed on the modified return. However, all these facts had not been taken into consideration by the Assessing Officer before passing the penalty order, and further, no virtual hearing was given to the assessee as mandated by the Faceless Penalty (Amendment) Scheme, 2022. Penalty order was set aside, and matter remanded to the Assessing Officer to give a virtual hearing to the assessee and thereafter pass a fresh order. (AY. 2017-18)

The assessee was engaged in the business of construction. The AO made an addition of Rs. 8.33 crores by estimating income from contract work at 10% of turnover as against 7.37% declared by the assessee. Subsequently, he initiated penalty proceedings under section 270A for under-reporting of income in consequence of misreporting. On appeal, the CIT(A) deleted the penalty on account of non-specification of the limb within which the penalty was imposed. On the revenue's appeal to the ITAT, it was held that where neither in assessment order nor in notice issued under section 274 r.w.s. 270A had the AO specified as to under which limb of provisions of section 270A(2) or 270A(9) assessee had misreported or underreported its income; no penalty under section 270A was leviable. The assessees, non-resident companies, did not initially offer secondment reimbursement receipts to tax as they were under a bona fide belief, supported by a judgment of the jurisdictional High Court and conflicting judicial precedents, that such receipts were not taxable. The receipts were duly disclosed in the tax audit report and were voluntarily offered to tax during assessment proceedings or in returns filed in response to notices under section 148. The Tribunal held that there was neither concealment of income nor furnishing of inaccurate particulars and that the assessees had acted under a bona fide belief based on prevailing legal uncertainty. Since reasonable cause existed for not offering the receipts to tax in the original returns, levy of penalty under sections 271(1)(c) and 270A was not justified. (AY. 2012-13 to 2019-20)

The assessee, a retired bank employee, disclosed the entire amount of leave encashment in the return but claimed full exemption under section 10(10AA) on the basis of a judicial pronouncement and the expectation that the Government would enhance the exemption limit, which was subsequently done prospectively. The Tribunal held that misreporting under section 270A(9) requires deliberate falsification, concealment or suppression of facts. A bona fide legal claim based on a plausible interpretation of law, where all material facts are fully disclosed, cannot be regarded as misreporting. As there was neither concealment nor false disclosure and the explanation offered by the assessee was bona fide, the penalty levied under section 270A was deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

On subsequent updation of Form No. 26AS, additional TDS entries were reflected and, during reconciliation, the assessee voluntarily furnished a revised computation before the issue of any statutory notice. The Tribunal held that the assessee had furnished a cogent and bona fide explanation, disclosed all material facts and placed on record the updated Form No. 26AS, reconciliation statements, TDS certificates and supporting documents. As the omission was inadvertent, no revenue loss had occurred since tax had already been deducted at source, and the case squarely fell within section 270A(6)(a). Accordingly, the penalty levied for under-reporting of income was deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

The Assessing Officer initiated penalty proceedings for under-reporting of income under section 270A(2), but ultimately levied a penalty for misreporting of income under section 270A(9) without specifying the exact charge in the notice. The Tribunal held that the penalty notice suffered from a jurisdictional defect as it failed to inform the assessee whether the proposed penalty was for under-reporting or misreporting. Accordingly, the penalty was held to be unsustainable. Penalty was levied in respect of the disallowance of employees' contributions to Provident Fund and Employees' State Insurance. The Tribunal held that at the relevant time the issue was highly debatable and, therefore, the assessee could not be subjected to penalty under section 270A merely because the claim was ultimately disallowed. The deletion of penalty by the Commissioner (Appeals) was upheld. The Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 270A in respect of an ad hoc disallowance of business expenditure. The Tribunal held that additions made purely on an estimated or ad hoc basis do not constitute under-reporting or misreporting of income warranting penalty under section 270A. The penalty was therefore deleted (AY. 2017-18 & 2018-19).

The assessee claimed deduction of interest under section 57 at 18 per cent., which the Assessing Officer considered excessive and restricted to 12 per cent. The assessee accepted the disallowance. The Tribunal held that merely making an excessive claim, which was partly disallowed on an estimate, did not amount to misrepresentation or suppression of facts. As the Assessing Officer neither recorded any adverse finding nor specified the applicable limb of section 270A(9), the penalty was unsustainable. The Tribunal held that income voluntarily admitted by the assessee cannot by itself be regarded as under-reported or misreported income within the meaning of section 270A. In the absence of any material establishing misrepresentation or suppression of facts, penalty under section 270A was not leviable . (AY. 2017-18).

Where the Assessing Officer, after assessment, initiated a penalty under section 270A for under-reporting of income as a consequence of misreporting and specifically recorded satisfaction for the same in the show-cause notice, assessee's contention regarding the vagueness of the notice was not accepted. Tribunal also held that since the addition made by the Assessing Officer had been partly allowed and relief had been given to assessee, penalty proceedings should be modified by the Assessing Officer after giving effect to the order passed on the issue of additions. The Assessing Officer made an addition by disallowing the claim of exemption of capital gains under section 54F. Thereafter, a penalty under section 270A was initiated, notice was issued to assessee, and an order was passed levying penalty at the rate of 200 per cent of tax payable on alleged under-reported income. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer, while levying a penalty, had failed to identify a specific charge or default for levying a penalty. Notice initiating penalty proceedings issued under section 274 and penalty order revealed that the Assessing Officer levied a penalty both for under-reporting and for under-reporting as a consequence of misreporting of income. Mentioning of two distinct faults, which have different consequences for the levy of penalty, renders notices so issued to be void ab initio. Therefore, penalty levied without specifying the exact default committed by assessee was not sustainable in law and was deleted.(AY. 2018-19)

Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the assessee, in its return filed, had mentioned that the matter was pending. Thereafter, it was followed up by filing an application for rectification, asking for exemption from the date the application was filed. It had also accepted the explanation that the chief financial officer was entrusted with the filing of the return and had made a mistake in not properly uploading the return by filing the return with the disallowances, which were already reported by the auditors in the tax audit report. Held that the record showed that the additions were made on the basis of the clear documentary evidence found during the Income-tax survey proceedings against the assessee. The material on record showed that the Assessing Officer had provided a reasonable opportunity to the assessee and also sought clarification, and having not been satisfied with the explanation provided by the assessee, the Assessing Officer had passed the order and recorded the reasons for his conclusion that there had been concealment of income. The levy of penalty was valid.(AY. 1998-99)

S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Surrender of undisclosed income-Satisfaction recorded in the assessment order-Notice valid-Matter remanded to Tribunal to decide on merits.[S.132, 153A, 260A, Explanation 5A to section 271(1)(c), 274]

After search and seizure operations, assessee declared certain undisclosed income which was added to income disclosed in returns filed in response to notice issued under section 153A. Assessment orders were followed by notices under section 271(1)(c) read with section 274 and after considering assessee's submissions, Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 271(1)(c). On appeal, Tribunal cancelled penalty on ground that show cause notice under section 274 was defective as it did not spell out grounds on which penalty was sought to be imposed. On appeal by revenue, the Court held that when Assessing Officer had recorded in assessment order particulars of concealed income/undisclosed income of assessee and on that basis initiated penalty proceeding under section 271(1)(c), then consequential notice under section 274 issued by Assessing Officer to assessee to afford him opportunity of hearing, was specifically a notice for penalty for concealment of particulars of income/undisclosed income. Such a notice complied with principles of natural justice and was a valid notice under section 274 and Tribunal had committed a manifest error of law by setting aside penalty orders on ground that 'grounds for imposition of penalty were not mentioned in show cause notice under section 274 and thus, show cause notice was defective'. Matter remanded to the Tribunal to decide on merits. (AY. 2006-07, 2007-08)

Court held that the appeal filed by the revenue was dismissed holding that where the Assessing Officer had not specified the relevant portion of clause (c) in the notices for initiating penalty proceedings under section 271(1)(c), the notices issued under section 274 read with 271 were invalid and, therefore, the orders passed by the authorities levying penalty under section 271(1)(c) were cancelled. Court also observed that from perusal of the notice it was noted that none of the relevant columns have been indicated nor have the irrelevant columns been struck off. Thus, the appeals filed by the assessee are allowed and the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the assessee.(AY. 2007-08 to 2009-10 and 2011-12)

KPC Medical College and Hospital v. PCIT (Central) (2025) 304 Taxman 679 (Cal.)(HC)

S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Partition-Dissolution of HUF-Long-term capital loss claimed by dissolved HUF disallowed-Penalty proceedings initiated and order passed in the name of non-existent entity-Reason recorded in penalty order contrary to show-cause notice-Addition in assessment does not automatically justify penalty-Deletion of penalty upheld. [S. 171, 260A]

The assessee-HUF, which stood completely partitioned and dissolved on 26-03-2014, had claimed long-term capital loss on dissolution which was disallowed in assessment and addition of Rs. 7.29 crore was made. Though penalty proceedings were initiated alleging furnishing of inaccurate particulars of income, the Assessing Officer ultimately levied penalty treating the amount as concealed income, thereby adopting a ground entirely different from that mentioned in the show-cause notice, rendering the penalty order invalid in law. The Tribunal further found that both the notice initiating penalty and the penalty order were issued in the name of a non-existent HUF after its dissolution, and since this factual position was undisputed, the penalty proceedings were ab initio void. Even otherwise, reliance on section 171 could not assist the Revenue as the individual members of the erstwhile HUF were never put on notice and complete partition had already been accepted in assessment proceedings. The High Court held that penalty proceedings are independent of assessment proceedings and mere disallowance of a claim does not automatically warrant penalty unless concealment or deliberate furnishing of inaccurate particulars is established. The claim arose due to a bona fide mistake in treating distribution of assets on partition as transfer and the issue was tax neutral. Accordingly, the Tribunal was justified in deleting the penalty, and the order was affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

Allowing the appeal, the Court held that correct book profit was not only shown in the tax audit report, but it was duly uploaded in the income-tax portal and filed before the AO much prior to the case was undertaken for scrutiny assessment; it is the assessee itself who brought correct figures on record informing the AO about the difference in the figures of book profit attributing the same to be inadvertent data feeding mistakes in the return filed. Where the assessee had duly uploaded its financial statements and tax audit report and had also paid the entire taxes within time; however, the return of income could not be electronically filed due to bona fide and inadvertent human error, the levy of penalty under section 271(1)(c) was held to be unsustainable. The High Court observed that even as per the Revenue's own stand, there was no tax payable after granting TDS credit and hence no concealment of income within the meaning of Explanation 4(c) to section 271(1)(c). Explanation 3 to section 271(1)(c) was held inapplicable as no satisfaction was recorded by the Assessing Officer that the assessee had taxable income coupled with deliberate non-filing of return. The Court further held that the Assessing Officer failed to apply his mind both in invoking the provision as well as in quantification of penalty. Since the case did not involve concealment of income or furnishing of inaccurate particulars, the impugned penalty orders were set aside. (AY. 2015-16).

Allowing the appeal, the Court held that there was nothing on record to indicate that the assessee had made a wrongful claim of having actually paid any amount towards additional bonus to the employees in the relevant accounting year. The claim for additional bonus was disallowed on the ground that the amount was actually paid in the subsequent accounting year. Merely raising claim subsequently found inadmissible in law would not amount to concealment or furnishing of inaccurate particulars, penalty unsustainable. (AY. 1984-85)

On writ, the Court held that the Settlement Commission had not expressed any doubt to disbelieve the explanation furnished by the assessee, as true. The burden on the Revenue authority to establish concealment, remained undischarged. Though the allegation of concealment was made by the Revenue authorities, the assessee did furnish his explanation. Therefore, the Revenue authorities and the Settlement Commission were obligated in law to consider the fact explanation before imposing penalty under section 271(1)(c) of the Act. Without disbelieving the explanation furnished on cogent reasons and without reaching the conclusion of concealment on material evidence on record, the assessee did not stand exposed to levy of penalty as a logical fallout of addition sustained in the assessment of income. Merely because addition may be made on the quantum side by invoking section 50C of the Act, that did not itself establish that such estimated consideration had actually passed on to the assessee. The order of penalty was not valid.(AY. 2007-08)

The assessee, engaged in real estate and construction, purchased a plot in 1982 for Rs. 25 lakhs and claimed Rs. 26 lakhs towards development. The assessee later revalued the plot at Rs. 1.04 crores and introduced it as capital into a partnership firm (NE). Shortly thereafter the assessee made substantial withdrawals from its capital account. The Assessing Officer treated the withdrawals and the revaluation as arranged events that enabled enjoying benefits without paying tax and brought Rs. 52 lakhs to tax. The Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the addition but the Tribunal restored it and also reinstated the penalty; the assessee's subsequent references were rejected and certain issues had attained finality by earlier orders. On appeal, the court held that on evaluating the materials, the Assessing Officer and Tribunal found that the constitution of the firm and the transactions constituted a device or conduit to evade tax: the assessee inflated asset value, contributed it as capital, and withdrew amounts shortly thereafter. These facts demonstrated suppression of material particulars and timelines, amounting to concealment; the imposition of the minimum prescribed penalty under section 271(1)(c) was justified and did not warrant interference.(AY. 1984-85)

The assessee, engaged in operating a photo studio, had filed return for AY 2011-12. In reassessment, the AO, relying on Sales Tax Department information, treated purchases from alleged hawala parties as non-genuine, rejected books u/s 145(3), and estimated profit at 12.5% with further addition of 1% towards commission, though the assessee had produced purchase invoices, challans, bank statements and stock records. Penalty u/s 271(1)(c) was levied for concealment. CIT(A) deleted the penalty holding that the addition was based on ad-hoc estimation and not on conclusive evidence of concealment, which was affirmed by the Tribunal. Dismissing Revenue's appeal, the High Court held that penalty cannot be levied where income is determined only on estimation. The AO had accepted sales and only estimated the profit element; penalty proceedings are distinct from assessment and in the absence of cogent evidence of concealment, levy of penalty is unwarranted.(ITA No. 48 of 2022; dt. 16/09/2025) (A.Y. 2011-12)

Assessment proceedings against assessee were carried out and finalized and separate proceedings for imposition of penalty were also initiated on same day. The assessee filed an appeal against assessment order which came to be dismissed. Despite appeal having been dismissed, department made no efforts to impose penalty and on one fine day, issued show cause notice under section 271(1)(c) calling upon assessee to submit its response along with supporting documentary evidence, if any, by 4.30 p.m., on next day and case was fixed for oral arguments on next day, on which date it was finally decided. On writ the Court held that notice less than 24 hours' time was granted to assessee to produce documentary evidence and equal time, i.e., less than 24 hours' time was granted for addressing oral arguments, assessee was deprived of its right of fair hearing as contemplated under law. Court held that the order imposing penalty was not sustainable and matter was remanded back to authority with a direction to afford a meaningful opportunity to assessee to file its response along with documentary evidence and further provide assessee an opportunity of personal hearing.

A satisfactory explanation has been offered by assessee, well before issuance of a notice to him under section 148 and admission of additional income made by assessee has been accepted by revenue. Honesty of assessee in disclosing mistake and paying differential tax before assessment would not attract penalty provisions under section 271(1)(c). [S. 245(2C), 245 D(4), 275(1)(c)]

Held that since there is no evidence that the assessee has received any rental income from the house property which was vacant and the addition has been made on account of notional rent, penalty under s. 271(1)(c) is not justified. Assessee having disclosed rental income from two properties, penalty under s. 271(1)(c) is not leviable on account of the shortfall in disclosing the said income. Assessee having voluntarily disclosed a certain amount as buffer income to take care of omission, if any, and the AO having found no omission or error, the amount disclosed by the assessee as buffer income does not call for levy of penalty under s. 271(1)(c). Tribunal held that the High Court has admitted the appeal on the substantial question of law of residential status of the assessee against the order of the Settlement Commission treating the assessee as 'resident' and, therefore, penalty under s. 271(1)(c) levied by the AO for non-disclosure of salary earned from a foreign entity is not sustainable; even otherwise, the penalty levied by the AO on 26th Sept., 2018 is barred by limitation as per both the time-limits specified in cl. Held that the Assessee has furnished all the requisite details to support his claim of exemption under s. 54F, along with the return of income and during the course of assessment proceedings and eventually surrendered the claim of exemption as the registration of the sale deed and construction of new house property had not been completed within the prescribed time-limit due to the reasons attributable to the builder, the claim of exemption under s. 54F was based upon a bona fide belief and, therefore, the assessee is not liable for the levy of a penalty under s. 271(1)(c) for surrender of claim of exemption under s. 54F.(AY. 2016-17)

For the assessment year 2008-09, the assessee, a contractor, did not file a return of income. The assessment was reopened under section 147 on account of cash deposits in the assessee's savings bank account. The assessee explained that the deposits represented contract receipts, agricultural income, opening cash balance, withdrawals from the bank and past savings. The Assessing Officer partly rejected the explanation, made an addition under section 68 for want of complete documentary evidence and levied penalty under section 271(1)(c). The Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed the penalty. On appeal the Tribunal held that the addition was based largely on estimation and lack of supporting evidence and not on any conclusive finding that the assessee's explanation was false or bogus. The explanation offered by the assessee was found to be bona fide. Further, the penalty order failed to specify whether the penalty was imposed for concealment of income or for furnishing inaccurate particulars of income, thereby rendering the penalty proceedings legally unsustainable. Accordingly, the penalty levied under section 271(1)(c) was deleted.

The Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 271(1)(c) in respect of interest on delayed payment of licence fee after treating the expenditure as capital in nature. The Tribunal held that the issue had travelled up to the High Court and involved a bona fide legal dispute. At best, the expenditure was liable for amortisation under section 35ABB and could not give rise to penalty for concealment or furnishing inaccurate particulars. The penalty was rightly deleted. (AY. 1999-2000 & 2007-08).

S. 271(1)(c): Penalty-Concealment-Furnishing inaccurate particulars-Defective notice-Mere disallowance of claim not sufficient-Penalty deleted.[S. 147, 148, 274]

The Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 271(1)(c) pursuant to reassessment on the ground of furnishing inaccurate particulars of income. The Tribunal held that the notice issued under section 274 did not specify the exact charge and all particulars relating to purchase and sale of land were furnished by the assessee during reassessment proceedings and accepted by the Department. Mere rejection of a claim of expenditure does not amount to furnishing inaccurate particulars of income. Accordingly, the penalty was deleted. (AY. 2010-11).

The Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed penalty under section 271(1)(c) in respect of the disallowance relating to warehousing charges paid to a non-resident. The Tribunal held that once the very basis of the disallowance failed, the consequential penalty could not survive. Accordingly, the Assessing Officer was directed to delete the penalty. S. 271(1)(c): Penalty-Concealment-Failure to file return-Addition on estimate basis-Levy of penalty is held to be justified, though the addition was made on an estimate basis applying the explanation 3 [S. 139, 148]

Held that since the assessee neither filed its return of income under s. 139 nor filed the return in response to notice issued under S. 148 despite the fact that it received substantial contract receipts during the relevant year, the case falls in the category of "concealment of particulars of income" for the purpose of S. 271(1)(c) r/w Expln. 3 thereto and, therefore, the levy of penalty is justified, even though the addition has been made by applying the net profit rate. During year, Assessing Officer received information from sales-tax authorities and came to know that assessee had made bogus purchases from hawala parties. The AO has added entire amount to the income of assessee. However, the Tribunal restricted quantum addition at 12.5 per cent of bogus purchases. Pursuant to the Tribunal's order penalty proceedings were initiated and penalty was levied. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the assessee contended that since quantum addition was estimated, no penalty should be levied on estimation of profit. Tribunal held that since there were bogus purchases and only the profit element had been added, which meant that assessee had concealed income to that extent in the garb of purchases which turned out to be bogus. Penalty order is affirmed.(AY. 2009-10)

However, the claim of depreciation was not made with a deliberate intent to furnish inaccurate particulars. The trust later withdrew its ground of appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals), acknowledging that the depreciation claim was erroneously made.

Held that the voluntary withdrawal of the appeal and acceptance of the disallowance indicates a bonafide mistake rather than an intentional misrepresentation.

Held that the AO was not correct in levying a penalty u/s. 271(1)(c), as the claim of depreciation was not made with a fraudulent or malafide intent. The AO levied the penalty u/s 271(1)(c) of the Act, as the quantum addition is affirmed by the Tribunal. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal before the Tribunal, the assessee filed an additional grounds and raised the two additional legal grounds, ie. the penalty was levied without specifying the charge and since the substantial question of law has been admitted by the Honourable High Court against quantum additions hence, the penalty cannot be levied. The Honourable Tribunal admitted the additional legal grounds and deleted the penalty on both the grounds. Honourable Tribunal relied on Mohd. Farhan A. Shaik v. Dy. S. 271AAA: Penalty-Search initiated on or after 1st June, 2007-Undisclosed income-Tax and interest paid-All conditions satisfied-Not mandatory-Discretion means sound discretion guided by law-Conditions under section 271AAA (2) satisfied-No penalty is attracted. [S. 132, 143(3), 271AA(1) 271AA(2), Art. 136]

A search and seizure operation was conducted at the assessee's premises on 25 November 2010, during which the assessee admitted to undisclosed income. Another income, which was not accepted during the course of the search proceedings, was also discovered subsequently during the assessment proceedings, which the assessee accepted. The assessee substantiated the manner in which said undisclosed income was derived and paid tax, together with interest belatedly. The Assessing Officer imposed a penalty under section 271AAA on the ground that the assessee had not paid the tax and penalty within the prescribed period, which was upheld by the CIT (A), the Bangalore Tribunal, and the Karnataka High Court. On further appeal, the Supreme Court observed that the assessing officer has the discretion to levy a penalty, but such discretion must be exercised in a fair and reasonable manner. The Supreme Court held that if the conditions under section 271AAA (2) are satisfied even belatedly, then the penalty under section 271AAA (1) is not applicable in respect of income disclosed in the search in respect of income disclosed during the search. However, for income which was not disclosed during the search, penalty under section 271AAA(1) was held to be applicable since this income was not declared at the time of search but was uncovered based on subsequent evidence and qualified as 'undisclosed income' under section 271AAA(1). Direction is issued to assessee to pay penalty at the rate of 10 percent on Rs. 2, 49, 90,000. (AY. 2011-12)

Assessing Officer imposed penalty under section 271AAA of the Act. Commissioner (Appeals) and Tribunal deleted penalty on ground that there was no specific query put to assessee to disclose manner in which undisclosed income was derived. On appeal the Court held that when there is a statutory obligation placed upon assessee to not only specify manner in which undisclosed income had been derived but also to substantiate statement that may be made under section 132(4). On facts the assessee merely stated that sums advanced were undisclosed income, however, she did not specify how she derived that income and what head it fell in rent, capital gain, professional or business income out of money lending, source of money, etc. Accordingly the lower appellate authorities misdirected themselves in holding that conditions in section 271AAA(2) were satisfied. Order of Tribunal deleting the penalty is set aside.

The assessee admitted an undisclosed income of Rs. 2,27,65,580/-which, according to the revenue, was offered by the assessee during the course of investigation. The Deputy Commissioner of Income tax imposed a penalty under Section 271AAA amounting to Rs.47,80,261/-which was partly confirmed by the Tribunal. The Court dismissed the appeal by deciding in favor of revenue. The court held that it was mandatory to follow all three conditions as listed down by the sub-section (2) of the section 271AAA which was not complied by the assessee and refused to reduce the quantum of penalty as the income was undisclosed at the time of filing the return. The appeal of assessee is dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 271AAB : Penalty-Search initiated on or after 1st day of July 2012-Additional ground-Undisclosed income-Penalty at 30 per cent is leviable where the assessee fails to satisfy the conditions prescribed for concessional penalty under section 271AAB(1)(a). [S. 132(4), 153A, 154, 254(1), 271AAB, Rule 11 of the ITAT Rules]

During the course of a search, the assessee admitted undisclosed income representing fictitious liabilities, unexplained money and unrecorded expenditure. The Assessing Officer levied a penalty under section 271AAB(1)(c), which the Commissioner (Appeals) reduced to 10 per cent under clause (a). The Tribunal held that although an additional legal ground challenging the levy of penalty was admissible under Rule 11 of the Income-tax (Appellate Tribunal) Rules, it had no merit. The assessee had failed to specify and substantiate the manner in which the undisclosed income had been derived, which is a mandatory requirement for claiming the concessional rate of penalty under section 271AAB(1)(a). Accordingly, the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) reducing the penalty was set aside, and the penalty levied by the Assessing Officer under section 271AAB(1)(c) at 30 per cent was restored. Tribunal held that since the search was initiated against the assessee on 7th Nov., 2019, the AO did not have jurisdiction to issue notice under s. 271AAB(1); AO ought to have issued under sub-s. (1A) of s. 271AAB and also mentioned the specific limb cl. (a) or cl. (b) of s. 271AAB(1A) under which the assessee is being proceeded against for the levy of a penalty. AO

S. 271AAB: Penalty-Search initiated on or after 1st day of July 2012-Voluntary surrender of income-Estimated disallowance of expenditure-Not "undisclosed income"-Penalty deleted-Show-cause notice not specifying applicable clause-Penalty void ab initio. [S. 132, 153A, 274]

During the search, cash was found, and the assessee voluntarily offered additional income in the return filed under section 153A by estimating disallowance of marketing expenditure. The Tribunal held that the surrendered income was neither linked to any specified previous year nor represented falsification of entries in the books of account as contemplated by Explanation (c) to section 271AAB. The surrender was based on estimation and was not supported by any specific evidence establishing undisclosed income for the relevant assessment year. Consequently, the penalty under section 271AAB was deleted. The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 274 read with section 271AAB without specifying whether penalty was proposed under clause (a) or clause (b) of section 271AAB(1A). The Tribunal held that section 271AAB contemplates different conditions and rates of penalty under different clauses, and the assessee must be informed of the precise charge. A vague notice reflected complete non-application of mind and violated the principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the penalty order was held to be void ab initio. (AY. 2019-20).

Held that the entries of unexplained liabilities found recorded in the assessee's books of account at the time of search and entries not found recorded in the books towards expenditure incurred by the assessee satisfy the definition of undisclosed income appended in s. 271AAB, more so as the assessee has expressly accepted the existence of undisclosed income; penalty under s. 271AAB(1) as imposed by the AO is not liable to be deleted simply because the AO vide notice under s. 271AAB(1) did not specify as to under which limb of s. 271AAB(1), the penalty was proposed to be levied. On facts since the assessee has not come forward with any worthwhile explanation as regards the undisclosed income admitted by him, the conditions specified in cl. (a) of s. 271AAB(1) have not been complied with and therefore, penalty levied by the AO under cl. (c) of s. 271AAB(1) is upheld. (AY. 2016-17)

Search seizure at the Assessee company's premises. Addition was made to the total income and separate penalty proceedings were initiated. Further, reopening was done by S.148 notice and further addition was made. Another penalty proceedings were was initiated. On appeal, the Tribunal observed that the AO had tried to merge the penalty proceedings initiated

It was held that the penalty proceedings issued after the order under S. 143(3) were barred by limitation. With respect to penalty proceedings initiated after the order passed under S. 147/143(3), it was held that the AO did not specify the charges of provision of S. 271AAB of the Act in the S. 274 notice, making it defective. Multiple searches and seizures led to delays in filing audit reports. The Department imposed the maximum penalty under S.271B while condoning similar delays for sister concerns. On appeal, the assessee argued genuine difficulties and no loss to revenue. The Court allowed the appeal, noting that the principal consideration is the quality of the cause shown, not merely the length of delay. Given the seizures and the prompt filing upon receipt of records, there was no evidence of indolence or wilful default, and the Department suffered no loss. The penalty was therefore set aside.(AY. 1986-87)

S. 271C : Penalty-Failure to deduct at source-Action for imposition of penalty is initiated-Penalty proceedings were initiated on receipt of reference on 25-9-2014 and not on issuance of show cause notice on 4-8-2015-Order of penalty passed by Joint Commissioner (TDS) is barred by limitation. [S. 44AD, 260A]

Assessee filed its return of income declaring certain loss. Tax audit report furnished by assessee had reported that assessee had not deducted certain amount as tax at source which was deductible by assessee. Assessing Officer made a reference to Joint Commissioner (TDS) on 25-9-2014. Joint Commissioner (TDS) issued show cause notice on 4-8-2015. He, thereafter proceeded to pass order dated 25-2-2016, levying penalty under section 271C. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted penalty on ground that it was barred by limitation. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that penalty proceedings were initiated on receipt of reference on 25-9-2014 and not on issuance of show cause notice on 4-8-2015 and, therefore, order of penalty passed by Joint Commissioner (TDS) is barred by limitation. CIT (TDS) v. Turner General Entertainment Networks India (P.) Ltd. (2025) 302 Taxman 187 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 271C : Penalty-Failure to deduct at source-Curable defects-The penalty order for failure to deduct tax at source (TDS) is valid even if issued in the old name of the company after a name change, if the entity remains the same. [S. 260A, 272A(c) (k) 292B]

The assessee is engaged in the business of rendering call centre services. The Primary issue involved was whether the penalty order issued in the old name of the company after its name change was valid. The revenue contended that the penalty order issued in the former name of the company should be considered valid under Section 292B of the Income-tax Act, which allows for the correction of clerical errors. The assessee argued that the penalty order was invalid as it was issued in the name of an entity that had ceased to exist due to a name change. The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the penalty order was invalid as it was issued in the name of a non-existent entity after the company had changed its name.

The Hon'ble High Court held that the penalty order issued in the former name of the company was valid under Section 292B of the Income-tax Act, as the entity remained the same despite the name change.

S.271D: Penalty-Takes or accepts any loan or deposit-Share application money-Not a loan or deposit-Penalty under section 271D/271E deleted..[S. 269SS, 269T, 271E]

On the facts, the Tribunal's deletion of penalty was affirmed by the High Court as there was no basis to treat share application money as a loan or deposit. Explanation (iii) to section 269T defines "loan or deposit" narrowly as a sum repayable on demand or after a period. Share application money is paid for participation in capital and is not repayable in the manner of a loan or deposit. Therefore, sections 269SS and 269T are not attracted and no penalty under sections 271D or 271E can be imposed for receipt or repayment of share application money. [AY. 2004-05 to 2007-08)

S. 271D : Penalty-Takes or accepts any loan or deposit-Receipt of entire sale consideration in cash at the time of execution and registration of sale deed does not violate section 269SS, as the expression "specified sum" applies only to advances received in relation to transfer of immovable property. [S. 269SS, 271D, 274]

The assessee received ₹5.22 lakh in cash as the entire sale consideration for an immovable property at the time of execution and registration of the sale deed. The JCIT levied penalty under section 271D alleging violation of section 269SS. The Tribunal held that the expression "specified sum" inserted in section 269SS by the Finance Act, 2015 covers only advances received in relation to transfer of immovable property and not the entire sale consideration received at the time of registration. Such transactions are governed by section 269ST and not section 269SS. Since no advance had been received by the assessee, invocation of section 269SS and levy of penalty under section 271D were unsustainable. Accordingly, the penalty was deleted. Appeal allowed. [S. 132(4), 194IA, 269SS]

Held that the Assessee-builder received total consideration on sale of row houses through a banking channel and received a certain amount in cash over and above the agreed consideration for the additional amenities provided as per the specific choices of some customers; the same cannot be said to be consideration for transfer of immovable property, and thus there is no violation of s. 269SS. [S. 269SS]

Held that the Cash amount of Rs. 7 lakhs was received by the assessee as part of the sale consideration of immovable property at the time of execution of the agreement to sell on 31st Jan., 2015. Since the provisions of s. 269SS were amended by the Finance Act, 2015 w.e.f. 1st June, 2015, there was no violation of the provisions of s. 269SS on the date on which the said money was received in cash. Assessee accepted cash deposits of Rs. 8,47,900, claiming these belonged to persons who used his account to obtain demand drafts for liquor licence applications and were later repaid, but could not substantiate this beyond stereotyped affidavits stating the depositors had no bank accounts; penalty under section 271D was upheld by CIT(A) as not credible. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the affidavits failed to clarify whether the depositors had bank accounts at the time of repayment, rendering the facts incomplete, and since the assessee's records had not been properly examined below, the matter was remanded for fresh verification and a fresh decision on penalty after affording a hearing. Penalty under sections 271D and 271E was levied on the assessee as legal heir of her deceased husband, who was a director of a company alleged to have accepted and repaid loans in cash in violation of sections 269SS and 269ST. The Tribunal held that the assessee was neither a director nor a shareholder of the company and no material was brought on record to establish her involvement in the transactions. The assessee-company received cash from its promoters and shareholders towards share application money pending allotment. Although the issue of redeemable preference shares was kept in abeyance pursuant to an interim order of the Company Law Board, the Assessing Officer treated the receipts as loans or deposits and initiated penalty proceedings under section 271D. The Tribunal held that the receipts had consistently been disclosed as share application money in the audited financial statements and accepted as such during the assessment proceedings. There was no legal prohibition under the Companies Act against receipt of share application money before increase of the authorised share capital. Since the receipts did not constitute loans or deposits within the meaning of section 269SS, penalty under section 271D was not leviable. (AY. 2012-13).

S. 271E : Penalty-Repayment of loan or deposit-Reasonable cause had been shown by assessee for non-compliance with provisions contained in section 269T and transaction was genuine and bona fide, assessee was not liable to pay penalty under section 271E for non-compliance of section 269T. [S. 269T, 273B]

Assessee took loan from finance company for purchase of commercial vehicle. Assessee made repayment of said loan in cash. Assessing Officer initiated penalty proceedings under section 271E on ground that repayment of loan by assessee in cash was in violation of section 269T. The assessee contended that on insistence of finance company to pay amount of loan in cash, assessee was persuaded to make cash payment and same was duly reflected in books of account which had also been accepted by Assessing Officer during assessment proceedings. The Assessing Officer levied the penalty, which was affirmed by CIT(A) and Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that penalty under section 271E for non-compliance of section 269T was subject to provisions contained in section 273B and no penalty would be imposable on assessee for any failure referred to in section 271E if assessee proves that there was reasonable cause for said failure. Since reasonable cause had been shown by assessee for non-compliance with provisions contained in section 269T and transaction was genuine and bona fide, assessee was not liable to pay penalty under section 271E for non-compliance of section 269T. Assessment order under s. 143(3) was passed by the AO on 31st Dec., 2010 with an observation that the penalty proceeding shall be initiated separately. Reference was made by the AO to the concerned Addl. CIT on 7th June, 2011 and pursuant to the notice issued by the Addl. CIT, the penalty order dt. 30th Dec., 2011 under S. 271E was passed. On appeal the assessee contended that the order was barred by limitation. CIT(A) upheld the contention of the assessee. Order of the CIT(A) was affirmed by Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that reference having been only on 7th June, 2011, a notice pursuant to the said reference would have been issued after 7th June, 2011, which resulted in the penalty order dt. 30th Dec.,

S. 271E : Penalty-Repayment of loan or deposit-Reasonable cause-Bona fide transaction duly reflected in books-No intention to evade tax-Penalty not sustainable. [S. 269T, 273B]

The assessee had repaid a loan in cash to a finance company, leading the Assessing Officer to levy penalty u/s 271E for violation of s. 269T. The High Court held that a combined reading of ss. 271E and 273B makes it clear that no penalty can be imposed if the assessee proves "reasonable cause" for the failure. The expression "reasonable cause" means a cause beyond the control of the assessee, preventing a reasonable man of ordinary prudence from complying, without negligence or lack of bona fides. Bona fide belief coupled with genuineness of the transaction constitutes reasonable cause. In the present case, the repayment was made under insistence of the finance company, was duly recorded in the books, and the return was accepted without any adverse finding regarding genuineness or mala fides. There was no evidence that the transaction was aimed at tax evasion or avoidance. Penalty imposed merely for a technical breach causing no loss of revenue was therefore unsustainable. Accordingly, the penalty order was quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

constituted reasonable cause under section 273B. The transactions were genuine, duly recorded in books of account, and did not involve unaccounted money. Accordingly, genuine journal entries, though technically non-compliant with section 269T, did not attract penalty under section 271E. [AY 2016-17]

The assessee had filed its returns which included a transfer pricing report. TPO issued on 18-2-2014, giving time up to 25-3-2014. Assessee did not comply with said notice. On 5-12-2014, second notice was issued by TPO for proposing penalty under section 271G. Assessee contested said notice and it eventually culminated in impugned order dated 22-6-2015 whereby TPO imposed penalty under section 271G. Assessee filed writ petition contending that since jurisdiction and authority to impose penalty under section 271G was with Assessing Officer till 1-10-2014, impugned penalty order passed on basis of show-cause notice issued prior to that date was invalid. High Court held that, on the facts, since the event of default occurred in March, 2014 i.e. well prior to date of coming into force of the amendment in section 271G by the Finance (No.2) Act, 2014, dated 1-10-2014, order was without jurisdiction and set aside. Penalty was levied for alleged non-compliance with summons issued under section 131 during investigation proceedings. The Tribunal found that two of the notices had not been served upon the assessee, one notice had been responded to by seeking adjournment and the final notice had been duly complied with. Since the Department failed to controvert the assessee's explanation and reasonable cause within the meaning of section 273B was established, no penalty under section 272A(1)(c) was leviable. Held that though there were certain failures on the part of assessee in furnishing requisite information before the Assessing Officer, ultimately all details relevant for framing of assessment had indeed been filed by assessee university before completion of assessment proceedings. Tribunal held that for a mere technical venial breach committed by assessee, a penalty under section 272A(1)(d) could not have been levied, and the same was quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 272A(1)(d) in respect of non-compliance of notices issued under section 142(1). CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that in subsequent assessment order passed under section 143(3), Assessing Officer had expressed satisfaction with compliances made by assessee. Since Assessing Officer himself had deemed to have condoned non-compliance by assessee on earlier occasions, penalty under section 272A(1)(d) could not be imposed. Penalty is deleted. (AY. 2020-21)

The assessee has sufficiently explained the reason for non-compliance with the statutory notices issued by the AO during the assessment proceedings. AO under section 142(1) of the Act, seeking details from the assessee, were issued within a short span of less than 40 days, during which the assessee has claimed that she had gone to her village in Gujarat. There was reasonable cause for such failure. Accordingly, this is not a fit case for the levy of penalty under section 272A(1)(d) of the Act. Accordingly, AO is directed to delete the penalty. Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that more than 11 years had passed since the time the assessment order was passed, and if the date of filing of the return were taken into account, there was a 14 year time gap. The proposal for commencing penalty proceedings was submitted by the Joint Commissioner on March 27, 2019. The record showed that the order under section 271(1)(c) of the Act was passed only on October 31, 2019, which was a date well beyond six months, that expired on September 30, 2019. S. 275 : Penalty-Bar of limitation-Cash transactions-Date for reckoning period of limitation proceeding based on reference by Assessing Officer Show-cause notice-Held, limitation to be reckoned from date of reference and not from date of issuance of notice by competent authority-Penalty order barred by limitation-Interpretation of taxing statutes Purposive interpretation-Absence of condonation provision to imply strict adherence to prescribed period-Courts cannot expand statutory timelines-Circular No. 9/DV/2016 dated April 26, 2016 ((2016) 383 ITR (St.) 21) [S. 269SS, 271D, 275(1)(c)]

Dismissing the appeal of the revenue, the Court held that the reference by the Assessing Officer to the Additional Commissioner was to be treated as the initiating point or initiation of penalty proceedings under section 275. The Assessing Officer by the letter dated November 16, 2016 had admittedly made the reference. The Additional Commissioner issued the show-cause notice only on November 10, 2017, nearly a year later, proposing the levy of penalty under section 271D. The penalty order was passed on February 22, 2018. If the reckoning point was November 16, 2016, it was clear that the proceedings were completed beyond the period of limitation. The order levying penalty under section 271D was quashed. The court refused to rely on Circular No. 9/DV/2016 dated April 26, 2016 ((2016) 383 ITR (St.) 21). Absence of condonation provision to imply strict adherence to prescribed period. Courts cannot expand statutory timelines. (AY. 2012-13)

[S. 260A, 271C, 272A(2)(c) (k), 275(1)(c)]

The assessee, engaged in providing call centre services, contested the penalty order, arguing that it was issued beyond the statutory time frame. The assessee contended that the penalty order was barred by limitation as it was passed well after the six-month period specified under Section 275(1)(c) of the Income-tax Act. The revenue, however, argued that the limitation period for issuing the penalty order should start from the date of the Show Cause Notice (SCN), not from the date of the survey or the initiation of penalty proceedings as claimed by the Assessee.

The Hon'ble Tribunal ruled that the penalty order was invalid, as it was issued beyond the six-month statutory limit from the initiation of penalty proceedings.

The Hon'ble High Court upheld the Tribunal's decision, agreeing that the penalty order was time-barred due to the delay in issuing the SCN and passing the order, rendering it unsustainable.

The company failed to discharge tax liabilities for the relevant assessment years 2014-15, 2015-16, and 2016-17, leading the Income Tax Department to raise a demand for tax dues amounting to Rs. 4.44 crores. During pendency of recovery proceedings, it was found that the company, through its director Rakesh Agarwal, transferred an Audi Car in favour of his daughter-in-law without adequate consideration. The Department treated this transfer as void under section 281 and proceeded to prosecute the directors under section 276. Sanction for prosecution was accorded by the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax to prosecute the petitioner under section 276. The complaints were filed against the petitioners before the trial court, but notably, the company itself was not arrayed as an accused. On writ, the Court held that where an offence is committed by a company, section 278B creates a deeming fiction whereby both the company and every person in charge of, and responsible to the company for the conduct of its business are deemed guilty and thus, the company must first be arraigned and only then can its officers be fastened with vicarious liability. [S.201(1)(a),278AA, 279, Art. 136]

Assessee was engaged in imparting engineering and management education. During relevant assessment years, assessee deducted tax at source but failed to credit same into Central Government account within stipulated time frame. Commissioner filed criminal complaints against assessee for offence under section 276B. The assessee contended that 90 per cent of students were admitted on fee reimbursement scheme and assessee had furnished information that they did not receive fee reimbursement from State Government within time and immediately after receiving fee reimbursement amount, they had remitted amount to Central Government account along with interest for late payment under section 201(1)(a). High Court held that since tax deducted at source could not be remitted to Central Government within time due to delay in grant of fee reimbursement by State Government, assessee was able to establish reasonable cause in view of section 278AA and thus, criminal prosecution against assessee was not warranted. SLP filed by revenue was dismissed. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16 and 2016-17)

The assessee trust managed an engineering college. It failed to remit the tax deducted at source to the Government within the prescribed time, resulting in a delay of about seven months for each instance. This delay happened because the staff member responsible for accounts went on maternity leave. The Department initiated criminal proceedings under sections 276B and 278AA of the Income-tax Act, 1961 for violation of section 200(1). On criminal petitions, allowing the petitions, that there was no deliberate or dishonest intent behind the lapse to remit the tax deducted at source. Though there was a delay on the part of the assessee, the delay was not caused wantonly, but only due to the concerned staff having gone on maternity leave, which had caused the delay. Furthermore, it was subsequently rectified and thereafter, the assessee had deducted the tax amount properly and remitted it without any delay. In view of the conduct of the assessee, the proceedings initiated against it were quashed. SLP of revenue dismissed.

The petitioners filed application before the High Court by filing criminal Writ petition to quash the continuation of proceedings before the Magistrate court. Quashing the proceedings the Court held that complaint had been filed against company and its directors for delay in deposit of TDS deducted, which had already been deposited with interest as provided in section 201(1A), since no notice was issued to any of directors under section 2(35)(b) to treat them as principal officer of company and no averments had been made in complaint regarding 'Consent', 'Connivance' or 'negligence' as required under section 278B(2), complaint was bereft of essential ingredients and statutory requirements of section 278B and thus liable to be quashed. Court also held that section 276B (as amended by Finance Act, 1997) covers cases of 'Failure to pay' and not mere 'Delay in deposit' of TDS and thus in case TDS has been paid in full, even with some delay, section 276B would not be attracted. Court also held that merely issuance of notice would not ipso facto become a final "determination" of classification and identification of a person as 'Principal Officer'. Term 'Principal Officer' has been used singular and not in 'plural' and word officer is further premised by word 'Principal' which signifies main officer and not all officers who may somehow be connected with management and administration of company and said determination can be done while passing an order under section 201(1). The term 'Director' which is separately defined under section 2(20) has not been used in section 278B and as such, the director is not covered thereunder. Court also observed that the Revenue had not invoked the provisions of section 221 read with section 201(1) to impose penalty against the assessee or the principal officer of the assessee for "failure to pay the whole or any part of tax, as required by or under this Act" and hence could not be permitted to prosecute the petitioners for the same substantive act which was also categorized as an "offence" under section 276B. As such, further trial of the petitioners by the criminal court was not permissible, which would be tantamount to abuse of process of the court. The orders of issuance of process by the Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrates and the orders rejecting the criminal revision applications by the Additional Sessions Court were quashed and set aside. Assessing Officer filed a complaint before ACMM under section 276B read with section 278B.ACMM held assessee-company guilty and was sentenced to a fine of Rs. 25 lakhs. Sessions Court set aside said conviction on the ground that TDS along with fine was deposited. The assessee had failed to establish its defence under section 278AA as no documentary evidence was produced to reflect its poor financial condition so as to prove that it had any reasonable cause for failure to deposit TDS within the prescribed period. There was a delay of 4-15 months in the deposit of TDS, which showed that the assessee was functioning and had the financial capacity to pay, though delayed by 4 months to 15 months. The company was to be held guilty for an offence under section 276B for not depositing TDS in time, and the judgment of the Sessions Judge was based on a wrong appreciation of facts and was to be set aside. However, considering that it was a technical offence and the company had already deposited the entire amount of TDS along with compensatory interest and that the company was facing liquidation proceedings, reflecting its poor financial status, further imposition of a fine was not merited. The sentence of fine imposed by ACMM was to be modified, and the company was sentenced to admonition.

Allowing the criminal revision petition, that with regard to the fact that the averments are made in the complaint under section 200 of the 1973 Code, that respondent Nos. 2 to 6 were responsible for the affairs of the assessee that could be considered in the trial. Before launching of the prosecution, a notice was issued which was acknowledged while giving reply that with reference to the facts and with regard to the launching of prosecution when notice was issued under section 276B read with section 278B of the Act that notices were given to the assessee and its principal officers and had received notices from the complainant and also categorically mentioned that notice was acknowledged with regard to the proposal to launching of prosecution against the principal officers of the assessee for delaying remittance of tax deducted at source and in the reply also, they had admitted reasons for delay in remittance of the tax deducted at source. When such material was available before this court and when specific averment was made in the complaint itself that respondent Nos. 2 to 6 and others were in the helm of affairs of the assessee and that they were the directors and principal officers and notices were also given and the very contention that no notice was served and they were not in charge of the affairs of the assessee, the trial court had committed an error in making an observation that no notice was served as contemplated under section 2(35) of the 1961 Act and also that they had not been in charge of the assessee was nothing but perversity. The order discharging the accused respondent Nos. 2 to 6 suffered from legal infirmity. The court could exercise its revisional jurisdiction when the order suffered from illegality and incorrectness. When specific allegation was made in the complaint itself for making an averment and even the same has been extracted by the trial court in the order in the beginning itself with regard to the specific averments made in the complaint, defence could not be raised at the time of considering the discharge application under section 245(1) of the Code. Only the court had to consider the material available on record and the same was a matter of trial. The Special Court for Economic Offences, had committed an error in discharging accused respondent No. 2. Hence, its order was set aside.

Allowing the petition the court held that the delay had occurred on 39 occasions and since the payments were delayed, the interest component was collected. The assessee had clarified that the delay in crediting the tax deducted at source to the Central Government account was on account of crisis in the company. In such circumstances, it could not be said that the company entertained any fraudulent intention to avoid payment of the tax deducted at source. Assessee claimed deductions in respect of long-term capital gain/short-term capital loss while filing his returns under section 139. Claims were accepted by the Assessing Officer. Later, search proceedings were initiated against the assessee and his family members and companies owned by him. They immediately filed revised returns, waiving claims of deductions. Complaints were lodged against them for an offence punishable under section 276C. Assessee submitted that they had sold certain shares and earned long-term capital gains all through banking transactions with stockbrokers in relation to advice stockbrokers had rendered. However, stocks in respect of which gains were made were not the same as stocks in respect of which deductions were claimed. It was further submitted that it was not a case where ipso facto evasion of tax could be laid against the assessee. High Court held that it was a case of delayed payment of tax as revised return was filed after search was conducted on assessee and merely because claims of deductions were not accepted or were not acceptable to revenue, that by itself would not amount to wilful evasion of tax; accordingly, proceedings pending before the Special Court against the assessee were quashed. S. 276C: Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Penalty waived-Circular of Board and prosecution manual of Department providing for prosecution only in cases where penalty exceeding Rs. 50,000 imposed-Circular binding on revenue-Circulars dated 24-4-2008 and 9-9-2019-Circular binding on revenue-Settlement Commission granting immunity-continuation of prosecution an abuse of process of law-Strictures-Costs of Rs, 2,00,000 was awarded against the Department, payable to the appellant. [S. 119, 245H, 245I, 279(IA), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition and reversing the order of High Court, the Court held that Circular is binding on the revenue. Department providing for prosecution only in cases where penalty exceeding Rs. 50,000 imposed. The circular is binding on revenue. Court also held that where the Settlement Commission grants immunity, continuation of prosecution is an abuse of process of law. Continuation of prosecution in blatant disregard of binding circular and in defiance of guidelines of Department. Such wilful non-compliance of its own directives reflected a serious lapse, and undermined the principles of fairness, consistency, and accountability, which could not be treated as justified or lawful. Honourable Court imposed Costs of Rs. 2,00,000 against the Revenue payable to the appellant.

S. 276C: Offences and prosecutions-Willful attempt to evade tax-Long term capital gains-Search-Long term capital gains-Revised return-Delayed payment of tax-Order of High Court quashing the prosecution proceedings was affirmed-SLP of revenue was dismissed. [S. 45, 132(4), 139, Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, 482, Art.136]

Assessee claimed deductions in respect of long-term capital gain/short-term capital loss while filing his returns under section 139. Claims were accepted by the Assessing Officer. Later, search proceedings were initiated against assessee and his family members and companies owned by him. They immediately retracted and filed revised returns, waiving claims of deductions. Complaints were lodged against them for an offence punishable under section 276C. Assessee submitted that they had sold certain shares and earned long-term capital gains all through banking transactions with stockbrokers in relation to advice, stockbrokers had rendered. However, stocks in respect of which gains were made were not the same as stocks in respect of which deductions were claimed. The assessee also submitted that it was not a case where ipso facto evasion of tax could be laid against the assessee. On appeal, the High Court held that, on facts, it was a case of delayed payment of tax as revised return was filed after the search was conducted on assessee and merely because claims of deductions were not accepted or were not acceptable to revenue, that by itself would not amount to wilful evasion of tax; therefore, proceedings pending before Special Court against assessee were to be quashed. SLP filed by revenue against the order of High Court was dismissed. (AY. 2010-11 to 2012-13)

S. 276C: Offences and prosecutions- Wilful attempt to evade tax - -Delay in payment of tax does not amount to evasion of tax-Prosecution is not valid.[S. 278B]

Allowing the petition of the assessee, the Hon'ble High Court held that it is not in dispute that the Income-tax was self-assessed and payment thereof was also made, though belatedly. The tax, along with interest, was paid on July 10, 2013. The show-cause notice for delayed payment was sent only on February 11, 2014, and February 24, 2014, pursuant to which the complaint was instituted. Therefore, by no stretch of imagination could it be held that there was any evasion of tax on the part of the assessee, though there was a delay in the payment of the tax for which interest was paid. The prosecution is not valid.(AY. 2012-13) (SJ)

S. 276C: Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-HSBC (Suisse) accounts-Unauthenticated DTAA-sourced information from France about alleged Swiss bank accounts, coupled with no incriminating material found in search and no corroboration, cannot sustain prosecution.[S.132, 132(4), 276D, 277, 278E]

The Assessee's returns were completed, but information received under the Indo-France DTAA alleged undisclosed HSBC (Suisse) accounts. A search under Sec. 132 yielded no incriminating material, yet reassessment / additions were made, and criminal complaints were filed.

The Assessee argued the DTAA material was unauthenticated and unverified (not obtained from Swiss primary sources) and there was no independent corroboration linking him to any Swiss account. Since no incriminating material was found in the search and the Hon'ble Tribunal had set aside the assessment additions, the basis for prosecution did not survive. The Assessee also contended that insisting on a "Consent Waiver Form" to seek Swiss information was a roving enquiry and refusal to sign could not be treated as evidence of guilt; there was no material showing willful tax evasion. The Revenue argued that the absence of recovery in search is not decisive, that assessment outcomes do not bind criminal courts, and that the Hon'ble Tribunal's order was only on jurisdiction/technical grounds (no incriminating material) rather than merits. Revenue also claimed that signing the waiver and non-compliance with s. 142(1) notices constituted separate offences. The Hon'ble Delhi High Court quashed both complaints, holding there was no credible corroborative evidence establishing the essential ingredients of Sec. 276C (1)(i), 276D and 277(1). The case rested on unauthenticated DTAA inputs with no incriminating recovery, and non-signing of the consent waiver on such inputs could not justify criminal prosecution. (AY. 2006-07, 2007-08]

Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate issued a non-bailable warrant against the petitioner for an offence punishable under section 276C(2). Petitioner filed a petition to quash the proceedings. Court held that the offence under section 276C(2) was bailable in nature. It was also held that no reasons were recorded in said order and it was a cryptic order which lacked application of mind. Court held that since Magistrate had mechanically passed an order issuing a non-bailable warrant against the petitioner in a bailable offence, the order was quashed and set aside.

S. 276C: Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax -Established beyond reasonable doubt that non-payment of Income Tax dues was wilful and not on account of financial inability-Upheld the conviction [S. 276(2)]

Assessee was charged for an offence under section 276C(2) for wilful evasion of payment of income tax. The assessee contended that failure to make payment was not 'wilful' but on account of his 'financial constraints' and his entire capital had been taken by his brother-in-law, SCK. Court held that there was no finite finding of any amount being due from brother-in-law-Evidently, there were business transactions between assessee and brother-in-law under which money transfers had taken place and in case the assessee was claiming that it was an amount due to him from brother-in-law, he needed some kind of better evidence to establish his assertions. No civil suit or other civil litigation was initiated by him for his alleged recovery of amounts due to him. It was found that assessee had earned profit of Rs. 4.06 crores during the relevant year and had also shown profits from licensing and interest from FDRs but did not file return. Court held that since it was established beyond reasonable doubt that non-payment of income tax dues was wilful and not on account of financial inability, as asserted by the assessee, upheld the conviction and sentence of the assessee under section 276C(2).

S. 276C: Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Rejection of discharge petition-Trial Court erred in treating 53-month delay as fatal-Foundational lack of territorial jurisdiction and invalid sanction make out a prima facie case for discharge under s. 245 of Cr.P.C-Criminal revision case was allowed. [S.276, 276CC, 278E, CrPC, 245]

In the present case, the assessee claims residence at Krishnagiri, and the assessment also took place there. The property sale also occurred within Krishnagiri. These facts raise a substantial doubt on the jurisdiction of the Madurai Court. The sanction order marked as Ex. P1, mentions only s. 276CC, while the complaint includes ss. 276, 276C and 276CC. Thus, the inclusion of charges beyond the scope of the sanction makes the complaint legally untenable at the threshold. While s. 278E provides for a presumption of culpable mental state, the same is rebuttable. However, whether the delay was wilful or due to bona fide reasons is a matter for trial, not summary rejection at the discharge stage. The Trial Court erred in treating a 53-month delay as fatal. Court held that the Trial Court misdirected itself by rejecting the discharge petition without properly appreciating the jurisdictional objections and the infirmities in the sanction order. While this Court does not adjudicate on factual aspects requiring evidence, the foundational lack of territorial jurisdiction and invalid sanction make out a prima facie case for discharge under s. 245 of Cr.P.C. The Trial Court erred in treating a 53-month delay as fatal; foundational lack of territorial jurisdiction and invalid sanction make out a prima facie case for discharge under s. 245 of Cr.P.C. During the course of election expenditure monitoring for the Tamil Nadu State legislative assembly election of 2016, a search under section 132 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was conducted at the residence of the assessee and cash was seized. The statement of the assessee was recorded under section 132(4) in which the assessee deposed that the seized amount was his unaccounted income earned through various activities like mediating for contracts and working as a commission agent for various transactions with the Government during the assessment year 2016-2017. The assessee had filed his return of income for the assessment year 2017-2018 declaring nil income. The Deputy Director (Inv) filed a complaint for the offence punishable under section 276C(1) of the Act. Subsequently, the assessee filed an application under section 245C before the Settlement Commission, which accepted the income shown by the assessee for the assessment year 2016-2017 and granted him immunity from penalty. On a petition to quash the criminal proceedings, dismissing the petition, the Court held that the assessee had failed to disclose the income for the assessment year 2017-2018 and had declared his income as nil. The only contention raised by the assessee was that the cash seized did not pertain to the assessment year 2017-2018 but pertained to the assessment year 2016-2017. The settlement application had been filed before the Settlement Commission and was duly accepted by the Settlement Commission. The complaint had been filed for not showing the income for the assessment year 2017-2018. If the complaint had been filed for the assessment year 2016-2017, then the assessee easily would have taken a stand that the seized money was the income of the assessment year 2017-2018. It was also evident from the settlement application submitted by the assessee. The complaint was filed before the assessee filed the settlement application before the Settlement Commission. Therefore, the assessee had conveniently taken the stand that the seized amount pertained to the income for the assessment year 2016-2017. Even assuming that the seized money was the income for the assessment year 2016-2017, it had to be proved during the trial. The word "Commissioner" had been defined under section 2(16) to include a person appointed as Principal Director and therefore, he was competent to authorise the Deputy Director (Investigation) to initiate prosecution under section 276C(1). There were no grounds to quash the criminal proceeding pending before the Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate.

The assessee, a partner in firms engaged in stone crushing and pipe manufacturing, filed his return of income for AY 2022-23 on 05.11.2022 declaring income of ₹2.17 crore and self-assessment tax of ₹94.22 lakh. He paid the tax on 16.01.2023 with interest. The department launched prosecution under section 276C(2) alleging wilful default in not paying self-assessment tax along with the return, for which sanction was granted by the Principal CIT (Central), Pune. The assessee contended that there was no wilful default and the tax had been subsequently paid. The Court held that section 276C(2) contemplates a “wilful attempt to evade tax” and not a mere failure or delay in payment. There was no material to infer wilfulness, and the assessee’s subsequent payment along with the explanation of financial difficulties negated intention to evade. Since the ingredients of section 276C(2) were not satisfied, continuation of prosecution would amount to abuse of process. Accordingly, the order issuing process and the complaint were quashed. The petitioner, Anurag Dalmia, challenged two criminal complaints filed under Sections 276C(1)(i), 276D, and 277(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, arising from an assessment order dated 23.03.2015 based on information received under the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement (DTAA) from the French Government. The information suggested the petitioner held undisclosed bank accounts in HSBC, Switzerland. A search under Section 132 was conducted on 20.01.2012, but yielded no incriminating material. The petitioner consistently denied the allegations and refused to sign a consent-waiver form to allow Swiss authorities to share information. Despite lack of evidence, the Assessing Officer made additions to income under Section 69, which were upheld by the CIT(A) but subsequently set aside by the ITAT on 15.02.2018. The ITAT held that no incriminating material had been found to justify the additions or penalties. The petitioner argued that once the ITAT had quashed the assessment order, the foundation of the criminal prosecution ceased to exist. The respondent countered that the criminal prosecution was independent of assessment proceedings.

1. Whether the information received from France under DTAA can be relied upon to initiate criminal case against the accused?
2. Whether on the basis of the aforesaid information, could the Assessee be compelled to sign the Consent Waiver Form?

3. Whether the Criminal Complaints under Sections 276(1), 276D, and 277(1) of the IT Act can be sustained when the Assessment Order has been set aside by ITAT for want of incriminating material?

The High Court held that the entire prosecution was based on unauthenticated documents from a third party (French Government) without corroboration from Swiss authorities or any material recovered during search. The assessment order had been quashed not merely on technical grounds but for want of incriminating evidence. The refusal to sign the consent waiver form, without credible underlying basis, could not be criminalised.

The Bench relied heavily on various judgments:

- K.C. Builders v. ACIT, (2004) 2 SCC 731, where the Supreme Court held that once the basis for penalty or assessment is set aside by the appellate authority, the prosecution based on such assessment cannot be sustained.
- G.L. Didwania v. ITO (1997) 224 ITR 687 (SC), where it was held that once the finding of concealment is overturned by the Tribunal, prosecution under Section 276C fails automatically.
- Ram Jethmalani v. UOI (2011) 8 SCC 1, which held that the mere appearance of names in unauthenticated foreign bank data does not justify legal action without proper verification or evidence.
- Jayappan v. S.K. Perumal, (1984) 149 ITR 696 (SC), affirming that criminal prosecution and assessment proceedings are distinct, but prosecution cannot survive where the assessment itself is held to be baseless.
- Best Infrastructure (India) Pvt. Ltd. v. DDIT, (2017) 397 ITR 82 (Delhi)(HC), which held that additions in search-based assessments under Section 153A require incriminating material found during search itself.

The Hon'ble Court also observed that, "State seeking to prosecute an individual must first establish a prima facie case. Mere presence of a name in unauthenticated foreign documents cannot be used to ruin a citizen's peace or liberty."

The High Court found no prima facie case against the petitioner. The unauthenticated documents and failure to sign the consent form could not sustain prosecution in the absence of independent, corroborated evidence. The complaints were quashed and the petitions allowed. Mrs. Jayanti Dalmia v. Dy. CIT (2022) 139 taxmann.com 54 (Delhi)(HC) (para 84), Distinguished.

Petitioner failed to comply with statutory requirements under sections 139(1), 148 and 153A for relevant assessment years. Petitioner was issued show cause notice for prosecution under section 276CC for concealing his true income by not filing return and on failure to pay advance tax. Consequently, a complaint was filed stating that petitioner committed offences under sections 276CC and 276C. Petitioner requested quashing of said complaint on the ground that Tribunal declared the assessment orders as null and void and, thus, prosecution of criminal cases would not be sustainable. High Court held that adjudicating proceedings would not be binding on proceedings for criminal prosecution and both proceedings could be launched simultaneously. High Court further held that since the Tribunal, in adjudicating proceedings, disposed appeals merely on ground of limitations and merits raised in the complaint with regard to non-filing of return of income, non-payment of advance tax, non-payment of tax demanded, and suppression of true and correct income were not considered, criminal prosecution initiated against the petitioner could not be quashed. The assessee belatedly filed his return of income for AY 2011-12. Consequently, prosecution under section 276CC was initiated against the assessee. Assessee filed a compounding application. Thereafter, the assessee filed a return of income for AY 2013-14 after the due date, and prosecution under section 276CC was initiated for AY 2013-14. In reply, assessee filed a compounding application which was rejected on the ground that it was not a 'first offence' under the Guidelines for Compounding of Offences under Direct Tax Laws, 2014, which was upheld by the Gujarat High Court. On further appeal, the Supreme Court observed that the expression 'first offence' is also defined to include any offence which has not been detected by the Department but has been voluntarily disclosed by a person prior to the filing of the compounding application. The Supreme Court overturned the decision of the High Court, holding that since an offence under section 276CC is said to have been committed on date immediately following the due date for furnishing return under section

139(1), offences with respect to both assessment years were committed prior to the date of issue of any show cause notice for prosecution and would be covered by expression 'first offence'. (AY.2011-12, 2013-14)

Criminal proceedings were initiated against the assessee under section 276CC of the Income-tax Act, 1961 for failure to file the revised Income-tax return within time. The High Court, refused to quash the prosecution proceedings. On appeal, the Court held that allowing the appeal, that continuing the criminal proceedings would be unnecessary. Dismissing the petition, that under section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, the assessee failed to file his return of income. After inspection, the seized materials showed that the assessee had concealed the income. He was issued notice under section 153A of the Act and filed the income tax return for the assessment year 2012-13 on November 20, 2015, showing his income. He had suppressed and concealed the income in the income-tax return filed by him on April 18, 2013. The Tribunal dropped the penalty proceedings solely on the ground of limitation. There was concealment by the assessee while filing his first return of income for the assessment year 2012-13. The assessee is now facing prosecution under section 276CC of the Act. In that part, the mens rea of the assessee was clearly established by the respondent. The prosecution under section 276CC is justified. (AY. 2012-13)(SJ)

S. 278AA : Offences and prosecutions-Reasonable cause-For failure to deposit TDS-No punishment-Order of the Trial Court acquitted the respondents primarily on the ground that the respondents had satisfactorily demonstrated the existence of a 'reasonable cause' for the delay in depositing TDS, within the meaning of section 278AA-High Court affirmed. [S.201(IA), 234E, 276B, 278E, 279 Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 378(4)]

The respondents were prosecuted for non-depositing of TDS at the appropriate time. The defence advanced by the respondents was that during the relevant assessment years, the company was undergoing an acute financial crisis, including non-receipt of substantial dues from clients, particularly government agencies, which led to a severe cash flow shortage and hindered timely TDS compliance. Despite these constraints, the respondents eventually deposited the entire TDS amounts, albeit belatedly, along with applicable interest and late fees, even prior to the filing of the complaint. The Trial Court acquitted the respondents primarily on the ground that the respondents had satisfactorily demonstrated the existence of a 'reasonable cause' for the delay in depositing TDS, within the meaning of section 278AA. On appeal by the revenue the Court held that section 278AA carves out an express exception to penal liability under section 276B, where accused can establish a 'reasonable cause' for failure to deposit TDS. Section 278AA specifically provides intent of legislature that no person shall be punished for failure to comply with section 276B if it is established that failure occurred due to a reasonable cause. Respondents were prosecuted for non-depositing of TDS at the appropriate time. Defence advanced by respondents was that during relevant assessment years, it was undergoing an acute financial crisis. Trial Court acquitted respondents primarily on the ground that respondents had satisfactorily demonstrated existence of a 'reasonable cause' for delay in depositing TDS, within meaning of section 278AA. Prosecution's case hinged more on occurrence of default than on requisite mental element necessary to sustain conviction under section 276B, read with section 278E. Trial Court had adopted a legally tenable interpretation of section 278AA and rendered findings which were not only supported by the record but also resonated with the underlying objective of the provision-namely, to shield individuals from criminal prosecution where non-compliance was neither wilful nor mala fide.

ITO v. MKY Constructions (P.) Ltd. (2025) 305 Taxman 507 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 279: Offences and prosecutions-Sanction-Chief Commissioner-Commissioner-First offence-3 per cent compounding charges were leviable upon the petitioner and not 5 per cent. [S.279(2), Art. 226]

Petitioner, a director of the company, failed to deposit TDS of a certain amount for the financial year 2009-10 within the stipulated time and deposited the same after a few months' delay, which resulted in criminal prosecution against him. He filed an application for compounding of the offence under section 279(2), and the same was accepted, and compounding charges at a rate of 3 per cent were levied upon him. However, subsequently, he was asked to pay compounding charges at a rate of 5 per cent on the ground that the petitioner had applied for compounding for the second time and the petitioner had furnished wrong information in the application regarding the previous compounding. Petitioner contended that, as per guidelines issued by CBDT in the year 2014, since he had applied for compounding of the first offence but no such offence had been compounded earlier, compounding charges at the rate of 5 per cent could not have been levied upon him. On writ, the Court held that 5 per cent was only chargeable when an earlier offence had been compounded, and the conditions stipulated in said order were complied with. Since, in the instant case, the first application of the petitioner for compounding was rejected, there was no question of a compounding order being passed or any payments thereof. Thus, 3 per cent compounding charges were leviable upon the petitioner and not 5 per cent. Referred to Maspar Industries (P.) Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax [2023] 333 CTR 10 (Delhi) (HC)

S. 279: Offences and prosecutions-Sanction-Chief Commissioner / Commissioner-Compounding of offences-Rejection of application for compounding solely on ground of delay of 36 months from date of complaint as per CBDT Guidelines-Act does not prescribe limitation-Mechanical rejection without exercising discretion held improper-Order set aside and matter remanded for fresh consideration. [S. 279(2), Art. 226]

The Chief Commissioner rejected the assessee's application for compounding of offence under section 279(2) on the sole ground that it was filed beyond 36 months from the date of filing of the complaint, relying on CBDT Guidelines dated 16-9-2022 though the Act itself prescribed no limitation period. On a writ petition, the Court held that the CBDT Guidelines cannot be treated as a binding statutory bar and even the earlier guidelines contemplated that in appropriate cases the competent authority may consider the explanation and exercise discretion notwithstanding the stipulated period. The Chief Commissioner had mechanically rejected the application without examining the facts and circumstances and proceeded on the erroneous premise that he had no jurisdiction to entertain the application beyond 36 months. Such an approach was unsustainable. Accordingly, the rejection order was set aside, and the matter was remanded to the Chief Commissioner to reconsider the assessee's application for compounding by exercising proper discretion in accordance with law.

Dismissing the petition, the court rejected the Compounding Application on the ground that the offence committed for the assessment year 2013-14 was not the "first offence" as per the Guidelines for Compounding of Offences because prior to that already a Show Cause Notice had been issued for the assessment year 2011-2012 under Section 276CC. Therefore, the assessee had again committed the same offence, which would not fall under the ambit of "first offence", and the rejection was in consonance with the 2014 Guidelines. (AY. 2013-14)

The assessee failed to pay the demand raised against him under Section 156, and after issuing demand notices, because of non-compliance, his property was attached by the Tax Recovery Officer in an order dated May 25, 2012. The petitioner had entered into a sale agreement dated February 19, 2009 and a sale deed was registered dated February 24, 2012 which the assessee denied, claiming that the sale agreement was cancelled on February 27, 2021 by a deed of cancellation. The petitioner challenged the order by the Tax Recovery Officer. The court, dismissing the petition, held that it was unsustainable and contrary to Section 281. The transaction was not to be declared invalid as it was void ab initio, and liberty was given to the petitioner to file a civil suit. (AY. 2008-09, 2009-10) (SJ)

On writ, the Assessee contended that as per section 281B, a provisional attachment order could remain in operation only for a period of six months unless it was extended by a separate order. Since, in the instant case, said period had expired long ago, the order of attachment could not be treated as subsisting. It was held that revenue also submitted that a provisional attachment order, unless extended by a specific order in writing, ceases to have effect after expiry of six months from the date of the order issued under section 281B(1). The provisional attachment order dated 1-6-2017 was valid for a period of six months as per section 281B(2) until 1-12-2017, and in the absence of any extension, the order ceased to have effect thereafter. On facts, impugned provisional attachment order passed against the assessee was no longer in force, and respondents were to update land records accordingly. (SJ)

JSR Infra Developers (P.) Ltd. v. Tax Recovery Officer (2025) 307 Taxman 401 (Madras) (HC)

S. 281B: Provisional attachment-Bank account-Reassessment proceedings-Seizure of cash from car-Attachment unsustainable in absence of tangible material and in view of security already furnished before Magistrate Court-Bank account not covered under s. 281B [S 132B, 142A, 226(4); Bharathiya Nagarik Suraksha Samhitha, 2023, S. 497; Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, S. 60(1); GST Act, 2017; Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 451; Art. 226]

The Department provisionally attached the bank account of the assessee under s. 281B during pendency of reassessment proceedings consequent to seizure of cash from a car. The assessee challenged the action contending that adequate security had already been furnished before the Magistrate Court pursuant to directions of the High Court, on the basis of which the seized amount was released, and that there was no tangible material to justify apprehension of evasion of tax. Allowing the writ petition, the Court held that sub-s. (3) of s. 281B contemplates furnishing of a bank guarantee equivalent to the fair market value of the property attached and reference to valuation under s. 142A, which indicates that the provision is intended to apply to immovable or similar properties requiring valuation and not to bank accounts, the value of which is self-evident. The impugned orders merely stated that reassessment proceedings were initiated and prior approval obtained, but did not disclose any tangible material forming the basis of the opinion that provisional attachment was necessary. In the absence of final adjudication of liability and particularly in view of security already furnished before the Magistrate Court, there was no justification for presuming that the assessee would evade payment of tax. Reference to r. 26 of Sch. II was also misplaced. Accordingly, the impugned provisional attachment orders were quashed.

Police seized huge amount of cash from a car in which assessee and others were riding. Upon investigation and being satisfied that there was no explanation for cash nor was it accounted, proceedings were initiated in relation to same by issuance of notice under section 148. Finding that expected demand on assessment including penalty would be a substantial amount exceeding two crores, competent authority of department, ordered provisional attachment of bank accounts of assesseees. On writ the single judge quashed the provisional attachment order on bank. On appeal by the Revenue, the division Bench held that mere fact that bank account is not explicitly provided under section 281B could not lead to conclusion that bank account was not liable to be attached under section 281B. Money in bank accounts is a property liable for provisional attachment under section 281B. Security furnished before Magistrate's Court in relation to proceedings under section 281B could not be considered as sufficient security for purpose of Act, therefore order of provisional attachment under section 281B was upheld. Appeal of revenue was allowed.

Assessee filed return of income for assessment year 2002-03. Based on information from Central Excise Department, Assessing Officer issued notices under section 148 for assessment years 2001-02, 2002-03, and 2003-04 through speed post, but no return was filed. Subsequent notices under section 142(1) were also not complied with. The inspector reported the assessee as untraceable. Assessing Officer, therefore, completed reassessment under section 147 read with section 144. Section 148, as well as Section 282, clearly provide that a notice sent through post must be delivered personally to the addressee and not merely at his address. Consequently, in the absence of personal service on assessee, the legal presumption of service under section 27 of the 1897 Act and section 114(f) of the 1872 Act can only be applied when notice is sent via registered post and not by speed post. Since, in the instant case, notice was sent by speed post without any acknowledgement, consequently, presumption of service under section 27 of the 1897 Act read with section 114(f) of the 1872 Act could not be invoked even if the envelope containing notice under section 148 was not returned. Therefore, there was no service of notice under section 148 through post upon the assessee, and accordingly, the order was quashed. Referred, Milan Poddar v. Dismissing the petition the Court held, that the petitioner was the Sub-Registrar who took charge on July 12, 2011, and no reason whatsoever had been shown for not filing the annual information return in time. The respondents had specifically considered the contention raised by the petitioner and had held that the reasons stated by the petitioner did not constitute a reasonable cause to excuse the delay of 525 days in submitting the returns. Assessee-company was issued notice under section 142(1) at its email ID. Assessee claimed that said email address was wrong and its correct email ID was different. However, assessee had submitted a partial reply to the notice and certain explanations and stated that the remaining documents and explanations would be submitted by a later date. Later, assessee failed to provide any further information, which was sought by notice issued under section 142(1). Assessing Officer passed assessment order under section 143(3). On writ, the assessee contended that the order had been passed without issuance of notices, hence liable to be set aside. Dismissing the petition, the Court held that notices were sent to assessee at the email address as available at website of MCA. Furthermore, notices had been duly put up on the portal and the assessee was aware of assessment proceedings. Accordingly, the provisions of section 292BB would be applicable as the assessee had participated in the inquiry relating to assessment and it was precluded from raising any objection that notice was not served or was served in an improper manner. The petition was dismissed. (AY. 2022-23)

Under a section of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, the Magistrate is competent to dispense with personal attendance of the accused. While exercising discretion in this regard, the Magistrate may take into account the nature of the controversy. Besides that, the Magistrate has to consider whether any useful purpose would be served by requiring the personal attendance of the accused or whether the progress of the trial is likely to be hampered on account of his absence. If any attempt is made to prolong the proceeding, the Magistrate is competent to pass any order as he deems fit and proper. On revision application against the order of Judicial Magistrate, Court held, that since the complaint was based on documents, personal appearance of the assessee could be dispensed with subject to certain conditions: (i) that the assessee shall submit a written undertaking before the trial court that he will not challenge his identity and the trial will proceed in his absence but in the presence of his advocate-on-record; (ii) the assessee shall give a written undertaking before the trial court that he will appear as and when required by that court; and (iii) the assessee shall not leave the country without the prior permission of the trial court. On writ, the court held that proceedings under the Black Money Act are intended to be directed against persons who failed to disclose foreign assets or file returns under the Income-tax Act, 1961. In the present case, the assessee had admittedly filed their return of income on 21.05.2015, i.e., prior to the coming into force of the Black Money Act w.e.f. 01.07.2015. Further, the assessee had approached the Settlement Commission and the dispute for AYs 2005-06 to 2011-12 stood settled under Chapter XIX-A of the Act. The Court noted CBDT Circular No. 12 of 2015 dated 02.07.2015 granting a one-time compliance opportunity and reiterated that the enactment of the Black Money Act did not bar settlement proceedings. Once the dispute was settled, continuance of proceedings under notices issued u/s 10(1) of the Black Money Act could not be countenanced and was liable to be quashed. (AY. 2005-06 to 2011-12)(SJ)

Bank accounts were closed by 2010-11, and MOU with Alhammadi was terminated in 2010. The AO invoked S. 10(3) of BMA, treating entire credits of ₹31.48 crore as assessee's beneficially owned assets and levied penalty u/ss. 41 & 43. CIT(A) restricted the addition to assessee's proportionate holding (₹3.14 lakh) and partly deleted penalties. Both the assessee and the Revenue appealed. The assessee filed a miscellaneous application and contended that they had furnished detailed written submissions along with relevant bank/portfolio statements prior to conclusion of hearing. However, the Tribunal had completely overlooked the written submissions so given by them. S. 43 : Penalty for failure to furnish return of income or furnish inaccurate particulars of an asset (Including financial interest in any entity) outside India-Non-disclosure of foreign assets-Use of word “may” in section 43 is directory and not mandatory-Assessing Officer has discretion to impose or waive penalty depending on facts-Mere failure to disclose foreign investment does not automatically warrant penalty-Interpretation of statutes. [S. 46(3)]

A Special Bench of the Tribunal was constituted to decide whether the use of the word “may” in section 43 of the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015 should be construed as “shall”, i.e., whether the imposition of penalty is mandatory once the requirements of section 43 are satisfied. The assessee, husband and wife, had not disclosed in Schedule FA of their income tax return foreign investments in Avestar Global Opportunities SPC (Cayman Islands). The Assessing Officer levied a penalty of Rs.10 lakhs each under section 43 for such non-disclosure, which was confirmed by the CIT(A). The Tribunal held that the word “may” in section 43 indicates discretion and cannot be read as “shall”. The requirement under section 46(3) to afford an opportunity of hearing before imposing penalty also shows that the penalty is not automatic. The Bench observed that if imposition of penalty were mandatory, such an opportunity would be redundant. Relying on Hindustan Steel Ltd. v. State of Orissa (1972)83 ITR 26 (SC) and Ankit International v. ACST (2011) 46 VST 1 (Bom),(HC) it was held that even where the statute prescribes a minimum penalty, the authority can refrain from levying penalty where the breach is technical, venial, or due to bona fide oversight. The Tribunal distinguished Revenue’s reliance on Nirmal Bhanwarlal Jain v. CIT(A)-51 [BMA No.13 (Mum) of 2023, dated 31-7-2023] and Ms. Shobha Harish Thawani v. JCIT, [2023] 154 taxmann.com 564 (Mum)(Trib) holding that in those cases, the claim of bona fide mistake was unsubstantiated. It held that when two interpretations of a fiscal provision are possible, the view favourable to the assessee should prevail. Accordingly, it was held that the imposition of penalty under section 43 is not mandatory, and the Assessing Officer has discretion to impose or waive the penalty depending on the facts of the case. The matter was directed to be placed before the Division Bench for decision on merits. (BMA Nos. 33 & 34/Mum/2024, dt. 14/10/2025]

On the application made by the assessee on May 2, 2020, was rejected on the ground that no appeal was pending before any appellate forum. This was upheld by the single judge holding that even if the assessment order was received by the assessee on July 10, 2020, the very fact that he had made an application under the Act, on May 2, 2020, this date of May 2, 2020 had to be taken as to be the date of knowledge of the order, and in that eventuality, the assessee's case would fall under section 2(1)(a)(i) and not under section 2(1)(a)(ii). On appeal, division bench held that the certified copy of the order dated December 9, 2019 was given by the Income-tax Department on July 10, 2020. Hence, for all intents and purposes the cause of action to file an appeal before the appellate authority arose on July 10, 2020. The assessee could have made an application under the Act and his case could not have been rejected on the ground that he had made an application on May 2, 2020 under the Act. Since the certified copy was given on July 10, 2020, the assessee had thirty days' time to file an appeal. The Income-tax Officer had to consider the application dated May 2, 2020, keeping in view that the certified copy was given to the assessee on July 10, 2020, and his case fell section 2(1)(a)(ii).

The assessee filed declaration in Form No. 1 under the DTVV Scheme, 2024 during pendency of writ petition challenging reassessment proceedings and the same was rejected by the Designated Authority on the ground that the case was not covered under the Scheme. The High Court held that since the writ petition was admittedly pending on the specified date, the assessee squarely fell within the definition of "appellant" under section 89. The Court observed that a draft assessment order under section 144C having already been passed and the assessee having opted for settlement under the Scheme, it was evident that no objections would be filed before the DRP and consequently the income determined in the draft assessment order would attain finality for purposes of settlement. The rejection of declaration based on CBDT FAQ No. 26 was held to be misconceived. Accordingly, the impugned order rejecting Form No. 1 was quashed and the Assessing Officer was directed to process the declaration under the DTVV Scheme, 2024. (AY. 2015-16).

The Madras High Court held that the assessee was entitled to file a declaration under the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act, 2020, since the definition of “appellant” in S. 2(1)(a)(i) expressly includes the filing of a writ petition. The assessee had challenged the Chief CIT’s order rejecting waiver of interest by filing a writ petition, which was pending on the “specified date” under the Act, and therefore the dispute relating to “tax arrears” (which includes disputed interest) was eligible for settlement under S. 3. The Court observed that writ proceedings in peculiar circumstances may partake the character of an appeal for the purposes of the Act. It was further held that CBDT clarifications/FAQ relied upon by the Department were not binding on the Court and could not override the statutory definition. Accordingly, the rejection of the declaration was unsustainable and the respondents were directed to process the assessee’s application dated 29 January 2021 in accordance with law under Ss. 3 and 5 of the DTVSV Act. Meanwhile, assessee opted under DTVSV Act, 2020. PCIT issued Form-3 demanding full disputed tax instead of 50%. On writ the Court held that under S. 2(j) and s. 3(1) proviso, only 50% of disputed tax is payable when appeal is in Revenue's favour. Higher demand by the Department was contrary to the scheme and therefore illegal. Fresh Form-3 was directed to be issued.(AY. 2009-10)

The assessee filed its return of income for assessment year 2014-15, declaring a total income of Rs.10.46 lakhs after claiming a deduction of LTCG under section 10(38). During the assessment, the Assessing Officer, relying upon the information received from the Investigation wing, doubted the genuineness of the LTCG deduction. Accordingly, the assessee was granted an opportunity to show cause and clear such doubts. The assessee tried to contend that the claim under section 10(38) was genuine and supportable by documents. However, to buy peace and avoid litigation, the assessee voluntarily offered this LTCG amount of Rs.2.02 crores to tax under section 68. The Assessing Officer made an assessment order under section 143(3), making addition of Rs.2.02 crores by denying the claim of LTCG under section 10(38) and further made a disallowance of Rs.9.11 lakhs towards commission allegedly paid by the assessee under section 69C. On appeal, the assessee appealed the assessment order only to the extent of disallowance of Rs.9.11 lakhs under section 69C. Appeal was only restricted to challenging the penalty levy on the two added amounts. In the statement of facts filed along with the appeal memo, the assessee contested the additions made in the assessment order only for the limited purpose of quashing the penalty order. When both appeals were pending, the DTVSV Act 2020 came into force, providing for an amnesty scheme. The assessee filed a declaration under the DTVSV Act, 2020 The declaration sought to include Rs. 2.02 crores as part of the 'disputed tax' for determining the amount payable, based on the outcome of the pending appeals as of 31-1-2020 (specified date). However, the revenue rejected this claim, emphasizing that the addition of Rs. 2.02 crores was based on the assessee's earlier voluntary concession and acknowledgment. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that determining the amount payable at the rate of 100 per cent of the disputed tax for the assessment year 2014-15 is allowed, and the respondents are directed to issue the revised Form-3 as undertaken by them in their Affidavit within 30 days from today along with all consequential benefits. S. 2(i)(j): Disputed tax-Pendency of appeal-Binding circular-Review pending before Supreme Court on specified date-Review petition was dismissed-Rejection application was set aside-Interpretation of taxing statutes Beneficial legislation requires purposive construction. [S. 2(1)(a)(i), ITAct,1961, S.119, Art, 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Department was bound by the circulars or instructions of the Central Board of Direct Taxes and had to comply with them. It was bound by the circular of the Central Board of Direct Taxes issuing clarification. According to the Central Board of Direct Taxes' circulars pendency of arbitration proceedings and miscellaneous applications in certain cases, as on cutoff date would meet the requirement of section 2(1)(j) of the 2020 Act, even though no appeal, writ petition or special leave petition was pending in any appellate forum in terms of this section. Even though a review petition's scope was limited and statutorily different from an appeal, the jurisdiction of the court extended to the power to modify, review or recall its own order. Therefore, the special leave petition could not be said to have attained finality when a review petition was still pending on the specified date. The Department itself had mellowed down the strict interpretation of section 2(1)(j) of the 2020 Act by including pending arbitration proceedings and miscellaneous applications under the scheme. There was no reason why pendency of a review petition after dismissal of the special leave petition should not be similarly covered. A review petition also partook the character of pending proceedings, and, therefore, the assessee should not have been treated as ineligible for claiming benefit under the 2020 Act. Consequently, the order rejecting the declaration was set aside, and the Department was directed to accept the revised declaration and process it in accordance with the 2020 Act. Though the review petition had since been dismissed by the Supreme Court, the right of the assessee as on the cutoff date, when the review petition was still pending, had to be considered. As on the cutoff date, the possibility of reaching a different conclusion could not have been ruled out. The reasons given by the Department in rejecting the declaration filed by the assessee on January 28, 2021, could not be sustained since they were not in consonance with the scheme of the 2020 Act and did not conform to the intent and purpose of the legislation. The Department was directed to accept the revised declaration form filed by the assessee and process it in accordance with the 2020 Act and pass requisite orders in terms thereof. Court also held that a beneficial legislation should be given purposive interpretation to fulfil its objectives. (AY. 2009-10)

S. 3: Dispute resolution-Fundamental aim to settle matters and issues that existed on the relevant date; not to create liability on issues on which parties were already ad idem-Failure to make requisite disclosures does not defeat reliefs granted in assessment-Designated authority may rectify apparent mistakes in Form 3-Beneficial statutes to be interpreted liberally. [S. 4, 5, Form No. 3; Art. 226]

The 2020 Act is intended to resolve disputes existing on the relevant date and cannot impose a liability greater than that forming the subject matter of contestation. Once a declaration under s. 3 is accepted and Form 3 issued under s. 5(1), the amount determined becomes conclusive for matters stated therein; however, the designated authority must not ignore reliefs already granted in the original assessment. Where Form 3 omitted acknowledgment of carry-forward/set-off of losses and unabsorbed depreciation (which the original assessment had allowed), the designated authority was obliged to rectify the apparent mistake because denying such relief would place the declarant in a worse position than under the assessment order. The High Court directed that Form 3 be issued afresh to reflect the reliefs recorded in the assessment order.

Assessee-company, engaged in business of real estate, had filed its return of income which was selected for scrutiny and an assessment order was passed making certain additions. Assessee filed an appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) who partly allowed assessee's appeal. Both assessee and revenue preferred their respective appeals before Tribunal. Tribunal allowed assessee's appeal but did not accede to revenue's appeal. The assessee filed a declaration under section 3 of DTVSV scheme in respect of its appeal which was confined to only one issue regarding disallowance of loss claimed by it in respect of trading in derivatives. Revenue contended that assessee sought to settle only one of three matters which formed part of dispute. On writ, the Court held that the assessee could confine settlement of disputes to only one issue regarding disallowance of loss claimed by it in respect of trading in derivatives and revenue could not compel assessee to settle disputes which were not subject matter of declaration made by assessee. Therefore, certificate issued by designated authority was to be confined to declaration made by assessee. Competent Authority is directed to issue the certificate. In such circumstances, merely because the assessee received certified copy of the order from the Tribunal on December 22, 2020, it could not contend that the appeal was pending before the Tribunal on the date of filing of the application in forms 1 and 2 under the provisions of the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020. [S. 245Q(1), 245R(4), 250 Art.226]

The assessee filed a revised declaration mentioning the writ petition and also an affidavit affirming that it would withdraw the writ petition pending before the court as well as the appeal pending before the Commissioner (Appeals). The designated authority rejected the assessee's declaration stating that the assessee's initial declaration was disregarded as it did not refer to the pending writ petition, that the revised declaration was rejected for the reasons that the assessee had not taken into account that the amount payable would be 110 per cent. of the disputed tax, that the Authority for Advance Rulings had not determined the income arising out of capital gains, which was chargeable to tax and that therefore, the dispute stemming from the decision of the Authority for Advance Rulings was not covered by the Scheme. On a writ petition, allowing the petition the court held that premise that the disputed income was yet to be determined was ex facie erroneous. The designated authority was directed to process the assessee's declaration and determine the amount payable by the declarant in accordance with the provisions of the Scheme by construing the date of declaration filed by the assessee as December 23, 2024 and issue an appropriate certificate in the prescribed form within the stipulated period.(AY. 2017-18)

Dismissing the appeal, Court held that all the authorities had concurrently found that there was non-disclosure, omission and failure on the part of the assessee to make returns regarding the items covered under the Act in the returns as filed on the basis of which assessment was done by the Assessing Officer. Under section 11 of the Act, if the case was covered under clause (a) the question of reassessment being barred by limitation would not arise. It was only if the case was covered under clause (b) of section 11 of the Act, that the limitation of four years from the end of the assessment year had been specified by law. The concurrent finding of fact was that it was a case of omission and failure of the assessee to disclose the liability to pay expenditure-tax in respect of chargeable expenditure for the relevant period. On this finding the case would be clearly covered by clause (a) of section 11 of the Act. As a concomitant of that finding, the reassessment by the Assessing Officer in terms of notice served on the assessee could not be barred by limitation. On merit the Court held that the court could not reappreciate the evidence to record a different finding of fact even if another view was possible on the basis of the material on record. S.11: Expenditure-tax-Reassessment-No limitation was prescribed-Not barred by limitation-Appeal-High Court-Court cannot reappreciate evidence to record a different finding of fact even if another view possible on basis of material on record [S. 8, 9, 11(1)(a), 11(1)b), ITAct, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that all the authorities had concurrently found that there was non-disclosure, omission and failure on the part of the assessee to make returns regarding the items covered under the Act in the returns as filed on the basis of which assessment was done by the Assessing Officer. Under section 11 of the Act, if the case was covered under clause (a) the question of reassessment being barred by limitation would not arise. It was only if the case was covered under clause (b) of section 11 of the Act, that the limitation of four years from the end of the assessment year had been specified by law. The concurrent finding of fact was that it was a case of omission and failure of the assessee to disclose the liability to pay expenditure-tax in respect of chargeable expenditure for the relevant period. On this finding the case would be clearly covered by clause (a) of section 11 of the Act. As a concomitant of that finding, the reassessment by the Assessing Officer in terms of notice served on the assessee could not be barred by limitation. On merit the Court held that the court could not reappreciate the evidence to record a different finding of fact even if another view was possible on the basis of the material on record. On a writ petition, the Court held that the assessee was entitled to settle the dispute under the 2016 Scheme. Regarding the tax liability of the assessee for the assessment year 2012-2013 in the declaration filed by the assessee under the 2016 Scheme, there was no impediment in allowing the assessee to adjust the amount paid as "advance tax" and "self-assessment tax" towards tax liability of the assessee under the 2016 Scheme. Assam Goods and Services Act, 2017

S. 132(5) :Punishment for certain offences-Arrest-Bail-Cognizable-Non-bailable-Alleged wrongful availment of input tax credit-Offence non-cognizable and bailable-Custodial interrogation not required-Bail granted. [S. 132, BNSS, 2023 S.483, Art. 226]

The assessee, proprietor of M/s BKS Enterprises, was arrested under s. 132(5) of the Assam GST Act, 2017 on the allegation of availing ineligible input tax credit (ITC) relating to transactions with 12 firms. The taxable value of transactions was ₹17.73 crore and the alleged ineligible ITC was around ₹3 crore. It was contended that since the tax amount was below ₹5 crore, the offence was non-cognizable and bailable, and hence arrest was unwarranted. It was further argued that the authorisation for arrest was vague and lacked material particulars. The Gauhati High Court observed that the allegations were based on documents and no justification for continued detention or custodial interrogation was made out. Considering that the petitioner was in custody since 08.10.2025, the Court held that further detention was unnecessary and granted regular bail on furnishing a bond of ₹25,000 with two local sureties, subject to conditions not to tamper with evidence, to appear before the Investigating Officer when required, and not to leave jurisdiction without permission. Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023. (BNSS)

S. 35 : When police may arrest without warrant-Notice by Investigating Agency-Inquiry-Electronic communication-Liberty of individual involved-Cannot be served via WhatsApp or electronic communication-Standing order must follow CrPC/BNSS modes only-Application to modify earlier order rejected-State must ensure personal service-Application dismissed.[S.2(i), 2(k), 35(3), 35(4), 35(5), 35(6),39, 63, 64(2), 71, 94, 193, 530, CrPC, 1973,S. 41A Art. 21, 32, 136]

The State of Haryana filed an interim application seeking modification of the Supreme Court's earlier order dated 21.01.2025 in Satender Kumar Antil v. CBI, directing all States to ensure that notices under Section 41-A CrPC/Section 35 BNSS are served only as per the legally prescribed modes (i.e., physical service), and not via WhatsApp or other electronic means.

The State argued that under the new BNSS, Sections 64 and 71 permit service of summons via electronic communication, and this should also apply to notices under Section 35 BNSS, which merely require the accused to join investigation and do not result in immediate arrest. It further relied on Section 530 BNSS, which enables electronic modes for various proceedings.

Now, the issue for consideration before the Hon'ble Court is whether the usage of electronic communication can be extended to the procedure governing the service of a notice under Section 35 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, particularly in light of the legislative scheme and the fundamental right to personal liberty under Article 21 of the Constitution?

The Supreme Court rejected this contention, holding that Section 35 of BNSS involves the liberty of an individual, since non-compliance with the notice could lead to arrest. The BNSS specifically excludes service of notice under Section 35 via electronic means, unlike Court-issued summons under Sections 63, 64, and 71. Section 530, which permits electronic modes for trials, inquiries, and proceedings, does not cover investigation. The procedure for a judicial act (like summons by court) cannot be equated with that for an executive act (like notice by police). The only instances where electronic communication is permitted for police under BNSS are for summons for documents (S.94) and reporting to magistrates (S.193)-not for notice of appearance under S.35.

The Court emphasized that the right to life and liberty under Article 21 demands strict compliance with the procedure prescribed by law. Allowing electronic service for such crucial notices, without explicit legislative backing, would violate legislative intent and potentially harm due process.

"A summons issued by a Court is a judicial act, whereas a notice issued by the Investigating Agency is an executive act. Hence, the procedure prescribed for a judicial act cannot be read into the procedure prescribed for an executive act," the Court said. The application was dismissed, and the earlier direction was reaffirmed.(IA No. 63691/2025 in MA No. 2034/2022 in MA No. 1849/2021 in SLP (CRL.) No. 5191/202 Dt. 16-07-2025)

State of Haryana v. Satender Kumar Antil & Anr. 2025 INSC 909, www.itatonline.org]

S. 132 : Professional communications-Advocate-Client Privilege-Summoning of Advocates-Investigating Officer cannot directly summon a lawyer appearing for a party to elicit facts of the case-Privileged communication protected under S. 132 of the Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023-Summons valid only if it falls within statutory exceptions and approved by a superior officer-No need for Vishaka-type guidelines as statutory safeguards under BNSS and BSA are adequate [, Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, S. 132, 133,134, 175, 179, 528, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, S. 126, Indian Penal Code, 1860 (IPC), S.34, 304-A, Art.14, 15, 19(1)(g), 20(3), 21,142, Advocates Act, 1961, Bar Council of India Rules 1975 Rule 11 of Section 200 of Part VI of the Bar Council of India Rules, 1975, titled 'Standards of Professional Conduct and Etiquette']

A suo motu writ petition was initiated by the Supreme Court on the issue of investigating agencies summoning advocates who represent accused persons or have given legal opinions. The matter arose from a notice issued to an advocate under S. 179 of the BNSS by the Ahmedabad Police to appear for questioning regarding a case in which he had appeared for the accused. The High Court refused to interfere. The Supreme Court held that compelling an advocate to disclose information received from a client would violate the statutory privilege under S. 132 of the BSA and the client's fundamental rights under Arts. 19(1)(g), 20(3) and 21. It was observed that the advocate-client privilege is sacrosanct and extends even to advice not connected with pending litigation. Investigating agencies cannot summon an advocate merely for representing a client; only when the case falls within the statutory exceptions-such as communication made in furtherance of an illegal purpose or facts showing fraud or crime during engagement-can a summons be issued, that too with prior written approval of a superior officer not below the rank of Superintendent of Police, recording reasons. The Court held that the existing statutory framework under Ss. 132-134 of the BSA and S. 528 of the BNSS provides sufficient safeguards, and hence, no guidelines like those in Vishaka or Jacob Mathew were warranted. The summons issued in the present case was quashed as illegal and violative of privilege.

Sakhwat and another v. State of Uttar Pradesh AIR SC 2635 : AIROnline 2025 SC 415.

Art. 226 :High Court – Power to issue directions , orders or writs - Cyber-Fraud Claim-Customer Liability under RBI Circular (RBI Circular dated 06-07-2017-Customer Protection-Limiting Liability of Customers in Unauthorised Electronic Banking Transactions)- RBI Circular protects customers only in cases of third-party breach or where no negligence is attributable to the account holder; it cannot be used as a "sword" to recast personal transactions as cyber fraud-Writ petition was dismissed. [Art. 227]

Petitioners sought mandamus directing restoration of ₹38,78,000 alleged to be fraudulently withdrawn from their accounts, relying on RBI Circular dated 06.07.2017 and decisions in State Bank of India v. Pallabh Bhowmick & Ors. in S.L.P. No. 30677/2024 dt. 3-1-2025 and a Bombay High Court Judgment in Jaiprakash Kulkarni and others v. The Banking Ombudsman and others (W.P. no. 1150 of 2023 dt. 30 6-2024) reported in MANU/MH/3477/2024. The Court held that the transactions were carried out by the petitioners themselves after logging into net-banking, adding beneficiaries, generating OTPs, and modifying passwords. Debit logs, IP addresses and beneficiary-addition records produced by the Bank established that the transactions were not a third-party breach but deliberate internal transfers. The petitioners received SMS alerts on 19.06.2022 yet reported the matter belatedly on 20/21 June, indicating an afterthought. RBI Circular protects customers only in cases of third-party breach or where no negligence is attributable to the account holder; it cannot be used as a “sword” to recast personal transactions as cyber fraud. The precedents cited were held inapplicable. Pallabh Bhowmick concerned genuine third-party fraud reported immediately, and Jaiprakash Kulkarni involved beneficiary additions without customer intimation. Unlike the present case where records demonstrated petitioners’ own involvement. Finding gross negligence and no proof of hacking, the Court dismissed the writ petition. In a case where the assessee-customer's SBI savings account was fraudulently debited by three unauthorized transactions on 18.10.2021 after he downloaded an application believing it to be from Louis Philippe customer care, the Gauhati High Court held that the transactions were clearly unauthorized and the Bank failed to establish any negligence on the part of the customer. The Court noted that the petitioner reported the fraud within one working day, attracting Clause 8 (zero liability in third-party breach cases) of the RBI Circular RBI/2017-18/15 dated 06.07.2017. The Bank neither lodged any complaint with cyber-crime authorities nor raised a charge-back request with the beneficiary bank despite timely intimation. Although the Bank alleged that OTP/MPIN had been shared, it produced no evidence. The merchant (respondent No. 3) admitted breach of customer data. Relying on DAV Public School v. Indian Bank (2019) 20 SCC 31 and Justice (Retd.) Basudev Agarwal v. SBI, [WP(C) 3474/2022] the Court affirmed that the Bank cannot shift liability to the customer without proving negligence; mere downloading of an app does not constitute negligence. The Division Bench upheld the Single Judge's direction to SBI to refund ₹94,204.80 with liberty to recover the amount from the merchant, dismissing SBI's writ appeal. Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

S. 12: Punishment for contempt of court-Dy. CIT, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired) to be guilty under s. 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971-Accordingly, a fine of Rs. 25,000 along with simple imprisonment for a period of one week is awarded to the contemnor-Dy. CIT, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired)-In case of default, he would suffer one day's further simple imprisonment. [S. 124(2), 127, Art. 226]

The contempt application under section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act was filed alleging wilful and deliberate disobedience of the judgement and order dt. 31 st March, 2015 passed by a Division Bench in Writ petition No. 9525 (MB) of 2013, where by certain directions were issued. Court held that disobedience of this Court's order strikes at the very root of the rule of law on which the judicial system rests. The rule of law is the foundation of a democratic society. Judiciary is the guardian of the rule of law. Hence, it is not only the third pillar but also the central pillar of the democratic State. If the judiciary is to perform its duties and functions effectively and remain true to the spirit with which they are sacredly entrusted to it, the dignity and authority of the Courts have to be respected and protect at all costs. Otherwise, the very corner stone of our constitutional scheme will give way and with it will disappear the rule of law and the civilized life in the society. That is why it is imperative and invariable that Court's orders are to be followed and complied with. Considering in totalities of facts and circumstances of the case as well as law-reports the Court held that Dy. CIT, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired) to be guilty under s. 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. Accordingly, a fine of Rs. 25,000 along with simple imprisonment for a period of one week is awarded to the contemnor-Dy. CIT, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired). In case of default, he would suffer one day's further simple imprisonment. (SJ)

[S.107, Maharashtra Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, 226, Bombay High Court (O.S.) Rules, Art. 226]

The petitioner, Supreme Construction & Developers Pvt. Ltd., filed a Review Petition against the High Court's earlier order dated 28 November 2024, Supreme Construction & Developers (P.) Ltd v. State of Maharashtra [2024] 169 taxmann.com 555 (Bom)(HC) which had relegated the petitioner to file an appeal, subject to fulfilling a 10% pre-deposit requirement. The petitioner sought review, contending that the pre-deposit condition was contrary to CBIC Circulars and that as a loss-making unit, it should have been exempted from such a requirement. The Bombay High Court, rejected the review petition, noting two key issues, first being, Procedural Lapse i.e. The review petition was not accompanied by a valid Advocate's Certificate as mandated under Chapter IV Rule 23(iii) of the Bombay High Court Rules, which ensures accountability for the grounds raised in the review and second, the Court found that the petitioner merely sought to re-argue the matter without presenting any fresh or valid grounds for review. The arguments regarding CBIC Circulars and financial hardship had already been considered in the original hearing. The Court emphasized that review jurisdiction is limited and cannot be used to bypass statutory requirements like pre-deposit conditions. The review petition was dismissed with token costs of Rs. 10,000, payable to the Tata Memorial Hospital, Mumbai, within four weeks, and the petitioner was directed to file a compliance affidavit.

The applicant sought regular bail under section 439 of the Cr.P.C. in connection with offences relating to illegal entry into India, forged identity documents (Aadhaar, PAN, Voter ID), and suspected Bangladeshi origin. Digital evidence, including birth certificates purportedly issued in Bangladesh, was recovered from his mobile phone. Verification from UIDAI and other authorities regarding authenticity of documents was pending. The Court held that possession of Aadhaar or other IDs does not confer citizenship; the claim must be tested under the Citizenship Act, 1955. Under S. 9 of the Foreigners Act, once credible suspicion arises, the burden shifts to the person to prove citizenship. Considering the gravity of allegations, ongoing investigation, potential risk of absconding, and possible interference with evidence, the Court found no case for bail at this stage. Liberty granted to reapply if the trial is not concluded within one year. (BA No. 1510 of 2025, dt. 12-8-2025)

Goods and Service-Tax Act, 2017

S. 73 : Demands and recovery-Determination of tax-Joint Development Agreement-Real estate developer-Time of supply of service-Time of supply under Joint development agreement is governed by Notification 04/2018, i.e., on conveyance/allotment, not agreement date,-Any deposit obtained without authority of law is refundable with interest, regardless of whether made under protest or otherwise. [S. 13(2)(b), 74, Art. 226]

The petitioner, a real estate developer, entered into a Joint Development Agreement (JDA) on 13.10.2017 with Trinitas Realtors India LLP. The DGGI initiated investigation and issued summons in December 2021 alleging that GST liability arose on the date of execution of the JDA. Under threat of attachment and coercion, the petitioner deposited ₹7 crores through DRC-03 on 21.12.2021 and immediately challenged the departmental action by filing a writ petition. The Revenue initially maintained that tax was payable on the JDA date relying on Section 13(2)(b) CGST Act (time of supply when service completion not linked to invoice/payment). However, in subsequent affidavits, the Department itself admitted that Notification No. 04/2018-CT (Rate) dated 25.01.2018, read with Notification No. 11/2017-CT (Rate) dated 28.06.2017, clarified that in case of construction services under JDAs, the time of supply arises only upon issuance of an allotment letter or conveyance deed, not at the JDA execution stage. The Court further noted that a later sale deed extinguished the rights under the JDA, which confirmed that no supply arose on the JDA date. The High Court held that the deposit of ₹7 crores was wholly without authority of law, as there was no tax liability on the JDA execution. Court held that once the Department itself conceded in affidavits that the liability would not arise until possession/transfer, the collection became unsustainable. Accordingly, the Court ordered refund of ₹7 crores with interest at 6% per annum from the date of deposit (21.12.2021) till realization, directing that the refund be processed within six weeks. The judgment reinforces two critical GST principles: (i) time of supply under JDAs is governed by Notification 04/2018, i.e., on conveyance/allotment, not agreement date, and (ii) any deposit obtained without authority of law is refundable with interest, regardless of whether made under protest or otherwise. The Respondents Nos 1 and 6 are directed to pay Cost of Rs 25,000 each to the petitioner. [Aadhaar Act, 2016, S. 7, Income-tax Act. 1961, 139A, 139AA, Goods and Service-Tax Act, 2017 S.132, Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881, S.138, Art. 226]

The petitioner, a small-time businessman from Mumbai, approached the Bombay High Court under Article 226 after suffering repeated harassment and criminal proceedings due to the fraudulent misuse of his Aadhaar and PAN details by an unknown person who opened a bank account and obtained GST registration in his name. The petitioner sought cancellation of the bogus Aadhaar, PAN, GST registration, and bank account, as well as restoration of his own identity credentials.

1. Whether statutory authorities failed to act despite being informed of identity theft involving the petitioner's Aadhaar and PAN?
2. Whether the bank violated KYC and Aadhaar authentication norms while opening the fraudulent account?
3. Whether the petitioner is entitled to relief under Article 226, including cancellation of fraudulent records and quashing of proceedings?
4. Whether the petitioner is entitled to compensation for the hardship caused by the inaction of authorities?

The Court expressed strong displeasure at the inaction of Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI), Income Tax Department, GST authorities, and the concerned bank, noting that despite being statutory and regulatory bodies, they failed to act on multiple complaints for over five years. No FIRs were filed, no corrective action was taken, and criminal proceedings continued against the petitioner based on forged credentials. The Court emphasized that Respondent No.6 (Union Bank of India) failed to conduct mandatory Aadhaar e-KYC authentication under RBI's Master Directions and Aadhaar Authentication Regulations, 2016. UIDAI and Income Tax Department failed to protect the identity of the citizen or initiate criminal action despite being aware of the fraud. GST authorities acted punitively against the petitioner without verifying the genuineness of the registration. Even police authorities took no concrete steps after the petitioner filed a complaint. However, the Court refrained from granting compensation, instead directing the respondents to take appropriate criminal action against the impersonator and to restore the petitioner's identity. Allowing the writ petition the Court directed statutory authorities to initiate investigation, lodge appropriate criminal complaints, and take corrective action to redress the petitioner's grievances. It strongly criticized the inaction and apathy of regulatory bodies in responding to identity theft and emphasized the need for accountability. Liberty was reserved for the petitioner to pursue other appropriate remedies, if required. The Court also observed that “ This is indeed a very sad state of affairs where a citizen of this country was made to run from pillar to post for seeking redressal of his grievances where none of the authorities entrusted for enforcing and regulating their respective acts took any action. We hope that such inaction is not repeated in the future and that the authorities of the Respondents would take appropriate timely action when such fraud is brought to their notice”. The Court also directed the Respondents to pay Cost of Rs 10000 each is imposed on respondents Nos 1, (Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI), 2 (Chief Commissioner Gujarat Sate GST) 5,(Chief Commissioner of Income Tax Mumbai, 6(Manager Union Bank of India) and 7 (Commissioner of State Tax Government of Gujarat. The Respondents Nos 1 and 6 are directed to pay Cost of Rs 25,000 each to the petitioner. (W P No. 3586 of 2021, Judgment dated 21 July 2025)

S. 132(1)(a) : Punishment for certain offences-Arrest-Bail-Arrest for alleged GST evasion-Mandatory compliance with procedure under BNSS, 2023-Violation of Supreme Court guidelines in Arnesh Kumar and Satender Kumar Antil-Bail granted.[S. 69, 70, 132(5), BNSS, 2023, 35(1)(b) (ii), 35(3), 47, 48, Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 S.41A, Indian Penal Code 1860, S. 498A, Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961, S. 4, Art. 226]

In connection with alleged clandestine supply of goods by M/s Balaji Steel Rolling Mills and M/s Balaji Concast involving GST evasion of ₹15.25 crore, the petitioner, a partner in the said firms, was arrested by DGGI, Guwahati Zone. The petitioner contended that he had already recorded his statement, admitted tax liability, and deposited part payment. It was argued that arrest was illegal as no notice under s. 35(3) BNSS, 2023 (corresponding to s. 41A CrPC) was issued, contrary to the law laid down in Arnesh Kumar

v. State of Bihar (2014) 8 SCC 273 and Satender Kumar Antil v. CBI (2022) 10 SCC 51. The Gauhati High Court held that the alleged offence under s. 132(1)(a) being punishable with imprisonment up to 5 years, issuance of notice under s. 35(3) BNSS before arrest was mandatory. The arresting authority failed to record reasons or justification as required under s. 35(1)(b)(xii) BNSS. Relying on Radhika Agarwal v. UOI 2025 SCC OnLine SC 449, the Court held that though CGST is a special Act, the provisions of the BNSS (CrPC equivalent) apply unless expressly excluded. Non-compliance with mandatory procedure vitiated the arrest. Custodial interrogation was unnecessary since investigation was based on documents already seized. Bail granted with conditions including appearance before the DGGI and restriction on travel. [Bail Appln. No. 3440 of 2025, dt. 24-10-2025) (SJ)

Companies Act, 2013.

S. 2(62): One person company-The separate legal personality and limited liability shield of an One Person Company (OPC) under Indian corporate law-The separate legal personality and limited liability shield of an OPC under Indian corporate law-Set aside the direction of the Arbitration Tribunal against Mr Savan Prasad. [S. 3(1), Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, S. 17, 37(2)(b)]

A Production Agreement was entered into on March 10, 2021, under which Endemol was to produce regional versions of the “Masterchef” television show. Endemol raised four invoices amounting to ₹15.93 crores. Innovative paid ₹4.45 crores and adjusted ₹1.08 crores under a different contract, leaving ₹10.40 crores in dispute. Arbitral Tribunal passed an interim order under Section 17 directing, deposit of ₹10.40 crores in a fixed deposit and Extensive personal and corporate financial disclosures by Mr. Prasad and Innovative. The petitioner challenged the order of the Arbitral Tribunal before the Honourable High Court. The issue before the Court was ;

1. Whether the Arbitral Tribunal could impose interim directions on Mr. Saravana Prasad, a non-party to the contract, in the absence of any independent personal liability?
2. Whether the limited liability protection under the Companies Act, 2013 for a One Person Company (OPC) bars interim relief against its sole member?
3. Whether a balance confirmation letter issued by the OPC constitutes sufficient prima facie basis for interim relief under Section 17 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996?

Petitioner contended that, the OPC is a separate legal entity with limited liability., prasad is not a party to the Production Agreement, the Tribunal’s direction breaches fundamental company law principles by treating the company and its sole shareholder as one. Respondent contended that, Prasad, being the sole director and operator, effectively controlled all decisions of Innovative. A "Confirmation Letter" issued by Innovative acknowledging the outstanding ₹10.40 crores formed the basis of the claim. The deposit was necessary to safeguard dues during the arbitration. The court held that the Tribunal's directions against Mr. Prasad personally (for deposit and disclosures) violated the limited liability principle of OPCs under the Companies Act, 2013, No prima facie case or contractual liability against Mr. Prasad was established. Therefore, directions against Mr. Prasad were set aside. As to Directions Against Innovative, The court upheld the order requiring Innovative to deposit the sum in a fixed deposit without loss of control and to disclose its own assets and financial records. The tribunal's reliance on the Confirmation Letter was valid for prima facie purposes. The court observed that interim measures under Section 17 do not need strict CPC standards like Order 38 Rule 5. The latitude available to arbitral tribunals to pass interim measures even if they don't conform strictly to CPC standards. (CAP (L) no 22714 of 2024 / 22746 of 2024 dt. 3-7-2025)

Indian Registration Act, 1908

S. 17 : Documents of which registration is compulsory-Assignment of decree for specific performance-Decree for specific performance does not create or transfer any right, title or interest in immovable property-Assignment of such decree is not an instrument falling under Section 17(1)(e)-Assignment deed was valid even without registration and execution could not be denied on that ground. [S. 17(1)(c), Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, Order 21, Rule 16]

The assignees of an unregistered 1995 assignment of a decree for specific performance sought execution. The judgment-debtors' legal heirs objected on the ground that the assignment was unregistered and therefore unenforceable. The Executing Court accepted this objection relying on K. Bhaskaram v. Mohammad Moulana (died) and others AIR 2005 AP 524 holding that the assignment of a decree involving immovable property requires compulsory registration under Section 17(1)(e). On revision, the High Court reversed the Executing Court's order. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that a decree for specific performance does not create or transfer any right, title or interest in immovable property; rights arise only when a registered sale deed is executed pursuant to the decree. The contract of sale subsists even after a decree, and a decree for specific performance is in the nature of a "preliminary decree" which merely enables the decree-holder to obtain a sale deed through the court. Since the decree itself does not purport to create, declare, assign, limit, or extinguish any right or interest in immovable property, Section 17(1)(e) is not attracted. Consequently, an instrument assigning such a decree does not require registration. The Court approved the Bombay High Court view in Amol v. Deorao 2011 SCC OnLine Bom 11 and overruled the contrary view in K. Bhaskaram, and further held that Order 21 Rule 16 CPC permits execution by an assignee of a decree. Upholding the High Court, the Supreme Court held that the assignment deed was valid even without registration and execution could not be denied on that ground.(CA No. 13835 of 2025 (SLP (C) No. 3532 of 2028, Dt. 19.11.2025.

Indian Succession Act, 1925

S. 63 : Execution of unprivileged wills-Registered will-Presumption of due execution-Registered will carries a strong presumption of genuineness and due execution under law-Oral family settlement-Testamentary disposition upheld where will is registered and signature admitted-Separate possession corroborates arrangement-High Court erred in treating property as joint family asset-Trial Court's decree restoring full title and injunction in favour of legatee upheld.[Hindu Succession Act, 1956, S. 6, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, 68, 69; CPC, 1908, Order 22 Rule 10.]

The dispute concerned inheritance rights over ancestral property measuring 18 acres 6 guntas, located in Telangana, among the legal heirs of late Metpalli Rajanna. The property included lands in Dasnapur, Mavala, and Savaragaon villages. Rajanna, after the death of his first wife Narsamma, married Lasum Bai (plaintiff) who had no children. From his first marriage, he had a son (Muthaiah, defendant) and a daughter (Rajamma).

Rajanna executed a registered will in 1974, distributing specific shares of the property between his son Muthaiah, daughter Rajamma, and second wife Lasum Bai. Lasum Bai received 6 acres 16 guntas in Dasnapur and parts of land in Mavala and Savaragaon. Muthaiah challenged Lasum Bai's right after she sold part of the land (2 acres) by a registered deed in 1987 and agreed to sell the remaining land to one Janardhan Reddy. An earlier injunction suit filed by Muthaiah was decreed without examining title, prompting Lasum Bai to file a title suit in 1991.

The Trial Court decreed in favour of Lasum Bai, upholding the will and her possession. It declared her as the lawful owner and granted permanent injunction. However, the High Court reversed the decree, holding the properties as joint family property, giving $\frac{3}{4}$ share to Muthaiah and only $\frac{1}{4}$ to Lasum Bai. Both sides appealed to the Supreme Court.

1. Whether the registered Will dated 24.07.1974 executed by M. Rajanna in favour of Lasum Bai was valid and enforceable?

2. Whether the properties in question were self-acquired by M. Rajanna or joint family properties?
3. Whether the High Court rightly interfered with the trial court's findings and substituted its own assessment of evidence?

The Supreme Court held that the registered will was proven through reliable evidence including admission of signature by defendant-Muthaiah. The oral family settlement aligned with the distribution under the Will and was corroborated by consistent possession patterns. The Court observed that Muthaiah's conduct, including admissions of separate possession and not challenging the 1987 sale deed, fortified Lasum Bai's case.

Reiterating its legal position, the Court emphasized that a registered Will carries a strong presumption of genuineness and due execution under law. In this case, the Will had been admitted by the respondent to bear his father's signature, and it was further noted that the will did not solely benefit the appellant but also conferred a substantial portion to Muthaiah himself and his sister Rajamma. This rebutted the suggestion of fabrication or manipulation.

The apex Court ruled that Rajanna had the authority to bequeath the properties, especially given the revenue records showing his exclusive ownership post his father's death. The High Court had erred in holding the Will invalid and reducing Lasum Bai's share arbitrarily. Accordingly, it restored the trial court's decree granting Lasum Bai absolute title over the suit schedule properties.

The sale to Janardhan Reddy, being under a valid title, was upheld.

The appeal filed by Lasum Bai and Janardhan Reddy's LR's was allowed. The appeal filed by Muthaiah's LR's was dismissed. (Civil Appeal Nos. 5921 & 5922 of 2015) (Decided on 21/07/2025)

[S. 238A; Limitation Act, 1963, S. 18, Companies Act, 2013, S. 134, Sch. III; Art. 137, First Schedule, Art. 141]

The Appellant, IL&FS Financial Services Ltd., extended a ₹30 crore secured loan to Adhunik acknowledgment Meghalaya Steels Pvt. Ltd. in 2015. The account became an NPA on 01.03.2018. A Section 7 IBC application was filed in January 2024. IL&FS argued that the Respondent's Balance Sheet for F.Y. 2019-20, signed on 12.08.2020, acknowledged the debt and thus restarted limitation under Section 18 of the Limitation Act. It also claimed benefit under the Supreme Court's COVID-19 orders excluding time between 15.03.2020 and 28.02.2022.

The NCLT and NCLAT dismissed the application, stating that the creditor's name was not mentioned in the balance sheet and hence no valid existed. They also held that limitation expired by 30.05.2022 as per Para 5(III) of the Supreme Court COVID order.

The Supreme Court framed the following issues:

1. Whether the NCLT and NCLAT were justified in rejecting the Section 7 application as time-barred?

2. Whether the entry in the Balance Sheet for F.Y. 2019-20 constituted a valid acknowledgment of debt under Section 18 of the Limitation Act?
3. Whether the COVID-19 extension order (10.01.2022) required applying Para 5(I) (full exclusion) or 5(III) (limited extension)?
4. Whether absence of specific mention of creditor's name in the balance sheet invalidates acknowledgment?
5. Whether entries in a balance sheet, filed under statutory obligation, can still amount to acknowledgment of debt under Section 18?

The Supreme Court held that acknowledgment of debt under Section 18 of the Limitation Act can be inferred from entries in a company's balance sheet, even if the creditor's name is not expressly mentioned, provided the overall tenor of the documents indicates a subsisting liability. The Court further held that the Balance Sheet for F.Y. 2019-20, when read alongside the previous years' financial statements and cash flow disclosures, clearly demonstrated the existence of a continuing financial obligation and thus constituted a valid acknowledgment of debt. It also held that courts should adopt a liberal and contextual approach when interpreting such entries, placing emphasis on the surrounding circumstances and past conduct rather than rigid formalism. Finally, the Court held that Para 5(I) of its COVID-19 order dated 10.01.2022 was applicable to the case, and therefore, the period from 15.03.2020 to 28.02.2022 was to be excluded for the purpose of limitation, making the Section 7 application filed in January 2024 well within time.

The two-Judge Bench of Justice Manoj Misra and Justice K.V. Viswanathan enunciated, "It was not disputed before us that entries in Balance Sheets could constitute a valid acknowledgement and in fact it could not have been disputed, in view of the categoric pronouncement of this Court in Asset Reconstruction Co. (India) Ltd. v. Bishal Jaiswal and Another, (2021)."

In conclusion, the Supreme Court set aside the decisions of the NCLT and NCLAT, and remitted the case to the NCLT to consider the Section 7 application on merits, treating it as filed within limitation. (CANo. 5787 of 2025dt. 30.07.2025)

S. 14 : Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process-Moratorium- Jurisdiction of NCLT-NCLT cannot exercise jurisdiction over every issue concerning corporate debtor simply because corporate debtor is in insolvency, it is only those issues which arise solely out of insolvency of corporate debtor that can be adjudicated upon by NCLT under section 60(5)(c) [S. 60(5), Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, S.60]

NCLT cannot exercise jurisdiction over every issue concerning corporate debtor merely because it is undergoing insolvency; only those issues which arise solely out of insolvency can be adjudicated under section 60(5)(c). Deposit made in Court for stay of decree ceases to be the asset of corporate debtor; hence, such amount is unaffected by moratorium, and judgment creditor can withdraw the same. Held that NCLT is a statutory Tribunal with jurisdiction confined to matters conferred by IBC. Unlike civil courts under CPC, it has no general jurisdiction and cannot sit in appeal over decrees of civil courts. Amount deposited in Court by judgment debtor before CIRP does not remain property of the debtor; therefore, moratorium under section 14 does not bar withdrawal by decree holder.

S. 92: Limitation-Co-Operative Housing Society-Recovery of maintenance charges-Continuous cause of action-Claim not time-barred-Section 92 is a special provision of limitation which overrides the Limitation Act-Orders of the Co-operative Court and Appellate Court were set aside and the dispute was allowed--The opponent was directed to pay arrears of Rs. 12,15,141 with 9% interest per annum from the respective dates of default till realization. [S.92(1(b), Limitation Act, 1963, Art 226]

The assessee, a co-operative housing society, filed a dispute for recovery of arrears of maintenance charges from the legal heir of a deceased member who continued to occupy the flat since 1992 without paying maintenance. The Co-operative Court and the Appellate Court dismissed the society's claim holding it barred by limitation under section 92(1)(b). On writ, the High Court held that the cause of action for recovery of maintenance was continuous and recurring so long as the opponent continued to occupy the flat and enjoy the amenities. The society restricted its claim to arrears from 2009 and filed the dispute in 2015, which was within the six-year limitation period under section 92(1)(b). The findings of the lower courts were based on a misinterpretation of the provision. Section 92 is a special limitation provision overriding the Limitation Act and intended to protect genuine claims of societies for recovery of dues from members or their successors. The occupant could not evade payment on a technical plea of limitation. Orders of the Co-operative Court and Appellate Court were set aside and the dispute was allowed. The opponent was directed to pay arrears of Rs. 12,15,141 with 9% interest per annum from the respective dates of default till realization. (W.P. No. 11466 of 2023; dt. 16.10.2025) (SJ)

S. 73; Demands and Recovery-Tax evasion-Reward for providing information related to tax evasions-Reward determined but not paid by the government-Reward scheme should be operated fairly and avoid frivolous objections-Government directed to pay the reward with interest in case of delay.-Circular GR No.STA-2004/CR-103 Taxation-2 dt-5-6-2007. [S. 74]

The petitioner, a 64-year-old Mumbai resident, sought a reward for providing information regarding tax evasion since 1992, which aided in recoveries from Public Sector Oil Companies and Fisherman Co-operative Societies under a circular/resolution dated 01 January 1976. Despite court orders, the government authorities delayed payment by citing appeals, irrevocable revenue needs, and a disproven Form-A issue. The Bombay High Court confirmed a Rs. 12.93 crore recovery under the 2019 Amnesty Scheme due to the petitioner's information, setting a reward of Rs. 19,44,802. The court emphasized that the government must operate its reward scheme fairly and transparently, ensuring informers who take risks are not made to struggle for rightful payments, and that unreasonable delays or frivolous objections to avoid legitimate payments must cease. The court ordered payment of the determined reward within six weeks from June 24, 2025, with an 8% per annum interest for delays, to be recovered from the responsible officers. It also directed the Sales Tax Commissioner and Finance Secretary to finalise the full reward amount within six months and disburse it within two months thereafter, maintaining transparency. The petitioner may accept the payment under protest and pursue additional claims legally. (W.P No. 2283 of 2013 dt. 24-06-2025)

The petitioner's cash credit account with ICICI Bank was provisionally attached under Section 83 of the Maharashtra Goods and Service Tax (MGST) Act. The question before the court was whether a cash credit account qualifies as "property" that can be attached under section 83. The court held that a cash credit account, being a liability owed by the account holder to the bank, does not constitute property belonging to the taxable person as defined under Section 83 of the MGST Act. The phrase "including bank account" in the section was interpreted to exclude cash credit accounts, as they are not assets of the account holder. Relied on *Manish Scrap Traders v. Maharashtra Stamps Act, 1958

S. 48 :Application for relief under section 47-Period for application for relief-Refund Of Stamp Duty-Amended limitation period-Deed of cancellation-Deed of rectification-Accrued right to claim refund arose the moment the cancellation deed is validly executed-Entitled to the benefit of unamended provision of S.48(1)-No Power with Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, Maharashtra State, Pune (CCRA) to recall its own order-Directed to refund the amount with interest @ 6 percent from the date of first order. [S., 47,50, Limitation Act, 1963,S.30, Registration Act, 1908, S. 47]

The appellant entered into a Sale Agreement with a Developer and paid the applicable stamp duty and registration charges. The developer later informed the appellant about unavoidable delay in handing over the possession according to the envisaged date due to the issues regarding adjacent slums. The appellant chose to cancel the booking and executed the Deed of cancellation on 17.03.2015, it came before the Sub-registrar on 28.03.2015. A deed of rectification was also executed by the appellant on 23.05.2016. In the meantime there was an amendment (dt. 24.04.2015) to S.48(1) of the Act which set a limitation for refund to six months from two years. On 06.08.2016 the appellants filed for refund of stamp duty. In its 1st order Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, Maharashtra State, Pune (CCRA) allowed refund, later it recalled the order and rejected the refund claiming that appellant fell in the after-amended limitation period. The appellant appealed to CCRA, which was dismissed. He filed a writ petition. The High Court held that the appellant was not heard by the CCRA and set aside its order and remanded the matter to CCRA for fresh hearing. The CCRA again rejected the refund. Aggrieved, the appellant filed a Writ in the Bombay High Court for the right to seek refund accrued on the date of execution, invoking unamended two year limitation period and CCRA having no power to recall its initial order. High Court dismissed the petition. Aggrieved, the appellant approached the Supreme Court. The issue before the Supreme Court is whether the six months period of limitation i.e. the before-amendment period was applicable to the appellant and whether the CCRA had power to recall its own order. The Supreme Court held that the appellant's accrued right to claim refund arose the moment the cancellation deed was validly executed. Therefore, the Court held that the Appellant was entitled to the benefit of unamended provision of S.48(1), it further held the CCRA's order recalling its previous order is illegal. Directed to refund the amount with interest @ 6 percent from the date of first order. The Respondents are also directed to process and disburse the refund of stamp duty, already paid by the Appellants along with accrued interest as directed within a period of four weeks. Any further delay will entail further interest component @ 12% p.a. (SLP (C) No. 21778 of 2024 dt. 24-1-2025)

S. 2: Execution of power-of-attorney-General power of attorney-Transfer-Power of attorney and agreement to sell were not registered-In absence of registration under section 17(1)(b) of Registration Act, it would not be open for holder of power of attorney (POA) to content that she had a valid right, title and interest in immovable property to execute registered sale deed in favour of appellant-Sale deed executed by General Power of attorney (POA) holder after death of original owner was invalid. [S. 1A, Indian Contract Act, 1872, 201, 202, Indian Income-tax Act, 1961, 2(47), Indian Registration Act, 1908, 17(1)(b), 49,, Limitation Act, 1963, Article. 58, 65, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S.40,53A, 54, 55, Specific Relief Act, 1877]

Appellant filed a suit for declaration of ownership and possession of an immovable property based on a sale deed executed in his favour by an agent (holder of General Power of Attorney). Respondents contended that sale deed was executed after death of original owner (principal) and was, therefore, invalid. Appellant contended that original owner (principal) had executed a General Power of Attorney (POA) and an Agreement to Sell in favour of agent, who subsequently, in her capacity as agent, executed a registered sale deed in favour of appellant. Court held that POA was general in nature and did not secure agent's right in subject matter of agency and, an agreement to sell simpliciter did not confer ownership in immovable property so as to transfer a better title to anyone else. Transfer of immovable property by way of sale could only be by a deed of conveyance, an agreement to sell is not a conveyance and it is not a document of title or a deed of transfer of deed of property and does not confer ownership right or title. Even though POA and agreement to sell were contemporaneous documents executed by original owner in favour of same beneficiary, this could not be sole factor to conclude that she had an interest in subject-matter. In absence of registration of POA and agreement to sell under section 17(1)(b) of Registration Act, it would not be open for holder of POA to content that she had a valid right, title and interest in immovable property to execute registered sale deed in favour of appellant. Court held that the High Court rightly held that sale deed executed by General POA holder after death of original owner was invalid. (CA Nos. 3266-3267 of 2025 dt. 27-2-2025)

Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988- Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Act, 2016.

S. 2(8) : Benami property-Authorities concerned could not initiate or continue criminal prosecution or confiscation proceedings for transactions entered into prior to coming into force of 2016 Act viz. 25-10-2016-SLP dismissed-Review petition is also dismissed. [S. 3, 5, Art. 136]

High Court held that provisions under sections 3 and 5 of unamended 1988 Act, prior to coming into force of Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Act, 2016, were unconstitutional for being manifestly arbitrary and thus, authorities concerned could not initiate or continue criminal prosecution or confiscation proceedings for transactions entered into prior to coming into force of 2016 Act viz. 25-10-2016. SLP against order of High Court was dismissed-Revenue filed review petition by relying on UOI v. Ganpati Dealcom (P.) Ltd. [2024] 167 301 Taxman 313/474 ITR 354 (SC) wherein it was held that where any other proceeding had been disposed of by relying on judgment of Supreme Court in UOI v. Ganpati Dealcom Private Ltd. The High Court had held that Ss. 3 & 5 of the unamended Benami Act, 1988 were unconstitutional and hence no prosecution/confiscation could be initiated for transactions prior to the 2016 Amendment. The Revenue's SLP was dismissed by the Supreme Court. A review petition was later filed citing UOI v. Ganpati Dealcom Pvt. Ltd. (2024) 167 taxmann.com 525(SC). The Court held, following Govt. of NCT of Delhi v. K.L. Rathi Steels Ltd. (2024) 7 SCC 315, that review against dismissal of an SLP was not maintainable. Accordingly, the review petition was dismissed.

The Adjudicating Authority held that certain property was benami under S.26(3). A single judge quashed that order on limitation grounds. The Division Bench held the writ was not maintainable due to the availability of an efficacious statutory appeal under S. 46. The Supreme Court allowed the appeal and clarified that observations of the Division Bench on merits should not be treated as final findings; appellants may rely on precedent UOI v. Ganpati Dealcom Pvt Ltd (2022) 447 ITR 108 (SC) in subsequent proceedings. The matter highlights limits on entertaining writs where statutory remedies exist, but also the necessity of deciding appeals on their merits when filed.

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the document dated January 5, 2024 was merely a show-cause notice. The scope of interference by the court at this stage was limited. The "provisional assessment order" as the name suggests, was "provisional" in nature. The adjudicating authority was best suited to decide the question of the benami nature of the property. The show-cause notice was a detailed notice running to several pages containing several factual basis and it was within the province of 'adjudicating authority' to decide whether the property was "benami" in nature and whether the petitioners were liable for any action under the Act. The petitioners could avail of the remedies under the Act and take all possible factual and legal grounds before the adjudicating authority.

Following the earlier order passed by the court in a batch of similar appeals the court did not interfere with the orders of the Tribunal, but granted liberty to the Department to proceed further depending on the outcome of the review petition pending before the Supreme Court.

S. 50 : Benami transactions-Offences and prosecution-Demonetisation-Jurisdiction of court-Complaint filed before Special Court under Benami Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act Cognizance of offence by trial court, valid Act, 1988. [S. 53, Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, S. 200, 482]

During search it transpired that a cash amount of Rs. 30 Lakhs had been deposited in account of STC maintained with bank in Ghaziabad and on same date, an amount of Rs. 7.50 lakhs was transferred from that account to bank account of applicant. Proprietor of STC denied ownership of amount. On enquiry by Benami Prohibition Unit, applicant admitted that sum of Rs. 7.50 lakhs deposited into bank account of STC was applicant's unaccounted cash, which was deposited during demonetization period and had been transferred to his bank account. Thereafter complaint was filed before Special Court and Additional Session Judge, Lucknow took cognizance of the alleged offence and summoned applicant to face trial. Applicant contended that since applicant resided at New Delhi, i.e. beyond territorial jurisdiction of Court which had passed summoning order, as per statutory provision contained in section 202 Cr.P.C., it was mandatory for Court to have conducted an inquiry before taking cognizance of offence and summoning applicant. Section 202 Cr.P.C. merely directs that Magistrate shall hold an enquiry to inquire into case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding; it does not prescribe the manner of holding an enquiry under this provision. Summoning order passed after taking into consideration averments made in the complaint filed by Union of India through public servant, after perusing documents filed with complaint and after recording satisfaction that there was sufficient ground for proceeding against applicant, fulfilled requirement of holding an enquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C. and therefore, application filed by applicant was to be dismissed. Police station forwarded the charge sheet to the Enforcement Director (ED). The ED lodged a criminal case against the developer. Criminal Revision Application was filed challenges legality and validity of the order dated 08.08.2014, issuing process passed by the learned Special Judge, Mumbai under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 seeking setting aside of the order, principally on the ground that prima facie no offence whatsoever is made out under Sections 406, 418, 420 read with 120B Indian Penal Code, 1860. Allowing the petition the Court held that a mere breach of promise, agreement or contract does not, ipso facto, constitute an offence of criminal breach of trust without there being a clear case of entrustment-Clearly, the allegation / charge under Section 406 of the IPC has no basis. Once it is established that there is no cheating involved under the IPC then there is no proceeds of crime involved under Section 2(1)(u) of PMLA and therefore there is no Money Laundering involved under Section 3 of PMLA in the present case prosecution and ED has not made out any case whatsoever for proceeding against the Applicants before the Court under the PMLA or even under IPC. At the highest if Complainant is aggrieved due to delay in receiving possession, his remedy lies in a Civil Court under the Sale Agreement which he has already invoked. Rajasthan Rent Control Act, 2001.

S. 9: Eviction of tenants-Partnership firm-Tenancy created in individual capacity-Non-joinder of firm or other partners immaterial-Landlord's bona fide need proved-Tenant cannot dictate choice of premises-Writ not maintainable-Petition dismissed.[S.2(i),21, Succession Act, 1956, Order 6 Rule 17 CPC, Order 14 Rule 5, 30 CPC, Ss. 2(i), 21, Art. 226]

The petitioners, Arun and Deepak Fatehpuria, challenged the order dated 31.05.2025 passed by the Appellate Rent Tribunal, affirming the eviction order dated 12.10.2022 passed by the Rent Tribunal No. 2, Jaipur Metropolitan-I, under Section 9 of the Rajasthan Rent Control Act, 2001. The eviction was sought by the respondent, Tarachand Tholia HUF, on the grounds of personal bona fide necessity and sub-letting, along with revision of rent. It was contended that the premises were originally let out in 1954 to Shankar Lal Fatehpuria, the petitioners' father, who carried on business under the name of M/s Vyapar Udhyog Pratisthan. The rent had been paid from the firm's account for decades. The petitioners argued that the tenancy had evolved into one by the firm, which included a third partner, Ankit Fatehpuria. They claimed that non-joinder of the firm and the third partner rendered the eviction petition defective and non-maintainable. They also argued that the landlord's claim of bona fide need was unfounded as he possessed other properties and had let out shops during the pendency of proceedings.

The issues for consideration before the High Court were:

1. Whether the eviction application was maintainable without impleading the partnership firm and all its partners?
2. Whether the landlord's claim of bona fide personal necessity could be rejected on the basis of availability of other premises?

The Court held that the tenancy was created in favour of an individual, Shankar Lal Fatehpuria, and not the partnership firm. Payment of rent from the firm's account did not alter the nature of the tenancy. There was no material to show that the landlord had ever accepted the firm as tenant. The legal definition of "tenant" under Section 2(i) includes persons on whose account rent is paid, but it does not convert an unregistered business entity into a tenant without a specific landlord-tenant relationship.

The Court further held that even if the landlord had other properties, it was within his right to choose which premises he wishes to reclaim. A tenant cannot dictate the landlord's business strategy or question his choice of premises for establishing a showroom or expanding commercial activity. The concurrent findings of the Rent Tribunal and the Appellate Tribunal affirming the landlord's bona fide need were based on evidence and warranted no interference under Article 226.

The Court relied on authoritative precedents including:

Bhupinder Singh Bawa v. Asha Devi, (2016) 10 SCC 209, holding that the landlord may choose a more suitable premises for his business.

Dhanalal v. Kalawati Bai, (2002) 6 SCC 16, stating that a landlord cannot be compelled to continue business in rented premises.

Kanahaiya Lal Arya v. Md. Ehshan, SLP (C) No. 21965/2022, holding that a landlord cannot be forced to initiate eviction proceedings against other tenants merely because he owns other properties.

The Court held that neither the firm nor Ankit Fatehpuria had any tenancy rights and hence were not necessary parties. The landlord's requirement was genuine, and the findings of the lower tribunals required no interference. The writ petition is dismissed. (.B. Civil Writ Petition No. 10566/2025, dt. 25-07-2025)

[Income Tax Act, 1961-Sch. II, R. 58-Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Or. 21 R. 86, Indian Contract Act, 1872, S.73, 74]

On appeal against the order of the single judge, the Court held that in pursuance of an e-auction notice issued by the Securities and Exchange Board of India, the appellant participated in the e-auction and was declared the highest bidder in respect of certain property mentioned in the e-auction notice. Its bid was confirmed by the Board upon finalisation of the e-auction process and the appellant paid a sum towards earnest money deposit and made further deposits as well. However, on the appellant having failed to make payment of the remaining amount of consideration money towards such purchase by the stipulated time, the Board informed the appellant of the forfeiture of the entire money paid by the appellant, declared the sale cancelled and put the property to auction afresh. The appellant's writ petitioner challenging the decision of the Board to forfeit the entire amount paid by the appellant was dismissed by the single judge. Allowing the appeal, the High Court of Calcutta held that the proceedings for e-auction of the properties, confirmation and cancellation of the auction sale were taken in accordance with relevant provisions of the Rules contained in the Second Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1961 with necessary modifications. No such discretion was exercised by the Board and the Board proceeded to forfeit the entire deposit amount in a manner as if it was automatic. No opportunity of hearing was afforded to the appellant. The entire earnest money deposit was directed to be forfeited without taking into consideration the loss and damage suffered by the Board owing to the default on the part of the appellant in making the payment of balance consideration money. The judgment of the single judge, so far as it related to the rejection of the prayer of the appellant for return of earnest money deposit, was to be set aside. The Board shall proceed to determine the nature and extent of forfeiture of the earnest money deposit amount afresh. In doing so, the Board shall provide sufficient opportunity of being heard to the appellant. The Board is at liberty to hear any other parties and consult any document as it deemed necessary.

The purport of Rule 9(5) of the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002 (framed under the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002) is that in the case of a sale by auction of secured assets, in case of default in payment by the purchaser within the period mentioned in sub-rule (4), the deposit shall be forfeited to the secured creditor. The property shall be resold and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claims to the property or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold. The provision does not any discretion with the authorities to determine and quantify the actual loss or damages incurred. Appellant had not challenged the finding of the single judge rejecting the case of the appellant to the effect that he was prevented by the intervention of COVID-19 in making payment of the balance consideration money within time specified in the contract. Therefore, there was no justification to interfere with the finding. Order of single judge set aside and order so far as it relates to the rejection of the prayer of the appellant for return of earnest money deposit.

Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (SARFAESI, Act)

S. 13: Enforcement of security interest-Unregistered lease agreement-Monthly tenant-Mortgage-Tenant cannot object to eviction without establishing that Tenancy was created before Mortgage-Alternative remedy-Writ is not maintainable-Appeal is allowed. [S.13(2), 13(4),14,17(4A), 18, 35, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 65A, Art. 132, 226, 227]

The 1st Respondent, Dr. Manoj Saha, claimed to be a tenant of a property located at 1 Allenby Road, Kolkata under an unregistered lease agreement from 1987 with M/s Janapriya Finance (the original owner). The property was later sold to the 2nd Respondent, who mortgaged it to the Appellant (PNB Housing Finance Ltd.) to secure loans. Due to default in loan repayments, the account became a Non-Performing Asset. SARFAESI proceedings were initiated, and symbolic possession was taken on 02.12.2021. On 02.08.2023, physical possession of the asset was taken by the Appellant with the help of the District Magistrate. Respondent No. 1 then filed a securitization application before the DRT and also sought interim relief. The DRT denied interim relief citing lack of registered tenancy and no prior notice to the lender about tenancy. The High Court, however, allowed Respondent No.1's plea under Article 227 and directed restoration of possession. The issues for the Consideration before the Apex Court were ;

1. Whether the High Court was justified in entertaining a writ petition under Article 227 despite the existence of alternate remedy under Section 18 of SARFAESI?
2. Whether the 1st Respondent was entitled to restoration of possession based on his claim of tenancy?
3. What is the legal effect of tenancy created by unregistered agreements under SARFAESI, especially post the 2016 amendment introducing Section 17(4A)?

The Supreme Court held that the High Court erred in entertaining the writ petition, especially when an adequate appellate remedy was available under Section 18 of SARFAESI. The High Court wrongly relied on the Harshad Govardhan Sondagar precedent, which had become obsolete post the 2016 amendment to SARFAESI. The Court emphasized that oral or unregistered tenancy agreements cannot survive beyond one year from the date of notice under Section 13(2) of SARFAESI unless supported by convincing evidence (like rent receipts, electricity bills, etc.). In this case, Respondent No.1 failed to prove tenancy through reliable evidence prior to issuance of notice. Payments to the Rent Controller started only in 2022, after proceedings had begun. The Court also noted the passive conduct of Respondent No.1, who did not act despite multiple public notices.

The Honourable Court relied on various judgments:

- I. Bajarang Shyamsunder Agarwal v. Central Bank of India, (2019) 9 SCC 94, which clarified that tenants claiming under unregistered or oral tenancy must establish their status through independent documentary evidence. Even then, such tenancies cannot survive beyond one year from the date of the SARFAESI demand notice, after which the occupant becomes a "tenant in sufferance".
- II. Harshad Govardhan Sondagar v. International Assets Reconstruction Co. Ltd., (2014) 6 SCC 1, which had previously protected tenants under registered leases from SARFAESI eviction, was rendered inapplicable post the 2016 amendment to the Act which introduced Section 17(4A), allowing tenants to approach the DRT.
- III. Varimadugu Obi Reddy v. B. Sreenivasulu, (2023) 2 SCC 168 and
- IV. South Indian Bank Ltd. v. Naveen Mathew Philip, (2023) 17 SCC 311, that High Courts must refrain from interfering in SARFAESI proceedings under Article 226/227 when alternative remedies like appeals under Section 18 are available.

In light of the above, the Court concluded that the Respondent's failure to prove tenancy before the mortgage or to produce contemporaneous evidence invalidated his claim, and no direction restoring possession could be granted.

The Supreme Court allowed the appeal and set aside the High Court's order restoring possession. Directed that the status quo be maintained in respect of the secured asset until disposal of the securitisation application pending before the DRT, which must be concluded within 2 months. S. 34 : SARFAESI Act-Jurisdiction-DRT-Civil Court-Only DRT which would have exclusive jurisdiction to try such matters, to total exclusion of Civil Court. [S. 13, 17]

Jurisdiction of DRT under sections 13 and 17 is exclusive. Where borrower defaulted and Bank initiated recovery under SARFAESI, Civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain borrower's suit challenging NPA classification or seeking injunction. Held that Section 34 expressly bars jurisdiction of civil courts in matters relating to SARFAESI. DRT alone has authority over disputes concerning security interest. Order of Civil Court granting relief to borrower was without jurisdiction and liable to be set aside.

Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 (RERA, Act)

S. 43: Real Estate Appellate Tribunal-Powers of Tribunal-Maharashtra Real Estate Regulatory Authority-Right to legal representation-A Hybrid system of hearing-Execution of orders-Delay in enforcement-Virtual-only hearings-Hybrid hearing not offered-Absence of mechanism for urgent listing and execution-Access to justice is an important of any courts / Tribunals exists, must be given an opportunity of hearing-Tribunals were constituted with the sole objective of delivering speedy, inexpensive and decentralised adjudication of disputes in various matters-Exclusive reliance on virtual hearings is unsustainable-Guidelines issued to ensure access to justice-Writ petition allowed. [S. 20, 53,56 RERA Regulations 2017, Circular No. 34A dated 08.04.2025, Sarvesh Mathur v. Registrar General, (2023) MANU/SCOR/03900/2025, Art. 226, 227, 323A]

The Petitioner, Mayur L. Desai, filed a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution before the Bombay High Court, seeking (a) expedited final orders in his execution proceedings pending before Maharashtra Real Estate Regulatory Authority (MahaRERA), and (b) issuance of guidelines to streamline execution processes, introduce hybrid hearings, and address systemic delays.

The Petitioner contended that despite obtaining a favourable order from MahaRERA, he was unable to enjoy its benefits due to lack of an effective enforcement mechanism. He highlighted the absence of (i) structured processes for urgent hearing, (ii) a clear listing procedure for execution matters, (iii) in-person mentioning, and (iv) effective communication with the Authority. Post-COVID, MahaRERA continued to hold only virtual hearings, unlike other tribunals and courts that adopted a hybrid model.

The Court took note of the serious procedural shortcomings, observing that procedural fairness includes the right to opt for physical or virtual hearing. It found MahaRERA's insistence on virtual-only hearings to be contrary to the spirit of access to justice, especially when facilities for hybrid hearings existed.

The Court referred to the Supreme Court's binding judgment in Sarvesh Mathur v. Registrar General [2023 SCC OnLine SC 1293/MANU/SCOR/03900/2025], which mandated all Courts and Tribunals to provide hybrid hearing infrastructure and emphasized that denying either mode constitutes procedural injustice.

MahaRERA's exclusive reliance on virtual hearings was unsustainable. The High Court directed MahaRERA to:

1. Restore hybrid hearing facility within 4 weeks.
2. Review Circular 34A (08.04.2025) and relevant SOPs to ensure:
 - Mechanism for urgent listing.
 - Proper execution of non-compliance orders.
 - Mentioning procedures.
 - Time-stamped pronouncement of orders.
3. Align its procedures with the Sarvesh Mathur judgment.
4. Maintain a register of praecipes with reasons for acceptance/rejection.
5. Assign fixed hearing dates and notify adjournments clearly.
6. Publicly display SOPs, contact information, Bench calendars, and cause lists.

Quoting President John F. Kennedy, the Court observed: "The time and the world do not stand still. Change is the law of life. And those who look only to the past or present are certain to miss the future."

In this spirit, it reminded institutions like MahaRERA that procedural reform is not optional, but a constitutional imperative to ensure meaningful access to justice.

The High Court allowed the writ petition, holding that denial of hybrid hearings and absence of execution infrastructure undermined RERA's objectives of expeditious and transparent dispute resolution. Rule was made absolute, and MahaRERA was directed to comply with the directions by 4th September 2025. Request for stay of judgment was rejected. reinforce public confidence in the system-Court also clarified and directed that the service conditions of all such Members of ITAT who were appointed by order dated 11th September 2021 shall be governed by the old Act and the old Rules. [Art. 14, 21, 50,141, 323-A, 323-B]

In a comprehensive judgment examining the constitutional validity of the Tribunals Reforms Act, 2021, the Supreme Court held that several provisions of the Act were unconstitutional as they re-enacted, almost verbatim, provisions earlier struck down in Madras Bar Association (V), thereby amounting to an impermissible legislative override of binding precedent under Article 141. The Court traced the entire jurisprudential evolution beginning from S.P. Sampath Kumar, v. UOI (1987) 1SCC 124, R.K. Jain, v. UOI (1993) 4 SCC 119, L. Chandra Kumar, v. UOI (1997) 3 SCC 261, UOI v. R. Gandhi (MBA-I), (2010) 11 SCC 1, NTT case, Roger Mathew, and MBA (IV), emphasising that Tribunals being substitutes for High Courts in many fields, must meet the same constitutional standards of independence and cannot be exposed to executive control in matters of appointments, tenure, remuneration, or administration. It held that norms relating to age limits, qualifications, tenure, selection process, and eligibility criteria for tribunal appointments are not mere policy matters but constitutional safeguards flowing from the structure of Articles 323-A & 323-B and the basic features of judicial independence and separation of powers. The Court found that the Act's bar on appointment of persons below 50 years, despite its earlier rejection in MBA (V), was designed to exclude meritorious younger advocates and was, therefore, discriminatory and violative of Article 14. Similarly, the requirement that the Search-cum-Selection Committee recommend a panel of two names, rather than one name with a waiting list as directed in MBA (IV), was held unconstitutional as it reintroduced executive discretion and defeated the purpose of insulating appointments from governmental influence. The Court reaffirmed that the law declared by it under Article 141 is binding, and the legislature cannot nullify judicial directions except by curing the underlying defect, which the impugned Act failed to do. The provision fixing a four-year tenure for Chairpersons and Members. previously struck down as too short, was again invalidated as a short tenure is "anti-merit" and discourages capable applicants, undermining tribunal independence; the retrospective application of this four-year tenure was held to be a direct attempt to undo judicial decisions. The Court strongly criticised the Government for persistently disregarding its repeated directions on tribunal appointments, observing that such non-compliance has caused massive vacancies, rendering several tribunals "on the verge of closure" and leading to a complete denial of access to justice. It directed the Government to ensure timely appointments and strictly adhere to the constitutional parameters earlier laid down. At the same time, the Court upheld the retrospective enhancement of housing allowance (HRA) for tribunal members, finding it consistent with prior directions that suitable housing or enhanced HRA was essential for judicial independence. The Court reiterated that while Parliament has wide latitude to legislate on tribunals, it cannot repackage invalidated provisions without addressing their constitutional defects, nor can it encroach upon the core constitutional principles governing independent adjudication. In conclusion, the challenge was partly allowed, with the Court striking down provisions relating to the minimum age requirement, panel-based selection process, and four-year tenure, while upholding provisions that complied with earlier jurisprudence, reaffirming that the Constitution, not Parliament or the Executive, ultimately governs tribunal design. Court directed the Union of India a period of four months from the date of this judgment to establish a National Tribunals Commission. The commission so constituted must adhere to the principles articulated by this Court, particularly concerning independence from executive control, professional expertise, transparent processes, and oversight mechanisms that reinforce public confidence in the system. Court also clarified and directed that the service conditions of all such Members of ITAT who were appointed by order dated 11th September 2021 shall be governed by the old Act and the old Rules. The ITAT Bar Association Mumbai and ITAT Bar Association Mumbai, have file the application before the Court and made representation on behalf of the Bar Associations to maintain the independency of the ITAT. Vivad se Vishwas I Relief for MSMEs Scheme, 2023.

(Micro, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Act, 2006.)

S. 7: Reclassification of assessee as not micro or small or medium enterprise-Vivad se Vishwas I Scheme-Micro or small or medium enterprise-Eligibility for non-tax benefits-Entitled to avail of all non-tax benefits of category before reclassification for three years from date of reclassification. [Micro, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Act, 2006, S. 7, 8,9, Art.226]

The assessee was registered as a medium enterprise under the 2006 Act and was unable to deliver or complete various projects contracted with the Government or public sector undertakings due to constraints that arose from the covid-19 pandemic lockdown. Due to these defaults, the contracting Government undertaking or authority deducted liquidated damages under the contracts entered into with the assessee. On a writ petition whether the assessee was entitled to take the benefits of "Vivad se Vishwas I-Relief MSME Scheme" introduced by the Finance Ministry by an Office Memorandum dated April 11, 2023, while in February 2024 it was reclassified as "not a micro, small and medium enterprise" with effect from May 9, 2023, allowing the petition to the extent of eligibility of the assessee to avail of the benefits of the scheme without going into the merits of the assessee's claim, the Court held that even though the assessee was reclassified as "not a micro, small and medium enterprise" (by virtue of upward reclassification) with effect from May 9, 2023, for a period of three years from May 9, 2023, it was entitled to avail of all non-tax benefits available to a medium enterprise. Since the scheme was a non-tax benefit applicable even to a medium enterprise the assessee was entitled to make a claim under the scheme. Such view was also supported by the affidavit-in-reply of the Ministry of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises. Therefore, it was wrongly held that the assessee was not entitled to make claim under the Vivad se Vishwas | Scheme. It was clarified that the merits of the claim had not been gone into by the court but only the eligibility of the assessee to avail of the scheme had been decided. The merits thereof would have to be considered and decided by the respondents in accordance with the provisions of the scheme.
